Walled Lake students plan exhibit

The unique and creative ideas of Walled Lake students as expressed through various art medias will be on display during "Arts Festival '79" at the Twelve Oaks Mall. The three-day show will open April 27 and continue through April 29 at the Novi shopping mall during regular hours.

Walled Lake school officials regard the second annual fine arts show as a rare opportunity for everyone to view the creative projects produced by students throughout the year.

Visitors to the festival will be able to see the progression of art skills from lower elementary through senior high school art. Drawing, painting, sculpture, weaving, batiks, and jewelry are only a few of the types of media on display.

More than 1,000 works of art will be centered in the Lord and Taylor wing and spread toward center court of the shopping facility. According to chairperson Carol Socks-Parker, this year's event will find the art works grouped by school in a variety of backgrounds and settings.

The music departments of the school system also will be featured during the festival with a variety of concerts and performances scheduled throughout the weekend.

On Friday, April 27 from 11-11:30 a.m., the Walled Lake Central High School band under the direction of Thomas Stubbs will present a mini-concert in the mall's center court.

Dramatics will be in focus Saturday at 11:30 a.m. when students from Clifford Smart Junior High School present a play under the direction of Hugh Schulkins. The play will be repeated at 2 p.m.

A musical interlude will be offered by the Walled Lake Junior High School band under the baton of David Schade from 1-1:30 p.m.

Other scheduled performances will include appearances by The Westernaires and the Shades of Silver, vocal ensembles from Western High School.

Modern dance performed by Western's modern dance club will be spotlighted at 3:15 p.m. Saturday. The club is under the direction of Barb Lamb.

Adding one last note of music to the three-day festival will be a performance on Sunday at 2 p.m. by the Walled Lake Junior High School Orchestra. Those students will be led by Pat Kopp.

Novi Jaycees

The Novi Jaycees have changed their meeting place from the Holiday Inn to the library in the Novi Community Center. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, May 1.

The Jaycees will make plans for the upcoming state convention on May 11-13, and Gala Days Chairman Rick Eaton will report on plans for the event which will be held in the early part of June.

Paul LaPlae will head up the Jaycees' involvement in the Memorial Day Parade. The local chapter will hold its installation and awards banquet on June 1.

Novi Girl Scouts

Several courses for leaders will be available in the upcoming weeks. A course entitled "Moving to Cadettes" will be offered on Thursday, May 3, at 7:30 p.m. and a course entitled "Moving to Juniors" will be offered on Tuesday, May 8, at 7:30 p.m.

The last chance to take a troop camping course also is coming up in the immediate future. Additional information on courses available for leaders may be obtained at 559-7510.

Day campers are reminded that it's time to get in registrations for Camp Arapaho in Warren's Woods on Haggerty Road. The day camp will be offered Monday through Thursday for two consecutive weeks (July 23 to August 2). Call Director Geegee Knutsen at 348-2646 for more information.

Cancer Society

Local Cancer Society Representative Carol Ann Donnelly reports that the "Michigan Cook's Collection" will be available shortly.

The special cookbook features two special sections. One of those sections contains 20 outstanding recipes for microwave ovens. The other special section contains unique recipes from 29 of Michigan's most famous restaurants. The London Chop House, the Grand Hotel, and Win Schulers have all contributed recipes to the restaurant section.

Mrs. Donnelly will be heading up the sale of the cookbooks locally. The books will be available in front of the A&P Store on Ten Mile on Friday, Saturday and Sunday (May 4-6) from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

The books are priced at $5 apiece and make lovely Mother's Day presents.

Nine Walled Lake churches mark May Fellowship Day

Nine churches in the Walled Lake area will celebrate May Fellowship Day on Friday, May 4, at the Orchard Lake Community Presbyterian Church. The day will be marked around the nation by over 2,000 units of Church Women United who join in ecumenical service and fellowship.

May Fellowship Day will focus its attention on the 1979 International Year of the Child. Participants will be called on to consider the needs of children in local communities and become advocates for children in this country and around the world. The day will feature a noon service followed by a luncheon celebration. Child care will be provided during both activities.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Mary Otto, Assistant Professor of Education in Guidance, Counseling, and Human Resource Development at Oakland University.

Dr. Otto has worked with Catholic Social Services as a counselor in the family unit dealing with married couples, families and individuals. She also has directed and developed a crisis intervention program in Indianapolis and has instructed a training program in substance abuse for the Michigan office of Substance Abuse Services.

Her concern and expertise in child-parent relationships are reflected in a recent article, "Discovering Role Expectations for Parenting," and by two television appearances on the subject of child abuse.

Dr. Otto's extensive background and experience as well as her role of wife and mother qualifies her to speak on the needs and rights of the child. A free-will offering will be taken during the service with those funds designated to the CWU goal of $15,000 to help the disadvantaged children of the world.

A salad luncheon will be served in the church fellowship hall at no charge. Mothers are asked to bring a bag lunch for their children.

The ecumenical time of service and fellowship is open to the public. All are invited to celebrate "Our Children: Our Promise," the theme designated for the day.

HF4 to construct center for treatment of alcoholism

Alcoholism is a problem that affects the lives of more than 10 million American men and women of all ages. In Oakland, Wayne, and Macomb counties alone, one out of every 15 people has a drinking problem.

As much as eight percent of the work force in the car capital has significant problems with alcohol, with another two percent addicted to other substances, according to authorities.

Henry Ford Hospital with the support of the automobile companies, which want to offer help to their employees, has planned a program to provide a new access to treatment and an alternative to alcohol.

The hospital has received state approval and will break ground this summer for the construction of a health care center in West Bloomfield for the treatment of alcoholism.

Completion of the 40,000 square foot facility which will be called Maplegrove is expected in December 1980. The $3 million project will be built entirely from private contributions on the site of the hospital's West Bloomfield outpatient center on Maple Road.

The Ford Motor Company, reinforcing its support with dollars, already has pledged a major gift to the project.

The treatment center's program has been modeled after the Donwood Institute in Toronto which incorporates medical care with counseling, education and research, and focuses on the total health needs of patients and their families.

The facility will also serve as a source for community education.

The building will house a maximum of 50 patients and will include sleeping quarters, dining areas, recreational space, therapy and staff areas, a detoxification unit and examining areas. It is designed to provide a non-industrial, home-like, yet functional setting for treatment. The country-like atmosphere of the tree-filled site is integral since exercise is an important phase of treatment.

Henry Ford Hospital, a comprehensive health care delivery system in southeastern Michigan, integrates a 1,049 bed hospital in Detroit and three suburban centers staffed by more than 3000 full time medical specialists.

Clinical and scientific research and medical education augment the health care provided by the 64-year-old institution founded by Henry Ford.

Record housing starts predicted by Novi officials

In the Novi Building Department they are calling it an explosion.

The frantic amount of building activity in the department has prompted officials to predict new highs in the number of residential homes in Novi which will go up in the upcoming building season.

Building Official Edward Bailey optimistically reported he expects between 600 and 800 homes to go up across the city this building season.

He explained there are 3,000 lots which could be developed this year. After listening to builders and their plans for the building season, Bailey said he expects 800 homes to be built.

Bailey reported there has been increased activity among builders during the past three or four months. His figures are arrived at by determining the stages of the builders' plans.

City Manager Ed Kriewall also said he could foresee that amount of construction taking place in the upcoming building season. He explained that historically the city knows that builders usually can complete between 50 and 60 homes in a building season.

When the city had only several active builders, construction levels remained fairly constant with housing completions hovering near 250 units over the past several years. Last year 279 homes were completed.

Now with as many as three times the number of builders undertaking construction in the city, the normal quota of houses is likely to show a proportionate increase, Kriewall explained.

Housing completions this year have already jumped over what they were one year ago. Figures from the month of March show 44 homes had been completed in 1978, while this year 69 homes had been finished during the same period.

City officials are looking for development in a number of subdivisions across the city including Cedar Springs on Ten Mile east of Taft, which has homes being built by Pulte Homes and Panorama Homes; and Howell's Walled Lake subdivision on Novi Road near Thirteen Mile which reportedly is nearly completed.

In addition housing activity is seen in Turtle Creek where three different builders are all putting in homes. In Whispering Meadows at Nine Mile and Haggerty, the Robert Binder Building Company and Wiseman-Winter Building Corporation have homes under construction.

Several sales representatives of those builders confirmed the predictions of city officials.

Arlene Yanowitz of the Binder Builder Company said they anticipate having 75 homes built in Novi during the coming year. She indicated that homes are in various stages of construction since some were begun last summer.

She indicated prices on those homes will range from between $75,990 to $85,990.

In one of the Pulte developments, a sales representative said 40 homes are now under construction in Jamestown Green. Their price range runs from $77,990 to $82,990.

Pulte is also constructing homes in a subdivision named Lexington Green at Nine Mile and Taft and in the Cedar Springs Subdivision.

Representatives of the Robert Rosin builders which is constructing homes in the Simmons Orchard subdivision on Ten Mile west of Taft indicated they had no figures on housing starts available for release.

Figures also were not available for one of the more active developments — the Turtle Creek Subdivision.

City officials and residents maintain the dilapidated dock is a navigational hazard and an eyesore

From Glantz property

City renews bid to remove dock

Another attempt to receive permission to proceed with demolition of the 500-foot dock which is sinking into Walled Lake will be made in court next week.

Novi City Attorney David Fried is scheduled to face-off in circuit court Tuesday against Gabriel Glantz, representing Franchise Expositions, as the city tries one more time to obtain a court order to have the dock removed.

Fried said last week he thought the city nearly had the go-ahead needed to get the deteriorating dock removed when, in the midst of the trial, Glantz agreed to demolish the dock.

In court Glantz said he would be willing to remove the dock if he would be allowed to rebuild the dock at a future date without interference from the city, according to Fried's account.

Glantz told Judge Robert Webster he would rebuild the dock according to all city ordinances — if he ever did decide to rebuild it.

At that time, Fried indicated that such an agreement would probably be acceptable to the city and he was prepared to recommend such a court settlement to the city council.

However, when he returned to his office on Monday, he had received a letter from Glantz which indicated he actually did not want to remove the whole dock, Fried reported. Instead, he proposed being allowed to leave 200 feet of it standing.

In his report to the council Monday night, Fried indicated that since this would not be acceptable he would return to court next week in an attempt to have the dock removed.

The city first took Glantz to court in an attempt to have the dock demolished in 1974 when residents complained the deteriorating dock was a hazard to boat navigation plus a danger to youngsters playing in the area.

The dock was subsequently rebuilt while the suit was pending. Franchise Expositions was allowed to leave the dock standing — as long as it was not used for commercial purposes.

However, during the past winter, the dock again began to crumble into the lake and the court proceedings were again filed by the city.

Residents of the area are once more raising complaints about the dock. Larry Kern, president of the Northern Novi Civic Association, told the council recently that pieces of the dock are floating through the lake and homeowners are concerned.

City Manager Ed Kriewall reported that the city has been trying to do several different things to resolve the problem, and all have created more problems for the city.

"Either we end up in court or in legal entanglements," Kriewall said. "At every turn we have faced legal problems. There were jurisdictional problems in determining who was responsible for policing the dock. We've tried various means to have that dock removed."

In addition to the court battle over removal of the dock, the city was sued by Glantz after it placed a road barricade across the driveway of the former Walled Lake Casino property. The city alleged the driveway was creating a traffic hazard as cars tried to enter traffic at Thirteen Mile and Novi Road.

The case was started in March 1977 after the city erected the barricade on the property. In court documents, Glantz claimed he had incurred damages through loss of income and through reduced value of his property.

He is seeking damages amounting to $350,000 for those losses plus $1 million in punitive damages.

In another case, Glantz had gone to court in an attempt to have the city's ordinance regulating the licensing of docks declared invalid. He failed in attempts at both the circuit and appellate courts.

Other pending cases involve the paving of Thirteen Mile. Glantz lost a bid before the state tax tribunal protesting his assessment for the paving because he filed the protest after the 30-day appeal period had ended.

He also has questioned the city's right to take his property along Thirteen Mile for public use. That case is currently under mediation.

When contacted regarding the pending litigation on the dock, Glantz told The News he had no comment.

Trade center faces hearing for rezoning

A rezoning request that will pave the way for construction of a major trade center in the regional center area will be considered by the Novi Planning Board at a public hearing tonight (Wednesday).

Representatives of Trade Association Center, Inc., are scheduled to appear before the planning board with a request for the rezoning of approximately 25 acres to a RC (regional center) classification.

The public hearing will be held in the Jacob and Rebecca Fuerst Room of the Novi Public Library at 7:30 p.m.

Proposed for development on the 25 acre parcel is a 244-room hotel, a 60,000 square foot convention center and approximately 125,000 squre feet of finished office space.

The moving force behind the development of the trade center is the Michigan Women's and Children's Apparel Association, an organization of wholesalers in the garment industry.

Nickolas Booras, president of Trade Association Center, has reported that the proposed development is in response to a tremendous demand for hotel rooms in the Novi area as well as a need for convention and exhibition facilities which not only have access to Detroit Metropolitan Airport but can service Detroit's growing western suburbs as well.

Booras also reported that the project will be similar in scope to the Dallas (Texas) Apparel Mart which acts as a regional showplace for new fashions where manufacturers and buyers come together approximately 60 times per year to display and sell tomorrow's fashions.

Although the Dallas Apparel Mart draws retailers from all 50 states, the proposed Novi trade center is expected to be regional in nature and draw from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, according to Booras.

The developers of the project maintain that ultimately over 600 people will be employed or work in the trade center, exclusive of visitors to the hotel and convention hall.

Norb Boes, a partner in the Trade Association Center, reported that the hotel, convention center and office building will be contained in three attached buildings.

The hotel will consist of five levels, but will only stand three stories above the convention center because of the variation in the grade of the land. The main entrance to the hotel will be on the second level.

The office building will be four stories in height and the convention center will be approximately 24 feet in height.

Boes reported that the buildings will be contemporary in design and will be architecturally coordinated to provide a homogenous single development appearance.

Montgomery Ward shopping center

West Oaks presents site plans

But plans for the development of the shopping center are beginning to move ahead.

"West Oaks" is the name selected by Ramco-Gershenson to describe its shopping center on a 37-acre parcel on the west side of Novi Road opposite the regional shopping center.

The major tenant in the proposed 245,000 square foot shopping center will be a Montgomery Ward store which is expected to occupy some 155,000 square feet in the overall development.

Also proposed on the site is a Service Merchandise Catalogue Store, an auto service center of approximately 15,000 square feet and 14-18 small retail stores.

The development has been described as a "sister center" to a mall being constructed by Ramco-Gershenson across from the Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights. That shopping center also will include Montgomery Wards, Service Merchandise Catalogue, an auto service center and 14-18 related retail uses.

Building permits for the Sterling Heights development were secured by Ramco-Gershenson representatives last week.

Representatives of the Southfield-based firm are scheduled to appear before the Novi Planning Board tonight (Wednesday)with a request for site plan approval of their Novi development.

The rezoning of the 37-acre parcel was approved by the Novi City Council in November, but various delays have prevented Ramco-Gershenson from coming in for site plan approval until the present time.

Michael Ward, an executive vice-president with Ramco Gershenson, reported last week that the construction timetable is still uncertain.

"We're hoping that the site plan review process will be expedient, but it's not as simple as it used to be," said Ward. Ramco-Gershenson has applied for development under the city's PD (planned development) option which requires more stringent site plan review procedures.

One of the additional requirements under the PD options is preparation of a traffic impact study. Ramco-Gershenson retained the services of Reid, Cool and Michalski, a firm of professional traffic consultants, to prepare the traffic impact study. The study has been completed and will be presented to the planning board at tonight's meeting.

Ward estimated that it may take 60 days to obtain all the approvals from city officials before additional work on the development can get underway. He indicated further that it will require another 90 days to complete final engineering drawings and an additional 30 days to bid the project.

That figures out to a total of approximately six months which would push initial groundbreaking back into October or November.

"It's going to be difficult to get into the ground this year," admitted Ward. "If everything goes smoothly from this point on, the Novi development probably will run a year behind our Sterling Heights project."

Ward added that he foresees little problem with financing, however. He said that the Mobil Oil Company, which owns Montgomery Ward, is standing behind the development and has allocated money for construction in the present year's budget.

Ward also reported that he has "a slew of prospective tenants" for West Oaks.

"The leasing in Sterling Heights has been excellent and Novi has the same two anchors (Montgomery Ward and Service Merchandise Catalogue)," he said.

The Ramco-Gershenson executive added that many of the Sterling Heights tenants also have expressed an interest in the Novi development. In fact, he stated that the Sterling Heights tenants have asked for a clause in their lease agreements which gives them "first refusal" rights in Novi.

In other words, the clause requires Ramco-Gershenson to offer the 14-18 retail sites in West Oaks to its Sterling Heights tenants before making them available to other interested parties.

School board to view Fuerst Farm plans

Plans for renovation and possible uses of the Fuerst Farm buildings will be presented to the Novi School Board at its regular meeting Thursday.

A committee which has been studying possible uses of the farm will present its recommendation for the school board's review.

In its recommendation the committee has proposed using the farm as a learning laboratory where persons can develop skills ranging from academics to self-confidence.

They have suggested the farm be developed over five years in three stages: barnyard and gardening could be developed in the first phase, farm and gardens could be expanded in the second phase and advanced farming practices could be developed in the third stage.

Throughout the phases various renovations of the farm are recommended and completion of renovations and new construction in the third phase.

The committee also recommends that a full-time teacher will eventually be needed to manage the farm. Farm guides also may be needed in the future to conduct tours and special activities.

Specific concepts that students would be expected to learn and a wide variety of activities which could be used to teach them also are recommended.

A specific program which outlines a path of study that students could be expected to follow as they proceed from kindergarten through twelfth grade also was included in an original draft of the recommendation.

Additionally the committee recommends that every teacher in the district can take advantage of the farm facilities in conjunction with their regular classwork.

It also is recommended that a certified teacher with experience in agriculture and natural resources should be hired to manage the farm and garden center.

The committee also set goals for areas they believed could be taught at the center.

The recommendation will be perused by the school board which will be asked to consider the plans drawn up by the committee at a future meeting. Ultimately the board will determine whether this or any other type of educational program is developed at the Fuerst Farm.

Merit system planned for Novi management

A policy which will base salary raises for management and non-union positions on a merit system is currently being developed for Novi city employees.

Presently the city has no formal policy for granting raises or benefits for such positions. It also follows only informal policies for disciplining and evaluating performance of employees.

The merit system would establish an administrative pay plan where department heads and all non-union positions would receive a classification similar to the union-classification plan currently in effect for other city positions.

Classification would be related to job performance and responsibility and salaries would be adjusted according to classification. Council would be responsible for approving the classification raises as it currently approves adjustments in the union contracts.

Assistant City Manager Alex Allie explained that the new pay plan and method of approving raises is implied in the city charter. Details of the plan should be worked out within 45 days he told the council in recent budget talks.

Council members learned the administrative salaries proposed in the upcoming year show a seven percent increase across the board. Average salary for those positions comes to about $20,000, but the salaries actually range from a high of about $35,000 down to $11,000.

Justification for the establishment of a merit system was shown to the council in the recent budget work session. Council members learned that by comparison management personnel are getting a lesser package than union personnel under the current system.

Figures presented to the council showed that while union employees in the police department receive benefits which make up 37.5 percent of their salary, administrative personnel receive only 14.7 percent of their salary in benefits.

Since the city does not have a merit system devised in time for inclusion into the budget for the upcoming year it has been proposed the management personnel and non-union employees be granted a 7.7 percent salary increase plus $416.

Originally the administration proposed the $416 as a cost of living allowance in order to bring the administrative packages more in line with those received by the union.

But Mayor Romaine Roethel objected to labelling the raise a "cost of living allowance (COLA)." She said she objected to the principal of management receiving a COLA. Other council members agreed they did not want the city bound to COLAs for management in future years.

Roethel requested instead that the management personnel be given high percentage raises and eliminate the amount designated as COLA.

Allie explained it was not the administration's intent to build a COLA into the management package, but merely to establish equity.

Council members will consider the administrative pay package along with other items in the proposed budget at future budget sessions slated for May 7 and May 14.

Hospital framework

Framework of the new Providence Hospital ambulatory care facility in Novi is already up and extending into the skyline. Providence Hospital, which is presently operating an ambulatory care facility in a temporary structure at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road, hopes to be able to move into its new facility prior to the end of the summer. Initial construction plans call for two buildings to be erected, but site plans provide ultimately for the construction of five buildings on the 10-acre site at the northwest corner of Ten Mile and Haggerty Roads. City battles restraining order

Attorneys for the city and a tobacco store which has contested Novi's ordinance prohibiting the sale of drug-related paraphernalia were scheduled to meet in court again Tuesday (after our deadline).

The store is trying to obtain an extension of a court order which prohibits the city from enforcing the paraphernalia ordinance.

A court order halting the city from issuing violations of the ordinance expired Monday. The owners of Tobacco Road, Inc. were seeking a further restraining order while the court hears the case challenging the constitutionality of the new ordinance.

Despite the fact the court order expired Monday, police were not ordered to proceed with an investigation of the merchandise on sale in the store, Fried indicated.

The ordinance imposes a 90-day sentence or a fine of up to $500 for anyone convicted of selling drug-related paraphernalia in the city.

Specifically, the ordinance prohibits the sale or display of hypodermic needles, cocaine spoons, marijuana pipes and empty gelatin caps, by citing them as examples of drug-related paraphernalia.

The store owners contend the ordinance forces them to either stop doing business or proceed at their own peril.

Their suit maintains that they could incur numerous fines or jail terms by attempting to conduct their business of selling pipes and related gift items.

Further the company charges in its case that the ordinance violates the first, fifth, fourteenth and eighth amendments of the United States Constitution.

The case is being heard in U.S. District Court by Judge Patricia Boyle.

Novi schools face cut in Title One funding

The government giveth and the government taketh away — at least that is the way school funding has been going lately.

Novi school board members have learned of yet another funding cut the schools will be receiving for the upcoming school year.

In the present school year, the district received $98,333 in funds for the Title One program. Next year the school district will receive only 85 percent of that amount, an estimated $83,587. And the following year Novi schools will receive 85 percent of the 1979-80 allocation.

A committee has been established by the school administration to deal with the cuts which will eventually affect the Title I programs currently in operation at Novi Woods, as well as remedial reading and math programs at Novi Woods and the middle schools. A summer program also will be affected.

The committee is studying means to reduce expenditures in light of the reduced funding the district will be receiving in upcoming years.

Superintendent Gerald said rumors that the funding cuts would cause the district to end its Title One program at the middle school next year were unfounded. However, Kratz also indicated he was uncertain how long the program would be continued beyond next year.

The superintendent said the formula used to determine the amount of Title One aid a school district will receive has been adjusted so that Novi will continue to receive less and less aid in upcoming years.

The formula is based upon the student population from low income families. That number has continued to decline, leaving the district with decreasing Title One funding.

As the number of students from low income families in the district drops further, the district could continue to receive even less funding. The Title One committee will make recommendations to deal with such a situation and show where cuts can be made, according to Kratz.

Five may be hired

Special CETA funds available for dispatchers?

Five new civilian dispatchers may be hired for the Walled Lake Police Department under a federal comprehensive employment and training act (CETA) special project program, City Manager Peter Parker said this week.

Parker said Monday that he had heard that Oakland County's application for some $6- or $8-million in federal funds under the new CETA program has been approved. The manager said he is waiting for official confirmation.

In a recent memo to the city council, the manager said the city could hire the new dispatchers under the 18-month special project program because of lower average yearly salaries for the employees. New CETA guidelines set an average annual salary of $8,690 and place a $13,200 cap on yearly wages for anyone hired under the federal program.

Because of the new guidelines, Parker recently informed the council in his annual budget message that the CETA program, as the city has known it, should not be continued in the 1979-80 fiscal year. As a result, the manager recommended that one DPW laborer and one janitor who were hired under CETA should be transferred to the regular general fund budget, while five other federally funded positions would be dropped.

The only CETA positions included in the manager's proposed budget were for three new civilian dispatchers.

If the special project is approved, Parker said he will suggest that some $80,000 in CETA funds under the new program should be added to the budget. Funds allocated under another CETA entitlement for the three dispatchers already in the budget possibly may be shifted to other departments, he added.

Among the five CETA posts Parker plans to drop are one of the four police-fire dispatchers and two civilian dispatchers. Two other CETA civilian dispatchers resigned last fall, but have not been replaced, according to Police Chief Wilford Hook.

In order to hire the new dispatchers at the lower average annual salaries, Parker said the city had to obtain the cooperation and approval of the union that represents Walled Lake's police officers and police-fire dispatchers.

Parker said he met Friday with Patrolman Bill Nicholas, the union's chief steward, who said there should be no problem in hiring the new CETA employees. The manager said he expects a letter from the union approving a waiver of contract requirements in order to implement the new program.

Approval of the CETA special project program would be "extremely beneficial" to the city, Parker said, because:

- The five new dispatchers would provide 24-hour, seven-day per week coverage.
- Higher-paid police and fire employees would not have to spend as much time performing dispatching duties.
- The police-fire dispatchers could concentrate more on their fire-related duties.
- Vacation and time-off schedules could be met.

Parker says city manager should be highest paid

The Walled Lake City Council should adopt a policy to make the city's top administrator the highest-paid employee, City Manager Peter Parker suggested in his recent budget message.

Parker, who was appointed as manager in December 1976, has said before that then Mayor William T. Roberts assured him that he would be the city's highest-paid employee. The manager has raised the same issue several times in the past year when council members discussed a proposed salary increase and created a committee to draft a first-ever contract for the top administrator.

In his April 16 budget message, Parker said the council should adopt a policy that would make the manager the "top paid employee of the city and adopt a minimum percentage amount the administrator should earn based on job responsibilities (and other factors) over that of the next highest paid employee."

The manager's proposed policy was suggested in a section of the budget report that outlined a new pay plan for other department heads. Noting that the council asked him a year ago to come up with a procedure for granting raises to department heads, Parker said he developed the plan using three criteria: union settlements; degree of job responsibility; and number of employees supervised.

"The proposed pay plan, generally speaking, keeps pace with the wage increase received by other unionized city employees and maintains the seven-percent average wage guidelines suggested in the wage and price stability plan by President Carter," Parker said.

He added that the proposed pay plan "would provide definite percentage increases over the different classes of department heads."

At present, Police Chief Wilford Hook is the highest-paid city employee and, under Parker's proposed budget, he would remain at the top of the pay scale.

The current budget, as adopted by the council last year, includes the following salaries for department heads: Hook, $22,404; DPW Superintendent John Nail, $21,673; Clerk-Treasurer Ruby Lewandowski, $19,628; and Building Inspector Earl Glaspie, $17,000 plus a $1,200 car allowance.

With basic raises, cost-of-living-allowance (COLA) adjustments and longevity, the proposed 1979-80 spending plan sets the following department heads' salaries: Hook, $24,702; Nail, $23,581; Mrs. Lewandowski, $21,692; and Glaspie, $20,176 plus the $1,200 car allowance.

Parker, so far, has not received a raise for 1978-79 except for an estimated COLA adjustment of $1,800 for a total salary of $20,700.

Council members delayed consideration of a raise for the manager last May when the suggestion was made to come up with a contract for the city's top administrator. Several attempts to approve a raise since that time have been tabled either because of the uncompleted managerial contract or due to negotiations with the nine-member union that represents clerical and DPW employees. Some council members indicated that it would be better to hold up Parker's raise instead of possibly influencing the union's position by granting a certain percentage increase for the manager.

A draft copy of the proposed contract with Parker has been sent to council members, although it is unclear when it will be considered. A tentative agreement between the union and city has been ratified by both sides, except for one controversial section that the council wants renegotiated.)

Parker's proposed 1979-80 budget, however, shows a 9.5 percent raise for himself for the 1978-79 fiscal year that would put his salary at $22,500. Parker said Monday that he just used the 9.5 percent figure to make sure funds would be available to provide a retroactive raise for the current year and added that he has had no indication from council members as to how much of an increase they are considering.

If the council goes along with the 9.5 percent hike for 1978-79 Parker apparently would be the highest paid city employee by about $100 over Hook.

For the coming year, the manager has budgeted a $24,500 salary for himself and a $104 COLA adjustment for a total of $24,604, or about $100 less than the police chief's proposed pay for 1979-80.

Since joining the city, Parker also has received an $1,800 annual car allowance. For the new fiscal year, he has proposed a hike of $100 to $1,900.

Public safety, lighting top revenue sharing

Walled Lake city officials expect to receive — and spend — some $90,000 in federal revenue sharing funds during the 1979-80 fiscal year.

In his recent budget message to the city council, City Manager Peter Parker said he has attempted to reflect "considerably less reliance on federal revenue sharing monies" in various budget funds because of the anticipated end of the program in September 1980.

The manager's proposed revenue sharing program does not include monies for the major and local road funds, as in past years, and the cost of rubbish removal services has been shifted from the federal aid program to a new local tax levy in the proposed budget. Even with the proposed 1.14-mills rubbish collection levy, the city's total tax rate would remain at 22.4 mills, Parker said.

"Revenue sharing monies were never intended to be used to support the operations of respective departmental-fund budgets," Parker said. "Such monies were to be used for 'one show' or single purchases so that the impact on respective budgets would not be so severe when and if the program funding terminated."

In the past two years, the city has allocated a total of $31,860 in federal funds to support local and major road operating and maintenance programs. Another $61,200 in revenue sharing monies has been budgeted in the last two years for rubbish removal services.

Parker's proposed revenue sharing plan includes:

- $31,000 for public safety to buy two new police vehicles, equipment for the police and fire department, a tornado warning siren and help pay for the installation of a traffic signal.
- $23,200 to cover the cost of street lighting.
- $14,600 to purchase a power jet machine, lawn mowers and pay half the cost of a backhoe for the DPW.
- $8,100 for playground equipment and activities for the parks and recreation commission.
- $7,000 to implement the traffic study recommendations of the Goodell-Grivas consulting firm.
- $4,100 to buy a cash register and mimeograph machine for the city clerk's office.
- $1,000 each for the library fund and the beautification committee.

The total of $90,000 is some $10,000 less than the amount budgeted for the federal program funds in each of the last two years. Monies generated under the federal program represent a little less than four percent of the city's total revenues in the manager's proposed $2,266,992 budget.

Wixom purchases Lottie Chambers' property

Purchase of the former Lottie Chambers residence has been authorized by the Wixom City Council.

The property is located immediately west of the existing municipal complex on Pontiac Trail and comprises approximately one acre in a 132 by 132 foot configuration.

Mrs. Chambers is a longtime Wixom resident who recently moved to Minnesota to live with her sister.

She was a member of the first village council and a member of the first city council in Wixom.

Mayor Lillian Spencer told the council last week that the city has been interested in acquiring the property for some time and that Mrs. Chambers had indicated previously that she would sell the parcel to the city when she was ready to move.

Councilman Gunnar Mettala noted that the land on which the municipal complex presently is located was purchased from Mrs. Chambers many years ago.

"She has always said that she would sell the rest of her land to the city and our city hall has been designed on the premise that we would eventually acquire her property," stated the councilman.

The purchase agreement sets the price of the residence and property at $50,000. The city will put $10,000 down on a land contract and pay off the balance of the contract at eight percent interest with a minimum monthly payment of $400.

The purchase agreement also calls for the land contract to be paid off within five years.

City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli reported that the $50,000 purchase price had been termed "reasonable" by City Assessor Wynn Berry.

Mettala also called the purchase price "very, very reasonable in terms of property values along Pontiac Trail.

Mayoral Assistant Stephen Bonczek stated that acquisition of the property will enable the city to plan for future expansion without having to infringe on recreational facilities at the rear of the municipal complex.

Initial plans call for the city to construct an access drive for the police facility in the west end of city hall. A garage on the site will be used for storage of police and DPW vehicles.

Mrs. Spencer said the city had hoped to be able to rent out the residence until such time as the property was needed for expansion of the municipal building. However, the city attorney has advised that rental of the building is prohibited under state law.

The $10,000 down payment will be taken from the city's fund equity account, while the monthly payments in the land contract will be taken from the general fund.

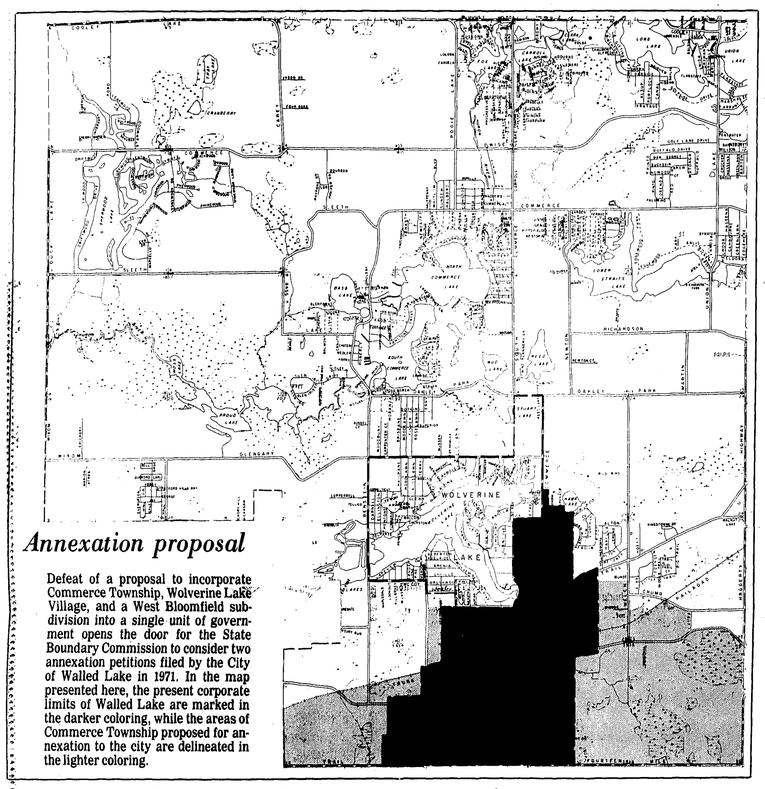
Schools schedule second millage vote



Annexation proposal

Defeat of a proposal to incorporate Commerce Township, Wolverine Lake Village, and a West Bloomfield subdivision into a single unit of government opens the door for the State Boundary Commission to consider two annexation petitions filed by the City of Walled Lake in 1971. In the map presented here, the present corporate limits of Walled Lake are marked in the darker coloring, while the areas of Commerce Township proposed for annexation to the city are delineated in the lighter coloring.

First bid fails by 2-1 margin

Walled Lake's school board has decided to return to the voters with another request for a four mill increase in the operational levy in the regular school election on June 11.

Board members decided Monday to take the request for four additional mills for a one-year period back to the voters in the wake of an overwhelming defeat of the identical proposal in a special election Monday.

Voters rejected the board's request for a four-mill increase by more than a two-to-one margin. Specifically, the request was turned down by a margin of 2,313 to 1,077.

The millage proposal was defeated substantially in each of the eight precincts in the Walled Lake district.

The four mill request would produce approximately $1.7 million in additional revenues for the school district. School officials have stated that the $1.7 million in additional revenues is necessary for the district to maintain its present level of operations without having to cut staff and programs.

As a result of the defeat of the millage proposal in Monday's election, the board already has started the process of eliminating staff. Specifically, the board voted unanimously to notify a total of 43 teachers that their employment contracts will be terminated at the end of the present school year (see related story).

The decision to take an identical millage proposal back to the voters on June 11 was approved by a 6-1 margin with Trustee Stephen Lasher casting the lone dissenting ballot.

Superintendent Don Sheldon recommended that the identical request be returned to the voters in the June 11 election, but also outlined four alternative courses of action for board consideration.

(1) Accept the will of the electorate and cut both staff and programs to correspond with available revenues.

Sheldon stated that he found the alternative impossible to accept because of the nature of the cutbacks which would have to be enacted.

(2) Reduce the size of the millage request to two or three mills.

Board 'pink slips' 43 following millage loss

Forty-three teachers in the Walled Lake School District have received termination notices as school officials begin cutbacks in the wake of Monday's millage defeat.

And Superintendent Don Sheldon has served notice that elimination of teaching positions is only the first step in the process of reducing expenditures.

"The pink slips that have been issued to these very fine teachers do not represent all the cuts that will be made," cautioned the superintendent at a special board meeting Monday.

"We're also going to have to cut programs and non-teaching personnel in order to come to grips with the restraints of the budget," he stated.

A special board meeting has been scheduled for next Monday (May 7) to discuss further cutbacks in the school budget. The meeting will be held in board offices at 8 p.m.

Sheldon gave no indication as to what additional cutbacks will be eliminated. In prevous meetings, however, several alternatives that include half-day sessions have been mentioned.

The board voted unanimously to issue termination notices to 43 teachers Monday in order to comply with contractual commitments.

The collective bargaining agreement with the teachers' union stipulates that termination notices be issued at least 30 days prior to the final day of school.

Assistant Superintendent for Business Harry Carlson reported that termination of the 43 teachers will produce a savings of approximately $600,000. However, Carlson also noted that the process of terminating the teachers carries with it some additional financial exposure.

Specifically, teachers in the state are not eligible for unemployment benefits during the summer as along as they are provided reasonable assurance that they will return to teaching positions in the fall.

By issuing termination notices at this point in time, the board has left itself open to have to pay unemployment benefits to the 43 teachers during the summer.

Concerns about having to pay unemployment benefits to the 43 teachers was one of the factors in the board's decision to return to the voters with a second request for four mills on June 11.

If the millage is approved in June, the termination notices will be recalled. As a result, teachers will have "reasonable assurance" of employment in September and will not be eligible to receive unemployment benefits during the summer.

The 43 teachers who have been issued termination notices include 10 senior high teachers, seven junior high teachers and 26 elementary teachers.

Although the board is required by the collective bargaining unit to lay off non-tenured teachers first, termination notices also have been issued to 13 tenured teachers.

Junior high teachers who have been pink slipped include Denise Kin and John VanHull from Clifford Smart and Deborah Remer, William Christian, Tim Hein, Gary Uhazie and Debbie O'Neill from Walled Lake Junior High.

Elementary school teachers who have been pink slipped include:

—Krista Kassner at Decker;

—Pat Withers, Janice Cole and Jacquelin Schott at Wixom;

Approval unlikely, though

State must act on annexation

By DAVID RAY

Now that voters in Commerce, Wolverine Lake and a West Bloomfield subdivision have overwhelmingly rejected cityhood, the Michigan State Boundary Commission will process two eight-year-old petitions from the city of Walled Lake to annex portions of Commerce.

Since Commerce incorporated as a charter township last fall under a new law that protects the boundaries of certain urbanized townships, the state panel is expected to deny the annexation requests.

The cityhood issue that was defeated by a 22-to-one margin April 24 began in November 1971 when a number of Commerce residents applied to the boundary commission for incorporation as a new city. Less than a week before the petitions were filed, voters in Commerce and the village had rejected a similar bid for cityhood.

Fearing that Walled Lake would seek to annex most of Commerce's commercial and industrial property, located generally south of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks, Township Supervisor Robert Long and Fire Chief Clarence Kuttkuhn delivered the cityhood petitions to the boundary commission offices in Lansing early on the Monday following the 1971 general election.

Walled Lake eventually filed the two annexation petitions, but, since Commerce was there first, the city's requests were considered inactive.

With the latest cityhood proposal out of the way, the boundary commission now will have to activate the Walled Lake annexation petitions and follow the normal process, according to James S. Hyde, executive secretary of the commission.

As of Friday, the state agency still had not been officially informed of the cityhood election results, Hyde said. Once those results are sent to Lansing, though, the Walled Lake annexation procedure will begin, he added.

The first step will be for the commission to determine whether the annexation petitions meet its requirements. If the petitions have been properly filed, as expected, the state panel will have to hold a public hearing on the requests. Hyde said the hearing probably would be toward the end of the 220 days the commission has to schedule the session once the petitions become active. One issue that will be resolved at the annexation hearing is whether Commerce meets criteria set under amendments to the state charter township act that were approved last year by the legislature.

Commerce apparently meets the guidelines set in the act, which provides protected boundary status for certain urbanized townships, although Hyde said some of the criteria are ambigious and subject to interpretation.

Boundary commission officials have had "hours of informal conversation" with the attorney general's office regarding questions on interpretations of the new charter township act, Hyde said. However since many of the questions weren't actually before the commission, the attorney general's office hasn't prepared legal opinions, he added.

Eventually, state officials expect the new charter township act to be challenged in court because of the ambiguities and the broad scope of the measure.

"In fact, we're a little surprised it hasn't happened already," Hyde said. "We figured we'd be in court three weeks after it took effect."

When the new law took effect last summer, there were 21 charter townships in Michigan under the statute that had been on the books for about 15 years, Hyde said. In the last six months of 1978, though, 23 townships took advantage of the new law to incorporate as charter townships, he added.

Hyde expects that trend to accelerate after the 1980 census when "just about every township in the state will meet the population criteria." Under the new charter township act, a township must have a minimum population density of 150 persons per square mile (or 5,400 residents for a 36-square-mile township).

Other criteria include: a minimum state equalized valuation of $25-million; police and fire protection, which may be provided through contractual agreements with other agencies; a comprehensive zoning ordinance or master plan; solid waste disposal services; and water and sewer services.

Prior to last week's cityhood vote, Long played Devil's Advocate by suggesting that approval of the incorporation proposal would buy the township two years' time to find out if the new charter township act was going to be amended. If voters had approved incorporation, another election would have been held to select a charter commission to draft an incorporation document for the proposed city. The charter commission would have had two years or two attempts to come up with a document that would be approved by the voters.

Hyde said Friday that he was unaware of any legislation that has been introduced so far that would change the new charter township act. He added, though, that the Michigan Townships' Association apparently is preparing measures that would make annexation even more difficult than it is under the new law while state Representative Thomas H. Brown of

City, employees sign new three-year contract

A new three-year contract between the city of Walled Lake and nine clerical and DPW employees was signed yesterday morning after negotiators for both sides agreed on new language for a section dealing with "working supervisor."

Union Steward Kathy Frey said the section remains in the contract, although the wording was changed at the request of the city's bargaining team.

The pact has been ratified by union members and the city council, although the council's approval was subject to renegotiation of the disputed provision that prohibits supervisory personnel from performing work normally handled by union members, except in emergency situations.

The contract is retroactive to July 1, 1978 and runs through June 30, 1981.

According to City Manager Peter Parker, the new contract includes raises of 10 percent for the first year and seven percent each in the second and third years. Since President Carter had not imposed his wage and price stabilization plan for a period of the 1978-79 term, Parker said he felt there would be no problem in exceeding the 7.7-percent guideline.

Other new features of the agreement include a prescription drug rider on employees' Blue Cross-Blue Shield insurance coverage that will be implemented as soon as possible, the manager said, and improved dental coverage or a vision care insurance plan in the third year of the pact.

Parker said the new contract "maintains a semblance" of the cost-of-living allowance (COLA) program the city had hoped to eliminate.

Under the new agreement, employees will receive a once-a-year COLA adjustment of $104 for each year of the contract. Previously, city employees received a penny increase for each four-percent hike in the consumer price index calculated for each pay period, Parker said.

Negotiations on the agreement began in April 1978. The nine-member union — affiliated with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) — staged a three-day strike in mid-March when contract talks bogged down on economic issues, particularly COLA.

City employees returned to work after the economic issues were resolved, but it took another 1½ months to complete the package and work out the differences over the working supervisor section.

County caucus selects 3 nominees for SEMTA

Oak Park Mayor David Shepherd stunned an audience of Oakland County politicos last week when he withdrew from a race for a seat on the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority board.

The result: Representatives from 29 local governments weren't able to list their preferences for the regional transportation board. There are now three candidates for three nominations — and so, no contest.

On June 21, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) will choose between these three persons for the SEMTA post:

• Southfield Mayor Donald Fracassi, who takes credit for leading his city of 90,000 and a string of smaller neighbors back into the SEMCOG fold in the mid-1970s. He was nominated by Birmingham Commissioner Robert Kelly.

• Bloomfield Township Supervisor Homer Case, a former SEMCOG chairman and Oakland Republican "establishment" candidate. Case was nominated by West Bloomfield Supervisor John Doherty and supported by Shepherd, the retiring SEMCOG chairman.

• Royal Oak Commissioner Alice Schoenholtz, a favorite of the more conservative suburbs. She was nominated by Huntington Woods Mayor John Olsen.

ALL THREE hinted at being less than enthusiastic about the rapid transit plan for the Woodward corridor approved April 3 by the SEMTA board — underground from downtown to Grand Boulevard, overhead to McNichols, at grade to the State Fairgrounds.

Cause proved an advocate of "flexible" routing, saying a subway wasn't flexible.

Fracassi said in an interview his attitude "is different from what was passed by the 15-member (SEMTA) board. Mine is to get transportation to all the people before you add luxuries."

Fracassi said his city had conducted its own transportation study that could benefit SEMTA's efforts.

Mrs. Schoenholtz campaigned as "a user. I ride the (Grand Trunk) commuter train. I've been to the Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission. That is why you've got trains today — I passed the petitions 15 years ago."

She predicted "some rough situations" ahead politically for SEMTA. And she had studied the experiences and problems of the Bay Area Rapid Transit line in California, Washington's Metro and Atlanta.

THE FINAL choice will be made by the SEMCOG General Assembly in June. He or she will replace Joseph Bianco Jr., of Bloomfield Hills, who had served on the SEMTA board since it was formed in 1967.

Bianco, who had hedged about seeking a new three-year term, said he finally decided against it because of his increasing duties at the J.L. Hudson Co.

Bianco had voted against the subway plans and for an at-grade plan for the Woodward corridor, as had Henry M. Hogan Jr.

R.J. Alexander, the third SEMTA board member from Oakland County, preferred the at-grade alternative, too, but voted for the subway-aerial compromise in order to give it the 10th vote it needed and keep the planning process moving.

Thus, whoever SEMCOG picks in June from among the three nominees will probably be a subway opponent.

OCC trustees okay tuition fee increase

Enrollment loss leads board to raise fees by 20 percent

Full-time students at Oakland Community College will be paying about 20 percent more in tuition and fees next fall.

The OCC Board of Trustees Thursday approved 6-0 a $2.49 million operating budget, an overall increase of 8.5 percent. President Robert Roelofs said about half the increase was due to inflation, much of the rest to operating new physical education buildings.

The two-year college, with four campuses, projects an actual enrollment decline of 4.4 percent to a total of 10,458 in 1979-80. Trustee Barbara Willing urged the administration to place advertisements to recruit more students.

The tuitution hike will amount to a flat $2 per credit hour. The last increase was in 1977.

For residents of the college district, the new rate will be $16.50 and hour; for non-residents, $26.50.

Roelofs said OCC's tuition will still be lower than most other community colleges. For example, Schoolcraft College is raising its rates to $17 and $27.50 for residents and non-residents, respectively.

Overall, according to administation figures, a student carrying a full load of 31 credit hours in three semesters currently pays $494. Next year he or she will pay $597, an increase of 21 percent.

The fee structure is changed more markedly than tuition. Examples:

• Currently, students pay a one-time admission fee of $12. Beginning July 1, they will pay a $6 registration fee each semester. Roelofs said the admission fee tended to discourage enrollments, and the new registration fee will more accurately reflect the administrative cost of enrolling students.

• Currently, students pay a student activities fee of $1 per credit hour to a maximum of $5. As of July 1, they will pay a flat $10 students services fee, regardless of the number of credit hours they take.

But they will get something additional for their money, Roelofs said. "It would enable students to use all physical education building facilities free of charge."

He referred to new buildings on the Auburn Hills and Highland Lakes campuses and one near completion at Orchard Ridge. The president said student groups had been consulted and preferred the flat fee arrangement over having to pay fees each time they used the facilities.

But Trustee Willing was unhappy about the fee. "I'm a night student. I work eight hours a day and go to school three hours at night, I'll never use the phys ed buildings," she said.

Roelofs said "There is a small minority of students who use it. The only way you could make it equitable is to wipe it (the fee) out — and I don't think we want to do that."

Trustees were unhappy about raising tuition, but Roelofs said the state aid formula virtually forces colleges to raise them. The formula, as applied, calls for OCC to get about 25 percent of its total revenue from tuition and fees.

Property taxes, one mill for operations, will raise 37 percent. The state appropriation will amount to 36 percent of the total — maybe.

"I'm optimistic on revenues from the state," Roelofs told the board. "But we may be in for budget cutting from the state. They say welfare costs are going out of sight, and if there's an auto strike ..."

Highlights of the new nearly $25 million budget:

• Auburn Hills will get nearly 24 percent of the total; Highland Lakes, 15.5; Orchard Ridge, nearly 35; the southeast system, about 15; and central administration, 11.

• Placement offices are budgeted and will be implemented at each campus.

• OCC will join the Michigan Community College Association and the Southeast Michigan League of Community Colleges regional placement service.

This is a significant policy change under Roelofs, in his first year in office. Under the late President Joseph Hill, OCC remained aloof from such organizations.

• Maintenance will be improved.

Multiple to single family

Lake O' Woods site recommended for rezoning

The Commerce Township Planning Commission has recommended approval of a rezoning request that would change some 13 acres of multiple residential property to a single-family residential district.

Joseph Giordano, agent for property owner Lucio Capicchioni, told the planners Monday that the land near Hawk Lake will be used for three single-family home sites instead of 96 apartment units as proposed by a previous owner.

The change to single-family residential would cause less congestion in the area, Giordano said, noting that the previous property owner decided he couldn't develop the site for the apartment complex because Walled Lake officials hesitated to fulfill a six-year-old agreement with yet another previous owner for sewer service to the multiples.

(The developer of the proposed Lake O' Woods apartment complex filed suit against the city in order to get sewer service, but the case was dismissed for lack of progress after the property owner appeared to be near an agreement with the city of Novi for capacity in the Walled Lake-Novi sewer system.)

Planning Consultant Steve Lehoczky recommended approval of the request because the single-family residential will drastically reduce density in the area and cause less boat traffic on Hawk Lake in addition to posing less traffic ingress and egress problems on South Commerce Road.

Planning Commissioner Don Donigan said he favored the rezoning because it would be "almost impossible to use the land as it is presently zoned."

The commission unanimously recommended approval of the rezoning request. The Oakland County zoning coordinating committee also will review the application before the township board considers the request.

Also at Monday's meeting, the planners tabled action on a rezoning request from Mary Wilson, owner of 20 acres located northwest of Carroll Lake and Wise roads, from R-1-A to R-1-B, both single-family residential classifications.

A real estate agent for Mrs. Wilson said the request was made in order to provide a wider variety of housing costs in the proposed 26-lot subdivision. Lot sizes would remain at 12,000 square feet, but a smaller size home could be built on the parcels, according to Commission Chairperson Lynn Gouge.

Several residents of the near-by Carroll Lake Heights Subdivision Number One raised questions on the difference between the two zoning classes and indicated that they would not like to see significantly cheaper homes in the new complex.

Mrs. Wilsons representative cited as examples recent market surveys that show a 1,050-square-foot ranch home — the minimum size allowed in R-1-B — would cost about $58,000 or some $5,500 less than a 1,200-square-foot ranch required in R-1-A. A three-bedroom colonial that would cost approximately $90,000 in the R-1-A district could be reduced to about $75,000 in the R-1-B use, he added, although the smaller home would contain only 350-square feet less.

Commissioner Robert McGee said the smaller building requirements tend to provide a mix of housing types — ranch, colonial and split level — in a subdivision.

Lehoczky asked that the request be tabled in order to give him a chance to make a market survey of his own and check the area before making a recommendation to the commission. The request was tabled until the panel's next meeting, which was tentatively set for May 7 or 14.

A tentative preliminary plat for the proposed subdivision was submitted to the township Monday and is scheduled to go before the planners at the commission's May 21 meeting.

Amendment separates duplexes from multiple

The Commerce Township Planning Commission has recommended adoption of an amendment to the zoning ordinance that would create a separate classification (R-2) for duplexes.

At present, duplexes are included in R-3 (multiple residential).

Township planners have discussed a new R-2 district for the zoning ordinance update currently under review. Commissioner Robert McGee has suggested, though, that the duplex requirements should be added to the present measure because of several requests for that type of construction in Commerce.

A public hearing on the proposed amendment was held April 23, but the commission tabled action on a recommendation after questions were raised on a proposed minimum square footage requirement.

Planning Consultant Steve Lehoczky gathered more data on market studies following the hearing and informed Commission Chairperson Lynn Gouge that he found the 900-square-foot minimum for a two-story duplex to be reasonable and economically feasible to develop.

The commission unanimously recommended adoption of the ordinance amendment. Final action on the text change rests with the township board.

A public hearing has been scheduled by the planners for May 21 on a rezoning request from the owner of a 10-acre parcel at Decker and Fourteen Mile roads. The property owner wants the R-1-A (single-family residential) use changed to R-3 for duplexes.

EDC foe wants law changed to allow referendum

One of the leaders of the petition drive to repeal Walled Lake's economic development corporation (EDC) ordinance has asked state Representative Richard D. Fessler to propose an amendment to the state EDC law that would allow local referendums on the creation of development corporations.

In a letter to Fessler, former Councilwoman Ruth Tuttle said local residents should have a right to vote on the establishment of an EDC because "local governing bodies are deaf to protesting voices at public hearings on EDCs."

A group of Walled Lake residents earlier this year petioned the city council for a referendum on the EDC ordinance adopted last July by the council. Under the city charter, the council set the issue for a vote at the November general election and the ordinance was suspended pending the election.

However, Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer ruled April 12 that the ordinance is not subject to referendum because there was no legislative intent that an EDC should be subject to an election and because the Walled Lake measure was enacted by administrative rather than legislative action.

Judge Beer stated in his opinion that, while the city has the power to adopt and repeal ordinances, "no provision of a city charter may contravene provisions of any general law of the state." Since the city council "merely approved the formation of a corporate entity, as permitted by the EDC Act," the judge said the ordinance was an administrative action and, therefore, was not subject to referendum.

A degree of reliability and stability is essential to the EDC law, the judge said, because the "development of large industrial and commercial projects is a complex and delicate process involving numerous contractural obligations and funding arrangements."

"The court is of the opinion that such stability is not fostered by a construction of the act and the city charter provisions which would permit the existence of the (EDC) itself to be attacked by referendum at any time," Judge Beer stated.

Noting that the state law provides "numerous opportunities for public involvement at all stages of the process," the judge also said that recent amendments to the act indicated legislative intent to "harmonize" provisions of the act by allowing the local unit of government to act by resolution and "to provide a measure of stability to the corporations formed thereunder by isolating ultimate decision making from the ballot box and placing it in City Hall, subject to the public's right to hearings and notice."

The only time the establishment of an EDC may be challenged in court is within 60 days of the incorporation as provided in the law, the judge said.

Judge Beer said the "legislature did not intend that the existence of a corporation formed under the EDC Act should be subject to attack by openended referendary charter provisions such as those of the city of Walled Lake."

City Attorney Paul Bibeau has said he doesn't feel the judge's ruling affects the city charter provisions for other initiatory or referendary proposals.

Mrs. Tuttle, in her letter to Fessler, charged that, "instead of fighting for the people's right to referendum under the city charter, the city government signed a summary judgment in agreement with (Walled Lake Commons developer Stuart Frankel's) contention that the people have no right to vote."

Frankel originally approached city officials about a year ago with the proposal to establish an EDC that would be able to issue revenue bonds to help finance a project. Walled Lake Commons had presented site plans to the city for the construction of a Kmart store to be located at West Maple Road and Pontiac Trail.

Under the state law, lending institutions that purchase government-issued revenue bonds are exempt from paying income tax on interest received from the loans. Therefore, a lower interest rate — sometimes two to two-and-a-half percent less than conventional mortgages — is available to finance a project. The city and EDC are not liable for the loan, Frankel has said, and the issuance of revenue bonds does not affect the municipality's credit rating.

So far, Walled Lake Commons has been the only applicant for bonds from the local EDC.

The EDC Board of Directors and the city council had approved almost every step required for issuance of the bonds when the referendary petitions were filed. Frankel filed suit against the city, claiming he had spent or entered into contracts to spend funds for development of the Kmart store. He asked the court to rule that the EDC ordinance was valid and that the measure was not subject to referendum.

The only action still required by local officials to complete the Walled Lake Commons' project is approval of the bond resolution and other closing documents.

Frankel told The News last week that he isn't sure when he will ask the EDC for a meeting to consider those items. The delay caused by the attempt for a referendum may force the developers to find new contractors, Frankel said.

"We have to get our ducks in line again," he added.

Several city residents, some of whom opposed the creation of an EDC and others who wanted to block the Kmart project, spoke against the ordinance at public hearings last June.

After the council adopted the measure, some of the residents said a petition drive would be started to repeal the ordinance. In December, the campaign began and Mrs. Tuttle's group garnered the 475 signatures required under the charter to force an election on the issue.

Frankel filed suit against the city February 21, the day after the council set the election.

The citizens' group considered a move to intervene in the suit, but delayed action because they didn't want to hire an attorney, Mrs. Tuttle said. When it became clear that Judge Beer was ready to rule in the case, the residents asked attorney Emery Jacques to intervene in their behalf, the former councilwoman said, but Jacques told them it was too late.

Mrs. Tuttle has described Judge Beer's ruling as a "mockery of democracy." Denial of taxpayers' right to vote on "such a vital issue is nothing more than taxation without representation of the people," she added.

"The right to referendum on any issue that the taxpayer deems necessary should be implemented by state law," Mrs. Tuttle wrote to Fessler.

The former councilwoman also said the legislature should adopt a wetlands law.

"Flooding of property by development is disastrous and already too much property in the lakes area has been destroyed or damaged by overdevelopment," she said.

Pointing to Walled Lake as an example, Mrs. Tuttle said "homes of years standing have had to be abandoned either from improper drainage or from flooding onto the property. Wolverine Lake (Village) had been protesting the polluting of the Greenaway Drain by over-development for years. Any more development increases this threat of more pollution."

Mrs. Tuttle said she believes drainage from the proposed Kmart "would be more pollution flowing into the Greenaway Drain."

Wixom seeks new bids for park

Timetable for construction of the first phase of the North Wixom City Park received a setback recently when the city's advertisements for bids failed to produce any respondents.

A motion to re-advertise for bids for the proposed $80,000 project was approved unanimously by the Wixom City Council last week.

Mayoral Assistant Stephen Bonczek subsequently has revised the timetable for construction of the improvements to the 46-acre recreational site which is located in Commerce Township.

The property was acquired by the City of Wixom from the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority in 1975.

The revised timetable calls for bids to be received by May 21, the contract to be awarded on May 22, and construction to begin June 1.

The first phase of the three-phase park development plan calls for construction of a tot lot, ball diamond, picnic shelter, and sledding hill.

Estimated cost of the phase-one improvements has been placed at $80,000. The project will be financed with Community Development Block Grant funds.

John Lesniak of Anderson/Lesniak & Associates, the landscape architectural firm retained by Wixom to supervise park development, told the council that he was very disappointed in the outcome of the bidding.

"This is a first in my experience (that no bids were received)," stated Lesniak. "In retrospect, the loss is only one of construction start time and will not affect the validity of the project."

He noted that nine contractors had picked up bid specifications even though no bids were submitted by the initial April 18 deadline.

Lesniak reported that contractors had given three reasons for not submitting bids on the project:

—the ice storm set some of the bidders back in gathering sub-contractor's prices and with the short bid period of one and one-half weeks (normally two to three weeks), were unable to package their bids in time;

—the site contractors had much difficulty in finding someone who would erect the shelter and build the fireplace; and —there are a large number of bids out on many projects throughout the Detroit area so the contractors are able to pick and choose jobs. The Wixom job is considered small compared to other available projects.

Lesniak also proposed that the project specifications be revised to encourage bids.

Specifically, he recommended that the city provide two bid sections, separating the shelter and fireplace from the site work. This would allow bidding on one or both bid sections, thus allowing small contractors to bid just the shelter and the fireplace.

Additionally, Lesniak recommended that the city allow at least two and one-half weeks for the bidding period. The city initially permitted just one and one-half weeks for bids to be submitted.

Bonczek told the council last week that he expected the delay could lead to higher bids which would affect the overall park improvement budget.

The second phase of the proposed park development plan calls for construction of a comfort station. Bonczek previously has indicated that phase-two bids will be let in July with construction to begin in August.

Wixom officer finishes traffic safety seminar

Patrolman Alan Blashfield of the Wixom Police Department has returned from a "Motor Vehicle Accident Investigation and Reconstruction" course at Arizona State University in Tempe, Arizona.

Blashfield is a graduate of the Metropolitan Police Academy and a six-year veteran of the Wixom Police Department.

The course included a wide range of topic areas which were held in lecture form as well as several field exercises. The method gave the students a "hands on" approach to realistic accident scenes that could occur in their home towns.

The class was attended by police officers from South America, Africa, France, and Canada as well as the United States. It is recognized as one of the forerunners in the fourth level of accident investigation (professional reconstruction).

Blashfield has expressed his appreciation to the Wixom City Council for providing him the opportunity to "increase my knowledge and experience in the field of motor vehicle accident investigation.

"It is my sincere belief that the content of this course can be readily applied to the many accident situations which occur within the City of Wixom," Blashfield told the council.

Teachers explain present procedures

Novi board calls for consistent attendance policy

School administrators have been urged to continue work on an attendance policy for Novi schools which will create some uniformity in the manner teachers deal with students who take extended vacations with their parents.

Novi school board trustees reviewed the proposal of a committee of parents, students and staff regarding attendance and urged the administration to pursue the attendance question.

Board members learned the attendance policy as proposed by the high school committee is not supported by the majority of the high school staff, however.

High School Principal Helen Ditzhazy told the board the policy was proposed to the staff and the majority of them agreed they could not support it.

She indicated one particularly objectionable aspect of the proposed policy was the recommendation which would allow students who had been absent three times or less to opt out of taking final exams.

"Many teachers believed that a student could have perfect attendance and decide not to take exams. When they go on in their education and face exams they would be at a very definite disadvantage," Ditzhazy said.

Assistant Principal Charles Nanas told the board the logic behind the recommendation to give students a chance to be excused from finals was that the committee was seeking a reward system for those students who attend classes.

"Most attendance policies are punitive and we were looking for a reward system," Nanas told the board.

But other board members protested that "occupying space is not the same as learning."

Trustee Sharon Pelchat said she "could not buy rewarding students for something they should be doing anyway. They are supposed to be coming to school."

Some other aspects of the proposed policy were not directly addressed by the board.

The committee had proposed a list of absences which would be excused that included personal or family illness, death in the family, court appointments, religious holidays, family vacations, and some medical appointments.

They further dealt with the problem of tardiness and established a procedure for pre-arranged absences.

Board members were urged by teachers in the audience to consider a policy which will not result in students being forced out on the streets before they are ready to cope with it.

High School teacher Del Munson told the board he knew of school districts with attendance policies which "look great on paper but it doesn't tell you how many kids have been shoved out onto the street."

He contended that many students make a "turn-around" in their senior year. If they have been forced to quit school they will be hurt," he said.

Teachers also explained why there is a wide divergence in attendance policies employed among the staff members. They told the board that each teacher develops a policy that they feel comfortable enforcing.

"Kids come to my class because they have to," Munson told the board. "My approach is you don't skip my class. Period. If they get caught skipping they stay after school and they don't resent it. I also make a few telephone calls if they miss my class. If they know you'll call their parents they come to class."

He added this type of policy works well for him, but may not work for others.

Music coordinator Craig Strain told the board that students know they cannot skip his class so those students who want to cut classes do not enroll in classes he teaches.

Teacher Ceil Carter told the board policies could also differ from class to class because the policy which works with one class might not work with another class taught by the same teacher.

The teachers explained the greatest problem was encountered with eleventh and twelfth graders because automobiles are accessible to them.

That fact raised the question of policing the parking lot more stringently. But the board was told that while students can be prohibited from parking in the school lot they cannot be forced to stop driving.

Students who find they cannot freely take their car in and out of the parking lot will merely park in a nearby subdivision and walk the rest of the distance to school, the board was told.

On the brighter side, board members were told that Novi keeps better track of its students than many school districts. While other districts may report lower absentee rates, it could be merely because teachers are not reporting absences as accurately as Novi teachers are expected to, teachers explained.

Board members were told the number of students who regularly appear on the absentee list, the "chronic absentee" are probably less than two percent of the student enrollment.

Board members returned to the problem of students who take extended vacations with their families.

"I feel strongly about this and have difficulty with students who are taken out of school for two weeks for a vacation or to go hunting," said Trustee Joan Daley.

Trustee Joel Colliau told the board he had originally raised the questions several months ago, after going through the situation personally, and finding a wide divergence among high school teachers regarding the make up of material missed while on vacation.

He told the board he believed a policy to handle such situations was needed so both parents and teachers could understand what was expected.

'It's Music'

Smart students to stage musical

"It's Music," the story of popular music in America coupled with a unique candid camera film sequence of "kids being kids" will be presented by the music department at Clifford Smart Junior High School tomorrow and Friday night.

Featuring the eighth grade school chorus, curtain time for the bright musical production is 8 p.m. in the gymnasium of the school located on Commerce Road. The production is under the direction of school music director James Burnett.

In rehearsal since mid-March, some 60 students will take part in the show that views the story of music from the colonial period up to the atomic age. From "Three Blind Mice" to rock 'n roll, from the scrappy forth-niners to the throbbing disco beat of today complete with glitter and flash, the students will perform to taped studio orchestration.

Through songs, narration, and dance, the audience will be taken on a musical tour of Early American folk songs, commercial jingles, Civil War favorites, blues, jazz, Stephen Foster greats and patriotic music arranged by John F. Wilson.

Wilson, composer of "The electric Sunshine Man" produced by the students last year, teamed with Marti McCartney for the musical written especially for young voices. Burnett said the production reveals not only American music but points out the people who made it.

Adding that the students have been enthusiastic and have worked diligently on the production, leading solo parts will be handled by Dana Williams, Bill Johnson, Paul Imms, and Sue Cheynoweth.

On stage throughout the entire production, the scenes and moods will change through props and abbreviated costuming, a change of hats and other additions suggesting a particular age.

The highlight of the production will be the synchronized showing to music and narration of a candid camera color film made at the school by Burnett showing some of the students on stage being themselves. "It shows the kids as people, revealing their hopes and dreams, their struggles and joys," Burnett remarked.

He added the show deals with a bunch of cliches but a feeling for which we can be proud. I think the show brings out the best in America, and by doing it, it brings out the best in the kids. They are the ones who will write the songs yet to be written."

Tickets for "It's Music" will be available at the door at both performances and are priced at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Wixom okays purchase of three police cars

There are Fords in the future of the Wixom Police Department.

Wixom's City Council last week awarded the contract for the purchase of three new police cars to Avis Ford, Inc., of Southfield in the amount of approximately $19,370.

The contract calls for delivery of three 1979 Ford LTDs.

Police Chief Philip Leonard told the council that the Avis Ford bid was the lowest of five received by the city which met specifications. A lower bid was received from Bill Wink Chevrolet in Dearborn, but was not recommended for approval because it did not meet specifications prescribed by the city.

Funds to purchase the new police cars will come from the police vehicle account ($15,719) plus the trade in value of three vehicles currently used by the department: two 1978 Plymouths and one 1976 Mercury.

Approval of the original bid specifications had been opposed by Councilman Sid Resner on the basis that they would prohibit the Ford Motor Company from bidding for the contract. Resner maintained that the bid specifications should not exclude Wixom's largest taxpayer.

As a result of his objections, the bid specifications were altered to permit Ford dealers to bid for the purchase of the cars.

Council schedules hearing

Wixom holds line on millage in $1.5 million budget

A proposed budget of $1.501 million for the 1979-80 fiscal year has been presented to the Wixom City Council by Mayor Lillian Spencer.

The council is scheduled to review the proposed spending plan in budget hearings in the Wixom Public Library on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday (May 1-3) this week and Wednesday and Thursday (May 9-10) next week.

The mayor's proposed budget provides for an increase of some $320,000 in general fund expenditures during the upcoming fiscal year. However, there is no proposed increase in millage as the mayor's budget calls for the city to continue to levy the same 6.83 mills levied last year.

One significant change in the city's proposed 1979-80 spending plan is the elimination of funding for rubbish collection. Residents now will be charged a "user" fee in addition to their property tax billing to cover the cost of rubbish collection.

Mayoral Assistant Stephen Bonczek reported that the change in policy was brought about by a ruling which requires the city to provide rubbish collection services for some 2,000 multiple units.

Bonczek has projected that the city will expend some $32,000 for rubbish collection in the current fiscal year. The addition of the city's multiple units to the rubbish collection program could cost the city in excess of $100,000 next year, according to Bonczek.

"The anticipated increase in the cost of rubbish collection left us with the options of either raising the millage or charging a 'user' fee," explained the mayoral assistant.

"We decided it was more equitable to add the actual cost of the service to each tax bill then imposing an across-the-board increase in millage."

In her budget message to the council, Mrs. Spencer said that the impact of the Headlee Amendment, large increases in fixed costs and inflationary factors made preparation of the spending plan "a very difficult task."

Anticipated changes in the CETA federal jobs program also affected preparation of the budget as the city anticipates a decline of $13,000 in revenues from $25,000 last year to $12,000 in the coming year. Mrs. Spencer said two CETA employees will be absorbed in the DPW budget.

Mrs. Spencer also cautioned the council that the proposed budget does not reflect any increased personnel costs for the police department this year. The Wixom police currently are working under an agreement which expires June 30 and will be negotiating a new contract with the city shortly.

The mayor said that increased wages for the police department were not reflected in the budget because the contract has not yet been negotiated. Any increases in the wage schedule will come from approximately $150,000 in fund equity.

A major problem in preparation of the proposed 1979-80 budget was a sharp increase in the fixed costs for liability insurance, social security and retirement benefits, according to both Mrs. Spencer and Bonczek.

Liability insurance has gone up $7,000 from approximately $70,000 to $77,000; social security costs have risen $5,000 from $29,000 to $34,000; and retirement benefits have jumped $4,500 from $35,500 to $40,000.

Total increase in those three accounts is projected at $16,500.

Combined with the increases for liability insurance, social security and retirement benefits was a 36 percent drop in state shared revenues from $134,400 in 78-79 to $73,400 in 1979-80.

An additional drain on the budget was a loss of approximately $33,000 which must be paid from general fund revenues to the Ford Motor Company in conjunction with the settlement of the dispute over the assessment on the Wixom Assembly Plant.

The $33,000 payment represents the second of three payments to the automotive company. The third and final payment will come from the 1980-81 budget.

Other anticipated expenditures in the proposed budget include $20,000 as the city's share of oversizing for a drain improvement project, $65,000 for the Beck Road improvement project, and $80,000 as the city's share for Step Two of the Sewer Facilities Plan for the Environmental Protection Agency.

Mrs. Spencer told the council that she has cut the proposed budget on three different occasions in order to continue operating the city at the current millage rate of 6.83 mills.

"I feel that any further reductions of expenditures will affect our ability to provide services at the level expected by residents of Wixom," she stated.

Mrs. Spencer added that the proposed budget was not to her liking. "But it's the best we can do with what we have available," she said.

Police chief cites improvements

Wixom's City Council received a few words of praise last week from a resident who also receives a pay check from the city.

Police Chief Phillip Leonard stated that — as a resident — he would like to thank the mayor and the city council for authorizing the improvements to the intersections of North Wixom Road and South Wixom Road with Pontiac Trail.

The city last year expended approximately $30,000 in cooperation with the Oakland Country Road Commission to improve the intersection. Improvements included signalization, drainage and the addition of turning lanes.

"I think the mayor and the council deserve credit for the way the intersection has been improved," commented Leonard.

"My wife has to drive that intersection regularly and she tells me that the addition of signalization and turn lanes has made it a lot more convenient."

Leonard added that he felt many local residents were similarly pleased with the improved traffic flow brought about by the signalization and widening of the lanes.

Abandoning his role as citizen and reassuming his role as police chief, Leonard went on to say that he felt he would be able to demonstrate that the improvements have saved lives and property within a year.

The council paid the final installment of the bill to the county road commission for implementing the improvements, authorizing the expenditure of some $8,380 for reconstruction of the intersection.

JOAN BRUNER

A funeral mass was offered at St. William Catholic Church for Joan L. Bruner of West Bloomfield on Saturday, April 28, from the Richardson, Bird and Lynch Funeral Home, Walled Lake.

Ms. Bruner died April 26 at St. Joseph-Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, a victim of cancer. Born March 14, 1943 in Michigan to Erwin J. and Bernadine (Waller) Bruner, she was 36.

A lifetime resident of West Bloomfield, Ms. Bruner was a medical transcriptionist for the Medical Records Corporation. A graduate of Walled Lake Central High School, she was a member of St. William's Church.

She is survived by her parents, a sister, Lita Balch of Mt. Clemens; and three brothers, James Fox of California and Tom and Michael Bruner of West Bloomfield.

JULIA ANN GIVENS

Julia Ann Givens, 51, a life resident of Salem, died April 27 at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor after an illness of six months.

Pastors Ivan Speight and Wayne Glauque officiated at the service at 2 p.m. Monday at Salem Bible Church in Salem where Mrs. Givens was a member. Interment was in Thayer Cemetery in Northville Township.

Mrs. Givens also was a member of the Historical Society of Salem. She was the widow of Morris Givens who died October 6, 1975.

She was born December 23, 1927, in Salem to Raymond Chester and Emma (Williams) Lewis.

She was the mother of Mrs. Margaret Green of Inkster, Susan, Joel, Daniel, Kenneth, Raymond, Vance and Vincent Givens, all of Salem, sister of Miss Virginia Lewis of Salem, Mrs. Ernestine Swan of Detroit, Robert Lewis, Sr., of Ann Arbor, Raymond Lewis, Jr., of Sandusky, Ohio and the grandmother of one.

CHARLES JORDAN

Funeral services for Charles Russell Jordan II of Novi will be held tomorrow (Thursday) at the Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Home, Novi Chapel at 1 p.m. Reverend Roger M. Marlow of Living Lord Lutheran Church will officiate.

A 15-year-old student at Novi High School, Charles was the victim of a Sunday afternoon bicycle-automobile accident in Novi. He died at Botsford Hospital Monday. He was born in Connecticut on March 30, 1964. His parents, Charles R. and Lois (Uplegar) Jordan survive.

He leaves two sisters, Stephanie and Melissa, and two brothers, Wayne and Mark all of Novi. His grandfather, John Uplegar, also survives.

MARGARET KEENAN

A funeral mass was offered today (Wednesday) at St. William Catholic Church, Walled Lake, for Margaret Marie Keenan of Wixom. Services were from the Richardson, Bird and Lynch Funeral Home at 10 a.m.

Ms. Keenan died Monday at Pontiac General Hospital. Born in Michigan on December 24, 1910 to Christopher M. and Mary B. (Connelly) Keenan, she was 68.

A resident of Wixom for 57 years, she was employed at the D & C Stores, Walled Lake. She was a member of St. William's Church.

Survivors include sisters, Agnes T. Keenan of Wixom, Mrs. William (Virginia) Reimer of Walled Lake, and a brother, John V. Keenan of Milford. She was the aunt of Bonnie Mesaros of Walled Lake, Mary Seman of Pennsylvania, and Robert Reimer of Grosse Pointe. Two brothers preceded her in death.

JOSEPH J. LACH

Services for Joseph John Lach, 57, of 307 North Center, Northville, were held at 10 a.m. Monday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, with Father John O'Callaghan of Our Lady of Victory Church officiating.

Interment was in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Mr. Lach, a mechanic at Seigle Ford, Incorporated, had been a Northville resident since 1941. He died unexpectedly April 27 at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills.

He was born January 9, 1922, in Detroit to Lawrence and Catherine (Satanik) Lach.

He leaves his wife Virginia, daughter Mrs. Roger (Cheryl) Dreasky of Novi, son Kenneth J. Lach of Northville, sister Miss Anna Lach of Long Island, New York, and two grandchildren.

New millage vote set

The superintendent indicated that he also found this alternative unacceptable because the district needs four mills to continue its present level of operations.

(3) Levy 1.41 mills in county allocated millage and utilize approximately $500,000 in fund equity (savings).

Sheldon said the 1.41 mills would produce approximately $650,000 in additional revenues which combined with the estimated $500,000 in fund equity would yield some $1.1 million.

The superintendent noted, however, that the board already has decided not to utilize the 1.41 mills allocated by the country. Trustee Barbara Scully added that the board previously determined not to use the 1.41 county allocate millage because it has "never levied any millage that would cost the people money without asking for it.

"We could impose these 1.41 mills on the people without voter approval, but the board historically has been honest enough with the people not to levy any millage which isn't approved by the voters," she said.

(4) Decline to levy the 1.41 county allocated millage and make no further millage requests, utilizing solely the $500,000 in fund equity.

However, with no additional revenues the district will deplete the remaining $500,000 in fund equity early in the coming school year. The proposed 1979-80 budget projects a deficit of approximately $48,000 and includes no salary increases for district employees.

All of the school employee unions are scheduled to negotiate new salary schedules this year, and Assistant Superintendent for Business Harry Carlson has projected that the settlements could cost the district in excess of $1.1 million in additional wages.

Trustee Leo Wessinger opposed the fourth alternative set down by Sheldon, stating that he did not believe the people "want us to run this district into bankruptcy by wiping out our fund equity account."

Opposition to Sheldon's recommendation to return to the voters on June 11 with an identical request for four mills was expressed by Lasher.

"It bothers me to go back with the same request because of the rather sizable margin of defeat," commented Lasher. "If its handled the same way, the results could go the same way."

Lasher inquired about changing the nature of the request and about setting a date for a special election in July in order to give the district more time to explain the millage proposal to the people.

"What are we going to do differently to convince people to change their minds the second time around?" he asked.

Trustees Leo Wessinger and Robert Cooper stated that there will be a significant change in the nature of the June 11 election because voters will know what programs and staff have been eliminated by the board in an attempt to balance the budget without the four additional mills.

"These are not threats," said Wessinger. "They're reality."

Mrs. Scully stated that the students — not the board members — will be the ones to suffer if the four mill request isn't approved.

State must act on city's annexation requests

Westland, sponsor of the charter act adopted last year, is expected to propose implementation of the recommendations of a task force, named by Governor Milliken, on handling municipal boundary changes.

Most of the present Walled Lake city officials were not in office eight years ago when the annexation petitions were filed.

Mayor Gaspare LaMarca said Friday that there hasn't been any discussion of the pending annexations requests among city officials. Most of the officials, LaMarca said, probably are unaware that the petitions are still pending.

Walled Lake originally applied for the annexation for several reasons, the mayor said, including squaring off city boundaries; getting customers for water and sewer facilities that were installed about that time; and adding to its tax base.

Long said the township won't push the boundary commission to take up the annexation petitions.

The Commerce supervisor said the cityhood vote results were "about what we expected – a light turnout (about 18 percent of the registered voters went to the polls) and one-sided (the proposed incorporation was defeated by a 'no' vote that exceeded 95 percent)."

He added, though, that the 1971 incorporation request "did the job of keeping the township intact."

Hyde said last week, however, that the boundary commission may have denied Walled Lake's annexation requests eight years ago anyway.

While the new charter township act protects the boundaries of certain urbanized townships, Hyde said the state panel has always had – and used – the same power.

In fact, the commission's 1973 order to incorporate Commerce and Wolverine Lake as a city noted that:

–"recent growth in Commerce Township has been urban in nature and that future growth will also be urban."

CITYHOOD VOTE

Community	Yes	No	Percent "No"
Commerce	82	1,325	94%
West Bloomfield	4	27	87%
Wolverine Lake	16	827	98%
TOTAL	102	2,179	95%

The commission also found that Commerce residents probably would demand more services that could best be handled by a city form of government and concluded that Commerce had "available adequate tax sources" to provide the services.

Shortly after the Commerce citizens filed for cityhood in 1971, a group of village residents filed a similar petition that later was amended to include a portion of the township.

The commission denied Wolverine Lake's incorporation petition because it found the village was "an integral part of Commerce Township, that (the commission) did not favor the proliferation of more and more small communities several square miles in size within the Greater Detroit Metropolitan Area and that it would not only be harmful to its residents but would be detrimental to the development of the larger community of which it is a part."

Instead, the state agency combined the township and village incorporation requests – and threw in the Peninsular Park Subdivision in West Bloomfield that juts into Union Lake with access only from Union Lake Road in Commerce – into an order for a new city.

Village residents and officials challenged the boundary commission's authority to take that action, but the Oakland County Circuit Court and the State Court of Appeals upheld the state panel's decision. The Michigan Supreme Court refused to grant leave for further appeal.

The only recourse available at that time, in February 1978, was for village and township residents to petition the state for an election on the cityhood order.

Wixom receives request for another liquor license

Wixom officials have received another request for a liquor license.

John Jonascu told the Wixom City Council last week that he would like to construct a restaurant on Wixom Road near the I-96 interchange and inquired about the availability of a liquor license for the facility.

Jonascu told the council he has been in the restaurant business for 23 years and has just sold the Sherwood Inn on Plymouth Road in Livonia.

Jonascu has owned the Sherwood Inn for the past 11 years.

"What I'd like to do is build a nice Bavarian-style restaurant with limited banquet facilities here in Wixom," Jonascu reported. "I'd like to know if the city would be interested in this kind of restaurant and if they have any liquor licenses available at the present time."

Jonascu's request marks the second request for a liquor license received by Wixom officials in the past two months.

The developers of a proposed motel-restaurant-bar complex on the northwest corner of Grand River and Wixom Road previously had submitted a request for a liquor license.

The problem is that Wixom currently has just three Class C liquor licenses, and those licenses are held by the Continental Bar, and Red Oaks Bar and the Wixom Bar.

Class C liquor licenses are granted by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission on the basis of population. Specifically, a community is permitted one Class C license for each 1,500 residents.

Wixom's population in May 1976 was verified as 4,453 by a special census conducted at that time by the U.S. Bureau of Census.

However, Mayoral Assistant Stephen Bonczek believes that the city's population has grown significantly since the last census.

He reports that Wixom now has 762 single family residences and 2,036 multiple family units. When conservative factors of three residents per single family home and two residents per multiple family unit are computed, the city has a minimum population of 6,358, according to the mayoral assistant.

If the projection is correct, Wixom would be eligible for at least one additional liquor license. But Bonczek stated last week that he believes the city may be eligible to receive two additional licenses.

The city council has authorized a special census to determine just exactly what Wixom's population figures actually are.

The cost of the special census will be paid entirely by Forrest Hubbel, Ray Petty and Sharon Camisa – the prospective developers of the proposed motel-restaurant-bar complex.

The census figures must show a minimum of 7,500 residents in order for the city to obtain two additional licenses.

Jonascu was encouraged by members of the council to pursue plans for a liquor license and a restaurant at last week's meeting.

"A nice restaurant with banquet facilities is something which we need very badly in Wixom," commented Mayor Lillian Spencer. "We'd like to see you follow through with your plans."

Trade center rezoning due

Children's Apparel Association already has leased 50 percent of the office space and committed to 100 days per year in the convention center.

Eli Fishman, president of the association, has indicated that his organization may lease more than 50 percent of the available office space, however.

Additionally, Boes has reported that he has received numerous inquiries on the availability of space in both the convention hall and the office building.

City Planning Consultant Charles Cairns of Villcan-Leman has noted that Trade Association Center has requested the RC zoning in order to implement the city's PD-3 (planned development) option which was designed specifically for the regional center area.

The PD options encourage the assemblage of large parcels for major developments (such as the proposed trade center) by granting developers certain advantages. Basically, building heights are limited to two-stories unless a PC option is utilized.

The PD options were adopted by the city council in November in an attempt to encourage the type of development on the west side of Novi Road that is compatible with the regional shopping center (Twelve Oaks) on the east side of the road.

But even though developers gain certain advantages under the PD options, they also must meet a more rigorous site plan review process than is required under they city's conventional zoning districts.

Boes has reported that Trade Association Center has contracted with Reid, Cool and Michalski, Inc., to study the traffic impact of the proposed development on the surrounding area.

Reid, Cool and Michaelski, a firm of consulting traffic engineers, has recently completed a similar traffic impact study for Ramco-Gershenson which is developing the West Oaks Shopping Center on the west side of Novi Road. The proposed West Oaks Shopping Center will include a Montgomery Wards store and a Catalogue Merchandise store as well as 14-18 related retail outlets.

Boes indicated that the traffic study for the trade center will be a supplement to the traffic study prepared by the engineering firm for Ramco-Gershenson.

Boes also indicated that construction of the convention center and office building will begin in the latter part of 1979 if the necessary approvals can be secured from the city. Construction of the hotel will begin in 1980.

Woman survives train collision

In Wixom

Although her car was considered totalled by Wixom Police, a Wixom woman suffered no more than a bruised elbow following a collision with a railroad train Friday evening.

Pamela Jablonski explained to police after the accident that she was attempting to make a left-hand turn onto Pontiac Trail from Wixom Road when the collision occurred.

Police reports indicate the train was approaching the intersection at approximately 15 m.p.h. Witnesses to the accident indicated all signals were activated in the area warning of the approaching train.

The train hit the Jablonski car on the passenger side, pushing the car into a small traffic island. A road sign on the island was wiped out by the car.

Ms. Jablonski indicated she did not see the signal flashers as she approached the crossing. She also indicated she heard a horn seconds before the accident but assumed the sound was coming from the car behind her. The sound, police say, apparently came from the train as it whistled its normal warning upon approaching an intersection.

A Ford Motor Assembly Plant employee was arrested Saturday at the Wixom complex and charged with receiving and concealing stolen property. Taken into custody by Wixom Police, Melvin Thomas of Inkster was lodged in Oakland County Jail. Arraigned Monday in 52nd District Court, Walled Lake, Thomas was released on a $500 personal bond.

Thomas was allegedly spotted by another Ford factory employee riding through the final assembly line operation on a bike with three radios in his possession. Followed to the locker room area by the employee, the Ford security office was then notified to investigate.

Wixom reports indicate Thomas was observed by those security guards coming from between a row of lockers. A search of the area produced the three electronic radios Thomas was alleged to have been carrying. Several other pieces of automobile equipment were found in the cache along with 22 pairs of new coveralls, police said.

With Thomas' permission, guards searched his car uncovering additional automobile equipment along with three more pairs of coveralls.

A new home in the Courts of Highgate was broken into last week. Entry was gained by smashing a bathroom window.

A mirror appeared to be the only item taken during the break-in although police found three lamps, two paintings, and two candleholders stacked on the front porch of the house.

A nearby construction trailer was also reported broken into during the same time frame. Besides $150 damage done to the trailer, the construction company reported tools, calculators, miscellaneous equipment, and several hundred dollars in cash removed from the site.

A stake truck parked in an enclosed yard at the Wixom Co-op was taken sometime after the close of business April 22. The $2,500 truck was said to have been unlocked with the keys in the vehicles.

Entry to the fenced area was made by dismantling a section of fencing and bypassing the padlocked gate.

In Novi

Culprits in a suspected breaking and entering case received an unwelcome surprise last week as they reportedly tried to enter a home on Quince Drive, Novi police reported.

The youths allegedly broke the window in the garage and were reaching through the broken pane to unlock the door in order to gain entry. But instead of finding no one at home as they apparently anticipated they were greeted at the door by the homeowner who was toting a shotgun.

The homeowner held the youths at gun point until police arrived to take them into custody.

Police reported that they are seeking warrants for the youths.

A teacher at Novi Woods Elementary reported a case of indecent exposure occurred at the school at about 8:45 a.m. last Wednesday, police said.

The teacher told police she noticed a suspicious vehicle (perhaps a light olive or green Dodge or Plymouth) outside the school.

As the teacher approached the school door the white male who she estimated to be about 18 years old got out of his car and approached her. When she asked whether she could be of help, the man replied "I think you can" then exposed himself, according to police reports.

The teacher told police she walked into the school building and the man entered his car and drive away. She further described him to police as having long, but neat, dark hair parted in the middle, medium build, about 5 feet 8 inches tall and with a mustache.

An employee of Lord and Taylor of Twelve Oaks Mall who allegedly was seen prying open cash drawers with a screw driver and removing money left in them has been arraigned in district court and released on $1,000 personal bond.

Perry Berda, 26, of Howell was arraigned Thursday on felony charges of larceny in a building and faces a four-year term if convicted.

Police reported Berda was apprehended April 24 by Lord and Taylor security officers who reportedly observed him entering the cash drawers. After being apprehended he was turned over to Novi Police and charged in the larceny.

A 20-year old Livonia woman has been released on $3,000 personal bond on two felony charges for "uttering and publishing" or forging the signature of a legitimate credit card holder and one felony count of holding a credit card without the consent of the owner.

Susan Kay Foreman was arraigned in district court Thursday. A May 25 exam date has been set for the case. If convicted Ms. Foreman faces a four year term on charges of holding the credit card and 14 years for falsely signing the card owner's signature.

She was apprehended after she reportedly bought two watches valued at a total of about $145, with the credit card at Sears in Twelve Oaks Mall.

Council rezones township property

Novi City Council rezoned five annexed parcels of Novi Township and postponed decisions on two others following public hearings Monday.

Council members dispatched with the rezonings of five parcels which included:

–single family residential homes on half-acre lots (R-2) for a 331.91 acre parcel on the east side of Napier Road at Eleven Mile;

–single family residential homes on one-acre lots (R-1) for 178 acres near the corner of Eight Mile and Novi Road;

–commercial development (B-3) for about 30 acres on the Beck Road-Pontiac Trail intersection and multiple family residential development for the 90 acres surrounding the remainder of the parcel;

–small farm residential zoning R-1-F) for the 116 acre parcel on which the Chateau Estates Mobile Home Park is located;

–small farms residential for the 184-acre parcel along Haggerty between Fourteen and Thirteen Mile;

Of those rezonings the one which generated much discussion was the Chateau Estates Mobile Home park. The planning board had recommended the parcel be rezoned to the city's mobile home district (MH).

However, Planning Consultant Charles Cairns pointed out that in the future it may be easier for the city to contain the mobile home district if the city recognized the park as a non-conforming use by zoning it for small farms residential.

He pointed out that surrounding property is all zoned for small farms and by zoning the mobile home property in the same manner the city would have achieved some uniformity in that area.

Mayor Pro Tem Martha Hoyer disagreed, saying she believed it would be wiser for the city to recognize the existing use of the property and zone it for mobile homes.

"As a former planning board member I appreciate the art of planning, but the use (mobile homes) is still there," Hoyer said.

The rezoning of the Chateau Estates parcel was approved by a 3-2 vote. Mrs. Hoyer and Council member Patricia Karevich opposed the rezoning. Mayor Romaine Roethel and Guy Smith were absent.

More problems were encountered with the proposed rezoning of a parcel on the southwest corner of Fourteen Mile and Haggerty and a parcel on the southeast corner of Grand River and Wixom Road.

Council members expressed concern with the amount of general industrial zoning proposed

Novi youth killed in bike-car crash

A 15-year-old Novi youth was killed when his bicycle was struck by an automobile Sunday.

Charles R. Jordan II died Monday in Botsford Hospital after he was struck by an automobile while riding his bicycle Sunday.

Novi police reported Jordan apparently had been riding north on the northbound shoulder of Taft Road when he crossed over the road into the path of an on-coming vehicle.

Police reported he had been traveling about .3 miles south of Eleven Mile with two other cyclists who were riding on the southbound shoulder and apparently was crossing the road to join them.

Apparently the youth was struck as he was crossing the center lane of the road way.

No charges have been lodged against the driver of the vehicle, Robert D. Cassidy, 24, of Wixom. Police said they are still investigating the accident in order to determine whether charges will be made.

As We See It

Ordinance plans would benefit city

Walled Lake's City Council has turned down ordinances which would be of benefit to the city's home rehabilitation and beautification efforts.

Specifically, the council turned thumbs down on requests by city officials to proceed with plans for a certificate of occupancy ordinance and a building permit performance bond ordinance.

The certificate of occupancy ordinance would have required an inspection for building code violations by the city's building inspector whenever a building changes ownership.

The building permit performance bond ordinance would have required that a performance bond be posted whenever a building permit is issued. The performance bond, in essence, would ensure that city ordinances are followed by providing for forfeiture of the bond in instances of non-compliance.

We are convinced that both proposed ordinances contained the potential for being valuable assets to the city, particularly during a time when home rehabilitation and beautification efforts have become a priority.

It is significant that both ordinances were requested by the city's building inspector — the individual in the best possible position to know what enforcement tools are needed to eliminate problem areas.

Additionally, neither ordinance would have imposed any new requirements on residents. They were designed merely to give the city a more effective means of enforcing existing measures.

It is unfortunate that ordinances are sometimes viewed as a means of harassing residents. The opposite is generally true. Ordinances are adopted for the protection of the vast majority of residents.

The ordinances overturned by the council last week would not have hurt the majority of the residents. They merely would have protected law-abiding homeowners who take pride in their property from individuals who do not abide by existing building code requirements.

We would hope that the council reconsiders its action last week and asks for additional study of the proposed ordinances.

Levy collection fee

A recommendation from the city administration to implement a one percent tax collection fee should be approved by the Novi City Council.

Implementation of the collection fee has been recommended by Assistant City Manager Alex Allie, who reports that the city will gain approximately $90,000 in additional revenues.

Municipalities are permitted to levy the one percent fee by state law. The rationale behind the fee is that it permits units of government to recover the costs incurred for printing, processing and mailing tax notices as well as collecting and processing the taxes.

Related to the ruling is the fact that municipalities serve as the official tax collection agency for numerous other units of government, including school districts, the county, and county intermediate school districts.

Although the possibility of levying the one percent collection fee has been discussed at various times over the past several years, it has never been implemented by Novi's city officials.

Novi reportedly is one of just two municipalities in the state which do not levy the collection fee on tax notices.

The decision not to levy the fee undoubtedly has saved taxpayers some money over the years. By the same token, it has deprived the city of revenues which state law has deemed appropriate and just compensation for services rendered, i.e., the collection of taxes.

In essence, the city has provided its residents with something of a bonus by not levying the fee.

We see no reason, however, why the city council should be reluctant to collect revenues to which it is entitled at this time.

Several council members have proposed that the city trim $90,000 from its proposed 1979-80 budget as an alternative to levying the fee. Councilwoman Martha Hoyer has suggested that certain budget items are not mandatory and could be deleted in order to eliminate the $90,000 that would be raised by the one percent collection fee.

Although we do not now intend to discuss the merit of those proposed deletions, we would encourage the council to give serious consideration to approving the one percent collection fee proposed by the administration. Specific revenues for specific services is a valid concept.

Speaking for Myself

Environment over-emphasized?

OREN NELSON

BARBARA JACOBS

YES . . .

The environment is now regulated by the Land Sales Act, the Inland Lakes Act, the Great Lakes Waterways Act, the Real Property Act, Soil Erosion Act, National Rivers Act, Rivers and Harbors Act, Water Pollution Act, the Interstate Full Disclosure Act, Endangered Species Act, the Historical Act, the Solid Waste Disposal Act, the Zoning Act, the Building Code Act, the Subdivision Control Act. and a dozen others.

Now comes the Wetlands Preservation Act, Senate Bill 3, and HB 4049. It would seem absurd that any group of people could approach the Michigan Legislature and call for an absolute moratorium on development, conversion and use of millions of acres of land without making any effort whatsoever to determine exactly what is being done.

Proponents of the current Wetlands legislation want to strictly curtail the ability of millions of citizens to use and develop their property without any idea as to what property and what people they will effect. The inequity of the pending legislation is greatest on the person who owns a small parcel of land.

If the property owner happens to misunderstand the vague definition of wetlands, and decides incorrectly and innocently goes ahead with the building of a garage or the expansion of a garden or whatever activity which would involve the draining, dredging, filling, or otherwise altering a "Wetland", that person is subject to immediate criminal sanctions with up to a year in jail or a minimum of $2500 per day of violation.

That is an absolute statutory minimum penalty, there is no judicial descretion for lesser penalties. There is no reasonableness in the "Wetlands" bill as proposed. It stands ready to trample on constitutionally guaranteed rights to own and use property.

NO . . .

Twenty-five years ago, I lived on what seemed the edge of civilization. Woods and a river bordered a new housing development. It was northwest Detroit near Telegraph Road. Small pockets of development lay beyond, but the area north and west was largely untouched.

Today, the metropolis is a megalopolis and spreads to include a seven-county area. It pleases me that those woods and river survive. Someone looked ahead. There have been too few to envision the future.

The anxious age of industrialization has borrowed from tomorrow to provide for today. The results are rich and spectacular. There is, however, this nagging thought at the back of the mind that says, "Enough! Slow down, think, plan." We have run willy-nilly through the century plopping down our freeways, power plants, parking lots and hamburger stands with no thought as to their effect.

Orderly, planned growth must save for tomorrow. The fragile systems that make up our environment must be given attention and consideration. Once damaged, they are irreparable. Once lost, they are irreplacable. Only the human creatures have polluted the water, fouled the air and trashed the land.

Let us leave some of the lovliness and magnificence. The throw-away society of humans has had little regard for the other creatures and their habitat. We have all lost. Our children deserve more from us than another hamburger-heaven parking lot.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Buried in the little cemetery overlooking the millpond at Brighton, Bingham is best known as one of Michigan's early governors (1855-58). He served in other state and national posts as well.

Bingham, whose handsome Greek Revival home still stands northwest of South Lyon, wasn't just an ordinary Michigan governor. He had the distinction of being the first Republican governor in the United States, having been instrumental in forming the party at Jackson and in campaigning for the election of Abraham Lincoln.

(Incidentally, two of Bingham's children attended school in Northville).

A gentleman farmer who was not content with just looking after his farm, Bingham's activities carried him into business as well as politics. His attempt at banking, however, was a disaster.

In the tiny, now nonexistent town of Kensington, or "Kent" as it was popularly called, a "wildcat" bank was established in 1838. Although he was not one of the bank's originators, Bingham was one of its first financial backers. The town and bank, located less than a mile from Bingham's house, is now the site of Kensington Metropark.

Based on a fraudulent certificate of deposit, crisp new bank notes were issued, and two of the bank originators took off for Milwaukee carrying a pile of the notes, buying up everything they could get their hands on "from a farm or village lot to a pinchbeck time-piece or a suckling calf."

The two were eventually arrested, and within a year after it came into existence, the Kensington bank folded and Bingham was appointed the receiver.

Like the town itself, which at one time was larger than Milford or New Hudson, the red brick bank building on the shore of the Huron River eventually disappeared. Only a cemetery and the name remain.

Council considers attorney fees

Concern over escalating legal fees has prompted the Novi City Council to request an investigation of methods to control the amounts spent defending the city in court.

Last year the city spent nearly $124,000 in legal fees and a comparison of surrounding communities conducted by the city administration showed most are not spending that amount.

Figures showed Novi spends slightly more than Farmington Hills and Canton Township and significantly more than other communities polled.

It was noted that the figures actually were like comparing "apples and oranges" in some cases, however. Many communities polled are developed and would not be incurring costs for drafting ordinances defending zoning or for major law suits such as the annexation case which Novi experiences because it still is developing.

The council has asked the city administration to research why Novi's legal bills are comparatively higher and to recommend methods of reducing the bill which currently is running about $5,500 monthly.

It was explained the $67,000 in the proposed budget for legal expenditures was derived after studying past expenditures. Other funds also contribute monies toward legal fees. The $124,000 total includes costs for prosecution, labor mediation and defending Novi in court.

One area the council expressed interest in having the administration explore is the possibility of having the city attorney work under a retainer system.

Most cities with heavy legal work loads hire an attorney under a retainer which covers all routine matters. Under a retainer the city attorney's firm would be responsible for attending all council meetings, planning board and zoning board of appeal meetings.

He also would draft ordinances and resolutions and give opinions by telephone or letter to city administrators.

While those routine matters would be covered by the retainer the city would pay additional fees for defending the city in court and prosecution of ordinance violations. Legal fees for representing the city before the state tax tribunal also would be an additional cost.

Assistant City Manager Alex Allie told the council its decision regarding legal representation for the city would be a policy determination. He explained if the city enters a contract with a legal firm on a retainer basis then the firm and the city would have a different relationship than the one currently in effect with its present firm of Lampert, Fried and Levitt.

Allie told the council it is likely a junior partner would attend council meetings if the city entered a retainer system.

"You would not have someone the caliber of Dave Fried at the council table," Allie said. "A junior partner would be present under the assumption there are not a lot of spur of the moment decisions requiring a legal opinion that arise during the meeting."

In addition to the relationship with the current attorney, the council also considered proposals from other law firms which were submitted in confidence.

Mayor Romaine Roethel told the council she "felt strongly" that since the council has received these requests it should listen to a presentation from the firms.

But Councilmember Ronald Watson said that if the city was going to begin interviews for the position he believed they should be opened to other firms and not limited to those which have applied at this point.

The council requested the city's first step be to refine its position with Lampert, Fried and Levitt to determine whether less costly arrangements can be made before throwing the position open to applicants.

Councilmember Martha Hoyer requested a procedure be developed so that city business requiring an attorney's assistance would continue even when the attorney is not available.

"Isn't it a shame that when Dave Fried leaves town the wheels stop," Mrs. Hoyer said.

Councilmember James Shaw said he believed that reducing legal fees would not only require changes in use of the attorney by the administration, but could require a change in council style. "I'd be interested to keep track of how many times we request decisions from the council table," Shaw said.

He suggested scheduling items which would require attention by the attorney on alternate meeting dates as a possible method of cutting legal costs.

Councilmember Robert Schmid said "this council has been spoiled by having a knowledgeable senior member of a law firm who knows the city and who has missed few meetings in the times he has served us."

Council members agreed they were not prepared to look at other law firms until they had first received additional input from Fried. They decided to resolve the question before the end of the fiscal year, June 30 after reviewing the situation further.

Walled Lake officials plan road clean-up Saturday

Clean-up crews will turn their attention to Walled Lake's two major roads — Pontiac Trail and West Maple — Saturday as the main event during "Clean-Up, Paint-Up and Fix-Up Month."

Mayor Gaspare LaMarca said persons who are interested in participating in Saturday's project should meet at city hall at 8:30 a.m.

The mayor, following the lead of Governor Milliken, proclaimed April 21 to May 19 as clean-up month and urged all citizens to take part in the annual event. The city council unanimously endorsed the mayor's proclamation and decided to inspect the city in June to present awards to businesses and subdivisions that make the greatest improvements during the month-long campaign.

for the parcel on Wixom Road.

Planners had recommended the industrial zoning after learning that a "massive" steel fabricating plant which had been abandoned has been purchased and back in operation.

Cairns told the council the existence of the plant in an area where the majority of the surrounding property is zoned for residential homes constitutes "one of the greatest and potentially harmful incursions (on the master plan) that I have ever been involved in.

"But it exists and is being used so we had to re-evaluate the area," Cairns continued.

He explained he had tried to set up a coordinated zoning area by connecting general industrial parcels on the property included in the proposed rezoning.

But council members expressed concern that the plan developed by Cairns included too much general industrial zoning for the area.

Council member Robert Schmid told the planner he especially objected to the recommended rezoning because nearly anything from a "smelting plant to a bump shop would be allowed." He also expressed concern that outside storage is allowed in the general industrial district.

It was suggested the parcel be rezoned so the plant would operate in a light industrial zoning district as a non-conforming use. But other council members protested that the purchaser of the property was operating his business in good faith under its zoning and such an action would penalize him by prohibiting his expansion.

In an attempt to achieve a compromise, Council Member James Shaw designed an alternate rezoning map for the area. Council agreed to have the planner review the plan designed by Shaw and resubmit it to them with appropriate comments.

The second problem involved the rezoning of 13.69 acres on the southwest corner of the Fourteen Mile-Haggerty Road intersection.

The planning board had recommended a multiple family residential zoning for the property, though the city planner recommended small farm residential development of the area.

Owners of the property had lodged a protest against rezoning the property to small farms. Both the owners of a self-serve gas station on the property and the owners of the balance of the property opposed the city planners recommendation.

Middle school teachers protest crowded classes

Though the school year is drawing to a close, teachers at Novi Middle School North want the school board to understand they were not pleased with the class loads carried by many sixth grade teachers.

The teachers complaint would appear to be a mute point since the administration has recommended the hiring of two additional middle school teachers for the 1979-80 school year.

But teachers appeared before the board last week to report they believed the administration could have been more responsive and cooperative in the matter.

Superintendent Gerald Kratz took issue with the teachers' claim that the administration was uncooperative in resolving the problem. He said the administration had developed a number of remedies, all of which the teachers found unacceptable.

Kratz further told the board that some of the most vocal teachers have had larger classes under the same contract agreement without making "a big issue about it."

He also indicated that besides smaller classes the teachers also have a librarian, counselor, a Title One teacher and numerous other aids which they never had available to them before.

But the teachers in a prepared statement delivered by Novi Education Association President Rosalind Fuertes shot down all the remedies the administration had proposed and maintained that the administration had been notified early enough in the school year so that a satisfactory solution could have been reached.

Specifically the letter to the board said the administration was notified last June that it was likely there would be overloaded classrooms at the sixth grade level.

It was explained to the board that the fifth grade class which was scheduled at that time to advance to sixth grade had been taught by nine teachers and that only eight teachers were hired to teach sixth grade.

"You knew the numbers at that time and we can't understand why another teacher was not hired right away," Mrs. Fuertes told the board.

Under the contract, class sizes are set at 27 for elementary classes and 28 for secondary classes. Maximums for activity type classes also are set. Contract violations cited by the teachers were sixth grade classes that ranged from 28 to 33 students, science classes with 25 student maximums averaged 32 students, and Physical Education classes with a 36 student limit have run between 33 and 50 the teachers maintained.

The teachers filed a grievance regarding the situation February 1, but later withdrew it "due to the extended time taken to reach a solution. It was so late in the school year that it would have caused more chaos than relief," Mrs. Fuertes told the board.

Kratz said following the meeting that the administration had believed the problem was settled earlier this year after teachers agreed in writing to allow high school teachers to take some of the load from sixth grade classes during their free periods.

That plan was submitted to the school board for its approval after it had been accepted by the teachers. The board adopted the plan, but the teachers subsequently reversed their decision to bring high school teachers into the middle school.

Mrs. Fuertes explained the situation in her statement to the board, saying "the transfer of high school teachers was impractical since the class hours at the high school and Middle School North differ so dramatically."

Kratz maintained that even though the schedule did not dovetail perfectly, the teachers still would have received some relief if high school teachers had been brought in to teach even 15 or 20 minutes.

"If you don't try it how do you know it's not going to work," Kratz queried following the meeting.

In summarizing its position, the teachers told the board that had a solution been reached at this point of the discussion small groups of students would have been taken from different teachers to form a new class for the last six weeks of the school year.

Warrior girl tracksters improve 3-B

Ladycats split in softball 4-B

Viking nine sweeps Western 6-B

Wildcat nine claws to pair of victories

From the evidence he provided last Tuesday pitching against Milan High School, Novi's Jeff Laverty didn't have a very relaxing senior trip in Florida. In his first practice back from the trip, Laverty told coach Bob Weinburger that he had been throwing all during his trip, just to stay in shape for his return. So Weinburger started him right away, just to see what he had. Laverty shut out Milan 1-0 on two hits.

Also during the week, the Wildcats split a doubleheader with the South Lyon Lions, taking the first game 4-1 while dropping the nightcap 3-1. The two wins raised their league mark to 2-1, good for a three-way tie for second with Chelsea and Saline, both of which Novi will play this week. The Wildcats' overall record so far this season is 3-6.

Against Milan, Laverty went the distance, allowing just the two hits while striking out three and walking but one. The Wildcat defense helped out, recording 13 assists during the game and two double plays.

One of the double plays saved the game for Laverty. With a Milan runner on third, the man at the plate sent a fly to deep left field. Bill Bishop hauled it in and sent a rifle shot throw to the plate to nail the runner trying to score from third. Laverty held on and earned the win, raising his pitching record to 1-0.

The lone Wildcat run came when the starting Milan pitcher, Tim Keller, walked four of the first five batters he faced, sending home Keith Crosslin with the winning run the easy way. Dennis Britton came in to relieve Keller, and struck out 11 of the next 17 Novi batters he faced.

Against South Lyon, the Wildcats released a flame-thrower of their own in the form of Dan Bunker. In his seven innings of work Bunker gunned down 12 Lion batters while walking five. He also pitched a two-hitter, giving up only run run.

Behind 1-0 in the fourth inning, Dan Ford walked, then the Lion pitcher, Tom Carano, threw wildly on a pick off attempt and the Wildcat runner took second. Bob McAllister then singled to drive in Ford and tie the game.

In the fifth, Keith Crosslin walked, took second on a wild pitch, stole third, and came home on Jeff Laverty's sacrifice fly. In the sixth, the Novi team scored twice to ice the cake. McAllister singled, Charles Curry then walked, and both runners moved up when Carano let lose a wild pitch. Dan Bunker then banged a double off of the wall, driving in both Wildcat runners with the third and fourth runs of the game.

In the second game, Craig Iseli started for the Wildcats but got rocked in the second inning, giving up all three Lion runs. Jeff Laverty and Bill Bishop each threw a couple of innings of relief, with Bill McCauley mopping up in the seventh.

The lone Novi run came in the fourth when Brent Gross doubled and came home on a throwing error by the Lion shortstop. They had an opportunity to get more runs in the fifth inning when, with the bases loaded and one out, Gross hit into a double play to end the inning.

"The team is shaping up the way I thought it would," Weinburger said.

Warrior doubles duos hot as netters stay unbeaten

Tennis is rapidly becoming a game of "double or nothing" for the Walled Lake Western netters of Noah Gregory.

For the second straight match, the Warriors socked it to their opponents in doubles pairings when the locals went to it against Waterford Mott last Wednesday. Consequently — and also for the second consecutive time — Western prevailed once more in a 4-3 triumph.

Warrior netmen have been nothing short of superb in two-on-two encounters thus far in 1979. The three doubles duos have not been beaten yet this spring.

In their latest battle, Western's tennis boys trampled the opposition in straight sets. The number one doubles combination of Mike Draheim and Mike Bryant coasted to 6-1, 6-2 verdicts, Jeff Chura and Brent Taylor won by 6-2 and 6-3 tallies in number two doubles competition, and third doubles players Mike Sacco and Larry Garza joined forces to post 6-2 and 6-4 victories. Sacco and Garza, incidentally, haven't lost as much as a set this season.

Despite the continued excellence of the doubles teams, the Warriors once again just barely scraped by. Had it not been for a gutsy outing by Western's number one singles player, Doug Poland, the hometown boys would have gone home losers.

Poland notched the only Warrior win in Wednesday's singles action, but it was as tough a victory as he's ever had. In the first game, the Western junior needed to win a tie-breaker to escape with a 7-6 triumph, and Poland was outclassed by a 6-1 count in game two.

It was the decisive third game, however, where Poland finally prevailed. Despite being humbled minutes earlier, he came back to post a 6-4 win to walk away a winner.

"I like the way Poland came back," Coach Gregory commented, "especially after getting beaten so soundly in the second game. It was a big clutch performance that was a lift for him and the whole team."

Unfortunately, that was to be the last Warrior victory on this day. Western number two man Wayne Glessner was beaten 6-2 and 6-3; Jay Campana, the number three player who gained Western's only singles win a week ago, was downed to the tune of 6-1 and 6-2; and number four singles man Tim Green also lost by 6-1 and 6-2 scores.

As it turned out, the Warriors more than had their hands full of Durochers Wednesday. Mott's Paul Durocher, a junior, was the one who gave Poland such a battle royale in the first singles bracket, and his twin brother, John, breezed to a third singles victory over Capana. Yet another Durocher — Mark, a sophomore — played well also, as he bested Glessner in second singles.

But Gregory's unit still has managed four wins without a loss — a fact that the Warrior boss can live with.

"I'm a little surprised with our record thus far," Gregory admitted. "But the more I watch these guys play, the more I realize that we've got a really good team here.

"We'll be finding out soon just how good we are," he added. "We've got (Livonia) Churchill Monday, and that should be a big test for us."

The schedule for this week shows Western to host Plymouth Canton today after Monday's showdown, with the Warriors then traveling to Northville Friday and hosting Farmington Harrison Monday.

Central girls win first dual outing

The Walled Lake Central girl's track team got some fine individual performances in a dual meet against Plymouth Canton last week, and the result was its first victory of the 1979 season.

The Vikes posted a 68-54 victory, claiming eight individual first-place finishes and a pair of firsts in the relays.

Viking coach Dave Flammer praised Kathy Harris, Felicia Lambert, Cheryl Griem and Pam Smith in particular, as that quartet was responsible for six of those eight individual triumphs.

Harris notched three first places to lead the way. She compiled a time of 17.4 in the 110-yard hurdles, clocked in at 63.4 in the 440 dash and high-jumped her way to a height of five feet, one inch besting the rest of the field.

Smith's first-place effort came in the 880, as she finished with a time of 2:40.1. She was joined by fellow winner Lori Moser, who completed the 100-yard dash in 13 seconds flat. Moser also turned in a second-place showing in the 220, coming in a 29.9 time.

The remaining individual firsts for Central came in the long jump competition, as Griem reached a height of 15 feet; the shot put, won by Liz Farr with a toss of 29 feet, 11 inches; and the discus throw, Lambert was victorious with a throw of 87 feet, four inches. Lambert was also second in the high jump competition, finishing just an inch behind winner Griem at 14 feet, 11 inches.

Two other seconds occurred, with Donna Glennie finishing runner-up in the 100-yard dash to teammate Moser. Glennie was just one-tenth of a second behind the winner, pulling in at 13.1 seconds. Kyle Galbraith also had a second, turning the trick in the discus with an 84 foot, one-inch heave.

Galbraith — along with Smith, Griem and Lambert — won the 880 relay event, finishing at 1:59.5. The Vikings also captured the mile relay competition, as a quartet of Smith, Griem, Lambert and Harris won is 4:34.

However, the season's first dual win was clouded somewhat by the squad's performance in Saturday's Stafford Relays, held at Walled Lake Western High School. Central couldn't manage a single point in that action, as the girls just suffered the "blahs" on a cold and miserable day.

"That day is best left forgotten," Flammer said. "We didn't do as well as we could have, of course, but the meet was very competitive. We came close to getting points in a couple of events, but not close enough."

The Vikings were scheduled to try to rebound from that disaster May 1 in a dual meet against Farmington. Tomorrow (Thursday), they're schedule to travel to Livonia Stevenson, and then it's on to the West Bloomfield Invitational Saturday. Central won't return home until May 16.

Singles players play tough

Viking netters win twice with clutch performances

The Walled Lake Central tennis team proved last week that it too can win the close ones.

After suffering a heart-breaking 4-3 setback at the hands of rival Walled Lake Western the previous week, the Vikings turned the tables on Brighton last Wednesday, prevailing by an identical 4-3 verdict.

Central won two of the three doubles matches to seal the victory in this one. The first doubles pairing of Curt Burstein and Tom Phelps teamed to win a squeaker, claiming a couple of 7-5 wins, and the third doubles team of Jim Chinarian and Greg Boone hooked up to emerge victorious by counts of 6-4 and 6-1.

The Vikings' second doubles team wasn't quite as fortunate on this day, as Eric Paine and Rick Rogers went down to 6-2 and 6-3 losses.

Singles action saw Central winning on the first and second levels, then losing in the third and fourth groupings. Viking number one singles man Rob Kamenoff prevailed by 7-5 and 6-3 scores, and second singles player Doug Gruber coasted to a pair of 6-1 victories.

On the other hand, Central's Scott Boone dropped a couple of 6-4 games in third singles, and Steve Singh lost in fourth singles by scores of 6-2 and 6-4 for the Vikings.

Friday's match with Waterford Township represented somewhat of a turnabout, as the Vikes won a little easier with the singles players leading the way. Central won three of its four outings in that competition en route to a 5-2 win.

In first singles, Kamenoff had to come from behind after losing the first set to take the match. He fell by a score of 7-5 before coming on with two 6-4 triumphs. Gruber, on the other hand, was victorious in straight sets, winning 6-3 and 7-6.

The only Central singles defeat Friday occurred when third man Ray Ejups lost by 6-2 and 6-1 counts. But fourth singles player Scott Boone made up for that by breezing to 6-1 and 6-0 wins, and the Vikings were on their way.

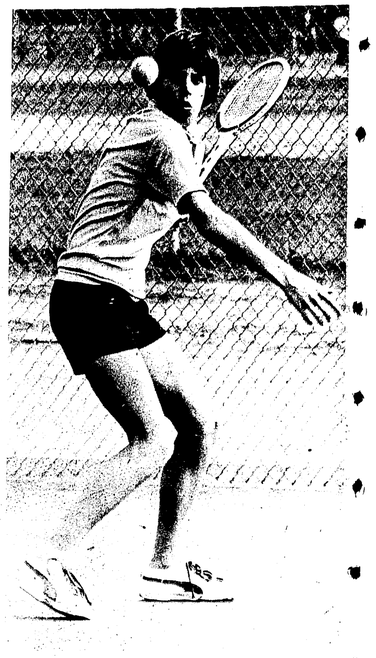
For the second straight time, Central took two out of the three doubles meetings against Township, but this time the winners were the second and third pairings. The first doubles team of Burstein and Phelps went down to defeat in a close match, winning the first game 6-3 before dropping two 7-5 contests.

However, Eric Paine and Bill Patrick succeeded in avenging that setback by winning in three games on the second doubles level. The scores were 6-1, 3-6, 7-5. Greg Boone and Imats Ejups then proceeded to take a couple of 6-3 decisions in third doubles.

Central tennis coach John Shadford, obviously pleased with his team's 2-1 showing at this point, said experience was the reason the Vikings have improved in singles competition.

"That's the reason," Shadford reported. "The experience is the difference for us now, and as a consequence, we're much stronger in singles than in the past. We used to be stronger in doubles."

Shadford's unit looks pretty strong in both departments right now, and will have a busy time of it this week in an effort to meet Pontiac Northern at Central today (Wednesday) and take on Milford Lakeland at Milford Thursday. They then host Farmington the following Monday.



Curt Burstein contributed to a win

Western nine drops three one-run contests

If the Walled Lake Western baseball team can survive a week like the one it just suffered through, the Warriors figure they can survive anything.

Steve Demar's squad is coming off a particularly frustrating three ballgames. The Western nine dropped all of its games last week — all by one-run margins. And if that wasn't enough, the Warriors led in all three games.

The nightmare started Wednesday in an 8-7 loss to Waterford Mott. Western trailed by a 4-0 count going into the sixth inning, but staged what looked to be a game-winning rally as it plated seven runs to move ahead, 7-4.

John Turner connected for two singles in the one inning, good for an RBI, Mike Crawford had a double and two runs driven home, and Ken Bennett chipped in a triple and an RBI to highlight the uprising. But even that wasn't enough, as the winners scored once in the sixth and three more times off loser Matt Spencer in the bottom of the seventh to steal the verdict.

Western then had a doubleheader with cross-town rival Walled Lake Central to get up for. Unfortunately, though, the Warriors were down when it was all over, dropping 3-2 and 5-4 games. The visitors held a 2-1 lead going into the sixth inning in game one, but once again couldn't hold on. Loser Matt Spencer was victimized for the second straight game, as he suffered the effects of a couple of hits and a costly Western error.

The Warrior frustration reached a high point in game two. Western led twice in that one, but the final result was the same — even though it took nine innings this time.

Central took a 2-1 margin into the seventh inning, but Western stormed back to grab the upper hand with a two spot for a 3-2 lead. The Vikings knotted things up with a run of their own in the bottom half of the frame and even had the winning run on third base with one out, but the Warriors wiggled their way out of that situation to force the affair into extra innings.

With the momentum supposedly on its side, Demar's group scored a go-ahead run in the ninth on three walks and a hit. But the final crusher was yet to come, as Central tallied two in the bottom half of the inning to make a loser out of Bill Ditaker.

"We just haven't been able to hold on," Warrior coach Demar lamented. "We could be 5-2 instead of 2-5 right now. The kids are working hard, but they're making critical errors. That's what's been beating us.

"It certainly hasn't been the pitching that's been at fault," Demar continued. "Matt Spencer came back to pitch a fine ballgame for us when he started the first game of the doubleheader, and Carl Cunningham looked good for us in the second game.

"We just need to break through, and hopefully that'll happen against Livonia Churchill."

The Warriors were scheduled to take on Churchill Monday before hosting Plymouth Canton today (Wednesday). The boys will then travel to Northville Friday before returning home the following Monday to host Farmington Harrison.

Wildcat tracksters blasted

Novi took on one of the toughest track teams in southern Michigan Thursday and got their nose bloodied for it. The Brighton team mugged Novi to the tune of a 177-15 thrashing.

Dwayne Ridenour took three third place finishes for the Wildcats, leaping 5-feet-4 in the high jump, tossing the discus 114-feet-7½ and heaving the shot put 32-fee-4.

Jeff Bolek and Mickey Goplaian finished second and third in the long jump, going 16-feet-7½ and 16-feet-6, respectively.

In the 100-yard dash, Pat Dudley went :10.9, his best time of the year. Novi's distance ace, Jeff Johnston, manages two third place finishes in his specialties, the one and two-mile runs. In the one-mile, Johnston managed a 4:37.4 while in the two-mile run, he went 10:07.

Rounding up the Wildcat point total was Mike Iban, who came in third in the 330-yard low hurdles, with a time of :34.3.

Last Saturday, coach Ron Champine took a number of the Wildcat track members to the relays at Detroit Country Day School. Over twenty teams participated in the event. Only Jeff Johnston was able to score any points for the Wildcats, coming in sixth in the two-mile run, with a time of 9:57.

Western's Simo Buttazzoni led a strong shot put effort

Yuhn paces Warrior resurgence

Hopefully, when Walled Lake Western girls' track coach Sharon Young looks back on the 1979 season, she'll remember the Stafford Relays as the meet that turned her team around.

The Warriors looked miserable in their initial dual meet outing two weeks back, losing 94-29 to Milford. But last Saturday's fifth annual relay — hosted by Western and named in honor of former Warrior track and cross country coach Bernie Stafford — could very well represent a turning point for the team.

Western finished seventh among 17 squads, garnering 35 points in what Coach Young deemed "a really encouraging performance." The Warriors had two outstanding individual efforts, and six such relay performances.

"I'm very pleased with the way we did," Young said, "especially when you consider that it was just our second meet of the year. We looked so much better than in the Milford meet, and I hope we can keep it going."

The top Western solo effort was turned in by Judy Yuhn, who finished third in the two-mile run among some 20 participants. She clocked in at 12:28.4. Cathy Van Putten added another fine individual performance in the 220-yard dash, finishing fourth at 27.4.

In team competition, a third-place shot put relay effort topped Western. Simo Buttazzoni, Karen Duskey and Babette Nissen did the honors, tossing the weight for distances of 33 feet; 30 feet, five inches; and 29 feet, seven inches respectively for a total of 93 feet.

The Warriors also captured a couple of fourth places. One such finish occurred in the long jump relay, as Sandy Dixon reached 14 feet, 10 inches; Janet Wilson attained a distance of 14 feet, nine inches; and Laura Wilcox made it to 13 feet, 11 inches for a total of 43 feet, six inches.

The other fourth took place in the high jump relay. There, Shelley Smith leaped for a height of four feet, 10 inches, while Connie Murphy and Tracy Hopeck each reached four feet, eight inches for a total of 14 feet, two inches.

Western also placed in the 440 relay, finishing fifth. Van Putten, Nissen, Wilson and Kris Melieme timed at 54.3.

In addition, the Warriors' discus relay team of Nissen, Duskey and Devany Donigan placed sixth. Nissen, in her first discus effort of the year, topped the trio with a 96-foot, 10-inch heave. Duskey's toss went 87 feet, six inches, while Donigan threw the discus for 70 feet, nine inches to round out the Western total of 255 feet, one inch.

The final Warrior placing (another sixth) took place in the two-mile relay, as Sharon Byrka, Wilcox, Yuhn and Kris Maher combined for a 10:41 clocking.

Pontiac Central, which set three meet records and two individual meet records, finished first with 106 points. Central's Carolyn Wright was named the meet's Outstanding Athlete. Ann Arbor Pioneer was second with 103 points, followed by Brighton, with 86.

The Warriors were slated to host Plymouth Salem in a dual meet yesterday (Tuesday), then travel to Livonia Churchill tomorrow. Western then participates in the West Bloomfield Relays Saturday.

Viking nine drops two

The Walled Lake Central softball team played well and not-so-well in a pair of losing causes last week, as the Vikings suffered their first two losses of the season.

After an April 23 win over Waterford Mott, in which the girls took advantage of walks to score a 19-6 victory, the locals came out on the short end a couple of times. The very next day, in fact, the Vikings fell to the tune of 17-8 to West Bloomfield.

West Bloomfield collected 15 hits and eight walks off Central pitcher Krista Graham in that one to overcome a 12-hit Viking attack. Coach Nancy Smith's squad was led on offense by Graham, who belted a two-run homer with Sue Austin (who had tripled) aboard. Other RBIs came from the bats of Julie Kunze, Tammy Grames and Patti Limb.

The Vikings rebounded from that subpar performance to play better Friday. After getting rained out in Thursday's scheduled encounter with Walled Lake Western, Central played 1978 state champion Waterford Township tough before succumbing by the score of 6-1.

The winners led by as little as 2-0 going into the seventh inning, but poured home four runs in that frame to salt the game away. Central added a meaningless run in the bottom half of the inning, as Tammy Grames singled, went to second on a wild pitch, advanced to third base on a ground out and scored on another ground ball.

Smith's troops threatened on other occasions, but didn't muster enough base runners. Central had just four hits against Waterford Township. The winners managed just five hits, but benefited from 10 walks.

On a more positive note, the Vikings did play some good defense, according to Smith.

The Vikings, now 1-2, are hoping their improvement will result in a few more wins this week, as they were slated to travel to Livonia Stevenson Monday, play at Pontiac Northern today (Wednesday), host Milford Lakeland Friday and then head back to the road for a battle with Farmington the following Monday.

Warrior softball team bounces back with win

If Walled Lake Western's April 24 softball game against Kettering is best described as a disaster, then the next day's contest would probably be aptly characterized as a "relief".

The Warriors were blasted in the Tuesday encounter with Kettering, suffering a 23-6 whipping in a literal comedy of errors, before bouncing back Wednesday for a 7-6 win.

The Kettering debacle should only be shrugged off as "one of those games." The tone of the contest was set very early; as the winners scored three times in the first inning on six Western errors, two wild pitches and no hits. It was all downhill from there.

In the second frame, Kettering scored five more times on just three hits. The Warriors helped out again with three errors.

The winners added another run in the third before Western finally broke through for a couple of runs. By the time the game was over, Kettering had scored in every inning, and Western had committed 12 errors.

Connie Sacco and Tracy Grubb were the lone bright spots for the Warriors in this one, as Sacco went two-for-two with a pair of singles and Grubb contributed two more one-basers in three plate appearances.

To their credit, the girls came right back the next day to win. Jackie LaMotte gained the victory, yielding just one earned run and three hits.

Strangely enough, the Mott contest began just like the previous day's mess. The Warriors committed four first-inning errors this time, opening the gates for four early unearned runs. By the time the third inning rolled around, Mott led by a 6-0 score and things looked pretty hopeless.

But the tables quickly turned, and soon Western was the beneficiary of some Mott generosity. The Warriors scored twice in the third without the aid of a hit, scored on just one hit in the fifth, added another run without a hit in the sixth and scored three times in the seventh to pull it out.

The victory was an important one for Western in that the contest represented the Warriors' first league game of the season. Nancy Komenaga's club is now 2-1 overall.

The girls were slated to battle Walled Lake Central Thursday, but that game was postponed due to rain. Next on the schedule was a game at Livonia Churchill April 30, followed by a battle at Plymouth Canton today (Wednesday), and a home affair with Northville Friday. Western then gets right back into action Monday when it travels to Farmington Harrison.

Novi midget soccer squad set to play in Silverdome

The Novi Midget Soccer League team, consisting of children eight to 10 years old, will receive a special thrill next Wednesday, May 9.

Novi nine splits two

Mound corps sparks Ladycats

Annie Robinson should think about being a fireman when she graduates from high school. The senior relief ace came in at a critical time in Novi's game against Milan last Tuesday, and put out a fire that was growing hotter and hotter.

The Wildcats jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead after three innings but the Milan team kept chipping away at the Novi lead. Robinson came into the game with one out in the sixth inning and held the Milan team in check, preserving Tracy Subkow's 5-4 win.

The Wildcats pounded out eight hits on the afternoon, scoring five runs. The first came when Nancy Porter knocked in Cheryl Shankel in the first inning. The next two came in the third, when Lori Georgio singled, then Carol Chantney blazed a shot that whisked between the legs of the left fielder. Georgio scored easily, while Chantney whipped around the bases and scored before the throw could get home.

In the fifth, Robinson walked, stole second and came home on Denice Burnham's single up the middle. Milan answered with a run of their own,. The winning run for the Wildcats came when Nancy Porter hit a double and Heather Barr drove her in with a single. That made the score 5-1, then Milan scored three in the next inning to make it close. That's when Robinson came in to work her magic.

In the other softball action last week, the Wildcats suffered a 3-0 loss to South Lyon. Subkow started and went the distance. Her only trouble came in the second and third innings. Subkow gave up five wild pitches which accounted for the three Lion runs.

"That was pretty much the game," coach Jim Tinsley said. "If we could only get rid of those one-bad innings that Tracy seems to have each game. But she is a super pitcher and we'll come around."

The next Wildcat softball action will be Friday, May 4 when they travel to Chelsea for a double-header.

Viking thinclads drop third straight dual

Walled Lake Central boys' track coach Dick Woodworth is hoping that the Viking picture will brighten considerably, along with the weather, as the season rolls on.

Right now, though, the Central track squad is struggling. Woodworth's squad currently sports an 0-3 record in dual meets, and the latest setback — a 95-37 defeat at the hands of Waterford Mott Wednesday — wasn't even close.

Despite the Viking record on paper, however, the Central mentor sees reason to believe that things will soon get better.

"The terrible weather we've had, along with the Easter vacation, has hurt us," Woodworth noted. "We're starting to improve, though, and should get better as time goes on. Toward the end of the year we ought to be really tough."

For now, though, the Vikings are working to put the pieces together. In Saturday's West Bloomfield Relays, for example, Central had just two tracksters place. Ace miler Randy Piotrowski finished second with a clocking of 4:28, and hurdler Doug Sheldon turned in a time of 15:03 — good for fifth place — in the hurdles.

The lopsided Mott loss had its moments for the locals. Central managed five first-place efforts in that dual encounter, showing that better things may lie ahead. Chris Harrington led the way with two firsts, topping the high-jumpers at five feet, 10 inches and pacing the runners in the 440 with a :54.4 time.

Another first went to Piotrowski, as he finished the 880 in 2:02. He also had a second-place time of 4:35 in the mile.

Dave Osstyn matched Harrington's two first-place performances, as he threw the shot put 41 feet to head the pack and also won the 220-yard dash with a clocking of :24. Osstyn added a second-place showing in the 100-yard dash (at 10.7) to that.

Another Central second-place outing occurred in the two-mile run, where Bob Slais turned in a time of 10:10. Other Viking placers included third-place efforts from Jim Scarnegie, 94 feet in the discus; Paul Renschler, 10 feet in the pole vault; and Jeff Detwiler, 10.8 seconds in the 100-yard dash.

The Vikings were hurt considerably by the absence of hurdler Doug Sheldon against Mott, but he's expected to be back for this week's action. Central was scheduled to host Farmington yesterday (Tuesday), and they play hosts again tomorrow when Livonia Stevenson comes into town.

Vikings' Patti Limb signs cage scholarship at EMU

After the career she's enjoyed at Walled Lake Central High School, who wouldn't want Patti Limb to attend their university?

Eastern Michigan University women's basketball coach Kathy Hart announced recently that Limb will attend EMU on a varsity basketball scholarship this fall.

Not only is Limb known for her athletic ability, she's also an excellent student. The five-foot-seven forward-guard has accomplished things at Central that most girls only dream of.

Limb was a unanimous All-Inter-Lakes Conference selection in both 1977 and 1978 while setting the conference scoring record 1978 with a 29.3 point average. She was a member of the All-Oakland County team in 1977 and 1978 and led the county in scoring with a 24.1 average last year. She was a second team All-Stater in 1978.

But Limb has been distinguished as a model team player, in addition to her individual accomplishments. She played on Central teams that won 50 and lost just 19 while winning two Inter-Lakes titles and a pair of district championships.

Novi net squad frustrated as rain washes week away

The rains giveth and the rains taketh away. In the case of the Novi boys' tennis team, the rain really tooketh away, cancelling three meets this past week due to soggy conditions.

They were scheduled to go up against Saline on April 24, Chelsea April 26, and Hartland on April 30, but the rain prevented any of these meets from taking place.

The next action for the team, rain aside, will be Thursday, May 3 when the Wildcats take on Howell away.

McKay lifts Ladycats

The Novi girls' track team took it on the chin again last Tuesday, April 24, when they got clobbered by Milford Lakeland High School 89-39. It was a vast improvement over their performance earlier against Saline when the Wildcats were trounced 122-1.

The difference between this meet and the one against Saline was that the Novi upper classmen had returned, whereas against Saline, the Wildcats fielded a mostly freshman team.

Against Milford, Ann MacKay led the Wildcats by capturing two first place finishes. One was in the 110-yard low hurdles. She burst the tape at :19.4. In the long jump, MacKay landed 15-feet-11 from the take-off strip, which was good for another first.

Janice Petriken came in second place in the 880-yard dash with a time of 2:46.2. This is her first year on the varsity team, and only the senior's second year running organized track.

Ginger Hensel may have trouble leaping over buildings with a single bound, but the senior was able to top 5-feet-4 which was good for first place. She also took a first in the 200-yard low hurdles clocking in at :35.0. It was the first time that she had ever run this event.

Cindy Iban, who just returned from vacation and isn't in top condition, according to coach Gene Gutierrez, captured third place in the 220-yard dash, running a :29.8.

Ann Prime took a second place finish in the two mile run, finishing the eight laps in 14:28.0. Gutierrez felt that she could run better times, but that again, she was out of condition due to her lay-off at vacation.

Terry Wasilewski took third in the 100-yard dash, with a :13.0 time, and a third in the 440-yard dash, burning in at :70.9.

Holly Johnson took thirds in the shot put and the discus, with tosses of 26-feet-1.5 and 72-feet-9, respectively. It was the first time in competition for the senior this year.

"There is no doubt about it," Gutierrez said, "We lost our seniors and sophomores a week ago and it hurt us. We started practice early this season and with a good attitude. Then Easter came and the bad weather hit us, and we now are back where we started from."

The Wildcat's only other scheduled meet, against Brighton, was forfeited by Gutierrez due to the condition of his team and the bad weather.

"I looked at my team when we got over there, and they were hobbling around. It was raining and they (Brighton) wouldn't cancel it. So, rather than feed their (Brighton) ego, I just forfeited. It's something you just have to do."

The next Novi girls' track action will be Thursday when the Wildcats host Ypsilanti Lincoln High School. There is a 4 p.m. starting time.

Novi Parks and Rec plans

adult summer tennis team

One day the clouds will part, the sun will shine through, and the temperature will rise enough to enable us to pack away the thermal underwear for another few months. And when that time comes, you should be ready to play a lot of tennis, because the Novi area will have a tennis team this summer through the Parks and Recreation Department.

The team will consist of 40 people, 18 and up, who will play in two of six competition levels. They are mens' singles and men over 30 singles; womens' singles and women over 30 singles; mixed doubles, men and women, and men and women over 30; and doubles, men and women and men and women over 30. Each person can play one singles and one doubles. Contact the rec department at 349-1976 for information.

There are still openings for up to nine women to round out a team for summer softball. Call the rec department for information.

There will be a contingent of Novi youth marching in the Youth Day ceremonies at halftime for the Detroit Express/Kicks match coming up. If anyone would like to go see the game, the rec department has tickets available at $5.00 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Coaches are still needed for soccer, t-ball and girls' softball.

Registration for girls' softball begins now, with two divisions open. The junior division, for girls through the ages of nine and 12, and the senior division, for girls 13-16, have openings, with girls signing up individually. The cost is $10 per person. Call the rec department now.

Registration for the Novi Basketball Camp is now underway. The camp meets June 18 for a two week session, Monday through Thursday. Grades six through eight will meet at 9 a.m. through 11:30 a.m., while the grades nine through 12 meet from 11:30 a.m. through 2 p.m.

Instructors will be Ron Fluter, Novi varsity coach, Gar Frantz and Tom Shillito. There will be trophies and awards given out and free t-shirts for all who participate.

Golf and tennis lessons are available through the rec department. There is still plenty of room for anyone interested in signing up for them. Just give the rec department a call for all of the information.

Need a part-time job? How does $700 sound? That's the pay for being the mens' softball league director at Novi. The position is one of a liaison nature between the rec department and the managers of the teams. The hours are three a night, Monday through Thursday, and Sunday, 6 p.m. through 9 p.m.

Avenge early setbacks

Butler's Viking nine sweeps two from Western

The 1979 baseball season opened a little shakily for the Walled Lake Central unit of Ken Butler, but the local nine recovered to win a couple of games by week's end.

In the champion opener against West Bloomfield, the Vikings were shelled to the tune of 10-1, making for a most unpleasant first game. Pitchers Dave Gagnon, John Codere and Dan Odette were taken to talk in that one.

The score was a bit more respectable Friday, but the end result was much the same in a 3-0 Waterford Township triumph. The winners' Bill Nolan had an outstanding day for Township, limiting the Viking offense to just two hits while striking out 10.

Nolan's dominance spoiled the day for Central's Codere, who didn't pitch too shabbily himself. The freshman hurled a three-hitter, battling Nolan on even terms until the fourth inning, when both pitchers were enjoying perfect games.

But Codere's defense failed him beginning in that inning. He surrendered an unearned run in that frame, and Township added unearned tallies in each of the fifth and sixth innings to close out the scoring.

Still, that didn't take the luster off a fine outing by the youngster, according to Butler.

"I'm very happy with the pitching by Codere," the Central mentor reported. "Along with only giving up three hits, he struck out four and allowed just two walks. That's pretty good for an inexperienced freshman."

The Vikings didn't waste too much time in evening the score for those opening two losses. They vented their frustrations out on rival Walled Lake Western, sweeping a doubleheader Saturday by 3-2 and 5-4 scores.

In the first game, Central trailed 2-1 going into the sixth inning, but wiped that deficit out with two runs to win the game. Winning pitcher Bob Burmeister drew a walk, and, one out later, Brian Norris also walked. George Burgess then followed with a single to tie the score, and Mike Burke connected for a single to drive home the winning marker.

Burmeister pitched an outstanding game in the opener, limiting the Warriors to just two hits and four walks. The left-handed senior, who also plays the outfield, struck out seven.

The nightcap was even more exciting. The Vikings took an early 2-0 lead before Western cut the margin in half in the fourth inning. Then the Warriors hit for two runs in the seventh inning, moving out to a 3-2 advantage and an apparent split of the day's games.

But just as in the first game, the Vikes weren't buried yet. Don Robinson walked, and catcher Greg Miller chased him home with a triple to knot the score. Miller was left stranded there, however, and the game went into extra innings.

In the ninth inning, the Warriors, thanks largely to walks, scored the go-ahead run. Odette issued a bases-loaded free pass to break the stalemate, the Central then escaped any further damage.

Getting out of that bases-loaded, one-out jam proved to be a big help for the Vikings. In the bottom of the inning, Odette walked, was sacrificed to second by Robinson and rode home on another clutch blow by Miller — this one a double. The big catcher then was moved to third and scored on an error for the winning tally.

Kelly Canfield paces Western

Skonieczny paces Warrior thinclads

Saturday's Ashley Relays proved to be productive for John Fundukian's Walled Lake Western boys' track team — even though the final results might indicate otherwise.

The Warriors may have finished ninth out of 13 teams, but their 28-point total represented an all-time high for Western in the highly-competitive meet. Bishop Borgess finished first with 69½ points, followed by Birmingham Brother Rice.

"We'll take it," Fundukian commented. "In a meet of that quality, 28 points is a real good job for us."

Greg Skonieczny stole the show for the Warriors on a cold Saturday afternoon, heaving the discus a whopping 143 feet, two inches — good for second place among some 40 competitors and also setting a new school record.

A third-place finish in the pole vault went to John McCormick, who turned in a height of 11 feet, four inches. Kelly Canfield accomplished a pair of fourth-place efforts, heaving the shot put 48 feet, 1¼ inches and hurling the discus some 128 feet, two inches — the latter, his personal best.

Three Western relay teams also placed. A distance medley relay team of Dale Filer, Willy Libby, John Meyer and John Yuhn finished fifth with a time of 11:11, as Libby set the pace. The Warrior senior turned in an outstanding 3:18 time in the three-quarter mile.

Libby also headed a middle-distance relay quartet with Yuhn, Meyer and McCormick. He turned in a 2:01.6 time in the half-mile, with Yuhn right behind at 2:05.

Finally, the Warriors placed in the shuttle-hurdle relay, finishing seventh. Filer, Dale Keener, Andy Juszczyk and Craig Hanley were the participants in that event.

pick-a-bargain AT PINE LUMBER

So long, Old Paint. Farewell, Fungus. Take off, Termites. America is decking out the out-of-doors with unpainted wood that's beautiful to look at yet doesn't need looking after.

It's called lumberscaping. And it's done with Outdoor Wood, real wood deep-treated with Wolman preservatives to keep it handsome, sturdy and worry-free for decades.

What nature does for Tidewater Cypress and Heart Redwood, the Wolman process does for Outdoor Wood. Only cheaper. And you don't have to paint it or stain it unless you want to.

Build yourself a beautiful backyard deck with Outdoor Wood. Leave it unpainted. Then, lay back and watch it blend in naturally with the landscaping.

That's lumberscaping. And that's living.

It's great for pole barns, machine storage buildings, and garages.

INVEST YOUR WORK, TIME AND MONEY IN A HABITANT FENCE THAT WILL LAST & LAST & LAST

Many fences sold locally are made from spruce and other woods which have a very limited lifetime outdoors — even when painted or stained. Habitant fences are manufactured from northern white cedar — a wood which has a natural resistance to rot and decay, much like pressure treated wood. It will last 5 to 6 times as long as spruce or other untreated white woods. It costs a little more but ITS WORTH IT!!!

Wildcat of the Week

Senior trips are supposed to be times of relaxation, of wild abandon and of doing one last crazy week of things with friends who you grew up with, and will more than likely not see again once graduation takes place.

The Novi senior class went on their trip recently, all the way down to sunny Florida, where there are prime distractions such as sandy beaches, blue tropical water and coconut juice. But there was one senior who didn't let loose with wild abandon, at least not all of the time.

Jeff Laverty, who pitches for the Wildcat baseball team, took a ball and his mitt down to the southern state and continued to throw in order to keep his arm in shape for his return to the starting rotation.

At first his coach, Bob Weinburger, felt that he wouldn't be ready. "But he threw three innings in an intra-squad game," Weinburger said, "and I saw that he was ready."

Ready indeed.

Against Milan last Tuesday, April 24, Laverty not only pitched the full seven innings, but he shut them out on two hits, winning the game 1-0. Laverty gave up just one walk, while striking out two. He only threw 79 pitches the entire game, which works out to about 2.9 pitches per opponent. Remarkable considering he missed a week on the trip, and was rained out of a couple of games before he left.

But Laverty isn't just a jock. In fact, athletics would seem to be just a form of diversion for the young man. In the fall he intends to enroll his 4.0 GPA at Harvard to study medicine. Hopefully, he has the medicine to boost the Wildcats into the league lead by season's end.

JEFF LAVERTY

By REID CREAGER

It's like the Reds against the Dodgers. Or the Canadiens battling the Bruins. Or even the Lions trying to beat the Vikings.

The Walled Lake Western-Walled Lake Central rivalry — or, if you prefer, the Walled Lake Central-Walled Lake Western rivalry — might not approach the scale of major league confrontations. But to those associated with these two local high schools, their inter-school tussles are every bit as important.

The feudein' began back in the fall of 1969, when Walled Lake Western began its first year. Up until then, only Walled Lake Central stood as the prep hot spot in Walled Lake.

Consequently, the birth of Western initiated a series of grudge matches that are still taking place. The only difference nowadays is that the rivalry has cooled down a bit — and that's a fortunate turn of events, according to Athletic Director Tom Evans, who serves in that capacity for both schools.

"It started out pretty rough," Evans reminisced. "There was a little animosity between the two schools when they first started playing each other, but fortunately, it didn't last.

"This isn't to say that there's nothing to the rivalry anymore," Evans qualified quickly. "The two schools still compete against each other with plenty of feeling. It's just that there's no hatred between the two, and of course we're happy about that."

In the 10 years of mostly-friendly competition between one another, both Central and Western have enjoyed some time in the sports limelight. Most recently, the Viking girls' basketball team has won two district championships in the past couple of years, and the boys' cross-country team copped the Inter-Lakes title last year. Western has enjoyed dominance in both wrestling and girls' track through most of the late seventies.

And the rivalry is currently as strong as ever. As recently as this past winter, even though both Walled Lake boys' basketball teams struggled through losing campaigns, Western and Central battled right to the wire in the two meetings they had against each other. The Warriors won both games — by a total of five points.

However, as is the case with most rivalries, one side didn't hold the upper hand for long. Just last week it was the Vikings' turn at the top, as Central swept past Western in a baseball doubleheader. The scores once again demonstrated the intensity of the competition, as the Vikings had to come from behind to win the opener, 3-2, and rally in their last at-bat to overtake the Warriors, 5-4, in nine innings to gain the sweep.

This series of head-to-head battles, then, has been known to arouse the competitive juices of the athletes involved. And, after last week's Western-Central doubleheader, it's apparent that that fervor is still very much in evidence.

It's an encouraging sign that, after 10 years, the action between these two schools is still so intense. The rivalry benefits fans who come out to see hard-fought, high-quality competition and is instrumental in boosting school pride — not to mention the sports programs of both institutions.

All of this points to many more classic Central and Western dogfights — and the winner will be everyone involved.

Wixom girls win title

A couple of Wixom residents experienced the thrill of becoming national champions recently, as coach Tom Burke and daughter Jeannie played integral parts in clinching the Womens' Open "A" National Hockey Championship for a Michigan club.

The two were part of a Fraser team that swept to the championship. Their open "A" level is the top amateur class in womens' hockey with 40 Michigan teams so ranked.

Burke's club compiled a 43-5-3 record this season. It swept through the playoffs, winning all four encounters to become the league champs.

They subsequently advanced to the U.S. title game, held earlier this month in Concord, Massachusetts. There, the girls bested a team from Assabet, Massachusetts, by a 3-2 score to become national champions. Jeannie, who was an outstanding athlete in her high school days at Walled Lake Western, assisted on two goals in the clincher.

Winning a championship was especially impressive for this largely midwestern outfit in light of the fact that womens' hockey is much more popular on the east coast, as several prominent eastern colleges — including Brown, Cornell and Harvard — offer scholarships to talented women hockey players. The Fraser entry, made up of women ages 18-25, consists of players from cities throughout Michigan. Two of the members hail from Canada.

"It was just an outstanding season for us," Burke commented. "This was the best girls' team I've ever coached, and I've been doing it for 13 years.

"They were tough all the way against some extremely good competition, too," Burke added. "They worked hard to win, and they deserve the championship. "It's a great feeling to be U.S. champs."

One angler's favorite is another's wipe-out

Where's the best area fishing waters?

Kent Lake may be the best all-around fishing lake in Southeastern Michigan

For all-around good fishing in this area there probably is no better nor more popular fishing lake than Kent in Kensington Metropark.

Some say it is the best in Southeastern Michigan.

There's little doubt that "it's number one" in pan fish and it's good for a variety of other fish, including bass and some good size walleye, says Ron Spitler and Bill Deephouse, district biologists for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Many local area anglers will agree, although some prefer their own favorites such as Union, in Oakland County, Whitmore in Washtenaw and Big Crooked in Livingston.

A good fishing lake for one person may be a bad one for another. Oftentimes, the key is knowing the lake.

In Livingston County there are a reported 600 lakes, many of them tiny, shallow bodies of water. Knowing the lake bottom and how to fish them is important, the experts point out.

"The peculiar thing about this business (fish biology) is that the fish we find most in our nets are not always the fish the anglers are getting," says Deephouse.

"Take Lake Chemung, in Livingston, for example. Two years ago we ran into a pile of big bluegill while making some tests. I mean those babies were big, and there were all kinds of them.

"You'd think it would be excellent fishing. But sure as the dickens if I said it was a hot lake for bluegill the people who fish it regularly probably will disagree. What I'm saying is that the fish we discover in our nets doesn't necessarily indicate good fishing."

Chemung doesn't even show up in DNR's list of the best fishing lakes.

"Cass Lake, for example, is a damn good lake. It's got all kinds of interesting fishing. Bass, pike, good smallmouth bass. But Cass is 'jet boat city.' A guy puts his life on the line trying to fish it while the 'jets' are streaking at him," says Deephouse.

For planet watchers

May sky's a treat

For amateur sky watchers, the month of May begins with views of two planets high in the evening sky after dark and three planets low in the morning sky before sunrise, notes University of Michigan astronomer Richard G. Teske.

Jupiter will appear like "a bright beacon high in the western sky" and Saturn, the giant planet in the constellation Leo, will be nearly overhead. "Both planets will continue to be fine evening objects for viewing all month," says Professor Teske.

"About a half-hour before the sun rises during the first week of May," he says, "Mercury, Venus and Mars can be seen glowing above the eastern horizon to the right of the coming sun.

"Mercury, the innermost planet, will quickly move behind the sun and by mid-month will be seen no more.

"On the morning of May 23," he continues, "Venus, Mars and the waning crescent of the 27-day-old moon will form a group in the east before sunrise."

Another astronomical sight visible to the unaided eye in early May is the Eta Aquarid meteor shower. These meteors are named for "the star in the water-jar of Aquarius from which they seem to radiate." Professor Teske notes. "They will be best seen in the second half of the nights of the 5th and 6th.

The U-M astronomer also points out the Milky Way, "a band of light across the night sky made up of the combined brightnesses of billions of faint and distant stars that are members of our own galaxy." He says the total distance across this collection of stars is thought to be 100,000 light years.

"When the Milky Way is high in the sky on early May mornings," he says, "we can easily see a

Chinese cabbage

Here's ideal salad green

Next to lettuce, Chinese cabbage is the best green salad ingredient.

Its leaves can be used whole to line salad bowls or heads can be cross cut into ringlets for tossed salads.

Crunchy Cabbage

If you or your family are fond of salads, you really should grow Chinese cabbage as a change of pace.

Chinese cabbage, if you are not familiar with it, tastes not at all like regular cabbage. Its pleasant piquant taste and texture are actually better suited to salads than to cooking, even though lightly steamed and buttered Chinese cabbage is a delicacy.

The secret is in the date of planting. Chinese cabbage needs several weeks of cool weather to form those big, tightly wrapped heads.

The best planting time for Chinese cabbage throughout the Midwest and South is after July 1; plants will mature when days are becoming progressively shorter and cooler. Plants will head rather than shooting up flowers.

Spring planted crops of Chinese cabbage are "chancey" anywhere, even if you get seeds in the ground extremely early.

One way to assure a good spring crop of Chinese cabbage is to plant seeds under a tunnel made of clear plastic sheeting or an arch of corrugated clear fiberglass.

Red maple makes a fall spectacular

A landscape tree with spectacular fall color is as near as your local nursery. For striking yellows, oranges and shades of red, plant the red maple (Acer rubrum).

According to Nancy Butler, Washtenaw County Horticultural Assistant, the red maple is a fairly fast growing shade tree with relatively few disease or insect problems. An upright tree with upswept branches, it is an especially good choice for wet areas or clay soils in the landscape where many other trees will not thrive.

Under ideal conditions, the red maple will reach 60 to 70 feet in height and one to two feet in diameter, but in the landscape 40 to 50 feet in height and 12 to 18 inches is average. It matures in 70 to 80 years.

The leaves of the red maple usually have three distinct lobes — though five sometimes occur — and coarsely toothed margins. Red when they first open in the spring, the leaves become bright green above and pale green below as they reach their mature size of two to six inches long. Twigs and leaf stems remain red all summer, giving rise to its common name.

The small, red flowers that appear before the leaves herald the arrival of spring. The small winged seeds mature in May or June.

BELLS of IRELAND

Green Bells chime warm garden joy

Little green persons from Mars would love these little green flowers. "Bells of Ireland" they are called. Technically, the green bells are bracts; they cradle the small but interesting flower parts.

Flower arrangers use bundles of long-lasting Bells of Ireland spikes, fresh or dried. The spikes curve appealingly when they arise from basal sprouts.

Bells of Ireland requires very warm soil to sprout. Flower arrangers who need a steady supply of spikes start seeds under "tunnels" of clear plastic sheeting. The tunnels trap the spring sunlight and reduce heat loss to radiation. Sprout seeds where plants are to remain; seedlings are touchy about being transplanted.

Where summers are warm, Bells of Ireland seeds are often planted in late summer for fall harvest. The warm soil hastens the germination of seeds which may require three weeks or more.

Nature's darker side

The darker side of the natural world will be explored during a night walk at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near New Hudson on Thursday, May 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Frogs and salamanders will be the topics of a family nature program at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near New Hudson on Saturday, May 5 at 9 a.m.

"With the arrival of spring, small ponds fill with frogs and salamanders who are ready to begin their age-old mating rituals. It is at this time that we can readily catch and identify the common varieties found in this area," says Naturalist Steve Horn, who will conduct this 1½ hour long program.

Picking a lawnmower: what's best, rotary or reel?

Reel-type mowers, rotary mowers — push models and self-propelled — riding mowers, lawn and garden tractors, garden tractors — they'll all cut the grass. But which one's for you?

Washtenaw County horticultural personnel say the choice boils down to: how much are you willing to pay, and how much walking do you want to do?

"You can spend five dollars on a reel-type mower at a garage sale — or upwards of $2,000 for a garden tractor with a mowing deck and other attachments. Somewhere in that range is the equipment that's right for you."

The size of the area you want to mow is one consideration. For a fairly weed-free, postage-stamp-sized city lot, a reel-type mower may be just the thing.

You probably wouldn't want to tackle a suburban half-acre of dandelions and weedy grasses with that equipment, however. Chances are you'd want at least a power rotary mower, perhaps self-propelled, or maybe some type of riding equipment.

The county extension service says investment in a lawn and garden tractor generally makes sense only if you can use it for more than cutting grass: for moving snow, and working the garden soil, hauling garden supplies around the grounds and performing other such chores. It adds, however, that adding a lot of accessories can drive the purchase price up in a hurry.

"And we've never yet seen a lawn so well designed for a riding mower that you could do without some type of small mower for trimming," it notes. "If you can't use the mower you're retiring, you'd have to buy a walking mower in addition to the riding lawn mowing equipment."

The options and accessories available in lawn and garden tractors are numerous. Like some power mowers, these machines often have battery-powered starters — just turn the key to start.

In garden tractors you'll find a wide range in horsepower, variable numbers of gears and some models with hydrostatic — hydraulic — drive, the tractor equivalent of automatic transmission. Some have electric or hydraulic lifts of PTO (power take off) to run accessories or attachments.

Optional mowing decks, rotary tillers — powered by the tractor or by auxiliary engines — snow blowers or blades, plows, disc harrows and headlights are common accessories or optional extras. Some accessories call for others to be added.

"For instance, if you're planning on using your garden tractor to plow, you'll need wheel weights and chains or agricultural tread tires," the extension service advises. "These are necessary for proper weight transfer and traction. You may also need a machine with higher horsepower — plowing is hard work, especially in heavy clay soils."

If you're planning to use your garden tractor as a snow plow, consider how much snow you usually have to deal with and where you have to put it.

If you frequently get more than six inches of heavy, wet snow, or if you don't have anywhere you can push snow to get it out of the way, a snowblower might be a better choice than a blade. A snowblower can handle deep snow better and throw it up and over high banks that a blade could not budge.

Snow-moving equipment isn't complete without a set of tire chains for good traction. Chains are especially important with a blade-equipped machine, though they can be useful with a lawn and garden tractor-snowblower combination, too.

For safety's sake, buy only equipment with the triangular seal of the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute, the extension service advises. Look for this seal the same way you'd look for the Underwriter's Laboratory seal on electric appliances. It indicates that the manufacturer meets at least minimum safety standards for guarding, equipment features and operator safety.

Another safety consideration is how noisy the machine is when it's operating. Exposure to high levels of noise over long periods of time can be very stressful. It can even lead to permanent hearing loss.

Safety switches and other special safety features are worth looking for, too. Some riding equipment has a weight detection switch on the seat that disengages the mower blades.

"A lot of people lose toes and injure feet when using mowing equipment because they slip or stick their feet under the mowing deck and into the twirling blades," the extension service says. "If the equipment you're looking at doesn't have some way to disengage the mower blades or some kind of safety switch, see if you can get on and off without putting a foot near the mowing deck. If you can't, keep shopping."

Versatile giant

Like porkers, from which everything is used but the squeal, sunflowers are efficient, adaptable and infinitely useful to gardners. The huge, golden, sunlight-seeking blossoms are beautiful, more than compensating for sunflower's tall, coarse leaves, often used for screening. Seeds form quickly, their weight making sunflower heads nod. After the seed heads are harvested the sturdy, fibrous stalks can be dried and saved for use as rustic tripods to support vining vegetables or flowers. If you want to plant giant sunflowers, be sure to select a variety bearing the name "Giant" or "Mammoth." Plant breeders have developed all sorts of shorter, smaller-flowered sunflowers in their quest for more decorative garden plants. These new varieties are beautiful but they don't have giant flowers.

Burlap bag helps seeds to sprout

"They'll sprout like hair on a dog's back because of the warm, moist environment under the porous burlap cover," say the experts.

Sprouting seeds under burlap is one of the old ways of gardening that works as well or better than modern techniques.

Burlap admits water readily but prevents seeds from being washed about, exposed or buried deeply by spray from the hose.

"Just don't treat a burlap cover like a cake in the oven," gardeners are advised. "do raise the cover often and peek under."

Remove the burlap as soon as the first sprouts show. If you leave it on even a day or two too long, seedlings will stretch and grow leggy.

Burlap covers work especially well for slow sprouting seeds such as parsley, onions and beets.

Bubble Gum (or Sticky Situations)

I've done kind of silly things,
Some were just plain dumb.
But the stupidest thing I ever did
Was forget I was chewing gum.

When Grandma came to see us,
She left here in a huff,
'Cause when she tried to kiss me,
She got a mouthful of the stuff.

And in my hair a bubble popped,
Before I could even shout.
It took me nearly an hour,
To get the darn stuff out.

And then my former boyfriend,
Took me to the races.
And when he tried to kiss me,
He got it in his braces.

But please don't be discouraged,
And cease your gum to chew,
Gum can be very helpful,
In everything you do.

To hang up posters,
Or patch up walls.
To feed to pets,
Or fix beach balls.

If someone has hurt you,
And just didn't care.
Don't hate them or hit them,
STICK GUM IN THEIR HAIR!

And although chewing gum,
Can result in a detention.
I still think that gum,
Is man's greatest invention.

Brenda Johnson

Humankind

"What in the world do they see in him?
We heard someone complain;
"He just sits there or he comes and goes —
His life seems so inane."

Another spoke: "Well, this I know —
He gives to those with needs;
He may not be an orator
But he acts his words in deeds.

We'll never know how many
He has helped from day to day,
But their load is always lightened
By his hand, along the way.

He'll make no mark in history books
For the good that he has done,
But our everlasting gratitude
He long ago, has won."

Charles E. Hutton

Sweet Dreams

A dream is a beginning
Of what one's life can be
It grows from a seed
Into a reality

When given a lot of thought
And handled with care
It can last for a life time
Even an eternity

It's as fragile as glass
It's easily smashed
If not handled gently
It just won't last
And all too soon one's dreams
Become a nightmare

If We Could Take a Minute

If we could take a minute, just to stop and say you're really a beautiful person, and I hope you stay that way.
If we could take a minute, to write the ones we love so much, to spend a few lost minutes, just to keep in touch.
If we could take a minute, to sit back and look at life, we wouldn't have to worry about little pains and strife.
If we could take a minute, to really try to care, our lives wouldn't be so worrisome as the game of truth or dare.
If we could take a minute, to notice the ones we love, we would notice the beautiful people God sent us from above.
If we could take a minute, to say "Hey look, it's me," we wouldn't have hate, and crime, and ugly poverty.
If we could take a minute, to do these very few things, we could realize the love and joy, that this good old world brings.

Elaine Cote

Discreetly Indiscreet

Sometimes it was a small hotel on a French seacoast
Where she would dine and wine with him
Their rendezvous was subject to
Each other's varying whim.

He was dark and trim and very slim
And he laughed in a carefree way.
He was the epitome of a woman's dreams
And he was hers for the day.

When they were apart — (and they often were)
She slipped into her middle-aged mold
Her mad romance would become a blur
And she'd worry about growing old.

It was then that her husband,
tired but kind,
Would come in from out of her life.
She'd realize in quiet resign
That she was just a normal housewife.

Harry G. Champe

"While I was in Europe I saw a bed 20 feet long and 10 feet wide."
"Sounds like a lot of bunk."

Shopper—"Have you anything snappy in rubber bands?"
Assistant—"No, but we have something catchy in flypaper."

"Why do you call this 'The Fiddle Hotel?'"
"Because it's such a Vile Inn."

"Waiter, this coffee is sheer mud — take it away."
"Sorry, sir, but it was only ground this morning."

"How can I make anti-freeze?"
"Hide her woolen pajamas."

WAREHOUSE
OUTLET STORE

Sears Warehouse
Outlet Store
is intended to provide Sears Customers with specially priced merchandise that is generally limited in assortment; usually 1, 2, and 3 of-a-kind, many discontinued models, some crate marred, some demonstrator models, some floor samples and some brand new. Although there usually is a wide selection of furniture, appliances, home entertainment and home improvement values, not all items are necessarily listed, and no kinds are always in stock. Visit Sears Warehouse Outlet in Livonia soon and see the fine values available.

HELP WANTED!

The City of Pontiac, Michigan needs qualified General Contractors, licensed with a residential builder's license, to do housing rehabilitation work. The work is financed through the Community Development Block Grant program and a Federal Section 312 loan program. It primarily focuses on occupied, single dwellings. Contracts are awarded on a bid basis, but not necessarily to the lowest bidder, as it is a loan program, with each dwelling being bid separately. The bids are based on inspections and specifications of work made by the City's staff and then reviewed and approved by the owner-occupant of the home. Experience and quality workmanship are a must. Call 857-7635 or apply at the Inspection Services Division, 91 N. Saginaw, Pontiac.

Jeweler with gifts for anniversary party

A THIRD ANNIVERSARY promotion is planned by Michel's Jewelry, "the diamond center" located in Northville Plaza, 42273 West Seven Mile Road.

"We are extremely pleased with the reception we've had in Northville, and to demonstrate our pleasure we're inviting the public to a third anniversary party on Friday and Saturday, June 1 and 2," said owner Michael Abraham Ansara.

Refreshments are planned, he said, and gifts will be given away to the first visitors to the store on the dates of the party. In addition, special sales are planned.

According to Ansara, the jewelry store "is the fastest growing" of the seven jewelry stores owned by Ansara and his relatives in the metropolitan area.

It has done so well, he said, that it persuaded him to launch another jewelry store last year — in Chatham Village at Five Mile and Newburgh. He continues to own and manage it.

JOHN McLELLAN

The appointment was announced by Richard Shuman, president of the Ford dealership at South Commerce Road and Pontiac Trail.

McLellan was a supervisor with A & P prior to starting with Shuman Ford as a sales representative some eight years ago. A Wolverine Lake Village resident, McLellan has served as president of the village council for the past four years and recently was re-elected to another four-year term on the council.

He and his wife Sue have four children.

Shuman cited McLellan's very capable background and extensive sales experience in announcing the promotion. He will be managing the sales department of the dealership in his new capacity.

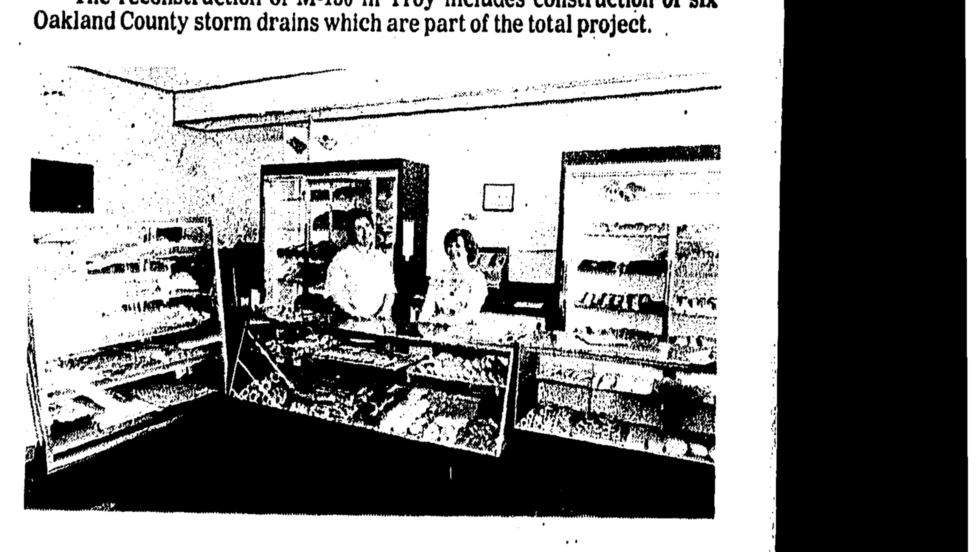
Shuman Ford will celebrate its 24th anniversary at its Walled Lake location in November. The dealership offers a full maintenance and automotive repair department in addition to its sales operations.

EDDY McLOUD, 335 North Ely Drive, Northville, has qualified to attend a career conference of New York Life Insurance Company agents this month in Oberlin, Ohio, according to Gerald H. Gordon, CLU, general manager of the company's Dearborn General Office.

McLoud will join other agents and company executives for educational work in life underwriting, health and employee protection insurance.

M & B CONTRACTING CORPORATION of Novi was the lowest of four bidders at $10.47 million for reconstruction of 4.98 miles of M-150 (Rochester Road) in Troy, the Michigan Department of Transportation has announced.

The reconstruction of M-150 in Troy includes construction of six Oakland County storm drains which are part of the total project.



THE SL VILLAGE BAKERY and Kowalski Sausage Shop opened recently on South Lafayette Street in South Lyon. The proprietors are Bill and Lepa Stvanovich of Dixboro Road. The baked goods, which include a wide variety of breads, rolls, cookies and doughnuts and special occasion cakes, come from Mrs. Stvanovich's father's bakery, the Petrovski Bakery in Westland. A full line of Kowalski cold cuts and sausage is also available. Mrs. Stvanovich (left) is assisted by Sidney Swauger.

DALE'S FURNITURE has become Brighton Interiors.

Howard Spooner (r.) and his partner Jay Fine (l.), who purchased Dale's Furniture last October, have now renamed the familiar furniture store at 209 West Main in downtown Brighton.

The change, according to Spooner, reflects the association with the local community as well as change in products being sold.

"It will offer a better grade of furniture," Spooner said, "carrying mostly early American, colonial, and traditional with some contemporary."

Brighton Interiors offers bedroom, dining and dinette furniture, as well as wall accessories, lamps and bedding. Among the brand names will be Flexsteel, Sealy, Schwieger, Berkline, Chromecraft and Riverside.

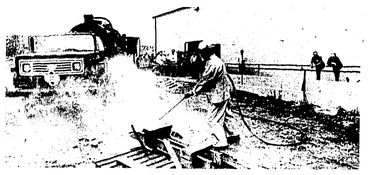
Spooner also said that service will be a big priority in the store.

"I've been in the furniture business for 25 years," said Spooner. "I think service is one of the most important aspects of the business."

Among the services will be quick and free delivery and responsiveness to customer requests.

"I think customer satisfaction is the key," said Spooner who, with Fine, have a total of 45 years in the furniture business. Both are longtime Brighton area residents.

Brighton Interiors is open on Monday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., and on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.



Doheny water pressure cutting demonstration

CELEBRATING its 25th year, Jack Doheny Supplies, Inc. of Northville — Michigan's largest supplier of municipal sewer equipment — held an open house April 24. Special equipment valued at more than $1 million was displayed and trained factory representatives were on hand to answer questions. A buffet was served. The company is located at 777 Silver Spring Court in Northville.

Apply for 'security number

Students who plan to get a summer job should apply now for a social security number if they don't have one, according to social security officials.

The general guideline is to apply for the number several weeks before it is needed for a job covered by social security. Frequently employers require a new employee to have a social security number before beginning work.

Officials say it takes several weeks for an application to be processed since it must be screened against central files to make sure a second number isn't issued to the same person.

More than nine out of 10 jobs are covered by social security.

A social security number is assigned to one person and remains the same for life. Officials say since retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection is credited to the social security number, is is important the employer copies the name and number correctly from the social security card to employee records.

Information about applying for a social security number is available by calling, writing, or visiting any social security office. Persons applying for a social security number for the first time will be asked to prove their age, identity and citizenship.

A lost social security card can be replaced by contacting any social security office.

Persons 18 or older who are applying for a number for the first time must apply in person. Applicants for a duplicate card are now required to submit evidence of identity.

Evidence of identity should include material showing the person's picture, signature, date of birth or age, or other identifying information.

Persons not born in the United States should provide evidence of their U.S. citizenship or their immigration documents showing they were lawfully admitted to the U.S.

Officials say although these new procedures make it more difficult to get a social security number, they are intended to help protect the person's social security record and to prevent anyone else from misusing the person's social security number.

All documents submitted as evidence may be verified with the agency which issued them to assure they are valid.

A free leaflet, "Apply for a Social Security Number," lists the various kinds of evidence which can be used. Copies can be obtained at any social security office. The address and telephone numbers of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory under "Social Security Administration".

The gas, composed mainly of hydrogen and helium, makes up as much as ten percent of the total amount of material in our galaxy, he says.

In some regions of space, the gas atoms are mixed with dust grains, which are "thought to be made of some complicated recipe of carbon, iron and ice."

"Astronomers long ago discovered that the gas and dust clouds along the Milky Way are organized into a pattern which gives to some galaxies their distinctive spiral arms — and so they are sure that the Milky Way system is also a spiral galaxy," explains Professor Teske.

"Light from distant stars in our own Milky Way, and light from galaxies beyond it, is dimmed by the dust clouds in space just as clouds in our earth's atmosphere dim the sunlight, making the day dark," he notes.

Jacquie Plas' students build enviable record

Smiles and trophies mark senior forensic members Jodi Rado, Paula Schweier, Rob Shekell, Beth Schnelz and Cher-el Fawcett

By NANCY DINGELDEY

There is a team of unsung heroes at Walled Lake Western High School.

They take top honors for the most consistent string of wins in the ten year history of the school and yet they are probably the least known among the competitive teams.

A showcase brims with shiny trophies and their state travelling squad is larger than the basketball team. Tops in competition, team members are required to spend countless hours preparing for their events.

Coached by Jacquelyn Plas, prodded by Art Stokus, not one of the 50 member team has placed lower than second in any tournament this year. In one event, the team chalked up 49 firsts and one second. The school will be represented by 17 students in the upcoming state tourney at the University of Michigan this Saturday.

During a recent regional event, nine of 11 team entries placed first with the remaining two named alternates to the state event. Percentage-wise, over one-quarter of the slots open for state competition were filled by Western students with the remaining number coming from 35 other schools.

The latest addition to the trophy case is the sterling silver "cereal bowl" aptly named for the top prize in the Battle Creek tournament. Other honors have come from the Saginaw-Eisenhower event covering the upper section of the state and the Warren tournament held for the Detroit-metro region.

According to Mrs. Plas, forensics covers the entire educational spectrum in both verbal and written forms. For the student who chooses to enter persuasive speaking events, the hours spent reading, researching, writing, rewriting, and rewriting again in preparation for one speech is both gruelling and endless. The student must then commit his speech to memory.

Under the umbrella of persuasive speaking are several categories. A student may choose current events, a field that requires constant reading and up-to-date information. He may choose radio news or simply choose a topic and try to prove a point.

Interpretive reading, the second category, can run from humor to the serious, from poetry to novels, from children's literature to multiple readings. Although the interpretive portions touch many elements of the acting art, it does, according to Mrs. Plas, require a different technique. The student must first understand completely the author and his message and then convey that message to the audience.

Anytime from December to May a visitor to the school after regular hours will find someone from the team rehearsing. Although members are required to rehearse twice a week, many spend hours after school every day researching or working on a speech. Forensics members support each other, offer companionship, critique each other, and share in victories and defeats.

Mrs. Plas said her philosophy when dealing with the forensics team is not to win. "That is not foremost. What is foremost is to learn the art of speaking."

With less talk about winning, Mrs. Plas said she believes the students are not afraid to fail. "I think that basic idea makes them more creative and allows them to take risks. Trophies are nice, but they are not important. What the kids learn is what counts."

Auditions are required for membership on the team since one fateful year when Mrs. Plas made the mistake of saying any student willing to try was welcome. Her team that year numbered 90 students. She added that at 50, the team is still larger than most.

The unique feature of a forensics team is that it tends to develop hidden talents in students, commented Mrs. Plas. The students were quick to agree that anybody can learn the art if he is willing to spend the time.

"It's long, exhausting work," commented Pengine Pritchard. "But we all seem to make the time to fit forensics into the rest of our schoolwork and activities."

"In this field, you don't need to be an introvert or an extrovert, loud, soft, big or small. All you need is the desire to learn and then the field is wide open," stated the winningest coach in Walled Lake.

Unique exhibit at Twelve Oaks

"Joan of Arc," a unique exhibition of life-sized costumed 15th Century figures, will be on display at the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi from May 3-17.

The display features five vignettes depicting the life and times of the famous French saint and heroine. Joan of Arc's life is the story of a young peasant girl who for a short time became the most influential power in 15th Century France.

The daughter of a farmer in the village of Domremy, she was born in 1412. At 13 she claimed to hear voices belonging to St. Michael, St. Margaret and St. Catherine. Her "voices" told her to lead a revolt against the English and place the Dauphin on the throne of France.

Dressed as a man she made the long journey to the Dauphin's castle at Chinon where, with the aid of the military governor, she was granted an interview.

Joan managed to convince the Dauphin of her divine mission and after a gruelling examination by the theologians at Poitiers was given the troops to lead into battle against the English in 1429.

She succeded in raising the siege of Orleans in just eight days. She swept on to many other victories resulting in the Dauphin becoming King of France. He was crowned Charles VII at Rheims with Joan standing by his side.

This was the pinnacle of her success, but fortune never smiled on the Maid of Orleans again. Her siege of Paris was defeated and, in the spring of 1430 she was captured by the Burgundians at Compiegne and sold to the English.

To avoid responsibility for her death, the English handed Joan over to the inquisitional court at Rouen. She was tried as an heretic and a sorcerer by Pierre Chachon. Threatened with torture she denied hearing her "voices" but was nevertheless sentenced to life imprisonment. Joan immediately retraced her renunciation and was burned at the stake on May 30, 1431.

Charles VII never made any attempt to save Joan but in 1456 he had her sentence annulled. The French saint and heroine was canonized in 1920. Tributes to her life are seen in countless paintings, sculptures, tapestries, books and films.

The exhibition at Twelve Oaks was inspired by a pilot project first presented at Coulan (the chateau where Joan was held prisoner). These incredibly realistic figures were created by Bermans, Ltd., a division of Bermans and Nathans. The figures have been sculpted in fiberglass and then magnificently costumed especially for the current U.S. tour.

Bermans and Nathans is the world's oldest and most prestigious costuming company with countless credits and films from television, stage productions and movies. On 16 different occassions they have won academy awards for film costume design.

The characters are presented in five vignettes depicting the most memorable times of the French Saint's life: Joan with her peasant family, Joan at the French court, Joan at war, Joan on trial and Joan in martyrdom.

Twelve Oaks Mall is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

A Matter of Taste

By Maria Sarivalas Kokas Novi Nutrition Consultant, R. D.

Allergies span a wide range of food intolerance. Gluten restrictions are among the more common. The "gluten-free" diet requires that wheat, oats, barley and rye be omitted from the diet. Flour, starches and meal made from rice, corn, potatoes and soybeans, tapioca, tapioca flour and buckwheat may be used freely in this diet.

Since wheat products are used in so many commonly eaten foodstuffs, adequate substitutions for the diet are often difficult to find.

By reading labels carefully, unwanted ingredients can be avoided — but preparation of foods at home presents problems in variety. Substitutes for wheat products can be made with rice products or combinations of various meals and flours.

The Rice Council of Houston, Texas, provides a listing of substitutions and recipe sources that can be used to assist in home prepartion of foods for the gluten-restricted diet. By using these guidelines, both cook and persons with the gluten allergy can more effectively manage this specialized diet.

Substitutes for one cup wheat flour include: three-quarters cup rice flour, one and one-third cups oat flour, one and one-quarter cups rye flour, one cup rye meal, one cup barley flour, one cup corn flour, three-quarters cup corn meal (coarse), one scant cup corn meal (fine) or five-eighths cup potato starch flour (10 tablespoons).

When using rice flour, a smoother texture may be obtained by mixing the rice flour with the liquid called for in the recipe, bringing to a boil, and then cooling before adding to other ingredients.

Combinations of flours which may be substituted for one cup wheat flour include: five-eighths cup rye flour (10 tablespoons) with one-third cup rye flour, one-half cup rye flour with one-half cup potato flour, one cup soy flour with three-fourths cup potato starch flour, and two-thirds cup rye flour with one-third cup potato flour.

Soy flour cannot be used as the only flour, it must be combined with another flour.

Coarse flours or a combination of several flours need not be sifted before measuring.

A combination of flours should be thoroughly mixed with other dry ingredients.

Helpful suggestions: Coarse meals and flours require more leavening than wheat flour. Two and one-half teaspoons of baking powder are recommended for each cup of coarse flour.

The use of buttermilk in place of milk often will result in lighter, finer, textured products.

Muffins and biscuits made of flours other than wheat often have a better texture when made in small sizes.

Baked products made with flour other than wheat require long and slow baking, particularly when made without milk and eggs.

Cakes made with flours other than wheat have a tendency to be dry. Frosting and storing in a closed container tend to preserve its moisture.

CROP walk to help fight hunger

A leisurely Sunday afternoon stroll of five miles through the residential areas of Walled Lake on May 6 can help CROP, the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service, combat hunger in other parts of the world.

The CROP walk, symbolizing the walks many must make daily for food and water, is sponsored by the Walled Lake Ministerial Association and is coordinated this year by Pastor Robert Shade and Ed Hunter. Nine participating churches will be raising money through pledges to aid the world-wide appeal.

Any resident may participate in the walk and families are urged to participate. For the convenience of families with young children, a shorter mini-walk has been mapped out.

Persons and groups planning to walk will be contacting area residents, businesses and organizations to sponsor their walk. Money pledges will be made on special CROP envelopes available at the churches. Anyone wishing to designate funds to another hunger fighting agency may do so by marking a special column on the pledge envelope.

Registration will be at St. William Catholic Church on Pontiac Trail from 1 to 2 p.m. To add a festive touch, the church folk-singers will be entertaining. A short opening ceremony will be held within the church. Walkers will check in at one of four alphabetically arranged tables before beginning.

The route will take walkers east on West Maple to Welch Road, north to Pontiac Trail, west to Decker, to South Commerce, then south again to Pontiac Trail, finishing at St. William's. The checkpoints will be run by lay people from the participating churches.

Over $3,000 was raised last year by some 200 walkers to fund self-help CROP projects around the world. Funds last year were used for a water resource project in Malagasy.

Coordinators this year expect over 500 participants with 75 percent of the proceeds designated for CROP with the remaining 25 percent earmarked for Project Hope, a metropolitan hunger-fighting agency with projects such as Meals-on-Wheels.

In this International Year of the Child, the emphasis is being placed in families walking together to help hungry families around the world. According to Karen Peters, one of the leaders of the CROP walk, most of the 10,000 people who die each day from starvation- and malnutrition-related diseases are children.

Information and envelopes may be obtained from the Commerce United Methodist, Crossroads United Presbyterian, First Baptist of Walled Lake, Missionary Church, Mt. Calvary Baptist, Shepherd of the Lakes Lutheran, St. Anne Episcopal, St. William's and the Walled Lake United Methodist Churches.

Consumer expert to address local AAUW group

What goes into the grocery basket becomes more important on each shopping trip as housewives watch to get the most for their dollars.

They've had a big assist from food labeling laws enforced by the Food and Drug Administration, a Public Health Service of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

New help is coming July 1 when the calorie labeling law setting regulations for "low calorie" or "reduced calorie" and diabetic foods must be in force.

This new labeling, as well as other labeling enforced by the FDA, will be explained at a public meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday by Diane Place, consumer affairs officer of the Detroit FDA office.

The meeting will be in the Cooke Junior High cafeteria in Northville and is being opened to all interested area residents by the Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Ms. Place's talk on food labeling will be preceded by a coffee session at 7:30 p.m.

The speaker has agreed to answer questions on such topics as imitation and substitute foods, food fortification and safe or suitable ingredients, Nancy Olgren, program facilitator for the meeting, announces.

She is to explain what is meant by open date labeling, giving the difference between the pack date, pull date, quality assurance date and expiration date.

She also will tell how to read the label. How ingredients are listed and product names used will be covered.

AAUW board members have been saving empty cans, boxes and jars to provide examples of various types of nutritional labeling to illustrate the talk.

Ms. Place's function with the Detroit FDA office is to serve consumers and industry through educational programs which encourage wise economic and health decisions and responsible industry practices.

She has received many citations for her work. In 1975 she was made an honorary member of the Detroit Dietetic Association and honored by the Detroit mayor and common council for her contribution to consumer education.

She participated in the regional consumer interest conference of the president's assistant for consumer affairs. In 1969, she received the regional director's citation for contributions to consumer education in Region V of HEW. In 1971 she was named one of the Top 10 Working Women in Metropolitan Detroit, and was recognized for service to the community by the Food Industry Council.

From 1962 to 1974 she served as a commissioner of the Detroit Board of Health. She was a member of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors in 1963—64 and 1967—68.

She was graduated with distinction from Wayne State University with majors in journalism and home economics and received her master's degree in consumer affairs with extensive work in mass communication.

Mrs. Olgren stresses that the meeting is open to all interested as a community service "to make us all better shoppers."

Announce engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart of Thirteen Mile in Novi announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter Peggy Ann to Kent Allen Odren.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Odren of Cedar Springs, Michigan.

The bride-elect, a 1974 graduate of Walled Lake Western High School, will graduate in mid-May from Grand Rapids Baptist College with a degree in music. While at college she has been a church organist, is active in both the concert band and choral groups, and serves as an accompanist. She is employed at Grinnel's in Grand Rapids teaching piano and organ.

A graduate of Cedar Springs High School, the groom-elect attended the same college and is currently employed with Great Day Foods in Cedar Springs as a store manager.

Lioness' function welcomes spring

Spring fashions, an all-you-can-eat salad bar, bunco and a host of door prizes are lined up by the Novi Lionesses for their annual spring fund raiser set for Thursday (tomorrow) at the Holy Family Catholic Church.

The colorful event will begin at 7:30 p.m. with a prade of models in the latest spring creations offered by Claire Kelly Fashions in Northville.

The auxiliary group of the Novi Lions Club has chosen yellow as the main color scheme of the evening with fresh garden flowers centering each table. Guests will make their own salads from a bar featuring mixed greens, shredded cheese, an assortment of vegetables, crunchies, and tempting dressings. Cakes will be the special dessert.

A favorite old dice game is included in the activities with winners awarded a variety of door prizes donated to the organization by local merchants. Dinners at Lim's Cuisine and Mountain Jack's, an instant camera from the f-Stop, a gift certificate for a sewing class at Stretch 'n Sew in Farmington Hills, and a blender donated by Novi Auto Parts are among the prizes to be awarded during the evening.

Proceeds from the fund raiser will support a variety of Lioness charitable organizations especially those dealing with the visually handicapped. Tickets at $3.50 per person are available from any Lioness member or at the door. The church is located at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road in Novi.

Walled Lake couple celebrates anniversary

Some 50 friends and relatives gathered at Kay Falls Restaurant April 22 to surprise Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moyer of Ladd Road, Walled Lake, and help them celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

The couple were married April 24, 1954 in Walled Lake, each for the second time. Mrs. Moyer, 70, has been a resident of Walled Lake for over 50 years, while Mr. Moyer has divided his 73 years between their present home and a previous home on Fourteen Mile.

Although he suffered a heart attack earlier in the month, Mr. Moyer was released from the hospital prior to the special celebration. Mr. Moyer retired several years ago from the Burroughs Corporation while Mrs. Moyer enjoyed a short retirement from the Jebco Company in Walled Lake. Now an active member of the Novi Senior Citizens, Mrs. Moyer devotes much of her spare time to overseeing children while their mothers participate in special interest classes.

Several of Mrs. Moyer's children were on hand for the event, the progeny of her first marriage to Forrest Green. They were married 18 years before his death. Mahlon Green of Walled Lake, Joseph Green of Fountain, Michigan, Douglas Green and their families were on hand, as well as a daughter, Mary Short, and her family from Waterford. A daughter, Naomi MaCrea of Ritzville, Washington, was unable to attend. A son, Glenn Green, was killed in a New Orleans fire seven years ago.

Mr. Moyer's daughter Evelyn and grandchildren Tina and Tammy of Ocala, Florida also were unable to attend the party.

DeMolay slates dance

The Commerce Chapter of the Order of DeMolay will hold a dance at Walled Lake Central High School on Saturday, May 5 from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Dancing will be to the "External Combustion." The DeMolay asks a donation of $2.50 a person or $4 a couple.

For more information, call 682-6667 or 682-1461.

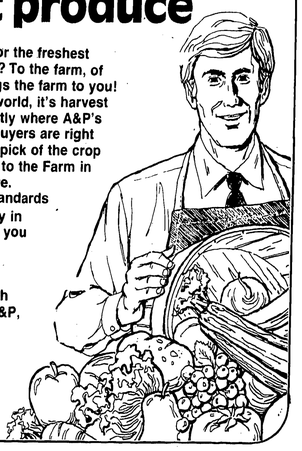
Take a fresh look at produce



Where do you go for the freshest fruits and vegetables? To the farm, of course. So A&P brings the farm to you!

Somewhere in the world, it's harvest time. And that's exactly where A&P's eagle eyed produce buyers are right now — gathering the pick of the crop and getting it rushed to the Farm in your nearby A&P store.

Village Oaks School schedules annual spring fling

By JEANNE CLARKE
624-0173

The Village Oaks Elementary School will hold its annual "Spring Fling" this Friday from 6-9 p.m.

The gala event will feature games, a chicken dinner, a raffle, and a concert in addition to numerous other attractions.

There will be games for the very young adults. Game tickets are priced at 15 cents apiece. The chicken dinner will be available only through advance ticket sales.

Items included in the raffle are a black and white television set and a portable photograph.

Other activities include a bake sale, cake walk, haunted house and a new room entitled "photos for fun." The Novi Jazz and Rock Ensemble will play from 7-7:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the Spring Fling will be used to purchase equipment for the school. Chairman is Tina Talbot, while Pam Brade is assisting with the preparations.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Rex LaPlante of Novi Road were honored on their 54th wedding anniversary with a special buffet luncheon at the home of their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilenius of Clarke Street. The celebration was attended by friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pietron of LeBost visited former Novi residents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vykdal of Three Rivers last Sunday.

Mrs. Nellie Rackov attended the wedding shower for her niece Mary Callahan at the home of Linda Hartz in Madison Heights last Sunday.

Mrs. Byron Caswell of South Lyon Drive has returned home following surgery at Botsford General Hospital.

Former Parks and Recreation Commission Coordinator Pat Miller was married to Dennis Kwapis on Saturday, April 21. Judge Martin Boyle presided at the wedding outside their new home in Tipton.

Best man was Gerry Graczyk, while the sister of the bride, Kathleen Kidder, was matron of honor. Out-of-town guests included members of the bride's family from New Hampshire and members of the groom's family from Gaylord. A reception following the ceremony was held at Wellers Hall in Saline.

Mrs. Hildred Hunt of Eleven Mile hosted a belated Easter dinner last Sunday for nine guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Warren have returned home from Florida where they visited some former Novi residents — Reverend and Mrs. Grindell and the Gordon Blakeslee family.

Advisory Council

Roslyn Fuertes, president of the Novi Education Association, will be the featured speaker at the next meeting of the Novi High School Advisory Council. The meeting will be held in the high school media center on Wednesday, May 9, at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Fuertes will discuss the topic "Teachers' Philosophy of their Profession Today." Local representatives of the Novi Educational Association also will be present. A question and answer period will be provided.

Village Oaks Cubs

All boys between the ages of eight and 10 years should attend the next pack meeting in the Village Oaks Elementary School on Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

A program on the benefits of Cub Scouting will be presented for the boys and their parents.

The Webelos, under the direction of Ken Gertsen and Larry Wikman went on an all-day hike and barbecue in Kensington over the spring vacation. The boys earned two merit badges on the outing.

Novi Band Boosters

Election of new officers will take place at the next meeting of the Novi Band Boosters in the high school band room on Wednesday, May 9, at 8 p.m.

The nominating committee has presented a proposed slate of officers, but additional nominations from the floor will be accepted.

Plans for the band banquet on June 13 also will be discussed at the meeting.

Other upcoming activities include participation in the Pops Concert in June and the acceptance of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra on June 8.

Orchard Hills Boosters

Election of officers will take place at the next meeting of the Orchard Hills Booster Club on Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Youngsters in grades K-12 will present a music program at the high school on May 9.

The boosters will sponsor an ice cream social and student art fair on May 24 at 6 p.m.

Village Creek Garden Club

Mrs. Dennis Soszynski will conduct a workshop on "Cactus and Staghorn Ferns" at the next meeting of the garden club on Tuesday in the Church of the Holy Cross.

Plans for the luncheon tour of Cranbrook on May 12 will be finalized at the meeting.

Novi Pin Pointers

Standings are as follows:

Hi Lows	79	45
Will H. Kelly	71½	52½
Town Square Cards	71	53½
Kool Kats	68½	55½
Windjammers	63	61
Untouchables	61	63
Bowling Bags	58½	65½
Weber Contractors	57½	66½
Crankshaft, Inc.	56½	67½
Play Pens	43½	80½

NESPO

NESPO will sponsor an art auction in the Novi Woods Elementary School on Friday, May 11. Doors will open at 7 p.m. and the auction will begin at 8 p.m. There is an admission donation of $1.50 per person.

First and second graders will present their children's concert at the high school on May 8. Admission is free.

Efforts to establish a memorial fund at the school are continuing. Interested individuals should contact Principal Roy Williams.

Blue Star Mothers

A planning meeting for summer activities at the Veterans Hospital in Ann Arbor will be held in the home of Helen Burnstrum on Thursday at noon. Plans will include the annual June bingo party for the patients.

The Blue Star Mothers were sorry to learn of the death of Carolyn McCollum. She was a charter member of the group.

President Winnie Dobek and Hospital Chairman Lucy Needham will be visiting the hospital in the near future to take articles which have been donated by local residents.

Interact

The Interact Club at Novi High School was the guest at a luncheon sponsored last week by the Novi Rotary Club. President Mark Ortwine and Director Debby Moran made a progress report on the club's activities.

The high school service organization will assist the American Cancer Society by showing films and making a presentation on cancer to other young people in the community.

The group will also participate in the annual Memorial Day parade. They presently are assisting with ticket sales for the Rotary's annual Mother's Day breakfast.

Rebekah Lodge

Jennie Champion will be the hostess of the next Independent Club meeting on Monday at the Novi Elementary School.

Regular meetings this month are slated for May 10 and May 24. Irene Timson, treasurer of the Rebekah Assembly of Michigan and deputy president of district six, will be the special guest at the May 24 meeting. Dinner at Bill Knapp's will precede the meeting.

Novi Senior Citizens

Forty-seven seniors attended the last business meeting hosted by Kate Magas and Nora Pursey in the Novi Community Building. Final plans were made for the "Luncheon Is Served" program in the Novi United Methodist Church on Wednesday, May 9, at noon. Tickets are priced at $2.

More information about "Luncheon Is Served" may be obtained from Frances Daleo at 349-2257.

Plans have been made for seniors and their guests to travel to the Toledo Art Museum on May 23. Tickets cost $6.50 and include admission, lunch, and transportation. Call Gordon Wilcox at 349-9034 for more information.

OLHSA

Senior Citizens who haven't yet stopped by the OLHSA Center in the old Novi Elementary School should do so in the near future to become acquainted with the many opportunities that are available.

The seniors will have lunch at noon tomorrow (Thursday) and then have a bingo game at 12:30 p.m.

A party for all seniors with birthdays in May will be held Thursday, May 10.

The seniors are planning to attend the Mothers' Day breakfast sponsored annually by the Novi Rotary Club on Sunday, May 13.

Also coming up will be a trip to Lansing for Senior Power Day on May 15.

There will be another pinochle tournament on May 21. Pictures for senior identification cards also will be taken that day.

Weight Watchers

Local lecturer Rosie Teague has resumed activities at the Lutheran Church on Ten Mile. Classes are held Tuesdays at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Teague also will be working with the class which meets in the Novi Library on May 14 at 10 a.m.

Individuals interested in the Weight Watcher program should attend the meeting in the library on May 14. Special guest will be Diane McDonald who will present a cooking demonstration.

Robert Walter heads EMU grads

Robert C. Walter of Novi has graduated cum laude (with honors) from Eastern Michian University.

He is one of 10 Novi, Walled Lake and Wixom students who received degrees in EMU's 126th spring commencement exercises recently in Bowen Field House.

Walter graduated from EMU's College of Business, Operations Research and Information Systems Department. He graduated cum laude by virtue of the fact he attained an overall grade point average of 3.65 on a scale of 4.0.

Additionally, he received top awards in his department: The Operations Research, Faculty Leadership Award; the Outstanding Graduating Senior in Business Computer Systems Award; and the Outstanding Senior Decision Science Award.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Walter of Meadowbrook Road, he is a 1975 graduate of Novi High School.

Five other Novi residents received degrees in the recent commencement exercises: Janet Anthony of Ennishore received a BS degee, Mark Klisman of Highland Drive received a BS degree, Robert Michael Lampi of Woodland Creek received a BBA degree, Anthony Daniel Marroni of Chatman Drive received a BS degree and Laura Lynn Valentine of Ennishore received a BS degree.

Two Walled Lake residents received degrees from EMU in spring commencement exercises: Sharon Helene Goodness of Park Place received a BS degree and Mark Joseph Latessa of Tampa Drive also received a BS degree.

Three Wixom residents also earned degrees from EMU: Timothy John Doherty of Hickory received a BBA degree, Lawrence Scott Katz of Pontiac Trail received a BS degree and Deborah Jean Matheson of Pontiac Trail also received a BS degree.

Kalamazoo cites Christine Fritz

Christine Fritz of Novi has been named to the dean's list for the 1979 winter quarter at Kalamazoo College.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Fritz of Millstream Lane and a graduate of Novi High School.

Students must have achieved a grade point average of 3.5 or higher on a 4.0 scale to be named to the dean's list.

The first institution of higher education in the state, Kalamazoo College is a small four-year, liberal arts college. Under its innovative, year-around Kalamazoo Plan, most students have the opportunity to participate in the off-campus experiences of foreign study, career development, and senior individualized projects.

Community Notes

Blood bank set for Walled Lake

Residents and employees of the Walled Lake School District will have the opportunity to give the gift of life on Wednesday, May 9 from 2 to 8 p.m. The annual spring community blood bank will be held at Shepherd of the Lakes Church, 2905 South Commerce Road in Walled Lake.

Blood donated to the community bank is available in time of emergency to anyone who lives or works within the school district. The drive will be conducted by the American Red Cross.

The ability of the Red Cross to meet the daily need of blood relies almost exclusively on community blood banks. Without the support of the community, blood may not be available when it is needed.

Any person between 17 and 66 years of age and in good health is eligible to donate blood. A donor who weighs less than 110 pounds, has given blood within the last eight weeks, is on medication or has had close contact with a person suffering from hepatitis is not eligible.

Walk-in donors will be welcome. Advance appointments may be made at 624-0202.

Art Auction

An art auction coordinated by the Gallery Art Center of Lathrup Village and sponsored by the Novi Woods Elementary Parents Organization (NESPO) will be held at the school on Friday, May 11.

A preview showing will begin at 7 p.m. with the gavel to begin the auction falling at 8 p.m. The event will continue to 11 p.m. and will feature dessert and coffee.

Art pieces selected for the evening are geared to the suburbanite and his style of living with normal auction prices ranging from $5 to $50.

Door donation is $1.50. Proceeds will be used to purchase playground equipment for the school. A wooden structure has been selected for the school that features a climbing area as well as a slide and swings.

Mother's Special

The Novi Rotary Club will once again pay tribute to mother's everywhere by serving their third annual Mother's Day pancake breakfast on Sunday, May 13, in the Novi High School Commons.

Breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. and will include pancakes, link sausage, orange juice, milk and coffee.

Advance tickets, available from any Novi Rotarian, are priced at $2 for adults, $1.25 for children under 12, or $6 per family. Tickets may be purchased at the door the day of the event at $2.25 per adult, $1.50 for children or $7 for the family. Ticket holders also will be eligible to participate for door prizes.

Proceeds from the annual breakfast are used by the Novi Rotarians to support service projects in the community.

India Program

India, its customs, including a traditional wedding ceremony, its people, cultures, and their villages will be presented from a childs-eye view in the continuing series of programs highlighting the International Year of the Child.

Sponsored by the Wixom Public Library, the program which will include slides. An exhibit of Indian crafts, jewelry and clothing will be led by library assistant Beverly Subudhi on Saturday, May 5, at 1 p.m. The program will be held in the community meeting room at Wixom City Hall, 49045 Pontiac Trail.

The program is intended for youngsters in grades three through eight and should provide an entertaining, colorful learning experience.

Open House

The Friends of the Walled Lake Library will host an open house at the Walled Lake Public Library on Wednesday, May 2, from 7 to 9 p.m.

A get-acquainted session, the open house will offer patrons the opportunity to learn more about the Friends' programs and the valuable services they offer to the library. Refreshments will be served.

The evening is entitled, "The Friends Need Friends."

In addition to the open house, the Friends are conducting an on-going paperback book sale. A plea is being made for the donation of paperback books to restock the sale table. Those books may be dropped off at the library anytime during regular library hours.

Historic Week

To celebrate National Historic Preservation Week, the Commerce Township Area Historical Society will host an historical walking tour in Walled Lake and Commerce Village as well as offering a historic mystery trip.

The mystery trip will begin at 1 p.m. on Sunday, May 6 from Commerce Township Hall and will conclude at 5 p.m. Joan and Art Cornell will lead the trip. Further information is available by calling 624-3329.

An historic guided walking tour of West Walled Lake Drive, referred to as old Walled Lake, will begin at the Stonecrest Building at 1 p.m. At its conclusion, a walking tour of Commerce Village will begin at 3:30 p.m. Both tours will be guided by Bob Donahue, Jr. on Saturday, May 12.

The historic and architectural features of buildings and sites along the way will be discussed. In addition, brochures and maps of the walking tour will be available for year-round use.

Linda Hathaway models 1962 wedding gown, while daughter Peggy wears a bridal fashion from early 40's

By Methodist women

Bridal gowns featured

A wedding gown from the 1890's will highlight the parade of fashions at a special mother-daughter dinner and fashion show to celebrate Mother's Day. The show, entitled "Wedding Bells," will feature the ruffles and taffetas of the old as well as the modern Qiana gowns of today.

The antique gown was offered by Florence Wiltse, well-known Walled Lake resident. Delicate because of its age but well preserved, the gown was worn by Mrs. Wiltse's mother.

The 6:30 p.m. dinner is an annual tribute offered to all mothers and daughters of the area by the United Methodist Women. The event will be held at the Walled Lake United Methodist Church on Wednesday, May 9. The United Methodist Men will be serving dinner, and for the first time, take on the role of chefs.

The bridal fashions, past and present, will be modeled by ladies of the church, their daughters and friends. Some 20 gowns spanning the fashion decades will be presented, accompanied with appropriate music. Wedding selections will be sung by Carol Thompson and Mike Riley.

Adult tickets are priced at $3.50 with daughters four through 12 years admitted for $2. Very young daughters, three and under, may enjoy the evening event for $1.

YMCA reports spring classes

The new spring programs of the West Oakland YMCA will begin the week of May 7.

Highlighting the spring session will be a new exercise program called trimnastics, a shaping up program done on horseback. No riding experience is necessary to participate.

Another new offering this spring is a jogging class that will give instruction in warm-up and technique.

Along with these programs, the West Oakland YMCA will continue with fitness classes for men and women, DanceFit, pre-school gym and art. Other available classes include disco dancing, dog obedience training, horseback riding, and the Guys and Dolls Club for mentally and physically handicapped young adults.

A feature for the spring session is systematic training for effective parenting. This program is centered around parent-child relationships, and is co-sponsored by the West Oakland YMCA, Huron Valley Youth Assistance, and Catholic Social Services of Highland and Milford.

People interested in the YMCA spring programs should contact the YMCA at 685-3020. Brochures are distributed through the Huron Valley and Walled Lake elementary schools or by calling the YMCA office.

Performing Arts group to award scholarships

A $100 grant from the Novi Business and Professional Women's (BPW) Club designated for use by a senior student entering college in some phase of the performing arts will be among the scholarships awarded by the Novi Foundation for the Performing Arts (NFPA) at the completion of competitions tomorrow (Thursday) night.

The BPW grant was announced by President Ruth George and is meant to expand the scholarship program established by the foundation. Two senior girls will be vying for the grant.

The annual competitions for summer performing arts camp scholarships were instituted by the NFPA three years ago the scholarships are awarded to deserving students who wish to attend summer camps. The competitions are open to Novi students at both the junior and senior high levels and are divided into two divisions.

The yearly event will be held in Fuerst Auditorium beginning at 7:30 p.m. The public is welcome to attend at no charge.

According to Foundation President Cindy Hoops, the competitions have attracted 11 students from the schools in addition to those aiming for the special college grant. Instrumental music students have drawn nine slots, while drama and dance classifications have one competitor each.

A panel of three judges including Matthew Michaels, piano instructor at Mercy High School; Gary Laura, head of instrumental music at Schoolcraft College; and Debbie DeCeco, artistic director of the "Dance and Music Stand," Farmington Hills, will award the scholarships at the completion of the competitions.

Two scholarships are designed for use by students enrolled in grades seven through nine, while two additional scholarships are available for students in grades 10 through 12.

Salaries for the approved positions are expected to cost the school district an estimated $141,500.

Kratz told the board he recommended adding the new positions with the full understanding that should enrollment increase beyond the projections, additional staff may have to be considered.

These teachers could be put on a stand-by basis and would be called to work only if neccessary, Kratz told the board.

Those positions accepted by the board include two additional middle school teachers, a teacher for learning disabled students, half-time school psychologist and speech therapist and an elementary special education teacher.

Other personnel hirings approved by the board include two noon aides, three paraprofessionals for middle school special education classes and a secretary for special services.

Trustee Ray Murphy questioned why 67 percent of the positions being added represented special education positions. He was informed the district was required by law to staff those positions.

A $100 grant from the Novi Business and Professional Women's (BPW) Club designated for use by a senior student entering college in some phase of the performing arts will be among the scholarship awards presented by the Foundation for the Performing Arts (NFPA) at the completion of competitions tomorrow (Thursday) night.

The BPW grant was announced by President Ruth George and is meant to expand the scholarship program established by the foundation. Two senior girls will be vying for the grant.

The annual competitions for summer performing arts camp scholarships were instituted by the NFPA three years ago. The scholarships are awarded to deserving students who will attend summer camps. The competitions are open to Novi students at both the junior and senior high levels and are divided into two divisions.

Jeff Laverty, Cathy Daugherty head up 1979 graduating class

Laverty earned top academic honors in his graduating class by compiling a perfect 4.0 grade point average during his four years at Novi High School. Miss Daugherty also compiled an outstanding academic record during her high school career in Novi, achieving a grade point average of 3.95.

Both students plan to enter college in the fall. Jeff has been accepted at Harvard, while Cathy has been accepted at the University of Michigan.

A lifelong Novi resident, Jeff is a product of the Novi School District. He attended Orchard Hills Elementary School before moving on to Novi Middle School and Novi High School.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert and Delores Laverty.

The 1979 valedictorian has been very involved in extracurricular activities at the school while maintaining a perfect academic record.

He was president of his junior class and was re-elected to serve as president of the senior class. He also has held top offices in the local chapter of the National Honor Society, serving as vice-president during his junior year and president during his senior year.

He was a member of the school's debate team last year, is a member of the National Forensic Society and is a four-year member of the French Club.

He was a school representative to Wolverine Boys' State last summer.

Additionally, he was a member of the school newspaper (The Wildcats Roar) staff last year and is one of four co-editors of the school paper this year.

He also was the local winner of the century Three Leadership competition.

The 1979 valedictorian also has compiled an outstanding athletic career at Novi High School, winning a total of eight varsity letters in football, basketball and baseball.

He has been starting quarterback on the Novi football team for the past two years and was captain of the football team during his senior year.

He also has played on the varsity basketball team for the past two years and is a four-year starter on the varsity baseball team.

He will become the first Novi graduate to enter Harvard in the fall, but states that he is uncertain at this time as to what curriculum he will pursue.

He said he is keeping his options open and is considering a career in either medicine, law, business or government.

Cathy moved to Novi in 1973 and has attended both Novi Middle School and Novi High School.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul and Zella Daugherty of the Meadowbrook Glens subdivision.

The 1979 salutatorian also has been active in extracurricular activities as well as holding down a job in the credit department at Sears in the Twelve Oaks Mall.

She also works on the Wildcats' Roar where she is a page editor.

Additionally, she has been active in the dance marathon to raise funds for Muscular Dystrophy and has served as a committee chairperson in each of the past two years.

Cathy says her number one love is travel, particularly to Spanish-speaking countries. Fittingly, her family is hosting an exchange student —Octavio Aguilar — from Mexico this year.

The 1979 salutatorian will enter the University of Michigan in the fall when she will pursue a double major: Spanish and international relations. She also plans to study abroad during her college career.

Ultimately, Cathy plans to obtain a master's degree and would like to work either for the U.S. government or the United Nations.

Schools foresee rise in '79-'80 enrollment

Enrollment in Novi schools is expected to increase by at least 250 students during the upcoming school year, according to the latest estimates by the district administrators.

Superintendent Gerald Kratz explained that projected increases in student enrollment for the upcoming year were determined by looking at the list of proposed subdivisions in the city.

From there it was determined which subdivisions were most likely to be completed.

After deciding approximately how many homes may be completed, that number was multiplied by a factor of .8 children per residence.

Kratz explained that figure was derived from a door to door survey of Northville homes conducted to determine the average number of students per household. The survey revealed the figure of .8 children for every single family home.

Kratz said conversations with Larry Nichols, superintendent of Northville Schools, also revealed that three-eighths of the total number of children were secondary school age.

The superintendent said the formula for estimating the future enrollment is not exact because it is impossible to determine the number of students who will leave the district.

In addition, Kratz said, preliminary kindergarten screening has shown the district will maintain about the same number of kindergarten youngsters it has had in the past.

Enrollment projections should be realized by the beginning of the school year. Kratz explained that on the fourth Friday of each school year a count of enrolled students officially is conducted.

From that count it is determined the amount of state aid for which the district is eligible.

During the past school year, the district has seen an enrollment increase from the original fourth Friday count in September of 3,067 to the latest count of 3,095. That figure is up from an enrollment of 3,000 which the district reported nearly a year ago.

To cope with the additional enrollment, the school board last week approved the hiring of some new staff members, provided funds are available.

Salaries for the approved positions are expected to cost the school district an estimated $141,500.

Kratz told the board he recommended adding the new positions with the full understanding that should enrollment increase beyond the projections, additional staff may have to be considered.

These teachers could be put on a stand-by basis and would be called to work only if neccessary, Kratz told the board.

Those positions accepted by the board include two additional middle school teachers, a teacher for learning disabled students, half-time school psychologist and speech therapist and an elementary special education teacher.

Other personnel hirings approved by the board include two noon aides, three paraprofessionals for middle school special education classes and a secretary for special services.

Trustee Ray Murphy questioned why 67 percent of the positions being added represented special education positions. He was informed the district was required by law to staff those positions.

Ex-councilman charged in felony investigation

Six felony warrants for the arrest of a former Novi city councilman have been obtained from the 52nd District Court in Walled lake by the Novi Police Department.

Named in the warrants secured by police last week is Louie Campbell who served on the council for six years from 1969 to 1975.

Campbell is charged with two counts of statutory rape, two counts of first degree criminal sexual conduct and two counts of second degree criminal sexual conduct.

The statutory rape and first degree criminal sexual conduct charges carry a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, while the second degree criminal sexual conduct charges carry a maximum penalty of 15 years imprisonment.

Police reported that the warrants were obtained from 52nd District Court Judge Michael Batchik on Monday, April 30. The former city councilman has not yet been arrested, however.

Police theorize that Campbell became aware of the investigation on Thursday, April 26. Police allege that he left town after learning of the investigation and impending charges.

Corporal Robert Starnes, who is in charge of the investigation, said that Campbell apparently drove to Jackson where he abandoned his company car and mailed the keys to his employer. The suspect then caught a bus to Toledo, according to Starnes.

The Novi detective said that police were unable to keep track of Campbell after he arrived in Toledo. Starnes theorized that he could have taken another bus to an airport.

Police said that Campbell's name has been entered in the national criminal intelligence network and that police agencies across the country have been informed of the pending warrants.

LOUIE CAMPBELL

Campbell served on the Novi City Council from 1969 to 1975. He ran for mayor in 1975 but was defeated by Gilbert Henderson. He also waged an unsuccessful campaign for the city council in the 1977 election.

Additionally, he ran for state representative in 1974, but was defeated in the Republican primary that year.

'Mall abduction rumors false'

Parents can rest assured it is safe to take their youngsters to Twelve Oaks Mall despite rumors to the contrary, according to Novi Police and mall security personnel.

Corporal Jerry Burnham of the Novi Police Department said he had continued to receive queries from concerned parents regarding rumors of abductions, molestings and druggings at the mall.

Burnham reported the stories are completely fictitious and he had no idea how they could have been started.

Daily the police department has been receiving calls from concerned parents and the rumors have spread so far that a Detroit television station called the department to check on the rumors, Burnham reported.

Probably the most ridiculous rumor he has heard concerning the mall came from a person who called to find out the condition of the girl who was in a coma after being drugged at the mall, said Burnham.

Burnham said the story was that the girl was shopping with her mother and they became separated. While she was apart from her mother, the girl was given a mysterious injection by an equally mysterious stranger.

The rumor goes on to say the mother appeared on the scene as the needle was being removed from the girl's arm and asked the man what he was doing before he fled. The injection caused the girl to be hospitalized and she remained in a coma for three weeks, the rumor has it.

"It's all bunk," Burnham maintains. "I ask these people how these things could possibly be happening at the mall and the police department never be notified or informed of it."

He emphasized there is "no basis for truth in these allegations."

Mike Kuzilla, director of Twelve Oaks security, agreed there was no truth in the rumors.

He indicated that Novi police had thoroughly gone through all reports from the mall and notified local hospitals in an attempt to insure that mall security was not covering up any incidents. No cases resembling those rumored could be found, he said.

"We've heard the rumors, but we actually haven't gotten any calls," Kuzilla said.

He indicated he did not know how the rumor could have begun and he is amazed at the way it has grown and spread.

Interchange progresses

With the resumption of the construction season, progress is continuing on the completion of the Novi Road bridge over I-96, according to state highway officials.

Drivers will soon notice the latest construction around the bridge as they drive over a two-lane temporary road, which is being built to hold traffic while work is done on the eastern half of the Novi Road approaches to the bridge.

Ralph Langdon, project engineer with the Michigan Department of State, reported the temporary road which is presently being constructed will probably be in use until August.

He indicated that at that time the eastern approaches should be completed and traffic will be routed over them and onto the new bridge. Traffic will be moved over the eastern approaches, while the western half of the project is being completed.

Eventually, there will be five lanes of pavement approaching the bridge from both the north and south, Langdon explained.

Final construction on the bridge portion of the project is nearing completion, according to Langdon. He indicated the employees were laying an inch and one-half of latex concrete last week. Completion of the bridge is slated for June 1, Langdon said.

The entire interchange project is supposed to be completed by mid-November, he added.

Besides construction of the temporary road, other work being done in that area includes the upgrading of the two ramps in the southwest quadrant of the interchange.

The existing ramps in the southwest quadrant will be removed and new ones constructed, Langdon indicated.

In a related construction project, the state highway department will re-bid construction on the Grand River-Novi Road safety project, on June 13.

Originally the project was bid about two months ago and Ministrelli Construction offered the low bid. However, the state apparently rejected the bids because they were considerably higher than the construction estimates.

When the state re-advertised the bids their new estimates were within $5,000 of the contractor's original bid. Ministrelli reportedly filed suit to halt the re-bidding and the case has only recently been settled in the courts.

City Manager Ed Driewall said he had been informed by state highway officials that they hope to award the bids by July 13 and begin construction within 10 days following that. They also anticipate that the majority of the construction work on the project will be completed this year.

The Grand River-Novi Road safety project has been in the works for several years. Plans for the construction call for improvement of the traffic flow from the expressway to Grand River.

As part of the project Novi Road would be reconstructed to improve the five lanes of traffic between Grand
