One hour to feed thousands

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Staff Writer An hour's enough to make a difference in thousands of lives – Clarkston students are ready to prove it.

Students in Clarkston High School's Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) club are organizing the first annual Kids Against Hunger, March 10.

"It shows kids can make a difference and a huge difference," said Morgan Addis, head of the club. "You are never too young. It's cool to inspire the underclassman. If I can do it, you can do it."

Kids Against Hunger helps local organizations as well as national and international organizations, Addis explained. A third of the donations go to a local food shelter, third to a national disaster relief organization, and the rest to developing countries.

"One dollar feeds 42 children," Krista Deo said. "It's eye opening."

During the one hour, beginning at 10 a.m., volunteers package a cup of soy, cup of rice, tablespoon of dried vegetables and tablespoon of chicken seasoning into each bag.

Each bag feeds six adults or 12 children, Addis said.

The food is formulated to meet nutritional needs of a person suffering from malnutrition or starvation.

The community can help by donating money – either $10 or $25 – or an hour, 10-11 a.m. on March 10 to pack food.

Addis explained $10 covers the cost of food for 428 children and $25 feeds 1,071 children. Each package of food is 28 cents to make. They hope to help at least 120,000 kids.

The organization started this year after Addis decided she wanted help as she planned this year's Relay for Life.

Food packing event at high school

"Our advisors, Jessica O'Rorke and Lisa Donley, wanted to start a club and we decided, why not," she added. "It is the perfect community service project."

Since they had time before Relay for Life in the spring, they decided to try Kids Against Hunger, a organization Donley knew through Birmingham schools. They also partnered with Blessings in a Backpack for the event.

For Kids Against Hunger, check in is 9:40 a.m., Saturday, March 10, at the high school cafeteria. They will have a kids corner with activities as will as speakers from Kids Against Hunger and Blessings in a Backpack. If they have enough volunteers, they will make blankets to donate to a local clothing shelter. "Anyone can come," invited Morgan Ritthaler. "Plus the bags go right to the kids in the different countries."

"Thank you everyone for supporting us," Addis added. "Even the littlest bit went a long way. We couldn't have done it without their support - either in advice or donations." For more information, contact Donley at Idonley@clarkston.k12.mi.us.

90 day suspension for Mike Clark

BY TREVOR KEISER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Mike Clark, Independence Township deputy supervisor, has 90 days to think about township closed sessions.

Trustees suspended Clark for 90 days, directing him "to refrain from coming on any township property except for publicly available areas unless requested by the HR director or designate and the suspension will not limit his attendance at public meetings."

According to the board order, approved 4-2, Feb. 21, Clark must provide paperwork, drug tests, and other procedures as required by the Human Resource department.

Also, he must provide a written apology to the board and the township for his misconduct. The township board may then lift the suspension.

"We have a responsibility not only to the employees, but to the citizens of the township that we act in a responsible manner, irregardless of whether or not that impact is greater or less on an individual," said Trustee David Lohmeier. "We have had legal opinions and determined Mr. Michael Clark is officially an employee, even though he doesn't have any authorities or responsibilities. The deputy supervisor reprimand was necessary. "We don't want an employee to ever replicate that type of behavior," he said. "We don't want to be exposed or viewed by other municipalities as one that does not have control of the political and the more importantly the legal process that we are duty bound to follow."

Clerk Barbara Pallotta said she felt the motion was well thought out.

"I support motion in hope that Mr. Michael Clark will take this to heart," Pallotta said. "You can't be an employee in name only. You have to actually conduct yourself in a professional manner because you are representing the township and the public."

While he did not agree with the behavior, Trustee Mark Petterson voted against the motion because he felt Clark was only following orders given by Supervisor Dave Wagner and "didn't have a clear intention of absolutely disrupting the meeting."

"I think the whole thing is an absolute big giant mistake," he said. "I think we could have spent our money better than chasing our attorneys around looking for opinions."

Treasurer Curt Carson voted "no" because he felt the board wasted time on a non-issue.

Trustee Neil Wallace wished Clark would have attended the meeting, so he could have "urged him to do the community a favor and give them a break from his pointless and unproductive diatribes."

"I suspect he does not have the personal self awareness or discipline not to come back here, but to me it won't matter. He's demonstrated who he is and he's demonstrated he's not to be taken seriously," Wallace said. "I certainly will not be able to take him serious after these events."

Clark said he only serves at the pleasure of the supervisor, according to state statute MCL 41:61 paragraph two.

"I do not serve at the pleasure of the township board they do have no authority to reprimand me," Clark said. "There are other legal entities in the state of Michigan that have jurisdiction over this issue besides the township attorneys."

Township officials called deputies after Clark refused to leave a closed session last December.

No permanent placement for public comments

BY TREVOR KEISER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Public comments at Independence Township Board meetings are back up front, though not officially.

Treasurer Curt Carson's motion to move public comment to the top of the agenda permanently was denied in a 3-3 vote.

Clerk Barbara Pallotta can place public comment at the top of the agenda at her discretion.

"In the last three meetings we have gone ahead and moved public comment back up to the front of the meeting each time and it's worked very well, other than the fact people aren't aware that could potentially happen," Carson said. "I believe having the ability to come in and speak, and tell the board what their thoughts are, whether it's positive or negative, is a right our residents and citizens should have."

Trustees moved public comment to the end of the agenda six months ago. Since then, many residents told Carson they felt disenfranchised in participating in the process or voicing their opinions.

Trustee Neil Wallace voted to move it formally back to the front, but also agreed to move it to the end of the agenda last year.

"The only reason I agreed with it was because it wasn't being used, it was being abused over and over. It was disruptive of our meetings and to the point where it made it difficult to pierce through and be productive," Wallace said. "I think that threat has dissipated and I'm no longer concerned.'

Wallace was referring to comments by current Deputy Supervisor Michael Clark.

Trustee David Lohmeier said he liked moving public comments to the front because it didn't require people to stay until the end of the meeting, but opposed doing it by formal motion.

'I think Mrs. Pallotta has had a lot of flexibility in agenda formats which has worked out tremendously well," he said. "I'm not a big fan of starting to arbitrarily put controls around her, where this has to be here and this has to be there."

Lohmeier also noted if anyone uses public comment to disrupt meetings, he would be the first to ask it be moved back to the end of the agenda.

Trustee Mark Petterson agreed.

"The board can move it around anytime, we're just adding more bureaucracy to it. If it gets out of hand, we can move it again," Petterson said. "Right now you're going to tie our hands with our own motion."

However, Carson said the public needs to know when they can speak. Trustee Larry Rosso agreed. "The public should have some definitive knowledge when we post the agenda that they have the right to speak at that time and they can arrange their schedule accordingly," he said. "I think it should be policy when precisely it is scheduled."

Clerk Barbara Pallotta said she liked the flexibility she had been given on the agenda and wanted it to continue.

"I'm a firm believer the main reason we're here is to conduct the business of the township. If we can't get through this business, we defeat the purpose of the agenda," she said. "Roberts Rules allows us for public comment, but it's at our discretion."

Pallotta also feels if a person comes to a meeting to speak on something not on the agenda, it's usually a complaint, which means the board is not doing its job.

"At that point I would gladly move public comment up - if I'm not doing my job towards someone to publicly call me out on something," she said. "But I still would like the opportunity to resolve problems before they hit the podium."

Safety path committee

Briefly

Wed., February 29, 2012 The Clarkston (MI) News 3 A

Committee members Joe Figa, Deborah Froehlich, Tammie Heazlit, Nancy Peek, and Ron Ritchie will discuss plans for new paths, connections, safety, and path master plan in the township.

Also, Safety Path Superintendent Kevin Daniels is a non-voting member, and Clerk Barbara Pallotta is the voting board representative.

Clarification

The story "Wallace sets sight on superivsor seat," Feb. 8, should not have used "search" when referring to Trustee Neil Wallace's calls to township employees in reference to the township's missing tractor.

Deputies' report stated a Department of Public Works employee "received a phone call from a board member by the name of Neil Wallace who gave him an address on Pine Knob Road and asked him to have the parks guys go by the address and see if the tractor in the yard could be the one that belonged to the township."

Lt. Dale LaBair, who joined Oakland County Sheriff's Office in 1972, is ready to retire. Photo by Phil Custodio

Four decades on the force

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor After 40 years of making the Clarkston area safe, Lt. Dale LaBair is ready to ride off into the sunset, heading for the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee.

LaBair, commander of Oakland County Sheriff's Independence Township substation, plans to retire this year and move to Greenback, Tenn., with his wife, Lisa, and daughter Lauren, where they already own property.

"My wife is getting antsy to move," he said. "We like the area- it's a good, middle of the road place with a nice climate, overlooking the foothills of the Smokies."

LaBair joined Oakland County Sheriff Office in 1972, when Sheriff Frank Irons was in charge.

"I was two days from being 22 years old – I was probably one of the youngest there," he said. "I was interested in it, and I knew they liked military people."

He was in the U.S. Army Reserves, joining in 1970. At the time, deputies assigned to north Oakland County patrolled large areas. "We went everywhere. Springfield Township, Groveland Township, Holly – that would be all one car, "he said. "It was pretty crazy but a lot of fun."

Crime seems to be less, but they stayed busy dealing with bar fights, brawls, and big field parties – all with nothing but a sixshooter, nightstick, and radio in the car.

"It was a little wilder," he said. "Deputies had a lot more authority. They were the law."

Through the years, he also worked undercover investigating narcotics crimes, laboratory and range work, special investigations, records, and jail administration.

"They treated me well," he said. "It's been a good job for me, I enjoy it."

He was named substation commander in 1995, his first command.

"And I've been here ever since," he said. "I've had good people to work with. They made the job fun."

One of the highlights was attending the FBI National Academy in Virginia in 2007.

"It was very prestigious, I enjoyed it," he said.

Wendi's Word

A column by Wendi Reardon

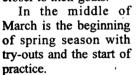

March Madness

Good-bye February. It was fun but now it is time for March, marking the end and beginning of two sport seasons.

This week's adventures include the Lady Wolves Varsity Basketball team going for their second consecutive district title in Holly. A Wolfpack of five from the Clarkston Varsity Wrestling heading to the MHSAA Wrestling Individual Finals.

Go in with a bang,

Clarkston, and make a sizzle. Sorry. Getting excited for all the teams as they get one step closer to their goals.

If you haven't seen, turn to page 11A to check it out, we are doing a full-color spring sports special edition. Get ready to add it to your keepsakes. (Graduation parties are only a few months away - do you have all the photos you need of your senior? I want you to be prepared.)

March is also a month of celebrating reading - which if you are just starting to read this column I am a big fan of reading. Others already know the smell of books and words formulated in a stream of creativity gets me everytime.

The month begins with sadness though. Jan Berenstain, co-creator of The Berenstain Bears, died last Friday. The adventures of Papa Bear, Mama Bear, Brother Bear and Sister Bear were always a favorite as a child. They were great stories with great illustrations and lessons.

I still have my collection and started my niece on them. I bought her The Berenstain Bears and the New Baby before her brother was born.

My favorite was probably The Berenstain Bears and the Bad Habit because like Sister Bear I had a bad nailbiting habit.

March is the perfect time to get into the habit of reading - either for yourself or to read to someone else. A perfect opportunity to visit the library, find a bookstore or try a new author.

I know a few schools are doing something special during the month - tell us what you are doing.

Or better yet, tell us your favorite book. I am always looking for new authors to try - best places to I have found them are used book sales and on Amazon. Though Amazon can be dangerous.

Support for ethical conduct rules

Dear Editor,

I'm afraid The Clarkston News has misidentified the main issue raised by George Butler's presentation on appropriate and ethical conduct by school board members at the Feb. 13 board meeting the Blank, Feb. 22).

Citizens of Clarkston and our hometown paper should ask, why was it even necessary for Mr. Butler to address the board on ethical conduct?

If any of the hypothetical activity Mr. Butler described has occurred, then school board members have been subverting state law, the Michigan Open Meetings Act, and violating their own policies and procedures. These laws and rules exist to protect the democratic process and ideals, including free speech, which are compromised when elected officials seek to influence decisions in secret or outside the parameters established by law.

This rogue activity doesn't make someone a champion of the people, it makes that person an impediment to student achievement and unworthy of holding a position of trust in our community.

A call to support children with bond

Dear Editor,

I would first like to remind everyone that when we replace negative thoughts with positive ones, we will start receiving positive results!

The cost of this bond is minimal and just imagine how it will help give our children the quality education that they deserve.

We have to remember that children are the future. U.S. schools are not where they need to be in comparison to many other countries. And Michigan schools are not where they should be in comparison to many other states!

Therefore, we need help! Dr. Rock and his team are trying to provide it. We need this bond passed – our kids deserve it! Regards,

Anna Muzzy Independence Township

Reader supports following Hyer's precedent

Dear Editor,

As a longtime resident, I was shocked to find out that elected members of the Clarkston School Board have to take an oath to give up their first amendment rights to speak freely to those that have elected them. The notion that board members must make a disclaimer before speaking to the public, violates both the intent, and purpose of the first amendment of our Constitution. Thankfully five days into the gag order, school board Treasurer Steven Hyer has restored those rights back to all board members.

He and three students went to WJR radio studios, Feb. 18, for a interview that was not approved by the board. This, after being told five days earlier that board members who use their title without first disclaiming they are not speaking for the board is a "crystal, crystal, clear" violation of board bylaws, and is "totally inappropriate behavior" for a board member to engage in, but Mr. Hyer ignored that mandate and did so anyway.

Bylaw 0143.1 states: "The individual making the public statement shall not use his/her board title." And "this bylaw shall apply to ALL statements and/or writings by individual Board members not explicitly sanctioned by a majority of its members." There are no exceptions to the rule for opinions that agree with a board resolution. Again, that much is "crystal, crystal clear."

Mr. Hyer has effectively set precedent for the rest of the board to follow. I encourage all Clarkston school district board members to follow Mr. Hyer's example and speak out, meet and talk with students, go to the public and give your opinion. And go into the classrooms that Mr. Hyer "has seen excellent work being done in" and experience that same "excellent work" firsthand.

Mr. Hyer's actions of late have shown the public that board members still have a God given right to speak freely, and that doing so IS the honorable thing to do.

However, I am dumbfounded as to why he would present a motion to reaffirm board bylaws and policies, passed 7-0, that he didn't believe in, and never planned to abide by. Thanks to Mr. Hyer, the gag order has been lifted.

I would like to be the first to welcome the Clarkston school board back to America, the land of free and the home of the brave. Board members can now exercise their new found freedoms as diligently as Mr. Hyer has. It would be "bad boardsmanship" not to do so. Let freedom ring!

A Look Back

From The CNews archives

15 years ago - 1996

"Clarkston band releases first CD" By day Frank Busemi, Ken Thomas, Michael Kimsal, and Martin Foulkes were all early 20's professionals, but by night they were rockers. Their band was called 'The Serfs. They had a release party for their first CD at Griff's Grill.in Pontiac. The CD contained 10 songs and sold for $10.

"New fire hall opens" After months of waiting, the Independence Township Fire Department finally moved into their new home on Citation Drive. The new headquarters was also the new home of station one and the Oakland County Sheriff Substation. The move was delayed due to several problems in the interior.

"Crimes up in Independence in '96" After a year dip in 1995, crimes in Independence Township returned to their normal pattern in 1996, rising about 15 percent overall. Crimes in most categories rose, including the most serious Group A crimes such as burglary, vehicle theft and larceny. Group B crimes rose, including fraud, drunk driving, runaways, and liquor law violations. Group C incidents included traffic accidents also rose.

25 years ago - 1986

"Traffic irks subdivision dwellers" A Chestnut Hills Farms resident was upset when she discovered traffic was just as heavy on her subdivision street as it was when she lived in Royal Oak. She put her house up for sale. Traffic counts taken in 1984 and 1986 showed an increase in cars using the shortcut.

"Howes sue" Virgil and Barbara Howe, parents of ex-major league pitcher Steve Howe, filed a lawsuit against a sports writer for a story which implied Virgil's alcoholism contributed to Steve's drug problems.

"3 on village ballot Monday, March 9" For the nearly 1,000 Clarkston residents another decison about government was close at hand. Three trustees were up for re-election March 9. James Schultz, Fontie ApMadoc and Douglas Roeser.

Doctor, do I watch too many detective shows?

My most watched shows on television are "The ing lots, plus a 4-story parking structure. Mentalist," "NCIS," "The Closer" and "Blue Blood." My DVR is programmed to record them.

They came to mind recently when I found myself searching for the background of a recently recommended orthopedic surgeon.

Last October I first noticed my left forearm hurt when it touched the arm of my computer chair. At first I ignored it, then in January I mentioned it to my GP.

Neither he nor I could locate the sore spot by feeling the arm. Then came the testing, mostly at Crittenton Hospital.

That was an x-ray. Over the next month inconclusive findings came from a catscan, an MRI and a CT, whatever that is.

Ah, my doctor said, let's see if an orthopedic person can conclude something from these four tests.

This one was officed at Beaumont Hospital's Campus-home in Royal Oak. Calling that complex a campus doesn't begin to describing the size of this layout.

Our instructions were to follow the green signs. The only less-than 4-story building is what looks to be a sprawling rich man's home. There are acres of parkThere's money in medicine, baby!

My first background check of my latest doctor was the phone book. Her name sounded oriental, but when

I asked if she was Chinese, I got a `Jim's giggle. It was my plan to make sure I was given results in non-broken English.

Her phone number-address indicated a Clarkston area residence. That clue got me to thinking she must know of, and should be reading one of Sherman Publications four weekly newspapers, The Clarkston News.

With that knowledge I could start a conversation, setting a friendly atmoa column by sphere, and maybe getting her to in-Jim Sherman form me totally of my sore.

Tom Sellack on Blue Blood couldn't have done it better.

I started, "You must read The Clarkston News?" "I leaf through it.".

"Do you read Page 7?"

That's when my driver, son Jim, said, "That's where his column is."

Wed., February 29, 2012 The Clarkston (MI) News 7 A

Now, I reasoned, I was not just a patient, but someone she should want to know.

There was more banter, with it ending when she promised, "I will certainly read your column on Page 7 of The Clarkston News that's home on my counter."

Playing the part of the Mentalist, I continued to study her eyes as she said, "I found nothing to be concerned about in your pictures."

Ah, great news is always wonderful to hear and see telepathically.

OMG WWDD? What would Dad do?

So, there I was. All snuggled up, warm and cozy under the blankies, lying in bed reading some cheap pulp fiction (Black Rain, by Graham Brown). It was last Wednesday night, around 8:30. As my eyes scanned the letters before me. I noticed the wind pickup behind me, outside.

Soon there after, I heard a soft thud against one of the three windows behind my headboard. And, then another. "Hmm. I thought," taking a moment's break from reading. "The wind is really picking up."

Then the two cats started making a racket in the window, which distracted my reading some more. "Argg!" I growled at the felines in my vicinity. I threw off the covers in exasperation and stood on the cold, wooden floor (to keep my rein as Cheapest Dad In Town alive, I keep Case d'Rush a balmy 52 degrees Fahrenheit all winter).

A little bird was sitting on the other side of the windowsill. The cats went into a deeper frenzy each time the bird hopped up and slammed itself against the glass. What the ...?

It was a smallish bird. If I had to guess, and I am, I'd say it was a finch of sorts. It looked young. Has the warm winter made for early broods of birdlings? I turned off the reading light over my headboard.

Jottings

The bird stopped banging up against the window.

I turned on the lights, and, thud. The bird hit the Den't i invisible-to-it plane of Rush Me glass. I turned off the light.

I got out a flash light and shined it out the window, soon the ball of feathers was on the ground a few feet away from the window. The wind picked up and the storm windows rattled a little. I took a deep breath and flicked off the flashlight. What to do? Turning the light on to read would only make the little birdie bounce back up and off the window. But, I wanted to read. I wasn't tired. I knew it was cold outside, because standing there in my skivvies I started to notice the chill myself. "Poor little bird," I thought. "Mother Nature's a cruel mistress. Survival of the fittest, and all."

I hopped back in bed and put the covers over my head and turned the flashlight on and started reading again. Tic-toc. But, I couldn't concentrate on the words in the book ... tic-toc ... the plot ... tic-toccharacters . . . tic-toc . . . and cadence were lost . . . tic-toc!

That dang-blabit-little-bird.

A little voice inside my head squeaked, "What would Dad, do?"

Growing up, my dad was the persona of masculinity. To the outside world he let on his love of country, John Wayne movies, all sports, meat, potatoes and Winstons cigarettes. He didn't like cats or birds or fish or lizards. Houses were for people and dogs.

Everybody who knew Dad, knew that. What they may or may not have known was he was tenderhearted. A softy. On countless occasions over the course of my childhood birds and some cats would make their way into our attached-garage to have their young.

And, each time Dad discovered this, he'd hang his head, then look up and shake it. "I'm a family man. Let them have their family."

He said the same thing each time.

And, the birds or cats would stay. When old enough, we would find homes for the kittens. As soon as the birds were old enough to fly, Dad would instruct yours truly to rid the garage of the nest and bid me and the sisters to keep the garage door closed.

And again, I thought of the howling wind, cold temperature and -- son-ofa-gun, it sucks to have a conscience!

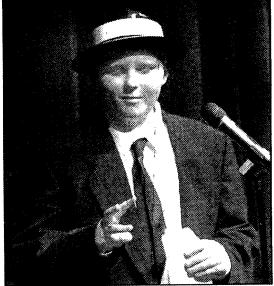

. I threw off the covers for the second time in about 10 minutes, got dressed, made a nest out of old newspapers in a basket, threw in a slice of bread and headed out into the night.

I found the little puffball out in the vard, picked him up and gently put him in the basket and then closed the top. I talked softly to him and put him in our side porch, out of the wind. I called my neighbor lady, Kathy, and told her I'd place a basket next to her back door in the morning, if the bird I caught was alive. In the morning, it was. I put the basket out in the morning by her back door, cuz the bird lived.

I later learned when Kathy went to give it some bird seed, it flew away. Mission accomplished. Maybe Dad would be proud.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Baenziger hoops it up

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

'Senior Mitch Baenziger caught the pass from teammate Zach Collins and made his shot' to continue the Wolves' lead in the last quarter on Friday night.

With the basket and five points prior, the lead was cut to 52-36 before the game finished as a 61-43 win for Clarkston.

He ended the game with nine points and scored 16 against Rochester Adams on Feb. 21.

Baenziger began playing basketball in third grade after finishing playing hockey. He decided it was time to try something different.

From the moment he stepped onto the wooden court and held the basketball in his hands, Baenziger enjoyed it.

"It has been my favorite sport since," he added. "I liked it and had a lot of fun." Baenziger spent his fall seasons on the football field at quarterback for the Clarkston Varsity Football team. He said the two sports help each other out.

"You have to be tough to play football," he added. "The toughness of football translates on the basketball court. You also have to be strong with the ball."

The high pressure atmosphere on the field also helps when he plays basketball. After his last year at Clarkston he in college.

"I would play for any college that will give me a chance," he said.

Baenziger currently has a 3.6 grade point average as he ends his second trimester this Friday. He is currently taking Advanced Placement Calculus, Physics, Civics, a computer class. He also spends time helping autistic students with their school work.

His plan for college is to study Kinesiology, focusing his attention on sports medicine.

"I have a passion for sports," Baenziger explained. "It is something I want to continue. I am pretty good at math and science. It mixes sports with my math and science ability."

When he is playing sports, he is spending time with his family, hanging out with his friends, or enjoying the outdoors.

His advice to the young cagers and fans watching the Wolves every game is to work hard.

"Working hard in basketball can translate to working hard anywhere in life," Baenziger said.

"You can be talented in something but if you work harder you will be more successful."

Baenziger and his senior teammates play their last home game this Thursday against West Bloomfield, 7 p.m.

Getting ready for playoffs

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

But the win wasn't as easy as the scoreboard portrayed as the Clarkston Boys Varsity Basketball team fought through presses, turnovers and pressure on the court.

"We are taking the ugly win," said Dan Fife, head coach. "Southfield hasn't won a lot of games in the league but they should have. They are a lot better than their record shows. We had to play too hard mentally. We got consumed in ourselves when we made a mistake or missed shots."

The boys led ending the first half, 23-16.

"They are a good team," said senior Mitch Baenziger. "We struggled to take care of the ball. Once we got down on their offense we were able to have success. They had a ball pinch on us and it is something we have to work on."

Senior Nick Tatu opened the third quarter with a 3-pointer and Southfield scored four points in return. Zach Collins added a basket and Tatu scored five more points to build a 33-22 lead.

By the time the third quarter ended, the Wolves put eight more points on the board - from Jordan Dasuqi, Alan Kamieniecki and Matt Dellinger. The Bluejays put nine more points on the board.

"Everytime we got up on them, they cut it," said Fife. "We just hung in there and made key shots."

Dellinger opened the last quarter with a basket only to have Southfield score on two free throw shots. Chance Huth followed it with a basket and Baenziger shot a 3-pointer before Southfield scored again. The boys continued to build momentum and climb raise their side of the scoreboard.

Tatu led with 17 points, scoring on five 3-pointers. Dellinger scored ten points and Baenziger had nine points.

The boys beat Rochester Adams on Feb. 21, 77-51. They opened with a 23-9 lead in the first quarter and kept building going into the remainder of the game.

Tatu and Baenziger led the team, scoring 16 points each. Matt Dellinger and Dasuqi scored 13 points each and Dylan Hancook added seven points.

It was Dellinger's return after being out for five and a half wins and it helped.

"Delly does a lot of things people don't see," said Fife. "He does the physical press. He has the toughness and the mental toughness."

The wins brought the boys up to 16-2, 10-0 in the OAA Red before they went into their last week of the regular season.

The Wolves host West Bloomfield on Thursday for their last game of the regular season.

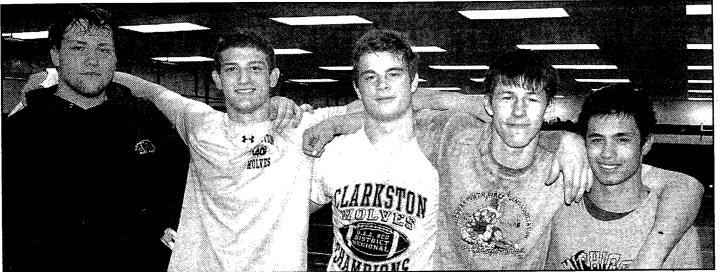

JV begins at 5:30 p.m., varsity follows.

The boys play Grand Blanc in the first round of MHSAA District playoffs on Monday at Swartz Creek High School, 5 p.m.

"We have seen them," said Fife. "They can do some things but not things we haven't seen before. It is a new season. Tomorrow is a new day. It is going to be about where our mind is."

Five seek crowning glory

BY WENDI REARDON

The mats are being unrolled and laid at the Palace of Auburn Hills - setting the stage for this week's MHSAA Wrestling Individual Finals.

Five grapplers from the Clarkston Varsity Wrestling team are counting down the hours until the first round begins at 2:15 p.m. on Thursday.

"I am excited," said junior Chris Calvano about his first visit to the finals. "I am definitely nervous. I think I will be ready with the way we are preparing."

Sophomore Cameron Wilkie shared the same sentiment, also making his first appearance.

"My main goal was to make it to the Palace," he added. "Now it is time for a new goal. I just want to place. It doesn't matter where it is.'

Returners Ethan Frick, Nick Vandermeer and Scott DeVos admitted they have been thinking about it every day and were more than ready.

"Last year I underestimated," Frick admitted, after his season ended after his first two matches in the 215-weight class. "If you expect and easy match or even a wrestler that lost by a lot - it is a mistake. Everyone wrestles their best at the Palace."

All agreed going through districts and the regionals competitions helped in preparation for their finals this week.

"It was a little bit harder at regionals than I thought," said Vandermeer. "I wish I wrestled harder. I had a tough bracket. Each match was harder. It was fun though."

"It was a challenge," DeVos admitted adding unlike Vandermeer he didn't have a tough bracket. "For districts I had a bye to the semifinals. Through regionals it was the wrestlers I beat in districts. It was a good experi- $10 for single-session reserved seats and $9

Last year Vandeermeer and DeVos finished at All-State, Vandermeer in eighth place and DeVos in fourth place. They look place again, but higher. While Calvano, Wilkie and Frick look to place in the top eight to be All-State finalists.

Frick (39-10) opens the state finals in the 189-pound weight class against Kevin Beazley from Detroit Catholic Central. Beazley finished last year with a loss to Clarkston in the championship round. Frick looks to continue the trend and add another loss to Beazley's 44-1 record.

"Some of us got matched up with tough guys," Frick added. "But we are going to go out there with no fear. It is training ourselves to focus. We know the moves. We know how to execute the moves."

DeVos (29-3) is next to wrestle for the Wolves in the 285-weight class. He takes on Fraser's Mike Fruelhich in his first match.

"I am going to go out there and wrestle the guy in front of me," he said. "I don't care about the bracket or I am at the Palace. I am going to wrestle the person."

Wilkie (36-14) will take on Gabe Martinez from Livonia Franklin to open up his first visit to the state finals in the 119-pound weight class.

Vandermeer also faces a Detroit Catholic Central opponent, Alec Mooradian, his first round. He wrestles in the 152-pound weight class and looks to improve his current 37-10 record.

Calvano (31-10) ends each round for Clarkston in the 171-pound weight class. He opens against Oxford's Liam Logan.

"It is about mental toughness," he added as he prepared.

Doors open at 1 p.m. on Thursday. Ticket prices are $45 for all-session reserved seats, for general admission. All tickets include parking and are available at the Palace Box Office.

The competition continues into Friday and Saturday with rounds beginning at 8:30 a.m. each day. The championship match begins at 4:45 p.m. on Saturday. Keep updated on the match at www.clarkstonnews.com.

A 12 Wed., February 29, 2012 The Clarkston (MI) News Bowlers off to Battle Creek for finals

The Wolves are heading off to state finals in Battle Creek this Saturday after their showing at their regional meet last week.

The Clarkston Boys Varsity Bowling team started the momentum last Friday by winning the MHSAA Division 1, Region 3 Championship at Drakeshire Lanes - qualifying them for the finals.

Eric Wagner and Kyle Kirby had the high scores for the day. Wagner had a 632 series and Kirby had a 585 series.

"Conditions on the lanes were tough with the middle of the road pattern," said Alan Pittman, assistant coach. "Scores were low and shot making was at a premium."

The girls team finished in fourth place, missing third place to qualify for the finals by 42 pins.

"It was a tough loss for the girls considering they won the regionals just a year ago," Pittman added.

Stephanie Lavely made it up to the team by qualifying for a trip to Battle Creek in the singles event. She made sixth place at the Saturday event. She will also bowl on Saturday.

Tyler Hanscak and Chris Gemborys were close to qualify for the boys team but finished in 19th and 25th place.

The boys finished their regular season as OAA Red champions while four members from the boys varsity team and two members of the girls varsity team received their All-Conference medals at their league meet, Feb. 18.

The first team All-Conference honors went to Wagner with a second overall high average at 213 in the entire conference and Lavely. She was also second overall with the highest average with a 194.

Second team All-Conference honors were Kirby, season average of 208; Hancsak, season average of 205; Gemborys, season average of 204; and Erika Nowak, season average of 176.

During the conference meet the boys took on Berkley, winning the first match and losing the second match. The third match was close to see who would move on to the championship round. The Wolves lost by eight points. They moved to the last match to take on Lake Orion. They swept the first two games to finish in third place.

The Lady Wolves also qualified after beating North Farmington and Oxford. They moved on the championship game against Lake Orion. They won the first game and lost the next two to finish in second place.

Playwright brings drama to Optimists BY JOETTE KUNSE

Special to the Clarkston News

Independence Township author Patience Beer is always thinking about how current events can be integrated into her interactive plays. Beer has written her 10th play, "Murder Crashes the Wedding," for Clarkston Area Optimists Club.

This is the fifth play she has produced for the Optimists, this year set for March 3 at 6 p.m.

"Murder mysteries have to be thought of as a game, the solution to the mystery has to be easy enough for someone to figure out but not too obvious," said Beer, a retired librarian and voracious reader.

With a wedding, there are no shortage of plots. She has been thinking about the play for about six months and wrote it in January.

While Beer loves a good mystery and Kate Atkinson is her latest favorite, a murder mystery in an interactive play format has to be structured differently because it is 100 percent exposition. The events in an interactive play throw the audience into the story.

Beer laughs as she says she is influenced by the Marx Brothers and "Law and Order," ripped from the headlines. Members of the Beer family have appeared in her previous plays. Beer, a published author, says she comes from a family of writers, with her father authoring a mystery.

"Murder Crashes the Wedding" revolves around character Bindy Armbrewster, a woman in her fifties who has been married five times and widowed shortly after those weddings. Armbrewster plans to marry 27-year old Butch Cassidy Rockefellow. Beer's humor in names is evident throughout the play.

Beer said she takes some of her ideas from real life people and events. Listening to reports of the Kardashian wedding last year prompted her to put the murder mystery together with a wedding. Beer says the character Bambi Beyonce Armbrewster, step-mother of Bindy, is based loosely on the life of Anna Nicole Smith. Joining Bindy, Butch, and Bambi, will be a wedding planner, the best man, and an uninvited guest. Every character has secrets about themselves and nobody is quite who you think they are, Beer said.

Guests arriving at the Optimist dinner and play will be greeted by the actors, who will also mingle with the guests during the open wine and beer bar. Beer says she gives her actors a back story so when they are questioned by the audience, they can answer honestly.

The play is preceded by a dinner and silent auction. The play will be performed by local Clarkston Area Optimist members, ending with the murder scene. Each dinner table at the play will have the opportunity to solve the murder mystery and name a suspect. Beer says a prize is awarded for the winning table and also to the table with the most imaginative solution.

"After the audience makes their guesses, the final scene of the play or the solution scene is acted out telling what really happened," Beer said.

Beer laughed and said, "there is no room for subtlety in an interactive play.'

She said she loves to see the plays performed and it is her donation to the Optimist mission "of making a better future for the young people of the community.'

The dinner theater is a major fundraiser of the Clarkston Area Optimist Club. Tickets are $60 per person for dinner, a beer and wine bar, silent auction and the murder mystery play. This year's event will be at Paint Creek Golf Club, 2375 Stanton Road. Tickets can be purchased at Brose Electric, 5897 Dixie Highway, Pay Pal, or from a local Optimist member.

They're coming home They're coming home, take up the cheer, Let every earth both far and near Swell with pride, the job is done, They're coming home, the peace is won. They caused the vanquished to atone, Turn out, turn out, our troops are coming home. They're coming home, join the cry, Home, our loved ones, to you and I, Through the Desert Storm they churned, They proved the torch of liberty still burned. Salute the courage they have shown, Turn out, turn out, our troops are coming home. They're coming home, wait, toll the bell For those who gave their all and fell In that far land across the sea. Let's bow our heads and bend the knee. Our prayer we'll say in solemn tone, Thank God, thank God, our troops are coming home.

Religion Christian nation or nation of Christians?

States as a Christian nation, they even see it as a part of our founding.

This type of thinking is very dangerous because it actually takes us, as Christians, out of our proper place in society.

When we align ourselves with the thought pattern that the United States is a Christian nation, we end up thinking Spiritual that government is the solu-Matters tion for our problems. Government is not our solution, God is!

Our government has not been the source of blessing on our country; it has come from the Church. The scripture is very clear-God looks at the Pastor Loren world from the lens of His Church; we are the pupil of His eve.

If the Church takes its proper place, it will not matter if we have an anti-Christian nation because the Word boldly proclaims: "if My people who are called by My name will humble themselves and pray ... '

He will hear our prayers and heal our land.

Covarrubias

Many people like to think of the United If we have a pro-Christian nation, but the Church fails to keep our right standing with God, the opposite can also happen.

Our lax attitude towards our Christian responsibility could bring judgment upon our country.

For this reason, as Christians, we must understand that our first responsibility to our nation is to be the salt and light God has called us to be.

Through the influence of Christians in the founding of our nation, it is good to recognize that we have a government that is very conducive to the operation of the Church in allowing our influence to pervade the land.

The biggest problem the early Christians feared in their new government was too much government involvement in religion. For this reason, they were adamant on the separation of church and state.

Most of them were familiar with the European model of state churches, sponsored and supported by governments.

The state-supported churches became dependent on the government, as people do in modern society when the government is seen as the support system to help them in their time of need.

The end result of this will be an overly intrusive government trying to control the behavior of its citizens, or in the case of the Church-trying to control the Church.

The marriage of church and state is an unholy union because the Church is the bride of Christ; we must always remember our fidelity and that help should only come from Him

The real issue in present society is not the separation of church and state, but separation of God and state.

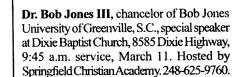

Our nation has always felt comfortable calling on God; but recently, secularists have advocated the removal of religion from the public square.

As Christians, we must advocate "godliness" as our national heritage.

As "Americans" we should also be very mindful of our Christian heritage and resist the influence of multiculturalists, who insist we divest ourselves of this important heritage.

I also believe it would be wise to promote immigration policies that favor those who share our very important Christian heritage! The Rev. Loren Covarrubias is pastor of Mt. Zion Church.

New plant zone

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has redrawn the plant hardiness map for the United States.

According to the USDA, "Hardiness zones are based on the average annual extreme minimum temperature during a 30-year period in the past, not the lowest temperature that has ever occurred in the past or might occur in the future."

Most of Oakland County went from hardiness zone 5 (-10 to -15 F) to hardiness zone 6 (0 to -10 F).

This means that Oakland County residents can grow perennials, trees, and shrubs that can survive cold temperatures up to -10F. This does mean you need to pull your current plants out. If a plant is thriving in your garden, by all means, keep it. Many plants thrive in a range of zones. You just need to pay attention to the zones identified on the plant label at the nursery or plant description in a catalog.

Zones in the latest edition of the USDA Plant Hardiness Zone Map are based on 1976–2005 weather data. The previous edition of the Plant Hardiness Zone Map, revised and published in 1990, was drawn from weather data from 1974–1986.

According to the USDA, "A trial check did not find that the addition of more recent years of data made a significant difference in the definition of these zones. Each zone represents the mean extreme minimum temperature for an area, calculated from the lowest daily minimum temperature recorded for each of the years 1976–2005. This does not represent the coldest it has ever been or ever will be in an area, but it simply is the average of lowest winter temperatures for a given location for this time period."

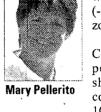

Oakland County gardeners can approach the new hardiness zone by planting natives and buying local.

Add native plants to your landscape. Select native plants grown at local native plant nurseries. These plants have survived the fluctuations of temperature in Oakland Country for hundreds of years.

There are two local native plant nurseries in Ortonville—American Roots and Oakland Wildflower Farm.

If you love ornamental plants, which we use for decorative and design purposes, visit your local, independent nursery to get help selecting plants that do well in our area. The experts at our local plant nurseries grow the plants they sell and are great resources for learning about the best ornamental plants to include in your garden.
