A good stand of alfalfa is easily injured by overgrazing. Alfalfa should not be pastured the first year and only lightly the second. It is doubtful if it is advisable to pasture alfalfa at all in the East because of the difficulty of getting a good stand in this section. Hogs are less injurious to alfalfa than other livestock.

In Store For Oakland Boys

These boys, and more than 300 others who spent a part of last summer at the Oakland County Y. M. C. A. Camp on Loon Lake, up in Iosco County, are looking forward eagerly to the return of scenes like this, scheduled for the coming season. Preparations for the camp's second summer are already being made.

There seems to be a widespread belief that nobody is quite so enthusiastic at the annual approach of warm weather as Dad, who writes the checks to pay for the winter's fuel. But in Oakland County, at least, this impression is all wrong. There are at least 400 youngsters who are a lot more eager than their fathers could possibly be for the winter and spring to pass and the summer to come. They are the fortunate 400 who were able to spend part of last summer at the Oakland County Y. M. C. A. Camp on Loon Lake, up in Iosco County,—and who, with the friends whom they have excitedly told about the camp, are looking forward to as much more of the same as they can crowd into this and future summers.

Last year at this time, the camp was only a project in the minds of the Oakland County men who had conceived the idea of establishing it. Many of these men are themselves the fathers of boys. All are thoroughly sold on the idea that summer camps of this sort provide the finest possible training for life, and the finest insurance against crime. These men established the camp as an investment in character. They obtained a state charter as a non-profit organization, selected a site, arranged for the construction of buildings, and last summer had the gratification of dedicating the camp in the presence of hundreds of boys and their families. The camp site covers 427 acres, facing right on Loon Lake, an exceptionally beautiful body of water, about two miles long, and of invitingly irregular shape. The fine sand and gravel beach of the lake stretches nearly a mile and a half along the camp property, while the famous Au Sable River, with its numerous power projects, winds its way toward Lake Huron within easy hiking distance. The camp occupies rolling ground, much of which is densely wooded as to afford some idea of how Michigan looked before its great forests vanished.

On this site,—150 miles north of Pontiac, on U. S. Highway 23—just far enough from home to make camping a real adventure, has been built a lodge and mess hall, the ground about which is dotted in summer with big army-style tents. Eighteen boats, a dock, and a diving platform are included in the equipment of the camp, and are available under adult supervision. Additional facilities are scheduled to be added this year.

All four Y. M. C. A. organizations in the county—the Pontiac, Birmingham, Royal Oak Township, and Town and Country—share the camp benefits. The trustees of the camp are Charles J. Shain, Birmingham, president; Maurice F. Cole, Ferndale, secretary;

George T. Hendrie, Bloomfield Hills, vice-president; Fred T. Baker, Pontiac, assistant treasurer; E. W. Seaholm, Birmingham, Frederick D. Madison, Royal Oak, and Charles J. Merz, Pontiac.

Governor Wilber M. Brucker, a member of the Legion, will be the honored guest and the principal speaker. A large attendance is assured and Harry Baker Post of Montrose has made arrangements to accommodate four hundred persons at the banquet, which will be one of the most pretentious affairs ever held in the community.

Ticket sales have exceeded the anticipation of the committee and they advise those wishing to attend to secure their tickets at once before the supply is exhausted.

EARLY SCHOOLS AS FEEDERS FOR U. M.

Branch Institutions That Led to Present High School System

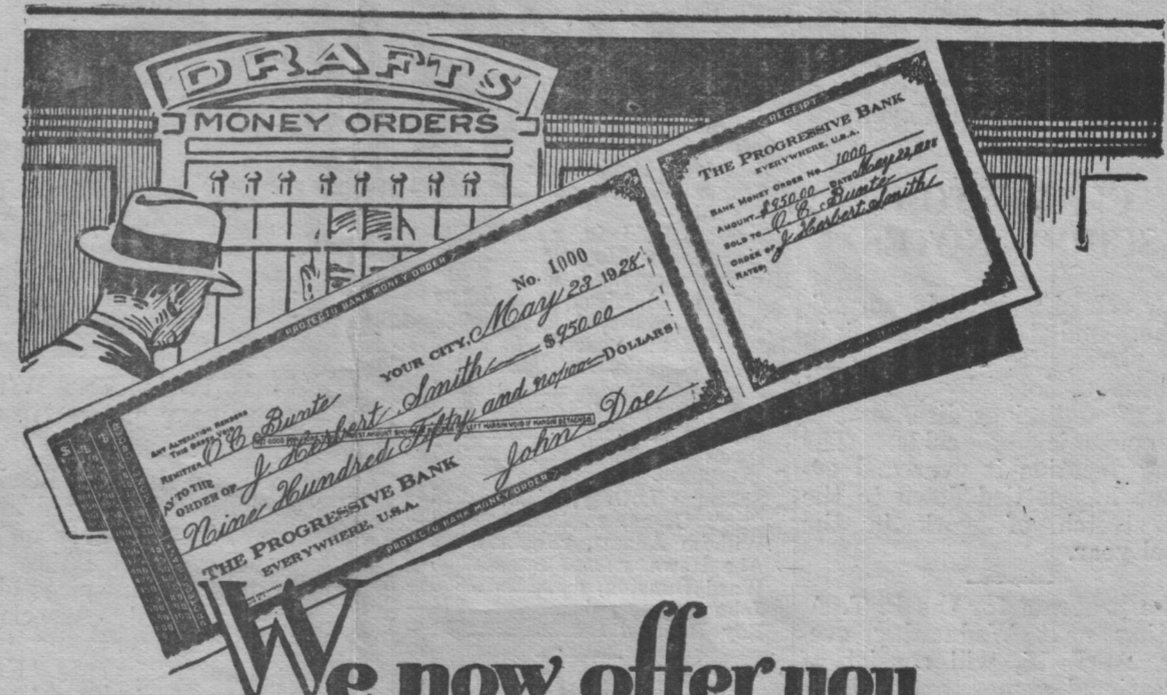

Ann Arbor, April 8.—An interesting and little known episode in the early history of the University of Michigan is that of the brief era of branch institutions which preceded the opening of the University at Ann Arbor. Soon discontinued as University branches, these institutions prepared the way for the present system of high schools.

The University, as established in Detroit in 1817, was a small college whose founders had expected it to undergo rapid growth, a hope which it did not fulfill. The first legislature of the state, however, in 1837, reorganized the institution on ambitious lines and transferred the site to Ann Arbor. Mainly, therefore, to assure a body of qualified students for the enlarged facilities available, a number of preparatory branches known as academies were set up, there being five by the end of 1838, with an enrollment of 161 students.

In all, branches were established at Monroe, Tecumseh, White Pigeon, Kalamazoo, Romeo, Niles, Pontiac and Detroit, all but the last three having departments for women and girls. At Mackinaw, Utica, Jackson, Ypsilanti and Coldwater branches were organized but not with University financial support.

Originally it had been planned to establish such University supported branches in every county, but because of the limited finances it became evident that their upkeep would prevent the proper growth of the parent institution. In 1842, therefore, appropriations were reduced and in 1846 entirely eliminated. The seeds of the idea of local public schools of more than grammar school rank had been sown, however, and within a few years the present type of high school began to be established until today the state is covered with a network of schools preparing scholars for the University.

GRASS HARMED IF PASTURED EARLY

Cheap Source of Feed Is Partly Ruined Unless Plants Are Given Time for Growth

East Lansing, Apr. 8.—Turning stock on pasture before the grass has a well-established top and root growth will result in damage to the pasture and will reduce the season's total of feed from the pasture lot which is the cheapest source of nutrients for milk and meat production.

Cows on good pasture can produce milk at a cost of 10 cents per day but the grass must be thick and have a good growth to enable the cow to gather enough grass in a few hours to supply feed to maintain her body weight and to manufacture a profitable amount of milk. If the cow has to range over a large area to get the required amount of grass, part of the nutrients obtained are wasted in providing energy for the cow.

A 1000 pound cow which is producing 25 pounds of milk daily will need 100 pounds of grass each day. An area of pasture 40 by 40 feet will produce this amount if the grass is eight inches tall.

Sweet clover has become a very popular pasture crop for dairy cattle in Michigan. It grows rapidly and contains a better supply of protein and minerals than the pasture grasses. Cattle very seldom bloat on sweet clover pasture and they eat this plant readily after they become accustomed to it.

Records in the dairy department at Michigan State College show that 10 cows produced 192 pounds more butterfat on sweet clover pasture than the same animals produced the preceding year on ordinary pasture grasses.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

Dinner doesn't burn when you have a Telephone in the Kitchen

You can't keep one eye on the oven when you must go into the front hall to answer the telephone.

An extension telephone in the kitchen speeds household business and helps to keep cook or yourself from straying too far from an active oven.

It's convenient, too, for ordering groceries and supplies.

The cost of an extension telephone is less than 3 cents a day. To place an order, call the Telephone Business Office.

WILL DEMONSTRATE HOW TO HITCH UP BIG TEAMS

William Murphy, County Agricultural Agent of Macomb County, has arranged for a multiple hitch demonstration at the Detroit Creamery Farm No. 1 (Gratiot Avenue, 1/2 mile south of Mt. Clemens) on Wednesday, April 8, at 1:00 P. M.

If you are interested in making up 4, 5 or 6 horse outfits, you are invited to come and witness this demonstration. If you plan to start such a hitch at home, bring two 4-foot sticks and one 2-foot stick and a number of devises, 4, 5 or 6 horse multiple hitch eveners are being made up at the demonstration. Buck ropes and tie chains will be on hand and can be purchased at cost.

Wayne Dinsmore, of Chicago, Secretary of the Horse Association of America, and H. F. Moxley, M. S. C., will put on this demonstration.

LIGHTING SYSTEM IN U. OF M. LIBRARY

Perfect After Several Years of Scientific Experimentation

Ann Arbor, April 8.—Long hours of intent study in college libraries call for ample, glareless light to avoid eye strain and fatigue, and in achieving this end the lighting system of the University of Michigan General Library has set a vogue which is being followed in many reading rooms. The new modernistic library of the New School for Social Research is one of the latest to adopt the Michigan style lamp.

Arrived at after several years of experimentation by H. H. Higbie, Professor of Electrical Engineering, the lamp is simple in its essentials. An inverted V-shaped trough running the whole length of the table forms the shade of the lamp. At intervals, near the top angle of this shade, electric bulbs are set, enclosed along the whole length of the table by a shield of thick opal glass which so diffuses the light that the table top is illuminated with a strong soft light, free from shadows or glaring highlights from the polished under side of the shade and utilizing all light.

Set lower than most reading lamps, the shade of the Michigan type prevents any direct light from reaching the reader's eyes, as well as avoiding glare to persons moving about the room. Perhaps the fact that the long lamp at eye level shuts off stray glances at pretty co-eds a few tables away has an important psychological effect also in concentrating attention on the work at hand.

In addition to the special table lamps, the large Michigan study hall, which is one hundred and forty feet long, forty-eight feet wide and fifty feet high, is lighted over all by an indirect system in which the light from lamps set in the tops of wall book shelves is reflected downward from the domed ceiling, producing a soft shadowless all-over illumination approximating north daylight.

FOREST FIRE FILMS TO BE RELEASED FOR SHOWING

Lansing, April 8.—A two-reel motion picture on forest fires in Michigan will be released by the Educational Division of the Department of Conservation late in April.

The picture will depict the complete organization of the Forest Fire Division of the Department, will show how forest fires are prevented, detected and fought, and will include some of the best actual forest fire scenes ever taken in this state.

As soon as completed the picture will be added to the Department's film loan service. The picture will be printed in both 16mm and 35mm sizes and will be available for loan to schools, clubs, churches and other organizations.

A two reel picture showing activities of the Land Economic Survey will be the first release following issuance of the forest fire reels.

Forests of Alaska cover approximately 71,347,000 acres, an area as large as the States of Missouri, New Jersey and Maine combined.

Tests by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in growing crotalaria show that this new crop is well adapted to the poor sandy soils of the South, particularly for green manure.

Many Thanks

It is not a good idea to rake dead grass off the lawn in spring. Leave it to decay and form a mulch for the new grass.

Don't turn the dairy cows on pasture too early in the spring. Early spring grass is watery and immature. Wait until the grass is 3 or 4 inches high, and then turn them on it—but for only a few hours a day at first—and continue to feed grain, hay and silage for a while, to lessen the danger of bloating.
