Pro Balloon Tour

They do it for fun and profit

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Their names do not carry the recognition of Nicklaus, Palmer or Player. They have yet to be featured on national TV sports spectacles on Sunday afternoon. Yet their sport requires as much skill and more training than the game of golf. And they are considered pros.

They are the balloonists whose colorful airborne craft dotted the skies above the Twelve Oaks Mall over the weekend, drawing crowds of people almost all of whom were equipped with cameras.

Enthusiasts have found there are few sports that carry the beauty of ballooning. The multi-hued balloons are a spectacular sight to behold as they loom at the horizon, their nylon envelopes rising some 65 feet or more into the air.

They glide with the winds, the stillness of the sky interrupted only when the pilot "burns" the whooshing sound of propane directed into the balloon to heat the air.

For the latter the Novi mall was one stop in a string of cities across the country to welcome the 1979 Kool Pro Balloon Tour, a group of 20 professional balloonists all competing for cash prizes and points to be added to a cumulative score for the overall purse.

According to Tom Gabel, commissioner of the Kool tour, sponsored by the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation, fewer than 100 people across the country are considered professionals in the sport of hot air ballooning.

"There are a lot of people into ballooning now. It's a sport that is really catching on — it's come a long way since a couple of years ago."

Gabel, a record-holding former national champion and the first and only person to fly a hot air balloon over the Great Smokey Mountains, believes in the growing popularity of the sport. That fact is substantiated by numbers.

"In 1963 there were only six hot air balloons in the United States," Gabel said. "That number has risen to more than 2,000."

He noted there are now more than 3,500 licensed pilots with a Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) rating for "lighter than air free balloon piloting."

Ballooning, says Gabel, is a competitive sport requiring a great amount of skill and knowledge. He equates ballooning as a sport and a pleasure equivalent with skiing or boating. "It's actually cheaper than power boating," claimed the commissioner. "The cost of running a balloon on propane is substantially cheaper than gasoline."

The skill required to pilot a hot air balloon was apparent Saturday as the captains battled strong winds and tricky air currents. As the winds hovered at about 15 knots, the awaited evening event, the "hare and hounds" race was called off.

"We occasionally take some chances," remarked Gabel, "but there are times when logic says don't be a fool. The winds are far too strong," he said shaking his head as he announced the cancellation.

To be included in the Kool Pro Balloon Tour, all competitors must be FAA licensed. To secure a private ballooning license, the FAA requires 10 hours of time in the air under a qualified instructor. An additional 35 hours in the air is needed to obtain an instructor's permit.

Although spectators missed the opportunity to see a mass lift-off of balloons from the mall in the "hare and hounds" race, they did have a second chance early Sunday morning to witness another "fly in."

In that event, pilots were required to ascend from a point outside a given radius of a large "X" marked out on the mall grounds. Then, jockeying their balloons into position for a pass over the target, a streamer marker was tossed from the balloon as it passed over the area. The pilot coming closest to the center is declared the winner.

The calmer winds of Sunday found the balloons hovering closer to the ground giving the spectators a close-at-hand view of the hot air beauties. Several of the pilots, sponsored by the well-known corporations, opted to landing their crafts in the nearby parking area giving the crowd that one last view of the vibrant floating billboards.

Officials say building ban not necessary

Action which could result in a halt to all building in the Novi and Northville areas is under consideration by Northville Township officials.

Meanwhile, Novi officials are saying that the township's position is premature.

"Our reaction is we're not too excited about it," said City Manager Ed Kriewall.

At its regular meeting in October, the Northville Township board will decide whether its township supervisor will be authorized to notify the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) about potential sewer problems.

The township maintains a sewer line between Seven Mile and Plymouth is carrying nearly as much sewage as it can or was designed to carry.

Township Supervisor Donald Thomson said he is not suggesting a building ban be placed on the area. But he acknowledged that would probably be the effect of Northville Township expressing its concerns to the DNR.

"It's the DNR's decision, we have no control. We just want to let them know we feel the sewer is nearing capacity and we are concerned about the fact," Thomson said.

"We want the DNR to be aware of where the problem lies, and I feel they will probably terminate building," he added.

The problem is in an undersized line which stretches from the Novi border to Wilcox Road in Plymouth. No one knows for sure how much sewage can be handled by the line, but experts agree it cannot accommodate development much longer in Novi and Northville township and city.

If development goes uncontrolled and the sewer line is not upgraded, sewage will either overflow into the river basin or back up, creating flooding of homes and business places.

Reportedly the township engineer has noted some overflow into the Middle Rouge has already occurred.

Thomson said there is probably no serious sewage backup or overflow into the river basin at this time, but the township wants to alert the DNR "before this hits us all of a sudden."

DNR officials confirmed Monday that, if the department received a letter from Northville Township notifying them the sewer line had reached capacity, they would advise a voluntary halt to all building in the area.

If such measures were not taken, the department could make a formal order to ban building, according to David Sprow, district engineer with municipal facilities and planning department of the water qualities division of the DNR.

A building ban could come after the department has determined there has been overflow into the river. They also would study the frequency and duration of such overflows before imposing a building moratorium, Sprow said.

The engineer said he was aware that Northville Township has been concerned with the capacity problem for the sewer line, but at this point the DNR has no evidence there is a problem.

"I'm not saying there is or isn't a problem, but Northville Township has the best idea if there is an overflow," Sprow said.

"If they tell us there isn't capacity for the amount of sewage going through that pipe we would advise them they shouldn't allow any more growth, and they can handle that internally."

"If they fail to take our advice, it may become necessary to issue a formal order halting construction," he explained.

Candidates hit campaign trail

Election Day is just under six weeks away and the campaign for mayor of Novi has begun in earnest.

Mayoral candidate James Shaw, a council member, has already mailed 5,000 letters to city residents and says he has been in contact with some 800 households in the past 10 days.

Incumbent Romaine Roethel reports she was to receive her printed materials Tuesday and soon will cover the city with brochures. She is getting a mailing prepared and telephone lists in order.

Both candidates report that before the November 6 election they will attend homeowners association meetings, and Roethel says she plans speaking engagements at civic organizations such as the Rotary, Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees.

Shaw also said he has been doing a lot of door-to-door campaigning.

When asked to address issues that have come up so far in the campaign, Roethel said she believes the ballot questions will be "heavily discussed."

She also said an important issue she would be running on is her "availability and representation of the city in so many areas we have to be involved in. These things have to be done for a city that is growing and I don't see how they can be done by my opponent."

As examples, she cited her involvement with the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) and similar bodies.

"We can't depend on (the city's) administrative staff to cover these things because they want local elected representatives," Roethel said.

Shaw declined to discuss specific issues at this point, saying there will be "plenty of forum for discussion" as the campaign progresses. He added that he will not sidestep issues, but he does not feel it is time to unfold everything at this early stage of the campaign.

"I'm prepared to deal with the issues. I haven't gone into this campaign lightly," Shaw said.

Office zoning preferred for plan

Novi City Council and Planning Board members apparently want more of a "regional office" than an "industrial" orientation on the city's prime non-residential land.

That, at any rate, appeared to be the clear-cut consensus as council and planning board members met in a special joint session last week to review a proposed "Industrial Areas Plan" set forth by Planning Consultant Charles Cairns.

The Industrial Area Plan is one of four major planning studies authorized by the city in conjunction with a revision of the city's master plan for land use development which is currently underway.

The city also has authorized a Commercial Area Plan, a Thoroughfare Plan and a Residential Areas Density Plan in conjunction with the revision of the overall master plan.

It was the proposed Industrial Areas

Plan which received the majority of attention at last week's special session, however.

The Industrial Areas Plan submitted by Cairns calls for industrial development to take place along two principal industrial corridors: (1) the land between Grand River and the I-96 expressway and (2) the land between Novi Road and the Chessie System railroad tracks from the city's south corporate limits to near Grand River Avenue.

Members of the council and planning board told Cairns, however, that they were not satisfied with the proposal to create an industrial corridor between Grand River and the expressway.

Citing a study prepared for the City of Farmington Hills, Planning Board Chairman John Roethel noted that the city could reap considerably greater revenues from "regional office" development than "industrial" development.

In essence, the Farmington Hills study shows how much money each acre of land produces in revenues and how much it costs to provide municipal services to that same acre of land.

Single-family residential property, for example, costs the city some $51 more per acre in services than it generates in tax revenues. Multiple family residential has a surplus of $61 per acre in revenues over expenditures.

The portion of the Farmington Hills study which has peaked the interest of council and planning board members is the cost-revenue comparison between regional office and industrial land. The study indicates that industrial land brings in a surplus of approximately $275 per acre, while regional office property brings in a surplus of approximately $465 per acre.

Roethel told Cairns at last week's session that he could not see where the findings of the Farmington Hills study had

Novi Schools set winter tax rate

Residents in the Novi School District will be paying a lower millage rate next year as a result of the implementation of the Headlee amendment.

Assistant Superintendent William Barr told the school board Thursday that implementation of the Headlee amendment will result in a 1.08 mills rollback in the local tax rate.

Property owners in the Novi district paid 33.04 mills for school operation last year.

As a result of the Headlee amendment, they will be paying 31.95 operating mills this year.

With the millage levied for debt retirement, the total tax levy by the school board will be 39.05 mills.

"Based on the law to implement Headlee, the formula allows the Novi Community Schools to levy 96.71 percent of last year's operating levy," explained Barr.

The tax rate approved by the school board will be applied to December tax bills. The board approved a tax rate earlier in the year which was applied to the summer tax bill.

Barr explained the two levies were not equal because the district did not have all necessary information for setting an accurate levy when it set the tax rate in June.

"When we computed this in June we didn't have the final figures. We also knew we would have a chance to correct it, if need be, for the December levy," Barr said.

A lower millage rate does not mean that tax bills will automatically go down, however.

Barr cautioned that all it really might have been if Headlee had not been implemented.

The Headlee amendment to the state constitution, which was approved by Michigan voters in the November 1978 election, dictates that any increase in property tax revenues which is the result of increased valuation of the property cannot exceed the rate of inflation.

The county equalization division determined the true cash value of property in Novi to be 14 percent more than the 1977 assessment, while the customer price index was pegged at about 10 percent.

The levy set by the school board means residents in the Novi school district will pay about $33 per $1,000 of assessed valuation in property taxes toward the operation of the Novi schools.

Wixom EDC to set criteria for project funding

Criteria for accepting projects for funding will be discussed when Wixom's newly-established Economic Development Corporation (EDC) meets next Tuesday (October 2) in Wixom City Hall at 7:30 p.m.

At the September 12 organizational meeting, EDC members also named the firm of Dickinson, Wright, McKean, Cudlip and Moon as its bonding attorney and Harold Bulgarelli as its general attorney.

In the meantime, Bonczek continued, the city has assisted its residents by securing additional jobs and adding to the municipal tax base.

Walled Lake council approves Kinder-Care area

A project area and project district boundaries for the proposed Kinder-Care Learning Center were approved September 18 by the Walled Lake City Council.

The EDC will not have to be created, Pochman said. Anderson and Mitchell were recommended as additional directors for the Kinder-Care project by the EDC board at a meeting September 18 because they live near the proposed day care center.

The Kinder-Care plan is the only one currently pending before the EDC. A project plan for a proposed Kinross facility has been referred to a landscape architect for a recommendation.

Burger King gets permit for drive-through

A special exception permit for a proposed Burger King restaurant drive-through window service was approved Monday by the Commerce Township Planning Commission.

He added that the drive-through service is an advantage to handicapped persons and noted that the survey also showed that more than 80 percent of the restaurants' patrons were already on the roads on other trips when they decided to stop at Burger King.

Request withdrawn for dealership zoning

A rezoning request which, if approved, would have paved the way for construction of an automobile dealership on the southwest corner of Grand River and Meadowbrook Road has been withdrawn.

His announcement that the rezoning request had been withdrawn was met by applause from residents of the Meadowbrook Glens Subdivision who had turned out in en masse at previous planning board meetings where the rezoning request originated.

Officials say CETA funding status unclear

It may be the 11th hour before Novi knows whether it will be receiving federal funding for employees who are currently paid through the comprehensive employment and training act (CETA).

Under the newly adopted federal guidelines, CETA employees can no longer provide services to the community over a long period of time.

Assistants City Manager Alex Allie reported that after a meeting last week with county officials regarding the status of CETA funds there was no clear cut answer as to what the city can expect.

Richardson dedication

Commerce Township's Richardson Community Center was officially dedicated Saturday with Supervisor Robert H. Long and Erna Richardson, sister-in-law of the late Ralph C. Richardson for whom the facility was named, doing the ribbon-cutting honors. Ralph Richardson, a member of a pioneer Commerce family, donated the 80-acre site on Richardson Road at Newton to the township for use as a park. Township officials allocated federal block grant funds to help pay for the $152,000 community center.

On negotiations

Board members defend Sheldon

Superintendent Don P. Sheldon's handling of recent contract negotiations with the Walled Lake Education Association (WLEA) was defended this week by six members of the board of education in response to a statement issued to the press last week by the seventh board member, Janet Callahan.

Sheldon, said the board members — Betty J. Campion, Robert E. Cooper, Dr. Len H. Wessinger Jr., Warren L. Williams, Steven H. Lasher and Kenneth L. Tucker.

A new two-year contract between the board and the WLEA was approved by the trustees at a special meeting September 17. Callahan cast the only dissenting vote on the 6-1 tally. Union members ratified the pact September 13.

After last week's board meeting, Callahan said she opposed the contract because the superintendent "assumed unlimited power to negotiate for the board." She also said that Board President Campion had proposed that Sheldon should be given the authority to negotiate without board limits.

"Some board members argued against this because, as elected officials, they have the responsibility to remain in control of the negotiation process by setting parameters," Callahan stated.

"I voted 'no' on the contract because it was negotiated without board authorization. I think it is the board's responsibility to establish the limits for negotiations," she added.

In their response to Callahan, the other board members said it is their responsibility to accept or reject the contract as presented by the administration, whose responsibility it is to negotiate the pact as agents for the board.

"Initial guidelines had been presented to Dr. Sheldon by the board of education for use in negotiations and, at a later date, Dr. Sheldon had indicated that the guidelines would not be obtainable as a consequence of recent settlements in adjacent school districts," according to the six trustees.

"Therefore, Dr. Sheldon had requested more latitude in the guidelines and, if any situation occurred whereby an understood range could not be obtained and a strike seemed inevitable, he would notify the board of education for a special meeting," they continued.

"The only negative comments were from Mrs. Callahan at this time." In her statement to the press, Callahan said that some board members argued against Campion's proposal to give the superintendent the power to negotiate without board limits, and added that some trustees proposed "expanded parameters" that were unacceptable to Sheldon.

The new contract calls for teachers to receive an 8.5 percent raise in both years of the pact and additions or improvements to their fringe benefits package, including an increase in life insurance from $15,000 to $20,000, a $2 drug rider on health insurance and changes in the dental insurance.

"Now that the particulars of the agreement have been made public," the board members stated, "it is obvious that Dr. Sheldon, the administrators and the WLEA were responsible to the community and the students of the Walled Lake Schools in arriving at a contract."

State slates public session on annexation

The Michigan State Boundary Commission will hold a public hearing November 29 in Commerce Township on the City of Walled Lake's request to annex portions of Commerce.

The hearing date — on day short of the time the state panel has in which to consider the request — was set by the commission September 19 at a hearing in Lansing where the legal sufficiency of the city's seven-year-old annexation resolution was determined by the agency.

At last week's hearing, Commerce Township Supervisor Robert H. Long asked the commission to hold two sessions, one to determine whether Commerce meets standards for protected boundary status as a charter township under a 1978 amendment to the state charter township act and another hearing, if the township's boundaries are not protected, to consider the actual Walled Lake annexation bid.

Commission members said, though, that they felt both issues could be resolved at the November 29 hearing, slated for 1:30 p.m. in the Richardson Community Center on Richardson Road across from Walled Lake Central High School.

"We will have to present our case both ways (for protected boundary status and against annexation) at that time," Long said.

In early 1972, the boundary commission received two requests for annexation of portions of Commerce Township. However, since township residents had applied to the state for cityhood in November 1971, the cityhood request was considered first.

Wolverine Lake Village also applied for cityhood about the same time and later amended its request to seek a portion of Commerce.

The boundary commission in 1973, though, combined the Commerce and Wolverine Lake requests into one proposed cityhood incorporation. Village officials and residents subsequently filed suit to challenge the order, but the Oakland County Circuit Court and the Michigan State Court of Appeals upheld the state agency's action. The Michigan Supreme Court in early 1978 refused to grant leave for further appeal.

Faced with the prospect of joining a new city with Commerce, village residents and officials petitioned the state for an election on the incorporation. Meanwhile, Commerce officials took advantage of the amended charter township act to incorporate as a charter township in September 1978.

The cityhood issue was defeated by a margin of 22-to-one at a special election in April, resulting in the boundary commission activating the Walled Lake annexation requests.

One petition, filed by property owners in the southeast corner of the township, was ruled to be not sufficient by the commission because it did not include a map and proper legal descriptions of the land.

However, the other request, approved by resolution of the Walled Lake City Council in February 1972, sought to annex all of the land generally south of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks and a portion of the township east of Benson Road, including the area covered by the property owners' petition.

Under the new charter township act, certain urbanized townships are exempt from annexation if they meet seven standards set in the law, including a minimum state equalized valuation and population density; provisions for police and fire protection; comprehensive zoning ordinance and/or master land use plan; and provision for solid waste and water-sewer services.

Long said he feels Commerce meets the criteria, although he noted that a similar annexation request involving Shelby Township in Macomb County was approved by the commission. Commerce did not incorporate as a charter township in time to be "grandfathered" into protected boundary status.

'Dream come true' isn't

Hidden Creek residents find flaws in new homes

It was like a dream come true when Michael and Maryanne Cornelius purchased their new home in Wixom's Hidden Creek subdivision almost two years ago.

"My husband and I looked at homes for almost a year before we decided to buy in Wixom," recalls Mrs. Cornelius. "We were living in Redford and wanted to get out in the country so we could raise our children in a nice, rural atmosphere and send them to a good school system."

"It was our dream home," she added. "This is where we planned to stay and raise our two children."

Since that time, however, life has become decidedly unpleasant for the young couple.

Mike and Maryanne live in the Hidden Creek subdivision which has become a hotbed for complaints from residents about allegedly poor construction standards.

And Mrs. Cornelius figures her story is worse than most.

"We had all kinds of things go wrong with the house when we first moved in," she reports.

"The windows weren't put in properly and the whole back of the house was flooded every time it rained because the water would come in through the cracks around the windows. In the winter we got snow in the house."

"All the carpeting in the back of the house has been ruined," she maintains. "The pipes in the wall for the upstairs shower freeze and burst during the winter. And we get water pouring all over the bathroom."

"And the tile on the kitchen floor wouldn't stay in place so the workmen had to come back and glue it down again."

The Hidden Creek subdivision was constructed by the Bert L. Smokler Company. And Billy Pitts, an executive with the company, maintains that Smokler stands behind all its homes.

"That's the policy of this company and we adhere to it," says Pitts. "It is now, always has been and always will be. The Smokler Company stands behind its product and will continue to do so within the framework of its responsibilities."

Mrs. Cornelius admits that Smokler has resolved most of the problems with the house.

There is one problem, however, over which she and her husband are waging a running battle with the company.

The problem, she reports, is that her family room floor is sinking. And, she maintains, the Smokler Company has been less than cooperative in assuming responsibility for the problem.

"I can't put the children's toys in the closet anymore because they just roll down the slope in the floor into the middle of the room," she reports.

"I've had to move a plant stand because the floor is so slanted the plants just slide right off the side."

Those problems are only minor annoyances when compared to the potential for structural damage to the house caused by the sinking floor.

Mrs. Cornelius says she first noticed the floor was sinking approximately one year after they moved into the home.

Smokler representatives responded to the complaint by coming to the house to investigate the problem. After looking around the house, the Smokler representatives told Mrs. Cornelius that she had created her own problem, she said.

"They told us we hooked up our water softener into the main drain which flows into the sump pump," she reports. "Their supervisor said the outlet was installed too close to the rear of the house so that when it shoots out water from the basement, it flows back toward the house and washes out the walls in the family room which is built on a slab."

As a "good will" gesture, Mrs. Cornelius continues, Smokler agreed to lower the molding in the family room and place cement in a crack which had developed in the hearthline on the fireplace. They also agreed to knock three holes in the living room floor and fill them with cement piers to stop the floor from sinking any further.

The repairs were completed. The crack in the fireplace created by the sinking floors was filled in, the molding was extended to fill in the crack between the original and new floor line and the cement piers were put through holes in the floor.

But the floor is still sinking. And the young couple is both angry and frustrated.

Smokler representatives were at the home as late as last week. Mrs. Cornelius said that Smokler has promised to place benchmarks on the walls once a week for the next four weeks to determine if the floor is still sinking.

But after a year of watching their family room floor sink lower and lower, the couple doesn't think that's good enough.

"It's clear that the floor is sinking," said Mrs. Cornelius. "The slope in the floor is easily observable and you can see that the space between the floor and the walls is growing bigger."

"I don't think the problem is the sump pump," she says. "The problem is that the whole subdivision was built on poor soil. That's why people all around the subdivision are having their driveways sink and crack."

She's also concerned about additional structural damage to the house. As the floor continues to sink, she maintains, there will be more cracks in the hearthline on the fireplace and eventually the walls will crack away from the ceiling.

Realtor, village threaten lawsuits

An attorney currently in consultation with Walled Lake Realtor Ralph Goddard said Monday that Goddard Realty is "investigating the possibility" of taking legal action against Wolverine Lake Village in connection with the recent decision of developer Clare Bornstein to build the proposed 116-home Foster Farm Subdivision in Walled Lake.

Attorney Robert Sharbaugh said it appeared that the village had acted hastily in objecting to a proposed access drive that was to be a part of the project. Wolverine Lake officials recently indicated that they would take legal action if the Bornstein plan — complete with access road — was approved by the Walled Lake Plan Commission.

"The Bornstein recently decided not to build on the proposed development, but to be located on Pontiac Trail south of the South Commerce intersection, Goddard said it was because of the threat of litigation by the village. The developer planned to place 116 homes on 90 and 90-foot lots on the proposed 52-acre Foster Farm site.

Wolverine Lake officials have objected to the proposed Penny Lake Drive access because of the apparent lack of space for a retention basin that would filter run-off. The village also contends that the access drive could present a hazardous traffic situation.

Green drops out of Wixom race

Wixom Council Member Melvin Green has decided not to seek reelection to the council on the November 6 municipal election, although he filed nominating petitions for the post in June and will be listed on the ballot.

City clerk June Buck said she was informed of Green's decision yesterday by the council member's wife, Lois. Green is out of town on business and could not be reached for comment.

Ballot, Buck said, because state election law only allows a candidate to withdraw from a contest up to 72 hours after the filing deadline.

No reason was given for Green's change of plans, the clerk said.

The 45-year-old Green was appointed to the council in 1974 and won a four-year term in 1977. In 1977, he was an unsuccessful candidate for mayor, losing to fellow Council Member Lillian Spencer. Green is employed as a department chief by the Western Electric Company in Plymouth.

Green's departure from the race leaves four candidates vying for three seats on the council, while Mayor Spencer is unopposed in her bid for a second two-year term.

The four remaining council candidates are Charles Craig, Nancy Dingley, Wayne Glessner and William Wylie.

Incumbent Council Members Robert Dingley and Val Vangieson did not file for re-election.

Ring road proposed to solve traffic congestion

Does Novi have a "downtown" area? There are those who would debate the question.

When initial plans for the Twelve Oaks Mall were being made back in the late 1960s and early 1970s, there were some city officials who maintained that Novi did not have a downtown area and that the regional shopping center would effectively fill that function.

But there are also the oldtimers — and maybe a few new-timers as well — who would maintain that Novi's downtown area is pretty obvious. And that it's at the four corners of Grand River Avenue and Novi Road.

The debate may well be solved once and for all by a proposal placed before the city council and planning board by Planning Consultant Charles Cairns of Vilcan-Leman at a special joint study session last week.

Cairns is one of those individuals who believe that the regional shopping center is Novi's central business district. But he also believes that the Grand River-Novi Road intersection is important to the city and can become an aesthetically pleasing, integral part of Novi.

Cairns has submitted a proposal to "clean up" the Novi-Grand River intersection by constructing a ring road around the four corners.

The so-called ring road in its extremely preliminary planning stages would, in effect, construct a circle (or ring) around the present intersection. If the ring road were to be constructed, Cairns maintains, the volume of traffic at the intersection would be reduced dramatically.

In fact, the planning consultant believes that traffic could be removed from the intersection to the degree that the four-corners could almost be developed as something which approaches a pedestrian shopping area.

"I think the potential exists to make the intersection an extremely attractive and viable part of the community," Cairns told the planners and council members last week.

"If we can get the traffic out of there we can come in with a landscaping plan and develop a community shopping area which would enhance the overall appearance of the city."

Construction of a ring-road would have additional advantages to the city, Cairns maintains.

A major advantage is that construction of the proposed ring road would open up areas for development which presently are land-locked — inaccessible to traffic of any type.

Cairns also maintains that the proposal is not impossible to achieve. The planning consultant acknowledges that major hurdles have to be cleared, but those hurdles may not be as imposing as they might appear.

A primary consideration is acquisition of right-of-way for road construction. Cairns points out that the city could use the Flint Street right-of-way for the westerly portion of the road. The Flint Street right-of-way already exists. It may be a bit more difficult on the easterly half of the ring road. Road right-of-way already exists along a portion of the proposed ring road. But in some instances additional road right-of-way would have to be obtained. And in one or two instances, it may be necessary to acquire and demolish some buildings in order to put through the road.

However, Cairns also believes that the few property owners who might face demolition of their buildings would be easily assuaged by the advantages of the ring road which will open up a great deal more property for development.

At this point, the proposal to construct a ring road around the Novi-Grand River intersection in order to create a pedestrian-oriented shopping mall is only that — a proposal that has been put forth by the planning consultant.

City council and planning board members did not comment on the proposal at last week's joint meeting, however, and it remains uncertain as to whether — or if — the plan will ever be anything more than an innovative proposal.

Building ban proposed

But Novi officials are saying they still have capacity in the sewer line.

Kriewall said the township supervisor's position is "highly expediting" in light of an announcement by the Wayne County Board of Public Works that the oversized pipeline should be replaced soon.

"Wayne County has already asked for the replacement of that pipe without further study. They expect a written confirmation to proceed within the week and told us it could actually be in service in 18 months," Kriewall said.

"You just don't ask for everything to stop when relief is forthcoming," he added.

The city manager told the council Monday that figures from Oakland County show that, although Novi is using only 77 percent of its allotted capacity in the sewer, Northville Township is using 191 percent of its capacity.

"Those figures indicate that Novi has room in the system to grow until the projected relief is accomplished," Kriewall said. "We feel Novi can continue to grow without fear of a moratorium for the next two years."

Mayor Romaine Roethel pointed out that through the efforts of herself and the city manager compromises on sewer service have been reached.

However, Kriewall had earlier admitted it would be a different situation if relief is not forthcoming in the next 18 months.

"If we had to conduct a study and establish a need it would be 1984 before a new line is complete. There is no way the sewer line would last and we could continue to build," Kriewall said. "But if the relief is there in the next 18 months, the situation is not going to get that much worse."

Apparently Northville Township is not as confident a new sewer line will be put in place as Novi officials are.

"Installing a replacement pipeline has been recommended by Wayne County, but I'll believe it when I see it," Thomson said.

Manager pact eyed normal business hours without prior notice to the mayor or two members of the council.

Parker was hired by the council in December 1976. He succeeded Joseph Menechini, who resigned.

At the time he was hired, Parker said he was told by then Mayor William T. Roberts that he would be the highest-paid city employee. The council also agreed to pay his moving expenses, the $1,800 annual car allowance and the ICMA pension contribution.

Until this May, though, Parker's pay ranked second to the police chief's. During budget hearings four months ago, however, the council granted Parker a retroactive raise for the 1978-79 fiscal year that made him the highest-paid employee and maintained that difference over Hook in the 1979-80 budget.

The idea of a contract with the manager first came up in May 1978 when the council had a brief but heated debate over Parker's car allowance.

payroll, except for occasional teaching, writing or consulting performed on his own time. The manager also would be prohibited from holding, "either directly or indirectly, any investment in any firm, corporation or legal entity which has or is likely to have any dealings with the city without prior written consent of the city council."

Other provisions of the proposed contract address the manager's hours of work and provide that, if the manager is called back to work during a regularly scheduled vacation, he will be reimbursed for all necessary costs and expenses.

Since the manager's duties are not confined to normal city hall office hours, the agreement allows Parker to work "such hours as are necessary to effectively and diligently perform his duties on a schedule he deems most appropriate..." except that he cannot be absent for more than 24 consecutive been incorporated into the thinking behind preparation of the Industrial Areas Plan.

Roethel suggested that the city would be better served from both a cost-revenue and an aesthetic aspect by designating the corridor between Grand River and the expressway for regional office than industrial use.

It was City Manager Edward Kriewall, however, who specifically proposed that the Industrial Areas Plan presented by the planning consultant be changed to provide for a regional office orientation in the corridor between Grand River and the expressway both east and west of Novi Road to the city's corporate limits.

"The city has been severely impacted by the visual aspects of outside storage associated with the existing industrial uses along the expressway," commented the city manager.

Kriewall added, however, that most of the existing industrial uses are transitional in nature. "Right now we have a lot of contractors with outside storage yards which create the undesirable visual aspects for people who drive past Novi on the expressway," he said.

"As the cost of land in that area continues to rise, it will become too expensive to maintain for storage yards and the existing uses can be expected to move farther away.

"If we are going to change the orientation of that corridor from industrial to office, we should do it right now," Kriewall continued. "If we don't move right away, the city will receive additional industrial-type uses in that area and there's likely to be an entrenchment of industrial uses that cannot be removed in the future."

Kriewall's comments won support from other members of the council and planning board.

Council Member James Shaw said that some industrial uses already exist in the corridor, but there's still time to act and change the orientation for the entire area. "I think we should let everyone know just exactly what type of development we want in that corridor," said Shaw.

Mayor Romaine Roethel, also supporting the concept to change the orientation in the Grand River corridor from industrial to regional office, suggested that environmental concerns may become an issue.

"Due to the energy crisis there has been some relaxation of environmental standards which industries are required to maintain," he said. "And there's likely to be greater relaxation of those standards in the future if the energy crisis continues to exist."

"I don't think we want belching smokestacks in this community when we can have regional office buildings which are environmentally-safe and aesthetically-appealing."

The council subsequently directed Cairns to prepare some alternatives to the present Industrial Areas Plan which can be considered.

Audit shows Novi School records in good order

The Novi Schools ended the 1978-79 fiscal year with money in the bank and a report from the auditors that its books are in good order.

Janz and Knight, certified public accountants, gave the schools' books a nearly unqualified clean bill of health after a review of the district balance sheets as well as a look at related statements of revenue and expenditures for the school year ending June 30, 1979.

The auditing firm also reviewed all financial records of the school district, including a test check of the content and mathematical accuracy of the check register, cash receipt books, vendor invoices and paid bank checks.

A summary of the audit showed the school district took in more than $6.27 million in general fund revenues.

General fund revenues are primarily generated from the property tax and the schools received about $9.52 million in property taxes.

The schools also took in more than $300,000 in state funds and $195,000 in federal monies. From the county and other such sources, the school district generated about $95,000.

Estimates in the school district budget showed the administration expected the district would generate about $6.09 million, meaning the district took in about $185,000 more than originally anticipated.

On the expenditure side of the ledger, the school district spent about $6.99 million in the past fiscal year.

Of that figure the largest expenditure — $3.02 million — was for instruction. The audit showed that of the costs of instruction $296,000 went toward salaries in the elementary grades, $788,000 was for instructors' salaries in grades six through eight and $814,500 was spent on salaries at the high school level.

School administrative costs ran at about $480,000.

Comparing total general fund expenditures to those budgeted, expenses for the school district were just $3,200 more than anticipated.

The audit shows some $110,000 in interest was earned on investment through the building and site fund, returns of about $55,000 were seen in the general fund and $47,000 in interest on retirement fund.

Auditor Lou Robbin told the school board he had only one recommendation for improving the schools' bookkeeping, and that suggestion was being made only because it was required by law.

Robbin said the district has not maintained a record of its general fixed assets. As a result there was no statement of general fixed assets included in the report and the district would receive a "qualified" opinion, Robbin told the board.

However, the auditor indicated that such a record is a very costly undertaking.

Riffenburg gets honors

Charles Riffenburg, a former Walled Lake mayor and council member who recently resigned from the zoning board of appeals, received a plaque of appreciation September 18 from Mayor Gaspare LaMarca.

In presenting the award, LaMarca noted that Riffenburg has served on "every board and commission in the city."

He stepped down from the appeals board earlier this month. Riffenburg, who operated Charlie's Barber Shop in Walled Lake's old downtown area, will retire to Florida, city officials said.

Meanwhile, Appeals Board Chairperson Phillip Rundell has asked the council to act quickly in filling the vacancy because the seven-member board needs five members for a quorum and five affirmative votes to approve an appeal.

Even with a full membership, Rundell said, the board sometimes has trouble getting a quorum during summer months.

The appeals board is a quasi-administrative body that may grant variances to requirements included in the city's zoning and other ordinances.

Plans okayed for church

Members of Novi's Faith Community United Presbyterian Church now will be able to proceed with groundbreaking plans for their new church building.

The Novi Planning Board last week voted unanimously to grant preliminary site plan approval for the proposed church which is to be located on a 3.6 acre parcel on the north side of Ten Mile between Novi and Tait roads.

The site is approximately opposite the proposed municipal complex on the south side of Ten Mile.

In addition to granting preliminary site plan approval, the planning board authorized it site plan sub-committee to grant final approval contingent upon approval of a landscaping plan for the church grounds.

The church has been designed by Jack Brown of the firm of Brown and Deyo Associates which is based in Bloomfield Hills.

Reverend Richard Henderson, minister of Faith Community United Presbyterian Church, reports that Brown is an experienced architect who has received numerous awards for his design concepts. He previously has designed the Clarenceville United Methodist Church, the St. Regis Catholic Church in Birmingham and the Antioch Lutheran Church in Farmington.

Brown won a citation from the Church Architectural Guild of America for his design of the Antioch Lutheran Church and an award of honor from the Michigan Society of Architects for his design of the St. Regis Catholic Church.

Henderson said the Faith Community United Presbyterian Church held its first worship service on Thanksgiving Day of 1976 and was chartered with 119 members in October of 1977. The congregation presently holds regular worship services in the Village Oaks Elementary School.

James Ernst, chairman of the church's building committee, said the congregation hopes to be able to hold its first worship service in the new church on Christmas Day of 1980.

Builders seek additional land for subdivision

A building company which took Novi to court in order to get the zoning it wanted along the west side of Meadowbrook Road south of Nine Mile has come before the council with a second request regarding the development of the property.

Brittany Building Company and the city reached an agreement earlier this year which allows the builders to develop a 40-acre parcel under the R-3 zoning classification which calls for single family residential home on 12,000 square foot lots with 90 foot frontages.

Originally, the property was to be developed as one-acre lots. When the council initially denied the company's request to develop the smaller lots, Brittany took the city to court.

Sheldon Rismann, representing the builders, told the council last week that circumstances have changed since both parties entered the court agreement.

"We have been given the chance to purchase 20 feet on the west which will give enough footage to provide a superior street layout and some wider lots," Rismann said.

But several council members disagreed that the street plan for the property was "superior." In fact a number of them objected to the fact that the addition of 20 feet merely allows the addition of a second road through the subdivision.

Council Member Robert Schmid protested the land was too narrow to have two roads.

"Frankly, I'm not thrilled with the layout," Schmid told the developer. "You've crowded in those lots around two roads. It was partially because of the layout you showed us before. If you got approval of the consent judgment."

Schmid also asked for the city planner's view of Brittany's new proposal.

"This plan is functional. It will work. But it does lack the imagination of the layout we saw before as I remember it," commented Planning Consultant Charles Cairns.

Rismann protested the lots were not crowded into the development. "Some of those lots are wider and that's what you wanted when we were here before," he told the council. He admitted some lots were shortened, however.

Council members also questioned whether they were misled when Brittany Building appeared before them asking for the original court agreement.

At that time the company told the council they could not get the additional 20 feet for the development.

"I have serious misgivings as to the legality of this," Council Member Martha Hoyer said. "A matter which they represented as one thing is now another thing."

Council Member Ronald Watson asked whether the council had a right to make any demands on the developer in light of the request to amend the court judgment.

"If you are referring to a trade off allowing them to have the zoning for the additional 20 feet, yes you can," City Attorney David Fried told the council.

Schmid protested that with or without the 20 feet the property was too small to develop with two streets. He added that if the council granted the proper zoning for development with the added 20 feet any plans the company would develop would have two streets.

Rismann questioned the council's attitude regarding the addition of the 20 feet to the consent judgment.

"The owner is the one who came up with the offer. When we were before you last time he had been fighting us for years. He fought us all the way and we have given in. If you are going to consider zoning the additional 20 feet to conform with the consent judgment if the developer could come up with an acceptable concept for the subdivision."

If an attractive plan is developed by the company the council indicated it would allow the subdivision to go through the normal platting process.

Running for fun

While most of us were snug in our beds early last Saturday morning, some 122 people weren't. These were the entrants in the first annual Novi/Northville run, sponsored by the Novi and Northville Recreation Departments. Two of those who made the dash were former Mayor Gilbert Henderson (left) and Dr. Gerald Kratz (above), superintendent of the Novi schools. The course, five miles in length and consisting of one, three and five mile courses marked off, started at the Northville Community Center. The race began at 8:30 a.m. Saturday morning and the first runner crossed the five-mile finish line 24 minutes and 41 seconds later. That runner was Terry Eley. The winner of the women's division was Cindy Hayes, who clocked in at 35:06. Junior division winner Kim Bruce finished at 31:55 and D. W. Oldham won the senior's division with a time of 41:17.

Medical center obtains approvals

Novi City Council members have granted final site plan approval to developers of the Woodland Medical Center, a major medical facility near the Twelve Oaks Mall.

The approval will allow the developers to continue construction of the facility.

Work which had begun on the medical center was being done at the developer's own risk. Council had granted a temporary building permit for the site in order to allow the developers to maintain financing for the venture.

Woodland Medical Center will be a 96,000 square foot building with a complete line of health care services to be built on a 12-acre site on the south side of Twelve Mile between Novi and Meadowbrook roads.

The initial building will make easements along the route of the proposed driveways where the city can build public roads in the future if it so desires.

Council Member Robert Schmid said he was concerned that in the future the driveways may be needed as public roads.

Planning Consultant Charles Cairns explained the original plans did call for a road through the area, but traffic will move through the area without it.

"This road is much less critical than, say, the relocation of Meadowbrook for the success of traffic flow through the center. We can get along without it, but it would have been good to have it," said Cairns.

Council Member James Shaw asked whether there would be adequate parking for the facility.

Cairns explained the building will not be totally occupied immediately. Additional building permits will be required as the occupancy of the building increases. Before additional permits are issued, inspectors will be checking to make sure the proper amount of parking is maintained, Cairns said.

The council granted approval for the facility pending approval of easements and revision of the platting list so that it conforms with the landscaping plan for the facility.

After receiving the unanimous support of the council, Woodland Administrator Dr. John Mucsey thanked them for their "patience and for allowing us to begin construction at our risk."

"Novi will have one of the most outstanding medical centers in the Midwest," he added.

The developers have said Woodland will be a three-story building with a full range of health care specialties including obstetrics, cardiology, radiology, neurology, ophthalmology, pediatrics and hematology.

Woodland Medical Center the largest medical facility in Novi.

Before granting approval the council questioned the road plans for the facility.

Master plans for the area call for a marginal access road within the shopping center development. The road is intended to provide access to businesses without creating a large number of entrances and exits on Twelve Mile.

Council members questioned whether the developer's plans for service drives along the northern and western boundaries of the site would coincide with the plans for a marginal access road.

Norman Hyman, representing Woodland Medical Center, told the council his clients had no plans to build either of the driveways roads.

However, the attorney told the council the developers had granted the city

For super sewer

Wayne officials want Canton, Van Buren in plan

Wayne County officials will ask the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to include Canton and Van Buren townships in the area to be covered by a federal grant for design of the so-called super sewer treatment facilities, according to Duane R. Egeland, deputy managing director and director of engineering for the Wayne County Board of Public Works.

That recommendation was made to the public works board September 18 and to representatives of the 17 Oakland and Wayne county communities still interested in the project at a meeting Thursday in Van Buren, Egeland said.

He said the federal agency's recommendation for a two-pronged sewer alternative is "okay with us as long as (the EPA) extends the design phase from Bemis Road to Joy Road, about 12 miles (through Van Buren and Canton)."

The EPA offered in a recently released final environmental impact statement (EIS) on the controversial regional sewerage system to award a grant for design of the interceptor and wastewater treatment plant facilities for the southern tier of Wayne communities, from Brownstown Township to Sumpter Township, with a concurrent grant for a facility planning study of the remaining communities, from Van Buren to Commerce Township.

The design work will be geared to provide capacity for the north-south arm of the interceptor, if the facility planning study justifies that action, the EPA has said.

In the draft EIS which was issued last November, the federal agency proposed another alternative that would have provided the new regional treatment system for the area from Canton south to Sumpter then east to Brownstown and Lake Erie. Plymouth, Northville and southern Novi would have received capacity in the Middle Rouge-City of Detroit system from Canton and Van Buren, while northern Novi, Commerce and Walled Lake would have been studied for other possible solutions, including expansion of the existing Novi-Walled Lake wastewater treatment plant.

Canton and Van Buren officials balked at the so-called "super sewer come up" with its newest plan in a March 28 position paper. The federal agency indicated in the final EIS, however, that it would like to see Wayne County officials agree to the proposal recommended in the draft impact statement.

EPA officials were unavailable earlier this week for comment on the public works board's proposed extension of the design work grant to cover Canton and Van Buren.

No action may be taken by the EPA to award the grants until 30 days after a notice of publication of the final EIS appears in "The Federal Register," Egeland said he wasn't sure when the notice was published.

Federal funds will pay for 75 percent of the cost of the facility planning and design work, with state monies covering another five percent of the expense. Local communities will have to share the remaining 20 percent of the cost.

Before Wayne County applies for the grants, though, local communities will be asked to indicate their interest in proceeding with the super sewer plans, Egeland said. The county also will prepare a contract obligating the communities to pay their share of the study costs, he added.

In its summary of the final EIS, the Wayne public works board said the EPA concluded that "immediate action is needed to remedy the wastewater management problems of the eight participating communities in the southern section of the project area from Brownstown Township to Sumpter Township." Van Buren and Canton would be included in the "critical southern portion provided they agree to negotiate the transfer of their existing capacity in the Downriver and Rouge Valley systems to participating communities in the north area."

The public works board said the federal agency also concluded that "information currently available is not sufficient for the EPA to make a decision on the extension of the interceptor sewer to serve the section of the project area from Plymouth Township north to Commerce Township."

Target date for completion of the facility planning and design work, if the grants are awarded, is July 1981, Egeland said. At that time a decision will be made on a system to serve the northern area.

If the facility planning justifies extension of the interceptor to the northern area, he said, preparation of plans for the northern area and construction of the entire interceptor and treatment plant will be authorized by the EPA.

On the other hand, if a "more desirable" alternative is proposed for the northern area based on the facility planning study, Egeland added, that plan will be implemented for that and the facilities for the southern area would be re-designed on a limited scale.

Utility franchise set for November ballot

Walled Lake voters will be asked to approve a 30-year franchise agreement for utility service from The Detroit Edison Company at the November 6 municipal election.

The city council approved an ordinance version of the franchise September 18, but the final okay for the measure rests with the city electors who must adopt the agreement by an affirmative vote of 50 percent.

The state constitution and the city charter require public utilities to enter into franchise agreements with municipal governments in which they operate.

Under the agreement, Edison is allowed to construct, maintain and operate in the city "all needful and proper poles, towers, mains, wires, pipes, conduits and all such lines and other apparatus requisite for the transmission, transforming and distribution of electricity for public and private use."

Four city council seats also will be listed on the November 6 municipal ballot, with eight candidates vying for the posts.

Township in 1942, when Walled Lake was still part of the township. When the agreement expired in 1972, the company did not attempt to renew it because of financial problems. The city firm decided this year to renew its agreements with local communities, according to Joseph P. Ford, an Edison community and governmental affairs representative.

Edison has agreed to pay for half of the costs of the municipal election, a contribution estimated at some $1,000.

The council and company agreed to one change in the proposed ordinance, suggested by Council Member Thomas W. Brookover, an attorney, that apparently would give the city better protection against lawsuits and other claims resulting from the agreement with the utility company.

Couple collects Victoriana

By JEAN DAY

Sheryl and James Bress of Novi remember buying Victorian marble-top chests, tables and chairs "because it was what we could afford."

Ever since their marriage 14 years ago they have been collecting, refinishing and reupholstering their antiques. They also acquired an impressive collection of Victorian lamps which they have electrified and use throughout their home at 44738 Galway, Northville "Home Tour" visitors September 29 will view the first of the couple's fine Victorian pieces as they enter past a marble top chest that, Mrs. Bress recalls, came from a large Detroit home.

"This is Jim's parents' wedding picture," notes Mrs. Bress, pointing to a framed portrait on the living room wall. In the wall arrangement is a bracket clock from England dated 1887.

Family pictures with the couple's have been upholstered in velvet by Mrs. Bress.

In addition to doing the professional-quality upholstery after taking a class, Mrs. Bress made the draperies for the home.

Her husband has added the distinctive room moldings, giving door and window frames a block corner treatment.

A desk in the living room came from Pennsylvania. It is a reproduction of an 1890 desk, but was made perhaps in the 1920s. This is a type of furniture that is becoming collectible as it represents high quality craftsmanship.

Sentiment plays a part in the home decorating.

"The first six years of our marriage we never spent Christmas twice in the same house," Mrs. Bress observes, relating how they had renovated several homes. They have lived in their home in North Hills for five years, previously living in Canton and Livonia. This is their seventh home. While it has a Northville mailing address, it actually is located in Novi.

Conversation piece is an old gramophone. Sheryl Bress even located a craftsman to repaint the horn design.

On display here also is a collection of old tobacco tins found in a previous home.

"The first six years of our marriage we never spent Christmas twice in the same house," Mrs. Bress observes, relating how they had renovated several homes. They have lived in their home in North Hills for five years, previously living in Canton and Livonia. This is their seventh home. While it has a Northville mailing address, it actually is located in Novi.

In the early years of their marriage, Mrs. Bress explains, her husband had more free time to restore houses. It became a financially rewarding interest. Now he has the Northville Earl Keim Realty — and less free time.

Tour visitors should notice the former gaslight that is used in the first floor powder room. It was an antique discovery from Marshall, Michigan.

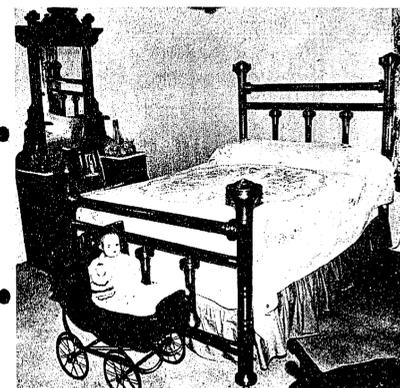

In Sheryl Bress' kitchen is a reproduction of an old cast iron black stove. From Sears, it is a gas stove with warming oven above. Mrs. Bress especially likes the latter feature, commenting, "I'm tall and this saves stooping."

Sharing space in the adjacent dining room with a hutch and trestle table is an antique sewing machine cabinet. While it appears to be an old treadle-type, the wooden case actually contains Mrs. Bress' new machine head. Her husband installed it.

Local residents were invited also to share their skills, interest, and vocations with youngsters involved in the summer Teen Center program.

The largest percentage is in the 14 to 15-year-old class," said Ms. Hinzy slating the greatest number of referrals related to larceny problems.

On the other side of the coin, Hinzy pointed out that a great number of Novi children attended summer camp through NYA aid.

Specific programs and problems identified that will be addressed during the coming year include transportation for youth, teenage unemployment, drug use and teen age drinking.

Others closely involved with NYA are city officials, members of the police department, the various religious organizations, businessmen and individuals.

It took a falling apple before Newton could define the concepts of gravity and, as he rubbed the growing knot on his noggin, force.

Enterprising men gave state distinctive landmarks

While other histories emerged from conflict, Michigan invented, prospered and developed its geography both industrially and culturally.

The state's enterprising forefathers not only left their prestigious mark upon the world, but also endowed Michigan with a rich cultural heritage and an impressive medley of distinctive landmarks to be enjoyed by residents and visitors alike.

History, industry and homemakers know Dr. Herbert H. Dow best as the founder of Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Michigan, one of the largest chemical companies in the world today. Lesser known is the fact that Dr. Dow's hobby was gardening. His pursuit of that pastime developed into one of Michigan's loveliest tourist attractions.

Dow Gardens began in 1899 as 10 acres of sandy soil covered with jack pine that Herbert Dow referred to as his "back lot." Today, the Gardens feature 20,000 annuals, one of the most outstanding collections of crab apple trees anywhere, flowers, shrubs and trees from the world over.

Today, Fair Lane is part of the University of Michigan's Dearborn campus. It serves as the center for many cultural and educational conferences and dinners with special guided tours available to the public.

Unlike other early mining communities, Calumet, Michigan outgrew its boom town, dance hall days and developed as a cultural center during the historic copper mining era of Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The Calumet Theatre is testimony to that prosperous period and monument to the great talents that crossed its stage.

The Theatre was completed in 1900 at a cost of $70,000. The stage measures 60 feet in width, 28 feet in depth and 60 feet in height. The fly galleries are separated by 48 feet and are 30 feet above the stage floor.

John purchased a 120-acre farm near Rochester during the formative years of the company and used it as a retreat when he needed solitude or time to work out the problems of his pioneering enterprise.

Matilda Rausch was the brothers' secretary, and married John Dodge in 1917. After their marriage, Matilda served as manager and catalyst for the brothers' business.

the Nursery with its diminutive furnishings and delightful appointments, offers a meaningful glance back for those interested enough to look.

James Turner, the house's original owner, was instrumental in developing the bustling roadways and business section of the growing city surrounding the new State Capitol.

Perhaps one of Fair Lane's most interesting features is the four-level powerhouse for which Thomas Edison laid the cornerstone in 1914.

Booth and their five children. Ellen Scripps was the daughter of James E. Scripps, owner of The Detroit Evening News. Booth joined the family paper after his marriage to Ellen in 1887, and through his shrewdness, skill and management, became president and publisher of The Detroit News.

The Booths' prosperity led them to purchase 175 acres of barren farm land in Oakland County, where Cranbrook, then an idea, was to materialize.

Cranbrook House was named after the village in Kent, England. Its design is distinctively English Manor house. All of the formal dark English furniture, upholstered in fine tapestries and needlepoint designs, are the original pieces the Booths selected and used.

Anatomy of grid pad

One aspect of the helmet-safety debate is the lawsuits. In 1977 there were 14 helmet manufacturers in the country. Now there are eight.

"There is the possibility of no football in three years at small high schools," Strickland said. "With the lawsuits we are very, very close to not having anyone in the business of making helmets."

Soccer is certainly less expensive and less dangerous than football. But if one person has his way, football will be here to stay.

He is Byron Donzis, an inventor and an avid football fan. He is working on a number of inventions and innovations for the game that may either save the game or make it a safer sport.

The Donzis story starts with Dan Pastorini, the Houston Oilers quarterback. One day last season Pastorini was in the hospital recovering from the mugging he received at the hands of defensive lineman the previous Sunday.

Donzis and a friend sneaked past hospital security and into Pastorini's room. Without more than a brief introduction, Donzis' friend suddenly produced a baseball bat and proceeded to pummel the inventor about the ribs.

It was an inflatable vest designed to cushion severe blows by dispersing the force throughout the air pockets sewn into the garment. It worked. Now Donzis is developing new types of padding for NFL teams.

He outlined his predictions for Sports Illustrated recently: "We'll see equipment that will be supportive of body functions. I'm visualizing devices that will allow a player — a receiver, say — to jump two or three feet higher than he does now."

Or we'll put a strong enough biochemical device on a quarterback's back so he can pass 150 yards, which will be important, because the field will have to be that large by then. Or a power-pack device on a running back's legs, so he can drive through the line. And we'll need smarter players, too, because you won't be able to use these character devices except for a few specified number of times each game.

If you're a defensive back and you waste your spring action on a play that doesn't require it, then the receiver can spring up six feet high the next time, and you won't be able to deal with him. And think of the excitement in the stands when the odds on the pari-mutual boards reflect this."

He also foresees a computer located inside the quarterback's helmet for assistance in selecting plays; stadium seats that collect power from the sun; fields that can be blown-up like a large air mattress to make it safer; computer training devices; women as quarterbacks in professional football because of their higher threshold of pain; and three-dimensional audience instant replay devices so people in the stands can see holograms of instant replays.

It will be interesting to see what happens in the future of football. Will the athletes resemble James Bond mechanical marvels or will the sport die in the wake of soccer fever? As someone once said, "May the force be with you."

Early Warrior burst blasts Canton, 25-7

Walled Lake Western, dominating the night from the opening kickoff, built up three second-quarter touchdowns Friday night enroute to a 25-7 football romp over Plymouth Canton.

The Warriors combined a strong defensive effort with a steady flow of offense in pushing their 1978 record to 2-1. Angelo Buttazzoni was the driving force in the Western attack, carrying 24 times for a whopping 172 yards. Included in that performance was a 44-yard run in the opening quarter and two touchdowns.

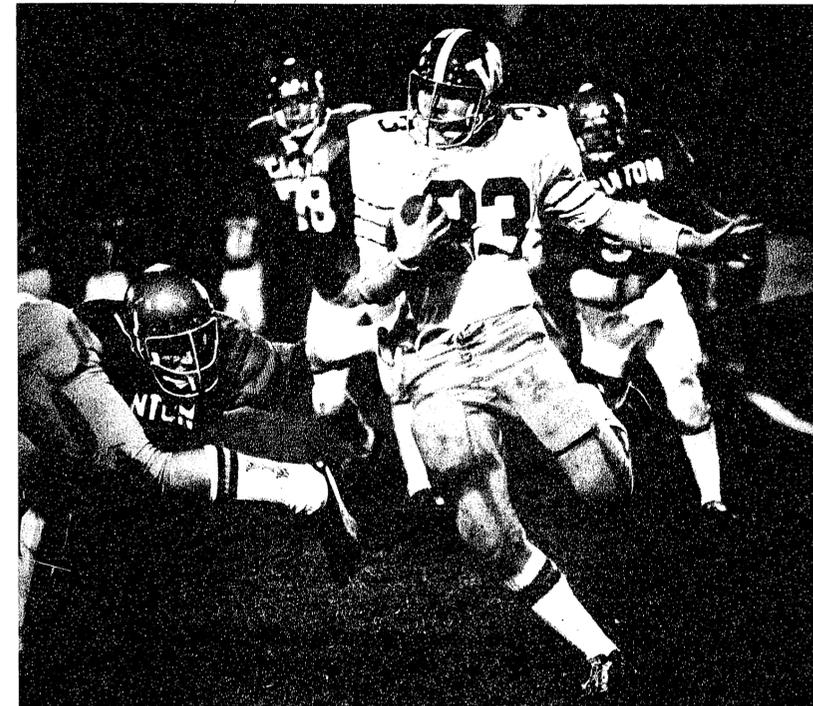

Buttazzoni's big first-quarter burst sparked a Warrior drive that began the game. Western started moving from its own 40-yard line, and advanced all the way to the Canton three before being stopped. Coach Chuck App and company elected to go for a first down at that point, but were thwarted on a fourth-down effort.

Western came back later in the half to pick up right where it had left off. The Warriors' Bruce Meyer returned a punt to the Canton 13—only to see a blocking-below-the-waist penalty block the locals back to their own 35.

Still, Western was not to be denied, as Buttazzoni opened the game's scoring five plays later with a five-yard touchdown run. A wide punt after kick left the score at 6-0, however.

Western home team countered that with a 30-yard drive of its own, moving 80 yards for what would turn out to be its only points of the night. Steve Gray's one-yard plunge tied the score, and the kick afterward was successful, to give the Chiefs a brief 7-6 margin.

The Warriors responded with a vengeance to that TD, scoring the next three times they got their hands on the ball. Bruce Meyer tallied on a seven-yard gallop and made it 12-7 (an ensuing two-point conversion attempt failed) as quarterback Bob King crossed the goal on a five-yard run to give the Warriors an 18-7 advantage, despite a blocked kick after the score; and Buttazzoni finished Canton off with a one-yard carry. Western finally succeeded in

Wildcats falter late; it's South Lyon, 8-7

It's hard to say which type of loss is the hardest to take: a humiliating drubbing, say 42-0; or a one-point loss such as Novi experienced last Friday at the hands of South Lyon, 8-7.

"It was a very hard loss," coach John Osborne said. "It was a tough one to deal with."

Novi started out like it was going to have a field day at the expense of the Lions. On their second possession the Wildcats marched down the field and scored on a 23-yard run by quarterback Mike Rentner.

"There were two excellent blocks on that play," Osborne said. "Both were made by Keith Crosslin and Brent Gross. Keith cleared about three guys out at the line of scrimmage to let Rentner escape and then Gross made the last block near the end zone to allow Rentner to score." Jeff Clark kicked the extra point and Novi led 7-0.

"The rest of the first half was a back and forth affair. A highlight was a punt by Gross that traveled over 48 yards and pinned South Lyon to their own end zone.

"The South Lyon offense began to wake up in the second half. Novi kicked off to them and the Lions downed the ball on their own 34-yard line. A sustained march ensued and by the time the dust had cleared, Novi found itself backed up against its own 50-yard line with South Lyon ready to score.

"With the ball on the four-yard line and fourth down, South Lyon tried a sweep. It would have worked except for the fact that they swept towards Gross's side. He smashed into the Lion ball carrier, forcing a fumble which South Lyon recovered, but back on the nine-yard line. There Novi took over the ball.

"In the fourth quarter, South Lyon once again drove deep into Novi territory. Al Kennedy pitched the ball to Mike Morgan on the Lion 30-yard line and he carried it 25 yards to the Novi 45. After a few more running plays, George White hauled in a pass from Kennedy to move the ball to the Novi 14-yard line. The Lion drive stalled at the Novi five.

"Novi took over possession there and proceeded to move the ball for a first down. But then disaster struck. A fumble occurred on the next play and South Lyon recovered on the 17-yard line.

"Kennedy hit Jim Rockel with a 13-yard pass to move the ball to the Wildcat four-yard line. Jim Zacher then plunged in for the touchdown.

"On the try for the two-point conversion, South Lyon lined up offside and a penalty was issued. The ball was moved back five yards to the eight. The Lions decided to kick the ball for one point instead of trying from the eight-yard line to run it for two. The kick was wide. But Novi was called offside on the play. The ball was moved half the distance to the end zone and then South Lyon decided to try again for the two-point conversion run.

Kennedy rolled right and burnt an arrow-throw into the arms of Rockel for the two points and an 8-7 Lion lead.

But Novi wasn't about to roll over and concede. They fought back and moved the ball down the South Lyon three-yard line. The Wildcats used the one time out they had left and called two plays in the huddle. With less than a minute left on the clock, Novi tried to run, but was stopped. The Wildcats lined right back up and ran the second play that was called in the huddle. The ball was fumbled and South Lyon recovered as the clock ran out.

The Lions are now 1-2 overall and 1-0 in the new Kensington Valley Conference. Novi slips to 1-2 overall and 0-1 in the league.

"It wasn't a very good weekend," Osborne said. "We're over it now, at least I am.

"We'll find out how this loss affected the team. Some guys had bad games, some had good. There was a little back-biting in practice today. We'll be tough from here on out though. This is the crossroads.

"I think that we're a good football team and that we'll still be a factor in the league race. I'll tell you, whoever plays us better realize that we're for real, that we mean business. They better not take us too lightly," Osborne said.

Rentner led all ball carriers with 66 yards gained on 16 carries. He threw the ball four times, connecting only once to Gross for 13 yards.

The Novi freshman team beat South Lyon's, the freshman squad 12-6 last week. The Wildcats scored first on a 35-yard pass from Eric Deline to Vince Meo. In the second quarter, Rich Sinda plunged in for the score on one yard out. That made the score 12-0 at the half.

South Lyon intercepted a Novi pass in the third quarter and that set up their only score of the game. After a short drive, the quarterback dove in from one yard out to make the score 12-6.

Meo was the leading ball carrier for the Wildcats as he gained 99 yards on 10 carries.

"This year we are so emotionally high," coach Rob Hagar said. "It's just unreal. Last year we had only 13 players on the eighth grade team and those guys had never won a game. This year we have 35 guys on the freshman team and we're 1-1."

The freshman team will host undefeated Brighton on Thursday. Hagar and assistant coach Bob Blackmer have planned a gala event for the game. Crazy George from the Pistons will be there to provide halftime entertainment and Hagar has promised an aerial balloon display. "Brighton lost two years ago," Hagar said. "And guess who beat them. Come see us do it again."

Central offense sputters, 10-0

The offensive problems of the Walled Lake Central football team continued Friday night, as the Vikings fell to their second straight shutout at the hands of a Farmington team in a 10-0 loss.

The game started out as a defensive battle with both squads unable to move the ball. It seemed neither team was going anywhere, as the two offensive units performed with equal ineptitude in the game's early stages.

When, in the second quarter, John Karpach broke loose for a 27-yard touchdown run with 9:56 remaining before halftime, and Farmington owned a 6-0 lead. The conversion kick made it a 7-0 ballgame.

In addition to the mistakes Central suffered in connection with the passing game, the Viking runners also had a touch time of it. As a group, the team accumulated only 67 yards on 31 ground attempts. The locals rushed for just three first downs all night in recording nine altogether.

Fundukian a prophet as golfers win first

Walled Lake Western Golf Coach John Fundukian is looking good this week. And his Warrior linksters aren't doing too shabby, either.

The victory gave the Warriors a 1-4 record this autumn in dual matches. Western had dropped a 20-25 decision to Northville Tuesday for its fourth straight setback prior to the big Thursday win.

Against the Mustangs, Kish and Golden finished at 42 and freshman Draheim carded a 45, but things talked of considerably after that on the Western front. As a result, the Warriors could top three with Northville after that top three and so went the match.

The previous day, the locals participated in the West Bloomfield Scrambles Tournament. Three two-man teams from Western, West Bloomfield and Milford competed, with Kish and Gill teaming up to shoot a 74 on one occasion and a 72 on the other. The duo finished third in the tourney and won a medal for their efforts. Golden and Miller also had a 74.

Novi netters beaten twice

Wildcat Holly Heupel couldn't prevent two losses

South Lyon bounces past punchless 'Cats

Connie Ahren, the Novi girls' varsity basketball coach, should offer Ann Meyers a no-out contract to come play for the Wildcats. Or maybe dicker with Piston coach Dick Vitale for the rights to sign big Bob McAdoo. Whatever she does, it will be with the express intention of bringing one commodity into the Novi program that is scarce right now, and that's offense.

Novi dropped a 44-37 contest to South Lyon last week. The Lions outscored 11-4 in the first quarter, raised their lead to 26-15 by halftime and then coasted to the victory as their leads extended to 34-24 in the third quarter to the final 44-37.

"We started out very slow," Ahren said. "The last couple of games we haven't scored much in the first quarter. Then we're forced into playing catch-up."

Against South Lyon, Tracy Sobkow scored 15 points for the Novi cause.

"South Lyon had a height advantage," Ahren said. "They had three girls who were very tall. One was 6'0", the other 5'11" and the third 5'10". Needless to say, we were outbreasted. They only had two girls in double figures though. They weren't that much better than us. Next time, we'll be on the winning side."

In a move to replace an injured Wildcat, Ahren called up Marianne O'Brien from the JV. Against South Lyon she scored four points and had six rebounds.

"I need an offense. If we could score 10 points per quarter we would win. I figure we can hold any team to 40 points."

"Injuries have been a big factor in our year," Ahren said. "I haven't started the same five in a game yet."

Kim Henstock has made Novi athletic history. She is the first girl to record a win in tennis competition for the varsity team. This is the first year that the team has been in existence and Henstock's victory in three sets over Amy Larson of Pinckney is the first win ever for a member of the Novi team.

The rest of the team didn't fare as well however. The Wildcats played Pinckney last Thursday and lost 6-1.

Terri Discher lost at first singles to Anita Emery, 6-2. Holly Heupel went down 1-6, 6-3, 0-6 at the second singles slot to Carol Hollan.

Geri Peterson lost to Laura Bedalment 6-2, 6-2 at the third singles position and then Henstock made history, 6-2, 3-6 and 6-4.

The first doubles team of Amy Anthony and Jane Dinsler lost to Kristi Haak and Yvonne Hollan 6-4, 6-2.

Lee Dollard and Karen Wikkie lost a close one to Sharon Dickerson and Karen Haak 4-6, 7-5, 6-3. At third doubles, Lisa Quinn and Pam James dropped their match to Becky Tell and Debby Sawman 6-4, 3-6 and 4-6.

In an exhibition match at the Pinckney meet, Wildcat Kathy Mallia beat Lisa Hosking 6-0, 6-0.

"This match gave them good experience in competition," coach Leslie McDonald said. "We're starting to split our sets and we're getting the scores up."

Then the Wildcats traveled to Greenhills on Friday.

First singles Heupel drew the unlucky assignment of facing Audrey Solent, who is ranked second in the state for her class high school. Holly put up a good try, according to McDonald, but she still lost, 6-0, 6-4.

At second singles, Courtney Warrick defeated Discher 6-1, 6-0 and at the third slot, Beth Middleton beat Peterson 6-2, 6-2. Mira Jensen beat Henstock at fourth singles 6-0, 6-2.

Melissa Forster and Susan Lichter beat Dinsler and Anthony 6-0, 6-0 at first doubles and Susan Chapman and Laurie Lichtes defeated Wikkie and Dollard 6-0, 6-2. James and Quinn showed some life as they just lost, 6-2 and 7-6.

Rejuvenated Vikes post three straight net wins

If last week's play is any indication, the Walled Lake Central girls' tennis squad has turned the corner.

The Vikings sported just a 1-3 record going into action September 17 against Waterford Township. When the week was over, however, Central had a 4-3 slate with the promise of more to come.

If one match spurred the Vikes on during their recent streak, it was the Waterford contest. Coach John Shadford's unit rolled to a 7-0 victory in that one, and the momentum continued through the end of the week when the girls took an easy 6-1 decision over Milford Lakeland. In between those wins was a 4-3 verdict over Farmington last Wednesday.

Central took six of its seven decisions over Waterford in straight sets, by far its easiest victory thus far. Debbie Choler was a 6-0 and 6-0 winner in first singles; Lynn Milano nailed down 6-2 and 6-0 triumphs at the number two spot; Cerrie Powers was a 6-3 and 6-2 winner; and Nancy Gruber got the job done by scores of 6-3 and 6-4.

Only at the first doubles level did the Vikings have even a hint of trouble. Still, Brooks Pitts and Pam Smith rebounded from a 6-4 opening-set loss to come back with 6-0 and 6-2 victories.

Sandy Christensen and Wendy Wilson breezed to a couple of 6-0 wins in the number two position, and Linda and Lisa Paine stayed hot by grabbing 7-5 and 6-2 verdicts.

The going was a bit rougher two days later in the 4-3 win over Farmington, however. All of the Central doubles teams win, but Nancy Gruber was the only Viking to manage a singles victory, thus salvaging the triumph. Gruber took 6-3 and 6-2 victories, but the rest of the singles performers were felled in straight sets.

As things turned out, the doubles teams for Central had to fight for every win. Pitts and Smith opened with a 6-4 victory, but were downed 6-1 in the middle set. It took a 6-2 third-set win for them to prevail.

Meanwhile, Christensen and Wilson experienced the opposite. They, unlike Smith and Pitts, were winners in the first set by a 6-1 margin, lost the middle set by a 6-4 count and then won 6-2 in the finale for the second doubles success.

The Paines won in straight sets, capturing 6-0 and 7-6 victories.

In the 6-1 whipping of Lakeland, the girls went back to domination at the singles level. All won in straight sets except for Powers, who dropped 6-3 and 7-5 decisions. Choler won 6-1 and 6-2 sets; Minnebo was 6-1 and 7-5 victory; and Gruber took 6-1 and 6-4 decisions. A strong fourth singles player, Gruber now has won five of her seven outings this fall.

In doubles play, the Paine tandem completed the week's play with an even more impressive record. With Friday's 6-4 and 7-5 decisions, they boosted their 1979 mark to 6-1. The duo's only loss came when North Farmington's team scored a 7-1 victory over Central recently.

Keeney's Warrior thinclads progressing, but can't halt losing trend

If it's true that close counts only in horseshoes, it's too bad that the Walled Lake Western cross country team wasn't tossing the ol' iron last week.

The Warriors fell short in two outings, plunging to a 1-3 dual meet record this autumn. This came despite the fact that Coach Dennis Keeney claimed his young squad had made significant progress.

The scores would seem to prove this point against North Farmington

September 18, Western succumbed by a 31-24 count and, two days later, the final verdict read Farmington Harrison 29, the locals 27.

"We've come a long way in our approach to a meet," Keeney explained. "In terms of strategy and realizing how to run a race, we're picking up the little things that a team needs to win consistently. We're encouraged by that."

The North Farmington battle was a closely contested one, and only the absence of John McCormick, the team's number two runner, seemed to prevent Western from taking home a victory. Steve Sutherland, as usual, finished ahead of everyone with a time of 15:58 and teammate Dave Sherwood was third overall.

However, North Farmington took the number two, four, five and six spots to outpace the Warriors. And that was a story in itself.

"We learned something else that was very important this week," Keeney reported. "See, some of our people didn't realize that the fourth, fifth and sixth positions counted in tabulating the final results. They thought the top finishers were all that mattered. It's good that we cleared that up, because there's no telling how much that could have hurt us."

Perhaps as a result of that realization, the Warriors came even closer in finished second and third in the eight-year-old division; Brian Carpenter and Jason Merics took second and third in the 10-year-old division; and David Okargley and David Bridges finished second and third in the 11-year-old division. Matt Bonar and Jonathan Booth were second and third among the 12-year-olds, while Thomas Cummings and Thomas Mitchell claimed second and third place honors respectively among the 13-year-olds.

Wildcat win tarnished as runners are hurt

Novi opened its Kensington Valley Conference schedule with a 26-30 win over South Lyon last week. The win came without the service of coach Norm Norgren's ace runner, Craig Braue. Brian Jordan, Novi's number two man, ran in the race, but was injured and finished eighth.

"Craig went on an orthopedic foot specialist this week," Norgren said. "He will run in the future with a specially constructed insole for his shoes."

"Brian Jordan has some sort of hip injury. We're not sure what it is exactly. He was in a great deal of pain but he gave a real gutsy performance. He took a much needed eighth-place finish for us. Today in practice it acted up again. It had shown signs of going away. We're going to try to get him in someplace later this week to have it checked out. Until then he is under orders not to push once more received high praise from Apap.

"He had one of the best tight end games we've ever seen," the Western coach raved. "He not only caught the ball, he delivered some key blocks and generally did everything right on the football field."

As is too often the case, though, Western as a team didn't do everything right Friday. One glaring deficiency came in the penalty department, as the Warriors heard the whistle eight times for 75 yards worth of losses. One of those penalties nullified a 60-yard run by Buttzatzen.

"We do have to cut down on the mental mistakes," Apap conceded, "but we need some work on other things too, like blocking, running, tackling and pass defense."

It certainly would appear that Western will have to perform as well better this week, as it hosts Livonia Churchill Friday at 7:30 p.m. Churchill is an explosive offensive team — as evidenced by its 41-0 win last week — and runs a flashy quarterback option that Apap's troops will have to be ready for.

Western learns tennis lessons the hard way

The learning process is apparently getting more painful for the Walled Lake Western tennis team.

Coach Noah Gregory's outfit came out on the losing end three times last week, and two of those decisions were of the stout variety. After dropping a tough 4-3 home verdict to Livonia Churchill Wednesday, the girls traveled to North Farmington and Northville the next two days and found their competition to be somewhat less than hospitable.

All in all, the week was one best forgotten by the young netters, as things seemed to progress from bad to worse. Even in the 7-0 blank jobs turned in the North Farmington and Northville, the girls went from getting beaten badly to losing in straight sets.

In fact, the only Western player to win a set in the last two matches was Cindy Kalhorn, who took a number two singles win Thursday by a 6-3 count in the first set before succumbing by 6-0 and 6-4 scores.

The day before, the Warriors came oh-so-close to earning their second win of the fall season. Holly Spencer battled her way to a three-set triumph, taking a 7-5 win in the first set, dropping the middle encounter by a 6-3 score and then taking the finale by the same margin.

Kalhorn was even more impressive in her fourth singles match. She was Western's sole straight set singles winner of the week, capturing 6-2 and 6-0 victories.

On the doubles level, Cindy Boardman and Michelle Bryant notched the only two-person victory for the Warriors, also winning in straight sets. Each time, the final was 6-4.

The performance of the number one doubles duo was one encouraging sign in the eyes of Gregory, who admittedly "had little to crow about" after last week's proceedings.

"I like the way they're working together," the Western net boss noted. "They're learning more each time they play, and I'll be interesting to see how they are at the end of the season."

Gregory is still juggling his inexperienced unit, hoping that the right combinations will soon form to make Western into a contender. Recently, he has switched Spencer from doubles to singles, and has moved Debbie Saliz from singles to a doubles spot with Julie Jenkins.

The result leaves Gregory with a singles quartet of Spencer, Kalhorn, Regina Roberts and Brenda Sugar. The doubles teams are currently made up of Boardman and Bryant at first doubles, Jenkins and Saliz at second doubles, and freshman Marsh Bryant and Lisa Roselle at the number three spot.

Aside from the third doubles pair, Gregory still has four others who had never played tennis before this year — Jenkins, Sugar, Mary Blum and Kim Marshick. That gives you some idea of what the Western coach is up against.

The girls were slated to take on Farmington-Harston Monday in an effort to do just that. Today (Wednesday), they play at Waterford Mott, and then it's on to Plymouth Canton Friday.

Close, but no cigar--Vike five falls

Losing close basketball games is becoming a painful way of life for this year's Walled Lake Central girls' squad.

The latest instance occurred last Tuesday night as Waterford Kettering came back in the late stages to take out a 69-68 squeaker over the Vikings. The week before, the locals had leads against Brighton and Milford before finally succumbing.

Once again, foul trouble played a major role in a Central loss. Six-foot sophomore center Amy Bembsis got her fifth whistle for five minutes remaining, and the Vikings never were quite the same.

"Some of our girls have been blocking out on the boards with a bit too much intensity," Coach Ken Butler explained. "Of course, you'd rather see 'em be too aggressive than not aggressive enough. It's a fine line they have to learn ... it'll come with experience."

Behind by a 22-20 count at halftime, Central came back to grab the lead in the second half. Kettering finally pulled ahead by the winning margin with nine seconds left, though the Vikes had a chance to stage a comeback of their own at that point.

However, Central failed to cash in and its record slipped to 6-3.

Despite the defeat, the girls continued to show signs of promise. Junior Wendy Keely lit up the nets for 27 points, while 11 freshman Caryn Lamb made double figures with 10 points. Kathy Simonson tossed in seven.

The backcourt combination of Keely and Simonson was sorely missed in the following contest, as that pair fouled out in the fourth quarter Thursday and the Vike fortunes waned.

Redford Union felled Central that evening by 62-38 count, although the score doesn't really indicate how close the game was.

In fact, the girls were down by just six at halftime and by five after the third quarter buzzer sounded. That's when the Vike backcourt's time began to be limited, and when each finally had to bow out things came apart somewhat.

"When Keely and Simonson fouled out, we kind of lost our composure," Butler said.

"They pressed us, and without some of our better ballhandlers out there we didn't react the way we should have."

But the Keely and Simonson disqualifications weren't the only reasons Butler's team had trouble. One important part in the Viking demise was the play of Union's Nancy Lawson, a 6-1 senior who rang up 34 points.

"She was hitting on turn-arounds, tips, of 47 floor assists," Butler reported. "She's one of the best players I've seen in a long time, and Redford Union's probably the best team we've seen so far this year."

Another key element in the loss was Central's poor field goal percentage, as the locals connected on just 11 of 46 shots for a 24 percent success ratio. The enemy by way of contrast, shot 53 percent, nailing down 26 turn-arounds, tips, and 47 floor assists.

Central seeks action; Atkinson may return

If he didn't know any better, Walled Lake Central Cross-Country Coach Harry Edgington might think that the opposition was afraid to compete against his Viking team.

Central had two dual meets scheduled last week, and each time it was a Waterford team that failed to show up. Waterford Mott was nowhere to be found September 18 at the scheduled 4 p.m. starting time, and Waterford Township pulled a similar disappearing act Thursday.

"It was the first time that's ever happened to us twice in the same week," Edgington noted. "In the case of Mott, it seems their secretary forgot to call us and tell us that the meet was off. And Township isn't going to have a team this year."

The Mott meet was rescheduled to take place yesterday (Tuesday), and the Township date has been filled by North Farmington. That squad will run against Central October 2.

Thankfully, before the week was over, the Vikings did manage to get in some competitive running. Saturday, they participated in the Shrine Invitational and finished 10th among 20 teams. As usual, Jim Owens led the way for the locals with a 12th place time of 15:41. The next Central finisher was Larry Turner, who was 35th with his 16:44 clocking.

Edgington noted that Turner's progress is most important to Central. The team now is faced with the task of finding a replacement for Kevin Atkinson, Viking senior and co-captain, who has bone chips in both ankles and is sidelined for an indefinite period.

"Without a replacement, we're in trouble," Edgington admitted. "We'll just have to do the best we can without him; there's really no other choice at this point."

Much to the delight of Edgington and his young squad, there was some good news regarding Atkinson last week. According to the Central coach, the Viking standout may indeed be available in the season's closing weeks.

"He's gonna sit out the duals," Edgington reported. "At least it looks that way. But he's gonna try to run in the conference meet, the regionals and maybe the Oakland County meet—the important events at the end of the season."

"I haven't talked to his doctor," the Central chief added, "so I really don't know if he'll be ready. He's doing this completely on his own."

If Atkinson is to come back for those duals, the Vikings have a whole lot of time to get ready. The season is already at the midway point, and the Oakland County action is coming up October 6.

Before then, the Vikings (1-2) are slated to take on Livonia Stevenson in dual action tomorrow (Thursday) before participating in the Lakeside Invitational Saturday. The North Farmington addition then proceeds the highly-competitive Oakland County run.

Wildcats of the Week

BRENT GROSS DEB AGARWAL

Although both the football and swim teams lost last week, each of these two athletes played big parts in their team's performances.

Gross, a tight end, caught a crucial 15-yard pass from Mike Rentner on the third and 10 situation to keep Novi's on-ly scoring drive alive. Later in the drive he made a crushing block to enable Rentner to scramble into the end zone. He was also a mainstay on defense.

Agarwal is one of the top swimmers on Novi's new girls varsity swim team. She qualified for the state meet by swimming to a first-place finish in the 100-yard butterfly in 1:38 and a second place finish in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:16.
