Derby Day

The city of Wixom is pleased to announce the Wixom Derby Day event, including a 5K/10K run, Saturday, May 6, at Sibley Square Park in downtown Wixom.

The 5K and 10K races begin at 8 a.m., with the running course winding north of Sibley Square Park through Wixom neighborhoods. Those wishing to register for the 5K/10K races may do so at <http://triviumracing.com>. Further information about Wixom Derby Day, including a map of the course, is available at www.wixomgov.org/derby-day and www.facebook.com/WixomDerbyDay.

The day begins at 7 a.m., with breakfast served by three downtown Wixom restaurants — Wixom Station, Alex's and Volaré.

"This is a great opportunity for Wixom residents and fans of these restaurants to meet their friends for breakfast in downtown Wixom," said Debra Barker, Wixom's economic and community development director.

Road repairs will shut down M-5

Matt Jachman
hometownlife.com

Motorists who use M-5 through Novi or Commerce Township should start looking for alternative routes.

A $3.5 million concrete pavement repair project on a several-mile stretch of the freeway is scheduled to begin at 7 a.m. Saturday, with the complete shutdown of the southbound lanes between Maple Road and 12 Mile. Drivers in the area should see portable message signs warning of the upcoming closure, according to a statement from the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Once pavement repairs on the southbound stretch are finished, MDOT says, the northbound lanes will be shut down between 12 Mile and Pontiac Trail for repairs on that stretch.

The freeway shutdown is intended to provide safety for repair workers and motorists by prohibiting vehicles from entering the work zone.

East-west roads that cross M-5 are to remain open, at least one lane in each direction, across the highway for the duration of the project. The freeway ramps from 12 Mile to southbound M-5 will also stay open; those ramps also provide access to other parts of the freeway system.

The entire project is expected to be completed in late June.

MDOT spokeswoman Diane Cross said the project is expected to be completed before road projects by the Road Commission for Oakland County in the vicinity are to begin.

Grocery-bag art promotes environmental awareness

hometownlife.com

Students at Deerfield Elementary School got creative last week as they prepared for Earth Day, which is Saturday.

Led by the school's third-graders, the students took time out April 13 to decorate more than 200 grocery bags, using crayons and markers, with nature-themed drawings and sayings designed to encourage shoppers to keep and re-use them instead of tossing them away.

The bags will be available Saturday at the Kroger supermarket on Grand River in Novi and students are hoping their artwork will inspire some environmental awareness. The bags were originally donated by Kroger.

The Deerfield students teamed up with their "buddies" — students from other grade levels with whom they regularly work — for the project.

"They loved it. They were very engaged," said Nanci Dutkiewicz, a third-grade teacher. "They were very excited. I had kids who wanted to do more bags." Dutkiewicz's students paired with their first-grade buddies.

The bag-decorating project was part of a Deerfield program designed to foster leadership by students, with each grade level taking the lead role on a community service project every Thursday for a month at a time.

April is the third-graders' turn to lead and they have chosen activities linked to Earth Day and caring for the

"We were looking to help our kids come up with leadership activities for our school that connect with their community," Dutkiewicz said.

Novi hit with rash of home break-ins

hometownlife.com

Police in Novi are asking for the public's help as they investigate nine daytime home break-ins that have occurred since January.

The reported break-ins have happened in various parts of the city and the burglar or burglars have stolen jewelry and cash, sometimes passing up valuable electronics, police said.

Apartments, condominiums and single-family homes have all been targeted, Detective Sgt. Scott Baetens said, and no one was at home during any of the break-ins.

In each case, the home was broken into through a front door that had been smashed or pried open, Baetens said.

It's possible that the same person or group of people is responsible for the break-ins, Baetens said, though some of the specific methods of entry have been different.

Baetens said police are working with law enforcement in neighboring communities where similar home invasions have occurred. Detectives are also following several leads, he said.

"As of right now, none of them have panned out," Baetens said Friday.

Baetens said the public can act as the eyes and ears of the police department; police are asking residents to immediately report any suspicious people or activities by calling 9-1-1.

Anyone with information about the recent Novi home burglaries is asked to call police at 248-348-7100 or Crime Stoppers at 800-SPEAK-UP (800-773-2587).

Pepsi mops up 7,200 gallons of Mountain Dew

7,200 gallons of concentrated syrup created 'foaming event'

Laura Colvin
Livingston Daily

Some 7,200 gallons of concentrated Mountain Dew syrup created a "huge foaming event" and generated environmental concerns after it went down the drain, literally, at the Pepsi bottling plant on Mason Road in Howell last month.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality was at the plant on several occasions after a tank ruptured and sent the syrup through a floor drain and into the plant's internal sewer system March 10, said DEQ Senior Environmental Quality Analyst Carla Davidson.

"A spill of this magnitude is highly unusual," Davidson said, noting the high-sugar syrup can have a toxic effect on aquatic life if it ends up in rivers, lakes or streams.

Most of the spill was contained, and PepsiCo and city officials said proper procedures were used following the spill. Davidson disagreed.

"They could have chosen to isolate," Davidson said, noting she did not visit the scene until later, so information about the initial chain of events came from reports submitted by Pepsi-an environmental contractor, and Davidson said when she visited the following Friday, it was evident the soil had been scraped and the area cleaned up.

"As far as impact to the environment, I think Pepsi is cleaning it up, and we'll be working with them to prevent discharges like this from happening in the future," Davidson said. "There was not a release to surface water that we know of, so that's also a positive."

"They told us a syrup tank ruptured, so one question we will be asking is 'Why did this happen?' We want to make sure the other tanks have good structural integrity, and any maintenance needed is done."

Howell City Manager Shea Charles said he and other city employees were onsite during the days following the spill and said he believed Pepsi flowed protocol for such an event.

"We were out there monitoring; it did not get into the public sewer system," Charles said, noting any waste that spilled on the ground was contained as it froze when temperatures dropped.

Co and compiled later by DEQ staff. "They have an equalization basin; they knew there was a spill and they could have tried to isolate it, then have that waste water hauled away to protect the integrity of their pretreatment system.

"That's what normally we would recommend during a spill event like that," she added.

Davidson said plant management attempted to treat the problem without outside intervention for two days, until the system became overwhelmed. The DEQ received a call to its Pollution Emergency Alert System line just before midnight on March 12, when the syrup, mixed with a large amount of waste water already in the system, created a "huge foaming event" and sent an estimated 56,000 gallons of sugary sewage flowing out of the system.

Most of the spilled 56,000 gallons flowed into the on-site storm water detention basin, where it was contained, Davidson said, while a small amount went into a ditch behind Key Plastics, where an earthen dam was constructed to contain it.

Dispose of unwanted drugs safely in Northville

People can safely dispose of unused and unneeded prescription medicine from 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, April 29, in Northville.

The Northville Police Department is participating in the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration's National Take-Back Initiative and will have a collection box in the lobby of the police station, 215 W. Main (in the lower level of city hall), for prescription pills that are expired, unused or no longer wanted.

All drugs collected will be destroyed; liquid medicines and needles will not be accepted. No paperwork or identification is needed; visitors can simply stop in and place unwanted medications in the bin.

It will be the DEA's 13th national take-back event. The idea is to keep dangerous medications safe and away from people who may abuse them and also away from children and pets who may accidentally ingest them and to do so without harming the environment.

According to the 2015 National Survey on Drug Use and Health, 6.4 million Americans ages 12 and over — more than 2.4 percent of the population — abuse prescription drugs, the DEA reports. The majority report obtaining the drugs from friends and family, including from home medicine cabinets.

Overdoses from all drugs are now the leading cause of injury-related death in the United States, eclipsing deaths from motor vehicle crashes and firearms, according to the DEA.

Typical ways of drug disposal — either flushing prescriptions down the toilet or throwing them in the garbage — are not recommended due to environmental risks.

City hall has a parking lot on the south side of the building and nearby street parking. For more information, call the Northville Police Department at 248-305-2715.

SHERIFF: NO CHARGES SOUGHT IN PILEUP

Three died in the December crash on I-96

Lisa Roose-Church
Livingston Daily

A lengthy investigation into the fatal 53-vehicle pileup on Interstate 96 in December has been completed and submitted to the prosecutor's office.

"There's a lot to that investigation so we did not seek charges on anyone," Livingston County Sheriff Michael Murphy said. "We sent it for their review to make that determination."

Murphy declined to provide specifics on the investigation or to speculate on whether charges would be forthcoming.

Prosecutor William Vaillencourt did not immediately return a message, but typically does not comment on pending investigations.

In January, a sheriff's investigator said a Howell resident driving an SUV at "an excessive rate of speed" lost control and crashed around 9:50 a.m. Dec. 8 west of the Fowlerville exit and near Wallace Road at the Livingston-Ingham county line.

Snow had blanketed the area and then froze solid, creating treacherous traveling conditions.

The SUV crash blocked both lanes of westbound I-96, impeding other vehicles, some of which also were "traveling faster than conditions allowed," the investigator added.

In all, 53 vehicles, including cars, trucks and semis, jackknifed or crashed. Some motorists also drove off the roadway.

Three people died in the crash: Vitalii Stelmakh, a 28-year-old semi driver from Hollywood, Fla., and a married couple from Ann Arbor, Homer Leon Tew, 69, and Theresa O'Connor Tew, 62.

More than 30 motorists who not injured were bused to the Fowlerville Police Department.

Murphy called the pileup a "significant incident" that tested Livingston County's public safety response. The crash closed I-96 for about 12 hours.

"It was an outstanding show of cooperation between all of the public safety services as well as private industry that we were able to handle that scene as efficiently as we did," the sheriff said.

Caring for parents can be both frustrating, fulfilling

When my mom died in late 2002, my dad looked at me and asked, "What's going to happen to me now?"

Before my mom died, my dad Bill had been diagnosed with Alzheimer's. Definitely he had memory loss and some erratic behavior, but I doubted the definitive diagnosis.

My dad asked what would happen to him because he knew something wasn't quite right. My response was — looking back — pretty nonchalant: "Well, you will move in with me."

I have no doubt that my mom, who was very concerned, yet very weary, about my father, would have nodded in agreement. Lots of other people, however, thought I was crazy and in for a wild ride.

Well, the first year with my dad under my care was indeed a wild ride. Many sleepless nights, many arguments and incredible exasperation. Doctors told me I was wrong for keeping him at my house.

I even went twice to caregiver support groups. I finally walked out when for hours I heard other "children" complain of the time it took to visit their parents in a nursing home or assisted living. And how inconvenient it was for their lifestyles to — at a distance — care for their parents.

So I hunkered down. About a year into our experience, my dad was kicked out of his day care program. He had slugged a man who used foul language at the women running the program. I went to pick him up that day and found him crying at a table by himself.

It was an epiphany for me. I had spent the year trying to fix my dad. No wonder I was miserable. So I made a big decision. We were just going to live and have fun along the way.

The decision forced me into rearranging my life, facing facts, incorporating my dad into my life — instead of behaving like a caregiver — and getting organized.

Eventually, I found the Alzheimer's Association's day care program in Southfield. It was a blessing. Staff members knew how to work with my dad — when to leave him alone, when to talk with him, when to tell him to sit down.

Along the way, I found my own methods to ensure his safety and to make his life as free and easy as possible.

I bought an erasable board and each day left him messages, such as "don't let the dogs out" and "stay home." My dad loved cigars, but refused to smoke them in the house. So he created a perch of sorts in the garage with a chair and a stool to hold his giant ashtray. Every day, he opened the garage door and watched the world while enjoying his cigars. He often reported back his thoughts.

That erasable board was a lifesaver. Each day, I left him two $1 bills — one

Aging agency to host forum on public spending

The Area Agency on Aging 1-B (AAA 1-B) will hold a public forum to get feedback on how approximately $22 million in annual federal and state funding earmarked for senior services in its six-county service region during fiscal year 2018 should be spent. The agency's service region includes much of southeast Michigan, including Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair and Washtenaw counties. About 30 percent of the state's seniors — nearly 640,000 people over age 60 — reside in its service area.

McGuire

The agency is seeking feedback from the public as part of the development of its Annual Implementation Plan for fiscal year 2018, which runs from Oct. 1, 2017, through Sept. 30, 2018. The plan will map out spending priorities for funding received from the state of Michigan's Aging & Adult Services Agency and federal funds received from the Administration on Aging via the Older Americans Act.

"The funding we receive from these federal and state sources helps support programs like Meals on Wheels and other services that can give seniors the extra help they need to live comfortably, safely and with dignity," said Jim McGuire, AAA 1-B interim CEO. "These are programs that are crucial to our region's older adults."

"Hearing from the public is important to us. That feedback helps shape our planning and priorities and make sure we fully understand the needs of our region's seniors."

The agency is inviting seniors, family members who are caring for older adults, senior advocates, senior care professionals and any other interested members of the public to attend the forum, which will be at 9 a.m. Wednesday, May 10, at the AAA 1-B Southfield office, 29100 Northwestern Highway, Suite 400. People who cannot attend the forum in person are invited to phone in to share their feedback.

"Hearing from the public is important to us. That feedback helps shape our planning and priorities and make sure we fully understand the needs of our region's seniors," McGuire said.

For more information or phone-in instructions for the forum, email Angela Dixon at adixon@aaa1b.com. For more information on the AAA 1-B or its programs and services for older adults, call 800-852-7795 or go to AAA1B.org.

Claude Centers, 90, was recently honored for his World War II service by the Marine Corps League.

90-year-old Marine veteran honored for his service

Claude Centers was honored for his service to the country during World War II at a recent Marine Corps League meeting.

Centers, 90, and his wife Patricia have lived for more than 60 years in the same house in Livonia, where they raised their six children.

After high school and before he was married, Centers served as a U.S. Marine and to this day is proud to say "once a Marine, always a Marine." Centers graduated in 1944 and, because of his work in the family business, Titus Welding, and his interest in engineering, he wanted to be a Navy Seabee ("we build, we fight"). But his father said they had so much work on the home front, he waited to be drafted. It wasn't long after that he was drafted into the U.S. Marine Corps.

He remembers that Mrs. Yonkers, the mother of a school friend, told him to ask for sea school. After basic training at Parris Island, most of the recruits were sent to the Pacific to fight for the island of Okinawa. Many didn't return home. Centers was accepted for sea duty and was sent to San Diego for school, then to Philadelphia for his assignment on the newly christened U.S.S. Los Angeles.

As the ship headed to the Pacific, the atomic bomb was dropped and the war was over. Centers became a Chinese Marine when his ship was reassigned to defend the Chinese coast from Tsingtao in the north to Hong Kong in the south. He finished his tour and came home in 1946. In 1947, he joined the Marine Corps League.

The Centers have six children: Claudia, Chris, Tom, Joe, Gretchen and Marianne. Joe says he remembers his dad always talking about his sons serving in the military. As they grew up, the war in Vietnam was going on.

"I remember he always said he figured he would lose one of us in Vietnam," Joe said. But just as the boys got to that age, the war in Vietnam ended and so did the draft. None of them had to serve. But it was daughter No. 2, Gretchen, who surprised everybody when she joined the Marines.

"I graduated in 1979, enlisted in 1980 and served four years," Gretchen said. "I like to say my dad was drafted and I drifted into the Marines. I guess I needed a little discipline."

"After I was discharged in 1985 and came back home to Livonia, my dad and I were at a Livonia Goodfellow meeting and a couple of Marine Corps League members and asked if we wanted to join. That's how I started and my dad started up again. League members march in local parades, visit veterans at the VA hospital and participate in fundraisers to help veterans in need."

Why the Marines? "When I enlisted, I didn't even consider any other branch because of the pride my dad had for the Marine Corps," Gretchen said.

Novi senior tackles trash head-on

King, 69, prowls city's streets in hopes of quest to garbage

This report may be a surprise to Novi resident Linda King. But there are those out there who want her efforts acknowledged.

When she retired seven years ago, King started picking up trash in the community. "What started her doing it was she was driving down the road one day and noticed trash everywhere and said to herself, 'Someone need to pick that up.' Then it hit her, that someone was her," said her daughter, Christy Deringer.

Since then King — with garbage bags and a Gripper Wagon — cleans up the parking lot of the Novi Ten Shopping Center, walking Meadowbrook or 10 Mile down to Novi Road.

King, 69, cannot miss a piece of garbage. As her daughter tells it, if she is in a car and sees trash, she will return to pick it up.

King, whose husband was a custodian with the Novi Community School District for 30-plus years, used to have a car. Unfortunately, their car was stolen about five years ago. It was found in a chop shop in Detroit. Believe it or not, "she was just happy to get some of her things — the Gripper Wagon and garbage bags. I don't even think she thought of the car!" Deringer said.

King's daughter is thankful some of the businesses in her area offer her a cold drink during the summer as she is cleaning up. "Maria (Maria's Bakery) forces her to come in and get a cold drink when she's out in the summer," she said. "It's nice to know people do show appreciation. Sometimes people tell her she's crazy, but she just smiles."

A nurse's life at war in the South Pacific

Vera Rauh didn't know what it was when it hit, but she knew it was something big — and terrible. She watched in horror as the U.S. Navy warship U.S.S. Birmingham exploded in a mass of flames. She didn't realize it at the time, but she had just seen the ship hit by a Japanese kamikaze.

Navy records referred to it as a "hostile air craft," among other similar names. They didn't know about kamikaze planes at the time, but they were about to learn a whole lot more about them.

Rauh saw a lot more shocking things during her years as an army nurse during World War II. From 1943 through the end of the war until 1946, she was one of the 59,000 army nurses who served on navy ships in combat. When Rauh left the service, she had a collection of incredible memories and stacks of documents from her years in the service.

"She kept everything," said her daughter, Donna Mallonen. That includes some fabulous photos.

Mallonen will present them, along with many of her mom's stories, at the next mini lecture sponsored by the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society set for 2 p.m. Sunday, April 23, at Pine Grove, headquarters of the OCPHS at 405 Cesar Chavez Ave. in Pontiac.

"Life on a World War II Hospital Ship" will give a fascinating and intimate look into Rauh's incredible adventures in the Pacific. Originally from Frankenmuth, Rauh was drawn to nursing after her brother had to deal with physical ailments. She received nurse training at Saginaw General Hospital and enlisted in the army in 1943.

"It was the thing to do," Mallonen said. At that time, the U.S. Army Nurse Corps sailed on navy ships, usually following soldiers into combat. Rauh worked in a burn unit, which could be a traumatic place at times. Mallonen recalled her mom once saying, "I hope people understand what war is about, because the smell of burning flesh is not pleasant."

After the war, she went to Michigan State University, where she met and married Edward Mallonen. She died in 2011.

Hear more of Rauh's stories at the mini lecture. Admission is $7 and light refreshments will be served.

Farmington Hills volunteer honored

St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center has named Farmington Hills resident Ruth Nye-Hurst as its Volunteer of the Year for 2017.

Nye-Hurst graduated with her master of education from Wayne State University and taught high school mathematics in the Detroit Public Schools system for more than 25 years before retiring.

Discovering the volunteer opportunity with SVSF through an online search, she has been volunteering with the GED program since 2009.

Nye-Hurst

"As one of our resident math experts, we are grateful for Ruth's devotion to helping our adult students achieve their educational goals," said Diane Renaud, SVSF executive director/CEO.

When it comes to volunteering, Nye-Hurst says she enjoys the students she works with, as well as other volunteers involved with SVSF.

On a personal note, she is an avid camper and often visits Sleeping Bear Sand Dunes National Lakeshore. Nye-Hurst also enjoys working out at her local gym. She lives in Farmington Hills.

If you are interested in helping to make a difference in our community, contact Beth Kraft at beth.kraft@svsfcenter.org, 313-535-9200, ext. 3104, or go to svsfcenter.org. All volunteers receive orientation and training, and are assisted daily by the center's staff.

Membership program give seniors stay-at-home options

The Woodhaven Retirement Community of Livonia has introduced Woodhaven at Home, a membership program available to individuals ages 55-81 in the local community area.

The program offers members an answer to three important questions that individuals and couples ages 55-81 might be considering: (1) Where can I turn for both present and future services to help ensure that I can stay at home for the rest of my life? (2) How can I pay for the services that I will need if, and when, I have a change in health? and (3) To whom can I turn to arrange and oversee the services that I will need if, and when, I have a change in health? The goal of Woodhaven at Home is to provide an inclusive and creative answer to these questions and help members remain in their own homes independently as economically and for as long as possible.

Woodhaven will begin holding informational seminars in April. Additionally, people can find out more by visiting woodhaven-retirement.com and www.woodhavenah.org respectively.

each way for the SMART bus to day care — and two cigars.

Why I often doubted the Alzheimer's diagnosis is because he was up and dressed before me. He made his bed and had hung up his clothes. He made himself a cup of coffee, grabbed the dollar bills and his cigars and stood outside waiting for his bus. After dinner, he would get up, collect the dishes and starting putting them in the dishwasher and scrubbing the pots and pans.

I also bought a landline phone with huge numbers and rehearsed with him how to use it, so I could call him if I was running late. I left him phone numbers of friends to call while I worked if he needed anything. Friends were a godsend. They, too, incorporated my dad into their lives. And he knew who they were and loved them as part of his family.

And the one thing we stuck to was telling each other the truth. I had no qualms telling my dad he was driving me crazy. And he did the same. I also told him the truth when he would ask where my mom was or my older brother, who died in 1988.

Doctors had told me to just change the subject when he asked a question they believed the answer would be upsetting. But my logic and my loyalty told me my father had always expected the truth from me. And when our roles reversed, I believed he still deserved the truth and I was there to help him work with it.

We had some rough times. I still had sleepless nights. But we also had good times and plenty of laughs. I always described my dad as a Walter Matthau with a cigar hanging out of his mouth. My dad was with me for seven years. And through that time, we together developed ways to cope — with each other.

We would like to hear from you, our readers, who are family caregivers. Tell us what methods or tips you have to cope with your family member. Or tell us of a problem you might be having as a caregiver. Please send your brief story to Joanne Maliszewski at jmaliszews@hometownlife.com. We accept photos, too, as jpg format attachments in the email. And thank you for sharing.

POLICE BRIEFS

Shoplifting haul includes LOL Surprise! dolls

Two teenage girls were arrested on shoplifting charges April 11 at the Walmart on Ingersol Drive at the Novi Town Center.

They had nearly $300 in stolen merchandise between them when confronted by a store security employee after walking past checkout points shortly after 9 p.m., according to a Novi Police Department report. Police were called.

The stolen items, including 18 LOL Surprise! dolls priced at $9.88 each, plus pens, stickers, a water bottle and snack items, had been concealed in two purses and a shopping bag, the employee told police. The two had paid for other items using self-checkout, the employee said.

One suspect admitted to an officer that she had stolen the dolls; police said she reported being "caught up in the moment" and that she said the dolls were intended for her niece.

The other suspect denied concealing any merchandise and said she thought everything had been paid for, police said.

Each was later released on a $100 bond with a citation for third-degree retail fraud and an April 24 court date.

Marijuana possession

A 27-year-old man was arrested on a marijuana-possession charge April 7 after police found a small amount of suspected marijuana in his car during a traffic stop at Twelve Oaks mall.

An officer spotted the man, behind the wheel of a Dodge Avenger, stopped in a "do not block" area of eastbound West Oaks Drive, near Novi Road, shortly before 7 p.m., a police report said. A check of the Avenger's license plate, police said, showed the registered owner was wanted on outstanding warrants and had a suspended license, police said.

The officer pulled over the driver on the other side of Novi Road, on the Twelve Oaks property. Upon speaking with the driver, who was also the car owner, the officer noticed the smell of marijuana coming from the Avenger and the man admitted he had smoked marijuana earlier in the day, police said. He had a passenger with him, a 26-year-old woman, police said.

Upon searching the car, police found a prescription-type bottle with suspected marijuana in it in the center console. The driver admitted it was his, saying, "Oh, I forgot that was in there," police said.

He was later cited for marijuana possession and driving with a suspended license, scheduled to appear in court April 17 and released on a $100 bond. Police said other departments declined to pick him up on the outstanding warrants.

The substance — 0.3 grams — later tested positive for marijuana, police said.

NORTHVILLE

Driver in crash intoxicated

A 22-year-old Plymouth woman was arrested in connection with a traffic crash — while she was allegedly driving under the influence — just before 1:30 a.m. April 8 at the Five Mile and Beck intersection.

Northville Township police were dispatched to the scene as a Plymouth Township sergeant, who was stopped at the intersection, heard and saw the crash, according to a police report. The sergeant saw the two cars come to a stop on the southwest corner of the intersection.

A black 2016 Ford Fusion driven by the woman reportedly rear-ended a 2013 black Ford Fusion driven by a 57-year-old man from Ohio. At his request, the man was transported to a local hospital.

The Plymouth Township sergeant told the Northville Township officer that he believed the woman appeared intoxicated, with slurred speech and glassy eyes. The woman told police she had two beers earlier in the evening and some "jungle juice." She also told the officer she was being treated for vertigo and a cardiovascular condition. She also said that doctors told her the vertigo medication could make her dizzy so she stopped taking it, according to the report.

Police conducted field sobriety tests on the woman and later arrested her.

Trespassing

A 52-year-old South Lyon man was cited for trespassing April 8 after a Kohl's store manager called police because he was — without permission — conducting windshield chip repair in the parking lot at 20155 Haggerty. The manager told police she had called on a previous occasion when the man attempted to do the same. The man told police that he had called previously for permission. The man was cited for trespassing.

Novi veteran finally gets Victory Medal

World War II veteran Harold Ortwine has always known his service to the county was in the U.S. Army's 106th Infantry Division.

It was in that division he suffered first-, second-, and third-degree burns in a gasoline fire during basic training and also where he lost several friends while fighting in the Battle of the Bulge.

However, when Ortwine, 93, was released from the army in 1945, his documents indicated that he was released from the 104th Division — which did not fight overseas — and not the 106th.

Ortwine, who served from 1938-45, attempted to obtain a copy of his military records in the late 1970s, but discovered they were some of the records lost in the 1973 fire at the National Personnel Records Center in Missouri.

All hope was not lost as the office of U.S. Rep. Dave Trott got involved and recently was able to uncover Ortwine's records. By doing so, they discovered Ortwine had not received a pair of medals — World War II Victory Medal and Medal of Occupation — he rightfully deserved.

On Monday, April 10, Trott changed that, traveling to Novi to present Ortwine with his medals at a ceremony with his family that was long overdue.

"Drafted at age 18, Mr. Ortwine served his country valiantly, defending our nation's fundamental principles of freedom and liberty around the world," Trott said. "It was an honor to present Mr. Ortwine with the medals he rightfully earned, a long overdue recognition of the bravery and heroism he embodied in the defense of the traditions built by the Americans before him and the promise of every generation to come."

Ortwine has lived in Novi since 1931, when his family moved from Farmington. He worked as Novi's first mail carrier, married his sweetheart, built a home, raised three children and witnessed the city's growth from quiet town to the bustling community it is today.

His pride for the country is still as strong as ever, as he regularly attends reunions of the 106th Infantry Division, talks to John M. "Jack" Roberts on the phone and wears his WWII hat daily.

"When the news came and I told him his records were finally going to be corrected and he was also going to be receiving a couple medals he was entitled to, his main questions was, 'But are my records going to reflect the 106th Division?' That was all that mattered," said his son, Mark Ortwine. "As for my family, knowing he is happy is most important, but seeing him receive the long overdue honor and medals for his service makes us all very proud."

ALL THE RIGHT MOVES: Dancers find success at nationals

hometownlife.com

After going undefeated in its last three seasons, the varsity dancers at Northville High School were ready this year to take their moves to the next level.

And they did so in Orlando, Fla., in February, with a strong showing in the Universal Dance Association's national competition, which draws teams from across the country.

Benish

In its first trip to the nationals, Northville took fifth place in the jazz dance category and 10th place in the hip-hop category.

"It was a huge honor for us to get to where we did, so we're very excited about it," coach Sarah Benish said. "I'm extremely proud of this team."

The Northville dancers, Benish said, outperformed teams that had been attending the Orlando event for 20 or more years.

In the jazz category, they competed against about 50 teams, while in the hip-hop category, they competed against about 30 teams.

It was a grueling competition, with team's first day out stretching from 8 a.m. to midnight and the second from noon to midnight, Benish said.

But dancers also got to spend time at Disney World, she said. They also practiced their dances at their hotel.

"The girls got to have so much bonding time together as a team," she said.

The team was recently recognized by the Northville

Lauren Yakima (center) and the rest of the team put on an energetic show April 11.

Public Schools Board of Education.

The 14-member Northville team has only been around for seven seasons; Benish has been coaching it for five.

Practice is typically right after school two days a week during the season, which runs from September to February.

"We may spend an hour going over the same eight counts until it's perfect," Benish said. Many of the dancers also dance regularly at private studios, she said.

Her dancers "felt that this year is our time," Benish said.

"Everybody knew we wanted to go to nationals," she said. "The girls just totally stepped up and worked harder than they ever have."

Dance team coach Sarah Benish (left) talks to her squad before dancers start going through a routine April 11.

New IRS program might make it easier for scam artists to prey on innocents

Rick Bloom
MONEY MATTERS

Over the last few years, I've written a number of columns about the IRS scam. That's the scam where someone contacts you claiming they're from the IRS and demanding immediate payment, typically through a charge card or a debit card. The calls are very threatening, but they're just a scam. As I've said many times in the past, when you get a call like that, you just hang up. There's no reason to talk to those people. I bring this up because the IRS has started a new program where, in fact, you may get a call from someone claiming they are from the Internal Revenue Service and, in fact, they may be.

The IRS recently announced a new program where it is attempting to collect back taxes from people who owe them for years and years. The IRS has retained the services of four collection agencies that it will use in an attempt to collect some of the back taxes. Although this is a new program, the IRS has in the past used private collection companies on a limited basis. I have no doubt that the scam artists are licking their chops hoping that this program will allow them to scam more and more people. That being said, there are some things about this program that do protect taxpayers and that's why I want to take the opportunity to run through some of those protections so you don't fall prey to these scam artists.

The first thing to understand is that it is being limited to people who owe the IRS for years and years. In addition, these people have already in the past been contacted by the IRS. Furthermore, according to the IRS, before anyone is assigned to a collection agency, they will be notified by the IRS that their account has been turned over and who the collection agency is. The IRS will only turn your name over to one collection agency. In addition, before that collection agency contacts you, it must also notify you in writing. Therefore, if you do get a call out of the blue from someone claiming they're from a collection agency on behalf of the IRS, you still should hang up. Unless you've been notified in writing by the IRS and the collection agency, you know that anyone attempting to claim they're from the IRS is a fraud. The four companies that have been approved for this plan by the IRS are CBE Group, Conserve, Performant and Pioneer.

The fraudsters use high-pressure tactics in order for you to make an immediate payment. Typically, they want you to make a payment on a debit card or even a charge card. You should know that under this new program, the debt collection company is not authorized to take payments by credit card or debit card; you have to send a check directly to the IRS.

If you are current with your taxes, the IRS is not going to call you. If you fall in this category and you get a call from the IRS, hang up. Even if the caller ID says Internal Revenue Service, don't be fooled, as the scam artists know how to manipulate the caller ID. On the other hand, if you do owe the IRS money, my advice is don't wait to hear from the debt collector. After all, the longer you delay, the more you'll end up owing in interest and penalties. The IRS has a number of programs that will help with your past taxes. In addition, the IRS has a program known as offer and compromise, where the IRS will actually reduce your tax liability based upon financial need.

I anticipate that because of the new IRS program, there will be more and more attempts by the scam artists to take advantage of unsuspecting taxpayers. I certainly don't want you to be one of those. Therefore, it's important that we never let our guard down. If you owe back taxes and you have not received a letter from the IRS, you know that anyone calling claiming they're the IRS or a representative of the IRS is a fraud and you should hang up immediately. On the other hand, if you do owe money to the IRS, your best course of action is not to wait until it contacts you, but to be proactive and to try to work out a deal with it. Trust me on one thing, when you don't have to worry about the IRS, it allows you to sleep at night much better.

Northville First United Methodist celebrates child care anniversary

Northville First United Methodist Church is celebrating the 20th anniversary of its child care center, Northville First Care with church services at 9:15 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday, April 30. There will be an open house at 10:15-11 a.m. and lunch and festivities from noon to 2 p.m.

Northville First Care opened its doors 20 years ago with the vision and goal of providing Christian care and love to those families within our congregation and the Northville/Novi community. It began in 1996-97, when the church underwent a building expansion project to include four dedicated classrooms aimed at welcoming families in need of weekday Christian care for their children, ages infant through 5 years old.

Over the past 20 years, the congregation has been blessed not only to fill these original classrooms to capacity, but has added two additional classrooms to accommodate the community's growth and most currently those children affected by the recent Michigan's change in the kindergarten admittance from a December birthdate deadline to the current September deadline.

NFC has one of the highest ratings from the United Methodist Church under its "Guidelines for Weekday Preschool Ministry Programs." The center has been able to offer additional programs to enhance its curriculum such as special movement exercises and classes, foreign language and special community projects. Last Christmas season, it had a drive to help a needy classroom in Flint, supplying games and equipment for those less fortunate.

SPARTANBURG, S.C. - Marlanda Dekine is pretty sure the root of her formal activism was the day she had to tell a 6-year-old that he would never return home to his parents. Dekine had been a social worker for nearly five years, mostly doing forensic evaluations and therapy for children who had been victims of abuse. But the meeting that day brought her emotions to a head.

She sat across from the little boy and couldn't speak.

"He's 6," Dekine says, reflecting. "He's 6. I could have all the training in the world; there are no words for how you say that."

All Dekine could think to do was to write. And so as the little boy played beside her, she penned a poem.

"... Sometimes, my masters level degree cannot make sense out of what doesn't make sense," Dekine wrote. "These children, they are tried on like new shoes. If you don't like what you see, keep it moving ..."

Today, Dekine is working to foster honest dialogue across racial, religious, gender identity, ethnic and socioeconomic differences. Her organization, Speaking Down

LAUREN PETRACCA/USA TODAY NETWORK
Marlanda Dekine, executive director of Speaking Down Barriers, stands by a mural in Spartanburg, S.C.

Barriers, which she co-founded with Scott Neely in 2013, began as an artistic space that brought spoken-word poetry into local churches to open conversation about issues.

The group, partly funded by a grant from the South Carolina Endowment for Arts and Humanities, holds multiple monthly gatherings, from book discussions to larger events.

At Speaking Down Barriers' first community meeting, Dekine recalls watching a multimillionaire discuss class with a person who'd just been released from prison.

Marlanda Dekine

Location: Spartanburg, South Carolina

Age: 30

Profession: Executive director, Speaking Down Barriers, poet, licensed master social worker

Mission: To transform our life together across our differences by facilitating community dialogue, training, performances and consultation.

"It's a way of building community on the ground," Dekine says.

The work is slow, Dekine admits, but she and her team have seen results. People who have met through SDB events have branched off to create things such as community gardens and artist groups.

"I think the essence of transformative community building is consciousness," she says. "I am not sure you can have effective community building without it."

Q&A WITH MARLANDA DEKINE

What does it mean to you to be an American?

It means, for me, living in a space that is still learning to love, and to even love who I am. And it means loving it enough back to expect more of it.

What moment touched and motivated you to launch this effort?

That was right after (the killing of black youth) Trayvon Martin. That was right in the midst of a time when those things were much more in our awareness, and us wanting there to be a space to pull it out. It all came back to this is something people don't like to talk about, but it's always coming up. It's not just Florida, Ferguson. If it's there, it's here. I think we all had pieces and ideas for what we wanted this space to be, but the spark, I'd say, was the idea from Scott (Neely), what would it be like to do poetry in this space. Then it just took off from there.

What gives you hope, or what concerns you?

Children give me a lot of hope, and I think that's because a lot of the work that I've done is with survivors of child abuse. I think there is a way that the most terrible thing (happens) and you witness the most amazing resilience, and that's where hope comes in for me, our ability for resilience. Concern? I think the deep fears that we carry about being our authentic selves, about doing authentic work. The way that we just put things off to the side when really we need to look at the full list. Let's look at ourselves and not run from ourselves, essentially. And I think my concern is most of us would rather run.

What do you hope to accomplish through your efforts?

I hope to clearly see myself. So what I mean is, while the goal is community building, I don't believe I myself build community. But I think the more I wrestle here (hands on heart), the more I live here deeply, the more that what I share with the world helps to transform the community. So I hope for my own self a constant growth, no matter how hard. I never want to ask someone to do something I'm not willing to do myself.

My story: Living with Asperger's syndrome

Abby Desselles
GUEST COLUMNIST

April is rolling in and, while many may associate the month with showers and warmer weather, it is also Autism Awareness Month. "What is autism?" some may ask. Google defines it as "a mental condition, present from early childhood, characterized by difficulty in communication and forming relationships with other people and in using language and abstract concepts."

An early age, I was diagnosed with Asperger's syndrome, a milder form of autism. Life for students with special needs can be hell while you're growing up. There's always a sense of isolation from other people; you're always told that you're "different." Words people use to describe those like me can range from "retard" to "special," but they all mean the same thing: you don't belong and you're different.

While adults have good intentions for children with this diagnosis, they have a hard time putting themselves in our shoes.

I'm considered high functioning on the autism spectrum. This means I can communicate effectively and I have an average or above-average cognitive ability.

However, people like me tend to have trouble reading social cues and knowing what's appropriate and what's not. Because I'm high functioning, I was placed in regular classes in school, the equivalent of throwing me in a lion's den, with teachers and para-professionals my only armor from direct encounters.

Kids with special needs get some of the worst treatment from their peers. It's a struggle to communicate and realize what's acceptable and what's not. Kids with autism are seen as a joke.

It can feel like the entire world hates you for just existing — like you're always being pitied, treated like you're stupid or both. I was raised to keep my condition a secret because it carries a stigma, it's considered wrong and weird.

I've had people take advantage of my condition and judge me differently once they found out. I remember in middle school how we would have these things called "Snack Pack," and invite kids who weren't in special-needs program to hang out with us. Most of the time, these kids were just using it to get free food. Later, we would see some of the same kids making fun of us in the hallways with their friends, usually by imitating or mocking us. It hurt a lot, but worse yet, it was widely accepted to mistreat people like me. I hear people use special or retarded as an insult in the hallways all the time. Using someone's race as an insult is short-sighted and no longer tolerated, so why is it OK to use mental disabilities in the same way?

You can imagine that many kids, including myself, grew bitter from this treatment. I got used to hurtful comments and to different treatment, be it good or bad. I thought I was immune to the things people said, to the things people did, but I really wasn't. I was just detaching from it, which is very different from being immune.

I was talking to a teacher at my school one day. When I briefly told him that I was bullied and why, he only had one question for me: "Was there something wrong with them or something wrong with you?"

I remember internally smiling, the answer was so obvious. I looked up at him and replied, "There is something wrong with me."

Until then he was not nonchalantly listening, but he quickly turned to face me. "Wrong? There is nothing wrong with you."

I was confused when he said this; what did he mean by that? I'd always believed that I was the one who couldn't communicate right or learn things like everyone else. For a brief moment, all my flaws crashed into a chaotic mess, a circus of negativity within my own thoughts. I realized just then what his question really meant. I had given everyone who hurt me permission to because I believed I was born wrong. But really, it was the people who hurt me who are truly wrong in the end. I was just me and there would never be anything wrong with me for being who I am. The people who hurt me in some way were the ones who were wrong. They were the ones who thought they had the right to deem others as being abnormal or broken.

When I tell everyone the story, it is not for pity. I've had enough of that. It's to get people to wake up and realize the pain they are causing others. My story gets a happy ending here, but I know many others out there are still hurt and bitter. I want a world where people don't hate themselves for existing or feel afraid of things they can't control. I want the world changed to be a place where people can be accepted for who they are, not judged by it.

Civic education is paramount to remain united

Patrick Colbeck
GUEST COLUMNIST

What are the core values of America? After all, we are called the "United" States of America for a reason. What unites us? Are we united by merely a geographic boundary or are we united by something that transcends boundaries?

This is a very important question. After all, we do not seem to be very united nowadays.

For more than a year, I was engaged in a focus group sponsored by the Michigan Department of Education tasked with defining our next generation of social studies standards for K-12 education in our state. My participation in this exercise was solicited as a result of a letter I wrote to the department in response to its first attempt at crafting these standards. In this letter, co-signed by 17 of my legislative colleagues, I cited 15 issues that needed to be reconciled before I could support these standards. All that I asked was that the standards were politically neutral and accurate. These objectives were adopted by the focus group.

I am pleased to report that at the end of our focus group deliberations, we did indeed reach compromises on all 15 issues. However, we failed to reach agreement on one issue that surfaced during the discussions. What was that issue? The definition of our core values.

In the wake of our deliberations, I took to social media to ask our citizens what they believed were our core values. There was no consensus there either.

So why is it so difficult for us to define our core values? Our values today are very diverse. Perhaps the first step should be to define what makes a value a "core" value. It would seem to be self-evident that for a value to be a "core" value, it would need to be a value shared by the majority of Americans. Sounds simple enough.

How do we know if a value is shared by the majority of Americans? I would submit that the values would need to be documented in a social compact that binds all Americans. We have only two such compacts throughout our history — the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution. Of the two documents, I would submit that the Declaration of Independence is a statement of our core values, while the Constitution is a statement as to how we would structure our government to promote these values.

So what are the core values found in the Declaration of Independence?

- » We are all created equal;
- » We have unalienable rights endowed to us by our Creator;
- » Government authority comes from the consent of the governed;
- » It is the duty of the people to oppose government abuse of authority; and
- » Purpose of government is to secure the rights of the governed.

Some people may think that the importance I have placed upon the need for a quality civics education is less pressing than other matters, such as the state budget or economic development policies. In light of the importance of unity to the strength of the United States of America, I would submit that civics is of paramount importance. Our enemies, and we have many, would like nothing better than to divide us. Regrettably, we have taken our unity for granted for too many years. It is time to re-dedicate ourselves and our nation to the need for unity by affirming these core values. Once we do, we will once again earn the title of the United States of America, which is truly exceptional in all the world.

Sen. Patrick Colbeck represents the 7th Senate District, which encompasses the cities of Livonia, Northville, Plymouth and Wayne, as well as the townships of Canton, Northville and Plymouth.

An Easter angel

I am the activity director at Oakmont Northville and I want to thank an anonymous Easter angel. At 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, April 11, one of my residents could not remember her pin number to her debit card. As we were leaving the store empty-handed, our cashier ran up and handed us her bags and said the lady, who along with her daughter waited so patiently, had paid for all of Betty's things. I was so touched by that act of kindness I cried all the way to the bus.

Happy Easter!

GOP accepts Trump's lies

This letter is in response to some of the remarks made in Leo Weber's editorial entitled "Liberals are annoying." This is how a "liberal" finds Republican conservatives besides being annoying, but accepting President Trump's lies without question. Why shouldn't we be ecstatic about Trump's failure to get rid of Obamacare? That was a major part of his campaign promises, most of which he is not able to carry out because his own party doesn't support him.

He also claims the town halls were filled with yelling Democrats. The town halls run by Republican congressmen were in answer to their own constituents who were fed up with their lack of response to their questions about the new president's policies and how it was going to affect them. These are the attendees who were acting like "out of control school brats."

As to his remarks about liberals railing against anything linked to Trump, he has a short memory if he doesn't remember how President Obama served eight years with no bipartisanship from the Republicans. Mr. Weber, you may not want to associate with we liberals, but believe me, we don't want to associate with the likes of you.

We are not the only ones upset over what you call a fantasy tale about Russia. It has been proven by the FBI and CIA that the Russians interfered with the election; we're just waiting for the Republican-controlled congress to hold an independent hearing so that all the facts can be made public. Trump keeps tweeting lies thinking he's diverting attention away from his Russian connection. And the Republicans never stopped bringing up Benghazi and the death of four Americans, but they were always very quiet when it came to the deaths of over 4,000 of our soldiers in the Iraqi war, which was started by the lies of Bush and Cheney.

And finally, you conservatives made a big issue of all the traveling to Hawaii and golfing done by President Obama. Well, the truth of the matter is that in eight years, President Obama's trips cost the taxpayers $97 million. Your President Trump is costing the taxpayers $3 million a week for his trips and golfing in Florida. At that rate he will spend more in one year than Obama spent in eight! And don't forget the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent to protect Mrs. Trump and their son in New York.

'Trumpnics' are bullies

I want to address the rants of one Leo Weber in the Thursday, April 13, Observer.

Calling out your neighbors by name doesn't make you tough — it makes you a punk bully. So many of you Trumpnics are punk bullies with your confederate flags and scare tactics. This is not the conservative or Republican way — it is some entirely new phenomenon.

To answer your rants:

1. Your "Russian Fairy Tale" is being investigated by the FBI — the Republican FBI director told a Republican Congress that. That fairy tale is being pursued by many Republican patriots as well, who are worried about their country.

2. The Benghazi Incident was investigated for months by a Republican Congress and covered by all the news outlets — without any finding of fault. Even after grilling Hillary Clinton for 10 hours, no fault was found. It was a tragic mistake very much like the Yemen raid ordered by Trump that got a Navy Seal and nine civilians killed.

3. Town Hall rants — yes — the left is doing it. They learned from you Tea Baggies — took it right out of your playbook the Kochs wrote and funded for you — which you used against the Democrats.

4. You call abortion and sodomy out as key button issues because it makes some folks cringe — but the real issue is on people's right to choose — it comes with living in a free country — not one run by Sharia Law. And you are the arbiter of righteousness and virtue? You decide what is right and wrong? You sound just like one of the Mullahs.

5. Most conservatives and Republicans I know held their nose while voting for the Donald — don't look at the 46.1 percent as some huge Trump movement — it was as much anti-Hillary as pro-Donald.

6. And finally — what is wrong with this country? Look in the mirror. Your absolute hatred for liberals (I prefer progressives) will keep this country divided forever. Ronald Reagan and Tip O'Neal would get together, tell some off-color jokes, drink a beer and find common ground to move this country forward. The same happened with Bill Clinton and Newt Gingrich (don't think they drank?). We need to find common ground. We need to move our country forward. We need to rebuild our infrastructure, create jobs, take care of the elderly, provide a good education to everyone, strengthen the middle class and find peace with the world. That won't happen with this hatred.

Richard Willamson

Restore our democracy

The recent letters to the editor about frustration with Congressman David Trott echo my feelings. He was picked by the Republican leadership to run against Kerry Bentivolio in 2014, and he won. He will continue to be the congressman for the 11th Congressional District as long as the Republicans have a majority in the state Legislature, due to the gerrymandered districts. After the 2010 census, with the help of computer software, the congressional and state districts were drawn so there would be a majority of Republicans in the state Legislature and a Republican majority of the Michigan caucus in the U.S. House of Representatives.

After the 2020 census whoever has a majority in the state Legislature will do the same kind of partisan redistricting. We need to restore our representative democracy by having an independent commission draw the districts. The organization "Count My Vote" has started a campaign to do just that. They are gaining support to have a proposal on the November 2017 ballot, that when passed will change the Michigan constitution, so an independent commission draws the districts. A constitutional amendment cannot be changed by the state legislature.

Fair districts will be competitive; candidates will not be guaranteed reelection. They will have to appeal to a majority of the voters made up of Republicans, Democrats and independents. Our elected officials would then have to represent all the people in their districts. I urge you to get involved and support the work of "Count My Vote". Their website is www.votersnotpoliticians.com.

Crosses the line

The letter writer declares "Liberals are annoying." He goes on to state liberals rant, mock, rail and yell. He also states liberals are vile, unreasoning mad dogs who promote demonic dogma and fantasize about Russia. This really crosses the line and does nothing to help people communicate effectively and problem-solve with each other.

This letter completely ignores what George Washington wrote many years ago: "As Mankind becomes more liberal, they will be more apt to allow that all those who conduct themselves as worthy members of the community are equally entitled to the protections of civil government. I hope ever to see America among the foremost nations of justice and liberality." Fortunately Washington had the fortitude to "rail" against a government of the elite and stand for a people-powered government where we are all to be treated equally. It is time to stop name calling and categorizing people into evil unworthy groups. We need to remember we all want the same basic things in life.

Need important answers

As we approach the halfway point of 2017, we know that there will be people announcing their intention to run for public office in 2018.

We will be electing a new governor. As the parent of two children in P-CCS public schools, I can't help but keep my eyes on the public policy that shapes our schools. Its for the sake of my children, my community and my state. I encourage others to join me in asking our current public officials and candidates to defend their positions and policy on public education.

Let's push them to go beyond ideological talking points. Let's push them to dig deep, and support their responses with facts, objective outcome data. Have their policies helped only some and hurt others?

Who are their policy advisers and political allies and what do they know about education?

Betsy DeVos is a Michigan native whose appointment to secretary of education was the most controversial and protested in the position's history.

Throughout the country, Michigan's sub-par charter school laws were cited as a reason for protesting her. Michigan has the most for-profit charter schools in the country. More than the state of California. Her next move is to give federal financial incentives to states to develop voucher programs.

Several studies have been released in the past months citing the dismal results of voucher programs in Ohio, Indiana and Kansas.

This is not the first time voucher programs have been used and proposed since economist Milton Friedman first conceived of the notion in the 1950s.

They were implemented immediately after Board v. Brown was passed, so that parents did not have to send their children to integrated schools.

The origins of vouchers do are not education-centric and the supporters today have major deficiencies and experience with education and publicly funded schools with pluralistic student bodies.

Let's ask our public servants and candidates the tough questions and hold out for REAL answers, not talking points.

If they claim to believe education should be managed at the local level, ask them if they really have acted in accordance with that belief.

Have they let universities hours away from a community approve charter schools to be built there? To be managed by companies that are outside the state?

Have they interfered with the curriculum as a legislator or let communities do their jobs? Do the pass unfunded mandates that add to the loss of professional autonomy of our teachers?

Do they respect all the families of the community, no matter the religion or makeup of the family? Or have they used their platform and rhetoric to build up some types of families and marginalize others?

Have they been respectful of the profession of education? Do they defer and listen to those that know more than them?

Do they know how devastating vouchers for children with special needs and IEPs and their hard fought legal rights?

Do they hide from tough questions? The answers are important to get.

Stop Trott bill

To Congressman David Trott: You introduced H.R. 1849, which you've titled "Practice of Law Technical Clarification Act of 2017." On its face, this bill appears to be written in your own self-interest, as it exempts lawyers and law firms such as Trott Law (nee Trott & Trott) from two important regulatory controls:

- (a) Section 803(6) of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act; and

(b) Section 1027(e)(2)(B) of the Consumer Financial Protection Act of 2010

Cui bono? Both of these regulatory controls were, separately, created to protect consumers and the general public from misbehavior by those who — for their own financial gain — abused consumers in the handling of financial activity. These regulatory controls exist because the public was being mistreated — yes, even by lawyers. It is the singular purpose of the government to protect the public, and these controls provided some degree of protection in fulfilling that obligation.

Your proposed bill seeks to remove those protections and to grant lawyers and law firms more leeway to mistreat the public once again. Cui bono?

It is noteworthy that your ascendancy to the Congress followed decades of practice as a lawyer in the business of debt collection. You parlayed that practice into a very lucrative industry, with your personal interests in all aspects of mortgage foreclosures — title companies, legal service, and more. Trott & Trott, the law firm you headed, served as the lead in so many mortgage foreclosures that you were aptly named the "Foreclosure King" long before you sought a seat in Congress.

And your success in this debt collection business made you the sixth wealthiest member of Congress, ahead of 430 members of the House and ahead of all but one senator.

Now you bring before the House this H.R. 1849, cast as a "technical clarification." It is nothing of the sort. It is, in fact, a cloak under which law firms such as that from which you arose can misbehave, free of the regulatory controls that would otherwise protect the public. Cui bono?

Who among your constituents demanded that law firms have this freedom? Who among your constituents cried out against protecting the public? Who among your constituents want to free up your former law firm, and your former law partners, and your other personal interests in the mortgage foreclosure industry? Who among your constituents want the "Foreclosure King" to subject the public to the abuses they once endured before these regulatory controls? Cui bono?

It is noteworthy that your H.R. 1849 has, to date, no co-sponsors.

But it is also noteworthy that this bill, from which you and your associates would personally gain, will be reviewed by the Financial Services Committee, a committee on which you serve. Cui bono?

I urge you, Congressman Trott, to withdraw H.R. 1849. I urge you, Congressman Trott, to oppose any further effort to pass similar exclusions that apply to the private interests of yourself, your family, your former law firm and partners, or any other business ventures in which you are personally invested.

I urge you, Congressman Trott, to oppose this effort and other efforts to reduce the protections afforded to the public and to consumers.

I urge you, Congressman Trott, to support the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, and other protections afforded by the Dodd-Frank Act, and to applaud the work that the bureau has done in fulfilling its mission — to protect consumers and the public against misbehavior by those in all aspects of the financial industry. Cui bono?

Calling all veterans

Northville's Memorial Day Parade will host an event in the parade to honor all of our American veterans and service personnel. It's called "the 50 Flag Salute."

This is a yearly event to be done in a new city every year. This is the only time for Northville. This is the fourth year for this event. Plus, I did a 9/11 event at the American Legion in Ypsilanti in 2016. I need the help from residents in Northville to come hold a flag pole in the parade. They will stand on the sideline and watch the look of the veterans as the pass. This is a one-of-a-kind event to honor our veterans. Don't miss this event. ## Northville's Ziparo tosses no-hitter against Salem in sweep

Mustangs post 1-0 and 6-2 victories

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com

Northville's Connor Ziparo proved to be his swashbuckling best April 12.

The 5-foot-10, 170-pound senior left-hander "The Mark of Zorro" threw a no-hitter in the opener as the Mustangs went on to sweep host Salem in a KLAAs Central Division baseball doubleheader, 1-0 and 6-2.

Ziparo finished with seven strikeouts and only two walks in seven innings and was able to out-duel Salem ace Matt Brooks, who allowed just two hits and one walk while striking out 10 over six innings.

Northville scored the game-winning run in the top of the seventh on Billy Flohr's one-out single that scored Jake McWilliams to hand Salem reliever Sean McCormack the loss.

"Outstanding job by Connor and our defense in Game 1," Northville coach John Kostrzewa said. "A no-hitter is very rare and against a solid team in a great pitchers' duel. The Salem pitcher Brooks also pitched outstanding and did a tremendous job keeping us off-balance for six innings. We finally were able to break

Novi races past rival Northville

Wildcats win 12 events in first meet of season

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com

Novi may have not put its best foot forward April 11 in an 86-51 boys track and field win over host Northville, but the Wildcats came away with a lot of satisfaction.

And, of course, it's really early in the 2017 season, coming off spring break.

"It was good," Novi coach Marsha Reid said. "There's still some things we need to work on, obviously, early in the season. We need to shore up some of those relay exchanges."

Novi took first in 12 of the 17 events, including three of four relays. The Wildcats could have made it a clean sweep in the relays, but dropped the baton on the final hand-off after building a big lead.

The Wildcats were led by Aric Landy, who captured the 800-meter run (2:05.16) and 3,200 (10:09.78).

Other first-place finishers for Novi included Brendan Ireland, who tied for first in the long jump (18 feet, 8.75 inches); Scott Sawyer, pole vault (13-0); John Stefan, 110-meter hurdles (16.11); Hunter Joy, 300 hurdles (43.66); Nathan Hankerson, 100 dash (11.56); Leon Chen, 200 (23.93); and Gabe Mudel, 1,600 (4:27.38).

KLAAs announces future division alignments

League will do some shuffling after first year

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com

New division alignments have been announced for the 14-school Kensington Lakes Activities Association with Grand Blanc exiting after 2017-18 season and Belleville accepting an invitation to join in 2018-19.

Grand Blanc, which was voted out of the KLAAs by a 13-1 margin last month, will be part of the seven-school Gold Division for its last year, along with Brighton, Hartland, Howell, Livonia Stevenson, Northville and Novi.

The Black Division, meanwhile, will consist of Canton, Plymouth, Salem, Livonia Churchill, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Stevenson, Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial.

With the exception of football, the 2017-18 division alignments for all other boys and girls sports were based on geographic locations and proximity to other member schools.

"The majority of our schools could not support Grand Blanc being in the league," KLAAs president and Novi High Principal Nicole Carter said in a press release. "The original development of the league was based on geography, so with 10 schools leaving the league, it created a hole between the schools because of the mileage situation with an outlying school."

Last April, a total of 10 schools departed from the KLAAs.

Milford, South Lyon, South Lyon East, Walled Lake Central, Walled Lake Northern, Walled Lake Western, Waterford Kettering, Waterford Mott and White Lake Lakeland broke off and formed their own nine-school Lakes Valley Conference, which will start this fall. A 10th member school, Pinckney, decided to join the Southeastern Conference.

Northville girls show they're up to speed

Mustangs dominate track against Novi

hometownlife.com

Northville made the track its own sanctuary April 11 as Mustangs girls track and field team dominated the running events in a convincing 92.6-39.3 dual meet win over rival Novi.

The defending KLAA Central Division and Kensington Conference champions came out of the field events trailing 28.3-16.6, but stormed through the track events by outscoring the Wildcats, 76-11.

After being off a week for spring break, the Northville girls showed very little rust. "We had some optional conditioning, maybe about 30-50 kids here, so a majority of our kids were gone," Northville coach Tim Dalton said. "But the girls were able to come out on top."

Northville swept the first three places in the 400-, 800-, 1,600- and 3,200-meter events to outscore Novi 36-0 getting first from Claire McNamara (1:00.54), Emily Assemany (2:36.60), Cayla Eckenroth (5:33.16) and Ana Barrott (11:58.78).

Meanwhile, Erin McCallum took the 100 (12.93) and Yasmine Affes captured the 200 (26.43). The Mustangs' other two individual wins came from Lexi Davenport (100 hurdles, 16.62) and Clare McNamara in the long jump (16 feet, 6.75 inches).

"We've lost a lot with Chloe (Abbott), Lexa Barrott, Lindsay Walters, Emma Herrmann ... a decent amount of seniors that all contributed," Dalton said of the 2016 class that captured third in last year's MHSAA Division 1 state finals. "It's a new year and that's high school sports. You roll it over and we make it up. I think we're still solid in the sprints. I don't think we have that high-end kid that's going to win three events for us, but we should be able to place and our distance should be strong as well."

Novi and Northville relay runners take to the track April 11.

JOHN HEIDER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Northville also received a great anchor leg from McCallum for a come-from-behind win in the 400 relay (53.93). The Mustangs captured the 1,600 and 3,200 relays in 4:22.52 and 10:05.0, respectively. (The 800 relay was a double disqualification.)

"Daryn Lobingier in the pole vault hit the state qualifying standard (10 feet)," Dalton said. "And Erin McCallum, the way she responded in our 4 by 100 (relay), was great."

Meanwhile, Novi coach Marsha Reid saw some positives despite the loss.

"We're young and we have some good, strong seniors that are leaders, but in a lot of ways we don't have experience on the girls' side," she said. "Northville is a really, really tough team and we knew that going in. They had us on the distance side and we knew that. At the same time, it's good competition to have people work with and go through."

Senior Emma Hammelef paced the Wildcats by winning three field events: the pole vault (10-0 on fewer misses), shot put (37-9) and discus (114-2).

Meanwhile, Hannah Hood-Blaxill was first in the high jump (5-3) while Taylor Stone, a transfer from St. Louis, Mo., captured the 300 hurdles (48.69).

"We were missing our No. 1 sprinter (Kayla Savage) today, which hurt us," Reid said. "But we had some nice performances in the field events with our throwers. Our pole vaulter (Hammelef) did really well and our two high jumpers (Hood-Blaxill and Kate Prisby) did OK, so in that sense it was nice to see some balance. But we've got some work to do. We got the first dual meet out of the way and now we can work on those exchanges in the relays and that kind of stuff."

Novi splits non-league doubleheader

Wildcats beat Garden City in opener before losing

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com

Although Novi finds itself short on pitching these days, the Wildcats managed to split a doubleheader Saturday at home against non-conference opponent Garden City.

Sophomore Grant Pytel threw six strong innings, allowing just two hits and four walks while striking out five, as Novi took the opener, 5-3.

Mitch Lys went the final inning, allowing one run, to earn the save.

Top offensive producers for the Wildcats included Brian Wendt (2-for-2, two runs) and Alec Bageris (2-for-3, two RBIs), while Nate Lys and Kaito Suzuki also drove in runs.

In the nightcap, Garden City's Avery Emerson went 3-for-5 with an RBI in a 9-5 victory over Novi.

Jacob Wladyskiak was the winning pitcher, while Novi starter Johnny Bean, charged with six runs on seven hits and two walks in three innings, suffered the loss.

Bageris went 3-for-4 with an RBI, while Mitch Lys clubbed a solo homer. Ryota Torri added two hits and a run, while Evan Yokie and Nate Wicks also drove in runs. Suzuki reached base safely three times, but the Wildcats fell to 6-4-1 overall.

CANTON 7, NOVI 3: On April 13, the Chiefs (8-1, 4-0 KLAA South) overcame a 3-0 deficit to beat the host Wildcats (5-3-1, 2-1) in a Kensington Conference crossover.

Novi out-hit the Chiefs, 6-2, but the Wildcats committed five errors on the day as Canton stormed back with five runs in the top of the third inning to pin the loss on starter Brian Wendt, who threw the first two innings before giving way to Cam Czapski and Nate Lys.

Tyler VanKirk went 2-for-4 and Grant Pytel added an RBI in a losing cause.

NOVI 5, SOUTH LYON EAST 1: On April 12, Tyler VanKirk pitched a complete game as the host Wildcats (5-2-1, 2-0) took the first game of a doubleheader against South Lyon East (1-3, 0-2). VanKirk gave up just four hits over seven innings. He struck out three and walked only two to earn the victory.

Evan Yokie led Novi offensively, going 2-for-3 with two RBIs. Alec Bageris and Brian Wendt also knocked in runs.

Ashton Jones went 2-for-3 for the Cougars, while pitcher Max Denny, who went the first 3 1/2 innings, took the loss.

The second game of the KLAA Central Division twinbill was suspended with one out in the bottom of the fifth inning because of darkness with East leading, 13-6. Play will resume at a later date, with Novi at bat with the bases loaded.

through in the seventh and scratched out a run. Just an outstanding pitchers' duel."

In Game 2, Northville improved to 4-0 overall and 3-0 in the Central Division thanks to six innings of scoreless relief by Tyler Troyer, who picked up the win.

Troyer allowed just two hits, walked three and struck out three after Salem (1-2, 1-2) struck for two runs in the first off Northville starter Ryan Pumper.

But the Mustangs answered with three runs in the top of the second before adding one in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Jack Sargent went 3-for-4 with two RBIs to pace Northville's nine-hit attack. Other contributions came from Aram Shahrigan (two hits, two RBIs), Flohr (two hits, one RBI) and Michael Lionas (two RBIs).

"We hit some balls extremely hard throughout the second game against a very good pitcher," Kostrzewa said. "Tyler was outstanding the rest of the way and we were able to add to our one-run lead to give us some breathing room. Billy Flohr and Jack Sargent had great days at the plate. It was a great team effort. Solid defense and great pitching were the keys."

Salem starter Jacob Seipenko, who gave up six earned runs in five innings, suffered the loss. He had two hits and an RBI, while Trevor Genaw also added two hits.

NORTHVILLE 11, WAYNE 0: Junior Nick Broda notched his first career win April 13 as the host Mustangs (5-0, 4-0 KLAA Central) rolled to a five-inning Kensington Conference crossover victory over Wayne Memorial (0-4, 0-4 KLAA South).

Broda, a left-hander, allowed just one hit, walked one and struck out three over four innings.

Billy Flohr went 2-for-3 with two RBIs to lead the Mustangs' seven-hit attack.

Northville broke it open with five runs in the bottom of the fifth inning on RBI singles by Kevin Morrissey, Jack Sargent, Aram Shahrigan, Jake Moody and Ryan Perkins.

Ben Schmidt also had an RBI in the win, while Sargent added two stolen bases and scored three runs.

"It wasn't the best hitting conditions for either team due to the weather, but we managed to take advantage of the opportunities we got and were able to break it open in the fifth getting a number of two-out hits," Northville coach John Kostrzewa said.

Tyler Napier had a first-inning single for Wayne, while starter Malik Lewis took the loss.

sions, however, will be based on a past performance standard involving MHSAA playoff points and enrollments.

The Gold Division will include Northville, Plymouth, Churchill, Grand Blanc, John Glenn, Franklin and Wayne, while the Black Division will consist of Canton, Hartland, Stevenson, Brighton, Howell, Novi and Salem.

Divisions could also be tweaked next season for KLAA schools that do not field lacrosse, hockey or gymnastics teams.

Belleville, which was officially voted in as a 2018-19 member last week, will remain in the 12-school Western Wayne Athletic Association through the 2017-18 year.

On April 11, the KLAA principals and athletic directors also made recommendations for 2018-19 division realignments that will be voted upon at a later date when Belleville becomes a member.

According to a reliable source, it was tentatively agreed that the seven-school Black Division will consist of Belleville, Churchill, Franklin, Stevenson, John Glenn, Wayne and Salem. The seven-team Gold Division will consist of Canton, Plymouth, Northville, Novi, Brighton, Hartland and Howell.

Based on the KLAA's charter criteria - geographical, financial and educational - the KLAA's board determined that Grand Blanc was no longer feasible for the other member schools and their student-athlete populations.

Grand Blanc is 45 or more miles away from 10 current KLAA schools, including Canton, Churchill, Franklin, Stevenson, Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Salem, Wayne and John Glenn.

The addition of Belleville will lessen the travel burden between outlying schools, as only Brighton, Hartland and Howell are located more than 40 miles away.

The KLAA board also considered two other schools for possible new membership. However, it was decided that Belleville would be given the nod.

"One of the things that we tried to do was limit as much travel as we possibly could, especially during the week," Carter added in the press release. "We look at that as being educationally sound in educational athletics. Kids should be doing homework rather than riding on a bus for an hour and a half one way."

The KLAA, formed in 2007-08, originally consisted of 24 schools divided into 12-school two conferences and four divisions of six as part of a merger between members of the Western Lakes Activities Association and Kensington Valley Conference.

But after the scheduled opening of the newly-built Howell Parker High was shelved, Grand Blanc accepted an invitation and became the KLAA's 24th member and was part of the KLAA West Division, along with Milford, Brighton, Howell, Hartland and Pinckney.

Novi cruises to 6-0 win against Cougars

Brad Emons

Six different players scored goals April 13 as Novi rolled to a 6-0 KLAA Central Division girls soccer victory at South Lyon East.

The Wildcats (2-0-1, 2-0) led 3-0 at halftime on goals by Jessie Bandyk (unassisted), Michelle Jecmen (from Avery Fenchel) and Vera Razburgaj (penalty kick with 42 seconds left).

Novi added second-half goals by Avery Fenchel (from Jecmen), Laine Fenchel (from Julia Stadtherr) and Lexi Whalen (from Bandyk).

Novi out-shot the Cougars, 15-1, as goalkeepers Callie Rich and Rileigh Nielson combined for the shutout.

The loss dropped East, which played the entire second half down a player because of a red card, to 0-3 overall and 0-1 in the KLAA Central.

NOVI 8, WALLED LAKE WESTERN 1: After tying Hartland in its season opener, 1-1, Novi (1-0-1) got its offense clicking April 12 as freshman forward Avery Fenchel collected two goals and two assists against Walled Lake Western (0-3-0) at Meadows Stadium.

The Wildcats jumped out to a 3-0 first-half advantage on goals by Bailey Baumbeck at 10:44 (from Vera Razburgaj), Michelle Jecmen at 23:37 (from Avery Fenchel), and Laine Fenchel at 20:59 (from Avery Fenchel).

The goals kept coming in the second half for Novi, which enjoyed a 13-1 shot advantage, starting with Emmie Takada with 35:40 left (from Jacalyn Schubring), Avery Fenchel with 31:59 remaining (from Leah Kiura), Avery Fenchel unassisted with 17:55 to play, Cara Ninkovich unassisted with 14:19 to go, and Lexi Whalen with only 14 seconds remaining (from Gracie Backus).

Western (0-3-0) scored its lone goal with 31:10 remaining to spoil the shutout, but it grazed the crossbar, while Sydney Schembri also had two shots on goal that Northern goalie Samantha Cannon saved.

The Knights had a chance to win the game with 17:15 on a penalty kick, but the attempt rang off the right post.

SOUTH LYON 2, KETTERING 1: Goals from freshman Kylie Davis and junior Meghan Pile propelled South Lyon (4-1-3) to a KLAA crossover victory April 12 over visiting Waterford Kettering (3-2).

Northville's St. Cyr standing tall in U.S. net

Goalie's inspired two-year run with NTDP closing with stint at IIHF Under-18 Men's Worlds in Slovakia

hometownlife.com

Dylan St. Cyr only stands 5 feet, 8 inches, but he is about to be a big presence on the world hockey stage.

St. Cyr, 17, son of former women's professional goaltender Manon Rheume and ex-minor league player Gerry St. Cyr, is competing through April 23 at the IIHF Under-18 Men's World Championship in Slovakia.

That's where St. Cyr and his teammates on the U.S. National Team Development Program U18 squad are capping off an intense, two-year journey.

"Anytime you put on the USA Hockey jersey, whether it's international or USHL games or college games, it's special," St. Cyr said during a recent interview at USA Hockey Arena in Plymouth. "But obviously, it's just a different mindset, it's a different feel.

"You know you're going up against every other country. It's a really special feeling going into places like Sweden, Slovakia. I'm really excited about having played in those five tournaments (over the past two years) and being here and part of that."

The Northville resident's most recent international tournament might be tough to surpass, however.

Shootout star

At the Five Nations Tournament during February in Sweden, St. Cyr stoned four of six Swedish skaters in a shootout as Team USA prevailed 5-4 in the gold medal game.

"In our final game, to battle the adversity that we did, so many penalties called against us and scoring with about three seconds left, down a man," St. Cyr said. "That was pretty cool stuff to go into overtime and force a shootout, which was awesome."

Another Michigan product, forward Josh Norris of Oxford, was the hero at the end of regulation with his shorthanded goal, which gave St. Cyr his chance to shine in the ultimate pressure situation.

Beginning this week, St. Cyr and company will try to have the same kind of success. The U18 squad faces Belarus and Russia on Thursday and Saturday, respectively, during the preliminary round. The top four teams in each of two pools will advance to the quarterfinals.

Whatever happens in Slovakia, the Northville High School senior will be more than ready to start his collegiate hockey career at Notre Dame.

St. Cyr originally committed to the University of Michigan, but earlier this year decided — with encouragement from his parents — to change his future address.

"I think it was a collective decision, just family and all," he said. "My dad has been along the way, too. He wasn't a goalie, but he was a player.

"He's helped me, especially mentally and in influencing decisions. I just think it was the right decision for everyone."

Learning curve

The growth St. Cyr has made in his second season with USA Hockey undoubtedly could help lift him to a successful NCAA Division I career.

With the U18 team, which in addition to tournaments faces a demanding slate of games against college and United States Hockey League teams, St. Cyr so far has played 40 games and posted a 2.79 goals-against average with .896 save percentage while going 26-11.

As an NTDP rookie in 2015-16 with the U17 team, he gave up 3.31 goals per game and won just 13 of 34 decisions. In the NTDP, elite junior players from around the country are procured for a unique, two-year program with the purpose of winning medals.

"It's a process. You show up here and you're playing against older guys," St. Cyr said. "It's really something you want to experience so you can move and challenge yourself to play against those older guys.

"Moving forward, I think it's really going to help in the long run, getting that experience that no other kids our age are getting, playing against college kids now."

Yet, as any goalie will attest to, the nature of the position itself requires the ability to have a short memory and flick away any bad experiences as though they were beads of sweat.

Thanks, mom

That's where St. Cyr doesn't mind having the first female professional goaltender in history in his family. Rheume won the silver medal for Canada in the 1998 Winter Olympics in Nagano.

"At a younger age, (Rheume) was more working with me on the ice and working with my team, but that was at a very young age," St. Cyr said. "And now, it's just the mental game, because that's something that's always going to be a part of the game, it's not going to change.

"So she's really been there for me a lot. Just know there will be times that you're going to be on your downs and you're going to have to work through it and mentally overcome it, I think that's been a really good help for me this year."

Although the good games have far outnumbered the bad this winter, Rheume knows from experience when to step in and offer some advice or encouragement.

"Usually, bad games I don't like to talk about, I keep those to myself," St. Cyr said, nodding with a smile. "But she always tries to help me with keeping confidence and always just keeping the right mindset going to the next game.

"Usually that night, I'll be upset (about) it, but moving forward from that there's nothing you can do. You got to move forward."

And by the end of April, St. Cyr will be doing just that with his NTDP career coming to a close.

Still a Mustang

He'll graduate from Northville High, where during the season he's attended morning classes before finishing up daily schoolwork at the rink.

"That was my school for all my life, so I see all the same friends," he said. "It's right down the street, so I can't complain about it; it's about two minutes away from here.

"I really like Northville. It's a great school, definitely challenges you. I go to three classes out of the four a day and then I come over here."

With the Notre Dame chapter of his hockey life waiting for him, St. Cyr will never forget the whirlwind two seasons wearing the red, white and blue.

"It's been the most exciting two years, but also the quickest two years of my life and I think everybody can tell you that," St. Cyr said. "It's tough, but it's fun and I enjoyed it a lot.

"But you really don't believe it's going to be that quick of a two years, but when you look now, there's only (several) games left, it's crazy to even think about that."

Not all that crazy is the notion St. Cyr could soon add to his growing pile of hockey gold.

GIRLS TENNIS

Northville garners first quad meet victory of the season

Mustangs capture six of the eight flights

Brad Emmons
hometownlife.com

A mixture of rain, clouds, sun and 30-plus mph winds Saturday couldn't discourage Northville from earning its first team trophy of the 2017 girls tennis season.

The Mustangs captured six of eight flights to beat runner-up Port Huron Northern for the title. Troy and Grand Blanc rounded out the field in the four-team quad.

Northville, last year's MHSAA Division 1 state runner-up, went a perfect four-for-four in doubles, led by No. 1 team of junior Serena Wang and sophomore Sophie Zhuang. They won their first two matches handily before downing Troy's Sahaja Pinnu and Alexis Morese, 7-5, 6-3.

At No. 2, Northville's Maya Mulchandani, a sophomore, and Neha Chava, a junior, also went 3-0, highlighted by a 6-3, 7-6 (7-2 tiebreaker) win over Troy's Raagini Chandra and Adih Mahajan.

Meanwhile, the Mustangs' No. 3 team of sophomores Connie Gao and Andrea Nam, along with No. 4 partners Alex Petix, a senior, and Madison DeYoung, a sophomore, both cruised through all three of their matches.

In singles, Northville sophomore Renee Torres finished 3-0 on the day, highlighted by a hard-fought 6-1, 7-5 win over Grand Blanc's Loren Nelson, who was unable to hold a 5-1 lead in the second set.

"What a testament to Renee's true grit," Northville coach Linda Jones said.

The Mustangs also got a singles title from freshman Tori Maday (No. 4), who needed a 6-1, 3-6, 10-8 (super-breaker) win over Grand Blanc's Lucy Burau to finish 3-0.

Northville's top singles player, junior Shanoli Kumar, whipped past opponents from Grand Blanc and Port Huron Northern before losing to Troy's Hannah Cimpenu, 6-1, 6-2.

At No. 2, Northville freshman Sufna Gill, normally a doubles player, subbed for senior Joanne Gao and came out on the short end of all three matches against well-seasoned opponents.

Novi runner-up

On Saturday, Novi placed second in the Ann Arbor Pioneer Invitational as the host Pioneers scored 21 points, followed by the Wildcats (13), Rochester Adams (12) and Clarkston (2).

Going 2-1 on the day in singles and earning runner-up honors for Novi were freshman Jordana Krstovski (No. 2) and junior Katie Xie (No. 3), while Jamie Fu (No. 1) and Michelle Wang (No. 4) both finished 1-2.

Winning two of three doubles matches on the day for the Wildcats included seniors Jessica Lypka and Teja Mogsala (No. 1); senior Alexis Malecki and junior Katie Valade (No. 2); and junior Brittany O'Connell and freshman Ashley Zhou (No. 3).

The Wildcats' senior No. 4 doubles team of Ria Joshi and Sasha Tretyakova took third.

BOYS LACROSSE

Novi squad continues learning curve early

CC on winning streak; Northville bounces back

hometownlife.com

The week started out with promise as the Novi boys lacrosse team rolled to a 19-0 non-conference win April 11 at home over Grosse Ile.

But the Wildcats came out on the short end during their next two encounters, falling 16-9 on April 12 at home against Brighton followed by a 13-11 setback on Saturday against visiting Troy.

"I'm proud of our team's effort this week," said Novi second-year coach Chris Johnson, whose team is 2-2 overall. "We could have executed a bit better on a few things, but we are learning. We have a good mix of new and veteran players and I anticipate that as the season progresses that we may be able to challenge some of the top teams in the state."

In the loss to Troy (3-1), offensive production came from Anthony Zugaro (five assists), Scott Latham (three goals, one assist), Ian Patterson (one goal, one assist) and Nayan Makim (one goal, one assist).

Other Novi goals came from Chase Sparling, Luka Saicic, Anthony D'Annibale and Matt Sheeran, while Brendan Daschke had an assist.

Goalie Freddie Samson made 10 saves. In the loss to Brighton (3-2), Samson made 11 saves, while scoring leaders included Zugaro (one goal, four assists), Patterson (four goals), Daschke (two goals), Latham (one goal, one assist), Makim (one goal) and Quinn Hanley (one assist).

In the triumph over Grosse Ile (0-1), Samson made four saves to post the shutout, while Patterson (six goals, one assist) sparked the offensive attack.

Other scoring came from Makim and Sparling (three goals and two assists each), while Casey Lyons contributed two goals and one assist.

More offense came from Daschke (two goals), Nick Zamora (one goal and one assist), Landon Green and Hanley (one goal each) and Latham (one assist).

CC triumphs

Novi Detroit Catholic Central (6-1) entered its nine-day spring break with a four-game winning streak following a 16-5 non-league triumph April 11 at Beverly Hills Detroit Country Day (4-4).

Senior captain Brennan Kamish led the way with six goals, while senior midfielder Nick Capatina added seven points.

A day earlier, CC improved to 3-0 in the Catholic League with an 18-2 win over University of Detroit-Jesuit.

CC returns to action at 6 p.m. Tuesday, April 20, at Macomb Community College to face host Warren DeLaSalle.

Northville starts 3-1

The Mustangs (3-1) opened a three-match home stand April 11 with a 12-9 setback to Hartland (6-1) before bouncing back with a 10-8 win over Belleville (3-2) on April 12, followed by a 9-4 triumph Saturday over Troy Athens (3-2).

Shamrocks chomping at the bit to go for third state title

hometownlife.com

They're locked and loaded. That's what Novi Detroit Catholic Central's golf team will bring to the table as the prohibitive favorite to bring home another state title. "We have a team full of seniors looking to win their third Division 1 state championship in a row," CC assistant coach Jimmy Dewling said. "The team has four of the five lowest scoring average players from last season returning this season."

GREG JOHNSON

CC's Ben Smith returns this season as the Shamrocks aim for a state title three-peat.

Although CC fifth-year coach Mike Anderson lost starter Max Palmer and key reserve Josh Stein to graduation, the cupboard remains full with four collegiate-bound players returning for their senior season: team captain James Piot (Michigan State), Ben Smith (Georgia Tech), Sean Niles (Oakland University) and Sean Sooch (Grand Valley State).

"James, Ben, Sean and Sean are the foundation of the team through their play and leadership," Dewling said.

Smith and Piot tied for fifth individually, while Niles was just outside the top 10 by two strokes in last year's state finals at Grand Valley State's The Meadows as the Shamrocks won the team title by eight strokes over Grosse Pointe South.

The Shamrocks also captured the district championship by 46 strokes over Pinckney as Smith (first), Piot (second), Niles (fourth) and Sooch (seventh) all recorded top 10 finishes.

CC won the regional by 15 shots as Smith, who has qualified for the U.S. Amateur, took medalist honors.

Among the players in the mix this season for the fifth and sixth slots for CC are seniors Sam Holland (Calvin College) and Dyllan Skinner, along with juniors Andrew Lack and Brendan Britz.

Northville
Second-year coach Chris Cronin hopes to build off last year's season success, as the Mustangs earned a trip to the Division 1 state finals, finishing 12th overall, following a third-place finish at the regional and fifth in the district.

Northville was also runner-up to Plymouth in the Kensington Conference and sixth at the KLA Association tournament.

"After finishing 12th last year in the state finals, we have high expectations for this year's team," Cronin said. "We return five of the six players who made up our state team last June and our top players gained a wealth of tournament experience playing over the summer."

The Mustangs, who lost Joey Auty to graduation, return junior standout Jimmy Dales, who qualified last summer for the U.S. Junior Amateur.

"Jimmy had a huge summer and he has caught the eye of several college coaches," Cronin said. "Golf is something that Jimmy hopes to continue in college and I believe he has the game to compete at a very high level."

Another junior, Abhinav Alluri, also returns and was the Kensington Conference pre-tourney co-medalist last week.

"Abhi can flat-out play," Cronin said. "He's worked on his putting a lot and his iron game is outstanding. I think this is his year."

Also returning are seniors Aaron Youmans,

Dominic Marsalese and Drew Kearis.

"Those seniors should help produce some quality results at tournaments this season," Cronin said.

Among the promising newcomers are sophomore Will Barrott, freshman Tim Braun and freshman Nicholas Boules.

Novi
The Wildcats return a veteran cast from a team that placed third in the Kensington Conference, second in the Central Division (4-1) and seventh at the Division 1 district, losing only starters Mike Groechel and Ryan Havens to graduation.

Seniors Mike Ulle and Ryan Welch were both regional qualifiers and will be joined by fellow seniors Derek DuBois and Trevel Angell.

Among the promising newcomers are sophomores Keane Dolin, Niko Hatz, Aakash Jajoo and Ryan Pinho.

"We have a strong group of seniors, coupled with some talented sophomores, that will lead our team this season," Novi second-year coach Jason Delo said. "Our returning players spent much of the off-season playing and preparing to make this a successful season. Our senior class will form the core of our scoring. Coupled with strong team leaders, I believe we will have a chance at making the MHSAA finals."

Mustangs runner-up in conference tourney

Brad Emons

Cool and damp conditions April 13 at Whispering Willows Golf Course in Livonia might have been a nuisance to golfers competing in the KLA Association pre-season tournament.

But for co-medalist Jack Boczar and the first-place Plymouth Wildcats, such conditions merely are another obstacle to hurdle during what the team hopes will be another big season.

"It kind of gets you started," Plymouth coach Dan Young said. "It's good to get off to a good start. Tough day weather-wise, so we had to grind it out."

Plymouth scored 307 to collect 12 points in the tournament, which essentially is used as a gauge to determine where teams fit against each other in the conference.

The Wildcats edged second-place Northville (310), but then there was a drop-off to Novi (third, 329), Livonia Stevenson (fourth, 335) and Livonia Churchill (fifth, 337).

Boczar shot 3-over par 73 and shared the top spot with Northville's Abhinav Alluri.

Plymouth senior Justin Kapke and Northville's Jimmy Dales each shot 75, while Plymouth freshman Ian Smith showed his mettle with 76.

"I've been hyped up for the high school season for a couple months," said Boczar, an all-stater last year. "And I'm excited to get out here and see what we can do this year. We didn't have the best scores today, but we still grinded it out."

Novi's Trevor Angell launches a tee shot during the Kensington Conference pre-season tourney at Whispering Willows.

opener April 11 at the Detroit Golf Club, where play was halted with five holes remaining because of inclement weather.

"Abhinav has been striking the ball really well this week," Cronin said. "In the past, Abhinav has been hampered by slow starts, but he has worked on his putting and short game over the winter, and today that paid dividends on the second hole he played — the 214 yard par-3 15th. He hit an errant tee shot right and chipped his second shot out of the woods to the back apron of the green. From there, he saved par with a 60-foot putt. Instead of putting up a big number early in the round, he saves par and goes on to share medalist honors."

Dales, meanwhile, wound up tied for third.

"Even when Jimmy is struggling, he is a fun golfer to watch," Cronin said. "Jimmy is a tough competitor and he never gives up on a hole. He was not very good off the tee today, but he was still able to put up a solid round with outstanding wedge play and putting. This consistency allowed Jimmy to keep big numbers off of the card."

Rounding out the Northville scorers were Aaron Youmans (79) and Drew Kearis (83).

"Both of these seniors are trying to iron out some aspects of their game; therefore, today's scores didn't surprise me," Cronin said. "I think Drew said it best after yesterday's round, 'We know what we need to work on.' They're seniors and they've played a lot of competitive golf. I'm confident that they can get things ironed out soon."

Dom Marsalese and Saahith Mummadi were Northville's non-scorers with 84 and 87, respectively.

Leading Novi with 77 was Mike Ulle, who tied for 10th, followed by Ryan Welch (81), Chris Fisher (85) and Derek DuBois (86). The Wildcats' non-scorers were Trevor Angell and Aakash Jajoo (87 each).

Rounding out the 12-team field were Canton (342), Salem (346), South Lyon East (355), South Lyon (356), Livonia Franklin (364), Westland John Glenn (431) and Wayne Memorial (495).

A.J. Clark paced East with 79, followed by Nick Ruschak (96), Max Hoorn (97), Gavin McPherson (101) and Jacob Miller (104).

Nate Campbell shot 84 to lead South Lyon, followed by Daniel McDermott (90), Evan Monteith (91), Zach Van Boven (91), Peter Brinch (94) and Gabe Campbell (105).

GIRLS LACROSSE

Hartland edges Northville in thriller, 14-13

Eagles score winning goal with just 1:46 on the clock

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com

It came down to the final face-off.

Hartland's Bella D'Arcy scored the go-ahead goal with only 1:46 left April 12 and the host Eagles held on for a 14-13 girls lacrosse win over Northville in a battle of unbeaten.

Emily Beasley scored eight goals for the Eagles, who improved to 4-0 overall with the Kensington Lakes Activities Association crossover victory.

Kendall Wasik led Northville (3-1) with five goals and two assists. Emma Dietrich notched a hat trick, while Sarah Chase and Ally Blough both added two goals. Charlotte Beaudoin had the other.

"They scored their last goal, won the next draw and we couldn't get the ball back," Northville first-year coach Dan Madigan said. "They controlled most of them for the most part of the game. There were about 30 draws and we probably only won 10 of them. They controlled those early and they were very good in transition and converting on those against us."

Northville goalie Kat Weisert made 11 saves for the Mustangs, who trailed 9-6 at half-time.

"It was a very physical game between two pretty equal teams playing, so it was a good early season test for us," said Madigan, who coached previously four seasons at Ann Arbor Huron. "It was a hard-fought game and they kind of got up on us a little bit early and we kind of had to crawl back slowly, but surely. It was just a back-and-forth game until the end."

NOVI 17, GRAND BLANC 8: Senior captain Katie McMaster proved to have the Midas Touch, scoring five goals as the Wildcats (3-1) downed the Bobcats in a KLAAC crossover April 12.

Juniors Melissa Ansara and Hannah Richard both added two goals as the Wildcats improved to 3-1 overall. Other goal scorers for Novi included senior captain Rachel Bayer, junior Emma Hixon, sophomore Katie Novell and sophomore Delaney Hansen. Richardson also had four assists and three ground ball pick-ups in the victory. Novell collected three ground balls. "I was a little nervous for our first game in two weeks, but our team showed up strong out of the gate," Novi first-year coach Kaitlyn West said. "They never let up and played to the best of their abilities. I know we still have room to grow and things to work on for some highly anticipated conference games later in the season, but I am confident in not just the abilities of my players, but also in their mentalities. They are mentally and physically tough and prepare themselves well."

Novi's John Stefan placed first in the 110-meter hurdles.

TRACK

"Pretty impressed with Leon Chen, a sophomore who has come on really strong in the sprints," Reid said. "Our distance guys ran fantastic today and were probably the difference in the meet. Our pole vault guys did really well today and swept that. That was nice to see as well. Nate Hankerson did a nice job in the sprint areas. It's funny. I could name the distance guys as a group. They were the difference in our meet today."

Under blustery conditions as temperatures dropped, Sawyer cleared his opening height in the pole vault (13-0), but the two-event school record holder had to drop out of the high jump after starting at 6-0.

"Scott tweaked his calf a little bit and I pulled him," Reid said. "It wasn't worth it, cold weather and everything. He kind of planted wrong and the spike didn't come off the ground. He went to jump and his knee twisted this way and his foot went another way. We scratched him and said, 'No, we're not doing that.' He had an off-day on pole vault. Nothing is given in track. You have to work every time that you do it."

Northville's Ja'Quan Crawford swept the shot put (41-11.5) and discus (108-5), while other individual wins came from Alec Hopkins in the high jump (6-2); Giuliano Daniel, 400 (53.29); and Ben Shuart, who tied Ireland in the long jump.

"I thought it would be close and we were in it until the 200 at the end," Northville coach Tim Dalton said. "It's about what I expected."

Dalton was pleasantly surprised by one performance, even though it didn't count toward the final score.

"In the high jump, Gustaf (Tjernberg), an exchange student from Sweden, he was JV today, but would have been third if labeled as a varsity kid," he said.

Despite being out-scored 27-2 in the 800, 1,600 and 3,200, Dalton is confident his distance group can make an impact going forward.

"We still bring back Ben Cracraft, Evan Ferrante, Nick Couyoumjian, Peter Bejin and Jacob Blackmore, so those kids are going to have to carry the weight for us in 4 by 800 (relay), two mile, mile and 800," he said.

PREP SOFTBALL

Northville splits twinbill with Salem

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com

Northville pounded out a total of 26 hits April 12, but had to settle for a split of a KLAAC Central Division softball doubleheader with host Salem.

The Mustangs (3-1, 2-1) won the opener, 13-7, as Abby Tolstyka led an 18-hit attack by going 3-for-5 with three RBIs.

Other offensive contributions came from Sarah Hige (2-for-4, three RBIs), Hannah Dygert (2-for-4, two RBIs), Megan Swart (3-for-5) and winning pitcher Hannah Laurin (3-for-4).

The sophomore picked up their third win of the season, scattering eight hits and a walk while striking out nine in seven innings.

Meanwhile, Salem (2-1, 2-1) took the nightcap, 10-2. Sophomore Maddie Petix, making her first high school start, allowed 13 hits while walking one and striking out five as she took the loss.

Sara Moos went 3-for-4 with a solo homer in the first inning, while Hige added an RBI.

RAINING MARSHMALLOWS

Some things are just plain fun, no matter your age — like the annual Oakland County Parks Great Marshmallow Drop. Held April 14, some 15,000 marshmallows rained down onto anxious youngsters at Catalpa Oaks County Park when they were dropped from a hovering helicopter. Hundreds of local kids then chased down the gooey treats and exchanged them for a prize.

Catholic Vantage Financial awards scholarships

Catholic Vantage Financial of Plymouth has announced recipients of the credit union's 2017 student scholarships. This year's winners and their families were honored at CVF's annual membership meeting in March.

Six scholarships of $500 each were awarded to help cover tuition for students who attend Catholic schools. Receiving the two scholarships awarded to students in kindergarten through eighth grade were kindergartner Henry Hoeft, who attends Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth, and Ethan Godin, a student at St. Edith in Livonia.

Four scholarships were awarded to students who attend a Catholic high school. They include two students who will attend Divine Child High School, incoming freshman Faith Emmerling and sophomore Ben Carr. Also receiving awards were Kenneth Lashaway who will attend Fr. Gabriel Richard

High School in Ann Arbor in the fall, and Cotter Welch, an incoming freshman at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills.

Four college scholarships of $1,000 each were also awarded to 2017 high school graduating seniors. Winners include seniors Jessie Collins, Divine Child High School, Dearborn; Brendan Hogan, University of Detroit Jesuit High School, Detroit; Claire Ramsden, Salem High School, Plymouth; and Garrett Zylinski, Detroit Catholic Central High School, Novi.

"Catholic Vantage Financial has a proud history of supporting Catholic school education in the communities we serve through a variety of activities," said Emma Teller, CVF vice president of marketing and business development. "Members repeatedly tell us how much these scholarships mean to their families and to their children's continuing education."

Learn the facts about background checks

BY MATT TARPEY
 CAREERBUILDER

After reviewing your résumé, reading your cover letter and talking to you in a live interview, employers have a lot of information about you. So what more do they hope to learn from a background check?

If you've ever asked yourself this, you're not alone. According to a 2017 CareerBuilder survey, 46 percent of job seekers say they don't know what information companies are looking for when they conduct background checks. To make sure you understand what you're signing before agreeing to one, here are a few things you should know.

Why run a background check?

Simply put, companies use background checks to make sure they aren't putting themselves or their employees at risk by hiring you.

"Generally, employers are looking for consistency in the candidate's background. They want to confirm that everything the applicant has said about their experience and previous work lines up," says Chris Heinz, managing partner of Westport One, an executive contract staffing affiliate of MRINetwork.

"Background checks are

run by employers for a variety of reasons. In some financial industries they are mandatory, for example, when an employee will be responsible for handling or making decisions about someone else's money," says Kelly Brooks, executive director of human resources at Atrium Staffing. "But whether it's a simple employment verification or an all-out investigative report delving into all aspects of your life (criminal, credit, education, DMV), you should know what is on each report before you start your search for employment."

How am I protected?

Companies aren't allowed to run a background check on you without your written permission. However, if you do choose to deny the request, employers may reject your candidacy.

Requiring your permission isn't the only way you're protected as a job seeker. The Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) also sets rules for what information employers can request and how they have to go about requesting it.

Most notably, if a company rejects your application based on information found in a background check, they are required to provide you with a copy of the report along with a document detailing your rights under the FCRA and contact information for the company that provided the report. This way, in the event that you're rejected due to an error in the report, you have the opportunity to refute the information.

The FCRA is a federal act, covering the entire United States, but some states have put in place additional protections regarding background checks.

What can they find?

Once you've given permission, a background report may include your credit score and address history (through Social Security number validation). Employers are also likely to follow up on items from your application.

"Job seekers should assume all information they have provided in the application and interview process will be checked. This includes places of employment, how long they worked at these companies, to whom they reported, education and social media presence," Heinz says.

What may be included in a background report varies significantly from state to state, so be sure to check with your state's Department of Labor for up-to-date laws and regulations.

Are there risks in agreeing to be checked?

Heinz says that job seekers generally need not worry about submitting themselves to a background check.

"The only reason for concern would be if the candidate has something they are trying to hide. In that scenario, it is best that the applicant discloses this information to the prospective employer before the background check is performed."

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

BIG GUNS OF DETROIT LEAD THE PARADE OF POWERFUL NEW SHEET METAL AT NEW YORK INTERNATIONAL AUTO SHOW

By Dale Buss

America is an auto market with a split personality, between the inevitably self-driving and electric future and the present -- where low gasoline prices, fuel-efficient internal-combustion engines, and big SUVs and trucks are still turning the heads of most actual U.S. vehicle buyers.

There's no better display of that schizophrenia right now than the New York International Auto Show, where at press days various automotive OEMs went to great lengths to show off their latest developments in the vehicle types du jour. Electric vehicles and self-driving innovations? They're getting their due, but they certainly haven't taken over yet.

The 2018 Audi RS Coupe

The show is "a shameless celebration of size and horsepower, more proof that the emissions-free vision touted by the industry for now is trumped by the current market realities of consumer demand, low interest rates and cheap gas," wrote Daniel Howes of the Detroit News.

In fact, the New York show seems to be emerging as the second-most important auto exhibition in North America each year, after Detroit's own North American International Auto Show in January. This year's NAIAS also celebrated automotive testosterone.

The Detroit Three clearly led the parade of heavy, powerful sheet metal at NYIAS.

Fiat Chrysler displayed is a 707-horsepower Trackhawk version of its Jeep Grand Cherokee SUV, as well as an 840-horsepower version of its Dodge Challenger muscle car, the SRT Demon. Top speed for the new Grand Cherokee: 180 mph.

The company also introduced two new option packages for its Ram pickup trucks: Ram 1500 Sublime Sport and Rebel Blue Streak. They "expand our offerings in factory-custom trucks and give dealers a more extensive color palette to excite customer who are looking for something unique," said Mike Manley, head of Ram brand.

Ford promoted an updated Ford Explorer, its mid-size SUV, and a longer if lighter version of its behemoth Lincoln Navigator SUV. The new Navigator will feature upgraded leather seats, plush carpeting and running boards that pop out automatically, as well as a dial that selects from six driving modes for varying weather conditions and terrain.

"It is the most spacious and luxurious Lincoln SUV yet, and will elevate family travel to what we call first class," Ford CEO Mark Fields said.

General Motors showed off a new version of its full-size Buick Enclave SUV even while it also gives props to the Chevrolet Bolt, its new fully electric hatchback that is meant to pre-empt gains in the mainstream-EV market by Tesla's upcoming Model 3.

Other auto brands made splashes in New York too:

Audi unveiled the GT4 version of its R8 LMS race car on the eve of the show, the newest addition to the Audi Sport customer-racing program. The VW-owned luxury brand also introduced its new Audi Sport brand, which it said represents "the best in track-tested performance available from the four rings." Over the next 2 years the brand plans to launch eight new Audi Sport models in the US market.

Genesis, the new luxury brand launched by Hyundai, used the show as a stage for its GV80 hydrogen fuel-cell concept vehicle.

Jaguar Land Rover debuted its all-new Range Rover Velar in the middle of its biggest metropolitan market for Range Rover. Designed to fill the white space for a mid-size SUV in the Land Rover market, Velar already has experienced the highest website traffic within the first 30 days of launch of any Land Rover vehicle launch ever.

Mercedes-Benz announced plans to produce powerful new versions of its big GL sport-utility vehicle that can be supplied with as much as 500 horsepower, part of a presence at NYIAS that emphasized new utility vehicles and that some analysts called the strongest for any brand at the show.

Nissan unveiled a version of its Rogue crossover with special provisions for dogs, including built-in food and water dishes, custom removable dog bed, 360-degree dog wash shower and integrated dog-drying system. It was built by Dennis McCarthy, car coordinator for the Fast & Furious films.

Subaru, long known as the crunchy maker of all-wheel-drive vehicles and small SUVs, has expanded its footprint by showcasing the Ascent full-size SUV, a near-production concept vehicle that will feature three rows of seating for seven passengers when it rolls off its Indiana assembly line next year.

Toyota introduced its FT-4X Concept -- or "Future Toyota" Four-Wheel-Drive Crossover, which addresses the tendency by millennials to take "brief, unplanned casual adventures" rather than "multi-day, extreme, high-effort excursions."
