The

A public hearing on reorganizing Independence Township is set 7:30 p.m. May 15 at the township library, 6495 Clarkston Road.

The Township Board will accept public comment on whether township government should employ a professional manager. A manager would supervise departments, handle finances, and help with capital improvement planning.

If hired, township supervisor, clerk, and treasurer would become part-time positions.

For more information, call the township at 248-625-3370.

McLaren project could get final approval May 15

McLaren Health Care Village is scheduled for second hearing and final approval May 15.

The $600 million project at Sashabaw Road and Bow Pointe Drive, near I-75, includes medical offices, shops, restaurants, and a 300bed hospital.

If approved, the project could break ground next month. For more information, call the township at 248-625-3370.

Corridor plan's future in doubt

The future of the Sashabaw Corridor Improvement Authority plan is on the line.

Independence Township Board has set a special meeting 7 p.m. Thursday, May 10, at Fire Station No. 1,6500 Citation Drive. On the agenda is reconsideration of the Sashabaw Road CIA plan. At a special meeting April 24, a motion to set a tax-increment financing plan at 50 percent over 17 years was defeated 3-2. The plan would have allowed the township to set aside half of the tax revenue increases resulting from development. The revenue would be used for further development. "We're still looking at it," said Treasurer James Wenger, who voted against the motion, along with Trustees Larry Rosso and Daniel Kelly. "There are pluses and minuses with everything.'

Showand-tell Judge Fortinberry brings courtroom to Clarkston High

BY LAURA COLVIN Clarkston News Staff Writer

Several hundred students watched as a young man on stage in the Clarkston High School's auditorium tried to explain his way out of a jam.

But it was no play, and the young man was no actor.

It was real life, and after a failed attempt to explain why he had again violated his probation, the young man found himself headed to a real jail.

It was just one of about 20 cases heard at CHS when Judge Dana Fortinberry and the 52-2 District Court sponsored "Court in School Day" Tuesday, May 1.

Twice a year, Fortinberry sets up her courtroom on the stage in the school's Performing Arts Center and conducts court as usual.

Fortinberry said she doesn't pick and choose cases for the Court in "School Day," nor does she award special consideration or leniency to defendants appearing in front of students.

"We bring whatever is on the docket for that day," she said, explaining that those required to appear at the high school do receive special notice ahead of time. "They're court ordered to be here."

Exceptions are made only in special circumstances, she said. A current or former CHS student, for example, would be rescheduled for a regular court appearance.

In addition to CHS, Fortinberry also holds court at Brandon High School in Brandon Township and Lakeland High School in White Lake Township.

"We've had a lot of really positive feedback from kids and parents both," she said. "It lets students see the consequences of their actions before they put themselves in a situation where they're standing in front of me as a defendant."

Fortinberry said the cases heard at CHS Monday were reflective of the court's typical docket: driving while license suspended, driving while intoxicated, minor in possession, along with occasional cases of domestic violence or retail fraud.

Newest idea for senior center: Bay Court

BY PHIL CUSTODIO Clarkston News Editor

The Senior Center Makeover Committee offered one more idea, along with its final report May 1.

"One informal suggestion made to the committee was to modify the existing building located in the Bay Court Park, and use it as an interim senior center." said committee member Tom Stone May 1 to the Independence Township Board

"This could be done for a township investment of just a bit more than might have been used to renovate the school and, perhaps, for a tot less, depending on what modifications are done first. The facility would be newer, owned by the township, and available for other uses later after a permanent senior center is located, Stone said. The idea of refurbishing the former South Sashabaw Elementary School into an interim senior center was nixed due to cost. Inspections by professionals volunteering their services found at least $150,000 in needed repairs. The idea of expanding the facility at Bay Court for use as an interim senior center is preliminary, said township Clerk Shelagh Vanderveen. If approved, the idea would include an expansion of about 3,000 square feet towards the gazebo, and new equipment for the kitchen.

If expanded, the activities building at Bay Court Park could be used as an interim senior center. Photo by Phil Custodio

"It's a beautiful location." but is opposed to the idea.

Vanderveen said. "We should at least take a look at it – I hope everyone can keep an open mind."

An interim center is needed as soon as possible because of the condition of the current senior center in Clinton Wood Park. A converted, 50year-old farm house, halls are narrow, stairs are steep, and maintenance issues are many.

"It should be condemned," Vanderveen said.

<sup>h</sup>My hope is that we don't wait until disaster happens before something is done," Stone said.

John Thomas, member of the township Senior Advisory Committee, thanked the board for their interest in providing new facilities for area seniors.

already have." Thomas said.

Also, it is located away from where people live. The current center in Clinton Wood Park is centrally located Transportation costs would increase too much, he said.

"I am 100 percent against this possible move," said John Nicholson of Clarkston. "The place we have now is not very good, but it's better than moving to this far, inaccessible place?"

Bay Court Park, in the southeast corner of the township, is about four miles away from Clinton Wood.

"If you move it to Andersonville Road, you might as well move it to Calumet or Houghton," Nicholson said. Please see Bay Court on page 16 A Brosier allegedly snatched outgoing mail from her neighbors after it was placed out for postal pickup.

Suspected mail bandit faces felony charges

Woman allegedly stole neighbors' checks to support drug habit

BY LAURA COLVIN

Clarkston News Staff Writer A 45-year-old Independence Township woman held on $1.2 million bond for repeated looting of neighborhood mailboxes was released to an inpatient drug treatment facility last week at the request of her attorney.

Charged with 12 counts of uttering and publishing, Tammy Sue Brosier was awaiting the start of court proceedings when a neighbor spotted her again searching mailboxes April 25, and called police.

"She was out on a minimal bond on those (counts) and was observed going through different mailboxes," said Sgt. Matt Baldes of the Oakland County Sheriff's Office Independence Township substation. "It's our opinion is absolutely factual," said Baldes, noting the department has checks with Brosier's name forged on them, as well as video confirming she cashed the checks at different banks.

Brosier simply applied correction fluid over the designated payee, then filled in her own name, Baldes said.

She apparently had little or no difficulty cashing the checks at local banks.

The documented incidents took place between Feb. 5 and March 10.

The Independence Township branch of Best Bank cashed nine checks for a total of $1953.75, and the Independence Township branch of TCF Bank cashed at least three checks for a total of $475.91.

Calls to representatives of both banks went unreturned.

After Brosier was arrested for rifling through mailboxes while out on bond, Judge Dana Fortinberry of the 52-2 District Court upped the bond to $100,000 per count, resulting in $1.2 million.

In addition to the 12 counts of uttering and publishing, a felony punishable by up to 14 years in prison per count, Brosier is also charged with one count of home invasion and an additional 5 uttering and publishing charges stemming from illegal entry and theft of a check book from a neighbor's home October 16.

Five checks were illegally written in that case for a total of $2,547.60

Brosier, a self-admitted drug abuser, was arrested last month on the uttering and publishing charges—illegally altering and cashing checks—as well as one count of home invasion and five additional counts of uttering and publishing, after she was identified by police investigating complaints of missing mail and bills that never reached their destination.

Teachers best when they let students go

I've been covering several school projects lately: lots of robots, paintings, poems, even a tank.

Some might see young boys building a tank and be concerned. Couldn't they work on something a little less violent? Like an ice cream truck?

I appreciate teacher Chad Mester's decision to let them do it. Successful educators engage students by going for what interests them. For junior-high boys, that might mean things like tanks. When I was a high schooler in Dayton, Ohio, we had opportunities like that. I remember lighting up when teachers explained them.

One was to prepare a project on "choices." Possibilities were wide open – report, speech, skit, video, etc. My group went with video.

What we came up with was a "Twilight Zone" episode about the atomic bombing of Japan during World War II. Our teacher could have taken one look at that and said "That's sick! Think of something else," but she didn't.

The plot: crew members, led by me, copilot, had second thoughts, inspired by the bombing of Hiroshima. We took over the plane and determined not to complete the bombing. Twilight Zone twist: the "bombing lever" pulled by itself, dropping the bomb anyway.

Pretty fatalistic, but I don't think I worked that hard on anything else in high school. We met after school and weekends. We learned about history and film making, wrote and memorized scripts, operated video equipment.

The main thing we learned: problem solving.

Bomber set? The Air Force Museum was close by. It had an exhibit made with a B-29 fuselage, a tunnel people could walk through to see what a World War II bomber was like inside.

The museum also had on exhibit "Bockscar," the actual B-29 bomber that dropped an atomic bomb on Nagasaki. One of us could do a good Rod Serling impression – we filmed his lines in front of it.

Exteriors? We spliced in footage from a World War II movie.

Costumes? We asked our dads, uncles, and anyone else who served in the military to dig out old uniforms. One came up with an old bomber jacket.

Lever moving by itself? We discovered levers in the exhibit were interconnected, so pulling one would cause another to move by itself. A decent special effect.

Dear Editor' (letters from our readers)

Contracting with county makes sense

Dear Editor,

The Clarkston Police Services Committee is evaluating three options for Clarkston police coverage: continuing as we are now, expanding coverage to all shifts (replacing OCSD on the midnight shift), or contracting with Independence Township to use Oakland County Sheriff's Department for all shifts.

I feel the best option is contracting OCSD. The city and its residents would save money and we would be policed by a 30-person department, consisting of fulltime officers paid a competitive salary.

Clarkston is just too small to have a police department and the best example is the midnight shift. Clarkston pays $31,700 per year for OCSD to patrol the midnight shift.

The rate is reasonable for both Independence Township and Clarkston, since OCSD patrols the entire surrounding area and has to drive through Clarkston any∕ay.

If the Clarkston Police were to take over the midnight shift, the minimum cost would be $45,000 per year. Part time officers would be paid $14.33 per hour ($15.43 with payroll taxes) and would patrol 8 hours a day, 365 days a year. You do the math, and remember this doesn't include car, gas, holiday pay, shift premium, etc.

It would make no sense.

OCSD's deputies are paid $59,000 per year and have full benefits on top of that. Although competitive salaries do not guarantee good employees, and likewise lower salaries do not necessarily translate to inferior services, I'll take my chances with the full time, higher paid deputies.

I will also enjoy the property tax reduction that is long overdue.

Don't discount opinion because of success

Dear editor,

I read Jim Sherman's April 11 column in The Clarkton News ("In a weak moment I read something a PhD wrote"). I am compelled to respond to his comments regarding Dr. Pearsall.

If what I inferred from his column is wrong, let me apologize right off the bat. Feel free to throw this letter out and forget you heard from me.

In the event I am correct, however, here is what I would like you to know about Dr. Pearsall.

Thirty years ago, 1 met Dr. Pearsall at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn. He was teaching Introductory Psychology. He worked his way through college by playing in a band.

No one paid his way.

While teaching my class, he was working on his first book. He told us that he was teaching at a community college because he felt he had been blessed with a good life and he wanted to give back.

You see, at the time, it was unusual for a Ph.D to teach at the community college level. Since that time, he has dealt with a life-threatening illness and survived. I was struggling to go to college, having come from a family where no one went to college and barely graduated from high school. As a matter of fact, many of my family members thought I was acting as if I were above them by going to college. I was working midnights, worrying every day about how I was going to support myself and pay bills, and wondering what the hell I was doing in college.

tion does not have to end here."

I recall having to look down because I had tears in my eyes. Those words had meaning to me.

Now, 30 years later, and after much hard work, I am a practicing attorney.

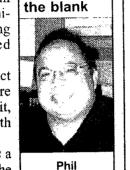

I still worry about supporting my family and all the other issues that life brings. But, because of those few words Dr. Pearsall uttered 30 years ago. I have done work that has helped people.

I know that I have made a difference in some lives and, to my great disappointment, not in others.

I think what Dr. Pearsall might have been trying to say, although differently, is that when we experience negative events and adversity, it might help to realize that there are others worse off than us and, just maybe, that could help us through the bad times.

I do not disagree with you in that it is one of the hardest things I am asked to do when things are going so far south I can't see daylight.

I am not the nicest person, either, when life hands me adversity. But please don't discount someone's opinion because they have managed to do well. Dr. Pearsall may have a great job, a Ph.D., and live in a beautiful place, but he worked to get there and he has suffered no differently than one of us. Discount his opinion simply because it does not work for you, like too many self-help publications don't work for most of us. After all, I am sure you know folks with no college degree, whose opinions hold the same weight as Dr. Pearsall's does to you. Diana Bare Ortonville

Mothers, one and all for 99 years

In years past I have gotten all mushy when talking about the wonderful ass of moms. I still am thankful for my very own and for Jennie, mother for Shamus and Sean. The boys are very lucky they have Jennie to balance out the goofiness I bring to the parenting table.

That said, I figured 2007 would be a non-sappy year. Just the cold have facts.

year. Just the cold hard facts, ma'am. So, without further eloquence ...

While moms have held a special place in the hearts of all who ever were, there was a time when there was no "Mother's Day." According to my sources, the driving force behind Mother's Day was Anna Jarvis. Anna must have loved her dear old mom, 'cuz she organized observances in Grafton, W.Va., and Philadelphia on May 10, 1908. That was 99 years ago.

While the annual celebration spread around the country, Jarvis began lobbying politicians to set aside a day to honor mothers. She finally succeeded in 1914, when Congress designated the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day.

And, the rest is history.

The next bit o' information I have was e-mailed to me by folks from the United States Census Bureau. How many mothers are there across our fruited plains? The latest numbers (2001) estimate there are 80.5 million months in the U.S. -- 55 perOf this number, 414,406 were to teens 15 to 19, and 111,190 to moms 40 or older.

The average age for a woman's first birthing experience in 2004 was 25.2 years old.

First births represent 40% of women's birth totals. 32 percent are second-born; 17 percent, third; and 11 percent, fourth or more.

.Get this -- there were 35,578 births in 2004 that did not occur in hospitals.

Hey, prospective moms -- the odds of you delivering twins here in the good ol' U.S. of A, are 1in 31. Your odds of delivering other multiple births are approximately 1 in 565.

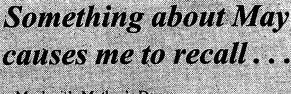

Woman must like the fall colors, because July (nine months later) is the most popular month in which to have a baby, with 359,426 births taking place that month in 2004.

The most popular day of the week to have a baby is Tuesday. There were 13,045 births on Tuesdays during 2004.

Jacob and Emily were the most popular baby names for boys and girls, respectively, in 2005.

Here's a number for you: 21,667.

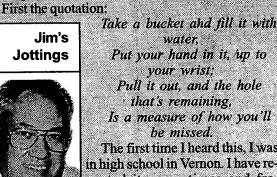

It's not a random number, it is the number of florist businesses there were in the U.S. in 2004. And, the 109,915 floral shop employees will be especially busy this week making arrangements for moms and grandmoms nationwide. Did you know the flowers bought for mom have a good chance of having been grown in California? A survey of 36 states showed California was the leading provider of cut flowers in 2005, accounting for 73 percent of domestic flower production ($289 million out of $397 million).

Maybe it's Mother's Day. Maybe it's graduation time.

Maybe it's Memorial Day.

Whatever, something about this month makes me have some more serious thoughts. I'm reminded of a quotation and poem I've put in Jottings columns in years past.

Jim Sherman

The first time I heard this, I was in high school in Vernon. I have repeated it many times and frequently apply it to myself, and sometimes to others about the time I or they start feeling important.

This is the middle stanza of a fiveverse poem. All together they go like this:

The Indispensible Man Sometimes when you're feeling important, Sometime, when your ego's in bloom. Sometime, when you take it for granted, You're the best in the room.

Sometime, when you feel your going, Would leave an unfillable hole, Just follow this simple instruction, And see how it humbles your soul.

Take a bucket and fill it with water, Put your hand in it, up to your wrist; Pull it out, and the hole that's remaining, Is a measure of how you'll be missed.

You may splash all you please when you enter, You can stir up the water galore, But stop, and you'll find in a minute, That it looks just the same as before.

> The moral in this quaint example, Is do just the best that you can, Be proud of yourself, but remember, There is no indispensable man.

More? More!

In 1976 the percentage of women, between the ages of 40 and 44, who were moms was 90 percent. In 2001, that percentage dropped to 81 percent.

* * *

How many kids are U.S. moms having these days? According the government, the average is 2.1. (Nothing personal, but I'd hate to be the .1 kid.) The state that tops the nation in the average number of births per woman is not Arkansas -- it is Utah at 2.5. Rhode Island, Vermont, Massachusetts and the District of Columbia have the lowest average number, at 1.7 births per mom.

* * *

U.S. moms gave birth to 4.1 million kids in 2005. charter.net

* * *

And lastly, 61 percent and 81 percent of children younger than 6 living with married parents, eat breakfast and dinner, respectively, with their mother every day. The corresponding percentages who eat with their father were 30 percent and 64 percent.

Just another reason why moms rule. So, don't forget to call, hug and gush over your mother -- chances are she deserves it.

Happy Mother's Day!

This from Chicken Soup for the Soul. It's about a bumpy bus ride on a back road.

In one seat a wispy old man sat holding a bunch of fresh flowers. Across the aisle was a young girl whose eyes came back again and again to the man's flowers.

The time came for the old man to get off. Impulsively, he thrust the flowers into the girl's lap: "I can see you love the flowers," he explained, "and I think my wife would like for you to have them. I'll tell her I gave them to you."

The girl accepted the flowers, then watched the old man get off the bus and walk through the gate of a small cemetery.

Andersonville team to compete in Knoxville

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston NewsEditor

Andersonville Elementary's Destination Imagination students did well at state competition April 21. They earned a spot at Globals Finals in Knoxville, Tenn., where they will compete against teams from around the world.

"They did a wonderful job," said parent volunteer Annie Knill.

"When we started this it was only to give our kids a chance to see what the local competition was like," said Deb Cumming, parent.

"Never did we think they would go on to the state competition, much less .ake third there and qualify for the Global tournament. This really is a 'fairytale team,' as one of the commentators at state called them, and we in the Clarkston school district are extremely proud."

The Soaring Eagles team earned third place at the state competition at Central Michigan University. Andersonville teachers Jenni Gifford and Kathy McEwen were also there, volunteering as appraisers.

Andersonville's two other DI teams, Braniacs and Eagles, will cheer on their classmates, said Angie Suarez, parent volünteer.

All three teams worked together they're a great group of kids," Suarez said, "I wish everyone could have won, but all of us celebrated the victory."

Competing at regionals in March, Eagles and Soaring Eagles earned spots at states. Eagles earned ninth place.

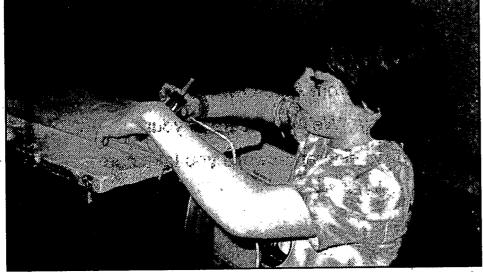

Now, Soaring Eagles is preparing their Direct Flight presentation, including airplane model and elevator launcher, for Knoxville. About 8,000 participants are expected.

"We're practicing a lot of instant challenges," said Brenton Villeneuve, Soaring Eagle. "We're working on thinking and problem solving." Instant challenges, which are kept secret before competition, test students' teamwork and problem-solving skills.

The team needs help to fund the trip, which will cost about $3,000. To make a donation, contact the school at 10350 Andersonville Road in Davisburg, Principal Bruce Martin, 248-623-5200. The finals are set for May 23-26.

The Clarkston Area Optimists are part of Optimist International, a volunteer organization that works in a variety of ways to improve and enhance the daily lives, as well as the future of young people.

In order to best serve the individual needs of any given community, each chapter operates autonomously, individually electing officers, raising funds and choosing activities and projects.

"We've done some really big things in this community, and we do some rather small things in the community," said Optimist President-elect Jean Dasuqi, noting the group's $10,000 contribution to the local spray park, as well as another $10,000 for area soccer fields. "When there's a need in the community, they usually come to the optimists. And if it's a need that benefits the children of Clarkston, we're there."

Each year, the Clarkston area Optimists hold two Youth Appreciation breakfasts – one for elementary students, the other for grades six and higher.

Other events include the group's oratorical contest, Tri-Star Basketball, a scholarship program and a Respect for Law program.

The organization also lends financial support to projects such as Lighthouse North, Clarkston Band Boosters, the CHS Madrigal Singers, and the elementary schools' Festival of Science.

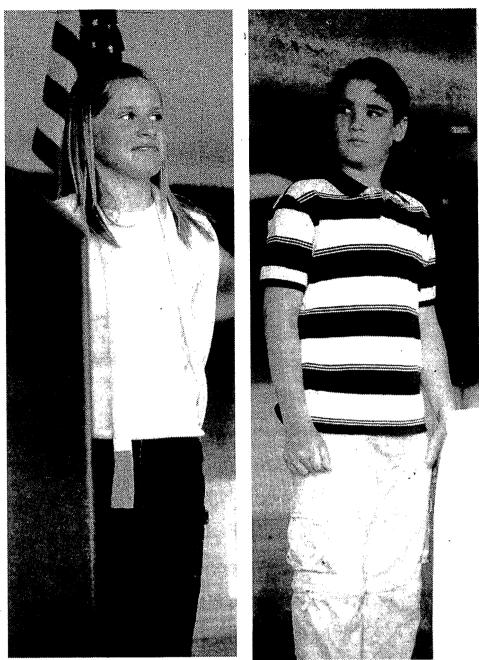

The Clarkston Area Optimist Club meets at 7:30 a.m every Wednesday at the Clarkston Creek County Club located at 6060 Maybee Road.

Clarkston rockers help teens in trouble

BY PHIL CUSTODIO Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston Junior High School students Jake Navarre and Dylan Coutelle started a fundraiser concert as a school requirement.

Now, it's all about the cause.

"We don't care about the grade anymore - we just want to raise money for Promise Village," Navarre said.

"We want to help them," Coutelle said.

Promise Village in Clarkston shelters seven teenagers who have been abused and are trying to get their lives headed in the right direction, Navarre said.

"This home is run strictly on charity. We chose this charity over all the others because we are teenagers and we know it's hard enough to get through this time in our lives having good parents to guide us," he said. "It's hard to imagine being abused and without family.'

"It's a nice place – a place where you can stay and get things in order," Coutelle said.

The home is staffed with professional therapists, doctors and caregivers to teach teens how to overcome their past so they have a chance at a good future., Navarre said.

A 14 Wed., May 9, 2007 The Clarkston (MI) News Judge Fortinberry teaches high schoolers by example

"I'm always surprised at how much the defendants get out of it," said Fortinberry. "They enjoy sharing their experiences with the students, and having the opportunity to help someone else avoid making the same mistakes."

And, she said, the message seems to have a stronger voice that way.

"It's much more effective when students learn from their peers," Fortinberry said. "It works much better than to have me preaching at them."

The young man who was sent back to Oakland County Jail, for example, asked the judge if he could show students an alcohol tether he is required to wear around his ankle at all times.

Fortinberry agreed, and the young man raised the cuff of his jeans while she explained how the device works.

The tether, she said, constantly measures the amount of alcohol in a person's body through the skin.

The small machine is very sensitive, and records all contact with products containing alcohol—even hairspray or mouthwash.

Fortunately, said Fortinberry, sophisticated readings from the device make it easy to distinguish between the consumption of alcohol and other causes.

Wearers must pay $375 a month for the device, but most do so gladly in exchange for jail time.

Right before the break, Fortinberry offered the audience an opportunity to ask questions.

One student asked about the legal blood alcohol limit for driving.

"For you, for anyone under 21, it's zero," Fortinberry said, noting that anyone under the legal drinking age caught driving with a blood alcohol level of .01 or higher is considered intoxicated.

Most students felt the opportunity to watch court in session was time well spent.

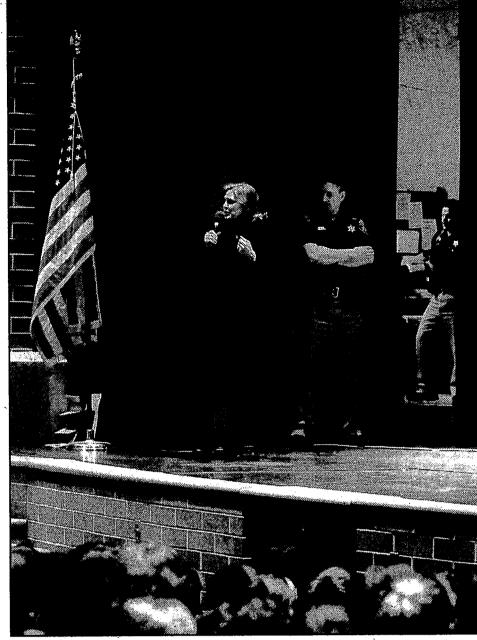

"I didn't know just possession of alcohol was so serious," said sophomore Randy Olson. "This was a quality experience, being exposed to the different court scenarios and how serious they take it."

Others were able to dispel some myths, including those about suggesting that minors are immune to the law.

"I saw that no matter what age you are, they really will crack down," said sophomore John Schroeder. "You can watch and learn from others' mistakes."

It was also an overall learning experience for those unfamiliar with the normal process of the law.

"It's a good lesson," said senior Ryan Bonk, "especially for people who don't have a clue what the court system is all about."

Debbie Simmons Au.D for an informative seminar on hearing loss and related concerns. This event will be held on Thursday May 17 at The Concorde Inn of Waterford, 7076 Highland Road, in Waterford. The presentation will begin at 10:00 am, with a luncheon to follow at 11:00AM. Reservations are required by May 14th. Please phone (248) 886-0110 to RSVP.

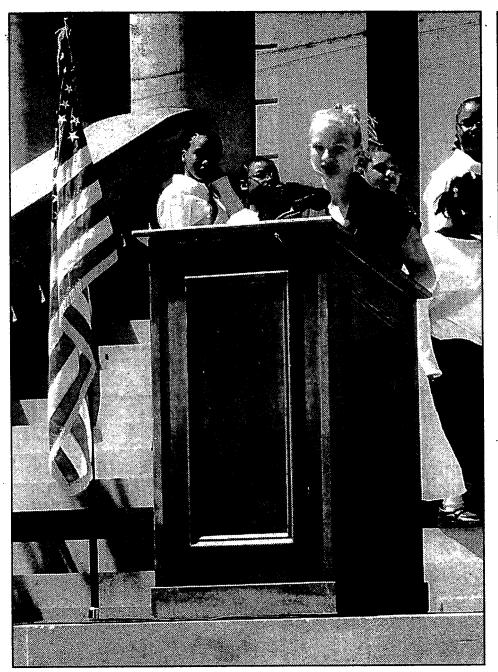

According to the Better Hearing Institute, 3 in 10 people over the age of 60 have hearing loss. The symptoms include losing your place in a group conversation, frequently asking people to repeat themselves, keeping the volume of the TV at a level that others say is too loud, and turning your ear towards a sound to hear it better. "Even a slight hearing loss can have an impact on your daily life," says Wendy Switalski, Audiologist and Director of Alliance Hearing Care. "Hearing loss is treatable, and there is no reason for anyone to miss than ever before. "With the use of today's digital hearing instruments, almost all individuals with hearing loss can be helped," according to Wendy. Studies have shown a link between untreated hearing loss and such serious consequences as depression and anxiety. Using hearing instruments can help people minimize the effects that hearing loss has on their life and their family relationships.

Alliance Hearing Care provides comprehensive hearing care and hearing aid services. They provide a wide variety of devices custom fit to your specific needs, and offer inoffice demonstrations to allow you to listen to hearing aids prior to purchasing them. Additionally, Alliance Hearing Care provides full repair services for all makes and models of hearing devices. ## Praying for good government

Allie Swanson, an eighth grader at Clarkston Junior High School, took the day off Thursday in honor of National Day of Prayer.

She kept busy - she offered a Reading for Education to more than 1,000 people at the state Capitol building in Lansing.

"It was really exciting. I was really honored," Swanson said.

As she got to the podium set up on the Capitol steps, wind blew away the card on which she had her verses written. Fortunately, she had it memorized and delivered her part successfully.

"I mixed up a couple parts, but I got the point across," she said.

Her mother, Martha Swanson, is a member of Moms In Touch, an international prayer group. They needed a student for the event, so she asked Allie if she could participate.

"I was really proud of her," Martha said.

A few protesters were in attendance, opposed to the event being held on Capitol grounds. Some of the student readers, Swanson included, spoke to one of them. "He told us his story – it was sad," she said. "I wanted to reach out to him."

New Name.... Same Faces

Clarkston News Editor The changing schedules for Clarkston schools continue to concern parents. Three parents with a petition of hundreds of names spoke to the Board of Education May 6.

Concerns continue

about schools'

start/stop times

"We represent numerous concerned parents," said Danette Meny. "I have a petition with over 250 signatures."

Research shows later start times for elementary schools negatively affect students. Young children who wake up early watch more television in the morning, and are less alert in the afternoon. Also, school gets out too late for extracurricular activities, Meny said.

"Our basic concern is that there will not be enough time for kids to play after school," said Deb Rumstadt.

"This is an incorrect step to take."

The district estimates savings of $150,000 with the changes, which also include new and revised bus routes. The savings are not worth the problems they will cause, Rumstadt said.

"The negative influence will far outweigh the savings," she said. "We ask that you reconsider your decision, and listen to the opinions of parents."

The savings are not insignificant, said board President Stephen Hyer.

"It's a tough decision," Hyer said. "But if it comes down to three or four teachers versus staggered start times, we choosing the teachers. It's as simple as that."

The board has directed administration to cut district deficits in half, while preserving class-

Wolves can't halt Dragons' win streak

BY PAUL KAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's baseball team has had trouble finding a groove this season. The Wolves never found their stride while visiting No. 1 state ranked Lake Orion May 2, losing 7-1. The Wolves (4-9) couldn't bring their runners around to score and the Dragons fed on Clarkston miscues for their 12th consecutive win.

Lake Orion (12-1) lost to Birmingham Groves on the first day of the season and has since picked up its play.

"We're finding ways to win, but that was not the performance I expected against a team like Clarkston," Dragons coach Andy Schramek said.

'We didn't play our best baseball, but we did get some hits when we needed them. They were two hits away from making this thing close when they had (runners) at second and third with less than two outs."

Lake Orion starter Connor Mielock remained undefeated, picking up his fifth win of the year while striking out eight hitters. John Ruggeri worked the final two innings in relief for the save.

Schramek felt his team wasn't as fluid as normal.

"We were just listless and not as energetic as we've been in the past. But for the past three weeks, we've been playing exceptional in all areas. Scores are going to be scores and if we play the right way (we can win). Today, we could have done a better job in some areas," he said.

The Dragons committed four errors during the game, two of which came while trying to close out the game in the top of the seventh inning.

Similarly, Clarkston coach Phil Price said his team allowed too many extra chances for a talented Lake Orion team.

"They're a great team. You can't give them four, five or six outs an inning.

Athlete of the week Free Byrd takes off to New York

Clarkston's Amanda Byrd plays as a specialist on ness.

the volleyball court. Byrd, who debuted the libero position for Clarkston last winter, is taking her skills to Concordia College in New York after signing a letter of intent to play there May 3.

"She has such a passion for the game. She really didn't want her senior year to end. She wanted to find a place where she could keep playing," Clarkston volleyball coach Kelly Avenall said.

Byrd, who found the school after enlisting the help of a collegiate recruiter, is excited about becoming a Clipper. She plans on majoring in veterinarian technology at the school.

In 2006, the Clippers, of the East Coast Conference in the NCAA Division II, posted a 10-17 record.

"I'm excited. I'm looking forward to contributing to the team and making their record better," Byrd said.

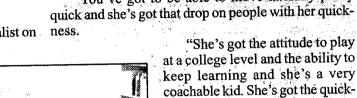

One of the defining areas of Byrd's game is her serve, a deceiving floater, which has no backspin.

"It keeps people moving around on the court," Arrest 1 HARD'S Byrd saidars' minst

Her speed and awareness as the team's defensive specialist was Avenall's prompt to start the senior in a new position.

"She set a precedent playing libero for us," she A South said.

"Last year I didn't feel like I had anyone who could handle that spot and this year she stepped up to the plate:

keep learning and she's a very coachable kid. She's got the quickness for the position she's going to be playing. She's got tremendous passing skills and the ability to read other hitters.

"At the college level, they're only going to make her better at those types of things."

Byrd was a good selection for the team's first libero, a position which relies heavily on defensive skill, and she will have a lasting impression on future players, Avenall said.

Parents John and Karan Byrd have seen their daughter's passion for the game outside of the gym for the past seven years.

"Amanda probably hasn't gone a day in the past five or six years without a volleyball in her hand whether she was at school, in the basement, outside, and having her sister to practice with has been helpful," John said. Byrd's unselfish play and playful demeanor should help her assimilate with her college teammates right away, her parents said.

Byrd was also looking into Northland College and Central Pennsylvania College. Concordia began their push for Byrd about two months ago. Byrd was an Oakland Activities Association all-region and all-district selection for her play this season.

"Our kids just didn't execute in the field and make the plays. Against a team like (that) you have to make every routine play and (the Dragons) did a good job capitalizing on our mistakes."

With the loss, Clarkston is now 0-4 in the Oakland Activities Association while the Dragons are on the other side of the spectrum, at 4-0.

With Clarkston ahead 1-0, Lake Orion quickly caught up with three-run innings in the second and third. Mielock picked up an RBI single in the bottom of the sixth inning for the Dragons to make the game 7-1. The Wolves stranded runners at second and third base in the fifth and sixth innings.

Clarkston nearly put a larger dent in the lead while on its last legs in the seventh, loading the bases with two outs. Brandon Harris grounded out to Ruggeri to end the game.

Ty Taylor had an RBI, driving in Eric Ogg in the first inning for the Wolves.

Another chance to prove themselves Girls track can overtake Troy with good showing

BY PAUL KAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although the spring sports season may still seem young, track programs are rushing to the finish. The Clarkston boys and girls track programs will see their first action in about three weeks Friday at Lake Orion in the Oakland Activities Association meet at 4 p.m.

The meet results will be weighted for half of each team's overall league standing. A strong performance from Clarkston's girls (3-1) could catapult them past Troy (4-0-1) for first place in the league. The Wolves have won three of the past four OAA regular season championships.

"We're going to have to beat Troy, and anyone can win that league meet," Clarkston girls track coach John Yorke said.

"There are probably five teams that can win.

"If we stay healthy and perform our best, we can win the meet."

Clarkston's throwing core of Stephanie Carlson, Lauren Frank, Emily Meissnest and Allison Spinweber has had a profound impact on the team's performance this season.

"The depth of our throwers has really made the difference," Yorke said.

"The four of them are all really good throwers."

Yorke said early-season predictions pegging the girls as a less than dominant team as in years past motivated the Wolves to prove the doubters wrong.

Last week's meet, scheduled for May 1 in Southfield, was rained out and will be made up May 15, three days prior to the regional playoffs, at Clarkston. The busy week shouldn't have an effect on the girls though, Yorke said.

The Wolves also have the county meet in South Lyon May 25.

Clarkston's boys track (0-4) is looking to place their best runners, but coach Walt Wyniemko understands a win might be out of reach. The Wolves placed fourth in the tournament last year.

"We haven't met a couple of the teams yet, but we know the people in front of us are strong. We would definitely like to (place) in the middle of the bunch. That's our goal," Wyniemko said.

"We're a young team. We just hope our times and distances get better and if we keep on improving, it will help us to look at where we want to be at for the regionals," he said.

"We have some people that could place in the regionals and we're hoping that this gives them some times and distances to get a good heat for the regionals." The Wolves are hoping to improve the times of its

Clarkston takes first lacrosse match with rival Lake Orion, 8-5

BY PAUL KAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer Each season, new chapters are written in the book of Clarkston and Lake Orion sports rivalries. Last Thursday an entirely new entry was filed under lacrosse. Lake Orion's David Wurst did his best to keep the Dragons in the game, scoring four goals, but a seasoned Clarkston team took an 8-5 win in the inaugural contest.

Both teams' coaches are optimistic about the future of the lacrosse incarnation of the legendary rivalry.

"It's going to be a terrific rivalry. We're already talking about getting a traveling trophy or plaque for next year," Clarkston coach Brian Kaminskas said. With the addition of lacrosse to the Dragons' athletic calendar, Wurst has now become a four-sport athlete for Lake Orion. In the fall, Wurst plays football, hockey in the winter, and track and lacrosse this spring. This spring has been a revival of sorts for Wurst, who hasn't played lacrosse competitively since learning the game from Lake Orion coach Nik Banda as a middle school student.

"He's a superior athlete. He's the backbone of the team, the go-to-guy. You can see he's emotional. He's got a wit and he can play the ball with both hands and he hasn't picked up a (lacrosse) ball since eighth grade," Banda said.

"That's four years and he can do that. That's amazing.

"He's unselfish. You won't see him trying to just go in there and rip the ball. He's looking for other guys and that's what's great about him. He's knows he can do it, but he's unselfish for the rest of the team."

Getting the program running has been made much easier with the help of his assistant coaches and other programs at the school, Banda said.

"They're coming out here from 6:30 to 9:30 every night and I can't get them off the field until 10:00 at night.

"A lot of coach (Chris) Bell's football players have discipline...I appreciate the kids' attentiveness. They're like sponges, they want to learn."

The game was, barring playoff pairings, one of the last times each school's senior classes will face one another. The Dragons (3-3) did well keeping Clarkston (8-6) within sight each time the Wolves looked to edge ahead. The Wolves didn't have the win secured unfil Andrew Schram scored with 2:44 left in the game. Wurst had scored two goals within 20 seconds, prior to Schram's 3200-meter relay team of Matt Alexander, Nick LaMora, Jeff Kuhl, and Phil Voorheis, as well as their 1600-meter relay with Kyle Rivenburgh, Giovan McDougal, LaMora, and Alexander for the playoffs.

The 3200-meter team's best time this season thus far is 8:13. Wyniemko is hoping to drop it down to the eight-minute mark.

"Our times keep on getting better. We know we have to be about 8:10 or so to be competitive," he said.

"Eight is a round-off number, so we would like to be there."

Wyniemko expects seniors LaMora and Alexander to step up and perform at the league meet.

"They're seniors and they have a lot of skills and both would like to take it to the next level. They know to do that, they have certain benchmarks and standards if they are to continue on," he said.

"They're strong competitors, there's no question about that."

The OAA race is a platform for sophomore prospect Jeff Kuhl to prove his talent at a large-scale event, Wyniemko said.

"He has some potential, but he has to get there. We are still two years away from finding out how good of a runner he is, realistically."

clincher, to give Lake Orion a chance with 7:30 remaining.

"Our attack did the job we expected them to do. We made an adjustment at halftime to make sure the ball is on their stick, to possess the ball and go to the cage when they thought they had the opportunity," Kaminskas said.

The Wolves had a tough start out of the gate against the Dragons due to an exhausting 7-6 double-overtime win over Plymouth Canton/Salem two days prior.

"The guys worked like crazy for that game," Kaminskas said.

"We were afraid we were going to come in flat, which is exactly what we did. We held on, we did the things we needed to do right to win the game.

"We talk about making the smart plays...and we didn't do a whole lot of that today. We were forcing the ball when we shouldn't have and we weren't communicating," he said.

"We want to do better on the basics."

Wurst got the Dragons on the board first in the game, scoring with 8:14 left in the opening quarter. Clarkston then outscored Lake Orion 5-1 in the second quarter, with two goals by team scoring leader Chris Salo, to take a 5-2 lead into halftime.

Salo finished with three goals and Schram scored two for the Wolves. Dylan Van Fossen added a goal for Lake Orion. The Wolves wrap up the regular season at home against Lincoln Saturday at 6 p.m. and Monday at Rochester Adams starting at 7 p.m.

Wed., May 9, 2007 The Clarkston (MI) News 21 A Wolves look for best in show at O

BY PAUL KAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

If Clarkston has a tough time with two of its opponents at the Oakland Activities Association division II boys tennis meet this weekend, it could be forgiven to a certain extent.

The Wolves should have completed their intra-league games at this point, but due to rainouts they have yet to play league foe Stoney Creek.

'We would like to win," Clarkston coach Chaz Claus said.

"(Troy) Athens is the favorite going in, but I expect everyone else to be pretty even. On a good day, Athens could be caught. We would just like to prove that we're a better team than others. We squeaked out a win against Rochester and we tied Farmington, we would like to prove something there and beat them."

The Redhawks' depth and a disappointing performance from Clarkston (3-2-1) resulted in a 6-2 Athens win early this season. Only singles players Brett McMillen (3) and Erik Ejups (4) escaped with victories.

"They are easily the deepest team in the league. Their doubles teams are very strong and they just get stronger down the lineup," Claus said.

"We played worse against Athens than just about any other match we played all year.

"I would expect that we could come out and play a whole lot better now that the weather is warmer and we've been hitting a little more consistently."

Clarkston's No. 1 singles player Chris Graczyk is expected to play well in a tough field. Claus sees Stoney Creek's lead singles player as the favorite.

"We haven't seen him, but we know he is an elite player. Beyond that, No. 1 singles is a flight that is pretty open," Claus said.

Graczyk, who was forced to leave the Wolves' match with Farmington with a stiff hip, should be recuperated.

"He played really well yesterday and with the rain and all the missed days of tennis, he's had a lot of time to rest it, which is unfortunate and fortunate in some ways," Claus said.

"It was unexpected and hopefully it's healed as opposed to being something that could come around in the future again."

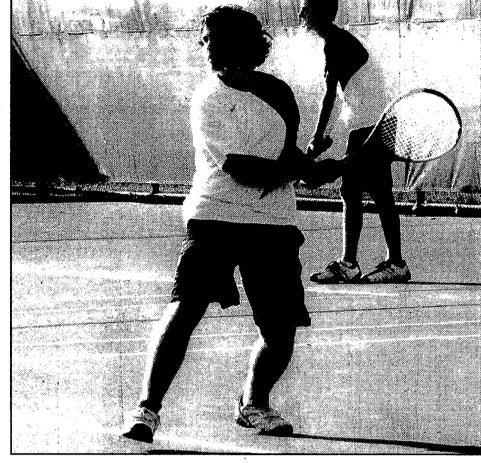

Claus expects to see a resurgent effort from Clarkston's doubles teams throughout the rest of the season.

"Clarkston's had traditionally strong doubles and I'd like to see us regain that reputation," he said.

"We've played okay at doubles, we've battled a lot of teams at many flights. In the past years, the lower end doubles is what we've depended on for a lot of our points and that hasn't necessarily been the case this year. I would hope in the next couple weeks we could turn it around and move from good play to excellent play."

In a make-up match Friday against Lake Orion, the Wolves won 6-2. The OAA II win pulled them to 2-1-1 in the league this season.

All four flights were victorious on the singles side and No.'s 1 and 2 doubles also won.

Zach Kerr (No. 2 singles) and the Clarkston Wolves are looking to avenge a loss to Troy Athens earlier this season. The 6-2 defeat is their only loss in conference play. Photo by Paul Kampe Against Rochester Adams May 2 in an OAA crossover match, the Highlanders had the Wolves' number across the board, winning 8-0.

'They were the better team. We battled them at a couple flights, but we couldn't put it together at any one flight to get a win out of it," Claus said.

"You're playing up a league, and you would like to win, but you'd also just like to see everyone play well, which we did at some flights."

Mark Koenig and Yvon Lowe work on clearing out some brush

Spring cleaning

Nearly 100 volunteers showed up Saturday at the Nels Kimball Sanctuary near I-75 and M-15 to begin making the area public-friendly. Men, women and children cleared brush, spread wood chips, removed invasive plant species, and began building a "corduroy" bridge.

Volunteers from the North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy and Thrivant Financial for Lutherans worked together on the land, which is owned by NOHLC. See next week's edition of The Clarkston News for more photos and the full story.

Sister shutterbugs bring years of experience to Family Treasures

BY PAUL KAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

When it comes to having family photos taken, it helps to have two family members at your side. Sisters Brenda Hathaway and Laura Capua opened Family Treasures Photography Studio at 6684 Dixie Highway in suite F of the Ritter's Country Square less than a month ago, in pursuit of their passion.

The studio can be used for glamour shots, old-time photos, family gatherings, senior photos, pet photos, children's photos and can be booked for on-location shoots.

Capua brings her decade of studio photography experience to her first solo venture.

"When I was younger, I always liked having a camera with me and taking pictures," Capua said.

"We wanted to go into business together, since she has a lot of experience with photography and I've always been a shutterbug," Hathaway said.

"It came up to where we were both available to do something like this and we thought it would be a great mix."

Hathaway expects glamour shots to be a big hit with clients. Family Treasures has vintage clothing and jewelry for photos of any era.

"Ladies love getting dressed up and so do little kids," she said.

"For our old-time photo shoots, we're going to have a lot of different scenes set up.

"To have the antique black-and-whites or grayed pictures, I think that's going to go over well."

The studio also has men's suits and hats for dress up.

New building for Camper' Paradise

BY PAUL KAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston area is often described as a perfect place to live, but if they wanted to get away, Campers Paradise can help. The camper, recreational vehicle and snowmobile retailer at 4941 Dixie Highway officially opened its doors Saturday with the help of State Representative John Stakoe and 99.5 FM WYCD.

Campers Paradise, a family owned business, has been operating in Michigan since 1957 and once claimed seven southeast Michigan locations. The Ladd family purchased the business from second owner Pete Sirian in late 2005 and broke ground on the 15,000-square-foot facility in Aug. 2006. The business had been run out of a 3,000square-foot building that remained on the site after their purchase, behind where the new structure sits.

"Since the day we bought the business, we've been looking to expand," Owner Les Ladd said.

From the beginning, the Ladds increased the number of product lines and manufacturers they would carry while looking for a new site for the company.

An 18-acre property in Independence Township was a perfect fit, Ladd said, because of its proximity to I-75.

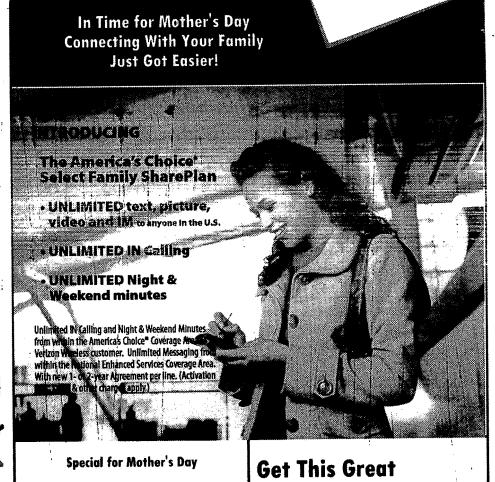

The size of the new sales floor impressed Sirian.

"The (original) Hazel Park property would have fit right in here," he said of the 8,000square-foot original Campers Paradise property. Sirian bought the company in 1966.

Keeping up the pace in Clarkston

BY PAUL KAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Susan Maniscalchi has always been a goal-oriented person. Initially, her behavior got her running down a neighborhood street, later with a group of friends and most recently through the streets of the New England area's most popular running event, the Boston Marathon April 16.

"I loved it, it was incredible. The crowd support was phenomenal, even for the weather. They were calling for a nor'easter out there. There was still so much crowd support out there," Maniscalchi said.

Maniscalchi changed her mind after the race, for which she tried to qualify for four years, about running again.

"I thought one time would be all I needed until I did it," she said.

While running the race, Sue ensured she was enjoying herself.

"I slowed it down, I slapped all the kids' hands and I thoroughly enjoyed it. I took everything in because it was the one time I didn't have to race," she said. Maniscalchi finished the Boston

Marathon in four hours, 17 minutes. The race's reputation is what drew her to the event.

"After I ran my first couple marathons, I heard other runners talking about it and how exciting it was," she said.

"It's such an elite marathon. It's one of the only ones you have to qualify for."

Sue made the cut last May at Bayshore in Traverse City.

She began her running career 11 years ago after her daughter Corinn, the first of two kids with husband Phil, was born.

"My daughter was 6 weeks old and I got the okay to go and I was gone. I had never run before and I started running a block at a time. I had never run three miles before," Maniscalchi said. She signed up to run her first marathon after two years of training at the San Diego Rock n Roll Marathon in 1998. "I was hooked from that point on," she said. Sue trains with friends in Rochester Hills. The many hills in her subdivision come in handy for strength conditioning near home once or twice a week.

This summer, Sue is planning to run in the Dexter/Ann Arbor Run in June and The Crim Festival of Races in Flint in August. If that's not enough competition, Sue wants to branch out into triathlons. The most logical for her would be the annual Craig Greenfield Memorial just minutes from her home.

"I already know the running part, it's just a matter of incorporating a couple more workouts," she said.

The support of family and friends gets her through training each event, Maniscalchi said, whether it's caring for her children while training or giving her a pep-talk.

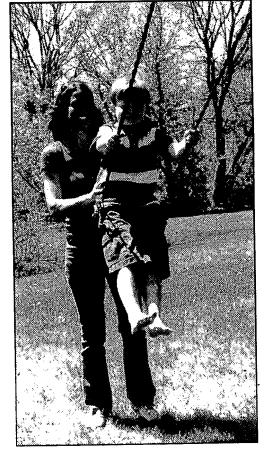

While she's on the course, she likes to keep a piece of advice from a friend in her head as she runs: Bury the competition.

"That's what helped me qualify. It's definitely a mental thing because the first 20 miles are easy, but the last six are all mental." Maniscalchi said.

Currently, Sue is looking for a new challenge after completing the "ultimate goal."

"I'm very goal-oriented. My mom says she has no idea where that came from," Maniscalchi joked.

She is getting what she wished for after opening My Kindred Spirit, a wedding and event planning business, with her close friend Meshelle Szumanski in February. The group can organize many different celebration events such as first communions, graduations, and showers, in addition to charity events.

like you're always throwing a party," Maniscalchi.

"I love throwing parties and it's nice "I love throwing parties and it's nice to be able to do that on a full-time basis."

"We're both very creative. I enjoy the planning part of things because it's "We're really busy and that doesn't leave a lot of time to train, but I fit it in," Maniscalchi said.

The business allows Sue to work from home to spend time with Corinn, 11, and her son Dominic, 6.

Youth Theater hits the stage with Shakespeare adaptation

Clarkston based Youth Theater Group received her second Superior-First at the presents "6 Stools & a Folding Chair" May 10-12 in the auditorium of Shepherd Fellowship Church,

The show, based on Broadway's "Kiss Me Kate," revolves around divorced couple Fred Graham and Lilli Vanessi who are reunited for a Broadway-bound musical version of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" playing the roles of Kate and Petruchio.

However, with the assistance of a gambling debt, a World War II general, a couple of gangsters and some misplaced flowers, nothing turns out the way anyone had anticipated. It is a play-withina-play.

Playing the funny and feisty couple are Shane Lichtenberg of Clarkston and Abigail Lee of Waterford. These two young actors have both appeared in numerous theater productions, often together.

Lichtenberg, a senior who is homeschooled and attends OSMTech at Clarkston High School, has received "Audience Choice Awards for Best Performance" with both "Lakeland Players" and "6 Stools & a Folding Chair." He has also just received a four-year swimming scholarship at University of Louisville in Kentucky.

Lee, a junior who is also Homeschooled, has also received numerous awards for her performances in theater as well as for singing. She recently Michigan Schools Vocal Music Association District and State festival.

Lichtenberg and Lee are supported by a cast of 30, ranging in age from 4-18, including Natasha Allen as Lois Lane/ Bianca; Eric Lichtenberg as Bill Calhoun/Lucentio, Matthew Counga as Gangster One, Michael Bugin as Gangster Two, Jay Cornell as Harry Trevor/ Baptista, Michelle VanderVoord as Hattie, John Muenz as General Harrison Howell, Greg VanderVoord as Hortensio, and Andrew Koliher as Ralph.

'Six Stools & a Folding Chair" is an ecumenical ministry sponsored by Sashabaw Presbyterian Church on Maybee Road in Clarkston. Youth from many of Clarkston's churches participate in the program, which began four years ago as a Home School Drama Club.

Since then, the group has expanded to include public and private school students from as far away as Swartz Creek and Troy. They have produced One Act Plays and Reader's Theater, but most of their efforts have been the Broadway musical where they can include children of all ages.

Previous shows have included "Bye Bye Birdie," "Hello Dolly," and "My Fair Lady" last year.

'The shows that this organization gives these kids an opportunity to learn about and perform shows that are written with quality. There is a beauty to 'Kiss Me Kate' - it is a very entertaining show," said David Lee, one of the parents.

"How can you beat Shakespeare coupled with Cole Porter's music?"

Some of Porter's best known songs are found in the show, including "Another Op'nin, Another Show," "Too Darn Hot," "Brush Up Your Shakespeare," and 'So In Love.'

"We have tried to keep our shows in Clarkston, since we are a Clarkstonbased group," said Jan Jones, elder of the sponsoring Sashabaw Presbyterian Church. "However, the lack of public stage facilities in the area have led us to do this year's show in Waterford.

"The congregation of this church is always wonderful, allowing the building to be taken over by young actors, set constructors, costumers," Jones said.

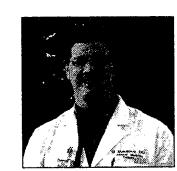

"We look at this ministry as an opportunity to provide a wholesome environment for theater as well as a chance for kids from different churches to come together and learn from one another."

Curtain times are 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 2 p.m. Saturday, at Shepherd Fellowship Church, 2515 N. Williams Lake Road, Waterford.

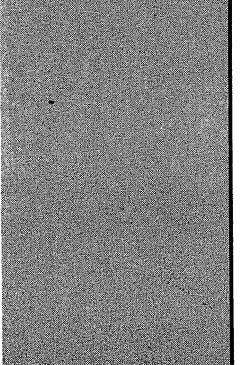

Tickets may be purchased in advance at a discount. For more information, call 248-673-3101.

Clarkston student seeks help for Africa mission

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

After a three-month selection process, Michelle Pickett of Clarkston has been chosen to join a 16-person mission to Africa.

Her remaining obstacle: $3,000 for flight, lodging, and other expenses. She has raised $2,000 so far from family, friends, and classmates at Clarkston High School, and has until June 1 for the rest.

She hopes the community can help.

"It's my life – the one thing I would want to do more than anything in the world," she said. "I'm counting down the days. It's all I think about."

The mission, with her church, Kensington Community Church of Troy through Thrive Africa, will visit rural villages near Harrismith, South Africa.

Pickett, a senior at the high school, heard of the two-week mission, June 24-July 3, from a classmate in Spanish class.

"I always wanted to go to Africa, to help feed the children," she said.

"I'm proud of her," said her mother Linda Pickett. "She's been working hard – she's dreamt of this for a long time. Now she's making it happen."

This will be Michelle's first trip overseas.

"It's my calling. I feel it's what I'm supposed to do with my life," she said.

After graduation, she plans to attend DePaul University in Chicago, and study photojournalism.

"I want to educate people about Africa – show the world what it's really like," she said.

People wishing to help can send taxdeductible donations to her church, Kensington Community Church, 1825 E. Square Lake Road, Troy, MI, 48085. No names on the memo line, but a card with Michelle's name on it can make sure it is applied to her account.

"I greatly appreciate the support and prayers," she said.

'Tanks' a lot

Clarkston Junior High students apply ideas to long-term project

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

The capstone project for Chad Mester's engineering class at Clarkston Junior High School is determined by consensus.

This year's decision: let's build a tank. Students usually build scale models. This time, however, they decided to make it lifesize. "I said, let's make it big," said ninth-grader Brandon Landry.

"We thought we could make it so Brandon could fit in it, and it evolved from there,"

Mester said. The completed vehicle, armed with a plastic cannon a n d painted in blue-andgray urban camouflage, is big enough to seat any of the students.

Controls allow the operator to rotate the turret on marble ball-bearings through 360 degrees. Bicycle pedals attached to a drive chain provide propulsion. A louvre system, like that found on the Army's Multiply Launch Rocket System vehicle, protects the front view.

Two classes divided into five teams, turret, body, tracks, road wheels and axles, and propulsion. Students worked after school, weekends, and during winter break.

"The groups had to communicate, so everything would stay proportional and line up," said Mester, career, technology, and life management teacher.

Assembling the track meant figuring connections, sprocket design, and assembly, said Jake Vernier, ninth grader.

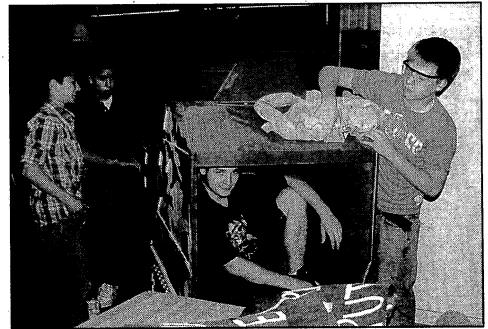

"The original design was round sprockets, but that didn't work," Vernier said.

the

The team made an 11-inch segment, then copied it over and over until they had enough for two complete tracks.

"Some needed adjustment," he said. "We set up an assembly line."

The body team had to adjust their design to fit available materials.

From left, Brandon Landry, Anthony Williams and Wes Vaughn clean off the vehicle, as Jake Vernier sits inside.

"It looked good on paper, but it was too big for the pieces of plywood that we had," Landry said. "We had to simplify, condense measurements."

The students used hand saws, nail gun, square rulers, and other tools in its construction.

"I used the handsaw quite a bit," said Wes Vaughn, who worked on the drive train, attached to a set of bicycle pedals.

"We put in about 20 hours on it outside school."

Work continues on the vehicle. Gearing on the bicycle chain could improve mobility. Now, the driver needs muscles like Lance Armstrong to move it, Mester said.

Last year, students constructed a miniature helicopter, with sliding doors, functional rotor, painted in black and yellow with stylized flames shooting up the side.

During the year, students apply principles by making their own hover craft, magnetic levitation, earthquake detection device, and miniature roller coasters.

"Students learn more from experience," Mester said. "It's not about the grades, it's about the experience."

The students learn concepts in math and technology, then put them to use.

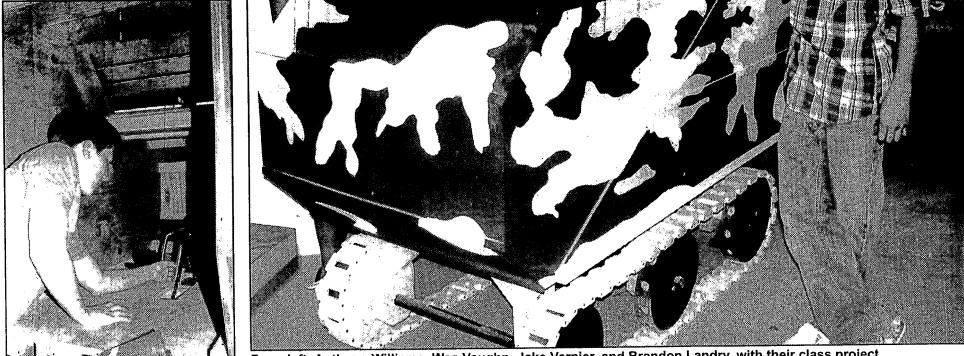

"We do something different each year," Mester said. "Next year? Who knows."

The vehicle is made of wood and plastic, light enough to carry.

Clarkston Community Band reaches for the stars May 19

The Clarkston Community Band, Greater Windsor Concert Band, Warren Astronomical Society, and Independence Township Parks and Recreation present "Stars Over Clarkston II" at 7 p.m. May 19 in Clintonwood Park, 6000 Clarkston Road.

The free concert will feature music from the movies, including "Superman", "Lost in Space" and "Star Trek"; and big band sound music with "Star Dust" and "Fly Me to the Moon."

The CCB tuba and low brass sections will also attempt to repeat the deepest musical note ever detected – B flat, 57 octaves below middle C – emitted by a black hole, recently recorded by the Chandra X-ray Observatory.

After the concert, the society will offer a short astronomy presentation and question-and-answer period including how to use a telescope.

Society members will bring their telescopes and Southern Michigan's largest portable 22inch Dobsonian telescope for people to look through.

Participants should pack a picnic dinner, blankets and lawn chairs, and telescope, if available.

Now in its 11th season, the Clarkston Community Band's 52 volunteer musicians perform free concerts for the Clarkston area. They present various educational and family-entertaining, themed concerts.

The band was selected to perform internationally in 2007 for the "Spectacle of Winds" with the Greater Windsor Concert Band.

Programs are supported by Independence Township Parks and Recreation and Clarkston Community Schools.

Maniscalchis The moved to Clarkston two years ago from Troy for the schools and property size available for them. The city won out over Rochester in the family's decision.

'In Rochester you have that feeling like you're in a fishbowl, but here you have more room. The schools are great either way, we like it here," Maniscalchi said.

She really enjoys the small-town feeling the city has and the family's proximity to Deer Lake, so the family spends many hours each summer enjoying the beach.

Maniscalchi incorporated her running passion into school, receiving her bachelor's degree in exercise science from Oakland University. Sue is keeping the option of being a personal trainer when her children are older, but her dream job would be to work as a running coach.

Clarkston Cub Scouts earn awards in Pinewood Derby

Clarkston Cub Scouts Max Wyckoff, Wolf Pack 126, and Mark Stout, Bear Pack 133, brought home first-place trophies at the District Pinewood Derby April 21.

Racers are crafted by each scout out of a piece of balsa wood no longer than seven inches. The challenge is to find the perfect balance of aerodynamics and weight, or just have the coolest looking car on the track.

Justin Bell, a first grader in Clarkston, designed his car with his dad. The duo designed their car after a Dodge Challenger. Though his favorite part about the competition was making the car, he said he also had fun racing his Green Challenger at Mott.

Five boys took home first-place trophies for their divisions, and the fastest car was awarded Grand Racing Champion.

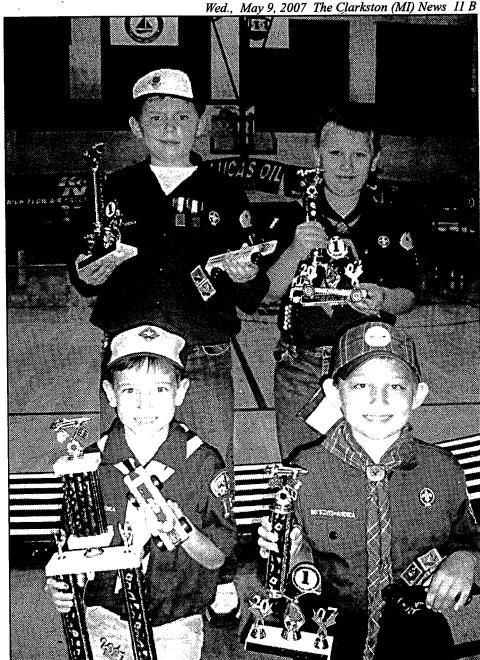

Webelo Adam Schroeder of Waterford was the fastest among scouts grades 4-5.

Gavin Reid, Pack 195 of Rochester Hills, won Grand Racing Champion. Reid is a second-grader at University Hills Elementary.

Pack 3 Tiger Cub Mathew Stevens of Holly took first for his division.

Building the cars gives boys and parents a chance to work together and have fun.
