PONTIAC BILL POSTER

As a citizen, he was enterprising and active in the advancement of public improvements. He was a man of fine personal appearance, and possessing a genial, social nature, won many friends who will mourn his death as the loss of a generous and companionable associate.

The remains were taken to Rochester for burial, the funeral being held Thursday morning from the Rochester Congregational church. Rev. J. M. Gelston, of Pontiac officiating.

* Jimmie Broughton died last Thursday morning of inflammation of the bowels, and funeral services were held the next day. NOV 23, 1887.

Thos. Magill, a former resident of this city, died recently at Milford, aged 35 years. NOV 23 1887
