Trustees take hall renovation work to task

Vol. 80 No. 35 Wed., June 10, 2009

BY TREVOR KEISER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

With Township Hall renovations complete, trustees Neil Wallace and David Lohmeier aren't sure taxpayers' money was well spent.

"The prior board, I believe, abdicated its responsibility in a number of ways, including saying the $800,000 was going to be for remodeling and then using money for furniture and equipment, when no list was presented," Wallace said. "We should have been able to get control of this as new board and we were prevented from doing so."

"Right, wrong or indifferent, it's done, what's spent is spent, but in future projects, I think we need to take a much more responsible approach to it," Lohmeier said. "We can do a better job at managing projects and make sure that we can look a taxpayer in the eye and say 'yes we're sure that every dollar we spent was well spent."

Building Department Director Dave Belcher, who was named general contractor for the job, stood before the board, June 2, to answer questions about the renovation project.

"The prior board authorized me to remodel and renovate it to make it a usable building for our township services and that's what I did," Belcher said. "After the prior board's authorization, I was allowed a budget and I stayed within the budget."

Belcher was allotted $800,000 this past September by the prior township board.

'There was nothing ever etched in stone in the beginning," he said. "In most

Online check info unlikely for local schools

If residents of Oxford, Holly, and 36 other southeast Michigan communities want to know how much their school district pays for cell phone usage, milk supplies, or anything else, all they have to do is check their websites.

Clarkston doesn't offer that kind of online information, though the Board of Education will consider it this summer.

Clerk seeks principled agreement

BY TREVOR KEISER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

In attempt to steer the township board in the right direction together, Clerk Shelagh VanderVeen gave each of the board members a copy of the Michigan Townships Association's "Principles of Governance," and asked them sign their names committing to the principles stated in the document.

"The nice thing about bringing them forward to our attention is we can internalize them," he said. "And I don't this brings it more right in your face, that is what I like about it."

Though he did not disagree with the principles, Wallace said he would not sign because he believed some of the principles would be "violated the moment that some people sign it."

"That is not personal to any one person in particular, but for me to sign it when I have had to go through what I have had to go through as my time as a trustee would be like signing a one-sided contract or this provides more meaning it provides us disarming myself and I won't do it," he

Township water, sewer rates to float respect those opinions as well.

A unanimous vote is all it took to make water and sewer capital connection fees. tap fees, and meter fees, a little more feasible as far as interest rates go for both homeowners and businesses.

The township's ordinance originally said the capital, tap and meter fees could be spread out up to 10 years, but at an eight percent interest rate.

Now the percentage rate will be based upon whatever the current rate is set by the International Revenue Service, which changes month to month.

Treasurer Curt Carson said the current rate for June is around 2.32 percent.

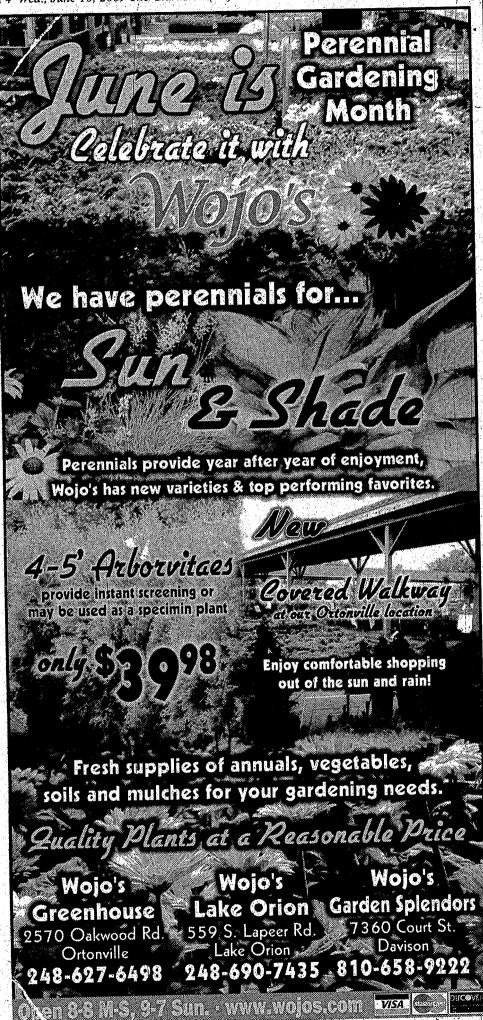

"Somebody can come in and they can have it prorated up to 10 years and were looking to have it done on quarterly basis, so when there water bill goes out or their sewer bill goes out they're charged for that quarter the amortization will be on there," he said.

"We made it much more convenient for somebody to amortize it over time and at a lower rate, that should help the businesses."

Part of the reason for making the change was upon the request of the planning commission and Dixie Highway revitalization group, who asked for some sort of incentives to bring businesses into township to fill up the empty buildings.

Since we talked about lowering rates, that kind of didn't go anywhere and I think the percentage rate that we're charging on some of these fees any amortization is the next good step to take to try and work on the revitalization of some of these areas," said Planning Commissioner Ron Ritchie.

Market coming to town

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston Farmers' Market starts earlier than ever this year, but before even that, organizers present a Plant and Garden Art Sale, 9 a.m.-2 p.m., Saturday, June 13.

"The sale focuses on things related to the garden," said Sharon Matzelle, who is organizing the event, in the parking lot next to city offices and Depot Park, with Louise Kasl.

Local growers and artists will offer organic, native, and Heirloom plants, annuals, perennials, metal crafts, mosaic garden stones, bird houses, tea cup bird feeders, and painted garden furniture, all produced locally.

"It's an opportunity to talk to growers and buy from growers – they have lots of valuable information," Matzelle said.

"I'd like to see the idea grow of supporting the local economy, and your friends and neighbors," Kasl said. "I'm passionate about it — buy local, support the community, and lower your carbon footprint."

Along with River Day activities, the sale promotes native Michigan plants, Kasl said. "Having River Day at the same time works out," she said. "We'll combine efforts to restore habitat. We both support bringing back native species. Invasive species create serious problems and throw off the balance."

Locally grown plants also do better because they're on the same cycle, she said.

"They're timed with the weather here," she said. "They'll have the same pattern as your garden."

The Farmers' Market opens the following Saturday, June 20, 8 a.m.-12 p.m., and continues through Oct. 10. In its fifth year, the market opens earlier this year at farmers' request.

"A lot of produce is already available," Matzelle said.

"Businesses are excited about the market.
They all want to support it, keep everyone here where they can save money on gas and hopefully spend it in their shops."

River Day activities include Clinton River cleanup, native plantings, rain garden and children's garden work with local master gardeners.

For more information on the plant and garden sale, call Matzelle at 248-935-2329 or check www.clarkstonfarmersmarket.org.

Out loud

A column by Laura Colvin

Who's flipping your burger?

We're learning the hard way, watching our neighbors, our friends and our families struggle as they lose their jobs, their homes and their sense of security. But we're learning. Shop local. Buy American.

But what about hiring local? Or, more precisely, hiring American.

Here's a news flash; illegal immigrants are living in the Clarkston area and working at jobs that rightfully belong to taxpaying American citizens.

Last week I wrote in the Public Safety page about a little boy who was about to step into Sashabaw Road when two passing motorists snatched him from the jaws of death.

His mother, it turns out, was asleep and didn't know her boy had left the apartment, much less wandered over to Sashabaw.

His mother is an illegal immigrant.

I found her work phone number listed in the police report, copied it down, and later looked it up.

She works at a large chain fast food restaurant on Sashabaw Road.

Excuse me?

It's hard to believe, but yes, Michigan's economy is in the tank, our unemployment rate is the highest in the nation, yet business owners and managers are giving jobs to people who snuck into the country ille-

Sources tell me fake social security cards are pretty easy to come by if you know the right people. But you don't necessarily need one; many knowingly employ illegal immigrants and pay cash under the table.

Taxes? Bah.

Taxes are for those of us who play by the rules; those of us who pay our fair share—and more—to live in freedom; those of us who know we'll probably never see our Social Security dollars again, but pay anyway. We must. We are Americans. We have rules.

So be responsible; shop local, hire American. Go a step further, if you dare, and ask your local business owners what they do to verify citizenship.

Like the rest of the federal government's problems, this one belongs to each and every one of us; Lsuspectiwe'll turn hues, of red, white and blue if we sit around hoping Uncle Sam will get around to fixing it.

News items that catch my eye have interesting or offbeat headlines. And, these headlines often lead me down a dark path to some absurd thought -- all this before reading the actual bit of reporting.

Before getting to the point, I want to take this moment to school all would-be "journalists" (and I guess that includes -- although it pains me -- online blogger-types, too).

Young news-cubs, headlines are important, they need to be big, bold, short and interesting. Headlines are the proverbial bait on the end of your hook. You are fishing for readership. Use the headline to catch the most fish. Now, back to what I started . . .

"Detroit police halt pillow fight"

That, my friends, is an excellent headline!

But, it got me thinking . . . my, how the mighty have fallen. I'm not jumping on the bandwagon and talking about how the mega-corp General Motors has crumbled. No, no, no. I am discussing Detroit.

Detroit used to have street cred. Detroit was tough. Detroit was mean. I mean, like Jim Croce used to sing, "You don't tug on Superman's cape, you don't spit into the wind" and don't mess with a Detroiter, STRESS was a bad-ass, abusive, overly zealous and totally authorized Detroit Police unit - it took care of business the Detroit way, with knuckle sandwiches and blackjacks. Detroit streets were corrupt and mean, so I guess the thought was Detroit cops had to be corrupter and meaner.

I was a kid growing up in the 1960s and 1970s. I was a few months shy of 5 when the riots rocked Detroit. My dad used to love watching all the cop TV shows like Manex, Hawaii 5-0, Cannon and the like.

And, one of the things that always caught my attention in these shows is when one of the good cops would say to other good cops something like, "Hey, I heard Tony the Tooth is bringing in the boys from Detroit to take care of business. can be emailed to: don@dontrushmedon.com

And then the other good cop would get a look of consternation and concern, "No, not the boys from Detroit!"

Detroit was recognized for its rough and tumble ways.

I remember when I was a young man or maybe teenager, there used to be black T-shirts on sale that stated in white lettering:

Where the Weak Are Eaten

When I traveled to other parts of the country I was proud to be from Detroit. And, though I was only born in Detroit and really raised in lily-white Clarkston, I used the Detroit name for credibility.

The nation hates us and thinks we're dinosaurs.

Soon we'll ride electric trains and wait for the powers that be to tell us what to do.

We'll take what is given us, smile weakly and return to groveling. We'll be sheep and instead of being the tough guys on TV, we'll be the victims -- those who need pity.

My, my, my . . . how the mighty have fallen.

More than 200 guests viewed the homes during Patrons' Night on Saturday, and capped off the evening with a reception at Deer Lake Banquet Center.

Another 500 turned out for Sunday's tour.

"Nothing could have been better," said Donna Clancy, executive director of fundraising for SCAMP. "It's wonderful to see the number of people—homeowners, businesses, everyone—who support SCAMP."

Pat Brumback won a $1,000 shopping spree at Waterfall Jewelers, Clancy said, and 75 suitcases filled with gift certificates and merchandise from local businesses went "within minutes" in the Suitcase Auction.

Renee Nannini and Kristine Nannini of the Clarkston Big Boy were one of the event's many sponsors and attended both Saturday and Sunday.

"I know a lot of the kids who go to SCAMP," said Kristine, who recently completed a degree in special education and did her student teaching at Clarkston Elementary and Andersonville Elementary. "The program is really important to the kids and their families."

Carol Chrisekos of Springfield Township was attending the home tour for the first time, and made sure to stop in for a look at the "before" state of the SCAMP Designer Showcase Home on Main Street.

"It's really cool," she said, after talking with several of the designers who were on hand to answer questions and tell visitors about their plans. "I can't wait to come back and see what it looks like when it's finished."

It was a sentiment Robin Amprim of Amprim Interiors—who's transforming one of the upstairs bedrooms into a "very elegant" nursery—said she heard many times during the day.

"People are really excited,"
Amrprim said. "Everyone says they're coming back."

The finished house will be open to the public beginning Friday, Sept. 25, during Taste of Clarkston weekend.

Dawn Jacobs of Artichoke In Life Painting

teriors is also working in the home, and wanted to do an overhaul of the upstairs bathroom. Since designers are required to fund their own projects, she solicited donations of labor and material from several local contractors.

"It was a blessing," she said.
"As soon as they found out it was for SCAMP almost everyone just said 'yes."

Jacobs' plans include highlighting the tall ceiling with thick crown moldings, bronze finish and a crystal dressed chandelier. The current vanity will be replaced with an antique dresser atop a new hardwood floor, and Jacobs says wedgewood gray walls and coordinating fabrics will pull the look together.

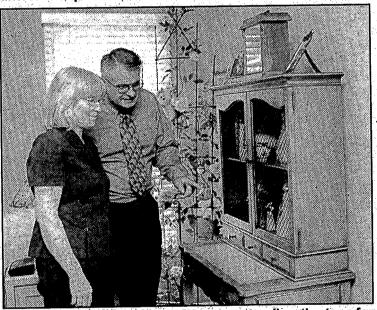

The feedback, she said, has been "very, very positive."

"This house has so much history," she said. I think everyone wants to see it beautiful."

Who's the boss?

An alert neighbor in the 7200 block of Ardsley called police May 25 after observing two unknown men in a red pickup truck entering a home in foreclosure. Deputies questioned the men, who said they were working for the owner, who's name they did not know, to remove appliances from the house.

Good stuff gone

Deputies responded to a number of residents reporting thefts from automobiles around Independence Township between Several items, including a license plate, were stolen from cars at the Sashabaw Road and I-75 Park and Ride. Thieves also smashed out a windshield in the 4800 block of Fox Circle in order to get at an iPod and GPS unit left inside. At another home, thieves entered a garage after finding a garage door opener in an unlocked car outside the home, and stole an an iPod, camera, cell phone and checkbook from the garaged cars. Residents also reported various items missing from cars left unlocked around the township.

Carted to jail

A deputy investigating suspicious circumstances May 23 in the 7000 block of Oakhurst Lane was conduing a building check when he discovered two subjects cutting the chain that secured two golf carts together. Both suspects attempted to flee the scene; one

Four televisions, 10 guns

An Independence Township man living on S. River told police someone entered his home while he was away at his brother's funeral May 21-24, and stole a gun safe—which contained six rifles and four shotguns. The thieves also allegedly took four televisions—a 20-inch, 37-inch and two 42-inch sets. Deputies noted entry may have been made through an unlocked window.

Lugged away

The manager of a car dealership in the 6700 block of Dixie Highway called police May 26 after discovering both driver side wheels and tires—which had been secured with locking lug nuts—were stolen from a 2009 Chevy Impala sometime during the night. The lug nuts were missing as well.

Generating trouble

A gas-powered generator left running and chained to utility pole in the 6500 block of Clarkston Road May 27 disappeared sometime between 10 p.m.-1 a.m., a Comcast employee told police. The man, who said someone likely used bolt cutters to remove the chain, told deputies the machine was left running to power Comcast equipment.

And stay out

Homeowners in the 6500 block of Steeple Ridge returned from an out-of-town trip to discover a sliding glass door in the home's lower level had been shattered during an apparent attempt at a break-in. The inside pane of the double-paned door remained intact, and no entry was made. Police noted evidence that the would-be intruders used a hammer or similar object to break the glass.

Missing mower

A 68-year-old woman returned from a short trip up the street for gasoline May 28 to cut her lawn in the 4700 block of Summerhill Drive and discovered crooks had stolen the mower from her back yard while she was gone. The woman, who provided police with the model and serial numbers of the mower, told deputies her neigh-

Vandalized

A man who was hospitalized for several days called police after he returned home and received a call from someone who claimed to be from the hospital and said they needed his social security number. The man, an 83-year-old Independence Township resident, called the hospital back to verify and was told employees would never ask for sensitive information over the phone.

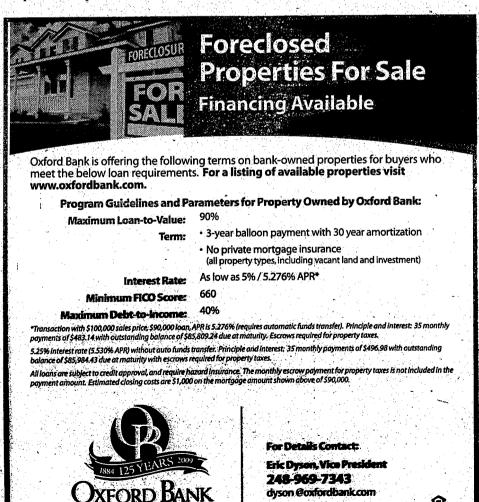

Don't put on the coffee

A home-security company responded to a May 31 alarm at a residence in the 7500 block of Deerhill Drive by calling the home, and told police a man—who did not know the pass code—answered the phone and said he was just visiting. When deputies arrived, the front door was unlocked but the home was empty. The homeowner was alerted.

Locked means locked

A man living on S. River called police June 1 to report an envelope—containing $850 in cash—was stolen from the glove box of his car overnight. The man told deputies he locked his vehicle, but explained the passenger door could still be opened while it was locked.

remodeling, that seems to be the case sometimes."

Belcher said he kept in contact with both the supervisor and clerk.

"I didn't just do it. I would go home every night and draw out different ideas and go back and present them," he said. "Then I would call the architect and we would get it on paper and move forward from there."

Belcher said they worked on the project seven days a week and finished it in 90 days.

A total of $774,506.86 has been spent so far, $221,422.28 of which for furniture. The hall still needs signs and a flagpole, he said.

Furniture purchases were determined by the clerk, treasurer, and supervisor, along with department heads.

"We just gave two different companies our input and they gave us an initial drawing," Belcher said. "Each department got to look at what was proposed for their department and made the appropriate changes if any."

Wallace said he was surprised to see $43,000 spent on a new elevator, when a key reason for abandoning the old town hall was handicap inaccessibility.

However, Belcher said both floors of the new hall are fully accessible. The elevator was installed for convenience, but is not required. They saved $40,000 by constructing the elevator shaft in-house.

Trustee Larry Rosso said he was "very impressed" by Belcher's work and appreciated his sincere effort to be at the meeting.

"It means transparency to the greatest extent possible and we owe that to our taxpayers," he said. "That is very important."

Trustee Mark Petterson, who spent a lot of time at the hall watching the project develop, also congratulated Belcher.

"We have built new Clarkston schools, we have built the post offices, done a very good job at spending the taxpayers' money and doing it very reasonably, and I would like to congratulate you," he said. "I think you've also done a very, very good job."

In Belcher's 10 years with the township, he has worked on its new Fire Station 3, remodeled the old fire station for Comcast, and built the new Senior Center.

Wallace and Lohmeier said their criticisms of the process "are not personal" towards Belcher, however, he said this project has brought him "nothing but grief."

"I just wash my hands of it," Belcher said. "I did what I was told to do and authorized to do and that's where I want to leave it. I was very proud of it, but this is become quite the issue."

Paramedic who saved her life

'I want to say thank you'

BY DON RUSH

A little over two months ago, diners at Independence Township's Capri Grill got more than dinner.

It was near 7:30 in the evening and Brandon Township residents Michael "Mick" and Terri Elliott were paying their bill at the Sashabaw Road eatery when the excitement began.

"I must not have looked right. Mick thought I was choking," Terri said last week about the incident of Friday, April 3.

Only she wasn't choking, she went into a cardiac arrest. Thanks to the efforts of many people, but in particular an anonymous woman, Terri is alive today.

"I don't even know her name. She's a paramedic who happened to be eating dinner with her husband and daughter. I was told later that without her acting fast I wouldn't be here," Terri, 52, said.

The paramedic, along with Mick, immediately started and continued CPR until emergency personnel from Independence Township Fire Department arrived. Once there, they took over for Terri's care, using defibrillating paddles.

"I want to say thank you to her, but I don't know who she is," Terri said.

Ultimately, Terri was helivacced to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, where she stayed until May 2 -- 10 days where spent on a ventilator.

While still recuperating, she is getting out more and more these days -- in May she hand-delivered a thank you card and donuts to Fire Station #1.

"They were wonderful and thanking me . . . and I was there to thank them," she said.

On June 23, she travels back to Ann Arbor for surgery. Doctors will implant a defibrillator inside her. According to Terri, she has a congenital heart condition known as tetralogy of fallot.

"She's a remarkable woman," said Bob Cesario, the fire department's EMS coordinator.

According to Cesario, the Independence Township EMS crew who responded that evening were: Tom Doyon, Rich Minard, Phil Williams, Ben Wherry, Tim Green, Tom TenEyck, Scott Krakauer and Tom McDonald.

Terri asks if anybody knows who the paramedic is, to please call Cesario at the fire department, 248-625-1924.

Sheriff Bouchard throws his hat into governor's race

BYLAURACOLVIN

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Michigan is great—it's Lansing that's broke. And broken.

So says Oakland County Sheriff Mike Bouchard, who last week threw his hat in the ring in a bid to become Michigan's next gov-

"Not because I'm anxious to spend less time with my family or give up the job I truly love," said Bouchard, 53, a Republican. "Somebody has to fix the mess in Lansing."

Locally, municipal leaders have struggled with a continually decreasing flow of state

In Clarkston, City Manager Dennis Ritter said 2009-2010 state-shared revenue is currently estimated at about $76,000—down from $125,000 in recent years.

"For a community and budget the size of ours, that's a lot of money," Ritter noted.

The city's proposed budget for the upcoming fiscal year is $800.773.

Ritter said Michigan's next governor should be clear on priorities.

"Jobs," he said. "That's it. People have got to get back to work."

But with the OCSO approaching $20 million in cuts. Bouchard said he's familiar with the sting of a shrinking budget.

"Some of those cuts are very painful," he said. "The (OCSO) Boot Camp was one of my favorite programs; we'd grown the program, we added females. It was a fabulous program, but it served non-violent offenders.

With an operating cost of about a million dollars per year, Bouchard said, he couldn't justify moving the program forward.

"I very much wanted to keep it, was one of my favorite programs," he said. "But that's the core question, need verses want. The need is keeping violent offenders off the street, and those are the kind of choices all levels of government are going to have to

The Independence Township board is currently facing just such a dilemma. Citing a $113,000 hit to its state shared revenues, along with reductions in local taxes, the board is looking at layoffs and cuts in township services, including popular parks and recre-

In 2008, Springfield Township received about $931,000 in state-shared revenue. This year, Lansing says Springfield can expect to receive about $850,000.

The reductions, said Treasurer Jamie Dubre, aren't unexpected.

"You can see it coming way before it hits," she said. "People are laid off, unemployment is high, and people aren't spending so there's not as much sales tax coming in. We've always taken the state's estimates and budgeted 10 percent less."

Michigan's next governor, she said, has a 'huge undertaking.'

"Whoever gets elected has a lot of work to do," Dubre said. "We have a long way to

Bouchard agreed, and said if elected the tough choices may make him a one-term governor

State-shared revenue, he said, is not likely to increase.

"I think every level of government is going to have to get used to a lot less," he said. "To think otherwise is not in line with today's reality."

It's time, he said, for serious discussion about consolidation and sharing of services in municipalities and school districts.

It's also time for Michigan to make the switch to a part-time legislature, he noted.

"It's an expensive legislature," Bouchard said. "If you're getting 100 percent valuable service and you're willing to pay for it-well, these problems have languished for years and years and there's no end in sight. There's no reason to continue to have one of the few full time legislatures in America."

Bouchard said he made the decision to run after learning Oakland County Executive Brooks Patterson would not seek the governor's office.

"I didn't see anyone else in the race who has the qualifications necessary," Bouchard said. "The next governor will need to have not only experience and knowledge, but also backbone to do what's necessary. Some very tough choices need to be made, and the people in Lansing have not been making them.'

But before his name can be placed on the November 2010 ballot to replace Gov. Jennifer Granholm, who can't be reelected because of term limits, Bouchard must win in what looks to be a crowded August 2009 Republi-

Other potential Republican candidates include Michigan Attorney General Mike Cox, Secretary of State Teri Lynn Land, Congressman Peter Hoekstra, State Senator Tom George and Ann Arbor Businessman Rick Snyder.

But Bouchard says his experience, both in Lansing, and as head of one of the nation's largest sheriff's departments-with an annual budget of $132 million and more than 1,200 employees—make him best qualified to "meet the challenge at hand."

'I come with the two very specific skill sets for this job," he said. "I know the Lansing issues inside and out, having served in the Senate; I was the majority floor leader, and either chaired or sat on every major committee. Every year we cut taxes and balanced the budget."

Bouchard was elected to the state Senate in 1991, and reelected in 1994 and 1998.

In 1999 he was appointed to his current position as Oakland County Sheriff when John F. Nichols passed away suddenly.

Voters returned him to the post of Oakland County's top cop in 2000; he was reelected in 2004. In 2006, Bouchard ran for U.S. Senate but lost to incumbent Senator Debbie Stabenow. He was reelected as Oakland County Sheriff in 2008; his current term expires Jan. 1, 2013.

Goals he said, include "fixing" Lansing: getting over-the-top spending under control and making the state a desirable destination for businesses

Bouchard said he's frustrated by the mass departure of young people seeing employ-

"I find it absolutely unacceptable that our kids have to leave the state for a future," he said. "If they want to leave that's a choice; if they have to leave to find employment, that's a failure of leadership."

One campaign proposal outlines a 48-hour shovel-ready business permit.

"I was talking with a business owner who's been trying to get an answer and a permit for a year and a half," Bouchard said. "We need to provide a timely predictable answer, otherwise it's just one more reason not to come."

Bouchard said he's not a proponent of selective tax breaks but thinks, instead, it's important to "create an environment that's attractive to every business."

We lead the nation in unemployment, we lead in outbound moves and we're not going to draw people back by being mediocre," he said. "You have to excel; you have to be a shining example in order to get the attention of businesses."

American Power Vac.

I'm Keith Meadows, owner and operator of American Power Vac, Inc. For years, I've been improving our community's health one family at a time. 90% of the calls I receive everyday are from desperate people complaining about dust. They tell me they dust the T.V. on Friday, but by Sunday they are pushing the dust out of the way again so they can watch "Desperate Housewives", and none of them know exactly where it's coming from. I tell people that simply having your ducts cleaned will drastically reduce household dust, and the reason is, your cold air returns.

Cold air returns suck in dirty air, and over time it builds up until you have the same type of debris that you would find in your vacuum bag. Cold air returns are also the reason new homeowners are experiencing dust. While your drywall was being sanded, your cold air returns sucked all of the dust through the system and it settled on the bottom of the duct lines, where a little at a time it gets blown báck into your

This debris cannot be removed without a professional. Which brings me to my next point: choosing an air duct cleaning company. Most companies use truck mounted equipment, which is like a shop vac that you would vacuum out your car with inside the back of a van, absolutely useless. the entire truck is the vacuum and the truck motor powers the equipment. It's the size of an ambulance and when engaged twelve large air bags will come out of the roof. What makes the difference in equipment? Power! To put things into perspective, your furnace moves 2,000 CFM's (cubic feet of air per minute), basically what you feel coming out of your register. Truck mounted equipment only moves 4,000 CFM's. American Power Vac moves over 16,000 cubic feet of air per minute, more than quadruple the power of any truck mounted equipment. The problem is that there are so many companies with inade quate equipment, adver-tising cheap prices in coupon books, that it gives people a false sense of what the job's worth. The average price to clean your air ducts correctly with the right equipment ranges from $374 to $499+ depending on the size of your home Any company who charges per register or who has "$99 Whole House Specials" are companies you want to avoid. We need to make sure the information is easy to get to and in context, Roberts said. "My concern is how the data doesn't tell the whole story."

For example, professional development might seem expensive on a check register, but is essential for highly qualified, teachers, he said.

"Frankly, it probably isn't as much as it should be to ensure education is the best possible," he said.

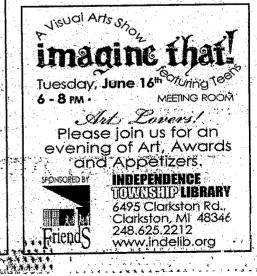

The Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a Conservative, free-market thinktank based in Midland, sent letters throughout southeast Michigan in its "Show Michigan the Money" campaign. It calls for schools to post check registers and other financial information online to increase government transpar-

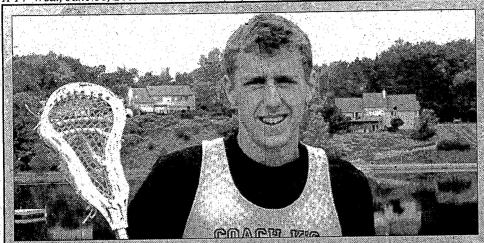

Clarkston's financial information is already available to the public, but the board will consider posting more information online, Hyer said.

"People are entitled to come in and look at the check register," he said. "The decision is still to be made by the board. We need to make sure it makes sense and is something comprehensible."

"There's no problem with publishing information, but in the right time frame and format," Roberts said. "The more folks know, the more respect we'll earn."

When considering online information, the school board will also examine features available in a district-wide software conversion, set for this summer, Hver said.

Athlete of the Week

Giaier leads on lacrosse field

BY LT BOHLAND

Special to the Clarkston News

Smart, funny, president of the National Honor Society, simple, and a perfect gentleman, but the list isn't complete without mention of his athleticism. Kevin Giaier is known not only for being a genuinely good person, but also for his achievements on the lacrosse field.

Freshmen year, Giaier played on the junior varsity team where his speed and obvious stick handling expertise gave him the chance to move from defense, a spot that was very familiar to him, to long stick mid-field.

Giaier played this spot for three years on Clarkston's varsity squad, where he was able to excel at the position and win such awards as groundball leader and All-Region as a junior.

Finally, as a senior, he was named team captain, along with teammates Adam Zak, Forbes Dever and Luke Osborn, though he was not what he called a "traditional" captain.

"I got yelled at a lot from coaches for goofing around and I was never into giving team speeches." says Giaier.

Despite breaking the norm of what a captain typically does, he knew that he had the respect of his teammates and high expectations from his coaches.

"During lacrosse season, it's all about lacrosse." He said.

No one could question Giaier's dedication during the season, as he put things like National Honor Society and other hobbies on hold in order to give his entire focus to the sport and his team

All the hard work paid off, as Kevin was the all-time leader in a few different categories, including groundballs, takeaways, and most long stick goals in Clarkston's history, though long stick players don't typically score.

"All the awards I received were cool to get, but they didn't mean that much to me. I do it all for the success of the team as a whole" says Giaer humbly.

With lacrosse season over, coaches look forward to the lacrosse banquet on Monday, June 8, where they expect Giaier to be named All-State and walk away with the first ever Frank Kaminskas Spirit Award, which is given to the ultimate player as voted on by the team.

"I'm not used to all this positive attention."

Playing defense, Kevin never gets a lot of press, but he doesn't need a spotlight on him to show his passion for the game of lacrosse. It's more about working hard so the team can do year.

The season may be over, but a priority for Kevin now, is practicing his lacrosse skills before going to the University of Dayton in Ohio next year, where he plans on trying-out for their teams.

"I received a couple offers to come play at some small east coast schools, but no one offered a scholarship. I might be good for Clarkston, but I realize that competition is much more intense in college." says Giaier.

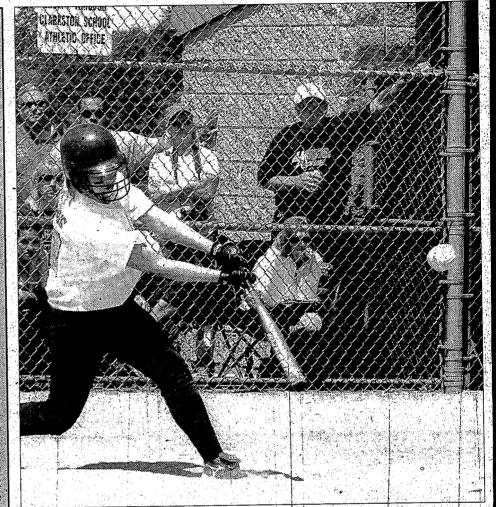

With a good aeronautical engineering program and a lacrosse team that Kevin feels confident he can make, Dayton seemed to be the perfect fit for him. However, lacrosse won't consume Kevin's entire summer.

"I'm going to focus on enjoying the summer as much as possible by fishing and working on cars. . I also enjoy some occasional knitting," Giaieradded jokingly.

Clarkston grad earns MVP

Zach Kerr of Clarkston, sophomore at Alma College, earned the MVP award in tennis, with a 5-1 record in the MIAA conference.

"Zach had a terrific season and was the obvious choice for team MVP this year," said coach Chris Sandro. "He works incredibly hard, has a team-first mentality, and possesses the natural ability to lead by example."

Kerr was a four-year varsity tennis player for Clarkston High School under coach Chas Claus, graduating in 2007. He earned the Tartan Scholarship from Alma and is studying International Business. His parents are John and Lee Ellen Kerr and he has a younger brother, Jess. They reside in Clarkston.

Undefeated at tournament

Impact '98 White U11 boy's soccer team was undefeated in the Green Division at Westlake Invitational Soccer Tournament, May 23-24, winning first place.

The Clarkston Soccer Club team scored a total of 23 goals while giving up four at the Ohio tournament, the best record in their age bracket.

Club tryouts for teams for both boys and girls ages 7-18 are set for June 15-16 at Clintonwood Park. For more information, check www.clarkstonsoccer.org or call the club office at 248-625-1090.

Adult softball registration

Independence Township is signing up players for Fall Adult Softball, priority registration beginning June 10.

Games start in August, Monday-Friday at Clintonwood Park through early October, with no games on Labor Day weekend.

Summer teams signing up early are eligible for a discount. Open registration starts July 1. For more information, call 248-625-8223.

Clarkston grad rows to division I victory

Samantha Morgan, 2006 Clarkston High School graduate and Grand Valley State University student, and her rowing team won Division I Women's Varsity 8 at the Dad Vail Regatta, May 8-9 in Philadelphia,

"It went really well - we won by four seconds," said Morgan, daughter of Connie and John Morgan of Clarkston.

In her third year of racing, she joined the team as a freshman.

"I was just walking by on campus and I thought I'd try out," Samantha said. "I really wanted to do it. It was harder than I thought. It took awhile to work well together, but now we go really fast."

"I give her a lot of credit," Connie said.
"She's worked really hard. It was really exciting."

She plans to continue rowing, working this summer with the Vesper Boat Club's U23 program in Philadelphia.

Samantha Morgan, along with the rest of Grand Valley State University rowing team, celebrate their Division I Women's Varsity win.

Teachers honored for service

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

Vicki Potter is in charge of world languages at Clarkston High School, hiring and evaluating teachers and shaping the future of district foreign language curricula.

That and her dedication to the community earned her Clarkston Foundation for Public Education's Teacher of the Year award.

"Thank you all so much," said Potter at the June 3 Excellence in Education breakfast. "I feel really humble to be a part of this group. I'm inspired to do more."

With 18 years of teaching experience, 16 with Clarkston Community Schools, Potter organizes students to work with Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, Christmas in Action, Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, Adopt-A-Highway and other service groups, and also coordinates Creativity, Action, and Service projects in the district's new International Baccalaureate program.

The Foundation's award selection committee reviewed 12 nominees, Ron Conwell, Mike Greve, Ed Lipke, Dan Mooney, Mari Ann Pace-Bleau, Jon Paddock, Rich Porritt, Kim Prentice, Darlene Roche, Erin Shaw, Sue Wilson, and Potter.

They selected three finalists, Potter, Paddock, and Wilson, and made their final selection based on classroom visits, said Chairperson Sherrie

What kind of cell phone do you have? Are you in love with it? Do you have one constantly by your side? If so, you probably understand the love/hate relationship that I have with mine.

I love the way it connects me to my work, family and friends. I like using it to get the news, sports, weather, etc. But I get frustrated when calls don't go through. Dead zones make me feel anxious.

I would like to say I am not addicted to it, but I am getting calls from cell phone twelve step programs.

My wife has a far more distant relationship with hers. If she could get one with rotary dial she would be happy. All she wants her phone to be is a phone. Go fig-

The irony of this is for the majority of my life there were no phones to carry around.

The first phone in my life had different rings like my cell phone. But on that phone two rings meant it was for our family. The other rings were for the rest of the five families sharing the same line.

I remember having to pick us the receiver to see if another household was already using the phone. It was a big day when we had our own designated phone. Then I only had to share it with my parents and brother.

Now I carry a phone with me wherever I go and it is always on. It is amazing we can become dependent upon something we never use to know could even exist.

That is the way a conversation with God may seem too. Perhaps it has been a long time since you have talked with God or that you felt the presence of God with you.

Maybe you are unaware that it is even possible to have a conversation with God. Perhaps you have never been taught how to pray or go deeper in your prayer life. But the prayers you do not pray today can become the life line of your life in days to come.

Once you experience the power and joy of prayer, you want to return to it as quickly as possible. Life has a way of leading us to prayer.

Abraham Lincoln said, "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had absolutely no other place to go."

I pray the blessings of your life or the trials will lead you to discover the power of prayer. You will also discover a conversation and relationship worthy keeping in your life all the time. It is the call I am always ready to make or take.

Lighting the way

Lighting is one area where a little bit of effort and money can go a long way toward improving the livability and appearance of a home.

There are generally three types of lighting task, ambient, and general.

Ask a Designer

A column by Kevin Harrison

Task lighting is focused on a specific spot or area in a room allowing the user to work or read.

Ambient lighting is background lighting that can be used to make a room more pleasing or dramatic. An example of ambient lighting is an uplight placed at the base of a plant to add visual interest.

General lighting provides the overall lighting in our homes, allowing us to move about and our homes to function. General lighting is usually provided for us when our homes are built or remodeled, so we will focus on task and ambient lighting.

A few rules that I use in my project work:

 Every major room in your home needs to have a minimum of 5 sources of light. This helps the room feel inviting and properly lit.

· Lamps are the easiest addition to any room, and should be located at each seat in a room. At night, a chair or sofa feels lost without a source of lighting nearby.

· Lamps should have shades of similar color, and all shades should be at about the same height around a room. To accomplish this, take into account the height of your tables as you purchase lamps, and size the lamps for each table.

· Most people purchase a lamp that is too small for the spot where it is to be placed. As a general rule, lamps next to a sofa or chair should be in the 28"-32" height range.

· I love lighting that is adjustable, in particular floor lamps that are height adjustable. This allows the lamp to be adjusted to the perfect height for the room.

 Don't neglect ambient lighting; it can really add that final pop to a room. Think of adding lighting to the top of a secretary or wall unit, it will add a nice wash of lighting to a dark ceiling.

• I am a big supporter of energy efficient lighting. I use fluorescent light bulbs in 90% of my fixtures at home. Compact fluorescent bulbs come in a range of color - from cool white to warm white. Look for the warm white bulbs when you purchase for home use, and you will be pleased with the color rendition.

· I have mentioned this before, but think about picture lighting for your artwork. It makes a big difference!

If you have specific design issues you would like me to address, please send your questions to Kevin@khhomeonline.com. I will be happy answer your questions in one of my articles.

The outcome was still in doubt, but either way, the Penguins are getting a stomping, at least at Guido's Pizza in Independence Township. Vince Herr of Guido's Pizza demonstrates his technique on a Pittsburgh jersey, helpfully placed on the floor of the Sashabaw Road restaurant. Entrepreneur works out plan for future

Clarkston News Staff Writer

One thing Julianna Cipponeri, 24, learned working a wide variety of jobs since age 14 was she wanted to be her own boss.

"I don't want the high demand of corporate America," she said. "If you're sick or a family emergency, what do you do?"

That's why Cipponeri says owning her own company "Peace & Serenity Therapeutic Massage" as a massage therapist and selling Mary Kay as an Independent consultant works out well.

However, she is not out of "corporate America," just yet. She currently works with her older sister Maria, 28, at Bawden Wester and Associates in Birmingham, while she continues to build her cliental for both massage and Mary Kay.

Cipporneri was born in Houston Texas. but moved to Michigan at age two.

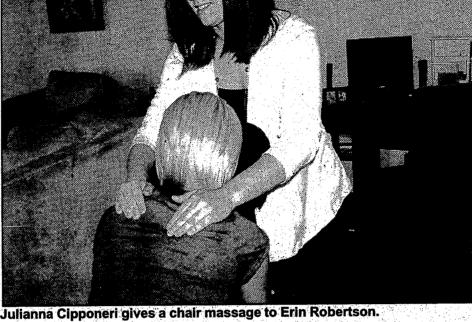

"All of our family is in Michigan," she said. "We lived in Warren, Sterling Heights, and eventually made our way more North to Rochester Hills, and Romeo.'

Cipporneri has lived in the Clarkston area for the past 5 years and currently lives with her younger sister Karla, 23.

"It's homey and nice," she said.

Growing up Cipporneri said she never knew exactly what she wanted to do, other than something in the medical field to help people, but she never saw herself as a doctor.

"Then my mom and I were talking about all the qualities I have what I'm good at, my personality traits we talked about everything," she said. "Then we started talking about massage therapy school."

Having gone through physical therapy a few times as well as getting massages while having Fibromyalgia for four years, she said she saw the importance and thought it would be a good fit for her.

"Physical therapy is my ultimate goal, it's
