Orco rezoning denied

BY JENNY MATTESON

Clarkston News Editor

Applause and a standing ovation greeted the Independence Township Board of Trustee's July 5 decision to deny the first reading of Orco Investments' rezoning request for 70 acres of land located on the northwest corner of Sashabaw and Waldon roads near the I-75 interchange.

The denial was the latest in over a year's worth of presentations and discussions on the matter.

Orco's rezoning proposal asked to change almost 70 acres from single family residential (R1-A) to approximately 18 acres of planned shopping center (C2) and 50 acres of highway commercial (C3).

"The next step is going to the ZBA (Zoning Board of Appeals) and then we will review our options," said Orco representative Robert Jacobs, Esq. after the meeting

When asked whether or not court action is an option, Jacobs responded, "It's a distinct possibility. We will review our legal rights."

During the agenda item, the board listened to a brief presentation on the rezoning request from Jacobs who emphasized "this is the best use of the property." Rod Arroyo, vice president with Birchler Arroyo Associates, Inc. also spoke on behalf of Orco.

"We believe that the planning analysis shows the current zoning is not appropriate," concluded Jacobs. "There is a demand, there is a need for commercially zoned property in the township. There are no sites within the township that can accommodate large commercial

"The township's own unilateral zoning initiative is being enacted solely as a defense to the current proposal before you."

In addition to Orco Investments representatives, trustees also heard from Township Attorney Jerry Fisher, Township Planner Dick Carlisle and public comment.

Board discussion on the matter was brief. Treasurer Jim Wenger remarked on the fact all comments regarding the proposal have been consistent.

"It feels that Orco is saying our vision is no longer 20/20, it needs correction," said Wenger. "And I hope that is not true. I feel our vision is still just as clear."

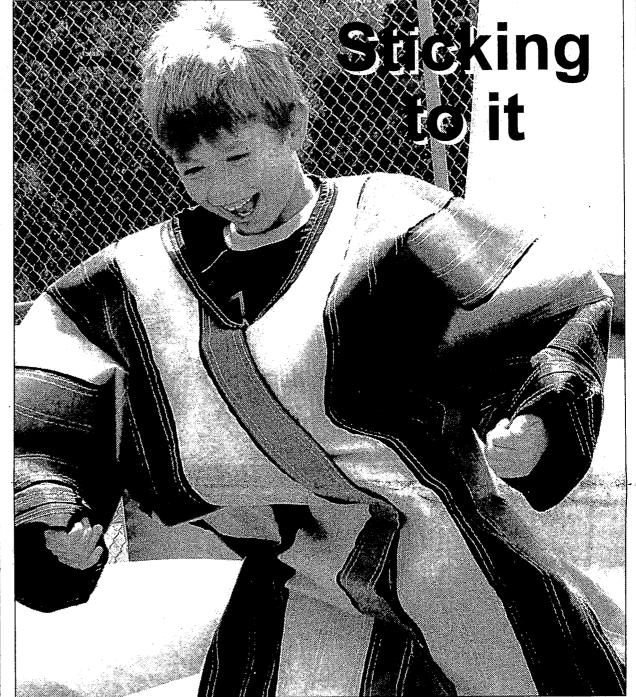

The board voted unanimous to deny the first reading. Trustee Dan Travis was absent.

In a related discussion, the board approved unani-Please see Orco, page 23A

Independence Senior Center: a parks and recreation program

BY JENNY MATTESON

Clarkston News Editor

The Independence Township Senior Center has its own buildings. The center has its own staff. The center runs its own programs.

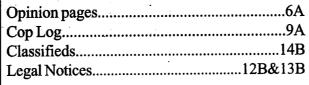

However, the senior center is not an individual department within Independence Township like the DPW or building department – it is a program (a subgroup) within the parks and recreation department. In many ways, the senior center and programming is handled like parks and recreation's yearly sports leagues, while in other ways functioning completely differently within the township.

The fifth story of our series on the proposal for a new senior center and operational millage will look at the structure of the senior center within parks and recreation; and how this format affects the center's operations and budgeting.

In loving memory...

Family and friends remember Lauren Hart

BY ANDREW DUPONT

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Allen and Katherine Hart remember their daughter Lauren as a feisty girl who spoke her mind and stayed true to herself and her friends. They remember her as a fighter, someone who never quit despite the odds against her. They remember her as someone who put her mind to something and accomplished her goals, no matter what.

When doctors told 13-year-old Lauren she had Ewing's Sarcoma, an extremely rare form of bone cancer, and that she had two years to live, she did not waver from her goal to graduate from high school and become an adult.

On May 31, Lauren and her family saw that dream come to fruition as she crossed the stage of the DTE Energy Theater. Despite the ravaging effects treatments had taken upon her, Laura smiled as she joined her friends as Clarkston High School alumni with honors

The event was bittersweet however, as Lauren passed away in the early moring of June 5, less than a week after graduating and only a day after she celebrated her 18th birthday. Lauren's battle with cancer lasted years longer than doctor's expected, and though the disease had long weakened her body, never once did it weaken her heart.

To her friends and family, Lauren was more than a girl who loved art, chocolate and Orlando Bloom. "Monkey," as she was affectionately called by those who knew her best, was a source of inspiration in their lives and someone who left a lasting mark on all of them.

The Artist

In life, Lauren was blessed with a close group of friends who supported her endeavors and encouraged her self expression.

"She had a very close group of friends and they had been absolutely wonderful for her," said Katherine. "They really helped her... they were there for her every step of the way."

Throughout high school, this group of friends, called the Flying Happy Hamsters Of Deathly Doom was there for Lauren.

"She was and still is the heart and soul of the group that we call FHHODD," wrote Michelle Pascoe, a friend and classmate of Lauren's who walked her across the stage at graduation. "We miss her."

Lauren was an artist, and she enjoyed expressing herself through drawing and sculpting. In particular, she picked up a knack for drawing Japanese anime characters, and one year made detailed drawings of them for her closest friends as Christmas gifts.

Some of Hart's designs were even transferred to ties and scarves sold at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Tennessee, where she received much of her treatment.

"I had the pleasure of working with Lauren for a couple of years as her volunteer art teacher at St. Jude. Lauren had an extraordinary amount of artistic talent and it was an honor to have spent so much time with her," wrote Joyce Petrina on the online guestbook for Smith Family Funeral Home.

During her years at CHS, Hart was an active participant in the school band and CHS Drama Club. She left a lasting impression.

"Although she was absent often due to treatment, I'm thankful I had a chance to know Lauren," wrote Greg Warner, who taught Lauren American Literature in high school. "Her attitude, her sense of humor and her courage are an inspiration to me. Those traits of her personality during her sickness taught me more than I ever taught her. I can safely assume that many people have been affected in the same positive way by Lauren."

Lauren Hart's long battle with a rare form of cancer inspired those around her. Hart passed away on June 5, just days after graduating from Clarkston High School. Photo provided

"I can remember seeing him at Florida State University when I was a student there," says Jones. "Being from Florida has always made me feel a part of his music.'

Fedorka agrees, "His songs tell such great stories. The sea, the sun, the fun. It's the lifestyle a lot of us would lead if we had the chance or the stamina."

Dressed in tropical shirts, Bermuda shorts, island hats and other beach togs, fans from 16 to 60 transform into Parrotheads during Buffett's concerts and escape to Margaritaville. The music, with influence from New Orleans, Key West and the Caribbean, conjures images of a laid-back island lifestyle of friends, frozen drinks and beach parties.

There is nothing quite like experiencing a Jimmy Buffett concert. That is, if you're lucky enough to get tickets.

Fans of Jimmy Buffet might find their Buffett has cut his tour dates to a minimum and this year's concerts sell out in minutes.

What's a Parrothead to do? In 1992, Fedorka (vocals and guitar) and Jones (guitar and vocals) formed Air Margaritaville: a musical tribute to Jimmy's style of Caribbean soul. Since then, their act has struck a chord with Parrotheads throughout the Midwest.

From songs known by heart like "Cheeseburger in Paradise," "Fins" and "Volcano" to Buffett's classic covers of "Brown Eyed Girl" and "Jamaica Farewell," Air Margaritaville plays the whole gammet of Buffet's hits.

This year's tour includes Charlie Salaz (bass), Marty Kane (drums), Mel Diaz (percussion), Tom McCovern (harmonica) and Brad Norman (keyboards.) They appeared on the Mitch Albom radio show and released their first CD, "Catch and Release—Live," last June.

"Air Margaritaville" hits the stage at 7 p.m. The Concerts in the Park series is a free series of summer concerts presented by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Sometimes, the most important messages are the ones we take for granted, the ones we feel are too cliché or too obvious to point out. So when I say my column is a reminder to tell the people you care about how important they are, I hope that people will not roll their eyes but continue to read. This is not my story, but one I feel I have to tell.

My older brother is a cancer survivor. Eleven years ago, he was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma at age 15. Fortunately, the disease manifested physical symptoms so quickly that it was caught early. Also, this form of cancer is common enough that treatment has, to a degree, become standardized.

Even so, I was 14 at the time. My other siblings were just barely in the double digits, so trying to understand the nature of the situation was nearly too much to handle. We were shielded from witnessing the worst of our brother's experience.

My grandmother, however, was not as fortunate and lost her battle with cancer in the summer of 1997. I will forever remember, in great detail, the last day I saw her. My mother and I visited her at home. She was laying on a couch, unable to get up or move with much freedom. For the most part, I sat in the corner of the room; a fly on the wall while everyone else participated in the conversation. I will always feel guilty for wanting to leave. I was uncomfortable seeing her like that, and in my mind thought I would have more time to appreciate her company when she was better. I gave her a hug good-bye and felt one of the most energetic and lively people I ever knew become fragile in my arms. I never saw her alive again.

With these memories still fresh in my mind, I spent some time with the parents of Lauren Hart to hear her story (albeit it an abridged version). Since I took this job, I have not had a more difficult assignment to maintain journalistic neutrality. I can only hope I did a decent job retelling the story of someone I never met, but whose story hit very close to home.

Parents should never have to bury their children. Even more so, children should not be given a death sentence just because their illness is not a common one.

For the last five years my family has hosted an annual fund-raiser to support the hospital who undoubtedly saved my brother's life. Surely the money we raise only scratches the surface of what is needed, and that helps combat the most common and researched forms of cancer.

Hearing there are no major sources of funding for these "orphan cancers" and that no major progress has been made in treating them in the last two decades is beyond frustrating: it's unacceptable. Hospitals like St. Jude should not be rarities in this day and age, and we should support them in their endeavors while pressing others to join them.

With all that's been said and done, nobody can snap their fingers and fix these problems, and the scary part is that nobody knows who may be afflicted next. Major breakthroughs take time, but telling the people you care about how important they are shouldn't.

I am sure the Hart family would agree with me that no matter how much time you have, it's never enough. You never know when those closest to you might be taken away, so make sure they know just how important they are.

We do need to be more vigilent

Letters

to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I applaud the June 21 column by James Martinez and the letter to the editor by Tom Stone concerning the June 12 Clarkston City Council meeting. They were both concise, thoughtful and unfortunately correct observations about the City of the Village of Clarkston, the council, our actions and potentially our future.

There is no question that we elected officials will need to do our job better if we are to maintain our city the way we think it once was and many wish it would remain. The council meeting on June 26 was a little more orderly, although not perfect.

Next year's budget was approved with some dissent, we discussed our police services, at least generally agreed on establishing procedures for evaluating them and we made some headway on addressing the road and parking problems that are a legacy of the past road improvement and water installation projects. We still have much to do and many decisions to make even for the small city that we are.

The June 26 meeting was my first budget approval meeting and I voted no because I did not approve of the process or the results. The budget was presented to the council later than required by our charter, to the best of my knowledge, with little input from the department heads, and the comments of the non-budget committee council members and the public seem to be ignored. We were in fact informed at this meeting, at which the budget was supposed to be approved, that we could not make changes at this time. One wonders why we bothered having meetings and public hearings if no changes can be made.

I ran for city council for the first time last November, was elected and quickly found out that I nave a lot to learn. I ran for office because I thought more needed to be done and it was my opinion that many issues were being ignored, including what I perceived as budget problems.

I admit that I have not been able to make much progress on the items I thought were important, and have found numerous more that I would like to address. It is a much tougher job and takes more time than I could have imagined.

I have, however, found out a few things in my short time in office. For example, the oath of office that all elected officials take simply states that we will abide by the constitution and laws of the United States and the State of Michigan. Our city charter requires that we protect the health, safety and welfare of our citizens. Our job is to establish the policies by which our city is run and meets these requirements.

With that in mind, I find it sadly interesting that several council members have commented in the past that the council had not taken any action on an item because no one had complained. None of the requirements of our elected position states we have the option of only meeting our obligations when someone complains. It is, however, sometimes far easier to ignore those matters that do not seem urgent, or for which there is no easy solution, and take care of the matters which are easy or for which we have no other choice, even though there may be complaints. We sometimes lose sight of why we are here. Based on Mr. Stone's comments it would seem that happened at the June 12 meeting.

Mr. Martinez pointed out in his column that we need to decide what it is we want as a city, or if we can even afford to be a city at all. Unfortunately, if we cannot, we will lose our freedom to choose much of what we do like about the Village of Clarkston.

Mr. Martinez wrote in the past about being involved with your government. We should do many things without being told, but in order to remain a successful city we do need the opinions, comments and complaints from those we represent in order to be truly representative.

I continually ask people to attend Council meetings and encourage them to express their opinions. The Clarkston City Council runs relatively informal meetings, sometimes to our detriment, in which everyone has the chance to express their opinion on all matters There is always a scheduled time for public comments on any subject.

My neighbor, Tom Stone, has attended and made his opinions known, although his comments this time may not be what we would have liked to hear. The unfortunate truth is that very few people attend these meetings, sometimes none. We are probably not very good at dealing with controversy or criticism because we do not see much of it. We do need the residents to voice their opinions, and complaints, and demand that we do the job we were elected for, or better yet, they also can run for office and see what is actually happening in our city.

It is considered political suicide to make negative comments about fellow council members as their cooperation and votes are required to pass any action a council member would like to see happen. While I may not always agree with the opinions of my fellow council members, or they with mine, we must try to do better, work together, have open discussions, be more responsive and hope the people of Clarkston will help us achieve that goal by participating in the process and continuing to correct us when we go astray.

As with many worthy efforts, it is difficult, frustrating and time consuming, but I still believe the results can be worth the effort.

I understand that Mr. Martinez has left The Clarkston News. His insight and knowledge of our local happenings will be missed. Good luck to him on whatever his next endeavor may be.

Cory Johnston Clarkston City Council Member

Combined elections are a win-win

I'd like to take the opportunity clear up any confusion regarding the timing of school elections and why those local school districts should consider combining their stand-alone May elections with local municipal elections in November.

Combined elections are not only easier and more convenient for voters but would save millions of dollars statewide, money that could be used in the classrooms for our children.

If school districts combined their elections with their municipal counterparts, elections would be free or virtually free. Our office this week completed a survey of Oakland County's 51 cities and townships. It was reported to us the May 2005 election cost nearly $1 million ($969,541.97) in just our county alone. That's enough to fund 20 school teachers, buy 40,000 books or purchase 2,000 computers.

South Lyon Schools is the only district here in Oakland County to opt for a November date, but currently more than 30 school districts in Michigan, including Lansing, Saginaw, Lincoln Park and Dearborn Heights, have November elections. Lansing school officials, for example, say the system works very well and has increased voter participation. Initial concerns have simply not been realized.

Under Michigan's consolidated election law, which I co-sponsored, voters now have more consistency.

Shayna's eat anything, go anytime mind-set's gone

For you Jottings readers who don't like to read about ma'dog Shayna, come back next week.

I'm finding that Shayna is being inconsistent in her eating and actions. Since I took her for her first ride in the car, she has acted like it was her only

In the car, head out the window, tongue out and occasional glances at me with that "thank you" look in her clear blue eyes. She loved it!

My driver's seat also seems to be her favorite cuddle seat, perhaps because I cover so much of it and leave the leather welcomingly warm.

Jim's Jottings

Then today, Shayna wouldn't even look at the car when I opened the door. I drive a van and all doors can be activated from my seat. Before, even the initial opening noise would get her hopping ready.

Today I opened the doors, called to her and even started driving away. No reaction. She just went on sniffing the grass. I got out and checked. There was only grass to sniff. What the heck is that all about?

Last year, Shayna loved my fried zucchini. This year, she won't touch it. Why? I breaded it with the same ingredients, fried it the same and served it to her right from the table, like last year.

She acted insulted, like she deserved better, or wanted cracker crumbs instead of bread crumbs, or expected maybe a candle. I don't know. It tasted great to me.

Shayna's favorite right now is ice cream. When she doesn't come after a couple calls before my bedtime, I yell, "Shayna? Want some ice cream?"

Her jingling collar can be heard immediately. I've learned to step aside right after the call, lest I get bumped too hard.

My favorite ice cream is butter pecan. To my knowledge Shayna doesn't know what that tastes like. She gets vanilla. The cheapest vanilla I can find. I'm not going to spoil her.

Among her other food choices are crab legs, piecrusts, pickled bologna, prime rib, bacon, raspberry jam on toast, crunchy cereal (plain), fried salt pork and coffee cake.

Her least favorite is artificial flavoring. I paid $9 for a bottle of bacon flavoring, poured some on her dry dog food and she wouldn't touch it. I left it in her cage two days and she decided she'd rather starve.

Shayna rode in the front seat with me as I towed the Clarkston News float in the Fourth of July parade. By actual count there were 16 million people lining the streets, more than half of them young people, with hands outstretched hoping for an ice cream bar or candy treat.

Shayna ogled each of them, getting as close as possible with her head out the window. And, I figured out what was making her so happy. She heard, "Look at those bright blue eyes" so often, she thought she was a movie starlet.

Nobody even saw me. If there's a next year, Shayna's driving and I'm going for the admiring glory. Of course, I'm kidding, Shayna can't drive, But I am going to learn ventriloquism and we're going to have some great fun pointing out people's flaws, praising some gals, insulting guys and spreading dog

"Hey, did you hear the one about the guy going into the bar with Fido on his neck?"

The bartender asks, "Where'd you get the dog?" And, the dog says, "Oh, he just picked me up."

We'll have a million of them come next parade

me

I know I have lived a sheltered life. I grew up in the area, after college I got a job in the area and now my family lives in the area. I haven't been on foreign shores (unless, of course, you count Canada as foreign). I know I work in the media and see a lot of things, but, still I'm a small town (some say minded) kind of guy.

So, I was shocked and awed when I noticed the pop vending machine outside of Art & Dick's Party Store in Oxford. Instead of Coke or Pepsi products for sale, the danged thing is selling "live bait."

I kid you not. For a few bucks you can get your choice of live minnows, worms or leeches from a vending machine

"It's the coolest thing ever," Art and Dick owner Chuck Walleman said. "The customers love it. I don't understand how they can keep live minnows in there, but when you buy them they're alive and happy.'

Well, Chuck, the minnows are as happy as any creature can be living in a plastic quart container, ready to be strung up on some biped's fishing hook.

Chuck Walleman going for some live wigglies.

"I guess they don't mind the dark," Chuck added.

The live bait machines are popping up around the area because Ron Jedlicki, from Hook Line and Sinker Bait and Tackle in Lake Orion, has got the drive and will to make this business a success. Nothing fishy about it, he tends to the machines three times a week to make sure the bait is, um, fresh (?).

Ain't America great! Where else can you buy live bait 24-hours a day, seven days a week? (Other than Canada, probably.) Chuck said the bait vending business has been good at his location.

And I quote Chuck, "For a while we were the number one sales location. Ron says he see's lots of coins in the machine, which, he says, means a lot of kids like buying the live bait."

Boy, have things changed. Both Chuck and I can harken back to our perspective youths.

"When we were kids and we needed worms, we'd get the hose out, soak the yard and go out and pick 'em up."

Me, too. And, as we got older, I can remember midnight raids to area golf courses to pick the crawlers up off the greens. It may have been illegal, but heck, we were young and doing the course owners a favor -- no self-respecting golfer wants to putt over greens covered with crawler slime, do they?

That was then, this is now -- I guess the kids find it easier to shell out four bucks or so for prepackaged worms from a machine. Man, all the good things happen these days -- bikes with 27 gears, the World Wide Web, Ipods, cell phones and now live bait machines. Yep, you guessed it: I am jealous.

I guess the only thing that really needs to happen in the world of fishing is to sell pre-wormed hooks. It still is icky to thread a worm on a hook and then have to tear it in half, because it's too long, Gross!

Ron has been baiting his vending machines for since spring and has another machine at the Sunoco station on M-24 in Lake Orion.

"Business has been good, better than I planned. I wish I would have bought them years ago!" Ron said.

And, how do the minnows survive?

"That's the secret we don't like to give up . . . let's just say we just add water," the cagey Ron replied.

Thanks, Ron. Thanks.

Instead of dual polling places - one for local and another for school elections – they have a single polling place. Absentee voters are now informed when there is an election involving school district issues.

Area school district representatives have argued that school board members elected in November instead of May would not have enough time to understand their district's budgets and policies. However, the facts demonstrate otherwise. Board of Education members elected in November would have until February before budget discussions would begin and do not vote on those budgets until late June or early July. Nearly every other government official elected in November – the entire Michigan Legislature and our federal congressional representatives - is able to make this timing work.

Combined elections would likely increase voter input. During the May 2 election in Oakland County this year, voter turnout was only 9.67 percent and as low as 1 percent in some precincts. In more than half the districts, contestants ran unopposed. Poll workers and voters were frustrated at the waste.

Legislation is pending that would require districts now holding annual elections to hold them every other year, and gives them the November option. Local districts, however, don't need to wait until the legislation, now is considered before changing their election timing. It is not a difficult procedure for local districts to combine elections.

Some things just make sense. With the promise of increased voter participation and millions of dollars in savings that could be put to use in the classroom, combined elections are a win-win for everybody involved.

Senior center would pull twp. together

Dear Editor,

A new combined senior center and town hall would pull the Independence Township community together and match the elegant school structures already in place.

Invest in the Springfield Twp. Library

Dear Editor,

Springfield Township opened its first library in 1976. The building was an old one room schoolhouse that was moved and converted into a library.

Five years ago, voters approved building a new Civic Center located on Davisburg Road that houses the new library and township offices. The old library was 1200-square-feet; the new library is 12,000square-feet.

Since the construction of the new library, patronage and book circulation have more than doubled and is still growing. However, the current library budget is still the same as it was in the old building.

The increased usage and expanded services make it obvious that the library can not continue to offer the same quality programs, hours and service without an increase in funding. Adding to the financial strain is the fact that funds gained through the sale of the old building have been exhausted. That is why on Aug. 8, Springfield Township voters will be asked to approve a ½ mill increase used to operate the library.

Imagine quality services; a qualified, friendly staff; new books; children's programs; book clubs; access to computer technology; inter-loan programs; support to local schools; DVD's; books on tape; extensive resource materials - all for a tax increase of $50 a year for the typical homeowner. That is the best deal in

Remember the library is funded solely through Springfield Township tax dollars, so we are counting on your support.

Please mark your calendar for Aug. 8 and remember to get out and vote yes for the Springfield Township Library. A yes vote is an investment in our community and our future.

Stephen and Jeannine Rawe Springfield Township

Thanks to all who make this home

Dear Editor,

There are many things that make Clarkston a very special community, a place of great pride and caring. Among those things are the contributions made, and being made, by various families, such as the Huttenlochers and Roesers.

The Catallos are another such family. Certainly, Clarence set the stage and is remembered with great respect. Sharron has continued the tradition by her many years of service to the village and the city.

Now, it is Kurt Catallo's turn. He added to his entrepreneurial spirit and commitment to the community by stepping up to rescue the iconic Clarkston Cafe. Thanks, Kurt!

And thanks to all who contribute in many less public ways to make this such a pleasant place to live.

Dr. Tom Stone Clarkston

Support for Dan Kelly

Dear Editor,

Vote for Dan Kelly in the August primary. It is a pleasure to recommend Dan for Oakland County Commissioner. Dan is an intelligent, forward-thinking individual. He asks the right questions before making decisions for the community his position as an Independence Township Board member. He has served on various local boards and committees.

Kelly knows the art of negotiation through labor contracts at the township, the cable franchise and the lake boards on which he has served. He has the exuberance of youth along with the necessary experience to make him a valuable asset to the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

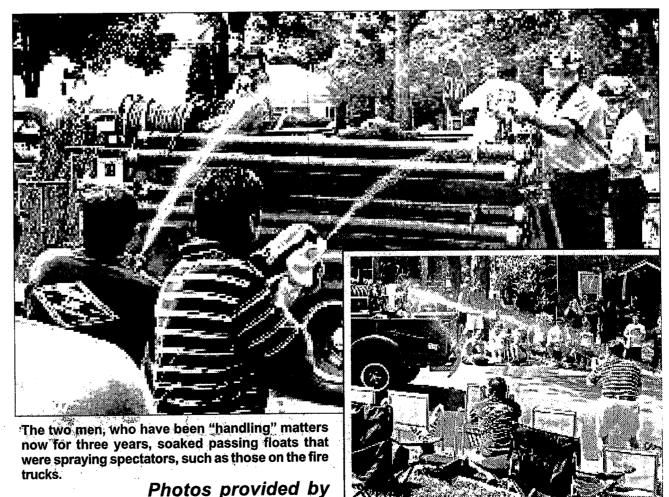

We need new thinking and new ideas! Isn't it refreshing to see an individual who has a successful career outside of politics willing to take on this responsibility too? Elect Dan Kelly for Oakland County Commissioner.

Crosshill Preschool receives national accreditation

Crosshill Community Preschool has earned accreditation from the National Association for the Education of Young Children—the nation's leading organization of early childhood professionals.

"We're proud to be accredited by NAEYC, and recognized for our commitment to reaching the highest professional standards," said Vivian Olive, Director of Crosshill Community Preschool. "NAEYC Accreditation lets families in our community know that children in our program are getting the best care and early learning experiences."

Crosshill Community Preschool is celebrating its 30th anniversary in September 2006. The preschool is located in the Davisburg United Methodist Church in Davisburg and serves 3-5 year olds from the surrounding communities of Holly, Clarkston, White Lake, Davisburg and Waterford.

"Davisburg United Methodist Church has been supportive of our program by providing the use of their buildings and grounds," said Olive.

More than 11,000 early childhood programs—serving over one million young children—are currently accredited by NAEYC.

"In recent years, we've seen a growing number of child care and preschool programs earning NAEYC Accreditation," said Mark Ginsberg, Ph.D., executive director of NAEYC. "By earning accreditation, Crosshill Community Preschool has become a leader in a national effort to raise the quality of early childhood education, and to help give all children a better start."

NAEYC created its accreditation program in 1985 to set professional standards for early childhood education, and to help families identify high-quality child care and early education programs. To earn NAEYC's accreditation, a program conducts a self-study to determine how well it meets the standards.

After necessary improvements were made, Crosshill was observed by an independent, professional validator in February of 2006, and then reviewed by a national panel in May, 2006. Results of the observation and review were received in June.

Crosshill Community Preschool is located at 803 Broadway in Davisburg. The school is currently accepting enrollment in the summer day camp program and fall classes for 3, 4, and young 5's. For more information, please call the preschool at 248-634-1064.

"Medical Breakthrough For Sciatica"

By C. Ann Willet

Oxford, MI - "Sciatica has puzzled doctors and frustrated patients for years. But now space travel and modern technology may have finally cracked the back pain and sciatica code."

Those are the enthusiastic words of Oxford's. Dr. Marc VanHoogstraat, D.C. For several months now Dr. Marc has been using nonsurgical spinal decompression - an amazing space - age medical breakthrough to treat back pain, disc herniations, and sciatica.

"I was shocked at the results spinal decompression gets in such a short time. And how long those results last... without the side effects of drugs or risk of surgery. I was also shocked that so few doctors in the country were willing to invest in this amazing new technology." Commented Dr. VanHoogstraat. "But the best thing is I am able to dffer this medical breakthrough to so many low back disc herniation and sciatica sufferers right here in Oxford."

Due to his tremendous success with back pain, herniated discs, sciatica and pain radiating into the legs, Dr. Vanhoograat has made available a free report to anyone suffering with these painful conditions.

"I just wanted back pain sufferers to know they have an option other than drugs and surgery... and option that really works. I wanted to let them know there is finally REAL hope... that hope is detailed in my free report."

To get you free copy of Dr. Marc's revolutionary new report, "How Space Age Technology Is Solving Back Pain Without Drugs Or Surgery!" just call toll-free 1-888-640-6916 and listen to the 24hr recorded message or visit www.BackreportOnline.com for immediate download. Call now, supply is limited.

far as she did. Ewing's Sarcoma in general is a very aggressive cancer and most kids don't last too long and she lasted five years."

Lauren's parents and friends attribute her longevity to her "never surrender" attitude in life, one that earned her the nickname "Warrior" at St. Jude.

"She was very competitive and never gave up. No matter what it was, she would fight to the end to see that she won," wrote Pascoe. "When it came to video games, rematches were common as she had to keep playing until she beat us. That's how she was when it came to her cancer. To the very end it was just another thing that needed to be beaten.

Even the frequent trips to Tennessee for treatment did not alter her personality when she came home to her friends.

"She never gave up, she never just laid down and threw in the towel. She fought for her life even harder when the doctors would say she had only six months, and that was in the beginning of 10th grade. She well out lived that," wrote Kim Vander Weel. "She also never gave up who she was, down to the last moment of her life, she was our Monkey. And I don't care how much time passes, she will always be our Monkey."

Some battles are not winnable, no matter how hard one tries. Even so, Lauren fought long past what doctor's expected, and her fight inspired others.

"Although it was one of the hardest things to do, to watch my friend slowly dying of cancer, I found that all in all the experience was one of the most inspiring times of my life," wrote Pascoe. "I know that now for the rest of my life, I will always think in the back of my mind 'If Monkey could live with cancer, I can live with this."

The Struggle

A continuous frustration for the Hart family was the lack of information and help for children with afflictions like Lauren's - termed "orphan cancers" because only a few hundred people are diagnosed annu-

"There has not been a lot of research put into orphan cancers and the reason for that is because pharmaceutical companies do not find it profitable. Now tell that to a mother with a child with cancer," Katherine do their own research. Allen said in St. Jude because it was the one could really get help. "There's no words for it," that hospital is so far above. I was awe struck."

For that reason, the Hart family had to seek out

Even with their specialized inspiring times of my life.' treatments, the Harts knew the battle was still uphill with so little backing for rare cancer treatments.

"There's a lot of rare cancers out there and people are dying and suffering because they spent 60 percent of their time 'Although it was one of place they found where Lauren the hardest things to do, over, her parents are continuing in experimental therapy and treatments at St. Jude, who there is no treatment available," Katherine said, wishing there was a better way to draw attention to these diseases.

Even though Lauren's fight is her memory. Katherine said she is debating starting a fund in her daughter's name to support research in treating orphan cancers and Allen said for now, every dollar he makes in charitable donations continues to go to St. Jude.

Krausman began to show signs of promise on the golf course. Krausman will turn 11 on July 14, but already has a few key victories over his dad, Ken.

"I've beaten my dad a couple times. He just said, wow, when I won, Krausman Said. After tournaments he tells me not to get over confident and it's good I won. He's always proud of me."

Krausman said he typically plays four or five times a week and likes to get in the practice.

His long term goal is to see how far he can go with golf.

Think before you drink

By Ernie Harwell

If you're like most people, you probably enjoy an occasional glass of wine with dinner, a drink with friends or a beer after work.

And that's OK. As I always say, "All things in moderation."

In fact, studies show that a drink may help prevent certain types of heart disease. But that doesn't mean we should all start drinking. And with all the holiday celebrations it's easy to over-indulge.

Keep in mind that drinking alcohol, even in moderation,

For example, just a beer or two can impair your ability to drive. Alcohol can also cause problems by interacting with prescription drugs or with over-the-counter medications, such as cold tablets. Always ask your doctor or pharmacist about drinking alcohol while you're taking any medication.

And if you're pregnant, you shouldn't drink at all. It's

If you find that your drinking is becoming excessive, don't deny it or think you can handle it yourself. Get help from your doctor.

So if you have a drink, do it wisely.

And please remember to take care of your health before it's lonngggg gone!

Ernie Harwell, "the voice of the Detroit Tigers" for more than four decades, retired after 55 years behind a major league microphone. Today, at age 86, Ernie's days are filled with serving as a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, public appearances, writing, traveling and taking long walks with "Miss Lulu," his wife of more than 60 years. When Senior Center Director Margaret Bartos needs to file a purchase order, she does not send the request to the township finance office. Instead, she files the purchase request with the township's parks and recreation department.

"The money we spend is sent to an individual in the parks and recreation department, who then sends the paperwork on to the finance department," explained Bartos. "Basically, we have to go through parks and rec to get the bills paid."

Why does the senior center director have to go through another department in order to make a purchase? Because the Independence Township Senior Center is not a singular department with its own revenues, but really a division of parks and recreation. In fact, Bartos' immediate "boss" is Parks and Recreation Director Mike Turk.

The hierarchy between parks and recreation and the senior center is most evident during the annual budget planning.

According to Finance Director Sue Hendricks, she notifies Turk concerning how much money parks and recreation will receive from the township's general fund for the upcoming year.

Turk then takes an initial budget request from Bartos for the senior center and incorporates that request into the budget for parks and recreation. This means the senior center's budget is only one aspect of the parks and recreation budget, not a separate entity for township review.

According to Bartos, if cuts need to be made in parks and recreation, cuts need to be made in senior center programming since the two are combined.

The entire parks and recreation budget then goes to the township supervisor's office, where final adjustments are made and the entire township budget is combined. At this point, the review process begins at the board level.

"We have limited control over our budget and financing," said Bartos. "We are 20 percent of parks and recreation's expenses, but only about 10 percent of the revenues being generated. Our primary funding source is parks and recreation."

Both Bartos and Hendricks confirmed that several expenditures, such as building maintenance or supply purchases, are sometimes interwoven with parks and recreation. Bartos added there are occasionally senior center building maintenance expenditures she never sees since the paperwork goes directly through parks and recreation.

"It always surprises people when I tell them I don't know how much repairs have cost on this building," said Bartos. "I don't always know because the bills don't always go through me."

Due to publication deadline, the Fourth of July holiday and vacation time, Mike Turk was unavailable for comment.

In addition to general fund money received through the parks and recreation department, the senior center also receives funding through Community Development Block Grants, donations, fees, grants and fund-raisers. In the sixth and final installment of the senior center and millage proposal series, The News will review the center's budget, where the money is spent and how much is spent on staffing.

mously to accept the first reading for the township initiated rezoning of the same parcel.

The township's rezoning proposal would change the approximately 70 acres of single family residential (R1-A) to local commercial, planned shopping center, office service one, office service two and multiple family (C-1, C-2, OS-1, OS-2 and R-2). According to Carlisle, the new zoning provides a transition from the residential housing already established in the area to the commercial zoning along the Sashabaw

Corridor.

The only public comment on the issue came from Orco representative Robert Jacobs, Esq.

"This is the most preposterous use of this property... This is not where you will find a full service restaurant or doctor's office," said Jacobs. "It is clearly, clearly only a defense to our proposal."

The township's zoning initiative will come again before the board for a second reading. The Independence Township Board of Trustees meets on the first and third Tuesdays of the month at 7:30 p.m. in the township library on Clarkston Road.

Coming home with the Clarks

BY DAVE PEMBERTON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Jeremiah Clark III must have been smiling on July 8. On that day, five generations of his family gathered at Bart Clark's home in Clarkston on Valley Park for the Clark Family Reunion.

Bart Clark, a descendent of Jeremiah organized the family reunion. The get-together took place at Bart's new home in Clarkston, which is named after Jeremiah and his brother Nelson.

The reunion gave the oldest Clark, Virginia, 93, a chance to see a town she grew up in again and gave the youngest Clark, Samantha, 1, the first time she visited the town named after her ancestor.

Virginia is the great-great-granddaughter of Jeremiah Clark. Samantha is Bart's granddaughter.

Clarkston went through a lot of changes between the time Jermiah called it home and Samantha made her first visit, and Bart's research found the Clarks were a key part of those changes.

Bart began the idea of the reunion while he was researching his family's his-

"One of my ancestors had done a history of the Clark family," Bart said. "My mother gave that to me, which sparked my interest."

Bart researched Jeremiah and the all the other Clarks so he could prepare a scrapbook to show at the family reunion.

During that time, Bart began to have a real appreciation for his family's legacy in Clarkston. He was glad he chose to retire in Clarkston and chose his home to host the Clark Family Reunion.

"It's a great town," Clark said. "Clarkston is a great place to live. It has both a city and country side to it. It's also nice to be in a place with all the family ties."

Prior to his retirement, Bart had never lived in Clarkston and didn't know the history his family had there. Bart's father Milton Hadley Clark moved from Clarkston to Detroit to look for work and that's where Bart was born.

During his research Bart found many interesting facts about his ancestors.

Bart learned Jermiah and his brother Nelson came to the area in the 1830s. The two opened a saw mill on Washington, where several homes are now located; a flower mill off Main Street, which is now where to The Clarkston Mall is located and a fish hatchery.

Jermiah served as Independence Township supervisor from 1838-39 and 1843-44. He was also the Justice of the Peace in 1845 and a representative on the state legislature in 1838 and 1841.

Nelson built a home a 71 N. Main Street, which is the white mansion with pillars that still stands today. He also opened

Father/son tradition fuels poem

BY JAMES MARTINEZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Every year Jerry McIlrath and his son Patrick find their favorite spot near the 11th hole at the Buick Open

What started out as a father spending time exploring his son's passion for golf, has resulted in a Clarkston grad becoming a published poet.

Patrick, 17, who just graduated, put his excitement about the McIlraths' yearly foray into words for a class assignment – and now they are published through Creative Communication's Young Poets Contest.

"Hole 11" recreates the familiar scenes the fatherson team witness year after year. Attending the Open on Saturday and Sunday, the two spend time soaking in the total experience while walking the event, but inevitably plop down around the tee box at hole 12 where they can see the greens at holes 8 and 11. By opting not to traverse from hole to hole, they see most of the golfers in the tournament.

"It's fun and one of those things we look forward to each year," said Patrick. "We enjoy getting out their early and finding our spot and having a good time together."

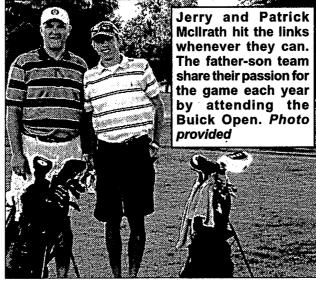

The poem was part of an assignment that required Patrick to submit the effort to any number of writing contests. Patrick selected the Creative Communication's contest and was published. He was not sure how many others entered the contest.

"I was pretty happy (when I heard)," said Patrick. "Writing's fun. I enjoy language arts. I like the writing aspect.'

A proud mother, Melanie submitted the poem to The Clarkston News' Poetry Corner in early June.

"I thought it was really good. I know when he puts his mind to something he can be creative and come up with ideas I couldn't," said Melanie.

10 helping his father kindle a passion for the sport.

"A lot of it is tradition. The experience of the first year and what he enjoyed about going up and getting autographs started it. From that point on he wanted to go every year," said Jerry, who remembers how hard pulling Patrick away from watching the pro's practice in the chipping area was.

Throughout the years, Patrick has collected the signatures of golf's biggest names from Vijay Singh to John Daly on a golf baseball cap he takes each year.

"(Golf) is one of my passions," said Patrick. "It's fun to watch the skill level the guys have out there. It's an out of the world type thing the skill they have."

With no plans to stop attending the Open, even as Patrick prepares for college, the McIlraths already have tickets for the next Buick Open.

"It's pure memories. Something we've done for years and look forward to doing. I already have the four tickets for next year. I couldn't imagine going with anyone else," said Jerry, who recently told his son about for four years, took an interest in golf around the age of the tickets. "I see the same look on his face even as he

As the stogies are lit, the smell of cigar smoke fills the air as if we were in a tavern, and the men behind us begin hacking it up.

The McIlraths live in Clarkston. Patrick intends to attend Spring Arbor University in the fall and study business and sports sciences.

this week, I was putting away things in the church. The custodian called me over to alert me to a little boy who was just getting ready to push some buttons on a touch pad that controls the lighting. I walked over to keep him out of trouble, but then I noticed a left-over Bible School "road sign" just his size to carry. By the time I reached the small lad, my intended "don't" had turned into "Would you help me carry this sign ..." He proudly carried the sign to the other building, while I pushed a cart with other equipment. He arrived in the activities building feeling like a hero when people greeted him as a helper and directed him where to take his sign.

The "don't touch that" turned into a positive experience. His selfesteem took a leap rather than blow. The reprimand turned into an opportunity. The negative "don't" became a "please do." And I felt good about having given him the opportunity (and still kept him out of trouble). What miracles a positive approach can bring about!

Jesus knew that. He summed up all the "do not's" of the Ten Commandments in one simple "do" commandment: love one another. He turns them into not just avoiding evil, but doing good. Just look at the commandment "do not kill." Most of us will never commit a murder. But we do destroy life when we harm our environment. A commitment to recycling could

When cleaning up after Vacation Bible School be a "do" Jesus style. Remember Jesus' encounter with the rich young man. He was keeping all the commandments and Jesus commended him for it. Then Jesus asked him to do more - not just avoid evil, but to use what he had to reach out and do good.

> Jesus may not be asking us to give away all we have like he did in the encounter with the rich young man, but Jesus does ask us to look beyond ourselves. A positive invitation to the little boy created not just positive feelings in both of us. It not just boosted our self-esteem rather than nag away at it. It also gave rise in our hearts to that relational love Jesus talked about. "Love one another as I have loved you."

> Be positive. Jesus says we can do it. "You are the light of the world," Jesus said (Matthew 5:14). He didn't say "you can be"- no, he said you ARE! So let your light shine.

If you have diabetes, do you know why your blood sugar is high; the best way to monitor your blood sugar; what to do if you are ill; how to order proper foods at a restaurant; how to prepare healthy meals; the long-term effects of uncontrolled blood sugar; or how your diabetic medication works to lower your blood sugar?

If you answered "no" to any of these questions, the Clarkston Health Center extends an invitation for you to attend an Out-Patient Diabetic Program. This program teaches about diet, medication, blood glucose monitors, exercise and prevention of complications.

The program is a two-part session scheduled for August 7 and 9 from 10:00 a.m. - noon. The fee is $35, and you are welcome to bring one guest at no additional charge. If you are unable to attend the August program, the session will be repeated in December 2006.

To register or for more information, please call 248-338-5389. This program is presented by the Community Education Department at POH Medical Center.
