

PONTIAC BILL POSTER

1888

Death of Maud Newman.

Maud, the thirteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Newman, died at the home on Saginaw avenue, Friday morning, at 12 o'clock, September 21, 1888, of spinal difficulty.

Maud was one of the brightest and purest of young girls, and possessed traits of character which are a certain index to future usefulness. She was a member of the Congregational Sunday school, and in her studies and youthful meditations manifested a desire to learn of the true and intrinsically valuable treasures of this life, and of that beyond, to which she has been so early called, as one of that number of which her Saviour said the Kingdom of Heaven is composed. Truly a cheering thought and consolation to parents, and school companions who clung to her as one of earth's choicest and best. Death loves a shining mark, and has captured a valuable prize in the loved one who so early in life has passed over the silent river.

Maud, thou art missed, but not lost;
Thou art redeemed at Infinite cost—
In thy Heavenly home, bright and fair,
We can, if we choose, meet thee there.

The funeral services were held in the Congregational church Sunday, at 3 p. m., Rev. W. R. Seaver officiating, and a large number present, with many beautiful floral offerings; the remains were buried in Oak Hill.

Loveda, daughter of Tompkins Buckbee, of Pontiac township, died last Thursday evening, of lingering consumption, aged 44 years, and funeral services from the house Sunday were largely attended. Rev. Thomas delivered the funeral sermon and the remains were placed in the Petrie vault. The deceased was a twin sister of Mrs. Smith Clark, of Fenton. Oct 3 1888
