Backpack treats pack nutritional punch

By NANCY DINGELDEY

The fun part of any Girl Scout camping expedition is planning the food menu, with those girls knowing well in advance there will have to be a hearty amount of food to quell the universal cry of "what's to eat."

Food selection is extremely critical especially when the expedition planned by a group of adventuresome, energetic Cadette Girl Scouts from Commerce Township is a weekend of backpacking.

Spending an afternoon in the kitchen of their leader Ann Ford, the girls learned first-hand the need to eat well but at the same time, pack light.

Yet to come in advance of the fall outing is the discussion of proper packs, shoes, sleeping bags and gear.

The girls are fortunate to have in their leader a woman with advance knowledge of the out-of-doors and one who enjoys the special beauties of nature found through backpacking.

A Nature counselor at the Walled Lake School District's Outdoor Education Center, Ann calls herself "one of Mother Nature's racoons."

First hand knowledge of the rigors of the trail come from several backpacking trips taken by Ann and her family during the summer months. "Energy," says Anne, "goes down the drain quickly while trudging up and down uneven paths bearing a pack that sometimes seems to get heavier and heavier with every step."

Although the girls will be hiking this fall with lighter packs when they join other Scouts from the Southwest Association, they will have to pack in their food and clothing.

"Special attention must be given to food during the hike," pointed out Ann,

"because calories are burned three times faster than normal." She added a pack should not contain perishables, fresh meat or canned goods since they do nothing but add an immense amount of weight to the pack.

"Spoilage is the factor in carrying fresh items unless they are to be eaten during the first day or two of the hike. But purchasing dehydrated or special freeze-dried items from the super market or back-packing store can run up expenses rapidly," remarked Ann. Through a winter back-packing seminar and by reading books available from the library, Ann learned and then taught her girls the relatively easy, at home method of oven drying.

The result of the afternoon learning session produced dried apples and fruit leathers which the girls found to be nourishing, energy-producing items "yummy enough to go into a lunchbox for a tasty schooltime treat."

Fruit leathers can be made using either fresh or canned fruits although fresh fruit requires some pre-cooking.

Using canned fruit, the girls first drained the liquid completely and place it in a blender to puree. That puree must be the consistency of applesauce. They learned that combinations of fruit, spices, crushed nuts, seeds and sweetenings can be added to the puree for taste variety.

An edged cookie sheet was lined with plastic wrap and two cups of the puree mixture spread evenly over the entire surface to within an inch of the edge.

Using the lowest possible temperature obtained in the oven, the pan, plastic wrap and all went into the oven where it remained until the puree became firm, like plastic and was easily removed.

After cooling, the leather can be

Through West Bloomfield group

Trip planned to Grape Festival

Lakes area residents looking for the ideal way to bridge the gap between summer and fall may find that the West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation Department has the ideal solution.

The West Bloomfield group is sponsoring a one-day bus trip to Michigan's major Grape and Wine Festival in Paw Paw.

Fee for the trip is $16.50 per person. Included in the fee is round-trip transportation by air-conditioned highway coach, admission to the festival grounds and wine tasting tent, a roast beef dinner at noon, and a tour of the famous Bronte Winery and vineyards.

The bus will leave Drake House at 6485 West Maple Road in West Bloomfield at 9 a.m. and return at approximately 9 p.m. Phone reservations may be made by calling 661-2240. Reservations will be accepted through 3 p.m. on Friday, September 9, and will be confirmed on receipt of full payment.

With its sandy soil, ample rains, and mild winds off Lake Michigan, the countryside surrounding Paw Paw has become the primary grape-growing area in a state which ranks among the top grape producers in the country.

In 1931 the community began celebrating its harvest with a Grape Festival. A traditional, old-world Wine Festival was added 10 years later and the three-day celebration has since become a leading state tourist attraction, drawing more than 50,000 people per year.

According to Patty Riney, who is programming the trip for the West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation, the tour schedule will begin at the town of Paw Paw with a roast beef dinner complete with beverage and dessert. Participants will board the bus after dinner for the short drive to the Bronte Winery.

During the remainder of the afternoon they will be free to choose from the many attractions at the festival grounds which include a carnival, arts and crafts show, antique auto rally, farmers' market, giant hot air balloon ascensions, helicopter rides, folk dancing demonstrations and the like.

According to Gary Verdries, this year's festival chairman, the wine-tasting tent and the grape-stomping contest are major highlights of the festival. "We'll be having three major wineries participate in the wine tasting program. They'll each bring about six of their most popular wines. You don't have to be a connoisseur to enjoy sampling at the tent," he added.

"The wine-stomping contest always draws a big crowd," Verdries continued. "We do it twice each day and this year we'll probably be using about six tons of grapes for the contest — at $150 per ton."

He explained that the contest includes events for individuals and for teams. The team event pits two six-member groups of barefoot people against each other and the clock, with each team stomping in a huge tub of grapes. The team which squeezes out the most amount of juice in the allotted time (usually a minute or two) is the winner.

While teams are usually selected ahead of time, there is a chance for lucky members of the crowd to join in the events for individuals or pairs, for which smaller vats of grapes are provided. "Many years ago in Europe this was the only method for separating the juice from the pulp," Verdries commented. "But now it's all just for fun."

The grape-stomping contest will be the final event during the Parks and Recreation tour members' visit to the festival. The bus trip back to West Bloomfield has been programmed to allow a rest stop during which any members who wish to buy light supper may do so.

MR. AND MRS. STEPHEN FETZER

Novi-Farmington pair exchange vows here

Doris Ann Mercer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mercer of Novi, became the bride of Stephen Fetzer in an August 5 ceremony at St. Williams Catholic Church in Walled Lake. Father Leo Broderick officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fetzer, Jr. of Farmington Hills.

The bride wore a gown fashioned with a high illusion neckline, long angel sleeves and empire waist. A pleated flounce edged the hemline of her gown, extending into a chapel train. A matching fingertip veil of Venice lace fell from a Juliet cap. She carried a silk flower bouquet of white roses and daisies and a handkerchief previously carried by an aunt in her wedding.

Nancy Mercer, sister of the bride was honor attendant with Susan Mercer, a sister from California, Debbie Fetzer, sister of the groom, and friend Carol Boetsch acting as bridesmaids. All wore peach-colored halter dresses with long flowing printed sheer capes. Wide-brimmed peach hats completed their outfits. They carried bouquets of long-stemmed peach roses and baby's breath created from silk flowers.

Andrew Fetzer, brother of the groom, acted as best man with James Giesen, brother of the bride from Texas, David DeWachter and Aubrey Moyle as groomsmen. The groomsmen and father of the bride wore white vested dinner jacket tuxedos with peach ruffled shirts. The groom was outfitted in white tuxedo with tails.

Jimmy Giesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Giesen of Texas, was the ring bearer. Pamela Church, daughter of Major and Mrs. John Church of Virginia and Godchild of the groom was the flower girl. She was dressed in peach chiffon with high ruffled neckline, puffed sleeves and hoop skirt. She carried a straw basket of silk roses, daisies and baby's breath.

The bride's mother wore a yellow chiffon dress with matching sheer cape and a wrist corsage of yellow silk roses. The groom's mother was in pink with her floral dress covered with a matching sheer cape. Her silk wrist corsage was fashioned of pink roses.

The bride and groom presented white long stemmed roses to their mothers during the wedding ceremony attended by relatives and guests from California, Texas, Florida, Illinois and Virginia.

rolled, using the same plastic wrap, into a stick and then stored in an airtight container for future use.

To eat, the stick is simply unrolled and a portion of the leather torn off. Ann cautioned the fruit leather is concentrated and adds calories to the diet. "Even my son, a non-fruit eater, found the leathers much to his liking. They don't last long in my house," said Ann.

A few important tips on oven drying. The oven door on a gas range must be propped open eight inches during the drying time. When using an electric range, that space requirement is lowered to half an inch.

Making fruit leathers is an excellent way to make use of overripe fresh fruit, pointed Ann. "Peel the fruit if necessary, cover with water and cook until the fruit is soft. Drain the liquid and then puree.

The girls also dried apples to munch on and to include in a granola mixture they found to be taste tempting as a good snack food at home or on the trail.

Learning about nutrition, they found the oatmeal contained in the mixture to be the source of long acting energy while the nuts and fruits were the source of quick energy.

Their granola recipe:

- 1/4 cup oil
- 1/4 cup honey
- 3 cups dry quick oatmeal
- 1/2 cup chopped dates, other dried fruit or seeds
- 1/2 cup chopped raisins

Heat oil and honey together over low heat, stirring carefully until warm and blended. Pour over oatmeal and mix until well coated. Place in a 7 by 12 inch baking pan and place in 325 F. oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Stir ingredients twice during baking time. Remove from oven and mix in other ingredients.

Ann added there are many books and articles on the market for oven drying that have a myriad of ideas and suggestions contained in them. Her favorite source is "Oven Drying, The Best Way to Preserve Foods," by Irene Crowe.

Our four area ladies who entered the Michigan State Fair have all been named winners in their divisions in the Community Arts Department.

Announced Friday, Mary Ellen Sample of Wolverine Lake Village was awarded a blue ribbon for her entry in the miscellaneous handiwork class. She entered a stole in the open class section.

Mary Stricker of Ladd Road added at least two more ribbons to her collection from her entries in the hand painted china class open to teachers and semi-professionals.

Mary collected the blue first prize ribbon on her china piece entered in the birds or animals section. A third prize ribbon was awarded in a second section dealing specifically with flowers.

The Merry Potter, Walled Lake's Mary Derrick, took a second prize with her entry of a tiny table lamp done in clay and fashioned on the potter's wheel.

Her entry is currently on display in the creative hobby craft section for teachers and professionals in the original idea classification.

Hazel Hardmeyer of Potter Road, Wixom, entered several items in the fair and her awards were the most difficult to track down.

According to officials at the fair, however, Hazel received a third prize ribbon in her machine knitting entry of a single bed flat piece. A fourth place ribbon was awarded on her entry of a machine knitted single bed constructed garment.

Since the various classes Hazel entered are unknown at this time, it is entirely possible she collected more ribbons from other sections.

The fair is open through September 5 with a variety of programs, displays and events scheduled each day. Adult admission is $3. Children are free when accompanied by an adult.

Mrs. Raymond Heincelman of Wolverine Lake successfully defended and retained her club champion crown at the Twin Beach Country Club during an August tourney.

With marks of 87-87-85 for 54 holes, Mrs. Heincelman carries a 13 handicap, lowest for women at the club. Her win this year marks the 11th consecutive tourney championship. It also marks the 16th crown she has cornered.

Her award was presented during the annual Twin Beach dinner dance held at the club August 20.

Earlier in the summer, Mrs. Heincelman qualified for and played in the Women's State Tournament at Hidden Valley in Gaylord. Of the 112 women qualifying, Mrs. Heincelman took the second flight consolation.

Mrs. Heincelman said her husband taught her the game 30 years ago on their honeymoon. Definitely not a golf "widow," she and her husband are life members of the Twin Beach club.

Two Wixom women, both registered nurses, who are concerned with what they termed "inevitable" state legislation requiring nurses to gain additional hours or units of continuing education credits in order to retain licenses, are attempting to organize a study group.

Aimed at the registered nurse who is currently inactive, the goal of the group would be to keep abreast with changes in techniques and medicines used at hospitals today.

According to Janice Jackson, all registered nurses in the area are extended a cordial invitation to join the group.

Outside professional people, tours and discussions on activities in specialized fields are just a few of the topics that could be covered by the organization.

Currently in its formulative stages, more information on the group can be obtained from Maria Strom at 624-4984 or Janice at 624-4809.

The Novi Welcome Wagon has set Saturday, October 8 for a Las Vegas night at the Village Oaks Clubhouse. All proceeds gained from the night of gambling with play money is earmarked for the Novi Library.

Tickets at $10 a head are available from Pat Fisher at 348-1907. That ticket enables the holder to receive a pile of play money and buffet dinner at the end of the evening. It's a BYOB event with beer and set-ups available.

Along with the library, other Novi organizations benefiting from fund raisers include Parks and Recreation, the Youth Assistance Program and Whitehall and Beverly Manor convalescent homes.

The group also sponsored a girls' softball team in the Novi junior league. That team won their class championship with the trophy slated to be displayed in the library.

But parents can help

Middle School transition is tough

Lots of love and understanding should be the main ingredients for parents trying to ease their youngsters' transition from elementary to middle school, advises an authority on the middle school at Michigan State University.

The middle school age, 11 to 14, when youngsters are no longer children but are not yet adolescents, can be frustrating for both youngsters and parents, says Dr. Louis Romano, professor of administration and higher education at MSU. It behooves parents, he says, to have knowledge of these changes and what they mean.

At this stage, maturity varies greatly. For example, in a group of 20 sixth grade girls, there are likely to be two at the adolescent stage, eight preadolescent — which is the norm — and 10 at the child stage.

But in a group of 20 sixth grade boys, says Romano, none would have matured to the adolescent stage. Four are usually at the preadolescent level and 16 at the child stage.

"So don't be surprised if the girl is chasing the boy, because it's likely he doesn't yet know what is going on."

There are similar variances in intellectual development as well, Romano points out, and it is not unusual to find a drop in academic performance at this stage.

At the middle school age, youngsters want to try different things — to explore, Romano observes. That is why all good middle schools have an exploratory program where the youngsters can get wide exposure to many activities.

How can parents learn to cope with their youngsters at this period?

"Hopefully," says Romano, "the school system provides study sessions where parents, teachers and the school psychologist can discuss these growth changes."

Also, parents may want to check out some books from the library. Excellent books, particularly those which can help parents deal with the youngsters' growing awareness of sex, are available.

"Kids will want information on sex," Romano explains. "Parents should be able to discuss it with them in an unemotional manner." But he warns that parents should not be disturbed if their youngsters don't come to them for the answers.

"There truly is love and respect for the parents. With compassion and understanding, the communication block will erode," counsels Romano. "Know when the 'boy and girl' interest is present, but don't push it," warns the MSU educator.

Romano, who helped introduce the middle school concept to Chicago and establish the Michigan Association of Middle School Educators, points out that the middle school is unique. It is neither an elementary nor a high school.

Middle schools are different from the old "junior high" concept introduced early in the century to provide education beyond grade school, some vocational training and an introduction to secondary education for those few students who could afford to go on to high school.

Michigan has long supported the middle school concept, says Romano, and is second only to Texas in the number of middle schools.

Nationwide, the trend is for the middle school to serve grades 6 through 8. Unlike the old junior high concept, grade 9 is now part of the high school.

The middle school concept, Romano explains, is an attempt to devise an educational program to suit the growth characteristics for this unique age.

The middle school, says Romano, should have a specially designed building — not "the old high school."

Waterford women plan flower show

Special exhibits, demonstrations and an array of flower arrangements keyed to the theme "Fairy Tales and Fables in Flowers" can be viewed at the Pontiac Mall when the Waterford Branch of The Woman's National Farm and Garden Association opens its 12th annual amateur flower show.

The Mall show will run from September 19 through September 24 from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Daily demonstrations on a variety of subjects will be presented during the show at 2 and 7 p.m.

Ranging from the Desert Sun Cactus Gardens to the Men's Garden Club of Oakland County, special exhibits provide added attraction and educational value to the show. The Drayton Plains Nature Center will feature "The Use of Wild Edibles" for public information.

The objective of the show is to raise the standards of horticulture, floriculture, and home decoration in the community as well as bringing beauty and grace to the staged area.

Exhibitors are to interpret the theme of the show and comply with the rules outlined by the WNF and GA. That schedule must be followed closely and in compliance with the rules in order for the exhibitor to win a coveted blue ribbon.

With representatives of 22 area branches participating in the September show, it is one of the largest projects by a group of WNF and GA members undertaken as a community service.

All judges in the Pontiac Mall Show are graduates from the Flower Show School of the Michigan Division of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Novi Highlights

Novi Parks and Recreation announces programs

By JEANNE CLARKE

Novi Parks and Recreation

The new brochure outlining all the activities being planned by Director, Barry Smink, will be distributed right after Labor Day. The program will have an emphasis on community services and will include expanded services for senior citizens in conjunction with the O.C.L.H.S.A. and the Novi Senior Citizens group headed by Mr. Leonard Butler. Trips are being arranged and will include a trip on the Kensington Island Queen, October Color Tour, a trip to the Renaissance Center, Frankenmuth and Greenfield Village.

Plans are in the making to have a full length film the second Wednesday of the month. Other community projects include a jogging trail at Brook Farm Park with exercise stations periodically. Many plans are in the making for the Lakeshore Park nature trail. Work is being done on the tennis courts and they hope to have them as good as the ones at the high school when done. The Community Center should be completed in October with parking spaces for 65 vehicles. An Art Fair is being planned at the Twelve Oaks Mall, and a shuttle bus will be available from the Mall to the Silverdome for all the Lion's home games. More information is available by calling 349-1976.

Novi Lioness

The first meeting of the fall season was held August 29 at the Novi Woods School with exciting plans being made for the Arts and Craft Show October 22. This will be held in the Novi High School Conference Room. Many local people will have their original handiwork on display. This will include leaded glass, hand crocheted art items, wood furniture, shelves, etc. dolls, animals, plants, ceramics, etc. Anyone wishing more information or wishing to rent a table can call Mrs. McSweeney at 477-9114.

Area News

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Duffey and children Ian and Sharon have returned from visiting the treasures of Tutankhamun in Chicago last weekend while Mr. Duffey was on vacation. Mr. and Mrs. James Needham have returned from spending nine days in California. While there, they visited Mrs. Needham's brother James Schendel and family of Fountain Valley. He is an engineer with Rockwell, International and was involved in much of the work on the new Space Shuttle. They also visited Mr. Needham's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Needham at Hawthorne. Mrs. Needham attended the three-day WAC convention at Newport Beach. They did some sightseeing visiting the Universal Studios, Disneyland, etc. returning home after a very full nine days. Mr. and Mrs. James Wilenius of Clark Street hosted a birthday party for their grandson Greg, along with a family party. Guests included Mrs. Helmi from Redford, Mr. and Mrs. Rex LaPlant, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilnius and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Deyo.

Mrs. Ginny Burnham and children Donald and Denise of Fonda Street have returned from flying to Albuquerque, New Mexico where they really had an enjoyable time for about a week. While there, they visited former Novi residents Joan and Don Anderson and family who are now living at Paradise Hills.

Last weekend Margaret Casell of Owenton accompanied Eugenie Choquet and Leon Dochot of South Lake Drive to their second home in Beaverton, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart of 13 Mile Road entertained at a neighborhood picnic party on Saturday. This was also a farewell to their daughter Peggy who will be returning to her studies at Grand Rapids Bible College.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wilenius and family were accompanied by guest Nancy Pendergrass on their recent vacation to upper Michigan. They visited Ludington, Holland, and the Sleeping Bear Sand Dunes.

Novi Welcome Wagon

Congratulations are in order for the Novi Welcome Wagon girl's softball team which finished the season as champions in the Novi/Junior Girls League. The Welcome Wagon members are looking for a good place to display the trophy. Tickets are available for Las Vegas Night, Saturday, October 8 from 8 p.m. - 1 a.m. Cost is $10 per person at the Village Oaks Club House. Contact Pat at 348-1907, Linda 348-1244 or Kathy at 474-6838 as there are a limited number of tickets. Proceeds from this event are slated to go to the Novi Public Library.

Don't forget the general membership meeting 7:30 p.m., Thursday, September 15 at the Novi Woods Elementary School on Taft Road. This will be a general meeting and coffee. Treasurer, Cathy Seidel will be happy to accept membership dues of $5 at this meeting. Please come and bring a new neighbor or friend. The Welcome Wagon couples bowling league will be forming and regulars and subs are needed. Call Sue Sarlunc at 348-1440. The women's daytime league also is in need of regulars and subs. For information, contact Pat Gowan at 348-1823. Please continue to save your papers for the paper drive Saturday, October 1 at the Cone Zone on 10 Mile and Meadowbrook, from 8 a.m. - 7 p.m.

National Campers and Hikers

The group has returned from a weekend of camping at Stockbridge Ranch Camp. While there, they attended the barbecue on Saturday night. The ranch had a band available for dancing and a guitarist who was enjoyed by all.

New members, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Degenero, were welcomed into the group. Again, this group is looking for a few more families who like to go camping. If you are young folk or senior citizens, you are welcome. Call president Robert Letart for information at 349-2064. The next campout is scheduled for September 23, 24 and 25 at Bishop Lake.

Novi Boy Scouts

The next troop committee meeting will be September 6 at the United Methodist Church on 10 Mile and everyone is urged to be present by troop committee chairman Dave Kamish. Plans must be started for the fall program as the boys will be resuming meetings at the Novi Community Building on September 12. Several projects need confirmation regarding dates and details. Your cooperation is needed.

Novi Band Boosters

The first organizational meeting of the year will be Tuesday, September 13 at the new high school band room at 8 p.m. Any parent is welcome who is interested in the band, pompon girls, drill team, marching band or related activities. Also present will be band directors Craig Strain and Gordon Seiler. The first game will be September 9 against Northville when the band will be appearing. It is hoped there will be a good group of parents helping to boost the band activities this year as about 110 students are involved in these particular areas of endeavor. For additional information, call 349-8155.

Novi Youth Assistance

A report on the camp program for this year chaired by a committee consisting of Pat Santore, Pat Loder and Edna Zayid indicated 33 youngsters attended camp this year. Twenty youngsters went to Camp Fairhaven at Hartland, three to the Fresh Air Camp at Ann Arbor, five to Camp Oakland near Oxford, and five to Youth Haven near Reeves, Michigan.

The next big project is the horse show scheduled for September 25 at the Kensington Children's Farm on Buno Road near Milford. This will be all day from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. with classes for all ages and a High Point Trophy. The chairman is Jody Adams who is being assisted by members of Youth Assistance. For information, call 349-2948.

Novi Senior Citizens

Some 62 senior citizens attended the J.L. Hudson brunch and breakfast on Friday and everyone had a good time. They welcomed two new members, Anne Kern and Phyllis Gilbert. The group is looking forward to the coming of fall when they will be resuming their meetings at the Novi Community Building. The first meeting is September 27. There is a need for a couple of volunteers to host this meeting. Call Leonard Butler at 477-6873 if you can help. If you have never attended the Novi Senior Citizens, now is the time to come and join, meet new friends and be eligible for the many activities being planned for the coming months.

Novi Jaycees

A very busy month is ahead for the Jaycees starting with the regular meeting on September 6 at Holiday Inn when the state president of the Jaycees will be present, as the Novi group is outstanding in its district. Additional activities coming up include Wives Appreciation Night with chairman Harvey Larsen. On September 24 Chairman Greg Dunn will be planning the Kids Appreciation Project. The dads will be taking all the Jaycees kids to the Tiger baseball game and to the Pontiac Airport control tower on September 25.

October 1 is the date set for Punt, Pass, Kick day under the direction of Barry Smink, project chairman. This is open to any boy or girl ages 8-13 years old, and will be held at the high school football field at 9 a.m. Registrations are being taken now by calling the Novi Parks and Rec. office at 349-1976. Coffee and donuts will be served by the Jaycee Auxiliary. This day promises to be a lot of fun with the adult contest following. Co-sponsoring will be Stark Hickey West Ford dealers. On Labor Day, Jaycee member Bill Brooks will be participating in a roll-a-thon with proceeds to go to the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

Novi Little League

The annual banquet will be held September 17 at Schoolcraft College with tickets going very fast. Only a few are left. Contact 477-8896 before September 1. Special speaker will be John Wackenfust, catcher with the Detroit Tigers. There will be prizes for all children attending. The election for board of directors is scheduled for September 29. This will be an open meeting and everyone is encouraged to come out and help plan for the new officers. This will be a two-year term. Those on the board at the present time were elected in 1975. For any additional information, call Bob Hartson at 477-8896.

Jaycee Auxiliary

Two new members were welcomed into the organization at the last meeting, Linda Rouhan and Joyce Reynolds. There will be an art auction at the Novi Library, September 23, with champagne and hors d'oeuvres. Donation is $1. Contact Marilyn Kinsel for tickets at 349-2488. The Auxiliary is selling cartoon safety records with a story book for $3.95. These are available only through the Auxiliary and would make a nice gift for children.

Contact Char Mathers, chairman at 349-8960.

The Auxiliary is also setting up an invalid index to assist the police and fire department in case of a disaster to locate people who are bedridden, living alone, etc. Anyone knowing of someone in such a situation is asked to call Anne at 349-3918 or Linda at 349-1428 so they can be put on the list.

Parents Without Partners

A reminder of the Miniature Golf at Yogi Bear on Five Mile and Haggerty Roads. Saturday, September 3, is the children's activities meeting. Plans are to let the children express their ideas for the winter months with a treat of ice cream to follow.

Labor Day activities will be at Camp Dearborn and will be the last big event of summer. The group will start the day with breakfast at Shelter No. 15 at 9 a.m. with a picnic scheduled for later in the day. Games and prizes are planned. There is an entrance fee per car. Bicycling continues through September at Maybury State Park on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Plan now for the picnic on September 11 at Waterford Bend on Northville Road at 1:00 p.m. Golf on Monday continues at Dun Roving and the general membership meeting scheduled for September 13 at Park Haus on Northville Road.

Veterans of Foreign Wars

This service group along with the Blue Star Mothers, the American Legion Post No. 19, and the Novi Jaycees will be having another meeting in October to continue plans for a joint memorial service on November 11. The next meeting for members of this post will be September 21 at the Novi Community Building with the auxiliary meeting at the Post Home on Grand River. There will be a joint social time following the meetings with lunch provided by the auxiliary.

Courses aid impaired at Madonna College

Registration for the fall term at Madonna College in Livonia is now open to persons interested in any of six classes available through the Interpreter for Communication with Deaf Persons program. The fall term begins September 6.

Madonna is the only college in Michigan and one of only six in the country which enroll deaf students in regular academic programs. Classroom interpreters, tutors, and note-takers are provided for students who request such support services. The Madonna curriculum also includes a program to educate professional sign language interpreters.

Introduction to Manual Communication, a beginning course, will meet in six different sections, one each day, Monday through Friday, during the fall term. Five sections are open to hearing students and one section is reserved for deaf and hearing-impaired students.

This course is offered tuition free to registered students taking other classes at the college. Students receive orientation to deafness, finger spelling exercises, and sign vocabulary from a word list.

New in the fall will be a course in finger spelling. It is designed to improve students' motor skills while learning expressive and receptive mechanisms for communicating with deaf and hearing-impaired persons.

Finger spelling will meet Tuesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. and is open to students who have completed Introduction to Manual Communication.

Also offered in the ITC program is Manual Communication, a beginning course is American Sign Language which includes recognition, signing and reading of American Sign Language. It is offered Tuesdays, 9 a.m. to noon and Wednesdays, 7 to 10 p.m.

Intermediate Sign Language is offered Mondays, 7 to 10 p.m. and Thursdays, 9 a.m. to noon. Advanced Sign Language is offered Thursdays, 4 to 7 p.m.

Introduction to Interpreting will meet Thursdays, 7 to 10 p.m. This class is a basic survey of theories, guidelines, principles, and practice of interpreting for deaf persons in general and in specialized settings.

Students majoring in interpreting can earn an associate or bachelor's degree to become professional interpreters in the communication process with deaf persons. Other Madonna students who major in diverse fields such as nursing, criminal justice, and gerontology, may select interpreting as a minor to better serve the deaf and hearing-impaired persons in society.

For more information on registration for these classes or the program in Interpreting for Total Communication with Deaf Persons at Madonna College, contact Ken Rust, 425-8000, extension 47.

A LABOR DAY MESSAGE
"Labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life..." (John 6:27)

Multitudes followed Jesus only for the supply of temporal necessities. So, today, enormous sums of money and untold man hours are spent only for this life. Our Lord urges, "Labor for that which endureth unto eternal life." How? By "believing in him whom the Father hath sent." This is true beneficial labor!

Connemara youngsters send balloons skyward at third annual party

Connemara folks enjoy 'pig roast'

A tender, succulent pig, bought at a farm auction and kept on the hoof until hours before it began to turn slowly on a special metal frame, was the enticement that drew more than 150 residents of Connemara subdivision to a gigantic pig roast party.

It was a gourmet treat worth hours of preparation, planners report of the third annual roast held August 20.

Only a few children preferred hot dogs to the tender pig served with corn on the cob, baked beans, a wine-marinated vegetable salad, rolls and ice cream.

Association President John Becker reports that the roast highlighted a full day of activities for adults and children living in the subdivision located south of Nine Mile near Taft.

Tom and Joan Bryson of 21900 Connemara Drive, who had previous experience roasting a pig for a smaller gathering at their home, supervised the proceedings.

Festivities actually began 24 hours before the first plate was filled. On the Friday before the roast, a large pit was dug and lined with rocks. Neighbors contributed logs for the fire which was tended in shifts during the night.

The 150-lb. pig was purchased by another neighbor, Carl Trano, at the farm auction and kept alive until Friday night. It was brought to the pit site in the evening. There it was rubbed inside and out with kosher salt, placed on a steel rod, tied most securely and, finally, packed in ice until 4 a.m. when the 12-hour roasting process began.

Tim O'Neil insured the successful roasting, Becker reports, with a special metal frame to suspend the pig over the fire and a motorized rotisserie to turn the meat evenly all day.

It was basted frequently with barbeque sauce.

Meal committee was Lynn Hahn, Joyce Conklin, Lorraine O'Neil, Fran Firek and Marilyn Trano. Picnic tables were picked up throughout the neighborhood and delivered to the adjacent lots of the John Machs and Charles Peltzes.

While numbers of residents were busy organizing food, others planned a variety of activities for the day.

Frank Firek managed the adult lawn tractor races at 1 p.m., following a course around subdivision roads. Judy Lombardo was in charge of the children's parade and games at 2 p.m. while Martha Nield supervised the adult contests and volleyball matches at 5:30 p.m.

Even the weather cooperated, perhaps because planners took no chances and suspended a large parachute like an open-air tent over the roast for protection.

Here's our policy for reporting news of weddings, engagements

Your engagement and wedding news is welcomed by the Walled Lake-Novi News. Forms for both announcements are available at The News office, 1340 South Commerce Road, Walled Lake.

Our staff is ready to assist in the completion of those forms. We will not, however, be able to take any information over the telephone. Forms will be mailed on request.

Deadline for announcements to appear in the next week's edition is Friday noon.

Pictures are a welcome addition to any announcement and are suggested.

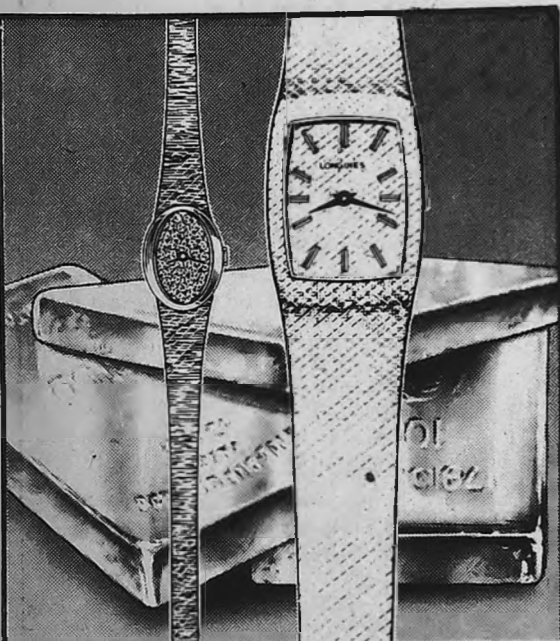

All pictures must be clear with sharp black and white photos preferred. A wallet-sized picture for an engagement announcement is acceptable.

Wedding news must be submitted within 15 days following the ceremony. If colored photographs are submitted, we ask they be sharp and in focus.

Photographs will be returned and may be picked up at The News office the week following their use.

News of births and christenings are also encouraged. Those articles may be called in by telephone to the office at 624-8100.

There is no charge for this news service.

Howard & Lois Green

The one room apartment is an important factor in our pattern of living today. Singles and young marrieds are growing in number and budgets are limited. Not so, imagination, which has room to expand when creating all the comforts of home in one four walled space with or without a view. You will need good organization, bright ideas and intelligent space planning. Each area should give the feeling of a separate space with an overall plan that flows together. You can partition for variety and privacy, make two rooms out of one, create an ell, use convertible bedding, buy furniture designed for the scale of your room or mirror a wall. There are exciting ideas available for the small apartment dweller to make a cozy space a warm, comfortable home.

If you need help in planning a one room apartment, or a whole house, talk to us at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. We carry a fine line of unpainted furniture to suit your personal tastes and budget requirements. We also carry a complete selection of FULLER O'BRIEN PAINTS in popular colors and we can custom-tint the paint to just the color you want—more than 1,000 possible colors. We also carry all the accessories you may need, to do a most professional job.

DECORATING TIP:
 Put two narrow parsons tables end-to-end on a long wall and store baskets, plants or extra seating underneath.

Community Notes

Library announces pre-school story hour schedule

Beginning September 23 and running to December, four-year-old Novi youngsters are invited to enroll in the Novi Library's Pre-school Story Hour. From 1 to 2 p.m. each Friday afternoon, Georganne Sugden will be on hand to lead the children through varied folk tales, fables, poetry, pantomime and puppetry.

Ms. Sugden is a creative dramatics teacher at the Farmington Community Center and the Children's Museum, Detroit. She will be on hand to teach a second story hour session in January.

Class size is limited with parents urged to enroll their children by calling the library at 349-0720.

MD Carnival

McDonald's of Walled Lake will sponsor a carnival for Muscular Dystrophy on Saturday, September 3. The carnival will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parking lot behind the restaurant. In the event of inclement weather, the carnival will be held the following day, Sunday, September 4.

McDonald's Hostess, Linda Park reported that there will be games, prizes, and a dunk-a-manager tank as well as refreshments. Price range for each of the various events is from 10 to 25 cents.

A pet show will be held at 2 p.m. Prizes will be given in five categories: most unusual, most talented, best dressed, biggest, and smallest.

A crew of McDonald's employees is donating its time to run the carnival. Proceeds will be given to the fight against Muscular Dystrophy.

Braille Classes

An open house and orientation tea to introduce interested persons to the fascinating field of braille transcribing will be held September 20 at the Nardin Park United Methodist Church at Eleven Mile and Middlebelt Roads.

Volunteers are needed to help transcribe books into Braille for blind people. Morning or evening classes teaching the challenging skill will be conducted at the church beginning October 10. The classes continue through May.

Mrs. Dee Josaitis, chairman and Mrs. Marge Griep, Braille teacher will present information about the classes, demonstrate the Braille Writers and explain the wide variety of interesting services performed by the organization.

Sweet Sounds

Area residents will have the opportunity to hear the Farmington Chapter of the Sweet Adelines blend their voices in close harmony when they make an appearance at the Twelve Oaks Mall.

Scheduled for September 13 at 7 p.m. in the center court area, the ladies will entertain at intervals throughout the evening until mall closing.

Brochures with information on the Sweet Adelines will be available during the evening to introduce the musical group. A membership meeting will be held the following Tuesday evening for those interested in joining the merry minstrels.

New Hours

The Novi Library announces the return to fall hours beginning September 10. From the date forward, the library will open each Saturday, excluding holidays.

The library will open at 10 a.m. each day, six days a week. On Monday and Tuesday, the library will close at 6 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday hours are extended to 8 p.m. The library will close at 5 p.m. on Friday and 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Men's Volleyball

An organizational meeting for the Walled Lake Men's Volleyball League is scheduled for Tuesday, September 13 at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in Room 417 at Walled Lake Central High School.

All managers or team representatives must attend this meeting. Rosters, rules and other important information will be discussed at the meeting.

Additional information is available from John Slattengren, 624-0202.

Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are needed by the Village of Wolverine Lake to occupy vacancies on both the zoning and planning commissions.

A resume or letter of interest, including background is required as application. Those letters should be directed to the Village Clerk, Village of Wolverine Lake, 425 Glengary Road, Walled Lake 48088.

Girl's Basketball

Beginning Saturday, September 17, the Walled Lake Girl's Basketball League will begin its new season for girls enrolled in the fourth through eighth grade.

Applications will be given to all girls in those grade ranges through their individual schools by Monday, September 12. Cost is $5 per student.

John Slattengren of the Community Education Department requests that anyone interested in coaching a team contact him at 624-0202.

Market Day

The second annual old fashioned Market Days held on the waterfront near East Lake Drive is scheduled for Saturday, September 11 from 1 to 7 p.m.

Area artists, handcrafters and gardeners who have items to sell or display are invited to participate in the event.

There is no charge for booth space but reservations are necessary prior to the event. Krista Kastner of the Walled Lake Parks and Recreation Department will accept those reservations at 624-4847.

Those participating must provide all their own equipment and booth needs.

Lakes Area Seniors

A complete week-long program is offered to all lakes area senior citizens aged 60 and older at the Senior Citizens Center located in the old Novi Elementary School on Novi Road.

A variety of on-going programs is offered to the senior including a daily hot lunch served at noon. Those wishing to participate in that program should plan to be at the center by 11:30 a.m. The center is open daily from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Senior Pictures

Senior citizens 60 years and older have the opportunity to have their photographs taken for discount identification cards. The ID pictures are taken free of charge at various locations scheduled throughout Oakland County.

The cards entitle seniors to receive discounts on merchandise from over 850 participating merchants within the county. Those discounts range up to 40 percent.

The discount program is administered by the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency.

Scheduled picture dates in this area include September 19 at the Walled Lake Field Center on O'Flaherty Road from 10-1 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.

The second date is September 26 at the Senior Citizens Center located in the old Novi Elementary School on Novi Road. Hours will be 1 to 5 p.m.

Says State Police artist

If you see a crime being committed, you remember

By PHIL JEROME

You've seen them — the police artist's sketch of a prime suspect in a rape or murder case.

They're in the papers all the time — whenever police can locate a witness who may have caught a glimpse of the individual believed to be responsible for the crime.

But how accurate are they? Just how much credibility is it safe to place on the artist's sketch of a description by a witness who may have caught only a fleeting glimpse of the suspect? Do they ever lead to an arrest?

With those questions in mind, I contacted the Michigan State Police Post in Northville to see if I could arrange an interview with one of their artists.

As part of the agreement, I would attempt to give the artist a description of someone known locally to see just how close he could really come to the subject.

Detective Sergeant Gary Powell, 43, has been developing sketches of subjects from witnesses' descriptions for more than 18 years.

He started doing the drawing while working on his own cases when he was assigned to the state police post in Pontiac back in 1959.

"A witness was trying to describe a man who had held up a bank, but wasn't having much luck," he reports. "I just picked up some chalk and drew a picture based on the description.

"That one just led to another one.

"We didn't get anything with the first one, but the second one I did led to the identification of a suspect. I've been doing it ever since."

Powell estimates that he has done somewhere between 900 and 1,000 sketches over the past 18 years. Surprisingly, his drawings lead to the identification of a suspect some 25 percent of the time.

The interview shattered several myths about the role of sketches in police work.

In the first place, the State Police do not have a position for police artists. Powell is assigned to the Records Division of the Licensing Section of State Police Headquarters in Lansing. As such, his major assignment involves the licensing of private detectives and security guards.

However, when a police agency requests a drawing he is usually dispatched to do it.

Another myth about police artists is that they usually work from a well-developed system of plastic overlays. Although plastic overlays do exist, Powell reports that he prefers to work freehand from the witness' description.

Except for the chalk, his only tool is a small book which contains pictures of various facial characteristics (hair, forehead, eyes, nose, mouth, and beards).

Most often artist's sketches are used in crimes of violence — a rape or a robbery where there is an actual confrontation between the witness and the suspect.

Powell dismissed the suggestion that most victims of crimes would be too frightened to give a good description, however.

"If you were at a party with a roomful of strangers, you probably wouldn't be able to describe any of them the next day," he said. "But if one of them were to borrow $10 from you, you'll remember."

"Our sketches always involve a reconstruction of something which sticks out. It's surprising how much detail a robbery victim, for example, can remember about the face of the individual who held them up."

"If you know a crime is being committed, you'll remember."

Powell recalled one case in which a woman driving a car came around the corner of a building and caught the face of a man standing in an alley in her headlights.

After learning the next day that the building had been burglarized about the time she saw the suspect, she went to the police and gave a description which was very accurate. Powell says the drawings are only as good as the description. It helps to have several witnesses. The verbal descriptions may sound vastly different, but once they're put in the form of a sketch the witnesses may all agree.

Powell has several rules which he follows while doing a drawing.

In the first place, he never permits an officer to sit in on the sessions which usually take approximately two hours. An officer may have a preconceived notion about the suspect and attempt to persuade the witness to develop a drawing which approaches his suspect.

He also attempts to put the witness at ease.

"They have just gone through a traumatic experience and I try not to force them to relive it any more than possible," he says.

"I try to take the witness' mind off the whole thing until I need a specific piece of information about the eyes or the nose or what have you. Once I get that information I'll try to put the witness at ease again."

Powell also states that continued concentration on the suspect's facial characteristics can contribute to confusion. The description could well be better if the witness does not have to concentrate on the face all the time.

Usually, the sketches involve a negative approach to apprehension, he reports. A good sketch will help the officer eliminate certain individuals from his list of suspects.

Still, the sketches have proved to be a valuable crime-fighting tool. Powell can detail any number of instances in which an officer makes an arrest from the drawing. Frequently, the officer will be questioning a suspect in conjunction with one crime when he notes a strong similarity with the sketch from an entirely different crime.

Powell has a great deal of faith in the value of the sketches and the ability of the witnesses to provide detailed information.

"Our witnesses don't have to be full of confidence," he reports. "It's amazing how well they can describe a suspect at all.

"But in general they do a good job. Most people are a lot more observant than people give them credit for."

Detective-Sergeant Powell shows Jerome results of his 'eye-witness' description. See sketch and subject below

Jerome finds 'witness' role tough

I suppose, really, that I went into this story believing that the pressure would be on the state police artist to come up with an accurate sketch of my selected "suspect."

By the time it was over, I had changed my mind completely.

The pressure was all on me to tell the artist just what the suspect looked like. Originally, I had planned to describe a state or national figure such as William Milliken, Gerald Ford, or Jimmy Carter.

But Detective Sergeant Gary Powell advised me against it.

"I've done this before with national figures and I'm usually able to tell who it is by the time we sketch in the shape of the face and the hairline," he stated candidly.

Powell also advised me against describing someone I knew extremely well. Don't try to describe your brother, he advised. "You may see him all the time, but I don't think you'll be able to describe him at all. You see him so often that you don't really look at him."

I finally settled on Commerce Township Clerk Robert McGee as my subject. McGee is a large man with distinctive facial characteristics and, quite frankly, I thought I'd be able to come up with a good description without much difficulty.

That was before I actually started to provide the description, however.

Powell started out by asking for a general description: age, height, body build, color and length of hair.

Does he have wavy hair? Bushy hair? How would you describe his eyes?

Bulging? Squinty?

What type of impression did you get from his face? Friendly? Foreboding? Some people look like smart alecks. Does he look like a smart aleck?

From there we moved to specifics. Powell sketched in the hair line, the eye brows, and the eyes and then moved to the nose. The mouth, chin, and McGee's distinctive goatee finished it off.

By the time we were done, the drawing that I had produced bore little resemblance to the township clerk. Powell made changes at my suggestion.

"Make the eyes a little larger. We need more forehead. The cheeks should be more prominent."

But I was unable to provide the key changes needed to bring the drawing around to the point where I really thought it resembled my subject.

Later I discovered that the hair was all wrong. I had told Powell that the hair parts it just right of center. Actually, the part is on the far left side.

And I had a heckuva time deciding what to do with the mustache. At first I had no mustache at all, but that didn't look right so we added one. Then I told Powell that it was a Fu Man Chu type, but later I changed it to more of a handle bar style.

When we were done, Powell asked if I was satisfied with the sketch.

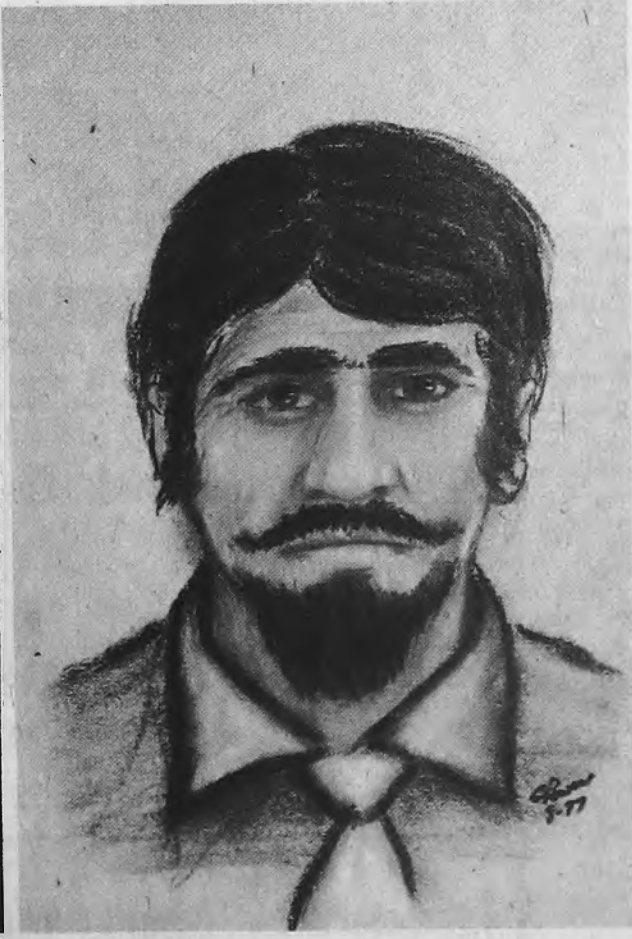

My answer was negative. "It's not right but I don't know what to tell you to do to make it right," I replied.

Powell added that sketches can be dangerous if they're not accurate because they can lead an investigation astray.

"But at least they give you some idea of who you might be working with," he added. "After we come up with a sketch we pass it around to the detectives to see if anyone can put a name on it."

"We release them to the press and occasionally someone will call in and says it looks a little something like an individual who exhibits the type of behavior we're looking for."

"If it gives you a lead, that's all you really hope for."

How did Jerome do?

The resulting sketch is shown above (right). Initially, Jerome forgot that McGee had a beard. Then he told Powell that McGee parted his hair right of center.

Increased trend in C-Births not alarming

ANN ARBOR—University of Michigan obstetricians Thursday (August 25) defended the increased use of Cesarean sections in U.S. hospitals as a better way of insuring the health of both mother and child when there are clear indications of serious problems with natural birth.

In a Cesarean section birth, the infant is removed by a surgical incision rather than through the natural birth canal. Recent concern, reflected in media stories, about the increased Cesarean section rate is justified, according to Dr. George H. Nolan, M.D., associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology and of maternal and child health, and Dr. Jan Schneider, M.D., professor of obstetrics and gynecology and maternal and child health.

"We're looking at the trend cautiously, but certainly not with alarm," the doctors said, referring to the doubling of the Cesarean rate in U.S. hospitals during the past 10 years.

In community hospitals, the rate is now around 10 percent. At U-M Hospital and others which serve as regional perinatal referral centers, to which mothers with major problems of pregnancy are sent for care, the Cesarean rate has climbed over 20 percent. This increase has led physicians and some medical statisticians to question whether obstetricians have been over-using the scalpel because of new technology such as fetal monitors.

The monitors, put into use about 1970, give the doctors a running graph of the rate and pattern of the baby's heartbeat. Critics of the device say its data is questionable, perhaps leading doctors to intervene unnecessarily in natural births when the monitor indicates fetal distress.

To cite the fetal monitor development as the major cause of Cesarean section increase is simplistic, the U-M physicians commented. They listed equally important developments such as better antibiotics, improved blood banking, anesthetics and other surgical advances which have greatly increased the safety of the procedures in cases where it is indicated. These have given doctors the option — a valuable option — to go ahead, where justified, with Cesarean delivery. "It is irresponsible to say these decisions are the knee-jerk reaction to the development of a single medical device," the U-M physicians noted.

"It is ridiculous to assume that simply because we have a greatly increased capacity to do these vital procedures (Cesareans), that it itself represents a triumph of gadgetry over humanity. Our ultimate goal, always, is to produce the healthiest possible mother and child. If Cesarean section does this better in some cases than natural birth, we don't see how this can be misconstrued," the U-M physicians explained.

In previous times, they said, there was no choice but to go the natural route in a dangerous birth, because the risk to the mother from Cesarean section was too great. "We crossed our fingers and hoped the baby wouldn't die. Often it did; at other times it didn't and was destined to spend its life in an institution because of cerebral palsy or some other form of brain damage."

They added that "very few obstetricians today would disagree with greater use of C-sections for breech deliveries," citing one reason for increased use of the procedure.

Cesarean section also is increasingly important for the safety of babies which must be delivered early before term, especially in the cases of Rh-sensitization and difficult to deliver these infants vaginally, and this must be recognized," Doctors Nolan and Schneider emphasized.

Although pre-term babies when delivered are smaller, in the three to four pound range, their chances of survival with no impairment is excellent. This is because the same type of technological and medical advances which made Cesareans more feasible, have been applied in neonatology (caring for premature or critically ill babies).

"It is ridiculous to suggest that neonatologists are keeping a lot of little babies alive that a few years ago

'should have died,' " the U-M physicians noted.

Citing a study in England of infants of less than 1,500 grams (three pounds) at birth, which were examined five years later, 85 percent were normal with no mental or physical impairment. "This would not have happened before (improved medical technology). A large percentage would have died or had neurological or psychomotor damage; such conditions as cerebral palsy or retardation," the U-M physicians asserted.

"If there is concern about the present rate of Cesarean section, it may be only because of the contrast with the too low rate of the past. We may find that the rate should go down slightly or up slightly, but any shift should be based on medical fact, and not on a philosophy of naturalism."

The legitimate application of medical or technological advance in health care is to improve the patient's health, they said. "This is what we are after and this is what we are getting in obstetrics."

McPherson State Bank promotions and reassignments have been announced by President Alexander M. McPherson.

Hollis Arnold, who is presently vice president, loan officer and security officer, has also assumed the duties of dealer loan coordinator, formerly performed by Michael D. West, who has left banking. He is a 13-year staff member, a graduate of banking schools and immediate past president of the Lansing chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

Barbara Wright is now a loan officer after 13 years of experience at McPherson in a number of managerial positions, among which have been manager of the Hartland and Howell Shopping Center offices, and of the main office tellers.

She is being replaced in the latter post by Arletta Curcio, who served for five years as assistant head teller. Shirley LaBelle, who has been a teller with the bank for a number of years, will become assistant head teller.

Nancy Pettibone is filling a new position as customer service representative. She is a lifelong Howell resident who joined the bank in 1974.

Another new area of duty is mortgage loan coordinator, assigned to Gladys Haas, a commercial and loan teller at McPherson for the past three years.

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Graphic Controls Corporation has named John P. Baranowski to General Sales Manager of the company's Recording Chart Division in Buffalo and appointed William J. Kirk to the post of Division Marketing Manager. It was announced by President and Division General Manager.

JOHN BARANOWSKI

Baranowski, a native of Buffalo who has been with the company since 1963, previously was District Manager of the Detroit Office in the suburb of Farmington and resided in Northville. He has been employed in sales and technical capacities by electronics firms for several years before joining Graphic. Baranowski attended Erie Community College where he received an associate degree in electrical technology, and did graduate work at the State University at Buffalo and University of Michigan. He, his wife Willa McColgan, and their three children now live in Orchard Park, N.Y.

A CUT FOR DANNY—Krystyna Dzewit, new owner and operator of the Fashion Cellar at 102 West Main, Northville, works on a customer's hair Saturday, August 20, donating proceeds, along with those of other area businesses, to St. Jude's Children's Hospital, a Danny Thomas project.

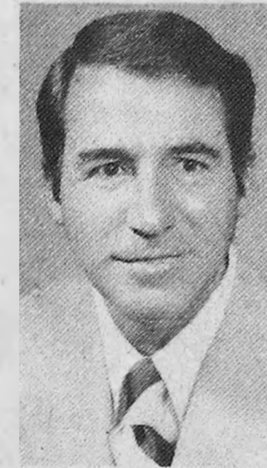

APPOINTMENT of Edward A. Hodge of Northville as director, personnel and public relations of Packard Electric Division, General Motors Corporation, effective June 1, was announced by James R. Rinehart, general manager of the Warren, Ohio, facility.

In Detroit Hodge was assistant director of labor relations for General Motors Corporation. In this position he has been primarily responsible for contract negotiations between GM and the International Union of Electrical Workers, which represents about 25,000 GM hourly workers.

Born September 18, 1926, in Middleton, Ohio, he received his BA degree from the University of Chicago in 1949 and did graduate work at the New School of Social Research, New York City, from 1951 to 1952. From 1949 to 1952 he taught English and American history at the Collegiate School in New York City.

He began his career with General Motors in 1954 at Packard Electric, holding various assignments in labor relations there prior to his transfer to the labor relations section in Detroit in May, 1963, where he was assigned to deal with arbitration and contract administration matters. From February, 1969, to March of 1971, he primarily was responsible for the GM-UAW Canadian contract administration and negotiations.

With his wife, Patricia, and son and daughter, Hodge lived at 19600 Beck Road in Northville. The Hodes moved back to Warren early in August.

Four states join to fight Labor Day accidents

Four state police departments, including Michigan's, will band together during the Labor Day weekend in an effort to reduce holiday traffic accidents on expressways.

The first-of-its-kind enforcement program will involve more than 300 cars and eight aircraft from the Michigan, Indiana and Illinois state police and the Ohio Highway Patrol. Operation CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) will concentrate along I-94 in Michigan and Indiana, I-75 and U.S. 23 in Michigan and Ohio and I-80 in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The expanded patrol's heaviest enforcement times will coincide with peak travel hours on Friday and Monday.

"The primary purpose of this unique program is to assure strict enforcement of the national 55 miles-per-hour speed limit and all other hazardous traffic law violations," according to a police press release.

Along with speeding violations, troopers will be alert to violations indicating alcohol may be involved in the driving action — improper passing, improper lane changes and following too closely."

Michigan, through a federal grant from the Governor's Office of Highway Safety Planning, will be increasing its holiday work force by approximately 130 patrol cars for each of the four days of the period. The CARE program was developed after the Michigan and Indiana state police completed a pilot test during the July 4 weekend. Veteran troopers reported the smoothest traffic flow in recent history for their efforts, according to a spokesman.

Daily accident data will be exchanged among police departments and newspapers, television made available to and radio.

MICHIGAN'S 1977 deer season is expected to be another good one, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Firearm hunters who plan to get in on the November 15-30 action should note the map above, especially if they're interested in the Hunter's Choice option. Remember — all Hunter's Choice applications must be postmarked by September 30 this year. The DNR will issue 128,385 Hunter's Choice permits statewide, plus an additional 9,710 Limited Landowner's Permits for farmers. Check your 1977 hunting guides (available from license dealers) for details.

Plymouth's 'Fall Festival' coming up soon

Plymouth is readying itself for the annual four-day fall festival September 8-11 being billed as an "extravaganza that combines elements of a fiesta with aspects of a country fair."

The festival has grown to one of the largest fund raisers for non-profit organizations in the area.

There is to be music of contemporary rock and old-time banjo, square dancing, vintage costumes and pancakes.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 9-11, there will be the Symphony League Antique Mart.

The 15th annual mart will feature antiques from 20 dealers along with antique appraisals by Rae Choma, a certified Michigan appraiser. It will be held at Plymouth Cultural Center from noon to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from noon to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Donations are $1 with proceeds to go to the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

At an arts and crafts show at Central Middle School patrons can admire work of contemporary craftsmen and artists. Stained glass, hand-sewn ethnic costumes, Chinese water colors, weaving, pottery and woodworking will be featured. The show will run Saturday and Sunday.

Food is a big part of the festival and

"something for every palette" is promised.

Old-time cooking is the specialty of the Grange. Just a few steps from Kellogg Park on Union Street there will be homemade apple and pumpkin pies and old-style cookies.

Booths along Main Street will offer freshly pressed cider, homemade fudge, Yaki-Tori, baclava, shish kebab, pizza or apples. Cotton candy, hot dogs, popcorn, watermelon slices and soft drinks also will be sold.

The festival kicks off with an Italian dinner Thursday night. A fish fry follows Friday, a pancake festival all day Saturday with a roast beef dinner in the evening, and the Rotary chicken barbecue Sunday.

Also on Sunday will be a special vintage car display on Penniman Avenue.

Sunday events will include a produce tent of products of Michigan farms and gardens, including bouquets of fresh and dried flowers, great pumpkins, and stacks of melon and squash.

Added festival features are an Oddfellows' flea market at Elizabeth and Ann Arbor Trail during the four days, a kiddies' pet show at 9 a.m. Saturday in front of the Kellogg Park band shell and a carry-out booth at the Rotary chicken barbecue Sunday at Ann Arbor and Sheldon roads.

How do you control rose insects? Start in spring, continue til fall

A rose by any other name would still fall prey to more than its share of hungry insect pests.

"Roses seem to have more insect problems than any other ornamental," observes Keith Kennedy, extension entomologist at Michigan State University. "People like roses, however, and they're often willing to work at growing them."

Controlling insects on roses is a continuous chore that begins in the early spring and extends into the fall. Foliage feeders and sucking insects can be controlled with an all-purpose rose spray, Kennedy says. Such a spray should contain a contact insecticide like Sevin, diazinon or malathion, a miticide, and a systemic insecticide.

"The miticide is important because the Sevin will zap the mite predators that help keep the spider mite population down," the specialist explains. "The systemic is taken up by the plant and takes care of developing stages of the various insects that the contact spray misses. It also helps control mites, aphids, and some borers."

Kennedy recommends using an emulsifiable concentrate rather than a rose dust. A liquid covers better and is more effective, he explains. It also tends to stay on the plant longer than a dust. Dusts are less concentrated and they can be unsightly.

The pests that feed on roses can be divided into three groups: foliage feeders, sucking insects, and borers.

Foliage feeders

The first pest to attack roses in the spring is usually the leaf roller. Three or four kinds of moth larvae feed on rose foliage, Kennedy notes. They roll leaves around themselves and feed on them.

The rose slug is next on the scene. A sawfly larva—a type of wasp—the rose slug is about one-fourth inch long, shiny green with a yellow head, and slug-shaped. It feeds by stripping away the leaf surface between the veins. In large numbers, rose slugs can skeletonize the foliage of an entire plant. Though the plant usually survives this injury, flower production and appearance suffer.

The rose chafer is an elongated gray or fawn-colored beetle that resembles the familiar June bug. About one-half inch long, it has long, spiny legs. It skeletonizes leaves, and it may destroy whole flowers by feeding on the petals.

The Japanese beetle is easy to recognize. Its body is metallic green with white stripes down the sides, and its hard wing covers are a coppery brown. The Japanese beetle also skeletonizes leaves and feeds on flowers.

Sucking insects

At least four species of aphids attack roses. Both winged and wingless forms usually suck plant juices from stems and buds, but they will also go into flowers and onto foliage when populations build up. As a result of their feeding, flowers may be deformed.

Bronzing of leaves and the presence of fine webbing are signs of spider mites at work. These nearly microscopic pests feed on the juices inside the leaves. As they feed, they extract the green coloring matter, chlorophyll, from the foliage.

"If you think you have a mite problem, shake a few leaves over a piece of white paper," Kennedy suggests. "This will shake a few mites loose, and you'll be able to see them running around on the paper."

Mites usually lurk on the undersides of leaves, he points out, so make sure any chemical controls are applied to the undersides as well as the tops of leaves.

Thrips damage rose plants in two ways: they rasp away at the under-surface of the leaves, and they suck plant juices. Injured leaves become streaked with silver. The feeding of these tiny creatures — no more than 1-16 inch long — can also cause bud blasting and distortion of buds and petals.

Rose leafhoppers are tiny, greenish-yellow insects that suck the liquids out of leaf cells. Like mites, they leave the foliage spotted with white. The adult leafhoppers will jump off a leaf when disturbed. The immature, wingless forms will try to move rapidly away.

Borers

The raspberry cane borer will also attack roses. Signs of borer damage include drooping petals and stem tips and wilting leaves.

"By the time the damage begins to show, the borer is well inside the cane where you can't touch it," Kennedy points out. "The standard treatment is to try to prune the critter out. Applying a systemic insecticide will kill it, but only after the damage is done."

The list of rose pests could go on and on, but Kennedy considers these the ones that Michigan homeowners are most likely to see. Most of them can be present from early spring until frost, so he advises checking roses regularly and spraying as necessary to keep the pests under control.

Fall's time for weed control

Summer is not the best time to control pesky broadleaf weeds, advise Michigan State University horticulturists. Do this in the fall or early spring.

Summer is the time to control troublesome perennial weeds like quackgrass, tall fescue and nutsedge, however. Spot-treat with a post-emergent herbicide like Amitrol-T or Dalapon, following directions. For help to identify weeds and details on control, contact your local county Cooperative Extension Service office.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"See how homes winning Detroit Edison EEE Awards are built to save on energy costs from top to bottom."

Detroit Edison is a concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation. The wise use of energy is a working relationship between those who supply energy and those who use it. To demonstrate publicly the desire to take a leadership role in this crusade, Detroit Edison has established the Energy Efficiency Excellence (EEE) Award to encourage the building of more energy-efficient homes.

EEE Award homes are designed with conservation in mind.

Detroit Edison presents the Energy Efficiency Excellence (EEE) Award to builders whose homes meet maximum standards in insulation, lighting, wiring, appliances and are comfort-conditioned with an energy-efficient electric heat pump.

From attic to basement, EEE Award homes are designed to keep your heat inside during winter and your utility costs down. These same features also make EEE Award homes easier to cool in summer. The heat pump that keeps EEE Award homes comfortable all year round is an efficient way to heat, cool, filter and dehumidify electrically.

If you're planning on buying or building a new home, take a look at the Detroit Edison EEE Award homes. These homes will help you conserve energy and keep your operating costs at rock bottom.

Detroit Edison EEE Award
meeting the following standards:

- A. Energy-efficient heat-pump heating and cooling system which conforms to design and installation standards established by the electric utility industry.
- B. Maximum insulation including R-17 material in exterior walls, R-44 in attic, and fully insulated basement walls with an R-13 value.
- C. Windows with wood sash and insulating glass or single glass with full storm. Or aluminum sash with thermal break and insulating glass or single glass with full storm.
- D. Exterior doors with foam core and magnetic seal.
- E. Refrigerator and freezer must be energy-efficient if provided by builder.
- F. Water heater is energy-saving type, located as close as practical to point of use. Hot water lines wrapped in insulation are recommended.
- G. Interior lighting that conforms to the Illuminating Engineering Society standards for energy efficiency in residential lighting.
- H. Exterior security lighting, if provided, has automatic dusk-to-dawn control.
- I. If home has a fireplace, it must have a tight-fitting damper and glass screen, and, if practical, an outside fresh-air supply.
- J. Materials, equipment, design and construction of all electric devices and wiring must comply with all local and national codes.

If you're interested in finding out more about

They'll be happy to give you more details about the benefits you enjoy in EEE Award homes.

Yes, you can make your present home more energy efficient.

Detroit Edison's Home Insulation Finance Plan is designed to help you bring your present home up to today's energy-saving standards. Ask about it at your Detroit Edison Customer Office. Here are other things you can do to help conserve energy and also save money: Put up storm windows and doors; Check weatherstripping and caulking; Dial down in winter and dial up in summer; Lower furnace fan settings; Keep electric appliances in good repair. That way, we'll all be using energy more wisely.

Motorists to set driving record over Labor Day

Michigan's Labor Day weekend should be the third record travel holiday this year as motorists are expected to drive 680 million miles over the four-day period, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The previous Labor Day weekend travel record was the 660 million miles Michigan motorists rolled up over a similar 78-hour period in 1976.

"Both this year's Memorial Day and Fourth of July weekends were record-breakers, too, and they set the stage for what could be a 10 to 20 percent increase over last summer's record Bicentennial travel," said Joseph L. Ratke, Auto Club Touring manager.

Overall for 1977, state officials are predicting travelers will spend some $4.07 billion while on trips in Michigan. That would be four percent higher than last year's $3.9 billion direct expenditures for travel and tourism in the state.

"Since tourism is Michigan's second largest industry behind manufacturing, this rise in expenditures will mean much to the state," Ratke said.

He noted that while 1975 and 1976 were bad economically for Michigan, the tourist industry registered increases both years. "In fact, last year's tourism bonanza generated 200,000 jobs and $131 million in tax revenues for the state treasury," he said.

Statistics show 15 million to 20 million people vacationed in Michigan last year, making it one of the six most visited states. An additional 2 million visitors are expected this year.

During the first seven months of this year, the Michigan Travel Bureau received 16 percent more inquiries about vacations in Michigan compared to 1976.

Traditional barometers of tourism, such as fudge sales on Mackinac Island, Mackinac Bridge crossings and state park attendance, all indicate a banner year in 1977.

Peak travel periods during the Labor Day weekend should be between 7 and 10 p.m. Friday, September 2, when motorists start their journeys, and between 2 and 10 p.m. Monday, September 5, during the homebound rush.

Auto Club is cautioning motorists to observe the gas-saving, lifesaving 55 mile-per-hour speed limit to help reverse this year's trend toward higher holiday death tolls. Thirty-one persons died on Michigan highways over the Memorial Day weekend, and the death toll for the July Fourth holiday was even higher — 32.

The 31 persons killed last year over the Labor Day weekend represented the state's highest death toll for that holiday since 1968, when 51 persons were killed.

The killer you can't see, taste Guide gives list of area museums

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimate that each year hundreds of people die from carbon monoxide poisoning. Thousands of others suffer dizziness, nausea, and convulsions. You can't see, taste, or smell carbon monoxide. But it kills.

These illustrations represent the major accident patterns involving carbon monoxide poisoning. They are:

1. Lack of ventilation in the car — Carbon monoxide gas in the automobile exhaust can leak into the car and slowly overcome the passenger.

2. Using a charcoal grill inside — Many people use charcoal grills for cooking or heating inside their houses, camping trailers, or mobile homes. High levels of carbon monoxide are released by burning charcoal.

3. Unvented space heaters — Any unvented fuel-burning appliances, including gas ranges, produce potentially deadly levels of carbon monoxide.

4. Heating equipment in poor repair — Carbon monoxide can leak from loose or cracked vent pipes and heat exchangers.

Carbon monoxide is produced when fuels burn incompletely, as almost all fuels do to some extent. When a generous supply of fresh air is available, and the fuel is burning properly, there is little danger of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Relive Michigan's past with a visit to a museum — an old Army fort, a restored 19th Century village, a one-room schoolhouse or a stately Victorian mansion filled with mementos of the state's mining, lumbering and Great Lakes shipping eras, advises Automobile Club of Michigan.

Auto Club, in cooperation with the Michigan Museums Association, the Michigan Council for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts, has compiled a guide to the state's museums.

The guide is being distributed for publication in newspapers throughout Michigan.

The 189 institutions listed range from one-room collections of township archival material to the Detroit Institute of Arts' 101 galleries and its some 25,000 pieces of art.

Several nature centers are listed, along with the Detroit Zoological Park's collection of exotic and native mammals, birds, reptiles, amphibians and fishes — considered among the world's finest.

The guide also lists museums connected with the state's colleges and universities, historic forts dating back to the 1700s, farm museums and world-famous Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, the indoor-outdoor complex in Dearborn portraying more than 300 years of American history.

A Walking Meditation

The crackling, amber leaves beneath my feet
Tell me warm days of autumn soon will end.
I stroll a pathway through the woods to treat
A weary, earthbound soul, and let it mend
From trials of yesterday. And now, behold!
I look above and see the autumn trees
Toss down their leaves and lay a path of gold—
A trail sublime — a gold no thief would seize.
Calm rays of dawn slant through the foliage,
Like slender fingers, prodding earth alive;
They also probe my mind and disengage
The binding thoughts, the mental chains, and drive
Away distress. To walk with such delight
Return the soul to good, and all is right.

Dear Old Friend

Dear old friend,
Do you remember when,
We were both so young and naive.

Why do we have to grow up.
Why can't we stay the way we used to be.

Kathleen A. Bell

It's been a long time
Since I've seen you last.
We have to look forward now,
And not in the past.

You have many places to go
And things to do.
But I hope you will think of me,
Because I am remembering you.

thing
Will wake you to laughing and wanting to sing.

from life.

Sometimes there seems to be none;
and yet to see that star
and how it winked at me,
it seemed to give me more dreams to my life...

just a little more happiness.

Here we go...er...that's not the one;
Your veins are SMALL, aren't the-e-e-y...
Let's try this one...here we are!
Have your bowels moved today?

7:00—"Now we need a specimen—
For a fractional, please...

8:00—Well, here we are again, at last.
It'll soon be time to eat;
Just sit there; I'll make your bed...
And later on, a Fleet.

8:30—"The doctor's here..."

"And how are things?
It's dressing time again;
Just tell me if it stings...
Do you think it's going to rain?
Things are looking fine today,
Is there anything you need?
Oh, you'll be home in a week or two...
Don't you like our feed?
...See you tomorrow..."

Charles E. Hutton

Involvement

If I, in my advancing years can serve a bit for others;
If, in my ordinary life, I can try to help my brothers,
Isn't it a better thing for anyone to do—
A helping hand, a friendly nod, a greeting just for you?

It may not seem important that we live and act the part
Of friendliness in sharing our great or humble art,
Or in this way, aiding others as we meet throughout the day
To better serve our fellow men as we walk along life's way.

But it seems as though man's problems may more easily be solved
If we somehow work together and become a bit involved
In building more true fellowship, wherever we may be,
And finding thus, real happiness, for you, and some for me.

Charles E. Hutton

Memories

There used to be houses that were so old...

times that were worn as an old pathway.

And somehow, there within the crevices of my mind,

there used to be a fashion easy and able to abide by...

yet all so long ago.

I can almost feel them there...again...
reliving something of beauty that others remember, too.

And here, this morning, I can add a little more to today, to give tomorrow...

and all of the memories.

Try this neighboring 34-mile bike hike

A 34-mile-long asphalt and concrete ribbon along I-275 in southeast Michigan should be one of the state's most popular bikeways when it opens officially next year to link busy communities with quiet parks and farms in three counties, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

This trail runs across mostly flat land from Novi in southern Oakland County to intersect with I-75 five miles north of Monroe in Monroe County. While much of the pathway is complete, the entire route will not be ready for bikers until next summer.

The $5.9 million bikeway has exit and entrance points at nearly every I-275 overpass and interchange, offering a chance to explore nearby towns or ride along little traveled country roads past weather-worn farms dotting table-flat fields.

The route passes through part of one well-known Detroit-area park and is within easy cycling distance of another. Two state rest areas being built along the freeway also will be open to cyclists. No campgrounds are en route but bikers are always close to a good selection of restaurants and motels.

Cyclists starting at the path's northern end off Meadowbrook Road need travel only three miles before their first side trip. By exiting west at Eight Mile Road, bikers can explore historic Northville which celebrates its 150th anniversary this year.

Tours of the city's Mill Race Historical Village, a collection of clapboard buildings dating from the 1840's, are offered weekends in summer. In fall, thirsty cyclists can stop at nearby Parmenter's Cider Mill, which has been squeezing fresh apple cider since 1872.

Take Eight Mile Road back to the bikeway and head south past numerous small tool factories. Bikers leave I-275 and turn west along the M-14 freeway to Middle Rouge Parkway, where a portion of a county bikeway along Edward N. Hines Drive takes cyclists past numerous picnic tables along the Middle Rouge River.

By taking southbound Northville Road from eastbound Hines, cyclists can explore the quiet city of Plymouth. Settled in the early 1800's, its downtown retains a unique, small-town atmosphere barely 20 miles from Detroit. Bikers might want to pedal past the city park to sample a frosty ice cream cone from Cloverdale Farms Dairy, a city fixture since 1932.

From Plymouth, cyclists can backtrack to Rouge Park and re-enter I-275 past Haggerty Road to parallel the freeway's northbound lanes. One of two state rest areas on the freeway is two miles south of Ford Road and picnic and restroom facilities will be available.

The path switches to the southbound side at Van Born Road four miles south of the rest area, passing sprawling apartment complexes separated by heavily wooded maple groves along the way.

The bikeway leaves the freeway just north of the I-94 interchange and rejoins I-275 two miles later at North Line Road.

For the next several miles, the sky resounds with the roars of gleaming commercial jet aircraft swooping low for landings at nearby Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Five miles below the airport, the bikeway crosses the 127-mile-long Huron River via a bikers' bridge. Then it's just two miles to Willow Road, where cyclists can exit and pedal a mile east to Willow Metropark.

One of 10 such parks ringing metropolitan Detroit, this 1,500-acre facility includes an Olympic-sized swimming pool, scenic drives and snack bars and spots where cyclists can rest or picnic among trees shading the river.

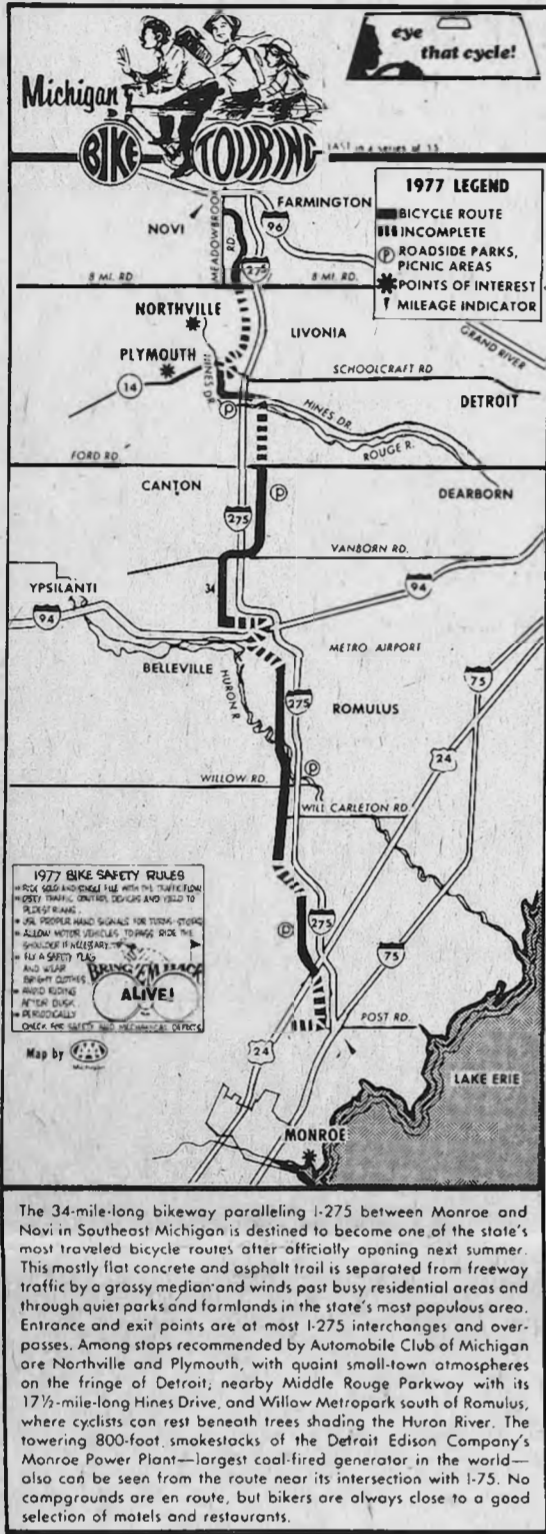

Amidst lush farm fields two miles south of Willow Road, the pathway enters Monroe County at Will Carleton Road, named for Michigan's official poet laureate.

The route's second state rest area is three miles south of the county line. From the rest area, cyclists can see the 800-foot-tall twin smokestacks of the Detroit Edison Company's giant Monroe power plant. It is the largest coal-fired electrical generator in the world. Also nearby is the construction site of the Enrico Fermi II nuclear power plant.

From the rest area, it's a four-mile ride to Post Road and the trail's terminus past rich farmland ringed in summer by Queen Anne's Lace and other wild flowers.

Cyclists should pace themselves according to ability. The League of American Wheelmen estimates the average cyclist can cover 35 to 50 miles a day with ease. A card and pamphlet containing bicycle safety tips are available free at all Automobile Club of Michigan offices.

Here's lawn tips for homeowners planning to sell

Homeowners preparing to sell within the next year would be wise to take steps now to assure that the surrounding lawn will have a well-cared look at time of showing.

Members of the United Northwestern Realty Association (UNRA) point out that often prospective sellers, enthused about moving, forget the lawn usually gives the first impression of the condition of the property.

They say a lush green lawn suggests to prospective buyers that the entire property has been given proper care. Lawns with bare spots and patches of weeds suggests just the opposite and indicate a lack of fertile soil which may cause buyers immediately to lose interest.

Fall is an ideal time to rework an existing lawn to become a valuable selling tool for the home. In the cooler temperatures, weeds which thrived during the hot summer become dormant and young grass does not have to compete against them or fight the heat. Even a badly neglected lawn can be salvaged.

Grass seed planted in late summer or early fall also will have time to sprout and provide a good, insulating ground cover for winter.

Renovation or repair starts with proper cultivation of areas to be seeded. A good beginning comes in removing the thatch that has built up from dying grass and clippings. This will expose the soil so that it can be loosened and worked. A sharp-tined hand rake will do the job in small areas, but a powered lawn thinner might be appropriate for larger jobs. It's also a good idea to dig out any weed clumps.

Where the turf has been thinned, gouge the soil with a hand cultivator or rake so that it is loose and holds the seeds. While cultivating, work in some nitrogen-rich fertilizer so the new plants will have a good food supply. If the lawn has become uneven, low spots should be filled with top soil which might be taken off high spots.

Once cultivation is completed, it's time to plant grass seed, spreading it evenly and carefully. As little as two pounds per 1,000 square feet of seeding area can be sufficient. Seed spread two heavily forces the young plants to compete for available nutrients and none may fare well.

Grass will grow from the root structure and sparse looking areas will fill themselves in if properly fed and watered.

The seeds should not be covered over but using a broad board to push them down into the soil will help assure proper contact.

The next step is to water the seeding, using a fine spray so seeds won't wash together.

After watering, cover the seeded areas with a mulch — possibly a thin layer of straw or excelsior matting — to keep the bed moist. New grass requires moisture for good germination so seeded areas should be sprinkled lightly at any sign of dryness.

If you choose perennial ryegrasses for planting, seeds should begin to sprout within a few days. Fine fescues or Kentucky Bluegrass may not start showing green for two or three weeks.

Let the new grass grow to nearly twice its customary height before first mowing.

After the second mowing, you might consider an additional feeding that will help it reach maturity ready to emerge full and green in the spring.

Getting the lawn in shape is a good idea even if the home will be sold in winter, say the UNRA members. Unless covered with snow, the dormant grass will show the lawn has been tended and the new homeowner will not be faced with a major renovation project.

Motorists urged to keep eye out for school buses

Even though school buses have proven to be a reliable and safe method of travel, the traffic safety dangers involved in transporting one million students 125 million miles this school year in Michigan are considerable, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Since school-aged children are unpredictable and impulsive, it is important that motorists be extra alert, especially for the 160,000 students starting kindergarten this September," said Arthur C. Gibson, Auto Club's Safety and Traffic Engineering manager.

"About 40 percent of the state's 2.5 million students in grades kindergarten through 12 ride buses to class," pointed out Gibson, who urged motorists, including school bus drivers, to drive cautiously and reduce their speed in school areas.

Through its "School's Open — Drive Carefully" campaign, now in its 31st year, Auto Club promotes the importance of traffic safety to motorists, parents and students during the school year.

"It is essential that those three groups take the necessary safety steps to help Michigan cut down on traffic deaths and injuries involving school-aged children," Gibson stated.

In the 1976-77 school year, five youngsters lost their lives in bus-related accidents, an increase of two deaths over the previous year.

Another 72 school-aged pedestrians (aged 5 to 14 years) were killed last year — many of them while walking to and from school.

"Many of these deaths occurred because students were unaware of the danger of crossing streets to and from school and because motorists were inattentive or driving too fast for conditions," Gibson explained.

Auto Club warned that rear-end collisions occur too frequently because drivers realize too late that vehicles in front of them have stopped for school buses.

"The presence of a school bus should be a warning to motorists that traffic may come to a stop and they should be prepared to take similar action," Gibson said.

He recalled one tragic accident in which a 6-year-old youngster was killed last year when he crossed in front of a school bus and was struck by a car that failed to stop for the flashing red lights of the bus.

Auto Club suggests that parents teach children these simple rules for riding the bus or walking to school:

- Walk only on the sidewalk. If there is none, walk facing traffic on the shoulder of the road.
- Watch for turning cars and never cross between parked vehicles.
- Leave home in plenty of time to arrive at the bus stop and stay well off the roadway while waiting to be picked up.
- Remain seated while the bus is moving and keep hands and arms inside at all times.
- After leaving the bus, walk at least 10 steps ahead of it before crossing the road, waiting for the driver to signal it is safe. Never cross at the back of the bus.

Motorists are reminded to be extra cautious when seeing a bus in the distance since children running to catch it sometimes forget to look before crossing roadways. Drivers also should stop at least 10 feet in front or in back of a bus when it is picking up or dropping off children on any road without barriers or dividers between lanes. That is a state law.
