George 'Andy' Anderson was a 'straight up guy'

BY DON RUSH Assistant Publisher

When George (Andy) Anderson hit the Independence Township scene in October, 1973, the *Clarkston Ne*ws described him as a "ball of fire," resembling "an easygoing Scandinavian."

Mr. Anderson died after his lengthy battle with Parkinson's disease last Wednesday, Nov. 7, 2007, at the Genesys Hospice in Goodrich. He was 64-years-old.

Anderson was 30-years-old when the Independence Township Board of Trustees hired him as director for the Department of Public Works. At the time of his appointment, he was the youngest DPW director in the state.

"I remember him telling me that he applied but didn't think he'd get the job because he was so young," said Craig "Yogi" Richardson, who worked with Mr. Anderson starting in 1984.

"He came up through the ranks and we all knew if something was wrong and we had to go out, Andy would have the answer. When Andy told you how to do something you could count on it being right," Richardson said.

Mr. Anderson replaced Lynn Thorpe, who held the DPW chief's job when it was first created in April, 1973. The position was created as sewers had just came to Independence Township. When Mr. Anderson came to town to replace Thorpe he brought with him nine years experience as West Bloomfield Township's assistant manager of water, sewer and inspection department. By the time his first month in Independence had been completed, Mr. Anderson had laid the foundation for the township's infrastructural growth that would last well into the 21st century.

"The township brought him in after the sewer systems were first installed. Andy oversaw all the extensions and growth -- and did a really good job, a job we have been able to build upon since. He really developed and oversaw the system we have now," said former township trustee and treasurer Fred Ritter.

"Andy was a good guy and socially he was a blast. He and I were able to work togéther for about 10 years," Ritter said.

A Clarkston News article on Nov. 15, 1973, said this of Mr. Anderson:

"In that short time he's set up permit charges and installation fees for water meters, which has taken the township out of the charitable classification for developers, prior to this time, township offices confirm the township purchased meters, sold them to the developer, but installed them free of charge.

"... He also has plans to change the overhead fee on all plan reviews ... there is also a new design standard being incorporated and on top of all that, Anderson has the temerity to charge the Oakland County DPW more than $2,000 for damage incurred"

"Andy wasn't afraid of anybody," White said. "He was a straight up guy. He told it like it was. If you liked it, that was fine, if not, well that was fine, too. We've known each other for a long time. We went to conventions together and our families vacationed together. He was a great friend and he really knew his business."

White reports he had visited with Mr. Anderson a week prior to his death. "It was hard to understand him, but I don't think he ever lost his sense of humor. Before knowing he had Parkinsons, we used to kid him about shaking. We never let up on him after we found out. He would rather us do that than to act like we didn't notice."

When Mr. Anderson started with Independence, it was a much more rural community --70 percent of the township was undeveloped. In that same Nov. 15, 1973 Clarkston News article it was reported, "Anderson's philoso-Please see Anderson on page 10A

Judge Kelley Kostin speaks about Steve Koss' accomplishments.

Second chance at life

Part II of a series on the 52-2 District left. Thirty-eight bucks. Court's Sobriety Court program, The Clarkston News examines how two local men took the opportunity to turn their lives around.

By Laura Colvin

After years earning a the solid living of a successful businessman, Steve Koss found himself with $38 one payday.

It was a 42-hour week, but Koss had recently entered Sobriety Court, and once the check from his new job stocking shelves at Kroger was divided between child support payments and court costs, that was all he had

Mike Teaney was drowning in a flood of devastation as he drove home the day after his second drunk driving arrest.

He'd blown the adoption two Guatemalan children he and his wife Tracey had fallen in love with; he just knew he'd blown it. On top of that, he'd let Tracey down in the worst possible way. Teaney didn't notice when neighbor recognized his car and drove up along side him.

"I was praying," he said. "I was saying, "God, please, I just need some direction."

In hindsight, Teaney knows the neighbor was the answer to his prayer, a sign that everything would be OK.

The neighbor, Brian, followed him up the long driveway, got out of his car and asked what was wrong.

Teaney let the events of the last 24 hours spill out, and it was then things started to change.

"Brian's been a very strong influence in my

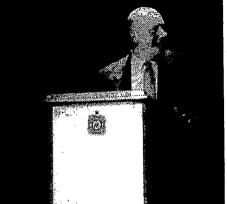

Koss didn't know what to expect from Sobriety Court, but anything was better than going to jail.

The first year was tough, he said. The first six months were really bad and the first 90 days were a nightmare.

Koss rode his bike about 15 miles a day, getting back and forth to Kroger and fulfilling Sobriety Court obligations such as daily testing and AA meetings.

Issues with transportation, Koss said, are one of the program's most difficult aspects.

"If you're out of money and out of work you're basically screwed," he said. "When they take your license away you're forced to incon-Please see Faith on page 5A life ever since," he said. "We talked, and he took me to my first AA meeting."

"I had a lot of anxiety going to my fist meeting," he said. "I was afraid of being judged, but nobody judged me. People came up and shook my hand, gave me their phone number."

venience your family and friends, and that's the worst part. You broke the law, you know what the rules are, so you've got no one to blame but yourself."

"What was I going to do, give up?" he said. " I don't think so. It's not in my vocabulary."

So he didn't give up. He kept going, and last week Koss was one of five graduates honored at the 52-2 District Court Sobriety Court graduation ceremony.

"When Steve was in the courtroom, I had to remember I was the judge," said Judge Kelley Kostin of the 52-2 District Court. "There were rules and regulations he felt needed to be addressed."

With persistence comes change, Kostin told those gathered for the ceremony.

"Because of Steve we actually sat down and reviewed some of our original sobriety court rules and decided they needed to be changed," she said.

Kostin went on to tell the audience about Koss' participation in the program, and his devotion to helping others.

"Even while he was working the program he was mentoring others," she said. "This guy was always here, always ready to help. He's done a wonderful job and I think we have gotten back a wonderful person in our community that's going to help save some lives."

For Koss, it's all just part of the way he lives today, guided by a few simple principles he learned along the way.

"Trust God, clean house and help others," he said.

Daily AA meetings, he said, have been the most important part of his recovery process. Sobriety Court mandates 90 meetings in 90 days.

"Sooner or later something's going to rub off," he said. "People change. You can watch people change. It's like a giant therapy session."

Koss said he's observed newcomers arrive at a meeting, sit in the back and just listen without participating.

Eventually, he said, they may contribute something to the meeting, and finally begin to engage in the process of change.

"They see what you've got and they want it," he said. "AA calls it a higher power. I call my guy Jesus Christ." It was from a friend at AA, in fact, that Koss learned to ask himself a question that keeps him on his chosen path. "Are you good to go? If you found out you were going to die today, would you be ready?" he said.

In other words, he explained, he asks himself if he's done the things he needs to do.

And he talks a lot about honesty.

"Honesty, that's a big one," he said. "You've got to be honest with yourself. Why are you here?" Are you really honest with yourself, and if you're not, do you have the courage to make changes?"

Those changes, he said, not only helped him stop drinking, but helped him make other important life changes, as well. Today, Koss said he puts more focus on social responsibility and has respect for others where before there was none. He sponsors six individuals coming up behind him in AA, and goes to meetings every day.

"There's some young kids and some old guys," he said. "You see people from all walks of life, but everybody gets new direction."

And for him, that direction means avoiding the Old Crow he was once so fond of.

"I crossed the line," he said> "Today I can't take the chance I might kill myself or someone else."

Court offers a better way

stuffed in his pocket. Before long, he found himself in the 52-2

District Court with a choice: Oakland County Jail or Sobriety Court.

Teaney spent one night in jail after his arrest, and he wasn't interested in going back.

"People in there know what side of the street you come from," he said. "They can tell right away. They take your pillow, your blanket. It's not fun."

He chose Sobriety Court.

But with a revoked driver's license and no other way to get to the daily alcohol and drug testing or the 90 AA meetings required of participants in the course of 90 days, Teaney had no choice but to climb on his bike and start pedaling.

Everyday, he rode his bike along M-15 from Perry Lake Road to Dixie Highway and back.

"Some days the wind's in your face and it's not a fun ride," he said. "Yeah, it's difficult to get around without a license, but at least you have the opportunity to get around. At least you're not in jail."

During the time he was in Sobriety Court and trying to keep the adoption process going, Teaney was also involved in a real estate deal that went bad and left him with no choice but to file bankruptcy.

It was a difficult time, he said, but not the end of the world.

"Is it painful? Yeah, but I'll get over it," he said. "Before, maybe not. The fact that I had been duped would have been overwhelming. I had this need to be perfect."

Teaney credits much of his success to the dedication of the Sobriety Court team.

"Most people look at judges as being aloof, or far off," he said. "But you could tell Judge (Dana) Fortinberry really cares about this program. At times I could see she was upset sometimes mad, sometimes sad. She can be tough, but she's very fair and that's all you can ask for."

Fortinberry, he said, stood by and wrote letters to help keep the adoption process going. She involves families, he said, and encourages counseling for everyone involved. She told Tracey, 'he needs your support.'

Wed., November 14, 2007 The Clarkston (MI) News 5 A

"I watched her help people find jobs, help people when they had problems with their husband or their wife," Teaney said. "Everyone in Sobriety Court stood behind you and made you feel good about yourself and what you were doing."

It's not a badge of honor, he tells them, to be cited for minor in possession, or to get caught with drugs and alcohol.

"The program opens up a side of you you've never seen before," he said. "You can't help but change your heart and make yourself available to others."

Teaney has also offered work with people just coming into Sobriety Court.

"I wouldn't be where I am today if it wasn't for Judge Fortinberry and (probation officer) Mark Mathur," he said. "I'd probably be divorced, I wouldn't have my kids or my trust in the system. And I definitely wouldn't be doing volunteer work or community service."

"I want to give back; I want to help. I wasn't like that before my second arrest."

As for his own life, Teaney knows staying sober is the best choice for him and his family. He has just as much or more fun, he said, by not drinking.

"I'm safer driving home, I don't get a hangover and I don't embarrass myself," he said.

A little perspective goes a long way.

"I'm looking at things with a new set of glasses," he said. "You find yourself looking at people and thinking 'I hope I never acted like that guy's acting. Without a doubt, I had my moments."

Out loud

A column by Laura Colvin

Let the four walls fall

It wasn't hard to relate to the stories I heard out of Sobriety Court over the past couple of weeks. I learned about drinking at an early age.

Growing up in a home where alcohol played a role just as important as Mr. Nobody (who ate all the cookies?) wasn't easy. When my dad drank.

He drank with his friends after work, but he drank on holidays and at family functions, too.

My sisters and I dreaded it.

He'd start acting goofy and, well, drunk, and we'd have to get him out of there.

I can still hear my mom saying, "Give me the keys, Mick. Mick, give me the keys."

Sometimes he did, sometimes he didn't. When he didn't, it was a scary ride home-he knew my mom was mad, and he knew she was anxious with him behind the wheel, so sometimes he'd deliberately swerve all over the road.

My dad doesn't drink much any more, but from time to time my sisters and I still talk about those days. Sometimes we laugh, but mostly we just shake our heads and wonder what was going on back then. Were there issues our young minds didn't grasp?

My dad is a good man, a caring man. My mom has a heart of gold.

But they forgot all that, sometimes, when the booze tainted things and they'd start fighting. Again.

Later, when I did some reading about the way an alcoholic environment affects children into adulthood, I came across an "ah-ha" passage.

Secrets, it said, are the hallmark of a dysfunctional home.

Yep, that was us.

"What happens inside these four walls stays in these four walls."

My sisters and I heard it over and over, from both parents, even though nothing terrible ever happened.

It wasn't all roses, that's for sure, but certainly none of us were beaten or starved.

But we heard it again and again. "What happens inside these four Continued on page 26A

Senior center based on lies

As a hard working taxpayer, I feel quite vindicated in my belief that I pay quite enough in taxes already, thank you, and obviously the money appeal was a big farce. I truly hope the township budgets its money wisely in the future because they will have a hard sell convincing anyone they need a tax increase. I know I won't believe anything anyone on the board says for some time to come.

They should all be ashamed of the theatrics and out right lies they told simply to get what their greedy hearts wanted. I'm delighted the seniors have a new safe building but they should thank all the people in Clarkston for it, not just the Township Board.

They would have had it sooner if more level headed people were involved.

Keyholing now in planners' court

Dear Editor.

giving more money.

Recently, the Independence Township Board of Trustees passed revisions to the Township's Zoning Ordinance that will effectively control keyholing on the township's lakes.

Residents of many of the township's lakes helped support this effort, and we are grateful to them.

At the meeting of the Deer Lake Property Owners Association Board of Directors on Nov. 2, 2007, we unanimously voted to thank the members of the township board for finally passing, after a 20-year struggle, the amendment to the township zoning ordinance that will regulate keyholing on Independence Township's lakes.

Congratulations to all of the board for this significant action, which will help preserve the lakes and maintain water safety, while not compromising the existing rights of the township's riparian owners.

We are also indebted to Stuart Cooney, Steve Joppich, and Dick Carlisle who helped to make it happen.

The key to implementation of the adopted anti-keyholing provisions now lies in the hands of the township's Planning Commission.

Unfortunately, the planning commission twice voted to turn down the proposed antikeyholing amendment.

We are hopeful that, in the future, they will act with the best interests of the township in mind, as expressed by the township board's actions.

That thought drove me to the internet to find quotes from our third president. Here are some that I found.

I hold it that a little rebellion, now and then. is a good thing, and as necessary in the political world as storms in the physical. It is a medicine necessarv for the sound health of government.

Every citizen should be a soldier. This was the case with the Greeks and Romans, and must be that of every free state.

• Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

The democracy will cease to exist when you take away from those who are willing to work and give to those who would not.

What signify a few lives lost in a century or two? The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants. It is its natural manure.

• A democracy is nothing more than mob rule, where fifty-one percent of the people may take away the rights of the other forty-nine.

· All, too, will bear in mind this sacred principle, that though the will of the majority is in all cases to prevail, that will to be rightful must be reasonable; that the minority possess their equal rights, which equal law must protect, and to violate would be oppression.

· I am a great believer in luck, and I find the harder I work, the more I have of it.

· Were we to be directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want bread.

• Whenever the people are well informed, they can be trusted with their own government; that whenever things get so far wrong as to attract their notice, they may be relied on to set them to rights.

· Laws that forbid the carrying of arms ... disarm only those who are neither inclined nor determined to commit crimes ... Such laws make things worse for the assaulted and better for the assailants; they serve rather to encourage than to prevent homicides, for an unarmed man, may be attacked with greater confidence than an armed man. A 10 Wed., November 14, 2007 The Clarkston (MI) News Longtime DPW director succumbs to complications from Parkinson's

In that same Nov. 15, 1973 Clarkston News article it was reported, "Anderson's philosophy of utility management appears to agree with sentiments expressed by elected and appointed township officials."

In that article, Mr. Anderson said, "Utilities shouldn't be extended to encourage development. Development should come at its own pace. If the developer wants it bad enough, he should have to extend services at his own expense. This is a beautiful rural area. I'd hate to see big condominiums complexes popping up all over. I like single family homes on big lots."

Mr. Anderson retired in 1999 as his Parkinson's progressed. The next DPW director was, and still is Linda Richardson.

"Andy was a unique person. He knew his job and enjoyed it. He was very knowledgable about the technical end of things. And he was very easy going. Every employee who ever worked with him would call him the best of bosses. As long as you did your job, he wouldn't bother you -- but he was very concerned for his employees and we all knew if we had a personal problem we could talk with him about it," she said.

She said Mr. Anderson gave her a shot at taking care of the township's Lakeview Cemetery. "He said, 'You have two weeks to learn it. If you can't, you're done.' When he saw I could do it, then he started mentoring me. He taught me what I needed to know by letting me do the work. He was good at delegating and even though I used to grouse about it then, I would not have learned it and I have to thank him for that."

Yogi Richardson (no relations to Linda), who still works at the DPW, echoed those sentiments.

"He was the fairest boss and he showed me the ropes. He was very patient with me. I came from the trades world and was a little rough around the edges -- Andy taught me the PR part of the business, how to deal with customers when they had a problem. He enjoyed life and always had an anecdote or story from his life that he would tell you that would lead back to what you were now doing wrong."

When not working or spending time with family and friends, he enjoyed golf and reading. Mr. Anderson was born on Dec. 28, 1942 in Pontiac to Karl Anderson and Anna (nee) Huesen. He was a graduate of Roscommon High School and attended Michigan State University majoring in Water & Sewer Management. Stationed in Newfoundland, Mr. Anderson was a diver for the United States Navy.

On March 28, 1963, he married Ruth Arlene Flake in Keego Harbor. The Andersons have two daughters, Jennifer (Thomas) Roberts of Ortonville and Anna, of FL.

Mr. Anderson is survived by his wife and daughters, as well as a granddaughter, Nadia Rain Roberts, brothers Carl (Leona) Anderson of St. Helen, Jim (Shirley) Anderson of VA., and many cherished family members and friends.

He was preceded in death by his parents and his brother Robert. Memorial donations to the National Parkinson's Foundation or to Genesys Hospice in Goodrich, whose staff deserves thanks for their compassionate care.

A celebration of his life is planned for 2 p.m., today, Wednesday, Nov. 14, at Deer Lake Racquet Club. RSVP with Linda Richardson at 248-625-8222.

School reps to go to capital

Chance may determine whether Clarkston sends one school official or two to a federal conference this February.

With costs including $570 registration, $200-300 for hotel, plus airfare, Clarkston can't afford to send more than one school board member to the Federal Relations Network Conference, said Trustee Karen Foyteck at Monday's meeting.

"In our circumstances, every penny counts," said Foyteck, the lone dissenting vote on a consent agenda including the Washington D.C. conference.

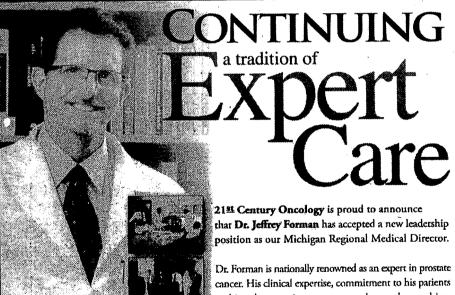

The county school board association provides scholarships to local districts, but chooses recipients randomly, she said.

The conference will provide a valuable opportunity to meet with legislators and shape federal education policy, said board President Stephen Hyer.

"It's important that we represent what is going on here in Clarkston," Hyer said. "If I didn't think it had an impact, I certainly wouldn't be going.

Attending the conference with Trustee Cheryl McGinnis would build experience and relationships with Washington, he said. – Phil Custodio

Whooping cough caught at South Sashabaw school

BY TREVOR KEISER

Clarkston News Staff Writer Concern continues about contagions in local classrooms, this time whooping cough at North Sashabaw Elementary.

According to a letter sent to parents last week, a staff member and student were diagnosed with pertussis, whooping cough.

The staff member and student are family members, said Anita Banach, director of communications, Clarkston Community Schools.

"The biggest thing you want to remember here is most kids are immunized against this, so it's actually more of an adult issue than a child issue," Banach said.

According to Oakland County Health Department, pertussis is an airborne illness, spread when an infected person sneezes, coughs, or speaks and another person breathes in droplets from the infected persons nose, throat, or mouth. Symptoms begin 7-10 days after exposure.

"When it's an airborne illness and they were diagnosed over the weekend, it doesn't last in the building without people being there," said Banach. "We sent a letter home, just so people know what symptoms to look for.'

Symptoms include cough lasting 1-2 months, characterized by a high-pitched "whoops," clear mucous produced by the cough, and vomiting after coughing, according to the county health department.

The district uses cleaning products approved by the health department to kill all bacteria and germs, she said.

"This is a case where it's something a little unusual and we just like to make parents aware, just so that if their children or someone in their family have any symptoms, they can say 'hey, I think I read something about that," she said.

"Our normal cleaning procedures are in place. Whenever we know there is an illness in the building or a certain classroom, the custodian staff is notified and they do a thorough cleaning of surfaces, but that's part of our normal procedures as well."

Get ready for flu season

BY TREVOR KEISER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

With flu season arriving, Dr. James O'Neil of Clarkston Medical Group is recommending all people get a flu shot.

"It prevents you from getting the flu, which can be very incapacitating," he said. "You should get one every year, especially people over 60 that have asthma, heart disease, or any chronic illness."

O'Neil said the science of matching different strains of flu for vaccines has gotten a lot better, which is prepared a year in advance

"I think the largest problem with flu is, not just the flu itself, but it weakens you and then you get secondary infections like pneumonia and other illnesses, or you get dehydrated."

The flu shot is available at most doctors' offices, some drug stores, and the county. O'Neil said people can get flu shots as late as

On Saturday Oct. 27, the Oakland County Health Division had its fifth annual mass flu exercise.

This exercise is a test run in case an emergency outbreak happened and large amounts of people had to be vaccinated quickly. There is no pre-set up of equipment; all is done that day just as it would during an emergency.

In a five-hour period the health division vaccinated 12,096 people, beating last years 9.500 people. The shots were held at seven locations including Clarkston, Hazel Park, Lake Orion, Rochester, Southfield, Walled Lake, and Waterford.

'These are what we call dispensing sites," said George Miller, manager/health officer of Oakland County Health Division. "If there were a real emergency and there was medication available or a vaccination available, we would open up and roll out these dispensing sites for the general public." and schools around he area.

Dr. James O'Neil "We've done a lot of collaboration to make sure we can roll these various sites out," he said. "And we have more than seven, but when it comes to vaccinations we're limited to the number of staff members we have here in the health division and that is probably the furthest we can go."

Miller said they are always looking for ways to improve.

We keep evaluating what went well the year before and what we can do better," he said. "As a result of those meetings with staff, they come up with great new ideas for the flow of traffic in the clinics themselves."

Miller said they did a lot more pre-registering this year through the health division's website, which made things quicker and doubled the amount of people pre-registered.

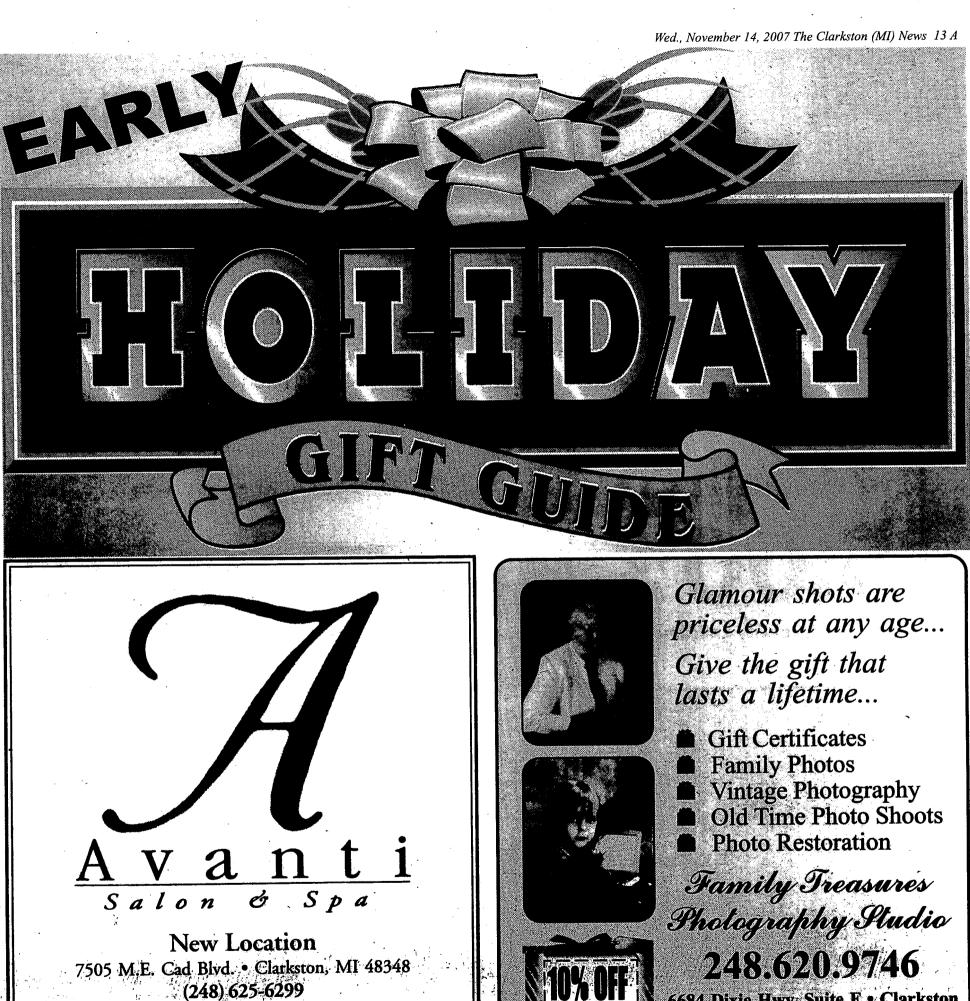

"That allows us when they're coming in to just have to scan their receipt and they move through the line very quickly because they don't have to do any payment," he said.

These excercises help them know what supplies, and how much to do the job efficiently. Miller said they have actually decreased the amount of supplies they need, which has made set up easier.

Summit Place Mall was very instrumental in helping them this vear, as well as the Southfield Pavilion

"This means so much to see how many people supported St. Jude's," said Rachel Breckman, event marketing representative for St. Jude Children's Hospital. "It's just great."

This is the first year the Independence Township location took part in the Halloween promotion, which ran Oct. 1-31.

"It was fun," said Clara Rayes, manager of Rio Wraps, 6325 Sashabaw Road. "Everybody helped out."

"Clara called Oct. 1 to ask for more pumpkins," Breckman said. "They had sold out already amazing."

St. Jude's has organized Halloween fund raisers since 1992. raising about $33 million, Breckman said.

"Fund raising is so important -St. Jude's daily operating cost is $1.2 million," she said.

The hospital treats everyone regardless of insurance or ability to pay, she said.

"Every single dollar, 100 percent, goes to the hospital," she said. "We're so thankful."

Rio Wraps is planning another fundraiser, the Burrito Bowl, set for Feb. 1. The eating contest benefits the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, said Annie Yochim of Rio Wraps.

"Michigan needs help," Yochim said. "If we can help, hopefully others will catch on and help too becoming a chain reaction.'

Preliminary competitions, in which contestants eat miniburritos, leading up to the main event, will be soon, she said.

"Last year, the winner ate four one-pound burritos in 10 minutes," she said.

Varsity Volleyball plays hard but falls to Marion

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer The Clarkston Girls Varsity Volleyball

stayed strong as they went onto regionals this Saturday.

In their first game, they won 3-2 against Troy. They continued in regionals against Marian where they lost 0-3.

"I'm going to miss my seniors to death. They added a lot to this year and this season. I think I have a lot of young kids who have that fight and that spirit and have seen what it takes to get here, to get this far. I think they will be able ready next year to step right in.," said Coach Kelly Avenall.

The regional match began with the Lady Wolves playing against Troy.

In the first set, Troy gained the lead and kept it, beating Clarkston 25-15.

But after getting a feel for the competition, Clarkston began the second match with a five-point lead before Troy scored their first point. Clarkston won the set 25-14.

By the third set, both teams had a feel for what the other could do, and the score stayed within a few points of each other. With a point from blocking from their side of the net and the ball going out of bounds, Troy received the points they needed and won the set 25-22.

The fourth set was a repeat of the previous – both teams stayed within a few of each other. Jilian Locricchio got two points for Clarkston when Troy was unable to return two of her hits. Then, Emily Parkin set the ball for Johanna Kupe. Kupe sent it over the net and Troy missed it. After the miss, the gap continued to widen until Clarkston had an eight-point lead and won 25-17.

With both teams tied, they played a fifth set, which they won 15-11. Kupe had 11 kills and 5 blocks. Lauren Gardner had 6 kills.

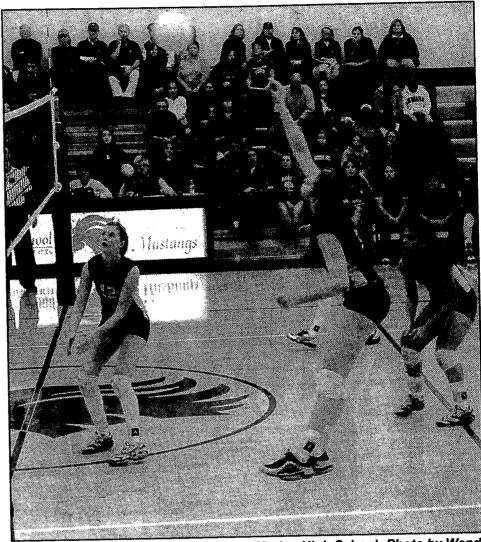

The Lady Wolves advanced to their second game, against Marian. Marian won their previous game against Fenton, 3-0.

In the first set, Clarkston got an early lead, but Marian quickly caught up and leapt ahead in points. Marian won the set 25-15.

The second set was a repeat for Clarkston. They were ahead in points until Marian caught up and stayed ahead, beating Clarkston 25-14.

With Marian leading 2-0 and one more set to decide the game, Avenall told the team, "I want you to walk away feeling proud of what you did today. Don't feel like you left anything behind."

The third match began and Kupe helped her team get ahead on points. The gap between points slowly closed until both teams were tied at the 19th. After a long fight from

Athlete of the Week Clarkston grad excels at Minnesota hockey

BY WENDIREARDON

Clarkson News Sports Writer Clarkston graduate Michael Brach was named player of the month for November by his hockey team, Minnesota's Rochester Ice

Hawks Brach took the honor last Wednesday for home league goalie player of the month for his junior hockey league. He has saved 168 out of 172 shots on goal helping his team with a record of 16-2. Also, he has earned a perfect 740 mark.

"Awesome," said Brach about the honor, "feels good to be recognized for my accomplishments and hard work."

Brach graduated from Clarkston High school in 2005. While attending, he played Varsity Hockey for two years and earned allstate honors in his senior year.

His years in high school helped him a lot. In his junior year, the team went to quarterfinals and went to the state semi-finals in his senior year. The exposure for him was great and he described the experience in the finals as "unbelievable."

After high school, he tried out for a team in Illinois. Even after he played well, the coach did not pick him to be on the team. His hockeyfate did not end there, a scout saw him at the try-outs and invited him back to Rochester, Minnesota.

"I love it," said Brach about being with the Ice Hawks. This is Brach's second year and last year with the team. Next year, he will no longer be able to play on the junior league because the age is up to 21 to be on the league. He is looking at his options.

"Hopefully college hockey," said Brach. I want to play Division 1 hockey in college."

While he does not know what college he will be attending or what opportunities lay in his future, he does know colleges are looking at him and talking to his coaches.

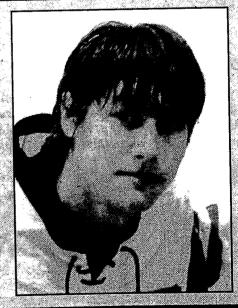

He has thought about his possibilities. He would like to continue playing hockey. His body is beat up from the hockey, so he will take classes in case playing does not work out.

In the past, he has instructed goalie camps and will do it again this summer. When he is older, he wants to coach his own team.

"Hockey is in my blood," said Brach. His dad played hockey when he was younger and Brach started playing when he was five and it has been part of his life ever since. He started out on the ice as a regular player. He began playing goalie when he went in to the net to stop pucks, and stayed in the posi-. tion ever since.

Special to the Clarkston News

The Clarkston Wolves Junior Varsity Boys Cross Country placed second in the Lakeside Invitational on Oct. 30 in a very strong team performance to end the season.

The sunny, breezy, dry, warm autumn day made for an extraordinary season setting for this freshman and sophomore invitational.

The top finisher for the Wolves was Chris Bonzheim with 10th place overall and a time of 17:43.0. He was closely followed by Michael Inch with 11th place at 17:45.1 and Eric Nordquist with 13th place at 17:46.7.

Austin Yarger placed 35th, Josh Herrera 36th, Aaron Butora 55th, Ryan Brown 57th, Eric Shaw 71st, Devin Reuter 114th and Jeremy Kelly 156th to give the Wolves a sum total on places that moved them well up the rankings against competing teams.

Novi took the top team position with 58 points. Clarkston placed a strong second with 105 points and narrowly edged out third place Pinckney with 106 points and fourth placed Lake Orion with 108 points.

A total of 16 schools competed including Farmington, Milford, Plymouth Salem, Howell, White Lake Northern, West Bloomfield, Catholic Central, Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Livonia Franklin, and Birmingham Groves. Coach Mike Taylor was very pleased with the results and the achievements of several personal best times by individuals on the team.

Clarkston Raiders team going to championships

BY WENDI REARDON Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Raiders finished their flag football season Saturday with an 8-0 record.

Fifth graders from Andersonville and Bailey Lake elementary school made up the Raiders, part of the NFL Flag Football program started in Clarkston this year. Instead of playing 11-on-11 as in tackle football, they played 5-on-5 in one hour games.

Coach Kevin Bellant described the games

as "action-packed."

"Quite the athletes on the teams. All these kids have dreams to be on the varsity level," said Bellant.

Bellant coached a few years ago. His son's elementary school needed coaches, so he decided to give it a shot and make the time.

"It has been a phenomenal experience, watching these kids grow every week," he said.

Names of the teams are based on NFL teams, with the same jerseys

The Raiders will play in the Michigan Youth Flag Football Championship this weekend at Walled Lake High School. Teams grades 2-12 from all over the Midwest will play at the championship.

"We're so excited to go over there," said Bellant.

"The Raiders will get the experience of playing football playing in a big stadium with their family and fans watching them."

Inaugural flag football league successul

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Sports Reporter NFL Flag Football finished their first season in Clarkston on a successful note. The program has been running for eight years. In '2001, it began as a football league for adults.

From there it has grown to camps and clinics for kids. Then, it grew to include flag football.

The program has thrived in heavy football communities. After a run last year in Lake Orion, the program was brought to Clarkston in September, said Executive Director Brian Ledin.

"We came to Clarkston because of its great football community," Ledin said. The program has been a success with 250 participants, the most the program has seen to date, he said. Participants of the program are in elementary and middle school. Each school has a team for each grade.

"Great program for them to start. It gives the kids a chance to play football and get their feet wet," said Ledin.

The program opened doors for kids who never thought about playing or were playing a different sport.

They also got to play with classmates and to have school pride, he said.

A supplement to tackle ball, flag football players learn fundamentals of the game, in a safer environment.

The program ran for eight weeks, one game a week. Some teams are set to play in the Michigan Youth Flag Football Championship this weekend at Walled Lake High School.

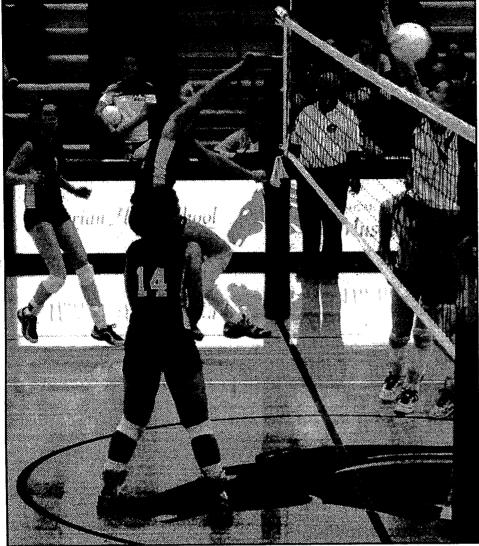

Saturday events ended with a big pizza party, trophies for the kids and coaches, and one last game.

The NFL Flag Football Program is working on a spring league, from April to June. The league would allow tackle players a chance for off-season conditioning, as well as to learn and have fun playing football.

each side, Marian got the point and remained ahead of Clarkston. Marian won the set 25-21 and won the game 3-0.

"We haven't really seen competition like that. They kind of got us out of our game plan. Our game is being able to get out serves. We kind of got away from us today. We struggled on that," said Avenall. "Oh my goodness, good competition," said Marian coach Irick Gardner. "I expected good competition. I didn't expect this team (Clarkston), this team I didn't know. In the back of my mind I knew who they beat. They won the OAA and they beat Oxford. I knew we were in for it, I just was hoping it wasn't going to be as tough."

"I was very impressed," said Gardner.

Soccer team makes impact

The Clarkston Select Soccer Club's Impact 97 Blue team won the Michigan Youth Soccer League's White division.

In the last game, the Blue team played against Livonia for the division championship. Previously in the season, the team had lost a game to Livonia. In this game, the boys prevailed with an 4-1 win over Livonia and took first place in the White division.

Teams in the division represented clubs from Troy, Birmingham, Livonia and Fraser. They ended their season with a record of 10-1-1

"Defensively solid," said Coach Rean

Turner about the fall season. "They worked really hard."

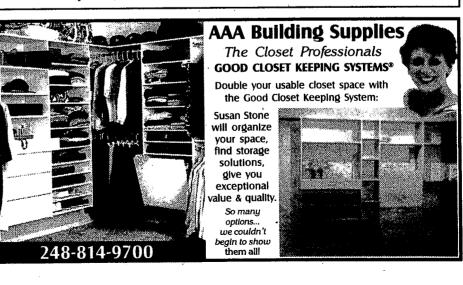

The success of the season was contributed to the had grown defensively stronger. Only seven goals got past the team for the entire season. The least amount for any team in the division.

This is their second year winning their division. "During the past weekend, the boys began their indoor season at Oakland Yard.

"There are tough teams at Oakland Yard, the boys are really going to be challenged," said Turner.

BY LAURA COLVIN

Clarkston News Staff Writer

As the cost of health care continues to rise, many small business owners are struggling to provide employees with a benefit package that won't break the bank.

But researching options often leads to a heap of paperwork and an flood of confusion.

Tim Sullivan can help.

As the owner of CTS Health, Sullivan sorts details, crunches numbers, and makes an experienced recommendation to help small businesses and individuals understand the benefits and drawbacks of dozens of potential plans.

"When someone comes to me, my first goal is to compare apples to apples," said Sullivan, who recently moved his business out of his Springfield Township home office and into Ritter's Country Square on Dixie Highway near M-15. "A lot of times, I can not only find them a plan with better benefits, better hospitalizations, better emergency room care and prescriptions, I can also lower premiums."

Licensed by the State of Michigan, as well as with the insurance companies he represents, Sullivan has the knowledge to abridge a complicated decision for his clients. Reducing and condensing the mountain of paperwork to a side-by-side presentation, he said takes the confusion and guesswork out of choosing a plan.

Sullivan also works with every aspect of the account, from getting the quote, processing the applications and staying in touch throughout the year to make sure everything is operating smoothly. From Aetna to Humana to Blue Cross and dozens of others, Sullivan knows the details and the people to contact for answers.

It is his commitment to service, to making certain he is serving the needs of the client, said Sullivan, sets him apart.

"I want people to call me and I'll get the answers," he said. "You want to add new employees, I'll add the new employees for you. You have to make a change in your plan, I'll make that change. I'm going to take care of all of your business."

Although he earns a commission from the insurance companies when he sells a policy—the clients pay no fee—Sullivan knows that he'd be out of business in no time if he sold policies for his own benefit, proud of his customer retention rate.

Check out the Master Plan for safety path updates, upgrades

BY TREVOR KEISER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township Planning Commission is seeking public input on the updated township Master Plan.

The most significant change to the plan is the combination of three documents, Background Studies, Vision 2020 Strategic Plan, and Vision 2020 Master Plan, into one document, reported Richard Carlisle, planning consultant, to the Township Board.

The Transportation Plan has been extensively updated about maintenance and responsibility over the roads in the township, Carlisle said.

Also, maps have been updated to reflect roadway improvements completed since 1999 and new ones still to be completed, he said.

A new type of path called a Rural Pathway was created for the northwestern portion of the township has been added to the Safety Path Master Plan.

Don't Forget...The Schrauger Home Project log on to: www.oakgov.com/house "Due to the rural gravel roads, is not appropriate for concrete safety paths," Carlisle said.

Rural pathways are 10 feet wide, crushed limestone or aggregate. They will be along roads including Allen, Reese, Rattalee Lake, Hadley, Oak Hill and Hubbard Road.

A section on Opportunities for Change has been added, which outlines several ways the township can influence function and character of roads in the township, even though roads are designed, built and maintained by agencies such as the Road Commission for Oakland County and the Michigan Department of Transportation, he

"Land use decisions often go hand-inhand with transportation," Carlisle said. "Therefore, it is important to consider the township's options on improving the transportation network."

The Greenways Plan and map has been updated to include a county initiative entitled Green Infrastructure. Green Infrastructure is a visioning process to identify green corridors, land use practices, and community conservation goals, he said.

The master plan helps provide a general statement of the township's goals and policies and provides a comprehensive view of the community's desires for the future, define the future character of the community, and serve as an aid to both short-term and long range decision-making, Carlisle said.

Courage to be honest part of recovery

Today, more than 20 years after I moved out of my parents' home, I still feel protective of that privacy, theirs, more than my own, and feel incredibly guilty painting this small por-

And that is my point.

Over the last several weeks I spent a good deal of time putting together a two-part series on Sobriety Court, a 52-2 District Court program designed to address repeat drunk driving offenses on roadways around the Clarkston area.

In the process, I talked to two Sobriety Court participants, Steve Koss and Mike Teaney.

During the course of about 18 months, both men dedicated a tremendous amount of time and energy into getting sober, cleaning up their lives and making amends where amends needed making.

It wasn't easy, and it wasn't fun.

That much was obvious.

ated the program last week. And both sat down to talk about all of it, knowing full well I intended to write their stories right onto the pages of The Clarkston News for the whole community to see.

That's courage if I've ever seen it. Steve even let me read very personal letters and a journal written by his family. "Are you sure?" I asked him.

Something from my childhood came shrieking back and shoved all journalistic curiosity out of the way.

"Yes," he said.

"You're sure?" I repeated. "I might use some of it in the story."

I wanted to give him every opportunity to snatch that fat envelope back and say 'you're right. This stuff is just too private.

I wanted him to have the opportunity to keep it all inside his own four walls.

But he insisted it was OK.

I'm not convinced he was thrilled with the idea, but I think he wanted to be as honest and open as possible.

Honesty, you see, is part of the healing process Steve and Mike both talked abouthow it's crucial, in any recovery situation, to summon the courage to look straight into the mirror.

Do you like what you see? If not, do you have the courage and the strength to make the changes, even if it's not easy?

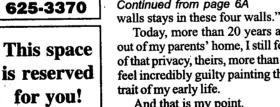

Both of these men know unpleasant things happened in their lives when they were drinking, and both know they hurt themselves and others with their deeds and actions.

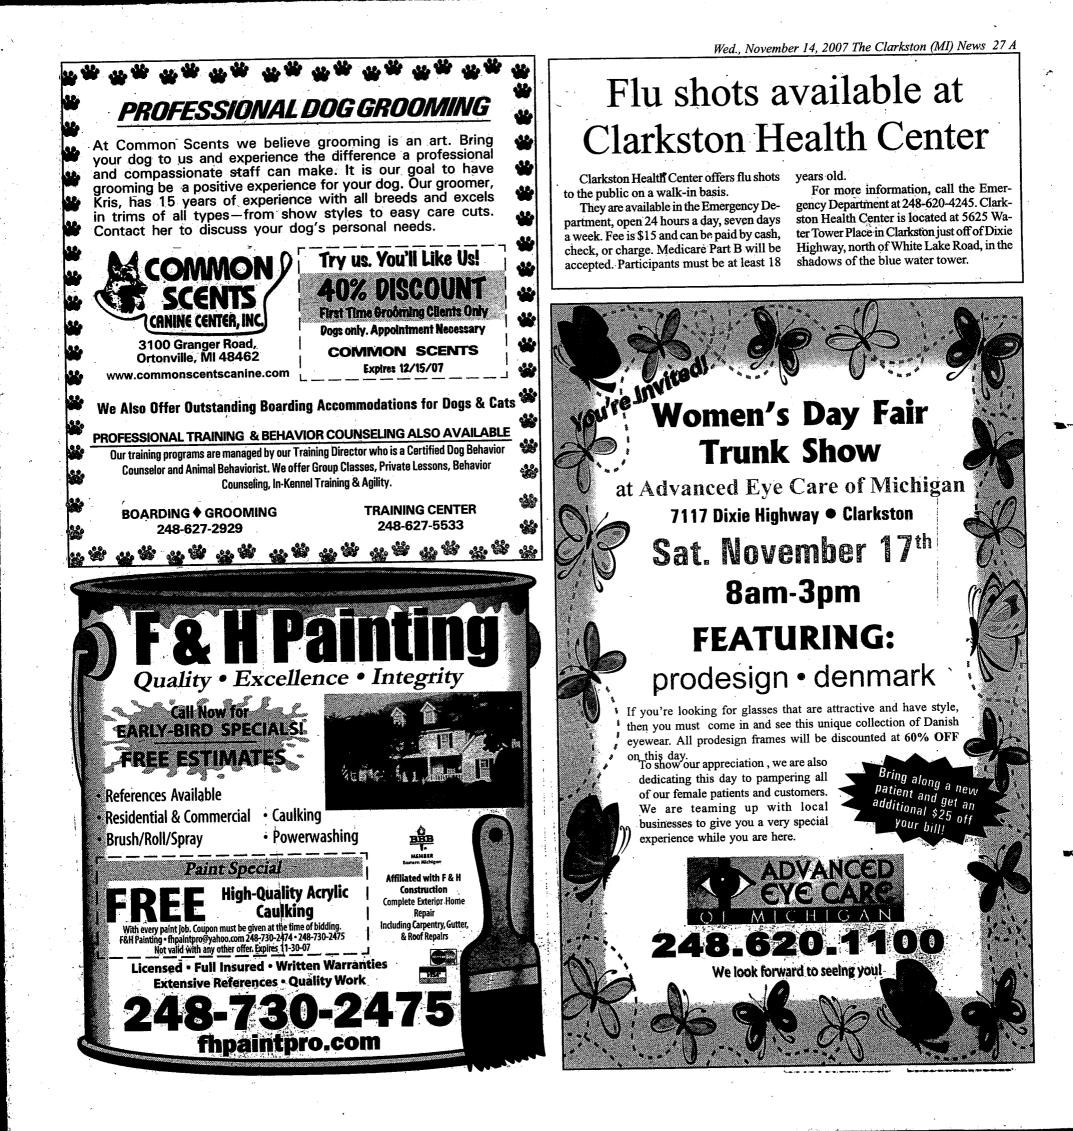

But both also know the past is the past, and wallowing in bitterness, guilt and selfpity won't change any of it.

What they can do, they told me, is live for today. They can lend a hand and a bit of inspiration to others traveling the bumpy road behind them, and they can serve as positive, productive members of the community.

Perhaps most importantly, they can be the kind of fathers and husbands and brothers and friends any of us would feel lucky to have.

But both men made it through and gradu-

Loma Tippin of Independence Township has spent the past 30 years hunting signatures of U.S. presidential couples.

She's not an autograph hound - she embroiders them into quilts, one for first ladies and a second for presidents.

"When I first started, I thought I'd get one or two," Tippin said. "After that, I thought, I might as well get more.'

She now has the signatures of 11 first ladies and six presidents. She is keeping careful watch on next year's presidential election - if Hillary Clinton wins, she and her husband, Bill, would have the distinction of appearing on both quilts.

"What really gets me, is that Bill would be on the first-ladies quilt, surrounded by all these women," Tippin said.

She started the quilts in 1976 to celebrate the nation's bicentennial. The first-ladies quilt has a red-white-and-blue pattern designed by Mountain Mist as the background, embroidered White House on a blue background, and quilted signature blocks.

"Me being tight, I bought the pillow pattern for $5 rather than the quilt pattern for $20," she said. "That worked out for me."

It is labelled "1944-2176," starting when Eleanor Roosevelt lived in the White House and ending with America's quadcentennial.

"People ask me how I plan to fill these spaces so far into the future. I tell them I have that under control," she would write in her requests for signatures. "I will leave my quilt to a family member with instructions on how to finish it. If they become lax, I will haunt them by a gentle tap on the left shoulder from time to time. If that doesn't iar them to action. I will be reincarnated and finish it myself."

She has since softened her expectations of her descendants.

"I've taken the pressure off – I won't haunt them," she said. "It would be nice if they do, but even if they don't continue, it's still a neat quilt."

Her daughter Corinne and grandson Larry said they may want to continue the project. If not, she would like the quilts to be donated. perhaps to Ford's Presidential Library in Ann Arbor.

The presidential quilt is blue with red-andwhite trim, decorated with Independence Hall in the center, 13 stars, and the dates 1976-2176. It bears the signatures of presidents Gerald R. Ford, Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan, George Bush, Bill Clinton, and George W. Bush.

Acquiring the signatures hasn't been easy her collection includes several rejection letters from presidential secretaries and aides, most along the lines of, "Sorry, but we receive too many requests like this. Hope you understand."

Acquiring the signatures required years of dogged determination, assistance from congressmen, including U.S. Rep. Elford Cederberg, help from friends with personal connections, and luck.

Students learn to serve others

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

Dozens of families in need will have turkey dinners this Thanksgiving, thanks to the efforts of fifth-graders at North Sashabaw Elementary.

"We're doing a service learning project, Kids 4 a Cause," said student Hannah Jelinek. "It's our first fundraiser – a Thanksgiving food drive for Lighthouse."

"Lighthouse gives food to people that need help," said classmate Brian Mendiola.

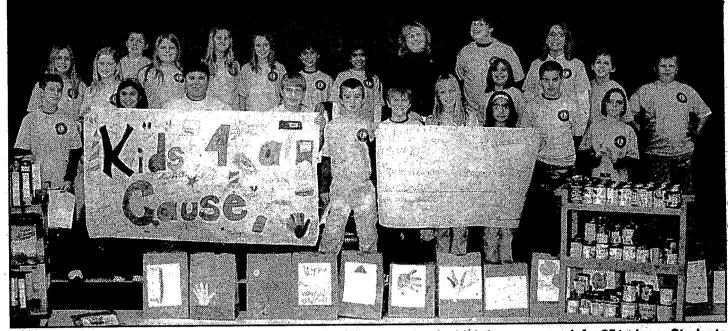

Students in fifth-grade teacher Ann Krause's class decided themselves on Kids 4 a Cause as their name, and Cluck for a Buck for their fundraiser, said student Rachel Darin.

"A bunch of kids in class came up with ideas and we voted on them," Darin said.

"We donated 25 turkeys," said Aaron Patterson, fifth grader. "We made it into a math problem – if every fifth grader bought a turkey (decoration), then we could get 25 turkeys."

For $1 donations, students decorated turkey cutouts and hung them in the hallways of the school.

Nov. 8 to Connie Stapleton of Lighthouse North.

They also collected and donated paper sacks, which they decorated with poems and pictures, said student Samantha Wood.

"Paper bags are like gold (for Lighthouse)," Wood said. "They hold more food than plastic bags." They collected 230 bags in two weeks, she said.

The students earned T-shirts for their efforts.

"We got our shirts today – we're really excited," said Karina Ramirez.

Academic service learning projects combine classroom and community service, Krause said.

"It gives kids a sense of what it is like to help others while learning, and become better people in the long run - I'm very proud of them," she said.

Cluck for a Buck is the first of several activities planned this school year to help Lighthouse, she said.

We have begun to see them as normal.

At my age of 53 I have witnessed some amazing changes in the world. If I were to have read today's newspaper 25 years ago I'm certain I would have thought the end of the world was eminent. Yet, the world goes on and we have to make choices as to how we should respond to the times.

While some people can go on without giving it much thought I possess a sense of responsibility for my world.

Some choose to send up a chorus of complaint and lament while others choose to make a difference in their world.

In the Bible a prophet by the name of Isaiah lived in a time when he also was challenged by the events of the time. Isaiah declared, "Arise and shine for your light has come. Darkness will cover the earth and gross darkness the people but the Lord will arise over you and the glory of the Lord will be seen on you."

This is the guiding scripture and principle I use to lead the church I pastor, Mt. Zion. We believe it is very important to give people alternatives,

> We are getting ready to open a state of the art theatre for both live performances and film showings. We also have television production facilities and a team of young people with the vision of making family friendly films with inspirational messages.

This past week I saw the movie "Bella" in the theatre. A famous Mexican actor who became frustrated with the immoral condition of Hollywood made the movie.

He is a handsome young man who had worked as a model, dancer, actor and even sang in a band. When he made a stand against the moral condition of Hollywood he did not work for four years

He could have chosen to become a bitter and unhappy victim of the times but decided to start his own film company instead. The film has already won many awards and he has sponsoring a Municipal Grant Workshop to help local communities identify and apply for federal grant funds.

Joining Rogers in hosting the workshop are The Clarkston News, Oxford Leader, Lake Orion Review, and The Citizen of Ortonville.

Sometimes the toughest step in any process is the first one, and never is that more true than when communities are looking for resources to meet the needs of their residents," Rogers said.

"Often grants can provide the extra dollars that make a difference in whether a community can meet its needs for growth, keep up with technology, or deal with aging infrastructure."

The workshop will feature grant application experts from Michigan State University and several federal agencies.

U.S. Rep. Mike Rogers, MI-08, is It is open at no charge to county, city, village, township, and law enforcement officials from the 8th Congressional District.

It is set for 1-5 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 20, at Clarkston Junior High School Performing Arts Center, 6595 Waldon Road.

'Michigan's economic climate makes it crucial that communities have access to every resource possible," Rogers said. "This is one way to bring the experts to our community leaders, to learn how to maximize opportunities for federal grants and to help establish relationships with federal agencies responsible for oversight of grant funds."

To RSVP or for more information, call Lisa Major in Rogers' Lansing office at 877-333-6453 email or lisa.major@mail.house. gov by close of business on Friday, Nov. 16.

Knitting group shares some 'Purls of Wisdom'

BY TREVOR KEISER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

For the past five or six years, about two dozen ladies have been meeting at Basketful of Yarn at 5 South Main Street as part of a knitting group.

"We just all clicked. We met here, none of us knew each other beforehand and we just all gelled," said group member Mary Cesarz. Group members Mary Gwinn and Pam Petersen are the proud authors of the book, "Purls of Wisdom," a set of poems about knitting and experiences in the group.

"Over the years, little things have happened to people, little mistakes, funny things, and Mary, being the author she is, picked up on those and wrote these poems. You have to know the people, but they're quite funny," said Petersen.

Gwinn said the poems are based on nursery rhymes and old familiar folk tales, such as "Oh Susanna," and "She'll Be Coming Around the Mountain."

"Another thing we think is unique about this group is that the owner, Carol West, lets us come in every Tuesday and we go next door to Rudy's and we choose our lunches over there from the deli and we bring them over here. Then we all eat together and share funny stories and knitting stories," said Gwinn.

"We've all gotten to be a little family, really," said Petersen.

The ladies are from all over southeast Michigan, including Davison, Grand Blanc, Ortonville, Waterford, Fenton, and Clarkston.

"We look forward to it, and we learn from each other. We share patterns, we share ideas," said Gwinn. "You probably will find all kinds of levels of knitting from beginner to very professional knitters in here."

Gwinn said she wasn't sure if it was the knitting or the personalities of the ladies that "bonded" them together.

"Insanity" holds group together, said Cesarz with a big laugh. "We're all a little wacky."

Cesarz has also been knitting hats for the armed services and sent over a couple dozen for troops.

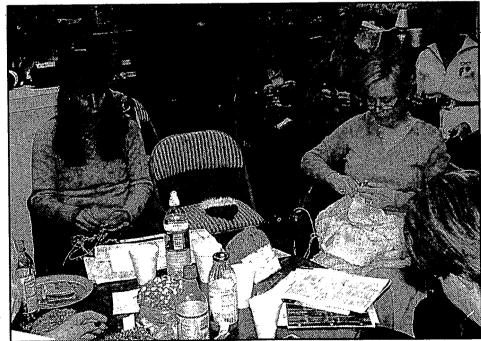

Basketful of Yarn has been at 5 South Main Street, also home of The Clarkston News, for the past 10 ½ years, West said.

She is proud of her friends on the accomplishment of their book, she said.

"It's a great group. We have a lot of fun. We have lots of goodies and laughs. I think they've developed a lot of good friendships, probably going to be lifelong friends," she said.

Maria Cottrell, Mary-Sue Rochow, and Shirley Boe gather with the Basketful of Yarn knitting group every Tuesday.

Leslie Demos and Karen Samsone work on their projects.

When pursuing the Clintons, a lady from Livonia heard about Tippin's project and contacted her. She said her niece worked as a secretary for Hillary, and offered to help, Tippin said.

The quilt isn't perfect – Betty Ford didn't use the permanent-ink pen Tippin supplied, so her signature is fading, and George W. Bush's signature may have been made with an autograph machine.

Comcast centralizing local public access stations

BY TREVOR KEISER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Wayne and Garth might have to look for a different line of work if they lived in Clarkston.

Dave Wagner, Independence Township supervisor, announced at the Nov. 6 township meeting that Comcast Cable was closing their billing office and public-access studio on Maybee Road.

Township meetings and other information and government shows are broadcast on public-access channels 10 and 20. Wagner said they are trying to figure out a way to keep the studio open, so they can still broadcast meetings and shows.

"I think it's a lot of benefit to the township, because I would actually like to broadcast our meetings live and now that we have control of the studio, there is a good possibility that we could do that," he said.

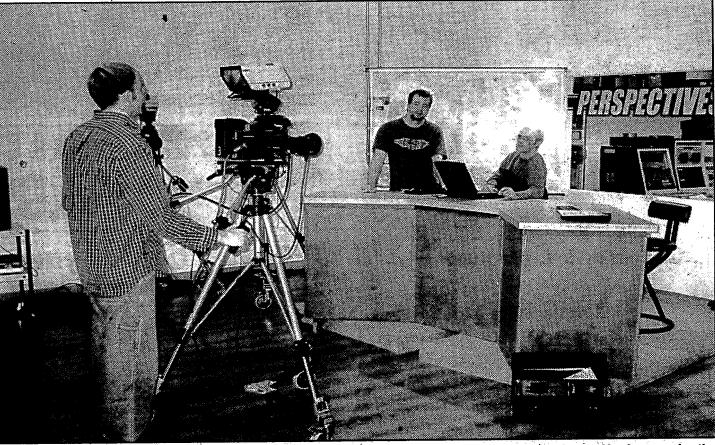

Much of the equipment at the studio is already owned by the township, Wagner said.

According to an e-mail, Comcast might donate the rest of their equipment to the township, which would save money. The studio would be operated like an Independence Township cable network, he said.

"As part of its competitive assessment and revised business objectives, Comcast will no longer operate public access studio facilities in Michigan," said Patrick Paterno, director of communications for Michigan Region. "Comcast remains committed to offering public access programming and will work with communities and public access users to identify alternate production facilities."

A new franchising law was enacted Jan. 1 by the state legislature to update, centralize and streamline operations. The goal was to simplify laws and make it easier for companies to provide cable services across the state, Paterno said.

nels in the area, including Clarkston, Detroit, Southfield, Flint, New Haven, Lansing, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Canton, and Woodhaven, would be run from this central location, instead of several different private studios, he said.

"We are working with each community how we can help them," he said.

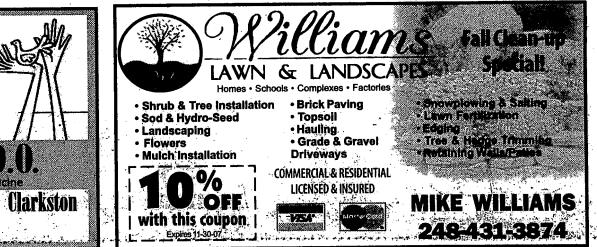

"It's a third-party organization, or whatever is going to make it easier for the transition."

Paterno said they will develop a procedure for studio locations to pickup and drop off recordings and other programming materials for broadcast.

PUBLIC NOTICE Because the People Want to Know INDEPENDENCE TWP. STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTY OF OAKLAND CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE ORDINANCE NO. 2007-06

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at its regular meet-ing on November 6, 2007, the Charter Township of Independence Board of Trustees will consider adoption of an Ordinance to re-enact the Code of Ordinances for the Charter Township of Independence. A full copy of the Ordinance is on file in the Township's Clerk's Office for public review and inspection. AN ORDINANCE RE-ENACTING THE CODE OF ORDINANCES FOR THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE, REVISING, AMENDING, RESTAT-ING, RE-CODIFYING, AND COMPILING CERTAIN EXISTING ORDINANCES OF THE CHARTER TOWN-SHIP OF INDEPENDENCE. PROVIDING FOR A PENALTY FOR VIOLATION THEREOF; PROVIDING FOR THE MANNER OF AMENDING SUCH CODE; AND, PROVIDING WHEN SUCH CODE AND THIS

ORDINANCE SHALL BECOME EFFECTIVE. WHEREAS, State of Michigan legislation empowers and authorizes the Township to revise, amend, restate, codify, and compile any existing ordinances and all new ordinances and to incorporate such ordinances into one ordinance in book form: and WHEREAS, the Township Board has authorized a compilation, revision, and re-codification of the Ordi-nance Code of the Township of a general and permanent nature and publication of such Ordinance Code in book form: and WHEREAS, it is necessary to provide for the usual daily operation of the municipality and for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, safety, and general welfare of the municipality that this ordinance take effect at an early date. NOW, THEREFORE, THE TOWNSHIP OF INDE-PENDENCE ORDAINS:

Section 1 of Ordinance. Purpose and Intent. The present Code of Ordinances of the Township are inadequately arranged and classified and are insufficient in form and substance for the complete preservation of the public peace, health, safety, and general welfare of  the municipality and for the proper conduct of its affairs The State of Michigan legislation empowers and autho-rizes the Township to revise, amend, restate, codify, and compile any existing ordinances and all new ordinances not heretofore adopted or published and to incorporate such ordinances into one ordinance in book form. The Township Board has authorized a general compilation, revision, amendment and codification of the ordinances of the Township and publication of such ordinance in book form. It is necessary to provide for the usual daily operation of the municipality and for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, safety, and general are of the municipality that this ordinance take effect at an early date.

Section 2 of Ordinance, Short Title

This Ordinance shall be known as the "Code of Ordinances Adopting Ordinance" and may be so cited Section 3 of Ordinances. Adoption of Code of Ordinances The code of ordinances of the Township as revised amended, restated, codified, and compiled in book form attached hereto and incorporated herein, are hereby adopted as and shall constitute the "Code of Ordinance of the Charter Township of Independence, Michigan." Such Code of Ordinances as adopted in Section 1 shall consist of the following Chapters:

(See Attached and Incorporated Exhibit A, Table of Contents}

Section 4 of Ordinance, Penalty

Unless otherwise provided in the Code, a person convicted of violating this Code shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be sentenced by the court for a period not to exceed 90 days in jail and/or ordered to pay a fine not to exceed $500.00.A person convicted of violation of this Code which substantially corresponds to a violation of state law that is a misdemeanor for which the maximum period of imprisonment is 93 days, shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $500.00 or by imprisonment for a period of not more than 93 days or by both fine and imprisonment. Each act of violation and such each day upon which any such violation shall occur shall constitute a separate offense. The penalty provided by this section, unless another penalty is expressly provided, shall apply to the amendment of any Code section, whether or not such penalty is reenacted in the amendatory ordinance. In addition to the penalty prescribed above, the Township may pursue other remed such as abatement of nuisances, injunctive relief and revocation of licenses or permits. Each act of violation, and each day upon which any such violation shall occur, shall constitute a separate offense

Section 5. Code Additions or Amendments Additions or amendments to the Code when passed in such form as to Indicate the intention of the Township Board to make the same a part of the Code shall be deemed to be incorporated in the Code, so that reference to the Code includes the additions and amendments Section 6. Later Ordinances

Ordinances adopted after January 2, 2007 that amend or refer to ordinances that have been codified in the Code shall be construed as if they amend or refer to like provisions of the Code

Section 7 of Ordinance. Repeater Except for those ordinance adopted between January 2, 2007, and this date November 6, 2007, all prior ordinances pertaining to the subjects treated in such Code of Ordinances shall be deemed repealed from and after the effective date of this ordinance except as they are included and reordained in whole or in part in such Code

Section 8 of Ordinance. Savings

All proceedings pending and all rights and liabilities existing, acquired or incurred at the time this ordinance takes effect are saved and may be consummated according to the law in force when they were commended. Section 9 of Ordinance, Prior Ordinances Not

Revived The repeat provided for in Section7 hereof shall not be construed to revive any ordinance or part thereof that has been repealed by a subsequent ordinance that is repealed by this ordi

Comedy mystery play continues this weekend

Wed., November 14, 2007 The Clarkston (MI) News 15 B

Mt. Zion Theatre Company's production "Nothing But The Truth" continues this weekend.

Written by Phillip J. Anderson, the play is set in 1913 aboard a ship. Intrigue abounds in this comedy about mistaken identities and a mysterious love letter that gets into the wrong hands. One character pretends to be a spy, but the real spy is revealed at the end of the play. Tony Covarrubias of Clarkston stars as David McNeelv.

Showtime is 8 p.m. Nov. 16-17 at the performing arts auditorium, 4900

Maybee Road. Calling the church office at 248.391.6166.
