

PONTIAC BILL POSTER

X Mrs. Carrie Grob Copeland, living west of Metamora, died last Wednesday night of pneumonia. Mrs. Copeland was the daughter of Henry Grob, Esq., of Oxford, a sister of Mrs. S. Kessell, of Pontiac, and a very estimable lady. The funeral services were held at Farmer's Creek Sunday at 11 o'clock conducted by C. L. Deyo. MAR 27 1889

Death of R. A. Remick.

Apr 3 (From the Free Press.) 1889

The sudden death of R. A. Remick Saturday at his farm near Clarkston, Oakland county, was as much a matter of surprise as of grief to his wide circle of friends, for as soon as the news was received here it was made public, and "Phonse," as he was always spoken of by his friends, was too general a favorite not to have such ill tidings regarding him fly on the wings of the wind.

Capt. Remick has been in bad health for some time and for several weeks he has been known to be in a critical condition from dropsy and trouble with his liver, but no one anticipated an immediate fatal termination of his diseases. He was in the best of spirits yesterday, and about 2 o'clock asked for and received from his attendant, a
