VOLUME I. NO. 44.

CLARKSTON, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1930

WHOLE NUMBER, 44

HOW'S YOUR GAME? GOLF, OF COURSE

You Don't Have to Shoot a 72 to Enter Local Tournament

If you aren't too old or if your rheumatism isn't so bad that you can't swing a club, you are invited to participate in a community golf tournament to be held on the Thendara golf course, Sunday morning, July 13, beginning at 8 o'clock. Interest in the sport has become so keen in Clarkston that it has been decided that such a tournament is necessary to give everybody an equal chance to show what he can do.

The affair is in charge of a committee consisting of William Vliet, Lee McFarland and Archie McIntyre, and they have appointed Roy Alger and L. Chamberlain as captains. The captains will choose sides from those registering in the tournament. Eighteen holes will be played and the losers will pay for a dinner at the Thendara club house at Walters Lake.

Cedar Lodge of Clarkston and Commerce Lodge, F. & A. M., will meet again at golf on Wednesday, July 30, at 2 p. m. This will be their second encounter, the first, held at Commerce, resulting in a victory for the Masons of that place. The match will be played on the Thendara course, and the Clarkston team is confident that their adversaries will find the hills there less to their liking than the level grounds on which they are accustomed to play. Meeting them away from their home course, on a course that is unfamiliar to them, the Clarkston Masons are hopeful of a victory, even considering the fact that as far as experience at the game goes the Commerce fellows have the advantage.

THE SOULBY FAMILY MAY REMAIN IN CLARKSTON

With the transfer of the stock of the Money-Saving Variety Store, mentioned elsewhere in this issue, C. H. Soulbey, who has been manager of the store since it was opened, will retire from the business. We understand that he is considering a proposition to remain in Clarkston and the many friends he and his family have made here hope that this will result. Mr. and Mrs. Soulbey are very well liked by the community and it would be a distinct loss to Clarkston if they should move away.

DRAYTON PLAINS

Because of the coolness of the weather the ice cream social Wednesday evening was moved into the basement of the church. It was well attended, the supply of ice cream being completely exhausted.

Mrs. Howard Stewart, who has been critically ill in Pontiac, and her baby, Barbara Jean, were removed to her home Thursday evening.

The East Side Ladies' Aid will meet next Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Ernest W. Giers.

The closing out sale at Goodland's store will end on Saturday. Mr. McCallum will then occupy the entire building with his Drayton Pharmacy.

Malcolm McCallum of the Drayton Pharmacy spent part of the week with his parents at Westlauren, Ontario.

LOCAL LORE

M. E. Coryell and daughter, Edith, were Chesaning visitors Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Chamberlain will spend the Fourth enjoying a motor trip to various points in northern Michigan.

Mrs. C. F. Schaening, Jr., and three children, of Detroit, are spending a couple of weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Schaening, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Robbins and daughters, Marjorie and Iva May, of Dearborn, called on friends in Clarkston Sunday.

SCHOOL MEETING TO BE HELD MONDAY, JULY 14

The annual school meeting of the Clarkston School District will be held at the old schoolhouse, Monday evening, July 14, at 7:30 o'clock. At this time a member of the board of education will be chosen to succeed L. R. McFarland, whose term expires this year. The members holding over and Lee M. Clark, Earl Walter, Roy Spencer and Joseph E. Hubbard.

RAPID PROGRESS IS MADE ON SCHOOL

New Building Will Be Finished Before First of September

Work on the new Clarkston High School building has proceeded rapidly of late with a large force of men on the job on the different phases of construction and good weather permitting the completion of much outside work.

The Barrett roofing is now all on and carries the manufacturer's guarantee of 15 years, covered by a bond. The exterior of the building has been completely glazed and painters are now at work on the windows.

Inside of the structure terrazzo flooring of ornamental tile in patterns is being laid in the corridors and toilets. The plastering is about completed and the interior finish of oak and Southern pine is on the ground and being put on. The electrical wiring is all ready for the fixtures and the heating and plumbing fixtures and ventilation are ready for the finishing touches.

Much of the interior equipment has arrived, included opera chairs for the auditorium and gymnasium.

The contractors assure the people of Clarkston that the building will not only be ready for occupancy at the opening of school in September, but that it will be fully finished before that time.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENT IS HELD AT GREEN ACRES

Baskets of delphiniums and galar-diae formed the decorations at a well-appointed bridge luncheon at Green Acres, Thursday, June 26, honoring Miss Norma Green, of Holly, whose wedding will be an event of early summer. Mrs. Howard C. Wareham, also of Holly, was hostess. Old-fashioned nosegays marked places for 18 guests from Holly, Detroit and Mt. Clemens.

HIGHLAND MAN IS OUT FOR STATE REP.

Political Announcement of M. E. Fitz-Gerald, an Attorney

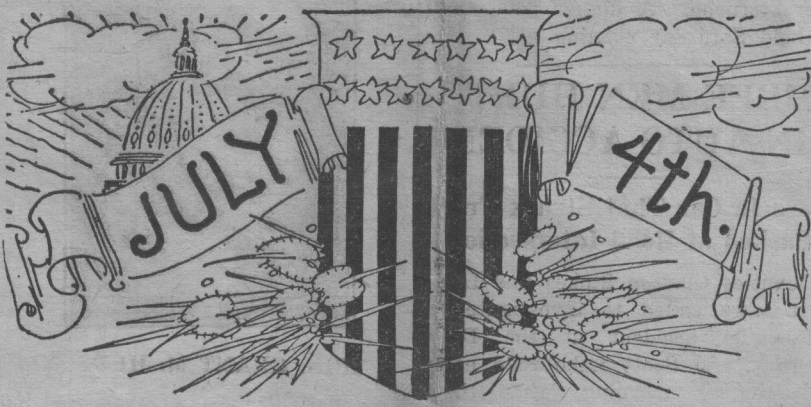

Maurice Fitz-Gerald, a lawyer who resides on a farm in Highland Township, with law offices in Milford, has announced himself as a candidate for State Representative, Second District. Mr. Fitz-Gerald has lived in Highland for over ten years. He states that if he is elected one of the first measures that he will advocate and introduce into the 1931 legislature will be a bill providing for free school books for the children of the Public Schools. He states that he has a plan whereby this can be done without any additional taxation. This rule exists now in the city of Pontiac and there is no reason why it cannot prevail all over the State. The fund, which is now created by the fines levied in criminal cases, can be used advantageously buying school books. The various magistrates and judges can help on this proposition by making the fines

MAURICE E. FITZ-GERALD

The Nation's Birthday

Among the nations of the earth,
What land hath story like our own?
No thought of conquests marks her birth;

By those who crossed the ocean wild,
That they might plant upon her sod
A home for Peace and Virtue mild,
And altars rear to Freedom's God.

Like the stars to light the firmament,
And show the world what men may do.
Who, as God's messengers are sent
And to their mission still are true,
No end had they to seek or gain:
Their work was there before their sight;

There lay their duty, stern and plain,
To dare and suffer for the right.

CLARKSTON CAME STRONG AT FINISH

Ortonville's Lead Was too Great to Overcome, However

The newly organized Clarkston baseball team got away to a bad start last Sunday by losing to Ortonville in a free hitting game, played on the Clarkston High School athletic field, 13 to 11. Ortonville led all the way, the score at one time being 11 to 2. Clarkston then started out to catch up, but the handicap was too big and they fell two runs short, losing a good chance to tie the score in the ninth inning.

The big feature of the game was the hitting of Ortonville's second pitcher. He practically won his own game by driving in seven runs, hitting two home runs, one with 2 men on and the other with the bases full. "Andy" Francis started in the box for Clarkston, but was not as effective as usual and was removed after pitching five innings. O'Berry replaced him but lasted only one round, and then Huntly, who had been catching, doffed his mask and took up the mound duties, Quigg finishing the game behind the bat.

Today the series between Clarkston's two rival teams, the "Old Timers" and the "Kids", will be continued. This will be the fourth contest between these two aggregations, with the "Kids" holding a two to one lead. On Sunday Clarkston will again meet out of town opposition, facing Waterford on the local diamond.

The question of changing from a primary district to a graded district will be voted on and if carried will necessitate the election of a board of five members: One for a term of one year; two for a term of two years; two for a term of three years.

BARN BURNS ON FARM, BUT HOUSE IS SAVED

A call came to Clarkston for help to save the house and it was responded to by a number of men who took along fire extinguishers, and the house was saved.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by lightning during the electrical storm Monday night. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

THREE MEN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Were In Car That Struck Truck Parked at Road Intersection

Deputies Clayton Stokes and Louis Burt were called to investigate an automobile accident at the Dixie highway and Scott Lake road early last Monday morning, when three men were injured, two perhaps seriously. A car in which the three were riding crashed into a truck and trailer parked at the intersection of the two highways.

The victims of the accident were Harry Perk, driver of the car, who received a badly lacerated head and internal injuries; Leo Holloran, who sustained cuts about the head and possibly a fractured skull, and Lewis Helis, who was cut and bruised.

Perk is 24 years old and lives on Route 3, Pontiac. Holloran, 33, also lives on Route 3, and Helis, 21, is a resident of Pontiac.

The officers called an ambulance and took the injured men to the Pontiac City Hospital. It is claimed that the car, going east, was traveling at a high rate of speed when it struck the truck, parked 10 feet from the road. The driver of the truck, Edward D. Tewksbury, of Flint, was not in the cab of his machine when the accident occurred.

Home of Francis Drake in Small English Town

One of the rooms in the oldest house at Staines, England, the Knowle, where Sir Francis Drake lived for a time, has been stripped of some valuable wallpaper, which has been sold to a London antiques dealer. This paper, hand-painted with Chinese pictures, was prepared about 1730 by a famous Chinese artist, who came from Shanghai. Its removal from the wall involved a long and anxious process. After being dampened the paper was backed to prevent mishap, and then carefully peeled. Owing to cold weather the process was intermittent, and some days were spent before the paper was finally removed. The Knowle was for centuries in the possession of the Pellett family. It is a curiously-built house, almost surrounded by a low corridor, suggestive of a ship's alleyways, though the original architecture has been affected by later additions to the building. Sir Francis Drake, like other distinguished sailors, seems to have been a great lover of dogs, and placed tablets on the walls recording the loss of some of his pets.

Defenders of Jerusalem Worthy of Their Race

When Titus, son of Vespasian, soldier, emperor of Rome, after a long and exasperating siege, took Jerusalem, Mount Zion held out last of all against the legions. In spite of the efforts of Titus to save the splendid temple Herod had rebuilt and beautified, some recreant flung flaming torches into it and caused its utter destruction.

It seemed as though with it all hope of preserving their nation had vanished, and the remnant of the Jewish defenders of their city hurried across the bridge over the Tysopaeon gorge between Zion and Moriah, into the old city of David, and the ancient palace of their kings, where they put up a fierce resistance to the Romans until the last man was slain or wounded, and the buildings David had built, and others had added to, had fallen in ruins about them.

Diesel Engine

During the last decade of the Nineteenth century Dr. Rudolf Diesel of Leipzig brought out an internal combustion engine which involved in its operation a principle that had never before been applied in practical mechanics. Doctor Diesel understood the value of high compression and conceived the idea of mixing the fuel and air at the very moment when power is needed for the working stroke. He came to the conclusion that cheap, low-grade oils could be utilized as fuel if introduced into a highly heated charge of compressed air at the proper time. He enlisted the aid of manufacturers and after some experimentation brought out the most economical heat engine that had ever been produced.

Barley From Saul's Town

Samples of grain found by the Chicago Field museum, Oxford university expedition to Mesopotamia in 1928, in the ruins of the buried city of Kish, "the first city founded after the flood," have been declared by experts of the United States Department of Agriculture to be barley. Three jars of grain were found in two ancient buildings that had been buried for thousands of years below the original surface. One building was in a stratum just above the level where traces of a flood were discovered, which, according to archaeological evidence, occurred about 3200 B. C. The grain is now practically pure charcoal.

While soldiers of the American Expeditionary force were stationed at the barracks in Paris there were strict orders that all men must be in the barracks by midnight.

It became a regular occurrence to see one of those one-lung taxicabs stop at the gate and three or more soldiers dash out from the taxicab and through the gates calling as they came:

"Gangway for a bucket of paint." This was the signal to the sentinels at the gate to step aside and let these fellows through, then close up and not let the taxicab driver through to get his money.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Joy of Youthful Readers

Probably Edward Stratemeyer could have claimed the distinction of being the most prolific writer of juvenile fiction. During the 40-odd years of his writing life he produced more than 600 juvenile books, among which are the "Old Glory" books, "Soldiers of Fortune" series, the "Putnam Hall" series and the "Frontier Boys." Writing under a variety of pen names and with numerous secretaries, this author brought out in addition to the above mentioned, boys' lives of many great men.

History of Paper Making

The art of making paper seems to have been known to the Chinese at a very early period. Different writers have traced it back to the Second century, B. C. Paper first became available for the rest of the world in the middle of the Eighth century. It was probably first brought into Greece from Asia. There is record of its use by the Empress Irene about the end of the Eleventh century. The manufacture of paper in Europe was first established by the Moors in Spain in the middle of the Twelfth century.

larger, whereas heretofore the fines have been small by reason of the fact that the Library Fund has been growing and could not be used for Library purposes, but has been diverted to some other resources.

Another bill Mr. Fitz-Gerald proposes to introduce is the Old Age Pension Measure. He states that, notwithstanding the fact that we are the richest country in the world, yet we are alone among the nations who herd the unfortunate old people into poor houses. He states that age has rights of its own to independence, decent comfort and a home. This, he says, is no experiment for the Old Age Pension Law is already in existence in California, Colorado, Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New York, Utah, Wisconsin, Wyoming and Alaska.

Mr. Fitz-Gerald also says that if he is elected it will be one of his great aims and efforts to endeavor to have as few laws passed as possible but when they are passed that they will stand the test of any attack on the grounds of unconstitutionality. He states that past experiences of the various legislatures have taken up a great deal of time in passing measures which, after becoming effective, are found to be defective, thereby bringing about needless litigation and working hardships not only as to the rights of property but the rights of personal liberty in criminal cases. For instance, a number of people have been convicted under these new laws and have served time in our prisons and later on these same laws have been found to be unconstitutional and those who have been incarcerated are released without any right of compensation or remuneration for the injustice done them.

Mr. Fitz-Gerald states that in the event of his election it will be his ambition to look after the best interests of the people of Oakland County and do everything possible to bring about an equalization of taxation, especially on the part of the farmers and small home owners in the country. He states that the slogan of his campaign will be to "Give free text books to the children" and "Pull down the poor-houses".

A picnic for Oakland county will be held sometime in August, according to proposals of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. A committee composed of George Higgins, Guy Newton and Alfred Gale was appointed to consider the problem of where the picnic will be held and dates on which it will be given. Offers have been made to hold the picnic at the Bloomfield township park, at Lake Orion, and at Davisburg park. The tentative date selected is August 16, but it may be changed, because it is not desired to hold the picnic at the end of the week.

RULES TO OBSERVE WHEN SWIMMING OR BOATING

Although the bathing and boating season has just started, twelve deaths from drowning have already occurred in Oakland county. According to authorities on swimming, the number of such fatalities would be greatly reduced if the following rules were observed:

1. Learn to swim. If you know how to swim then use common sense around the water.
2. Do not duck or pull people under the water.
3. Be sure the water is at least six feet deep and clear of rocks and stumps before diving.
4. Do not swim alone. Have a buddy.
5. Avoid long swims after a season of inactivity. Train gradually.

State Treasurer Lansing, Michigan		TREASURER

The net earnings from 217,000 telephones were required to pay the Michigan Bell Telephone company's total 1929 tax bill of $3,966,000. It was indicated when the state of Michigan received its portion, $3,227,943.37 on June 30. The company's state tax was paid in the form of a check to Auditor General O. B. Fuller, and goes into the Michigan primary school fund. The total tax payment represents $6.02 for each telephone in service during 1929.

Since 1911, the Michigan Bell Telephone company has paid into the state treasury more than $20,250,000, of which $12,254,000 has been paid during the last five years, the records show. The tax paid the state by the telephone company this year was $428,870.97 larger than that paid a year ago.

In addition to the state tax, federal taxes paid by the company this year amounted to more than $700,000, and miscellaneous local taxes totaled approximately $10,000.

Assessed valuation of the company was set at $102,017,500, an increase of $10,017,500 over the 1928 assessment. Of that total, $17,500 represents the assessment on three small companies purchased by the Michigan Bell company this year. The tax rate was $31.64 per $1,000, the highest ever levied.

The state tax paid this year is the largest in the telephone company's history. The total tax paid by the company for 1929 amounts to $10,866 per day.

Sleeve Treatment New Fashion Note

Mid-Summer Openings Displayed Longer Types for Dress, Coat.

The mid-season openings are over and relieved American buyers are returning. Apparently Paris is not plotting another revolution that will set the fashion world by the ears next fall. There is little change in such fundamentals as the silhouette, the length of skirts, the placing of the waistline, says a fashion writer in the New York Times. Women will continue to have the triple personalities they adopted with such gusto once they realized the new roles changed fashions offered them—they will be tailored by day, somewhat masculine and entirely business-like at active sports, and ultra feminine in the evening. The couturiers chose this time to lavish their creative energy on new details, and succeeded, in the opinion of those who saw the collections, in developing current styles to the highest point of wearability that has ever been reached.

Not that Paris did not have its little joke here and there. Having excited every one about short sleeves, it coolly proceeded to lengthen sleeves again—and not only lengthened them but made them so interesting that they became headlines. Few, very few, abbreviated examples were shown, while elaborate sleeve treatments appeared on both coats and dresses, the most talked-of being the Martial et Armand contribution which suggested the old leg-o-mutton. At any rate, the matter of sleeves will probably settle itself without much fuss. No doubt everybody will be tired of short sleeves by the time summer ends. Women who took a lot of trouble to make their elbows presentable, and those with naturally beautiful arms can be happy in the sleeveless dress and jacket combination.

Cardigan Is Revived.

Chanel's private snicker consisted of reviving and featuring the simple cardigan, whose obituary has been written many times since the more fitted jacket replaced it in the earlier collections.

Coat news from the openings is encouraging. The story is that almost every type of coat is good. Practically all of the houses stressed the separate coat, but they wisely kept in mind the fact that not enough people can wear severely fitted lines to make them universal, and a great diversity of models was offered. Some coats are belted, some wrap around, some flare, some are straight, some have flat fur and others have long-haired furs. In brief, it will be a season of individuality so far as coats are concerned. You may select the type most becoming to you, pleasantly confident that it will be a coat of fashion as well. For fall all black coats will be important, as they invariably are. Monotone tweeds will be seen in browns—especially a dark brown with a wine cast—in bottle greens and dark red and green coats.

The ever-growing tendency to dress according to occasion was recognized in the increased prominence given at the openings to light-weight woolen dresses. Vionnet shows a new evening neckline, high in back and front, and drawn to the center. Fringe continues to be used more than had been expected. Lace is still very much in the picture, too, and travelers will rejoice. For no fabric suffers so little from being wedged into a suitcase between riding boots, a sports suit and a couple of new books.

The short evening wrap that is so wildly popular right now will be worn all summer, but it is a fashion too definitely dated to expect a long life. New wraps in the Paris collections are longer, and although some of them are still short in front they lengthen in back.

A number of new models seen at the Paris openings bring out some of the details mentioned. Vionnet's high-backed evening dresses in white crepe roma are attractive. Another of her creations, in banana color, has a bow with long ends, tied flippantly at the collar bone. One of her daytime dresses is simply made of gray crepe de chine but having great distinction, thanks to the fagoting, and the stand-up collar—for Vionnet insists upon a higher neckline for day as well as for evening.

Vionnet. Its ermine collar has a loop in back that falls into something first cousin to a bow.

An interesting model from Germaine Lecomte is a black frock which has a wide white jabot with a circular cut and similar shirred ruffles on the sleeves and these white touches show up just as prominently when you slip on the sleeveless cape jacket. A sleeve that is actually long but has a three-quarter look because of its elbow flounce is seen in a Marthe et Renee frock. This dress of black georgette with a white vestee also illustrates the new use of fringe on daytime clothes.

Shantung in Plain Colors.

Reversing the old combination of printed dress and plain jacket, new shantung dresses are appearing in plain colors, accompanied by fitted jackets of printed shantung. They are linked in different ways—one dress-maker uses print pockets and belt on her dresses. Sometimes the print of the jacket is echoed on the dress in the form of pipings, buttons and buttonholes. Or the background color of the print may be repeated in the frock and further emphasized by harmonizing accessories.

There is no question but that shantung will be much worn both in town and in the country this summer. Little tailored suits in navy and black are appearing. In bright colors and pastels it will be popular in the country and at the beaches, but one of the smartest possible combinations will be white with touches of high color in the accessories. The dress and jacket costume of cream-colored shantung, oyster white or palest blue green gives every indication of being a summer classic—an honor that it merits by reason of its combined coolness and chic. Sometimes the jacket is lined with bright-colored silk, and a suede belt of the same shade marks the waistline.

The fashion for white with dark accents was illustrated in a window which displayed a white flannel suit with a short buttoned coat. The blouse, scarf, and casual bows on the sleeves were fashioned of a dark print, small white stars scattered on a navy ground.

The latest thing in Paris fashions is the dark frock with the contrasting top. Every one is showing them. Practically all Worth's new dresses have yokes, pointed front and back, and short cap sleeves in a lighter color and material. Lenief's tweed dresses have square-cut yokes of white crepe de chine that divide the bodice horizontally in two. Lelong shows a few draped contrasting yokes, but usually places his color division lower and shows the whole blouse or simulated tunic in a light color, while skirt and coat are dark. Maggy Rouff attaches a dark skirt to a light princess tunic that stops just below the hip bones. Lucile Paray runs her light yoke into the dark skirt in a long point front and back. Martial et Armand show light bib yokes, sometimes attached, sometimes detachable, as does Jeanne Lanvin.

tailored dresses for daytime and in the greater development and elaboration of the late afternoon dress for formal afternoon and informal evening. There are no frills about the new tailored dresses. A great many of them have a coat look. They emphasize a trim waist with a narrow belt of patent leather or kid.

Pleats Are Effective.

The evening mode remains much the same so far as color is concerned, but new accessories give it new life. Turquoise and garnet are probably in for a run, Patou having sponsored the one—turquoise jewelry and turquoise blue slippers with a white frock—and Chanel the other. In general, accessories still harmonize with the costume during the day and contrast at night. Pleats, which vaguely threaten to supplant circular skirts altogether for daytime, make an effective appearance in some of the new evening

and the Community

There is a better understanding of banks and banking on the part of the public than ever before. Many of the difficulties of the past have been due to lack of information and misunderstanding. Today, people are more frank and banks are wisely taking more pains to explain their functions.

Today, fortunately, the attitude of the public is becoming one of helpfulness and cooperation to the end that the financial service of the community may be extended upon a basis profitable to both the bank and to the community as a whole.

The present day banker knows he has a duty and a responsibility to the community to operate a constructive bank which will not only reward its stockholders with a reasonable return on their investment but also will give utmost service to its customers with soundness and liquidity in view.

Miles of Conveyors in Ford Plant

This picture shows two types of conveyors in use in the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company.

AN ENDLESS chain conveyor, three and a half to four miles long, said to be the longest in the world, has just been completed at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Michigan. On it parts of Ford cars in the process of manufacture are transported from one building to another and completed parts are carried direct to railroad cars for shipment to branch assembly plants.

The conveyor, which carries its cargo on suspended hooks, has a daily capacity for 300,000 parts weighing over 2,000,000 pounds. It supplants freight cars and trucks which have been used for the transfer of many parts from one point to another in the Ford plant.

This longest conveyor of them all is a development of the Ford policy that nothing should be done by manual labor that could better be done by machine.

In the early days of his manufacturing career, Mr. Ford devised the assembly line—a moving track on which cars in the process of assembly went to the workmen instead of the workmen carrying parts to the car. The assembly line, perfected in many ways, is now used by automobile manufacturers generally.

The value of the conveyor in reducing physical labor, in saving time, in preserving system and in cutting costs soon became apparent and its use was extended to other purposes about the plant. Now there are literally miles of conveyors of various types in the Ford plant. Some of them carry parts from one building to another and are carefully synchronized so that the parts arrive at precisely the right moment and in the exact spot where they are needed. Others transport red hot ingots of steel weighing nearly a ton each. Still others move outgoing shipments.

If it were not for the conveyors, according to officials of the Ford Company, mass production would not be possible on its present scale.
