FRESH FRUITS & VEGETABLES YEAR 'ROUND "APPLES — OUR SPECIALTY"

Two "big events" are on tap for Walled Lake

A dance to raise funds for the beautification of West Maple Road has been scheduled for March 18 by the city's beautification committee, according to Mayor Gaspare LaMarca, who also announced that a special committee will be formed soon to plan a 25th anniversary party for the city in conjunction with the annual Fourth of July pienic.

The fund-raising dance, the first event of its kind sponsored by a city panel, will be held March 18 from 7-11 p.m. at Nifty Norman's restaurant. Tickets are $5 per person, the mayor said.

Proceeds from the dance will be used to purchase bicycle racks, park benches and shrubs for the area around the Maple Plaza shopping center, LaMarca said. Owners of the plaza and other city businesses last fall donated funds to the beautification committee to purchase 17 decorative trees and 51 shrubs for West Maple Road.

"We want to make (the plaza) our master piece," LaMarca said, "before we start on the other side of Maple." Work on the beautification project is expected to start again this spring, he added. The mayor said he wasn't sure how much the proposed improvements will cost, but added that he hopes the dance is a success. If enough funds aren't raised to pay for all of the items, LaMarca said, the committee has indicated that it will proceed piecemeal with the project in the hopes that additional funds will become available. Oakland County planning officials worked with the city last summer to come up with plans for the Maple Road beautification and the Oakland County

Road Commission and Michigan Bell Telephone Company assisted with the planting of the trees

The county staff suggested the use of skyline honey locust trees because of their upright shape, and hardiness in urban areas. The shallow-rooted tree, which grows to a height of 30- to 40-feet, with make an impressive visual impact along the road

Referring to the anniversary party, LaMarca said he hopes to name a special committee in about a month to plan the event. The committee probably will work with the city parks and recreation commission which sponsors the annual Fourth of Ju

A move to add a third judge to the court failed last year when the state legislature came up with a compromise measure to create new judgeships just before the 1978 election filing deadline.

Environmental Protection Agen- well on water levels. cy (EPA) will either reject a grant application for the proposed Wolverine Lake restoration project for require an environmental imbact statement on the plan, the Wolverine Lake Village Council decided to go it alone on a scaleddown version of the project that can be financed with local funds.

While the application for the 50percent federal grant will not be withdrawn, village officials said Turther delays in gaining EPA approval of the funds and expected higher costs of the project — now estimated at $850,000, up from the original price tag of $600,000 would make it almost impossible to begin the restoration work this make an articulate scientific

Instead, the council has taken steps to create a lake board to byersee the revised project. The four-member lake board would be asked to approve a restoration proect that calls for aeration of the lake, stump removal and the addiion of a new well, as well as recommending a special assessment district to pay for the work.

Council President John McLellan has said that the revised project would cost about $250,000, r some $50,000 less than the 300,000 that would have been generated through the special assessment district created last local matching funds for the anipated federal grant.

The winter drawdown and construction of a retention basin to the at stormwater from the Freenaway Drain, included in a revised grant application, have been dropped from the program.

One reason the village officials had for fearing a delay in gaining EPA approval of the original project were questions raised by the Commerce Lakes Study Committee and the Huron River Watershed Council. Both groups expressed concerns over possible impacts of the Wolverine Lake restoration on the downstream area, especially in terms of potential flooding, silting and nutrient source control.

The Commerce residents, in our opinion, have raised valid and important questions that must be addressed by the village.

Even though the scaled-down lake project does not include the drawdown and retention basin, the Commerce group still is concerned about the possible effects the aeration and chemical treatment of Wolverine Lake may have on North and South Commerce lakes, as well

Apparently fearing that the U. as the potential impact of the new

Less than a week before the scaled-down lake plan was unveiled, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) also raised questions on the proposed aeration and phosphorus removal phases that still will be included in

Noting that the EPA has "already raised the issue of superfluous aeration of shallow water areas" of the lake and the revised grant application submitted in January that calls for even more aeration units, the DNR suggested that the village's lake consultant "should be prepared to presentation for the necessity and efficacy of this action."

The DNR also stated that the proposed alum treatment of the lake for phosphorus removal is "highly irregular and does not conform to previous such treatments of inland lakes." The state agency also suggested proper documentation of the alum treatment pro-

Those issues still should be of concern to the village, whether a lake restoration project is financed strictly with local funds or under the 50-percent federal grant pro-

The proposed lake board would lude a representative of the DNR. McLellan and Village Ad ministrator Bill O'Brien met with the state agency last week to discuss the revised plan.

We would hope that the DNR will continue to press for answers to questions on possible effects of any lake project to downstream

The EPA already has expressed its concern over the possible impacts of the project on the downstream areas, in addition to questioning the proposed widespread use — and lack of justification — of the aeration pro-

Hopefully, the questions that have been raised on the lake project can be answered at a meeting scheduled for next Thursday in Lansing by the EPA and the DNR.

In any event, a lake restoration project — whether it is financed in part by a federal grant or entirely by village residents — should be thoroughly reviewed to make sure that Wolverine Lake's problems and the impacts of its proposed project do not become problems for downstream waterways and

It is important not to overemphasize the importance of the MEAP results. The state test is designed to measure minimal basic skills which are deemed essential to a student's progress in school.

In that sense, the test results reveal only how well a district is teaching minimal basic skills. It does not reveal how well a district is educating its students over and above those minimal objectives.

Nevertheless, Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz has correctly pointed out that the results of the MEAP tests are the most accurate and objective method available of gauging a district's performance in providing an education to its Roll back gas tax?

Despite the desperate need for additional funds to make roads safe and convenient for Oakland County motorists, I cannot support the Transportation Package adopted by the legislature in 1978. It is unfortunate the petitions seeking a referendum aim only at repealing the gas and weight tax increases that package authorized. The motorists are being led to believe repeal of the tax increases will stop the raid on their pocketbooks. In fact, other provisions of the Transportation Package will increase the raid while at the same time contributing to faster ruin of the road system. For example, the package diverts 8.3 percent of highway user money to transit. For example, the package allows transit to use future highway user taxes intended for roads to repay huge sums of borrowed money. Such future diversions will be necessary because, as creditors know, transit cannot pay for itself.

In western Oakland County, particularly, we're already seeing the impact of the diversion of highway user taxes to transit. The 8.3 percent share going to transit came almost entirely from funds for state highways. State highway officials saw this coming. Is it any wonder the State has cancelled its long-standing plans for M-275 freeway and balked on its 20-year contract to extend Northwestern Highway.

Oakland County roads are already congested and pounded with traffic that should be on state highways. Repeal of the Transportation Package entirely would go a long way toward restoring the state highway funding, and that would do more for Oakland County motorists than would the two-cent gas tax increase and 30 percent

> John L. Grubba Managing Director County Road Commission

The levels of government which build and maintain roads in Michigan have done a marvelous job of maintaining one of the country's best networks while avoiding any statewide transportation increases in tax rates for six full years notwithstanding annual increases going to all public and private sector goods and services, notwithstanding high inflation, and notwithstanding the pressures to use less gas and to downsize vehicles, all of which hurt the source of money for transportation.

The governor of the state recommended a full two years ago that the legislature give these governmental units a long overdue increase in transportation funding. The amount of the increase was only an average of $20 state's roads, to build certain essential roads, to assist the people of the state in all of their transportation needs, and, very importantly to sustain Michigan's

It is incredible that some groups would attempt to upset that increase and thereby jeopardize Michigan's economy, deceive the people into thinking that their transportation needs can be met without that increase, endanger human lives by perpetuating potholes, multiply by many times the eventual road repair cost due to protracted maintenance delay, and very likely sacrifice 🚁 a great deal of federal money due to come into this state.

Educator Bill Craft was saying something to me personally. I fear, when he sent us a copy of an article by another educator, Bernard A. Faller, Jr. of San Antonio. The article was based on the recurring theme, "They don't teach 'em to spell anymore."

Rummaging around in an old suitcase, Faller discovered yellowed school papers that astounded him. For example, one English class theme, written June 23, 1922 at the University of Colorado, was pocked with the professor's red-ink corrections in parentheses. A typical paragraph read:

In the distance a scortched (scorched) sign of chinese (Chinese) characters indicated a restaurant ... a sweltering mass of frousy (frowzy) humanity wound itself in and out of cramped doorways ... and into the turmol (turmoil) and strife of the city.

The discoveries led Faller to conclude. "Compared with the old schools, I do not think that today's schools are as bad as some people would lead us to believe. I just think that people have lowzy memories."

Ah, yes, how memories do polish tarnished pasts!

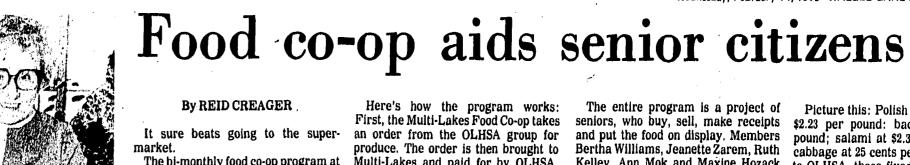

Whenever I rummage through old high school or college papers, I am, like Faller, astounded and more than a little embarrassed by the student's shortcomings. That a teacher had the courage, despite the red pocks, to persuade the student to pursue a writing career is amazing.

Faller's article was appropriately titled, "The Basics: How Far Back Is Back?" The truth of the matter is that I need not go back to old papers to find the shortcomings, They are as close as the last column pockmarked by our proofreaders. Yet, like so many others, I have the audacity to echo the "don't teach 'em anymore" theory.

That lamentation has gotten me into trouble on more than one occasion. Take penmanship, for example. A few years ago I romanticized over the penmanship classes of the "olden days." Isn't it a shame, I wrote, that "push-pulls," which made me a teacher's pet, are no longer taught.

Some ingrate in our family promptly dug out an old report card, musing over a grade in penmanship: "Does 'E' mean 'Excellent' or

- Legislative appointments cast in bitter openness

By WARREN M. HOYT

It has often been said never watch sausage and legislation being made. Add to that list the watching of appoint ment of legislative committee

For the first time in Michigan history, the appointment of Senate standing committees were made in an open forum with the end result being a bitter split among the 24 members of the Democratic majority.

Under new Senate rules, 1979 is the first year the majority leader was given the authority to make the committee assignments. Previously the leader had Ditale authority and was a pawn of the tiucus. The rule changes give the leader similar authorities as enjoyed by the Speaker of the House of Represen-

Senate Majority Leader William Faust of Westland appointed a so-called advisory committee on committees to aid him this year with the committee assignments to provide a transition from the caucus power to the leader power of making the appointments.

"In an open forum, the committee began its deliberations but it became apparent members were holding back and not saying what they felt as members of the public and press were

Finally, Faust presented the advisory committee with a list of assignments he had made depending upon education, experience and seniority.

After the committee began going through the suggested assignments, it became apparent there was another force operating and the Faust list was drastically changed placing people on committees in a hunt and peck fashion.

The major reason for the substitute list was to strip certain members of marked as targets by the powerful United Auto Workers who was asserting pressures on the group in the name

Democratic caucus for approval — also on open forum - UAW targets showed their strengths and placed the entire list in question as it had to be approved by the entire Senate.

As few as five Democratic members could - if unhappy with assignments ban with the 14-member Republican caucus and with the tie breaking vote belonging to Republican Lt. Governor James Brickley and organize and control the Senate for the next four years. Also, members supporting the substitute list could not explain specifically why certain members were placed on specific committees. When the final vote was taken, the substitute list had been rejected and Faust's original list accepted. This brought screams of breach of trust from UAW-loyal members as they reminded Faust he had continually said he would consider the recommendations of the advisory committee binding upon him in making the final appoint-

Faust responded claiming the advisory committee had been stacked against him and the committee was placing people on committees for the wrong or no reason other than getting at the UAW targets. He suggested that after the UAW stripped certain members of powers, they really did not care how the membership fell into other The appointments were then hastily approved by the full Senate avoiding any further divisiveness.

However, every member appeared to

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles prepared by The Michigan Association of Certified ablic Accountants offering advice on Miling 1978 Income Tax Returns.

Although most of the tax law revisions adopted by Congress last year did not take effect until this year, taxpayers now getting ready to prepare their returns should be aware of the changes that apply to 1978 incomes, for most of those changes benefit the taxpayer.

Among persons affected are those who: Had capital gains or losses Are 55 or over and sold their homes after July 26, 1978 Sold inherited assets that ap breciated in value after 1976 Made energy-saving modification their homes after April 19, 1977

Changed homes for employment

As for the other changes you may weve heard about - the raising of permenal exemptions, the ending of the general tax credit, the broadening of x brackets to lessen the effects of in-Mation, and the increase in the earnedincome credit to help low-income taxdayers — all those were indeed enacted, but they became effective only

Of more immediate concern, until the law was changed, 50 percent of longterm capital gains had to be added to taxable income. Now, on most gains realized after October 31, 1978, only 40 percent must be included. Because of the complexity of changes in treatment of capital gains, which make it necessary to compute gains anyone affected is likely to need professional assistance with 1978 returns. The same is true of those 55 or over who after July 26, 1978, sold a home at a profit after owning and occupying it for three of the past five years. This once in-a-lifetime exemption from capital gains tax on the first $100,000 of profit could be the biggest tax break most persons are likely to receive, so it should not be treated casually. A change adopted earlier but which became effective in 1978 and thereafter determines the length of time an asset must have been held in order to qualify for a long-term gain or loss; it is now a full year. Another earlier change provides that in 1978 a taxpayer can offset up to $3,000 of net capital losses against ordinary income. In 1977 the maximum

Anyone sharing in an estate that was settled in the past couple of years may also need professional help. The Tax Reform Act of 1976 provided for new treatment of assets inherited and sold after 1976. But Congress now has moved the start-up date for those changes back to 1980. So anyone who received a post-1976 legacy should check; they may

BUD GUEST

It was like a dream come true for Mrs. Smolarz, - a dream that she hadn't confided to anyone until last December when she told it to Sliger Home Newspapers' reporter Rich Periberg. GAIL SMOLARZ

Mrs. Smolarz says Mrs. Mastro was "just as much a treat" as the Guests. How was it sitting next to a personality that you'd listened to and laughed with for years as a radio voice? "Just great. He sounded just like he did on the radio and when he'd tell a

Century 21 Suburban Realty Inc. has been serving the Northville community for more than 12 years, and has been affiliated with Century 21 since it's conception. Originally known as Hartford 409, Inc., their office was located at what is now the Main Street service drive of Northville Square. The building has since been moved to the Mill Race. The company then moved to a 100 year old restored house on Main Street and Beal. One year ago they made a final move adjacent to Northville' historical well, also on Main Street. At that time Ruffner purchased the building that originally was the Studebaker dealership, later a camera shop, and more recently the Village Pump Antique Shop. It has been remodeled and not only contains Century 21 Suburban Realty Inc., but also accommodates Northville Saddlery, Albright Photography Studio, and R & A Furniture

Ruffner left the bricklaying trade in 1954 to go into industrial sales. In 1969 he became a realtor associate. He purchased Hartford 409. Inc. in 1974 and received his broker's license. Hartford Realty was the first group in Michigan to enter the Century 21 organization that same year.

With a present staff of sixteen full time realtors, Century 21 Suburban Realty Inc. is looking forward to servicing the Northville community in a competent professional manner in the years to come.

Ann Arbor Trust President George H. Cress said 1978 earnings reached $8.64 per compared to $7.14 in 1977, an increase of 18.5 percent. Cash dividends in 1978 were $2.50 per share versus $2.06 in 1977, up 21.4 Total assets of the trust company at December 31, 1978, were $76,550,000 compared to $75,122,000 on December 31, 1977. Cress & tributed this modest increase to three main factors:

Business

"There were unusual short term deposits during the last week of 1977 that did not reoccur in 1978. Also," he explained, "we reduced our investment in time deposits over $100,000 due to the high level of interest rates on these deposits compared to one year ago." "And finally, higher rates available in commercial paper and government bonds have slowed bank savings deposits nationally, well as here in Ann Arbor," Cress pointed out. The trust company's quarterly dividend rate has been increased by 10 cents per share to a new indicated annual rate of $2.80 per share 🖔 "This marks the sixth consecutive year that the Ann Arbor Trust Company dividend has been increased," Cress reported. "The dividend has nearly tripled in this six-year period," he said.

Chris Jordan claims award

The Arrow of Light, the highest award offered in Cub Scouting and Webelos, was presented in special ceremonies Thursday night to 11-year-old Chris Jordan. Presiding over the event was Webelos leader Dennis Flowers and Patricia Lee.

The award, according to Flowers, marks the completion of 13 activity badges including work in citizenship, science, sports and crafts. Jordan will have completed three years in scouting at the end The sixth grade student at Decker Elementary

With Nancy Dingeldey

She's warm and gracious and easily flashes a familiar smile. She's trim, tall — a very sharp looking woman by any standards. What's more, she's a former Miss America. She carries herself with ease and s loaded with confidence.

Marilyn Van DerBur spoke Wednesday night at the Southwest Oakland Educational Forum. Her talk on motivation to the assembled group of educators and parents was enthusiastically received. But, it was almost impossible to reach the lovely woman who, in the early '60s, marched down a platform to Bert Parks' rendition of "Here She Comes ... " She appeared to be an enthusiastic person as she spoke to the capacity audience at Western on her favorite topic, "Motivating

Students." I felt her sense of urgency, of prodding ... but what was she I had the opportunity to speak to her "close up" Thursday morning, sandwiched between an audience of Novi High School and then Novi Middle School students.

She speaks as rapidly off stage as she does on ... an incredible rate for note taking. She is very friendly and has an engaging manner. She laughs easily and is quick to share her enthusiasm for life.

I was delighted when she suggested we sit down. For some reason I felt like I was standing in a hole.

I apologized immediately after thrusting an icy cold hand into hers on being introduced. "Please don't worry — I'm used to the climate remember I'm from Denver," she smiled

"Your comments on your family lead me to believe you are very close. How do you fit parenting and career together? Are there problems with being away from home?" My thought was of the traveling salesman in reverse — dad's home, mom's away.

"It is not a problem because it is not made to be a problem. I have a very supportive husband who believes in what I am doing and encourages my work.

"I am rarely away from home on weekends - that's our special time together. I usually arrange my speaking engagements so that I am away from home only a portion of a week. Our little girl is quite used to the routine."

Those speaking engagements, she added, are usually booked from September to December. "From that point on they taper off until about March when I start to hit it again.' "You ski," I commented.

"Why yes, we do, at Vail. It's about a two hour drive from home and we're out on those gorgeous slopes every weekend. But then, how did you know we skied? "It just made sense — December to March is snow season," I moaned. I then asked the former Miss America if she felt her beauty title helped her in her career. "Oh, no, on the contrary, I sometimes think it was a handicap, especially with educators," she emphasized, shaking her head, "When I first started speaking on motivation before educators, they approachme like I was a dumb blonde. You know, the beauty but no brains at-

From her speaking engagements and from comments made by both adults and students, Marilyn realized the need for motivation and goal setting. She developed her "how to" kit and entered the educational field with verve.

Glancing at the clock, Marilyn began moving toward the doorway. "I wish we had more time but the children are beginning to assemble. As soon as I'm done here I'm afraid we'll be flying off to the airport.

"Those junior high students in there - they're the ones I try so hard to reach. To them, one failure marks them as a loser. None of them really are." I managed to squeeze in one last question - "Do parents expect too much from their children?' "It's a case, I think, of just too many choices. I call it over-choice. Narrow the field somewhat and let them gain their successes little by little rather than meeting with what they consider constant failures in many areas," she advised Laughing, she added, "You know, one of the high school students told me he was analyzing my speech this morning. He said that according to his speech teachers, I had to re-enforce his attention at least every 12 minutes."

Moving through the door, the striking woman waved, flashed her brilliant smile one last time and added, "I guess I must have done a pretty good job. He said I recaptured him every two minutes."
