Computer firm set for Orchard Hill Place

Plans for a major "office park" development on the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty Road are moving ahead.

Representatives of Orchard Hill Place Associates, owners and developers of the 89-acre parcel, have announced that the initial building on the site will be occupied by the Digital Equipment Corporation out of Boston, Massachusetts.

The Digital Equipment Corporation is the second largest computer company in the world, second only to International Business Machines (IBM).

The corporation, which presently maintains offices in Farmington Hills, has selected Novi as the site for its Midwest regional headquarters.

The Digital Equipment Corporation will occupy the first two floors of a three-story building which encompasses some 60,000 square feet. A one-story banking facility will be attached to the building.

The Novi Planning Board voted unanimously last week to grant revised preliminary site plan approval for the proposed facility and authorize the site plan sub-committee to grant final site plan approval.

Orchard Hill Place representatives told the News that groundbreaking for the building is imminent.

The spokesman said the company hopes to have footings in the ground by December 1 and structural steel up by January 15. Plans call for the building to be completed and occupied by next summer.

The building for the Digital Equipment Corporation is the first phase of a project which also is proposed to include:

- a major hotel;
- 400,000 square feet of office space in a series of buildings;
- a recreation complex that would include a theater, bowling alley and racquetball courts; and
- a series of retail stores that would have a client "on the nature of Hudson's" as its major tenant.

Plans for the development to be known as Orchard Hill Place were revealed in June of 1978. Although an initial site plan approval was granted by the planning board last December, there has been little progress with the development until the announcement last week that the Digital Equipment Corporation has been signed as the initial tenant.

Joseph Gerak, a representative of Orchard Hill Place Associates, told the News last week that the delay has been due to difficulty in obtaining permission for curb cuts on Haggerty Road from the Oakland County Road Commission.

The road commission apparently delayed approval of the curb cuts so they could be coordinated with entrance drives to a 900-seat Church of the Nazarene which is slated for construction on the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty Road in Farmington Hills.

The Orchard Hill Place development is one of just two major "office park" complexes presently proposed in the metropolitan Detroit area, according to spokesmen for the company. The other is in Troy.

Orchard Hill Place representatives told The News that construction of the first building is the key to the development. Once the first building is on site there'll be a great deal of interest in the rest of the office park, he said.

Queen Margie and dad

There are times in a man's life when things just couldn't get any better. Gilbert Rentner experienced one of those moments last Friday when his daughter Margie was crowned 1979 Homecoming queen during halftime activities at Novi High School's game against Hartland. Margie was elected queen by the students from a field of four senior candidates which included Pam Gilbert, Diane Bosco and Tracy Sobkow. As for Rentner, it was a particularly big night. In addition to watching his daughter crowned queen, he also watched his son Mike quarterback the Wildcats to a 24-8 triumph. (Staff photo by Dave Turnley)

Schools eye lunch price hike

Rising costs of food and labor may force the Novi Schools to raise the price of lunches.

School board members will consider Thursday (tomorrow) whether they should increase the price of hot lunches for students and adults who eat meals prepared by the schools.

Board members discussed the possibility of raising lunch prices last week, but were by no means in agreement.

Superintendent Gerald Kratz had recommended the board increase lunch prices 10 cents above the current rate.

Under the administrative proposal elementary students would be charged 75 cents, secondary students would pay 85 cents and adults would pay $1.25 for lunches at the school.

Kratz told board members the school lunch program has been operating at a deficit for the past two years. Last year the district lost about $9,400 on lunches, he indicated. When added to previous deficits, the lunch fund shows a total deficit of more than $14,500.

The last audit revealed that Novi Schools spent more than $258,000 on lunches in the 1978-79 school year. Students and adults paid about $185,000 for lunches served and the federal government reimbursed the school district $63,600.

Kratz explained the district can continue to carry the deficit on the books for some time, but eventually it will have to make up the difference with monies from the general fund which is largely made up of local tax dollars.

He told the school board it is difficult to compute the actual cost of serving a single lunch, but it appears the district lost between five and seven cents per lunch last year.

Increasing the price of lunches would "hopefully, eliminate a deficit this year and will help us begin to erase the combined negative fund equity of the last two years," Kratz said.

Trustee Robert Schram questioned whether it is necessary to reduce the lunch fund deficit at this time. He said he would be willing to carry on the deficit on the books if raising lunch prices would put them out of an affordable price range.

He told the board he believed that since the schools are emphasizing nutrition education, the district should encourage students to eat the lunches the district provides. Raising lunch prices could discourage students from buying hot lunches, said Schram.

Trustee Joel Colliau took issue with Schram's comments, however.

"Philosophically, I agree with attempts to keep down the price of school lunches. But I challenge anyone to provide a lunch as nutritional as we can provide for 75 cents," Colliau said.

He added that he thought charging 75 cents for elementary lunches and 85

Principals report no drug problem

Findings of principals at Novi High School and Novi Middle School show no evidence of drug problems in either school.

Principals from both schools were asked to prepare reports for the school board including information as to whether a drug problem existed in the schools. They also were asked to detail any measures needed for dealing with a drug problem if it had been found.

Questions were raised two weeks ago by School Board Member Sharon Pelchat, who expressed concerns she had heard from students regarding marijuana smoking in Novi High School and problems with a bathroom in Middle School South.

Dr. Robert Youngberg, Novi High School principal, told the board in a written statement that surveillance at the school has been increased for the past two weeks in response to concerns that high school students are using marijuana in the smoking area and entering classes "under the influence" and that teachers are ignoring the situation.

The principal went on to say "assigned teachers and building administrators have been on duty regularly in the smoking area, corridors and lavatory areas during the times when students are carrying or using marijuana in the smoking area. The odor is not present, the paraphernalia is not being exhibited and teachers have been unable to detect anyone "under the influence."

"Since there is no proof, by fact, that any problem exists in this regard, we shall continue to maintain that it does not," Youngberg told the board.

He added that the anonymous accusations at first upset many persons in the school. "However, in keeping with our readiness to enhance the educational program, we are proud to report that our students have used this incident as a learning situation in the exercise of the democratic process."

"Hopefully, we have learned through this event," Youngberg said.

He concluded his remarks by presenting a "complete, accurate and uneditorialized copy for the press."

Reports from Middle School South Principal Charles Nanas were much the same.

"After spending a great deal of time

High school students say drug use minor

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story is based upon information gathered at two meetings with senior government classes and a third meeting of elected representatives of government classes at Novi High School.

Ask a class of students at Novi High School if there is a drug problem in their school and the answer is likely to be a resounding "NO."

Students have watched the use of drugs taper off to a point where they say the percentage is so low it's not worth mentioning.

They can give examples of isolated incidents, but the students report those incidents are strictly isolated and the general student body of Novi High School does not smoke marijuana or use any other drug during school hours.

"You can't squash it out completely, but really there is hardly anyone taking drugs," said Peggy Daley.

Headlines proclaiming a drug problem in the school insulted and angered many students.

"The seniors were up in arms because they felt it was a tarnish," Daley said. "If we had been accused of something we were guilty of, we probably would have tried to shove it under the rug, but it was because we aren't guilty of it that we were so mad."

Craig Iseli said that the senior class felt good about its school and did not want to leave the public with the wrong idea about students.

"That's why the headline was a slap, it wasn't really the article but the word of mouth publicity it generated," Iseli said.

Students are concerned the public will think that after paying for a new high school the students are going to demolish it because they are on drugs.

They say they appreciate the new high school and take care of it. They report little vandalism or similar problems experienced at many other high schools.

"We're proud we don't have to have guards and we want to keep it that way," commented Mark Ewald.

"We have a clean, nice facility that the kids are taking care of," Daley said. The senior representatives were asked to define "drugs" and "drug problems," as persons their age view it.

Many students now consider "drugs" to be what are known as hard drugs or "chemicals." Others report the word is still all encompassing and includes marijuana.

The interviewers students said a "drug problem" in a school is when there are students who are completely out of control or, as Ewald put it, "bouncing off the walls."

Students reported there are no problems of that nature. A few students smoke marijuana in the parking lot,

Pollution haunts Meadowbrook Lake

Residents in Novi's Meadowbrook Lake subdivision, who have been battling pollution problems associated with their lake for better than 10 years, received more bad news last week.

Meadowbrook Lake was cited as one of five lakes in Oakland County cited as unsuitable for swimming" in the 1979 Bathing Beach Surveillance Program conducted by the Oakland County Public Health Division.

Specifically, the report said that Meadowbrook Lake suffers from "poor turbidity, muck bottom, past history of high bacterial counts."

Dorothy DuMontier of the public health division said that the lake samples showed no improvement in the coliform levels in Meadowbrook Lake.

"The coliform count was mediocre," she said. "It's the same old thing out there. There hasn't been any improvement."

Concerns with pollution of the lake are nothing new to residents of the subdivision who have been fighting to clean up the pollution problems in the man-made lake for more than 10 years.

The lake has been declared unsafe for swimming for several years because tests have shown the coliform bacteria counts exceed the safe limit of 2.00. Coliform bacteria is a potentially hazardous group of bacteria associated with the intestinal tract.

Subdivision residents previously blamed the lake pollution on the industrial property owners to the north of Meadowbrook Lake. The city has since undertaken two projects to eliminate those sewage problems.

Another suspected source of the pollution — drainage from houses — has apparently been controlled by connecting the homes to sanitary sewers.

More recently, Ronald Birou, a member of the Meadowbrook Lake Homeowners Association, has directed his attention to the Novi-Walled Lake Wastewater Treatment Plant as the possible source of pollution.

Birou based his suspicions on a report prepared by the Environmental Protection Agency on alternatives to super sewer.

Information in the EPA study reveals that during a 1976 sampling taken near Twelve Mile, the Michigan Water and Quality standards and guidelines for dissolved oxygen, phosphorous, nitrate ammonia and dissolved solids were exceeded. The report blamed the test results on effluent from the wastewater treatment facility.

Charges that the plant is polluting the lake have been denied by officials of the Oakland County Department of Public Works which is responsible for operations of the plant.

Novi planners okay Kmart shopping center plan

Does the change of major tenants in the proposed West Oaks Shopping Center from Montgomery Ward to Kmart require the developers to begin the site plan review process all over again?

The answer to that question is "no," according to the Novi Planning Board which last week voted 7-1 to recommend revised preliminary and final site plan approval for the proposed development.

The West Oaks Shopping Center is proposed on a 24.15-acre parcel on the west side of Novi Road, approximately opposite the Twelve Oaks Mall.

Michael Ward, an executive vice-president with the Ramco-Gershenson Company which is developing the shopping center, said that land balancing operations will begin this fall and construction of the center will get underway next spring.

The present timetable for construction calls for the shopping center to be open for business in November 1980.

In addition to the 90,000 square foot Kmart store, the West Oaks shopping center is proposed to include:

- a 32,000 square foot Kroger's store;
- a 60,000 square foot Service Merchandise catalog store;
- an 11,900 square foot drug store (formerly Perry Drugs); and

- 14 retail stores with a combined gross floor area of 32,900 square feet. The site plan approved by the planning board last week calls for the shopping center to be laid out in an L-shaped configuration. The Kroger's store will be closest to Novi Road, followed by Service Merchandise, Perry Drugs and the 14 retail stores running east to west. The development will then swing 90 degrees to the north with the Kmart store comprising the bottom of the "L" running north and south.

The primary question facing the planners was whether the change in major tenants from Montgomery Ward to Kmart represented a revision of the initial site plan or necessitated an entire new site plan review.

The proposed West Oaks Shopping Center, as initially presented, was to have included a 128,000 square foot Montgomery Ward store and a 50,000 square foot Service Merchandise catalog store as its major tenants.

Ward told The News three weeks ago, however, that Montgomery Ward had been dropped from the shopping center and replaced with a Kmart store.

The Ramco-Gershenson executive told the Novi planners last week that Montgomery Ward had dropped out of plans for the West Oaks Shopping Center because of uncertainty over economic conditions in southeastern Michigan.

Uncertainty over auto talks with the UAW, the financial problems being experienced by both the City of Detroit and Wayne County, and a general softening of retail sales in southeastern Michigan had led Montgomery Ward officials to drop consideration of the Novi site for the present time, Ward explained.

He said that Montgomery Ward officials had indicated they might be interested in building another store in the Novi area in March of 1983, but that Ramco-Gershenson was unable to hold off on its plans for the development of the West Oaks Shopping Center for that period of time.

Ward also said that Kmart had been the first choice of Ramco-Gershenson for the West Oaks Shopping Center. At the time plans for the shopping center were being put together Kmart was negotiating for the location of a store in Walled Lake and Ramco-Gershenson turned to Montgomery Ward instead.

Kmart's plans in Walled Lake fell through at approximately the same time that Montgomery Ward decided to hold off on the Novi site, according to Ward.

"It was only natural for us to get together again," commented the Ramco-Gershenson executive.

"When we got back together with Kmart they were looking at two locations on Novi Road," he continued. "They were going to be located somewhere in Novi on Novi Road, and they decided to go with our location."

Ward did not reveal the other Novi Road site in which Kmart had been interested. Industry sources told The News earlier this year, however, that inquiries were being made about the possibility of building a Kmart shopping center at the Novi Road-Ten Mile intersection.

Those inquiries apparently were dropped when Kmart officials tied in with Ramco-Gershenson's West Oaks Shopping Center plans.

The question of whether the change in tenants constituted a revised site plan or an entirely new site plan may or may not have been resolved by the action of the planning board last week.

In response to a request for a legal ruling on the question, City Attorney David Fried said last week that the planners grant only revised preliminary (instead of final) site plan approval at the present time.

"I don't want the council to think this board has been hasty in its decision to recommend final site plan approval," said Roethel.

However, Planner Peter Romanoff said "these people (Ramco-Gershenson) have put a lot of money in the property already. Maybe 10 years from now they could come up with a major tenant that everybody would like," said Romanoff. "I don't think it's right to hold somebody up because of the nature of the tenant."

The planners subsequently voted 7-1 to recommend revised preliminary and final site plan approval. The lone dissenting ballot was cast by Roethel.

assessment of the nature of the change in the plan.

Planning Board Chairman John Roethel said last week that he believes the council is very concerned about the change in tenants from Montgomery Ward to Kmart and suggested that the planners grant only revised preliminary (instead of final) site plan approval at the present time.

"I don't want the council to think this board has been hasty in its decision to recommend final site plan approval," said Roethel.

Novi schools ratify two pacts

Contract settlements have been reached with all but one of the five employee groups which have been engaged in negotiations with the Novi Schools throughout the summer.

School board members ratified contracts with two employee groups last week, leaving only the school secretaries with an unsettled contract. The secretaries have agreed to work without a contract until an agreement has been reached. Their contract expires June 30.

Transportation employees voted unanimously October 8 to ratify a two-year contract offered by the school district, while the Novi Cafeteria Employees Association unanimously accepted a two-year pact on October 5.

Superintendent Gerald Kratz recommended acceptance of the tentative agreements Thursday and told the board that meetings with both employee groups had been conducted "in an atmosphere of mutual respect and cooperation."

He added that the administration believed the contracts fall within the intent of the presidential guidelines for wage increases.

It also was pointed out that school board members had set parameters for the contracts in a session held last spring.

Board members met in a closed session Thursday to discuss the final contracts offered to both groups and emerged to unanimously accept the pacts.

Trustee Robert Schram requested the closed session to discuss the employee contracts. He questioned whether board members had given enough input into the contract talks compared to the amount of time spent on teachers negotiations. He was reminded of the board set parameters in March.

The vote to discuss the contracts in closed session passed by a 5-2 margin. Trustee Joel Colliau and Board President Ron Milan voted in opposition.

Under terms of the new contract with the bus drivers, salaries will increase nine percent in the first year of the pact and 8.5 percent in the second year, according to Milan Obrenovich, negotiator for the schools.

In the first year of the contract the salary range for transportation employees is set at $4.50 for beginning employees and $6 an hour for employees at the top of the scale (five years experience).

In the second year, new employees will earn $4.97 an hour and employees topping the salary scale will earn $6.51 per hour.

Transportation employees also received added life insurance coverage with benefits increasing from $10,000 to $15,000. They also maintained fringe benefits enjoyed under the previous contract agreement.

The contract agreement accepted by bus drivers October 8 was the second formal offer from the school district. An earlier offer was rejected by the membership and bargaining teams for both sides went back to the table to hammer out the current contract.

Representatives of the cafeteria workers association negotiated a salary increase of 37 cents per hour in the first year of the contract and 41 cents an hour in the second year.

Classifications in the salary schedule for cafeteria workers are based upon seniority and position held.

Under the terms of the new agreement the salary ranges for cafeteria workers in the lowest classification will be $3.19 and $5.10 per hour for employees at the top of the scale.

In 1980-81 the contract provides for a salary increase to $3.80 for beginning employees and $5.51 at the top step.

Obrenovich explained the district will pay the full cost of the dental insurance premium for employees who work at least 5 1/2 hours. Cafeteria employees who work less than that amount pay a portion of the premium and the school district picks up the remainder.

Under the agreement cafeteria employees also will now receive life insurance coverage of up to $10,000.

In earlier talks with the secretaries an impasse was declared and negotiations were slated to enter mediation.

However, Obrenovich said that mediator had not yet set a date to meet with the bargaining teams so they have decided to try and proceed with the talks without mediation.

A bargaining session was scheduled for Monday evening. School administrators, representing the school board, and representatives of the employee groups have met off and on since June in an attempt to reach contract settlements.

Custodians in the International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL-CIO local 547) ratified a three-year contract in June.

The school district and teachers in the Novi Education Association reached a three-year contract agreement in September following the district's first teacher strike.

Great gunsmoke

Great gunsmoke, what's going on here? Has Walled Lake Western High School really been invaded by Indians, savages and dance hall girls? Not really, of course. But it might have looked that way last Wednesday when Western students got involved in Dress-up

Walled Lake residents asked to join beautification project

The Walled Lake Beautification Committee will plant 15 decorative trees along West Maple Road November 3. Mayor Gaspare LaMarca announced this week.

"Volunteers may report to city hall, 499 E. West Maple Road, at 9 a.m. on that date to help with the project," the mayor said. The trees will be planted along West Maple from the city hall to Decker Road, he added.

Last fall and again this spring, the committee planted decorative trees and shrubs near the Maple Plaza on West Maple. That effort won the mayor and Ardy's Mercier, committee chairperson, distinguished service awards from the Keep Michigan Beautiful (KMB) Committee.

Mayor LaMarca, Mrs. Mercer and Council Member Cameron E. Rose were scheduled to receive the stainless steel plaques last night at a banquet in Lansing.

In addition to the landscaping project, city officials were honored by the state group for their clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign. The committee awarded more than 50 letters to Walled Lake residents and business owners for improvements they made to their property during the spring effort.

Council members and City Manager Peter Parker last week praised the mayor and Mrs. Mercer for their awards.

The mayor said he has heard many comments from residents and business owners about the "tremendous improvement in the city" due to the beautification committee's efforts.

Mayor Pro Tem Heather F.M. Hill also praised the city's department of public works (DPW) for its maintenance of city property and weed cutting along major roads. She also recognized the fire department for compliments she's heard on its quick response to emergency calls.

Rose added that the DPW should be praised for cleaning up portions of the Greenway Drain near city property.

Whenever Wolverine Lake Village officials complain about the drain and Walled Lake's responsibility for cleaning it up, Rose said he "sees red." The council member said he felt Parker and the DPW should be commended for cleaning the county-owned drain.

Clerk-Treasurer Ruby Lewandowski added that city hall clerical staff deserves accolades for their work.

Mayor LaMarca summed up the comments by noting that all city employees and officials have made an effort to clean-up Walled Lake and improve services. He thanked all employees and officials for a job well done.

Second petition pending

Boundary panel rejects first annexation petition

The Michigan State Boundary Commission has formally rejected one of the two annexation requests from the City of Walled Lake for portions of Commerce Township.

The still-pending annexation request, though, includes all of the land sought in the annexation petition that was rejected September 19 by the state agency.

The commission's findings of fact and order to reject the request was approved October 18 at a meeting in Lansing.

An adjudicative hearing was held in September when the annexation petition filed in January 1972 by property owners in the township area bounded by Walled Lake's eastern city boundary, Fourteen Mile on the south, Haggerty Road on the east and, generally speaking, West Maple Road and the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks on the north.

At the meeting, the state panel found that the petition was "non-conforming to the law and commission rules because it contains no legal description, map, statement of land to be annexed, affidavit of ownership and no ownership documents." Under the law, the petition will be returned to the petitioners Roger C. Richards, general partner for the Maple Park Associates investment group that owns some 113 acres of land on West Maple Road, west of Haggerty; Joseph A. Hoffman, agent for Haggerty Investment Company which owns some 252 acres along Haggerty, West Maple and Fourteen Mile roads; and Henry A. Zwiail.

All of the property requested by the petitioners, in addition to land west of the City of Walled Lake, are sought by the Walled Lake City Council in an annexation resolution adopted in February 1972. The property proposed for annexation includes 2.38 square miles of Commerce, an amount that would almost double Walled Lake's present size.

The commission has scheduled a public hearing November 29 at the township's Richardson Community Center to consider the city council's annexation resolution.

Both annexation proposals were placed in the commission's inactive file in 1972 because Commerce and Wolverine Lake Village had filed in 1971 separate cityhood requests with the state. The boundary panel in 1973 combined the two cityhood bids into one order that was challenged in the courts by village officials and residents.

When the Oakland County Circuit Court and the State Court of Appeals upheld the commission's authority in the Commerce case and when the Michigan Supreme Court refused to grant leave for further appeal, village residents petitioned for an election on the cityhood order.

Meanwhile, Commerce officials took advantage of a law that offers boundary protection to certain urbanized townships by incorporating as a charter township.

The cityhood order was subsequently overturned by Commerce and Wolverine Lake voters by a margin of 22 to one in a special election last April, prompting the boundary commission to activate the Walled Lake annexation requests.

Township officials say they feel Commerce meets the criteria listed in the charter township act to qualify for protected boundary status.

Walled Lake city officials say that approval of the annexation would increase its state equalized valuation (SEV) by some $14 million which could lead to a property tax cut of four mills — the city levies 22.4 mills for operating and debt retirement obligations, while Commerce levies 1.41 mills — or finance expansion of the city water and/or sewer system.

The city's present SEV is $35 million. The township's 1979 SEV is $219 million.

Township officials say they feel Commerce meets the criteria listed in the charter township act to qualify for protected boundary status.

Walled Lake city officials say that approval of the annexation would increase its state equalized valuation (SEV) by some $14 million which could lead to a property tax cut of four mills — the city levies 22.4 mills for operating and debt retirement obligations, while Commerce levies 1.41 mills — or finance expansion of the city water and/or sewer system.

The city's present SEV is $35 million. The township's 1979 SEV is $219 million.

residents petitioned for an election on the cityhood order.

Meanwhile, Commerce officials took advantage of a law that offers boundary protection to certain urbanized townships by incorporating as a charter township.

The cityhood order was subsequently overturned by Commerce and Wolverine Lake voters by a margin of 22 to one in a special election last April, prompting the boundary commission to activate the Walled Lake annexation requests.

The commission's findings of fact and order to reject the request was approved October 18 at a meeting in Lansing.

An adjudicative hearing was held in September when the annexation petition filed in January 1972 by property owners in the township area bounded by Walled Lake's eastern city boundary, Fourteen Mile on the south, Haggerty Road on the east and, generally speaking, West Maple Road and the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks on the north.

At the meeting, the state panel found that the petition was "non-conforming to the law and commission rules because it contains no legal description, map, statement of land to be annexed, affidavit of ownership and no ownership documents." Under the law, the petition will be returned to the petitioners Roger C. Richards, general partner for the Maple Park Associates investment group that owns some 113 acres of land on West Maple Road, west of Haggerty; Joseph A. Hoffman, agent for Haggerty Investment Company which owns some 252 acres along Haggerty, West Maple and Fourteen Mile roads; and Henry A. Zwiail.

All of the property requested by the petitioners, in addition to land west of the City of Walled Lake, are sought by the Walled Lake City Council in an annexation resolution adopted in February 1972. The property proposed for annexation includes 2.38 square miles of Commerce, an amount that would almost double Walled Lake's present size.

The commission has scheduled a public hearing November 29 at the township's Richardson Community Center to consider the city council's annexation resolution.

Both annexation proposals were placed in the commission's inactive file in 1972 because Commerce and Wolverine Lake Village had filed in 1971 separate cityhood requests with the state. The boundary panel in 1973 combined the two cityhood bids into one order that was challenged in the courts by village officials and residents.

When the Oakland County Circuit Court and the State Court of Appeals upheld the commission's authority in the Commerce case and when the Michigan Supreme Court refused to grant leave for further appeal, village

Water board won't hear drain charges

By REID CREAGER

The Water Resource Commission decided to take no action Thursday on Wolverine Lake Village's charges that the Greenway Drain is a source of pollution for Wolverine Lake, after testimony presented by village representatives.

According to Robert Courchaine, executive secretary to the Commission, the panel elected not to act on the charges because this particular instance does not involve point-source discharges into the lake. Courchaine explained that it is the panel's responsibility to deal solely with occurrences of these discharges.

"Discharges made in pipes — as in the case of waste water from a particular industry — constitute point-source discharges," Courchaine said. "This is as opposed to a storm runoff situation, which you have in the village."

The secretary added that the Commission had conducted a survey to find instances of point-source discharge in the village, only to find two such cases. However, both situations were not determined to be major sources of pollution, Courchaine said.

Courchaine further explained that the panel's decision was based on data regarding Greenway and four other drainage basins that surround the lake. The Commission found that Greenway was responsible for less than half of the nutrient pollutants in the lake, citing the basins as major pollutants.

Village representatives were disappointed with the outcome of the Lansing hearing, but Village President John McLellan was the most outspoken critic of the decision.

"It appears we got turned down because we don't have sewers," McLellan said. "But the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) has already turned down sewers in the area, and besides that's getting away from the point."

"How can we clean up our lake with this going on?" McLellan continued. "I think the whole thing (Thursday's meeting) was a complete farce."

Village Attorney Gary Allen, who along with McLellan at the hearing cited findings by the water team that indicated Greenway pollutants flow into Wolverine Lake, admitted he was "disappointed" with the panel's verdict. He added that he'll meet with McLellan sometime soon to determine what course of action the village will now take.

Allen had said earlier that the village's only alternative in the event of a rejection was the seeking of court action, but no such step has yet been taken.

Robert Williams, the village's Consulting Engineer in connection with the lake rehabilitation program, also gave a presentation at the hearing. He too expressed dissatisfaction with the results of the meeting.

"They (the Commission) wanted to talk about pollutants coming from everywhere else but the (Greenway) drain," Williams said. "To me, that was just an escape hatch."

In an effort to solve the alleged polluting effect of Greenway on the Commerce to challenge sewer map revisions

Commerce Township Supervisor Robert H. Long was scheduled to meet yesterday afternoon with officials of the Oakland County Planning Division and the Southern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) to discuss the deletion of Commerce and White Lake townships from the regional agency's year 2000 sewer map.

If the townships are not shown on the sewer map, Long said, they may not qualify for state and federal funds for sewer construction.

Long said he learned October 10 that the SEMCOG staff, with approval from the county planning division, deleted the two townships from the sewer map. The regional agency's Council on Regional Development (CORD) requested the SEMCOG staff to come up with guidelines to reduce the proposed sewer areas in the seven-county region, he added.

The Commerce supervisor noted, though, that his township and White Lake do not meet the criteria listed by the SEMCOG staff for deletion from the sewer map.

Long expressed his concern to CORD. Long said Monday, "I don't think (the deletion) should have been done."

Long said he is optimistic, though, that Commerce and White Lake will be added to the 2000 sewer map before the plan goes to public hearing in January.

At present, Commerce does not have any plans to install local sewers, Long said, adding that, unless the change is made on the sewer map, the township would not qualify for state and federal funds short of a specific pollution problem.

"Much of the east side of the township is already heavily developed with residential," he said, "especially around the lakes. If we do have a problem, I don't know how we'd be able to handle it, if SEMCOG doesn't change its position."

If the deletion of largely undeveloped west Commerce had been made on the SEMCOG map, Long said he could "rationalize it."

"They're talking about trying to stop or slow growth in an area that's already developed," he added. "I don't think policies like this make much sense. I don't think this will make people move back to Detroit."

Long also has expressed concern with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) recommendation for a scaled-down regional sewer to serve the Huron Valley area.

The federal agency has indicated that it will approve a grant to design a regional interceptor line to run from Canton and Van Buren townships in western Wayne County through the southern tier of Wayne communities to a new treatment plant on Lake Erie. A grant also would be awarded for facility planning of the area from Plymouth north to Commerce, although the Novi Northville area may get more immediate relief through a proposed larger interceptor in the existing Rouge

Hearing set for Commerce master plan update

A public hearing on Commerce Township's proposed master land use plan update has been scheduled for December 10 by the planning commission.

Commission members and Planning Consultant Steve Lehoczyk, of Community Planning and Management, have been working on the new master plan since 1976 when they decided to update the township zoning ordinance. The existing master plan was adopted in 1974, according to Township Clerk Robert D. McGee.

The master plan shows possible future land uses and is utilized to help plan development in the township, Lehoczyk said. It is not necessarily the same as the zoning ordinance map which depicts current land uses.

The plan contains a number of elements dealing with anticipated residential, commercial and industrial development in the township as well as projecting the need for recreational, transportation, school and municipal services.

Under the proposal that will go to township residents in December, several new categories could be created, including: a two-family residential district since duplexes have been located in multiple-family residential areas in the past; mobile home district which previously was classified with other "high density" uses; a special purpose district for senior citizen housing projects, convalescent homes, golf courses, and gun and conservation clubs; and "routes under study" ranging from the possible north-south state trunkline road that may replace the now cancelled M-275 freeway to proposed extensions of Carey, Benstein and Welch roads.

The township's six existing commercial districts would be handled by three more detailed commercial classifications — convenience, comparison and general — Lehoczyk said, while office and heavy and light industrial districts also would be dealt with in more detail as would recreational facilities.

Lehoczyk said another change in the plan will be to show fewer elementary school sites. In the past, the township depicted proposed elementary schools in largely undeveloped areas, reserving a 10-acre parcel for the school, the consultant added.

Trends toward smaller families and higher costs for school construction prompted the change, he said. In the future, a developer may be asked to deed a school site, but that property could be developed as the final phase of a subdivision, if school officials feel they don't need the facility, Lehoczyk said.

The consultant proposed a separate hearing on the thoroughfare plan since that must be approved by the township board. The commission may adopt the master plan without board approval.

In addition to the Monday night hearing, the planners have said they will state a special session on a Saturday morning to give residents who can't attend a night meeting an opportunity to review and discuss the proposal. The Saturday session is expected to be set at the first hearing.

Following the hearings, Lehoczyk said, the commission will complete its work on the zoning ordinance update early next year. The current zoning measure was adopted in 1971, but has been amended numerous times.

The new master plan must be submitted to the Oakland County Coordinating Committee for approval, McGee said.

Walled Lake man earns utility award

ARNOLD 'BUD' WILCOX

Walled Lake resident Arnold L. "Bud" Wilcox has been named "utility man of the year" by the Michigan Section of the American Water Works Association (AWWA).

He received the award September 26 in Traverse City at the association's annual conference in recognition of his "dedicated service to the Michigan section and most particularly for outstanding leadership in the organization of the recruitment of new members for the association and by his untiring efforts to improve the public water supplies in the State of Michigan."

Donald K. Shine, president of AWWA International and winner of the Michigan section's 1972 award, made the presentation to Wilcox who attended the banquet with his wife, Claire, on their 35th wedding anniversary.

"I knew something was up when they wouldn't let me sit at the head table," quipped Wilcox, vice-president and associate with DuBoise-Cooper in Detroit, a Plymouth-based manufacturers' representative for wastewater treatment equipment.

"My head was just as big as Bud's when he went up there," said John E. Nail, superintendent of Walled Lake's department of public works. Nail also attended the conference.

According to the AWWA yearbook, the award was established in 1937 and is presented each year to a member for "their distinguished service to the water supply field and in commemoration of the sound engineering skill, the brilliant diplomatic talent and the constructive leadership of the men in the association who exemplified the life of George Warren Fuller, one of America's most eminent engineers."

Wilcox will receive a plaque at the AWWA's national conference in Atlanta next June.

He joined DuBoise-Cooper in 1962 after five years with Graver Water Conditioning Company as a sales engineer and seven years with the Dorr-Oliver Company as a research and sales engineer.

The 57-year-old Wilcox is a graduate of the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology where he earned a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering. He served in the Navy construction battalion in the South Pacific during World War II.

The award recipient has been a member of the AWWA since 1952 and has been active in its Michigan section since 1957. He is a member of the section's board of trustees and serves as chair of its membership committee.

He also serves as vice-president of the Walled Lake Economic Development Corporation's Board of Directors.

Commerce eyes plan for preserving trees

In an effort to save trees that might have to be cut down for utility right-of-way in the proposed Lake Pine Subdivision, Commerce Township Planning Commission Monday night directed Township Supervisor Robert H. Long to work with the Oakland County Road Commission and the utility companies on a plan to reduce the right-of-way area.

Long requested the authorization in order to save a number of 30-year-old pines and white oaks in the proposed development, located west of Union Lake Road on the south shore of Lower Straits Lake.

Late last year, local environmentalists charged that the developer, First Properties Corporation, allowed two American chestnut trees to be cut down during site work for the 83-lot, first phase of the subdivision, also known as the Shores at Baypointe. The American chestnut tree is an endangered species.

Alan Kiriluk, a partner in the development firm, at first denied the trees were cut down — in fact, he said he was unaware of their existence on the parcel — but later conceded they may have been removed by mistake.

The environmentalists, Ann Ford and Marian Moir, said there are only five American chestnuts in the 10-mile radius of the lakes area. The Cranbrook Institute of Science later confirmed that the trees were indeed American chestnuts, based on limb samples and color photographs provided by Ford and Moir.

No action was taken against First Properties by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Division.

According to Township Clerk Robert D. McGee, plans for the second phase of Lake Pine had not been submitted to the township as of Monday. He added, though, that Kiriluk indicated that plans will be ready soon.

First-ever agreement

Council okays manager's pact

By DAVID RAY

A first-ever contract between the Walled Lake City Council and its city manager was approved October 16 by the council.

Following a 30-minute at-times-heated debate, council members okayed the agreement on a 4-2 vote that basically pitted Mayor Gaspare LaMarca against the three-member committee that drafted the contract.

LaMarca attempted at the start of last week's meeting to have the contract handled as a committee report with a decision delayed to a later meeting, possibly after four new council members are elected November 6. Committee Chairperson Thomas W. Brookover objected, though, noting that the contract was placed on the agenda for action.

When the council opened discussion on the pact, Brookover noted that there was "dead and utter silence" on the proposed agreement from the time the committee first presented a draft copy of the contract to council members earlier this year until the mayor gave his colleagues a memo October 2 that raised several concerns on the proposal.

Brookover and committee members Heather P.M. Hill and Donald Lee responded to the points raised by the mayor, as follows:

"The mayor said the new council, including possibly four new members, should decide on the contract after the election since the new council will have to live with "everything we do" and added that he'd hate to see the pact, which was worked on for more than a year, "go down the drain because it's the end of the term."

"LaMarca said the contract 'has no set price tag as to what it will cost the taxpayer per year,'" Brookover said the contract merely sets Parker's salary and other benefits and expenditures that are included in the 1979-80 budget adopted by the council. Hill also pointed out that membership fees, travel expenses and other costs are spelled out in the contract.

"The contract does not require the manager to submit summary reports to the council between meetings and does not require the manager to attend meetings of other city boards and commissions," the mayor said. Brookover conceded that point, but added the committee opted to define the manager's duties and responsibilities as set by the city charter and the ordinance that created the manager's post. He noted, though, that nothing prevents the council from reviewing the job responsibilities on an annual basis or assigning additional tasks to the manager.

The committee chairperson went on to say that the council has been lax in giving the manager priorities, goals and objectives. "That's why they aren't in the contract," Brookover added. "Perhaps they can be set by resolution."

Lee noted that the contract allows the council to assign duties to the manager. "That's the key," he said. "We should let each council do that."

LaMarca said the council approved an 11-percent wage increase for the manager in 1979 and "this contract shows an additional wage increase of more than 11 percent for the same period of time," Brookover said the mayor's statement was in error since the council approved Parker's 1979-80 salary during budget hearings in May.

President praises city

President Jimmy Carter and U.S. Representative William S. Broomfield (R-Birmingham) have commended Walled Lake on its 25th anniversary as a city.

A letter from the president and Broomfield's remarks in "The Congressional Record" were presented to the city council October 16 by City Manager Peter Parker. The council directed Clerk Ruby Lewandowski to frame and display the president's letter with a similar congratulatory resolution from the Michigan State Senate that was presented to Mayor Gaspare LaMarca at the anniversary celebration by Senator Douglas Ross (D-Oak Park).

Carter and Broomfield praised Walled Lake for its progress during the 25 years of cityhood and wished city officials well in the future.

A proclamation from the City of Madison Heights also commended Walled Lake on its anniversary.

"After Parker read the letter," The Congressional Record," Broomfield said, "I don't think I could have said more about Walled Lake. It's a model of what a city should be."

Walled Lake celebrated its 25th anniversary September 7-9 with an outdoor concert and birthday party, a parade, a softball game, a picnic and an arts and crafts display.

Walled Lake okays contract for manager

A difference of some $100 between the proposed salary and the contract salary is due to council action at that time to increase cost-of-living allowance (COLA) payments to supervisory personnel because the council fought — and won — elimination of COLA in a new contract with city hall clerical and DPW employees. The budgeted COLA of $104 was folded into the supervisors' salaries by the council, Brookover noted.

The 60-day termination provision in the contract could cost the city $6,000, the mayor said; Brookover replied that the $6,000 is part of the manager's salary and, therefore, is budgeted. He said a termination notice is common in contracts and added that the committee felt 60 days was appropriate severance notice.

Approval of the manager's contract, the mayor said, would "Open the field to all other supervisors and department heads to request similar contracts and the cost would be prohibitive." Brookover said the "door is open anyway for department heads to seek similar provisions," and Lee added that he would not be opposed to all city employees having contracts.

At last week's meeting, the mayor defended his memo to the council. He said it was his understanding that the committee was to come up with goals and objectives for the manager and add to the contract, while it addresses compensation for vacation and sick days, does not specify the extent of those benefits. LaMarca said that was a problem because the contract does not set specific office hours for the manager.

LaMarca also questioned why the manager was given benefits equal to those provided to the department head with the best such benefits.

Brookover and Lee replied that, by offering the manager the best benefits available, the council would not have to reopen that section of the contract every time a new contract is approved for city employees.

Council Member Walter J. Lewandowski sided with the mayor, noting that the charter covers the manager's duties and pointing out that the Novi City Council recently decided against entering into a contract with its manager.

"We've got along for 25 years without it," Lewandowski said. "I think we're just going to open Pandora's box. I'm against a contract for the manager and department heads."

Lewandowski asked City Attorney Richard J. Poehlman if a contract for the manager is legal under the charter. Poehlman replied that it is.

"When you hired Mr. Parker, that was a contract with him," the attorney said. "This contract is just putting in writing."

The contract was approved with Brookover, Hill, Lee and Council Member Cameron E. Rose in favor. LaMarca and Lewandowski dissented. (Lee is not running for council in the November election. Hill and Rose are candidates. The mayor, Brookover and Lewandowski were elected to four-year terms in 1977.)

As of Monday, the agreement had not been signed.

Following action on the contract, Hill moved that the manager should be directed to present job descriptions for himself and department heads for consideration at the first meeting of the new council in November.

His motion was unanimously adopted. Hill noted that the manager presented job descriptions for city employees, excluding himself, in November 1977. The report was tabled at that time and has not been brought up for discussion.

Parker said he would update the proposed job descriptions and come up with a similar outline for himself.

LaMarca also questioned why the manager was given benefits equal to those provided to the department head with the best such benefits.

Brookover and Lee replied that, by offering the manager the best benefits

Man with gun enters home in Chateau Estates

In Novi

Novi police reported a couple of residents in the Chateau Estates Mobile Home Park woke up to an unwelcome surprise Saturday when they found a man with a gun in their bedroom.

Complainants told police they awoke to find a man next to the bed pointing a gun at them.

The woman complained walked with the man from the bedroom to the kitchen. At that time she told police she heard something fall and realized it was his gun. When the man made no effort to retrieve the gun, the woman called police.

Police found the 380 automatic on the kitchen floor. From investigation it appeared the man had used a ladder to reach the kitchen window and then unlocked it.

The man was arrested for unlawful entry and attempted felonious assault.

During the routine pad down search police allegedly discovered a holster on the man which fit the gun found in the mobile home.

When he was emptying his pockets as part of the booking process, the man pulled out a small folded piece of paper bearing the insignia "Sno-seal," according to police. He denied any knowledge of the paper which contained a white grainy substance, police reported.

He also tried to dump the packet on the floor of the police station, according to reports. Police recovered the paper and the substance had been dumped and it now is being tested as a suspected narcotic.

Petitions in juvenile court are now being sought against an 11-year-old and a 16-year-old in connection with a number of larceny from vehicles.

Apparently the youths were involved with removing citizen band radios and other audio equipment from vehicles parked in Old Dutch Farms mobile home park and Eagle Truckline lot.

With information from an informant and help from the youths' parents, police reportedly linked the youths to the theft of five CB radios, two CB antennas, four sets of keys, two microphone chords, a speaker and two hats. Most of the stolen property was recovered by police.

Police investigated a report October 16 of an attempted strong arm robbery in the Waterview Farms apartments.

The complainant told police he opened his front door after hearing someone knock and was immediately confronted by two men looking for "Joe."

When the complainant told the men he did not know a Joe he was reportedly grabbed by one of the men, and the men began to strangle him, he told police.

His cries apparently frightened off the intruders who fled down the stairway. They escaped to the parking lot followed closely by the complainant. As they tried to escape he tore the license plate from their car, reports indicated. He turned the plate over to police as evidence.

Police are seeking two white males between the ages of 19 and 21 in connection with the incident. Both are about six feet tall and one had blond frizzy collar length hair while the second had brown frizzy collar length hair.

Police reported thefts from three separate construction sites last week.

Farm Bureau taps Erwin
Policies which will guide the county, state and national Farm Bureau in the upcoming year were adopted at the annual meeting of the Oakland County Farm Bureau in Clarkston last week.

The voting membership where they will be considered and compiled for delegates to the annual meeting of the Michigan Farm Bureau which is scheduled to convene November 27 in Kalamazoo.

Farmer delegates representing the Oakland County Farm Bureau to the state meeting included John Erwin of Novi.

Other farmer delegates selected by the membership included John Cook of Ortonville, Bill Middleton of Ortonville, L.C. Seranin of Holly, Bernice Miller of Clarkston and Jim Vantine of Ortonville.

Over 10 policy recommendations were presented for discussion at the meeting and eight of them were police for arrest. Police said the subjects did not cooperate with the booking procedure and at one point the woman tried to convince police she was a juvenile.

However, through fingerprints police determined the woman had a previous criminal record and several aliases.

She was charged with larceny in a building which carries a four-year felony charge and a one count of obstructing an officer by disguise.

She and Adams were arraigned Friday before Judge Michael Batchik. Adams was released on $1,000 personal bond and Gaston was remanded to the Oakland County Jail in lieu of $5,000 cash bond. Their examination date is set for October 26.

Police reported Gaston also has outstanding warrants against her with Troy and Detroit police departments.

In Wixom

A Wixom Police officer fell victim to a disgruntled Ford Motor Company employee after an altercation with the man in the company's Labor Relations office Friday.

Officer Alan Blashfield suffered a wound to his forearm after Jerry Spencer allegedly sunk his teeth into the policeman's flesh. Spencer's jaws had to be physically pried open before Blashfield could remove his arm, police reported.

Spencer was arrested and charged with assaulting and injuring a police officer, resisting arrest, and two counts of assault and battery. He was lodged in Oakland County Jail with bond set at $2,200 cash or surety.

Local police were called to the auto plant after Spencer allegedly resisted efforts to be removed from the plant. Police reports indicated Spencer arrived at the plant late and was assigned a job on the line which he refused to take.

Plant officials said a loud discussion broke out between Spencer and his supervisor while he was being escorted from the line area to the Labor Relations office.

Ford Security officers and the Wixom Police were summoned to the area to lend assistance. While a Ford Security person was talking to Spencer, he reportedly became physical.

Blashfield, the report continued, entered the room to aid the security man. He was accompanied by two additional Ford people.

Spencer allegedly began striking and kicking at all those surrounding him. As Blashfield was attempting to subdue the man, Spencer sunk his teeth into the officer's arm, police said.

A Wixom Police Department spokesman said Blashfield was treated at Henry Ford Hospital West Bloomfield and put on the disabled list.

A missing car door lock led to the discovery of a stolen car by officers cruising the employee parking lot at Ford's Sunday.

A routine check of the license plates revealed them to have been stolen from the Pontiac area. A further check of the Lincoln Mark V led police to believe the car possibly carried an altered vehicle identification number (VIN).

The National Auto Theft Bureau was contacted to conduct further investigations on the car. Those investigations revealed the proper VIN had been removed and a plate identifying a Lincoln Continental hard top inserted in its place.

Locating the proper VIN number on the frame of the car, police learned it had been stolen from Detroit.

A limited edition snowmobile was reported stolen from a garage near a residence on West Maple Road Thursday. Valued at $4000, the owner told police the snowmobile was a silver anniversary model in mint condition.

Long challenges ruling

Valley Wastewater Control System. While Commerce has no plans at present to install local sewers, Long has said the township needs capacity in the sewer system as insurance in case specific pollution problems are cited in the future.

One EPA proposal to serve Commerce is expansion of the Novi-Walled Lake wastewater treatment plant, but the supervisor has noted that the plan would exceed SEMCOG's effluent emission standards for discharge into the Huron River system.

SEMCOG's regional clearinghouse committee (RC2) recently made a negative review of the EPA's super sewer environmental impact statement (EIS). Long cast the lone dissenting vote on the negative review report, on appeal to the SEMCOG Executive Committee, was upheld on a 15-15 vote to overturn the RC2 resolution.

The SEMCOG staff had recommended approval of the super sewer EIS. The EPA, as of last week, still had not decided whether to recognize the negative review, according to Project Officer Douglas Ehorn.

Long advised the township planning commission Monday night of the SEMCOG action on the sewer map. The planners unanimously adopted a resolution protesting the deletion of Commerce from the map.

Drain suit dismissed

The Commission was advised in late July to review and rule on the village's petition, which cites drain water samples showing excessive concentrations of nutrients, ammonia nitrites, phosphorus and chlorides that flow into the lake.

Among the claims of the petition was that clay and soil deposits from adjacent construction run-off were carried through Greenway and discharged into Wolverine Lake early last month. The petition also says that the City of Walled Lake and Commerce Township have refused to improve the alleged polluting effects of the drain.

Novi principals report no drugs in schools

In discussion with students and staff and observations within the building, I feel I can safely state that the Middle School South DOES NOT have a drug problem. I have heard over and over from students and from staff that they felt substance abuse of any kind in the school is categorically not a problem," said Nanas in his report.

"Teachers have been assigned to check all restrooms of the building during the day as a means of keeping a close check on the location of potential problems. The staff reports that they haven't seen or smelled any evidence of any substance abuse this year."

Nanas added that in light of the information he believed he did not need any additional resources to combat substance abuse. He added that members of the school board and parents are welcome to visit the school at any time.

"I will personally take any visitor on a tour of the building at any time, because I am very proud of the appearance of the student body and of the building," Nanas told the board.

About 30 students turned out to support the statements of their principals. Petitions signed by 452 middle school students and teachers challenging comments made at the school board meeting October 4, also were presented to the board. The school has a total of 507 students and 27 teachers.

The petitions stated that the students and teachers did not agree with the statements made and that they were offended by the suggestion that Middle School South has a drug problem.

They stated that the statements created a bad image of the school in the community which they felt should not be left unchallenged. "Therefore we want to go on record as being opposed to any charge of having a drug problem in Middle School South."

Lisa Paika, an eighth grader and student body president at the middle school, presented the petitions to the board and read them a statement she had prepared herself.

She told board members "We know the board is concerned about our school. We the students are very concerned about the discussion of the so-called drug problem at the last board meeting. We also are concerned about the newspaper accounts of that discussion."

"We believe that our school has been given a bad and incorrect image. The students who go to the middle school are all good people. We can't say that students who go to our school don't use drugs. However, they do not use them in school. As you know teachers have been checking the restrooms regularly and they can safely say there is no evidence of drug use at the school."

"We students strongly agree. Students are offended and upset at the bad publicity our school has received because we believe there is no drug problem."

"We hope that the members of the community and the parents that have children that go to our school do not get the wrong impression. We the students do not want to hear that parents will not let their children come to our dances or activities for fear that their children might get high and hurt themselves by walking into one of the restrooms. We are proud of our school and want to keep our good reputation," the student body president said.

Laurie Tuck, a senior at Novi High School told the school board that students at her school feel the same as those attending the middle school.

"We have been and are proud of our school and we feel that people have been given the wrong impression. We do not feel there is a drug problem and we want to get this straightened out," Tuck said.

Cary Malaski said that in the end no one was really hurt, though some toes were stepped on.

He explained that students had tried to find someone to blame during their discussions, and some students were upset that they had not had student representation on the school board when they needed it.

Novi Schools provide a seat for a student board member appointed by the student government. A student member has since been named.

Evid said students "learned how to say 'ouch' from the situation."

Iseli commented that the end result was to show that students really cared about the high school and the middle school.

Plans for a small "convenience-type" shopping center on Pontiac Trail near West Road received preliminary site plan approval from the Novi Planning Board last week.

Specifically, the planners approved the site plan for the proposed Apple Blossom Shopping Center on a 4.8-acre parcel of land on the north side of Pontiac Trail.

The shopping center is to be located immediately west of the branch office of Michigan National Bank which currently is situated on Pontiac Trail near the West Road intersection.

Paula Sly, a senior at Novi High School agreed with her classmates' comments. She told the board that students had been taken by surprise by the comments regarding drugs in their school "because there really isn't a problem at the high school."

She said that while some students may smoke marijuana there are no hard drugs in the school. She said that many people took the comments to mean hard drugs were being used in the school, when they are not.

Pelchat talked to the students in the audience in an attempt to dispell misconceptions that may have been created by newspaper accounts of her comments.

"I too was upset by the newspaper reports," Pelchat said. She explained that her only intent in bringing up the comments she had heard from students was to insure that the schools did not develop a drug problem on the order of one experienced a number of years ago.

"I had kids come to me and say it happened," Pelchat told the students. "I never meant to imply there were hard drugs in the school."

She told the students she was particularly upset in the manner her comments had been interpreted because, "no one is a harder worker for youth and I was sick the way it came out in the paper."

Trustee Joel Colliu said that he had gotten many indignant and irate telephone calls since the newspaper article of the original comments came out.

He added that he did not believe the schools had a drug problem when the comments were first made and he still doesn't believe the schools have a problem. He said he is proud of the reaction of the students and their pride in their community and school.

Cell Carter, a Novi High School teacher, told the board that she was concerned about what was happening at the meeting. She explained that she had once been a reporter and she reminded board members that reporters covering public meetings report what they hear. She suggested that a reporter should not be judged on one story if previous work has been fair and accurate.

Trustee Ruth Waldenmayer responded to the teacher's comments.

"I'm sure that Kathy (News Reporter Kathy Jennings) has written many good things for the school district and that many parents will be relieved to read the story she will write following the reports of the principals."

"But I am concerned that a board member asks a question and all of a sudden we have drugs in Novi High School. It is our job to ask those questions and we should be able to bring these concerns up in a public meeting," Waldenmayer said.

School Board Attorney Frederick Knauer also commented on the situation.

He told the board members that the law suggests that everything in public body does should be out in the open, and, as elected officials, board members are required to scrupulously abide by the law.

"Mrs. Pelchat did what she was obliged to do," Knauer said. He added whatever was the outcome of the matter the manner in which the board functions would not change.

"The last thing I would like to see is the board members become intimidated or tentative. My opinion was that was done was appropriate and any less action would have been less appropriate. Please don't change your style," Knauer said.

School Board President Ron Milam even given the wrong impression. We would hate for board members to feel they needed to read prepared statements.

The site plan indicates that the Apple Blossom Shopping Center will encompass a total of 39,000 square feet of floor space and provide parking for some 230 automobiles.

Richardson Farm Dairy will be the major tenant in the shopping center, according to the site plans submitted to city officials.

Wixom officials predict end to garbage complaints

Wixom's long-standing problems with garbage collection are just about over.

"It may be wishful thinking, but that's the hope of Wixom Mayor Lillian Spencer, nevertheless. "I'll be glad when we can put these garbage collection problems behind us and get on with the other business of the city," said Spencer last week. "These complaints about garbage collection are all I've been able to think about recently."

Spencer's hopes that the problems with garbage collection have been resolved are based on a change of ownership in the firm which collects the garbage from the city's single family residential neighborhoods.

Mayor's Assistant Stephen Bonczek reported last week that David Ohngren of Bloomfield Disposal Service has sold his company to Robert Hoffman, a Union Lake resident who owns the Great American Disposal Company.

"We're hopeful that the change in ownership will lead to better garbage collection service in Wixom," commented Bonczek.

"We've met with Hoffman and he seems to have the resources to do the job properly. But we'll just have to wait and see if things get better in the future."

"Our goal is to have that first week in which we got absolutely no complaints whatsoever about garbage collection service in Wixom."

City officials have been plagued with complaints about poor collection service from irate homeowners since July when a new system of collecting garbage was implemented.

Previously, garbage was collected from all Wixom homes with the cost being paid from general fund revenues. However, city officials decided to change the system on the advice of City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli who ruled that garbage must be collected from apartment and commercial properties if the service was to be funded through general tax revenues.

As a result, the city instituted the new system July 1 of this year. Under the new system, the city collects garbage only from the owners of single family homes who pay an annual $40 fee to receive the service.

City officials maintain that the $40 fee is extremely reasonable, but officials have been flooded with complaints about poor and sporadic collection virtually ever since the new system went into effect.

Bonczek said that Hoffman has agreed to honor the contract between the city and Bloomfield Disposal Service.

"He (Hoffman) told us his regular fee for collection services is $6.50 per month, but he agreed to pick up the current contract with the city for garbage collection which costs our residents approximately $3.50 per month," said the mayoral assistant.

After the terms of the sale have been completed, the contract will be brought before the city council for approval of the change in ownership on November 13.

In the meantime, the Great American Disposal Company already has assumed the task of collecting the garbage from Wixom homeowners. And city officials are hopeful the change in ownership will eliminate the complaints from residents about the quality of the service.

Annexation reports 'premature'

Wixom officials are angry over published reports that the city is contemplating annexation of a portion of Commerce Township.

The source of their irritation is a report that the city is considering petitions to annex the 46-acre North Wixom Park into the city's corporate limits. The report appeared in a Union Lake-based newspaper last week.

Although the city owns the 46-acre park, it is located within Commerce Township.

Mayor's Assistant Stephen Bonczek said Monday that the city has no plans whatsoever to annex the property at the present time.

"If we were ever to change our minds, the first thing we would do would be to contact officials in Commerce Township," said Bonczek.

"They've been very cooperative with us in our effort to develop that property and we wouldn't do anything to jeopardize that relationship."

"We would never pursue the annexation of that site unless we had the approval of Commerce Township," he added.

Although Bonczek did not deny that the city has considered annexation of the park property, he said any consideration of annexation proceedings at the present time is "premature."

Mayor Lillian Spencer said the possibility of annexing the property came up during preparation of a plan to provide increased security at the park.

Parks and Recreation Commission Chairman John Momborg told the city council earlier this month that problems with vandalism are beginning to surface at the park.

"We have the city's recreation coordinator (John McCullough) working on plans to develop a security system of some sort for the park property," commented Momborg who went on to caution council members that increased security could be expected to cost more money.

Police Chief Philip Leonard confirmed that the city has experienced some vandalism at the park, particularly to toilet equipment which was installed earlier this fall.

Leonard said that vandalism is not a problem yet, but could become a problem as the park development program continues.

The city presently has completed the first phase of its park development program. The council was scheduled to consider the awarding of bids for the second phase — construction of a comfort station — at last night's meeting (after our deadline).

Momborg told council members that the city cannot expend funds to develop the park and then leave the added facilities unprotected.

Mayor Spencer, who also termed the report "misleading," said the possibility of annexation had been broached during development of the security plan.

"The problem is that our policemen can patrol the park but they can't arrest anybody because it's in Commerce Township," said the mayor.

"If our police catch anybody breaking the law, they have to hold them until the Oakland County Sheriff's Department can come and pick them up."

"If the park were a part of the city, our policemen could do the whole job themselves and not have to wait for the sheriff's department. It would give us better control over our own park and not force us to rely on another agency to patrol our own property."

Mayor Spencer added that McCullough has been assigned the task of researching annexation procedures, but that the city had no intention of proceeding with the plans at the present time.

"We wouldn't do anything that would jeopardize our relationship with Commerce Township," she said.

Caldwell named to Walled Lake appeal board

Charles R. Caldwell has been appointed to the Walled Lake Board of Appeals by the city council.

He replaces Charles Riffenburg, who recently resigned from the post. Caldwell's term will run through January 31, 1982.

The 46-year-old Caldwell, owner of C&C Collision in Walled Lake, has been a city resident for 12 years. He has been in business in the city for nine years. A veteran of the U.S. Navy, he was graduated from Harrisville (Michigan) High School in 1957.

Caldwell is married and the father of three children. He resides at 1397 Decker Road.

Although the appointment was unanimously approved at the October 16 council meeting, Council Member Thomas W. Brookover criticized Mayor Gaspare LaMarca for attempting to change Caldwell's nomination to the plan commission instead of the board of appeals.

The appointment was listed on the October 2 and 16 council agendas for a board of appeals seat, but the mayor suggested that Caldwell should be named to the plan commission because of vacancies on that panel. Caldwell's resume states that he would prefer to serve on the planning panel, but would accept as second choice a seat on the appeals board.

Brookover objected to the mayor's suggestion, though, noting that he had talked to Caldwell and the nominee had agreed to take the appeals board post.

"Don't mess around at the last minute without giving us notice," Brookover told LaMarca.

At previous meetings, Brookover has criticized the mayor for proposing appointments at council sessions without giving council members a chance to meet with the nominees. He has voted against appointments that come up at council meetings without prior notice.

The council has a policy of asking the board or commission to which an appointment will be made to make a recommendation on a possible replacement.

The appeals board is a quasi-administrative body that may grant variances to zoning ordinance requirements. The board meets on the last Monday of each month.

Walled Lake changes November meeting date

The Walled Lake City Council has rescheduled its first meeting in November because of the municipal election.

Instead of meeting Tuesday, November 6, election day, the council will meet at 8 p.m. Monday, November 5. It will be the last regular meeting of the present city council.

The four council members elected November 6 will take office Monday, November 12, at the new council's biennial organizational meeting. The first regular session of the new council is scheduled for November 20.

The Walled Lake Plan Commission has changed its meeting date from Tuesday, November 13, to Tuesday, November 6.

At last week's council meeting, council members decided to delay further action on the city traffic study until after the new members are elected. The council may set a special meeting to review the recommendations for a six-year road and traffic improvement program proposed by the consulting firm of Goodell-Grivas, Incorporated, in the study that was released last December.

The council met in June with members of the plan commission and the consulting firm to discuss the draft study report. At that time, council members asked for additional information on the impacts of the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi on Walled Lake's roads and traffic flow.

The supplemental report on the mall has been presented to city officials.

City Manager Peter Parker said he would like the council to decide whether to accept the report so he can start planning for the implementation of the consultant's recommendations.

The new council also is scheduled to meet with the planning panel Monday, November 26, to review the commission's recommendation for an amendment to the zoning ordinance to create four commercial use districts. The zoning ordinance now provides only one commercial classification.

The commission also recommended rezoning 11 parcels of property as part of the proposed commercial zoning amendment.

City reviews ordinances

Three ordinances aimed at bringing the City of Walled Lake under compliance with the basic codes of the Building Officials and Code Administrators (BOCA) International, Incorporated, were approved on first reading October 16 by the city council.

The proposed measures are based on the BOCA 1978 edition of the basic Building, building and fire prevention codes.

Second reading and adoption of the ordinances are scheduled for the council's November 5 meeting. If the measures are approved at that time, they will take effect 20 days after adoption or upon publication under provisions of the city charter.

Council Member Cameron E. Rose asked several questions on the proposed building code and was told by City Attorney Richard J. Poshman that the ordinance was based on language in the BOCA code.

Experience gives Montgomery edge

A year ago, prior to the regular Oakland County election, we said that voters in the 25th commission district had the luxury of a choice between two well-qualified candidates.

We endorsed incumbent Commissioner Robert A. McConnell, a Farmington Hills Republican, who defeated George F. Montgomery, a Commerce Township Democrat, in the general election. McConnell resigned in August, citing personal reasons, and Montgomery again is the Democratic nominee for the commission seat in a November 6 special election.

District voters nominated Dr. G. William Caddell, a Wolverine Lake Village resident, as the Republican candidate for the commission in a three-way special primary election October 5.

Again we feel that district voters have an excellent choice between two well-qualified candidates.

Our choice for the county commission is George F. Montgomery.

Based on his six years of service in the Michigan House of Representatives (1965-71), we feel Montgomery is best qualified to represent the Commerce, Wolverine Lake, White Lake, West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills district on the county-wide legislative body. He was a member of the House Appropriations Committee for his three terms in the legislature and also served as the majority floor leader for two years (1969-71).

Since he gave up his Detroit-based house seat in an unsuccessful bid for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1970, Montgomery has moved to Commerce and now teaches political science at the Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes campus. He also serves as a financial consultant to state legislative committees and fiscal agencies.

Montgomery's expertise in government finances is, in our opinion, an important plus to his candidacy.

Montgomery and Caddell both agree that roads and transportation are the major problems facing western Oakland County. Caddell feels the modified M-275 freeway proposal is a viable solution to the area's road needs. Montgomery is opposed to the freeway plan, favoring instead designation of several unnamed east-west and north-south roads as state trunklines in order to qualify for state-funded improvements.

We have opposed — and will continue to oppose — the modified M-275 freeway proposal because of the environmental damage and potential for urban sprawl that almost certainly will accompany this destructive and uneeded highway that is only slightly different than the M-275 project cancelled in January 1977 by the Michigan State Highway Commission.

A decision on an alternate north-south state trunkline road is now in the hands of the Michigan State Transportation Commission. Hopefully, the Oakland County Board of Commissioners will not have to address the M-275 issue again once the transportation commission makes that decision, but we would feel more comfortable knowing that the county commissioner from this district is opposed to the freeway.

Try private sector

The cities of Wixom and Novi currently are wrestling with questions regarding garbage collection.

The problems confronting the two communities are far different, however.

In Wixom's case, the city has been involved in collecting garbage from its residents for several years. The city previously contracted with private firms for garbage collection services, but was paid for from general fund revenues.

The city was forced to abandon that system in June, however, after the city attorney ruled that the city must collect garbage from all residents in the city — including industrial, commercial and multiple family — as long as the service is paid for from general tax revenues.

The projected cost of extending the service to all residents led Wixom to inaugurate a different approach to garbage collecting. Under the new system, the service is extended only to owners of single family residence who subscribe to the service by paying an annual fee of $40 plus administrative handling charges.

Under the old system — which has been ruled of questionable legality — garbage collection in Wixom went smoothly. Ever since the new system was implemented, the city has been flooded with complaints about poor and inconsistent collection service.

In Novi, the situation is quite different. The city is not now and never has been involved in the collection of garbage for its residents. Individual homeowners and subdivision associations presently contract for collection services, and the city is not involved.

Lately, however, there has been some question as to whether the city should become involved in an attempt to iron out the problems and inequities experienced by some homeowners and some subdivision associations.

A survey of resident attitudes about garbage collection services in Novi produced varied results. Some residents expressed dissatisfaction with the level of service provided by their private contractors, while others indicated that everything was going smoothly.

The question in Novi ultimately narrows down to whether city involvement in garbage collection services can necessarily lead to better and more equitable service.

Short of implementing a department of sanitation, the city must still rely on private contractors to answer those questions.

At this point in time, we believe that the city should be extremely cautious about becoming involved in garbage collection. As one of the candidates for the city council put it: "The government which governs least, governs best."

We're suggesting that the city might best decide to rely on the private enterprise system for collecting garbage. Those firms which provide sound, dependable service will prosper and grow. Those firms which do not provide good service will eventually lose contracts and fail by the wayside.

Although the city can adopt ordinances to regulate the garbage collection industry, plans for municipal involvement with its inherent costs in garbage collection might best be tabled until such time as the private sector has demonstrated conclusively that it can't or won't do the job.

Speaking for Myself

Is Susan B. worth it?

YES

When the Susan B. Anthony dollar first came out in July there was interest in it strictly from a curiosity standpoint. People wanted to see what it looked like.

Since then we have found transactions of the new silver dollar are just about nil. From businesses we might get two a day. People won't take them from the tellers.

But the Treasury Department has asked banks to distribute them for economic reasons.

It is estimated that producing Anthony dollars rather than the old, large Eisenhower dollar will generate a savings of at least $4.5 million annually.

Additional savings will be realized since the dollar bill costs nearly two cents to produce and lasts only 18 months in circulation.

The new dollar coin will cost three cents to produce and will last 15 or more years in good condition. In the long run the cost of minting the coins is less than printing dollar bills.

Anthony dollars have benefits for the retail, finan-

NO

According to A & P policy the dollar coin is to be accepted as legal tender, and employees have been encouraged to become familiar with it.

To facilitate this they were made aware of the July release of the Anthony dollar, the coin which bears the image of Susan B. Anthony, an early pioneer for women's suffrage. All employees were notified of the coin's unique features which included an 11-sided inner border designed to distinguish it from other coins.

We have been told the federal reserve is encouraging acceptance and use of the coins as it implements plans to eliminate the dollar bill from circulation.

Our cashiers watch for them carefully because the coins so closely resemble quarters. If there is a problem with the coins it is that they are too easily confused with the quarter. The new dollar is too small.

But as a retailer the dollar does not present a lot of problems, primarily because people simply are not using it.

cial communities, and the consumer.

For the retailer they can save time and reduce error at the cash register. Anthony dollars eliminate the need for removal of worn and torn bills from circulation for the banker. And for the consumer the coin is easy to carry with other coins since it allows them to avoid fumbling in both sections of the wallet or purse. Unlike bills, coins will not stick together when new and will not tear when old.

Like most U.S. coins the Anthony dollar is a copper-nickel clad coin, a composition which has many advantages such as superior surface wear and appearance.

So far our patrons have largely shunned the coin, but spending an Anthony dollar could save the country money in the long run.

Barbara Johnson
Head Teller
Security Bank of Novi

The coins just don't show up in our daily transactions. We don't give them out because people don't want them. Many customers don't like to handle them, some just want to save them.

A lot of people come in and when they are cashing a check will ask for the Anthony dollar. But they are mainly collectors.

Some people come in and ask to buy a couple of the coins either for birthday gifts or to give them to grandchildren.

We have heard some complaints from older people who can't see well who don't like the smaller coin. But for the most part there haven't been complaints because nobody is using them.

The Susan B. Anthony dollar is just the wrong size.

to obtain. They gave me the names of three "pro" senators: Senators James A. McClure and Frank Church of Idaho and H. John Heinz, III of Pennsylvania.

If you had to guess which of the three would be willing to take a public position, who would you pick? I asked "Well, McClure and Church are up for re-election so I'd guess Heinz," came the reply.

Back to the negative side. Listen, I was promised a call from Senator Riegle's office last week," I said. "I'm still waiting."

"We're sorry, but the office manager got sick and we had a little mix-up. We'll get back to you," the senator's staff said.

"I'm sorry, but in view of the Three Mile Island incident in his home state, Senator Heinz is in the process of reassessing his position on nuclear energy," an aide said.

"But he was a strong proponent of nuclear energy wasn't he?" I pressed.

"I would say that isn't an unfair characterization," was the aide's reply.

Returning to Senator Riegle's office, I was told, "I'm sorry, Mr. Hoffman, the guy in Washington was to have called you yesterday. I don't know what happened. I do know the senator's been very busy with the Chrysler thing (request for loan). I'll do all I can."

"I'm sorry, this one we're going to have to beg off on," the aide of Senator Church said. "He's just too busy right now to even get him to sit down at a typewriter."

Church's aide suggested two "good alternatives": Senator Scoop Jackson and U.S. Representative Mike McCormack.

Scoop's Office transferred me four times (hones) before I finally landed his energy expert. "I'm afraid he and his staff are too bogged down to write anything. We just don't have the time."

Admittedly a little testy at this point, I persisted: "Look I'm not asking for a major policy paper, just 200 words in defense of nuclear energy. For goodness sake, you can sneeze that many words over the phone."

Readers Speak

Walled Lake millage supported

To the Editor:

I have never written a letter to a paper before, but as a concerned parent, I felt I just had to write in response to the letter from Lori Miller of Milford. She felt that it was "assinine" for the school administration to be asking for a millage increase when they were spending too much for transporting and teaching special education students.

The program that Ms. Miller specifically objected to appears to be the moving of the trainable mentally impaired (TMI) classes from Twin Sun School to Loom Lake Elementary.

As the mother of a child in the TMI program at Loom Lake, I can only say that Ms. Miller is obviously misinformed.

To start with the special education classes are mainly funded by federal funds.

Secondly, the TMI program at Loom Lake appears to be a great success. Both groups of students are benefiting from the program by learning to deal with each other, learning to deal with all types of people.

The program has helped the TMI students by increasing their self-confidence, their abilities to deal with social experiences, their opportunity to make friends and, in many cases, their academic abilities.

My mentally impaired child not only deserves but has a legal right to obtain as high a level of achievement according to his abilities as any of my other children.

For a complete education for all of our children, it is vital that we all vote in favor of the millage on November 12.

Judith Ann Schultz
Walled Lake

To the Editor:

One of the primary reasons we moved into the Walled Lake-Wixom area two years ago was the excellent public school system. As a former elementary school teacher and a parent of three children now in school, I feel a real concern about the November 12 millage election.

Many of the wonderful programs and services available to our children have already been cut drastically, and if this millage fails, more will follow. The fifth graders are without their swim program, the children are using old and used art supplies, many instrumental programs are being cut, and the children are being asked to contribute to the cost of their education. Who do they think is going to do it?

Anne DeRoche
Wixom

To the Editor:

We, as parents and taxpayers, support the millage on November 12.

Meadowbrook Glens residents ask tax limit

To the Editor:

The homeowners of Meadowbrook Glens are concerned and distressed about the enormous potential increase in property taxes that could result from the city's current property reassessment program scheduled to be completed at the end of this year.

Homes in the subdivisions of Novi, constructed during the past 10 years, have been subject to the rampant inflation that has swept the nation and, as a result, property values have soared progressively each year.

Since the city's assessed valuation for new homes in the subdivisions has been based upon selling price, homes constructed and sold the past few years have been and are excessively taxed beyond the reasonable tax base voted on and approved by the electorate when the tax millage was passed.

Homeowners beseech the Novi City Council to pass a resolution guaranteeing the homeowner taxpayers that council will reduce the millage proportionately to compensate for the increased assessed valuations to bring taxes back into line with the tax base that voters originally approved.

We also suggest that all candidates for the city council and mayor go on record indicating their position on this issue during the candidates' night sponsored by the League of Women Voters and their interviews with newspapers.

We would like to emphasize that this letter is not to be construed as opposition to the tax proportions scheduled to be considered by the voters in the coming election and it is not in opposition to necessary increases in millage presented to the voters for their approval.

We do most vigorously oppose increasing taxes without the consent of the voters.

We would hope that all homeowners associations in Novi support this position and make their opinions known to the candidates before the election.

Frank Runkle, President
Meadowbrook Glens
Homeowners Assoc.

Clark quits Commerce fire department post

Commerce Township officials are expected to hire a new swing-shift firefighter this week to replace firefighter James Clark, who resigned October 15.

Brad Schnaidt, a Commerce Township volunteer firefighter and the top candidate on the township's civil service eligibility list, was interviewed for the post last week, according to Township Clerk Robert D. McGee. If Schnaidt passed a physical examination yesterday, he probably will be hired by the end of this week, McGee added.

Clark, a 10-year veteran of the fire department and president of the Commerce Township Local of the International Association of Firefighters that represents Commerce's seven full-time firefighters, submitted a letter of resignation to township officials October 15. He did not give a reason for his resignation, according to Township Supervisor Robert H. Long.

Last month, the township board denied Clark's request for a one-year leave of absence in order to start a trucking business. Board members said they didn't feel a township employee should be entitled to a leave in order to go into business.

The board members said it could cost the township too much in overtime to replace Clark and added they didn't think it would be fair to hire a new firefighter in case Clark decided to return to the department when the leave expired.

Clark was supposed to return to work September 18 from his vacation, but called in sick twice before requesting a sick leave that expired October 15.

The swing-shift employee was hired in January 1978 in an effort to cut down on the department overtime expenses, officials said.

The new firefighter will be assigned to the swing shift to fill in for firefighters who are on vacation or sick leave. The swing-shift employee also makes fire station number two from time to time and handles other duties assigned by the fire chief.

Novi schools name farm curriculum panel

A committee has been formed by the Novi school board to develop a curriculum which could be used in conjunction with the development of a farm and garden center on the Puertal Farm.

School board members learned Thursday that seven teachers, three administrators and one parent have agreed to serve on the Farm and Garden Committee.

Dr. Harrison Gardner, who has worked closely with the original group which developed plans for the renovation of the Puertal Farm and its possible uses within the school district, will continue to work with the curriculum committee.

In addition James Pelham of Hillsdale County Extension will serve as a resource person for the group, Kratz told the board.

The committee is scheduled to meet four times between November 8 and February 11 when it is slated to present its report to the Curriculum Council.

A farm and garden curriculum is being developed in accordance with a school board decision in June that a full-time staff member not be hired to administer the farm and garden program until a curriculum has been developed.

It was suggested that under the proposal presented to the board in June the district would be hiring a staff person, developing a curriculum and then finding out whether there was student support for the program.

School board members expressed concern that the district was developing a program that it was not ready to offer. Questions as to student interest in such a program also were raised.

The board also decided in June to postpone the purchase of small animals to live on the farm.

The board decided to proceed with renovation of the exterior of the farm buildings and the development of a curriculum in the June meeting, however.

Schools plan hearing on proposed budget

Citizens are invited to express their views Thursday (tomorrow), on the $7.3 million budget proposed for the Novi School District in the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The school board will entertain public comments in a meeting to discuss the budget set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the School Board Offices on Taft Road.

The proposed budget shows an increase of about $1.3 million over last year.

Proposed budget figures show the district expects revenues in the neighborhood of $7.3 million and expenditures to total about $7.28 million.

Revenues will be generated primarily through the local property tax which is expected to net the district more than $6.6 million.

Novi Schools also expect to receive about $800,000 in state aid and about $190,000 from federal sources.

Proposed expenditures include $3.7 million for instruction for grades K-12 and $3.52 million for support services.

Teachers' salaries are expected to cost about $2.3 million, principals' salaries should run about $250,000 and executive administrative costs will be in the neighborhood of $154,000.

Board members are scheduled to discuss the budget in detail and decide whether or not to adopt it at Thursday's meeting.

A copy of the proposed budget will be available at the Superintendent's office Monday, Friday prior to said hearing.

Novi choir director scores

'Promise' is a hit for local composer

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Ruth Ann Zimmer's life is one of music.

It has been since she was a young child making up songs with her father and brother. The trio had contests to see who could think up better parades on words in the least amount of time.

Mrs. Zimmer says her love of words and word games, the crafty ways of using words and making rhymes is as much a part of her life as the music is that she sets to those words.

Combining her two loves, Mrs. Zimmer takes delight in writing musicals for children. Although none of them have ever hit the professional stage, the music director for the Novi United Methodist Church as at least three completed originals to her credit.

And for the most part, all are based on stories from the Bible.

The latest, "The Promise of a Rainbow" was staged just last week at the Novi church and featured most of the children enrolled in the Sunday school program.

"Promise" is the story of Noah and the flood, "certainly not an original story by any means," remarked the composer. But, through the use of upbeat music, which ranges from folksy to disco, the parable is brought to life, in color, motion and song.

Other Zimmer creations include a musical about David and Goliath and another called "A. Harry Frog," the story of Jerico and a frog that lives in the river.

Work on "Promise" started last summer and although the composer says she can score the music for a 45-minute show in about one hour, it's the script that takes the time. "The music just comes and so do the words but it's the storyline that takes the time. It has to have a script," she commented.

"Probably the next hardest thing and most distasteful of all is making copies. It's the thing I like the least, and, therefore, it takes me forever to do it," the musician added.

Although she has several scores and completed works to her credit, the church music director has yet to have any of them submitted to publishing houses. Through her contacts in the musical world Mrs. Zimmer says she has received enthusiastic response to her work and has been urged to have them copyrighted.

But still she hesitates. "It's really the time element," said the busy Northville resident who manages to raise a family and teach private piano lessons in addition to her church duties.

"It's really a long drawn out procedure that one must go through to submit a composition for publishing. It's enough to scare anyone off."

"There is another reason," she added. "It's the dread fear that someone is going to say 'your baby is ugly.'"

Laughing, the composer added, "After all, it is my creation and I guess I'm not sure or not ready to have anyone say they didn't like what I wrote."

Even worse, that it wasn't any good. Ideas for new musicals "pop" into the Zimmer mind and once working on a composition, she says it is difficult to remove herself from it. "It's like reading a good book ... you just don't want to quit."

But, the musical scores are squeezed between lessons, directing three church choirs and writing arrangements for those choirs.

There is yet another underlying cause for writing musicals, Mrs. Zimmer stated. "Through my music and my lyrics, I am able to teach youngsters both about the Bible and music itself. I was given a great deal by my teachers in high school. I thoroughly believe that a person may take something and then in turn, must pass it on to someone else. Through the musicals I am able to pass that something on to others."

Laughing about the time she spent creating her newest musical, Mrs. Zimmer said she was sure her family was ready to turn her in for another mother. "You can't imagine how time consuming the whole process is," she pointed out.

"But then I sometimes think writing the musical is the easiest part of the entire job. Cecil B. DeMille must have had many sleepless nights reworking himself for his grandiose extravaganzas. I have enough headaches just worrying about the cost of 30 let alone 1,000."

"Promise" was staged in the sanctuary of the Novi church and contained some unique ideas. Written for diverse age groups, Mrs. Zimmer said she was tempted to write in a woman God.

"Everyone seems to have the comforting delusional concept of God, a male with a booming voice. My concept of a good God voice would be that of Lorne Green except he doesn't attend our church. And since I'm not that much of a feminist, I then decided to write out the female representation of God."

Instead, God was portrayed by a "godly" chorus representing a cross-section of ages and sex, speaking in unison, showing the concept of oneness.

Mrs. Zimmer considers herself a "closet" writer, collaborating with others to create new music, happy in the knowledge that she can share her special talent with others.

As with her other musicals, Mrs. Zimmer first teaches the Sunday school youngsters the parable on which the musical is based, adding the significance of each story. "You really must know the reason before you can adequately express the feeling," she said.

The concept is well received at the Novi church and Mrs. Zimmer says she always gains much support and enthusiasm for her efforts.

"Promise" included the one adult figure of Noah who was played by Dan Mullendore. His artist wife Jan added her talents to the production by creating the sets.

Sitting at her piano, Mrs. Zimmer played a few bars and smiled as she sang the words to her newest baby.

"... before it can thunder, before it can flood, get movin' and don't be a sucker in the mud."

It may not be a candidate for the top 40 chart, but "Promise," to the eyes and ears of the Novi congregation, was a hit.

Ruth Ann Zimmer adds the final notes to her newest musical, "Promise of a Rainbow"

Children's records added to Novi library collection

A new children's record collection is now available at the Novi Public Library.

Library Administrator Dianne Bish reported that the children's record collection has been developed in recognition of the International Year of the Child.

Beginning on United Nations Day (today), children visiting the library may choose one or two records from a collection of more than 100. The records then may be checked out by parents on their library cards.

Ms. Bish said the initial collection includes story records, music records and marching records. Also indicated in the collection are records about holidays and records for birthday celebrations.

Additionally, the initial collection includes "counting" and "alphabet" records. Ms. Bish said more records will be added to the collection which will become a permanent part of the library's holdings.

The initial proposal to develop a lending library of children's records was made by the Friends of the Novi Library under the direction of President Marian Pickl approximately a year ago.

The library board, chaired by Paul Black, endorsed the proposal and adopted it as their second annual project for 1979 in keeping with their concern to do something to celebrate the International Year of the Child.

As part of the joint project between the Friends and the library board, it was agreed that record bins and 33 and one-third albums would be chosen. Late this past summer, the record bins purchased by the Friends arrived at the library. Children's Assistant Jane Brown then went on a shopping excursion to select the initial records for the collection.

In addition to the attractive and durable record bins, the Friends bought the first 30 records for the collection. The library board has approved the expenditure of funds to purchase additional records. Some 70 record albums for the collection already have been purchased from the budget, and additional funds remain for further purchases.

Ms. Bish asked that anyone with suggestions or recommendations for the purchase of record albums make them known to the library staff.

United Nations Day was selected for the unveiling of the collection because this is the International Year of the Child.

The first article of the charter outlines the purposes of the United Nations, the primary purpose being the maintenance of international peace and security.

The United Nations has undertaken many activities to this end, and of which is urging participation of all nations in a specially emphasized area of concern each year. This year has been proclaimed International Year of the Child by the United Nations.

Western trip follows ceremony

A wedding trip to the Grand Canyon followed the exchange of the wedding rings by Robin Sue Atwell and Randall Stephen Hanson in evening ceremonies September 8 at the Union Lake Baptist Church. Pastor Hiram Jones officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Atwell of Gamma Street, Walled Lake. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanson of West Bloomfield. She appeared on the arm of her father wearing a white Spanish-style gown completely fashioned of lace. It's full skirt and fitted bodice was accented with a long, full mantilla that fell from a Spanish comb in her hair. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white carnations tied with ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Laurel Perry was her sister's matron of honor. Jan Dawson, Laurie Hall, Sue Ray and Debbie Hanson were bridesmaids. The attendants wore long, pink gowns while the honor attendant appeared in mauve. The gowns were identically styled with blouses, tops featuring Austrian gathered sleeves and straight skirts of carnations and daisies, and the bridesmaids had baskets of daisies. Tracy Hanson, niece of the bridegroom, preceded the bride as flower girl wearing a white lace dress similar to the bride's. Her brother, Tim, attended as ring bearer. Bryan Leonard served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Daniel Hanson, brother of the bridegroom, Donald Sark Jr., Harry Linton and Richard Parr. A reception at the Wixom VFW attended by 160 guests after which the young couple left on their western honeymoon. They are making their home in Novi.

Community blood drive coming up

It's time for all Novi residents to roll up their sleeves and make a donation to the Novi Community Blood Bank.

"We're setting a goal of 100 pints this year," said City Clerk Geraldine Stipp who also is serving as coordinator of the annual blood drive in Novi.

Mrs. Stipp let it be known, however, that she considers the goal of 100 pints to be a minimum objective.

"People in the community donated 114 pints of blood last year and we think we ought to be able to do better than that this time around," she said.

The annual community blood drive in Novi will be held at the Holy Family Catholic Church next Monday (October 29) from 2-8 p.m. The church is located on Meadowbrook Road between Ten Mile and Grand River Avenues.

Prospective donors can make an appointment to donate blood by calling Mrs. Stipp at 349-4300 during the day or 624-2708 during the evening. Appointments also can be scheduled by calling the church at 349-8847 during the blood drive hours next Monday.

Mrs. Stipp said residents might be more likely to donate blood if they more fully understood the "community coverage" concept.

Most simple, community coverage is based on the principle that blood should be made available to all members of the community who need it, regardless of their membership in a "plan" or past donor history.

The ability of the Southeastern Chapter of the American Red Cross to meet the daily need of 950 to 1,000 pints of blood now relies almost exclusively on the community.

If residents of Novi and southeastern Michigan accept the responsibility to give blood on a regular basis, those needs can be met.

The concept removes the burden of replacing blood from the user and his family and instead places that burden on the community at large.

"The community coverage concept is drive anyone who needs blood can obtain blood at no charge for hospital processing charges," explained Mrs. Stipp.

"But the concept only will work as long as blood is available," she added.

"That's why it's important for as many residents as possible to get out and donate blood next Monday so that Novi can maintain its community supply at acceptable levels."

"We need to replenish the Novi blood account."

Individuals between the ages of 18 and 65 are probably eligible to donate blood. Seventeen-year-olds may donate blood with parental consent. Additional questions about eligibility for donating blood to the Novi Community Blood Bank may be addressed to Mrs. Stipp.

A Matter of Taste

By Maria Sarivalas Kokas, R.D.

"Ease the pains — eat more whole grains" should be the motto of every hemorrhoid sufferer or potential victim.

Sufferers begin their plight at no magic age. Anyone from childhood or grandparenthood is susceptible to this painful syndrome. Once begun, the progression can be controlled, made less painful or temporarily alleviated with treatment.

Usually, once they're sprouted, a lifetime of intermittent discomfort can be expected.

Why sit still for all that misery? The pain can be eased, as television tells us, with Preparation H. It can also be eased with diet. Remember, what goes in, must come out at some time. Choosing foods wisely will not only add to better overall health, but will also cut down on those horribly uncomfortable days.

Hemorrhoids have any number of beginnings. The two major causes are extreme rectal pressure and constipation. Whenever that gets great or an individual strains with bowel movements, the hemorrhoidal veins expand, creating the newly sprouted hemorrhoids.

Diet can't cure hemorrhoids. It can keep them from getting irritated. No irritation means minimal discomfort. It's almost as simple as it sounds.

There is no magic formula or miracle food that is hemorrhoid safe. A combination of recommendations will keep most of us worry free. That's true for the "haves" and well as the "have nots." The child as well as the adult. The pregnant woman as well as her favorite uncle. Everyone should join in. The two common missing parts of hemorrhoid sufferers' diets are dietary fiber (roughage) and enough water or other liquids. By cutting these down or unknowingly eliminating them from the diet, most individuals are headed for hemorrhoids.

By increasing the fiber and liquid in the diet, a softer and bulkier bowel movement is produced. This eliminates difficult straining and irritation.

Fruits and vegetables (preferably fresh or fresh frozen), nuts and seeds, and whole grains (brown rice, whole wheat and other whole grains) and relatively unprocessed cereals are the foods highest in fiber in our diet.

Over the past 50 years, the consumption of all of these, particularly the whole grains, has dropped radically. That sets us up for increased incidences of hemorrhoids. More primitive cultures and less highly industrialized peoples seldom, if ever, suffer from this common American condition.

At the same time that we began decreasing fruits, vegetables, whole grains, cereals, nuts and seeds; we started drinking more flavored beverages and less plain water — then it was less of all fluids. That combination is deadly.

Adding the spinach to the salad, the oatmeal to breakfast, the wheat germ to the sandwich, the unpeeled apple to the lunch, the nuts and grapes to the snacks, the water to the evening and the carrots to the hors d'oeuvres will not only add new flavors, but also will help ease the pain.

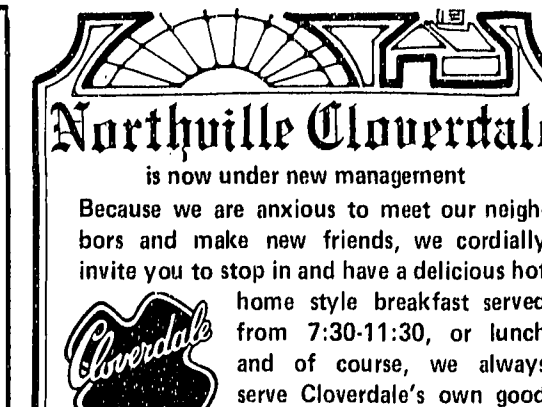

An extra attraction to these anti-hemorrhoid-pain-foods is that they are generally lower in calories than other foods. They take longer to eat because you have to chew them. As a result, they're great for weight-conscious individuals — regardless of age.

Central Market

"It's the finest flea you'll ever see," agree a chorus of Walled Lake Central students as they sort items that will be offered at the Central Market this Saturday. Checking through just a few of the goodies donated to the sale are (from left) Kim Oisidac, Cindy Tracy, Chuck Spieser and Eric Lundquist. Weather permitting, the booths planned by school clubs and organizations will be set up outside in the parking lot at Central High School. Sponsored by the PTSA, shoppers will find bagels and baked goods, used sports equipment, pumpkins, plants and all kinds of "attic antiques." The Market, designed to benefit all the participating school organizations, will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Shoppers also will find hot dogs and popcorn to munch on while browsing.

Novi Girl Scouts still looking for adult leaders

By JEANNE CLARKE
624-0173

The Novi Girl Scouts are still looking for mothers willing to serve as troop leaders. The number of troops in Novi currently is limited by the lack of leaders.

Leaders are needed at the Brownie, Junior and middle school levels. Anyone who can help provide guidance and leadership for girls who want to join the Girl Scouting movement is encouraged to call 624-0173 for more information.

An organizational meeting for girls in the Village Oaks area was held last week under the direction of Vera Johnson, Janet Cobb and Bea Franks. Girls interested in learning more about the Village Oaks troop should call Mrs. Johnson at 474-5402.

Leaders for the following troops have been announced: Ann Oglesby and Julie Galma are leading Brownie Troop 414; Iris Lockwood and Deanna Plummer are leading Brownie Troop 519; and Keith DuBois and Andrea Timrick are leading Brownie Troop 842.

Vera Johnson, Sher Watkins and Liz LaPine are leading Junior Troop 837; and Diane Gertsen, Sherrie Slawski and Donna Bragg are leading Junior Troop 827.

Novi Little League

Charles Siever has been elected president of the Novi Little League for 1979-80. Other new officers include Vice-president Jerry Dody, Treasurer Delores Vedro and Secretary Judy Maloney.

Additional little league officials include Player Agent Pat Thorpe, Equipment Manager Chuck Provo, Concession Director Sandy March, Safety Director Robert Moon, Public Relations Director Fran Gunderson and Banquet Director Barbara Daniels.

Frank Mobarak is in charge of field maintenance. David Kurtz will head fund-raising activities and Ed Vedro is umpire-in-chief.

Dave Young is in charge of the senior league. Marty Provo is in charge of the major league. Dan Jones heads the pony league and Bruce Forrester is head of the minor league.

Elected to positions of directors-at-large were Sandy Siever, John Thorpe and Tom Daniels. The new board is working on a revision of the by-laws and making plans for the 1980 season.

Novi Rotary

Members of the Novi Rotary Club met recently with the Novi Clergy Association to explore the possibility of sponsoring a Vietnamese family to live in the Novi area. Co-chairman of the project are Claude Curry and Dick Griffith.

Plans are underway for the annual Thanksgiving luncheon for senior citizens. Dr. Siddharth Sanghi is project chairman.

The Rotarians recently participated in a president exchange with the Northville Rotarians. Novi President Gerald Kratz visited the Northville group, while Northville President Elroy Ellison came to Novi for the exchange program.

Village Creek Garden Club

Novi's Village Creek Garden Club is looking for new members who are interested in gardening.

Club members will be planting tulips and crocus around the Novi Public Library this week, and the club also has made plans for a series of workshops at the home of Gretchen Pugsley during the next two months. Additional information about the club is available at 348-1539.

The next regular meeting will be held in the Novi Public Library on November 13.

Volunteers are needed on both the executive and "worker" levels. Anyone who can assist youth by assisting Youth Assistance should call 349-8398 for more information.

Chamber of Commerce

Novi Chapter of Commerce offices now are located at 25393 Novi Road. The Novi Chamber resumed monthly meetings in September with a visit to the Solar Home in Northville as guests of the Detroit Edison Company. Candidates for mayor and city council were the guests at the chamber's October meeting which was held in the Saratoga Trunk.

The chamber presently is looking for individuals to serve as volunteer firefighters. Volunteers are needed during the day in particular, and the chamber is contacting businesses to see if they will grant release time for employees who volunteer to fight fires.

Next meeting of the chamber has been slated for November 19. More information about the chamber may be obtained from Secretary Bob Maynes at 349-3743.

Novi Library

A special collection of dolls from around the world presently is on display at the Novi Public Library. The collection has been loaned to the library by Kelly Parker, a Novi Township resident and an eighth grader, who has collected approximately 50 dolls over the past eight years from such places as South America, Japan and Peru.

Free movies for elementary school children will be shown this Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the library. This week's films include "Cat in the Hat," "Dear Kurt," and "George to the Rescue."

Library administrators have announced the expansion of the reference section and the addition of several new magazine subscriptions. A special collection of books about Halloween also is available.

Residents are urged to visit the library at Ten Mile and Taft Road to view the growth that has taken place and families themselves with the available services.

the State Auxiliary Meeting in Kalamazoo next weekend.

Plans have been made for a special Halloween party for the children of Jaycees and Jaycettes. The children will be collecting funds for UNICEF. THE BEST MUSIC.

Vocal concert offered by Western students

Walled Lake Western High School vocal music students will present an evening of choral music at St. William's Church in Walled Lake on Tuesday, October 30, at 8 p.m.

A departure from the normal "in school" performances, the concert is the first in what is hoped to be an annual event—that of taking the choir to different outside locations within the district. Members of the concert choir, Westerners and Women's Glee Club will perform works composed by Bach and Brahms as well as a number of American spirituals.

The concert will mark the first time the choir has appeared in robes distinguishing the concert choir and also will mark the kick-off of a type of fund-raising effort to pay for the robes themselves. Patrons of the musical arts may "purchase" a robe for a $50 donation. An embroidered tag naming the patron will be attached to the inside of the robe.

Vocal music director Tim Kinne said the system will allow those interested to make an investment in the music program at the school while providing a tax deduction to the patrons.

The royal blue robes feature silver lining on the bell sleeves and reversible stoles of silver and blue stripes. The reverse side of the stole is solid silver with an old English W centered in blue.

The Westerners will appear in formal dress, another first for the performing group. The men will appear in navy tuxedos while the young ladies will appear in long Qiana gowns.

Although most of the program will be a cappella in nature, the Bach "Alleluia" will feature Lucy Salisz at the St. William pipe organ.

The music performance carries no admission charge. However a free will donation will be taken during the evening.

Commended students announced at Western Knut Kverneland and Douglas Poland have been named commended students through competitive scholarship tests administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The Walled Lake Western High School students participated in the 25th annual scholarship program.

The senior students were recognized for their outstanding performance on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholar Qualifying Test given nationwide last October.

Kverneland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Knut Kverneland of Welch Road in Commerce Township while Poland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Poland of Meadow Ridge Drive in Walled Lake.

Of the more than one million students entering the competition, approximately 35,000 throughout the United States are being commended for test performances that placed them among the top five percent of those participating.

Although commended students rank below the level required for final Merit Program testing, the only participants who will continue in the 1980 competition for Merit Scholarships, both Western students have shown exceptional academic promise, according to Western principal Richard Smith.

A Merit Program spokesman said the goals achieved by a commended student is deserving of public recognition.

In an effort to increase the scholastic opportunities available to such students, their names have been forwarded to two higher education institutions of their choice.

The spokesman continued that the service hopefulness will encourage colleges and universities to help the students obtain whatever information and assistance they may need to pursue their educational plans.

Paint-A-Face

Whether it's the scary face being applied to Paul Comstock by Chris Matthews, the appeal of Paul VanderRoest's clown face, or Dan Berning's Kiss creation applied by Leslie Foss, all add a unique, safe note to any youngster doing the trick or treat rounds on Halloween. Stage 1 Productions and the Novi Jaycees will coordinate their efforts for safety by offering a Paint-A-Face session on Halloween, October 31, at the Novi Community Building. The theatrical artists will be on hand from 5 to 7 p.m. to paint faces with stage make-up to match any costume or whim. Painting faces does not constrict the vision of the wearer and can be removed easily with soap and water. Children up to age 15 may have their faces painted for $1 while those older than 15 are asked to donate $1.50.

Slippery slopes

How will gas crunch affect Michigan's ski resorts this winter?

BY RICH PERLBERG

If you are going to live in Michigan during the winter, you may as well find some way to enjoy the snow and cold.

For several hundred thousand downwardly mobile skiing enthusiasts, winter is to be enjoyed, not merely endured.

Last year, nearly 400,000 skiers attacked, mastered, glided down, fell down, or otherwise negotiated the downhill slopes at 57 Michigan resorts, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

And this year — gas prices and rising fuel crisis notwithstanding — ski resorts will be going all out to approach that level.

The reason is simple. Besides making nifty parallel turns, performing hot-dog stunts, schussing steep vertical drops and relaxing at half-way houses, skiers also find time to spend money.

Lots of money. Last year, they spent $145 million, according to the Auto Club.

And, nothing that 1979 Michigan tourism is down about six percent from a year ago, resorts are taking great pains to see that they will not suffer from reduced skiing.

Actually, the cost of gas could help some resorts — namely those in southeastern Michigan which, while smaller than their up-north cousins, are also closer to most people.

In addition, the eight lodges in this region boast the state's best snow-making systems, they usually open earlier in the season and, with one exception — Teeple Hill in Milford — they offer night skiing.

Mt. Brighton, traditionally the most popular resort in the state, is a leader of this trend.

Officials there say season pass requests are up 24 percent from last season.

They also say that for the last six years, they have opened earlier than any other resort east of the Mississippi River.

This year, they are shooting for a November 10 starting date. If not then, November 17, for sure.

Mt. Brighton has also completed a new membership building. Other improvements in the southeast have been made at Alpine Valley, larger beginner and intermediate slopes, a 1,000-foot-long beginner run served by a two-place chairlift and greater snowmaking ability.

Weekend tickets are: Mt. Brighton, $10 days, $9 nights; Alpine Valley, $9.50, days, $8.50 nights; and Pine Knob, $9.50 days and nights.

The lift tickets become a little steeper as you get further north, but then so do the slopes.

The costliest ski ticket in the state can be purchased for $15 at Sugar Loaf, north of Traverse City.

Sugar Loaf also had the largest pre-winter expansion in the state — a $3.5 million project that added 100 lodge rooms to triple at-slope sleeping capacity to 1,000 persons.

The ski resort's dining room and cafeteria have also doubled.

Other northern ticket prices include $13 for Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highland and Schuss Mountain; $12 for Hills Shanty Creek, Nub's Nob and Timberline; $10 for Caberfae.

Some, but not all, northern Michigan resorts offer night skiing. Among them are Caberfae, (for $7), Hilton Shanty Creek ($5), Nub's Nob ($6) and Timberline ($6).

Although gas has increased more than 50 percent since last ski season, the major resorts don't appear to be quaking at the thought of 400-to-500-mile round trips scaring away skiers.

Boyne Highlands near Harbor Springs has booked nearly all its room for the Christmas holidays. The pre-winter booking pace at Boyne Mountain near Boyne Falls equals last year's. Bookings are up 17 percent at Crystal Mountain near Thompsonville and 40 percent at Sugar Loaf.

Whether such optimistic figures hold up after the holiday seasons will probably be the big test.

For those who don't want to use up gasoline, the trial Snow Train may be the answer. It will run from Owosso to Cadillac on January 4-6 for $189 per person.

Broken bones rather than gas prices may be weighing most heavily on the minds of ski resort owners.

Brochures from nine of 13 major ski lodges pooled have warnings about the "inherent risks of injury," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club Touring Manager.

"Two of the areas which do not include such notices will post similar warnings at lifts and on runs."

This new approach is the result of a landmark Vermont court ruling that resorts could be held liable for damages stemming from skiing accidents.

"It also has spawned a bill backed by the Michigan ski industry which will be introduced in the legislature this fall," Ratke added.

Michigan's proposed law would grant immunity to resorts from skier lawsuits as long as certain requirements are met.

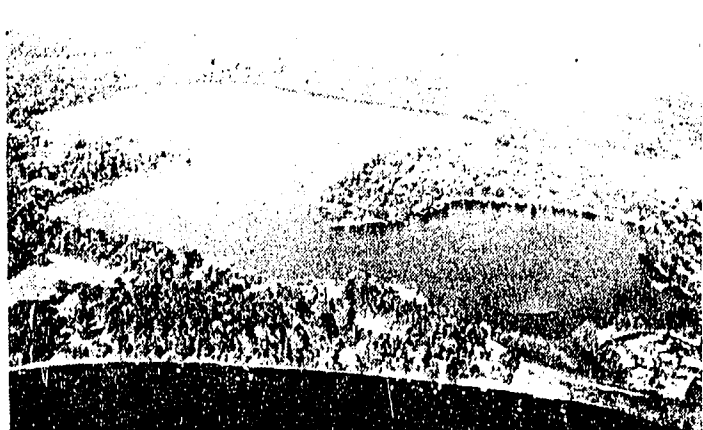

These include marking open and closed areas and all man-made obstacles, showing degrees of difficulty on all runs and placing trail maps in the ski area.

The bill also calls for fining skiers for recklessness on slopes or lifts or for leaving an accident scene.

Skiing can have its less than exhilarating moments, as Mary Kay Kroth of Brighton discovers.

2-C—SOUTH LYON HERALD—BRIGHTON ARGUS—NORTHVILLE RECORD—WALLED LAKE-NOVI NEWS—Wednesday, October 24, 1979

FACED with record high interest rates, local home buyers are increasingly turning from conventional mortgages to alternate methods of home financing.

A report of September existing home sales from the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR) indicates a strong shift to VA mortgages and land contracts.

In September, 1978, VA mortgages were used by only 2.9 percent of buyers and land contracts by 5.6 percent. A year later, sales by WWOCBR members indicate 12.1 percent of buyers used VA mortgages and 10.7 percent land contracts.

"More significantly, these types of financing are being used increasingly to purchase higher priced suburban homes," said John Cole, WWOCBR president.

"Last year, it was highly unusual to help process a VA loan on a property above $40,000. This September, 12.1 percent of homes sold by our members in the $50,000 to $60,000 had VA backed financing as did 11.3 percent in the $70,000 to $80,000 range."

Cole said the increased use of VA loans first showed in June and has climbed from a 4.5 percent figure then to the 12.1 percent of last month.

"We also have seen similar patterns emerging with sales by land contract," he added. "They also climbed steadily since May and their percentage of use has about doubled in the higher priced home ranges since that time."

Eligible VA home buyers like such mortgages because it allows them to move in with payment of little more than closing costs and a government set interest rate, currently 10.5 percent. Sellers, on the other hand, dislike the financing instrument because it requires them to pay the lender a certain amount (points) to make the loan compatible with conventional terms.

"Last year when the market was strong and mortgage funds in good supply, we had no difficulty finding qualified buyers ready to accept conventional mortgage terms," Cole said.

"This year, with less mortgage money available and a softened market for homes, sellers who must, or want to, move their property may have to accept alternate forms of financing, even if it means payment of points to the lender."

"However, we find that, knowing they will have to pay points in accepting VA backed financing, such sellers are remaining fairly firm on the price asked."

He noted that VA home sales also may have been aided by the fact that city certification of the home is no longer required, except where it is demanded by local ordinance.

Cole said that he expected an increase in the use of FHA loans, although a growth pattern for this type of financing hasn't yet become apparent. It is anticipated that Congress will shortly approve an increase on the loan limit for FHA purchased single-family homes from $60,000 to $87,000.

The president of the bank is Charles E. Wood, a graduate of Adrian College. Wood has 12 years of banking experience with Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, most recently serving as group vice president in charge of its downtown banking offices.

Manufacturers Bank of Novi is a subsidiary of Manufacturers National Corporation, a $4.5 billion bank holding company with headquarters in Detroit.

ED CLOWE AND GEORGE KEEBLER of Bitten Brothers, Inc., Brighton, were among the eight-member class which completed technical training courses recently at J.I. Case Company's Service Training School.

Clowe, who lives at 6834 Sheldon Road, Whitmore Lake, specialized in practical use of test instruments and diagnostic skills on two major product lines.

Keebler, who lives at 1024 Brighton Lake Road, specialized in hydraulic and drive systems and diagnostic skills.

The training sessions are conducted by professional instructors of the Case Construction Equipment Division. Students representing Case dealerships throughout North America receive actual experience in various component trouble-shooting, use of modern tools, diagnosis test equipment and preventive maintenance.

J.I. Case Company is an international manufacturer and marketer of construction and agricultural tractors and related equipment.

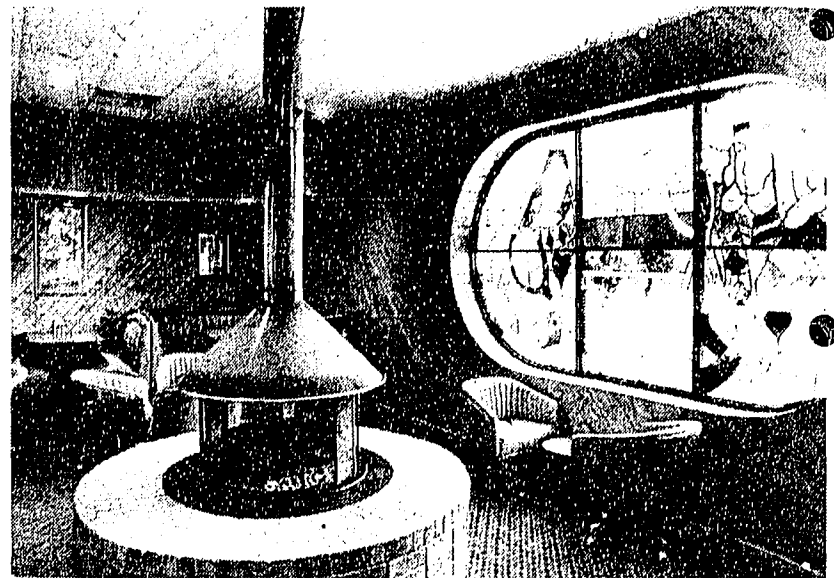

BRANCHING out into Northville has been so satisfying to Gerald Haynes that he is expanding his four year old salon at 41012 Five Mile Road in the township.

When Gerald's Northville salon was first considered and the small building was being renovated, it was a gamble of the first order. No one, least of all the long-time Franklin based stylist, knew whether the Five Mile location would prove convenient and attract enough style-conscious people to warrant its continuance.

Now, Gerald is adding 800 square feet of space, in order to accommodate a specific area for hair coloring, as well as additional stations for new hair dressers to handle clients.

New York trained Gina Agosta, a specialist in hair coloring, will leave her Franklin department for one full day a week in Northville, and will supervise the retraining and highly technical updating of other staff colorists.

By the time the added work center opens early in 1980, Gerald stated that several more stylists, already trained in the Franklin and Dearborn salons, will be placed in the Northville salon.

J.P.'S LOUNGE AT THE WOODLAND RACQUET CLUB in Brighton is now open, featuring a wide-screen TV, a view of five racquetball courts and a small banquet facility.

The contemporary lounge, which seats 100, boasts a round fireplace and long copper-topped bar. Stained glass windows were commissioned by artist Richard Marks of Tecumseh, according to manager Jenny Fredenburg. Architects were Daniels and Zernack of Ann Arbor.

One of the new racquetball courts is glass-walled with seating for 50 spectators for special matches.

J.P.'s Lounge, at 7524 Grand River, is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m.-1 a.m. A menu including homemade soup, chili and sandwiches will be served between 11 a.m. and 10 p.m.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS of the Livingston Association of Life Underwriters announces the acceptance by the National Association of Life Underwriters of a chartered local association.

An open invitation is extended to all insurance underwriters and all interested persons to attend the next meeting at the Holiday Inn at Howell, Thursday, November 8, at 8:30 a.m. The guest speaker's topic will be new ideas of marketing life insurance.

The association's objectives are to increase the knowledge of members concerning the principles, functions and application of life insurance and health insurance and promote high standards of ethical conduct in the profession of underwriting life and health insurance.

For further details, contact Dave Ventura, membership chairman, 517-546-7599, or Larry Aretha, program chairman, 517-548-1538.

A GROWING number of listings combined with a slackened sales pace to bring a reduction of average prices for existing homes in the metropolitan area during the third quarter of 1979.

A report from the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR) shows that, compared to the same period last year, residential listings grew 13.6 percent in the first nine months of 1979. At the same time, sales declined 12.4 percent.

Average prices, which reflected a 9.3 percent increase in the first six months of 1979, dropped 1.7 percent since the end of June and 3.7 percent from a July high.

The average home price in the 1,600 square mile territory covered by WWOCBR was $48,762 last December and climbed to $54,460 in July. In September, it dipped to $52,378.

"Given current record mortgage interest rates and the uncertainty of economic conditions, the housing market is holding up remarkably well," said John Cole, WWOCBR president.

"A drop, instead of a continuing rise in prices such as we have seen through the past few years, should be welcome news for buyers ready to move into the market. Not only will it help offset the increased interest rates, but it signals a good supply of homes, many of which offer reduced prices."

"Unfortunately, we see this price leveling as a temporary phenomenon with new building costs and inflation forcing prices back up in a very short time."

DR. HOWARD SAULLES, an optometrist with offices in the Northville Professional Center on 420 North Center Street, has opened his practice for general optometry.

Dr. Saulles received his doctor of optometry degrees from the Southern California College of Optometry, and his BS from Wayne State University. He recently was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges and also the Gold Key Honor Society. He has also recently received awards for his work with partially sighted patients and for his dedication to the profession of optometry.

'Who's on First?'

Stage I Productions will open its new season Friday night with the staging of the Jack Sharkey comedy, "Who's on First?" The play, complete with surprise ending, stars (from left) Ed Brouillette as Ben, Leslie Foss as Camille, Laurie Smalls as Alice and Mike Valentine as Don. Curtain time is 8 p.m. at the Novi Community Hall on Novi Road near I-96. The amateur theater group, drawing its players from throughout the Detroit metro area, will stage a repeat performance of the play on Saturday night. Tickets at the door are $2.25.

Sweet Adelines to present 'Dolly'

The barbershop harmony adaptation of the hit Broadway musical, "Hello Dolly," will be staged by the South Oakland chapter of the Sweet Adelines in two consecutive weekend performances at Our Lady of Mercy High School in Farmington.

"A Toast to Dolly" will be staged October 26 with additional performances set for Saturday, October 27, and again on November 2 and 3. Showtime for each performance is 8:15 p.m.

Ticket donations are $5 with a special rate available to senior citizen groups. Reservations may be made by calling 477-1522 or 689-0026.

The production, complete with staging, scenery and choreography, will feature area Sweet Adelines Ruth Campbell of Novi and Virginia Finney of Wixom as well as members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Unique because it presents the complete musical in four-part harmony, "A Toast to Dolly," is a complete musical version featuring the entire cast of Broadway characters.

This year's show will be the third presented in the harmonic rendition of barbershop music. The first was staged in 1975 with "A Salute to Music Man," followed in 1977 with "Hats Off to Oklahoma."

Mrs. Campbell, president of the musical chapter, said each production takes two years of work before it is ready to be staged. She added that each production draws greater crowds and more enthusiastic response to the shows done in the distinctive, purely American style, of singing.

Growing in popularity, there are currently over 650 chapters of Sweet Adelines with a total membership of 29,000 women. This year marks the 25th anniversary of the South Oakland chapter.

The purpose of the organization is to teach and sing the folk art style of four-part harmony and encourage the universal appreciation of that music through performances.

In addition to providing musical entertainment, "A Toast to Dolly," will benefit the Michigan Cancer Foundation. Twenty percent of the profits are designated for the foundation. Other funds will be used for musical scholarships given annually to talented students in the Detroit area.

Dancers, comedian due on Music Hall stage

Whether you're into modern dance. Or stand-up comedy is your bag. You'll find events of interest coming up at the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts in Detroit.

The Twyla Tharp Dancers, the rascals of the New York dance world, will ease down the stage to open a six-day run at the Music Hall next Tuesday (October 30). The Twyla Tharp Dancers are opening the 1979-80 season at the Music Hall.

And on Sunday, November 4, Comedian Robert Klein will offer Detroiters a break from the work-a-day world with his hilariously funny one-man show. Performances are slated at 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Famous for their fresh, devil-may-care style of movement, Twyla Tharp's dancers were praised for their work in the movie "Hair" and recently have returned from a week of sell-out performances in France.

Drawing as much from Broadway as from Bach, the Tharp troupe has been called the "definitive company of the 1970's." Their electric entertainment value makes them enjoyable to both experienced and novice dance fans.

The Twyla Tharp Dancers presented three shows at the Music Hall to capacity audiences in 1977. This engagement runs six performances from Tuesday, October 30, to Saturday, November 3. Evening performances are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. and there is a Saturday matinee at 2 p.m.

Program information and ticket reservations for both the Twyla Tharp Dancers and Robert Klein are available by calling the Music Hall box office at 963-7622 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Poet's Corner

Bread and Butter

After everything's been written
Of the years we've put to rest,
A memory still lingers
That we rate among the best,
As the kitchen smells on Fridays
Coming out the oven door
Of those crusty loaves of home-made bread
Just made us drool for more

No spread could ever quite approach
The home-made dairy butter
As it melted on a fresh, hot slice—
No words are there to utter
To describe the mellow lusciousness
Of that savory creation
Enveloped by the kitchen smell
We breathed in great elation!

Reflections

There are times of looking through life's corners...looking into mirrors and not really seeing ourselves... mirrored reflections that show only the person on the outside... for what is within is the true person...true realization of how we connect with the universe.
And to begin with this is to know who we are within life.

My Sarah

She is like the sunshine, my Sarah
She comes to me like happiness

I see Springtime in her eyes
The soft greenness of new leaves

She is a Mother's perfection
And you can see my joy in her

Her arms wind around me and I feel like God
She is a part of me and I wonder at it

She will always be young in my eyes
I will always see her as she runs to play

My heart weeps when I think of her growing older
My heart surges with pride when I think of the same thing

She is my masterpiece
There will never be another like her

She holds a special corner of my heart,
And her joy spills over me like warm honey

There is none I love better than
My Sarah

Word Prints

The words we speak or sing or write
Will last beyond our time
For those to hear or those to read
In song or note or rhyme.

Our scrap-books jammed with this and that,
Or tapes we may have filled,
Will gather dust upon the shelves
Where they may long be stilled.

No matter when or how or where
They once again may speak,
Let's make them worth the keeping
By those who then may seek.

Nuclear plant accident assessed

By WARREN M. HOYT

A legislative committee investigating the nuclear power industry in Michigan has found that stress, shown as concerns over health, local economy and safety, was the single greatest impact the nuclear accident in Pennsylvania has had on local residents.

At the first meeting of the committee, testimony describing the effects the accident had on those living near the facility was presented by Joyce Freeman, executive director of a special Pennsylvania state commission investigating the accident and Michigan State University professor Stanley D. Brum.

The special committee was formed after the accident occurred at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant. Its purpose is to investigate the nuclear industry in Michigan, the state's capabilities to deal with a possible emergency and the possibilities of reverting to alternate forms of power.

It is still uncertain how the accident occurred but there was a breakdown in the cooling system which led to a partial meltdown causing the emission of radiation.

Freeman said though radiation was leaking, it never reached dangerously high levels.

Human health studies are still continuing and will include pregnancy studies, chromosome studies and mental health studies.

The single most important social issue that the accident has had is stress, according to Freeman. She said people face concerns about their health, about the local economy, about the willingness of people to move into the area and whether they should leave the area.

"There is still a very high level of tension in the community because we can still make the national news at the drop of a hat," she said.

Brum said the accident had a significant impact on how people felt about nuclear power.

He noted before the accident, some 41 percent of the local residents favored nuclear power against 23 percent who opposed it with the rest uncertain.

After the accident, there was a dramatic shift with only 34 percent in favor and 48 percent opposed.

The committee held the hearing on the effects of the Three Mile Island accident as a way of setting background for its future work.

He also said the safety inspections could be done in conjunction with a proposed auto exhaust emissions testing program.

With the uncertainty of the economy, Governor William G. Milliken has ordered directors of the state's principal departments to make plans to trim expenditures in fiscal year 1979-80.

Each director must submit a plan to reach certain goals but each director has total discretion on how to reach individual goals.

or alcoholic influence.

Kirksey's bill would set up a state-licensed inspection station at private garages.

The garages could charge $7.50 for the inspection and would be prohibited from making repairs, costing more than $20 within 10 days of the inspection.

The Livonia Republican said such a prohibition was an attempt to reduce any chances of fraud.

He also said the safety inspections could be done in conjunction with a proposed auto exhaust emissions testing program.

Novi led by Crosslin in happy homecoming

Things are looking up for the Novi football squad. The offense that labored to score points in the first half of the season now seems to have found its groove. The result last Friday was a 24-6 trouncing of league foe Hartland before a lively Wildcat homecoming crowd.

An indication of the success that Novi is enjoying with its new-found offense was a drive the Wildcats put together on their first series. After stopping Hartland on its first possession, Novi took the Eagle punt on its own 35-yard line. Quarterback Mike Rentner then put a drive together that consisted of 15 plays and covered 65 yards, the biggest gain being an eight-yard run. Jeff Arbour capped the drive with a one-yard scoring plunge on fourth down. The kick for extra point was no good and Novi led 6-0. The drive ate up time for Novi, as both the Hartland possession and the Wildcat drive used up all but three minutes of the first quarter.

Novi scored again, the second time it touched the ball. After firing a 14-yard pass to Jeff Clark, Rentner kept the ball on an option play, cut back against the flow and dashed 21 yards into the end zone for the second Wildcat touchdown of the game. Again the kick failed and Novi had to settle for a 12-0 lead.

The third Novi score came late in the second quarter. Hartland had the ball on its own 41-yard line when it fumbled on a running play. Jeff Szuma recovered for the Wildcats. The ensuing drive took five plays and lasted one minute and 48 seconds.

Highlights of the scoring drive were a 10-yard run by Kevin Park and a 12-yard Rentner to Jeff Park pass play for the score. Rentner fired the ball into the end zone where both Park and a Hartland defender went up for it. The Hartland cornerback came down with the ball, but before he could plant both feet on the turf, Park snatched the ball for him and fell into the end zone for the touchdown. The two-point conversion failed and Novi led 18-0 at the half.

The Wildcats were penalized 15 yards to start the third quarter due to an over-long half time show. The Hartland on-sides kick attempt was unsuccessful and the Wildcats took over possession with excellent field position. Novi drove the ball down to Hartland's six-yard line where a loss on a running play and an Eagle interception thwarted the Wildcat scoring attempt.

Mike Gopigian saw to it that the Novi defense wouldn't have to spend a lot of time on the field. On the following series Hartland's quarterback fired a pass to his split end but Gopigian stepped in front of it to gain possession back for Novi on the Eagle 36-yard line.

Two plays later a combination of a Rentner fake that drew three Hartland tacklers to him, and good blocks by both Jeff Clark and Bill Bishop, enabled halfback Keith Crosslin to dance down the sidelines 31 yards untouched for the fourth and final Novi score. The two-point conversion failed once again and Novi had to settle for a 24-6 lead.

"Our defense held Hartland to just two first downs. They were fantastic," Novi coach John Osborne said. "Jeff Szuma had three first hits and three assists and covered a fumble and intercepted a pass. He's been filling due to injuries and for the past two games has been playing outstandingly."

Hartland scored its lone touchdown late in the game as the Eagles recovered a Novi fumble on the Wildcat 41-yard line. Hartland scored in three plays with halfback Tim Harris getting the touchdown. The Eagles added the two-point conversion and the score stood at 24-8.

Crosslin and John Collins were also singled out by Osborne for playing good defense. Crosslin also provided the main source of offensive locomotion for the Wildcats as he gained 150 yards rushing on 19 carries. Rentner added 43 on six attempts. Rentner was five of 11 passing for 51 yards. He was intercepted twice.

In all, Novi had 344 yards total offense, with 11 players carrying the ball in the game. In contrast, Hartland gained just 54 yards on the ground and 111 in the air for a total of 165. The win gives Novi a 2-3 mark in the league and a 3-4 record overall. Novi finishes the league season tied with Pinckney for third in the Kensington Valley Conference. South Lyon finished with a 5-0 mark and Brighton was second with a 4-1 tally, good for second.

The Wildcat JV football squad had a different sort of contest. "It was strictly two yards and a pile of mud," coach Brian Howard said. The Wildcats played the Hartland JV to 0-6 last Thursday.

"It was a pretty well played game defensively," Howard said, "but it was raining and the field was in pretty poor condition. Our offense just couldn't get untracked."

Both teams had an opportunity to win the game as each team tried a field goal in the closing minutes of play. Hartland missed a 30-yard attempt with just under two minutes to go and Novi fanned on a 32-yard try with only 30 seconds left on the clock. Novi's record is now 4-2-1 on the season with two games left to play.

Gamble fails for Central, 20-19

Monday morning quarterbacks — in this instance, Sunday morning quarterbacks — may have had a field day after Walled Lake Central head football coach Dick Woodworth's decision to risk a two-point conversion attempt failed in a 20-19 loss at Milford Lakeland Saturday.

Still, even the most experienced second-guessers would find a hard time finding fault with Woodworth's rationale for making the big move.

"We wanted to win," the Viking coach said, quite succinctly. "We didn't want to settle for a tie and, besides, we thought we could make it."

The moment of decision came for Woodworth and his coaching staff following a 20-yard scoring pass from new quarterback Rick Stevens to former starting QB Curt Burnstein. With 6:34 remaining in the game, Burnstein — the regular holder on point-after-touchdown attempts — instead picked up the ball and was felled in an attempt to hit Charlie Ginstler with a pass. Subsequent efforts to reach field goal range failed, leaving Central with a 2-5 record and winless in conference play in 1979.

"We had two men going into a certain area on the play," Woodworth explained. "We'd been watching them (the Lakeland defense), and thought we'd have a shot. But one man ran the wrong pattern."

The missed fake PAT try culminated a closely-played affair, with each team scoring three touchdowns. The home club got on the board first, clicking on a 69-yard scoring pass for a 6-0 lead (the point-after try failed). Central countered with a TD of its own, as Ginstler talled on a two-yard run with 8:17 left in the half. B. J. Scott's successful kick made it 7-6, Vikings.

But Lakeland struck again before intermission, beating the Central secondary for another bomb. A 46-yard scoring aerial with 3:43 remaining in the second quarter left the count 12-7, as Lakeland again failed to convert after the touchdown.

The Vikings then battled back to grab the halftime lead as Stevens hit Burnstein with the first of two scoring passes. That throw accounted for 19 yards, and Central took a 13-12 lead despite missing a pass attempt following the six-pointer. The clutch Stevens-to-Burnstein hook-up took place with just six seconds showing on the clock.

After a scoreless third period, Lakeland then scored by 8:36 left in the game on a 10-yard quarterback run. The winners then tacked on a two-point conversion for their final points.

Especially after seeing his defense yield scoring passes of 69 and 46 yards, Woodworth understandably wouldn't single out the fake PAT failure as the sole cause for the setback. In fact, he claimed that his troops lacked the proper intensity right from the start.

"The kids were just flat," the Central coach said. "We just never got fired-up."

I don't know if it was playing on a Saturday that did it or what. But we didn't play to our capacity, and haven't been for some time."

Statistically, at least, the Vikings were in the ball game. They gained 15 first downs, compared to Lakeland's 11, and out-passed the visitors by a 192-99 margin. Stevens connected on 13 of 23 passes, while Lakeland throwers hit on just three of seven throws.

Unfortunately, two of those passes were long ones that went for touchdowns. That — combined with Lakeland's rushing dominance (42 carries for 180 yards, as opposed to 97 yards resulting from 35 Central carries) — was the real difference.

With conference play now completed, the Vikings will prepare to host Walled Lake Lakeland Friday at 7:30 p.m. That's the second-last game on the "93 Viking schedule, as the annual showdown with Walled Lake Western takes place the following Friday in the season finale.

Vike golfers sixth in state meet

No matter how lofty one's aspirations, it's pretty hard to complain when your team finished the season number six in the state.

That's the good feeling Gerry Chapple and his Walled Lake Central golfers will carry until next fall, however. The Vikings earned that distinction in Saturday's State Meet, compiling a team score of 312.

In fact, Central surprised everyone with a whopping six-stroke lead at the halfway point. Saturday before the dream ended, Lansing Eastern was the best of the five schools that passed the Vikings, finishing with a 305 total. Port Huron Northern was second at 307, followed by Orono, Grand Blanc and Bloomfield Hills. Andover at 310.

Leading the early Central charge were the men who had been doing it all season long for the locals. Even with gusting winds, Rick Saries and Jamie Younggren shot 37s, while Don Braden and Joe Sawyer had 38s on the front nine.

But the Viking fortunes plummeted from then on. Saries had a 41 on his back nine holes Sawyer fell to a 42 and Younggren dipped to 43. Only Braden and Joe Sawyer had 38s on the front nine.

Central netters second (again) in league listings

Lake a familiar rent-a-car company, the Walled Lake Central tennis team spent much of the fall, 1979 season trying harder despite the presence of the Spartans of Livonia Stevenson. But sometimes, trying harder isn't enough.

The Vikings' season-long chase of Stevenson proved for naught last week, as a weather-delayed conference match reached its completion. Central managed a second-place tie with Farmington, capturing seven points.

In one of the most convincing displays of tennis dominance in the Inter-Lakes circuit during recent years, the first-place Livonians won all seven All-Conference positions. Stevenson also finished autumn's play with an undefeated record.

"I haven't seen a team so consistently strong in years," Central Coach John Shadford said of the league titlists. "They're definitely in a class all by themselves in this league."

Nonetheless, Shadford was also impressed with the play of his own team, which finished second in the conference final standings by virtue of its 6-2 dual record.

"We certainly have nothing to be ashamed of," the Vike captain reported. "We finished as high as we realistically could have expected, and did that against some pretty good teams within the conference."

Shadford saw two of his three doubles duos advance to the finals in league play, only to be eliminated there. The number two tandem of Sandy Christensen and Wendy Wilson was downed in straight sets, as were Linda and Lisa Paine at third doubles.

Another Viking reached the finals—freshman Nancy Gruber. Although she too was beaten there, just reaching that level was an accomplishment for the ninth-grader. Gruber's play was a most welcome surprise for Shadford this year.

"Hopefully, she represents what we'll have going for us in the future," the Central coach said. "She did a real fine job for us this fall."

The veteran boss said that next year's netters "should be respectable."

Only Debbie Choler and Lynn Minnebo — the number one and two singles players, respectively — will graduate at the end of this school year.

Central's second-place finish in league play marked the second straight bridesmaid role for the Vikings, who lost out to Stevenson last year, too. The Spartans and Vikings had closed out their dual schedule in a 7-0 Stevenson win prior to league action.

Would you want to guess how many fish there are in the U.S. today? More than 340 million, says the Humane Society.

Why do fish have scientific names in Greek or Latin? So experts over the world can exchange news and know exactly which fish are meant.

The most popular fish for the beginning aquarist? Probably the Guppy, Swordtail, and the Platyfish.

Labyrinth fish build nests of air bubbles, where the eggs are deposited.

League action awaits Warriors

Even after Thursday's 19-42 thumping at the hands of Northville, Walled Lake Western Cross-Country Coach Dennis Keeney remains confident that his Warriors still have a chance in Tuesday's league meet — of finishing second, that is.

After all, Keeney may be optimistic, but he isn't delirious.

The undefeated Mustangs demonstrated Thursday why they're the top-running team in the Western Six Conference, and did so in style. Only Western's Steve Sutherland interrupted a herd of five Northville thrillkicks who placed among the meet's top six.

The Warriors ace was in top form against the league's best, and even gave first-place Harry Couyoumjian a run for the money in the process. Sutherland finished just six seconds behind the Northville whiz, clocking in at 15:20 by tying his own personal best for this year.

"I think he (Couyoumjian) was surprised that Steve stayed so close to him," Keeney said. "In all fairness, though, Couyoumjian couldn't have done even better if Steve hadn't told him where to turn. But that's his fault for not knowing the course. I guess he figured his own teammates would be telling him during the race."

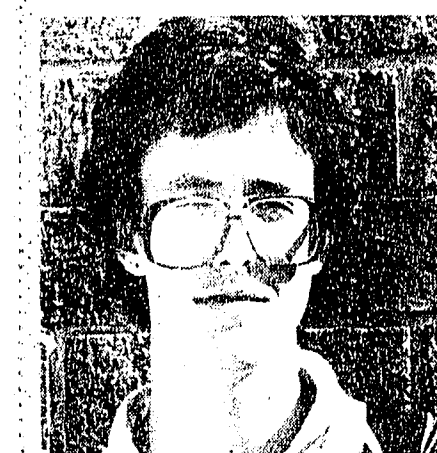

The next Warrior finisher was John McCormick had recently made steady improvement.

"You couldn't make excuses, because Northville has one outstanding team," Keeney said, "but we had Spirit Day (Thursday) and maybe the kids were a bit placid. Regardless, the experience was good for our humility."

Actually, the experience was good for more than that. A couple of freshmen ended up setting records for ninth-graders that day with Robbie Kay and Janet Ford smashing course marks for their respective sexes. Kay's 17:11 clocking earned him the record-setting distinction, while Ford took women's honors with a time of around 20 minutes.

Two days earlier, however, the Warriors lost city bragging rights for the spot this year. Walled Lake Central edged 'em out, 27-31, despite the fact that Western runners placed first and third. Sutherland, nearing top form for the all-important league chase, again had a time of 15:20. McCormick finished with a strong 15:51, with Central ace Jim Owens in between at 15:30.

Wildcats of the Week

DAVE BOEHMER

KATHY SROKA

Dave Boehmer led the Novi golf team to a 12th place finish in last weekend's state golf tournament. Boehmer's score of 81 was tops for the Wildcats and 15th overall in the tourney. The senior linkster has been a top competitor for the Wildcats all season.

Kathy Sroka has played in two varsity games since she was brought up from the Novi girls JV basketball squad. She didn't play much in her first game, a loss to Hartland, but once she had the varsity's strategy down pat, the freshman went to work. She led the Wildcats to just their second victory of the season last week, against Ypsilanti Lincoln, scoring 13 points and stealing the ball nine times.

Western unit felled twice

A long-standing basketball maxim states, "If you're going to be short on height, you'd best not be short on your shots."

Actually, that old adage is yet unknown to some — having originated right here — but Walled Lake Western Girls Basketball Coach Tom Sczynski has in effect been saying the same thing throughout this 1979 season.

Alas, so far it hasn't done any good.

"There's really nothing I can do about it," Sczynski reasoned after watching his Warriors suffer through two more cold-shooting losses last week. "I can't shoot the ball for the girls — the shots just won't drop for us. It's been a very frustrating season."

The Western girls improved their shooting last Tuesday against Livonia Stevenson (hitting 31 percent on 18 of 58 tries), but still couldn't avert a 59-39 setback. The loss made the girls 0-4 in Inter-Lakes Conference play, and that record sunk to 0-5 a couple of days later.

"They (Stevenson) just have a real good ball club," Sczynski said in commenting on that defeat. "They're really big, though, and that's where we got hurt... we were no match for them."

Still, the Warrior boss wouldn't exclusively use his club's height deficiency as an excuse for the game's outcome.

"We played lackadaisically," Sczynski claimed. "We just didn't come to play... I'm not saying we would have won if we'd been more heads up out there, but I think we could have made it closer."

Whatever the reason (s) for the loss, it would be hard to fault the play of guard Cindy Hart or Tracy Grubb. Hart paced all Vikings scorers with 14 points, while Grubb contributed nine.

Thursday, the Warriors traveled to Waterford Mott and fell back into their familiar shooting pattern. Connecting on only 12 of 68 fouls (18 percent), Western was really never in the contest in a 60-42 defeat. The locals trailed by as many as 27 points at one time before shaving that margin to 12 in the fourth quarter. By then, it was too late.

"Mott's one of the top two clubs in the league," Sczynski proclaimed after the contest. They were just too much for us to handle. Of course, the way we shot didn't help."

Guard Kris Mellem, coming off a bad ankle, led Western's scorers with 11 points. Martha Schmidt, a 6-0 center, hit for 18 points for the winners.

"We're mathematically all done (in the conference race)," Sczynski said. "We can only hope to play the spoiler role in the second half of the season."

Vike thinclads fourth in loop

Call 'em the "running wounded."

Assorted aches and pains continue to plague the Walled Lake Central cross-country team. The top runner most recently has suffered from a split big toe and a chest cold. The Viking number two man has been running all fall with bone chips — in both ankles.

Why, even Coach Harry Edgington announced his retirement last week due to bad legs.

So, all things considered, Thursday's fourth-place showing in the Inter-Lakes Conference Meet wasn't all that bad. Edgington admitted that "we were doing our best to win it," but it was really an accomplishment for a team running on aches and pains.

Kevin Atkinson to even finish at the tough Oakland Community College course.

Owens went one step better, though. Finishing with a solid time of 16:04, the senior co-captain coped. All-Conference honors for the second straight year. He was fourth overall.

Atkinson, on the other hand, just missed out on an opportunity to join his fellow captain in the meet's high-rent district. Despite a determined effort, the pain and the competition were too much and he came in 11th with a 16:34 clocking.

"Our times were all very respectable on that course," Edgington opined, adding that Darrell Jackson finished at 17:04 and Larry Turner stopped the timer six seconds later.

Considerably more than respectable was the showing of freshman Diane Montgomery, whose time of 20:26 (good for fifth place) also earned All-Conference status. This has been an impressive year for Montgomery and Judy Yuh, who was selected a mean pace herself before she was sidelined with leg problems at the 10-mile mark.

A Tuesday dual victory over Walled Lake Western also lifted the spirits of the Vikings. The 27-31 conquest was led by Owens, who was second behind Warrior Steve Sutherland. The Viking ace turned in a time of 15:30.

Still, there was no questioning the fact that the win over Western was a team effort for Edgington's men. Turner was fourth with a 16:05 time; Atkinson was sixth at 16:18; Jackson was seventh at 16:23; and Ken Artega was eighth, just a second behind Jackson.

The victory evened Central's dual record at 4-4.
