FIGHTING FOR JOBS

FOOD SERVICE WORKERS RALLY AGAINST PRIVATIZATION PLANS

Susan Bromley Staff Writer

Terri Kasik is fighting to keep her job, as well as the jobs of her Novi Food Service co-workers. At 7 p.m. Thursday, May the Novi Community School District's Board of Education will review bids from three private contractors as members consider whether to outsource the district's entire food service department at once, privatize gradually through attrition or leave things as is.

"The main thing is, if the board privatizes completely, they stand to lose all the dedicated workers who know the kids, know the schools and have an investment here," said Kasik, who has been collecting petition signatures and established a Facebook page, Novi Neighbors Serving Schools. "I think we would have the option to apply with a private company, but we have no detail of what that would be like. ... We are asking the community to attend the May 19 meeting in support of

At the June 2 meeting, the board is scheduled to take action on the proposal. Meetings take place at the Educational Services building, 25345 Taft Road. The district's food service contract expires June 30.

Steve Barr, assistant su tendent of business and operations for the district, said a food service management company request for proposal was opened to bidders March 24. The request included offering two choices, with option A transitioning staff to the food service management company through attrition and option B, the food service management company employing its own staff.

By the April 20 deadline, three bids were received and those companies were interviewed April 26. Barr declined to comment further prior to presenting the information at Thursday's meeting to board members. The board could also choose to "remain status quo," with

Vietnam vets seek peace, gratitude for service

Jingozian was a tunnel rat. As a 120-pound 20-year-old, small and athletic, he was chosen to crawl through hundreds of miles of an underground network with only a .45, a bayonet and an infrared flashlight, coming across unspeakable horrors.

"I don't even talk about it, to tell you the truth," said the Novi resident, now 68. "It's too hard. I have nightmares as it is."

Many of his friends returned home in body bags. When Jingozian and his surviving comrades left Vietnam and returned to the U.S., they did not receive a hero's welcome.

Time may not heal all wounds, but acknowledgment of their sacrifices and gratitude for their service is being given to these veterans in various ceremonies commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Vietnam

Pat Deneau pulls tractor tires, lifts 40-pound buckets and swings a sledgehammer repeatedly on a nearly daily basis as part of his physical training regimen as a Novi firefighter.

Are you capable of doing the same, as well as overcoming other obstacles while running a 5K?

On June 11, Deneau and 11 other staff members of the Novi police and fire departments are ready to take on civilians in the Novi Emergency Challenge 5K.

This race is pretty special for us because we come to work every day and handle our business and prepare mentally and physically to go on calls," Deneau said. "It's great for the community to experience some of what we experience."

The race features 10 obstacles on the 5K route, which starts and ends at the main entrance of St. John Providence Park Hospital, but deviates from previous emergency runs in that instead of three laps around the hospital, the course winds through the ITC corridor, with portions on Beck Road, Wildlife Woods Park and the Novi Middle School soccer fields.

"We took a year off, since attendance had plateaued because of how easy the course was," Police Sgt. Kevin Rhea said. "We brainstormed some new ideas and with the popularity of other challenge races like Tough Mudder and the Warrior Dash. We created this challenge."

He is hoping for 200-400 participants, who will encounter 10 obstacles, including: "The Road Hazard," a network of tires to shuffle through; "Walls of Honor," 6-foot and 8-foot high walls to be scaled; "Tire-d Pull," tractor tires to be hauled 25-50 feet; "K-9 Crawl," shimmying under a 3-foot high snow fence;

the district continuing to employ its own food service staff.

Outsourcing on the

Privatization of such services is increasing, ostensibly to save districts money as costs rise and state funding of education does not.

Danelle Gittus, director of communications for Oakland Schools, provided a draft support services survey that shows out of 28 public school districts in the county, 17 are using private food service contractors at least in part tractors, at least in part.

That includes Novi.
Although the food service staff is fighting to retain their jobs, the board took the first step by outsourcing food service management a few years ago to Chartwells. The company "combines a global food service network with the on-site expertise of local managers," according to chartwellsjobs.com.

Some 20 county school districts, including Novi, have outsourced custodial services or have plans to do so, while 18 use privatized transportation services.

"A lot of the staff of the whole district can say, 'Look what happened when you privatized custodians,'" Kasik said. "How is that working out for you? The schools are not as clean. It's not the same when you have people who don't care about their jobs and don't show up. Private contractors attract people that are just there until the next job comes along or a job that is closer to their home."

Kasik, the Novi Food Service Employees Association president, currently represents 36 food service staff and has been a school district food service employee for 18 years. She cooks meals for fifth-grade students at Novi Meadows Elementary School.

Rising costs

Costs in the food service department apparently began increasing along with the number of employees when the district changed to Chartwells management, as well as implemented a new menu in order to meet USDA school meals guidelines through the Healthy, Hunger Free Kids Act championed by First Lady Michelle Obama and signed by President Barack Obama that took effect in 2012. The changes were the first major ones to school meals in 15 years. Kasik noted that more produce is required and it takes longer to cook the healthier meals, resulting in higher costs for food

"The good point is we are encouraging kids to eat more fruits and vegetables," she said. "Fresh is what you want to see. We were offering healthy food before, but now it's even healthier.

Fruits and vegetables are more expensive. ... When you have to make more things from scratch, it takes more labor, more time. Expanding the menu has caused more hours to be added and more jobs were needed."

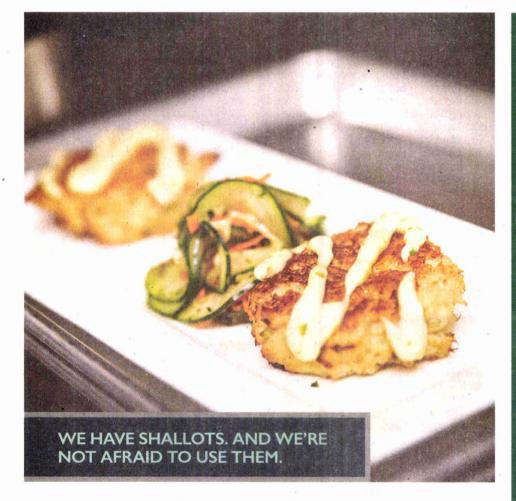

Kasik knows it is likely the pay for district food service employees, some of whom have served the district for a decade or longer, is higher than what private companies offer. The highest paid food service employee in Novi earns $18 per hour, she said, although the average for the 19 employees on the original pay schedule is about $13.90 per hour, while the average for the 17 employees on the new pay schedule is $9.83 per hour.

Kasik receives health insurance and retirement benefits as well, but not everyone does. She notes she hasn't had a raise in years; three years ago, she and her colleagues took a 7-percent salary cut.

Still, they want to keep these jobs and to continue serving the kids.

"Nobody cares or has the passion for serving the students of Novi like the Novi food service ladies do," Kasik said. "No one will take care of them like we have done in the past or will do in the future. Novi ladies are dedicated and invested and loyal to the district. We hope they will be loyal to us."

he had no name, but resulting directly from his experiences in Vietnam. He feared crowds, always had to have his back to the wall in rooms, was easily irritated, endured night sweats and nightmares.

His entire life and personality had changed from what he had been prior to experiencing war. Friends had died in his arms, on a daily basis. He had grown up very religious and then been taught to kill. He carried out the orders he was given.

He couldn't stop thinking about it after it was over. He was married and had a child, but he would stay at the bar drinking, he would come home late, he didn't want to be around anyone and withdrew from those he loved. His marriage was ruined, his family lost, his life in shambles.

"My wife didn't understand," he said. "How would anyone understand? I didn't under-

Post-traumatic stress disorder

In 2007, four decades after the Battle of Dak To, in a war that had now haunted Jingozian for two-thirds of his life, he was diagnosed with posttraumatic stress disorder.

Dr. Katherine Porter, a clinical psychologist, describes PTSD as a condition that can develop following a traumatic event such as combat, sexual or physical assault, natural disaster or accident.

At the VA Ann Arbor Healthcare System, where she is on the PTSD clinic team, Porter sees four categories of symptoms, including intrusions, in which a person re-experiences the memory or emotions connected with the trauma, including nightmares and flashbacks; avoidance, which includes both trying to avoid the memory related to the event, as well as efforts to avoid people or situations that remind them of the event; negative alterations in thoughts and mood, with feelings of numbness, difficulties connecting with others, lack of interest and negative beliefs about self and others; and hyperarousal, which includes difficulty sleeping, anger, increased startle response and always feeling on-guard.

Porter cites various studies as estimating that 10-30 percent of combat veterans will develop PTSD and a range of factors related to its development and continuation, including "experiencing a greater number of traumatic events in one's lifetime, more severe exposure (i.e., closer proximity, more direct contact with death and suffering), prior mental health conditions and possibly even particular brain structures are associated with higher risk of developing PTSD after a traumatic experience."

According to the www.nimh.nih.gov website, "Nearly everyone will experience a range of reactions after trauma, yet most people recover from initial symptoms naturally. Those who continue to experience problems may be diagnosed with PTSD. People who have PTSD may feel stressed or frightened even when they are not in danger."

Jingozian knows that it affects not only military veterans, but many other groups of people as well: firefighters, police officers and women who have been raped, among them. They may never get over it; he knows he will not, but he has learned to stay away from triggers — when possible.

"I was at a Guard meeting and a guy asked me if I remembered the faces of people I'd killed and I went home and cried all night," Jingozian said. "Don't ask stupid questions of anyone that suffers from PTSD."

Paul Jingozian with his service dog Aubree, who wakes him from the nightmares caused by post-traumatic stress disorder from his time serving in the Vietnam War.

Porter said several effective treatments exist for PTSD, including both therapy and medications. Prolonged exposure therapy and cognitive processing therapy help those with the condition to process and deal with the emotions related to the traumatic event and address the avoidance and changes in beliefs that people with PTSD experience. There are also a wide range of medication options, including anti-depressant

If a loved one is suffering from PTSD, Porter said the best thing family members and friends can do is be patient.

"It is often hard for people who are experiencing PTSD to disclose their past experiences or the struggles they are facing now and they are often concerned about how others will react," she said. "Additionally, people with PTSD may feel very uncomfortable in situations that we tend to take for granted. As such, it is important to just be patient and to listen when people are willing to share.' Jingozian is that person for many veterans now. He works in the Buddy-to-Buddy veteran volunteer program (buddytobuddy.org), connecting veterans to resources and getting them the benefits they have earned. He also facilitates a PTSD wellness group 1-3 p.m. each Friday at the Polish Legion of the American Veterans in Livonia, with 25 members, many from Vietnam, but also with Desert Storm veterans and newer vets from Iraq and Afghanistan.

Find a friend "Finding someone who will listen to you and going to these groups will help you," Jingozian said. "Don't stop trying to get into the VA. Some guys are walking around with a traumatic brain injury, but were misdiagnosed and go on their merry way and never go back. You have to fight for yourself.'

Jingozian, who has been remarried for 31 years and is a proud father, also had to learn to put himself first on occasion. After seven years of having a prescription for a service dog, but not using it because he didn't want to take one that might possibly go to a younger veteran, he finally went and picked out a shelter dog. The golden retriever-lab mix named Aubree was trained by Stiggy's Dogs in Howell (stiggysdogs.org), a nonprofit organization trains shelter rescues to be service animals for veterans suffering from PTSD.

Aubree wakes Jingozian from nightmares, never asks questions stupid or otherwise and is a constant friend that accompanies him to his various veterans meetings, including those he co-chairs at the Ann Arbor VA Veterans Coun-

While he, like so many others, hasn't completely escaped the trauma of war, Jingozian, who received his commemorative pin last year, now has coping mechanisms. He encourages others to seek out help and to not give up

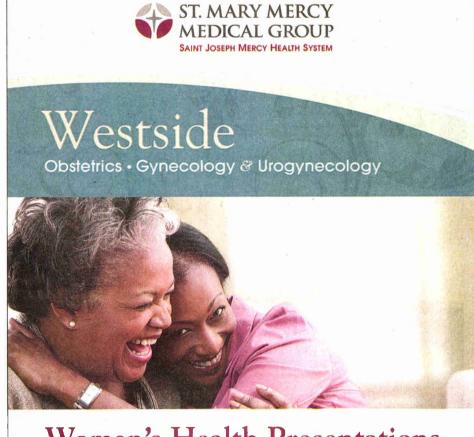

"You don't want to go through life knowing there is something you can get help with," he said. "Life will go on."

School district's goal is to develop student potential hen my son was 9 years old, I was the manager of his Little League baseball team. At the beginning of the season, the adults associated with the team thought it had potential. The question was would the team really develop into anything. Trying to project the potential of 9-year-old boys is really hard to do.

It turns out that the team really did have potential and we ended up qualifying for our town's version of the World Series. And that is where the story gets interesting.

The World Series was a best two out of three. After two games, each team had won one. After four innings of the final game, our team was down.

Our district's vision statement proclaims that we will "develop each student's potential with a world-class education." The question we clearly have to answer is what is the potential of each student?

Our vision statement makes the point that every one of our students has potential. Seen another way, our vision statement says that every one of our students has the capacity to develop into something. The job of our district is to develop that potential, to help each student develop his or her unique potential.

We live in a world that tends to value certain characteristics and traits. This is especially true in education. The No Child Left Behind legislation passed in 2001 valued math and reading. Other important subjects in school were given less priority or, in some cases, almost no priority.

In the past few years, we have begun to turn a corner in education and we are beginning to recognize that while math and reading are certainly important, other subject areas and skills are also important. Art, physical education, science, writing, music and history deserve our attention.

This is important because our students have a variety of interests. Connecting what goes on in school with their interests certainly can motivate our students. It can also help our students develop their potential when they believe that we value what they value.

I have the good fortune to visit our buildings every month. While I am there, I see the tremendous potential of our students. I see the students who understand math and who can read at a very high level. I also see the students who have gifts in art and science and music. I see students who are excited about history and foreign language and broadcast-

As a school district, we understand that our responsibility is to help each student develop his or her potential. The wonderful thing about our school district is that we have the capacity to provide a wide range of opportunities for our students. Our school district has the resources and the personnel to help all of our students find their passion and develop their potential.

My Little League baseball team eventually came back to win our World Series game. It took the efforts of each one to make it happen. In our school district, we want to ensure that each of our students understands that we will work hard to help them find success and fulfill their potential.

Steve M. Matthews, Ed.D., is superintendent of the Novi Community School District. He can be reached at smatthews@novischools.net.

U.S. Rep. Dave Trott, R-Birmingham, announced that Sihan Wang of Novi, a student at Novi High School, is the winner of the 2016 Congressional Art Competition in Michigan's 11th Congressional District. Wang's artwork will be displayed in an exhibit in the U.S. Capitol Building in Washington, D.C.

"Even though I worked hard on this piece, I did not expect to receive such a big recognition. I was happily surprised," Wang said in a release.

"On behalf of the citizens of southeast Michigan, I want to congratulate Sihan on winning this year's contest and I'm looking forward to seeing her artwork as part of the congressional exhibit in Washington," Trott stated in the release. "Sihan's artwork will be a great representation of the many talented young artists in southeast Michigan and will be seen by thousands of visitors to the Capitol building. I wish Sihan the best of luck in her future endeavors and hope she continues pursuing her talent and interest in art.

Driver busted for pot was seeking Taco Bell

A driver who claimed he was attempting to find a Taco Bell was arrested for possession of marijuana after police said he nearly hit another vehicle and drove toward oncoming traffic. A Novi police officer on patrol at about 1:45 a.m. May 10 at Beck Road and Pontiac Trail watched a gray Honda Civic begin to turn right on Hickory Street, then suddenly swerve back on to Beck Road, nearly hitting a silver sedan that had been traveling behind it. The Civic then continued southbound on Beck before turning onto Tamarack Drive, entering the wrong side of the divided entrance into oncoming traffic, a police report stated.

The officer stopped the vehicle and the driver said he and his three passengers were attempting to find the entrance to Taco Bell. The officer noted the smell of marijuana coming from the car.

The officer had the driver exit the vehicle and questioned him about marijuana. At first the driver denied having any drugs, then police said he admitted marijuana was in the car, but he didn't know who had

The officer found a blue glass pipe with marijuana residue in a side pocket attached to the front passenger door. He also located two small "dime bag" plastic baggies with a green leafy substance suspected to be marijuana.

The front seat passenger finally admitted it was his marijuana. police said. He was arrested for possession of marijuana and possession of drug parapherna-

No prize winner

A woman was skeptical when she received a phone call telling her she had won a half-million dollars, but apparently revealed sensitive information anyway.

The woman, a Lenox Park community resident near 13 Mile and M-5, reported to police May 9 that she received a phone call from a person claiming she had won second place and a prize of $500,000 in a consumers group contest. The woman told police she was skeptical but, after "an engaging conversation," followed through.

The caller asked if she would be home a few days later between the hours of 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. and the woman told her she would not, that she had appointments. The suspect continued to ask for more information, including the woman's birth date, as well as that of her husband.

The complainant finally questioned why the suspect would need her husband's birth date and ended the call, but is worried that the suspect knows her house would be unoccupied on the day her prize was to have been delivered.

She was told to no longer give out personal information over the phone. She requested an officer keep a lookout over her house on that date at that time.

Not so cheap sunglasses

A woman is out of a pair of $800 teal Kate Spade prescription sunglasses, as well as two iPhone 6 car chargers, after someone allegedly stole the items from her vehicle.

She reported to police she last saw her vehicle, parked in the driveway of her home on Nantucket Drive, intact at about 10 p.m. May 8. When she returned to it at 6:45 a.m. the following day, the driver's side door was slightly ajar and contents of the center console strewn about. She is unsure if she locked the vehicle.

Curfew

A police officer found three teenagers at about 2 a.m. May 8 in a retail parking lot on Beck Road. Two of the teens were in a vehicle, while the third was walking away from a brick wall that divided the lot with an apartment complex and got back in the vehi-

The officer made contact with the vehicle's occupants, two males and a female, and was told they were driving around after all had played in a hockey game. The man who had been out of the car said he was going to urinate, but changed his mind when he saw the officer come around the corner. He was advised of the ordinance against urinating in public.

The officer asked the female to step out of the car and she said her parents knew she was out with her two male friends. The officer asked her to call her dad, but she said she had his cellphone with her and they had no house phone so she would be unable to contact him.

She was taken to her residence and turned over to her father, who said he knew his daughter was out with her friends and had told her to be home around 2 a.m. The males were released at the scene without any further issues.

Mysterious thanks

A man called police after receiving a Federal Express package May 9 at his Trillium Loop residence that contained only a piece of paper reading, "Thank you for payment."

Neither the man nor his wife have ordered any items. He was advised to contact his bank and check his statements to ensure that he and his wife's debit and credit cards were not fraudulently used and to return the package to the nearest FedEx location.

Stolen purse

A woman who reportedly left her purse under a blanket in her car while at the park for an hour returned to find the vehicle's window broken and her purse, with phone and credit cards inside, gone. The incident occurred 3:30-4:30 p.m. May 7 in the south parking lot of the park located on South Lake Drive, on the west end of the lot.

Two men in a truck A driver and his passenger were arrested for open intoxicants in a vehicle after being pulled over by a Novi Police officer at 1:12 a.m. May 6 for a burned out headlight.

The officer wrote in a report that he could smell intoxicants and was initially told there had been no drinking. It was later discovered there was an open glass of Jack Daniels and an open Budweiser beer bottle in the truck. The officer dumped both and transported the men to the station, releasing the vehicle to one of their mothers. They were issued citations for open intoxicants in a vehicle and released on fraud, third degree. The women both said they knew what they did was wrong. One said she had the money, but wanted to save it for other expenses. The other said she didn't want to pay because she didn't have that much money. Each was found stealing five items with total values of $98 and $87.56. Both of the suspects posted $100 bond.

Durham bus

A Plymouth-Canton Community Schools bus monitor, employed by Durham School Services, pleaded not guilty Thursday, May 12, to two felony sexual assault charges against a minor in 35th District Court in Plymouth, following his arrest by Northville Township Police.

Both Plymouth-Canton and Northville school districts contract with Durham for bus services. But the alleged sexual assaults did not occur with children in either of those districts. The reported incidents did occur

Perillo

Lt. Paul Tennies said. Rocky Perillo, 46, a Plymouth Township resident, faces one count of criminal sexual conduct first-degree and one count of criminal sexual conduct seconddegree with a person under 13 and defendant over 17, according to the 35th District Court. He was arrested Wednesday, May 11, by Northville Police.

in Northville Township,

The first-degree count carries a 25-year minimum prison sentence, while the seconddegree count carries a 15-year prison sentence.

Perillo could face additional charges. "We have other open investigations. When people heard we had arrested him, a new complaint came forward." Tennies said. Plymouth Township Police are investigating the latest complaint stemming from Perillo's work as a home health care provider, Tennies Perillo is expected to return to 35th District Court for a probable cause hearing May 20 and a preliminary exam on the charges May 27.

Northville Township Police ask the public to contact the department at 248-349-9400 if they have any information regarding the reported incidents

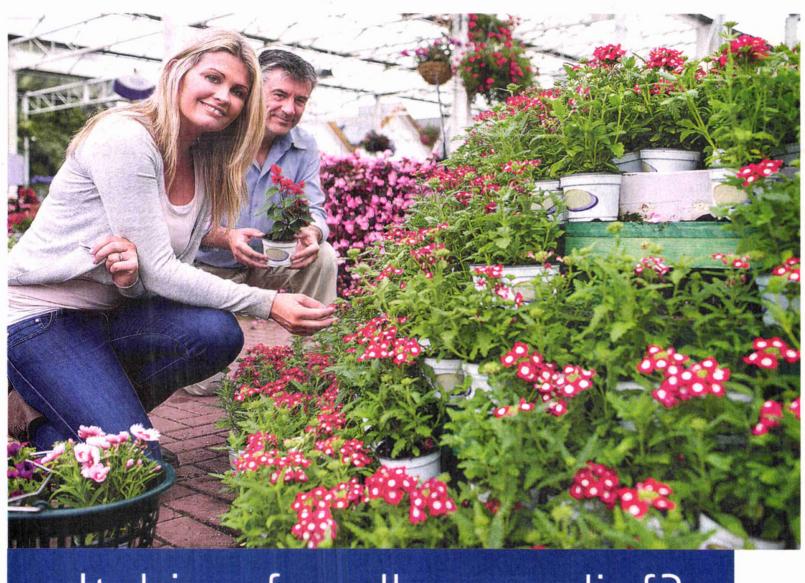

While the sexual assault charges are unrelated to Perillo's work at the district, Plymouth-Canton school and Durham officials released the following statement:

'Safety is our top priority, and we will continue to keep that as our focus across all areas of our business. We would like to reassure P-CCS parents and members in the community that we have a stringent hiring process for bus drivers and monitors. There are many steps taken before employment, this includes drug and alcohol testing and a criminal background check. Monitors and drivers are also fingerprinted which is sent to the state police who forward the information to the district.

"The employee involved, who worked as a special-needs bus monitor, has been placed on unpaid leave pending the outcome of the investigation. The investigation is not related to the person's employment with Durham School Services, and the charges are not in relation to students of or affiliated with Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The alleged incidents were not reported until after the employee was hired by Durham and, therefore, did not show up on his background check. "Our common mission is getting students to school safely, on time, and ready to learn."

Arts council seeks artists for three events

Huron Valley Council for the Arts is looking for artists from all mediums for the 2017 Gallery Exhibition series, a Veterans Gallery Show in November and the 12th annual Arts & Greens Holiday Arts Market. Artists can go to www.huronvalleyarts.org for details and a link for the application process under Artist Opportunities.

The 2017 Gallery Series is a great opportunity for both an individual artist or a group of artists with cohesive work, in any medium. Each artist will be juried and the top artists will be offered a month-long exhibition in the historic Highland Station House gallery. Huron Valley Council for the Arts provides marketing and a wine and cheese reception for each.

New this year is a veterans gallery show in the month of November. Aptly named Warrior's HeART, the show will focus on the work of active or veteran military men and women of Michigan. Prizes will be awarded for multiple categories. The show will be juried by artists Ken Graning and Nelson Greer.

Arts & Greens Holiday market at Bogie Lake Greenhouses is also opening its call for artists.

NORTHVILLE ACADEMIC ACHIEVERS

Highest standing

Freshman Aaron Hoorn of Northville, a 2015 graduate of South Lyon East High School, was among 27 students who were recently awarded the President's Cup at Alma College. The students earned the honor by achieving the highest academic standing in their respective classes at the college.

Students who earned the honor received a certificate acknowledging their achievement and have their name inscribed on the appropriate class (freshman, sophomore or junior) President's Cup trophy. The trophies are kept on permanent display in the Reid-Knox Administration Building on campus.

Performed

Northville native Gina Mazziotti, who is studying music performance at San Diego State University, was among 250 musicians who performed in a concert at the historic Copley Symphony Hall in downtown San Diego in April. Mazziotti performed as part of the Chamber Singers.

Dean's list

Elizabeth Boutin of Northville was named to the dean's list at Belmont University for the spring 2016 semester. Eligibility is based on a minimum course load of 12 hours and a quality grade-point average of 3.5 with no grade below a C.

Northville residents Amanda Rencsok, Kailey Savona, Ryan Skowronek, Jessica Snyder and Reagan Spindler were named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Hope College.

Fans of the Detroit Lions were in for a oneof-a-kind treat May 12.

But instead of the field, the Detroit Lions representatives played at James R. Geisler Middle School in a Harlem Globetrotters-style game of basketball against the Fraternal Order of Police Southwestern Oakland County Lodge 128.

Fans could tell they were in store for a night of fun when they announced that the referee would be the one and only former Lions player Rob Rubick. There was plenty of audience participation: Kids were invited to participate after being chosen from the stands.

FOP 128 President Jon Jacobs Jr. said, "I am thrilled with excitement over the audience attendance and support. Everyone had an evening of fun and made some fantastic memories, all while making a difference at our benefit basketball game.'

Silver Springs hosts annual diversity event

Danielle Alexander

Silver Springs Elementary School on Friday hosted its annual Multi-Cultural Festival, which is always intended to connect families and cultures.

"It was fantastic," Principal Katie Booth said. "It was our ninth annual festival, so next year will be our 10-year anniversary.'

The free event opened with a student fashion show, which featured cultural outfits modeled by students of different heritages. Next, students and families provided the attendees with a variety of entertainment reflecting their ethnicities. Surrounding the school's multi-purpose room, students and families designed cultural tables, which displayed items specific to their backgrounds, including food and hands-on activities.

"Many of the attendees were also dressed in a wardrobe

This year, 17 countries were represented, including Armenia, Austria, Brazil, China, France, Greece, Guatemala, India, Italy, Japan, Korea, Lebanon, Mexico, Palestine, Poland, Scotland and Venezuela. LRE paraprofessional Debbie Eichholtz, as well as the school's Dad's Club, organized the event.

"For me, it's like a hands-on geography lesson," Booth said. "Everyone who attended got the chance to travel through time to many different places that they may not ever have the chance to experience.'

Lessen stigma' of mental illness: Speakers share their stories

Julie Brown Staff Writer

Mike speaks to groups on his mental illness "to bring a little bit of hope to those who have none. My hope is that we lessen the stigma.'

He hopes for a day, too, when mental illness is on par with other diseases in terms of research dollars and public awareness. Mike and Kristen were the presenters at a National Alliance on Mental Illness program last week at the William P. Faust Public Library of West-

"The thing we want to give you is hope," Mike told his audience of about 25, encouraging them to seek help. As a teen, he channeled his anger issues into his swimming and continued to swim at Michigan State University competitively.

He graduated with a 3.4 GPA and went on for an M.B.A. Mike is married with three kids. "You can't tell just by looking at me," he said. "Stigma is an ugly word. I think it's the ugliest word we Kristen is a high school guidance counselor who graduated from the University of Michigan and earned her master's degree from Wayne State. "Sports, I think, really saved me," she said of younger days.

These days, she has a cat, loves technology and watching TV crime shows, as well as researching ancestry. Kristen noted the genetic basis of mental illness; she's trying to find roots of her birth family (her mother was adopted) and also runs a support group "Mental illness is part of what I live with every day," she said, adding it was a good day other than the unexpected I-275 construction detour.

'In Our Own Voice'

Kristen and Mike spoke at the Westland library for the "In Our Own Voice" program, sponsored by NAMI and suggested by a library patron. Mike had faced anxiety and depression

Mike was hospitalized in spring 2012 and diagnosed with a form of bipolar disorder, cognitive disorders and generalized anxiety disorder. He recalled the outpatient therapy as saving Kristen, too, was diagnosed with a form of bipolar disorder at 29 and was hospitalized. She was in a new job; her parents moved away.

"They were my safety net. Nothing felt right. Just being in my skin didn't feel right," said Kristen, who drove around a lot at that time.

to bed early on those bad days a big help. "Now it's at the point where I can manage it," she said of her illness, using the analogy of a heart monitor.

Mike had shame and fear for the future. "The stigma of mental illness has a crushing effect on me," he said. "I have to learn to embrace my life as it is today.'

Both have adjusted their goals and dreams, as did the people with mental illness in a video shown that evening. Kristen asks herself "Can I solve it?" and, if not, works on surviving it.

"There are some days I accept it more than others," she said. She initially feared side effects of medication, including weight gain.

In 1956, Dr. Bart Hess and his wife Margaret began their ministry there. He was a young pastor eager to follow God's leading. One afternoon, Hess drove out from Detroit to conduct a funeral. As he passed Six Mile on Farmington Road, he heard God say, "Bart, this is the location of your future church." Hess replied simply,

celebrates 60th anniversary

"Thank you, Lord. Later that same year, a core group from Ward Memorial joined him to launch The Livonia Branch of the Elizabeth W. Ward Memorial Presbyterian Church of Detroit. That name wouldn't fit on a sign - and it definitely wouldn't fit on a business card. In time, it became simply Ward Church.

The late 1950s through the 1980s saw explosive growth in the congregation. Ward became a mega-church before the word even existed. In time, it sent pastors out to launch Trinity Church in Plymouth, Grace Church in Farmington Hills and Cornerstone Church in Brighton. Former associates of Ward also went on to start Faith Presbyterian Church in Rochester, Knox Church in Ann Arbor and even the largest church in the region, Kensington Church in

For 40 years, Ward was located at the corner of Six Mile and Farming ton roads. But by the early 1990s, it was bursting at the seams. In fact, it was common for families to park and walk a quarter-mile just to attend services. The congregation set its eyes on establishing a more community friendly campus. It was a journey 15 years in the making, but in 1998 Ward finally moved from Livonia to Northville. Today, the church sits on 100 acres and has a modern building that provides 200,000 square feet for worship, programs and services to the region. "Ward exists for the community," he added. "We are blessed to serve our friends and neighbors. If you haven't visited yet, please know this place is for you. Stop in and check out the ongoing renovations and explore what we offer families in the western suburbs. We can't wait to meet you."

This month, Aubree's Pizzeria and Grill has begun a collaboration with the Arbor Brewing Co. and the University of Michigan to help raise awareness, funds and support for the fight to end brain cancer. The campaign is specifically in honor of Aubree's co-founder Bill French, who died last year from brain can-

In respect to French and the impact he made in the greater Ypsilanti community, Arbor Brewing Co. has joined the campaign and come up with a unique way to increase its effectiveness. ABC has brewed a limited-edition beer -The Cross Street IPA - in reference to Aubree's original location on Cross Street in Depot Town, Ypsilanti. This beer features lemongrass and hops from around the world and will be available at every Aubree's location in the month of May, as well as the Corner Brewery in Ypsilanti.

There are a variety of ways to get involved with Aubree's and donate to the cause:

» Drink a Cross Street IPA: For every Cross Street IPA purchased in the month of

May, $1 will be donated to the Bill French Brain Cancer Memorial Fund.

» Sign a coaster: When dining at any Aubree's location, donate $1 and sign a coaster that will be hung up for display within the restau-

» Buy a pizza: Aubree's in Marquette, Northville and its two Ypsilanti locations will be donating $1 for every pizza sold each Monday and Tuesday throughout May.

All funds raised throughout the month will go to the Bill French Brain Cancer Memorial Fund to support research at the University of Michigan's Neurology Department.

Shedding light on mental illness reduces stigma

A key program took place last week at the William P. Faust Public Library of Westland. Courtesy of the National Alliance on Mental Illness and the library, residents explored a topic on which there has been too much silence and stigma for far too long.

In Our Own Voice is a public education program developed by NAMI, in which two trained speakers share their personal stories about living with mental illness and achieving recovery. The program was started with a grant from Eli Lilly and Co.

Mike and Kristen shared their stories with an audience of about 25. Businessman Mike had shame and fear for the future. "The stigma of mental illness has a crushing effect on me," he said. "I have to learn to embrace my life as it is today."

Said Kristen, a high school guidance counselor, "We've come a long way. We have a long way to go" on addressing mental illness and mood disorders. Of her father, who was a medic in Vietnam, she said, "He's very accepting of me, loves me."

Both Mike and Kristen emphasized professional help, with resources often available for free through the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University. NAMI has resource information and is online at www.namimetro.org and www.namimi.org.

Audience niembers asked questions, including one elderly father concerned about a middle-aged daughter who won't acknowledge her mental illness. Information was shared on support groups, research studies and other resources from those who know the issues best.

IOOV presentations are given to consumer groups, students, law enforcement officials, educators, providers, faith community members, politicians, professionals, inmates and civic groups. Information on hosting speakers can be found online.

The goals of IOOV are to meet the need for consumer-run initiatives, to set a standard for quality education about mental illness from those who have been there, to offer genuine work opportunities, to encourage self-confidence and self-esteem in presenters and to focus on recovery and the message of hone

As Liz Waun, adult services librarian at Westland's library, said, "It's just a very open and honest discussion about mental illness. I think it's really hard for people who don't suffer from mental illness to understand. I think there's a lot of stigma and negativity."

The American Foundation for Suicide Prevention is also getting the word out, hosting regional walks to increase awareness of mental health issues and the tragedy of suicide. A brighter future can be found for those who face mental illness and for their loved ones.

The AFSP will host an "Out of the Darkness" Walk for Metro Detroit/Oakland/Livingston on Oct. 9 at Kensington Metropark's Maple Beach. The walk will be 1-3 p.m., with check-in at 11 a.m. Details are available from Anne Perry at 248-425-2178 or annetperry@gmail.com. Go to afsp.org to learn more about the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention.

Let's get behind these community efforts and reach out to those facing mental illness. Kindness and compassion go a long way toward achieving understanding, along with referral to community services that can assist with issues such as employment and housing.

No one should ever lose a loved one to suicide or have to sit by helplessly while watching a family member or friend combat mental illness. The American Foundation for Suicide Prevention walks and the Westland library program of NAMI are good first steps toward bringing mental illness and mental health to the forefront, where they belong.

Tax breaks leads to ballot request

Regarding city council's latest gambit of increasing taxes, surely taking care of one's property is a necessary thing and we need money to do that

However, I'd be more inclined to agree with such an increase if the same council would straighten up and fly right with developers (Eight Mile and Beck) and stop granting tax abatements (Magna, Harman, hotel at Expo Center). If these commercial entities don't pay taxes, the rest of us have to; that's pure and simple.

We're not some remote community reliant on a single taxpaying factory for jobs and community support; if any or all of those receiving tax abatements were to disappear, others would fill the void and pay taxes in the process. One seriously has to wonder if the mayor and the majority of the city council have a clue.

City council clearly didn't do its due diligence; soon after Farmington Hills tax abatements ran out for Harman, they left town. What a surprise; when the abatements we give run out, they'll be running for some other ill-informed community, again seeking a tax haven. It's their job to reduce their costs; but I don't like their hand in Novi residents' pockets — and you shouldn't either.

I also might be inclined to agree to a tax increase if there was any evidence that what Novi is doing in terms of maintenance is correct. We have crumbling roads and even the horrific cold-patch jobs they lay on Chase Drive here are crumbling. Large chunks of concrete and asphalt sit on the road, ready to injure or kill someone when trucks or cars go by and kick them up.

They'll tell you that they've rebuilt lots of Chase Farms already, and that's true; what they won't tell you is that it's the city's mediocre standards and lack of policing of construction which yield substandard roads which you and I have to pay for. Some of Chase Farms was rebuilt with the bond posted by the developer years ago, indicating the road didn't last two years. How's that for quality control?

Novi is a great place to live; the schools rank amongst the finest in the country. But that's in spite of city government, not because of it. The arrogance of Sandstone is still fresh in my mind of absurd government behavior at the local level.

Obama does what he wants

One of the reasons why American politics is so polarized and our American system of government is at risk is because of President Barack Obama's deliberate abuse of power and disregard of his constitutional duties to faithfully execute our laws.

Take America's immigration laws. In 2010, pressed by his supporters to stop deporting illegal aliens and unilaterally grant them legal status, Obama said, "I'm president, I'm not a king. I can't do these things just by myself." In 2013, he said, "I'm not the emperor of the United States. My job is to execute laws that are passed."

However, by 2014, Obama apparently had convinced himself that he could be a king. As he remarked to the French president, "That's the good thing about being president, I can do whatever I want." Sure enough. In November 2014, Obama unilaterally announced sweeping changes to our immigration laws. Afterward, Obama noted, "I just took an action to change the law."

reeling his kingship oats, Obama has unilaterally changed several mandates included in the Obamacare law (no authority for that). Recently, his administration issued several made-up regulations that his own treasury secretary previously admitted they did not have the authority to do.

Just a hunch on my part — but I'll bet the Democrats would not be so tolerant of this abuse of power if a Republican president were making up these laws. Wake up, America!

Kowall sponsors gambling bill pushed by wife's firm

Paul Egan Michigan.com

A state senator's bill to legalize Internet gambling, backed by a firm where his wife works as a lobbyist, is raising concerns among groups pushing for toughening of Michigan's weakest-inthe-nation ethics law.

Sen. Mike Kowall, R-White Lake Township, is the lead sponsor of Senate Bill 889, which would allow existing casinos to offer Internet gambling.

He says there is no conflict of interest because his wife, lobbyist Eileen Kowall, is not working directly on the project.

But groups such as Common Cause in Michigan expressed concern after learning about the case from the Detroit Free Press.

"It seems like a pretty troubling set of circumstances," said Melanie McElroy, the group's executive director.

Amaya, a multinational company which owns Internet gaming sites PokerStars and Full Tilt, among others, is a major backer of Kowall's bill. Three officials from Amaya testified in support of SB 889 at a May 4 hearing before the Senate Regulatory Reform Committee, on which Kowall sits.

Amaya's registered lobbyist in Lansing is MGS Consultants, which counts Kowall's wife, Eileen, among the firm's five lobbyists. Eileen Kowall, who registered as a lobbyist less than two months after leaving the state House because of term limits at the end of 2014, attended the hearing along with other MGS lobbyists, though she didn't testify.

"It's troubling Sen.

Eileen and Mike Kowall were the first married couple to serve in the Legislature since the 1980s; she now works for a consulting firm.

Kowall would sponsor legislation that would enrich MGS - a consulting firm that employs his wife," said McElroy.

Kowall told the Free Press no conflict exists because he has been working on the legislation for more than three years, before his wife was hired by MGS.

"She's got nothing to do with it — it's not one of her clients," Kowall said.

Kowall acknowledged his wife's employer would financially benefit if his legislation becomes law, but he said his wife wouldn't.

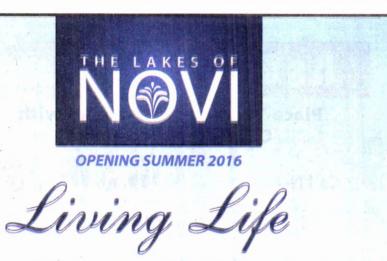

However, Craig Mauger, executive director of the Michigan Campaign Finance Network, said the case highlights several shortfalls in Michigan law, including clear conflict of interest laws for lawmakers, the lack of a required "cooling off" period before term-limited lawmakers can lobby their former colleagues, and the lack of financial disclosure requirements for elected officials and their spouses.

Michigan ranked last in a national study, released in November, that examined state ethics and transparency laws, partly because of its weak public records law and an absence of laws requiring personal financial disclosures by lawmakers and top state officials. In all, 11 states received failing grades of F in the study, but Michigan's rating was last in the study by the Center for Public Integrity and Global Integrity, two nonprofit organizations that promote government transparency and ethics.

Jeremiah Mankopf, managing partner of MGS, which has been lobbying for Amaya since 2007, said "I don't see there being any conflict," partly because a large number of Lansing lobbying firms will be working on the legislation, because of the large number of casinos and other interests affected by it.

Eileen Kowall, who became a lobbyist with MGS on Feb. 19, 2015, and is also a member of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, did not return phone calls. She attended the May 4 hearing on the bill because "our entire office did" as a show of support, Mankopf said.

'Stella & Lou' explores companionship at Tipping Pointe

On a quiet night at Lou's bar, two kindred spirits navigate changing times and past relationships. Lou is just about to close up his bar for the night when Stella walks in and reveals unexpected surprise and a startling suggestion.

The Tipping Pointe Theatre brings "Stella & Lou" by Bruce Graham to the stage in June. "Stella & Lou" is an exploration of friendship, forgiveness and the longing for companionship that grows with the passage of time.

Stella is a divorced emergency room with a new grandchild in Florida. Despite their differing ideas of romance, deep down they know that they need each other. But can Stella convince Lou that he is enough to keep her from moving away? Or will Lou's inability to move forward further complicate their relationship? Stella & Lou is an exploration of friendship, forgiveness, and the longing for companionship that grows with the passage of time.

"Audiences should expect an intimate experience where they get to be a fly on the wall of an empty bar where they can watch two very real human beings reaching out for each other" producing artistic director James R. Kuhl said. "Lou's bar feels a lot like Cheers and there is something very welcoming about a place like that. So they should expect to feel at home."

When asked why should people come to see this production, Kuhl said, "There is something very healing about finding someone that is experiencing the world the same way you are and it makes it all the sweeter when you can couple that with joy, which 'Stella & Lou' does.'

June 2-26. The show begins at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, with matinees at 3 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. A special matinee performance has been added at 3 p.m. Wednesday, June 15.

The theater is at 361. E. Cady Sreet in Northville. Tickets are $30 to $33 for adults, $28 to $31 for students and senior citizens and $22 for the two preview shows June 2-3.

Schoolcraft moves closer to brewpub

Brad Kadrich

Schoolcraft College students taking the school's new Brewing and Distillation Technology course won't have to travel to Howell for hands-on training much longer.

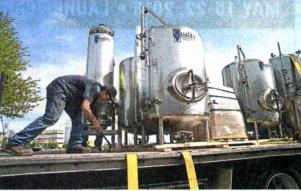

Schoolcraft officials, who started the curriculum last fall, accepted delivery on some $1 million worth of brewery equipment last week and began the process of setting up the school's own brewery in a portion of the culinary arts department.

In the first year of the program, students had to go out to Block Brewing in Howell for the handson portion of the class. Now, they'll be in the VisTaTech Center right near the equipment.

'It'll be better both for myself and the students," said Tom Block, who owns Block Brewing and teaches the brewing course at Schoolcraft. "It was challenging to have them travel to get the hands-on experience. Now I can lecture for an hour and then we can walk over to the brewery."

The equipment was delivered from Quality Tank Solutions in Oconomowoc. Wis., which is the same company from which Block got his equipment in Howell. The equipment is being installed in a former demonstration area for Schoolcraft's culinary arts program.

Block said he expects the brewery to be operational by the end of the summer, in time for the fall classes. That's a good thing, since some 70 students have already expressed an interest. Having the equipment on-site will be helpful to the learning process.

"This is a trade and you have to learn how to do things," Block said. "You can't learn this all from a book. It has to be hands-on."

Brad Jonckheere, a Brighton resident who is a brewer at Block Brewing and a recent graduate of the Schoolcraft program, said having the equipment handy will be a big benefit to future students.

"The biggest advantage will be being on-site so you don't have to travel," Jonckheere said. "It's nice to see other breweries, but this will be nice to be a lot more handson.

Schoolcraft College got unanimous approval for its new Class C liquor license earlier this year from the Livonia City Council.

Schoolcraft College would be the first brewpub to open in Livonia.

Mitch Albom hopes to score laughs with 'Hockey'

Sharon Dargay Staff Write

Mitch Albom promises a joke almost every 10 seconds in his first musical comedy, "Hockey -The Musical!"

"It's very very very fast paced. It's a lot like "Noises Off," or "Spamalot," said Albom, in a phone interview earlier this week. "Writing it was funny. Staging it was funny and even when we did the read-through, the auditions were funny. People were cracking up while they were auditioning. I said, okay, I think I've got something here. They can't get through an audition without laughing.

Albom, a Detroit Free Press columnist, author, playwright and radio personality from Franklin, wrote both the book and the original music in the play. He also penned the twisted lyrics to some well-known songs, poking fun at the sport's absurdities in the process.

Unlike Albom's other works, the musical comedy poses no major lessons about life and death. Albom just wants to make his audience laugh.

The play begins a five-week run May 19 at The City Theater in Detroit. It tells the story of God's decision to eliminate one sport on earth. An angel decides hockey should be obliterated, but when an avid fan named Stanley pleads with the Almighty to save the sport, he's given a chance to pick "five worthy hockey souls" and prove the sport's worth. Stanley chooses hockey stars but the angel can't spell, and he ends up on a mission with a group of zany characters.

NORTHVILLE CLAIMS 1ST TITLE

The Northville girls lacrosse team celebrates after winning the KLAA Association title with a 9-8 win over Brighton.

The Northville girls lacrosse squad had a flair for the dramatic Monday at Tom Holzer Field.

Sophomore midfielder Charlotte Beaudoin scored what proved to be the game-winning goal with only 3:40 remaining to break an 8-8 deadlock and the Mustangs held on to clinch their first KLAA Association championship in school history with a 9-8 win over visiting Brighton.

The Mustangs, who captured their 10th straight game, improved to 14-2 overall and avenged an 18-14 loss April 18 to the Bulldogs.

"To win the school's first ever Association championship is an amazing accomplishment," second-year North-

GIRLS TRACK AND FIELD

Abbott paces Mustangs to Kensington four-peat

Chloe Abbott took the Al Davis approach heading into Friday's KLAA Kensington Conference girls track and field meet.

For the Northville senior sprinter, it was "Just win, baby," the motto of the former Oakland Raiders owner.

She did not disappoint, figuring in four first-place finishes as the Mustangs survived a stiff challenge from host Livonia Churchill to capture the team title for the fourth straight year by a razor-thin margin, 128-120.

The feature race of the day was the 200-meter dash, as Abbott and Wayne Memorial's Anavia Battle staged their own personal rematch from the previous week in the Golden Triangle Invitational at Saline.

Abbott

In that race, Battle took first in a blistering 24.06, while Abbott broke her own personal and school record in 24.26.

Battle, who had won the 100 earlier in the day (meet record 11.93), jumped out to an early lead before Abbott tracked her down to win in a meet record 24.32. Battle's time was 24.61.

"I knew (Battle) was really good out of the blocks and I knew my block starts are not as great as they could be, so at the start I knew I had to get out," Abbott said. "I knew that she had a really good kick and I said, 'I got to have a better one and I'm a 400 runner and I have better

Northville steamrolls past rival Novi

Dietrich's four goals lead 14-4 win against Wildcats

The ball rarely hits the ground when the Northville girls lacrosse team goes on the attack - and it's a thing of beauty.

That was again the case May 11, especially during the first 20 minutes for the KLAA Kensington Conference champions, who eventually rolled to a 14-4 victory over visiting Novi at Tom Holzer Field.

"I think we really have good team chemistry and we always work well as a team, so we know when to pass the ball and we know who's there right away without really having to talk about it," Northville junior midfielder Emma Dietrich said "We have set plays, but then we always, like, improvise off of them. And whoever is open, we just go for it."

Dietrich finished the game with four goals and one assist as the Mustangs improved to 11-2 overall and 6-0 the conference.

The Mustangs dominated possession and play in the first half, building an 11-2 advantage against Novi.

We knew this was a highly emotionally charged game because it's a cross-rival team for us," second-year North-ville coach Amanda Asher said. "But the girls played great. They stayed composed and we came out with a lot energy."

Senior Gina Salemi, who has more than 200 goals during her career at Novi, scored three of the Wildcats' four goals, but was kept in check for the most part with single coverage.

"I actually have a lot of athletes on my team that can defend her well, Asher said. "I put Sarah Chase against her and I thought she played great defense all game long.

After Salemi, a LaSalle (Pa.) University signee, scored just three seconds into the match, the Wildcats didn't score again until 5:36 was left until intermission while falling behind 7-1.

"I think when they got a few goals down, instead of continuing to play the way they did in the first 10 minutes, it was a mental loss for us," Novi coach Amy Kilgore said. "And so I think just working on the mental toughness for the duration that we did well in the first few minutes, had a really rough 20 to 30 minutes and then put it together at the end. So I think we just needed some more mental toughness throughout the

Northville upends defending champ Brighton, 14-7

> Brad Emons Staff Writer

For the first time since 2010, Northville boys lacrosse is back in the winner's circle when it comes to the Kensington Lakes Activities Associa-

The Kensington Conference champions put it all together Monday, going on the road to beat host Brighton, the Lakes Conference champ, 14-7, for the Association title.

The victory also avenged a 10-9 setback April 18 to the defending champion Bulldogs.

"I just think we're a much better team than we were back then," said Northville coach Greg Durham, now in his 14th season. "We're on a roll, we're playing pretty well despite Saturday's game, which was a weird game against Troy Athens (a 13-8 loss). We just told the guys yesterday at practice, 'Listen, this is another chance to win a title.' Dylan Gelvin, my offensive coordinator, was part of that team when we won the last title in 2010. He said, 'Listen, there's nothing better than winning the KLAA title."

Northville, which improved to 10-6 overall, led virtually from start to finish, getting 12

"He was unbelievable. It was his best game of the year," Durham said of the freshman. Josh Bentley paced Northville's offense with four goals and one assist. Ty Kilar added three goals and one assist,

while Harry Dyson also notched a hat trick.

Other contributions came from Zach Tardich (one goal, three assists); Anthony Salamone (two goals, one assist); Brendan Hicks (one goal); and Connor Sweeney (two assists).

Brighton (14-2) got a pair of goals from both Austin Holm and Shayne Miciek.

"We really didn't do well on face-offs, but we battled," Durham said. "Our defense played great. It was an overall team effort.

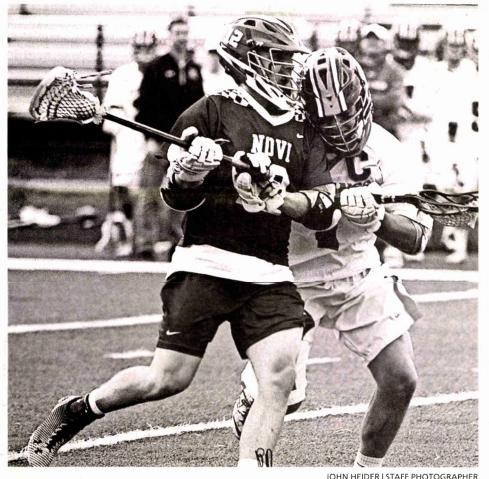

For the Mustangs, it's been kind of a roller-coaster season, up-and-down, according to

"We told the guys to hang in there," he said. "Tonight, we were just ready to go and ready to play. We were a different team that we've seen in a while. We set the tone and didn't make many mistakes. If we did make a mistake, we fought and got the ball back. It was really awesome to watch tonight."

Mustangs top Novi to gain share of conference title

Brad Emons Staff Writer

Despite being held scoreless in the opening quarter May 11, Northville boys lacrosse coach Greg Durham was confident the tide would eventually turn.

"I think we were a little jittery playing the rival," Durham said. "After the first quarter we told them to settle down a little bit, get back into our scheme and just run the offense. Then they ran the zone (defense), that slowed us down a little bit more. We went to our zone-breaking offense and started to get some goals to fall."

The host Mustangs responded by scoring the game's final nine goals over the last three quarters to gain a share of the KLAA Kensington Conference crown with a 9-2 win over Novi at Tom Holzer Field.

"That first quarter, I think we had 12 shots, a couple on cage," said Durham, whose team improved to 9-5 overall and 5-1 in the conference. "We just had to keep it going, keep shooting and they'd fall. It kind of opened up everything in the second half a little bit more and we played pretty well. The offense was doing real well. Defense played great. We gave up two goals the whole game and that's pretty outstanding. I'm pretty happy.

Novi (7-8, 3-2), coming off a 20-7 win over Walled Lake Western, jumped out to the 2-0 first-quarter advantage on goals by Anthony Zugaro and Griffin Sparling. Assists went to Landon Green and Scott Latham.

But by halftime, the Mustangs had regained control, getting two goals apiece from Brendan Hicks and Connor Sweeney to go into intermission leading "Our goalie stood on his head today. Peter Miner, he was amazing," Novi coach Chris Johnson said of the senior, who finished with 16 saves. "Our defense, I thought, did a good job containing a really powerful offense. We just couldn't get anything going, especially in the second half, offensively.

In the third quarter, Northville opened up an 8-2 lead, with goals from Zach Tardich, Sweeney, Anthony Salamone and Harry Dyson.

Josh Bentley then scored with 9:04 remaining in the fourth to cap the Northville scoring as Novi's offensive attack dried up.

"We really wanted to keep going what we had in the first half," Johnson said. 'We wanted to keep it going in the second half. It was really just a matter of trying to keep the sense of urgency we had in the first half, keep it going in the second. We just could not get the offense moving."

Ty Kilar added two assists for the Mustangs, while Dyson and Bentley each added one.

Max Schultz won six out of 10 faceoffs, while freshman Jeff Varner was solid in goal with six saves.

"We're just getting the 'mojo' going now," Durham said. "We got to wait (May 12) and, hopefully, Canton will beat Plymouth and then we'll get the spot where we'll probably end up playing Hartland (Monday at home in the KLAA Association final). And we got our seeding for the (state tourney), which is the fourth seed, which is pretty exciting. The boys are pretty pumped up and ready for the rest of the season. It's a good time to get rolling.'

Jake Lining, a UMass-Lowell signee, proved to be a thorn in Northville's as he scored seven goals to lead the Red Hawks (7-8).

The Mustangs (9-6) racked up eight penalties for a total of 14 minutes.

"Of those seven goals (by Lining), six were with a man up," said Northville coach Greg Durham, whose team fell to 9-6 overall. "We had 10 minutes in penalties the second half and it took the wheels from under us.'

Zach Tardich paced Northville with three goals, while Brendan Hicks added two.

strikeout. Canton (22-9) scored its lone run in the fifth to cut the deficit to 3-1, when A.J. Brazelton singled, stole second and scored on Andrew Krafft's single. But Dunn limited the damage, getting Noah Spencer to strike out to end the threat.

Dunn then retired the final six batters to close the victory.

"Mostly it was the fastball, working it outside and low, keeping it low today," Dunn said. "That was huge. The offspeed wasn't great, but I was able to get the fastball by them. The normal stuff has been working so far, so I stuck with that for the most part."

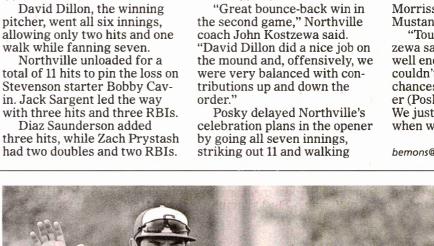

Northville played some small ball to score twice in the second inning.

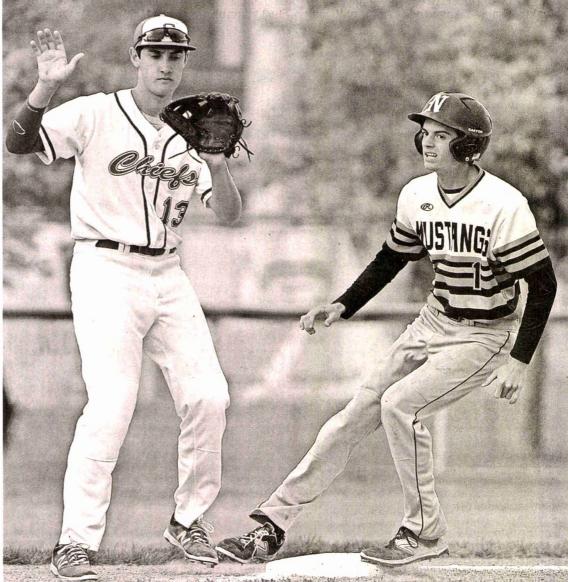

With one out, the Mustangs loaded the bases against Canton starter Mitch Zelenak after Aram Shahrigian walked, Diaz Saunderson reached base on an infield single and Willie Yanagi was hit by a pitch.

Andrew Blazo then sent a come-backer to the mound, but Zelenak wheeled toward second to try to start a double play, only to throw back to home too late to get Shahrigian. Zach Osaer's ground out to short, which was stabbed with a draw-in infield by Spencer, scored Saunderson to make it 2-0.

The Mustangs then upped their lead to 3-1 in the top of the third on a lead-off single by Morrissey, followed by two fielder's choices and an RBI single by Shahrigian.

'We had some better swings than we did the last time." said Kostrzewa, whose team had seven hits. "Of course, it was earlier in the year and we're just a better team and a different team now after playing so many games than we were back then."

With one out in the sixth, Zelenak was pulled in favor of reliever Greg Goodbred after the Mustangs scored again to go back up by three runs.

Shahrigian led off with a single, advanced to second and third on wild pitches and scored on Shane Rankin's pinch-hit single to right.

"At the end, we got a big pinch hit with two strikes, Kostrzewa said. "That's huge, coming off the bench, because 3-1 is a little bit different than 4-1. Just to get a little more breathing room, made it a little more difficult for them and took the wind out of their sails a little bit. They had the momentum going there a little bit because we got shut down for a couple of innings there, but picking up that fourth run was huge for us. We got some timely two-out hits and we made the most of the chances that

Zelenak, who throws three-quarters sidearm, beat Northville in an earlier meeting this year, 4-2. He went the first 51/3 innings, allowing all four runs on seven hits and three two walks, while striking out three.

"I've seen him pitch better," Canton coach Mark Blomshield said of his ace. "He's been working a lot for us, so I think he's just getting a little fatigued. He was a closer last year, so he didn't have a lot of innings and now he's starter and his fastball is down a little bit. I thought he pitched OK. They scored three runs with with two outs on singles.'

Northville's first run of the game proved to be pivotal.

"They had another run when the infield was in and (Zelenak) threw to the wrong base," Blomshield said. "We all were calling for it and he knows it and we were just working on it in practice. Must just have been a stone grain in his head, but those things happen. You've got to score more than one run. The opportunities that we did have fizzled out then we just weren't able to get the two-out hits with runners in scoring position. And they were and they had three of them."

Blomshield, however, tipped his cap to Dunn.

"He was definitely on his game," he said. "We were aware of who he was. We knew he was their number one. We knew that's who we were going to see. We prepared for that. He did a nice job. I was expecting to see a little bit more offspeed pitches up in the count and he still just challenged the batters. With his fastball, he was pretty deceptive. He did a real nice job. I don't know how many hits we had, but we didn't have many."

Central champ Northville third in Kensington meet

Brad Emons Staff Writer

On the heels of earning its first KLAA Central Division boys track and field title since 2008 earlier in the week, Northville followed up Friday with a third-place finish in the Kensington Conference meet, held at Livonia Churchill.

Salem unseated Churchill as defending champion by a 114-103 margin, while the Mustangs placed third with Rounding out the 12-school field were Westland John Glenn (68), Novi (58), Canton (54), Livonia Stevenson (46.5), Wayne Memorial (39), Livonia Franklin (37), South Lyon (33), South Lyon East (12) and Plymouth (12).

Among Northville's individual champions included senior Thomas Smither, who overhauled Salem's Chaz Jeffress to capture the 800meter run in 1:57.15, and senior Conor Naughton, who fended off a stiff challenge from Novi's John Landy to win the 3,200 in 9:45.12.

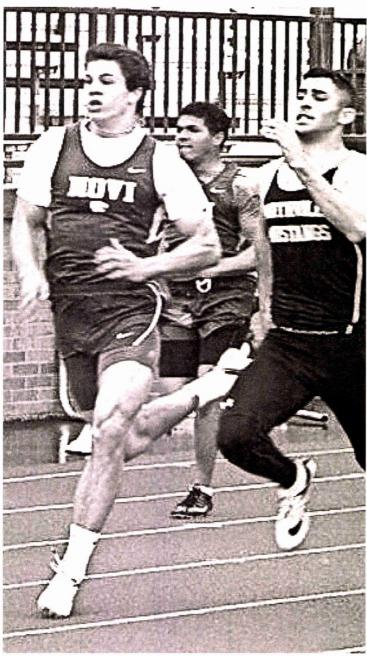

Wayne Memorial's Montel Hood set a meet record in the 400 (47.78) and also anchored the Zebras to a first in the 1,600 relay (3:25.78).

Other conference champions on the track included David Graham (John Glenn), 100 dash (10.98); Johnathan Parker (John Glenn), 200 (meet record 21.97); Kevin Schopa (South Lyon), 110 hurdles (15.34); Jamal Vaunado (Canton), 300 hurdles (40.11); and Jeffress (Salem), 1,600

Parker and Graham also teamed with Donovan Burrell and Jawon Thompson for first in the 400 relay (43.39), while Salem's foursome of Sharriff Dyer, Andrew Davis, Jacob Miller and VerShawn Patrick took the 800 relay (1:29.82).

Churchill won the 3,200 relay as Dash Dobar, Brendan Meakin, Frank LaFave and Josh Momeyer were clocked in 8:05.97

Individual conference champions in the field events included Jannik Schmitt (Salem), shot put (meet record 55 feet, 1 inch); Demarco McKinney (Churchill), discus (158-0); Cameron Grace (Salem), high jump (6-5); Malik Lowery (Stevenson), long jump (21-2); and Andrew Koenigsknecht (Canton), pole vault (14-4).

stamina.'

"Once I saw she was right in front of me, I knew I could catch her because in the 4 by 200 (relay), I always hawk down people. I said, 'OK, it's just like a 4 by 2, I can do this. I just maintained my form, pushed all the way through it and came out with the win to help my team place once again ... and be four-year conference champs, so I'm happy.'

Abbott also impressed with 55.18 in the 400, while anchoring the Mustangs to first in the 800 (1:42.57) and 1,600 (3:53.81) relays - all meet records.

"Chloe is phenomenal," Northville coach Tim Dalton said. "It's fun to coach her. She's a kid going to Purdue .. she's just not on a state level, she's a national runner and she'll be sorely missed next year. It will be tough not having her around."

Coming out of the field events, Northville trailed Churchill 53-7, but rallied behind Indiana University-bound Lexa Barrott, who led the Mustangs' one-two-three finishes in the 1,600 and 3,200 with first-place times of 5:00.63 and 11:09.85, respectively. In those two races alone, Northville racked up 48 points.

Barrott was also a member of Northville's first-place 3,200 relay team, along with sister Ana Barrott, Cayla Eckenroth and Emma Herrmann (9:36.73).

Northville took the lead for keeps with the sweep in the 3,200 and capped the meet with a victory in the 1,600 relay, led by Morgan Kloosterman, Yasmine Affes, Lindsay Walters and Abbott.

"In today's day and age with athletic.net, you know how other teams stand pretty easily," Dalton said. "We knew Churchill was good in the field events. I think they scored 53 alone in the field events and that hurt. We knew the (1,600), the (3,200) and our relays would have to be on their game and they were. I just told those kids, 'Just don't freak out when they hear the (team) scores in the beginning and believe and finish the meet out.'

Churchill's Gabby Carter was a double winner in the shot put (37 feet, 8.5 inches) and discus (125-9), while Olivia Ryktarszyk was first for the Chargers in the pole vault

The Chargers, however, suffered misfortune in the 300 hurdles final, when junior Takia Bradley, battling for first place with Wayne's Chanel Khan (47.58), clipped a hurdle on the straightaway with 50 meters to go, fell and did not place.

But Churchill coach Pat Daugherty put a positive spin on his team's showing. "It was good day for us," he said. "We came out with a 53-7 lead over Northville, but from that point on they beat us by eight points the rest of the way."

Novi, which finished third, racked up 52.5 of its 85.5 points in the field events, getting a win from Kate Prisby in the long jump (16-7).

Other individual winners included Plymouth's Katherine Harris in the high jump (5-2) and Plymouth's Erin Bradley in the 100 hurdles (15.07). But the day belonged the Mustangs and Abbott, who accomplished her mission.

'Today I didn't P.R., but I got the wins, which was more important for today," she said. "I'm pretty happy with how everything worked out. I couldn't ask for anything better. It's my last year and we were hoping to get that (title) and we did.'

Milford Trail Challenge, Bike Fest set for June 4

Brad Emons

Staff Writer

The Motor City Mountain Biking Association is joining forces with the Michigan Trails and Greenways Alliance to stage the 11th annual Milford Trail Challenge and Bike Fest from 7:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday, June 4, in and around downtown Milford.

Registration is $20 in advance or $25 event day.

Proceeds will support development and maintenance of bicycle trails in the region. Cyclists can choose family-friendly paved routs or a variety of back road and mountain bike trails suited for beginners to experts. More than 100 miles of riding are easily accessible by bike from downtown Milford.

Same day registration and event start runs from 7:30 a.m. through 1 p.m. at Main Street Grill, 327 Main Street. Entertainment will be provided by the Orbitsuns beginning at 1 p.m. Parking is available in nearby public lots and on local streets.

Just 40 miles northwest of Detroit, Milford that can best be described as a hidden gem for bicyclists, hikers, kayakers, food connoisseurs and history lovers alike. Many residents liken the community to an iconic Colorado mountain town, with abundant wildlife, woodlands and hilly terrain.

From the Huron River that was once traveled by Native Americans in birch-bark canoes to the adjacent 20,000-plus acres of state and regional recreation areas featuring more than 100 miles of single track, rail trail and paved bicycle and hiking paths, Milford has become Michigan's hottest destination for outdoor activities.

The most adventurous and fit mountain bikers can tackle 16 miles of challenging single track in Highland Recreation Area that is rated as the best trail in the state. Bikers need to bring strong lungs to complete all four loops of this trail as it offers a total of 2,090 feet of vertical climbing. Additional local MTB trails range from beginner-friendly sections of the Milford Trail to intermediate trails at Proud Lake Recreation Area.

Local rail trails also provide pleasant riding for riders of all ages. Participants may even be able to explore sections of the forthcoming Michigan Airline Trail while communities adjacent to Milford work to develop this section for former railway into a trail that will link multiple communities on its route.

Ocelots show no mercy in first postseason tournament

Tim Smith Staff Writer

No matter what happens the rest of the postseason, Schoolcraft College's baseball team can consider its first season a big hit. The Ocelots --- who struggled mightily the first month of the season gained steam and stability in recent weeks and carried that momentum into Monday's NJCAA Region XII Division III first-round match-up with host Lorain (Ohio) County Community College. Paced by local products Nick Romanauski (6-for-7, including two home runs) and Jared Merandi (5-for-8). Schoolcraft turned up the offense and never let up, winning 13-3 and 13-2 in the twinbill to win the series.

Next up for the Ocelots (15-28) is a weekend best-of-three set against Waubensee College for the district champion-

"We played well in all aspects of the game," Schoolcraft head coach Rob Fay said. "Our pitching and defense were excellent. Our bats really woke up today.'

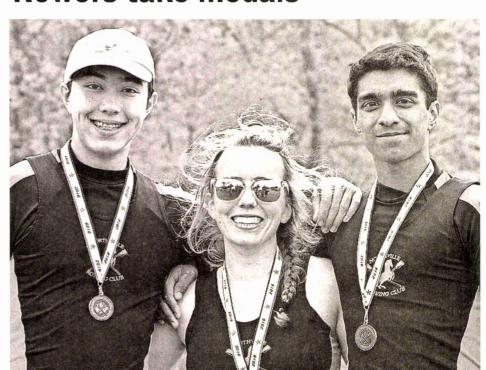

Schoolcraft connected on four homers over the course of the twinbill, led by Canton graduate Romanauski's pair of round-trippers.

Romanauski and Plymouth product Merandi were on the bases seemingly all day, but they had plenty of company as evidenced by the double-digit victories.

"As a coach, you love seeing hard work really pay off for players and today the hard work really paid off," Fay said.

Rowers take medals

The Northville Rowing Club earned three medals at the Midwest Scholastic Rowing Association Championship Regatta last weekend at Dillon State Park in Nashport, Ohio. Among the medal winners were (from left) junior Jake Gourd, junior Jackie Cole and senior Ashwath Muruganand, who took first in the men's varsity singles based on his 5:58.58 semifinal time, which qualified him for the upcoming U.S. Rowing Youth Nationals and Scholastic Rowing Association championships. Cole took third in the women's singles with a time of 7:38.24, while Gourd and Muruganand were third in the men's varsity doubles (5:48.41). "We learned a lot of valuable things about paying attention to details," coach Katie Larder said. "Overall (the crews) did amazing and I'm really proud."

YMCA aquatics pro stresses year-round swimming pool safety

Julie Brown Staff Writer

Water safety comes to the forefront this time of year, although Michelle Robinson, regional director of aquatics for the YMCA, knows it's key year-round. "The first big thing is to make sure there's somebody to watch the children," said Ferndale resident Robinson. She also urges parents to use Coast Guard-approved life jackets on their children, and never to rely on the arm "floa-

Robinson, who earned a bachelor's degree in education from Eastern Michigan University, works with nine regional YMCAs that have pools as well as two summer camps with swimming. The YMCA focuses on water safety all year, with May National Water Safety Month. Parents often become more aware of safety concerns for their children in warming spring weather, she said.

The U.S. Coast Guard-approved life jackets will flip the child over, even if he's unconscious, to allow breathing, she noted. The jacket should be put on by following instructions, with the strap between the child's legs and the shoulders below the ears.

Sometimes, parents can rely too much on a lifeguard. "Most definitely," Robinson said. "Parents will often tell their children to play in front of the lifeguard. It's a tremendous effort to keep everybody safe.

The lifeguard has many people to watch, she noted, so can't keep his or her eye directly on a child at all times.

"Any amount of water can be dangerous in the wrong form," Robinson said. "It's being aware of water and making sure kids are safe. We don't want that to happen to anyone at anytime," she added of drownings in bathtubs or Older people also are at greater risk of slipping and falling in a bathtub, she said. A bathmat or smaller decals with non-slip coating can reduce this risk, and a shower chair is a good option for a senior.

The YMCA is diligent about its own pools and safety: "All of our pools have to have lifeguards to be open," Robinson said. The majority of swim instructors are also lifeguards, with some of them having lifeguard assistant

The YMCA begins parent-child swim lessons for kids age 6 months, with 3-year-olds beginning to learn some strokes on their own. "It helps encourage them to be safer," she said. "There's no such thing as drown-proofing but we want to encourage as much safety as we can.'

The YMCA also teaches about boating safety, including adults wearing life jackets while boating. Robinson agreed children are often more diligent about water safety than some adults are.

For lakes, "You always want to know what's going on in the water," she said. A sand bar that was there may be gone with that water now deeper due to a changing tide. Parents should accompany their children into lakes.

'Never just assume it's OK," she said. In YMCA classes, even young children learn about

Check with attorney on rights as co-owner

Q: Our developer is now coming in approximately 12 years after he completed construction of the condominium project to finish units in the condominium project and says he has a right to do so?

A: I think that you should consider hiring an experienced condominium lawyer as soon as possible to evaluate the propriety of the developer's actions. There will be a loss by the developer of any right to build or sell condominium units depending on what the Master Deed and, in particular, the site plan of the condominium project sets forth. Also, keep in mind that there is a movement among builders/developers in Lansing to eliminate the right of the members of a condominium community to regain property when the developer has not completed construction in a certain period of years. This would be conditioned upon the area at issue being previously designated as a "need not be built item" as set forth in the site plan. You may be entitled to substantial rights as a coowner in the condominium project. However, you must move quickly to ensure that your rights are protected.

Q: Our current bylaws for our homeowners association limit residency to single families only, and we currently allow renters. We have a renter who has guardianship rights regarding three men and she is living with them in one of our condominium units. She is not keeping the home up and is having difficulty managing these individuals. Does her guardianship status allow her to define herself as a "single family" renter?

A: You have asked a multitude of questions that raise a number of issues. First, your association's documents may be outdated in limiting occupants to "single family" residents only. Secondly, there is no statutory limitation as to the number of renters allowed in a project, although there may be a local ordinance that limits the number of people living in a single family residential dwelling. Finally, if the residents are violating any other provisions of the association bvlaws, those violations may form a basis by which the residents may be evicted.

These are issues that require an experienced community association lawyer to advise the board as to how to deal with matters such as this in an appropriate manner.

Parade of Homes featuring 78 new homes set for June

Parade of Homes 2016, the 27th annual exhibition of new model homes located across southeastern Michigan, will open on June 1 and run through June 30. Home Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (HBA), Bank of America Home Loans and James Hardie sponsor this free public event.

"The 78 new homes featured in this program offer a good cross-section of the homes being built throughout Southeastern Michigan," commented James V. Clarke, builder, of Robertson Brothers Homes and 2016 president of HBA. "We're excited to be building innovative new homes for the families of southeastern Michigan and to be able to feature 25 more homes than were featured in

The Parade of Homes offers potential home buyers a unique opportunity to visit model and inventory homes, including condominiums and single-family homes, affordable housing and estate-sized homes. Visitors to the homes will have an opportunity to see firsthand the latest trends in energy efficiency and green building, architecture, interior design, amenities and materials. The 78 model, under construction and pre-construction homes and condominiums range in base price from $79,900 for the one manufactured home in the program and $143,900 to $1,198,000 for the condominiums and single family The homes are built by 31 different builders, all members of HBA. The Parade of Homes includes seven attached condominiums and six detached condominiums. Seven of the homes are preconstruction, so potential home buyers have the opportunity to work with the builder from the beginning of construction. Another 11 of the homes are currently under construction. The remainder are built and will be open for visitors beginning June 1.

Architects and industry experts will judge the homes and award blue ribbons in several categories. The judges will make their decisions based on a combination of factors, including innovation, aesthetic appeal and value for the price. Judges for this year's program will be Lonny S. Zimmerman, AIA, NCARB of Siegal/Tuomaala Associates; Benedetto Tiseo, FAIA, NCARB of Tiseo Architects Inc.; Michael J. Gordon, RA of Moiseev/Gordon Associates and Paul Salloum, Retail Sales manager, of Bank of America Home Loans.

A free Parade of Homes magazine including photos, renderings, features, hours and location maps for all homes will be distributed within select home delivery of Detroit Free Press on Sunday, June 5, available at Bank of America locations throughout southeastern Michigan, at select Kroger locations and at all participating model homes beginning June 1. The Parade of Homes website will also be available beginning June 1 at www.ParadeHBA.com. This is the only Parade of Homes event HBA will sponsor this ow that the stress of finding a job is behind you, it's smooth sailing, right? Well, not always. The first couple of weeks at a new job can be a major adjustment, and it can be difficult to know where you stand. Just the basics The first day of a new job can be pretty overwhelming. There's going to be a lot of information flying at you, but don't be alarmed --- you won't be expected to completely absorb everything right away. "On the first day at your new job, you should focus on the basics, such as where is the break room and restrooms, as well as other simple stuff, like how to clock in and the location of the water cooler," says David Bakke, a career expert at Money Crashers. First week: Get comfortable

With the first day under your belt, the rest of the week is all about acclimating to the atmosphere and making sure you fully understand your role. Don't be afraid to ask questions about the way things normally work or what you should be doing.

"During your first week, the goal should be to have a crystal-clear understanding of your job responsibilities, as there's often a bit more detail

involved than what you might have read in the job description," Bakke says. "Get going on establishing a routine as to how you'll complete them as

It's also a good idea to start working your way into the social environment of the office. Take note of how your co-workers dress and interact with one another throughout the day. Make an effort to start learning people's names.

"No one expects a new employee to remember everyone's names within the first few days," says James Rice, head of digital marketing at WikiJob. "But the more quickly vou remember them, the more you'll look and feel like part of the team."

First month:

Establish yourself By the end of your first month, you should have a well-formed understanding of your role. You've created a routine and gained enough experience working with the team that you can start looking for ways to make a larger impact.

Your goal by the end of your first month should be to have contributed in a tangible and exceptional way," says Adam Hatch, a career adviser and hiring manager at Resume Genius. "Do some work that people are patting you on the back for. If you can impress your supervisors and your team in the first month, you're well on your way to being a top employee."

Of course, if you're going to take off the training wheels, expect a couple of spills.

"If you make no mistakes in your first month on the job, you aren't trying enough. Mistakes are learning opportunities, and your supervisors and co-workers will use them as a way of teaching you," Hatch says. "Don't make the same mistake twice, though. When you mess up, make sure you get to try that task again, but crush it the second time around. Nothing shows competence better than having made a mistake and learning from it."

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the
