MAN DROWNED IN LOCAL MILL POND

Workman at School House Loses Life While in Swimming

Gorolons Spada, a tile worker employed in laying the floor of the new schoolhouse, lost his life in the Clarkston mill pond Tuesday night while in bathing. No one knows how the tragedy happened, but one of Spada's companions, noticing his disappearance, gave the alarm.

Rescuers, led by Deputy Sheriff Ed. Seeterlin, and joined later by Pontiac officers, began dragging for the body within a very short time, but it was not until two hours later that it was recovered in 20 feet of water and about 30 feet from shore. Deputy Seeterlin succeeded in grappling it after George Molter, who was assisting the officers, had located what was thought to be the object of the search.

Mr. Spada is said to have been an excellent swimmer and why he was unable to save himself, unless taken with cramps, is a mystery.

The body was taken in charge by Durand Ogden, justice of the peace and acting coroner, who decided that no inquest was necessary. A sister in Detroit was notified and she came and took the body to her home. Burial will be in Mt. Olive cemetery, Detroit, on Saturday.

The deceased was 27 years old and a native of Italy, where his parents still live.

POND LILIES A FEATURE AT BRIDGE LUNCHEON

Mrs. Helen Nash was hostess at a bridge luncheon at her cottage at Middle Lake in honor of her house guest, Miss Margaret Masse, of Virginia. A feature was the magnificent center of pond lilies on a beautiful lace cloth, arranged by the hostess' artist husband, Fred C. Nash, on the dining table from which the buffet luncheon was served.

They report not only excellent luck with rod and line but say the saw a bear and two deer at close range. One deer was close to the roadway and did not appear at all frightened when the boys essayed to touch it. No such familiarity was attempted with the bear.

SCHOOL MEETING IS IMPORTANT EVENT

Matters of Moment Are to Be Brought Up at D. Plains

The members of the Drayton Plains school board are very anxious that there be a good attendance at the annual school meeting to be held at the school house next Monday evening, July 14, at 8 o'clock. In addition to several other matters of importance to be considered, two trustees are to be elected for three years each to succeed Ernest W. Geers and Joseph Hanggee, whose terms have expired. Both are candidates for reelection. Mr. Geers is now treasurer of the board. The hold-over trustees are William Verhey, president, and Irving Chamberlain, secretary, who have two years yet to serve, and Glenn Featherstone, who has one year.

Among the matters to be discussed at the meeting is the question of adding the eleventh grade to the school, which would mean the hiring of another teacher. It will also be necessary to decide on how much the district shall pay for tuition at other schools next year, and whether medical supervision of the Oakland County Board of Health shall be continued.

LOCAL LORE

WATERFORD LOST TO CLARKSTON, 10-5

Ortonville Comes Here Next for Game on Sunday, July 13

Clarkston and Waterford clashed in a baseball game at Athletic Field Sunday afternoon, and while the score of 10 to 5 in favor of Clarkston might give the appearance of an uninteresting contest, it decidedly was not. The visitors were threatening every minute. They had an excellent pitcher, and it was lack of proper support that cost him the game. The breaks, too, were all against them. This is not saying anything to detract from the merits of the Clarkston team for they put up a good game with a new line-up recruited from both the "Kids" and "Old Timers". The pitching was divided between Visgatis, Francis and Huntly, while Huntly and Quigg did the receiving.

Ortonville will play Clarkston here next Sunday. As some of the home players may be engaged in the golf tournament at that time, a pick-up team is probable.

LOCAL LORE

Mr. and Mrs. George King and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Walter and sons spent the Fourth at Amherstburg, Ont., and Bob-Loo.

William McFarland had his car badly damaged Friday when attempting to make the turn into Clarkston from the highway at Jack's place. Traffic was heavy and while several passed him, one failed to see him and struck him squarely. Mr. McFarland was slightly injured, and investigation proved it was just one more accident on the Dixie.

GOLF TOURNEY TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Interest in Event on Thendara Course Is at Fever Heat

As the time for the local golf tournament approaches interest in the event becomes keener and keener, if such a thing be possible. The tournament, as readers of last week's News will recall, is to be held on the Thendara course at Walters Lake next Sunday. Play will be begun at 8:00 o'clock a. m. and will be continued until all the contestants have played 18 holes.

Forty-eight men have registered for the tournament, comprising 12 foursomes, with twenty-four on each side, one team captained by Roy Alger and the other by Lou Chamberlain.

At the conclusion of play the losers will pay for a dinner at the club house. W. D. Stearns, of the Thendara Club, offers a prize of a dozen golf balls to the one making the lowest score.

If practice makes perfect, as the old adage goes, some pretty low scores should be turned in and possibly a new Bobby Jones discovered, for everybody entered in the contest is spending all of his spare time in improving his game.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING

The regular annual meeting of the qualified electors of District No. 9, viz., Waterford and Independence Townships, will be held Monday evening, July 14, 1930, at the school house at Waterford, at 8 o'clock P. M. sharp, for the purpose of transacting such business as may legally come before that meeting.

The question of changing from a primary district to a graded district will be voted on and if carried will necessitate the election of a board of five members: One for a term of one year; two for a term of two years; two for a term of three years.

ENTERS CONTEST FOR DRAIN COM'R.

Political Announcement of L. M. Wrenn, of Pontiac

For some time I have been giving serious consideration to the suggestion of many of my friends that I become a candidate for the office of County Drain Commissioner at the Republican primaries in September. I have finally decided to do so and so formally make announcement of my candidacy.

Lewis M. Wrenn

For the past 12 years, my training as civil engineer has been such as will enable me, I believe, to serve the people of Oakland County to their advantage.

I have been connected with the office of the county drain commission for a period of nearly 5 years, which work brought me closely in contact with the drainage problems of the county because I was charged largely with the designing and laying out of most of the drains constructed during that time.

Prior to this I was assistant city engineer of the City of Pontiac, to which position I was appointed in 1920 following work in an engineer's capacity in this county for the DuPont construction company.

Due to the present high tax rate and general business conditions throughout the country, I believe that the county drain commission should

They announce that the same staff of competent men will remain in their employ and that the best type of Ford service will always be at the command of the public.

Mr. Chase will remain in Clarkston for the present at least but has not announced his future plans.

Both bride and groom are graduates of the Lapeer High School, Mr. Jones in the class of 1927 and Mrs. Jones in 1929. The former attended Michigan State College for one year after finishing high school, and Mrs. Jones has taken post-graduate work in the Lapeer schools and also pursued her studies in music.

We are pleased to state that we have a beautiful little church in which to worship and we make a special appeal to all to be present on Sunday morning in time for the opening hymn.

Our Sunday School, of which Earl Walter is the superintendent, convenes at 12 o'clock. We aim to close our morning service as near as possible to the time so that without much intermission we can begin our Bible School. During the warm weather we would appreciate a little help. If you are present and others are present we at once know that everything will be all right. We had to report a decrease again last Sunday but we are hoping that it will not happen again. The

TUITION RATES ARE SLIGHTLY RAISED

New Schedule Is Adopted by Local Board of Education

At a meeting of the Clarkston Board of Education on Wednesday evening a schedule of tuition rates for foreign pupils for the coming year was adopted. In view of the larger and better facilities the new building will afford, it was decided that an advance in rates was justified. The new schedule is as follows:

Kindergarten and 1st to 6th Grades, inclusive, $75.00.

7th, 8th and 9th Grades, $85.00.

10th, 11th and 12th Grades, $95.00.

The old rates were $60.00 up to the 7th Grade; $75.00 for 7th and 8th Grades, and $85.00 for all grades above the 8th.

The annual school meeting will be held in the old school house next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Only one trustee is to be elected, the term of L. R. McFarland being the only one expiring this year.

No let up, but rather increased activity, is apparent at the new building and every day confirms the promise that it will be completed before the reopening of school in September.

LOCAL LORE

Mrs. K. H. Kitts, of Portland, Ore., is spending a couple of weeks here with Mrs. William McFarland.

Postmaster Floyd Andrews is out of the office this week. He is not enjoying the vacation, for on Sunday morning, he dropped a heavy cake of ice on one of his feet, crushing some of the toes so badly that some of the bones had to be removed.

FAMILY GATHERING WAS VERY PLEASANT EVENT

July 4th was a very pleasant day for Mr. and Mrs. Eli Fisher, at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Holmquist, where they had the privilege of being united with their children and families, twenty-five in number. Dinner was served on the lawn and the balance of the time was given over to music and entertainment. At a late hour they dispersed for their respective homes, carrying with them fond memories.

OLD-TIME FOURTHS BROUGHT TO MIND

Frank Yeager Recalls Celebrations Here in Days Gone By

Was there a person in Clarkston who heard the sound of even one firecracker on July 4th? The only explosions of any kind were made by backfires from automobiles. How different from the old days that persons who lived here from 25 to 50 years ago can recall. Then they were awakened at midnight, provided they had been able to go to sleep at all, by the reverberations of the old cannon still in existence and under the protection of Frank Yeager.

Mr. Yeager, 77 years of age last May, knows more perhaps of the early history of Clarkston than any other man. He came here with his parents from New York 54 years ago. The family intended to go on farther, but one of the boys was taken sick with fever and ague and before he was able to proceed the father decided to make Clarkston his home. He was a blacksmith and had his shop on the old turnpike where the stage line ran. Later he moved to North Main street.

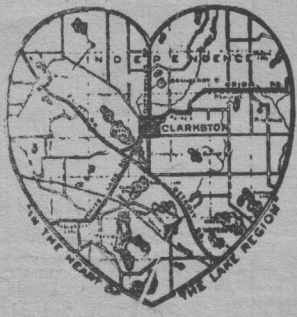

Frank followed in the footsteps of his father and became a smithy, too. His first shop stood where is now the Ford Sales and Service. After a time he gave up pounding iron and went on a farm, but his old customers, one of whom was the late Norman J. Ellis, were not content to lose his services as a blacksmith so they organized a bee and moved his shop back to town on the location where Mr. Yeager is still doing business. Naturally, he does not shoe as many horses as he used to, but is kept pretty busy with repair work. He is an expert craftsman and has made many novel things in iron.

A News representative visited Mr. Yeager at his shop Tuesday morning and found him taking things a little easy following an experience the day before when he was slightly overcome by heat and gas fumes. He delighted to recall old times, particularly with reference to early Fourth of July celebrations, which was what we started out to tell about in this article. In his yard rests the old cannon above mentioned, which, Mr. Yeager said, was cast by Zenith Church. Very early on the morning of the Fourth it would be dragged to the mill pond, loaded with a pound or more of powder and touched off. The report would be heard by everybody in the village and for miles around.

This started a day that was one of activity and excitement for 24 hours. Clarkston never failed to have a "grand" celebration in those days, Mr. Yeager said, featured by parades, including the callithumpians, girls dressed in white, Sunday school pulpits, flags at every stage, mounts of all descriptions, and music galore. There was always a band discoursing patriotic music, and at one time, according to our informant, Clarkston had one of the best bands in the state.

The parade always headed for a nearby grove, where there was a patriotic program featured by the reading of the Declaration of Independence and an oration that was never short by someone who could make the eagle scream in a high key. Then there was always a bowery dance and, at night, a fireworks display.

Mr. Yeager says that the attendance at these celebrations always ran into the thousands. On one occasion he recalls over 750 people were fed at Stores' Hotel, owned by William Stores, now Caribou Inn. The bowery dances were held on Main street where Walter's store now stands. There were five saloons or places where whisky was sold in those days, and while they were supposed to be closed on the Fourth, Mr. Yeager says that there were always a number of fellows who managed somehow to get a supply of what they considered necessary to make the celebration a success.

ADVICE TO SWIMMERS

The fable of the boy who cried "Wolf, wolf", when there was no wolf finds its counterpart during the bathing season every year in the lakes and streams of this locality. It has become a common practice of boys in swimming to pretend that they are drowning and shout for help. So often does this occur that persons hearing them pay no attention and when there is an actual case of danger, no help comes or it is tardy in arriving. How big a part, if any, this played in the tragedy at the mill pond on Tuesday no one knows, but there have been cases right at home where such tactics have resulted in fatalities.

Boys should learn how to swim, but they should also be taught that the exercise is fraught with danger and that this danger is enhanced when it is entered into in a spirit of bravado or carelessness.

BOYS ARE ACTIVE IN CLUB PROJECTS

Many In This Vicinity Enrolled In Such Work This Summer

The carrying out of projects by 4-H farm boys of Oakland county is developing to a greater extent this year than ever before, due to the intelligent activity of M. H. Avery, county boys' club leader. In addition to former projects, such as potatoes, corn, poultry, pigs, calves, etc., there has been added this year a rabbit project. This is new work in Michigan, except for one or two experimental projects last year. About 50 boys are enrolled in this project, organized in groups under local leaders where possible. The project involves small outlay for equipment and promises an opportunity for profit. In this section the following boys are raising rabbits in what is called the Ortonville area:

Mark Swayne, Frank Sherman. Eight Clarkston boys, three Ortonville boys and four Davisburg boys are enrolled in potato projects, as follows:

Clarkston—Jack Denton, Leslie Denton, Cliff Galligan, Donald Hunt, Gordon Kelly, Lee Kelly, Harvey Porritt, Marvin Porritt.

Davisburg—Donald Founders, Maynard Hutchinson, Donald Rogers, Raymond Wheeler.

Only certified seed is used in the potato project and the results in past years have been highly satisfactory.

The dairy calf project is very popular this year with an enrollment more than double what it was last year. It is a four months' project with each boy endeavoring to have the honor of raising the best calf. Enrolled in this project are the following from this locality:

Clarkston—Harvey Porritt, Marvin Porritt, Lewis Putnam.

Davisburg—Horace Horton, Edward Webber.

There are 46 poultry projects now running in the county as against only 17 last year. The boys start with a minimum of 25 chicks, with no limit placed on the maximum size of their undertaking. A few of the boys buy the eggs but the majority buy the chicks. Careful attention is paid to records as the boys are expected to keep accurate cost and feed records of their flocks and record the results in the written report made of the project in the fall.

Those who are raising poultry in this section are:

Clarkston—Durard Ash.

Davisburg—Woodrow Horton, Maynard Hutchinson, Carl Schultz.

COMMISSIONERS TO STUDY THE NECESSITY OF DRAIN

County Drain Commissioner Arthur W. Spencer has filed a petition to secure determination of the necessity to construct the West Pontiac drain in Waterford Township and a commission has been appointed by Probate Judge Dan A. McGaffey for that purpose. The commissioners are Supervisors Oliver P. Gibbs, Philip J. Coventry, Spencer A. Howarth, John A. Bradley and William H. Paddison. They will hold their first meeting at the Donelson school house on Thursday, July 17, at 10 a. m.

FARMERS TO STUDY CONTROL OF WEEDS

Several Meetings Are Arranged, One to Be Held in Clarkston

Any farmer in Oakland County who is interested in getting more satisfactory results in his weed control efforts should take a little time to attend one of the weed control meetings which are being arranged by the county agricultural agent, Harold M. Vaughn, on July 16 and 17.

It is hard to estimate what weeds are costing our farmers each year. The exact or even an approximate figure is not so important. We all know that it is too much.

Certainly, a knowledge of how weeds grow and reproduce will enable a person to wage a better fight against them. At these meetings, the habits and characteristics of our common bad weeds will be discussed by an Extension Specialist from the Farm Crops Department of the Michigan State College. If you have any weed plants which you wish identified, bring them to the meetings.

Chemicals are proving valuable in the control of many weeds, and their use will be discussed.

The meetings in Oakland County will be held as follows:

THIS NERVE MEANS HEALTH and HAPPINESS

THIS PINCHED NERVE MEANS SICKNESS and DISEASE

CHIROPRACTIC is a Philosophy, Science, and Art of things Natural; a system of adjusting the articulations of the spinal column, by hand only, for the correction of the cause of dis-ease.

The adult spinal column consists of the superior 24 freely movable bone segments, called vertebrae, together with the sacrum and coccyx. All the great nerve trunks emit thru the openings between these vertebrae, which openings are known as the intervertebral foramina. The vital nerve force within man is carried by these nerve trunks from the brain to the various organs, muscles and tissues of the body.

For every effect you must have a cause; that is a fundamental law of physics. If a person is ill, then the condition of disease, regardless of the name applied to it, is in fact an effect for which there must be a cause.

The Chiropractic premise is that the cause of disease is due to the subluxation of vertebrae, which produce pressure upon the nerve trunks and thus interfere with the normal transmission of vital nerve force.

The Chiropractic objective is to locate the points in the spine where nerve pressure exists, due to subluxated vertebrae, and, thru proper adjustment by hand, to restore such subluxated vertebrae to their normal position, thus releasing the pressure on the nerves involved and thereby removing the cause of dis-ease in the body. Renewed health is the natural result.

America cannot improve by increasing laws, or improving laws, or even by improving judicial procedure. The great hope lies in impressing upon young people at an early age a sense of personal accountability and responsibility. The whole scheme of scouting has been worked out to develop this sense, which we call character building. We endeavor through the scout program to develop a four-wheel-brake system: physical fitness; general education; vocational guidance; character.

Probably some one needs to work out for traveling Americans some scientific adjustments between our, for the most part excellent, hygienic habits and the inevitable limitations of foreign countries. If the young person would go abroad with the intention of keeping to moderately early bedtime hours, avoiding all spirituous liquors, finding a reasonable combination of vitamins and calories in any national menu and avoiding such food as can be picked up at the often very poor little places purporting to serve American food, he could afford to adjust himself on a lot of other matters.

A variation from type is an ironing machine combined with an electric washer, the ironing roll being devised so that it can be used interchangeably with the power wringer, both being operated by the motor of the washing machine. This arrangement brings the price of the combination machine but a little above that of washing machine alone, thus making a very practical form of laundry equipment.

What shall we do if the baby who has been eating well suddenly refuses food, and what shall we do if the baby does not willingly eat enough to make an average gain in weight? Probably more children's appetites are spoiled by mismanagement of this first attack of loss of appetite than by any other one factor. Mismanagement is due to lack of knowledge or appreciation of a very simple physiologic fact. Poor appetite always accompanies the minor ailments of childhood. When a child first begins to cut down on his food, take the hint and heat him to it, because in nine cases out of ten this poor appetite is a symptom of oncoming illness. If on the other hand an attempt is made to urge or force his usual diet upon him he will receive his first unpleasant reaction to food and will learn something of how important you consider the matter.

A very satisfactory color scheme for the boy's room may be worked out in wood tones with accents of parchment color and red, or the wood tones may vary from yellow or orange as an accent color to dark brown in the rug. Green would also add interest to this latter scheme. Remember in furnishing your son's room that boys will probably want plenty of room for a scuffle with no accessories to topple over if they shake things up a bit. The room may be artistic but it should be masculine and uncluttered.

Junkets may be had in a variety of delightful flavors. Dishes made from them have much milk. They are especially delicious combined with fruit whips. And have you tried freezing your cornstarch pudding in the refrigerator tray?

ENTERS CONTEST FOR DRAIN COM'R.

exercise a great deal of judgment and discretion before undertaking any drainage work and should devote his very best energies to the settlement of some of the difficulties which have arisen in connection with some of the major drainage projects which have been undertaken in the past. These matters have already cost the taxpayers of the county immense sums of money, and, I believe, immediate steps should be taken to stop this loss. German Spring Festival

In old Germany the festival of spring was something of a coarse variety. The villagers built about one of their number a frame of wood, into which they fastened garlands and boughs until he was completely camouflaged, not even the little bell over his head showing through the flowers.

With shouting he was led into the village, where the magistrate and the minister and others in authority were sitting on an improvised throne. Then the guessing began. When the magistrates failed to speak the name of the Wicker Whitsuntide Man, he paid to the crowd in beer. So it went with the others, until with great hilarity the man was found out.

Costly Criticism

Paul Gauguin was staying at Pont-Aven, in Brittany, in the summer of 1889, and painted there his famous portrait of "Le Belle Angele." La Belle Angele, wife of Satre, mayor of Pont-Aven, never saw her portrait till it was finished, when she exclaimed, "How terrible!" She refused it as a gift. Degas bought it, and after his death it was sold for several tens of thousands of francs, somewhat to the belated dismay of Mme. Satre.—Kansas City Star.

Affection

A howl of pain and indignation came from the back yard where four-year-old sonny and little sister were playing. "What is sister crying about?" called mother. "Oh, I was just patting her with a board," answered sonny, calmly.

Oddities for Traveler to Observe in Hawaii

"Believe it or not," but Hawaii grows a variety of bananas whose fruit ripens within the trunk of the plant.

This was one of the verified assertions submitted in a "believe it or not" contest conducted by a Honolulu newspaper.

Other "believe it or not" were: Every word in the Hawaiian language ends with a vowel.

The smallest kingdom in the world once existed in the Hawaiian Islands. The kingdom of Miloli, on the Napali coast of Kauai, a few hundred yards wide and a few miles long, was formerly inhabited by about 200 Hawaiians under their own king.

In Honolulu you can stand on dry pavement on one side of the street and see it rain on the other side.

The island of Mooliki, a little south of Maui, was lost by Hawaiian royalty in a poker game.

Institute That Houses Millions of Microbes

The Lister Institute of Preventive Medicine, Chelsea, England, contains the largest collection of microbes in the world. They number some 1,500 different varieties growing in little glass tubes about five inches long, and though they look harmless enough, some amongst them would, if let loose and distributed, probably start an epidemic which might easily vie in deadliness with those recorded in the Middle Ages. All these tiny organisms, the majority of which produce diseases of various kinds in human beings, animals and plants, require constant skilled attention much as do flowers and vegetables in an ordinary garden; while some are so delicate that they can only be bred successfully in incubators, corresponding to the hothouses of horticulturists.

Part of Lost Atlantis?

The five inhabited Scilly islands are St. Mary's, Treco, St. Martin's, St. Agnes and Bryher. The capital is Hugh Town in St. Mary's. This, together with Star castle, dating back to the time of Queen Elizabeth, is situated on a sandy peninsula known as the Garrison. The town has a harbor, used by the Penzance steamers, and a roadstead where large vessels may lie at anchor.

The main industry of the islands is flower growing. The islands have figured in history at various times. Supposedly, they are all that is left of the lost continent Atlantis. Then some suppose they were the Cassiterides, or "Tin Islands" of the ancients. They are now part of the Duchy of Cornwall, thus belonging to the prince of Wales.

Mania for Degrees

Frenchmen have a mania for degrees, titles, and other excuses for putting letters of the alphabet after their names. A Parisian banker received a visiting card from a gentleman requesting an interview with something like this after the name: Member of the Institute, Town Councillor of the Somme, Member of the Association for Municipal Reform, Contributor to the "Journal de Gevene," etc. Taking one of his own cards the banker wrote, under his plain name: "Member of the Taxicab Using Public, Contributor to the Paris Gas company, Martyr of the Paris Telephone service, etc., is too occupied with his own business to receive visitors today."

Hat and Frock Ensemble Designed for Children

Paris costumes for children are known by their simplicity of line and their perfection of detail—two qualities which give this little hat and frock ensemble illustrated its decidedly French touch. The sleeveless dress is cut on perfectly straight lines, and it depends wholly on tiny tucks, scalloped edgings and two pert shoulder bows for that captivating originality which every child's dress should have. It is pictured here in a fine printed lawn with small orange flowers scattered evenly over a white background. The orange note is repeated in the plain lawn which binds the scallops and makes the bows. As for the hat, it is right up to the minute not only because of its youthful brim but because it uses the same materials and the same scalloped motif as the dress. The button-on crown is made of printed lawn and the brim of plain.—Woman's Home Companion.

Rural Mail Boxes

The postals laws and regulations say that the posts or other supports upon which rural mail boxes are erected shall be of neat design, and may be of wood, metal, or concrete, of suitable strength and dimensions; may be either round or square, plain or ornamental, with or without fixed or movable arm, and shall be painted white. The use of effigies as supports or of supports intended to represent figures or mechanical objects, either grotesque or otherwise, is prohibited.

Well, What's Dignity?

The seems to be an idea that it is undignified to take a lively interest in food. We must all eat if we are to keep on living, and there is sound sense in making food pleasurable as well as sustaining.—Country Home.

Minnesota's Boundary

The northern boundary of Minnesota was settled by the treaty of Ghent terminating the War of 1812. By it the Lake of Woods was to be the northern boundary. At the time, it was supposed that there were many rivers flowing from the lake eastward, and the United States was to have the land drained by them. When the actual survey was made, it was found that there were no rivers flowing eastward, and, so, because of the intention, and after many surveys had been made, and commission appointed to settle the matter, the small piece of land called the Northern Peninsula was ceded to the United States in 1873 and the question finally settled by the United States and England in 1877.

Concentration

Catherine, age five, was invited to a little friend's house for dinner. Catherine's mother very carefully told the little girl everything she should and should not do.

"And be sure," her mother said, knowing Catherine's fondness for pastry, "not to ask for a second piece of cake."

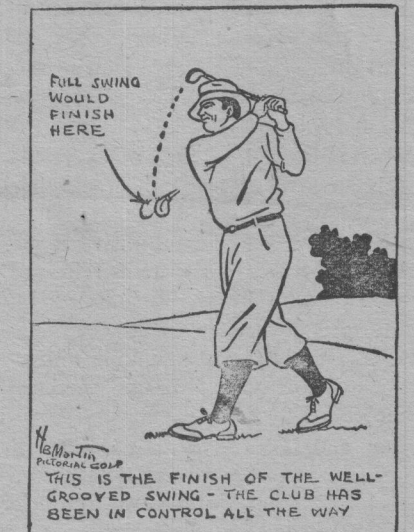

When Catherine came home her mother asked her all about the visit. "And did you have only one piece of cake, like I told you?" she said.

"Oh, no," replied Catherine. "I remembered what you said, so I didn't eat any cake at all. I ate two pieces of pie instead."

Truth is eternal, and the son of heaven.—Swift.

PICTORIAL GOLF INSTRUCTION

By H. B. Martin

Control More Important Than Distance When Driving

THE long, loose swing quite often is responsible for the long drive, but it is not the swing of the finished golfer, nor the successful golfer. Young golfers are inclined to strive for distance with their tee shots, willing to gamble on keeping the majority of them in the fairway. Experienced players are content to keep the ball straight and with this aim in view they gradually shorten the arch and make an attempt to keep the swing under perfect control.

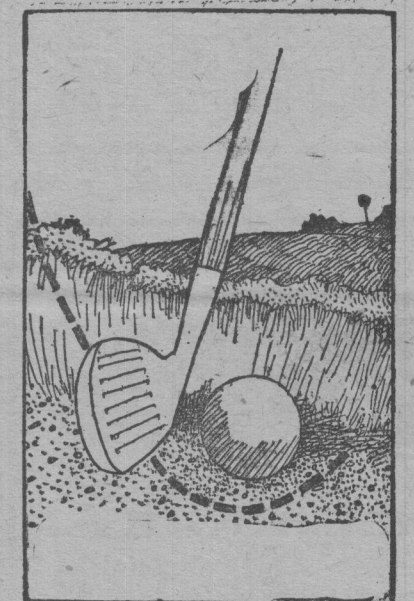

The swing need not be short so long as it is compact and well timed. The finish of the swing does not go back, as a rule, as far as the shoulder. Further dipping of the club is unnecessary and only goes to prove that there has been a dipping also at the top of the swing. With the compact, well-grooved swing there is little chance of one losing his balance, so the foot action is usually perfect. (Copyright.)

Arms and Body Must Follow Club Head in Pivot

IF ONE is not inclined to sway, the pivot, best illustrated by our leading experts will get better results. But one must actually pivot and not use the arms in a make-believe. Some golfers do this and believe that they have actually gone through the pivotal motions. The body must turn with the arms, the left knee going out to accommodate the turn of the hip and the raising of the left heel.

The head remains stationary while the eye is looking at the tee ball over the left shoulder. After we pivot to the point where the club is over the right shoulder we have reached the top of the swing. Then we begin to unwind, but not any faster than the club will permit. It must be remembered that the club-head must lead and the unwinding of the body proceed slowly, never getting in advance of the arms or the clubhead. (Copyright.)

A Difficult Explosion Shot

WHEN in a trap with a deep bank between the ball and the green, one must consider the shot carefully, especially if the ball lies in too close to the side of the trap.

It is essential that one must dig deep, using the explosion shot, and that he must make sure to go deep in the sand, taking enough of it to make sure that he has taken full possession of the ball with the niblick.

It is best to play out to the side rather than try for the center of the green if there is any chance of making a mistake by not getting the ball out at the first attempt. (Copyright.)

Some of us have days when we imagine that the idea of nationalizing all private property began with pipe-cleaners.

Columbus Might Have Saved Mayan Culture

If the United States lacks culture, it can be blamed upon Columbus, according to Gregory Mason, explorer, writing in Country Home. Had Columbus followed his original route on his subsequent trips, the civilization that is now the United States might have been founded upon the Mayan race, which represents the oldest civilization in the world.

Mason declares that Columbus, on his fourth voyage in 1502, encountered a Maya merchant off the coast of Honduras, but instead of going to the merchant's land, he turned his prow in another direction and left it to despoiling Spaniards of another day to find and crush the last remnants of a great civilization that once thrived there.

The Mayas, says the writer, were the most highly civilized of all the red-skinned natives of America before the white men came, and might have provided the ready-made foundation for a new white race, whereas the hardy settlers of the north had to carve out their own foundations from the wilderness.

OLD AND NEW

Windmills designed by an Indiana inventor for the production of electric power include an automatic control that prevents them operating when a set speed is exceeded.

A watch made more than 100 years ago still keeps such perfect time that it is used by a London woman in her business of regulating clocks in offices and public places.

For insulating walls against heat and cold a new process sprays them to any desired thickness with old newspapers, cut to the size of confetti and mixed with water glass.

AS WE GROW OLDER

We learn the value of time as a curative agent upon events and institutions—and to be patient.

That it is well to keep out of crowds.

That good books are better company than gadding individuals.

That ceaseless buzzing activity may be disease, not enterprise.

Have your objectives and keep to them. Go into nothing new unless worth while.

That altercation is unwise because it is a waste of energy. Say nothing, and saw wood.

That it is scarcely worth while running to catch a car—or anything else, for that matter.

That we don't have to apologize for existing. Do what is right without preface or explanation.

That many things must be waited for and cannot be hastened; and the way not to be in a hurry is to begin them early.—Capper's Weekly.
