Leila, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Pittman, died last Thursday night of peritonitis, aged 7 years. The little one had only been sick a few hours and her sudden death was a surprise to the community and a terrible blow to the parents. Funeral services from the house Sunday afternoon were largely attended, Rev. L. S. Stevens officiating, and the remains were placed in the Petrie vault. The grief-stricken parents have the sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

George Gale, the painter, received a telegram Monday announcing the sudden death, from heart disease, of his brother William, at Rolla, Missouri. The deceased was a former well known resident of Pontiac, was a band leader for years and went south during the war with the 7th Michigan Infantry. He was a good musician, a brave soldier, and leaves a family and many friends to mourn his departure at the age of 55 years. Aug 8 1888

Thomas Hickmott, of this city, died last Friday night, and funeral services were held from his late residence on Andrews street Sunday afternoon. He had been a resident of this city for many years. Aug 8 1888
