Southfield firm wants to rezone church property to commercial

BY PAUL KAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Springfield Township residents might be seeing more development along the Dixie Highway corridor by fall 2007, if a Southfield development firm has its way.

A standing room only crowd, estimated at more than 200 by Township Clerk Nancy Strole, saw plans to turn the property currently owned by Dixie Baptist Church at the northwest corner of Dixie Highway at I-75 into "Springfield Marketplace" at the township planning commission meeting on Aug. 21.

The developer, Real Estate Development and Investment Company, commonly known by REDICO, were on hand to present their design.

The firm went to the commission for suggestions about their 374,000-square-foot proposal from the commission. The group was not seeking, nor were they granted approval, to act at this time.

REDICO will eventually seek approval to re-zone the property, about 38 acres, through Planned Unit Development, a system that typically allows townships and developers to better cooperate. The land is zoned R-3, single family residential, at this time.

REDICO President and CEO Dale Watchowski, met disapproval from many township residents in attendance.

The proposal involves DBC relocating to a 40-acre property off Holly Road and two large national chain store anchors, from both Target Corporation and The Home Depot, filling the location.

Developers expect this to be a "class A" development that would be a "gateway to the Springfield Township."

Along with the large retailers, REDICO said there would also be casual food restaurants included with other small retail outlets.

Watchowski said the company has been invited back to other municipalities they have developed in thus far.

Throughout their presentation, Watchowski reiterated the company's preference to work with other township to resolve any problems and to hear residents' concerns.

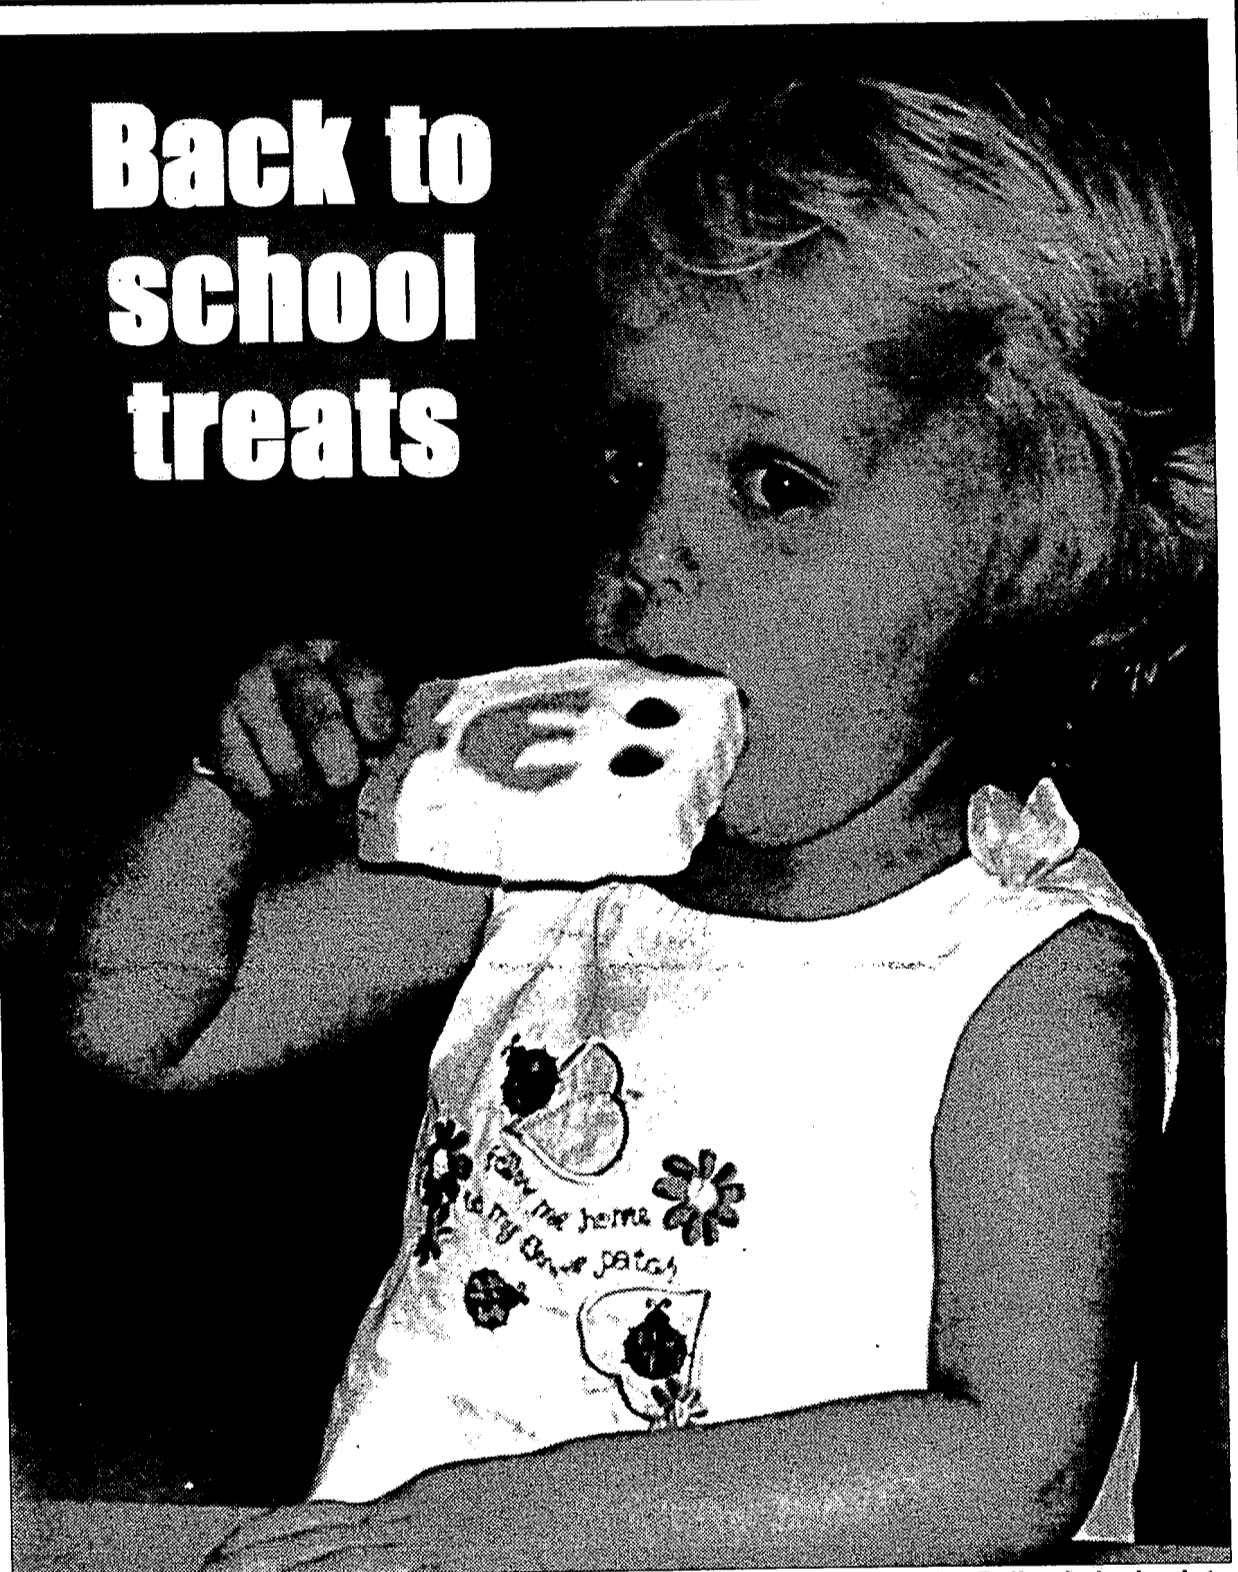

"The proof is in the details," Watchowski said.

Within those details, the commission found several reasons for a disapproval for a P.U.D.

Township Planner Sally Elmiger mentioned an abundance of existing retail space dedicated to the types of Touring Clarkston underwater

BY ANDREW DUPONT
Clarkston News Staff Writer

One might not believe finding buried treasure is likely in this day an age, especially in a place like Clarkston.

Burt Fangel of Springfield Township knows better though, because he has found plenty over the years — and not where you might expect.

Fangel, 75, spent most of his free time for over three decades searching the bodies of water around the Clarkston community looking for whatever he could find. During that time, he saw the technology of the sport change dramatically, but his passion remained the same.

“Scuba diving is really a nice sport if you’re comfortable being underwater, and I never had any problem until I got older,” Fangel said, who added that he has not been diving in nearly 12 years.

Even though he knows he can no longer dive, Fangel said he has not been able to bring himself to sell his equipment.

Fangel also keeps a photograph of himself in his old gear on his desk at work, saying he looks at it whenever he needs a boost. Without fail, Fangel says the fond memories come back to him every time, reminding him of his many experiences under the water and the history he discovered there.

Fangel said he spent time under the surface of every body of water in the Clarkston area, and think people would be amazed at what can still be found down there today.

“People say there’s no fish in those lakes... there’s fish in those lakes,” Fangel said with the certainty of someone who has seen them with his own eyes.

Scuba diving has taken Fangel on many adventures. He has explored the dark waters of the oceans. He marveled at the beauty of sea creature that moved around him without regard, and stayed away from dark waters thinking, “I wonder what is big and hungry down there.”

He narrowly avoided being hit by speeding boats and once ran out of air while 40 feet underwater. He explored shipwrecks in the Great Lakes and fought against strong currents by crawling on the seas floor with the help of a knife.

But Fangel’s journeys have also made him a treasure hunter, albeit unintentionally.

Fangel has made a multitude of trips through more local, smaller bodies of water. Though many things have to be sought out through the heavy layers of silt, Fangel said he found artifacts going back more than 100 years in some of the small bodies of water in the Clarkston area.

“I’ve got a good selection of milk bottles over the years,” Fangel said, remarking that the bottles are handmade and several bare embossed text that is still legible.

Seeing the history in the objects he collected, Fangel recently donated several of the handmade bottles he found at the bottom of the Millpond to the Clarkston Historical Society. The bottles will soon be on display.

“I think the most interesting bottle I gave them was a beer bottle that says ‘no drugs or poisons added,’” laughed Fangle.

During his time at the bottom of the Millpond he has also found bottles for shoe polish and a baptismal bottle.

“It’s kind of a strange place to dive,” said Fangle describing the 65-70 feet deep Millpond. “If you go down about 15 feet, maybe 20, then all of sudden you run into this layer of silt... maybe eight or 10 feet deep. When you come out of that you’re in the bottom. You can’t see anything. It’s so dark, you got to have a light and when you turn on your light, it’s perfectly clear... just like PTA volunteers helped parents fill out paperwork and find any information they needed for the new school year.

Back to school blues

BY ANDREW DUPONT
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As summer begins to fade into memory, thoughts turn to the beginning of school. For students that means homework and no more sleeping in, but for parents, the back-to-school concerns are a little more complicated.

School begins for Clarkston Schools on Sept. 5, and often the first week of class is spent adapting to the new schedule and preparing for the new school year. Whether they are buying all the necessary supplies, signing up for the PTA, checking out fall sports or filling out a slew of paperwork, parents have a lot to deal with at the beginning of a new school year.

To help alleviate the burden and get a head-start on things, the PTA at Bailey Lake Elementary sponsored a back-to-school ice cream social on Aug. 24.

After an introduction for families new to the school, parents were able to fill out paperwork and peruse available opportunities for them or their children while the youngsters got to enjoy some free ice cream courtesy of the Good Humor company.

Bailey Lake's new Principal Glenn Gualtieri was on hand with several members of the school's PTA to help facilitate the event.

"It's just like an expo," said PTA president Shannon Lee describing the multiple stations setup in the school's gym. Lee said this year was the first time the PTA decided to hold such an event, but did so hoping to making life easier for parents.

"It's just a great way to alleviate the stress of going back to school," said Lee.

You cannot have an ice cream social without ice cream, and there were several selections available. Photos by Andrew DuPont

52-2 District Court graduates second class

BY PAUL KAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A local program looking to stop drunk driving passed through a second set of graduates on Aug. 22 at a commencement ceremony at the Independence Township Library.

52-2 District Court's Sobriety Court, a state granted program to rehabilitate repeat drunk drivers, celebrated the completion of the 18-month program.

"If you get the (alcohol) addiction under control, they won't drink and drive," Fortinberry said. "They (graduates) are people who will remain sober."

Fortinberry and fellow District Court Judge Kelley Kostin run the program in conjunction with an associated probation officer.

Within the program, participants can be working in different phases. Because the program admits participants on a quarterly basis, there can be as many as 50 people working to finish their requirements.

"We have to keep it small to keep it effective," Fortinberry said.

Participants are involved with the program for a 24-month time period and if anyone were to relapse during the program, they would be placed back to the previous stage in the process.

The program is divided into three phases. Each phase of the program gives the participants, repeat drunk drivers without violent offenses on their records, "intense probation oversight," Judge Dana Fortinberry said.

their driver's licenses are revoked for their offense.

The program graduated seven participants in May of this year as part of the inaugural class.

Drug treatment programs of a similar nature were begun by a judge in Miami, Fla. in 1989 and have grown to number more than 2,000.

Fortinberry said statistics show that sobriety courts and similar drug court programs boast a 94 percent success rate, while traditional probation is successful 33 percent of the time.

"Everyone told him he was crazy," Fortinberry said. "Everybody wants to do it because they see that it works."

Sobriety Court was formed in November 2004 at 52-2 District Court and took a year and a half to setup. This is the third and final year for the state grant that funds the sobriety court.

"I definitely would like to see it continue for many years because it works," she said.

Fortinberry said there is a foundation of private citizens who also help raise money for the program.

When the program was in the planning stages, Fortinberry and co-founder Judge Michael Batchik decided which criminal offenses were predominant in the area. Fortinberry said there were more than 500 cases of drunk driving and one-third of them were repeat offenses.

'If you get the (alcohol) addiction under control, they won't drink and drive. They are people who will remain sober.'

Dana Fortinberry
52-2 Court Judge

The program's requirements include random testing for alcohol, community service activities, regularly scheduled court appointments and frequent visits to a probation officer.

"It's pretty intense," Fortinberry said.

She noted that participants are meeting these requirements without being able to drive their cars, since

Time for change?

Who really knows what is best for the development at Dixie Baptist Church?

Although I do sympathize with your efforts to keep their community the way it is, my choice is not what people in the Softwater Lake area want to hear.

I would rather see Target and Home Depot rather than a Big Lots and another grocery store. I think there could be much worse developments in that area.

If this idea came to life, it would be nice for teenagers in the area to be able to get jobs in their back yard. In addition, the disposable income (not necessarily all of their own) and buying power they have can be captured by the township now that they won't be driving to Auburn Hills every weekend. If this plan had a movie theater, it would be more lucrative based on all age groups.

Growing up near that area, I always wondered how long until we get a gas station off exit 93 so I wouldn't have to venture into Independence Township.

I found myself in a state of development denial until I moved near Auburn Hills, which looks like the remnants of a developer's gold rush.

A city council member from a municipality far, far away once told me, "When you move in somewhere, you take a look around your back yard and try to figure out what development could come." At that time, that was a sad but economically true commentary on an inbound Wal-Mart store about a year ago.

Back to the REDICO proposal, I feel compelled to wonder whom else would try to develop there? My fear lies in the fact that township residents may actually be bullied by the prospect of whatever else could come into the community if the township were to disapprove of REDICO's plans. That may happen, rather than residents actually being in favor or disapproval of REDICO's design.

What if, such as one resident proposed, that Pilot (a gas station primarily for truckers) came in and built a large station in that same spot? Would people rather hear loud semi-trucks all night long and smell the noxious fumes?

If not this, then something else you hate more would likely come along. The church has been getting offers for years and I don't see why that would change.

At a time when there seems to be no stopping development in this area, avoiding development in your back yard begs the question, "Are you on the right road?"

On another note, I cannot think of a logical way to resolve the problem of area residents thinking they live in Clarkston...sorry. I think Clarkston Community Schools and the United States Postal Service helped cause this dilemma by attributing the word "Clarkston" to people and places outside village limits, but alas, we are far past renaming and rezoning...let's be cordial about the difference.

If you would care to share your opinions about these issues or anything else in the community, address letters to the editor, attn: The Clarkston News to shermanpub@aol.com or drop them off at 5 South Main Street.

Township residents aren't confused

Dear Editor,

After reading the story "Where do I live? Well, that's complicated" in the Aug. 12 Oakland Press, we believe, as do our neighbors, that Township Clerk Shelagh VanderVeen owes all the citizens of Independence Township a public apology.

Your comments about its residents not knowing where they live was an insult to the intelligence of its citizens and the most ridiculous statement that we have seen in print for quite some time.

We feel embarrassed of the images of ignorance that you portrayed of us. Comments such as, "They don't know they live in Independence Township, truly they don't," is a totally unbelievable statement to make about township residents in the press.

Though some in Clarkston may think as you do, contrary to your statements, we all support the Clarkston community. Comments such as yours serve no other purpose then to divide the community and were totally uncalled for.

If what you said was in fact true, then why is the Clarkston school district called Clarkston when all of Clarkston schools are funded by township residents? They should instead be called "Independence Township Schools," not Clarkston. After all, we wouldn't want Clarkston residents to be confused about where they live, and that their schools are located in Independence Township, not Clarkston.

In closing, we also appreciate the township putting up the water tower with the township logo it. Before reading this story we thought it's purpose was to hold water, but now we know that it was built so that township residents would know where they live. Duh, thanks!

Sincerely,
Michael and Lori Powell

A Look Back

At our community's history through the pages of The Clarkston News

15 YEARS AGO (1991)

• Cityhood 'stay' hearing Sept. 11: The latest chapter in the Clarkston cityhood lawsuit has been scheduled for Oakland County Circuit Court Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Originally slated for Aug. 28, the case was adjourned because Judge John O'Brien failed to appear in court.

• Pre-exam reset: A Lapeer County grandfather charged with the sexual assault of his 5-year-old grandson will have to wait a few more weeks for his preliminary exam.

Originally scheduled for Aug. 30, the grandfather's attorney requested the exam be postponed. It is now set for 9 a.m. Sept. 20 before Judge John T. Connolly in 71st District Court, Lapeer.

25 YEARS AGO (1981)

• Judge halts Borg's suit: Borg-Warner Equities' lawsuit against Pine Knob Investment Co. and Independence Township has taken a turn, as Federal District Court Judge Ralph Guy abstained from hearing the case on Aug. 27.

• Springfield man arrested for assault: The Oakland County Sheriff's Department has arrested Charles William Smith, 18, of Springfield Township, who is suspected of the armed robbery and kidnapping-assault of a Linden woman.

The woman was beaten and apparently left for dead on the side of Dartmouth Road, Independence Township, on Aug. 29, police said.

• Pond yields whopper: Nine pounds, 34 inches. Now, that's a lot of fish.

And that's what 11-year-old Scott Wyman pulled out of Clarkston's Upper Mill Pond Aug. 26 while fishing over at his grandfather Bill Morse' house on Glenburnie - a nine pound, 34-inch Northern Pike.

50 YEARS AGO (1956)

• Parade in Clarkston Labor Day: The Clarkston Rotary Club is looking forward to a big time on Monday, September 3rd when the biggest and best Labor Day parade is staged here. Everyone is hoping for fine weather and a big crowd. The general committee for the parade is composed of Ira Snader, A. E. Butters and Bob Wilkinson.

For the most part I have little sympathy for chronic complainers. I guess, if you get right down to it, I have little sympathy for complainers, period.

Whine, whine, whine.

Moan, moan, moan.

Complain, complain, complain, blah, blah, blah. I guess I am not that nice of a guy -- definitely not sympathetic. But, if it makes you feel better, you can call me a hypocrite, because I intend to whine, moan and complain in the paragraphs to follow. If you're like me and don't want to waste your time while I express my dissatisfaction, please turn the page. However, if you like to gawk at car wrecks, if you love to share in the misery of others (if only from afar), square up to the bar, order a pint and we can cry in our beers together.

Let the bellyaching commence!

For the last 10 years computers have made life easier. The internet has brought a wealth of information to our fingertips -- not to mention a veritable cornucopia of naked lady images, but I digress . . . ahem.

With the internet has come electronic mail. And, while e-mail is a great way to stay in touch with folks you wouldn't spend a dime to call or 40 cents to buy a stamp for, it is also getting to be burdensome.

How do I say this? I like getting e-mails. I like sending e-mails. I like getting jokes and pictures from all sorts of readers. They are often times entertaining and fun to look at. But (here's where my beef comes into play), the one thing I hate the most about e-mails are when they have phrases like this in the subject line:

"This is truly priceless . . ."

. . . or, "You gotta open this, it's s-o-o-o true . . ."

. . . or, "This is the funniest e-mail I've ever read!"

I'll start by saying this: STOP IT!

Stop being so-o-o-o smarmy, upbeat and -- what's the word I'm looking for -- cutesy. Yeah, that's it. Stop being so cutesy. Your e-mail is not "priceless," "s-o-o-o true," or the "funniest" thing ever. It's either cheap, a fake or boring. And, cheap, fact-less and boring it shall remain until I, me (the guy opening said e-mail) deems it otherwise.

To me, it is my opinion that counts. Not yours. Don't take it too hard, though. I don't like movie reviewers' opinions either. I've always had a problem with folks telling me what to think about anything. By use of the time honored technique of trial and error, I like to come to my own conclusions. So, don't tell me your mass-forwarded e-mail is priceless, cute or funny. Just type in something like: "Joke inside," or "Photos attached." You know, be specific about what the communicate is about, and let me be the judge of its value (because I will, anyway).

And, another thing . . . don't bother sending me chain e-mails, you know the ones I am talking about. The ones that say something like this: "Send this to six people in six minutes and you will get six million dollars in return. If you don't and delete this, you will die. Don't kill this chain letter!"

Ummm . . . based on the number of chain letters I have stopped, deleted and killed, I should now be in some desperate level of Dante's hell. But, I am not. I'm still kicking, heh!

* * *

Oh, and while I'm on a roll . . . stop with the cute abbreviations slash acronyms. I am clearly either not hip enough nor bright enough (or both) to understand things like lol, wtf and btw. I mean I can fill in the blanks as to what these letters could stand for, unfortunately my mind goes to the gutter and most of the time the meanings I come up with are not fit for a family publication.

Remember: I am dense, thick-skulled, puddin' headed (pick your insult), so spell it out. If lol means "lots of luck" just say so. Please, don't make me go to the gutters again.

On an up note . . . I do know what :) means. (It's a smiley face, right? And, that's a good thing, isn't it?)

* * *

Before I quit griping, grouching, growling and grumbling :(let me give everybody who communicates with the written word a bit of advice. By the way, this is nothing new. Any printer since Guttenburg who's worth their salt knows not to use all capital letters. Why?

BECAUSE IT IS REALLY, REALLY, REALLY REALLY HARD TO READ. If you must express yourself loudly in type, one or two words can be all caps, but the rest should be in lower case and then use an exclamation point!

Well, I have finished my yammering and just like Tony the Tiger, I feel g-r-e-a-t!

Trevor likes to run, but not for this reason

Poor Trevor!

Trevor is our 6-year-old grandson, little brother of Savannah, twin of Haley, and son of our daughter Susan and her husband Tim Speed.

Around midnight recently he woke everyone with his yelling. He was in obvious, obvious pain when Susan went up to his bedroom.

And, he was scared and confused. He was also kicking, tantrum-like. He didn't know what was happening to him. It was his first experience with diarrhea.

Mother tried to calm him down by explaining what was going on in his tummy. The explaining came after the fact, like maybe a couple times.

She told him, "It's like your bottom is throwing up!" He'd had that oral experience a few times in his short life.

Susan felt Trevor wasn't reacting quickly enough to the urges and finally told him, "Trevor you've got to move a little faster!"

It was 4:00 a.m. by the time Susan was able to return to her own comfort.

(Side note: Just wondering - if, as they say, four out of five people suffer from diarrhea, could that mean one of every five people enjoys it?)

I'd been with Trevor's family the day before, and while I'm not an expert in diagnosing anything, it's my belief Trevor's downing a half dozen brownies just might have caused a reaction.

Next time I get a chance to prove my theory, I'm going to a bake sale and buy a pan of brownies for Trevor. No, maybe not. His mother would kill me.

Still in that family -- Susan called me on a recent Saturday morning and said, "My husband has gone to Hell!"

That statement woke me. As I waited she went on to say there was something going on for runners. Husband Tim is a 10-miler, and frequently participates in charity runs. What runner could pass up a chance to run through Hell?

Apparently not many, because the town was packed with runners, who are also buyers of t-shirts, especially when they have mild, but acceptable in this case, references to the Devil's dwelling.

More and more people these days criticize the "press" and their writers for putting opinions in "news" stories. Included in this this group of writers are those in charge of headlines.

Like this one in The Detroit News August 6: "Camaro to roar back by 2008."

Pure speculation. That writer can't even be sure there will be a Chevrolet or even General Motors two years from now.

Then the writers went on to tell me about the "legendary" Mustang car. My Webster's dictionary says a legend is something that is "regarded as historical though not verifiable."

I'm one who doesn't verify it. The Mustang is just another car with a horse logo.

Also in that article is this: "The auto industry has been buzzing with speculation about GM's plans for the Camaro ever since the car maker wowed the crowds at the 2006 North American International Auto Show in January."

Since this entire story was labeled a Detroit News "Exclusive," I suppose the writer has no restrictions, and I have no business in criticizing.

And I also suppose that with Michigan's auto industry being in the doldrums, there's nothing wrong with the media trying to help it out with some adjectives.

And, of course, I don't have to read about it.

Work your memory, not just your muscle

By Ernie Harwell

There's a stereotype that as people get older they automatically start losing their ability to remember things. I've always felt that everyone loses their memory from time to time, no matter what age they are. Just look at the tests a 16-year-old kid flunks here and there.

To my mind, it's a big mistake to accept that just because we're getting older, we necessarily will start forgetting things more often.

We can all keep our memories sharp by challenging ourselves to remember things. You can practice memorizing anything really, but it's always more fun if it's something you're interested in. (I, personally, like to memorize poems, Bible verses, and bits of Shakespeare.) You can buy inexpensive memory games, find them for free on the Internet, and even create your own. Memorization can be a lot of fun and it's one of the best ways to give your mind a mental workout - no matter how old you are.

And please remember to take care of your health before it's lonngggg gone!

Ernie Harwell, "the voice of the Detroit Tigers" for more than four decades, retired after 55 years behind a major league microphone. Today, at age 86, Ernie's days are filled with serving as a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross, the Shield of Michigan, public appearances, writing, traveling, and taking long walks. "Miss Lulu," his best friend for 60 years, has a book, a collection of his baseball stories, and a CD of his "Ernie" radio show. His autobiography, "Local Boy Loves Baseball," is available at www.ernieharwell.com.

Clarkston city council seeks write-in candidates

BY PAUL KAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The 2006 November 7 election is far different from that of the Clarkston city council in 2004 when five people ran for three seats.

This time, the city council has three seats open with one person running for re-election, and Councilman Scott Meyland not seeking to run. Councilwoman Kristy Ottman and Mayor Sharon Catallo are both seeking re-election.

Catallo has overseen the village prior to the formation of the city in 1992, dating back to 1986. Her opponent in the race is Councilman Steve Wylie.

Ottman is running for her second term and hopes to keep the city's relationship with Independence Township in tact.

"I didn't think of not running. I knew my term was coming up and there were still things coming up," Ottman said. "We're trying to share resources and create as much fluidness between entities (the city and township)."

Currently, the City of Clarkston is looking for qualified write-in candidates for the remaining two spots.

If there are no other candidates, which City Manager Art Pappas said has happened in the past, the council will appoint members based on recommendations.

Appointed council members would serve for one year and be subject to re-election.

Terms for council last for two years. This year's crop would serve terms one-year separated from the rest of the members.

Potential write-ins must submit paperwork to the city by Nov. 3. Pappas said the paperwork helps cut down on the prank names that notoriously plague write-in ballot spots.

"It used to be people would write in these goofy names and you had to pay attention," Pappas said.

He said even if a name were written for a joke, it would have to be recorded in the poll book.

With this system, only write-in candidates registered with the city will be considered.

Armstrong still adapting to school board

BY ANDREW DUPONT
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Even with more than 30 years of school experience behind him, Joe Armstrong says he still has a lot to learn.

Armstrong was elected to the Clarkston School Board in May and was sworn in as a trustee the first week in July. Since that time, Armstrong said he has been through a lot to prepare himself for his new responsibilities and was surprised by just how much the position requires.

"There's a real steep learning curve and you have to pick things up in a hurry," said Armstrong, who compared joining the school board like trying to board a moving train. Armstrong has already attended seven classes to become a certified board member by the Michigan Association of School Boards. Before the election, Clarkston was one of only seven boards in the state to have every member MASH certified and Armstrong wants things to be that way again.

"There's a little pressure for me to be certified because everybody else is," Armstrong said.

"There's kind of an unwritten rule, 'If you're new, listen, don't talk.' And in a way I agree with that because this learning is so intense that sometimes you need to sit back and understand what is going on before you get involved," he said, adding that he feels like he should sometimes keep his opinion to himself until he has more experience. "I don't feel a whole lot of pressure on this board about that, but I think it's kind of a universal thing that if you're smart, you're not going to make a fool out of yourself right away."

So Armstrong has been trying to lay low while he adapts to his new duties, all the while studying up on the various laws that apply to public bodies and how planned ahead quite well."

The biggest surprise for Armstrong so far is how the board must communicate with the restrictions placed on them by law.

"I thought there'd be a little more socialization going on, because you're a group, you're together a lot of times, but man, when we're together it's just business," said Armstrong. "You don't have the time and... the law doesn't permit it because when you've got four members together that's a quorum and you don't dare talk about school business and yet that's what brings you all together."

Armstrong said he has noticed that all members of the Clarkston School Board take these rules and regulations very seriously and strictly adhere to them. While he intends to do the same, Armstrong said he is still getting used to the amount of work and preparation that goes into every board meeting.

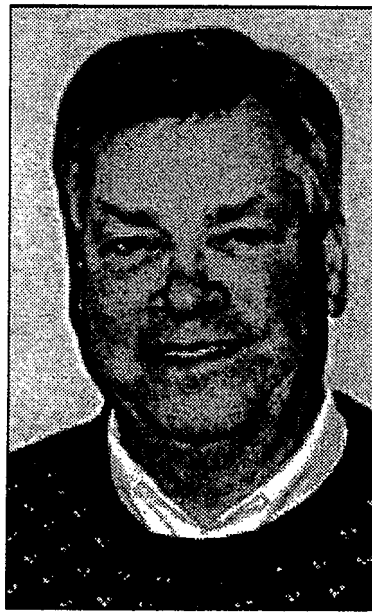

"Once you get on the other side of that bench, there's a lot more to it than what you would expect," Armstrong said.

When observing other school boards, Armstrong said he was surprised by the animosity between board members and teachers. Though he does not see the same thing in Clarkston, Armstrong said he hopes his experience as a teacher will work to bridge any gaps that may arise in the future.

"They've got to work together," Armstrong said. However, he remarked that one of the biggest challenges the board will likely face in the future revolves around the budget.

"It can be pretty complicated, and that is why we have a business manager... but ultimately the decision is ours."

"There's kind of an unwritten rule, 'If you're new, listen, don't talk.' And in a way I agree with that because this learning is so intense that sometimes you need to sit back and understand what is going on before you get involved."

Clarkston School Board Trustee

meetings must be conducted.

"I took law classes and how it relates to the board, I took curriculum classes, finance, and that's pretty important especially today," Armstrong said. "When you understand that 85 percent of our budget goes to salaries and retirement... now we're working with this other 15 percent and we're supposed to make cuts in this area... it's kind of tough, but I think Clarkston has

Local man saves crane from road

BY PAUL KAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Joe Rutkoski of Independence Township has seen many animals from his home in Independence Township, but he probably never expected to help corral a young sandhill crane back from the road on Tappan Drive.

Rutkoski and a neighbor rescued the bird from their road and herded the crane back to the nearby beach.

"I saw it walking up the street and I said, 'This is bad,'" Rutkoski said.

Rutkoski has lived in his home next to Greens Lake for 34 years and seen such suburban animals as foxes, deer and even a bear.

"We've had it all, we're like a nature center," Rutkoski said.

There was a problem getting help for the apparently distressed bird. It took Rutkoski nearly an hour on the phone with the Department of Natural Resources and the Humane Society. He was instructed how to help herd the crane back to the beach.

"That was a frustrating experience trying to get someone to help me get this bird taken care of," Rutkoski said.

Rutkoski said there is a family of four cranes that migrated to his neck the woods last year. Last summer, this crane was probably one of baby cranes featured in The Clarkston News.

He thinks the runaway crane is one of the children of the family and possibly was left behind because of an inability to fly with the flock.

The Humane Society later confirmed Rutkoski's assumption.

The other members of the crane clan returned after being gone for nearly an hour. However, residents in that area have only seen three of the cranes flying together. Rutkoski said he has not seen the family in tact in the past week.

Rutkoski said he never saw sandhill cranes in his neighborhood until five years ago.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources Web site says sandhill cranes eat insects, seeds and small rodents within grasslands.

Residents near Greens Lake in Independence Township have had a rare opportunity to see not just one, but an entire family of sandhill cranes in their back yard. Photo provided the ocean would be."

Finding sewing machines and old refrigerators might not be everyone's idea of treasure hunting, but that is not all Fangel has found. On one exploration, Fangel said he discovered a complete wooden buggy at the bottom of the lake.

"They probably didn't have dumps, lakes were the dumps then. I think they just took them out there and let them sit on the ice, and when the ice melted they just disappeared," Fangel said, thinking back to the era when his discoveries were first created and used by the residents of Clarkston.

In his 30-plus years of experience, Fangel figures he has spent more than a month of life underwater. The seas became like a second home, but eventually things changed.

"The last time that I went - I had never been afraid of the water and I had done some really stupid things in the water too - I just didn't feel comfortable anymore," Fangel said. "It was kind of gnawing at me. The body wasn't bending like it was supposed to and I got tangled up in my line... maybe it's trying to tell me something. I'd rather go out knowing I enjoyed it all those years, and that's what I did."

Fangel said he may make one more trip under the water one day, if only part of a large group on an ocean cruise ship. However, he joked that depends on if his wife Phyllis can convince him. The couple has been married for 51 years and have three children - Kevin, Kristie, and Kim - all of whom are certified scuba divers.

Caching in Coordinate-driven sport reaches Clarkston

BY PAUL KAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

If football isn't your game, then there is a new sport hitting Clarkston at the end of the summer.

Geocaching – the end of the word pronounced like cash- has been at various Oakland County parks and is stopped in Depot Park.

The game is a sort of high-tech search for a prize at the end of a trail, which is determined by the coordinates of the cache, typically a small container.

Players use handheld Global Positioning Systems to track the targets, posted on <http://www.geocaching.com>.

"It's a big treasure hunt for adults with too much time on their hands," Independence Township resident Ed Julian said emphatically.

Julian brought the idea before the Clarkston City Council at the Aug. 14 meeting, asking members for permission to place a cache within the city's park. Cachers follow a code that includes asking for permission from municipalities prior to placing their prizes.

Julian was referred to Department of Public Works Director Bob Pursley for his thoughts on placing the container. Pursley allowed the placement and the cache has been active since Aug. 20.

When a cacher finds the target, they fill out a log with the date of the find and any comments about the search. They would then post their find on the geocaching Website.

The cache in Depot Park was found in less than two hours after being placed. At this time, there have been eight lucky cachers to find the target.

This hunt is a multi-cache containing two steps, Julian posted the coordinates online; however, he removed one number of the coordinates, which would be found by potential cachers in the first step.

Inside the cache container, which can be a small Tupperware container, finders remove small trinkets left behind by other cachers and place their own inside.

The 2006 Midwest GeoBash was held at Springfield Oaks County park the first week of July, and organizers are estimating more than 700 cachers came out for the four-day festival. Cachers from around the globe camped out and went on several caches, as far away as Ontario, Canada.

The game started as the Great American GPS Stash Hunt in Beaver Creek, Ore. near Portland in 2000. Restrictions were eased in May of that year to allow GPS signals to increase their accuracy and the good fortune went to caching pioneer Dave Ulmer, who placed the first known cache. Ulmer's intent was to check the accuracy of the GPS technology.

The game is an international competition now, with more than 300,000 active caches in more than 200 countries.

For Julian, the passion for caching came from his boss who introduced him to the sport. His wife bought him a handheld GPS unit for Father's Day in 2003 and he has been caching ever since, having discovered more than 100 caches.

Julian said the game can be a family activity also. "It's a great way to get your kids out and hiking," Julian said.

He said he has taken his kids out on cache hunts with him and the sport rescues him while he is on business trips.

"It gets me out to places without sitting in a hotel," Julian said.

Julian personally found caches throughout the United States and in Japan, Taiwan and Singapore as well as in France and Germany.

services that would be brought in with these stores already within the township. She said there are at least five hardware stores in the area, in the Home Depot's case.

The board also expressed concerns about traffic volume, the traffic counts associated with the development, the preservation of the natural features on the property and the storage of storm water and how the developer plans to deal with wastewater on the property. REDICO pointed out the development is planned to have its own water treatment plant on site.

"I think they have a long way to go," said Township engineer Randy Ford. "The burden is on the applicant as far as how they will handle the water that will be discharged."

The crowd applauded after each member gave his or her reason for not recommending P.U.D. rezoning.

"You're trying to put a square peg in a round hole here," said Commission Member Bill Champion, because the property is a triangular shape and existing roadways limit its boundaries.

"The bottom line is that it conflicts with community style and would detract from the rural image of our community," said Commissioner Paul Rabaut.

"I'm sure 5,000 Springfield Township adult residents could not to their best ability support those sales," said Commissioner Dean Baker about Home Depot's reported annual $41 million in annual sales for a store of the proposed size.

Watchowski said the development would also leave room for the church's infamous sign which has a large portrait of Jesus Christ with the phrase "Are you on the right road?" to stay in the highly visible spot along the expressway. The sign has been in the famous spot for more than 30 years.

Pastor Todd Vanaman later said there have been developers inquiring about the property for past 15 years. Talks with REDICO started two years ago.

"Our church family believes this was the direction the Lord was taking us in," Vanaman said.

The church needs to have a more effective and efficient ministry and will be able to do so by constructing new facilities for its members, Vanaman said.

The crowd began to thin slightly as the meeting progressed, but plenty of residents stayed to make their voices heard.

Resident Joe Hampton struck a nerve with audience members as the first public participant in the meeting.

"This is the best use of this property... Do you want Pilot to come in and build a truck stop?" Hampton said.

"Even the people who opposed Kroger, where do you shop?" Hampton said emphatically in reference to the grocer's location at the Dixie Highway and Davisburg Road intersection.

Chad Talley of Independence Township plans to move to Springfield was also in favor of the proposal.

"I was thrilled at the thought of this... you'll get a lot of money from my wife," Talley said.

Carol Cane said the addition of the retailers would be an imitation of larger suburbs.

"You can't look like Rochester Hills, I don't want to look like Rochester Hills... I'm Springfield Township, Cane said."

The strongest opposition came from residents of the Bavarian and Softwater Lake condominiums that would be directly next to the development. Residents of Softwater Lake drafted a letter to the commission stating their strong opposition to the rezoning of the Dixie Baptist property and the site plan proposed by REDICO.

The owners cite their view of the property and the noise, light and air quality pollutions the development would bring. They also mention the destruction of existing wetlands, the potential for declining property values and the "already close proximity" of both Home Depot and Target.

"The people who think this project is a good idea are the ones that live the farthest away," Softwater resident Lynn Kukovich said.

Pam Merritt echoed her neighbor's sentiment.

"We all moved here because we love Springfield Township and we love the way it is now," Merritt said.

Merritt's home is an estimated 28 feet from where a dividing line of trees would be placed along the development's perimeter.

Dixie Baptist Church Pastor Todd Vanaman was at the meeting and thanked REDICO and expressed gratitude for the opportunity for the church to build new facilities.

"There are huge benefits to this project that shouldn't be overlooked," he said.

Strole said the plan will be on the Sept. 14 township board meeting agenda, a voluntary step on the behalf of the developer to seek suggestions from the township for the proposal.

REDICO claims ownership to more than three million square-feet of current developments and also a hand in planning for the Palace of Auburn Hills and the Compuware Building in Detroit.

entries into the parade. There will be three plaques to be awarded this year, one for best theme, one President's award picked by rotary President Time Everhard and another award for the best float.

"You get everything from cheerleaders to Spraymasters," Livingston said.

The route goes from Renaissance High School, down Church Street to Main Street. The path continues north to Miller Road and ends at St. Daniel's Catholic Church.

Livingston said Patterson's appointment was based on his high-ranking position and his longtime residency in the community.

"We thought it would be an honor to have him. I think it's great," Livingston said.

Joel DeLong, co-chair for the event and previous chairperson of the event, is backing up Livingston this year.

"It's steeped in tradition. We like to see as many people as we can at the parade," DeLong said.

"We think Clarkston has that small-town atmosphere and we want to perpetuate that," he added.

DeLong said thus far there are more than 40 entries for the parade. He attributes the difference in participation figures to people trying to wait and see what the weather will be like prior to registering.

"We have a lot of representation from a lot of different groups in the community," DeLong said.

The Rotary Club has a committee of eight dedicated to organizing the event. The group also has a float in the parade and will also have several clowns on hand, some riding in antique miniature cars and others walking.

"It will add a little bit more enjoyment for the kids... we might be able to add another dimension to the parade that we've been missing," DeLong said. "We've got a lot of enthusiasm for that."

Clarkston Rotarian Jim Tedder will be the master of ceremonies for the parade.

Interested parties can download an entry form from the group's Web site at <http://www.clarkstonrotary.org>. Political candidates are being asked for a $50 donation with their involvement in the parade.

Meet the Grand Marshall

BY PAUL KAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For the first time in his near 20 year residency in the area, Oakland County Commissioner L. Brooks Patterson will be the grand marshal for the 66th annual Clarkston Rotary sponsored Labor Day parade on Sept. 4.

Patterson said he has been to many of the parades during his time in the community.

"I know the parade route very well," he said.

"It's an honor, plus I know a lot of people in town... I have a hunch they will be able to open a fruit stand when I'm done up there," Patterson said jokingly.

Patterson said he enjoys the patriotic theme of the parade and the music that is played.

Patterson intends to bring his grandchildren to the parade and he remembers taking his children along the parade route in their childhood.

Girls cross country will be young this season

BY DAVE PEMBERTON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Only one runner remains from Clarkston's three straight girls cross country state title teams, senior Jenna Leach, but Cross County Coach Jamie LaBrosse is still optimistic about this season.

"We return two runners Jenna Leach and Kristen Smith," LaBrosse said. "As far as our first meet goes I have five girls who have never run a high school cross country race. They are all freshman and sophomores. As far as training goes they are doing real well. They are running up their rate with some of our top runners. It's going to be interesting to see what they do when it comes race time because racing is a little different than training. I'm excited about what I've seen so far. They are young, hungry and we are underdogs."

LaBrosse said Leach and Smith will have to help him bring along the other girls.

Originally, LaBrosse had three runners returning this season, but sophomore Stephanie Morgan moved to Ohio. Morgan finished sixth in the state last season as a freshman.

Girls LaBrosse hopes will help fill some of the voids are Tiffany Kincaid, Katie Vandette and Bailee Braunreuther. The Wolves open the season at the Cavalier Classic on August 31.

During his first season as head coach, Tim Wasilk led the Clarkston girls basketball team to the quarterfinals, winning a district and regional title on the way.

Wasilk said he has not set any goals for his second season, but is confident in this year's squad.

"We got a good core coming back," Wasilk said. "Offensively, we are ahead of where we were last year. The team knows what they are supposed to do and what we expect of them. If our girls can play within themselves, know their roles, compete and play hard, then everything else will take care of itself."

The Wolves lost four starters to graduation, but return leading scorer Chelsea Kouri. Last season, Kouri averaged over 15 points a game. Wasilk said Kouri is a great shooter and a very steady player, but she is going to have to work harder this season to score.

"She is going to get a lot more attention this year," Wasilk said. "She just has to be patient. She may not get the shots that she got last year. Other girls are going to have to step up and become the second and third option."

One player Wasilk thinks will step up is senior Jessica Palace.

"She is very strong in the post. She has improved her offensive game tremendously from last year," Wasilk said.

Joining Kouri and Palace in the starting lineup will be Jordan Mrosewske, Jen Johnston and Taylor Daugherty.

Clarkston opens up the season by hosting Flint Power on August 30 and then hosts Davison on September 5.

Clarkston golf team off to successful start

BY DAVE PEMBERTON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Clarkston boys golf team have been hard at work over the summer and are hoping their efforts will pay off at the state finals this season. Members of the golf team won 10 individual tournaments this summer.

New Head Coach Mark Wiegand is hoping the success over the summer will translate into quality golf this season.

"They are all strong players," Wiegand said. "They can hit the ball a long way. We have three players (Matt Fuller, Chris Graczyk and Blake Schmidt), who have played very consistent. I hope that keeps going. We have a lot of kids who can play at this level. It makes it nice to have a lot of selection."

The Wolves began their season with a victory at the Troy Invitational on August 23. Clarkston won the tournament by 13 strokes and junior Brandon Stone won the individual title by shooting a 70.

Clarkston followed that by taking second place at the first OAA I tournament on August 25. The Wolves shot 293, which was two shots behind tournament champion Bloomfield Hills Lahser. The Wolves had three golfers finish in the top 10.

Swimming and Diving looking to make strides

The goal for the Clarkston girls swim team this season is simple, improve on last year's accomplishments. Last season, the Wolves were co-champs of the OAA III and qualified for the state finals in six events.

"We want to repeat what we did last year," Clarkston Swimming and Diving Coach Kenwyn Chock said. "We want to send all our relay teams to states. We would also like to send a few more individual swimmers. We also have a goal to send one of our divers to states."

Junior Alyssa Vela returns this season. Vela qualified for the state finals in the 50 and 100-meter freestyle, taking 15th place in the 50 freestyle. Vela also was a member of the 200-meter medley team, which finished in eighth place.

"She's just a pure sprinter, which also helps our relays. She is anchoring all our relays," Chock said. "One of our freshman swimmers is her sister Julia. She should also contribute."

Other key swimmers include Amanda Hassett, Kaitlyn Hassett, Christine Seiple, diver Danielle Benway and Mollie Simpson, who qualified for the state finals last year in the 100-meter breaststroke.

Clarkston began their season against Grand Blanc on August 29, which finished too late for this edition of The Clarkston News. The Wolves' next meet is scheduled for September 7 when they host West Bloomfield.

Wolves roll to victory over Adams

BY DAVE PEMBERTON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Rochester Adams was likely left wondering if Clarkston had two number nines after falling 22-0 in the season opener for both teams.

The Wolves only have one number nine, Kevin Badgley, but he plays both sides of the ball and made plays on both sides against Adams.

Badgley struck first when he made an interception in the second quarter, which led to a Clarkston touchdown. Badgley then made his presence known offensively when he caught a 7-yard touchdown pass from Eric Ogg in the third quarter.

"Me and Ogg practiced that route hundreds of times in practice," Badgley said. "We worked really hard and it paid off. We knew exactly where we were going to be."

Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson credited the entire defense for shutting down the Highlanders offense and defensive coordinator Tony Miller.

Offensively, Eric Ogg dominated Adams. Ogg rushed for 122 yards, including a 49-yard touchdown run in the first quarter, and he threw two touchdown passes. Ogg credited the offensive line for the win.

"The offensive line pretty much won the game," Ogg said. "I didn't think they were going to do as good as they did, but they came out and dominated."

There were some question marks facing the offensive line because the Wolves lost their entire starting offensive line from last year to graduation. Richardson said the offensive line proved all the doubters wrong.

"I think I have to credit coach (Rich) Porritt. He is the offensive line coach and offensive coordinator. He works with those guys. He put them together," Richardson said. "The biggest thing is the kids got hot. Confidence can take you so far. Coming out of that scrimmage against Orchard Lake (St. Mary's) there were a lot of questions. I think they erased those question marks."

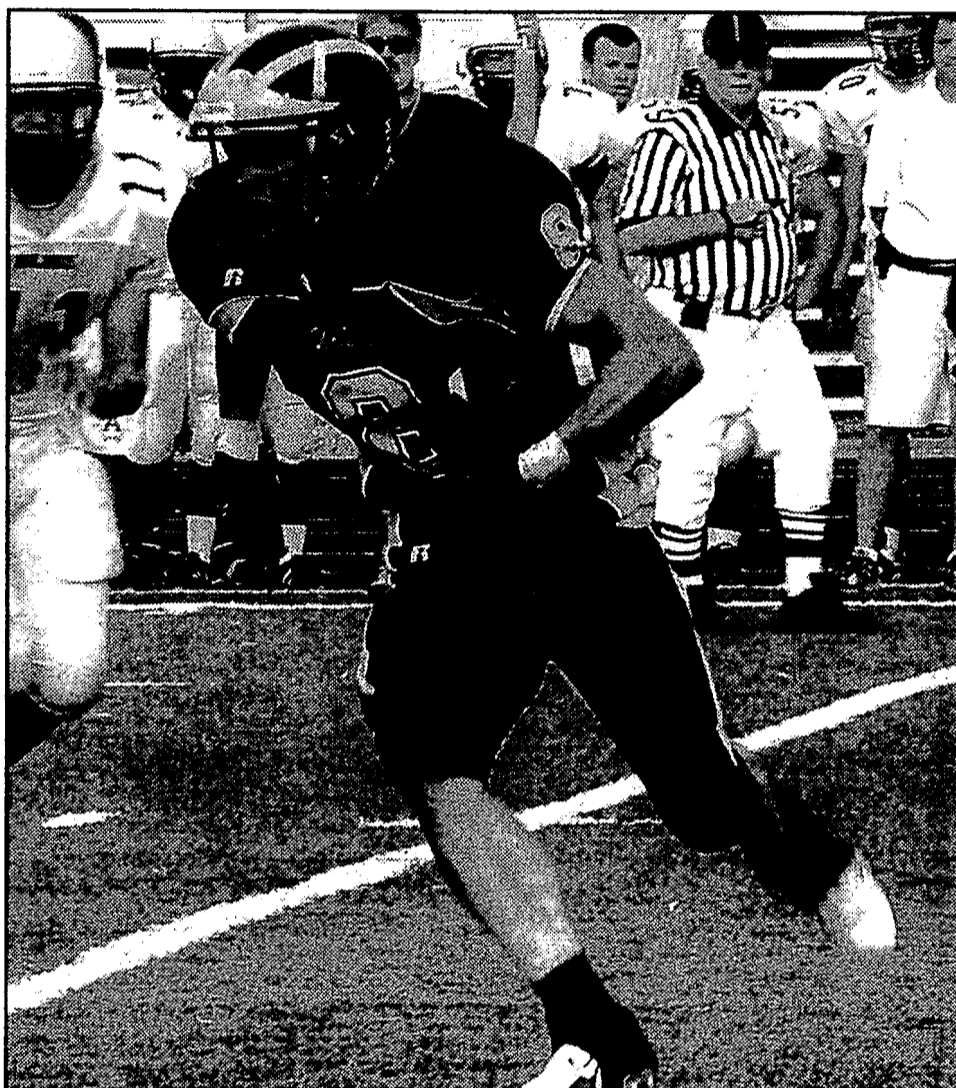

The Wolves scored their first points of the season when Ryan Breen connected on a 25-yard field goal in the first quarter. Ogg made the score 9-0 when he ran for a 49-yard touchdown with 28.3 seconds left in the first quarter. The extra point failed.

Bren Bergquist extended the Wolves lead when he caught an 8-yard touchdown pass from Ogg in the third quarter. The two-point conversion failed. Badgley ended the scoring when he caught a 7-yard touchdown pass from Ogg.

The Highlanders' loss was their first in the regular season since 2003. Adams coach Tony Patriitto said he accepted responsibility for the loss.

"That wasn't Adams football," Patriitto said. "We got beat in every phase."

Wolves undefeated in first three games

BY DAVE PEMBERTON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Clarkston boys soccer team could not have drew up a better first week. The Wolves went 3-0 and allowed just one goal, which was an own goal, and outscored their opponents 10-1.

The Wolves began the season by defeating Waterford Kettering 2-0 on August 21. Clarkston followed that by besting Holly 6-1 on August 22 and ended the week with a 2-0 victory over Catholic Central.

"They did really well. They did what they were supposed to do, win games," Clarkston soccer Coach Adam Bican said. "What these boys need to do is learn how to win and learn how to put teams away. That was one of our goals to begin the season and we have done that three games in a row."

Junior Oliver Kupe scored four goals in the three wins, including two against Catholic Central.

"He is going to be double and triple teamed all night," Bican said. "He has to be physically strong enough to withstand what comes at him and he was. His speed, presence and power all showed tonight."

The Wolves defense has been stingy this season. Sophomore goalkeeper Scott Messer has two shutouts this season.

"The boys are really organized and they take pride in defense," Bican said. "A big part of that has been our goalkeeping. Scott Messer has really come through for us."

Clarkston took on Stoney Creek on August 29, which finished too late for this addition of The Clarkston News. The Wolves then face rival Lake Orion on August 31.

Athlete of the Week - Oliver Kupe

BY DAVE PEMBERTON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Oliver Kupe scored four goals to help the Clarkston soccer team go 3-0 during the first week of the regular season.

Kupe scored one goal in the Wolves 2-0 victory over Waterford Kettering, one goal in the 6-1 win over Holly and two goals in the 2-0 victory against Catholic Central.

"I just tried to play as hard as I could to get those goals," Kupe said. "My teammates feed me the ball really well. I expect to score a lot of goals because my team works to get me the ball."

Kupe is one of the Wolves captains this season and said he thinks the three wins will give the team momentum going into OAA season.

"It's really good to get our confidence going and to defend our home field," Kupe said. "We played really well and did what we needed to do, we won all our games."

Clarkston soccer Coach Adam Bican said Kupe did a nice job handling the double and triple teams he faced.

"He didn't get frustrated," Bican said. "He just played his game."

CHS cheerleading switching to new format

BY DAVE PEMBERTON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Clarkston cheerleading squad will be making some changes this season. The MHSAA is requiring all schools to participate in the competitive cheer for 2006-07. Clarkston previously competed in sideline cheer competitions.

CHS cheerleading Coach Chandra Price said the change will not be huge.

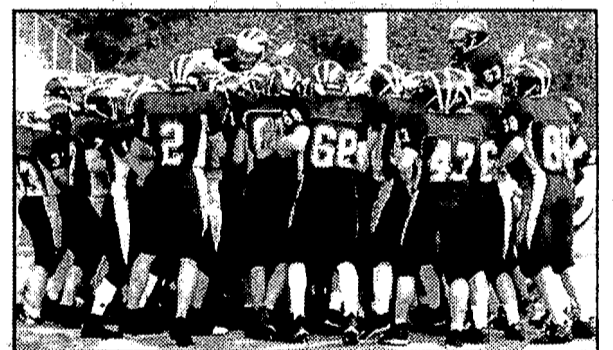

"I look at it as a challenge," Price said. "The real big difference is they have one extra round. The girls are excited for it. I think it's nice because for once the entire cheerleading community will be unified."

During the fall season the cheerleading team will not compete, but will do plenty to help promote school spirit and give back to the community.

"We really want to give back," Price said. "They are looking for creative ways to let people know it's all about spirit and fun. We want to help promote all the fall sports. We use this season as conditioning."

In November, the cheerleading squad will hold another set of tryouts for the competitive season.

Offense, defense and special teams. I give a lot of credit to Clarkston. They did a nice job, but we have to play the way we are capable of playing if we are going to have a chance in the OAA."

The last two seasons Clarkston opened up with a loss to Adams. The tough first game resulting in a win this season puts Clarkston in the driver seat in the OAA I race, instead of setting them back.

"If you lose the first one, you are behind the eight-ball the rest of the way," Richardson said. "You're always playing catch-up and it's tough to catch-up."

The Wolves will hit the field again when they travel to West Bloomfield to take on the Lakers on August 31.

Local man invited to motorcycle hall of fame

BY ANDREW DUPONT
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Motorcycle enthusiasts have their own "dream cruise" event to look forward to every year. Independence Township resident Roger Smith was recently invited to appear at this event, the Concours d'Elegance, hosted by the Motorcycle Hall of Fame Museum.

Smith, 56, is a retired detective from the City of Pontiac Police Department whose biggest passion is for motorcycles. He currently works as the public relations director for the Vintage Japanese Motorcycle Club and has been building motorcycles for four decades.

"I had my first Suzuki X-6 Hustler in 1966 and I can remember that I always loved things with motors," said Smith. "My older brother had the Hot Rods and I fell for the motorcycles of the 50 and 60's. I sold my motorcycles when I went into the army, but the first thing I did when I came home from the service was to buy another one. Over the past 40 years, we have owned over 60 motorcycles."

Two of those motorcycles - a 1996 Suzuki X-6 and a restored 1968 Triumph Bonneville - will accompany Smith on a trip to Pickerington, Ohio to visit the hall of fame on Oct. 7. Smith's motorcycles will be on display and judged based on quality and workmanship and, but the event is geared to praise not only the work behind the motorcycles but the passion of the enthusiasts.

"Unlike many classic motorcycle showcases, our Motorcycle Hall of Fame Concours d'Elegance doesn't merely reward owners for investing time and money in an impeccable restoration. Our panel of judges is equally impressed by unique provenance, a passion for preservation and the story behind a machine," says Mark Mederski, executive director, Motorcycle Hall of Fame Museum and the head of the Concours selection committee.

"The Motorcycle Hall of Fame Museum is the country's largest by-invitation-only showcase of classic and collectible motorcycles. Its world renowned as having the finest motorcycles in America present for judging. Only 100 motorcycles are invited from across the country to attend," said Smith. "We were thrilled that both our Suzuki and Triumph were chosen to compete"

This reward comes after a lot of hard work however. Restoring classic motorcycles requires a lot of time and attention to detail.

Clarkston area has new full service salon

Independence Township has a new all-in-one salon and spa to meet several different needs in one place.

"We wanted to bring full-service to the community," said Tiffany Graff, Manager of Bellezza Salon and Spa.

Bellezza's offerings do not stop at hair and nail treatment. The salon offers several laser treatments such as Botox, hair removal, spider vein treatment, acne resolution and Cellulite treatment with Velasmooth skin rejuvenation system.

"They're getting phenomenal results... I think it will be one of the biggest draws," said Nancy Ramos, Laser Specialist with Bellezza.

Bellezza offers several facial skin treatments, body massages and spa treatments including body wraps. The salon also books spa packages.

Graff said the services all feed off one another.

"We wanted to bring all of that so you don't have to run to Bloomfield Township or Birmingham."

Laura Liston, an Esthetician for the salon said, "A lot of clients are so happy to have one place."

Liston is in charge of hiring a team of employees to work with the 2-room spa, which is scheduled to open soon.

The team is estimated to be between 15-20 employees, most have already worked in the Clarkston area.

The salon is housed in a 3,200 square-foot building with lined with mirrors and several styling chairs back-to-back with dividers between creating sections. The salon is complete with two large screen televisions and a fireplace.

"It would be a great place to hang out... the girls take their time with their clients," Ramos said.

Bellezza is seeking to capture what could be an untapped market - male clients.

"A lot of men are scared of the salon life," Graff said.

Management is proposing a "Monday Night Football" sort of guys' night at the salon.

"I know there are tons of men out there who want to be catered to," Graff said.

Graff said the shop came together quickly, within the last two months and opened on July 17. She attributes that to the experience of the crew involved.

Graff is grateful to owner Terry Woodworth, of Clarkston for investing in Bellezza.

"I wasn't growing at the salon I was at," Graff said. She said Woodworth took her out of that situation and helped bring her to a great situation.

"We were very fortunate," Graff said. "He did it for us so we would have a new place to grow."

Graff said the salon has a family feel that clients will pick up on when they walk into the salon.

"We are so excited about this and it's because of the atmosphere," Graff said. She said the environment is what will set Bellezza apart from other salons.

Graff said the name Bellezza came from a brainstorming session with Woodworth's daughter. They were researching how to say beautiful in foreign languages, and the Italian translation stuck.

Bellezza Salon and Spa is located at 6465 Dixie Highway and can be reached at 248-620-0301.

The choices we make

It is hard to believe school is about to begin and fall is just around the corner.

Perhaps, like me, you have found yourself saying things like, "I don't know where the summer has gone," or "I can't believe it's September already." Time certainly seems to fly by - and sometimes we find ourselves just hanging on for dear life, and wondering how we can possibly fit it all in or hold it all together. When my life seems too busy and out of control, I stop and ask, "Do I really have to live that way? Or is there another, better way?"

Of course I know the answer - it's just hard to put into practice sometimes. I know that at this time of year there is another opportunity to reassess priorities and decide what we will fill our calendars (and thus our lives) with first.

Of course some things are pretty much givens; like family responsibilities, school and work. But lots of other things are choices I make. I believe that how I go about doing the things I've "got to do" as well as those I choose really can be different.

That is, if I take the time to put God first in all things. I have found that while this is something that takes time (as well as discipline and openness and surrendering my priorities), it also makes time for that which is really important. And putting God first changes me, so that I can live with more purpose and focus and joy, even in the midst of busyness.

All of us, I think, seek joy, purpose, meaning, love, contentment, acceptance and real security in our lives. Frankly, sometimes I act like all of this depends on me, and my doing. I forget that God wants these things for me too - and that God will see me through (and even grow me through) the times when life is rough.

In Jesus' famous Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5-7) he addresses many of the fundamental areas of faith and the concerns of our lives. It is a model of great preaching that remains relevant, inspiring and real, even today.

Shortly after pointing out that regardless of what we say, "Where your treasure is, there your heart will be also," (Matthew 6:21). Jesus addresses the issues of worry, frantic busyness and priorities (Matthew 6:25-34). He reminds us that we are of more value to God than the birds of the air and the lilies of the field, and that we cannot add time to our lives through worry. Then Jesus says, "...Strive first for the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be given to you as well."

What "things" is Jesus talking about? In the text he mentions specifically food and clothing, the basics of life. I think this message also clearly addresses how we gain joy, purpose, meaning, love, contentment, acceptance and real security too. We don't get these by trying really hard, being busy or worrying, but rather by turning our lives over to God.

The truth is that as fall comes upon us we will fill

CVP season opens with plenty of laughter

BY ANDREW DUPONT
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Does your mother-in-law ever drive you crazy? If so, then the Clarkston Village Players' season opener is perfect for you.

Kicking-off the season with farcical humor is "Red Hot Mammias," the story of how close and frustrating families can be.

After Dan Casey's (played by Brian Taylor) father passes away, he asks his mother Sarah (played by Wendy Wagner) to move in with him, much to the dismay of his wife Abby (played by Amy Seaman).

Abby's mother Claudia (played by Carol Taylor) feels left out of the new arrangement and manages to convince Abby to let her move in also. What follows is a continuous game of one-upmanship as the two women vie for the attention of the children, turning their lives upside down.

"Mammias" is both the first production of the new season and the first CVP production directed by CVP regular Karen McClellan.

"I'm a little nervous about it, but I've done a lot of backstage work," said McClellan, who has also appeared onstage in several recent CVP productions. McClellan said she decided to try her hand at directing, and choose "Mammias" shortly after reading the script.

"It's a humorous look at the family dynamic, nothing too serious," said assistant director Rikki Schwartz. Though there is mild language use, McClellan said "Mammias" is likely appropriate for younger audience members.

Starting with this production, a small adjustment is being made to the CVP performance schedule. Opening night for the public will now be on Friday instead of the usual Thursday, which is now booked for a members' night performance.

Performances of "Red Hot Mammias" are scheduled for Sept. 8-9, 15-17 and 21-23. Show times are 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, 7:30 p.m. on Thursdays

Smith said the Bonneville was restored by world-renowned motorcycle builder Bill Hoard and recently took second place in at the Gilmore Museum Vintage Motorcycle Expo. Smith bought his Suzuki at an auction in Dayton and with the help of a friend rebuilt the motorcycle over the span of two years. Though the motorcycle has not won any awards as of yet, some people have taken notice.

"During our restoration of the Suzuki, I noticed a picture in a magazine of Jay Leno, who has a world renowned collection of cars and motorcycles. In the picture, Jay was working on restoring the same Suzuki, even the same color, that we had just finished. I sent a picture of our bike to Jay at the Tonight Show address. We were surprised that, two weeks later, a letter from Jay came back with a signed picture of him working on the Suzuki," said Smith.

"We sent a 'thank you' note to Jay and let him know that we were going to Las Vegas in a few months and had purchased tickets for his show at the Mirage. We heard nothing back from him until we entered the Mirage that show night and took our seats. Suddenly, I was tapped on the shoulder and a young lady asked if my name was Roger Smith. She took us behind the stage where Jay was waiting to meet us. We found that Jay and I were born in the same year, only one day apart, and we have many of the same interests. Since then, we talk on the phone about motorcycles, and we have become friends."

Even with these accomplishments under his belt, Smith said he plans to continue doing what he loves.

"We have just obtained a 1965 Honda CL77 motorcycle from an owner in Connecticut and we will be restoring it over the winter, with hopes to take it to shows next spring and summer," he said.

"Trying to find the needed parts is kind of like being a detective again. Searching for that 40 year old part, that will finish a rebuild, can be a real challenge, but eBay has made the search much easier."

Smith has lived in Independence Township for the last 25 years with his wife Fran and his adult son and daughter - Roger and Jennifer.

Dance to be different and make a difference

We are alike in that we are different
Being different is an asset
It's been said, "No man is an island"
When the wealth of gifts was distributed among mankind,
No one individual could encompass the magnitude
Of what it takes to sustain life eternally -
Our bodies are temporary, our souls are for ever
We come here to contribute and take with the essence of life
This is our link to maintaining balance
Each individual who has passed through this earth life
Leaves an imprint; an impression on someone's heart
This could carry eternally as life's greatest asset
To discover life's purpose and meaning is to uncover
The self, the hidden treasures within, just waiting to show through
The risk is not to expose the most venerable passions deep within
To be different is a risk well worth exposing
To respect and take self-responsibility is an insurance policy
A lesson passed on and bridges for others to pass through
The jungle of fear, fear of being discovered, fear of being responsible
Fear of success, fear of entrapment, all illusions of the mind
Face fear square on at your own discretion, bit-by-bit expose the lie
You will harvest and the world will yield the fruits of your gift
Dare to be different; this is where differences can be planted
Sameness produces staleness, boredom and of ten compliance.
Individuality expressed, articulately exposed, tenderly met
Collectively contributing to life ongoing...

Section 1. Short Title.

This Ordinance shall be known and may be cited as the "JUNK, ANTI-LITTER AND ANTI-POLLUTION ORDINANCE".

Section 2. Purpose

The purpose of this Ordinance is to limit and restrict the outdoor storage, parking or unreasonable accumulation of junk, unused, partially dismantled or inoperable and/or unlicensed motor vehicles, mobile homes, trailers, and recreational vehicles, including but not limited to all vessels, watercraft, boats, trailers, off-road vehicles, snowmobiles, mobile homes, campers, or new or used parts therefrom; and to prohibit the depositing of litter on private property, public property, and onto bodies of water.

Section 3. Definitions

3.01 "Motor Vehicle" means every vehicle that is self-propelled.

3.02 "Mobile Home" means a factory assembled portable structure designed or used for year-round residence purposes, designed and built to be towed on its own chassis, connected to utilities, and installed on a homesite with or without a permanent foundation.

3.03 "Trailer" means every vehicle without motive power designed to be drawn by another vehicle and attached to the towing vehicle by means of a reach, pole or any other device and ordinarily used for the transporting of goods of any shape or description, whether or not the bed of said trailer shall be open to the elements or enclosed.

3.04 "Recreational Vehicle" means a vehicle, which is intended for temporary human habitation, sleeping and/or eating suitable for travel or recreational purposes, or a vehicle that moves one or more persons over the ground, water, ice or snow, and which is either self-propelled or connects to a vehicle which is self-propelled. The definition of "recreational vehicle" includes, but is not limited to travel trailers, pickup campers, motor homes, van/campers, folding tent trailers, boats and boat trailers, snowmobiles, personal watercraft, all-terrain or special terrain vehicles, utility trailers and the typical equipment used to transport them on the highway.

Section 4. Storage and Parking

A. No person, firm or corporation shall park, store or cause or permit to be placed upon any public right-of-way or public property, or upon any private property, within the Township of Springfield, any inoperable and/or unlicensed motor vehicle, mobile home, trailer, and recreational vehicle, or any new or used parts or junk therefrom, unless the same are stored within a fully enclosed building and does not, in addition thereto, violate any Zoning Ordinance or Building Code of the Township of Springfield or the State of Michigan.

B. Nothing in this Ordinance shall be interpreted to prohibit:
(1) Any operable farming and agricultural machinery and equipment on private property, provided, however, that (a) it is not parked, placed or stored in the front yard, unless used on a farm; and (b) it does not otherwise violate any of the Zoning Ordinances or Building Codes of the Township of Springfield or the State of Michigan.

(2) Duly licensed motor vehicles, recreational vehicles, mobile homes, trailers, or agricultural machinery and equipment that are temporarily inoperable because of minor mechanical failures, but which are not in any manner dismantled and have substantially all main component parts attached; may remain upon said private property, not, however, upon any public right-of-way or public property, for a period of time not to exceed fourteen days in any one calendar year.

C. No person, firm or corporation shall perform any repairing, redesigning, modifying or dismantling work or operations to any motor vehicle, mobile home, trailer, recreational vehicle, or new or used parts or junk therefrom upon any public right-of-way or public property, or upon any private property, within the Township of Springfield, except such as may be accomplished within a fully enclosed building, provided further, however, if no fully enclosed building is located upon the premises, the same repairing, redesigning, modifying or dismantling work or operation, if not otherwise unlawful, may be conducted upon the premises for a period of time not to exceed one week in any one calendar year. C. Continuing Offense. Each act of violation and each day upon which any such violation shall occur shall constitute a separate offense.

D. Remedies Not Exclusive. In addition to any remedies provided for in this Ordinance, any equitable or other remedies available may be sought.

E. Judge or Magistrate. The Judge or Magistrate shall also be authorized to impose costs, damages, and expenses as provided by law.

F. Default on Payment of Fines and Costs. A default in the payment of a civil fine, costs, damages, or expenses ordered under Subsection A or B, or an installment of the fine, costs, damages or expenses as allowed by the court, may be collected by the Charter Township of Springfield by a means authorized for the enforcement of a judgment under Chapter 40 or 60 of the Revised Judicature Act, MCL 600.101, et. seq., MSA 27A.101, et. Seq., as amended.

G. Failure to Comply With Judgment or Order. If a defendant fails to comply with an order or judgment issued pursuant to this Section within the time prescribed by the court, the court may proceed under Subsection I.

H. Failure to Appear in Court. A defendant who fails to answer a citation or notice to appear in court for a violation of this Ordinance is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), plus costs and/or imprisonment not to exceed ninety (90) days.

I. Civil Contempt

1. If a defendant defaults in the payment of a civil fine, costs, damages, expenses, or installment as ordered by the district court, upon motion of the Township of Springfield or upon its own motion; the court may require the defendant to show cause why the defendant should not be held in civil contempt and may issue a summons, order to show cause, or bench warrant of arrest for the defendant's appearance.

2. If a corporation or an association is ordered to pay a civil fine, costs, damages, or expenses, the individuals authorized to make disbursements shall pay the fine, costs, damages, or expenses, and their failure to do so shall be civil contempt unless they make the showing required in this subsection.

3. Unless the defendant shows that the default was not attributable to an intentional refusal to obey the order of the court, or to a failure on his or her part to make a good faith effort to obtain the funds required for payment, the court shall find that the default constitutes a civil contempt and may order the defendant committed until all or specified part of the amount due is paid.

4. If it appears that the default in the payment of a civil fine, costs, damages, or expenses does not constitute civil contempt, the court may enter an order allowing the defendant additional time for payment, or reducing the amount of payment or of each installment.

5. The terms of imprisonment on civil contempt for nonpayment of a civil fine, costs, damages, or expenses shall be specified in the order of commitment and shall not exceed one day for each Thirty Dollars ($30.00) due. A person committed for nonpayment of a civil fine, costs, damages, or expenses shall be given credit toward payment for each day of imprisonment and each day of detention in default of recognition before judgment at the rate of Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per day.

6. A defendant committed to imprisonment for civil contempt for nonpayment of a civil fine, costs, damages or expenses shall not be discharged from custody until one of the following occurs:

i. Defendant is credited with the amount due pursuant to Subsection I(5).

ii. The amount due is collected through execution of process or otherwise.

iii. The amount due is satisfied pursuant to a combination of Subsections I(6)(i) and (ii).

7. The civil contempt shall be purged upon discharge of the defendant pursuant to Subsection I(6).

J. Lien Against Land, Building or Structure. If a defendant does not pay a civil fine, costs or installment ordered under Subsections A or B within thirty (30) days after the date upon which the payment is due for a violation of this Ordinance involving the use or occupation of land, a building or other structure, the Charter Township of Springfield may obtain a lien against the land, building, or structure involved in the violation by recording a copy of the court order requiring payment of the fine and costs with the Register of Deeds for Oakland County. The court order shall not be recorded unless a legal description of the property is incorporated in or attached to the court order.

1. The lien is effective immediately upon recording of the court order with the Register of Deeds.

2. The court order recorded with the Register of Deeds shall constitute the pendency of the lien. In addition, a written notice of lien shall be sent by Springfield Township by first class mail to the owner of record of the land, building, or structure at the owner's last known address.

3. The lien may be enforced and discharged by the Charter Township of Springfield in the manner described by its Charter, by the General Property Tax Act, Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, being Sections 211.1, 211.157 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, or by an ordinance duly passed by the Township. However, property is not subject to sale under Section 60 of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, being Section 211.60 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, for nonpayment of a civil fine or costs or an installment ordered under Subsections A or B, unless the property is also subject to sale under Act No. 206 of Public Acts of 1893 for delinquent property taxes.

4. A lien created under this Section has priority over any other lien unless one or more of the following apply:

i. The other lien is a lien for taxes of special assessments.

ii. Federal law provides the other lien has priority.

iii. The other lien is recorded before the lien under this Section is recorded.

5. The Township may institute an action in a court of competent jurisdiction for collection of the fines and costs imposed by a court order for a violation of this Ordinance. However, an attempt by the Township to collect the fines or costs does not invalidate or waive the lien upon the land, building, or structure.

6. A lien provided for by this subsection shall not continue for a period longer than five (5) years after a copy of the court order imposing a fine or cost is recorded unless within that time an action to enforce the lien is commenced.

Section 7. Repealer

All ordinances and portions of ordinances inconsistent with this Ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 8. Severability

Should any provision or part of this Ordinance be declared by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid or unenforceable, the same shall not affect the validity or enforceability of the balance of this Ordinance, which shall remain in full force and effect.

Section 9. Effective Date

This Ordinance shall take effect following publication in the manner prescribed by law. This Ordinance shall be published in the manner provided by law.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that the entire ordinance and documents related to the proposed amendments may be examined at the Clerk's Office, Charter Township of Springfield, 12000 Davisburg Rd., Davisburg, MI during regular office hours Monday through Friday.
