

Escapee last seen in Novi called armed, dangerous

A man described by police as "armed and dangerous" escaped from his Isabella County jail cell over the weekend and made his way to Novi.

State police officials said they do not know whether the man is still in the area. He was last seen in the Twelve Oaks Mall parking lot.

Police are seeking any information which could lead to the apprehension of the escapee. He has vowed not to be taken alive by police, according to reports.

The man is described as 23 years old, five feet, 10 inches tall, 155 pounds with brown hair and green eyes. He also has a damaged right hand which was shot by state police in connection with a previous incident.

When last seen he was wearing a brown and white plaid shirt, blue jeans and blue and white tennis shoes. Police reported he also wore a denim hat with a leather marijuana leaf insignia.

Isabella County Prosecutor Tom Plachata reported the man — Frank Schanault of Westland — had been awaiting sentencing in the Isabella county jail when he pulled a gun on the turnkey and demanded to be released.

Schanault made his break during part of a weekly routine in which he was released from his maximum security cell in order to take a shower.

Apparently the 22-caliber automatic pistol had been passed to him during a visitation period. Reportedly, the weapon may have been delivered by his sister, who was known to have been in the area and who has since been charged with conspiracy to aid a prisoner in a jail break.

The charges constitute a felony and carry a seven-year maximum jail sentence.

Reportedly, as Schanault was released for his shower, he forced the 68-year-old guard to unlock several doors at gun point.

Police believe the man stayed in the Mount Pleasant area from the time of the break-out Friday evening until he kidnapped a Mount Pleasant resident in order to obtain a ride to Detroit in the early hours of Sunday morning.

Schanault proceeded to kidnap a man whose home he had burglarized twice before. The man had twice testified against Schanault as a prosecution witness.

The escapee kidnapped the resident, Donald Shain, and forced him to drive to Twelve Oaks Mall.

Schanault was last seen in the parking lot of the mall and it is suspected he is still carrying the 22-caliber Barrett automatic pistol.

The kidnapping victim left the mall and proceeded to the Northville State Police post where he reported the incident.

Officials said Schanault's sister was apprehended in Mount Pleasant shortly after the break-out. She had been out on bond for the $120,000 robbery of a Farmington jewelry shop. She has since been charged with the felony of possession of cocaine and quaaludes. The crime carries a four year maximum sentence.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Architect's rendering of proposed Novi Community Center on Ten Mile near Taft Road

Supporters begin work

Stage set for bond sale debate

Coffee klatches and homeowners meetings for the most part will provide the forum as three bonding proposals on the November ballot are explained to Novi voters.

Voters are being asked to approve the sale of bonds for three major capital improvements projects, including construction of the Patnales Drain, construction of a community center and capital improvements in the fire department.

Meetings have been scheduled with small groups to explain why city officials believe these bonding proposals deserve voter approval.

Father Les Harding, a member of the committee endorsing the community center, explained that with small groups there is an opportunity for those in attendance to ask questions they might feel uncomfortable asking in a larger gathering.

He said the three committees supporting the bonding issues plan presentations to four different groups this week. Meetings have been scheduled with the Stonehenge Condominium Association, the Lakes Area Senior Citizens, the Village Oaks Homeowners Association and the Novi Rotary Club.

Many of the homeowners' associations have asked representatives of the three committees to make presentations, although some of the meetings have been initiated by the committees themselves, Harding explained.

Harding also said the committees are using the same philosophy in presenting bonding proposals as used in the past. "In previous elections, we have gone out as a team unit," said Harding. "It worked before and we expect it to work again."

"I'm concerned that people realize we are talking about the City of Novi and the needs of the city, not individual goals," he continued. "We've had enough fragmentation and need a unified effort."

He added that he hopes voters will view the three bonding proposals as a single package even though they will appear on the ballot as separate issues.

In their travels to various community group and organizations, committee members will encourage voters to approve the sale of $3.5 million in bonds to finance construction of the Patnales Drain; $2.85 million in bonds to finance construction of the community center; and $1 million in bonds for capital improvements in the fire department.

City officials have estimated that the average local property owner with a property assessment of $24,000 will pay $24 a year for 30 years for the Patnales Drain project, $23 a year for 20 years for the community center and $8 per year for the fire department improvements.

If the Patnales Drain bonding project is approved, work could begin on the drain, which will be an open channel between Eight and Nine Mile. Construction of the drain project would improve drainage between Eight and Nine Mile. The drain currently is unimproved and is not capable of handling the storm water run-off which runs through it, according to city officials.

Officials also state that between 67 percent and 75 percent of Novi drains into the Patnales Drain and that most local water courses are tributary to the drain.

Under the community center bonding proposal, voters are asked to approve financing for construction of a 34,200 square foot building on the municipal center at Ten Mile and Taft roads.

The community center is proposed to include large multi-purpose rooms, two meeting rooms, a kitchen and various special activity rooms for residents of the city.

Approval of the fire bond issue would allocate some $280,000 for reconstruction of the Novi Road Fire Station, $300,000 for the relocation of the Thirteen Mile Fire Station and $170,000 for the purchase of a pumper truck with aerial equipment.

Trustee cites drug problem in schools

Freshmen at Novi High School have told one school board member they are concerned about marijuana smoking in their school and other students have complained of problems at the middle school.

But school officials maintain neither students nor parents have alerted them to a drug problem and they have not observed one themselves.

To settle the matter the school board has directed administrators in both buildings to report back in two weeks regarding the magnitude of the problem, if it exists. They also are to detail any measures for dealing with the alleged drug problem.

School Board Member Sharon Pelchat confronted principals from the high school and the Middle School South (7th and 8th grade) with reports of drugs in the schools. She said she has received the reports from students over the past three weeks.

"When students tell me they won't use a certain restroom because they can get high from smelling the air or that there is pot in the undesignated smoking area, I think we have a problem," Pelchat said. "We may not have a big problem, but this is the type of thing I'd like nipped in the bud."

Dr. Robert Youngberg, high school principal, told the board that "students and parents are not reporting it and if we don't see it ourselves we assume there is no problem."

He indicated that the assistant principal and he carefully watch between every period for students who go to the undesignated smoking area—an outdoor area between the gymnasium, media center and art room located at the rear of the senior high school where 18-year old students are allowed by action of the school board to smoke.

The smoking area was first established in 1973 in response to complaints of the conditions in the school restrooms. Board members voted to establish the smoking area when administrators told them smoking could be driven from the school, but not from the grounds.

"We are operating to the point of harassment of those people who frequent the smoking area," Youngberg told the board. He added that he intends to cut down on the number of periods in which students are allowed to use the smoking area.

Referring to himself and Assistant Principal Milan Obrenovich as "new brooms", Youngberg said they were doing what they could to improve discipline at the high school. He said they observe what students are smoking in the undesignated smoking area. He also indicated teachers have "been alerted" to contact the principals if they find students "under the influence".

Pelchat told the school administrators "my concern is that we are catering to the burnouts. I realize they need help, but we should be thinking about other students too."

She said she is concerned that the classroom teachers should be more observant, and she recounted an inci-

Board considers budget for next school year

Novi school board members got their first look at the proposed budget for the 1979-80 fiscal year last week.

Administrators have proposed a $7.3 million budget for the upcoming year, an increase of about $1.3 million over last year.

Board members will discuss the proposed budget in detail at a special meeting on October 25. At that time the board also will entertain public comments regarding the document.

If no substantial revisions of the proposed budget are suggested at that time, the board also plans to adopt the budget at the session.

School Board President Ron Milam explained that at this time the board is reviewing an "administrative budget."

He said that the school board has not yet offered its input into the document, but will be carefully reviewing the proposals in the upcoming weeks so they can offer suggestions October 25. Proposed budget figures show the district expects revenue in the neighborhood of $7.3 million and expenditures to total about $7.2 million.

Revenues will be generated primarily through the general fund property tax which is expected to net the district more than $6.6 million in the next fiscal year.

Novi Schools also expects to review about $380,000 in state aid and $190,000 from federal sources, the proposed budget shows. Budget figures show state aid will remain at about the same levels as a year ago, while federal monies will be about $30,000 less than those received last year.

On the opposite side of the ledger the school district has proposed spending $3.7 million on instruction for grades K-

Vandals attack Lake Shore Park

A rash of malicious destruction of property at Lake Shore Park has caused Novi Police to step up their patrols of the area.

Sergeant Dale Gross said police patrols of the area have been increased as much as possible, following repeated incidents of vandalism at the park.

Windows have been broken out of the community building and soccer goal posts have been torn down in the latest rash of incidents, according to Barry Smink, parks and recreation director.

Throughout the summer vandalism had been kept at a minimum, but since Labor Day there have been problems almost daily, Smink reported.

"Destruction at parks is not uncommon," Smink said. "I've talked with park directors in neighboring communities who said they are hit hard all summer."

While the park was open during the summer, the parks and recreation department had a number of personnel at Lake Shore and vandalism was kept down. Smink reported that once the life guards and playground staff were removed most of the destruction began.

Vandalism has been largely confined to the weekend and appears to be the work of juveniles, the parks director said.

In the incident in which the soccer goal posts were removed, the youths broke the wooden frames and used them for a bon fire. When the goal posts had been consumed, the youngsters began ripping the seats off the wooden picnic tables to feed the flames.

Two soccer goal posts were first reported destroyed over the weekend of September 22 and again the last weekend in September. On Sunday, September 30, three youths were caught by police, Smink said.

Wood for the goal posts cost $80, and Smink said it costs another $100 in labor to reconstruct the goal posts.

"This is just malicious. That is a short field especially for five, six and seven year olds and these vandals are just destroying it for the little kids and people who like the park," Smink said.

He added that the vandalism led him to close the park for several days not long ago.

"We had complaints from people who wanted to know why we had spent so much money on the park and then closed it. This destruction is putting us between a rock and a hard spot," he said.

While most of the malicious destruction of property has occurred since Labor Day one major incident was reported over the summer, Smink said.

Outside showers along the wall of the community building were destroyed. Vandals ripped the showers off the wall causing about $1,000 worth of damage, Smink said.

The showers were intended for people who had just come out of the lake and wanted to rinse their feet or themselves, Smink explained.

One incident which Smink said he believes was perpetrated by adults was the theft of a grill. The grill, valued at about $160, had been sunk in cement.

To combat the destruction Smink had some parks and recreation personnel watching the park after hours during the weekend of September 29. While they were unsuccessful in catching any of the vandals, the police had more luck the next day.

The parks and recreation director also said it is important for residents of the area who may see anything suspicious at the park to contact the police department immediately.

"We don't want to close it because it is such a beautiful park, but we don't want it ruined for everyone because of destruction, either," he added.

Novi makes offers to extend Decker Road

All indications appear to be for the acquisition of the necessary right-of-way for the extension of Decker Road. City officials have announced that an informal agreement has been reached with the property owners of the proposed right-of-way.

A formal document outlining the agreement is in the mail to the current property owners, and officials expect word finalizing the agreement in the near future.

The agreement went out last week after the city obtained final approval from the department of Housing and Urban Development, according to Assistant City Manager Alex Allie.

"We wanted to contact HUD one final time to make sure nothing in the federal guidelines was being violated," Allie said.

City officials are proceeding cautiously since it is likely that in the future they will seek federal funding to at least partially construct the Decker Road extension.

The city most recently has been working with two property owners who have an estimated 66 feet which the city needs to complete its right-of-way acquisitions for the one-mile stretch of road.

Obtaining the right-of-way will allow the city to extend Decker Road from its current termination point at Fourteen Mile in Walled Lake to Thirteen Mile near the Chateau Estates Mobile Home Park.

The road is intended to serve as a north-south by pass for traffic currently using East Lake Drive.

The drive around Walled Lake currently is overburdened with traffic generated by Twelve Oaks Mall and the I-96 interchange. City officials expect traffic to use the Decker Road extension, allowing East Lake Drive to revert primarily to local traffic.

Design for the roadway could begin next year, but actual construction may depend upon the city's ability to obtain funding for the project.

City Manager Ed Kriewall said the road could be under construction as early as 1981. At the outside it would be 1983 before Novi extends Decker Road, he indicated.

"It's a question of when we can get together the financing for the project," Kriewall explained.

Currently the city has about $140,000 set aside for the construction of the Decker Road extension. It is estimated the project could cost in the neighborhood of $400,000.

Financing possibilities include seeking additional Housing and Community Development Block Grant Funds for the use of the one mile road fund for the project.

In addition, Novi may ask Oakland County to share construction costs since the road will be used by non-local drivers, officials have said.

Torch Drive underway

Residents throughout Novi will be visited by friends and neighbors during the upcoming weeks as the city's annual Torch Drive effort swings into high gear. In the picture here, Mrs. Helen Woolfender (right) of the Applegate Condominiums is visited by Cathy LeBlanc who organizes the Torch Drive in Novi have praised for her annual contributions to the effort.

Torch Drive Co-chairmen Donald Greengood and Donald Gleason report that all residential areas in the city have been divided into districts and residents should be expecting a visit from a volunteer in the near future if they haven't been visited already.

Precinct change told

Voters of Precinct Three should make note they will no longer be casting their ballots in the Novi Community Building on Novi Road.

Novi City Clerk Geraldine Stipp announced the precinct polling place has been moved to the Novi Public Library. Registered voters of Precinct Three will find voting booths set up for the November 6 election in the council chambers—the Jacob and Rebbecca Fuerst Room.

Stipp said the polling place had been changed because construction in front of the community center has made it difficult for traffic to use the drive to the community center.

The change will affect about 1,400 voters registered in Precinct Three. They should be aware their voting place will be in the public library until further notice, Stipp said.

Church buys Meadowbrook parcel

Debate over a controversial rezoning request for a piece of property on Meadowbrook Road in Novi has been terminated through the sale of the property to the Bushnell Congregational Church of Detroit.

The 14-acre parcel is located on the west side of Meadowbrook Road between Eight and Nine Mile.

Efforts by Carl Follmer and Robert Stone to have the property rezoned from its existing R-1 classification to a R-3 designation had met with considerable opposition from area residents.

Public hearings before the Novi Planning Board were continued on three separate occasions at the request of Follmer who reported that he was in the process of negotiating the sale of the property.

"A fourth public hearing to consider the rezoning of the property was slated last week. But the hearing was cancelled after Follmer told the planners he had completed the sale of the parcel and rezoning was no longer necessary. The News subsequently learned that the 14-acre parcel has been sold to the Bushnell Congregational Church which is located at Grand River Avenue and Southfield Road in Detroit.

Doctor Robert Crawford, senior pastor at the church, confirmed that the congregation has purchased the parcel and plans to relocate in Novi within the next three years.

"Our first step will be to pay for the property," said Dr. Crawford. "We hope to consecrate the site sometime next spring and concurrently begin plans for the construction of a church."

Dr. Crawford said the congregation hopes to have completed construction and move into the new facility with its first service on Easter of 1982.

Dr. Crawford said Bushnell Congregational Church had approximately 2,600 members when he began his ministry there 12 years ago. But since that time the membership has dropped to approximately 1,300.

"We have found that many of our members have moved out into the suburbs and hope to recover the membership we have lost by relocating in Novi," he said.

Purchase of the property by the Bushnell Congregational Church brings a close to the rezoning request which has prompted considerable opposition from area residents.

Doctor Robert Crawford had asked that the parcel be rezoned from its existing R-1 to a R-3 zoning classification. Both the R-1 and the R-3 are single-family residential districts, but the R-1 requires minimum lot sizes of one acre, while the minimum lot sizes in the R-3 district are significantly smaller.

Opposition to the rezoning had been expressed by residents of the Meadowbrook Manor subdivision on the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Meadowbrook Road. Meadowbrook Manor contains one-acre lots.

Additional opposition to the rezoning request came from two developers who are presently constructing subdivisions on half-acre lots on Meadowbrook Road.

Both the Meadowbrook Manor residents and the developers protested the requested rezoning on the basis that the smaller lot sizes would detract from the value of their larger lots.

Teacher levies charges

Superintendent denies 'friends' list accusations

Charges that the Walled Lake School District has used "privileged information" to compile a list of individuals who are favorable to millage increases were denied by Superintendent Don Sheldon who said the charges were "quite serious."

"I don't know what he's talking about when he refers to a 'friends' or 'enemies' list," said the superintendent. "The millage committee has a list of parents of students in this district, but I don't see how a list of parents can be favorable to the request for additional millage and made that list available to the committee working for passage of the millage increase."

Stokus also told the board that he has requested a copy of the district's "master family census deck" under the Freedom of Information Act.

The allegations lodged by Stokus were denied by Superintendent Don Sheldon who said the charges were "quite serious."

"I don't know what he's talking about when he refers to a 'friends' or 'enemies' list," said the superintendent. "The millage committee has a list of parents of students in this district, but I don't see how a list of parents can be favorable to the request for additional millage and made that list available to the committee working for passage of the millage increase."

Stokus also told the board that he has requested a copy of the district's "master family census deck" under the Freedom of Information Act.

information made available to the pro-millage committee also would be made available to Stokus.

Stokus previously was involved in legal proceedings against the school board after he was denied access to a copy of the superintendent's contract.

Stokus filed charges that the board had violated the Freedom of Information Act by refusing to provide him with a copy of the contract, and Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Francis X. O'Brien subsequently ruled that the contract is subject to public disclosure.

According to the charges aired by Stokus — and denied by Sheldon — at Monday's board meeting, the district used "privileged information" contained in school records to determine which parents were in favor of the request for additional millage in the June election.

He also charged that district administrators on school time had contacted teachers in an effort to learn which students have had positive experiences in school and were likely to have parents who would vote in favor of a request for additional millage.

Stokus told The News after the meeting that he was not certain whether there was in fact a "friends" list.

"But I do know that on school time a process of deduction was made about those individuals who would be favorable toward the millage and that privileged information was used to arrive at those deductions," Stokus said.

Stokus indicated that his allegations were similar to those brought by Charlotte Clark against the Waterford Board of Education earlier this year.

In that case, Clark brought suit against the Waterford Board of Education and the "Kids Count in Waterford Committee" on the basis that a "friends" list of individuals supportive of a millage campaign had been compiled.

As a result of that suit, Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Robert Templin issued a preliminary injunction against the defendants which prohibited them from receiving and storing a "friends" list.

Stokus also told The News after the meeting that he had announced his request for a copy of the alleged "friends" list at Monday night's meeting "as a courtesy to the board."

"It's my belief that the administration does things without board knowledge or approval," he said. "By directing compilation of this information, the administration may have placed the board in an untenable position, and I wanted to make board members aware of what its administrators have done."

Theft? Village chief airs suspicions

Wolverine Lake Village police are investigating the theft of a softball trophy from the village police department, according to Chief John O'Neill.

"We're working diligently on it," O'Neill said.

Three Walled Lake police officers — Chief Wilford Hook, Officer Albert Reiser and Records Supervisor Roger Cote — are prime suspects in the case, the village police chief said.

"They've refused to take a polygraph," O'Neill said. "We advised them of their rights and they've refused to submit to questioning. That Hook is pretty sneaky."

Walled Lake Council Member Thomas W. Brookover also is a suspect in the case based on remarks he made at the September 18 council meeting to the effect that City Manager Peter Parker should be directed to direct Hook and City Attorney Richard J. Poehlman to recover the trophy.

No formal council action was taken on Brookover's suggestion.

According to O'Neill, the Walled Lake police apparently became charged that the village police were unable to play the annual softball game between the two departments during the city's 25th anniversary celebration in September.

"We didn't have the manpower," O'Neill said. "We were too busy doing police work."

Oakland County Circuit Judge Gene Schmelz, umpire for the annual clash, declared a forfeit when the village police softball team didn't appear. The judge refused to issue a bench warrant for the village police officers' arrest, though, according to Poehlman.

Poehlman had indicated that he would seek a court order from the judge to recover the traveling trophy, but that was before the mysterious disappearance.

Witnesses report last seeing the infamous trophy October 2 in the possession of Hook and Poehlman in the Walled Lake City Hall.

"We've issued an all points bulletin for the trophy," O'Neill said.

The trophy was reported stolen from the village police department last year, too. Hook and his co-conspirators also were suspects in that case.

"Since this is a second offense, we'll attempt to charge them with being habitual criminals under the state habitual criminal act," O'Neill added.

When the village officers failed to appear for the game, a team of Wixom police accepted Walled Lake's challenge. Wixom won the game, 13-9, despite home runs by Police-Fire Dispatcher Larry Jenks and Poehlman.

Poehlman later made up for his round tripper by over running third base in the last inning when Walled Lake had the bases loaded. The self-described heavy hitting attorney was tagged for the final out.

"I categorically deny any allegations of wrong doings on the part of the Walled Lake Police Department," Cote said, "but I'd be happy to assist Wolverine in solving this crime."

Noting that Wixom won the softball game, Cote speculated that O'Neill "may be barking up the wrong police tree."

Cote added that he has not been asked to take a polygraph test nor has he been advised of his legal rights by village officers.

"I can only say that security must be very lax in Wolverine Lake if someone can just walk into the police department and take something," Cote concluded.

"I don't want to talk about it," Hook said, "and we won't take a polygraph."

"We played Wixom and we played them light so they would win."

Teachers rap grievance process

The procedure for resolving grievances in the Walled Lake School District came under attack at Monday night's meeting of the Walled Lake Board of Education.

Criticism of the procedure focused specifically on the practice of hiring board attorneys to represent administration before grievances are brought before the board for determination.

A total of five steps are involved in the district's existing procedure for resolving grievances. The first three steps are handled administratively. If the grievance has not been resolved after going through those steps, it goes to the board on the fourth step.

If the board votes to deny the grievance, employee unions may file for arbitration under the fifth step of the procedure.

Discussion of the grievance procedure was prompted by the board's failure to either sustain or deny two grievances which were heard October 1.

The first of those grievances was filed by Judy Morin, a counselor at Clifford H. Smart Junior High School, who maintained that Assistant Principal Michael Councman had not followed established procedures in evaluating her performance last spring.

The second grievance was filed by Karen Parker, a counselor at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (SVOVEC), who charged that administrators had not followed established procedures in demoting her from full time to part-time status in June.

Only five board members were present when the grievances were aired before the board at the special meeting October 1. Absent from that session were Robert Cooper and Leo Wessinger.

The board was slated to take action on the grievances at Monday's session, but failed to either sustain or deny the grievances. Motions to sustain the grievances received 3-2 votes, but board attorneys have ruled that a majority vote (at least for members) is necessary for the board to resolve the grievance one way or the other.

Since the 3-2 votes on both grievances Monday fell short of a majority, the board effectively failed to exercise its prerogative to resolve the grievances. The complainants may now file to have their grievances go to arbitration.

Nancy van Leuven, president of the Walled Lake Education Association (WLEA), said she was beginning to get a "little disgusted" with the board's inability to resolve grievances.

"This is the third time in a row that the board has failed to either sustain or deny a grievance," said the WLEA president. "What that means is that we now must file for arbitration to resolve our grievance with the board, and that means more money for the association and the school district in legal fees."

The WLEA president noted further that the association had attempted unsuccessfully to have the board eliminated from the grievance procedure during the recently-completed contract negotiations.

"Perhaps you can see why we thought it was so important," she remarked.

Further criticism of the procedure was lodged by Evelyn Brown, another officer in the WLEA. Singled out specifically in her remarks were the board attorneys.

Questioning the practice of hiring board attorneys to present the administrator's case in the hearings before the board, Brown said that everyone loses except the attorneys.

"Your attorneys consistently advise you that the grievances are without merit," she said.

"They get paid to present the administrator's case to the board, and if the board rejects the grievance and it goes to arbitration, they get paid again for presenting the case to the arbitrator."

"As a taxpayer, my money is being used to pay the administrator's legal fees. And as a member of the association, my association dues are being used to retain legal counsel to present arguments against the administrator's attorney who is being paid with my tax dollars."

"The losers are the residents of the school district and the teachers," Brown continued.

"The only one who benefits is the board's legal counsel — a law firm. They get paid."

Village police eye pact

Wolverine Lake Village council members are expected to meet with their police department tonight (Wednesday) following the regular council session to discuss a new contract for the police, Village President John McElean said Monday.

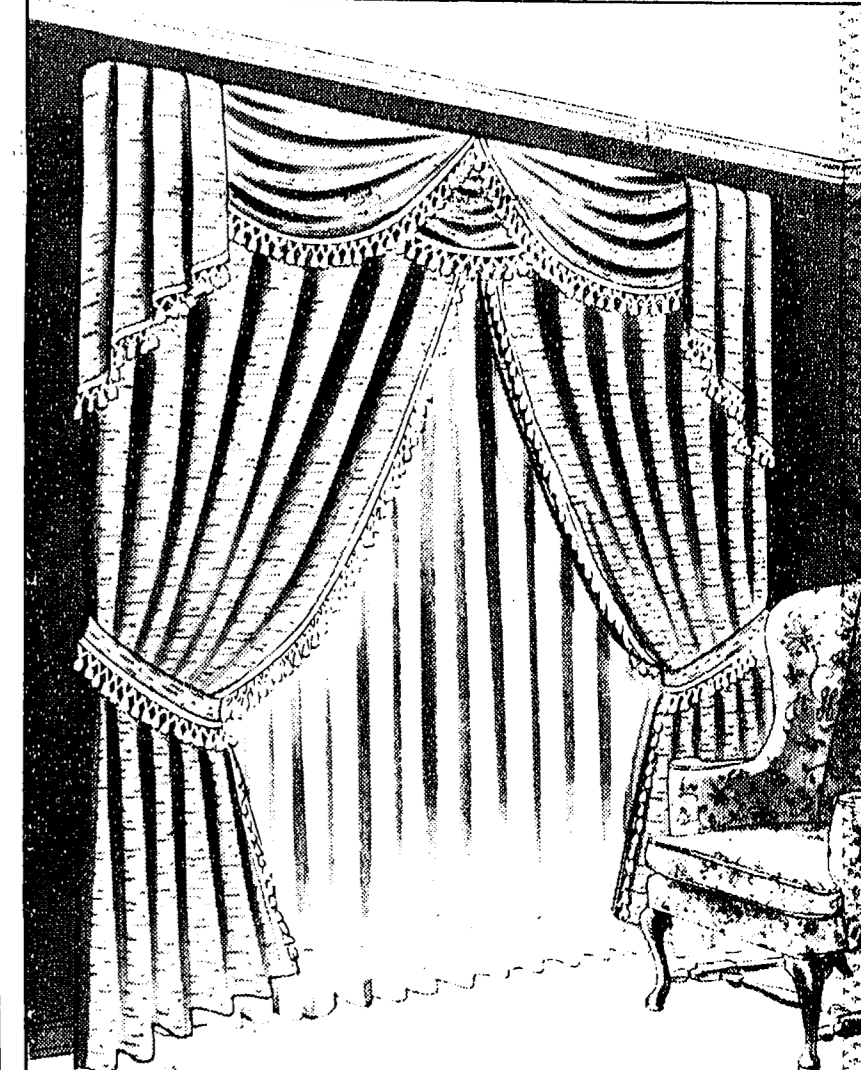

At last report, village officials and the police were to have met with Gall Wilson, a representative from Connecticut Life Insurance, Incorporated. Wilson was to discuss a possible change in the police pension system with the parties involved.

Village officials will not disclose any recent details surrounding the agreement on a contract for village administrative personnel hinges on the results of the police talks.

considering a possible change in their pension system in lieu of a per capita pay raise.

Until the pension alternative came up, O'Brien had said that police and the village were "far apart, dollar-wise."

O'Brien added that agreement on a contract for village administrative personnel hinges on the results of the police talks.

Caddell wins GOP primary for county commission

By DAVID RAY

Dr. G. William Caddell won the Republican primary election Friday for the Oakland County Board of Commissioners post vacated in August due to the resignation of 25th District Commissioner Robert A. McConnell (R-Farmington Hills). Caddell will face George F. Montgomery, who was unopposed for the Democratic nomination, in a special general election November 6. A Wolverine Lake Village resident, the 44-year-old Caddell polled 403 votes in the GOP primary to win the nomination over two other candidates, Dorothy L. McIntosh and Leonard M. Nathanson. McIntosh was second with 230 votes, while Nathanson garnered only 86. Montgomery, a Commerce Township resident, received 173 votes in the uncontested Democratic primary.

Analysis

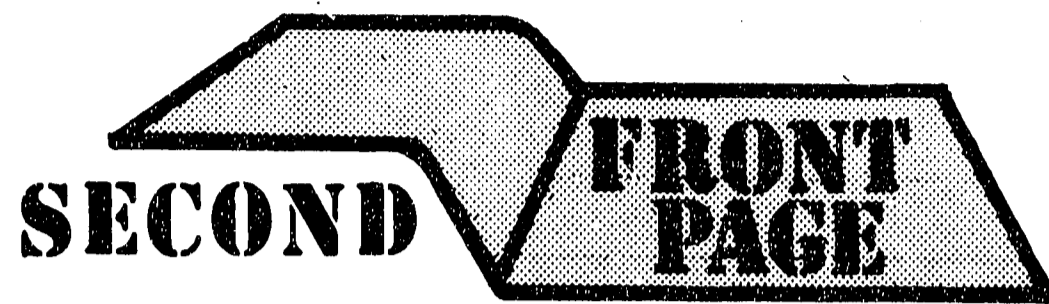

The Republican victor claimed some 57 percent of the votes cast for GOP candidates and 46 percent of all votes in the special primary election. Caddell literally ran away from the pack in his hometown, Commerce Township, with ballots cast came from absentee voters. Some 85 percent of the Farmington Hills ballots were cast by absentee voters, while more than two-thirds of the ballots counted in West Bloomfield and White Lake also were from absentee voters. In Commerce, absentee ballots accounted for less than a quarter of the total votes. Since absentee ballots traditionally are cast by senior citizens, Caddell credited the "over 60" voters with giving him the edge in the primary. His long-time residency in the district — 19 years — apparently was an important factor with elderly voters, said Caddell, noting that he also discussed issues of interest to seniors in the campaign. "I guess you'd have to say, too, that the hard work of my (campaign) committee in Commerce was indicative of my name recognition," he added.

197 votes to McIntosh's 33 and Nathanson's 15. He also ran up a big margin in White Lake Township, polling 80 votes to 30 for McIntosh and seven for Nathanson. McIntosh topped Caddell in her hometown, West Bloomfield Township, 75 to 34, with Nathanson getting 19 votes. In Farmington Hills, Caddell and McIntosh tied at 92 votes each, while Nathanson received 45 in his home town. More than 500 of the more than 900

Viking royalty

Coronation ceremonies for the 1979 Homecoming king and queen at Walled Lake Central were held during halftime ceremonies of the Vikings' football game against Livonia Stevenson last week. Gloria Walker was crowned as queen, while Todd Flannery wore the crown emblematic of Central's 1979 Homecoming king. Senior class representatives on the court were Dawn Pacetti and Rick Erwin. Additional pictures of Homecoming activities at Central appear on pages 9-A and 11-A.

Up to new council?

Mayor opposes manager's pact

Action on a proposed contract between the Walled Lake City Council and City Manager Peter Parker should be delayed until after the November 6 election, Mayor Gaspare LaMarca said this week.

The contract was supposed to be considered at the council's October 2 meeting, which was cancelled due to lack of a quorum (see related story), and now is expected to come up at the council's October 16 session.

Prior to last week's non-meeting, though, LaMarca prepared a request to remove the manager's proposed contract from the October 2 agenda, citing six reasons.

Noting that four of the seven council seats will be filled in the November balloting, the mayor said he didn't think the present council should "make a last minute verdict on a contract that the new council will have to live with." He also said there hasn't been sufficient discussion of the proposed contract.

"There are some things that should be ironed out before it is put on the agenda for action," LaMarca said.

In addition to the November election, the mayor's unsigned memo suggested the delay because he said:

"The contract has no set price tag as to what it will cost the taxpayer per year.

"The contract does not require summary reports between council meetings as to the city manager's performance.

"Ironically, the contract does not require the manager to attend board and commission meetings.

"The salary figure listed in the contract is more than the raise approved for Parker by the council in May.

"By terminating the contract with 60 days' notice, it could cost the city $6,000 in pay to the manager during that period.

"The three council members who served on a special manager contract committee, however, dispute the mayor's charges.

"There's nothing in the contract that we're not doing already," said Council Member Thomas W. Brookover. "We're simply putting it down in black and white."

"I think the mayor is misinformed," added Mayor Pro Tem Heather F.M. Hill.

The committee was appointed in September 1978 and came up with a contract on the program "one way or the other."

"If there's going to be a 'gifted and talented' program then you should say there's going to be a 'gifted and talented' program," she told the board.

"If there's not going to be a 'gifted and talented' program, you should say so.

Baker also said the board has to reach a decision on whether or not a program for "gifted and talented" students will be implemented if the millage is approved.

An outline for implementing a "gifted and talented" program was presented to the board on September 17, but no action to implement the program was taken and it appears unlikely that such a program will be implemented under the existing financial constraints.

But Baker told the board it must make a decision on the program "one way or the other."

Federal funds sought

EPA, county reach agreement over super sewer

Wayne County public works officials will apply to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) within a month for a 75 percent federal grant to pay for design work on a $217 million scaled-down version of the so-called super sewer regional wastewater treatment facilities.

A grant also will be sought for facility planning of the northern area of the Huron Valley system to serve Novi, Walled Lake, Commerce, Northville, Northville Township and Plymouth Township, according to Wayne public works officials.

In case the facility planning justifies extension of the regional interceptor north of Canton Township, the design work for the lower portion of the system will be geared for the additional capacity based on the EPA's recommendation in the final environmental impact statement (EIS) on the controversial super sewer.

Design work will begin under the grant for communities from Brownstown Township to Sumpter in southern Wayne County and north to Van Buren and Canton townships in western Wayne, although capacity will be reserved for the northern communities in case the facility planning justifies extension of the system.

A spokesman for the Wayne County Board of Public Works said the 17 participating communities will be asked to agree to pay their share of the 20 percent local funding for the design and facility planning work before the grant applications are filed with the EPA. State funding will cover the remaining five percent of the cost.

The design grant will not be awarded unless Wayne officials also apply for the facility planning funds, said Douglas Ehorn, chief of the EPA, Michigan Water Quality Management Section.

"As far as the EPA is concerned, we're back to Alternative D," he added, referring to the federal agency's recommendation a draft EIS on the project to eliminate the area from Plymouth to Commerce from the initial super sewer system.

In the final EIS, the EPA recommended that design work should be approved for the Brownstown to Sumpter area with facility planning for the remainder of the project area. However, the federal agency indicated that, if Van Buren and Canton officials agreed to trade capacity in the existing Rouge Valley system to the northern communities, those two townships also could be added to the design phase of the regional system.

Under the scaled-down plan — or "super sewer junior" as it has been called by environmental groups — a 32-mile-long interceptor pipe would be installed in southwestern Wayne County to carry human waste to a new treatment plant near Rockwood on Lake Erie. The plant would be designed to treat 49.3 million gallons of wastewater per day and dump the effluent into Lake Erie.

The EPA, in its draft EIS, said that the environmentally sensitive character of the northern communities prompted it to propose the scaled-down version of the 25-year-old regional sewerage treatment plans. Originally, a 68-mile-long interceptor line was supposed to extend into White Lake Township, north of Commerce, with a connecting pipe to Washtenaw County.

State officials first approved plans for super sewer in 1965 in an effort to clean up the Huron River basin, but the program was cancelled in 1976 due to political bickering between the City of Detroit and the suburban communities and a dispute over which agency — Wayne County public works or the Wayne County Road Commission — would coordinate the plans.

Detroit officials opposed the regional system because it would promote urban sprawl, suburban officials said their communities were developing anyway and needed sewage treatment facilities.

Washtenaw County officials pulled out of the project three years ago and applied for federal funds to improve 68-mile-long interceptor line was supposed to extend into White Lake Township, north of Commerce, with a connecting pipe to Washtenaw County.

The EPA official said he wasn't sure what effect the SEMCOG action may have on the project.

bickering as their main reason for pulling out of the proposed system.

Wayne and Oakland officials then agreed to proceed with plans for the super sewer to serve some 22 communities in those counties. In July 1976, the EPA required an EIS on the project.

Meanwhile, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) Executive Committee on Friday failed to overturn a negative review of the project.

The council's regional clearinghouse committee (RCII) voted 5-1 September 25 to oppose the new super sewer plans. Wayne public works officials appealed the RCII action to the executive committee which voted 15-15 Friday on the committee's negative review. The tie vote failed to overturn the negative review.

Ehorn said yesterday that he was attempting to contact SEMCOG officials for an update on the executive committee's meeting.

The EPA official said he wasn't sure what effect the SEMCOG action may have on the project.

Garden apartment plans rejected

A rezoning request that would have paved the way for development of three-story garden apartments on the northeast corner of Twelve Mile and Meadowbrook Road has been recommended for denial by the Novi Planning Board.

Specifically, the planners last week voted unanimously to recommend denial of a request from Sol Luft and Matthew Borovy for the rezoning of 11.8 acre parcel from its existing R-1-F (small family residential) designation to a RM-1 (multiple family residential) classification.

The rezoning request now goes to the city council, which has final authority over all rezoning actions.

Michael Downs, representing the petitioners, told the planners the multiple-family classification was being requested in order to permit his clients to construct three-story garden-type apartments on the site.

"The parcel is kitty-corner from the Twelve Oaks development, and the master plan for the entire shopping center property calls for development of multiples opposite our parcel," commented Downs.

Downs also said the presence of the regional shopping center will make it very difficult to maintain a single-family residential orientation along the Twelve Mile and Meadowbrook Road frontages.

"That corner will see intense activity because of its location," said Downs. "A multiple-family zoning on the parcel is totally opposite the shopping center which will help the city avoid demands for strip commercial development and, at the same time, provide a transition from the intensive uses in the regional shopping center out into the residentially-oriented land."

City Planning Consultant Charles Cairns advised the planners that the proposal was contrary to the city's master plan for land use development.

"The Regional Center Area Development Plan proposes low density residential use on this property," said Cairns. "Low density residential may be interpreted as single-family residential or cluster housing."

Cairns said the plan has purposely proposed use of the site for lower density residential in order to "enhance and preserve the residential integrity of the single-family homes to the north and east."

Additionally, the plan has proposed lower density residential use on the site in order to "continue the upward residential transition created further west with higher density residential uses near the regional center.

"The site not only lies beyond the area of the plan proposed for higher density residential use," said the planning consultant, "but beyond those areas of the plan designated for multiple dwelling structures of greater than two stories in height."

Planning Board Chairman John Roethel commented that he had problems when someone asks for a multiple-family classification to be extended into an area designated for single-family development.

"We have plenty of land in this city which is designated for multiple-family development without having to extend the classification into virgin territory," said Roethel.

The planners subsequently voted unanimously (6-0) to recommend denial of the rezoning request.

Realtors predict housing crunch

A housing shortage, average home prices of more than $100,000 and continued development in the gaps between presently built-up areas are predicted for southeast Michigan in the 1980s.

Bernice C. McCray, chairperson of the Metropolitan Detroit Council of Board of Realtors, said lower-priced starter homes, condominiums, lakefront and income producing properties will be in particularly short supply during the upcoming decade.

She noted that the seven counties of southeast Michigan had added more than 200,000 households since 1970 despite a population loss of 38,000. The gain in households should be even higher during the next decade, she asserted.

"However, the Dearborn realtor said that home buyers will continue to face problems with high costs, financing, energy costs and continue inflation.

"During the 1970s, the average new home grew larger and was furnished with greater amenities," she said. "As the rings of development expanded outward, lot sizes became larger. These factors and others, coupled with the pressure of inflation, have doubled the average home price.

"Given present price trends for land, land improvement, materials and labor — which show no signs of abating — the price of the average detached single home as we know it today may pass $100,000 by 1985."

As a result, she said, new homes will be built smaller and the market will offer more condominiums and cluster housing with more homes pre-fabricated for rapid installation on prepad sites.

"Control over housing will remain at the local level," she said, "but financial pressure from the federal government will push for standard regulations. This will be part of a streamlining of government controls that now add up to 20 percent of housing costs."

McCray said that future home buyers will have a wider choice in home financing methods including graduated payment mortgages. These feature lower payments in the early years and higher payments later when income is expected to increase. She also forecast increased use of variable rate mortgages for which terms are renegotiated upward or downward at certain intervals in the life of the loan.

The realtors expect the interest rate for home mortgages, already at record levels, to go even higher before turning downward sometime next year.

As a result of the high rates, McCray said, listings have increased with home stayers on the market longer and asking prices, particularly those above average, are being reduced. She advised persons ready to buy to take advantage of these conditions, which offer a wider choice than earlier and more home for the money. But, she said borrowers should make sure mortgage loans can be paid off ahead of time without penalty so that the loan can be refinanced if interest rates drop a percentage point or more.

Halloween's coming

Don't look now, folks, but October is one-third over and before you know it little trick-or-treaters will be knocking at the door with their annual request for goodies. Providing a pretty reminder that Halloween is close at hand is four-year old Elizabeth Leininger of Novi. As for her big orange friend well, Jack (or should that be Jacqueline) can be found at Andy's Produce Market on Grand River Avenue.

For rezoning bids

Planners slate hearings

Public hearing dates for three individual rezoning requests were set by the Novi Planning Board last week. Two of the public hearings will include requests for rezonings of property to an industrial classification, while the third hearing involves a request for an office-service classification. All public hearings will be held in the Jacob and Rebecca Fuers Room of the Novi Public Library on Ten Mile near Taft Road. The rezoning requests are as follows: Security Realcorp has requested the rezoning of a 1.642 acre parcel on the northwest corner of Ten Mile and Taft Road from its existing R-4 (single family residential) classification to an O-S-1 (office-service) classification. The public hearing on the rezoning request has been set for Wednesday, November 7, at 7:30 p.m. The rezoning of the property has been requested to permit construction of a branch banking facility for the Security Bank of Novi. The property is a kitty-corner from the proposed municipal complex on the southeast corner of Ten Mile and Taft Road.

William Ditzhazy has requested the rezoning of a 15.34 acre parcel near the northeast corner of Ten Mile and Novi Road from its existing I-2 (general industrial) designation to an I-1 (light industrial) classification. The public hearing on a light industrial application has been slated for November 7. The rezoning of the property has been requested to allow for platting of light industrial sites. Ditzhazy said that the present general industrial classification does not allow for flexibility of design or marketing of smaller industrial sites. The property appears to be landlocked with frontage neither on Ten Mile nor Novi Road. Tobel Associates has requested the rezoning of a 26.74 acre parcel situated west of Meadowbrook Road between Eleven Mile and the I-96 expressway from its existing R-1-F (small farms residential) designation to an I-1 (light industrial) classification. The public hearing on the Tobel Associates rezoning request has been slated for November 28. The rezoning of the property has been requested to permit construction of a light industrial subdivision.

Charles Tobel, a partner in the firm, noted in his rezoning application that the property to the south of the location already is zoned for a light industrial application and to the north by the expressway. The city's master plan calls for an industrial orientation in the area, although the rezoning request is expected to draw opposition from owners of single family homes along the north side of Eleven Mile.

Novi decides to keep ban on private streets

As a general rule, private streets into industrial or residential developments will not be allowed in Novi at this time. City council members agreed last week to abide by the wishes of the city planning consultant and make no adjustments to the present zoning ordinance which prohibits private drives in all but multiple developments. Planner Charles Cairns told the council that experience over the years has shown private streets create problems in controlling the manner in which an area develops. Private roads encourage the uncontrolled splitting of metes and bounds parcels, Cairns cautioned. They also eliminate the city's control in establishing setbacks, Cairns said. Another problem is private roads can limit access for emergency vehicles. He noted that such roads, for the most part, are substandard in design and construction. They often have inadequate rights-of-way, poor drainage quality, narrow surfaces, substandard surfaces and poor road beds, according to Cairns. "Private roads lead to a loss of coordination in development. Instead, there are individual parcels developing without access and no controls," Cairns said. "They are unsightly, unorganized and difficult to manage on an individual basis." He also noted that such roads have a tendency to become public roads which subsequently necessitate major municipal expenditures to bring them up to public standards. Over-development of an area is encouraged when private roads are allowed, the planner warned. Cairns told the council he could live with private roads if they had the same control which public roads were required to meet. He added that he knew of 10 existing developments which had private drives. Those developments were constructed before the 1975 zoning ordinance went into effect. Council members questioned whether the planner would consider private roads in residential areas. Cairns explained many of the same problems created in industrial developments would be experienced if private roads were allowed in residential areas. He added that allowing private drives would mean more than one residential home could be constructed on a private drive within parcels under single ownership.

Novi to consider EDC

Novi City Council members will be asked Monday to consider the adoption of an Economic Development Corporation. City Manager Ed Kriewald said he is prepared to seek council authorization for the drafting of an ordinance to establish an EDC. He also will ask council to set a mid-November hearing date on the proposed ordinance. Novi considered establishing an EDC earlier this year, but at that time it was decided the city should wait to learn the outcome of a proposed county-wide EDC. In the meantime, development corporations have been established in the neighboring communities of Farmington Hills and Wixom. Without an EDC the city stands to lose prime industrial and commercial developments to surrounding communities officials have cautioned. An EDC is designed to set incentives which will attract business and industry to a municipality. Commercial and industrial growth is encouraged because developers can obtain low interest rates on loans issued through the EDC. Council members have been advised to pursue establishment of an EDC by the Industrial and Commercial Development Committee. In a letter drafted after its October meeting, the committee reported it had "reaffirmed its recommendation of March for the council to consider an EDC for Novi." The letter also said the committee has reviewed a proposed tax abatement program and recommends that the program be rejected by the council.

Wixom enumerators

Wixom residents will be receiving a visit from one of these individuals in the not-too-distant future as they go about their task of conducting a special census. Carolyn Walsh (not left) will supervise the census through her position as chief enumerator. The ladies who will be going door to door to collect the census information include (front row, left to right) Marion Syer, Judy Byrd and Jo Ziants. Also collecting information will be (back row, left to right) Sherry Hurst, Helen McGregor, Jane Fitzgerald and Dorena Oldford. Serving as alternate enumerators (not pictured) are Harry and Joanne Vandenberg, Debbie Payne, Jerry Buie, and Rick and Rikki Gross. All enumerators are Wixom residents and will carry official identification cards from the city.

Wixom special census officially underway

Official enumerators already are out and knocking on doors to collect the necessary data for a special census in Wixom. Seven enumerators received their credentials and special instruction from representatives of the Secretary of State's office last week and began knocking on doors Thursday afternoon. Chief Enumerator Carolyn Walsh said she hopes the census will be completed by October 20. A special effort will be made to reach residents in the Village and Golden Gate apartment complexes which constitute a significant percentage of the city's overall population. For example, there are some 1,610 units in the Village Apartments and an estimated population of 3,000. Wixom's population at the present time has been estimated at some 7,000 residents, although the last official census pegged the city's population at approximately 4,500. Walsh reported that census forms have been delivered to Village and Golden Gate apartments residents through their respective newsletters. Residents of those two developments are urged to fill out the forms and drop them off either at city hall, apartment complex offices or the apartment complex clubhouse. A door-to-door campaign will not be instituted in the Village and the Golden Gate apartments until city officials are able to determine the response to the mail-in campaign. In addition to the basic census information, Wixom residents are asked to answer four additional questions: 1. Is there more than one person employed full-time in this household? 2. Does the head of this household work in Wixom? 3. How long have you lived in Wixom? 4. What city did you live in prior to moving to Wixom? Walsh said she was hopeful that people would respond to the four additional questions because the information will be helpful to the city in future planning efforts. Enumerators are authorized to collect census data from 8 a.m. through 9 p.m. seven days per week. When nobody is home, the enumerators will leave a special callback card attached to the door. The callback card informs residents that enumerators will return in 24 hours to pick up the completed card. Walsh reported that all official enumerators will be wearing an identification badge and carry an official letter from the Secretary of State's office. Residents who have questions about the validity of the enumerator should ask to see either the badge, letter or both. The seven enumerators, all of whom are Wixom residents, are: —Jane Fitzgerald, whose primary areas of responsibility are the North Ridge subdivision; Highgate on the Lake, Courts of Highgate, and the Indian Lodge Apartments One and Two; —Marion Syer, whose primary areas of responsibility are the Hidden Creek subdivision, Charns Road, Wixom Road (north of Charns Road), and Indian Lodge Apartments Three and Four; —Dorena Oldford, whose primary areas of responsibility are the Hickory Hills subdivision, the Fin Camp, Loon Lake Drive, and —Judy Byrd, whose primary areas of responsibility are the Birch Park subdivision, Potter Road, Wixom Road between Charns and Potter roads, and the Suzanna and Heifer Apartments. —Sherry Hurst, whose primary areas of responsibility are West Maple Road, Wixom Road south of Potter Road, Pontiac Trail west of Wixom Road, Grand River west of Wixom Road, Twelve Mile west of Grand River, and Heifer Apartments. —Jo Ziants, whose primary areas of responsibility are the Highgate on the Green subdivision, Beck Road south of Frontie Trail, West Road, Twelve Mile east of Grand River, and the Maple North Apartments. —Helen McGregor, whose primary areas of responsibility are the Village and Golden Gate apartments.

Haggerty-Ten plans okayed

A proposal for development of a small commercial shopping center on the southwest corner of Ten Mile and Haggerty Road has received preliminary site plan approval from the Novi Planning Board. Proposed for construction by the R. A. DeMattia Company on the small .7 acre parcel is a "single, one-story building to be leased for commercial and/or office function." DeMattia Company representatives have given no indication as to what tenants will be located in the building. The only objection to site plan approval came from Corporal Frank Barabas of the Novi Police Department, who noted that two drives were proposed on the site — one onto Ten Mile and another onto Haggerty Road. "Since this proposal site is for a one-story shopping center, traffic movements in this area will be critical. If driveways are allowed as proposed," said Barabas, noting that the Ten Mile drive was approximately 160 feet for the intersection and the Haggerty Road drive was approximately 190 feet from the intersection. "Due to current volumes and traffic movements in the area, my recommendation would be complete elimination of the north driveway onto Ten Mile," said Barabas. The proposal would leave the drive from Haggerty as the only ingress-egress to the proposed shopping center. City Planning Consultant Charles Cairn commented that he would have recommended just one drive from an interior lot were involved. "But it's a corner lot and they have placed the two drives at the extreme ends of the property to get them as far away from the intersection as possible," Cairns added. The planners subsequently voted unanimously (6-0) to recommend preliminary site plan approval and authorize the site plan sub-committee to grant final site plan approval after final engineering plans have been approved.

Up in smoke

All that remains of a house under construction in a Wixom subdivision is a pile of charred beams following a fire Friday afternoon. Clouds of black smoke coming from the fire-ravaged structure signalled the erupting blaze which totally destroyed the home. Police at the scene said they received reports of youngsters playing in the building prior to the fire, leading them to believe the children may have caused the fire. Wixom firefighters responded with several pieces of equipment, including the snorkle truck, to contain the fire. Firefighters reported the building burned rapidly since only the shell had been completed.

Novi superintendent receives salary raise

Novi school board members approved new contracts for the district's administrators last week. On a 6-1 vote the board approved a $3,327 salary and $3,250 annuity for assistant Superintendent William Barr and a salary of $40,056 with a $6,200 annuity for Superintendent Gerald Kratz.

The superintendent earned $36,851 and a $5,200 annuity last year, while the assistant received $32,729 with a $3,250 annuity.

Raises for the administrators were recommended by a committee composed of Trustees Joel Colliau, Ray Murphy and Ruth Waldemayer.

Waldemayer explained to the board that the committee had arrived at their conclusions based upon the exemplary review board members gave the administrators during the past school year.

But some board members were not satisfied with the manner in which the recommendation was presented to the board.

Trustee Joan Daley said she was displeased that board members had not been given an explanation of the contract prior to the meeting, beyond a brief paragraph in the board materials.

"I don't object to the recommendation, but I would have preferred that non-members of the committee be given more information Daley said.

Her sentiments were echoed by Trustee Robert Schram.

"I'm displeased that this is all the information we received. We did not get the old copies of the contract or other information and I would prefer not to vote on this tonight," Schram said.

Both board members suggested the contract should have been introduced to the board and voted upon in two weeks.

Murphy said he had understood the committee was supposed to make a recommendation to the board.

Waldemayer suggested the charges of the committee had not been made clear and she apologized if board members felt they did not have enough information to make a decision on the contract.

But Colliau said that since all the board members had known what salary and contract wording had been proposed he saw no reason to postpone a vote on the contract.

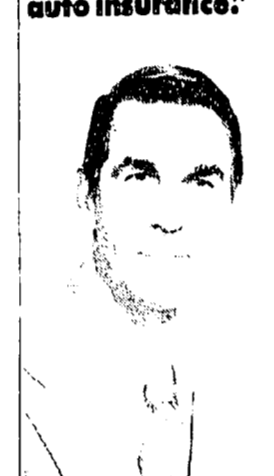

"We were told to make a specific recommendation and that has been done. We met earlier with other board members to explain the recommended changes. You have all been informed of it. We could put off a decision for a couple of weeks if this promotes further consideration, but I don't know the problem."

School board members voted 6-1 to approve the contracts.

On Taft Road

Subdivision plans meet approval

Tentative preliminary approval of the plat for the proposed Yorkshire subdivision on Taft Road has been recommended by the Novi Planning Board.

But several areas of controversy still remain in regard to the proposed 172-acre lot subdivision which has been shrouded by controversy since the time it was first submitted to city officials.

The Yorkshire subdivision has been proposed for development on a 60.6 acre parcel on the west side of Taft Road, immediately south of the Novi Woods Elementary School.

The property lies between Taft Road on the east and the Simmons Orchard subdivision which is currently under construction to the west of the Yorkshire subdivision.

The subdivision is proposed for development by the Val-Mar Company, a firm based in Farmington Hills. Val-Mar President Ben Marks previously developed the Charrington Green subdivision which is located on the east side of Meadowbrook Road between Eight and Nine Mile.

Plans for the Yorkshire subdivision initially were submitted with an application to utilize the city's RUD (residential unit development) option which provides for both single-family and multiple-family homes on the same parcel.

Marks said the company applied for the RUD option in order to save a significant stand of trees at the northwest corner of the parcel.

The planning board recommended approval of the RUD option, but the request to develop the property under the option was turned down by the city council.

Marks subsequently returned to the planning board with a proposal to develop the property in a conventional manner with a total of 169 single-family homes. The plan called for the removal of many of the trees which would have been preserved under the RUD option.

The plans for a conventional subdivision also ran into difficulties when they were reviewed by the planning board at its September 5 session. Specifically, the planners tabled action on the request for tentative preliminary plat approval and directed the developer to meet with City Planning Consultant Charles Cairns in order to resolve three areas of concern: extension of a stub-street to the area south of the subdivision, addition of a walkway from the subdivision to the elementary school to the north, and re-design of an east-west collector street to a curvilinear configuration.

Val-Mar Representative Roy Russell brought the revised site plan back to the planning board last week with two of the three recommended changes.

A stub-street had been extended to the south and a walk-way to the elementary school had been extended to the north, he explained, but the developer was unable to provide a curvilinear design to the east-west collector street because the loss of additional lots would create an economic hardship.

Cairns renewed his objections to the plat on the basis that the collector street had not been changed to a curvilinear design, saying that the "straight through east-west layout of the collector street" would encourage eventual through traffic movements on the street, which is designed to carry only local traffic.

Russell said the curvilinear design had been studied, but that the loss of three or four lots by implementing the curvilinear design would work an economic hardship on the developer.

"We don't believe you're going to slow down traffic through a residential area by putting a few curves in the road," said Russell. He also noted that the developers of the Simmons Orchard subdivision had been permitted to utilize a straight design on the collector street.

Additional concerns with the plat centered around the proposed walk-way from the subdivision to the elementary school.

Planners noted that the walk-way was proposed as a 12-foot easement between two lots and suggested that the loss of six feet from each lot would reduce them below the 80-foot minimum lot width requirement in the R-4 zoning district.

Planner Peter Romanow said the developers would be "cheating the people" by allowing their lots to be reduced in size; and Planning Board Chairman John Roethel noted that residents in the Village Oaks subdivision had asked that a fence be erected along both sides of a walk-way leading into the Village Oaks Elementary School because resident did not want their lawns used as public walkways.

The planners subsequently voted unanimously (6-0) to recommend tentative preliminary plat approval to the council with the provision that council members be advised of their concerns over the proposed walk-way as well as the straight design of the collector street.

"I don't think we have any choice but to recommend approval and make the council aware of our concerns over maintenance of the walk-way and the design of the collector street," commented Planner Roger Everett.

Caution needed with disc brakes

Drivers of vehicles equipped with disc front brakes should avoid vigorous pumping of the brake pedal when stopping on slippery surfaces.

Instead, the "pumping" action should be slight and soft, according to John Grubba, managing director of the Oakland County Road Commission.

He said the National Safety Council recommends that the procedure with disc brakes be an "easy, steady pressure to the brake pedal just short of lock-up, followed by an easy but slight let up of the pressure and then a repeat of the process."

Grubba said this technique was discovered most effective in winter driving workshops by the council which cautions against sudden or hard pressure with disc brakes.

"With the older, drum brakes, the vigor of the pumping action was not as crucial," said Grubba.

"The whole point is, of course, to avoid locking the wheels and causing them to skid on the surface beneath, which can lead to a dangerous skidding of the entire vehicle. Some roll by the wheels must be maintained.

"This is accomplished better with a gentle, slight pumping action on disc brakes, although the vigor is less crucial with older, drum brakes," Grubba said.

Viking homecoming

It was Homecoming at Walled Lake Central last Friday. And that means plenty of activities jammed into the break between halves of the football game. The 1979 Homecoming Court (above) featured the appearance of the kings and queens from the 1977 and 1978 Homecoming festivities at Central as well as the members of the 1979 court. In the float competition, the junior class claimed first place honors for originality and the overall award with their entry entitled "Soap" (below). Theme of this year's float competition was "soap operas" and the winning entry of the junior class featured a huge bathtub overflowing with bubbles urging the Vikings to soak their opponents.

Blood donors sought

Appointments now are being taken for donors to the Novi Blood Bank. Oakland, Macomb, and Washenaw counties.

The local goal is to collect 100 pints of blood. The city's contribution goes to the American Red Cross and is distributed to 85 hospitals in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, and Washenaw counties.

Geraldine Stipp is organizing this year's drive. She asks that those interested in donating blood set up an appointment by contacting her at 349-4300 between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The blood drive will be conducted at the Holy Family Catholic Church, 24505 Meadowbrook between Ten Mile and Grand River, on Monday, October 29, between 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Township sets hearing on lighting assessments

A public hearing on a proposed special assessment roll for street lighting in the Lakeside Subdivision has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday by the Commerce Township Board.

No objections to the proposed special assessment district (SAD) were voiced at an October 1 hearing of necessity before the board, according to Township Clerk Robert D. McGee.

If no objections are made at next week's special session, the board may establish the SAD and assess the cost of the lighting service to benefiting property owners when tax bills are mailed out in December, he added.

At least 65 percent of the Lakeside residents petitioned the board last month to create the assessment district.

The Lakeside residents also petitioned the board to improve private roads in their subdivision to bring them up to standards set by the Oakland County Road Commission for designation as public highways.

The board directed the township attorney's office in September to file the road improvement request with the Oakland County Circuit Court which must declare the streets—Dicker, LaRosa and Artis—as public highways.

Once that's done, residents may be specially assessed to pay for improvements to the streets.

Road commission standards state that the streets must be at least 18 feet wide. Drainage and ditch work also will be done in the subdivision, according to township consulting engineers Johnson and Anderson. Estimated cost of the Lakeside road work has been set at $18,000, not including preparation of plans and specifications.

The township board has set aside a portion of Commerce's 1978 and 1979 federal community development act funds to assist subdivision associations with road improvements. Under the program, the township will pay for the four inches of gravel that will be applied to the roads.

Lakeside residents were the first to apply to the township for assistance under the road program. At last week's special meeting, though, representatives of the Maple Point Beach Annex Subdivision asked the board for information on minimum standards and cost estimates to improve their streets.

The request will be forwarded to the road commission and township engineers, McGee said. He added that it would be doubtful that the information would be available by last night's regular monthly board meeting.

Board members last week also decided to bill Double Privilege Subdivision residents for rubbish collection services in the December tax statement.

An SAD for the rubbish service was created by the board last month. Subdivision residents will pay $18.50 a year for the service, including semi-annual collection of large items and pick-up of Christmas trees, compared to $60 a year that individual homeowners typically pay private contractors.

The 95-lot subdivision, located in the northeast corner of the township, is the only association so far to request an SAD for rubbish removal service.

Township Supervisor Robert H. Long has said the special assessment method usually results in a lower cost to homeowners, in addition to providing the same collection day for all residents of the subdivision and improving the appearance of the neighborhood.

Beautification group cites city officials

Walled Lake Mayor Gaspare LaMarca and Aryde Mercer, chairperson of the city beautification committee, will receive distinguished service awards from the Keep Michigan Beautiful Committee in Lansing October 23-24.

The stainless steel plaques will honor LaMarca and Mercer for their efforts during the city's spring clean-up program.

Last fall city officials planted shrubs and trees along E. West Maple Road as part of the beautification efforts. A city-wide clean-up program was conducted this spring and the beautification panel handed out some 50 letters of appreciation to residents and business owners who made improvements to their property in the area.

Another 15 trees will be planted along West Maple Road from the city hall to Decker Road sometime this fall, the mayor said.

The Oakland County Planning Division worked with city officials last year to come up with sketches of the proposed landscape improvements for the area around the Maple Plaza shopping center.

Efforts to revitalize Walled Lake's central business district are being planned by the Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce's Walled Lake Area Action Committee comprised of representatives of the business community, the schools, the county planning division and city officials from Walled Lake and Novi.

The committee has defined the central business district as the old downtown area on the Walled Lake lakefront, the West Maple area and that section of Pontiac Trail that links the two. A nautical theme has been selected for the revitalization.

Walled Lake mayor proposes delay on manager pact

draft contract early this year. Copies of the proposal were given to council members and the committee asked for comments. Brookover noted, "I haven't heard one word from any one since they were added."
The draft contract was given to council members again September 18 with "a few minor changes," Hill said. At that time, Brookover said he would like the pact considered at the October 2 session.
"LaMarca conceded that the contract makes legal what we're doing now," but added that he likes "things discussed openly. We haven't had any discussion on it."

Committee Member Donald Lee said the mayor has had the contract almost six months and "I haven't had any feedback from him or any other council member (except the committee) so I look it to mean either they were not concerned or they had no problem."
As to the specific points raised by the mayor in his memo, LaMarca said travel and membership expenses for the manager are not budgeted and there is no policy to have Parker clear his travel and conference plans with the council.
"It gives him a wide range to do what he pleases," the mayor said. "It is open ended and it doesn't protect the city."

LaMarca said he doesn't believe the manager should be required to attend all board and commission meetings, but should be present when those panels are discussing issues that "require city policy to be followed."
The manager's twice-monthly written reports to council should include information on "what he does each week," the mayor said, and update topics of interest to the council such as the status of the codification of city ordinances, a project that was undertaken two years ago.
As far as the 60 days' notice is concerned, LaMarca said the manager, if he is terminated, "could just sit around and draw his pay. He wouldn't even have to show up for work since the contract doesn't have any office hours in it."

In addition, the mayor said, other department heads, and possibly even union employees, may want a 60-day notice provision, "if we open the gates for the manager."
"That could cost the city a lot of money," LaMarca said, "and we don't have it to give away."
He added that the contract should specify the manager's duties and responsibilities and could list goals and objectives.

On the issue of the manager's salary, the mayor said Parker received an 11 percent raise in May, but the contract "shows an additional wage increase of more than 11 percent for the same period of time."
In fact, a check of council minutes shows that the council gave Parker a pay raise of about 11 percent in May for the 1978-79 fiscal year, retroactive to July 1, 1978. That figure was based on making the manager the highest-paid city employee by five-percent over the next highest paid employee, Police Chief Wilford Hook.
Parker received a 7.4 percent increase for 1979-80 for a total salary of some $24,000, but the council also decided to add a $104 cost-of-living-allowance (COLA) hike to all administrators' salaries because the city removed the COLA provision from its contract with city hall clerical and DPW employees.

The COLA adjustment brings the manager's salary to the $24,724 figure listed in the contract.
LaMarca says, though, that the COLA adjustment should be listed as a separate item in the budget.
Responding to the mayor's memo, Hill said the committee "knows the costs of the contract and they're budgeted."

Wixom police talks slow

Negotiations with local police officers are "progressing," according to Wixom Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek.
Tentative agreement has been reached on several articles, but Bonczek indicated there is still a considerable difference between the two sides on economic issues.
"Wages are always a primary concern," commented Bonczek, who is representing the city along with Police Chief Phillip Leonard and Council Member Sidney Resner in talks with Local 25 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME).
"The city must be cautious in negotiations since we face severe limitations on revenues due to the Headlee amendment, rising inflation and other external factors."
The city's bargaining team presently is preparing its fourth contract proposal to the policemen's union. Three previous proposals have been rejected by the bargaining team for the policemen.
Furthermore, Bonczek indicated there is a strong possibility that AFSCME Local 25 will request mediation if the fourth proposal is not acceptable to them.
An arbitrator already has been appointed by the Michigan Department of Labor and Employee Relations. The existing contract provides for appointment of a mediator and binding arbitration in the event the two sides are unable to resolve their differences over the bargaining table.
AFSCME Local 25 contains seven Wixom patrolmen. Officer Richard Zeigler is head of the local, while AFSCME Negotiator Howard Draft is the chief spokesman for the local bargaining team.
Starting pay for new officers in Wixom under the old contract is $16,900. At the end of the first year, officers earn a base pay of $17,500 and move up to $20,000 at the end of three years.
Drawn-out negotiations between police and the city over a new contract are not unusual in Wixom. Policemen worked without a new contract for approximately one year before the present pact was ratified three years ago.
Negotiations for a new contract started in April of this year and have been going on ever since. The existing contract between the city and AFSCME Local 25 expired June 30, but police have continued to work under an agreement that the old contract will remain in effect until a settlement has been reached.
The agreement calls for all terms of the new pact to be retroactive to the expiration date of the former pact.
Bonczek declined to reveal details of the proposals submitted by the union and the city. He said both sides have agreed not to discuss details of the talks until an agreement has been reached.

Caddell wins primary

Caddell's primary victory may take an issue away from Montgomery in the general election.
Last year, when Montgomery opposed McConnell for the county board seat, the Commerce Democrat charged that Republicans gerrymandered commission districts following the 1970 census to give their party an edge in county elections. Montgomery noted that a Commerce resident hasn't served on the commission since 1968 when the current county board set-up replaced the county board of supervisors which was comprised of township supervisors and representatives from each city and village.
Commerce Township and Farmington Hills should never have been put in the same district," Montgomery said at that time.
"That shouldn't be an issue now," Caddell said following his victory. "This is the first time that two Commerce residents will be running for the county board."
(Wolverine Lake Village is part of Commerce for election and property assessment purposes, although the village has its own council and levies additional taxes to pay for police and public works services.)
The 25th District has always been represented by a Republican on the county board, but political observers say the special election may be hard to call.

Although Caddell has long been active in the GOP, including serving as State Representative Richard D. Fassler's 1978 re-election campaign chairperson, this is his first bid for public office. He is a chiropractor with an office in Union Lake Village.
However, Farmington Hills and West Bloomfield, both traditionally Republican areas, already have elections scheduled for November 6 which could mean a higher voter turnout in those communities, while the county board post will be the only contest on the ballot in Commerce and White Lake. Farmington Hills' regular city council election is set for the November date, while West Bloomfield has slated a special bond proposal for its civic center project on the same day.
Montgomery, on the other hand, enjoys name recognition in west Oakland because of his candidacy in past campaigns. A former state representative from Detroit (1965-71), he served on the house appropriations committee for six years and was majority floor leader for two years.

Since moving to Commerce seven years ago, however, Montgomery has been an unsuccessful candidate four times—twice for the U.S. House of Representatives in 1972 and 1974, against long-time Representative William S. Broomfield (R-Birmingham); a bid for the 24th district state house of representatives against Fassler in 1976; and last year, against McConnell for the county board post.
He also was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1970.
The 45-year-old Montgomery is now a political science instructor at Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes campus in Union Lake and serves as a budget and financial consultant to state legislative committees.
In last year's county board election, Montgomery edged McConnell in White Lake (597-595) and narrowly lost in Commerce (2,865-2,733). The Republican incumbent enjoyed healthy margins in West Bloomfield (1,322-889) and Farmington Hills (2,802-1,145) to claim a 59-41-percent victory.
McConnell won the commission seat in 1976 by defeating John Jack, then a Democrat trustee on the Commerce Township board, by a margin of 63 to 37 percent.
McConnell cited business and family reasons when he resigned August 16. The county board GOP caucus was unable to agree on a temporary appointment to fill the 25th District seat pending the election, opting instead to stay out of the primary.
In announcing his candidacy for the commission, Montgomery said the lack of leadership in county government would be a major issue. He said party partisan bickering has characterized the commission in recent months and he pledged to work cooperatively with those commissioners in order to make county government work more efficiently and effectively.
County government is important, he said. "It affects people's lives every day. I'm in touch with people's concerns about county government and I am prepared to deal with the problems which face this county."
Specifically, Montgomery cited the need for more effective fiscal management of the county's $67-million budget.

Deck of cards

Spirit Week at Walled Lake Central is just exactly that as the entire student body gets into the "spirit" of Homecoming activities. "Imagination Day" prompted plenty of imagination from 54 members of the senior class who marked the occasion by coming to school dressed as a deck of cards—complete with

had chopped some $1.7 million in expenditures and the three mill proposal will only generate approximately $1.3 million in additional revenues.
"The superintendent added, however, that he felt the entire list of 22 items in the "Community Report" article could be reinstated if the millage is approved.
"The estimated total value of those 22 items has been pegged at $1.1 million—approximately $200,000 less than the $1.3 million generated by approval of the three mills.

Trustee Robert Cooper noted that the board had said it would reinstate as many programs as possible at the time it voted to approve a special election for three additional mills on November 12. However, in response to the request from citizens for a commitment to restore specific programs, Cooper proposed that the board approve the list of 22 items for reinstatement if the millage vote is successful.

His proposal met some opposition from Trustees Kenneth Tucker and Janet Callahan, however.
Tucker said he was satisfied with most of the items proposed by the administration for reinstatement, but had reservations about some of them.
"I don't want to be pressured by the audience into making a decision on the proposal for restoring programs until I've had additional input from the administration," Tucker said. Callahan said she shared Tucker's concerns.
Cooper's motion that the board approve the 22 items for reinstatement if the three mill proposal is approved was adopted by the board on a voice vote.
The list of 22 items approved by the board for reinstatement is as follows:
—reading support aides and supplies at the elementary level;
—teaching supplies and textbooks;
—consultant services in science, mathematics, language arts and social studies at the elementary level;
—library books and media personnel;
—field trip experiences;

Schools okay program study

Novi school board members have told the administration to proceed with its investigation of the implementation of an international baccalaureate program but only after expressing some reservations.

The international baccalaureate program was recently explained to board members in detail in a presentation from the superintendent of the Southfield Schools, where the program recently was implemented.

They learned at that time that the school district would be required to upgrade some curriculum offerings to meet rigorous standards imposed by the International Baccalaureate Corporation.

To obtain the degree students must study a core of seven subjects which are completed in the eleventh and twelfth grades.

The program is being viewed as a possible segment of the gifted and talented program at the high school level.

Reservations regarding implementation of the program were first mentioned by Trustee Joel Colliau.

"I'm glad to see the district is exploring new ideas and looking for methods to provide a better education for our youngsters and I have no objection to further exploration, but before this is reviewed by the curriculum committee I'd like to have another shot at it," said the board member.

"I'd like to see this again before I proceed along and I don't want to give the impression I will approve it, I may not," Colliau said. "I'm not negative, I'm just not sure about this."

His reservations were elaborated upon by Trustee Ruth Waldenmayer. She told the board she was concerned because the schools had recently instituted the advanced placement program at the high school and only one advanced placement course is being offered.

She pointed out that the district had recently conducted a study in which books setting down "scope and sequence" for classes were produced. But she suggested the books are largely ignored.

"We have beautiful books on scope and sequence and we haven't done a thing with them," she maintained. "I can't support this with all the other studies we have just done."

Trustee Robert Schram echoed those sentiments. "I agree with Ruth. Our teachers have to go home at night. To us this might be just another study, but to them it may mean hours and hours of work."

Trustee Ray Murphy raised the issue of programming for the "average student."

"Over the past year I've gotten the impression we have been concerned with both ends of the spectrum and not the guy in the middle."

Trustee Joan Daley took issue with that position. She suggested the needs of the average student are being met in most courses and the school district has not spent undue time studying groups at either end.

She said what many college-bound students need is a "comprehensive study of some sort" which will prepare them for the competition they will face at the university level.

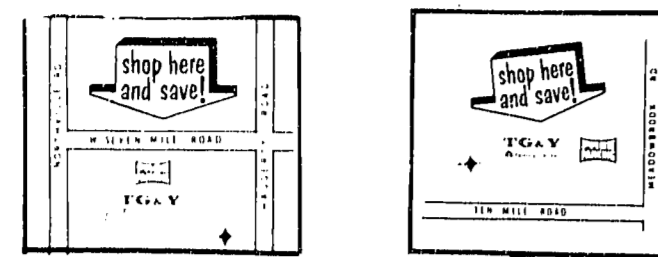

Board President Ron Milam also supported the program on the grounds it may provide a means for high school students to obtain college credit, while still enrolled at the local level.

He told board members more and more college programs are requiring students to attend school for five years before earning a baccalaureate degree which in turn places additional economic burden on students.

Ultimately board members voted 5-2 to approve further investigation of the program. However, they stipulated that the program be returned to them before the administration sends the proposal to the teachers for review.

Daley, Colliau, Murphy, Sharon Pelchat and Milam supported the measure, while Schram and Waldenmayer cast dissenting ballots.

Novi trustee says drug use alarms students

dent where a student was high in a classroom and the teacher ignored it.

"Being alerted and doing something about it are two different things," she added.

Trustee Ray Murphy suggested that one problem is that search and seizure has such "ticklish" legal implications that normal staff members "would not touch it with a ten-foot pole unless they are properly drilled in the correct procedure."

He suggested that the board adopt a strong policy regarding drug use and then train staff members to carry it out.

"We can either ignore this or come down with both feet on the people who are responsible for this. But we can't expect enforcement until teachers have been given competent legal advice. We can tolerate this or we can set a policy and train people to carry it out," said Murphy.

One teacher supported the principal's position that there does not appear to be a drug problem at the high school.

"I hear everything, but I haven't heard of a problem in school," said Tussell Gardner, a high school teacher.

However, Gardner added that he heard there is a problem with marijuana at parties.

"The only problem I have heard of is at the parties they have at home where they are smoking a lot of marijuana. That's where it is," Gardner added.

Board members pointed out that once students leave the school parking lot, the school has no control over their activities.

Trustee Robert Schram said he is "irked" by parents who leave the kids at school and say "take care of them."

"When it's a problem of supervision rather than the kids' fault, I'd like to be able to make the parents responsible, like asking them to attend a positive parenting class," Schram said.

"One of our big problems is involving the parent," Youngberg added. "Many parents have the attitude that no news is good news and if they don't come to conferences they won't hear any of the bad news about their children."

"But we're not allowing that. When we suspend students their parents are forced to come in for a conference."

Students can be suspended under the school district's existing drug abuse policy.

Students who become involved in the use of illegal drugs or narcotics are

'We are checking every period, daily'

given an automatic leave from school by the building principal under the terms of the policy.

Before suspended students are allowed to return to school, they must receive a statement from a qualified medical practitioner that the pupil is under treatment.

Parents or guardians also must certify that they will work closely with the school counselor or doctor while the pupil is under treatment.

Both of those statements are forwarded to the office of the superintendent, the policy states. Readmission to school is determined by the principal and that decision will involve the counselor, parent or guardian and the student.

After Trustee Pelchat raised the question of drug problems in the schools, principals of the high school and Middle School North were contacted Monday to determine their findings since the board meeting last week.

Youngberg indicated his findings are strictly inconclusive due to the fact only two schools days had passed since the board meeting. A full report will be documented before the board, he added.

However, he did say preliminary findings show there "is no indication of (marijuana smoking) whatsoever."

"We are checking every period, daily. We are investigating this to determine if there is a problem, but so far no problem has been seen," Youngberg said.

Charles Nanas, principal at Middle School South, also reported he has not found any drug problems.

"Apparently there is one girls' bathroom that students are afraid to go into, but I'm not sure what the students are perceiving there because there is no such thing as a drug problem in there," Nanas said.

He explained that girls have been collecting in one bathroom in one wing of the school, but teachers monitor the bathrooms hourly and there is no evidence that students are doing anything but gathering there, Nanas said.

He said he personally patrols the boys' restrooms and has found no problems there.

Regarding Pelchat's concern that middle school children are wearing drug paraphernalia to school, Nanas said he has not seen that either.

"I can't say that we are totally drug free. Any principal who does say that would have to have his head in the sand, but I've never smelled marijuana in this building and to say that it's here or that it's a daily problem—I just don't see that."

Nanas added that as the former assistant principal at Novi High School he does not believe there is a problem with chemical narcotics at the high school, because the students don't want them in the school.

"If someone were pushing drugs in the school we would hear of it almost at the same time the students did and we would apprehend the individual. The kids do not and will not tolerate chemicals," Nanas said.

While admitting it is difficult to gauge why students have reacted in that manner, he said he believes it is because they have seen other students and whose minds that have been altered by drugs or who were "hauled out of the school in an ambulance."

"They have gotten to the point they've seen the kids who are burned out and said 'I don't want to be like that.' Kids have learned through seeing it happen to other kids that drugs are dangerous and they can even kill you. It's been the burnies who have been responsible for turning the kids off," Nanas said.

Planners eye Weiss storage

Is there a difference between "outside storage" areas and a "staging" area?

That's the question raised by Planner Edward Dobek when the Novi Planning Board was asked to approve a revision in the site plans for the Weiss Pollution Control Company building already under construction on the south side of Grand River Avenue.

Structural steel already has been erected for the industrial building on a 4.4 acre parcel located on the south side of Grand River between Seeley Road and Meadowbrook Road.

Specifically, Dobek questioned a proposed 40-by-120 foot slab of concrete surrounded by an eight-foot high masonry screen wall which had been added to the site plan.

Concerns over the area also were expressed by City Planning Consultant Charles Cairns who noted that the city's zoning ordinance prohibits outside storage of any type in the I-1 (light industrial) district.

However, Weiss Pollution Control Representative Howard Nudell told the planners that the area would not be used for outside storage.

He said the area would be used as a "staging" area for the loading and unloading of pipes used by the company.

Nudell's response prompted skepticism from Dobek.

"It's 120-foot long and has a 20-foot gate," noted Dobek. "It looks to me like it's going to be used for outside storage."

"You don't need a six-inch concrete slab for use that area for outside storage."

Planner Roger Everett noted that outside storage is considered anything over 72 hours. He then suggested that there was no difference between an "outside storage" area and a "staging" area as proposed by Nudell.

"He (Nudell) could be using that area for storage of pipes all the time as long as he made certain that whatever is loaded or unloaded is moved at least every three days," said Everett.

The planners subsequently voted 5-1 to approve the revised site plan with the provision that the plans clearly note that the concrete slab is to be used solely as a "staging" area and that no outside storage will be permitted. The lone dissenting ballot was cast by Dobek.

Brookover joins Kennedy effort

Walled Lake Council Member Thomas W. Brookover has been named legal counsel to the Michigan Kennedy for President Committee.

Under federal election law, the Michigan group is an unauthorized committee because U.S. Senator Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts has not officially announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for president in the 1980 election.

The 35-year-old Brookover is an associate with a Southfield-based law firm.

A graduate of Yale University and the University of Michigan Law School, Brookover is a former Peace Corps volunteer who served in Nepal. He was an associate with a Wall Street law firm for three years before returning to Michigan in 1974 to take a position with the Bendix Corporation as a senior attorney. He joined the Southfield firm last year.

Brookover was elected to the Walled Lake council in 1977 on his first bid for public office. He garnered 402 votes to top the list.

One of his U-M Law School classmates, Donald Tucker, a West Bloomfield resident and a partner in another Southfield law firm, is treasurer to the Michigan Kennedy committee. Bernard Ryan, a Detroit attorney, is chairperson of the organization.

Brookover was active last year in the campaign of Democratic gubernatorial nominee State Senator William B. Fitzgerald.

As We See It

Mayor's quick call was unwarranted

The Walled Lake City Council was supposed to meet October 2 — it didn't.

Depending on whose watch one was looking at, the meeting was adjourned due to a lack of a quorum at 8:02, 8:07 or 8:10 p.m. Take your pick because it doesn't really matter.

What matters is that Mayor Gaspare LaMarca didn't wait a little longer for later-arriving council members to show up. As it turned out, two members showed up by 8:15 so that five of the six council members would have been on hand for the session.

The mayor says council members should show up on time to conduct city business, yet on several occasions he has delayed the start of a meeting to wait for a council member who called in to say he'd be late. City Manager Peter Parker told LaMarca that Council Member Donald Lee had called to say he would be late. The mayor's response is that he didn't know whether Lee would be 10 minutes or half an hour late.

Lee arrived at city hall shortly after the meeting was adjourned, yet the mayor did not attempt to reconvene the session even though a quorum was still present. Lee was out of state earlier in the day and had trouble making plane connections. Lee also talked to Council Member Thomas W. Brookover who said he would be late, too.

Flaw in charter?

City charters, like master land use plans, require periodic revision.

It is an exercise which is undertaken at irregular intervals and, usually, with some merit.

The city charter in Novi was revised two years ago and is a viable document which was updated only after considerable study and discussion by the members of a charter revision committee.

There is one aspect of the Novi City Charter which could benefit from additional study, however, and we would hope that city officials start taking notes in preparation for the time that the next charter revision takes place.

We refer specifically to the manner in which the city elects its mayor. Our misgivings with the present charter in this area are illustrated perfectly by the present mayoral race in the city.

When voters go to the polls in November, they will elect either Romaine Roethel or James Shaw to the office of mayor. Roethel, the incumbent, has been a good mayor. Shaw presently serves on the city council and has been a good council member.

But as a result of the election procedures for mayor in the present charter, the city will lose either Roethel or Shaw after the votes from the November 6 election have been counted.

One will remain in office, the other will be out for at least two years. By deciding to run for mayor, Shaw must give up his seat on the council. That seat will be filled by one of the six candidates running for the council.

Unfortunately, none of those candidates — with the excep-

We don't choose to argue with the mayor over the virtues of punctuality, but we don't feel his quick gavel act was in the best interest of the city. There weren't too many substantive issues on the agenda, but there were bills to be paid and other items that should be handled on a timely basis.

In defense of the tardy council members, we would note that Walled Lake's part-time elected officials hold full-time jobs, too. We also would note that half of the 24 regularly scheduled twice-monthly council meetings within the last year have started late.

Lee says he will propose a policy that a session cannot be cancelled due to lack of a quorum until at least 10 minutes after the scheduled meeting time.

It's unfortunate that the council should even have to consider such a policy when, in our opinion, common sense should prevail.

It seems to us that, if a quorum isn't present, the clerk should be directed to call the absent council members to see if they're on their way to city hall. If it appears that a majority of the members are either in city hall or on their way, the council should wait.

In any case, those present should wait a reasonable amount of time before cancelling the meeting. Ten minutes, in our opinion, is not too long to wait for the wheels of government to turn.

tion of the two (Robert Schmid and Martha Hoyer) who presently serve on the council — has exhibited the time or interest to attend council meetings on a regular basis in an attempt to familiarize himself with the issues facing the city.

In a sense, Novi residents can't lose in the upcoming mayoral election because both Roethel and Shaw are well qualified. But in another sense, Novi residents can't win in the upcoming mayoral race because either Roethel or Shaw will be eliminated from the council.

There are alternatives to the present procedure for electing a mayor. Both of those alternatives involve elimination of a mayoral election.

One of those alternatives would be to let the voters elect candidates to the council. The top vote-getter in the council race would become mayor.

A second alternative would be to let the voters elect candidates to the council and then have the council itself elect its own mayor.

Both alternatives have merit and are used in neighboring communities. Additionally, both alternatives would be entirely consistent with the present "strong council/city manager" form of government prescribed by the city charter.

In fact, both of those alternatives may be more in keeping with the present form of government than the present procedure for electing a mayor.

We are not proposing that Novi's city charter be revised at the present time. We are proposing that this issue be addressed when the next charter revision committee is convened.

Speaking for Myself

Hunting: Sport or slaughter?

WALLYNE SMALL

SPORT

Hunting to me is a sport, more so recreation in the out-of-doors. Many has been the time I have pursued wild game only to come home empty-handed. The rewards of hunting are many, so if you miss bagging a deer, squirrel, rabbit or other game, you can still enjoy the hunt.

The hunter through the years has assumed the duty of caretaker of our wildlife. The hunter has asked for seasons, bag limits of game, restocking and research. The hunter has provided money through license fees and excise taxes on hunting equipment to provide land for habitat, research and restocking.

Every time a piece of wild land or farm land is covered with cement for a new shopping center, subdivision or school complex, the wild game is pushed together a little tighter. This is the time the hunter becomes the caretaker again and harvests the wild game. If the wild game is left unharvested, they will perish from starvation and disease. Our big predators, the coyote, wolf, bobcat and bear, can only eat so much of the smaller game. If the wild animals are left unchecked, then the farmer gets his problems.

I enjoy my recreation of hunting and being a caretaker of our wildlife. It beats running back and forth on a cement tennis court or window shopping at a cement shopping center.

Charles H. Leverett Brighton

SLAUGHTER

In ancient times there was a purpose for hunting: meat for foods, hides for shelter. I have no objection to hunting when it is done for need in a humane way. We are a hunting family who live by the motto "you eat what you shoot." Selectivity comes naturally with that!

"Weekend Warriors," however, I am against.

A typical Weekend Warrior has sat many hours and finally shoots a deer, only wounding it. He is too lazy, hung over or fat to track, so he doesn't. The wounded animal suffers, possibly for days, until death is a welcome event. All for nothing. A Weekend Warrior would participate in shooting wolves in Canada from an airplane and running animals to death from a snowmobile.

A Weekend Warrior's hunting dog also suffers. He's kept on the "back forty," too far away for human companionship. In the few weeks every year that he is used, he must either shine or else join the ranks of abandoned hunting dogs.

Most hunters I know are conservation minded: they love the outdoors and animals and hate waste. But I feel man stoops to his lowest when he needlessly hurts and kills God's defenseless creatures who share with us this earth.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Probably because I find nothing so frightening as a tornado, the experience of Northville Mayor Paul Vernon last week strikes a chord of terror in just the telling of it.

Enroute home from Connecticut from a business trip, Paul was waiting at the Bradley International Airport for a 2:30 p.m. flight when passengers were informed there would be a take-off delay because of heavy thunderstorms in the vicinity.

wind began roaring, and all occupants in the terminal were ordered into the basement baggage area because a tornado had been spotted nearby," he said.

As Paul and the others waited in the basement the lights suddenly went out but otherwise they were unaware of the destruction occurring at the airport.

It wasn't until later that they would learn that the tornado had cut

Wixom EDC sets up priorities

Commercial, professional office and light industrial development will receive top priority treatment from the Wixom Economic Development Corporation (EDC).

Additionally, combinations of light industrial, recreational and commercial projects will be encouraged by the 11-member panel.

These were the unofficial priorities established by members of the Wixom EDC last week at a special meeting to set up criteria for determining which projects will be eligible for EDC financing.

Bonding Attorney Mark Kellman advised EDC members that the enabling legislation for the board already contains criteria for accepting projects for funding.

Basically, the enabling legislation prescribes that projects must have a "public purpose," explained Kellman. The EDC must establish that all applicants for EDC financing will have a public purpose in terms of jobs and tax base for the community.

Kellman also advised EDC members not to be too specific in establishing criteria standards for applicants. "General guidelines can be set up on an information basis, but the EDC should be careful not to tie itself down to a specific set of standards," he said.

"If you establish specific standards, somewhere down the line you may be confronted with an application for a project which has significant public purpose but falls outside your established guidelines," said the bonding attorney. "If you tie yourself down at this point in time, you may find yourself in the position of having to reject a project which may have much public purpose."

Purpose of last week's meeting was to establish criteria for accepting projects for financing through the EDC. In addition to EDC members, the meeting also was attended by several members of the Wixom City Council and Planning Commission.

Planning commission members in attendance were Wayne Glessner, Edward Saliz and John Miner. Present from the council was Dennis Andrews, Mayor Lillian Spencer and Council Member Gunnar Mettala and Sidney Resner also serve as members of the EDC and were present at the session.

The final step in establishing an EDC in Wixom involves council approval of the organization's by-laws. Approval of the by-laws was scheduled to occur last night (Tuesday) after our deadline.

If the by-laws are approved, the EDC will be officially established and eligible to accept applications for funding. State legislation creating the EDC concept was adopted by the State Legislature in 1974 in response to a need to create economic incentives for halting the flow of industry — and jobs — out of Michigan. An EDC may issue government-backed bonds to help finance a project. Since lending institutions do not have to pay taxes on interest earned from government-backed bonds, they usually can offer an interest rate two to three percent lower than is available under conventional financing.

Kellman also advised EDC members against setting either a minimum or maximum project cost as a guideline for accepting projects for financing through EDC.

Developers will not find it beneficial to apply for EDC financing unless the estimated cost is in excess of $150,000. Unless the estimated project cost exceeds that level, developers will find it more practical and beneficial to seek conventional financing, he said.

In discussing standards for EDC financing, Glessner advised panel members that the key word is "quality," not quantity. Glessner also asked the EDC to give special consideration to requiring applicants to provide recreational facilities within the city.

Mettala said he felt the EDC should look to development which will provide jobs for Wixom residents, while Saliz said Wixom should attempt to attract those upper-level management people who presently work in Wixom and commune to Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills.

In addition to establishing general criteria for accepting projects, EDC members also established fees for the board. The panel ultimately decided to set an initial, non-refundable application fee of $1,000 as well as a financing fee of one-tenth of one percent of the total project cost not to exceed $5,000.

EDC Chairman Robert Maynes said the higher application fee may discourage some of the less desirable developers from applying for EDC financing. Additional support for the $1,000 application fee was expressed by Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek who said he wanted to make certain that the EDC has adequate finances.

Presently, it appears the EDC will receive two applications for funding shortly after it has been officially established.

One of the first applications is expected to be submitted by the Conklin Forging Company which has proposed construction of a major industrial facility on a 20-acre parcel east of Beck Road and north of West Road.

A second application is anticipated from Forrest Hubbell and Ray Petty who already have received site plan approval for construction of a motel-restaurant-bar complex on the northwest corner of South Wixom Road and Grand River Avenue.

Damage at Bradley Internu-Airport and the adjacent air museum was estimated at $50 million to $100 million.

The airport looked like it had been bombed. World War II bombers, fighters and cargo planes from the air museum littered the part of the field — a trash heap of wings, fuselages and wheels.

Chief John Gogulsky of the airport's fire department, who had served in both Korea and Vietnam, told Boston Globe staffers, "I've been through some scrapes, but this is the worst ever."

The mayor echoed that observation. A frequent traveler for Allen Testproducts Division, he's hoping future close shaves are no closer than is likely to occur in his bid for reelection next November. He's unopposed.

Wixom mayor drops consideration of HOW

Plans to adopt an ordinance which would require all home builders in Wixom to offer a special warranty/insurance program on all newly-constructed homes have been scrapped.

At least for the time being, Mayor Lillian Spencer reported last week that she has removed consideration of the ordinance from the agenda in response to apparent opposition from the majority of the members of the city council.

"I'm convinced that it's something we need in Wixom, but I don't think we've been able to convince the majority of the council members of that at this time," commented the mayor.

"Rather than have the ordinance rejected, I've decided to remove it from consideration at the present time. We'll go back and attempt to compile some additional data about the merit of the system based on experiences in other communities," she continued. "If the data indicates that the program is valuable, we'll go back to the council with additional information at some time in the future."

At issue is a proposal to adopt an ordinance which would require all home builders in Wixom to join the Homeowners Warranty (HOW) Corporation. HOW is a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders and was formed five years ago to provide a warranty/insurance program for newly-constructed homes.

In essence, the HOW program offers a 10-year warranty on new homes. During the first two years of the program, the residence is guaranteed against structural defects by the builder. During the third through tenth years of the program, the home is insured against major structural defects by HOW's national insurance carrier.

A major advantage of the program is that it provides for fast, efficient resolution of complaints about poor workmanship, according to Lester Burton, president of the Southeastern Michigan HOW Corporation.

When homeowners and the builder disagree over responsibility for repairs, HOW provides a dispute settlement process which uses both conciliation and arbitration.

Interest in adopting the ordinance which requires builders to join HOW surfaced after the city received numerous complaints about poor construction in the Hidden Creek subdivision.

City officials apparently viewed adoption of an ordinance requiring HOW membership as a means of resolving those complaints and establishing safeguards against similar occurrences in the future.

Council members have expressed serious reservations about adopting such an ordinance, however. Councilman Robert Dingledey maintained that complaints about poor home construction can be eliminated by upgrading the city's building inspections.

He previously said that the city should "police its own camp" instead of having to rely on outside agencies to do its work for it. Support for Dingledey's position has been expressed by Council Member Sidney Resner.

Additional reservations about the value of a so-called HOW ordinance have been expressed by Council Members Val Vangieson, Melvin Green and Dennis Andrews.

Vangieson and Green suggested that adoption of a HOW ordinance might be considered to be in restraint of trade since the only program available is offered by the HOW Corporation. Green said approval of a HOW ordinance may put the city in the position of legislating a monopoly.

Andrews expressed reservations about the HOW ordinance on the basis that the costs of the insurance/warranty program would be passed on directly to the consumer.

Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek, who has supported the HOW program said he concurred with the mayor's decision to table consideration of the ordinance at the present time.

"We'll be looking at these communities which have adopted a HOW ordinance in order to determine whether or not it proves to be beneficial," he said.

"If those communities demonstrate the value of a HOW ordinance, we can prepare another proposal for council consideration at some time in the future."

Police apprehend suspect after call from resident

In Wixom

A 19-year-old Walled Lake man was arrested and charged with larceny from an automobile by Wixom Police last week.

Police reports indicate Dwayne Monroe was apprehended as he attempted to leave a van, parked at the Village, after allegedly attempting to steal the car radio.

Police were alerted to a possible larceny in progress by a call from a resident. They responded to the scene and apprehended the suspect.

The owner of the van was called to the scene and reported finding several displaced tape cartridges and the knobs to the radio missing.

Monroe reportedly told police he had been waiting for a friend and chose to look around inside the van. Police later found one of the missing radio knobs in Monroe's pocket, according to reports.

A case of suspected robbery is currently under investigation by Wixom Police. The complaint was lodged shortly before 3 a.m. last Thursday after a man said he was struck on the head after leaving a restroom at the Union 75 station.

Clyde Bingham of Brighton was found by police suffering from a swollen cheek and bruised right shoulder after the alleged incident.

Bingham told police someone hit him on the side of the head as he attempted to leave the men's room. He reportedly heard one of the men say "grab his money."

After being knocked down, Bingham discovered after returning from a trip, the apartment dweller told police he found the door to his unit kicked in and the furnishings missing.

The Bloomfield Disposal truck found in a ditch along side the road after striking a deep culvert plowed its way through 75 feet of earth and flipped on its side.

The driver suffered only minor injuries in the mishap he says was caused when he reached to pick up an object that was rolling on the floor of the cab.

The local garbage disposal company lost one of its vehicles to an accident Friday as it attempted to turn from Lyonia Street onto Loon Lake Road.

The guard yelled at the suspect, who dropped the rail and fled toward a vehicle in the southeast corner of the building, according to reports.

When the guard saw the occupant of the vehicle, he asked him to step out of the van and return with him to the office. Instead the man dropped the van in gear and fled, police said.

The suspect was apprehended four hours later by officers of Detroit's 10th precinct. The 120 sections of rail believed to have been in the van were not recovered, according to police.

The rails were worth $410. Meanwhile, the guard notified Novi police of the break-in and they captured a second suspect who reportedly was hiding in the building. Police reported the size of the handcuffs to use two sets of handcuffs to restrain him.

Both suspects were arraigned Thursday before Judge Michael Batchik in 32nd District court.

Truman Lee McNeal, who was arrested in Detroit, had bond set at $2,000 cash assurety due to his lengthy criminal record, police said. He faces examination on October 15.

Claude Davis, who was apprehended by Novi officers, got a $1,000 personal bond and was turned over to Oak Park, where he is named in a bench warrant.

Suspicion of security officers at the Twelve Oaks Mall when they noticed a car with flat tires cruising the parking lot proved well founded last week.

Security officers told Novi police last week that they had observed a 1969 Chevy in the parking lot with two flat tires.

They became suspicious after finding a 1966 Chevy near Sears with three tires missing. They found another car with two hubcaps removed.

Upon further investigation, the security officers found the driver of the first car changing his tires.

The owner of the vehicle with the missing hubcaps identified the men in the rear of the auto of the suspicious person, according to reports.

The youth was arrested for possession of stolen property. Police theorize the suspect stole the tires to replace the flat tires on his own vehicle.

The 16-year-old Walled Lake youth was released to the custody of his parents.

In Novi

Police apprehended a Detroit man suspected of breaking and entering of the Ennamalum Company last week, but it took two sets of handcuffs to do it.

A night watchman at the company told police he heard a noise in the back of the building. Upon investigation he allegedly observed a black male with a six-to-ten foot section of aluminum rail.

The guard yelled at the suspect, who dropped the rail and fled toward a vehicle in the southeast corner of the building, according to reports.

When the guard saw the occupant of the vehicle, he asked him to step out of the van and return with him to the office. Instead the man dropped the van in gear and fled, police said.

When was the last time you spent $4 for two full grocery bags of produce? With lettuce hanging on 90 cents a head, it's been quite a while, unless you are one of those homemakers who takes advantage of a food co-op.

At the end of last year, at least 235 homemakers, from areas as far away as Holly, Troy, South Lyon and Westland, made their way to the Multi-Lakes Food Co-op in Commerce Township in search of some lower food costs.

"I really think people are crazy if they don't join the co-op," claims Mrs. Michaels. "We can offer fresher, bigger, nicer, better and cheaper produce than anyone in town," she boasted.

The co-op also offers fresh eggs twice each month and bread on the alternating weeks. Special meat and cheese orders, also purchased at lower than store prices, may be placed by co-op members once each month.

Stretching the budget and gaining food value are the two most important "products" of the co-op. Senior citizens are urged to take advantage of the bulk buying power of the co-op. Seniors are not required to place full bag orders and may shop from the surplus table that sometimes also displays additional special or unusual items.

"Bananas are a commodity found in fruit bags most every week. Add apples, oranges, pears and grapes, and then try to buy equal for equal price in the supermarket."

How does a food co-op work and why has the Multi-Lakes program continued to be successful when others have fizzled?

Co-op coordinator Norma Michaels says its because of the great cooperation from the membership. "We run every single week from October through May. It takes devotion, time, labor, let's face it, work. But it is fun, it can be a social time for some and it does bring a feeling of satisfaction — the satisfaction of knowing we've stretched a buck a little farther."

Mrs. Michaels and Wixom counterpart Hazel Hardmeyer are at the co-op each every Thursday morning. Both say they look forward to the day and enjoy meeting everybody who takes advantage of the program.

"It's definitely a volunteer organization," the ladies said. "To be a member in good standing, each participant must agree to a work period once each month. Workers have their choice of jobs, most are their favorites.

Hands are needed to take orders and collect money for the following week's purchases. Others act as receipt takers, some prefer to weigh produce, still others sign up as baggers.

Actively on pick-up day begins early with the truck driver and helper leaving the area at 5:30 a.m. Armed with his shopping list and line of vendors, the truck driver makes stops and loads the orders at the terminal.

Waiting at the Multi-Lakes Conservation Club, site of the weekly co-op, are workers to unload the truck while others are busy lining up grocery bags on the floor. Still others are tearing plastic bags from rolls in readiness for those items.

Each weekly session requires between 25 to 30 members to ensure smooth operation. Following the pick-up of orders, which must be done by 9 p.m., the clean-up crew moves in, sweeping, mopping and putting the building back to order.

The "hero" of the operation is the co-op shopper, Elsie McKeown. According to coordinator Michaels, the job is "bumming." Although Ms. McKeown

But it is fun, it can be a social time for some and it does bring a feeling of satisfaction — the satisfaction of knowing we've stretched a buck a little farther."

Mrs. Michaels and Wixom counterpart Hazel Hardmeyer are at the co-op each every Thursday morning. Both say they look forward to the day and enjoy meeting everybody who takes advantage of the program.

"It's definitely a volunteer organization," the ladies said. "To be a member in good standing, each participant must agree to a work period once each month. Workers have their choice of jobs, most are their favorites.

Hands are needed to take orders and collect money for the following week's purchases. Others act as receipt takers, some prefer to weigh produce, still others sign up as baggers.

Actively on pick-up day begins early with the truck driver and helper leaving the area at 5:30 a.m. Armed with his shopping list and line of vendors, the truck driver makes stops and loads the orders at the terminal.

Waiting at the Multi-Lakes Conservation Club, site of the weekly co-op, are workers to unload the truck while others are busy lining up grocery bags on the floor. Still others are tearing plastic bags from rolls in readiness for those items.

Each weekly session requires between 25 to 30 members to ensure smooth operation. Following the pick-up of orders, which must be done by 9 p.m., the clean-up crew moves in, sweeping, mopping and putting the building back to order.

The "hero" of the operation is the co-op shopper, Elsie McKeown. According to coordinator Michaels, the job is "bumming." Although Ms. McKeown now holds a full-time job, she continues as co-op shopper, a position she has held for five years.

Each Tuesday morning, the shopper calls pre-selected vendors, ones known and trusted by the co-op for their quality products. Prices and availability are noted.

Armed with that information, Ms. McKeown considers the best bargains and compiles a list of those items that can be included in each bag for $2.

To complete her task, McKeown then contacts the driver and supplies him with the list of vendors and items to be purchased.

"I really think people are crazy if they don't join the co-op," claims Mrs. Michaels. "We can offer fresher, bigger, nicer, better and cheaper produce than anyone in town," she boasted.

The co-op also offers fresh eggs twice each month and bread on the alternating weeks. Special meat and cheese orders, also purchased at lower than store prices, may be placed by co-op members once each month.

Stretching the budget and gaining food value are the two most important "products" of the co-op. Senior citizens are urged to take advantage of the bulk buying power of the co-op. Seniors are not required to place full bag orders and may shop from the surplus table that sometimes also displays additional special or unusual items.

"Bananas are a commodity found in fruit bags most every week. Add apples, oranges, pears and grapes, and then try to buy equal for equal price in the supermarket."

How does a food co-op work and why has the Multi-Lakes program continued to be successful when others have fizzled?

Co-op coordinator Norma Michaels says its because of the great cooperation from the membership. "We run every single week from October through May. It takes devotion, time, labor, let's face it, work. But it is fun, it can be a social time for some and it does bring a feeling of satisfaction — the satisfaction of knowing we've stretched a buck a little farther."

OBITUARIES

FREDERICK MILLER, SR.

Funeral services for Frederick A. Miller, Sr. were held Saturday, October 6, at the Richardson, Bird and Lynch Funeral Home in Walled Lake. Pastor Everett Wilson of Lake Crest Baptist Church in Union Lake officiated.

Born January 21, 1915, in Michigan to George A. and Jenny Miller, he died October 4 at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital. He was 64.

Mr. Miller was a transfer operator for the Ford Motor Company.

He is survived by his wife Muriel (Johnson), sons: Glen and Gerald, both of Novi, Ronald of Farmington, and Frederick, Jr. of Pennsylvania, and two daughters, Mrs. Michael (Patricia) McDonald of Novi and Mrs. Larry (Karen) Carey of West Bloomfield. A brother, Jeff, and a sister, Mrs. Ruth Baker, both of South Lyon, and 16 grandchildren also survive.

Interment was in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens, Novi.

No quorum, no meeting

by Manager Peter Parker) and told him to be late. I told him (Council Member Thomas Brookover) would be late, too.

"They knew I was coming. I just don't understand why Gaspard had to adjourn it. We've waited 15 or 20 minutes for someone to show up at some meetings."

Lee said he will propose a policy at the council's next meeting October 16, to set a 10-minute limit before a meeting can be cancelled due to a lack of quorum. Hill also expressed his displeasure over the mayor's action by noting that several meetings have been held up for late-driving members.

LaMarca concedes that Parker informed him that Lee would be late, but added: "He didn't say how late, whether it was going to be 10 minutes or half an hour."

Even after Lee arrived, four council members were still present in city hall, but the mayor did not attempt to hold the meeting.

Brookover arrived at city hall at 8:15 p.m. He had been delayed at a meeting of the Michigan Kennedy for President Committee which he serves as legal counsel.

"I was at a meeting with (Michigan Attorney General) Frank Kelley," Brookover said. "I told Don to tell them I'd be late."

Council Member Cameron E. Rose had called Mrs. Lewandowski Monday to say he was unable to attend the session.

"I think they should be here on time to conduct the business of the city," the mayor said. LaMarca conceded that he has delayed council meetings in the past when a quorum was present in order to wait for a late-arriving council member who called city hall.

This reporter recalls one instance last year when the mayor called a council member at home in an effort to get a quorum. The meeting was not started until the council member, James L. Scott, arrived at city hall.

A check of council minutes for the last year shows that only 12 of the 24 regularly scheduled twice-monthly meetings of the council have started at least five minutes after the appointed hour. Six other meetings also started late.

The charter states that, if a quorum is not present, the council members in attendance may schedule another meeting. No action was taken at the October 2 non-meeting to schedule another session and council members contacted by The News said they did not plan to call a special meeting before the October 16 date.

By the Way

With Nancy Dingeldey

Take a group of energetic, imaginative, creative kids. Give them a purpose and a theme. Add the brisk air of autumn. Stir the whole creation up and the final product is Spirit Week and the sparkle of homecoming.

It was just that for one whole week at Walled Lake Central - a week of zany, crazy stunts, competitions and pep assemblies, all designed to put the student body into the mood for the biggest event in the entire football season.

Classes vying for the Spirit Week trophy jumped into the activities planned by the student government. They elected their queen, Gloria Walker, and their king, Todd Flannery. They made posters, collected pennies for the United Fund, and dressed up.

Imagination Day caused the creative minds of teen-agers to go wild. Hallways were jammed with kids in outfits, one better than the next.

The senior class, 54 of them to be exact, came to school dressed as a full deck of cards. Each was dressed in red, the class color, and wore a sandwich poster naming their particular place in the deck. There were even two jokers.

Each king boasted a crown. One fellow even trimmed his beard to match the likeness of his king. The queens were similarly attired.

Politi-Kienzler speak vows

Barbara Ann Politi and Allen Alfred Kienzler exchanged vows in a late summer afternoon nuptial mass at Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elfo Politi of Ennshire Drive in Lincoln Park. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kienzler of Dearborn Heights.

For the ceremony the bride chose a gown of white lace knit featuring a Queen Anne neckline and long sleeves adorned with Venice lace, which also edged the hemline of the A-line skirt that extended into a chapel train.

A Venice lace headpiece held her chapel veil. The bridal bouquet of white roses and stephanotis had streamers of English ivy.

Rosemary Ziegler of Livonia was matron of honor. Doreen Politi, sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmaid.

They wore aqua-hued gowns of Siesla fashioned with U-necklines and fitted waistlines. The skirts had handkerchief hemlines. They wore picture hats and carried cream-colored parasols with silk flowers. Their gloves and shoes also were cream colored.

Kenneth Pickard was best man for his cousin. Ushers were Kenneth Evans, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Richard and Roman Politi, brother and nephew of the bride.

A reception for 200 at Roma Hall of Bloomfield followed the ceremony. Out-of-town guests came from New York, New Jersey, Tennessee, Florida and Toronto and Hamilton, Ontario, as well as from northern Michigan.

A surprise visitor and special guest was the bride's great-aunt, Mrs. Sylvia Spallacci, who came from Italy for the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Novi High School and Oakland Community College. She formerly was employed with Consumers Power Company in the word processing division. Her husband is a graduate of Dearborn High School and Grand Rapids Electronics school.

Following a wedding trip through Canada, they are making their home in Virginia.

MR. & MRS. ALLEN KENZLER

Couple recite wedding vows

Shades of apricot and yellow were used throughout the late summer wedding uniting Mary Helen Stayman and Brian Charles Schenk at Our Lady of Sorrows Church, Farmington.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Stayman of Twelve Mile in Novi. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emerald Schenk of Warren.

Tom Good, soloist, and Jim Clark provided special wedding music on guitars and the recorder. Before an altar decorated with apricot gladioli, the couple joined in lighting a unity candle. In a special ceremony at the close of the mass, the bride placed a single rose at the altar of the Blessed Mother.

The bride appeared on the arm of her father. She wore an ice white satin gown, simply styled with mandarin collar and empire waistline; the only decoration was a row of pearl buttons on the bodice. An illusion veil fell from a satin headband trimmed with tiny pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of miniature carnations centered with apricot-colored Wilburn-Abby roses.

The bride was attended by Kathy Savadsky, a friend from Ann Arbor, as maid of honor, and the bride's sister, Susan Stayman Reznik of Detroit, matron of honor. Both were gowned in apricot Qiana blouse sheath dresses with stirred half-sleeves. They wore large natural straw picture hats adorned with silk flower trim.

The maid of honor carried a white and yellow silk flower bouquet. The matron of honor carried an arrangement of apricot and yellow silk flowers.

Bridesmaid Amy Good of Ann Arbor wore a shaded brown gown identical to the honor attendants'. She wore sprigs of baby's-breath in her hair and carried apricot and white silk flowers.

David Barr of Fennville was best man to the bridegroom with Bruce Niemi of Kalamazoo and Charles Wheeler of Pontiac acting as groomsmen. Joseph Stayman, brother of the bride, and Craig Schenk, brother of the groom, served as ushers.

A dinner for 150 guests was served at the Farmington Country Club immediately following the ceremony. Guests were then received at the Stayman Farm for a garden reception. A yellow and white striped tent, and tables topped with yellow coverings completed the outdoor setting.

The couple met while students at the University of Michigan.

NOVI COMMUNITY SCHOOLS

ANNUAL REPORT September, 1979

There was significant progress made toward the continual improvement of the quality of education in the Novi Schools during 1978-79. An overview of those accomplishments and events of the school district during the past year are presented for review. The enclosed data includes the financial position and categorical expenditures as audited.

The school district is spread over 17.4 square miles of territory and includes the city of Novi and a small part of section 7 of the city of Wilcox. The school district did contain part of Novi Township, but as of this current year, it is included in the City of Novi.

The 1978-79 school year official Fourth Friday in September count showed only sixteen (16) more students enrolled since the Fourth Friday count was taken the previous year. This showed some growth, but not nearly what was expected. Overall there were in total 3067 students enrolled in the district's three elementary and three secondary schools in 1978-79 as compared to 3051 in 1977-78.

The school district did not receive any membership aid from the State of Michigan due to the fact that Novi's high state equalized valuation puts us out of the formula for receipt of state aid. However, the Novi Schools did receive categorical state aid, the major areas being transportation, reading support, special education, vocational education and driver education.

The Novi Community School District presently owns seven school buildings, six of which actually housed students during the 1978-79 school year. The renovation of the old high school was completed and became a second middle school for grades five and six. The old Novi Elementary School building was leased to the city for the second year for storage, offices and recreational purposes. An additional school site was purchased on Beck Road to serve the future needs in the west side of the school district. Two additional sites have been reviewed and the Board of Education is continuing to evaluate their locations for future building. There is constant and complete analysis of population trends and what they mean for Novi Schools.

Although we continue to deal with the problems of a growing school district and the effects of an inflationary economy on the school budget, many positive accomplishments have occurred. In particular, a number of improvements were made in the instructional program during the year. Nutritional education became a major thrust with emphasis on providing knowledge to all youngsters in order for them to make wise food choices. Novi joined the Southeast Oakland Consortium for the Gifted and Talented which expanded the programming, resources and options in this vital area. The design and development of advanced placement courses at the high school took place and will be operational in 1979. This will provide young adults an opportunity to get college credit for high school courses.

The creative talents of students were given opportunities to perform at both the middle school and high school. A thirty-minute musical entitled "The Small One" was produced at the Middle School and the full score of the musical "Guys and Dolls" was performed at the high school. In both cases talented youngsters auditioned for parts for both singing and acting. Parent encouragement and help was greatly appreciated in these productions. In addition to the musicals, the high school marching band won many awards for its outstanding performance during the 1978-79 school year and student performances in the play "The Night of January 16th" were enthusiastically acclaimed by the audiences.

In general, the curriculum in the Novi Schools continued to emphasize mathematics and language arts (reading). Each school had a reading specialist assigned to help in remediation and acceleration of students. Special teacher learning and flexible classroom arrangements were used to try to give attention to the individual students and their needs.

At the June 11, 1979 election, the Community selected Mr. Joel Collier and Mrs. Ruth Waldenmayer to serve four-year terms of office on the Board of Education. The organizational meeting of the Board for the year 1978-79 was held on July 6, 1978 and established Mrs. Ruth Waldenmayer as President, Mr. J. Ron Millam as Vice-President, Mrs. Joan Daley, Secretary, and Mr. Joel Collier, Treasurer. The trustees of the Board of Education were: Mrs. Sharon Pelech, Mr. Ray Murphy and Mr. Robert Schram. These seven well-informed, conscientious and concerned citizens served the school district as its Board of Education. Each member gave of himself individually and collectively in helping shape the educational program for the children and youth of your community. Meetings were held on the first and third Thursday of each month. The first meeting of each month was held in the Administrative Services Building, while the third Thursday meetings were held in individual schools on a rotating basis. This provides two visits to each school throughout the year. In addition, open working sessions were held on various topics on alternating Thursdays.

For the 1978-79 school year, as in the past, the Board of Education continued to seek to improve communication with the citizens of the school district. This included parent involvement on various committees, including the Gifted and Talented, Family Life Education, Community Education, Auditorium, Farm and Garden, and Curriculum Council, to name but a few. Citizens were also involved in local school parent advisory council and associations. The Board of Education feels it absolutely essential to keep the community openly informed on not only what it was doing, but why, throughout the 1978-79 school year.

A bus fleet of 20 vehicles is updated each year to assure the safe transportation of the students. Four replacement vehicles have been purchased in May for the next school year. The fleet is serviced by a full-time mechanic and helper.

There are many factors that contribute to quality education. Facilities, equipment and materials are necessary, but much more important is the highly qualified professional and classified staff. The employees who give of themselves to help others is what truly contributes to the growing standard of excellence.

During the 1978-79 school year program assessment and development occurred in most areas of learning. In order to accomplish this task an on-going testing and evaluation took place. A combination of standardized tests, achievement and ability, were administered at all school levels. The comparison of overall district scores indicates that student performance is in keeping with their ability, falling primarily in the average to above-average range. The Michigan Assessment Program, an objective-referenced test, including areas of mathematics and reading, was once again administered to fourth, seventh and tenth graders. In all grades tested, Novi schools attained a higher percentage of students who received acceptable reading and math scores than did students state-wide.

The school district's equalized valuation for 1978-79 was $168,024,970, on which $3.04 plus 7.50 for debt purposes was levied. The official audit and resulting-formal report of the 1978-79 budget shows the district was able to operate successfully with revenues over expenditures. The general fund equity was increased from $54,137.85 to $236,489.68.

There are times that outside agencies are used to assure the normal operation of the school district. The School Board employs its own attorney and certified public accountant. The Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies, Inc. provided relevant data and statistical comparisons needed in assessing current and future directions of the district. The law firm of Butzel, Long, Geist, Klein and VanZile continue to represent Novi in the lawsuit of Bradley et al. vs. Milliken, et al.

The administration of the Board of Education policies and practices were carried out under the management team approach by Gerald B. Kratz, Superintendent; William D. Barr, Assistant Superintendent; Clara Porter, Coordinator of Community Education; Robert Young, Director of Vocational Education; Patrick Best, Director of Special Education; Helen Ditzazy, Principal of Novi High School; Robert Youngberg, Principal of the Middle Schools; David Brown, Joseph Irmick and Roy Williams, Elementary School Principals; Charles Nanas and Paul LaPlac, Assistant Principals in the secondary schools; Dick Garlick, Director of Maintenance and Operations; Michael Zemanski, Maintenance Foreperson; Glada Webb, Transportation Foreperson; and Yvonne Stephens, Director of Food Services. The entire management team including assistance to staff and students in carrying out the numerous services needed.

Working together in a common goal of providing the best education possible for the children and youth of Novi took place in the 1978-79 school year. Program offerings were expanded and modified as the needs of the students dictated. Citizen awareness and involvement continued to be a primary thrust. With this united cooperation and support, a superior school district will continue to grow and develop.

Novi Foundation reports plans for fine art series

One of the goals of the Novi Foundation for the Performing Arts since its creation in 1975 was to see the development of a well-rounded concert series for Novi and its surrounding communities.

With the announcement of the Sixth Gate Fine Arts Series, the foundation, working with Renaissance Concerts, will see their goal develop when the series opens on Saturday, October 27. All concerts will begin at 8 p.m.

The concert series, a first for Novi, will feature four programs spread through May providing well-rounded selections reaching from chamber music to jazz. Termined unlike in the past the series will offer music from the 17th Century to modern day, the audience will discover the sustaining features that have made music last throughout history.

Each performance will feature members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and other top professional ensembles. In addition, the concerts will be highlighted with commentary on the music to be performed: its history, style, tradition and performance practice through May providing well-rounded selections reaching from chamber music to jazz.

All concerts will be held in the Fuest Auditorium at Novi High School with tickets sold by four concert series subscription or individually. If tickets are available on the day of the concert, they may be purchased at the door.

The series opener will focus on chamber music ranging from the 17th century to modern times. Commentary on the styles and traditions of the music will be by Charles Greenwell. The harpsichord and piano of David Wilson will be joined by Detroit Symphony members Shaul Ben-Meir, flute;

Finland in Wixom

It was children telling children about the land of their ancestors in a program at the Wixom Public Library Saturday. Finland was in focus during the presentation in an on-going series of programs designed to coincide with the International Year of the Child. Past programs have found adults informing their youthful listeners on the cultures and customs of some far-away land. But, in the latest adventure, the kids, all residents of the Wixom Finn Camp, delivered the information to their peers. They talked about the sauna, the Finnish method of taking a bath in steam, Christmas traditions, birthday celebrations. They showed the colorful and delicate stitching of the Scandinavian country, along with other pieces of art. They talked about the language, its long words and sometimes difficult pronunciation. They described a tradition costume worn by Sharon Junnola. And they sang youthful folk songs. Their mothers, members of the Library Committee at the Finn Camp helped the children write their speeches and were on hand while they served pulla, a favorite Finnish coffee bread spiced with the flavor of cardamom and sugar.

'Dolly' comes to town in barbershop style

"A Toast to Dolly," a full adaptation of the Broadway hit "Hello, Dolly," will be staged, barbershop quartet style, by the South Oakland Chapter of Sweet Adelines at Our Lady of Mercy High School in Farmington.

The special adaptation will be produced on two consecutive weekends beginning October 26. The show will be repeated on October 27 and again on November 2 and 3. Showtime for each performance is 8:15 p.m.

The show, complete with staging, scenery and choreography, will feature area Sweet Adelines as well as members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

The entire musical will be done in four-part barbershop harmony, but will feature the entire cast of Broadway characters. The production, considered unique to the Detroit area, will be a harmonic rendition of the famous musical and will be complete with all the color and action of "Dolly."

The first such production, according to Ruth Campbell, president of the South Oakland chapter, occurred in 1975 with "A Salute to Music Man." Two years later, the membership staged "Hats Off to Oklahoma." The Novi woman said each production draws greater crowds and more enthusiastic response to the special shows done in the distinctive American style of barbershop singing.

Both Mrs. Campbell and Virginia Finney of Wixom are cast in this year's show.

Mrs. Campbell remarked that this year is an appropriate time to bring "Dolly" to the public barbershop style. The chapter she chairs is marking its 25th anniversary this year. "Dolly's" just the kind of gal to invite to a special party," remarked Mrs. Campbell. Pointing to the growing popularity of barbershop singing, Mrs. Campbell said there are over 650 chapters in existence with a total membership of over 29,000 women.

The purpose of the organization is to teach and sing the American folk art of four-part harmony, barbershop style, and through performance encourage the universal appreciation of that music.

The South Oakland Chapter is a part of the Border Lakes Region 2, comprising singing groups from the northern portion of lower Michigan, eastern Michigan, and the western portion of the Province of Ontario.

In addition to providing musical entertainment, "A Toast to Dolly" will benefit the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Champion trotters and pacers make great sires

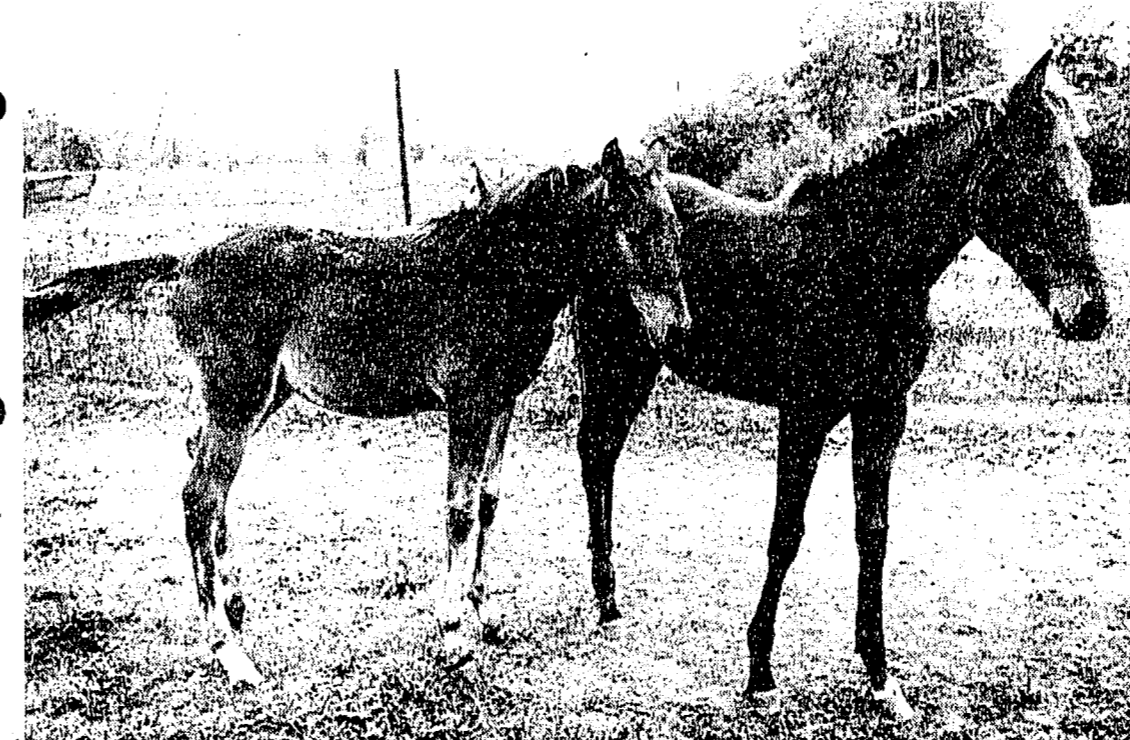

By KEN KOVACS

Timely Adora (above, left), one of four sires at the Downing Stock Farm, is the father of the fastest standardbred horse ever born in Michigan. He also sired the two foals pictured below. Below right, Jim Downing, the breeder at the farm, clowns with one of the playful foals. Timely Adora serviced some 90 mares last year, while the four stallions combined were bred to some 250 mares. Another stallion, Keystone Accent bred a foal which sold for some $29,000 — the most ever paid for a yearling in Michigan.

The fresh semen is inserted into the vagina of the mare through a thin, straw-like tube. It must be done immediately because the semen will die within one hour. But Jim Downing, Jr., has everything under control. He has injected the semen of various sires into 10 different mares this day. "We average about 8 to 10 mares a day but sometimes we service as many as 15 or 18," he said. "All together we serviced about 250 mares this year." Downing does all the breeding at the Downing Stock Farm, 8249 Seven Mile, Salem Township. He has been handling the breeding for the past three years. His father, Jim Downing, Sr., was the breeder prior to Jim. The farm breeds standardbred trotters and pacers for harness racing horse owners in Michigan, Ohio and Ontario. The Downing Farm is the second largest standardbred breeder in Michigan. The only larger volume breeder is Shilohville Farms in Duran, which services between 350-400 mares a year, according to Downing. Almost all breeding is done through artificial insemination, Downing said. "We have to take every precaution to prevent disease and infection," he said. "The stud and the mare are thoroughly checked by a veterinary doctor before breeding. "We do such a great volume of breeding that we can't take any chances." Downing said he does occasionally mate a sire and mare naturally when he is only breeding a few mares that day and if both horses are free of infection. The Downing Farm sires have produced a number of successful race horses with studs like Timely Adora, Keystone Accent, Fulla Strikes and Mighty Phantom. Timely Best Man, sired by Timely Adora, is the fastest horse every sired in Michigan. He has won over $250,000 ($212,000 last year). Mighty Phantom sired Phantom Fella, a yearling who recently sold for $29,000 — the highest price ever paid for a Michigan yearling. Mighty Phantom's yearlings this year sold for a Michigan all-time high average of $13,000 each. Fulla Strikes (now five years old) holds the world's record for two-year-old pacers on a one-mile track. He set the mark at Hollywood Park in California in 1976 with a time of 1:54.2. Keystone Accent set a one-mile world record in the aged category (four years and over) with a time of 1:55.8. As these horses become big money winners, their value as a sire increases proportionately, Downing said. "Most buyers look for a horse who has won at least $100,000," he said. Owners must pay $1,000 to have a mare bred to Timely Adora, while Keystone Accent brings in $1,500 and Mighty Phantom's services cost $2,000. It is rare for a mare to give birth to twins, Downing said, but it does happen occasionally. "Twins are almost valueless as race horses," he said. "We usually don't charge the fee if the mare has twins because as a rule neither of the foals will become successful race horses." "Twins are usually smaller and even the ones that mature and become full size generally don't develop into good racers." Downing said another general rule is that males tend to develop into better race horses than females. "Studs are generally faster, stronger and have more stamina than fillies," he said. "A male usually sells for about 20 per cent more than a female." Standardbred horses recently have been receiving much less publicity than the thoroughbreds which run in such well-known races as the Kentucky Derby. But the harness racing horses "are now beginning to emerge," Downing says. "Steve Cauthen has done wonders for thoroughbred racing," Downing said, "but trotters and pacers are very fast too. In fact, Paul Reveré rode a pacer on his famous ride."

Most buyers look for a horse who has won at least $100,000

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY announces it has applied to the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) for authorization to adopt an expanded energy conservation program.

"Saving gas now will make more gas available for the future," James B. Falahee, senior vice president in charge of regulatory matters, said.

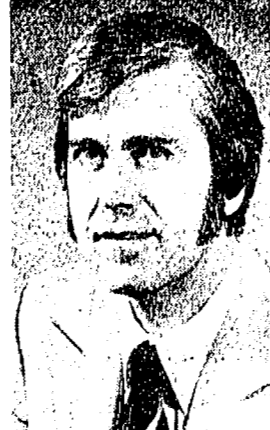

Falahee said Consumers Power would implement the program by mail and media advertising aimed at increasing public awareness of the limit to gas resources.

There would be a $1,000 limit for each building when the installation is done by a contractor, and financing for a "do-it-yourselfer" would be limited by current legal limitations to $300.

Participating customers would have up to 60 months to pay for the insulation in equal monthly payments added to their gas bills.

Consumers Power would incur costs for labor, transportation, money, advertising, taxes, insurance, bad debts and general and administrative costs," Falahee said.

Ringmaster Harold Ronk directs the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus at Cobo Hall through October 21

Ringmaster sets tone for circus

All eyes focus on a solitary figure standing in a pool of light in the ring, Ringmaster Harold Ronk.

After more than a quarter century as the singing narrator for The Greatest Show on Earth, Ronk still epitomizes the perfect ringmaster in a white ruff, red shirt, spangled coat, dark trousers, white gloves and a high beaver hat.

The circus will be at Cobo Hall in Detroit through October 21. Through his musical and informative contributions to the circus, Ronk plays an important role in the continuity of the show.

With his poised and authoritative bearing, he directs the audience's attention to the deeds of skill and daring and comic antics that are taking place above the arena and on the sawdust.

The dapper ringmaster, a native of Canton, Ohio, studied music in his youth, attended the University of Southern California, Bradley University in Illinois and was a drama student at the American Theater Wing.

"I had done quite a lot of serious singing and wanted to perform in theater or opera," said Ronk who was recently honored by the Circus Fans of America with a special award for his rendition of the "Star Spangled Banner."

"But I attended a performance of the circus at Madison Square Garden and it was so spectacular and dramatic that I was fascinated."

Ronk was hired and in 1953 he took to the ring to begin his long and illustrious career with The Greatest Show on Earth.

All-Tchaikovsky night opens symphony year

The West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra opens its 1979-80 season with a Tchaikovsky spectacular featuring David Syme at the keyboard.

The most well-known work on the evening's program is the "1812 Overture," Tchaikovsky wrote this piece for a festival that was to commemorate the great Russian victory over Napoleon in 1812.

The internationally-acclaimed pianist David Syme will be playing Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1."

Syme is known for his dazzling technical qualities. It is his ability to interpret the music with contagious fervor and to convey in a present and immediate sense the piano literature of the past which result in his superb effectiveness as a musician.

"The Piano Concerto No. 1" is probably the most popular concerto for the piano ever written. The work begins with an unforgettable theme that has been used in motion pictures and even made its way onto the Hit Parade.

Tickets for the performance are priced at $6 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. Tickets may be reserved ahead of time by calling the symphony office at 626-1560.

PHOTOGRAPHER DAVID CARL TURNLEY of Sliger Home Newspapers has had two photographs published in the new "Family of Women" book.

The book is a third in a series, following "Family of Man" and "Family of Children." The original "Family of Man" was created by immortal photographer Edward Steichen and is one of the best-selling books in the world.

Turnley's two pictures, on pages 135 and 139 of "Family of Women," were originally taken for the Brighton Argus. The book features the work of 180 photographers from around the world.

The staffer had mixed emotions as he opened the first copy of the book last week. He was pleased with the pictures but disappointed that his name was misspelled "Trunley." (The publisher promised to correct the error right away.)

An excerpt of the book is in the current Reader's Digest magazine.

Our World Revolves Around You

REALLY WORLD

We won't promise you the moon. We'll deliver it.

Former Astronaut...
Wally Schirra for REALTY WORLD

People used to think the moon was made of green cheese and real estate companies just sold houses. Space technology disproved the first theory and REALTY WORLD is changing people's minds about the second. REALTY WORLD people are trained to provide the services you need to make your move as easy as possible.

It's Harrison, 13-7

Warriors heartbroken after 3-OT loss

Vikings second in county 2-E
Central gridders dropped 3-E
Novi picks a pair 5-E
Cold Warriors struggle 6-E

Chuck App said it best. "I'll remember this football game for a long time in my heart," the Walled Lake Western football coach said in the wake of a crushing 13-7 triple-overtime loss at the hands of Farmington Harrison Saturday.

"The guys fell short on the scoreboard, not on the football field."

To be sure, the Warriors played their collected hearts out in one of the more suspense-filled, bitterly-contested battles in Western history. The only unfortunate aspect was that App's crew fell just short against a league power for the second week in a row, virtually destroying any title hopes.

Most of the rain-drenched drama unfolded in the overtime sessions, in which each team had its chances before Harrison tallied on a six-yard run to seal the verdict. Overtime is played differently on the prep level, with each team getting the ball on the opponent's 10-yard line. The squads take turns on offense and have four downs in which to score, continuing until the tie is broken.

The victors won the coin toss and smartly elected to go on defense first in overtime. That way, by going on offense last, Harrison would know how many points it needed to stay or go ahead.

However, that strategy went for naught. Western tried and missed a 23-yard field goal attempt, but Harrison too missed a field goal attempt after its series of downs and the first overtime ended.

Then came the second OT, one which the Warriors may never be able to forget. After stopping the home club on a fourth-and-12 situation, Western pushed its way down the half-yard line on first down. Victory seemed moments away.

Harrison had other ideas, though, and stiffened up on two consecutive occasions as quarterback Rob King struggled in vain to reach the goal line. Discouraged but not defeated, the Warriors knew they still could end the game with a successful field goal.

But fate was definitely not on Western's side this gloomy Saturday. An 18-yard field goal try was ruined as the ball slipped off the tee, and the Warriors' chances slipped away with it.

In periods number three, the frustrated locals were intercepted on their possession. Two plays later, the game was over.

Regulation play was just as exciting, with each team again squandering numerous opportunities while a chilly rain made the Farmington field a mud bowl. As early as the first quarter, Western drove to the Harrison 17-yard line but fumbled.

The two teams slipped, slogged and squirmed back and forth until the next quarter, when a key roughing-the-kicker call went against the Warriors. The penalty, which occurred on a fourth-and-seven, led to a Harrison touchdown three plays later. A four-yard gallop netted the game's first six points and the extra point kick made it 7-0.

After halftime, the defenses continued to dominate with the aid of the poor field condition. Then, the Warriors meticulously pieced together a 70-yard drive that resulted in a tie ball game shortly after the start of the fourth quarter. King's three-yard run, followed by a Mike Xenos kick, made it seven-all.

The two clubs then duked it out on even terms, setting up the game's chaotic but classic close.

The defeat, of course, dimmed a sensational defensive output by the entire Western team. Coach App, for one, couldn't say enough about the effort on

Frustrated Wildcats drop 12-7 squeaker

The Novi varsity football team has dropped another close contest, this time to Pinckney, 12-7. Novi's won only one time this year, downing Divine Child (20-6) in the opening game of the season.

From there it has been downhill. Novi lost to Saline 22-13, South Lyon 8-7, and Brighton 22-15.

"It's very frustrating," Wildcat coach John Osborne said. "I still think that we have a decent ball club. Whether we're tired or it's bad luck, I don't know. Whatever it is, we're having trouble breaking out of it."

Novi amassed 240 yards in total offense but could notch just one touchdown for its efforts. That came on the Wildcats second possession of the game. On a drive that saw quarterback Mike Rentner complete two passes to Jeff Clark in crucial situations, one for 21 yards and the other for 18, the score came on a six-yard sweep by Jeff Arbour.

Clark kicked the extra point and Novi had a 7-0 lead after the first quarter.

In the second quarter, Pinckney's offense came alive. With the ball on its own 24-yard line, Pinckney's Keith Pace carried the ball 39 yards on the first play of the possession. After a few more plays Pinckney capped the drive with an 18-yard touchdown pass from Doug Smith to Mike Janowski on a fourth and goal-to-go situation. The two-point conversion attempt was foiled by the Wildcat defense and Novi led at the half 7-6.

Novi received the opening kickoff to start the second half and drove down to the Pinckney 38-yard line where they were forced to punt on fourth down. Pinckney came back on this series to score on a 49-yard reverse play, with Mark Welser carrying the ball. Again, the two-point conversion attempt was blocked, this time with Jim Chikowski breaking up the pass play. But the damage had been done. Pinckney led 12-7 and the Wildcats were unable to find the end zone again that evening.

Arbour led the Wildcats with 91 yards gained on 12 carries. Keith Crosslin gained 38 on 10 carries. Pace led Pinckney with 124 yards rushing.

Rentner threw the ball 12 times and completed four. Pinckney completed three of five pass attempts.

"We moved the ball night," Osborne said. "It was always just one small thing. One three occasions their linemen came off the ball extremely fast and stopped our plays. That put us in the hole. We're moving the football but it's a motion penalty here or an offside there. It's frustrating."

"Pinckney is a good trapping team. We had prepared for this but were unable to stop them. The reverse play in which they scored was a good example. Our players were compensating to the middle to stop their trap plays and just got suckered, leaving the outside open for their run. It was a well executed play on Pinckney's part. It worked well. It was a good game but it just means that we have another tough loss to deal with."

Osborne praised his kicking teams for their fine play. Frank Buzolito, Steve Wright and Gary Phillips were singled out. All had great hits and blocks in the game, Osborne said. He also singled out Mike Gopjan, who almost broke two long kickoff returns. One ended on the 50-yard line and the other was stopped on the Pinckney 49. Both returns gave the Wildcats good field position.

The Wildcats will travel to Howell this Friday. Howell is having a season similar to Novi's. Last year's conference champs and with over 60 players on the varsity, many people had picked Howell to take the newly created Kensington Valley Conference title. Howell won its first two games over non-conference foes, but then dropped successive contests to Brighton and Pinckney. Last week the Howell squad shut out Hartland 17-0. Friday's contest will be Howell's homecoming game.

The Novi JV raised its record to 3-2 with a 20-6 win over Pinckney. The first half was a defensive struggle as neither team could score. "We made a lot of mistakes offensively in the first half," coach Brian Howard said. "But we woke up in the second half."

Pinckney woke up first as it scored on a 75-yard run off tackle to draw first blood. The try for the extra point failed.

Novi came right back and on a drive highlighted by a 34-yard run from Pete DeBrule, and scored on a two-yard plunge by David Chikowski. DeBrule scored the two-point conversion to give Novi the lead, 6-6.

In the fourth quarter, Chris Caudell capped a long Wildcat drive by carrying the ball in from the 11-yard line on an option play. The point-after conversion failed again but the 20-6 lead was all the Wildcat defense needed to win.

DeBrule carried the ball just seven times, all in the second half, and gained 73 yards for his efforts. Caudell completed three of five pass attempts.

On defense, Al Smith made 10 solo tackles and assisted on three others from his linebacker position. Chikowski and David Majors each picked off Pinckney passes to help squelch offensive drives.

The Novi freshman team beat the Pinckney freshman squad 24-0. The win raises the freshman team's record to 2-1 on the year.
