

Winds put 4,500 in dark

Storms ripping through the area Sunday night knocked out power for about 4,500 residents in the Clarkston area.

"We will be working throughout the week to fix the outages," said Scott Simons, Media Relations for DTE Energy.

About 500 houses lost power in Clarkston while Independence Township had about 4,000 outages.

"I'm on Reese and there were trees blocking the path to my house from both directions," said Tracy Lynn, sharing her experiences on the Clarkston News' Facebook page. "Thank goodness for couple guys with a truck that came down not too far behind me who cleared the way so I could get home!"

"Our power is out, naturally," said Mel Dawes. "I have never heard winds like that in Clarkston. Too dark to see if we've got trees down, but how can we not?"

About 275,000 DTE customers lost power in the entire state, with 70,000 of those customers in Oakland County, Simons said.

According to National Weather Service (NWS) Senior Meteorologist Phil Kurimski, high winds started blowing through the area around 7 p.m. Sunday and continued Monday morning. Most customers in Clarkston lost power between 8-11 p.m., restored by Monday night.

The same storm that blew through Michigan caused a reported 80 tornadoes in the Midwest, mostly in Illinois.

More input sought for semester switch

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

School officials are seeking more parental input on a proposed switch from trimesters to semesters.

They set up an online survey and will provide responses to the Board of Education, said Deputy Superintendent Shawn Ryan.

Administration recommends returning to the semester system at Clarkston senior and junior high schools. Ryan presented the plan in October and asked the school board for a decision in November.

Administration now expects a vote in December, said Superintendent Dr. Rod Rock.

They also set up focus groups at Clarkston elementary and middle schools to discuss the impact of a potential shift in scheduling.

The school district adopted trimesters for grades 8-12 in 2008 to help students meet new Michigan Merit Curriculum standards by providing more chances to take and retake core classes, and explore electives.

"At that time, the shift from a semester schedule to trimesters seemed to be in the best interest of our secondary students and staff, and it allowed for the offering and delivery of effective programming," Ryan said.

A committee of teachers, counselors, and principals evaluated the trimester system. They found class sequences were often broken up by a trimester, and semesters would allow more continuity and flexibility, with more opportunities for team teaching, he said.

"Since the advent of the trimester schedule, the district has kept close watch on the format and the effects that it has had on students and the secondary program overall," Ryan said.

Trimesters include three 60-day terms per year, each with five classes a day. The semester format has two 90-day terms per year, with six classes per day.

If approved, the switch would happen next school year. It would cost about $60,000 to update schedules and other material expenses.

winds behind the cold front," said Kurimski.

Temperatures on Sunday registered highest at low to mid 60s and then dropped down to the 40s after the system blew through.

Kurimski said temperatures in the 60s are warm for this time of year. The arrival of a cold front created an unstable atmosphere.

"The cold front acts as a lifting system and lifts air vertically to help create thunder-storms," he said.

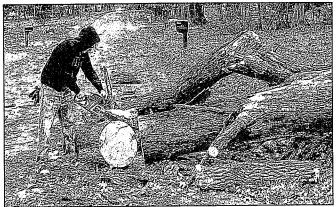

Michigan residents can thank the Great Lakes for creating a more stable atmosphere on Sunday than in Illinois.

"The conditions we look for is instability and sheer winds, but yesterday we didn't have instability," said Kurimski. "Although Michigan received the same system that moved through Illinois, that state had more instability than we did not this far north."

The Great Lakes doesn't always protect Michigan, he said.

"When storms encounter Lake Michigan the water is cooler and the air is warmer so it creates a more stable condition in the atmosphere," he said. "(But) the Great Lakes can work both ways — in spring they are warmer than they are in the fall."

Sunday's tornado watch was very unusual for Michigan, he said.

"Only three tornadoes have ever been recorded hitting Michigan in November," said Kurimski.

Along with the high winds, the storm also brought about an inch of rain, lightning and thunder.

"We had several severe weather reports of tress down and downed power lines," said Kurimski.

The NWS gathers reports from several sources including amateur radio operators, the public and law enforcement. Weather spotters take a class and are given a non published phone number to give reports to the NWS

Operators at the NWS collect reports and if a possible tornado is reported a special team is sent to an area to assess the damage and confirm a possible tornado may have touched down.

Thankfulness

The beginning of November I noticed a splurge of people on Facebook participating in sharing what they are thankful for every day in the month.

I did not take part in it because I am thankful every day but since Thanksgiving is right around the corner I will share with you, our readers, what I am thankful for in my life.

I am thankful for, of course, my parents.

They were supportive when I was a child to up to now.

When I had my heart set on becoming a writer when I was young they didn't try to lead me away from it.

When I needed help in academic classes they offered it or found a way to help me. When I was stressing out about receiving a "B" in physical education they were relaxed about it knowing I was doing my best (especially when running was not in my

I am thankful for my friends. They make me laugh. They make me smile, They are there when I am at my weakest moments and allow me to lean on them. They allow me to vent to my heart's content. I am lucky not only to have a handful but quite a few handfuls of friends to talk to and to hang

Every day I am thankful I get to go into work at a job I enjoy. I have great coworkers and work in a great community. Clarkston supports their local businesses and all of their teachers and students. Not only with fundraisers but going to sporting events, performances and school functions.

I can't remember everything from elementary but when we had holiday parties I don't remember quite so many parents being there as there are in Clarkston. It's great to see all the parents there for all the parties and events.

It is November and for me as well as millions of writers around the world it is National Novel Writing Month and typing away at 50,000 words in 30 days.

I am thankful for the writers in my group because they know what a crazy month this is for everyone involved. They are supportive to everyone if someone is worried about their word count they are cheering them on. They are supportive even outside of the writing. They have become friends and a NaNoWriMo family.

So yes, I am thankful every day for the big things and for the tiniest things.

Pet tips from half-marathon supporters

Thanks to all the runners and walkers last Sunday ("Photo finish," Clarkston State Bank Back Roads Half Marathon, page 1). We really enjoyed sharing the day with all of you!

Hope you enjoyed the oranges, gummy's and water compliments of Knucklehead Knoll and Heavenly Paws.

My partner and I really appreciate how courteous and neat everyone was - I dropped more cups on the ground than anyone else, trying to fill them up.

We do this to support our furry friends. Please remember to respect and care for your pets. It is starting to get cold. Also, remember, "adopt don't shop." Do not buy pets from pet shops. They are supplied by puppy mills which are very abusive to animals. Cages and breeding are all puppy mill dogs know. Never a kind word or comforting touch. Usually in the cold or heat living in wired cages their entire lives.

"Breed them till they are of no use then cast them aside when no longer of any use, that's the puppy mill creed.

Also, never advertise pets "free or on Ebay, etc." Predators, animal abusers and dog fighters are always looking for "bait" to train their dogs.

Last but not least, pets are not a "convenience" to be discarded at your whim. Too many family pets are "dumped" with excuses such as "I have had Bowser since he was a pup but now we have a baby," "we are moving and can't take fluffy with us," or "she is too much trouble, has accidents in the house and we just got new carpet."

Hmm, maybe if the pet was not left alone all day? Please consider all factors before making a commitment. Pets are traumatized when they lose their homes. They have so much love to give. Again enjoyed the day with all of you and if you are looking for new family member, want to give one of God's loving creatures a "fur-ever" home. Check out the rescue sites and shelters. Lots of love just sitting there waiting for a great home with you. Thanks and God bless!

Thanks for help with Pink and Pampered

Once again, the annual Pink and Pampered event on Thursday, Oct. 10, 2013, proved to be another tremendous success!

This partnership between McLaren Cancer Center Institute, McLaren Breast Center and the Independence Township Senior Adult Activity Center continues to grow each year.

Those who attended were treated to a fun evening of pampering, shopping and camaraderie that would not be possible without the overwhelming generosity of area businesses, Neimans Family Market, Pita

Way and Klever Kreations, raffle prize donations from Dory Baum, Rose Mayo, Marcy Sawyer, Nancy Weightman, Angie Pesta, Nancy O'Keefe, Clarkston Flower Shop and the Independence Township Senior Adult Activity Center Quilters.

We cannot begin to express our appreciation to the hard-working, dedicated committee members and volunteers who donated countless hours before, after and during the event. Thank you to everyone involved. All of you are truly angels!

Fallen leaves contribute to water destabilization

A few days ago as I was driving along main street, there was a man "mowing" the leaves that were in the road, in what I assume was an attempt to make it easier for them to wash into the storm drain. Today, out walking my dogs, I passed several piles of leaves that homeowners had left in their ditch directly in front of the drain opening, seemingly so that they could be washed away into the storm drain. Out of sight, out of Clarkston and Independence Township both have stormwater permits. I'll probably be called a zealot like I have been in the past, because if I'm known for anything, its harping about our improperly managed stormwater. Its not that "we" are any different than anywhere else in Michigan, and quite frankly, the "fault" does not lie with the individuals who have been vested in charge of these programs. The responsibility, the "fault" if you will, lies with the state. Possible also the federal government. And here's why.

There are six minimum control measures that the MS4s (Municipal separate storm sewer systems) must identify BMPs (best management practices) with which to reduce impact and risk. Onethird of the program, two of the MCMs are about educating the public and getting them to participate. They happen to be the most important aspect of the program.

Why? Because the individuals mentioned who are helping to wash the Guest leaves into the storm drain, along with the home owners who fertilize their lakeshore properties or dig up river banks or any number of other activities that are harmful to watershed health, are not evil horrid people. They just don't know that their actions are collectively serious impacts that will cost them thousands, possibly millions of dollars later on. And why is that? Because the way our programs are developed, and approved by the state, are paper pushing exercises that do not contain "meaningful" BMPs.

What is a meaningful BMP? Well, for instance, its educating homeowners to impacts specific to their community, such as that when they wash their leaf bits into the storm drain, one of two things happens. First, particulate that includes sediment along with the leaf bits settle out when the water carrying them is reduced and slows down. Water in this area has a high pH, around 8 to 8.5. It becomes "saturated relative to calcium", or in homeowners terms, its hard water. What happens in your house with your pipes when the water is hard and you don't have a water softener? The calcium builds up over time, sometimes rather quickly, and it reduces the capacity of your pipe. Sometimes, as in the case with sediment and leaves, it will eventually put so much pressure on the pipe as to cause it to break, like in the situation that happened with the Christie Homestead, where a sinkhole formed

Another scenario is the sediment and leaf debris does actually get washed into the Mill Pond, or park lake, or some creek. As the debris decays, it uses up the oxygen available for aquatic life. It reduces the ability of the water body to be maintained as a habitat. As anyone who lives along the Mill Pond knows, the build up, when needing to be dredged, costs a pretty

Add to that homeowners who really like their green lawns over fertilizing without understanding that they are reducing the value of their waterfront property because the added phosphorus or nitrogen is a significant cause of algal blooms. When this gets washed down the watershed, and eventually discharged into Lake Erie, we end up with a situation where the water becomes toxic and you can't even swim in it. Western Lake Erie is in serious trouble, and if you fertilize your lawn along a water body, well, you're part of the problem.

I'm not trying to point the finger at anyone. If someone doesn't get it, they don't get it. But if someone wants to get it, and wants to learn a better way of doing things, I just happen to specialize in watershed outreach and education. Oh. and in natural shoreline stabilization. If you don't happen to like me, that's ok. There's plenty of work to go around and I can recommend several other local individuals who I highly respect. But if you want training, and want to learn a better way to reduce impact on your lake or waterbody, please feel free to contact me at tammie.heazlit@gmail.com

Thoughts whilst raking and not thinking

I kinda know myself. And, if I am anything I am a procrastinator. While I may have a former spouse or two who would call it just being lazy, I tend to think of my procrastination inclination as a good thing. It keeps me sharp and keeps me on my toes.

This past weekend was one of those Holy-Give-Me-A-Few-More-Hours-Oh-Lord I need to get some stuff done before the snow falls weekend. I needed to accomplish a number of chores. I needed to:

- 1. Rake leaves off the lawn.
- 2. Rake the leaves off the roof.
- 3. Mulch said leaves.
- 4. Inspect said roof and patch any suspected leaks.
- 5. Winterize lawn mower.
- 6. Clean garage for winter parking.

While raking and bagging and not thinking I thought: I wonder if I put these big, brown paper bags full of leaves around the base of my house would they act as insulation and cut my energy consumption bills? Then I thought, I wonder what the neighbors would think of that? (Me saving money they weren't.)

And, whilst not thinking I also thought one of the sure signs of the apocalypse might very well have revealed itself to me last Friday. Then, the University of Michigan Wolverines were underdogs against Northwestern while at the same time your Detroit Football Lions were favored over the Pittsburgh Steelers, in Pittsburgh. When was the last time that happened? Answer: Never. My advice, stock up on water, whiskey and .22 shells for bartering.

I also know this about myself, I like to get my money's worth on things. I bought my lawn mower (used) in 1992. It was winterized this past weekend for next year's lawn maintenance. The leaf blower/sucker I bought in 1999 is now only a leaf sucker-upper, but it still works. I have bottles and tins of nuts, and bolts, and screws and washers that go back years. Some were my dad's and some nuts and bolts and screws my grandfather saved. He stopped saving those fasteners when he died in 1967! Oh ... and I still have the empty pony keg from his wake. Some day I will make a table out of Shamus and Sean aren't too hip on the ways of their old man; they don't understand why I add a little warm tap water to the ketchup bottle they were just ready to throw away and why I make them use it before opening a new bottle.

I guess those are some of the reasons I'm known far and wide was The Cheapest Dad In Town. I don't like throwing away stuff for newer stuff until the older stuff has been thoroughly used up. Some of the aforementioned spouses might call me a hoarder, I tend to think of myself as a

Dixie annexation plan moves forward

Independence Township Board voted to approve a plan to annex property along Dixie Highway, Nov. 12

The transfer of the property is through an intergovernmental agreement between Independence and Springfield townships.

The property is split between the townships by 1-75. The only access to the Spring-field Township portion of the property was through Independence.

Springfield Township also could not provide sewer and water services to the property, but Independence Township has the infrastructure available to provide those services.

"This comes at no cost to the township," said Independence Township Supervisor Pat Kittle.

The agreement would take effect 30 days after it is signed with Springfield Township. The property can be transferred back to Springfield Township if either Independence or Springfield Township decides to cancel it, Kittle said.

Norman Froeschke, a resident in the Deer Lake Farms subdivision close to the property, spoke during the public hearing, asking who would pay for the roads when the property is developed.

"I just paid $7,400 to fix the roads," said Froeschke. "With those roads, we could not make it a private even after the subdivision showed proof that over 70 percent of traffic in the subdivision is not from Deer Lake farms residents."

Froeschke noted there are 150 homes in Deer Lake Farms and if the property is developed to include an additional 72 homes, more drivers would contribute to wear and tear of the roads

"Our roads that we paid for we want to have last for a very long time," said Freeschke.

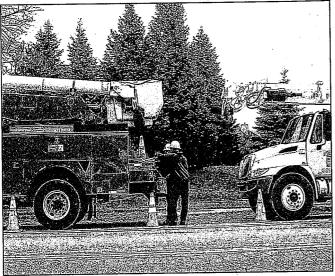

"So I think when this process is going forward the neighborhood should be very involved over what's going on."

Froeschke also requested the township keep an open line of communication with Deer Lake farms homeowners regarding development of the property.

Independence Township will approve the zoning once the property is officially transferred.

Independence Township's planning firm Carlisle Wortman recommended the property be zoned residential, a change Independence Township Board of Trustees and the planning commission would have to approve.

Presently the zoning status of the property is undetermined due to legal issues with the property.

DTE utility works to restore power to areas of Independence Township hit by last weekend's storms. Oakland County Sheriff's deputies responded to 551 calls for help during, Nov. 17-18. Of those, 43 were in Independence Township and Clarkston, and 17 in Springfield Township. Independence Township Fire Department responded to 21 calls for help, and Springfield Township Fire Department had seven calls during the storm. They responded to road hazards, alarms, wires-down complaints and other weather-related problems. Photo by Andrea Beaudoin

For Clarkston and Independence Township

Fines for fish poachers

Three fishermen were fined $210 each for poaching in Upper Bushman Lake. They were caught with 20 bluegill and two bullhead at the park, Michigan Department of Natural Resources reported, Nov. 5. The lake is managed under a Michigan DNR Catch-and-Release-Only Special Designation Fisheries Order.

Laptops taken

Two laptop computers were taken from an SUV parked unlocked in the 5000 block of Bay Pointe Boulevard, Nov. 8.

Suspicious behavior

Two siblings at a school bus stop in the 8000 block of Ortonville Road ran back home after two men in a dark-colored pickup stopped, got out, and asked for their names, 6:27 a.m., Nov. 8. It was too dark for descriptions.

Mattress fire

Residents in the 2000 block of Mann Road called Independence Township firefighters for help with venting smoke after putting out a mattress fire with fire extinguishers and a garden hose, 5 p.m., Nov. 10. No one was injured.

No license for complainers

Two Pontiac women returned to a fast food restaurant in the 6000 block of Dixie Highway, 2:19 p.m., Nov. 8, to complain about onions mistakenly put on a hamburger. They got their money back but continued to complain, and called police when an employee wrote down their license plate number. The responding deputy found neither had a valid driver's license. They were advised of charges if they were caught driving.

Expired driver

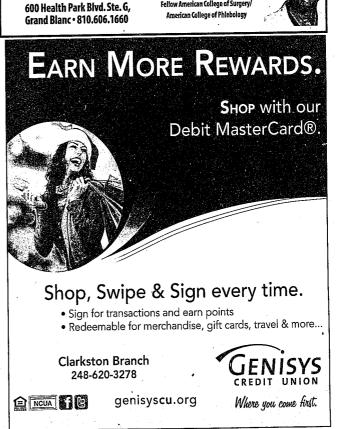

A 37-year-old Independence Township man was stopped for driving a minivan with a headlight burned out, Nov. 13. He was cited for driving with an expired driver's license, and given a waivable citation for the light.

Unrenewed plates

A 27-year-old Mt. Morris woman was stopped for having an expired sticker on her vehicle on I-75, 2:20 p.m., Nov. 14. She was cited for driving with a suspended license and expired registration.

Excitement fills the community and it can be found on the football practice fields as the gridiron heroes prepare for the MHSAA Semifinals, set for Saturday against Flint Carman-Ainsworth, 1 p.m.

It is an excitement long-time head coach Kurt Richardson hopes the Clarkston Varsity Football team will take with them onto the field on Saturday.

"They are one win away from the state finals," he said. "There is a lot of excitement. None of the boys have gone to the semifinals. We haven't gone since 2009."

The excitement began when the boys won the MHSAA Regional championship on Saturday against Rochester Adams, 56-28, the only team the Wolves lost to this season.

"Offensively we were pretty good," said Richardson. "Adams had a lot of turnovers and we took advantage of them. Overall we played pretty decent."

The Wolves started the lead early when sënior leading rusher Ian Eriksen scored on a 1-yard three minutes into the game, finishing an 8-play 81-yard drive.

One game away from finals

Clarkston didn't have to wait long for possession of the ball as the Highlanders fumbled on the kickoff. The Wolves recovered the ball on Adams' 19-yard line.

Eriksen struck again three plays later on a 2-yard run as the clock stopped at 8:09 left in the quarter.

The next scoring opportunity started when the Highlanders fumbled the ball and the Wolves took over on their own 30-yard line.

Junior quarterback DJ Zezula threw a 70yard touchdown pass to senior widereceiver Tim Cason, putting the score at 20-0 with six minutes to go in the quarter.

"Adams made some mistakes and we took advantage of them," Richardson added.

Both teams scored twice in the second quarter with Eriksen scoring on a 11-yard run two minutes into the quarter. They also successfully completed a 2-point conversion.

With 33 seconds left Zezula connected a 6-yard touchdown pass to junior runningback Austin Egler, putting the score, 35-14.

Senior widereceiver Caine Watlington opened the second half with a touchdown when he recovered a fumble in the the endzone.

The Wolves furthered the lead when Zezula threw a 24-yard touchdown pass to Cason.

Senior defensiveback Reid Kaminski struck during the third quarter when he intercepted Rochester Adams's pass and scored a touchdown off of it, putting the score 56-14.

"He has been outstanding," Richardson added about Kaminski's performance all season. "He is one of our leading tacklers."

Zezula threw 11-for-12, including the 2-point conversion for 244 yards and three touchdowns.

"He was outstanding," said Richardson.
"He hit the first one and then he was red hot after that."

The leading receivers were Cason on four receptions for 123 yards and Egler with two receptions for 86 yards.

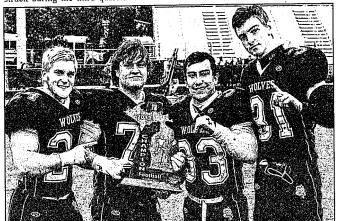

"Egler caught the ball really well," Richardson added, "He has been making progress."

Eriksen was the leading rusher for 89 yards on 14 carries. Kicker Shane Hynes went 6-for-7 on PAT attempts.

Senior outside linebacker Blake Rehahn led defense with seven tackles. Kaminski had five tackles. Junior linebacker DJ Rogers, senior linebacker Dom Monson, and senior defensiveback Jacob Armstrong had four tackles.

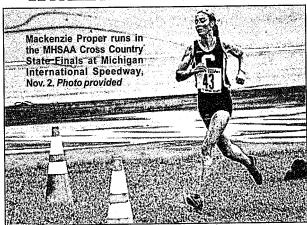

The Wolves head to Lake Orion High School at 1 p.m. where they will take on Carman-Ainsworth who beat Hudsonville for the regional title, 27-20. They are also 11-1 with their lone loss was against Brother Rice.

"They look athletic," said Richardson. "They are very physical and they have an outstanding quarterback."

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Proper pushes the limit

Mackenzie Proper finished her senior season with Clarkston Girls Cross Country team with a smile.

"I really enjoyed it," she said about her final season. "It was my favorite year by far. I got a lot more confident as an athlete and it was my fastest season. Being an upperclassmen was really nice because I got to use all my experience."

Proper began running in middle school track and was a sprinter when one of the coaches asked her to run the 400-meter.

"I had stride of a distance runner," she explained. "Then, I went out for the team for the next fall."

She decided to pursue cross country because she is a competitive person and it was a blend of a individual sport and a team sport.

"I had the support of teammates but at the same time I was able to compete against myself," Proper said. "It is a very rewarding sport."

She hit her fastest time 20:56 at the OAA Red Jamboree on Oct. 17.

Proper will be running in the spring with the girls track and field team and will be focusing on the half mile and mile distance

After graduation she is aiming to head to Michigan State University, explaining she has spent a lot of time on the campus with her sister.

"I like the campus and their programs are really beneficial for the degree I am going into," Proper said. She added she is considering secondary education for mathematics.

"I really enjoy math," she said. "I enjoy the challenge. I want to use my love for math to help other people."

She currently has a 4.1 grade point average and explained she is taking a lot of advanced placement classes.

Her advice to aspiring athletes is to believe in themselves.

"Last year I had a rough year and it really deals with confidence," she admitted. "This year I made sure I believed I could do better. I believed in my training and it made a difference to help me go far this year."

Heartbreaker finish

BY WENDIREARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Spikers finished their season after a 3-1 loss to Marian in the MHSAA Regional Finals last Thursday.

"We should have beaten them," said Clarkston Varsity Volleyball Coach Kelly Avenall. "It all came down to our passing. Our passing just really struggled. If we would have passed better we probably would have had a different match.'

The games between Marian and Clarkston were close when they battled each other throughout the season and the playoff wasn't any different.

The Mustangs took the lead in the match by winning the first game, 25-21.

The girls continued to block Marian from scoring and sophomore middle hitter Maggie Collins and junior outside hitter Taylor Dellinger scored four points as they blocked Marian's hits.

The Wolves finished the second game 25-12, tying the match 1-1.

Marian created a 11-point lead halfway through the game. Robinson started the climb up for the Wolves with three hits. They narrowed the difference to three points by the end of the game. The Mustangs scored the last two points they needed to win the game,

"It gave us a little bit of momentum," said Avenali.

The momentum led into the fourth game as Clarkston took the lead and held onto it throughout the entire game.

Marian slowly caught up on points and tied the score 24-24 before they scored the last two points to win the game and the regional title, 26-24.

"We had them the entire fourth game until the last five points," said Avenall. "Then, we just struggled."

Dellinger led with 18 kills and Robinson had 12 kills during the game. Frakes had 34

Clarkston won the regional semifinals on Nov. 12 against Troy-Athens with three quick games, 25-10, 25-9, 25-11. Chadwell had eight kills and Dellinger and Robinson both had seven kills. Frakes had 14 assists and seven

"Our main concern was staying focused in a match like that," Avenall said, adding all the players produced well. "That's what we worked was playing our game and playing our pace. It's nice we can use Emily every so often. Our middles played well. Maggie is getting better and better every game. It helps being able to use her, too and our outsides are always good."

The Lady Wolves finished the season with a 44-13-1 record.

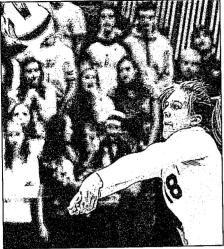

"It was a good season," Avenall added. "I am proud of what they did accomplish. They won their seventh consecutive district title and league title. After this, those are the kinds of things we can latch onto."

The team said farewell to seven seniors -Kacy Robinson, Katie Chadwell, Tessa Manilla, Melanie Aguayo, Samantha Moraw, Brianna Frakes and Megan Sutherland.

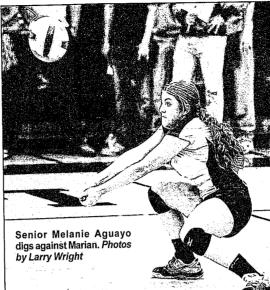

"They are very passionate kids," Avenall added about this year's seniors. "They loved playing the game. They loved their team. They left the legacy of having passion for their team and wanting their team to win."

The Lady Wolves have eight players coming back next year and their finish for 2013 will help for the 2014 season.

"It will definitely give them something to be hungry for," said Avenall. "We were

Wolves share excitement on 200 wins

BY WENDIREARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

When Kurt Richardson, long-time head coach for the Clarkston Varsity Football team, hit the achievement of 200 wins on Nov. 8 he contributed it to all the players and his coaching staff.

But family, friends, football players and his assistant coaches attributed it to Richardson.

"Our family is very proud of what he has accomplished in his victories," said brother, Craig Richardson. "We are very proud on how he has conducted himself and everyone he has touched in the Clarkston football program throughout the years."

Craig added nothing is more gratifying to the family than sitting in the bleachers during football games. They have been going to all the games since Kurt started coaching.

"He is a very proud man but humility is his number attribute," Craig said. "He is very humble. The family couldn't ask for a better brother."

Kurt has coached for 27 years and currently has a 201-75 record, following the Wolves' 56-28 win over Rochester Adams on Saturday for the MHSAA Regional title. He joined 51 coaches in accomplishing over 200 victories.

"He has won the Clarkston way, the same way he learned with who we had. He has continued it," said Dan Fife, Clarkston Athletic Director.

"He truly is an example for all of the coaching staff with the work ethic you need to be successful. To average eight wins a year is hard in today's world with the dynamics of kids changing. Every year is a new very."

Defensive coordinator Tony Miller added if it wasn't for Kurt calling him up 20 years ago he wouldn't be coaching.

"He has taught me the game," Miller said.

"We have evolved so much in the last 20 years but the foundation started with him the way we play now, the way we coach now, the way we call things now are completely different.

"This program would not be where it is today without Kurt Richardson," he added. "Without his dedication and without his ability to lead we would not be where we are today. No doubt. The hours he puts in in the offseason with the kids and for the kids I don't think you will see future generations of coaches do that. I really don't but that's what it takes to win."

Former players shared their thoughts on Richardon achieving the milestone:

Eric Eberle, Class of 2013, player for Adrian College: "It was good to hear my coach is one of the coaches who reached it. I am happy to part of those wins."

Jesse Chadwell, Class of 2013, player for University of Illnois: "It's awesome. I felt like he reached it a long time ago because he is such a great coach and he has such a winning program."

Nick Azzopardi, Class of 2013, attending University of Michigan: "It definitely speaks to the culture of the program - 200 wins is a lot of wins. He has created a culture of winning at Clarkston. As players you understand that and you understand you aren't just a part of one team you are part of the entire Clarkston football program."

Learned from KR: "You have to be willing to put in the work on your own if you want to be successful and the amount of dedication it takes to be successful. It is doing the little things. The little things it takes to win can be translated to life in general."

Nick McInally, Class of 2011, player for Butler University: "It is a testment to the system Coach Richardson brought in when he started. He changed the culture of Clarkston Football. Not many coaches last as long especially not at one school. It proves Clarkston really accepts him as a valuable part of the community."

Jeremy Fife, Class of 1995: "It's a great thing for him. He has been very true to Clarkston football. He's a great individual and him doing the way he has done it and built the program over the period of years is a testament to who he has surrounded himself with as well as the entirety of the program.

Clarkston in general is a great community and for me to be a part of helping him reach that milestone is a great sense of pride."

Learned from KR: "Always work your hardest. When I played we weren't very the most athletic team. We weren't the biggest team. We always faced opponents who were bigger and maybe more athletic. Most of the time we came out on the winning end. It was the discipline in which he ran the program and outworking your competition and being in better mental shape that's what KR taught

Tony Miller, Class of 1990, current defensive coordinator for the Wolves: "It was very special (to be there for the win). I think both of us had tears in our eyes. It was a special day. We were confident he would always achieve it. I hope he sticks around for 300 because it would mean he would be coaching my kids."

Learned from KR: "You fear no one, you respect everybody and you treat others how you want to be treated."

Don Rush, Class of 1981, played for Clarkston JV Football under KR: "It is a testament to his stick-to-itness and the community's support of the program. He is a good football man. He is passionate. He grew up here. He has supported the community as much as the community has supported him."

Learned from KR: "Always try your hardest. Get back up and try it again. I always remember him smiling and laughing."

Pink presentation for Sister & Sister

Clarkston Retailers Group presented a donation totaling $700 to Sister & Sister, a free program offering mammograms to Oakland County residents.

Retailers raised the funds during Paint the Town Pink, Oct. 17, when area businesses offered guests food, drinks, and special deals to raise money for the cause.

Teresa Rodgers from Sister & Sister visited Clarkston to pick up the check on Nov. 8 from Clarkston Retailers Group Peg Roth and Christina Calka.

The group promotes breast cancer awareness throughout the community while facilitating mammogram screenings for uninsured, atrisk, and low-income women in Oakland County.

Kids come through for Army food bank

Military families in need will have a bountiful Thanksgiving thanks for Clarkston Junior High students.

"The kids did really well," said Christine Rogers, history teacher and Academic Service Learning district secondary coordinator. "They were relentless. They pushed and pushed, and collected $1,000 in donations and about 5,500 items, good quality stuff."

The Operation Homefront food drive helps the 919th Army Reserve Transportation Company's food pantry in Saginaw.

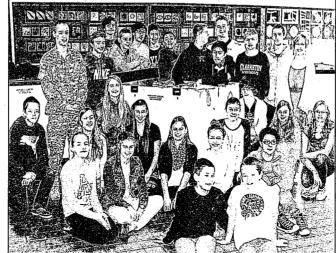

"The kids are cool, energetic and enthusiastic," said SFC Yeartie, who helped organize the drive and stopped by the school, Nov. 14, to pick up the donations.

The food drive, in its second year, provides about 85 percent of donations for the pantry, Yeartie said.

"Clarkston is a very giving community," Rogers said. "Every year, they impress and surprise me. The kids are very dedicated."

Private Jeff Singles, who was also on hand to help, is a Clarkston graduate.

"It's surreal - I feel so much older," said Singles, who graduated from Clarkston High School last June and went to Army Basic Training in July. "They ask me what it was like when I was here, but it was only four years ago."

The private wasn't in town for long - he was preparing to ship out for duty in Korea.

"I'm looking forward to my next adventure," he said.

Operation Homefront serves families in need of financial assistance, emergency food, home and appliance repair, and other help.

Clarkston players past and present reflect on Coach Kurt Richardson's 200-win milestone:

Lessons from Coach Kurt?

Nick McInally -

"He always instilled in us the ethic of hard work and most importantly how do deal with adversity. It was one of the things he always mentioned. He always mentioned things aren't going to go the way you plan and you have to be willing to adapt and embrace the opportunities that come with adversity."

Eric Eberle -

"He taught us about your attitude being how you can not only take football but life. Your attitude is going to impact what you take out of life. It translated into your effort and your pride on the field and pride of Clarkston football.

Jesse Chadwell --"Never be satisfied. No matter what you can do there is something you can do better. Playing for Coach KR definitely made me humble. He never let me get too cocky and he always staved on top of me and work. It made me a better player.

lan Eriksen -

"He is a really knowledgable coach and always has great things to share with us. It is great to have a coach like that - so experienced and cares a lot about us."

ong road to teaching for Clarkston grad

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Molly Goss is only a few months into being apart of Teach for America and every day

The Clarkston High School 2008 graduate is currently teaching Spanish I to high school students in Nashville, Tenn.

"It is the best feeling in the world," she shared when her students understand the foreign language.

Most of her students are sophomores while a few are juniors and seniors because Tennessee requires two years of a foreign "Teaching Spanish is different than teaching math or science," she continued. "I have seen this in a lot of my students where they have preconceived notions of math. With Spanish they have no previous knowledge so they don't have any predisposed notions."

Goss added she has a lot of students not doing well in their core subjects and when they receive a high grade in her class they feel better about themselves.

"They are that much invested not only in the class but in themselves. It is seeing them being more confident in themselves," she said. "My students don't have a lot of support from their parents at home so they get the main support from their teachers. There is something really special about encouraging students. It can really impact and shape their lives."

Her experiences with Teach for America and all of her 215 students are great.

"For me, the big thing it has boiled down to is the kids," she said. "They all have their own personalities and there are days I want to start crying and thinking I can't do this. But it has boiled down to seeing my students be successful. Hearing them say they love coming to my class and they never thought they would be successful in Spanish. Seeing the impact of opening their eyes to another world has been like. You can get wrapped up in the politics of the public school system but it really boils to the kids."

Goss had always wanted to go into education because she had a great experience with her teachers.

"Being an educator is a way you can give confidence to students and impact and shape the course of their lives because that's what happened to be," she added. "Being an educator was something I became very passionate about. It plays such a huge role in people's

It was while she was studying abroad in Argentina she had a life epiphany because the public schools in the country weren't high. They were low.

"I saw a lot of education inequity in those schools and I thought this doesn't happen in the US.," Goss said.

"Then, I did a little bit of research and realized low equity is huge here and a big problem. To me it was a no brainer because I always said I would be happiest in a career I could see my impact on others. So I really wanted to find a way I could combine that and education inequity."

She found out about Teach for America, which provides education to kids in low-income communities, from a friend who was involved.

"I had a conversation with her and she said 'I think you are someone who would really thrive in this environment," Goss said. "I looked in my research and it was all my apples in one basket. I really wanted to do

She applied for Teach for America and has been with them since May. She also taught summer school in Atlanta.

She admitted at one time she did pause from her path going into education - as she called the college life crisis.

"I strayed away from it for a little bit," she said. "But I always knew in the back of my head it is what I would be doing. It was just a matter of taking the long route to get there."

The long route helped as it gave her time to reflect on what was important and finding something where she could help others.

"When my students are doing well and become more involved it makes me excited," she smiled. "Everyone gets excited to answer questions because they know the answers. It has been really rewarding for me. Teach for America is a way I can have a direct involvement in making my classes that much better."

"If someone is remotely interested in changing our education system and having an impact on education it is a program to look into and pursue," Goss added. For more information, visit www.teachforamerica.org.

Give thanks all year long

Spiritual

Matters

Jonathan

We are in the midst of this season of frenetic activity and nonstop celebrating (or at least preparation for celebrating) someone has all too accurately dubbed "Hallowthankmas."

While I am not sure of the origin of the term, I am certain that I know the experience of this busy, too often stressful, and yet hopefully joyful and fun time of year. It all begins in October (or is it even earlier now?) when Christmas decor shows up right next to Halloween costumes and ends early in the New

Of course one of the hazards of this headlong holiday blur is that we may mostly end up exhausted and fail to appreciate or enjoy any it. I guess that's why Thanksgiving is one of my favorite days of the year.

It really helps me press the pause button and take the time to "count my blessings." On Thanksgiving I try to focus on appreciating the simple blessings of life that mean so much but that I all too often take for granted: precious time with family, the food on our table, the friends we have, our church, and the many other blessings we have received from God.

Of course taking time to really reflect on our lives and God's goodness is a good habit to develop for everyday. For me it's a matter of being intentional to pause long enough to remember that today, just like any other day, has 86,400 seconds in it - and to decide to use at least a few of those to say "thank you!"

I once read a little story about a grandfather who was asked by his young granddaughter if he liked the turkey this year - a question often asked nervously at holiday

The grandfather responded he liked the turkey very much and in fact he tries "to have a little turkey every day." Confused the little girl asked what he meant. He explained that he has a tradition in his life where each day he says thanks to God.

So even though Thanksgiving Day will come and go, there is no reason we too can't "have a little turkey" every day. And of course if you don't really like turkey you can substitute ham or fish or green beans or corn or tofu - what matters is the reminder that all is gift and that there is a giver to thank.

One of the most important ways I try to say thanks to God every day is in my giving to God's work and to others. Such "thanks giving" may be something material or it may just be sharing a smile or a word of encouragement or an extra dose of patience and love to someone else.

My prayer is that our generosity will flow as we give thanks through our giving to those around us, both just down the street and on the other side of the globe.

Psalm 100 puts it this way:

Make a joyful noise to the Lord, all the Worship the Lord with gladness; come into his presence with singing.

Know that the Lord is God. It is he that made us, and we are his; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

Enter his gates with thanksgiving, and his courts with praise. Give thanks to him, bless his name.

For the Lord is good; his steadfast love endures forever, and his faithfulness to all generations.

You might consider putting these words on your refrigerator or taping them to the bathroom mirror or typing them into your smart phone, so that they can help you begin each morning with a "little turkey." Have a blessed Thanksgiving!

Tax law for vets

A new Michigan law passed Nov. 12, the "Dannie Lee Barnes Disabled Veteran Property Tax Relief Act," is effective immediately and provides disabled veterans a 100 percent exemption on property taxes.

The law allows honorably disabled U.S. veterans, along with their spouses, to waive all property taxes for their primary residence. Eligible residents must submit a signed affidavit along with proof of eligibility to the Independence Township Assessing Department before a Board of Review meeting on Dec. 10.

"We would like to get the word out to our veterans that may be eligible for this exemption of property taxes," said Chris Ritchie, Independence Township assistant director of assessing.

If the board approves their eligibility, they will have their 2013 property taxes on their homestead cancelled altogether. After that date, they won't be able to apply for the 2013 year and will only be able to apply beginning with the 2014 tax year, Ritchie said.

An affidavit must also be submitted with proof. To qualify:

 Real property used and owned as a homestead by a disabled veteran who was discharged from the armed forces of the U.S. under honorable conditions or surviving spouse described in Sec 2.

• The affidavit shall be filed at the local assessing office by the property owner or their legal designee. The affidavit is filed with the assessing office between tax day for each year (Dec. 31) and ending at the final adjournment of the Board of Review.

• Taxes will be cancelled for any year in which a disabled veteran eligible for this exemption has acquired title to real property exempt under this section.

• If a disabled veteran who is otherwise eligible for an exemption dies, either before or after the exemption is granted, the exemption shall remain available to or shall continue for their unremarried surviving spouse. That spouse must be a resident of Michigan and who owns and uses the home as their homestead. The surviving spouse shall comply with the requirements and shall indicate on the affidavit that they are the surviving spouse entitled to the exemption. The exemption shall continue as long as the surviving spouse remains unremarried.

"Disabled Veteran" means a person who is a state resident, determined by Veterans Affairs to be permanently and totally disabled as a result of military service and entitled to veterans' benefits at 100 percent rate, as well as housing, and has been rated by Veterans Affairs as individually unemployable.

Freebies, deals at Clarkston Chamber Expo

Clarkston businesses filled the Clarkston High School cafeteria during the 27th Clarkston Chamber of Commerce Annual Best of the Best Business Expo, Nov. 14.

Business gave away free goodies as they welcome visitors and promoted their business, organizations and churches.

Visitors could also sign up for special deals and giveaways during the expo.

Business began the evening mingling with each other during a Business to Business hour from 5-6 p.m. before doors opened to the public at 6 p.m.

Proceeds from a special hat raffle raised money for Habitat for Humanity Women's Build 2014 and Blessings in a Backpack, a local organization providing food and snacks for children in need on weekends.

Special prizes including a television were given away during the event.

Snacks were served by students from the Oakland Technical Center Marketing program.

~Staff Writer Andrea Beaudoin

Holly High School students from the Oakland Technical Center Marketing Program D-onte Fetzer and Derrick Clemons serve snacks and drinks during the expo.

Fritz and David Jackson pose behind their exhibit table of their business Ideas for You while Angie Logan, chair of the Expo planning committee, checks out all the items.

Brody Enerson uses his dancing skills in the "Just Dance" session of the Dance-A-Thon.

Natalie Benton dances to "Call Me Maybe"

Anna Kuebler smiles as she learns how to Zumba with her classmates.

Eagles dance

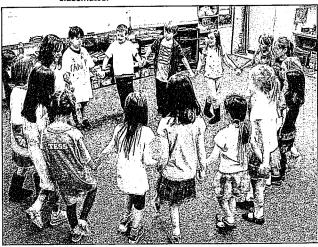

Andersonville Elementary students stayed after school on Nov. 8 for the school's dance-a-thon.

Over 60 students danced and were physically active for four hours as they learned different dances at six different stations.

"With the help of the Crim Fitness Foundation and the Fuel Up to Play 60 student led team, Andersonville teachers gave parents a night out to help kids get active and keep moving," said Andrea Lockwood, teacher.

She added the dance-a-thon was a fundraiser for the school to get the little extras every class-room needs.
