Local clerks getting involved in statewide presidential recount

Some call effort a 'waste of time'

office Nov. 22.

Susan Nash, the city clerk in Livonia, said she was preparing to take all of the city's 55,747 ballots cast in November's election to Cobo Center, the location where the recount is set to take place.

She said she and Westland City Clerk Richard LeBlanc were going to go in and split a transport van to take the two cities' ballots to downtown Detroit, a measure being done to try to cut the costs for transporting them. If the transport van is split between Westland and Livonia, the overall cost would be most likely under $100

The ballots, she said, would remain locked up downtown until the recount began Tuesday morning.

Nash said no city staff members are expected to go downtown and participate in the recount, but said she may go to watch the process take place.

"I will probably go down there just to see what's going on with our ballots," she said. "This is, in my opinion, some uncharted water here."

State Sen. Pat Colbeck, R-Canton, said the recount was an attempt on the part of the Democratic Party, in cooperation with Stein, to "disenfranchise 4.8 million voters in Michigan.'

"These unprecedented legal actions also attempt to rewrite the U.S. Constitution and, in the process show, disrespect for an additional 125 million Americans," Colbeck said in a statement. "It is .. clearly the responsibility of the states, not the federal government, to determine the manner by which electoral votes are cast."

In a rare Sunday hearing, Goldsmith granted Stein's request for the hand recounting of about 4.8 million ballots starting Monday. The Michigan Republican Party, through its attorney Gary Gordon of Lansing, filed notice Monday it plans to file an appeal of Goldsmith's ruling with the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

Despite the appeal notice, the recount continues unless Goldsmith's order is stayed or overturned.

Gordon had argued Stein had no chance of overturning the election results — Stein finished a distant fourth in Michigan to Republican president-elect Donald Trump her concerns about votes not being counted properly were merely speculative and the recount would result in excessive costs for Michigan taxpayers. Also, the state has a valid interest in a two-business-day pause after ruling on an objection to a recount petition, because it allows for court review of that recount decision, Gordon argued before Goldsmith.

Goldsmith ruled that Stein demonstrated "a credible threat that the recount, if delayed, would not be completed" by Dec. 13, a federal deadline for guaranteeing that the electors Michigan certifies for casting its presidential votes are accepted by Congress.

That's a threat to constitutional rights, Goldsmith said.

"It is clear they have no respect for 'We the People,' especially since their frivolous recount petition could cost Michigan taxpayers and county governments an additional $12 million, a mere fraction of what they will compensate taxpayers for," Colbeck said. "Wayne County, in particular, does not need another expense that draws funds away from important services such as road maintenance.

But Goldsmith said 'concerns with cost pale in comparison" to the integrity of an election. Both Michigan Attorney General Bill Schuette and Trump have sued in state court to stop the recount and a hearing on their suits was scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Michigan Court of Appeals in Lansing. But election law experts told the Detroit Free Press that Goldsmith's ruling, which says the recount "shall commence and must continue until further order of this court," has the effect of preventing state courts from stopping the recount without further judicial review by the 6th Circuit.

For his part Siegrist, a Canton Democrat, said he doesn't expect the recount to yield much information.

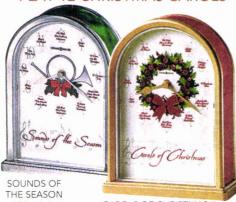

"I'm not entirely certain the recount will yield much new information and no new result," Siegrist said. "I'm anxious about the information it will produce, but it's definitely an interesting intellectual exercise."

Rankings no match to meeting students' needs ur nation is consumed with rankings. The 10 best cars. The 10 best places to vacation. The 10 best desserts.

This past weekend, I watched as the rankings for the College Football Playoffs were announced. I had a mild interest because my alma mater, the University of Washington, was in contention for a playoff spot depending, of course, on the rankings

This ranking phenomena has crept into comparisons of school districts. On Monday, I received letter from a company called Niche that stated our school district has been recognized as a 2017 Best School District in America. While that is mildly affirming, I must admit that I wonder what it all means.

In the Novi Community School District, we believe that the most important priority is to provide a comprehensive, engaging curriculum. In the past six years, teachers have spent many hours reviewing, revising and adjusting our curriculum. We have looked at its rigor. We have looked at how we determine if students are learning. We have looked at our resources and how we present material to our students. We have created an online curriculum warehouse that teachers can share that is also accessible to parents through our website.

While the curriculum and teaching and learning are a priority, we also recognize that providing a variety of activities and clubs is important to connect students and families with our schools. At each level - elementary, middle school and high school — we have created many, many opportunities for students to connect with each other and with our schools. We have academic clubs, fine arts opportunities and athletic experiences for our students.

The Novi Community School District also invests time and money into our facilities. In the past several years, we have added classrooms, expanded facilities and improved space primarily to enhance the opportunities and experience for our students.

We also recognize that education occurs before students come to school and after they leave. To that end, we have built a new Early Childhood Education Center for our preschool students. We re-purposed space to create an Adult Transition Center for students whose needs extend beyond the traditional scope of our school district.

During the past several years, we have also spent time addressing needs within our transportation and food service programs. We recognize that these services impact our students and we have worked diligently to improve them. At times, we have struggled, but when that happens, we take the time to identify the concern and address it in a timely manner.

Rankings and recognition bring some validation to the work that the staff in our district does, but the most important recognition comes when parents believe that we are meeting the needs of their children. In the Novi Community School District, 6,500 students walk through our doors every day. Our No. 1 priority is to meet their needs every single

If we can meet the needs of our students every day, then it will not matter what the rankings

Fox Run resident reminisces about national tour

Meghan Streit Correspondent

Many people make it a priority to travel more frequently when they retire.

But few people can say they have covered the territory that Fox Run retirement community resident Allen Zondlak has. He has been to all 3,142 counties in the United States and all 59 of the nation's national parks.

Zondlak said the idea to challenge himself to visit every county in the nation first came to him in college. He had a geography professor at Wayne State University who was doing the same thing and Zondlak, who had only been to 7 percent of the nation's counties at that point, was intrigued.

When he and his wife Patricia married, they decided to make travel a priority. Since then, they've been exploring the world together, along with their three children.

Patricia has been to 51 of the 59 national parks. all 50 states and about 85 percent of the counties. Two of the Zondlak kids. following in mom and dad's footsteps, have visited all 50 states.

'It's great to get out and meet the people of America," Zondlak said. "I've had the chance to talk to people from the north, south, east and west and see the scenery and enjoy the beauty. We live in a great country."

When you learn someone has visited every single county in America, you have to wonder how exactly he accomplished such an ambitious feat. The answer is a lot of time, of course — and many, many road trips. Zondlak said he would check off several counties in one trip by crisscrossing a state. Texas, for example, has 254 counties.

"We wouldn't just travel through counties," he said. "Wherever there was something of interest - a museum, natural beauty, history would stop.

To reach other counties. Zondlak said, he would fly to a destination and then drive around the area to hit several counties in one trip.

He's also taken cruises and visited counties and national parks during the stops at different ports.

'I enjoy being off the beaten path, not taking the main roads," Zondlak said. "I love running into scenic areas you never expected to see and meet ing people — whether in the hills of Arkansas, the deserts of Arizona or the mountains in Colorado. Over the years, Zondlak tracked his progress on a large map of the United States. After he visited a county, he'd color it in on the map.

He completed his mission in 1991 with a visit to Nantucket, Mass. where he and Patricia met their family for a vacation as they reached the final county on Zondlak's list. They arrived just in time for the area's annual cranberry festival, making for a memo-

Having checked off all of the counties in the United States, Zondlak then set off on a mission to visit all of the national parks. He reached that goal in 2003 and has since been back to visit several of the parks for a second

He recently went back to Acadia National Park. In 2017 he plans to revisit Yosemite, Grand Teton and Arizona's Saguaro National Park.

'You've been to them and you've enjoyed them so much that you want to go back," he said.

However, Zondlak is hard-pressed to name his favorite national park. "That's like naming your favorite grandchild," he said with laugh.

He said Yosemite and the Grand Canyon are particularly impressive and in a class all their own. And he counts Glacier, Zion and Denali national parks among the most memorable.

'It's a great way to see the beauty of the United States," he said. "You're so refreshed and re-

In his first presentation, he shared some history about the national parks and discussed and showed pictures of the first half of the parks in alphabetical order. The upcoming second presentation will cover the re-

Traci Sincock is supervisor of Maybury State Park in Northville Township. She is former director of Northville Parks and Recreation.

New Maybury supervisor brings experience to area's 'hidden gem'

Matt Jachman

Traci Sincock is bringing years of experience in Northville parks and recreation to another level — the state level.

Sincock, who lives in Plymouth, is the new supervisor at Maybury State Park in Northville Township, having taken over in August from Nikki Van Bloem.

The director of Northville Parks and Recreation for 19 years, and most recently the Northville Chamber of Commerce events coordinator, Sincock is wellknown in the area.

Moving to Maybury was a little like coming home for Sincock.

"Our department did a lot of programming here at the park," Sincock said of Northville Parks and Recreation, a program that serves both Northville and Northville Township. "Maybury was a big park we could come to to run different activities"

Maybury is a 944-acre park of meadows, forest land and rolling hills south of Eight Mile and west of Beck, home to a variety of wildlife and wildflowers. It is the only state park in Wayne County, aside from two parks in Detroit, the William G. Milliken and

Belle Isle state parks. Sincock said Maybury fits well with other, locally run recreation facil-

"We're really a community park, we just happen to be state-managed," she said. "It's just a wonderful asset to have that really complements all the facilities in this area."

Maybury features biking and hiking trails, horseback riding, snowshoeing and cross country skiing, baseball and soccer fields and playgrounds and is a favorite of runners and mountain bikers. It is also home to Maybury Farm, a working farm and educational site run by the Northville Community Foundation.

Scott Pratt, chief of southern field operations for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' parks and recreation division, said Maybury is a "hidden gem" for recreation opportunities and that Sincock is the right person to bring more people to it.

"One of her tasks is to drive people to this beautiful park," Pratt said. "Her community engagement is just top-notch. The knows the community and is able to get the word out."

For nearly 50 years, Maybury was a sanitarium for people with tuberculosis, opening in the days before antibiotics and closing in 1969, when medical advances made it obsolete.

As a sanitarium, operating under the concepts that TB sufferers would benefit from fresh air, recreation and time away from the often-unsanitary conditions in the city—and that TB should be contained to limit the spread of the disease—it was a largely self-sufficient community that included a hospital, farm, dormitories and power

The site has been a state park since 1975 and, Sincock said, some of the picnic shelters and playground equipment date back that far. Part of her mission, she said, is to maintain and improve the facilities with a limited time honoring the park's history.

"We have to preserve the beautiful, rich history that has always been part of the park," Sincock said.

When starting out at Maybury, Sincock found herself surprised at how much the staff there can do with limited resources. During the unseasonably warm weather in October and November, for example, the park was busy, she said, and just one ranger was responsible for keeping trails open, cleaning restrooms, emptying com trash, writing violations (for park goers who didn't have a state Recreation Passport) and more.

Maybury is open yearround and, during peak season, in the warmer months, Sincock manages two rangers and eight support workers. There were about 468,000 visits to the park during the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30.

Sincock's favorite part of Maybury? She calls it the "Seven Mile Loop," generally in the park's southeast corner, in the area of Seven Mile and Beck. She remembers it well for a snowshoeing, uh, adventure she had a few winters ago when her dog Luke ran after a squirrel.

"It's kind of tucked up there," she said of the area. "Most people don't go up there."

Sincock worked for Northville Parks and Recreation for 26 years, retiring in late 2010, and for the chamber for more than five years. Her husband Paul Sincock is city manager in Plymouth.

Northville Jazz @ The Point kicks off Dec. 2

Catching live music in downtown Northville can be challenging, but a new five-show jazz series at the Tipping Point Theatre should help cure those blues, organizers

Jazz @ The Point is the second series at the TPT produced by 2 Stones Events following the successful Kittens & Crooners earlier this year. Three of those four show sold out and the fourth was just shy of a full house.

'That series did so well that we decided to add a fifth show to this new series," said Whitney McClellan-Stone, president of 2SE. "And while Kittens & Crooners focused on jazz vocalists and standards, we've expanded to include bebop, jump blues, Latin jazz and swing."

Jazz @ The Point kicks off with a special holiday show Wednesday, Dec. 21, featuring Aguanko's Latin Jazz Christmas in Havana, followed by four Saturday shows: Nicole New Quartet (Jan. 7); Ben Sharkey (March 11); Hughes/Smith Quintet (May 6); and The Millionaires (July 8).

"This venue, which only seats between 105 and 120, is perfect for live jazz," said McClel-lan-Stone, whose company has been booking the musicians for Northville's annual Arts & Acts for many years. "The acoustics are great, there are no bad seats or obstructed views and, unlike a typical bar or club, there are no distracting televisions or people talking loudly.

Jazz @ The Point shows are all about a great night out featuring

"The musicians bring their 'A' game," McClel-lan-Stone said. "They know everyone's eyes and ears are directly focused on the performance. Short of having them play in your living room, you're not going to get a more intimate set-

Unlike Kittens & Crooners, there will be no alcohol for sale for Jazz @ The Point due to licensing and insurance costs. McClellan-Stone said that a survey taken by attendees of the first series indicated that alcohol was not a key factor for the vast majority of them; quality live music was the main rea-

Surveys also showed that 25 percent of those who went to the first series had never before been to the Tipping Point, which has been a destination for live theater for 10 years in Northville. But programs like this aren't just bringing new people through the TPT's doors — they're bringing new people to downtown Northville, said Dan Ferrara, TPT development director.

"It was only natural to expand into live music to continue to provide our community with quality opportunities for entertainment close to home," Ferrara said. "Sometimes, you hear people say there's not much to do in Northville after dark. I hope they start looking to Tipping Point and a few of the restaurants in town that are really trying hard to bring nightlife entertainment year-round."

Once again, Financial Architects Inc., based in Farmington Hills, is on board as the series' presenting sponsor. "Jazz @ The Pointe is a great opportunity to show our passion for live music, the community and the chance to share the experience with our valued clients," said Chris Cousins of Financial Architects Inc.

Cousins' firm, McClellan-Stone noted, formed a partnership with 2SE that is crucial to Jazz@ The Point and helps keep the level of musicianship presented very high.

Tickets, now on sale. are $30 per show. TPT season-ticket holders get a 10-percent discount; anyone purchasing the entire five-show series before Dec. 21 also receives a 10-percent discount. Purchases can be made by phone (248-347-003); at the box office (361 E. These tasteful musicians' interpretation of Alberto Nacif's original music is evocative, sensuous and true to its Cuban roots. Aguanko has received local and national attention and its live concerts have dazzled capacity crowds at the multiple venues where the group has performed. It also offers educational lecture-demonstrations and instructional seminars.

Nicole New Quartet - Jan. 7

The 28-year-old Detroiter is a passionate and provocative singer, alluring crowds with her sensitivity and soulfulness as one of Detroit's premier bandleaders.

Her eclectic style of singing, drawing from her early influences of performing jazz, pop, opera and musical theater, has transformed into a sound all her own. She is making a lasting impression at performance venues all over Michigan and beyond, wowing fans with her rich tone and rhythmic phrasing, in venues such as The Jazz Cafe at Music Hall, Cliff Bell's, London Chop House, Steinway Jazz Cafe and, most recently, with the Midland Symphony.

"I like music that moves me, taking songs we all know and love, giving them new life and perhaps new meaning,' she said.

Ben Sharkey - March

With performances that have been viewed more than five million times on YouTube alone. Ben Sharkey has been delighting fans worldwide with his romantic style and velvet vocals on old swing and jazz standards that would make Ol' Blue Eyes himself green with envy. Sharkey's original compositions bear his soul and tug at the listener's heart strings.

His striking good looks and impassioned music makes him a creative tour de force. Although often compared to contemporaries like Michael Bublé, Sharkey is actually more closely comparable to Mel Torme and Harry Connick Jr. with his intimate interpretations of jazz classics and ability to make them sound fresh and new. His elegant renditions of the music of Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Bobby Darrin (along with many others) are both powerful and personal. His original music (available on iTunes) is heartfelt and instantly catching.

Hughes/Smith Quintet - May 6

Modern bebop from Detroit featuring Jimmy Smith on trumpet, James Hughes on saxophones, Phil Kelly on piano, Takashi Iio on bass and Nate Winn on drums. They play original tunes with purpose. Each member of the band is a fulltime professional musician in the Detroit scene. Smith and Hughes have been freelancing for the past 18 years, always the sidemen, never the leaders — until now.

They were running unique but parallel paths in the music business and found themselves on the same gigs in fall 2012. Both wanted to record their original tunes and share their music, when it dawned on them: collaborate! So they agreed to share the burden of getting something started from the ground up and within a month they were rehearsing for an album, "From Here On Out" (2013), and released their second, "Ever Up & Onward," in 2015.

The Millionaires -July 8

The Millionaires are a Detroit-based band, specializing in swing, jump blues, rhythm and blues and Latin jazz. The immediate origin of the band can be traced to the mid-1990s and a rehearsal-only project that eventually became a performing group known as The Magnificent Seven. By the end of the decade, the band had recorded its 'Keep A Dollar In Your Pocket" release and settled into its new persona as The Millionaires.

In truth, however, the die was cast long before, by the many generations of great Detroit-area musicians, bands and orchestras that had one thing in common: their love for playing dance music

Today, The Millionaires remain dedicated to that cause, dedicated to playing live music that swings and jumps, that gets fingers snapping and toes tapping - in short, dance music!

Life Choices can be a life saver for seniors here is no doubt we are all living longer. In the old days someone living into their 80s or 90s was unheard of; today, it's almost becoming the norm. I always remind people that age is a privilege, but I do realize that age also brings certain challenges. One of those challenges many people face is how to maintain their independence and deal with the day-to-day challenges we all face. Dealing with these challenges is more than a financial issue; it is also a resource issue as to where to you go to obtain assistance

Obviously, from a financial standpoint, if you have the resources, there is no problem. For the majority of people, though, finances remain a problem. One alternative that many people have chosen is to purchase a long-term care policy. Unfortunately, many people find it is difficult to actually collect benefits under a long-term care policy and that there has been a disturbing trend over the last few years where many companies have substantially increased their premiums to a point that it became unaffordable. The long-term care issue is one of the more difficult issues I have to contend with. After all, it's more than a financial issue; it is also a resource issue. In other words, when a senior needs assistance, where do they go even if they have the money? Because there are no easy solutions, it requires people to explore a variety of options. One option I recently became aware of that I believe many people should explore is the relatively new Life Choices Plan, through the Evangelical Homes of Michigan.

The Life Choices Plan is geared for seniors who want to stay at home and remain independent. Through this program, Life Choices provides its clients with an array of services and support, all geared to helping the senior maintain their independence and remain at home. Under this program, clients have a team of experts to assist them in their individual needs. Not only do they act as a lifestyle coach, but in addition, they also serve as a personal advocate, something that I can attest is much needed. One of the other benefits of this program is the fact that since seniors would have their own team, it dramatically reduces the chance they will be subject to senior abuse, a problem many seniors are now facing and a problem that is growing throughout the country.

Seniors who want to stay in their house and maintain their independence face many challenges, including such things as ensuring they are eating and exercising properly, have reliable transportation to the doctor and are taking their medications as prescribed. The Life Choices Plan addresses these needs and also makes provisions for those who eventually may require assisted living.

I believe the Life Choices Plan is something people should consider. Like everything else, it comes at a cost. The Life Choices Plan requires a significant upfront fee, as well as a monthly fee. However, if your goal is to maintain your independence and at the same time have a variety of health and wellness services, this is a program for those in southeast Michigan that deserves consideration.

I should also mention another benefit to this program and that is peace of mind - not only peace of mind for the senior knowing they will have a whole team of experts dedicated to their well-being, but also peace of mind for their loved ones. They can rest easy knowing their loved one is being prop-erly cared for.

For seniors who want to maintain their independence in their home and at the same time know their needs are going to be taken care of, I recommend looking at the Life Choices Plan. Its website is www.lifechoices athome.org. Its toll-free number is 866-979-9109. This program is not for everyone, but you may find that it fits your needs and, in many situations, will provide you with much better services than a long-term care policy would at a much more affordable

Terry Marecki Wayne County commissioner District 9, Livonia

Six Mile: Focus on public safety

The Wayne County Road Commission must be proactive regarding public safety on Six Mile tenaw County Solid Waste Road, between the newly constructed road from Haggerty to Northville roads in Northville Township.

I have been a staunch advocate regarding restricting commercial truck traffic, lowering the speed limits and especially identifying our school zones. I request that Wayne County and Northville Township take the following recommendations under consideration: » Six Mile is a county road that borders subdivisions, schools, nursing home and our police department. We have no commercial businesses on Six Mile requiring 36to 40-foot trucks for delivery of products. » The previous speed on Six Mile was 45 mph. Studies should be conducted to lower the speed limits. The newly reconstructed Six Mile, between Haggerty Road and Northville Road and just past Cross Road, is a two-lane road for eastbound and westbound traffic. A new center lane for left-hand turns has been built. Also, lanes entering a subdivision have been built for righthand turns into the subdivisions.

» No passing will be allowed due to the design of the road. Therefore, the right hand lanes must read "Right Turn Only." The middle lane must read:Left Turn Only"; passing is prohibited.

» Several reasons necessitate the speed limit on Six Mile to be lowered to 35 mph. In case of a vehicle breakdown, there is no place to pull over due to the curbs. Traffic is very heavy on Six Mile during the morning and evening rush hours. We have three schools on or adjacent to Six Mile, between Haggerty and Northville. They are Northville Christian Community Grade School, Winchester Elementary School and Meads Mill Middle School. These areas must be identified as a School Zone, lowering speeds down to 25 mph. There are traffic lights at Winchester Road, adjacent to the police station; Bradner Road, adjacent to Meads Mill Middle School; and Northville Road. None of these lights has a turning arrow or pedestrian crossing lights. With the amount of vehicle traffic predicted and Wayne County classifying Six Mile Road as a Primary Truck Route, it is imperative that turn signals be installed and pedestrian crossing lanes and signals be installed. » Before reconstruction of Six Mile, vehicles had been passing cars making a left-hand turn on the right-hand side of the road. This was an extremely dangerous situation. Now with the middle lane built, we must place signs reading, "Right hand turn only for vehicles entering their subdivisions. Safety is of primary concern because any vehicle not adhering to the sign and passing on the right will hit the curb at the other side of the subdivision's entrance, creating a potential serious accident or damage to one's vehicle.

» With heavy one-lane traffic going east and west, it is imperative for turn signals at Winchester. Bradner and Northville roads due to one lane of traffic moving in each direction. Vehicles must have time to make their left-hand turns in safety and not rush through yellow or red lights.

» It is time to create safe zones for our school children. A flashing yellow light should be placed warning drivers to lower their speed in the school zones. Normal speed through these areas is 25 mph. A good example would be the amount of school buses going to and from the schools. It is not uncommon to see six to 10 school buses backed up on Bradner Road, attempting to turn unto Six Mile Road. The curve on Six Mile at Franklin Road, which carries a lot of traffic to and from Meads Mill Middle School, must indicate sharp curve, poor visibility, No Passing Allowed.

» A sidewalk had been built on the north side of Six Mile, previous to the re-construction of Six Mile. With the heavy traffic predicted on Six Mile, it should be obvious to pblic safety officials that pedestrians need crossing lights at designated areas so our residents can cross Six Mile safely. The sidewalk was built as a bicycle route and walking area for all the residents bordering Six Mile. It had been, and will be, almost impossible for pedestrians to cross Six Mile in safety due to the heavy volume of traffic predicted and speed limit currently planned.

» Enforcement of the designated truck route to and from the Arbor Hills Landfill at Napier Road and Six Mile by garbage trucks and double-bottom concrete/ashpalt trailers to the concrete recycling area off of Chubb Road and Six Mile in Salem Township. Washtenaw County needs enforcement and the violators be warned by our public safety. These trucks are going through the heart of Northville Township and need Wayne County's enforcement. The lack of weights and measure enforcement officers is unacceptable if Wayne County refuses to change the designation of Six Mile from a Primary Truck "A" truck route to a Residential Community

County Road. Cooperation between the Wayne County Road Commission, Wayne County commissioner for Northville Township and township trustees working together with our 28 subdivision homeowner associations bordering Six Mile, is required. I hope my suggestions are taken under consideration by our Wayne County officials who are in control of Six Mile Road. We need more community involvement.

Ronald J. Pawlak Northville Township

No need for toll roads

The Michigan Senate adopted an S-2 Substitute for SB 627 that would allow the unrestricted use of toll roads and bridges with no legislative oversight or control.

It would authorize any level of government to set up a Public Private Partnership for almost any purpose, including rebuilding or repairing a road or bridge. That PPP could impose user fees enforced by manual or electronic means.

Michigan is blessedly free of toll roads and has only three toll bridges, each of which was authorized by specific actions of the legislature. SB 627 S-2 has absolutely no provisions for any legislative oversight.

The governor's office made it clear in their testimony in the first hearing on Dec. 9, 2015, that SB 627 was to have the widest possible effects with the fewest possible restrictions. This means non-elected bureaucrats could establish toll roads and bridges that both the public and the Legislature opposed but which they could not stop

I was the National Motorists Association representative that testified in the first hearing.

I was the NMA person that worked with OOIDA and PIRGIM to help kill HB 4961 in 2010 that had similar unrestricted provisions to establish toll roads and bridges with no legislative oversight.

I was the NMA person that testified against HB 4925 in 2014, which would have allowed toll roads. My testimony was picked up by the media and the publicity got that bill immediately withdrawn.

We do not need toll roads in Michigan to double-tax our residents and Pure Michigan visitors.

James C. Walker life member, National Motorists Association board member and executive director, National Motorists Association Foundation Ann Arbor

Turning right

I would like to make a couple of comments on Mr.Dubanik's rant in your Dec.1st edition of the Northville Record.

First I find it almost humorous that after eight years he still wants to blame Bush for the mess in the Middle East. He has obviously forgotten the support Obama/Clinton gave to the Muslim Brotherhood terrorists in Egypt (a country still recovering from that mistake), the abandonment of Libya/ Bengasi, and the failure to stand up to Syria.

Second to think that the Trump Cabinet will be a bunch of filthy rich people is a joke when you consider the DNC is supported by many billionaires (e.g. Soros, Buffett, Oprah, Bloomberg, etc.), and the fact that Obama's and Clinton's total assets increased significantly in this eight-year administration and that most of Obama's Cabinet are multimillionaires.

The fact is that most people in most states were tired of the government sticking their nose into every aspect of our life - and we are turning right.

Ernie McLaughlin Northville

Why change pension system?

State Senate leaders have publicly stated they are going to attempt to pass SB 102 before the end of the year, which would move all new school hires into a defined contribution, 401(k) style retirement plan. While this would totally change the retirement plan for new hires, it could destabilize the system for current employees and retirees as well.

The question that comes to mind is, why do anything when the system is not broken. Many changes have happened over the years to stabilize the system, so why change it now?

In addition, State Budget Experts are saying the bill will cost taxpayers an extra $24 billion over the next twenty plus years. In 2017 alone, closing the pension system would cost an additional $1.2 billion.

So where will the money come from? A tax increase? $1.2 billion equates to a cut of $820. per student! Will our legislators pay for it on the backs of our students?

If you have a problem with this picture, you need to contact your state legislator ASAP. The lame duck session ends in just a few weeks.

Young volunteers tackle canine cemetery project

LeAnne Rogers

The call for volunteers Saturday to help remove dying trees at the Michigan War Dog Memorial and Cemetery has been canceled.

"It's a done deal. About 10 guys came out the day after Thanksgiving and took care of it," cemetery president Phil Weitlauf said. "A couple of young guys — football players — were looking for some community service. They were a godsend. The rest of us are in our 60s. I couldn't believe the work they did."

There were five-foot tall cherry trees that needed to be removed from the cemetery, located at 25805 Milford Road. Volunteers removed the trees and split 18 cords of wood, Weitlauf said.

Looking ahead, Weitlauf said there will be a dedication of a new Vietnam Canine Wall at the cemetery in May 2017. The granite wall is being prepared and could actually be placed in January. Weitlauf said the names of Vietnam military dogs were obtained from the Department of Defense.

"The wall is all black granite. It will have all the names of the dogs and their tattoo numbers on it. At the end of the war in Vietnam, they left all the dogs behind — 3,800 dogs," Weitlauf said. "It will be exciting. It is the only wall in the country like it and it will be here in South Lyon."

The wall cost $40,000. Thanks to tremendous support from the community, Weitlauf said, $45,000 was raised in 10 weeks.

Farmingtonm Hills police seek information on missing woman

Gina Damron
Detroit Free Press

Farmington Hills police are seeking information on the whereabouts of a 28-year-old woman who has been reported missing.

Danielle Stislicki was last seen leaving work at about 5 p.m. Friday in the area of 10 Mile and Telegraph in Southfield, Farmington Hills police Lt. Jeff King said. He said she was seen driving her vehicle, which was found at Independence Green Apartments in Farmington Hills, where she lived.

King said there is "no evidence found at this time to lead us to believe that foul play is involved, but the investigation continues."

He said Stislicki is described as someone who maintains contact with family and friends and for her to not be in touch is out of character.

"Our concern is for the welfare and safe return of Danielle at this time," he said

Stislicki, whose place of employment was not released by police, was last seen wearing jeans, burgundy boots, a black zip-up shirt and a blue Eddie Bauer coat, according to a news release from the Farmington Hills Police Department. Police said she is 5 feet, 5 inches, 123 pounds.

Anyone with information on Stislicki's whereabouts is asked to contact Farmington Hills police at 248-871-2610.

'Inappropriate contact' leads to assault charge against doctor

Dr. Eliezer Monge, a physician with an office in downtown Farmington, has been charged with assault and battery after having inappropriate and unwanted contact with a female patient, Farmington Public Safety officials said in a statement Monday morning.

The allegations against Monge were reported to the Farmington Public Safety Department in July by the victim, who told investigators that Monge inappropriately touched her and kissed her during a medical exam.

The victim, an 18-yearold Farmington resident, told police Monge met her in the exam room and had her lay on her back on the examination table, at which time he began to touch her in such a way that made her feel very uncomfortable. The victim and Monge were the only people in the exam room. According to police, Monge then reached out his hand to assist the woman to a sitting position at which time she reported that he leaned in and attempted to kiss her on the lips.

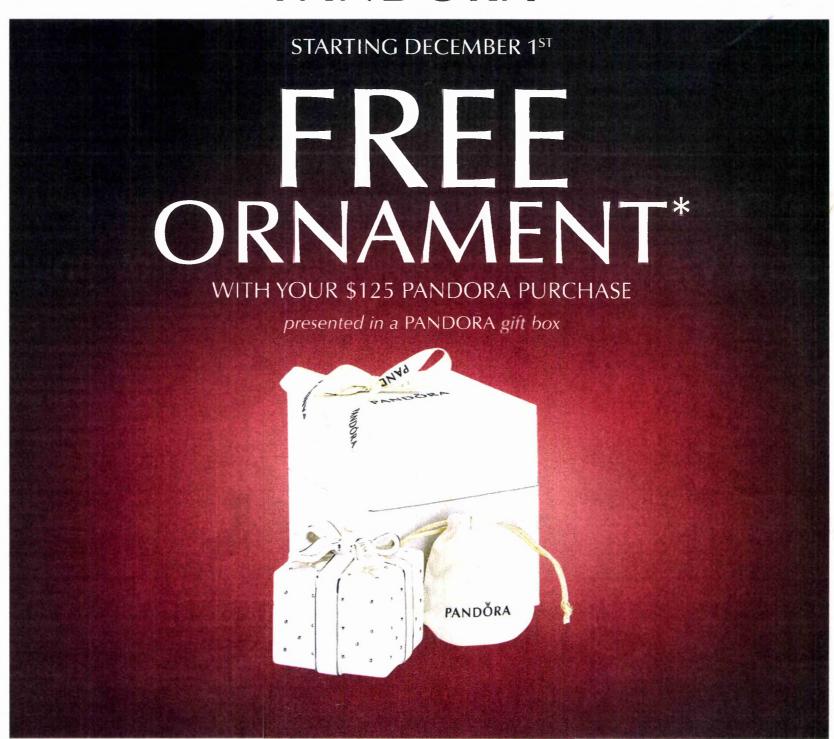

The victim told police she immediately turned her head sideways to avoid the kiss, at which time she said Monge kissed her on the side of her neck with an open mouth. The victim stated that she became panicked and immediately left the office without checking out.

Investigators interviewed Monge, who denied the victim's claims

A DNA sample from the victim's neck was obtained to be compared with a known DNA sample from Monge. The samples were sent to the Michigan State Police Crime Lab, which confirmed the DNA recovered from the victim's neck matched that of Monge.

The case was presented to the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office and a warrant was issued charging Monge with assault and battery, a misdemeanor punishable by 93 days in jail or $500 fine. Monge was arraigned Dec. 2 before Magistrate Matthew Friedrich of the 47th District Court, who ordered a $2,500 personal bond and no contact with the victim.

Tree-lighting ushers in holiday season

hometownlife.com

Farmington Hills resident Joy Gradin thinks the Farmington community is "bursting with charm.

On Saturday, she was out with hundreds of others enjoying the annual Lighted Parade, along Grand River Avenue, that kicked off the holiday season in the community.

She said the parade is one benefit of a community she has seen "grow and blossom around me."

'It's something to do and it doesn't have anything to do with shop-ping," Gradin said of the slow walk through downtown Farmington. It's part of the charm."

The charm, plus a visit from everyone's favorite elf, followed at the treelighting ceremony at the Governor Warner Mansion, where Santa Claus brought the magic to help light the tree to the roars of a couple of hundred people. The Farmington Community Chorus regaled the crowd with Christmas carols and the Salvation Army provided some music from the porch of the mansion.

Farmington Mayor Pro Tem Steve Schneeman and Farmington Hills Mayor Ken Massey welcomed the crowd and did the one order of business — awarding the "best float" award to the Riley Skate Park float.

"Your float showed a lot of creativity, a lot of craftsmanship," Schneeman told the winners. Saturday marked the annual Holly Days celebration, which featured specials at the farmers market, showing of holiday movies at the Civic Theater (which raised some canned and boxed goods for the Salvation Army) The tree-lighting, sponsored by the Farmington Jaycees and the Salvation Army, capped off a day-long event Massey hailed as a unifying event for the two cities.

"What makes this event so powerful is you," Massey told the crowd. "We may be two cities with two governments, but this event is part of what makes us one community.'

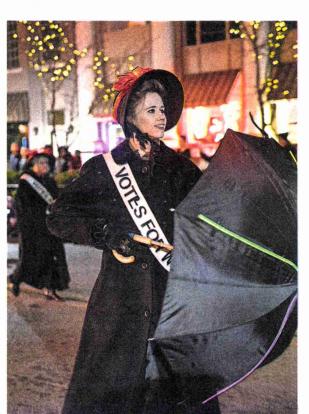

Michael and Marie Gould recently moved to Farmington and attended Saturday's parade with their young son, Miles, 3, and Marie's dad Mike. Marie said the family took part in the event because "we wanted to celebrate the start of the holidays.

'We're really excited to have a really nice family atmosphere," Marie Gould said. "We can't wait not only for the parade, but for the ice skating at Riley Park."

Center hosts final 'Holocaust by Bullets' Sunday tour

The Holocaust Memorial Center Zekelman Family Campus will host its final Sunday tour of "Holocaust by Bullets, Yahad-In Unum — 10 Years of Investigations" at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 11. The exhibit, which opened at the museum in June, runs through Friday, Dec. 30. The special docent-led tour will be followed by a presentation from a Holocaust survivor.

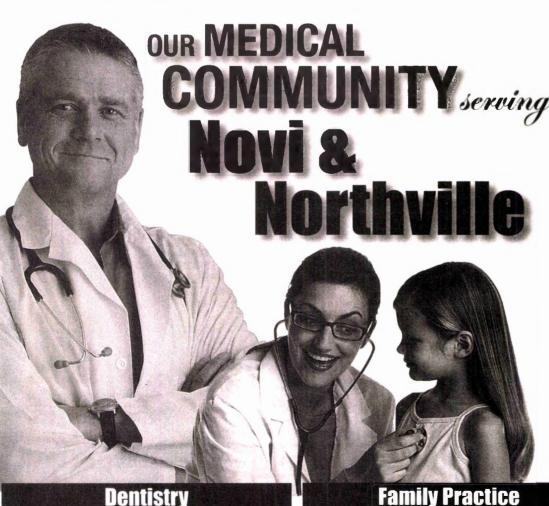

Based on 10 years of research and investigation by the French organization Yahad-In Unum and its founder, the Rev. Patrick Desbois, the exhibit chronicles the lesser-known side of the Holocaust through eyewitness testimonies, photographs and mai Known as "Holocaust by Bullets," the systematic killing of all Jews and Roma started before the creation of concentration camps and took place throughout the former Soviet Union from 1942-44, continuing until the end of World War II. The form of genocide detailed by the exhibit is unlike any other study of genocidal activity ever conducted and presented. In "Holocaust by Bullets," which is available in both English and Spanish, visitors follow YIU's identification of the dehumanizing steps that took place almost systematically for every mass killing throughout Eastern Europe. Along with the installation, extended video of eyewitness testimonies is available. Space for the tour is limited. RSVP to Gail Cohen at 248-553-2400, ext. 110.

SUGAR RUSH A NEW SWEET TREAT

Maria Taylor Correspondent

Farmington's new retro candy store is tucked away at the back of the Village Mall.

But it's not hard to find if you follow your nose.

"We could smell the sugar from the Civic (Theatre)," Farmington resident Karla Aren said. She stopped in Saturday, along with her husband and teenage daughter, after hearing about the new store — Sugar Rush on the Grow Farmington Facebook page.

Aren left the store with Red Hots, Lemonheads and Ice Cubes. 'My boyfriend used to get me these all the time, with a Big Gulp," she said. "This is great — we need a little candy store in Farmington."

Colin Ayres is the owner of Sugar Rush. 'We specialize in oldfashioned candy," he said.

Look around the store and it's a haven of throwback treats. Squirrels, Mary Janes, Cow Tales, Bit-O-Honey, Chuckles. Iridescent gumballs, shimmering pink, purple and yellow behind glass cases. (They're really popular for weddings Ayres said.) Looking for a sugar high? There's cotton candy and a Pixy Stix maker. And, for chocolate lovers, there are Bun Bars and Lindt truffles.

Sugar Rush in Farmington is Ayres' third candy store location. The first one opened 17 years ago, in downtown Claw-

For Ayers, who lives in Warren, it was a case of being in the right place at the right time. "I was out in Berkley, having lunch with a friend, and we saw an open storefront,' Ayres said. The two started talking about what they'd open if they had that space. She mentioned a coffee shop. Ayres said that was great, but there ought to be something for the kids, too — like a candy counter with toys and

When they got back to his friend's house, there in the mailbox was a catalog for novelty toys. Ayres said it was like a sign. "I said, 'I'm going to open it — I'm doing it," he said.

And open it he did. True to his inspiration, the Clawson store stocked a mix of oldfashioned candy and retro novelty toys. "It was a blast," he said. "At that time, there were no other candy stores (in the area). We grew up with them and then they kind of disappeared.'

Sugar Rush owner Colin Ayres helps customers Michelle and Sugar Rush specializes in old-fashioned candy.

The store in Clawson lasted about 3½ years. After that, he moved it to St. Clair Shores, working on and off in various management positions between times. But St. Clair Shores wasn't an idea location, he said, because it wasn't in a downtown. So when he was in Farmington visiting a friend and saw a "for rent" sign at the Village Mall, he called the number and leased the

Sugar Rush opened the Saturday after Thanksgiving. Since then, Ayres said he's had a steady stream of visitors. "I'm already getting the same amount of people here as I did in St. Clair, when I spent $1,000 on advertising," he said. He chalks that up to being in a downtown with lots of people walking by.

Alex and Michelle Clarke of Farmington Hills dropped in and bought a whole box of Chuckles minis — they're only 25 cents each — and a Charleston Chew bar. "They're hard to find in strawberry and chocolate," Michelle said.

Perusing the store, Alex noticed some Warhead-flavored candy canes. Ayres said sour candy is a real hit with today's younger crowd. 'There ought to be a Warhead Challenge, like the Ice Bucket Challenge," he said, with a laugh. He said he gets a lot of teenage foot traffic from PLUS Skateboarding and he thinks they'll like the new candy he's ordered: Toxic Waste, which he said tastes "like Warheads, but worse."

their candy sweet, not sour, Ayres said his top sellers are classic candy dots (the store's logo) and Nik-L-Nips, the wax bot-tles filled with fruity syrup. Black licorice is also really popular, he said - and not just among the older crowd. "I had a girl come in, maybe 18 or 20 years old, who's been in Europe a couple years," he said. "She learned to like black licorice because it's very prominent over there."

For those who like

Ayers keeps a notebook on the counter, next to the orange buckets on hand for candy collecting. If there's a specific candy you're looking for, you can write it down with your name and number and he'll order it for you.

"If everybody likes it, I'll carry it," he said. That was the case with Idaho Spuds in Clawson, where folks couldn't get enough of the cocoa-flavored, chocolate- and coconutcoated marshmallow candies.

Those might show up in Farmington, too, because Ayers is planning to bring in a bunch of regional specialties, like Cherry Mash (cherry fondant covered in chocolate and crushed nuts) and Valomilk (chocolate cup with marshmallow cream).

In the middle of the room is a big dispenser with little candies like Tootsie Rolls. Everything in it is eight pieces for a quarter. That way, Ayers said, kids can come in and get a treat with their pocket change.

But make no mistake, he said: No matter your age, you're always a kid when you're in a candy shop. "People always say the kids love this the most. I say, 'Don't kid yourselves. The adults love it just as much,'" he said. "You can't come in and not have fun. It's just a fun business.'

Sugar Rush is located at the back of the Village Mall at 33335 Grand River, by the parking lot on the Farmington Road side. It's open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and noon to 4 p.m. Sunday and Monday throughout the holiday season, with hours changing in January.

Performing these interventions locally eliminates treatment delays and allows patients to be treated closer to home.

"We are very pleased to have recruited Maher Rabah, D.O., a remarkable interventional cardiologist to lead our Cath Lab as medical director. Dr. Rabah has 29 years of experience with the heart programs at the Beaumont hospitals in Troy and Royal Oak and has an amazing portfolio of clinical results," said David P. Gowman, D.O., cardiology chief and director of the Cardiology Fellowship training program at Beaumont-Farmington Hills. "He has performed thousands of angioplasty and stenting procedures. Now, he is performing those same lifesaving procedures here in Farmington Hills."

Cardiovascular disease is the leading cause of death in the United States, causing 600,000 deaths annually. PCI is considered one of the most effective, primary treatments for narrowed or blocked heart arteries or heart attacks. Percutaneous means "through the skin." The procedure is done by inserting a thin flexible tube, or catheter, through the skin in the upper thigh or arm that is threaded through a blood vessel to the affected heart artery. A balloon at the top of the catheter is inflated to open the narrowed artery, restoring blood flow to the heart muscle to help minimize damage to heart function.

According to data from the National Registry of Myocardial Infarction, patients who were transferred to another facility for emergency angioplasty with a door-to-reperfusion time of 2.5-3 hours have a 60-percent increase in risk-adjusted mortality, compared with a door-toreperfusion time of less than 90 minutes. The program at Beaumont-Farmington Hills allows patients who reside locally the chance to be treated within the 90-minute window of opportunity, greatly increasing their chances of survival.

"Time is muscle and muscle is life," Rabah

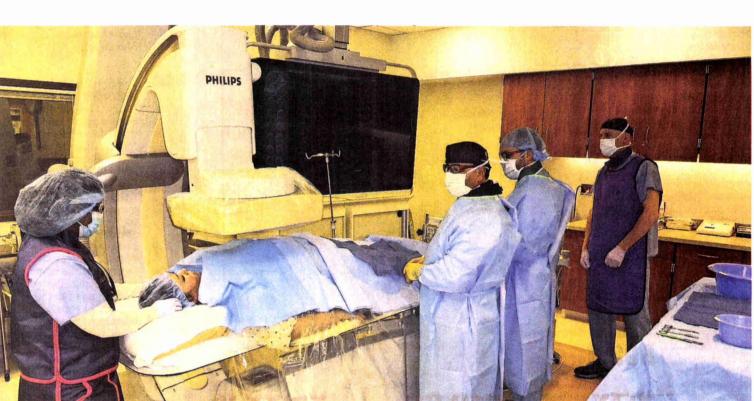

An angioplasty procedure usually takes about 90 minutes to perform. Most patients stay one night in the hospital.

"After angioplasty, we spend a lot of time educating our patients and their families on the importance of leading a heart-healthy lifestyle and helping them achieve their goals," said Heather Glover, RN, manager, Cardiology Services, Beaumont-Farmington Hills. "Our outpatient Cardiac Rehabilitation program is top-notch and includes monitored exercise and assistance with lifestyle changes, such as a heart-healthy diet, smoking cessation, weight loss and stress management. Cardiac Rehab is essential for people to regain their quality of life."

Beaumont Health offers elective and emergency PCI at six of its eight hospitals, including Dearborn, Farmington Hills, Royal Oak, Trenton, Troy and Wayne.

In addition to renovating its Cardiac Cath Lab, Beaumont-Farmington Hills is undergoing an enormous transformation at an estimated cost of $160 million. The expansion project represents a significant investment in the 51-yearold hospital, and is Beaumont Health's largest capital project since forming its new eighthospital system in 2014. While Beaumont Health is funding $150 million of the project, it is relying on support from the community for the remaining $10 million.

Catholic Central enters season loaded again

Brad Emons hometownlife.com

If there are any holes in Novi Detroit Catholic Central's wrestling lineup, it may take a while to find them.

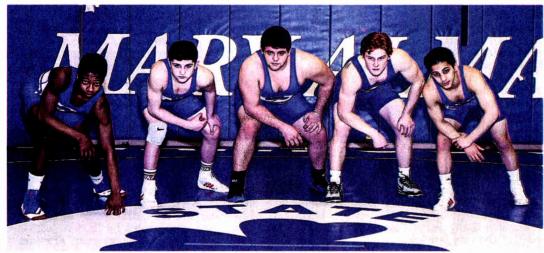

The Shamrocks are coming off a banner year, highlighted by five individual state champions, along with two other state placers and another state qualifier

All seven return, with the most notable loss to graduation being Aaron Rehfeldt, who placed seventh at the state finals at 130 pounds.

The only thing that eluded CC last year was an MHSAA Division 1 team state championship, as Davison derailed the Shamrocks (16-6) in the state

"We're very excited about the 2016-17 wrestling season," Hancock said. "Our guys have put in a great deal of work this past summer and fall in preparing for this season. We have a fantastic senior class, with great leadership, character and work ethic."

Area Wrestler of the Year

Tyler Morland, a senior, was the state champion last year at 171 pounds and posted a 45-1 record.

Morland, a linebacker on the state runner-up CC football team, injured his knee early in INSIDE

Meanwhile, the other four state champions who return are senior heavyweight Nick Jenkins (39-10); junior Ben Kamali (20-1), who will move from 103 to 119-125; sophomore Kevon Davenport (47-3), who goes from 119 to 130-135; and sophomore Cameron Amine (39-9), who moves from 125 to 140-145.

Also returning are sixthplace state finishers Jackson Ross (37-13), a senior who willstay at 215, and junior Stone Moscovic (29-15), who goes from 112 to 125-130. State qualifier Aiden Wagh (31-18), a junior, will bump up from 140 to

CAN NOVI CAPITALIZE ON STRONG 2015-16 FINISH?

Brad Emons

Novi's 2015-16 boys basketball season proved to be a roller-coaster ride of

The Wildcats were expected to contend in the KLAA Central Division, but a season-ending knee injury in early February to senior point guard Kevin Hankerson, a Wisconsin-Green Bay signee, didn't help matters.

Mired in a 7-9 start and failing to make the KLAA playoffs, the Wildcats seemed down and out before resurrecting themselves by winning their final four regular-season games then going on to beat host Salem, Novi Detroit Catholic Central and rival Northville (which at the time was 21-1) to claim the Class A district title.

INSIDE

Boys basketball team capsules, B2

Novi's tourney run ended with a regional semifinal loss to Walled Lake Central, but the Wildcats proved they could hang with some of the area's best teams and do it with some up-and-coming talent.

Expectations should be high again this season, although Novi lost two of its big men, Naji Ozeir and Jay Duarte,

Traveon Maddox, a 6-foot-4 junior guard, improved as the season wore on and finished averaging 16.5 points, 6.5 rebounds, 3.0 assists and 2.6 steals per game en route to first team All-Area

The Wildcats also return sophomore point guard Trendon Hankerson, along with starting forwards Johnny Davis and Alec Bargeris, both seniors.

Meanwhile, Jiovanni Miles, who got considerable playing time as a freshman at guard, also returns.

Novi coach Brandon Sinawi hopes his Wildcats can build off last year's strong finish. The Wildcats open their season Friday at home against Rochester.

"We will be tested each and every game," the third-year coach said.

PREP ATHLETICS

Inquiry put out to join KLAA for 2018-19

Remaining 14 schools are hoping for others to apply

Brad Emons hometownlife.com

After the defection of 10 schools earlier this fall, the remaining 14 high schools from the Kensington Lakes Activities Association are open to the idea of adding new members.

Current KLAA president Keith McDonald, Livonia Churchill High principal, said an effort is underway to explore and possibly increase the number of schools in the KLAA for the 2018-19 school year.

Applications from interested high schools will be accepted through Dec. 15 by the KLAA, which was formed in 2008-09 when the Western Lakes Activities Association and Kensington Valley Conference merged.

"I think it makes more

"I think it makes more sense to have an even number, whatever that number is, but in the end an even number of schools makes scheduling a lot easier with divisions, crossovers and everything else," McDonald said.

The criteria the KLAA will consider for potential applicants include enrollment, geography, number of athletic and activity offerings, quality of athletic programs and quality and quantity of facilities.

In 2017-18, the KLAA will shrink from 24 schools to 14, with the remaining schools being Churchill, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Stevenson, Westland John Glenn, Wayne Memorial, Canton, Salem, Plymouth, Northville, Novi, Brighton, Howell, Hartland and Grand Blanc.

The invitation to join the KLAA for the 2018-19 school year was put in motion when nine KLAA members bolted to form their own league, which is expected to be named this month. The schools pulling out were Milford, Lakeland, South Lyon, South Lyon East, Walled Lake Northern, Walled Lake Central, Walled Lake Western, Waterford Mott and Waterford Kettering.

The 10th school to leave the KLAA, Pinckney, has been accepted join the 12-school Southeastern Conference in 2017-18

"We put it out there," Mc-Donald said. "People talk and I don't know if there's active recruiting of teams. If a team wants to come, they'll come or at least apply. I don't think it's necessarily in our best interest to raid three or four schools from a different league and create a problem for that

Franklin Road upstages Class A Vikings, 37-17

Tom Morelli Correspondent

If practice makes perfect, then the authors of Webster's Dictionary may want to use Chanelle Lochrie as their textbook definition.

While most high school kids spend their summer working, learning how to drive or deciding on whom they want to ask to the homecoming dance, Lochrie was in the gym with her AAU team, the Dearborn Hype, looking for ways to improve her shooting prowess.

A sophomore player in her second year on the varsity at Novi Franklin Road Christian, Lochrie put on a clinic Friday during the team's 37-17 win over host Walled Lake Central.

"I tried to work on shooting, because last year my main job was just to drive to the basket," the 5-foot-9 Lochrie said. "I never took shots. This year, I'm trying to work on that so I won't be a one-purpose player and do everything on the

You don't need to be book smart to figure out that those extra hours in the gym paid off well for Lochrie, who finished with eight points on 2-of-4 from 3-point range and 2-of-3 from the free-throw line.

Even with the Warriors (2-0) up by a wide margin toward the end of the game, Lochrie played with just as much determination as if it had just begun. After taking the ball past center court, Lochrie made a beeline toward the wing before driving the lane and drawing contact with three defenders in her path.

That's the sort of moxie Franklin Road coach Tiffany Butler is looking for in her back court, with Lochrie stepping in to run the point alongside senior guard Danielle

"A lot has fallen on Chanelle to be the point guard and run the team," said Butler, who lost last year's starting point guard, Hannah Rayburn, to graduation. "Danielle and Chanelle are showing good chemistry and they know how to get the ball inside and can hit the open shot. Chanelle is running the floor and that's her job now. It's her second game doing it, so she's still making a few mistakes, but I think she's doing a great job so far and I know she's only going to get

Despite the massive difference in school size, Class D Franklin Road was never overmatched in any aspect against Class A Central, jumping out to a 6-0 lead to begin the contest.

A triple by the Vikings' Maria Teodoro at 5:10 cut the deficit in half, before the Warriors went on a 7-0 spurt to finish the first quarter.

Senior center Daria Boboc split a pair at the charity stripe, followed by a dish of an inbound pass from Fusco to power forward Reagan Mumford, who sank one from beyond the arc.

With 1:15 left, Franklin Road extended its lead to double digits on a Fusco triple that came courtesy of Lochrie.

Fusco scored a team high 10 points, knocking home 2-of-7 triples to go along with a stellar 4-of-5 free throws.

Lochrie talked about the chemistry she and Fusco have developed from playing with one another.

"I've been playing with Danielle for three years now and we know each other well," Lochrie said. "We know where we want the ball and what each other does best. We're really great friends, especially on the court. We just try to keep each other up and encourage each other. If one of us gets down, the other one is always there to pick her up and help her. We keep each other accountable and talk to know where we are on the floor and keep our spacing better.'

Fouls became a burden on both teams rather quickly, with Central (0-1) committing its seventh team foul with 35 seconds left in the first quarter and the Warriors earning a penalty in the opening minute of the ensuing quarter.

With most of the quarter being spent at the free-throw line, Franklin Road managed to take a 20-12 lead at halftime.

The Warriors piled on their defense in the third quarter, holding the Vikings to just two points, which came on a pullup jumper by Teodoro just shy of the midway point. Franklin Road managed to score just six, before stringing together an 11-3 performance in the final quarter.

"What we've been really focusing on is our defense and that's our biggest deal," Butler said. "With what I saw tonight, we held them to five points in the second half. We're working on different schemes on defense and I just really liked what I saw from them to-

As a whole, Central struggled to get shots to fall, finishing 8-of-34 on field goals.

A rather young roster looking to improve upon last season's 2-19 finish is going to be a challenge early, according to Vikings coach Robert Schopf.

"We've got a young group of kids. We have three sophomores and two freshmen on an 11-player roster with one senior," Schopf said. "We're young, we are inexperienced and we have a hard time scoring. We were tickled to death with holding Franklin Road to 37 points. One of our goals is to hold them under 10 points a quarter and we met that goal tonight."

Central made only 7-of-25 free throws.

The Warriors also had an off-night shooting from the field (9-of-30), but were much more precise in hitting their targets at the charity stripe (9-of-16).

"We want to play some big-ger schools and tougher competition to see how we match up against them," Butler said.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Dearborn surprises Mustangs in opener

Brad Emons hometownlife.com

Northville couldn't hold a five-point lead heading into the final quarter Nov. 29 as host Dearborn stormed back for a season-opening 50-49 girls basketball victory over last year's Class A quarterfinalists.

The Pioneers led 24-19 at halftime before Northville rallied with a 19-9 third-quarter run to go up 38-33

But Dearborn regrouped to outscore the Mustangs 17-11 in the fourth to pull out the victory. The Pioneers got a late free throw to break a 49-49 deadlock and Northville misfired on a 3-point attempt on its final possession.

Nasreen Kobeissi led Dearborn with 17 points, including 11-of-13 from the foul line. Isabelle Clark chipped in 15.

Junior guard Roan Haines paced Northville with 13 points, while senior forward Jessica Moorman and senior center Brook Adams contributed 12 and 11, respectively.

Starting junior guard Kendall Dillon and Adams both fouled out.

Dearborn was 17-of-24 from the free-throw line (70.8 percent), while Northville was 18-of-25 (72 percent).

It was a disappointing loss for the Mustangs, who had four returning starts off last year's school-record 21-4 season.

'They won their district last year and they had some experienced players back," Northville coach Todd Gudith said of the Pioneers. "We were kind of fighting from behind all night and we got into foul trouble. We just got flat outworked and, quite frankly, got humbled. I think maybe this will be good for us down the road and get this out of our system now. We certainly weren't as strong defensively as I thought we should have been.

FRANKLIN ROAD 52, HURON VALLEY 30: Samantha Golchuk scored a game-high 23 points and broke the career 1,000th-point barrier in the process broke the career, Journ-point parter in the process Nov. 29, but it wasn't enough as Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (0-1) dropped its season opener at Novi franklin Road Christian (1-0) The senior guard scored all nine of Huron Valley's points in the second quarter and also added nine

Daria Boboc, a 6-foot-2 senior center, scored 16 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to power the Warriors, who led 23-14 at halftime and 41-20 after three quarters. Chanelle Lochrie also added 13 points

Northville reloads

Northville (21-2) is coming off a record-setting season, but the Mustangs lost three key players to graduation including area Player of Year Justin Zimbo, who averaged 16.5 points per game; forward Justin Gibbons, who averaged 15.5 points and 7.5 re-bounds per game, and for-ward Nick Wilds, who averaged 9.0 points and 7.5 re-

The Mustangs suffered a big setback when returning starting guard Jack Burke, a senior, was lost for the season after undergoing foot surgery. Burke, Northville's starting quarterback, was injured in the Mustangs' first-round football playoff

All is not lost, however, as third-year starting guard Kevin Morrissey returns, along with sixth man Jake Justice. Both seniors will start in the back court, while Swedish exchange student Gustaf Tjernberg, a 6-5 sen ior, also shows immense

"Our team is excited about the upcoming season," Northville ninth-year coach Todd Sander said. "After graduating most of our scoring and starting lineup, we are anxious to see who will step up and embrace this opportunity. Multiple positions are up for grabs and this only adds to the intensity and competition at every practice, which is wonderful to see. We have a skilled solid core returning and moving up from the JV team and Gustaf has been a pleasant surprise. He fits in nicely and helps fill some our size void."

Northville, which finished 10-0 last year in the KLAA Central Division, expects to contend again. The Mustangs opened their season Tuesday at home against Saline before traveling Friday to Dearborn Fordson.

"The beginning of every new season is always a time of tremendous anticipation," Sander said. "Our goals start the same every year: win the division, win the conference and win districts. For this to happen, in addition to competing every day, we need to execute on both ends of the floor on game day. We always stress five players working as one on offense and on defense."

Shamrocks ready

Novi Detroit Catholic Central (11-10) returns its top two scorers from a year ago in 5-10 senior guard Gio Genrich (12.4 points), who shot 37.5 percent from 3-point range last year (36-of-96), and 6-5, 225-pound senior forward C.J. Baird, who averaged 11 points while shooting 50 percent from the field.

The Shamrocks, however, suffered a huge blow when Austin Brown, who got considerable playing time last year as a freshman, broke his leg in CC's Division 1 football state semifinal game against Romeo.

CC opened its season Tuesday at home against Farmington and will play Sterling Heights Stevenson on Sunday at the University of Detroit's Calihan Hall.

"We will have two sophomores playing for us this year in Mike Harding and Davis Lukomski," CC 11thyear coach Bill Dyer said. "We also have three seniors in C.J. Baird, Gio Genrich and Jack Morris that have been with us for three years. Our seniors need to lead by example on and off the floor for us to reach a higher level. I have a lot of faith in them. They're great students and better kids.'

Warriors rebuilding

Second-year Novi Franklin Road Christian coach Matt Mikel lost four key players to graduation, including guard Austin Hearns, a 1,000-point scorer, along with 6-6 Joshua Bause, who averaged 15 rebounds per game.

The Warriors (17-6), coming off a Class D district championship, will be led by senior guard Maxwell Holle-Makenzy Blacker, a 6-3 freshman, also shows promise, along with freshman point guard Rahmon Scruggs and two transfers, sophomore guard Lucas Scarchilli (North farmington) and junior guard Christian Banks (Southfield).

The Warriors will play again in the Blue Division of the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference, which features Class C power Southfield Christian.

Franklin Road opened its season this week with road games at Dearborn Henry Ford Academy (Tuesday) and Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard (Friday).

"We're pretty athletic and quick on our feet," Mikel said. "We'll be playing uptempo games with this group for the next couple of years.

10th annual Schoenheide tourney set

Northville to host teams in memory of former wrestler

> Brad Emons hometownlife.com

Twelve wrestling teams will vie Saturday, Dec. 10, for bragging rights at Northville High School in the 10th annual Todd Schoenheide Memorial Challenge. Among the competing teams are the host Mustangs, Novi, Plymouth, South Lyon East, Wayne Memorial, Dearborn, Dearborn Edsel Ford, St. Clair Shores Lakeview, Melvindale, Detroit Mumford and Action begins at 9 a.m. with the preliminary rounds, featuring three pools of four teams each, leading up to the championship round.

The tournament is hosted annually by the Northville wrestling squad in memory of their fallen teammate Todd Schoenheide, who was killed by a drunken driver April 10, 2005, at age 17 following his junior wrestling season. Schoenheide, an avid cyclist, was returning from a Sunday afternoon ride to Ann Arbor with friends when he was struck at the intersection of Plymouth-Ann Arbor and Gottfredson roads.

"He was the embodiment of the true athletic spirit with a dedication to excellence," said former Novi coach Steve Minier, a 2004 Northville High graduate. "Todd was an extremely resilient young man and had a way of wearing a smile even when others couldn't. I was blessed to know him during my time at Northville and can honestly say that he had a smile that endured anything. When wrestling practice became grueling, Todd was always there, wearing a smile, a smile that never faltered and a spirit that never faded. His spirit lives on today as we honor him at this tournament.'

Proceeds from the tourney will go to the Todd Schoenheide Memorial Scholarship, presented each spring to a Northville High senior who shares one of Schoenheide's passions of either football, scouting or wrestling.

"Having a wrestling tournament and a scholarship in Todd's memory is a wonderful tribute. His classmates and they all were affected by his death."

DALE SCHOENHEIDE, Todd's father

"Having a wrestling tournament and a scholarship in Todd's memory is a wonderful tribute," said Dale Schoenheide, Todd's father. "His classmates and teammates have long since graduated, but they all were affected by his death. By remembering Todd, we are reminded that his life was cut short by a drunk driver. With the holidays almost here, it's an important reminder for all drivers.

"I think it's pretty amazing that the team has chosen to remember Todd. It's a wonderful tribute to the caring, funloving person he was. He died doing one of his favorite activities because of a drunk driver. I'll always wonder what might have been."

Admission is $5 at the door. Concessions will be available throughout the event.

"I believe this tournament is a great way for Northville wrestling to start the season," first-year Mustangs varsity coach Tyler Schneider said. "We are looking strong this year and we should have a good showing at our home tournament. Northville wrestling has shown a lot of improvement since the last season and I believe it will show when it comes time to step on the mat.

First-place Chicago skates past U18 squad, 4-1

Pete Krupsky Correspondent

On Saturday night, during the National Team Development Programs' annual Teddy Bear Toss at USA Hockey Arena, the NTDP U18 squad gave the Chicago Steel all it could handle and then some - for two periods.

The U18s carried the play for much of the first two periods against the USHL's best team, outshooting the Steel, 22-12, while hitting a couple of goal posts. And when U18 defenseman Tyler Inamoto scored at 18:56 of the second period to tie the game at 1-1, the teddy bears came raining down from the stands onto the ice surface.

Then Chicago showed why it is the best team in the USHL with three unanswered goals in the third period to defeat the U.S., 4-1, breaking the U18 team's four-game winning streak while raising its record to a league-best 16-4-1-1.

The Steel scored three goals in a span of 1:39 to break the 1-1 tie. Second star Jack Badini scored the game-winning goal at 5:43 of the third period. wristing a hard shot from the

South Lyon is blitzed by Spartans

Stevenson's outburst in final period ices Lions

Livonia Stevenson was proof positive Friday night of the old adage: "It's not how you start, but how you finish.'

The host Spartans were tied 1-1 after one period against South Lyon Unified and led 3-1 after two before exploding for six goals during the final period en route to a 9-1 KLAA Central Division boys hockey win at Edgar Arena.

Teo Gomulka and Justin Alton both notched a hat trick in the victory, while Jack Williamson's goal, assisted by Cody Ciesliga and Morgan Gray, ended the game with 1:14 remaining on the eight-goal mercy rule as the Spartans improved to 4-1 overall and 2-0 in the Cen-Gomulka, a third-year varsity player and member of last year's MHSAA Division 1 state runner-up team, notched his first hat trick as a Spartan. All three of the senior's goals occurred during the final period.

'We weren't playing our game," Gomulka said, referring to the opening peri-od. "We got our heads in it. We came back, we played Spartan hockey and we got the 'W.' Spartan hockey is hard-nosed, hard on pucks, we do everything right, we do our systems and win. It's the little things. We practice the details and it showed today.'

South Lyon (1-1-1, 0-1) took a head contact penalty just 2:04 into the first period. Just five seconds into the Stevenson power play, Alton scored off an assist from Alex Walkuski.

But after South Lyon took another penalty only 43 seconds later, Stevenson had a five-on-three power play for 58 seconds, but it backfired when Brett Cook knifed in and scored an unassisted short-handed goal at the 4:50 mark to make it 1-1.

nor Jakacki stuffed home a rebound 6:23 into the second period to give Stevenson the lead for keeps, 2-1. Julian Decina and Easton Schlatterbeck drew the assists.

league. If there are schools that want to come and there are conversations, we'll be happy to have conversations with them."

McDonald said an ideal number going forward would be 16 schools divided into two divisions of eight.

"Just the set-up of the divisions and the amount of travel, that would change quite drastically for a num-ber of schools," he said. " At this point I don't know if there's a Plan B. We're going to look right now at applications and what interest comes by Dec. 15 and then we'll make a decision from there for 2018-19 and make it a better league than what we have."

Travel concerns, discrepancy in enrollments and strength of certain athletic programs, driven primarily by football, factored in the defection of the 10 KLAA members and will continue to play a part in any possible expansion going forward in 2018-19

The KLAA's largest school, Grand Blanc (enrollment 2,630), is located 55 miles northwest of the association's most southern member, Wayne Memorial (1,717 students).

Two schools rumored to be interested in joining the KLAA are Saline (1,923 students) of the Southeastern Conference and Belleville (1,678 students) from the Western Wayne Athletic Con-

"I have not received contact from either of those two schools," McDonald said. "At this point, I haven't received any contact from any school. Actually, anybody interested has to notify me by Dec. 15. And then on Dec. 15, any school that has notified us will receive an application packet and that would be due by Jan. 30.

If the KLAA decides to expand beyond its 14 members, an announcement could be made as early as March 15, 2017, with a confirmation to follow April 15, 2017

Meanwhile, the remaining 14 KLAA member schools will be forced to juggle schedules and look at possible divisional realignments for the 2017-18 school year. Currently, the KLAA has four divisions, with six schools in the South and Central divisions of the Kensington Conference and the West and North divisions of the Lakes

"We could do something based on your last four years (performance), your enroll-ment, a strength of schedule, strength of program ... where the most competitive teams are playing against each oth-McDonald said. "That's a possibility where we could be in different divisions based on what sport."

Discover new career inspiration and growth

BY DEANNA HARTLEY CAREERBUILDER

hether you feel stuck in a rut at work or are just looking for challenges to help you grow professionally, you're not alone - but it is up to you to take the first step toward revitalizing your career.

"Whatever you do, don't let yourself become stagnant," says Gayle Katz, a marketing professional and author of the "Grounded Girl's Guide" e-books. "If you're unhappy, uninspired or not challenged, make a thoughtful change. Ultimately, that will propel you further faster so you can be engaged and excited each day, have purpose and know you're on your way to accomplishing your dreams."

Consider these five tips to help you with your career development.

1. Accept responsibility by taking control of your career. "It isn't the job of your boss or your HR department or your company to have you be inspired - it is your job," says Ben Brooks, CEO of Pilot, a tech startup that helps managers retain their best talent. "In reality, we have a lot more flexibility in our iobs than we realize. Balance doing things on your own with involving your manager, and do both to optimize your job to be more inspiring.'

2. Research solutions and involve people who can help. You still don't have to embark on your journey alone. If you're feeling stuck, identify the right person to approach within your company, keeping in mind that it isn't necessarily your boss.

"Schedule time with that person in order to start a discussion about how you can begin the process of learning or how you can continue to grow," Katz says. "Make sure to bring the ideas that you researched. Ask them for their thoughts and feedback. Make sure to come away from the meeting with specific topics you can consider learning."

3. Brainstorm ways to integrate your passions into your work. Bianca Jackson, a career happiness expert, recommends thinking about how you can solve a company problem related to your own interests. "For example, if you're a Snapchat expert, you can help the marketing department include Snapchat in their social media strategy," she says.

4. Pursue learning opportunities whenever possible. You should never stop learning. Take this time to stretch yourself professionally.

"Think what would make you better at your job or give you a more nuanced perspective. Then, look for opportunities to invest in yourself and gain the skills that will help you get a deeper connection to your work," says Martha Schmitz, a senior adviser at Mentat, an organization that hires, manages and mentors candidates and employees. "By challenging your brain to learn something new in one area, you may feel reinvigorated in all aspects of your job as you figure out ways to apply your new learning."

5. Remind vourself why you chose your job in the first place.

Once you identify the reasons, you can try to integrate elements of that initial passion into your current responsibilities.

Erin Jump Fry, CEO of the Indianapolis-based bakery Fancy Fortune Cookies, says that when you get bogged down in the more mundane tasks, it can be easy to lose sight of what makes you passionate about your business – a problem she has experienced herself.

"That's when I remind myself to return to my earlier days with the company, when I spent much more of my time on creative tasks," she says. "When I actively participate in generating marketing ideas, I find the enthusiasm to implement them. When I get personally involved in styling our photos, that fires me up about our branding. When I take time to work on new product ideas, I notice I become much more engaged with promoting them on our social media sites. Stay connected creatively to your job and what it was that attracted you to do it in the first place."

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

BRANDS ACCELERATING INTO THE FUTURE: FORD WITH MOBILITY FOCUS, NISSAN WITH SERVICE CONNECTIVITY

By Dale Buss

new mobility strategy is more than just featuring a new float in America's Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit, as it did this year.

And for Nissan, a new global serviceconnectivity strategy attempting to move beyond a relatively passive platform that really hasn't advantaged the company's dealers all that much, despite the massive amounts of maintenance and condition data that are generated by every Nissan and Infiniti it has sold for the last several years.

Each company, like all its rivals, is addressing the challenges and opportunities that are being created by the rapid digitization of the automobile, which ranges from new uses for "telematics" systems to new definitions of the very nature of automotive transportation.

Ford, for instance, has been preparing for a different future for a couple of years now, since CEO Mark Fields abruptly pivoted toward self-driving as more of a growth engine for the company than as an afterthought.

This evolution is given more urgency by the fact that, after seven years of significant increases, it looks as though the US auto market finally has leveled off, likely the precursor to at least a gradual sales decline over the next few years.

So dramatic has the transformation in his viewpoint and priorities been that, at the Los Angeles Auto Show, it was Fields—not Elon Musk or the chief of a Japanese, German or Korean automaker—casting a vision of a future of "smart cities" full of mobility innovations.

And Fields said he wants Ford to provide the tools for a utopia where illegal parking is unknown, where eco-friendly bicycles help commuters get from parking lots to their final work destinations, where software and vehicle-to-vehicle communications help commuters avoid the choking traffic situations of today's

"We really are on the cusp of a mobility revolution," Fields said at the show last month. "From our vantage point, cities carry the biggest rewards and risks.

It wasn't that long ago Fields began describing a Ford Motor Co. that just as easily could be renamed Ford Mobility Co., a company whose traditional business of building and selling vehicles for individual consumers and businesses is gradually supplanted by one in which services that accomplish sustainable mobility

goals—through ride

sharing, new apps and other solutions—make up just as important a part.

For example, earlier this year Ford bought Chariot, a crowd-sourced shuttle service that operates in California and soon will expand across the globe. Ford also has incentivized employees to come up with electric-powered bicycles as part of an urban-mobility future. And Fields has said that Ford plans to launch its own self-driving vehicle by 2025.

"Working together with cities is good for our business," he said in LA. 'We'll see substantial revenue opportunity in providing mobility solutions to millions of commuters in the US and the growing work force in several major cities globally.

Ford projects its vehicles will have no steering wheel, gas, or brake pedals Meanwhile, Nissan has joined the to our customers around the world," ranks of auto brands intending to use connectivity between itself and the owners of its vehicles to lock them in as service customers instead of losing them to third-party chains and other

For Nissan and its dealers, the company's plan to use wireless links to vehicles to provide information about the car's diagnostics and location could be a big boost to revenues because it opens up a new, largely untapped arena.

competitors.

The ability to monitor each individual vehicle for its condition and needs-and to communicate with the owner on an ongoing basis—will essentially serve as "a giant customer retention and after-sales marketing program, while making sure that no outsiders such as Google or Apple get their hands on the data," reports Forbes.

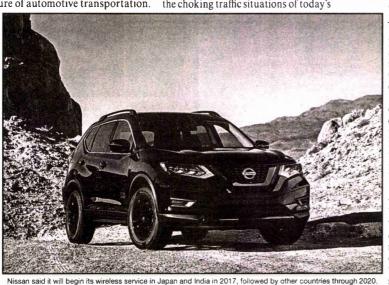

"Nissan has a clear plan to develop its aftersales business by leading the industry in delivering the latest technology said Kent O'Hara, Nissan Corporate Vice President and head of the Global Aftersales Division.

"This strategy is about giving our customers more choices and new services to make the ownership experience better. It will also help us expand our connected-car, big-data and personalization innovations to improve the customer experience and open up new revenue streams for the company.

O'Hara added, "We'll know what's wrong with that vehicle, we'll know where the vehicle is, we'll know what parts are needed for the vehicle ... and we can provide convenient service and alternative transportation options.

In fact, Nissan expects the new connected-car strategy to yield 25 percent of aftersales revenue by 2022. It will begin the new services in Japan and India next year, then follow in other countries through 2020.
