After three years, the corner of M-15 and Dixie Highway may be getting a new business Independence Township Planning Commission is considering a special land use permit by Tim Horton's. The Canadian coffee, donuts, and baked goods shop is hoping to get the township's OK to build a drive-thru restaurant at the corner. The 6756 Dixie Highway location was last used as a BP gas station.

"I do want this corner of M15 and Dixie Highway improved," said Ron Ritchie, Independence Township trustee and Planning Commission member. "It has been in disrepair for many years now."

Ritchie said the issue was removed from the meeting agenda by the petitioner during the last meeting.

"I understand they will reschedule for the Sept. 12 meeting," he said. "They were going to present the conception concept of their proposal to the board and open it up to the public for any discussion."

Local businessmen Kevin Yousif, John Dean, Michael Holycross were at a conference earlier this summer when conversation turned to the United States Marine Corps.

Dean, a Marine veteran, said there was a problem.

Marine Recruitment Detroit, where he has volunteered to help out for the last 30 years, put its annual Marine Corps birthday ball on the chopping block.

"They work seven days a week to get the mission accomplished and never gripe," Dean said. "When I heard about the cuts, I wanted to see what we could . do about that."

So to raise money to save the ball, they're organizing the first annual golf outing at Oakhurst Country Club in Independence Township, set for Aug. 26. A 4 Wed., August 14, 2013 The Clarkston (MI) News Butterfly Fest fluttering to Springfield

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

Monarch butterflies need people's help now more than ever. Debbie Jackson of Springfield Township and other conservationists can show you how.

"I'm doing this to raise public awareness of their population decline," said Jackson, Monarch Watch conservation specialist who is helping to plan the Monarch Festival, 11 a.m.-4 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 25, at the Shiawassee Basin Preserve, 12000 Davisburg Road.

The free event gives people the opportunity to tag a monarch and set it free to fly to Mexico for fall migration.

"We'll have a variety of activities for people to participate in, focused around the Monarch's life cycle and incredible journey to Mexico," Jackson said.

Butterfly populations are 5-10 percent of what they were 20 years ago and all indications point to further decline, she said. "This has been a cool summer – it didn't allow them to develop normally," she said. Delayed growth leaves them vulnerable to ants, spiders, and other_predators, a problem for insects whose normal survival rate to adulthood is about five percent.

"This year, I think we've lost a whole generation," she said. "Other insects are lower this year as well, probably due to the cooler than average summer we're experiencing, but Monarch populations are down due to habitat loss, herbicide, and pesticide use, too."

Insects form the base of the food chain, so their loss will ripple up to affect humans as well, she said.

Conservation efforts include asking greenhouses to provide pesticide-free plants, discouraging eradication of weeds by individuals and governments, especially milkweed, which caterpillars eat, and planting native plants in individual yards, she said.

"If you plant them, they will come," she said.

Jackson, who moved to Davisburg with her family in 1992, grew up in Cedar Rapids. When she was 10 years old, she remembers trying to catch Monarch butterflies with a net but couldn't reach them – they fly too high.

"They are superb flyers," she said. "Mom gave me a book – I learned about milkweed and caterpillars."

She rode her bike to a field, found a caterpillar just where the book said they would be, took it home, fed it, and watched as it formed a chrysalis.

"After a while, a butterfly came out - it was just really neat," she said.

By seventh grade, she was raising dozens of butterflies. Now, with the help of friends, she takes care of about 200. They're aiming for 300-500 for the festival.

"I get to be 10 years old again every time

Butterfly conservationist Debbie Jackson points to a caterpillar crawling next to a developing butterfly in chrysalis.

I see a butterfly born," she said. "There's something wonderful about the innocence and freshness of new birth."

It requires an investment of time but not much money. She uses recycled lettuce and ice cream containers with holes in the lids.

"They don't need a lot of air," she said. "And it's a good way to get kids outside."

Jackson has been teaching classes about raising butterflies for about four years.

Workshops at the festival will include author Brenda Dziedzic, native plants with Trish Hennig, and a variety of butterflies in different stages of life, from eggs, caterpillars, chrysalises (pupae) and adult.

Participants will tag and release, and also record how many by sex – males have two scent glands on their wings and different markings. They request a $1 donation for the cost of tags.

"Hopefully some will come out of chrysalis during the festival," Jackson said.

They work with Monarch Watch of University of Kansas, and will set up in the pavilion at Springfield Farmers Market. Butterflies, which live for 7-9 months, migrate to Mexico every year.

Her Elliphic rest of the rest of the second of the second of the Participants will be able to tag butterflies to track them during migration. Photos by Phil Custodio

It takes them 6-9 weeks to make the 600 mile trip to Mexico, leaving Michigan about the middle of August. They grow fast, from an egg to 3,000 times their birth size in 14 days, and spend 10-12 days in chrysalis. If it's cooler, it takes longer.

Voters say no to Orion School Bond

Voters rejected two Bond Propositions for Lake Orion Community Schools on Tuesday, August 6.

Some Clarkston-area residents living in the Orion school district voted on the proposals that, combined, would have allowed the district to borrow over $32 million to acquire and install new technology. The proposals would have also allowed schools to remodel, equip and refurnish facilities for a multitude of purposes and to enhance security.

The bond would have also been used to improve facilities and athletic fields. Total results for Proposition A was Yes 3,517 No 4,965; and Proposition B, Yes 3,494 and No 4,967.

Vacancies on local TV board

Independence Township is seeking three volunteers to serve on a board to oversee the Cooperative Public Access Television Center located in Clarkston High School. Independence Television, the areas public access channel, was recently set to move from a Maybee Road studio.tethe school.

Duties for those serving on the board will include reviewing and providing recommendations regarding operations. The nine member board will meet at least quarterly to discuss programming, budget, staffing and overall development. Each appointed citizen volunteer will hold a three year term.

The board will include the Schools' Video manager and Township's Television manager as non-voting members, and seven voting members comprised of a member from the Board of Education, a member of the township's Board of Trustees, two citizens appointed by the Board of Education, as well as three Independence Township citizens appointed by the Township Board.

Phil in the Blank

A column by Phil Custodio

Training goes well

My training for the Back Roads Half Marathon continues. I'm running twice a week, up to four miles each. This includes Wednesday runs in Clarkston after work, starting at the office at 5 S. Main Street about 4:30 p.m., if anyone would like to join in.

I've been taking advantage of Clarkston's safety paths and sidewalks up around the high school and down Main Street to Dixie Highway. Soon to be added are the paths around St. Dan's and Calvary Lutheran.

This is just one part of an overall strategy to lose weight, following in the healthkicks of fellow Clarkston Newsians Wendi Reardon, sports writer, and my office manager, Rose Mary Frazer.

I've yo-yoed in weight all my life, up after discharging from the army, down while a student at Ohio State, up near graduation, down while reporting for the Flushing Observer up in Genesee County, up after that, and a couple downs and ups since then.

The downward parts are becoming way more difficult. It used to be I could run weight off, but when I tried that last year, it was pretty disastrous.

Gravity, it's not just a suggestion, it's the law! I carried too much weight to run, and because I didn't run, I carried too much weight. Vicious circle.

So now this time I lost weight almost entirely through dieting, starting after the holidays. Then, after losing about 30 pounds, I hit the track again. Big difference. And then there's the motivation thing. Losing weight isn't a physical endeavor - that part is easy, eat less and exercise.

For me at least, it's all mental and personal. Nothing anyone could have said would have made me lose weight. The opposite, actually, until I flipped that switch. Now, nothing anyone can say can make me gain it back, for now, at least.

So there's the half marathon, in which I hope to do better than my last one, the first Brooksie Way. If I run more than half of it, I'd be well on my way.

My army years also play a part - I'm trying to fit back into the uniforms I last wore in 1991, and last fit into several years before the turn of the century. Veterans from World War II, Vietnam, etc. wear their uniforms at the Independence Day festival at Clintonwood Park every year. Maybe next year I can as well!

Thank you to Claire and her friends for help

Dear Editor.

l just learned of this wonderful fundraiser that Claire Kirchner and her friends held for Lighthouse Clarkston last weekend ("Rock group helps Lighthouse," Aug. 7).

What a unique idea and what a huge success it was! And kudos to the Clarkston community for supporting these young people in their quest to help struggling families in our community. I am so proud to be a part of a community that comes together to support one another as Clarkston does each day of the year.

Thank you to Claire and her friends for working to make this event happen and thank you to the sponsors for their support. A special thank you goes to the parents of these young ladies. You should be very proud of their kindness and generosity towards others.

Revisit planning, set priorities for township

Dear Editor.

We moved to Independence over 30 years ago and thought we were coming to a quite and serene area with lots of natural features and friendly folks.

It now appears that our township is working hard to bring growth and new businesses into our community and expand the tax base ("Sashabaw Road improvements lead to ...,"

July 24).

I, for one, think we need to revisit this planning and set some other priorities such as: preserve our natural areas, avoid the introduction of large businesses and industry and stay small and friendly. I'd like hear from others who feel the same way.

Reader shares experiences with 'wildlife' of Clarkston

Dear Editor,

As a transplanted New Yorker it's taken me nearly 15 years to fully adjust to this closeknit world known as Clarkston. In New York, there were millions of people, but you really didn't know anyone.

Not so in Clarkston. Here, you know people...you know their children...you know their dogs ... you just know.

A routine trip to Kroger on a mid-summer Saturday is the only classroom you need.

"Hi, sir, we're with the Clarkston football team," the handsome young man says, just as I get to the entrance to the store.

"Would you support the team by buying this discount book? It's a great deal."

Why not, I think. It's the least I can do, plus I know these guys are pretty good.

"Sure," I say as I reach for my wallet. "You guys gonna be good again this year?"

"Thanks," the young man says as he takes my money and hands me my discount book. "The Wolves will rule this season."

The Wolves? That's right, the Clarkston Wolves...that's the team name.

"Can you answer a question for me," I ask, as the young man high-fives his friend, apparently in celebration of his sales success

"Why do you call yourselves the Wolves? Have you ever seen a wolf in Clarkston?"

"Well, no," the young man says, looking puzzled at first. "At least we're not called the dragons.'

The dragons, I think. Who'd be dumb enough to call themselves that?

"Well, I guess so," I say to the young man, masking my utter confusion. "It just seems there are more coyotes in Clarkston than wolves. How does the Clarkston Covotes sound?"

The young man's expression turns to calm focus, like you'd expect to see on the face of a hostage negotiator.

"That might be a good idea. You should bring it up with the athletic director," the young man says, nodding me a subtle thank you before joining his friends, who are laughing at something nearby.

Well, at least I have this discount book. I continue to think about the young man as I shop. As I leave Kroger I look for him again. Then I'm approached by another young man.

"Sir, would you like to buy some raffles to support the hockey team?" he asks, with a huge, toothy smile unexpected from a hockey player.

"Hockey? What hockey team," I ask. "The Clarkston hockey team," the young man says.

Clarkston hockey team? I didn't even know Clarkston had a hockey team.

"You guys are a big secret," I say. "Where do you play?

"Bloomfield Hills."

Bloomfield Hills? No wonder no one has heard of these guys.

"Are you also the wolves?" I ask, thinking for a second that this might be another good opportunity to ask my coyote question.

"Yes, we are ... the Clarkston Wolves."

The young man and I complete our friendly transaction for a book of raffles. Odd, I think, that first prize are four baseball tickets.

"Have a great season."

"Thanks."

I walk to my car, my mind racing through the events of the last 30 minutes or so.

I met two very upstanding young men, it didn't matter that they were terribly misled about the composition of the wildlife in the community

I purchased an entire book of valuable discounts from local stores supporting the efforts of the community's youth. I purchased five chances to win Detroit Tiger tickets. And I discovered a great secret...that Clarkston has a hockey team, and they play in Bloomfield Hills.

"What a great place," I say out loud, thinking I might just call the athletic director and give him a brief lesson on the realities of the local wildlife.

I look into my wallet, thinking I might stop someplace for lunch. It's empty. I look back at the hockey player and think for a moment to ask him to lend me a few bucks.

"A day in Clarkston," I think out loud, getting into my car, smiling and driving home. Michael Palese

Ignorant and dangerous Big Mac

Because an interview fell through before dead- scheme of things? line, I have gone to Plan B for this week's column. I shagged this "gem" from 10 years ago. Ah. Memories. I hope you enjoy. -- Don

There's an old, cliched saying that goes something like, "You can't please them all." Or is it, "You can fool some of the people all of the time, but not all of the people all of the time?"

Or is it, "You are what you eat?"

Got me sports fans, but somebody o Ortonville way has finally pegged me. And instead of trying to columnize on what this person figured out, I thought I'd take a break from writing to let this person tell it like it is.

Attn: Jim Sherman, Publisher and espe cially the ignorant and dangerous DO RUSH,

Under the protection of anonymity - because (aka: Big Mac) I am well aware of what scum and other low life such as Don Rush are capable of in the way of retaliation, I direct this letter to you all and especially to the ignoramus, stupid and downright insulting Mr. Rush.

I have allowed Mr. Rush's unbelievably horrible columns to go in one eye and out the other because I consider the source and because his kind is growing in number -- sort of like carpenter ants who chew their way into a house, reducing it to splinters -- he has the mind of a carpenter ant -- but why insult an ant when Mr. Rush is OH so much lower on the evolutionary

Mr. Rush writes not only like an idiot but, of course, he is one.

If someone looks like an idiot, talks like an idiot, walks like an idiot, it is time to write with the knowledge that even though I think Mr. Rush MAY be capable of reading, he is NOT capable of understanding. And, therefore, it becomes a moot point -- but at least this letter may raise his blood pressure (I HOPE!) and blast his hillbilly attitude into outer space. Recently, he quoted "who wants to listen to an idiot with stupid hair speak of billions and billions, etc." Of course, he does not know that he refers to the late great astronomer Carl Sagan. Dr. Sagan had more knowledge and understanding than Mr. Rush can EVER compre-(Don here: Actually I wrote about my viewing preferences as an child and never called Sagan an idiot: "Come on, really, how could some guy with funny hair slowly articulating, "Billions and Billions" of things compete with the unholstered femininity of Charlie's Angels?) Now, Mr. Rush has attacked the "whacky eco-terrorists ELF and ALF" and P.E.T.A. and it is impossible to ignore his rantings and absolute mindless, and moronic writings any longer.

The entire world is under the threat of extinction by big business and corporate greed. They have polluted our water, fouled our air, genetically modified our food and poisoned us all and hope for revival was lost years ago. Obviously, the crude and disgusting Rush is not aware of the hormones put into all of our food and creating a Frankenstein of horrors by injecting everything we consume with a manifestation of terror that should scare everyone - except, of course, the knowit-all Mr. Rush!

Urban Sprawl threatens us all.

How DARE Rush say: "DAMN PETA ?! DAMN THE VEGANS!?

What (this newspaper) has on its staff is a REALLY low life creature who does not and will never understand what big business has done and continues to do to us all and he has no business being allowed space in your newspaper as he reduces you ALL to HIS level.

When Mr. Rush develops cancer because of the rotted, hormone-infested, genetically altered beef he so prides himself of eating (he even LOOKS like a genetically modified beef patty, cheese, lettuce, onions, pickles and special sauce on a sesame seed bun!), he will still not have a clue where it came from because he has no brains except perhaps the mush that is MAD COW disease rotting away in what once may have been a thinking human.

Spew hate where it belongs, Mr. Rush - on yourself and your infinite billions and billions of dead "brain" cells.

That about says it all, I think. I'd like to thank the reader for writing this column (giving me more time to kill myself). Comments to the Dangerous One can be e-mailed to: Don@ShermanPublications.org

ocal cancer doc accused of fraud

BYANDREAM. BEAUDOIN Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) is alleging a blood and cancer doctor with six offices, including one in Independence Township, of defrauding Medicare and having patients undergo unnecessary health treatments.

Federal agents are accusing Dr. Farid Fata of defrauding the federal health care insurance by over $35 million. The 48-year-old is also accused of having patients undergo unnecessary treatment like chemotherapy, a highly intense cancer treatment often makes patients very sick by injecting poisonous substances and nearly destroying their immune system.

Agents claim the high profile doctor, prolonged chemotherapy treatments of patients in remission and also gave dying patients treatment that would not prolong life.

Fata owns Michigan Hematology Oncology Centers (MHO) which in addition to Clarkston has offices in Bloomfield Hills, Lapeer, Sterling Heights, Troy and Oak Park. FBI Agents arrested Fata on August 6 and raided his Oakland Township home and medical offices in Clarkston, Bloomfield Hills and Rochester.

Special agents also said Fata treated a man who had suffered a head injury, but rather than send the man to the emergency he made him undergo chemotherapy treatment first

The man died from the head injury. The FBI said it was through MHO that claims to Medicare for medically unnecessary cancer and blood services. "MHO billed Medicare for approximately $35 million dollars over a two-year period, approximately $25 million of which is attributable to Dr. Fata," 'said agents.

Authorities also said that Fata made over $24 million in infusion treatments over a two-year period-more than any other Michigan doctor.

All of the allegations are violation of patient's trusts, said authorities.

"Violating patients' trust and placing them at risk through fraudulent abuse of our nation's health care system is deplorable and a crime which the FBI takes most seriously. The FBI remains committed to the arrest and prosecution of those who commit health care fraud," said FBI Special Agent in Charge Robert D. Foley.

Fata

The complaint also alleges Fata prescribed unnecessary chemotherapy to patients in remission; deliberate misdiagnosis of patients as having cancer to justify unnecessary cancer treatment; chemotherapy to end-of-life patients who would not benefit from the treatment; deliberate misdiagnosis of patients without cancer to justify expensive testing; fabrication of other diagnoses such as anemia and fatigue to justify unnecessary hematology treatments; and distribution of controlled substances Dr. Fata allegedly submitted fraudulent to patients without medical necessity or administered them at dangerous levels.

Fata was released last Thursday on $170,000 bond and was ordered to have no contact with medical offices or patients. He is also ordered to wear a tether or electronic monitoring device to keep track of his whereabouts and remain under house arrest at his Oakland Township estate.

On Tuesday, a judge was expected to hear Federal Prosecutors request to up Fata's bond to $9 million. Prosecutors claim Fata and his wife have personal wealth worth millions Patient well being remains a top priority for authorities.

"Our first priority is patient care," said United States Attorney Barbara McQuade. "We have set up a victim hotline so patients can access their files and get questions answered."

The FBI said patients who have questions concerning their medical records or in need of information regarding the investigation and prosecution can call the United States Attorney's Office Information Line at 888-702-0553.

Patents can also reach MHO at 248-844-5690 or a nurse manager at 248-505-2013 or call your primary care doctor.

Over the years Fata has been active in Clarkston. In 2009 and 2010, MHO partnered up with other health care facilities with hosted several events in the community including a breast health seminar in 2009 and Cancer Survivor Day.

Efforts to contact Dr. Fata or his office were unsuccessful

Wolves line up against cancer

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Wolves are using their first week of practice to gear up for their fifth annual Football for a Cure this Saturday, 7 p.m.

Proceeds from the pre-season intrasquad scrimmage are used for the Clarkston community with services at McLaren Breast Cancer and McLaren Cancer Institute - Clarkston.

"One hundred precent of the funds go back to McLaren cancer patients who are seen here at the cancer institute," explained Deanna Hart from McLaren Cancer Institute.

The proceeds will help with transportation needs.

"Without Football for a Cure we wouldn't have the funds to purchase the gas cards to pay for private transportation," Hart added. "It would not be an option for people who don't have cars or family members or neighbors who can bring them."

The money raised during the event will also be used for nutrition products and Meijer gift cards for food for those who cannot afford groceries because they have to purchase prescriptions. Many patients can't feed their family because of medication costs.

"It is a big thing when I can present them with a gift card for them and their family," Hart explained.

The gridiron heroes trade their traditional blue and gold jerseys for baby blue and pink jerseys. Each Wolf will play for someone who has lost their battle with cancer, is currently fighting cancer or has won their battle.

For the football players it is also a big thing as they help not only loved ones but the community.

"It is showing we are still fighting for those who are still here and those who have lost their fight," added junior Jay Wright. "We are showing we haven't forgotten about them."

"It's affecting our community and everyone," said senior Michael Yates. "It is about fighting back something devastating to families."

"We are not just conquering the disease individually with large donations," added junior DJ Zezula. "We are coming together as a community to fight one cause. It's great when everyone comes together to fight one thing."

Hart added it is great to have the Wolves not play but raise money.

"It is about love for the people you are playing for," she said. "It is for their honor and their memory. Cancer does not discriminate. It affects the young and the old. It shows the community is embracing this awful disease and helping to support those who are fighting to win."

This year's event includes special guests Justin Klamerus, M.D., president and medical director of McLaren Cancer Institute; Dr. Stephen Franklin, radiation oncologist at McLaren Cancer Institute - Clarkston; and Trichia Johnston, a patient.

Football for a Cure is at Clarkston High School stadium, 6093 Flemings Lake Road. Kick off is at 7 p.m.T-shirts are available for $10. For information or to volunteer, emailClarkstonFootballforaCure@gmail.com

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

National success

BY WENDI REARDON Clarkston News Sports Writer

Blake Sutherland is ready to run on the college track after a successful spring and summer.

The 2013 Clarkston High School graduate recently ran for the Elite Performance Track & Field Club in the USATF National Junior Olympic Track & Field Championships.

His speed aided his 4x400-meter relay team. Along with lan Eriksen, Daquarius Hollis and Ty Thronson, Sutherland finished at 3:22.20.

Sutherland joined Elite this year after a college coach made a recommendation for him to join summer track.

He began running his junior year for the Clarkston Boys Track and Field team to try something new.

"I wanted a break from AAU basketball," he explained. "I ended up being good at it. The high school team introduced me to track and I got a lot of work out. Coach (John) Bennink was a really good coach to me. I learned a lot."

As a senior, he aided his 1,600-meter relay team during the MHSAA Track and Field Regionals when he finished .54 seconds ahead of Rochester Adams. The finish put the relay team in first place at 3:21.87 while breaking the school record.

He also finished in fourth at the regionals in the 400-meter dash. He set his personal best at the OAA Red League meet in the event in 50.44.

Sutherland is running track with Michigan State University as a preferred walk on. He added running for Elite will help for the next level.

"It was eye opening for how fast and what level I will be running," he said. "I just need to keep working hard."

He will study kinesiology and plans to either become a sports chiropractor, personal trainer or something else in the athletic field.

He explained athletics has been a big part of his life adding, "athletics taught me and made me who I am today."

His advice to aspiring athletes is not to limit themselves.

"The only limitations you have are the ones you set for yourself," he added.

Matt Boczar puts the ball into place for the kicker.

Wolves kick off for new season

Rain on Monday morning wasn't going to slow the Wolves from the football programs down as they hit the field for the first practice of the season.

The freshman and JV football teams host their home opener on Aug. 29 against Rochester Adams. Freshman starts at 4:30 p.m. The varsity team heads to Rochester Adams on Aug. 30 for their season opener, 7 p.m.

But you don't have to wait until then to see the boys in action. Join them this Saturday for their intrasquad scrimmage as they host their fifth annual Football for a Cure. It starts at 7 p.m.

Look for our Gridiron section in the Aug. 28 edition of The Clarkston News, featuring football, marching band, cheer and dance.

Golf outing for Marines

"John asked if we could work together to raise money for Marines," Yousif said. "It took five minutes and all of us were in."

"It's their biggest ceremony of the year,' Dean said.

Funding it themselves would cost each Marine about $500, said Holycross. "They can't afford that," he said. "We decided to try to come together as a community and drum up support."

The community has come through, signing up for the outing and corporate providing sponsorships.

"People want to give back," Holycross said. "The response we get is, it's a great idea. Our goal when starting was 18 in the first year. We made that easily.'

"It's been an amazing turn out by the community." Yousif said. "When we ask if they want to help the Marines, they want to do that. This is exciting."

A $2,000 donation by Investment Professionals for Charity kicked off the effort.

"It was the spark," Yousif said. "The investment community is deep rooted. entrepreneurial, and we like to give back."

> "Our colleagues want to give back as well," Holycross said.

"The Marine Corps has been downsized from 220,000 to 180,000 but their mission has expanded," Dean said. "It's a lot of sacrifice. They serve without complaint. This is us giving back."

The Marines' tradition of celebrating their founding is on Nov. 10 of each year. The birthday ball at Marine Recruitment Detroit will be on Nov. 9.

Landscaping tips from Tom

Landscape Pricing Better in Fall

Fall planted lawns, shrubs, perennials and trees establish a strong for hold before winter. Now through the end of October is the perfect time in Southeast Michigan to refresh your lawn and landscaping. Use the tips below to enjoy your yard now and next year:

Plant, Plant mums, sedum and ornamental grasses. They add color and interest now and will be well established come spring time. Strategically plant trees or flowering shrubs keeping maturity size in mind. Plant evergreens to provide color and protection for wildlife. Plant spring flowering bulbs now and enjoy them in next year.

Transplant. Now is a good time to transplant deciduous trees and shrubs as there will be less trauma during this season of dormancy. Prune while flowering trees and shrubs are dormant.

Mulch. A layer of mulch will provide a boost of color now and extra protection for your plants during the winter months. Freezing and thawing can break roots or even push new plantings out of the ground.

Weed, seed & fertilize. Remove weeds now to eliminate literally thousands of weed seeds next spring. Fertilize with high phosphorus, low nitrogen. Spot seed bare areas of your lawn. Maybe give your lawn one last trim, about 1 ½ inches is ideal.

Remove leaves. Rake and remove leaves to help your lawn come back strong next spring. If you can, shred them and use them as free mulch in appropriate areas.

Desian. Fall is a great time to hire a landscape contractor for two reasons. The leaves are down so it is easy for a landscape designer to see what is really happening and it's almost the off season so they'll negotiate on price.

Yes, I am in negotiating mode, Call me!

Positive coping skills equal resilience

Part 3 in a series on positive coping skills: BYANDREAM.BEAUDOIN Clarkston News Staff Writer

Possessing positive coping skills are said to make you resilient.

Using negative coping skills can make difficult challenges worse. Practicing positive coping skills can ease tension in stressful situations, and help face a problem in the most productive and healthy way possible.

Coping skills is the way a person handles an adverse situation. Negative coping skills includes things like avoidance of feelings or situations, withdraw, denying there is a problem, eating disorders, substance abuse, overspending and having a negative or critical attitude.

Negative coping skills are often used to avoid the real problem, and often makes it worse.

Good coping skills promote the ability of the body and mind to handle stress in healthy ways.

Dr. Donald Deering, vice president of Oakland Psychiatric Associates in Clarkston, said without positive coping skills we lose ourselves.

"We lose balance, boundaries and control," he said. "If we don't feel like we have control over most of the facets in our lives, we start to feel stressed out and we quickly lose perspective and react rather than respond with thought."

When facing a crisis, or recovering from one, positive coping skills can make all the difference in the quality of life.

"People have to believe there is a better way to live. Much of life and how we experience it is how we choose to. You can choose to look at the negative and try to avoid it, or you can choose to look at the positive and work toward it. The happiest people on the planet choose the ladder as a way of life," said Deering.

Using positive coping skills can be fun and healthy to both the mind and spirit and leads to increased production, greater happiness, clearer goals and a healthier lifestyle.

No matter what is happening in your life you must make a decision to take on challenges with a positive attitude.

⁶Once you have made a decision to make it a great day, you must be present for it, and live in the moment," said Deering.

And don't let past mistakes weigh you down.

"I like to tell people to mindful of the past, but live in the present, while preparing for the future. There is nothing wrong with making mistakes," he said. "The key is to not make the

and the second state of th same mistakes over and over."

Mistakes happen, but inner peace and strength is found in acceptance and realizing everyone makes mistakes. Being strong and being able to face tough situations sometimes means forgiving not only others, but also yourself.

Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) Coach Bob Browy said it's important to practice the art of saying no, so that you don't get overwhelmed and cause yourself more stress.

Deering agrees with Browy and said most people facing mental health related issues often lack balance and boundaries in their lives.

all granted and

"Don't allow yourself to get overbooked and say yes to everyone who wants your time and attention," he said. "Learn to say no. You must learn to put your needs first, while remaining mindful of others' needs as well. If we are last in line to get our needs met all the time, we will simply run out of energy, drive, ambition, hope, health and happiness."

Setting boundaries, making time for yourself and paying attention to your physical health is important to be able to handle stress. Exercise, like Yoga, is a great way to make time for yourself and help your body feel calmer.

Susan Stencil, owner of Clarkston Hot Yoga, said taking an hour out of your day to practice relaxation techniques like Yoga can make a world of difference in your life.

Stencil said yoga gives your brain a one hour period to sort of shut down, and be at peace from thousands of racing thoughts. "It just makes you feel better all around," she said.

She added that the one hour can make a big difference in everyday life by enhancing mental clarity and inner peacefulness-which in turn helps someone deal with problems more efficiently.

Practicing healthy coping skills is like using a muscle. The more you do it, the stronger the ability gets, and the more likely it is the behavior will become habit.

Accomplishing more work, getting to work on time, finishing projects and having more time for yourself-are a few of the challenges faced by people afflicted with Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) or Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD).

Bob Browy of Clarkston helps people overcome ADD/ADHD challenges. He said there are different types of the disorder, like ADD or AHDH, but fall under the same umbrella. Both types are present in biological makeup and often runs in families.

One tip he offers people who are faced with ADHD is the practicing the Art of Saying "No."

"People with ADHD tend to over commit themselves and say "yes" to everything. That creates a situation where they can't be successful, so one of the things we work on is making sure you are doing what you want to be doing and not taking on too much," he said.

Another trait common in ADHD is procrastination. People with ADD/ADHD are easily distracted.

"Even getting started on a project may seem tough," he said.

A pattern soon follows where a person feels like they can't do it right, so they don't want to even start. To succeed, they need to break down big goals, and not get overwhelmed by not knowing where to begin.

"Completing a project is a problem for people with ADHD," he said."The big picture seems overwhelming to them."

The news isn't all bad for people with the disorder, and there are positive traits when it comes to having ADHD.

Browy said many people in creative fields like writers or comedians have it.

"They excel at deadlines although they may procrastinate before a deadline-when it comes to crunch time people with ADHD seems to be able to block distractions and have a laser like focus to get a job done," he said

New author pens tale of two puppies

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor When first-time author Martha Swanson of Clarkston decided who her main characters should be, she found inspiration in furry friends Milly and Roxy, frolicking at her feet. Milly, a 2-year-old Australian shepherd mixed breed, is owned by Swanson's daughter

Chloe, a Sashabaw Middle School student. Roxy, a 1-year-old miniature Australian shepherd, is owned by her friend, Tracey Trim. Milly was a puppy when Trim adopted Roxy, and the two pups became best friends.

"They hang out together, so I thought maybe it could be about Milly and Roxy," Swanson said. "I've always wanted to write a children's book. I wanted a family connection, and I thought it would be neat to set the book in downtown Clarkston."

The dogs' adventures in the book "Milly and Roxy," are based on the real deal, especially personality wise.

"Milly is the more rambunctious of the two, and Roxy follows along," Swanson said.

The literary pups sit in front of the Woodshop as their owners lunch on barbecue, and enjoy visits to Depot Park to play with the ducks and enjoy Art in the Park, just as they do in real life.

On the page, however, Milly gets to skate on rollerblades, to the disapproval of her friend Roxy; go down a slide, even though Roxy doesn't think that's such a good idea; and paint a portrait of her puppy friend - all whimsically illustrated by Meagan Lipke, an art teacher at Sashabaw Middle School.

"I love it," said Trim, who has helped with the writing process.

"She was a big part of editing," Swanson said.

The book is set to print on Aug. 19. The author, along with illustrator Lipke, are planning to be at Taste of Clarkston, Sept. 15, and Art in the Village, Sept. 21-22.

Original art featuring Milly and Roxy will be for sale at the art show, and children will also have the opportunity to meet the author and dogs, and color with the illustrator.

Future volumes of "Milly and Roxy" may include summer and winter adventures in Michigan, the author said.

Wed., August 14, 2013 The Clarkston (MI) News 21A City plans $2,500 in renovations

Clarkston plans to clean up and renovate City Hall's office and Department of Public Works (DPW) garage.

"One of the primary concerns of the office staff, when I interviewed them after I was hired, was the condition of the office. Together we worked out a new floor plan and a procedure to clear the office of all outdated material." said City Manager Carol Eberhardt.

In addition to cleaning out records, Eberhardt said the staff will follow State of Michigan retention policy to clear City Hall of outdated records no longer valid or accurate. The office will also be painted with paint donated by from former City Manager Dennis Ritter. Eberhardt estimates the cost of renovations will be $2,500.

City Council approved the project, Aug. 12, with Councilman Richard Bisio voting "no."

Clarkston resident Cory Johnston said there are better uses for the money, such as providing citizens better access to information.

"Information is still not available on the city web site even though thousands of dollars are paid out every year to keep it operating," he said. – Andrea Beaudoin

The series wraps up on May 14 with Clint Van Zandt, hostage negotiator with the FBI for 25 years, including the Branch Davidian siege with David Koresh in Waco, Texas, in 1993.

"Clint is new to the lecture circuit - we're excited to have him," Hahn said.

Each lecture includes a luncheon, said Peggy Combs of Waterford, luncheon chairman.

"We have a diversity of selections to meet everybody's tastes," Combs said.

"We encourage everyone to stay for lunch and the question-and-answer session with the speaker after lunch," Hahn said.

Lectures start at 10:30 a.m. at the St. George Cultural Center, 43816 Woodward Avenue in Bloomfield Hills, Admission is $145 for all four lectures and lunches; $40 per lecture and lunch; and $25 lecture only.

Kelly Rickabus of Metamora, 51, recently bought Anytime Fitness in Springfield Township, her second Anytime Fitness location.

'The response has been great," Rickabus said. "It's awesome - I'm lucky to have such as amazing staff at both of them. It's great to be around such positive people. It's fun."

Her fitness business began eight years ago as a personal journey to become healthier and lose weight.

"My doctor told me I had high blood pressure, high cholesterol, other health issues," she said. "That made me want to do something about it. The kids were grown, so it was time to take care of me."

She started eating better, and signed up with a trainer in Clarkston to help her exercise. "I needed help with motivation," she said.

The effort was a success, and she lost 60 pounds. The trainer was so effective, she decided to become one herself. She was certified in it in 2007, and joined Anytime Fitness in Oxford as a trainer in 2008. She was promoted to manager, and bought it a year ago. She bought the Anytime Fitness in Springfield Township last month.

Her goals are to build membership with new classes and equipment, including spinning, strength and agility and other youth programs, one-on-one training, and classes for seniors.

Kelly Rickabus is the new owner of Anytime Fitness in Springfield Township.

"It's all about providing what members need in a clean, family friendly facility," she said. "It's all about lifting people up and inspiring them to be healthy.

She also joined Dixie Highway North and Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, and sponsors local competitive body builders. athletes, and school events.

For the month of August, join for $10 down, first 30 days free with minimum 12 month committment.

Free chips, hot dogs and nachos were provided courteously of the Clarkston Area Optimist Club from 12-1 p.m.

The Beach Bash included plenty of sunshine, fun in the sand and water and free games and prizes.

"This is our first year, but we are hoping it continues," said Deer Lake Beach Director Ryan Breen. Mueva Fitness offered free Zumba classes throughout the party.

Joan Patterson, president of the Clarkston Optimists, said she is also hoping the event will become an annual one. She added this year, the club held the party to celebrate $25,000 in grants to fund programs and improvements at the beach.

Patterson said the group is also considering other projects at the beach like installing a boardwalk so visitors can more easily walk across the sand. –Andrea Beaudoin

Via Bologna, Best of the Best Italian in town

Danny Bologna welcomes customers to visit Via Bologna, voted Best Italian Restaurant in Clarkston.

Via Bologna is a cozy Italian restaurant situated at the southeast corner of Dixie Hwy. and White Lake.

When you first walk in, on the left you'll notice a colorful hand painted mural of Venice. To the right, the 14 table white tablecloth dining room. Straight ahead, a small 6 stool bar.

It's homey hospitable atmosphere makes it a great choice for your weekly night out or that special occasion you wish to celebrate.

The restaurant features traditional Italian dishes using only fresh ingredients and homemade sauces.

Chef Mike Miller has been working for the Bologna family since Joe Bologna opened this location in 1996. I would highly recommend ordering one of Chef Mikes nightly dinner specials.

A large part of the menu is dedicated to wine. If owner Danny Bologna isn't fooling around in the kitchen, he is probably helping at his uncle's winery in Traverse City. His passion for wine has morphed into a pretty eclectic wine list for his guests to choose from.

"I am running out of space to store it all and cases are filtering into the lobby," said Danny.

To start I would recommend their calamari ($10). Rings, lightly breaded with sautéed onions and banana peppers in a lemon wine sauce.

Other great starter options include homemade Meatballs ($7) topped with tomato basil sauce and baked with mozzarella and Artichokes Toscana ($10) which are artichokes dipped in a parmesan egg batter, pan fried and served over a delightful lemon caper sauce.

Nonna always said the secret is in the sauce and they have some savory old world sauces. I enjoyed the fresh pappardelle pasta with their famous Bolognese meat sauce. The sauce is made from california Stanislus tomatoes, a blend of ground beef and pork, miroix, butter, e.v.o., house seasonings and herbs. Their Lasagna Bolognese ($15) is also award winning, made with layers of pasta, seasoned spinach ricotta, ground meats and, of course, Bolognese meat sauce.

For entrees I suggest Traverse City Chicken ($18). It might not be very Italian but it is heavenly. It is made from almond breaded chicken, topped with sautéed button mushrooms, Michigan dried cherries and a cherry brandy cream sauce. The Chicken Parmesan ($19) is made in the traditional method, lightly breaded, topped with tomato basil sauce and baked cheese. They also offer tender veal options ($19-$22) such as picatta and marsala.

I suggest finishing with Tiramisu ($6) which is served in a wine glass. It's made with angel finger cookies dipped in espresso brandy, layered with a sweet mascarpone cheese and cocoa. Via Bologna also has pipped to order Cannoli's ($1.25-$3) made with cinnamon-chocolate cream and dipped in toasted walnuts.

Thank you for voting Via Bologna as your favorite Italian restaurant in Clarkston. For Dinner, Carry Out and Catering menu's please visit www.joebologna.com.

En Gedi helps patients work through issues

Jon Richey, MA, of En Gedi Counseling, PLLC, earned the Best of the Best award for Counseling.

"I feel honored," Richey said. "It shows people have confidence in me, and sends a message that I must be doing something right."

As a licensed professional counselor, he helps clients through difficult issues. For teens, issues include Oppositional Defiant Disorder, substance abuse, ADHD, and, increasingly, video game addiction.

"That's new - there's not a lot of research in the area," he said.

For adults, many mental health issues stem from anxiety.

"Everything is anxiety related somehow," he said. "Teens and adults have so much more pressure today than 30 years ago, from higher expectations society has in general."

To help, he starts by building trust through rapport, he said.

"Very few clients come in and start sharing right away, especially teenagers," he said. "Teenagers are my favorite population to work with. They're very straightforward. If they don't like you, they'll tell you."

High-tech care at Advanced PetCare

Honored with Best of the Best in Veterinary Care for six years in a row, Advanced PetCare of Oakland credits its staff and clientele.

"This is the best staff we've ever had," said Dr. Bryan Cornwall, owner.

Fellow Dr. Jill Sheldon and staff go above and beyond in the care and treatment of pets. Technician Linda Stanbridge created a weight loss program for pets this year, winning a national award.

"It's very popular - people love it," Dr. Cornwall said. "Being overweight is one of biggest diseases for dogs."

They offer specialized and personal care for their patients, with new diagnostic equipment including digital x-ray and color Doppler ultrasound. The technology provides vital information on patients in seconds.

"The information pops up on the computer in 10 seconds. We can pull it up in the examination room to show pet owners, then download it and send it home with them," said Dr. Cornwall

It used to take up to half an hour, he said. "Our aim is to treat each patient individually," he said. "Just like people aren't the same, dogs and cats are all different."

Service to the community and education are also priorities. He and Dr. Sheldon keep up with the latest information on diagnosis and treatment, attending national veterinary conferences every year.

Community work includes the Advanced PetCare Angel Fund for pet owners who need help. A recent dog wash raised $650 in donations in three hours for the charity.

"That's great. It saves a lot of lives," he said. "Kudos to the community for that."

6 Wed., August 14, 2013 The Clarkston News/Penny Stretcher Best of the Best Section Healthcare stays personal with Clarkston Medical Group

I am very excited to be voted as the "Best of the Best" this year.

I believe people like to be recognized for their hard work and I guess I'm no different. It's actually a little awkward though to be singled out from my colleagues as I know everyone in our group deserves recognition, each contributing with our own areas of expertise.

The sum of our practice can't be attributed to any one of us, but as a group I think we do a really nice job. My partners Dean Moscovic, Renny Abraham and I have worked diligently to build upon the legacy that my father created and take great pride in the team we've built.

Even though medicine continues to evolve we've done our best to adapt while making sure to keep our focus on our patients and their needs.

As primary care physicians we are invited into peoples' lives in a very personal and important way that is actually difficult to put into words. Seeing children grow up, people become ill, or even just working with someone to fine tune their health has an effect on you that can be very humbling.

Having the chance to practice and live in the town where I grew up makes it even better. I've been entrusted with the health of family and friends as well as their parents, children, and siblings. At it's heart, Clarkston remains a small town and the opportunity to practice here shields us from many of the ugly aspects of medicine that happen in the large health systems overtaking some areas of the country.

By staying independent we can adapt to the specific needs of our patients and not be handcuffed by bureaucracy.

It's funny because when you peel away the insurance headaches, electronic health records, and paperwork, the actual fun part of medicine, taking care of people, hasn't changed all that much over the years.

It's still a great profession and I know I'm privileged to be able to practice.

I assure you we will remain committed to serving our community for many years to come and continue to earn your trust.

On behalf of our entire group I happily accept this year's "Best of the Best" Family Physician award!

Thank You. Tim O'Neill D.O.

Clarkston Hot Yoga and Fitness Studio is not only celebrating their third anniversary in the community, but being voted Best of the Best Yoga for three consecutive years.

"I thank everyone for continuing to have the confidence in me to be able to have this business and this studio," said Susan Stencil, owner and director. "It continues to be a confirmation I am in a great community and lucky to have a great location. Being in a close-knit community has given me the opportunity to meet so many people and I've made some great friends in the past three years."

She added being voted the best by the community means so much to her and the staff.

"My husband Dan and I love this community. We love living here," she smiled. "I love the fact I can offer something to people that will make them feel better and make them healthier. It is definitely a dream come true."

Stencil explained one of the reasons Clarkston Hot Yoga continues to be the best in the community is because of the teachers.

"We have some of the most amazing teachers," she said. "It's those teachers people get to like, get to know and come back for."

Another reason is the diversity of classes. They began with only offering hot yoga and Genisys Credit Union, which provides services to anyone who lives or works in the Lower Peninsula, is honored to be recognized by our members and the communities we serve as the "Best of the Best."

"Thank you to everyone who voted for making this award possible," said Jackie Buchanan, President/CEO. "Credit Unions were formed on the basis of 'people helping people', so it's a privilege to be recognized for something that we strive to accomplish daily. We will continue to provide excellent quality service to the community."

Genisys is a not-for-profit, member-owned financial institution that has been committed to helping its members financially since 1936. In addition to their physical locations, Genisys provides members with 24/7 access to their accounts through an extensive list of electronic conveniences. In December, they introduced a totally new online banking system. The new system is simplified and more convenient for members, and has been equipped with online check deposit as well as powerful budgeting tools for members looking to take their finances to the next level. The new online banking system has the ability to analyze members' daily, weekly, monthly, and annual spending habits. It can also provide information to help them create a budget. Genisys is very excited to offer this great tool and hopes it will help members strengthen their finances.

However, online banking is only one of the many online conveniences Genisys Credit Union has to offer its members. With smart phones becoming increasingly popular, Genisys developed and released an enhanced mobile application for iPhone & Android devices. Members can download the app from iTunes or the Google Play Store for free and manage their account on the go. Qualified users can also deposit checks using their mobile device.

Additionally, members may open new accounts, renew Certificates, set eAlerts, pay bills and much more online. All Debit MasterCards® issued are automatically enrolled in their Genisys Rewards program, where members earn points that are redeemable for travel, merchandise, gift cards and more, when they swipe and sign for purchases. Genisys Debit MasterCard® purchases now also have many extra benefits, which include extended warranty insurance, price protection and satisfaction guaranteed! With so many different options, there's a convenience to fit every lifestyle.

"Our goal is to provide members with products and services that make their lives easier," said Jackie Buchanan, President/CEO. "Being able to manage their Genisys accounts from a mobile phone or a home computer helps them save both time and money."

Genisys also offers comprehensive business solutions including full lending services, credit cards, checking accounts, merchant processing, and more for small to midsize businesses in Michigan.

Genisys continues to be committed to giving back to the community, which shows in their sponsorship of over 275 events. In 2012, Genisys staff and family members volunteered nearly 4,000 hours of service to the community.

"Genisys Credit Union realizes the importance of giving back," said Buchanan. "Instilling this value into our younger members will make our community a much better place to live."

Memories for life with Winship Studio

With 44 years of capturing Clarkston memories with school pictures, first communions, senior portraits, homecomings and proms, weddings, and family portraits, Winship Studio is the Best of the Best Photographer. It's an honor they've earned six years in a row.

"I love it-l love working with people and keeping up with everything going on," said Kevin Winship, owner. "Working with teens keeps me young."

The photography business has faced many changes over the years, and Winship's has kept up with all of them. Wallet-sized prints have been replaced by cell phone screens and social media, a change Winship's embraces.

"We put their images on disk so they can post them on Facebook and share with friends – we use that as an advertising tool," he said.

Winship Studio has specialized lighting, camera equipment, and computer technology to produce images most people can't capture on their own cameras and phones.

"There is an element you can't get on home equipment," Winship said. "We believe in offering a high quality product at more than a fair price."

When he started shooting senior photographs in 1986, subjects usually sat in front of a painted backdrop. Now, teens like their photos outdoors or on an interior set. Popular outdoor locations include downtown Clarkston, train depot, and local parks.

Studio sets, 11 of them, include a New Orleans scene, fire escape, barn, log cabin, locker room, flower garden, and oak den. For ideas, he keeps up with fashion magazines such as Glamour, Vogue, and GQ, as well as People and other celebrity publications.

Instead of proofs, he includes a custom book showing all the pose selections in every package, as well as a free family portrait. Each page in the book is personalized based on the senior's interests, like a scrapbook.

"Scrapbooking has become more popular – this has that look," Winship said. "If you are looking for something different and unique, Winship Studio has that to offer. Who you are matters as much to us as what you look like."

Family photo sessions have also changed over the years. Instead of seated or standing in front of a painted backdrop, families also enjoy posing outdoors or in the studio.

"The log cabin is the most popular one for that," he said.

For more information, call Winship Studio, 7138 North Main Street, at 248-625-2825 or check www.winshipstudio.com.

Having served the Clarkston Community since 1998, Lil' Peoples' Place is a name you can trust in child care.

We are privately owned by Clarkston residents Sharlene Butler and Adli Dasuqi and have the most experienced and loving staff available. Our Director, Erin Wolford; Assistant Director, Nancy Morgan, and Business Manager, Beck Miller, have all been with the center for more than 13 years and have lived in the community.

Most of our enrollment is based on referrals from parents past and present. Lil' Peoples' Place makes it a point to keep our name in the community by offering our current parents incentives for their referrals.

We continue to offer the greatest quality care with our excellent staff and our fully equipped and modern facility.

We believe our customers should be most excited about finding a facility that is like family. Our children have grown up with the staff here. About half of our staff has been employed with us for five years or more and some as many as ten years.

It is our goal to provide security and peace of mind to parents by offering a consistent and loving atmosphere.

"I like the fish and chips, and the sweet potato fries are awesome," said Kaye, a regular customer for the past couple years. "We drive quite a ways to come here."

"It's worth it," Harry said. "Everything they do here is exceptionally good, it really is."

"It's very homey. They have delicious food, like all their different wraps," said Carol Young, who was there with her granddaughter, Tabitha. "They make them just the way I like them, with just enough inside --they're not sloppy. This one is just perfect."

A long-time customer, she enjoys bringing her family and friends to the Dixie Highway restaurant.

"Everyone's friendly. They always greet customers when they come in," Young said. "It's just a nice place to come and have dinner."

TJ Watson often recommends the restaurant to friends and coworkers, and they always come back and say the food was great.

Community is key at Clarkston State Bank are "out-of-state" banks, one local financial institution stands out from the pack. It is a surprise to none, that once again Clarkston State Bank has been voted "Best of the Best" by residents of this community.

It's no surprise because, at its core, CSB is a community bank.

"When our customers come in, they're greeted with smiles. We know their names. When somebody calls on the phone, they talk to a person, not a recorded voice," Smith said. "If they have a concern, they can come in and sit down with us and we'll work it out. We're a community bank."

Smith and the bank's directors have strong feelings about community banking. They believe a community with its own bank has an economic leg up on those that do not. "Community banks help build and grow communities," Smith said.

CSB offers customers services offered by bigger banks. Smith said a large part of their customer base is comprised of small business. CSB offers electronic banking, payroll and collection services and on-line management. He also asks the local busi-

For personal banking, CSB offers classic checking, electronic checking, interest bearing checking accounts; money market accounts and standard savings accounts. Their CD options are at competitive market rates. There is a term and CD for every customer.

While bigger banks recently accepted Federal bailouts, Smith takes pride that CSB was able to weather the economic storm on their own. "The board had a clear vision and strong business plan that we were able to carry out," he said. "We are now in our first full year of recovery and I am very appreciative of the board, our staff and the community who stood with us when things got tight.'

Oakland County Sportsmen's Club earns Best Fish Fry

For the fifth consecutive year the Best Fish Fry award goes to Oakland County Sportsmen's Club for their tasty fish fry many look forward to every Friday.

"For us it means we are doing things right," said Manager Daniel Stiff. "We pay attention to detail of the food preparation and presentation. We also offer quality food at a reasonable price."

The fish fry starts with the North Atlantic cod, with the option of fried or baked. The cod is caught wild and delivered every week. The difference with wild caught-it is more natural, Stiff added.

It also includes combread, cole slaw, rolls and a vegetable of the day-all prepared fresh by volunteers at the club. If not in the mood for fish, they also have fried chicken.

Each week the crew starts prepping early in the morning for the fish fry. Every week a different sub-club under the Oakland County Sportsman's Club come in and support it, said Stiff.

The local junior clubs as well as their local sponsored Boy Scout Troop 185 come in to help with bussing and bake sales.

He added it isn't about receiving a delicious and good fish fry, people also receive a nice relaxed atmosphere.

"It gives you a different atmosphere," said Club President Terry Ondusky. "It gives you a change from going to a restaurant or cooking at home. It's as home cooked as you can get without being in your own kitchen."

They also have a ton of seating with areas in the main hall, bar area and the popular porch area, which patrons take advantage of on a gorgeous Michigan Day. "You can enjoy the view as well as well as have a fresh and delicious dinner on our patio," he smiled. "It is a good all around gathering for friends. You don't have to worry about seating problems or wait lists." Another perk is the location. Oakland County Sportsman's Club is located right off Dixie Highway, making it a convenient spot after finishing an activity or on the way home.

Plus, if in a hurry just to pick something up on the way home-their fish dinner and bucket of chicken is available for carry-out.

"To the people who voted for us, you are obviously a good judge in taste," Ondusky said. "We are grateful for you taking the time to vote for us. Again it is a sign they like what they get here and the service that is offered here."

He also welcomes anyone enjoying the fish fry to grab a member if they are curious about the club and activities offered at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

"Hope to see you around the club," he said.

The doors open at 5:30 p.m. for the Friday Fish Fry. The club also has carry-out available, fish dinner, $8; and a bucket of chicken, $9.

Oakland County Sportsmen's Club also welcomes visitors to come on in and grab a burger and beer for $5, or come in and take a tour of the club every Saturday beginning at 11 a.m

Top customer service key to Morgan's success

The Best Auto Mechanics can be found in downtown Clarkston at Morgan's Service, 28 S. Main Street.

"Thank you," owner Scott McIntyre smiled. "It's greatly appreciated. It is a confirmation we are doing things the right way. We appreciate the support. It's nice to know our customers see us in a positive light."

For 81 years their customer service continues to make them standout to the community, Scott explained.

"Customers are the most important aspect," he added. "We try to help people out as much as possible. Our customers get to talk to the mechanic working on their vehicle. They talk to me or one of the mechanics. Either way you are talking to the person who is fixing your car."

To them it is important and it gets rid of the middle man. You can explain the sounds you are hearing and how your vehicle feels differently and the message doesn't change in communication.

"It creates a closer bond with our customers and lets them know we care," Scott said.

Scott and his wife took over ownership of Morgan's Service on April 1, 2010. But Scott has been there for a -while as a mechanic for over 18 years.

Scott and the staff invite the community to give them a try if they have never stopped by before.
