Clarkston was tasty!

BY ANDREA BEAUDOIN

A rainy day didn't stop visitors from filling the streets of downtown Clarkston during the 16th Annual Taste of Clarkston.

"What a fun Taste of Clarkston," said City of Clarkston Manager Carol Eberhardt. "It just goes to show you a little rain can't dampen an amazing event."

Restaurants served up a multitude of specialty dishes and unique cuisines during the Sunday, Sept. 15 downtown party.

"This is an amazing community event every year," said Gabe Green, waiter at the Union Woodshop, as he served up tons of pork sliders.

Visitors purchased individual tickets for $1 and each of the 38 restaurants served up dishes requiring a varying amount of tickets. Participating restaurants get profit sharing for their participation.

Every kind of food imaginable was on the menus from pizza, to pulled pork sliders, salads, smoothies, dips, burgers, mac n' cheese, shrimp kabobs, sandwiches, smoothies and much more.

Tons of local restaurants and several from nearby communities also participated. Vendors also lined the downtown streets offering discounts, deals and freebies.

"I love Clarkston because of this event," smiled Katherine Shroul who had several family members from out of town join in the fun. "I have not seen the crowd diminish because of the rain."

Depending on who was asked, everyone had a different favorite dish, but all praised Clarkston for hosting such a great party.

"This is my first time to the event, and I love it," said Arlene Thorton of the festival. "I love trying all the brand new foods from different restaurants."

Downtown heritage attracts conference

BY ANDREA BEAUDOIN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Community leaders from throughout Oakland County converged on Clarkston, Sept. 13, to learn from the city's downtown success.

"Downtown Clarkston is a great place," said Bret Rasegan, Oakland County planning supervisor. "The community is what we feel is important to maintain quality of life in Oakland County."

Rasegan said Clarkston was chosen for the Oakland County Heritage Conference on Managing Success due to its great downtown area.

Longtime Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson kicked off the 16th annual event and welcomed visitors to Clarkston after registration and a continental breakfast at The Clarkston Union.

After breakfast, several speakers took to the podium to address attendees including Scott Day from Urban Development Services who gave a keynote speech called "Too Successful to Succeed."

City Manager Carol Eberhardt also addressed a room full of participants at the Clarkston Union and spoke about what makes Clarkston successful.

"I'd guess you'd say our history. Perhaps it's our architecture, our streets of beautifully maintained homes and downtown shopping district. Add to the mix our Mill Pond and park, the gardens the planters. Visually we are beautiful."

"Literally 100's of volunteers work year-round to ensure the quality of life is vital and thriving," said Eberhardt.

Several educational and informative sessions and tours took place throughout the day.

County visitors seek new ideas

Sessions included managing traffic congestion, trout streams in southern Michigan, Woodward Dream Cruise, and Flint Farmers Market.

Before a noon lunch at the Clarkston Woodshop, visitors chose between a haunted history tour of Clarkston or learning about the many historic buildings in the community.

Cara Catalo of the Clarkston's Historic District Commission spoke about several downtown buildings included in the tour. One of those buildings included the Union, which was the oldest church building in town.

It always brought the community together, and that's why the restaurant and bar it is now is called "The Union," said Catalo.

Attendee Bruce Parkinson from the Oakland Township Historic District Commission said he came to the conference to learn how he can create a sense of place in his community.

"I also came to look for new ideas and to help bring people into the community," he said.

Elizabeth Iszler, who works as design manager for Wayne County Parks, said she was interested in the historic topics featured during the conference. "I am also hoping to learn how to attract people," said Iszler.

An "Afterglow" party after the conference, catered by Essence on Main, was at Clarkston Mayor Joe Luginski's house.

The event was sponsored by the Oakland County Historical Commission, Clarkston Community Historical Society, Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, Essence on Main and Oakland County Economic Development and Community Affairs.

Autumn cravings

I was craving cider.

I was really craving cider. It sounded good since I missed my opportunity last year because of my nutrition plan.

What has being with Nuview Nutrition taught me over the years? Well, what has losing 90 pounds taught me? Check the labels. As a previous sugar addict I need to check the labels.

So I checked. One tiny eight ounces of a serving is 30 grams of sugar. I didn't even check the ingredients. The numbers were enough. It is too much for a beverage.

I went over to the apples and picked up one of those to munch on instead. It would fulfill the need.

Yes, an apple has sugar, too. But I can stop at the one apple. The apple cider was in a big jug and I wasn't around a cider mill for a tiny sample. If I bought the jug of the sugary beverage I would drink all of it. Then, where would I be? A step away from a pop.

I know a little extreme on the conclusion but it could be a gateway beverage especially since I do still crave pop. Usually I know how to tackle it. The craving is being dehydrated and I need water. I don't need carbonated beverages.

As for other seasonal treats, I am doing pretty good. A Pumpkin Spice Latte from coffee places holds no appeal to me with all the additions and sugar to make it taste so good.

Plus, I was accidentally given a vanilla flavored coffee drink. My taste buds knew it instantly. It was a shock. Not a delighted shock. Then, it hit my stomach.

It is truly amazing how going without sugar for such a long period changes you. Just a bit of something with too much sugar and I feel sick.

Now if only I could make myself feel the same way with coffee. As the sugar intake has gone down the caffeine intake has gone up. You know what - everyone has their vices and as I head into another National Novel Writing Month season I am not about to quit the habit now.

What doesn't make me sick is cheesecake. I did splurge a little. I shared a tiny slice and avoided the syrup on it. So now I rub my hands together and wait for a birthday so I can have just a little piece.

My liver functions have been deemed normal. I can have a few bites.

History belies racism in statue, reader says

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to Mr. Fetzer's letter about the black lawn jockey at the Miller House ("Reader calls for removal of 'insulting' statue," Sept. 11).

I spent many years working in the race-horse industry where, as expected, there are quite a few lawn jockeys to be found. Not only at the racetracks, but out in the surrounding communities that support the races.

While black lawn jockeys are no longer the norm, I can guarantee they are around in places other than Clarkston.

I have seen several in Saratoga Springs in upstate New York. I also observed one outside a nationally known trainer's barn at Churchill Downs the week of the Kentucky Derby this year.

In fact, the first time the Derby was run in 1875, the winning horse was ridden by a black jockey and trained by a black trainer.

Thirteen of the first 15 runnings of the Kentucky Derby were won by black jockeys, who were called "the first great American sports heroes" by Edward Hotaling in his book The Great Black Jockeys.

Unfortunately, as racism and the white lawn jockey took over racing at the turn of the century, much of that history was forgotten or ignored.

The most ironic thing is that places like Saratoga Springs, NY, and Louisville, KY, are more diverse and every bit as respectful as the town of Clarkston.

Daily, hundreds of people walk by close enough to touch the jockeys, barely noticing and hardly offended. TV cameras and news reporters from all over swarm the barn area during Derby week, but none reported the supposedly offensive statue.

There are plenty of wonderful things about living in a small, quaint town, but when something that is hardly newsworthy outside of that small town can be so misconstrued, one has to wonder where the true ignorance lies.

Katie Colosimo
Independence Township

Reader vouches for statue owner's character

Dear Editor,

I wonder if the respectful, educated, as opposed to ignorant and insulting, citizens of Clarkston have gone out and purchased their tar and feathers yet.

Jim Cousens has already been told, in a letter to the editor ("Reader calls for removal of 'insulting' statue," Sept. 11), by an upstanding member of the community that "his kind" wasn't welcome here.

If you will note, the big sign in front of the house with the statue is telling about the house so it can be sold. Sold mainly because of the treatment the Cousens have received from this community and the Historical Committee. Obviously, in a historical community, Mr. Fetzer feels some markers of historical significance should not be allowed.

I have known Jim for over 55 years and having gone to school in Pontiac together, I'd bet you he was thinking only of the historical significance of the statue.

I wonder what Dr. Miller would think of all the hoopla some people in the community are creating over the house and statue he once owned.

Jennifer Stark
Clarkston

Statue not racist, not Underground Railroad either

Dear Editor,

I read with great interest the recent article regarding the local controversy over the appropriateness of a black lawn jockey sited in front of an historic home ("Statue irks but is historical," Sept. 11).

As an historian who specializes in American slavery, the Underground Railroad (UGRR) and the pursuit of freedom, I can assure you the lawn jockey statue was never used as a signal on the UGRR.

The statue was first designed and manufactured after the Civil War, making its use as a tool to guide people to freedom impossible. The myth of the lawn jockey first appears in 1951, but takes on greater importance during the 1980s with Mr. Charles Blockson's unsubstantiated claims.

A quick call to the Blockson Collection at Temple University reveals there is no primary source documentation for this story. The Cousens are like many people who own these statues - they are not racist.

They are, however, unaware of the historical and cultural context that makes the statue a painful reminder of the Jim Crow era. Mr. Fetzer is entitled to his complaint. These vestiges of our nation's discriminatory and racist past belong in museums and not on front lawns.

Floatin' down the river of de-Nile, hopin' to make folks smile

About 50 years ago we were taking our daughter Susan and her friend Laurie Davidson to our place in the Upper P.

I thought they needed some entertainment, so I started singing, "Around the corner and under the tree, a fair young maiden waited there for me.

"She kissed me once, she kissed me twice. It wasn't a very good thing to do, but boy was it nice, Boop! Boop!"

The two started giggling. They don't remember what year it was, but they still remember the ditty.

My therapist says I'm still swimming in de-Nile. I haven't given it a lot of thought, until now, but I do wonder at times why an MD referred me to a shrink.

Maybe I should re-read some of the 3,333 Jottings columns I've written.

On the other hand, this therapist got me to get back to typing. I just love writing Jottings, especially whenever a semi-entertaining thought appears.

It follows my belief that all newspapers should devote space to some grin-producing material.

I'm sure you don't mind if I quote one verse of the Serenity Prayer:

*God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change;
courage to change the things I can;
and the wisdom to know the difference.*

Retrieved from a school bulletin board:

Dear students:
I know when you're texting in class. Seriously, no one just looks down at their crotch and smiles

Sincerely, your teacher.

Recently, Detroit's PBS station Channel 56 showed three hours of advertising for public tv's two hours of programming about Johnny Carson's life from boyhood through four marriages.

Johnny was fantastic at getting laughs from kids, celebrities, all his guests and me.

I jotted down this quickie from 1993. Johnny said, "Prices are going up on everything these days. Prices of meat are so high Oscar Mayer is having his wiener reappraised."

My wild oats have turned to shredded wheat.

What is happening to our society? There is a growing divide. Some of the division should be blamed on college and university professors.

A professor at Virginia Tech wrote an article encouraging students and non-students to stop supporting our troops.

This is the reverse of our generals who spend their time teaching troops, the president and Washington committees war tactics.

This professor (and the so-called educators he represents) mocks patriotism.

Unfortunately, this campus cult is growing in number, ignoring the teachings of traditional values as they all strive for tenure.

Jim's Jottings

a column by Jim Sherman

Beauty is in the eye of the beer holder

Ah, September.

I never was really found of the month. Don't get be wrong, it's an okay span of time. My mom was born in September, and that was a good thing.. Hmm. What else? When September is given as a name to a girl, it is beautiful.

But generally, September just kinda sucks.

I never got that lyrical and dreamy song by the Brothers Four (irritatingly, though it is still in my head). "Try to remember the kind of September; When life was slow and oh, so mellow; Try to remember the kind of September; When grass was green and grain was yellow . . ."

Blah, blah, blah, was my reaction to this month (and that song).

Then something happened that changed my tune. I was introduced to the annals of Improbable Research and Ig Nobel prizes. According to IR's Marc Abrahams "Our goal is to make people laugh, then make them think. We also hope to spur people's curiosity, and to raise the question: How do you decide what's important and what's not, and what's real and what's not — in science and everywhere else?"

The Ig Nobel awards are doled out every September; this year, the awards ceremony was September 12. Prizes were given out for Medicine, Psychology, Biology and Astronomy, Safety Engineering, Physics, Chemistry, Archaeology, Peace, Probability and Public Health.

I looked forward to this year's awards, and September did not disappoint. Read on, learn a little and smile.

Psychology: A multi-continental team won for their research titled, Beauty is in the eye of the beer holder. Amazingly, they discovered that the more alcoholic drinks people consumed, the more attractive they thought they were. Who woulda thunk it?

After consuming beverages, those studied delivered a speech and rated how attractive, bright, original, and funny they thought they were. The speeches were videotaped and rated by 22 independent judges.

Oh, and if you don't believe this study . . . head to any of downtown Oxford's 9 million adult beverage saloons on any given weekend evening, watch and report back to me your findings.

Safety Engineering: An award was given to the late Gustano Pizzo, of the good ol' US of A, for inventing an electro-mechanical system to trap airplane hijackers — the system drops a hijacker through trap doors, seals him into a package, then drops the encapsulated hijacker through the airplane's specially-installed bomb bay doors, whence he parachutes to earth, where police, having been alerted by radio, await his arrival.

Sheer brilliance, if not a little sexist (can't chicks be terrorists, too?)!

Interestingly, Gustano invented the antiterrorist trap door a long time ago and filed for a US patent on Nov. 2, 1972.

Medicine: An Asian team was given the Ig Nobel for assessing the effect of listening to opera on heart transplant patients who are mice.

Don't Rush Me

A column by Don Rush

Biology & Astronomy: This joint award was given to a Euro-nation team and proves beyond a shadow of a doubt that when lost "African dung beetles orient to the starry sky to move along straight paths. The beetles do not orientate to the individual stars, but to the Milky Way . . . This led us to hypothesize that dung beetles exploit the starry sky for orientation, a feat that has, to our knowledge, never been demonstrated in an insect." And, soon they will be taking over the Earth. Exoskeletons Rule!

The Peace Prize was given to Alexander Lukashenko, president of Belarus, for making it illegal to applaud in public, AND to the Belarus State Police, for arresting a one-armed man for applauding. Don't know where Belarus is? Neither do I. I think it's a former Soviet state.

Probability: A team of brainiacs from England were awarded for making two related discoveries: First, that the longer a cow has been lying down, the more likely that cow will soon stand up; and Second, that once a cow stands up, you cannot easily predict how soon that cow will lie down again.

But, that still doesn't explain where chocolate milk comes from.

And finally, Physics: Another Euro-team won for discovering that some people would be physically capable of running across the surface of a pond — if those people and that pond were on the moon.

I hope you all feel enlightened and are feeling mellow and thankful for September. If you want more improbabilities go to www.improbable.com.

Public Safety

For Clarkston and Independence Township

Diabetic rescue

A Tuson Boulevard resident's girlfriend called 911 to help him through a diabetic emergency. The resident, 67, was on the phone with her when he started suffering distress, 5:32 p.m., Aug. 27. When a deputy and Independence Township paramedics arrived, he was unable to respond and they forced open the door. He declined hospitalization after treatment.

Harasser arrest

Employees at a Dixie Highway restaurant called police to report a man harassing employees over the phone and customers in the parking lot, 2:57 p.m., Aug. 31. Deputies found the man, a 49-year-old Independence Township resident, had numerous warrants out of Macomb County. Macomb deputies said they would pick him up.

Cigarettes swiped

A customer asked for a carton of cigarettes plus 20 additional packs from a convenience store in the 7000 block of Dixie Highway, 1:08 a.m., Sept. 1. When the clerk turned away, the man grabbed the cigarettes and fled. The suspect was a white man about 20-30 years old, maybe 6 feet tall, 150 pounds, with short brown hair, driving a small silver Ford automobile.

Theft from car

A driver left her car unlocked when doing her laundry in the 6000 block of Pear Lane, 8:55 p.m., Sept. 3, and returned to find a gas card missing.

Bike taken

Someone took a mountain bike off a back porch in the 5000 block of Fox Creek, Sept. 3.

Parking lot theft arrest

A 28-year-old Clarkston man was arrested and jailed in connection with thefts from vehicles, 6:58 p.m., Sept. 9. Oxford Township deputies were dispatched to the Parkhurst mobile home park for an area check for a man looking through windows of vehicles. Deputies located the suspect, and after running him in LEIN, discovered a valid warrant. Upon arrest, they found a bag of jewelry in the suspect's backpack, and he was interrogated regarding recent thefts from vehicles in the area.

Vehicle fire

Independence Township firefighters and sheriff's deputies put out a vehicle fire in the 5000 block of Sashabaw Road, 10:04 a.m., Sept. 11. No injuries were reported. The cause is under investigation.

Injuries in crash

A 43-year-old Independence Township man was injured when the car in which he was riding crossed the center line and hit a van, Sept. 14, on Clarkston Road east of Thistle Valley in Orion Township. The car was driven by a 45-year-old Oxford Township man. The driver of the van, a 68-year-old Orion Township man, and his passenger, a 68 year old Orion Township woman, his wife, were taken to McLaren Hospital where they were listed in serious but stable condition. The Independence Township man, two other passengers and driver were also taken to McLaren for treatment of serious injuries. Seatbelts were used by all except the rear seat passengers of the car. Alcohol and/or drugs appear to be a factor in this crash. The crash remains under investigation.

Home opener at Homecoming

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Our gridiron heroes are preparing for a big week after their 34-13 win over Rochester last Friday.

This week the Wolves are coming back to Clarkston High School stadium for their home opener and Homecoming game.

"It will be a really exciting game for all of us," said junior Jack McKillop about his first home game on the varsity team. "It will be pretty fun and all of our friends and family will be out."

Junior Shane Holler agreed and added, "it will be a lot more intense and a have a lot more hype."

Both scored touchdowns against Rochester off passes from junior quarterback DJ Zezula.

McKillop opened the game scoring on 21-yard pass from Zezula less than two minutes into the game.

"I knew if we were hitting the seam early in the game I knew I would be open," he said. "I knew and made the play."

Holler was next to put six points on the scoreboard when he caught a 9-yard pass from Zezula in the endzone with 7:16 left in the first half.

"I was on the wide side of the field and there is a lot of room for a slant," Holler added. "We played to execution and we scored."

"We came out well," said Holler. "We started out on offense very well. We stopped them on defense. We have to clean up on some of the mistakes we did have."

McKillop added they did well especially with injuries, especially with leading rusher Ian Eriksen out for the game.

Triple wins

The Clarkston Girls Swim and Dive team beat three teams in one night when they went to Lake Orion for a tri-meet.

They beat the Dragons, 111-75; Stoney Creek, 146-40; and Southfield, 161-13.

The Lady Wolves took first place in eight out of the 12 events - 200-yard medley relay; 200-yard freestyle; 200-yard IM; 50-yard freestyle; 100-yard freestyle; 500-yard freestyle; 200-yard freestyle relay and 1-meter diving.

The team remains undefeated at 5-0. The Lady Wolves host Troy this Thursday and Birmingham Groves next Thursday. Both meets begin at 6 p.m.

Battle for finals continues

"We had a great weekend in practice and everyone came out, executed their job and everyone was hungry," he said.

Rochester scored with 5:44 left in the third quarter but it didn't slow down the Wolves as they scored just over a minute later on a 32-yard touchdown pass from Zezula to Watlington.

Thirteen seconds into the last quarter Hynes attempted a 44-yard field goal but missed.

It wouldn't be long until Clarkston had possession of the ball again as senior Tim Cason intercepted a pass and turned on his heels into Rochester's endzone. He ran 25 yards on the interception return with 11:39 left in the game.

Zezula was 12-for-17 in passing for 193 yards and three touchdowns.

Junior Centrus Williams, Jr. rushed on ten carries for 46 yards and Watlington rushed on seven carries for 35 yards. Hynes was 4-for-5 for PATs and missed a 44-yard field goal.

Leading tacklers included junior D.J. Rogers with five tackles and assists; senior Blake Rehahn four tackles and two assists and one tackle with a loss of two yards; junior Adam Match had three tackles and blocked an extra point attempt.

Kurt Richardson, head coach, addressed the boys after the game and let them know they made strides during the week and it showed on the field.

McKillop agreed they did and practice leading up to the Rochester game was different.

"We did more passing," he said. "It was more up tempo practice, to get back in shape and get ready for the kind of opponents we will be facing in the future."

He added to keep the momentum going into this week against Troy Athens and weeks to come defense needs to keep doing what they are doing and bringing up the intensity each time.

"We have been hitting well the last couple of weeks and we just need all of our leadership to come together on defense," McKillop said.

Holler added they also need to focus on staying humble.

"We need to keep the intensity up," he agreed. "Don't get ahead of ourselves."

He pointed out the motivation the last few weeks has been the Rochester Adams game - the season opener which the Wolves lost.

"It really opened up our eyes to take no one for granted," Holler said. "To play 100 percent of the game."

The boys host Troy Athens. They had a 23-12 win over Pontiac last week giving them their first win of the season and 1-1 in the OAA Red.

"It will be fun to go out there and compete in front of all of our friends and fans," McKillop said.

Kickoff is 7 p.m., 6093 Flemings Lake Road.

Ruling the trails

The Wolves finished their first two events in Michigan Scholastic Cycling Association in first place.

The cyclists began with a win at Addison Oaks Fall Classic, Sept. 8.

"I was happy so many kids showed up and really did their best," said Lisa Loetzner, parent volunteer. "They really fought hard for their positions. It was a real good team effort and the team bonding was great."

Hannah Seaman finished in first place in the 11-14 Women's race.

"It was a good win for her and the team," Loetzner said.

Mason Sitar finished fourth in the varsity race, beating a Detroit Country Day racer.

"He really secured our victory," Loetzner added. "He had to fight really hard for it."

Also for varsity, Marlin Loetzner finished in eighth and Derek VanItallie finished in ninth. Liam Fries led the JV team, finishing in first. Jacob Shook took second; Aiden Keith, 15th; and Zach Keith, 16th. Aiden Fries, finished in sixth; and Tom Seaman, seventh, for the 11-14 Men's race.

Lisa explained every course is different and has unique features to it.

"Addison is not a technical course but very fast," she added. "It is very fluid and it gets difficult because of the speed you are riding."

The cyclists also finished first in the MiSCA Bloomer MTB race this past Saturday. Sitar led the varsity team, finishing in fifth as Liam finished first in the JV races and Aiden finished in second for the 11-14 Men's race.

The team meets two times a week to train and the cyclists sometimes go out on rides on their own to get more preparation in. They also have support from Kinetics Systems Bicycle, in downtown Clarkston.

The team heads to Novi on Sept. 28 for the next race. The MiSCA Championship is set for Oct. 5 in Lake Orion.

Victory in Flushing

Spikers spent Saturday going undefeated and winning the Flushing Invitational.

They beat Davison in the final game to win the tournament and to also top their sixth team for the day.

"We played really well," said Clarkston Varsity Volleyball Coach Kelly Avenall. "The team came up with some goal in terms of the overall season what they want to do. Then, they talked about what they need to do along the way."

It was the focus on their goals helping them drive past not only Davison but Carman-Ainsworth, Waterford Mott and Almont along the way.

Senior captains Brianna Frakes and Katie Chadwell led the way in serving - Frakes had 12 aces and Chadwell had ten for the day.

"We served probably the best we have all year so far," Avenall added.

Frakes also had 52 assists and Chadwell had 48 kills. Senior Melanie Aguayo had 52 digs for the day.

The Lady Wolves kept their opponents 13 points or more away from them on the scoreboard. Avenall added it gave all the players a chance to see playing time.

"Everybody played," she said. "Everybody played well. It was a good opportunity to get everybody out there and experience what it is like to play on the varsity level."

The team was home on Tuesday as they hosted a quad against Macomb Dakota, Birmingham Seaholm and Marian and headed in with a 16-4-1 record.

"Dakota is number one in the state and they have a girl who is just phenomenal," Avenall said. "We have played them already so we know what they are going to bring. It could be a good night for them if they play well and to their capability they could beat all three teams."

The girls head to Rochester Adams on Thursday for another quad meet to take on three more teams.

Avenall added Rochester Adams will be tough since they are coached by Marian's previous coach.

"He will have them in great shape," she said. "He is a great coach and I know they will give us good competition."

The strengths going in are the girls are figuring each other out and know their weaknesses and strengths. The meet at Adams begins at 5 p.m.

Wolves sink Berkley, Goodrich

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Kickers are looking forward to an exciting week as they host their Youth Soccer Night on Thursday.

"We are expecting a big crowd and have fun events planned," said Clarkston Boys Varsity Soccer Coach Curtis Payment. "It is huge for our program. We play a Holly team that has had some pretty good results. I expect a tough game."

He added it is a huge boost for the players to have kids from the community in the stands for the night.

"They all grew up going to youth night. They know how hot it is to go onto the field at half time," Payment said. "They are really fired up for it."

The boys are also fired up after going undefeated last week as they shut out two teams.

They beat Berkley on Sept. 10, 2-0. Brandon Reynolds opened the game with a shot into the low right corner of the net with an assist from Brad Schultz.

"Our ability to have good movement off the ball was the difference," said Payment. "We were really organized in that game. Berkley didn't have many opportunities. It is a tough place to play so we were happy."

The Wolves followed it with a win over Goodrich on Friday, 3-0.

"We played pretty good," said Payment, adding they had a lot of opportunities to scores and held possession of the ball.

Schultz scored on the first goal five minutes after his first attempt.

"He had just gotten robbed by the goalie," Payment said. "He wasn't mopping around. He hit another laser and that one went in. He assisted on the other goals. He has really been productive."

Alex Trim scored the second goal and Mitch McCord sealed Goodrich's fate for the night putting the third goal in.

"It was off a corner kick and it got kicked around," Payment said. "Mitch was pushed up from defense and was in a nice spot. He made a composed finish."

The Wolves fired 12 shots on the net. "Their goalie was exceptional," Payment added. "We did have a lot of pressure. He made some great saves to keep them in."

Cary Wilson recorded his third shut out in the net as he kept four shots out of Clarkston's net.

The boys hosted Troy-Athens on Tuesday in a OAA Red battle and head in with a 7-3-2 overall record and 2-0-1 in the league.

"They have been on quite a roll," Payment said going into the game. "It is huge. If we have any hope for a league title we have to win this game. If we do it will be a huge boost as we move forward."

Youth Soccer Night on Thursday begins at 5:30 p.m. with the varsity game. Kids wearing their team jersey get into the game for free. Activities include shooting on the team goalies at half time and shooters receive a free hot dog, a kids raffle and prizes.

Runners on pace for wins

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Runners finished in third place at the Chesaning Invitational last Thursday.

"We showed improvement," said Clarkston Boys Cross Country Coach Mike Taylor. "Part of it was due to weather - the temperature dropped. I was pretty happy. It was a good effort. We went up to Chesaning and it was damp and 20 degrees cooler. It made a lot of difference."

Sophomore Grant Henley led the team, finishing at 16:50.3 for fifth place.

"I was surprised at his place but pleased with his time," Taylor added. "I thought he would place higher."

Flushing won the meet with 51 points for first place. Corunna was second with 71 points; Clarkston, third, 78 points; Brandon, fourth, 94 points; and Williamston, fifth, 105 points. Birch Run, Swartz Creek, Owosso, Flint Kearsley and Flint Carman-Ainsworth rounded off the top ten.

For the Wolves, senior Nathan Heierman took tenth place at 17:05. Junior Tyler Dunn finished closely behind at 17:06 for 11th place. Sophomore Nick Paris finished in 24th; sophomore Simeon Britting, 28th; junior Jacob Dasuqi, 29th; and freshman William Eisert, 31st.

"We are improving," Taylor said. "The guys' times dropped and spirits are improving."

The boys and girls cross country teams competed in the OAA Red Jamboree on Tuesday, which was postponed from last week due to the hot weather.

They go to the second jamboree for the league next Tuesday at Stoney Creek Metro Park.

"We have an uphill climb," said Taylor. "We went to West Bloomfield and got beat by everybody. We lost some people in the season and it is going to be tough."

He added Henley has aided the Wolves and other runners will have to jump in.

"It will be a struggle this year," Taylor admitted. "The only things you can do are improve, work hard, do things right, learn how to do the sport and race in a 5K and bring times down. It is an opportunity for some of our younger guys and guys on varsity who haven't run a lot to step into that gap."

He added they will do what the can in their first meet this week and use it as they prepare for the same teams next week.

The race at Stony Creek Metropark begins at 4:30 p.m. The park is located at 4300 Main Park Drive in Shelby Township.

Vehicles with Huron-Clinton Metropark pass get into the park free. Daily passes are $5 per vehicle.

"An opportunity to compete is an opportunity to get some experience," said Taylor.

Tennis beats league foes

The Wolves only needed one more win to beat Rochester as Ian Stuart took to the court.

The win wouldn't be easy as Stuart took on not only wet weather but a few court changes.

He lost the first set against Falcons' Collin Perozich, 4-6. Then, the rain started pouring down and the decision was made to move to Lifetime Fitness where Stuart won the second match, 6-3.

"I was very pleased with Ian," said Clarkston Boys Varsity Tennis Coach Chas Claus. "He knew the pressure was on him. He knew it was make or break time."

The two moved to another court when the facility needed the one they were on and that is when Stuart sealed the win for Clarkston, 6-2. The Wolves finished with a 5-4 win over the Falcons.

"I was really glad how he stepped up with everyone from both teams watching and screaming," Claus added. "He played through it."

For singles, Alex Matiss, Matt Dahl and Alexis Haselwanger also posted wins against Rochester. For doubles teams Brendan Greenlee and Mitch Rogowski won their sets to aid in the win.

"Rochester every year is a brawl for us," Claus added. "They tend to have very good doubles. The past few years we have been strong at the top and they have been deeper. The question is that middle ground."

The Wolves also beat Lake Orion, Sept. 10, 7-2.

"It was two huge wins for us," Claus said. "They are both in our league and in our region. We circle those dates every year on the calendar. Against Lake Orion we played better from top to bottom. We were in more control of that match."

For singles, Matisse, Dahl, Stuart and Haselwanger won their sets while double teams Joey Whall and Johnny Whall; Dan Agnew and Eric Matynowski; and Greenlee and Rogowski won their sets.

"I suspect those two will be our toughest league matches," Claus said. "It gives us confidence as a team and individuals. We are building a reputation and letting people know we are for real and a force to be reckoned with."

The boys improved to 5-1-1, 2-0 OAA White. They boys host Stoney Creek on Thursday and Rochester Adams on Monday, both beginning at 4 p.m. ~WAR

Phragmites fight continues

BY ANDREAM.BEAUDOIN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new sign with information about, and the fight against, phragmites, an invasive species, was installed on White Lake Road across from Deer Lake Beach on Aug. 29.

Groups Oakland Phragmites and Invasive Species Task Force (OPIS) and Wild Ones are working to fight phragmites, an invasive plant species that chokes out wildlife and native plants and lowers property values.

The sign on White Lake Road was unveiled by OPIS, Wild Ones, City of the Village of Clarkston and Deer Lake Homeowners Association.

According to OPIS, the sign installed on Middle Lake explains how phragmites and invasive species harm property values and wildlife, and what can be done to control invasive plants.

During the unveiling of the sign, Linda Lapinski of OPIS thanked several Clarkston residents, Deer Lake property owner Elizabeth Wagner as well as NOHLC for donating the money for the informative sign which was created by Wild Ones and the Clinton River Watershed Association.

"We had a lot of help with this project," said Lapinski.

In April, PlantWise, a contractor hired by the City of the Village of Clarkston conducted a controlled burn of an area of phragmites on White Lake Road after city provided a $2500 donation to help fight the plant.

The purpose of the burn was to gain greater access to phragmites roots, sometimes 10 feet deep, so they could later be sprayed with a chemical to penetrate its roots and kill the plant.

Other communities in Oakland County have asked OPIS and Wild Ones to make presentations about the impact and control of invasive species on the environment and properties.

Lapinski expressed hope the Independence Township Board will donate funds to continue working on fighting several types of invasive species.

"A lot of communities are looking to Clarkston and Springfield to take action," said Emily Duthinh.

In the areas where phragmites were removed, the native plants in the area are expected to begin recovering next spring.

"This phragmites infestation has been here for a decade or more," said Lapinski. "It will take a few years to completely remove the phragmites and see the native plants recover."

Deer Lake Athletic Club owner Forrest Milzow hired PlantWise to spray chemicals on phragmites blocking the club's view of the road and lake.

Jim Brueck, resident and Wild Ones member, said he would like to see more business owners, like Milzow, get involved in the fight against invasive species.

"Many homeowners have gotten involved," said Brueck. "I would like to see more businesses take action too."

Jared Root, a field crew supervisor at PlantWise explained how spraying the plants near the Deer Lake Athletic Club will kill most of them off in about two weeks.

PlantWise will return to Deer Lake Athletic Club in 2014 to continue to work on destroying the phragmites.

Volunteers trade tech gear for gardening gloves

BY ANDREAM. BEAUDOIN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was a beautiful day for 25 employees from the General Motors (GM) Warren plant who visited the Clarkston Community Garden to get their hands dirty and help the community.

The 1.75-acre fenced garden is run by Independence Township Parks and Recreation, and is on seven acres of township property, donated by the McCord family.

Many volunteers and groups help run the garden. Volunteers from GM's technical center came by, Sept. 12, to dig out and install asparagus beds, pick and harvest vegetables, and spread compost. The group also helped create and install posts to grow grape vines.

Krystal Bergman, coordinator and volunteer of the Clarkston Community Garden, said the GM group worked on five projects during their one-day work session at the garden.

Bergman said four of the projects serve as the beginning of perennial crops of fruits and vegetables, and another project is for use and maintenance of recycled organic matter at the garden. Volunteers also helped pick crops in the garden.

"The projects included a grape arbor, an orchard of various fruit trees, a raised bed for growing asparagus, a raspberry patch, and redistribution of compost from active piles," said Bergman.

Asparagus beds planted this year will begin blooming next spring.

In previous years, the GM group volunteered to help Lighthouse in Clarkston and Gleaners Food Bank, but this year they wanted to help on the front lines of food gathering.

Sheri Kress, a GM employee who works at the Warren plant and lives in Clarkston, also serves as the group volunteer coordinator for her division. "We do four volunteer events a year and we usually go to Gleaners or to help a food bank, but this year we thought it would be fun to come out to the garden," she said.

The group worked from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. performing tasks and completing the projects.

Volunteer Greg Seeloff, said everyone in his group is offered a chance to volunteer and get out of the office for the day.

"I have always liked to volunteer by doing projects and good things for the community," he said.

Although most of the GM volunteers do not live in Clarkston, Gary Auten said it doesn't matter where the volunteers live, "The thing is we are all part of the same community."

Dan Glovak said working in the garden reminds him of what it's like to live off the earth.

All the food grown in the garden is donated to Lighthouse North in Clarkston and Gleaners Food bank in Pontiac.

With over 2,400 hours of volunteer work in the seven month growing season in the garden, over 11,000 pounds of food was donated to those in need in 2012.

Volunteers are welcome to just show up at the garden if they want to help from 9 a.m. until noon when the garden is open Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Supply donations are also welcome anytime needed donations include fencing, gate system, signage, organize material, greenhouse, trees and plant starts.

In addition, the garden staff sells the gardens goodies at several community events and the Clarkston Farmers Market Saturdays 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. from June 22 through October 12. The Farmers Market is located at 6595 Waldon Road in Clarkston.

For more information about the garden find them on Facebook at www.facebook.com/clarkstongarden.

HomeTown Experts Answer Your Questions Monthly

Hair Care

Shelly Kovach
Hair Stylist

Q. What is the biggest challenge that clients talk to you about when they are in your chair?

A. I'm what's called a "seasoned stylist." Which means I've been doing hair a long time! In all of years I've been serving clients the number one comment I've heard after a year is, "How can I get my hair to look like I just left the salon?"

Got Root Get Color

Mortgage

Jason Nolan
Senior Loan Officer

Q: Besides a VA loan, are there any zero-down options available to buy a home?

A: If you haven't served in the armed services, or are otherwise ineligible for VA financing, you may still qualify for zero down financing with a USDA Rural Development Loan. Like the VA loan, this loan also offers low, fixed rates. To be eligible your household income needs to be below 115% of the median income for the area you are purchasing. In Oakland County that amount is $81,650. Additionally, the property being purchased must be located in an area deemed "rural" by the US Department of Agriculture. Surprisingly, many North Oakland County areas are eligible for this program. Communities like Oxford and Holly, as well as large sections of Brandon and Springfield Township qualify. The USDA Rural Development loan offers eligible borrowers a terrific option to purchase a home with zero down and take advantage of today's low fixed interest rates.

Interior Design

Dawn Jacobs
Principal Designer
"Love where you live."

Q. What is one of the most common design mistakes you encounter?

A. One of the biggest mistakes we see is improper furniture placement. Beautiful furniture doesn't make a beautiful home if it isn't for functionality. For example, if you find yourself yelling across the room to hold a conversation, chances are, you need to bring your seating pieces closer together.

Real Estate

Christopher A. Mersino
Realtor

Q. What are "Home Warranties" and should I consider them?

A. Home warranties offer you protection for a specific period of time (e.g., one year) against potentially costly problems, like unexpected repairs on appliances or home systems which are not covered by homeowner's insurance. Warranties are becoming more popular because they offer protection during the time immediately following the purchase of a home, a time when many people have less available funding.

Falcons down on home turf

The Wolves left the field with smiles as they congratulated each other on a great effort last Friday.

The boys defeated Rochester on their home turf, 34-13.

The boost came in the first half for Clarkston as they scored three touchdowns from Jack McKillop, Shane Holler and Caine Watlington.

Another boost came when Tim Cason intercepted a Falcon's pass and hightailed it into the endzone after a 25-yard run with 11:39 left in the game.

After a being on the road for three weeks, the Wolves are home this Friday against Troy Athens, 7 p.m.

David Beedle sacks Rochester's quarterback in the second quarter.

Art fest in Depot Park

Art and antiques will fill Depot Park in downtown Clarkston for the 40th annual Art in the Village, Sept. 21 and 22. Hours for the juried show, hosted by the Clarkston Community Historical Society, are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday; and 10 a.m.-4 p.m., Sunday.

The Clarkston Union restaurant, a presenting sponsor, returns with its famous Mac & Cheese, as well as other selections from a limited menu.

Art in the Village is the historical society's main fundraiser. Proceeds go to exhibits at the Clarkston Heritage Museum, purchase and restoration of Clarkston artifacts and educational activities throughout the year.

Nearly 90 artists and artisans will offer decorative, functional, and wearable art at the event, which also features live music, children's activities, and food sold by local nonprofit organizations.

The historic society will sell doughnuts and locally pressed cider. Community organizations will also sell pizza, sandwiches, corn-on-the-cob and ice cream.

The Antique Tent will feature donated antiques and collectibles for sale. A Silent Auction Tent features items generously donated to the Historical Society by show artists.

The society also will sell shirts, bags, hats, blankets, note cards and other Clarkston merchandise. The Clarkston Farm and Garden Club returns with fresh-cut flower arrangements and mums.

For more information, call the Clarkston Heritage Museum at 248-922-0270. Smaller antique items and collectibles can be dropped off for donation at the Clarkston DPW garage near the Village offices on Friday, Sept. 20, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

'Keyhole' lawsuit dismissed

BY ANDREAM BEAUDOIN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A water-use "keyholing" lawsuit has been dismissed for now.

According to a public statement issued by Independence Township, 52-2 District Court dismissed the case without prejudice, but can be reinitiated if the township chooses.

"In the summer of 2012, members of the Deer Lake Property Owners Association (DLPOA) lodged complaints with the township concerning the docking of boats on Deer Lake by the Deer Lake Knolls," according to Independence Township Attorney Steve Joppich.

After the DLPOA complained, township officials offered to meet with the Knolls about property history and boat docking. The township couldn't confirm the Knolls' was not violating a "keyholing" ordinance and issued a citation, which the residents disputed.

Because of sketchy laws and both associations threatening to bring legal action against the township, the officials decided to resolve the issue in court.

This placed the township in a position of having to initiate proceedings against the Knolls Homeowners Association in the 52-2 District Court based on a municipal civil infraction ticket issued by the township for a violation of the township's Zoning Ordinance establishing special land use approval for boat docking by off-lake homeowners," said Joppich.

Knolls residents said the outlot in question had been used for docking watercraft for 47 years.

The homeowners also cited a study in the 1980's concluding the outlot was used as an access point for over 20 different types of watercraft on the lake.

DLPOA homeowner Fred Davis said the township should have followed laws established by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ).

He added that the Knolls should be forced to follow the ordinance and rules.

Joppich said the township filed a "Declaratory Judgment Action" to ask the court to resolve questions between the two associations.

Township officials said they filed the action to avoid more lawsuits.

Clarkston's court for homecoming

Nominees for the Clarkston High School Homecoming Court were named on Monday as the festivities for Homecoming week began.

The sophomores are represented by Nicole Hanson, Gabbie Bright, Eric Smith and Nate Gipe.

The junior class is represented by Rebecca Didion, Isaac Mansour and Jack McKillop.

The senior class representation is Amanda Hampton, Phoebe Morris, Dana Olsen, George Haight, Jim McKillop and Matt Zurek.

The prince and princesses for the sophomore and junior classes are announced Friday during the pep rally.

The king and queen is named during the football game on Friday during half time.

Amy Quayle, the high school's LEAD teacher, explained this year will be different.

The king and queen will be voted on by their classmates and peers but they will also be interviewed. The votes and how they do on the interview will determine who is crowned.

Come to the game and cheer on your gridiron heroes and this year's Homecoming Court.

Good luck to all!

Fall home maintenance list

Keeping your home in shape may not top your daily to-do list, but completing certain small seasonal tasks can save you money, time and the need to complete larger, more expensive projects in the future.

"Investing a small amount for preventative fall home maintenance can save thousands in the long run," Leah Ingram, personal finance expert, says.

Don't know where to start? The following checklist from HomeAdvisor can help homeowners prepare their homes for the cooler months:

- Clean gutters: During the year, debris such as leaves and twigs can pile in your gutter. Cleaning them once a year prevents problems such as water damage, roof damage and flooding.

- Service your furnace: A well-maintained furnace can help save on heating costs and prevent the need for repairs. Before temperatures drop, schedule your furnace to be serviced.

- Install weather stripping: As fuel and electricity costs continue to rise, keeping your home warm without wasting money and energy is important. Weather stripping your doors and windows can make a big impact.

- Winterize sprinklers: Removing all the water that's in the lines, pipes, fittings, valves, sprinklers and pumps will prevent your equipment from freezing, expanding and potentially breaking. Hire a professional to attach an air compressor to the system to blow out the water from the lines, pipes and other parts. The service is inexpensive and a professional will know the proper amount of volume and pressure to use to ensure no water is left in the system.

- Clean your chimney: Chimney maintenance is not optional. Deadly fires, carbon monoxide poisoning and expensive chimney repairs are serious consequences associated with neglected chimney maintenance. The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) recommends all fireplaces, chimneys, flues and venting systems be inspected at least once a year by a pro.

- Flush your water heater: Generally speaking, water heaters are fairly reliable, so they usually aren't top of mind. But flushing your water heater periodically can prevent leaks and promote efficiency.

"Hiring a professional for fall maintenance tasks like these is a great idea," Ingram says. "Use a resource such as Cost Guide to research the average price of a project in your zip code before hiring a pro."

To use Cost Guide and find a professional, visit www.HomeAdvisor.com. (StatePoint)

Simple ways to boost your energy level

As a day wears on, many people find their energy levels steadily decreasing. Some resort to a cup of coffee; others prefer a sugary snack to get more pep. Such solutions are not always healthy and rarely provide more than a temporary jolt.

So what are you to do when the inevitable post-lunch doldrums rear their ugly heads? Oftentimes the best way to remedy a dip in energy levels is to prevent it in the first place. Here are several simple and healthy ways to boost your energy levels.

Drink water throughout the day. Water is a versatile beverage that serves many purposes, not the least of which is its ability to make a positive impact on your energy levels. When the body does not get enough water, it can send a variety of signals that are easily misread. The symptoms of thirst or dehydration can easily be confused for hunger, which may cause you to eat more during the day, and that food can make you feel sluggish as the day progresses. Even slight dehydration can make you feel fatigued. If drinking water isn't a part of your daily routine and you find yourself feeling fatigued on a regular basis, start drinking water and your energy levels will likely increase.

Don't skip meals. Skipping meals is robbing your body of the fuel it needs to get through the day. Skipping breakfast is especially harmful, as you will be starting the day off essentially on a fast and your energy levels will suffer as a result. A healthy breakfast that includes whole grain cereals or breads as well as some fruit and lean protein is a great way to start the day off energized. And no matter how busy you are during the day, be sure to eat a healthy lunch, ideally one that includes some protein. Protein is important because it takes the body longer to break down protein than it does carbohydrates, giving you an energy source that lasts longer than a lunch without any protein.

Exercise. Fatigue can be a byproduct of a body that's overworked but also a side effect of a body that isn't being worked enough. Daily exercise will increase your energy levels, even if the exercise is minimal. Research conducted at The California State University found that even a brisk 10-minute walk increased energy levels for as much as two hours. If your energy levels tend to start waning in the afternoon, consider a short, mid-afternoon jaunt.

Don't cut too many calories. Folks fighting fatigue may feel as though their weight is the main culprit behind that lethargy. Though being overweight or obese can have a negative impact on energy levels, it's not to cut too many calories when attempting to lose weight. Doing so may slow your metabolism, which can cause feelings of fatigue. If you are overweight or obese, you may very well need to cut calories, but don't do so at the expense of your energy levels.

Though it's easy to pour yourself another cup of coffee or lean on an energy drink once the post-lunch listlessness rears its ugly head, there are several alternatives to such remedies that can be more effective at boosting your energy levels over the long haul.

3 kitchen upgrades for easier cooking

Whether you're a serious at-home chef or a casual cook, a kitchen renovation should be more than a superficial makeover. By improving the functionality of the space, you can pave the way toward better cooking and happier hosting.

How do you make your kitchen renovation not only eye-catching, but useful as well? Here are three things to consider:

Counter Space

Counter space isn't for collecting clutter. It's crucial for storing important utensils and tools, and for chopping, prepping, mixing and mashing. Be sure you give yourself plenty of elbow room.

If you have the space for it, consider multiplying your workspace with an island or peninsula. Be advised, you won't do yourself any favors by including these features if your kitchen is too small. An architect or interior designer can help you determine what is feasible. If you're tight on space, a rolling kitchen cart with a countertop may be your best bet.

You can also create more room for food preparation by purchasing a cutting board for the top of your cooking surface.

Appliances

Are your appliances as old as your family's secret recipes? You may not realize it, but your aged appliances are probably making your job more difficult than need be. Don't settle for uneven cooking, slow pre-heating, and insufficient burners. Without sacrificing beauty, craftsmanship or style, you can replace outdated appliances with high-quality ones that are designed for accuracy and precision.

Gain more control of your cooking by taking a cue from professional chefs. Opt for a range or cooktop that features high efficiency sealed gas burners designed for pinpoint accuracy, flame control and better heat distribution. Another feature to look for is a "tri-flame" burner, with control of the center, outer and inner flame, giving you greater flexibility in how much heat you're cooking with and where it's being applied.

For a more functional, beautiful kitchen, it's all about finding the intersection of cutting edge technology and craftsmanship. Consider checking out a brand such as Verona, at www.VeronaAppliances.com, an Italian manufacturer of kitchen appliances that applies cooking expertise to make ranges, cooktops and ovens.

Another great way to upgrade is by outfitting your oven, cooktop and range with helpful accessories that can make cooking easier, such as a rotisserie, a griddle, a steam basin and BBQ grill top. Be sure to find a multiple-use oven that performs a scope of functions. For example ILVE offers ovens that can go from defrosting to grilling to baking a pizza with a turn of a knob. To learn more about cooking easier with upgraded appliances, visit www.ilveappliances.com.

Lighting

Too often, homeowners tolerate insufficient lighting in the room where they need it most. Ensure your space is bright enough for you to work efficiently. In addition to your ambient overhead lighting, make good use of the natural light in your kitchen by day. By evening, strategically positioned task lights over work surfaces can make cooking easier.

Kitchen renovations can be costly. Make key upgrades that are worth your time and money. — (StatePoint)

Nine simple tips for recycling at home

Recycling is crucial to running a green home. It's also an easy and effective way to reduce your weekly contribution to the local landfill.

Unfortunately, many people either aren't recycling as much as they could be, or are recycling the wrong way. A main reason for this is lack of access to accurate information.

Even if you know the basics, you may have lingering questions. Covanta, a world leader and expert in sustainable waste management and renewable energy, offers helpful insights into common recycling questions:

- What cardboard is recyclable? All cardboard boxes except waxed can be recycled. In some communities, cardboard includes cereal, pasta or other food boxes. If possible, remove adhesive labels and tape prior to placing it in the recycling bin, as glue can interfere with the pulping process. Recycle the non-greasy portion of pizza boxes and discard the rest with the trash.

- Is wet newspaper recyclable? Paper fibers can only hold so much moisture. If wet paper arrives at the recycling facility, it may not absorb the chemicals needed to process the paper fibers into new products. Try to keep recycle-ready paper indoors until pick-up day.

- Should you remove plastic bottle caps and wine corks? Corks should be reused or thrown in the trash. Remove plastic caps so you can crush the plastic bottles, making it easy to fit more into the bin. Some caps are recyclable, but recycling centers often discard non-recyclable caps as trash.

- Can you recycle items that contained chemicals? Yes, as long as they're completely empty. An exception is motor oil, because residual oil can interfere with plastics recycling.

- Is crushing cans necessary? It's not necessary to crush cans in preparation for recycling, but doing so makes room in your recycling bin and the transport truck, which means fewer trips to the recycling facility.

- How do you recycle batteries and electronics? Many municipalities are now recycling electronics. And some department stores, such as Best Buy, have take-back programs. Visit www.Call2Recycle.org to find your nearest battery take-back location.

- Where do recyclables go? After curbside pick-up, recyclables go to an interim processor called a Materials Recovery Facility. There, they are sorted by machine and by hand using a conveyor belt. Separated recyclables are sent to a processing plant to be made into new products.

- Why recycle? Recycling preserves natural resources and is good for the economy, accounting for about one million manufacturing jobs nationwide, and generating more than $100 billion in revenue, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

- What happens to waste that's not recycled? While some materials may be sent to landfills, the preferred option is an Energy-from-Waste facility, which offers a safe, technologically advanced means of waste disposal that generates clean, renewable energy, reduces greenhouse gas emissions and recycles metal left over in household waste. More information about how recycling and Energy-from-Waste go together can be found at www.CovantaEnergy.com/virtualtour.

Environmental stewardship starts at home. We must all take steps to educate ourselves on recycling.

How to reduce the cost of owning a car

The cost of car ownership is on the rise again this year, according to a new report from AAA. And if you're a family on a budget or a senior on a fixed income, you may feel the impact already.

But it doesn't have to be this way. From avoiding unnecessary insurance costs to reducing pain at the pump, savvy drivers can take practical steps to make driving a more economical mode of transport:

- Shop around for better insurance rates.

If you have a good driving record, talk to your insurance company about reducing your premium. And if you are a senior and take a refresher course in driver safety specifically designed for seniors, you may be able to negotiate lower insurance rates.

- Make sure your tires are inflated to the correct pressure.

This is indicated on the sticker on the inside of your door, not the number on the tire sidewall. Underinflated tires can increase fuel consumption by up to 3 percent.

- Preventive maintenance.

Maintenance such as changing your air filter, can go a long way toward smooth, efficient performance. A clogged air filter can increase fuel consumption by as much as 10 percent.

- Keep record of your vehicle maintenance, including oil changes.

Try using a high performance synthetic motor oil, as opposed to conventional oil, to allow for more miles between oil changes. Premium synthetic motor oil, such as Royal Purple, can reduce maintenance costs and time spent out of service. To learn more about the benefits of using synthetic lubricants in your vehicle visit www.RoyalPurpleConsumer.com.

- Take a deep breath and change the way you drive.

Aggressive driving is not only unsafe and stressful to your health, it can also reduce your fuel economy -- as all that stop-and-go uses more gasoline than smooth braking and acceleration does. You can also improve your fuel economy by reducing idling time and lightening your car's load.

- If you're handy, you may be able to do some regular maintenance work on your car yourself.

But for those jobs that are beyond your know-how, be sure to hire a reputable mechanic. Don't be afraid to get quotes. Knowing the going rate for the service performed and parts replaced can help you from paying unnecessary costs.

Just because the cost of driving is on the rise, doesn't mean you need to hand over your car keys just yet. With a few phone calls, a bit of preventive car and some tweaks to your driving habits, even those on the tightest of budgets can afford to keep on motoring. (StatePoint)

Tips to cut home utility bills, improve comfort, energy efficiency

Having trouble keeping your home comfortable year-round? You're not alone. The average mid-size U.S. home has a staggering half mile of gaps and cracks that outside air, including dust and allergens can infiltrate, and inside, conditioned air can leak out of, according to the Air Barrier Association of America.

Just as you wouldn't want to leave a window open in winter or summer, you don't want to let gaps and small holes around windows, doors, plumbing penetrations and electrical outlets go unaddressed.

By doing some straightforward air sealing and insulating projects around the home, homeowners can typically save up to 30 percent on home energy costs, according to the Residential Energy Services Network (RESNET). Even if you're not that handy, you're in luck. Sealing your home is as simple as knowing your 1,2,3's and ABC's.

All you need to get started is:

• One sealant: An inexpensive product can do the trick. Opt for a versatile sealant, such as Great Stuff Insulating Foam Sealant, to tackle a series of sealing projects around the home.

• Two Hours: It only takes a couple of hours to seal all those gaps and cracks that cause drafts in your home. Doing so will permanently increase the comfort, performance and energy-efficiency of your house. For a complete home sealing project checklist, visit www.GreatStuff.dow.com/pdfs/checklist.pdf.

• Three Locations: Three key locations will be impacted the most by air sealing projects -- the attic, basement and central living space.

So where should you start looking? An easy trick to remember is the ABC's of air sealing:

• A is for Attic: The attic is one of the main places in the home you're likely to lose heat. So in addition to adding insulation, seal around the attic door to help keep air from escaping. You'll keep heat inside your living space and make your family comfortable year-round by sealing the attic tightly to prevent drafts.

• B is for Basement: It's damp, dark and cold, and often one of the largest air leakage culprits in the home. It's also the most accessible, making it an excellent place to start sealing to prevent cooler air from seeping into the rest of your house.

• C is for Central Living Areas: Don't neglect the most trafficked areas of your house where you eat, sleep, watch TV and hang out. Fill the gaps and cracks in your living spaces -- including around electrical outlets and plumbing penetrations -- to prevent drafts throughout the year that directly impact the comfort of the home.

By sealing plumbing penetrations with sealants like Great Stuff Insulating Foam Sealants, homeowners can begin to see financial returns after less than half a month, saving $45 annually, according to a recent study conducted by Dow Building Solutions and DR Nelson & Associates.

By following easy steps to seal your home, you can put a little extra spending money in your pocket and increase the overall comfort, performance and energy efficiency of your home. (StatePoint)

Summer study of monarch migration

BY ANDREA M. BEAUDOIN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston resident John Meyland has spent his summer looking for the monarch butterfly so he can catch it and place a sticker on its wing.

He is participating in the 2013 22nd fall season of the Monarch Watch tagging study conducted by the University of Kansas. According to Monarch Watch, the tagging efforts contribute to a greater understanding of the dynamics of the Monarch population.

After catching a monarch, Meyland identifies the sex, writes down where he caught it and where it was released. After the season is over, he will mail the sheet in so the information can be recorded at the university and entered into the study.

Each year, the Michigan monarch population heads off to the mountains of Mexico- the impressive journey is the longest insect migration on earth.

"They leave Canada and the northern United States in August and September and travel 2,000 miles to an area west of Mexico City. They live in the mountains in Mexico in the trees," said Meyland. "They go there and huddle together to stay warm."

Meyland said while Michigan butterflies head to Mexico, any butterflies west of the Rocky Mountains head to California.

In the study, the butterflies are caught and tagged with a sticker with identifying information. Later if they are found the information from the tag is entered into the university website so researchers can see where the butterfly came from, how far it traveled and other important information.

Tagging the butterflies is important to monitor the monarch population, and helps to educate the public and lawmakers about things that negatively impact the population, which Meyland said has been lower in 2013 than in previous years.

The study also helps promote conservation efforts. Debbie Jackson said the monarch population is 5-10 percent less than the population 20-years-ago.

Spring conditions, such as cooler weather and erratic weather patterns in some parts of the country has not helped the monarch population rebound from their smaller numbers in previous years.

Cooler temperatures also stager the proper growth of the butterfly and leaves them more vulnerable to predators. Habitat loss, herbicides and pesticides hinders the population which already faces an uphill battle with only five percent of the species reaching adulthood.

Other conditions that effect the monarch population is a loss of milkweeds, a food source for caterpillars. Genetically modified and herbicide tolerant corn and soybeans also negatively effects the insect population.

Although the life of a monarch is short lived at only about seven to nine months, it is also very active considering their long journey is such an impressive feat filled with numerous perils. The tag placed on their wings causes a seven percent reduction in flight, said Meyland.

"August and September is when they begin their long journey south."

In August during a Monarch Festival in Davisburg, visitors could learn how to tag the butterflies and record the data to later see if it migrated to Mexico.

According to a Clarkston News story written about the Davisburg Monarch Festival, the journey to Mexico takes six to nine weeks as they travel thousands of miles to their destination.

Butterflies released in the study are either caught in the wild or raised on farms.

For more information about the monarch butterfly or the study visit www.monarchwatch.org.

Taste is work of many people

A group of teens came together to try out a bunch of the food and then headed to Depot park to try their hand at games-like archery area set up by Bridgewood Church.

"I like the vibe here," said Tyler Sosnowski who came with a group of friends all residents of Clarkston. "I love food and games," said Brennan McLean.

Taste was hosted by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, Independence Township Parks and Recreation and the City of the Village of Clarkston.

Executive Director of the Clarkston Chamber of Commerce (CACC) Penny Shanks said despite the rain, the turnout was good - an estimated 14,000 people attended.

"I am incredibly grateful for the turnout, to everyone who came out eat and I know the restaurants appreciated it," said Shanks.

She added the Taste of Clarkston is a major production and could not be pulled off by just one organization.

Volunteers from Clarkston Community Church had just a few hours before heavy rains blew in to take down all the tents. "And they did it," said Shanks. "They pulled it off."

As the signature event of the CACC, Shanks said a few things this year were "tweaked" to make it run more smoothly. And a big kudos to the hundreds of volunteers.

"We had 300 volunteers to help and all of them showed up. Independence Township Parks and Recreation does an amazing job setting up and getting tents up."

Party time in the Rotary tent for Katherine, Brenda, Steve, Ron and Luke Shrou.

Law absolute, but Jesus interveves on our behalf

The Law is not something we like to think about but it is always with us.

When I think back to the beginning of time, when God had just created man and placed him in the Garden of Eden to care for and tend it, there was only one law, to not eat of the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil (OK, maybe a second law, to be fruitful and multiply).

But you know how it is, when we are told we cannot have something that is what we desire even more. So the serpent, changing God's words, asks Eve if it is true that God said they "shall not eat of any tree of the garden?" (Genesis 3:1)

The jar of the cookie lid was open. Eve responded: "We may eat of the fruit of the trees in the garden, but God said, 'You shall not eat of the fruit of the tree that is in the midst of the garden, neither shall you touch it, lest you die. (Emphasis mine.)

Eve changed the words God spoke and her hand not only reached into the cookie jar, she ate the cookie.

Later God gives His children 10 commandments, rules for them to follow, that showed how they were to relate to Him and to one another.

They could not keep them and neither can we. So the burden increased as man made over 615 rules to be followed, but it could not be done.

Think about the laws today. We have libraries full of books that state laws, reflect laws, interpret laws and explain laws.

Yet, even when we know the laws we are prone to breaking them are we not? We might only be driving 46 in a 45 but we are breaking the law. We may make a right hand turn on a red light but cause someone to slow down because of it and we break the law. We may take a "sample" at a place that sells by the pound and we break the law.

I know we could go on and on. We may feel guilty or be so calloused by past behavior and that of society and, yes, our sinful nature, that it does not bother us in the least. Even though we were told to wait until after supper for a cookie, we silently lift the lid, reach in and eat the cookie.

Do we deserve to be punished? Of course we do.

We have failed to obey—the laws of the land, fellow-workers, friends, parents, a spouse and especially God.

Isn't it wonderful, however, that we have a God Who loves us so much He sent His Son, Jesus, to take our punishment for us? We could not keep the law but Jesus kept it perfectly and gave us the full benefit of His perfection. This is the Gospel-grace that God so freely gives.

If you are feeling burdened by guilt join us to learn about grace!

Game on!

Homecoming week at Clarkston High School kicked off with school spirit of Jersey day on Monday.

But the festivities truly began the week with the traditional Powderpuff game with the seniors against juniors.

The juniors won the game but there is still time for the seniors to win spirit week. Unless the sophomores win.

Sienna spa opens in Independence

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

When Tina Parenti learned her salon was closing its Waterford location, she and her husband Dave Parenti saw an opportunity.

"The girls are a pleasure to work with, a fantastic team, like a family. They wanted to stay together, and we wanted to provide a place to do that," Tina said. "They put an idea in my head. We talked about it and decided to give it a try."

"We decided to take a chance," Dave said.

So they opened the new Sienna Salon and Day Spa in Independence Township, at 6160 Dixie Highway.

With six stylists, three nail technicians, massage therapist, and receptionists, they offer a full range of salon services.

Dave and Tina have extensive business and management experience, but this is their first salon.

"It's a challenge, we're still learning," Tina said.

"The crew taught us a lot," said Dave, who used his engineering experience in the automotive industry to design the new studio.

The location is ideal, he said.

"It's a great location, next to Pete's Coney Island," he said. "Everyone in the building is wonderful."

"We love this space," Tina said.

They plan to hire another stylist and add facials and other skin care services, Dave said.

The name of the salon was inspired by trips to Europe.

"We wanted that look, a Euro and modern atmosphere," Tina said.

"We looked at a map of Italy and found the town of Siena, which we've been to," Dave said. "It's also a color, which is appropriate for a salon."

Call Sienna Salon and Day Spa at 248-623-7920.

 NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

The Charter Township of Independence Board of Trustees will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase of 0.2471 mills in operating tax millage rate to be levied in 2013.

The hearing will be held on Tuesday, September 24, 2013 at 7:00 p.m. at Township Hall; 6483 Waldon Center Drive - Clarkston, Michigan 48346.

The date and location of the meeting to take action on the proposed additional millage will be announced at this public meeting.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 2.9134% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing. If the proposed additional millage rate is not approved the operating revenue will decrease by 0.1176% over the preceding year's operating revenue.

The taxing unit publishing this notice, and identified below, has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate. This notice is published by:

Fall classes at community ed

Lots of interesting classes fill the fall line-up for Independence Township Parks and Recreation and Clarkston Community Education.

Activity and sports classes to get a body moving include swimming, basketball, water fitness and a huge variety of other classes. Mother daughter Hip Hop, Archery and golf lessons are also among the classes offered in the programs.

Several unique activity classes geared towards adults include a clogging class, a Japanese sword class, belly dancing and hula hoops free style dancing.

For a complete list of classes, times, and dates, visit www.clarkston.k12.mi.us or go to Independence Township administrative offices, 6483 Waldon Center Drive, or call Clarkston Community Schools at 248-623-4326.
