

Only two candidates seek Novi City Council seats

Unless there is a sudden flurry of activity within the next week, Novi voters aren't going to have much of a choice when the city's general election rolls around November 8.

In fact, unless several candidates come forth with valid petitions by the September 29 filing deadline (next Thursday), the seven-man Novi council will have trouble reaching a quorum.

As of Monday afternoon, just two people had filed nominating petitions on the November ballot.

Mrs. Romaine Roethel, whose four-year term on the council expires this year, is the lone candidate for the office of mayor being vacated by Gilbert Henderson.

And Mrs. Patricia Karevich, whose two-year term on the council expires this year, is the only candidate who has filed thus far for the three council seats that are being vacated.

Apparently, there just aren't that many residents interested in serving on the city council.

A total of four terms are slated to expire this year.

Mayor Gilbert Henderson's two-year term is expiring as are the terms of three members of the council: Mrs. Roethel, Mrs. Karevich, and Philip Goodman.

Henderson has decided not to seek re-election, leaving a vacancy at the mayor's post. Mrs. Roethel has announced her candidacy for mayor and filed nominating petitions at city hall.

With Mrs. Roethel not seeking re-election to the council, there will be three vacancies on the council, and so far only one person — Mrs. Karevich — has filed for those three vacancies.

A check at city hall reveals that several individuals have taken out petitions, but have not yet filed.

Mrs. Carol Merriman, wife of the city's electrical inspector, is one of the individuals who has taken out petitions. Philip Manning is another.

City Clerk Mrs. Gerri Stipp reports that four other individuals have taken out petitions.

At one time, numerous individuals in the city were rumored to be eyeing election bids. Included among those rumored candidates were former councilman Louis Campbell and former school board trustee Ray Warren.

Russell Button, a long-time Novi resident and a member of the charter revision committee, has sought election to the council in the past and is again rumored to be a possible candidate this year.

In order to seek election to the city council, candidates must obtain signatures of 20 to 40 qualified electors and file petitions at city hall. Deadline for filing is next Thursday, September 29.

Mrs. Karevich, the lone official council candidate at this point, told The News Monday that she was beginning to get worried about the apparent lack of candidates.

"I may be hurting my own chances by encouraging people to run, but I would like to see the voters of Novi have a choice when it comes to election day," she said.

Sign law judged illegal

The state Court of Appeals has affirmed a lower court ruling that strikes down a portion of Novi's sign ordinance as unconstitutional.

The decision, given September 16, upholds an Oakland County Circuit Court ruling that the city cannot ban off-premises billboard advertising.

Off-premises advertising is any advertising not placed on the site of business — usually billboards.

The court's ruling does not invalidate the ordinance as a whole but only the section outlawing off-premises advertising.

According to Novi City Attorney David Fried, the city council has three possible courses of action to pursue: —take the appeals court decision to the state Supreme Court.

—amend the ordinance to require certain zones for billboards and add regulations concerning billboard specifications.

—accept the appeals court ruling and drop the issue.

Fried will have a full report ready for council at the September 26 meeting.

The suit against the city was filed by Central Advertising Company of Lansing, after the city refused to allow the company to erect a billboard sign along I-96 in the city limits.

In deciding the suit, the court referred to an earlier suit filed by Central Advertising against the City of Ann Arbor. In that case, the court ruled Ann Arbor could not bar all billboards in the city.

Fried thought Novi's ordinance would be ruled constitutional because it sought only to limit off-premises billboards while still allowing such signs to be erected on business premises.

The appeals court overturned the lower court ruling that off-premises advertising must conform with the regulations restricting on-premises advertising.

The Novi City Council adopted the sign ordinance in May, 1974, basing it largely on the Ann Arbor ordinance. The ordinance established size and distance requirements for signs and outlawed off-premises signs.

In addition, the ordinance provided for an appeals board to deal individually with all rejected applicants.

The appeals board has made numerous exceptions to ordinance regulations. Businesses along Meadowbrook Road complained about the requirement to post signs close to the place of business since many of the Teachers, board argue as negotiations stall

Tempers flared and threats flew Thursday night as about 200 people jammed the Novi Board of Education meeting at Novi Woods Elementary School.

Novi teachers have been working without a contract since September 1. Roughly $36,000 — or $225 per teacher a year — separates the teachers and board from agreement. Meetings were held between the two groups Tuesday afternoon and evening but no agreement has been reached.

Some observers fear a strike will be called unless a settlement is reached soon.

A more optimistic opinion comes from the administration's chief bargainer, Dr. William Barr. Barr says a strike can be avoided. He said great progress was made at the September 14 mediation session, leaving the two parties close to agreement.

The meeting, however, showed anything but harmony between the teachers and administration. When Dr. Barr began the meeting with an explanation of the administration position, he was interrupted by a woman in the crowd who shouted her disapproval of his comments.

In his opening remarks, Barr said the board was offering a ten percent increase in total monies and that was near the maximum available. Much more than a ten percent settlement, he said, would give the school a deficit budget — and a deficit budget is illegal.

Barr said he felt that the school board had not given the teachers any reason to strike, but, he added, "one must make one's own decision in that regard. I have not heard anything before the bargaining table or behind the table that the teachers will not continue to teach."

Board member Joel Colliau said the board had offered a fair settlement and it would be impossible for them to exceed the ten percent increase because of the illegality of deficit budgeting.

"We would be prepared to use all legal remedies to stop any illegal work stoppage," Colliau said. "This board will not tolerate or condone any illegal action on the part of the staff."

"If a strike is called, the school board will direct all teachers to report back to work. We would be prepared to call for the discharge of any teacher that disregards that directive."

The meeting was then opened up to audience questions and comments. The comments and questions were frequently interrupted by boisterous applause.

James Ladd, a Novi mathematics teacher for 12 years, said "the mathematical difference separating the school board and teachers is a ½ week salary for each teacher."

Rosemary Huffman, President of the Novi Education Association, and married just two weeks ago belied her nervousness by introducing herself by her maiden name of Rosemary Crippen.

"We view the likelihood of a contract settlement with a great deal of pessimism at this time," she said. "We just do not understand why we can't resolve our differences and get on with the task of educating youngsters, unencumbered by prolonged contract bargaining."

"We do not feel that the parties are that far apart on the two remaining issues — salaries and fringe benefits. We would urge the Board of Education to provide their bargaining team with the flexibility to resolve these contract differences, so that we can settle the teacher contract now, before feelings and emotions escalate any further."

Perhaps the most critical comments came from Peter Carr, Novi's school psychologist.

Carr said it is time the school board think about people, as well as "bricks and mortar."

"It is incomprehensible to me," Carr said, "how you can spend $10 million on a building and not have a fair, equitable contract with teachers."

Carr commented that the school system had enough money to pay its administrators enough for them to buy new cars this year.

"I've been a teacher for ten years," Carr said, "and I made $17,000 last year. I don't need to tell anyone that $17,000 doesn't go far to raise a family of four."

Bill Garrett, a Novi businessman, said that he didn't think parents in Novi had enough "dollars and cents" facts to determine how much money they can

Hearing seeks support for Providence proposal

Does Novi need a medical care facility at the present time?

That question will provide the basis for discussion at a special public hearing which has been slated for next Tuesday, September 27, at 8 p.m. in the new Novi Library at the corner of 10 Mile and Taft Roads.

The hearing is being sponsored by the Novi Chamber of Commerce and the Hospital Study Committee, an organization formed of officials from Novi, Walled Lake, Wixom, and Wolverine Lake Village.

Also present at the meeting will be administrative and medical personnel from Providence Hospital which has requested state approval for plans to develop a satellite health care facility in Novi.

The Providence proposal has been previously endorsed by the Novi City Council, and Novi's Chamber of Commerce threw its support behind Providence's plans by endorsing the concept of a satellite health care facility yesterday (Tuesday).

Although the hearing has been ostensibly slated "to help the public become more informed on the issue," it could well have much broader import.

The Chamber of Commerce, Hospital Study Committee, and Providence Hospital officials are hoping to demonstrate citizen interest in and support for a medical care facility in southeastern Oakland County. That support could be a key element if Providence is to receive permission to construct a facility in Novi.

Due to rising health costs in recent years, health care administrators are currently embarked on a national effort to reduce health care costs through careful planning and avoiding duplication of services.

In Detroit, for example, regional health planning agencies are currently closing hospitals when statistics indicate that the health care needs of the area have been provided for by another medical care facility.

The trend toward elimination of duplication of services is also demonstrated by the efforts of an organization known as the Quadrangle, which serves as the planning agency for four hospitals — Providence, Sinai, Grace Northwest, and Mt. Carmel.

The Quadrangle is currently embarked on a program to eliminate duplication of services by centralizing each medical discipline at one of the four hospitals which it serves. All pediatric services, for example, are being located at one hospital, while cardiac treatment facilities are being located at a different hospital in the group.

The importance of the hearing slated for Novi next week revolves around a report issued by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan (CHPA-SEM) which maintains that Western Oakland County already has an adequate supply of primary (medical) care.

That report could prove to be a major stumbling block to the location of a medical health care facility in Novi.

The study was prepared by the CHPC-SEM Executive Committee, the body within the CHPC which decides which hospitals and clinics in southeastern Michigan should be built.

Robert Christiansen, head of the agency's Plan Implementation Division, has stated that if the report is strictly followed, chances are slim that Providence Hospital will receive state approval to proceed with plans to construct a medical facility in Novi.

Although the CHPC-SEM report maintains that western Oakland County already has adequate medical resources and that no health care facility is needed in Novi, that position

Council makes selection for manager's assistant

The Novi City Council has hired Alex Allie, 28, of Berkley, for the new position of Administrative Assistant to the City Manager.

The job begins October 26 and pays $18,600 annually.

Allie is presently assistant to the city manager in Berkley, where he has been since 1971. He earned his B.A. degree from Michigan State University in 1971 and has pursued graduate study in the field of public administration at several universities.

Allie was chosen as Berkley's Outstanding Young Man of the Year in 1976.

The position attracted more than 170 applicants, 25 of whom were interviewed by City Manager Ed Kriewall. Allie was chosen primarily because of his extensive experience as both an administrator and as a grantsman. A grantsman must wrestle with the thousands of federal and state grants available to cities.

"I'm more than confident he will be able to meet every expectation made of him," Kriewall commented. "We're lucky to get a man of his caliber."

Kriewall said the position had attracted an unusually large number of highly qualified applicants. Many were impressed by the rapid growth in the Novi area, he said.

While at Berkley, Allie served as a federal and state grant developer, fiscal manager, public relations man and a legislative analyst. He successfully applied for and received a $2,427,000 Economic Development Administration grant under the Public Works Act.

At the meeting Monday night, some council members expressed surprise at the $18,600 salary to be given Allie. The council originally approved a July 1, 1977 hire date for the administrative assistant position with a $15,000 annual salary.

Kriewall commented he could not have hired a person with Allie's experience for $15,000 yearly. Kriewall said that an experienced grantsman could get the extra $3,000 back in no time flat.

Protest expected at zoning hearing

A sizable contingent of angry Walled Lake residents is expected to protest a rezoning request when it comes before the Novi City Council in a public hearing next Monday (September 26).

Specifically, the residents are opposed to a request from Home Health Care Services, a private non-profit agency from Warren, for the rezoning of a 5.87 acre parcel on the Novi-Walled Lake border from RM-1 (low density multiple family residential) to RM-2 (high density multiple family residential).

Gary Stern, an administrator with Home Health Care Services, has announced plans to construct two 10-story towers containing a total of 320 dwelling units on the parcel.

Stern indicated that at least one of the two 160-unit towers is contemplated for senior citizen housing.

Approximately 50 Walled Lake residents showed up at the September 7 meeting of the Novi Planning Board to protest the rezoning request.

The planners voted 7-0 at that hearing to recommend denial of the rezoning, but since the board serves in an advisory capacity, final determination of all rezoning request rests with the city council.

The hearing on the high rise rezoning will be held Monday at 9 p.m. in the School Administration Building near the corner of 11 Mile and Taft roads.

Walled Lake residents indicated that they would turn out in force at the city council's public hearing to renew their opposition to the rezoning.

The tone for the citizens' opposition to the rezoning request was probably established by a similar issue in Walled Lake where Multi-Rise Associates has already begun construction of a $9 million project which includes 160 dwelling units in a six-story building and 100 cluster units.

Strong opposition to that development arose when it was discovered that the project was being financed through the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA). The MSHDA mortgage stipulates that rent subsidies must be provided and sets a $17,380 maximum limit for residents of the complex.

The real furor, however, was created by the revelation that MSHDA's affirmative action program requires that 15-20 percent of MSHDA-financed projects be occupied by members of minority groups.

Stern maintains that he has no plans to finance his project through MSHDA. Members of the planning board pointed out, however, that financing methods are not a proper matter for rezoning requests.

The only question involved in a rezoning request, they said, is whether or not the requested rezoning is in the public interest.

In recommending denial of the rezoning request, the planning board pointed out that the RM-2 zoning conflicts with both the city's master plan and preliminary residential areas plan which shows a lower population density for the area.

Novi school enrollments rise, pre-schoolers show biggest gain

The enrollment of the Novi School District has risen from 2,917 to 3,010 in the past year.

Novi's enrollment rise comes in the face of declining enrollments nationwide. But the rate of Novi's growth has slowed during the past five years. From 1970 to 1974, 904 students were added to the district. In the past four years, the enrollment rise has been only 315.

Superintendent Gerald Kratz says the slowed growth may have been caused by a lack of new housing in the area, unemployment and a trend toward smaller families.

Oddly enough, the largest growth rate the past year in the Novi schools has come in the kindergarten classes, despite the national trend toward declining childbirths. An additional 18 students were added to kindergarten classes.

The elementary school enrollment has also increased dramatically, boasting a jump of 75 students over last year, from 1425 to 1500. District officials must take this great growth into consideration when planning for future programs, Kratz noted.

The enrollment growth in secondary schools is considerably less than in the elementary schools. Enrollment has increased from 1492 to 1510, or 18 students. Kratz cautions, however, that this small rise might be caused by the increased difficulty in counting the older students.

The total kindergarten through senior high enrollment has increased by 93 students, for a 3.1 percent increase.

Kratz says the new figures show that the present school structures will be able to house Novi students for the next few years without rebuilding. He says the best estimate is that Novi schools will increase at the rate of five percent yearly.

Novi's enrollment has risen from 1569 in 1968 to 3010 in 1977.

For OLHSA center

Commerce compromises on funds

The "art of compromise" is alive and well in Commerce Township.

Faced with a request to provide $1,000 toward the funding of the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA) senior citizen program in Novi, the Commerce Township Board effected a compromise at its September 13 session and voted 5-2 to provide $250 toward the funding of the program instead.

The request for funding first appeared before the board at its August meeting. Using figures based on usage of the facility, Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall asked that Commerce contribute 20 percent of the $5,000 annual cost of utilities for the senior citizen program.

The board voted to table action on the request when Trustee Kenneth Hausauer questioned the figures which showed that 20 percent of the senior citizens who used the center came from Commerce Township.

Hausauer stated that he found it difficult to believe that 118 Commerce seniors would travel to Novi to take advantage of the center and its hot lunch program.

Supervisor Robert Long was directed to check the OLHSA figures and report his findings at the September meeting. Long told the board last week that approximately 120 Commerce residents had used the center during the time of his report.

It was Trustee John Jack who proposed that some sort of compromise be worked out that would enable Commerce to participate at a level somewhat lower than the $1,000 which had been initially proposed.

"My feeling is that perhaps we should participate if people from Commerce Township are actually being served by the center," he stated.

Jack noted further, however, that Commerce Township is in the process of constructing its own senior citizen center. Ground breaking ceremonies for the Commerce senior citizen center in the Ralph C. Richardson Memorial Park were held Sunday. The structure is expected to be completed sometime next spring.

Jack proposed that Commerce provide $250 toward the funding of the program. He said he arrived at that figure based on the figures provided by Long.

"The 120 senior citizens who use the center are approximately 50 percent of the number we first considered and our funding will only be for half the year," he explained. "I just divided the original $1,000 figure by four."

Trustee Richard Higginbotham questioned the reported $5,000 cost of utilities.

"That sounds very high to me," said Higginbotham. "I find it very difficult to believe that it costs $5,000 per year to provide heat and light for one wing of that building (the old Novi Elementary School on Nvi Road near I-96)."

"It just doesn't compute," said the trustee.

The board finally voted 5-2 to provide $250 toward the program.

Dissenting ballots were cast by Hausauer and Higginbotham.

Clerk Robert McGee noted that it will be difficult to fund two senior citizen programs once the Commerce center gets underway. "We have to consider the cost of the building, staffing, and furnishings for our own center," he told citizens at the meeting.

"I just want to warn you in advance not to expect too much from us next year."

Walled Lake's Mayor won't seek reelection

Walled Lake Mayor William Roberts has apparently decided to drop out of city politics, The News learned at press time Tuesday.

Roberts, who was not telling whether he would run for re-election or seek a city council post, did not submit a nominating petition for either post by the Tuesday, 4 p.m. filing deadline.

The News was unable to reach Roberts for comment.

Mayor Pro Tem James G. Scott, who last week hinted that he might run for council, pulled a last minute surprise and declared his candidacy for mayor.

Councilman William Staman has apparently postponed his previously announced plan to retire from city politics.

Staman will seek one of three council seats up for grabs along with planning commissioner and appeals board member Walter

Township-village taxes explained

Apparently upset by a remark about the township's decision to table action on a request to help fund the senior citizen center in Novi at the August meeting, Commerce Township Supervisor Robert Long defended the township's financial position at the board's September 13 session.

"There seems to be quite a misunderstanding about the difference between township and village taxes," stated Long, apparently referring to differences between Commerce Township and Wolverine Lake Village.

Wolverine Lake Village is still a part of Commerce Township as is the City of Walled Lake even though they exist as separate units of government.

Long explained that he was prompted to make his remarks as the result of a comment that was made to him while he was attempting to determine how many Commerce Township residents actually used the senior citizen center in Novi.

Long reported that he had been told that the township shouldn't be concerned with a $1,000 donation to the senior citizen center because of all the taxes it took in.

"We collect almost $6 million in taxes each year for various units of government including the county and the school district," explained the supervisor.

"Of that amount, we only keep some $216,000 for the operation of the township. Most of the funds we collect go to the operation of our fire department which is available to serve all the residents of the township."

Long stated that the bulk of township revenue comes from such sources as federal and state revenue sharing as well as CETA programs.

"The millage rate for Commerce Township residents is 1.4 mills while the millage rate for Wolverine Lake Village is somewhere between eight and 8.5 mills," he stated.

"We operate the township on one of the lowest millage rates in Oakland County."

Long stated further that the township provides virtually the same services for Wolverine Lake Village residents as it does for the rest of the township residents.

"We provide fire protection, collect school taxes, do the assessing, and contract for library privileges for village and township residents," he said.

"We don't get any of the taxes which are levied for the operation of village government, but the village benefits from the taxes which we levy for the operation of the overall township."

"The difference in the status of a village and a township resident is a much misunderstood situation," he concluded.

School reorganizes voting precincts

Voters in the Walled Lake School District who used to cast their ballots at Walled Lake Central High School, Precinct 5, will vote at Oakley Park Elementary in the future.

As a result of a recent precinct reorganization prompted by construction at Central, Precinct 2, Union Lake, and Precinct 5 Walled Lake Central, have been divided to form Precinct 8, Oakley Park.

Voters will be notified of the precinct changes well in advance of the next school elections around May, 1978, deputy Superintendent Rolland Langerman said.

The newly organized precincts include:

—Precinct 1, Walled Lake Junior High School: Cities of Novi, Farmington Hills, and Walled Lake.

—Precinct 2, Union Lake Elementary School: section of West Bloomfield north of Middle Straits Lake and section of Commerce Township north of a line beginning at the intersection of Commerce and South Commerce roads and extending east to Edgewood Drive, south to Lower Straits Lake, and east to the township boundary line. Not included in this precinct are Carroll Lake subdivision east of Carroll Lake Road and Venetian Way, Venice, and Volga streets in Venice of the Woods subdivision.

—Precinct 3, Commerce Elementary School: section of Commerce Township north of Oakley Park Road and west of South Commerce and Carroll Lake roads but including that portion of Carroll Lake subdivision east of Carroll Lake Road plus Venetian Way, Venice and Volga streets in Venice of the Woods subdivision.

—Precinct 4, Wixom Elementary School: City of Wixom.

—Precinct 5, Glengary Elementary School: section of Commerce Township south of Oakley Park Road and east of South Commerce Road.

—Precinct 6, Twin Beach Elementary School: City of Orchard Lake and section of West Bloomfield Township south of Middle Straits Lake.

—Precinct 7, Dublin Elementary School: White Lake Township.

—Precinct 8, Oakley Park Elementary School: section of Commerce Township east of South Commerce Road and south of a line beginning at the intersection of Commerce and South Commerce roads and extending east to Edgewood Drive, south to Lower Straits Lake, and east to the township boundary line.

The number of registered voters in the district remains at 22,445, Langerman noted.

Novi school board ratifies pair of two-year contracts

The Novi Board of Education has reached agreement on a pair of contracts with the Novi transportation employees and locals 547, 547A, 547B, 547C of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

The agreements, announced at the September 15 board meeting, are both two-year pacts. The new contracts cover wages, hours and working conditions from July 1, 1977 to June 30, 1979.

For transportation employees, the 1976 salary schedule shall be increased by one percent. The school district shall also pay the employees' contribution toward the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement Fund. With the contribution paid, the total salary rise five percent on the 1977-78 schedule.

In addition, transportation employees' life insurance is increased from $5,000 to $10,000. A dental care program will be provided with a maximum expenditure of $10 per employee per month.

Bus wash time allowance is increased from $4 per bus to $4.25 in 1977-78 and increased to $5 in 1978-79.

The salary schedule for the International Union of Operating Engineers was increased by 6 percent, with the number of steps decreased from four to two. The shift premium was increased by one cent an hour.

Snell report:

By CARL T. DAVIES

Will Wolverine Lake be turned into a giant aquarium?

That is the question village residents will answer as they consider several proposals for rehabilitating their weed and muck congested lake unveiled in the long-awaited Snell report last week.

The Cadillac of the proposals is an estimated $1.26 million drawdown, excavation and aeration program designed to eliminate existing muck and weed concentrations and to prevent future accumulations.

To finance this project, owners of lakefront lots would face a one-time $680 assessment if the village cannot obtain federal funding and $340 per lot if a grant is found.

Back lot owners would pay half that amount.

Like an uncontrolled chain reaction, Wolverine Lake is an ecosystem gone awry through the introduction of excessive nutrients in surface runoff and septic systems.

Simply speaking, the nutrient excess, combined with the general lake shallowness and resultant increased penetration of sunlight, causes vegetation to flourish.

When the plants die and settle to the bottom, they decay, thereby consuming oxygen and destroying both bottom dwelling bacteria that neutralize toxic gases and animal life that feed on the decayed vegetation.

To combat this vicious debilitating cycle known as eutrophication, Snell Environmental Group is recommending, among other things, the introduction of an aeration system to restore vital oxygen to the lake bottom.

Like an aquarium filter, the aeration system provides oxygen for living things and helps precipitate nutrients such as phosphates and nitrates.

The Snell proposals, which provide various combinations of aeration, excavation, deep well flushing, weed harvesting, and stump removal at various degrees of expense, will be considered at a special public meeting to be held September 26 at Walled Lake Central High School cafeteria beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Snell engineer Duane Ellis will provide the village with strategies for obtaining federal and state funding for whatever rehabilitation program is ultimately chosen.

In addition, the water study team, which assisted Snell engineers in testing the lake, will recommend a specific program.

In a related development, the village council has appointed a finance committee composed of councilmen Dean Ratliff, Tim Kozub, and Charles Allen to study financing alternatives.

Any lake rehabilitation program will be used in combination with the two existing stop-gap measures: weed harvesting, which costs the village $9,150 annually, and dilution and flushing with an existing deep well, costing $3,250 per year.

Following is a summary of the Snell group's proposal:

—Rehabilitation Program No. 1: This drawdown and freeze operation involves lowering the lake level six feet during the winter to freeze and kill plants. Because the lake is so shallow — 80 percent of the lake volume lies in the top five feet — 60 percent of the water would be drained by this method.

The remaining six deep holes, vestiges of the original six small lakes that were flooded to form Wolverine Lake, would be connected by channels.

Four of the deep holes would be aerated with the Clean-Flo Laboratories (Minnesota) System to sustain the fish and other aquatic organisms that would be concentrated in the deep holes.

Stumps would be removed and water would be eliminated through a control valve to be constructed in the existing dam.

Estimated cost is $86,000 with a yearly operation and maintenance charge of $16,350. One time cost for each lakefront lot would be $50 without a federal grant and $25 with a federal grant. Costs for non-lakefront lots would be approximately half of the cost for lakefront lots for all proposals.

An alternative involves eliminating the aerators and installing an underwater discharge system to remove anaerobic (oxygen depleted) water from the deep holes. The lake bottom would be cleaned by removing the top four inches of sediment. Cost would be $298,000 plus $16,900 annual maintenance. Cost to lakefront lots would be $160 without the federal grant and $80 with the grant.

—Rehabilitation Program No. 2: This alternative contains essentially the same elements as the first proposal with the addition of excavating the perimeter of the shoreline to 100 feet out into the lake to various slopes and depths.

The program involves drawdown, aeration of the four main holes, and excavation to an eight-foot depth on a 1 to 7 slope.

Total cost is $840,000 with a $16,350 annual maintenance tab.

Individual cost is $460 for lakefront

Will villagers pay $1.26 million to transform lake into giant aquarium?

DNR to YMCA: base off-limits

The bid of the West Oakland YMCA to acquire the abandoned Nike Missile Base in Commerce Township for a recreation site has apparently been rejected.

Robert Moir, chairman of the board of the local YMCA group, told The News Monday that the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has denied the YMCA's request for usage of the property.

Moir was informed of the DNR's decision in a letter from Jack Butterfield, chief of the DNR's Parks Division.

The 100-acre Nike site is part of the 530-acre Pelletier Lake unit of the Proud Lake Recreation Area which is owned by the DNR. The site is designated for recreational use in the Commerce Township master plan.

The DNR's decision to deny usage of the property to the West Oakland YMCA may not necessarily be "bad news," however.

In his letter of denial to Moir, Butterfield stated that the DNR's reason for denial was that they had their own plans for development of a recreation area on the site.

Contacted in Lansing Tuesday, Butterfield explained that the DNR's Parks Division has plans to convert the Pelletier Lake unit into an outdoor recreation center similar to the one in the Proud Lake Recreation Area.

"That's been our intent for several years and we're still pursuing our original plans to develop an outdoor recreation center that can be used for the conservation education of school groups," he stated.

Interest in the plans for the Pelletier unit and abandoned Nike Missile Base has been heightened recently because of the possibility that the state may acquire the property for use as a prison site.

Members of the Joint Capitol Outlay Committee of the Michigan legislature have ordered studies on the property and are slated to visit the site later this fall.

Moir maintains that the West Oakland YMCA has been looking for a site for at least two years, but admits that attempts to acquire the Pelletier Lake unit were accelerated when the possibility that the site might also be used for a prison were first disclosed.

Moir said Monday that the DNR's letter of denial plus the projected costs of converting the Nike Missile Base have led the YMCA to all but abandon plans to renew attempts to acquire the property.

"There are a lot of problems with the site," said the YMCA Board Chairman. "The water and sewer systems would take extensive renovation and the buildings would have to be completely insulated before we could make use of the property."

"It would take quite an investment of money to attempt to bring it up to code."

Moir reported that the YMCA will attempt to locate another site for its recreation area.

Butterfield stated that the DNR has much the same concerns with renovation of the property.

"The wells and sewers on the site are definitely inadequate," he said. "The well has either failed or is completely out of service. It will be quite expensive to get the site reorganized."

Butterfield reported that the DNR has already directed engineering studies and noted that the same engineering studies have also been directed by the Joint Capitol Outlay Committee.

He admitted that he is aware of the Joint Capitol Outlay Committee's interest in acquiring the property, but added that the committee has not yet approached the DNR about acquisition of the property.

"I'm aware that they're looking at a number of sites including parcels in Allegan County and Saugatuck, but they have not yet talked to us about acquiring that piece of land in Commerce Township," he said.

Butterfield added that the Joint Capitol Outlay Committee could probably acquire the property if the legislature directed them to do so.

A harvest of weeds

Kha Thien Bui has been fighting a continuous uphill battle against weed congestion in Wolverine Lake as the village's weed harvester operator. Help may be on the way, however, as the village deliberates which of the Snell Environmental Group's proposed lake rehabilitation programs it will adopt. Residents may learn more about the Snell report and alternatives for financing the lake clean-up effort by attending a special public meeting September 26 at 8:30 p.m. in the Walled Lake Central cafeteria.

Schools readying for more students

Board will discuss audit

The Walled Lake School board will hold a special meeting September 26 to consider the audit report of the previous school year finances and to hear a grievance by a junior high school cook.

The district's financial status as of June 30 and to provide a routine list of recommendations for improving bookkeeping and accounting procedures at the meeting which will begin 8 p.m. at the administration offices at 695 North Pontiac Trail.

In addition, the board will hear a grievance by Katherine Siekas, the head cook demoted during the summer and reinstated earlier this month by Superintendent Dr. Don Sheldon.

Sheldon reinstated Mrs. Siekas because her superiors had violated the master contract by failing to give her proper notice of her demotion.

The superintendent, however, declined to honor Mrs. Siekas' request to have her original evaluation, which found her unsatisfactory in seven of eight performance criteria, expunged from her records.

Mrs. Siekas, who requested the public hearing on her grievance, said she will ask the board for an administrative re-evaluation of her performance, as well as a reimbursement for expenses in fighting the demotion.

Evelyn Brown, a teacher at Twin Beach Elementary and former president of the Walled Lake Education Association (WLEA), will represent Mrs. Siekas at Monday's hearing.

Pill or no pill, enrollment in the Walled Lake schools is projected to rise by 1,093 students over the next five years, according to Deputy Superintendent Rolland Langerman.

Because of mushrooming housing starts, student population is expected to increase from the current level of 11,630 to 12,723 by 1982, with the greatest concentration in the elementary grades.

By the end of the current school year, 209 additional students will have enrolled: 109 at the elementary level, 43 in junior high school, and 57 in senior high school, Langerman estimated.

Langerman, who has attended meetings of municipal planning commissions within the school district, said he based his projections on single family and multiple housing projects that have already been approved for construction.

The estimates are firm, he emphasized.

As a result of Langerman's projections, the school board last week authorized the deputy superintendent to develop a proposal for a citizens advisory committee to study future building needs.

During the late 1950's and early 1960's, the district's population grew on the average of 335 students per year, Langerman recalled.

That trend slowed down in the late 1960's and early 1970's, Langerman said, because of such factors as the birth control pill, depression in the housing market, and a trend toward condominium living.

Increased construction of single family homes — which tend to contain more children than multiples — since the M-275 project was scuttled last winter, will contribute toward the enrollment increase, Langerman said.

The influx of elementary students is expected to reverse a trend in which the majority of students had progressed through increasingly higher grade levels, Langerman said.

In addition, Langerman noted that an additional 14 projects, most of them single family units, which have not received final approval, could affect enrollments after 1978.

Langerman did not include those projects in his calculations, however.

Elementary schools expecting the highest student increases by the end of this year are: Maple, 26 students; Dublin, 25; Loon Lake, 22; Twin Beach, 13; Union Lake, 8; Wixom, 7; Keith, 5; and Oakley Park, 3.

By June, Walled Lake Junior High should have an additional 24 students, while the enrollment at Clifford Smart should increase by 19.

Western High should have 25 and Central should increase by 59, while Western's is expected to rise by 162 for a total of 221 new high school students.

In the junior high schools, Clifford Smart should increase by 47, while Walled Lake Junior High should have an additional 145 for a total of 192 students.

The five-year totals for the elementary schools include: Maple, 238; Wixom, 178; Walled Lake, 87; Dublin, 60; Loon Lake, 53; Twin Beach, 35; Union Lake, 13; Keith, 13; and Oakley Park, 3; for a grand total of 680 youngsters.

No increases are expected at Commerce, Decker, and Glengary schools, Langerman said.

Controversial hi-rise hearing set

A large contingent of vocal Walled Lake residents is expected to attend a public hearing set by the city council to consider a ban on future high rise development in the city.

Responding to a petition signed by some 200 residents seeking to limit building height to two stories, the council set the public hearing for September 28 at 8 p.m. in the city hall.

The petition, submitted to the council last April, called for "a public hearing on the matter of amending the zoning ordinance to prohibit the building of any structure in the City of Walled Lake over two stories high."

The council submitted the petitions to the planners, seeking a recommendation.

The planners in June recommended against holding the hearing, although no reasons for the denial were specified in the recommendation.

During discussion of the petitions, planners indicated that the petitions were vague in that an actual height limitation in feet was not specified.

According to former Councilwoman Ruth Tuttle, an organizer of the petition drive, opponents of high-rise buildings may be willing to "negotiate" the proposed height limits on future construction.

If the council acts to limit high rise development, the existing multiple zoning classification permitting 60-foot buildings and the commercial zoning classification permitting 50-foot structures, would be modified.

In seeking the zoning amendment, the petitioners cited the following reasons: excessive traffic, possibility of increased crime, urban sprawl and potential blight, increased taxes to provide services for additional residents, and higher assessments and resultant tax increases for residents living near future high-rise buildings.

The move to ban high-rises was apparently spurred by the 160-unit, six-story senior citizens apartment building now under construction at the intersection of Ladd Road and Pontiac Trail.

The senior citizens building plus 100 family cluster units are slated to be ready for occupancy within a year.

Lake study unveiled lots without the federal grant and $230 with the grant.

An alternative approach would involve aerating only two deep holes and using the underflow drawdown system.

Total cost for this method is $1,092,000 with a $16,900 yearly maintenance cost.

Lakefront lots would be assessed $600 without the federal grant and $300 with the grant.

—Rehabilitation Program No. 3: This alternative is essentially the same as the second proposal with the addition of sanding the shoreline and covering the shoreline with polyethylene plastic sheeting to a depth of six feet.

The plastic would prevent nutrient flow and inhibit plant growth through the sand.

This program would cost $1,080,000 with an annual maintenance cost of $16,350.

Front lot owners would pay $590 per lot without the grant and $290 with the grant.

A $1,261,000 alternative would include underflow drawdown, the addition of a deep well, and various slope levels for the sanding.

That alternative, the Cadillac of proposals, would cost each front lot owner $680 without the grant and $340 with the grant (recalling that rear lot owners only pay half that amount).

Yearly maintenance would cost $16,900.

—Rehabilitation Program No. 4: This $1,023,000 alternative involves lake drawdown, near shore excavation, and aerating the entire lake rather than just the deep areas.

Sanding of the shoreline is not included.

Aerators would initially be placed in the deep holes during the winter drawdown.

Before the entire Clean-Flo system is installed a trial system would be operated in the Penny Lake area to determine if the aeration is suitable for the entire lake.

A cleanser using calcium and aluminum compounds to precipitate the nutrients would be introduced.

Cost per front lot is $550 with the grant and $275 without the grant.

Annual maintenance cost is $24,400.

An alternative involving additional deep-hole construction and various near-shore excavation slopes would cost $1,257,000 with annual maintenance totalling $16,900.

Cost for front lots is $680 without the grant, $340 with the grant.

—Rehabilitation Program No. 5: This alternative involves only the use of the aeration system.

For an estimated $89,000 the village can aerate Penny Lake alone. Price tag includes the lake cleanser as well as aerobic bacteria.

This proposal would cost front lot owners $50 with the grant and $425 without the grant.

Aerating the entire lake without any of the other rehabilitative methods would cost some $204,200 with a $24,400 annual maintenance charge.

Cost per front lot without the grant is $110 and $55 with the grant.

Three scouts honored

Three past or present Walled Lake Central students received scouting's highest honor — the Eagle Scout Award — at special court of honor ceremonies Monday. The three (left to right) — Christian Cooper, Peter Cooper and Thomas Rogers — are all members of Troop 160 which meets every Monday at the Orchard Lake Community Presbyterian Church. Christian and Tom graduated from Central last year, while Peter is a senior at Central this year. Only one out of every 400 boys who enter scouting ever achieve the Eagle Award.

Scout Troop 160 inducts three Eagle scouts at court of honor

The highest award in boy scouting is the Eagle Award.

And so it was a particularly momentous occasion for Lakes Area Boy Scout Troop 160 Monday when not one — but three — members of the troop received their Eagle Awards in a special court of honor at the Orchard Lake Community Presbyterian Church.

Dr. George Rogers, leader of the troop, noted that only one out of every 400 boys who enter scouting ever achieves the Eagle Award.

"Larger troops occasionally have anywhere from three to six Eagle Scouts per year, but for a troop of just 26 boys to have three Eagle Scouts in one year is a bit of a rarity," stated Dr. Rogers.

Troop 160 has had an average of one Eagle Scout per year for each of the 21 years it has been in existence.

In order to obtain the highest honor in boy scouting, a scout must have demonstrated leadership capabilities, earned 24 different merit badges, and completed a specially-approved community service project.

The three members of Troop 160 who received their Eagle Awards in ceremonies Monday were Christian R. Cooper, Peter C. Cooper, and Thomas G. Rogers.

The Cooper brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cooper of Warren Drive in Orchard Lake, while Rogers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers of Locklin Lane in Union Lake.

Christian Cooper joined the troop in May of 1970 and has served as patrol leader and senior patrol leader.

The name of his Eagle Service Project was the Apple Island Conservation Project which involved contacting the Friends of Apple Island Committee and the Orchard Lake Historical Society to plan and construct erosion barriers on the island.

Christian, 18, was salutatorian of the 1977 graduating class at Walled Lake Central High School. He will be a freshman at Michigan State University this fall.

Peter Cooper, 17, joined the troop in 1971 and has served as patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader, and bugler. Name of his community service project was the West Acres Nature Trail Construction Project in which he identified existing shrubs and trees in the area, constructed wooden markers to identify the flora, and then conducted tours of the completed nature area.

He is a senior at Walled Lake Central High School this year.

Thomas Rogers, 18, joined the troop in January of 1970 and has served as patrol leader and junior assistant scout master.

His community service project involved working with the trustees of the Orchard Lake Community Church to plan the removal of shrubs from the base of the manse which was slated to be razed. The project involved removal of the plants and shrubs and relocating them at a site on the church property so they could be preserved. Rogers supervised four other scouts in completion of the project.

Dr. Rogers noted that everyone of the 26 members of the troop will receive one honor or another for accomplishments during the past year at Monday's awards ceremonies.

"We try to keep our troop relatively small so that we can do a quality job of supervising all our boys," he stated.

Troop 160 meets every Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Orchard Lake Community Church. People interested in learning more about the boy scouting program can contact Dr. Rogers at 363-1312 or Committee Chairman Hugh Freeman at 363-7957.

Meeting explains Providence plan has been opposed by the Hospital Study Committee.

The Hospital Study Committee maintains that the need for an ambulatory facility has been documented. Further, it has endorsed Providence Hospital's proposal to locate the facility in Novi.

Local officials hope that a large turnout of local citizens may influence the decision of whether or not a medical care facility will be located in Novi.

However, the final decision is likely to be based on statistical data.

To determine whether a facility is needed, analysts use a formula called the "Medically Underserved Index." It includes such components as the percentage of the population over 65, the percentage of the population below the poverty level, infant mortality rate, and the number of doctors in the area per 1,000 population.

By weighing the values of these components and adding them together, analysts determined that the West Oakland County area had a score of 87.5. According to agency standards, an area must score below 62 before it is considered to be medically underserved.

The writers of the CHPC-SEM report acknowledge, however, that 90 percent of all the doctors in the study area reside in Farmington Hills and West Bloomfield and that there could be pockets of underserved areas within Western Oakland County.

The CHPC-SEM report also noted that the "age adjusted death rates" are lower in Oakland County than in any of the other counties in Southeastern Michigan. That finding points to a conclusion that the area is "healthier" than other counties.

afford to pay teachers. He said he thought there was a communication problem on both sides.

Michigan Education Association Uniserv Representative John Saltzgeber, contacted after the meeting, said he was a "little irritated" that the board was already assuming we would strike. They made a threat that they would fire us if we strike."

Saltzgeber says that such comments from the school board can create a bad feeling between the two parties. He says the teachers are only trying to get a contract that will reflect the rising consumer costs in the Detroit area.

"Every time we see them open up another bargaining session, we hope we can get a settlement," Saltzgeber says. "Striking is not our goal."

Commissioner seeks support for parkway proposal

By PHIL JEROME

With the State Highway Commission slated to make a decision on alternatives to M-275 at its September 28 meeting, local officials are attempting to demonstrate support for their own particular preferences.

Oakland County Commissioners Robert McConnell and Robert Gorsline have been attending meetings of local governmental units in recent weeks to seek approval of a resolution calling for the commission to endorse a four-lane divided highway, the so-called "Commerce Township parkway proposal."

Stephen M. Rosman, chairman of Citizens in Opposition to M-275, has been attempting to show that the true support of the residents of West Oakland County is firmly behind the "Haggerty Road corridor" proposal which involves cancellation of the Northwestern Highway extension and designating Haggerty Road as a state trunk line (see related story on this page).

Both efforts were apparently spurred by comments from members of the highway commission which indicated that they wanted to know what "the people" wanted.

Rosman's campaign involves the collection of letters from various area citizen and environmental groups.

McConnell and Gorsline, on the other hand, have taken their battle to public officials in local government.

The resolution which local officials are being asked to endorse calls for support of "the Commerce Township proposal for the construction of a four-lane divided highway."

The resolution provides something of an "out" for both the commission and local officials, however, because it also resolves that "if for technical or environmental reasons the exact alignment proposed by the Commerce Township Plan cannot be implemented quickly, it is recommended that elements or portions of the Lakeland Parkway proposal and the Commerce Township proposal be combined for the final project."

McConnell told The News that the purpose of the campaign is to form a consensus of opinion behind the Commerce Township parkway proposal which can be presented to the members of the Highway Commission. "It's just an effort to demonstrate that the local units of government will best fill their needs," he stated.

McConnell denied that he is part of a larger effort to drum up support for the construction of a parkway. He and Gorsline had been working on the project together, he said.

The campaign to demonstrate support for the parkway proposal has been generally successful.

The Oakland County Board of Commissioners adopted the resolution by a 19-4 margin.

The White Lake Township Board adopted the resolution unanimously.

The Commerce Township Board adopted the resolution by a voice vote. Dissenting votes were cast by Trustees John Jack and Richard Higginbotham.

Novi's City Council adopted the resolution Monday by a 4-2 margin.

Dissenting ballots were cast by Councilmen Robert Schmid and James Shaw.

In supporting the resolution, Novi Mayor Gilbert Henderson asked how long it would be before "people along that route will start begging for a freeway."

McConnell said he would also take his resolution to the Oakland County Board of Commissioners. Although the board has not yet acted on the specific resolution, it has already endorsed a parkway concept as the top alternative to the cancellation of M-275.

McConnell was scheduled to present the resolution to the Walled Lake City Council last night (Tuesday).

The only opposition to the resolution has come from the Springfield Township Board and the Wolverine Lake Village Council.

The Springfield Township Board rejected the resolution, but McConnell reported that the basis for their action was that they wanted the original M-275 alignment only and were not in favor of any other route.

Wolverine Lake Village tabled action on the resolution, stating that it was too general and vague.

Is there in fact a consensus for either the parkway or the alternative proposed by the Citizens in Opposition to M-275?

At this point, both parties say yes. Citizens in Opposition to M-275 maintain that the best indication of the true feelings of Western Oakland County residents was provided by the referendum ballot in Commerce Township last year in which the original M-275 freeway proposal was rejected by a 57-43 percent margin.

Seeking to minimize the effects of the referendum, proponents of the parkway alternative point out that the referendum concerned only a freeway and made no mention of a parkway.

Terry Kot, a member of the Commerce Township Road Study Committee, told the State Highway Commission in August that he had voted against a freeway but was totally in support of a parkway.

State Representative Richard Fessler told the commission at the same meeting that he believed the people in his district were strongly in favor of a parkway.

In all likelihood, the efforts of McConnell and Rosman will probably balance each other off.

With the question of "what do the people want" effectively muddled, the highway commission must then turn to the question of what is, in fact, the best solution to the burgeoning traffic problems in West Oakland County.

Support grows for Haggerty route

A ground swell of support is developing for the so-called "Haggerty Road corridor" proposed by Citizens in Opposition to M-275 as the top alternative to construction of the freeway.

That, at any rate, is the contention of Stephen M. Rosman, chairman of the citizens' group whose protest led the State Highway Commission to cancel plans to construct the freeway last January.

Now Rosman is attempting to show that the "Haggerty Road corridor" proposed by his group is not only the top alternative to the freeway but also has the support of area residents.

Armed with a stack of letters of support from various local and state groups and agencies, Rosman contacted The News last week and maintained that there is strong support for the Haggerty Road corridor proposal.

Characterizing his campaign as a battle between "the people and the developers," Rosman said he was attempting to demonstrate that there is a "ground swell of support for the improvement of the Haggerty Road corridor and the cancellation of the extension of Northwestern Highway."

"The point is that all the pressure (for the Haggerty Road corridor) is not visible," stated Rosman. "We have done nothing overt to demonstrate that there is a substantial number of people behind our alternative."

"But the support for our alternative is definitely there. It's a ground swell. It's nothing that I'm contriving."

Included among the letters of support for the Haggerty Road corridor proposal were endorsements from seven organizations: the Concerned Citizens for West Bloomfield, the West Bloomfield-Farmington Area League of Women Voters, the Rouge Basin Coalition, the Citizen's Council for Land Use Research and Education (CLURE), the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC), the Council of Homeowners Associations, the Associations of Farmington Hills, Inc., and the Detroit Group of the Mackinac Chapter Sierra Club.

Each of the documents exhibited by Rosman were copies of letters sent to Peter B. Fletcher, chairman of the state highway commission.

Copies of the letters had also been sent to the other three members of the commission: Carl Pellonpa, Hannes Meyers, and Weston Vivian.

Rosman said that the letters represented a mere "drop in the bucket" of the letters of support for the alternative of the Citizens in Opposition to M-275.

"The point I'm making is that a substantial number of people are behind our proposal," he said.

There are eight major points in the alternative proposed by Citizens in Opposition to M-275. Their alternative envelopes the following plan:

- Cancel the extension of Northwestern Highway.
- Construct a new intersection at Northwestern Highway, 14 Mile, and Orchard Lake Roads.
- Widen Orchard Lake Road to five lanes from Grand River to Pontiac Trail.
- Improve Haggerty Road and designate it a state trunk line from Grand River Avenue to Union Lake Road.

-Improve 14 Mile and Maple Roads west of Orchard Lake Road.

-Surface the one remaining unpaved mile of Farmington Road from 14 Mile to Maple Road.

-Widen I-696 from Telegraph west to three lanes in each direction to alleviate the present congestion at I-696 and Northwestern.

-Explore design alternatives wherever possible which will help to retain the environmental sensitivity and beauty of a township whose wetlands, streams, and 25 lakes shed water into three major rivers — the Huron, Clinton, and Rouge.

Rosman stated that the proposal offered by Citizens in Opposition to M-275 has been erroneously termed the "upgrading of local roads" alternative.

"We don't mean that at all," he said. "We're not talking about upgrading of local roads. What we want is for the road commission to designate Haggerty Road as a state trunk line."

Rosman also stated that he hoped the State Highway Commission would make some sort of a decision when it meets in Lansing on September 28. The commission is slated to make a decision on the M-275 alternatives on that date. "We have serious traffic problems out here in this part of the county," stated Rosman. "We're aware of that. We never denied it."

"Something has to be done and we believe that improvement of the Haggerty Road corridor and cancellation of Northwestern Highway are the top alternative."

"A decision to do nothing would be a horrendous decision."

Walled Lake 'sells' SWOVEC for $4

The Oakland County Intermediate School District last week "bought" the Southwest Oakland Vocational Center (SWOVEC) on Beck Road from the Walled Lake schools and three other districts for four dollars.

What sounds like the real estate deal of the century was actually a legal maneuver enabling the intermediate district to borrow $1.8 million to continue operating the center.

The SWOVEC title, transferred to the intermediate district until 1984, will serve as collateral for the intermediate schools' loan.

Clarkston, Royal Oak, and Pontiac districts, which also hold title to SWOVEC, have already approved the title transfer.

The title transfer will not affect current operations in any way, said Walled Lake Deputy Superintendent Roland Langerman.

There will be no millage increase either in the intermediate or the local districts.

The title will revert to the local districts once the intermediate district pays off the bonds, he added.

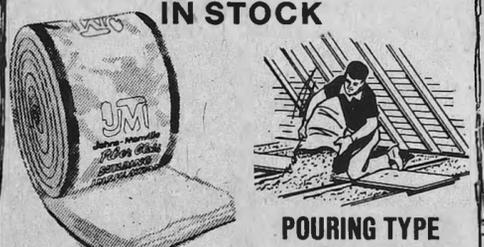

Walled Lake Planning Commission

Chairman Kenneth Tucker asked what would happen if the intermediate schools did not pay off their loan by 1984.

"Then we'd have to discuss an amendment to the amendment to the original agreement," Langerman responded.

Home Decorating with

Howard & Lois Green

Hallways have split personalities - no wonder, since they are broken up with windows, doors, stairways and corners. They may even wander through your house, up the stairs to the second floor, connect your den and dining room or be the hub of your living space. As such, they require attention and may be difficult to decorate. First impressions count when guests enter your home so it is best to keep hallways calm and flowing with woodwork and doors painted in the same tones as the walls. If you decide to use a "drop dead" wall covering, carry the theme to the second floor for continuity. Make your hall say something about your home - it can be an informal or elegant statement - an introduction to your person world.

For more ideas on how to decorate your home, talk to us at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. Groundbreaking ceremonies

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new $120,000 Commerce Township senior citizen center were held Sunday in conjunction with the township's open house. Doing the honors with the shovel were Bruce Enfield, chairman of the parks and recreation commission (center left) and Supervisor Robert Long. Also participating in the ceremonies were (left to right) Mrs. Avis Coe, Mrs. Helen Harnden, Carey Stevenson, Mrs. Arthur Richardson, Mrs.

Blanche Cummins, County Commissioner Robert McConnell, treasurer Patrick Dohany, Arthur Richardson, Trustee Kenneth Hausauer, Trustee Edward Holmes, State Representative Richard Fessler, Judge Gene Schnelz, and Commerce Township Area Historical Society President Robert Donohue, Jr. The new senior citizen center will be located in the Ralph C. Richardson Memorial Park.

K-Mart case headed for courts

The question of whether or not a K-Mart Store will be located in Commerce Township is now up to the courts.

Even though a proposed settlement of the long-standing legal dispute had been tentatively approved by the Commerce Township Board at a special meeting in August, official approval of the agreement was delayed for several weeks as attorneys for both sides worked out minor technicalities in wording.

Those technicalities have now been resolved, however, and Commerce Township officials as well as representatives of Oakland Housing, Commerce Woods Development Company, and Ramco Associates placed their signatures on the proposed settlement last week.

The agreement, which comes in the form of a consent order, is slated to be presented to Judge John N. O'Brien of the Oakland County Circuit Court today (Wednesday).

No hearing date has yet been established.

Commerce Township Supervisor Robert Long reported that the official agreement is virtually identical to the one approved by the board at the special meeting in August with only several minor changes.

The proposed settlement of the complicated legal dispute basically involves an agreement on the part of both the township and the parties involved with K-Mart to enter a consent order to Judge O'Brien.

As grounds for submitting the question to the courts, the township agreed to waive all rights to appeal Judge O'Brien's decision. Commerce Woods, Ramco Associates, and Oakland Housing were granted the right to appeal the decision, but agreed to waive some $17,750 in attorney's and expert witness fees that have been previously assessed against the township.

Under the terms of the settlement, Judge O'Brien will be asked to rule on two key questions:

1. Whether the general mercantile building (K-Mart) contemplated in the previously approved site plan is governed by the C-1 zoning standards in effect when the site plan was originally submitted in 1972 or the C-1 zoning standards as defined in the present township zoning ordinance.

2. Whether the general mercantile building proposed for the property is a proper C-1 use under either of the two zoning ordinances.

Should O'Brien rule in favor of Commerce Woods, Ramco, and Oakland Housing on the second question, construction of the proposed K-Mart Store will presumably begin.

However, development of the store will be governed by further stipulations which appear in the agreement between the two parties.

The settlement stipulates that if the K-Mart is developed, it must be developed in a manner equal in quality to the original proposal presented to the township planning commission with the exception that external elevations shall be of a standard K-Mart prototype store.

The developers also agreed that no building for the sale of tires and accessories shown on the previous site plan shall be constructed. If the sale of tires and accessories is located on the site, it must be within the originally proposed 84,000 square feet of the store.

The developers agreed further to "use its best interests to convince K-Mart to minimize any and all sign requirements."

Both parties agreed that the records submitted to the court will consist solely of those records, exhibits, and testimony that were previously submitted.

The key question that O'Brien must now decide is whether or not a K-Mart can be construed as a "local business" use.

Under the former ordinance, C-1 was defined as a "local business district." Purpose of the district was "to provide, at a limited number of locations, a selection of retail stores and services for the everyday convenience of surrounding neighborhood trade areas."

There were no minimum or maximum square footage requirements under the former ordinance.

Under the present ordinance, C-1 is also defined as a "local business district." The district is "designed solely for the convenience shopping of persons residing in adjacent residential areas to permit only such uses as are necessary to satisfy those limited basic shopping and-or service needs which, by their very nature and size, are not related to the shopping pattern of township-wide (community) or regional shopping centers."

The present C-1 definition also mandates that total site size shall not exceed 10 acres and total floor area of the primary tenant shall not exceed 40,000 square feet.

The proposed site of the K-Mart Store is 12.4 acres, while the store itself has been pegged at 84,000 square feet.

Once O'Brien has ruled which C-1 definition is applicable to the site, he will then be asked to rule if an 84,000 square foot mercantile building is properly defined as a "local business" use.

As We See It

Rhetoric confuses school negotiations

The voices have become so loud in the Novi teachers vs. school board confrontation, it's become difficult to hear anyone speak.

The teachers claim the board is grossly unfair for failing to meet their demands, as well as threatening the quality of the education of Novi's youth. The board claims accepting the demands would force the school into illegal deficit budgeting — making criminals of them all.

It doesn't take the wisdom of Solomon to figure that neither position is too close to the truth. Inherent in the negotiating process is the ability to argue for positions you know no one really believes. If you want seven percent, ask for nine. If you'll give seven percent, offer five.

The sad part is that too many people seem unaware of the rules of the game and thus actually believe what the negotiators are saying. As a result, real issues are clouded and tempers flare, as occurred at the last school board meeting.

When the meeting was opened up to audience comments, a number of speakers rose to give their assessment of the situation. If we were to believe many of the speakers, if the contract is not approved to the teachers' liking, many of our instructors will line the street to sell pencils and apples.

Politics and Parker theory and reality

The public relations offensive announced by Walled Lake City Manager Peter Parker last week is a step in the right direction.

Labeling his strategy "Wallburst," Parker said the idea developed from an article in a professional journal about the "Sunburst" policy adopted by the City of Clearwater, Florida.

The "Sunburst" policy makes public documents and city officials readily accessible to the public.

Under Parker's "Wallburst" version of the policy, the city manager will be available from 2-3:30 p.m. every Wednesday for the sole purpose of meeting the public.

Residents will also be able to read the documents of supplementary information normally supplied only to city council members by stopping by at city hall on the Friday afternoons before meetings.

Residents will be able to obtain copies of the documents at a nominal charge to cover administrative (copying) costs.

On one level, "Wallburst" can be construed to consist of only minor gains. Michigan's Freedom of Information Act states clearly that citizens have the right to

The issue, we were told, is the quality of our children's education.

The issue, we were told, is the dignity of Novi teachers.

The issue, we were told, is whether the teachers can survive with their present income.

But outside of what we were told, all we could see as being the issue was about $225 per teacher. What keeps the Novi school board and the teachers from ratifying a contract is about $225 per teacher per year.

Not the difference between graduating illiterates and Shakespeares, not the difference between poverty and affluence, not the difference between squalor and dignity, but simply the difference between $14,775 and $15,000, give or take a few dollars. It just doesn't seem that much to scream about — at least not that loudly.

We want to emphasize that we see no reason against the teachers being granted the additional $225. We also can understand why the school board would like to keep that money. We just feel the issue is not one that should be lost beneath a cloud of fine-sounding, but meaningless, slogans. The issue should be understood for what it is, not for what some would like it to be.

obtain virtually all public documents. Further, public officials should routinely be available to the public within reasonable constraints.

But the Freedom of Information Act does not prohibit officials from making it difficult for citizens to obtain certain documents. They may ask that the request for the document be put in writing and may then postpone delivery for up to five days.

On another level, however, implementation of "Wallburst" has a much broader import.

Parker tends to be a "textbook" administrator, a technician who believes that the role of a city manager is to direct the operations of the city.

In theory he is correct. The city manager position should be apolitical.

But in practice, a city manager must be political in order to survive. That's not the way it should be, but it is the way it is.

Announcement of "Wallburst" is an indication that Parker has recognized the wishes of residents and the press for more accessibility and is willing to adjust.

HERMAN COLEMAN

YES . . .

For the record, the Michigan Education Association supports Senate Bill 714 which would extend unemployment compensation to school services personnel during periods when the schools are not in session.

We find only thing to fault in this bill and that is that it does not include teachers who also face an unpaid layoff during such times. Teachers are, as other employees, forcibly unemployed during the summer weeks.

We are supporting the bill in spite of the omission because we recognize that the people who will be covered are those workers at the lowest end of the pay scale, many of them part-time, and we seek equity for them.

The concept of compensating employees who, through no fault or wish of their own, are unemployed during a portion of the year is accepted in some of the more important private industries in Michigan.

For example: the auto industry faces downtime each year in preparation for the model change. Workers are regularly laid off during this period and are able to draw unemployment compensation.

We seek no more and no less for school employees and only hope that in the near future they will also have financial support during those times when their place of business is closed.

Speaking for Myself

Pay unemployment to school workers?

(during summer)

JACK MEEDER

NO . . .

Senate Bill 714 is an unemployment compensation proposal designed to bring Michigan into compliance with new federal unemployment compensation standards.

Under current Michigan law, school employees are not entitled to collect unemployment compensation benefits during the summer months or during the vacation and holiday recesses that occur during the school year.

S.B. 714 was amended in the Senate Labor Committee to allow that practice to stand. Without those amendments, however, school employees who are not teachers or administrators will be eligible for benefits for the first time.

The new federal unemployment compensation standards do not require the state to extend eligibility to non-professional school employees for holiday and vacation periods that occur within the school year. The federal standards do make such legislation permissible. At least 16 states have already refused to grant these extra benefits.

It is difficult to understand why school employees should be paid during periods when students are not in school. Those who want full-year employment should seek other work.

It would be tragic to lay off needed teachers or other personnel to pay unemployment compensation to employees who never expected it and who, in many cases, do not want full-year employment.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Children reflect our changing society.

This observation, which nettled my recent vacation, was triggered by the voices that came drifting on the summer breeze through the shrubbery as I read the morning paper on the backyard patio.

Children's voices at play near the edge of the garage.

There's nothing quite as sweet and raucous as children at play, I thought, switching from the story on ex-banker Lance to the one about human-chewing bears in northern Ontario.

Then one of them was saying in a voice of anguish, "Aw, Becky, you don't do it right. You're supposed to put the apple on his head."

Suddenly, the bear story was unimportant. And an ever-suspicious parent conjured up an awful picture of one child with an apple on his head while another took aim with a bow and arrow.

"Hey, you kids, what are you doing?" I shouted through the bushes. Silence. "What are you doing?" I insisted.

"Playing." More silence.

The papers scattered as I leaped up from the lounge, took the stairs two at a time and raced around the corner of the garage to reach them before one released the arrow.

But instead of a junior William Tell, three surprised youngsters looked up from their coloring book as I moved in to snatch their bow and arrow.

"Oh, that's nice," I said sheepishly, retreating to the patio to retrieve the paper.

Soon, kids' voices again.

"I'm tired of coloring," said one. "You don't do it right," admonished another. And the third suggested, "Let's play house."

Ah, now there's a familiar old game, I thought growing a little nostalgic.

This Week in Lansing

By Richard Fessler

TAXATION ISSUES: Two major taxation issues that will affect both businesses and the individual property taxpayer are likely to be considered during the fall session that began this week.

I would predict that revisions in the Single Business Tax (SBT) will be the number one issue undertaken this fall and the issue of changing the method of financing the operation of public schools will also come before the full legislative body.

As you may recall, we reported earlier that the House Taxation Committee held public hearings earlier this summer, and after several meetings reached agreement on proposals to change the SBT.

Those proposed changes, which will likely be before us very soon, provide relief to small, low-profit businesses which were excessively burdened when the SBT was implemented.

I expect that much time will be taken debating the changes in the SBT. This task will not be an easy one.

The other taxation issue that will benefit homeowners in House Joint Resolution C, is sponsored by my Republican colleague, Representative Roy Smith of Saline.

House Joint Resolution C is a ballot proposal that the legislature will be asked to submit to the people in the November 1978 election.

Under this proposal, local school districts would be allowed to levy only a 6-mil enrichment tax if approved by voters. The lion's share of financial support of public schools would be taken away from the property tax and made up through an increase in the state personal income tax.

Local governments, community colleges, vocational and special education programs and the intermediate school districts would continue to be funded through the property tax.

This proposal was introduced with substantial bipartisan support and reported to the full House by the taxation committee.

VACATION PAY: One of the most pressing problems we will face during the fall session is the question of unemployment compensation benefits for non-professional school employees during summer and other vacation periods.

Our present state law denies these benefits to all school employees, both professional and non-professional. The philosophy behind this law is that school employees are aware when they take their jobs that they will not be required to work during traditional school vacations and are reasonably certain of regaining their jobs when vacation is over.

However, there is now a bill in the Senate which would change the law in regard to non-professional school employees such as cooks, janitors and bus drivers. This bill would require school districts throughout the state to provide jobless pay benefits during summer, winter and spring vacations to their part-time employees, continuing to deny benefits for teachers and administrators.

It has been estimated that passage of this bill would cost more than $56 million—the equivalent of nearly one mill in additional property taxes. If the bill is passed, either the homeowners of the state would be forced to pay increased property taxes to cover this added cost, or education services for our children would have to be reduced.

No doubt there will be heated debate in the Senate, and the bill may never even reach the House. I will be keeping my eye on it, and would encourage you to express your opinions on the bill to your state senator now.

KINCHELOE FUNDED: Governor Milliken has signed into law the supplemental appropriations bill which clears the way for converting Kincheloe Air Force Base into a correctional facility.

A total of $3.5 million is included in the act for remodeling the base abandoned by the government several months ago. Of that amount, $1.7 million will be spent immediately to ready the facility for prisoners as early as October 1.

The bill, as you may recall, was the subject of a special one-day legislative session which interrupted the summer recess. The bill was originally held up in the Senate during budget debates last spring in an attempt to force a compromise on the State Police budget. However, the legislature must deal with that issue now that we have reconvened.

POLLUTION FIGHTERS: Attorney generals for the states of Michigan and Illinois have requested that the U.S. District Court in Chicago enter a pollution abatement order against Milwaukee for polluting Lake Michigan.

Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley has charged Milwaukee with "foot dragging on pollution control that has caused the current threat to the water quality of Lake Michigan."

The Wisconsin city, he said, is dumping raw sewage or inadequately treated sewage into the lake which is damaging the states of Illinois and Michigan. The two attorney generals are seeking an order requiring Milwaukee to immediately begin a $300 million pollution control program.

I am encouraged by the kind of tough pollution abatement program that the two attorney generals have proposed the court rule on in the Milwaukee case. Incidentally, Milwaukee wants to make any pollution control program contingent on receiving federal funds. Kelley and Illinois Attorney General William Scott believe this is contradictory to a July court opinion which found in favor of the two states.

The states of Michigan and Illinois have already received successful rulings regarding the pollution of Lake Michigan by the Wisconsin cities of Racine, Kenosha, and East Milwaukee.

County slates seminars

Oakland County government will sponsor a series of seminars for local government officials, it was announced today by Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy.

Murphy said the objective of the seminars will be to develop management skills, inter-personal skills, and the improvement of organizational productivity and effectiveness.

The seminars will cover such matters as analyzing and reducing performance problems, understanding and motivating employees, maintaining effective discipline, improving communication, and selecting and interviewing new employees. Each series of seminars will be held one day a week for five weeks. Information is available through the Oakland County Personnel Department, 858-1850. Registration infor-

Annual jump pegged at $25

Sewer rate increase hits Novi

Novi residents will face a substantial increase in sewage bills, Finance Director Fred Todd reported at the September 19 city council meeting.

The average quarterly sewer bill will increase from $10.80 to $17.10, based on consumption of 30,000 gallons per quarter. Todd estimates the yearly jump to be about $25.

"This is what we have to pay for clean water," Councilman Phil Goodman said. "It is unfortunate we have to pay so much, but it is worth it."

Todd commented that this increase is merely one of many increases consumers can expect in the next several years. The only consolation, Todd said, is that while our rates have gone up 78 percent, Detroit's rate has doubled.

Todd says the costs have jumped because Novi must subscribe to the Detroit sewage treatment facilities and the rising costs of cleaning the Detroit River is being passed on.

"Everyone wants a clean environment," Todd commented. "But it looks like we're going to have to pay for it, too."

The boost in sewage rates to Novi citizens is caused by the increase in the Huron Rouge Sewage Disposal System rates to 93 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of effluent. This represents the second rate increase in less than nine months. On January 1, sewer rates were increased 27 cents per 1,000 feet.

Since January, sewer treatment charges to Novi have increased 79 percent.

The charge for city customers has risen from 26 cents for 1,000 gallons in September, 1975 to 57 cents for the same services in August, 1977.

Todd noted that certain sewer customer rates are based on flat charges, since they are not connected to a metered water service. Flat rates for these customers should be increased from $11.75 to $17.25 based on a quarterly consumption of 30,000 gallons.

In other action, the council: —approved resolutions allowing the city to seek bids for completion of the community building at Lakeshore Park and for other developments at the site. The Parks and Recreation Department plans on placing about $80,000 into the park renovation.

—set October 17 as the date to consider applications for liquor licenses. Anthony Capaldi asked the council to consider granting a license for use in a bowling alley that would be constructed on Haggerty Road between Grand River and 10 Mile. Capaldi says he would not construct the facility without a liquor license.

Councilman Phil Goodman commented he did not like judging liquor licenses on a one-to-one basis. The city has three licenses still available. The city also received a request for a liquor license from Magic Pan, Inc., of Southfield to be located at the Twelve Oaks Mall.

—approved a landfill application by Joseph Adler. Adler will fill approximately three acres of a 20-acre parcel east of and adjacent to Novi Road, approximately one-half mile south of Novi Road. A fill quantity of approximately 5,000 cubic yards is proposed. The council set a year time limit on the project.

—accepted the resignation of Louis Bonamy from the zoning appeals board, effective September 7, 1977. Bonamy is resigning because he is moving outside of the city.

—refused the establishment of a new position of assessor clerk-appraiser. The amendment would have abolished a clerk position and replaced it with the new position. Councilman Robert Schmid argued that no need for an additional assessor had been demonstrated. After much discussion, the proposal was defeated 4-2.

"Okay, but only if I can be the mother," one of them said.

And then they were playing. But with a new twist.

"You're father is here to pick you up," the make-believe mother told her make-believe child. "Meet him on the porch; I don't want him in the house."

"Yes, mother, we will be home early."

The father arrived and took his daughter off on his bike, their make-believe car.

It was later, when the scene changed to the child's arrival home, that I realized how grown up children and their games have become.

"You haven't paid your alimony," the mother shouted at the father upon his return with their daughter.

Three children, none of them yet nine, were playing house... divorce house!

For goodness sakes, as kids few of us ever heard of the word, few if any knew what it meant, and even fewer had ever been touched by this kind of tragedy.

Not today. It's sad, but true. Next year there will be as many divorces in Michigan as weddings. Society has changed, and children are reflecting that change even in their games.

Notice of Public Hearing Oakland County Road Commission 1978 Budget and 1978 Road Construction Program

The Oakland County Road Commission hereby gives notice of a Public Hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 19, 1977 at the Oakland County Commissioners' Auditorium, 1200 North Telegraph Road, Pontiac, Michigan 48053.

The purpose of the hearing is to present the Oakland County Road Commission's proposed 1978 Budget, including the Oakland County Road Commission's proposed 1978 Primary and Local Road Construction Program and the funding thereof, and to provide an opportunity to all interested citizens and elected officials of Oakland County to present comments thereon prior to adoption by the Board of County Road Commissioners.

The proposed Budget sets forth the anticipated revenues available to the Oakland County Road Commission and their source. The Budget also shows the uses to which these funds will be put, including the Operating Expenditures of the Road Commission and the Road Construction Program.

Copies of the proposed 1978 Road Construction Program are available and may be obtained by contacting the Transportation Planning and Environmental Concerns Department of the Oakland County Road Commission, 31001 Lahser Road, Birmingham, Michigan 48010, Phone 645-2000, ext. 210.

Copies of the proposed 1978 Budget and related information will be available one (1) week prior to the Public Hearing and may be obtained by contacting the Finance Department of the Oakland County Road Commission, 31001 Lahser Road, Birmingham, Michigan 48010, Phone 645-2000, ext. 235.

Wixom reaches agreement with employees

Nearly fifteen months after their previous labor contract expired, members of the Wixom Department of Public Works reached agreement August 9 on a new four-year pact.

The contract, reported to be "virtually the same as the recently ratified Wixom Police contract" by Assistant to the Mayor Bernard VanOsedale, is retroactive to July 1, 1976.

Working under terms of the old contract, actual negotiations on a new pact began in March, 1976. In off-again, on-again bargaining sessions, DPW employees decided to hold off further negotiations until ratification of a new police contract.

Police bargaining stalled at various times during their year-long sessions over differences between the union and city on wages and finally contract language.

The police contract was ratified June 30 with DPW employees reaching agreement on their pact in August. City officials unanimously accepted the agreement August 13 at the council table.

The DPW contract calls for a 5.2 percent wage hike in the first year and 5.3 percent during the second year, escalating to 8.3 percent in the third year.

DPW workers, all members of the American Federation of Federal, State, Council and Municipal Employees, agreed to no wage increases during the fourth year of the contract but settled instead for five percent in fringe benefits.

Equating to approximately $4,000, the monies will be allocated to the employees for inclusion in fringe benefits only.

Erased from the contract were all cost-of-living provisions which were similarly removed from package.

With the new contracts, salaries for equipment operators range from $15,149, effective July, 1976 to $17,928 in July, 1978. Foreman's wages range from $17,310 to $20,484 during the same period of the contract. Other employees included in the bargaining sessions will find their wage hiked from $11,995 to $15,305.

Fringe benefits remaining in tact include six personal leave days, 10.5 holidays, 18 sick days per year and longevity pay. Employees are also covered with major medical and life insurance.

Wixom City Council okays purchase of fire truck

By accepting the solitary bid last week from the John Bean Division of Tipton, Indiana, Wixom officials beefed up the Wixom Fire Department bringing the fleet to seven pieces of equipment.

The triple combination pumper, at a cost of $60,470 will be built on a Ford chassis with expected delivery in mid-spring, 1978.

In a 4 to 1 vote, Wixom City Council voted Tuesday night to accept the bid authorizing a $10,000 down payment be made with federal revenue sharing funds.

Councilman Robert Dingeldey cast the only negative vote with Councilman Gunnar Mettala absent from the meeting.

Replacing a 16-year-old rig, the new truck will become the Class A "attack" vehicle. The old truck, suffering from mechanical pumping problems is scheduled to be sent out for rebuilding after delivery of the new engine.

In related business, the council accepted a bid from the Peter Payette Company of Grosse Ile for $13,779 in additional fire equipment.

With assurances from Fire Chief Robert Potter that the new fire truck would be fully equipped with items contained in the bid as well as upgrading other department trucks, council voted unanimously in favor of the Payette Company.

Four bids were submitted with Payette the lowest bidder meeting all specifications.

Included in the list was hose, couplings, nozzles, rope, wrenches and miscellaneous equipment with delivery on those items expected in three months.

Wixom prayer tradition lives on alone

Opening municipal meetings with both a prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance is a tradition in Wixom that dates back nearly two decades.

And officials there contend both are proper and essential ingredients of their meetings.

Wixom stands alone in this matter, however, even though several other communities in the circulation area of Sliger Home Newspapers open their public meetings with the Pledge.

Patriotism but not religion apparently is the rule of thumb in most communities.

"I think it's important," said former Wixom Mayor Wesley McAtee, who takes pride in the Wixom tradition. "I found that it sets the proper stage for a meeting by opening with a prayer and the Pledge.

"It lets the people know that our democratic process is a respectful one. They know right off that it's going to be an orderly meeting, conducted in a formal way."

McAtee, who served as Wixom's third mayor and who was instrumental in his community's incorporation from township to village to city, said "so far as I know no one has ever complained about it. In fact, most comment favorably."

"I think prayer before meetings was set forth in the original charter of the city," he said.

According to June Buck, Wixom clerk, prayers selected for reading (by the clerk) at council meetings sometimes are volunteered by citizens, others are selected by herself. They need not necessarily deal with the role of government, she said.

Prayers also are said before Wixom Planning Commission meetings, followed by the Pledge as is the case at council meetings.

In the City of Brighton, however, the practice of prayer was abandoned years ago when a council member complained that religion had no place in a public meeting. He proposed that if council members felt it necessary to pray they should do it before the meeting starts.

Even so, praying at the outset of the Brighton meetings might have continued but it became growingly difficult to schedule clergymen in the community to offer the prayer as had been the practice.

Elsewhere in Livingston County, the Pledge is part of meetings of Green Oak and Hartland township boards and the county board of commissioners.

No public statutes, according to the Michigan Attorney General's office, prohibit prayer at public meeting — despite a widespread belief that the Supreme Court has banned them.

The Supreme Court did, however, rule in 1961 and subsequently that it is illegal to conduct prayers — even non-denominational prayers in public schools during classes. This being the case, school boards generally have extended this ruling to include their own bodies, an AG spokeswoman said.

In Novi where prayer was abandoned at school board meetings, former trustee Ray Warren still insists the practice was a good one.

"Some people thought prayer was illegal, but it's not. Even Congress opens its sessions with prayer," he noted, "and some judges convene their courts with prayer."

"I think most of us — although not all — believe in a Supreme Being. Since that's the case, I think it is proper to call upon that Supreme Being for guidance in deliberations of public business," said Warren.

Prayer and later a moment of meditation was dropped in Novi after "about three and a half years. I'm a little surprised and disappointed they've even discontinued a few seconds of silence for private prayer," added the former board member.

Neither the school board nor the Novi City Council open meetings with the Pledge.

The Pledge is a requirement at both city council and township board meetings in Northville, but not at meetings of the board of education.

South Lyon's school board opens its meetings with the Pledge, however, as do the township boards of Northfield and Salem.

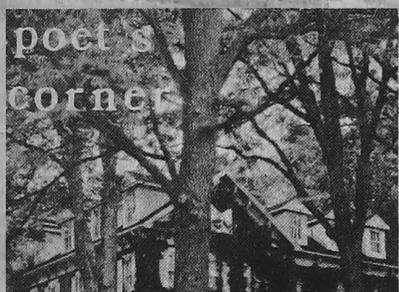

Similarly, Walled Lake and Commerce Township have the Pledge.

"These are public meetings of municipal governments and the Pledge is entirely proper," insists Northville Mayor A. M. Allen.

"After all, government in a free society is what it's all about."

Beach Fire

I was long at the beach that day; it was so hot that I almost thought the taste in my mouth was sun. In and out of the weeds, the colored butterflies played; their patterns also caught the sun... its fiery heat beating down on them, creating minute sparkles against the sky.

As I watched them playing, I felt as if I were witness to a playground too secret to be known to all... a faraway visitor known to a hidden place of privacy... almost an intruder. It was all so beautiful; even when the sun went down. Yet I took the sights and silence home with me to where memories are stored forever, especially those of wonder and beauty.

Harvest moon signals fall

The official beginning of fall at 11:30 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) a "harvest moon" on September 27 and a "penumbral eclipse" on the same night are among astronomical highlights of September, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

The beginning of fall on September 22 is marked by "the autumnal equinox, when the sun in its apparent yearly journey crosses the equator on its way south," says Losh.

During the autumnal equinox, "the day and night are said to be equal," according to Losh. But this is not strictly true, she notes, because, as a result of the earth's atmosphere refracting the sun's light, the day and night will really be equal on September 26.

"Although on the 22nd, the sun is really above the horizon for 12 hours it is visible for 11 minutes longer," notes Losh. "As the sunlight enters the atmosphere, it comes to a more dense region, and its light is bent or refracted, so that it appears lifted into view making the sun visible." This phenomenon occurs before the sun rises above the horizon and after it sets.

Losh notes that "the moon that comes to full phase on September 27 at 4:17 a.m. is designated as the harvest moon. The harvest moon is defined as the full moon that comes nearest the date of the autumnal equinox."

Losh says that in late September "the nearly full moon will rise at approximately the same hour for several nights in succession, and hence there will be an unusual amount of bright moonlight in the early evenings. The harvest moon is likely to appear larger than usual and take on quite a reddish appearance near the horizon."

Another highlight of the month, says Losh, is that the full moon of September 27 will enter "penumbral eclipse."

"In penumbral eclipses, the dimming of the moon is so slight that usually they go unnoticed, even by astronomers. The penumbra or partial shadow is where the light from the sun is partly but not wholly cut off by the earth," according to the U-M astronomer.

On September 27 the moon will reach the penumbra at 2:19 a.m., with this partial shadow remaining until 6:41 a.m. The "most pronounced dimming, or middle of the eclipse," will come at 4:30 a.m., says Losh.

Prominent constellations of the month include Pegasus and Andromeda in the eastern sky, with Cassiopeia, Cepheus and Perseus farther to the north, according to Losh.

"Again one has to turn to the eastern morning sky for the antics of the planets," continues Losh.

"Venus continues to be the bright one, rising about two hours before the sun. Mars and Jupiter — Jupiter the brighter of the two — are to the right of Venus, and on September 4 were only one-half degree apart. Saturn joined this morning group only one-half degree from Venus on September 18."

The Light Touch

by ANN L. ROY

Did you hear about the Ethnic gentleman that saw a sign "Tomatoes - Pick all you want for $1.00," and thought it was such a bargain he got $2.00 worth.

2 men traveling thru the Southern hills country came upon a native tolling in the hammock. One asked him, "Lived here all your life?" The native spat in the dust and said, "Not yet."

My grandpa and a cousin went fishing in a rubber boat that you blow up. If leaked, and my cousin asked worriedly, "What will we do if it starts to sink?" My Grandpa said confidently, "We'll pull the plug and let the water out!" Then my cousin wasn't worried anymore.

Business Briefs

EILEEN M. MULLANY of Northville has been appointed assistant manager of the Southfield-based Detroit General Motors major medical claim office of Connecticut General Insurance Company.

Mullany, a graduate of the College of Mount St. Vincent's, began her company career in 1973 at its Medicare claim office in Connecticut and has been serving as office supervisor of CG's Indianapolis dental claim office since 1976.

The Southfield office processes medical insurance claims for employees and retirees of General Motors throughout the country.

Connecticut General is one of the largest underwriters of group life, health, and dental insurance plans in the country.

EILEEN M. MULLANY

MOST HOMEOWNER PACKAGE insurance policies provide off-premises coverage for personal property away from the family home, according to Denise Biegert of South Lyon, local agent for Farm Bureau Insurance Group. This includes clothing and other personal possessions taken along to college in most cases, however, expensive items such as costly stereo equipment or jewelry may not be covered unless special provisions are made. Total off-premises coverage is usually limited to 10 percent of the total amount of insurance on the homeowner's personal property, Biegert explained.

If the student will be driving a personal car while away at college, parents should inform their local insurance agent because some automobile policy adjustments may be necessary. On the other hand, if a young driver has been using the family car during high school years, but will not be going away to college without a car, the family may be entitled to some reduction in auto insurance rates.

LOWELL L. PEACOCK, president of Security Bancorp, Inc., and Daniel Mercure, president of The Newport State Bank, jointly announced that their boards of directors have signed an agreement for The Newport State Bank of Newport, Michigan, with its branch, to join Security Bank and Trust Company of Southgate and Security Bank of Novi as a subsidiary of Security Bancorp, Inc. of Southgate, Michigan, a bank holding company.

Peacock stated, "Monroe County has a very good future for population and business growth. We are pleased to be able to assist The Newport State Bank in providing the most modern and efficient service for all individual consumers and for all businesses."

Mercure added, "the agreement will permit The Newport State Bank to continue to operate with its present Board of Directors, officers and staff. However, it will have the backing and the support of a much larger organization, which will help The Newport State Bank to expand its loan services and provide additional services such as Trust to the Monroe County area."

'Ride for Research' slated

Ride for Research

A fund-raising "Ride for Research" has been slated for Saturday, October 1, beginning at noon in the Pinckney Recreation area sponsored by the Livingston County Horse Leaders Club.

The 15-mile trail ride will be a part of the third annual national Ride for Research, a project of the Denver-based Morris Animal Foundation. Proceeds will finance research at veterinary schools into health problems of horses.

In rides for research, horsemen obtain sponsors who pledge various amounts of money per mile ridden. A total of 150 groups throughout the United States organized rides in 1975 and '76, raising more than $75,000 to make possible studies of equine reproductive problems and colic, the number one killer of adult horses, at four veterinary schools.

Barn Busters 4-H Club, one of several clubs cooperating in the Livingston County Ride for Research each of the past two years, raising a total of $999.70.

The 1977 Livingston County Ride for Research will begin and end at Hell Creek Ranch, 10820 Cedar Lake Road, Pinckney. All participants in the ride will receive certificates while horsemen raising $15 or more also will be awarded special Rider for Research shoulder patches.

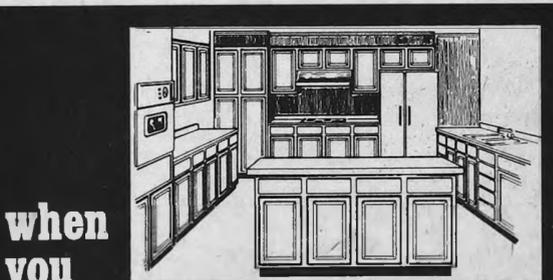

Horsemen interested in joining the Ride for Research may contact

Doug Jones, 3015 Monks Road, Pinckney 48169, phone 313-878-6190.
Morris Animal Foundation, originator of the ride, is a public, non-profit foundation that has funded more than 200 studies to benefit horses and other companion animals. One of the research projects currently funded is a study of laminitis, the leading crippling of horses, at Michigan State University.

Owners of Hell Creek Ranch invite interested persons to come to the ranch on Friday, September 30, and camp over, participate in the ride on Saturday, stay for the campfire on Saturday night and ride the trails on their own on Sunday.

Camping is available in either the modern or rustic campgrounds and there are some box and tie stalls available.
For more information on the camping weekend, call the ranch at 313-878-3632.

JACK H. WREN

JACK H. WREN of Novi recently attended a week-long financial services training seminar conducted by Pioneer Western Corporation at its headquarters in Clearwater, Florida.

Pioneer Western is a national financial services corporation whose principal subsidiaries include Western Reserve Life Assurance Company and the management company for the Pioneer group of mutual funds.

Wren received advanced training at this seminar in the use of financial programs which may combine life insurance, investments, and tax-savings oriented financial services.

Wren is associated with Professional Benefit Plans, Inc., which is located at 1550 Woodward Avenue.

He resides at 24415 Millstream Lane in Novi.

BYRON B. SCHIMPP of Ypsilanti has been appointed banking officer in National Bank of Detroit's regional banking division.

As manager of NBD's Novi branch office, Schimpp is responsible for business development in this rapidly growing area. He has been with NBD for 17 years, spending the entire time in branch banking.

He is a director of the Industrial and Commercial Development Committee of Novi, a member of the Novi Chamber of Commerce and is past treasurer of the Novi Rotary.

THE ART GALLERY, Incorporated, a joint venture of three young Northville women, is presenting a show of marine paintings and collector prints of James Clary, along with scrimshaw and Marine artifacts, September 18 to 30 at the gallery at 459 South Main in Plymouth.

A champagne open house from noon to 5 p.m. last Sunday launched the show. Next Sunday, September 25, the artist will unveil his pen and ink drawing of "The Mayflower" (symbolic of Plymouth) which was commissioned for this show. He has contributed 100 prints of this piece to benefit Growth Works, a community youth service organization.

The highly respected marine artist has created two fascinating marine historical collections, sponsors report. These limited edition, signed and numbered art prints have been created with great respect for the sea, its ships and those who sailed them. The Great lakes series is based on those vessels whose legends have created the history of the lakes. The Feared Lost series portrays compelling mysteries of the sea through imaginative paintings. A historical sketch is available with each piece, including a special release, "The Edmund Fitzgerald." A third series, Classics of the Sea, is in progress and will include famous clippers, battles, racing events and other major historical sea classics.

The artist developed his interest in nautical lore during his childhood spend along the Detroit and St. Clair rivers. He does much research for detail and accuracy, according to the gallery owners, Carol Swienkowski, Jane Dugan and Kay Westling.

NATIONAL BANK of Detroit has announced the appointment of Arthur C. Miles of Northville as assistant vice president in its regional banking division.

An NBD employee for 30 years, Miles is manager of the bank's Dequiner-Eight Mile branch in Detroit.

He holds a bachelor of business administration degree from the University of Detroit. He is past president of the Motor City Lions Club and a member of St. Kenneth Parish in Plymouth.

DARLING Mobile Home Sales, Inc., Novi, was recently named a Million Dollar Dealer by the Elkhart, Indiana, Division of Skyline Corporation. Owners Tom and Judy Darling (left) received their award for this achievement during dealer days hosted by Skyline at Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort, Lincolnshire, Illinois. Tom Lizzi (right) National Sales Manager of Skyline Corp. presented the award.

Darling Mobile Home Sales has been in business for five years and a Skyline dealer for the same period of time. They have previously received awards for top dealer of the year and several quarterly awards for outstanding sales. The Darlings are active members of the Michigan Mobile Home Institute.

Skyline Corporation is a leading manufacturer of mobile homes and recreational vehicles with 50 production facilities nationwide.

"A GOOD TURNOUT" was on hand this past weekend for the formal grand opening of Brookside Hardware, located in Northville's newest shopping center at Novi Road and Allen Drive. Gifts, clowns, popcorn and an antique fire truck were among the attractions. The hardware is owned and operated by Roy Bushie & Sons.

DONNA'S NEEDLEPOINT shop at 150 Mary Alexander Court in Northville has changed ownership. Marjory Cinader, who lives in Highland Lakes subdivision and has been an area resident since 1951, has purchased the business. It now is Village Needlepoint Shop.

Needlepoint long has been a hobby of Mrs. Cinader's. She reports that the same lines will be carried at the shop with new ones to be added. Classes began this week with sessions scheduled all through the winter season. Salespersons Sue Lott and Carleen Harwick will continue. Added to the staff will be Mrs. Cinader's daughters, Jannel Cox and Linda Cinader.

Former owner Donna Poster and her husband are retiring to Dallas, Texas.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"Before another cold winter, learn about the heat pump. It's one of the most energy-efficient ways to heat your home."

Today's heat pump is one of the most energy-efficient ways to heat your home, apartment, office or commercial building. It returns over 1½ units of heat for every unit of energy it uses.

Think what this can mean in conserving energy and helping to keep your heating and cooling costs down.

There's a unique reason why the heat pump is an outstandingly efficient heating system.

It makes good use of outdoor heat.

Yes. Even in winter there's heat in the outdoor air that can help keep you warm. The trick is to move that heat inside where you can use it. That's what the heat pump does. Only during very low temperatures is supplementary heat needed.

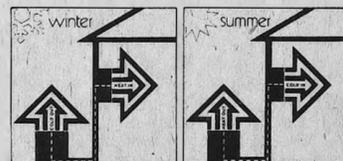

In summer, the heat pump moves heat out of your home for energy-efficient cooling. It's an all-year comfort system that also filters and dehumidifies. And it's clean because no fossil fuel is burned in your home.

The heat pump works something like your refrigerator.

A heat pump is more sophisticated, but it works in much the same way. Imagine the cold air in your refrigerator as the cold winter air outside your home. The hot air that you sometimes feel being blown into your kitchen is actually being extracted from the cold air inside the unit. This is how the heat pump warms your home. In summer, the process is reversed to cool your home: the heat in the inside air is extracted by the heat pump and moved outdoors.

Here's how the heat pump works.

See for yourself.

You can see heat pumps in the new homes displaying the Detroit Edison EEE Award. This Award is presented to builders who incorporate energy-efficient excellence standards into their homes—including proper insulation, energy-efficient appliances and lighting, as well as electric heat pump heating and cooling. Ask Detroit Edison for names and locations of builders who have EEE Award homes on display.

Conserving with comfort.

Detroit Edison wants you to know about the heat pump because it generally is the most energy-efficient way to provide homes and buildings with year-round comfort.

The heat pump can also be an important answer to conservation because the natural heat it uses helps save our non-renewable fossil fuels.

As a concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation, Detroit Edison is working hard to do its part. But it requires a working partnership between those who supply energy and those who use it. So if you're planning on buying, building or replacing your present heating system, consider a heat pump as part of your plans.

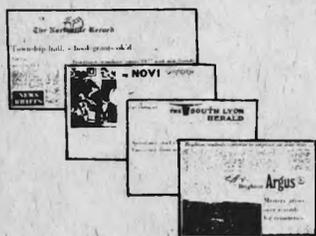

Detroit Edison has a folder, "Your all-season space conditioner, The Heat Pump." Pick one up at any Detroit Edison Customer Office and learn more about this energy-efficient way to heat and cool homes and buildings. Or write to: Customer Relations, Detroit Edison, 2000 Second, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Conserve for all it's worth. The power is in your hands.

Braille transcribers open new worlds to the blind

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Imagine your life without books. There would be no best sellers to curl up with in front of a crackling fire on a bitter winter night. There would be no magazines with current fashion information, no textbooks from which to learn.

There would be no instructional manuals and cooking would be a hit and miss proposition without cookbooks in which to refer.

For a sighted person, the world and all its knowledge is or can be at their fingertips through books.

For the non-sighted, the story could be far different if it was not for a network of volunteer Braille transcribing groups.

The Nardin Park Braille Transcribers is a part of that network producing free Braille materials covering a multitude of subjects. Meeting in Farmington at Eleven Mile and Middlebelt Roads, the home of the group is the Nardin Park United Methodist Church.

According to group chairperson, Mrs. Dee Josaitis, Braille takes concentration, diligence and dedication "but is rewarding work that can easily become addictive."

"Anyone can learn Braille. No one is too young or too old," commented Mrs. Josaitis. Thoroughly "sold" on Braille and attempting to involve others, the Farmington women's energies are devoted "to spreading the word."

Her enthusiasm enveloped Ruth Holmes of Village Wood Road in Novi. Miss Holmes retired a few years ago as a secretary for a union organization and soon enrolled in the Braille transcribing classes offered by the group.

After taking the nine-month course and learning the special symbols that are the make-up of the raised code, Miss Holmes was certified as a literary Braille writer by the Library of Congress.

With an interest in music, Miss Holmes has embarked on yet another facet of Braille transcribing. She is currently involved in a correspondence course offered by the Library of Congress in music transcribing. Both music and mathematics require an additional two years of study before certification.

"slap-dash", Miss Holmes as well as other volunteers find they can "fit" transcribing duties into their individual lives.

Transcribing, they say, is a comfortable "hobby" that can be done when it best suits the individual and offers a diversity of involvement for the transcriber.

Working in their own homes on Braille Writers at their own pace, Braille writers produce textbooks, cookbooks, technical manuals, sewing patterns, foreign languages, books, restaurant menus, diplomas, even greeting cards.

"We have produced insurance pamphlets, food lists for diabetics, even love letters for the un-sighted," said Mrs. Josaitis. Fan mail to Stevie Wonder and Jose Feliciano is not an uncommon request for the transcribers, she added.

After the Brailled pages of a book are completed, they are sent to the Braille Book Bindery at Temple Beth-El in Southfield where they are bound in hard covers, free of charge.

Produced on a special paper measuring 11 x 11½ inches, Braille writers learn the symbols in the six dots composing each Braille cell. A combination of typing and shorthand, students learn the symbols, short forms of words and contractions that have become the Braille language.

Actual cost of materials to transcribe into Braille a 200 page print book is over $35 for one master copy. The cost of materials are paid for entirely through donations and from Christmas card sales. The blind reader receives the book free.

A 200-page book takes four Braille writers about ten weeks to produce, from the actual Brailleing, through proof-reading and finally to binding. Because of the large bulky paper that is used, that same 200-page book would equate to five Braille volumes.

"It is fair to say that most textbooks in Braille become between 20 and 30 volumes," said Mrs. Josaitis. The Braille edition of the Junior Girl Scout Manual is six volumes alone.

Classes are offered each fall for volunteers to learn the Braille Code. Beginning in October and continuing through May, the classes are conducted by Marge Griep and Mrs. Josaitis at the Nardin Park Church.

Cost for the class is $20. After completing the course, students are required to transcribe a 35 page manuscript in Braille which is then submitted to the Library of Congress for grading. Those students meeting the required high standards of quality are then certified.

Mrs. Josaitis pointed out the need for more volunteers because the group is swamped with requests. To avoid duplication of efforts, the Tri-County Braille organization acts as a clearing house for assignments for the eight chapters in the area.

The Nardin Park group, now numbering 54 members, was able to receive a Thermoform Duplicating Machine making possible the duplication of Braille from a master copy.

Braille master copies of all of the textbooks for Oakland County Schools as well as masters for many fiction and technical books are stored at the Farmington Hills Sub-Regional Library for the Blind by the Nardin Park Braille writers.

Expanding its services even further, the group was able to purchase, through donations, a large print typewriter, also housed in the Farmington Library. Volunteers also man those machines, turning out requests for materials and books typed about five times larger than normal print.

A community service project of placing Braille menus in restaurants was recently initiated by the group. Feeling that the blind persons' pleasure of dining out can be increased by being able to browse the menu at their leisure just like a sighted person, the menus have been placed free of charge. All the J.L. Hudson stores have the menus as well as many other area restaurants.

In addition, the group offers Braille greeting cards which can be purchased at card shops to send to blind friends and relatives. Legal documents such as deeds, wills and contracts can also be transcribed.

Braille is an essential part of the everyday life of most blind people. It is used for pleasure, for education, for information. Braille notes are used for marking temperature settings on a stove, for labelling canned goods, for color-coding clothing, for labelling medicines, for phone numbers.

According to Mrs. Josaitis, unpaid volunteer Braille writers produce at least 75 percent of the Braille available in this country. "Although it is a challenging and very exacting skill to learn, the time invested in producing Braille is very important to the blind person who lives in a world geared to the sighted."

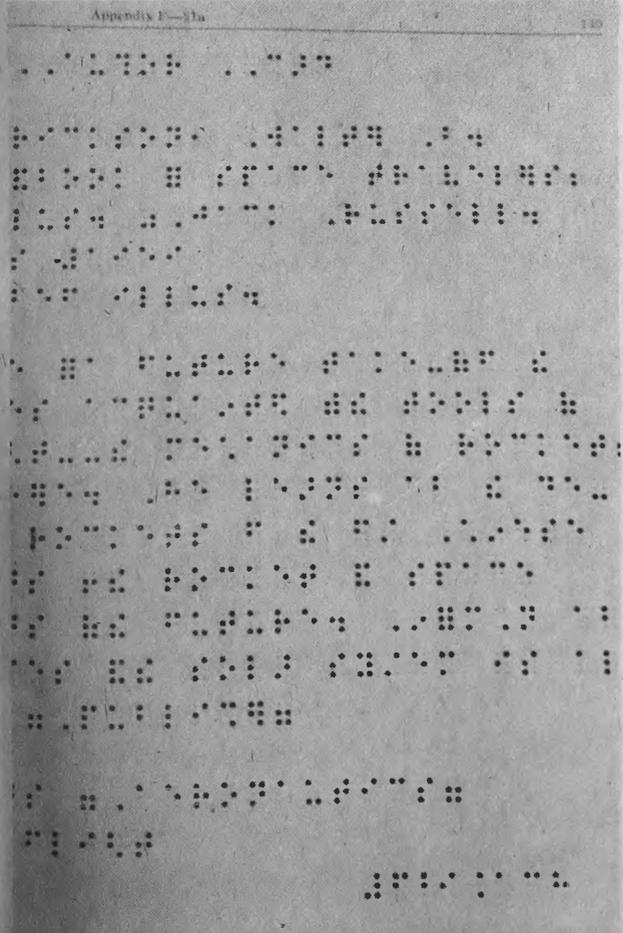

"The only real requirements to being a Braille volunteer are willing hands, big hearts and a need to make a real contribution in the community," said Mrs. Josaitis.

For information on the Braille group or for demonstrations before any organization, contact may be made with Mrs. Josaitis at 474-3468 or Mrs. Griep, 425-0017.

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE KLEINFELT

Cheryl Visnyak wears mother's gown in rites

Cheryl Ann Visnyak wore her mother's wedding gown of imported French Alencon lace over satin as her marriage vows were solemnized with Lawrence Edward Kleinfelt August 17 at Our Lady of Victory Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zolie Visnyak of 5085 West Nine Mile. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kleinfelt of 45115 Galway Drive.

Satin bows marked the pews. Baskets of snapdragons and white mums, banks of palms and candelabra decorated the altar for the 5 o'clock High Nuptial Mass performed by the Reverend Father Schaden. The altar bouquet was for the Blessed Mother.

The fitted bodice of the bride's gown featured a portrait neckline outlined with iridescents. The long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists. The front of the seven-gore bouffant skirt was cut in three tiers with scalloped edges embroidered with iridescents. The back extended into a four-and-a-half yard draped train. Her French illusion veil was appliqued with Alencon lace and brilliants.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Leonard Christoff of Detroit, had designed the wedding gown.

Cheryl carried a cascade bouquet of roses, stephanotis and carnations.

Joyce Regintek was maid of honor. Mrs. Gary Kleinfelt, sister-in-law of the bride, Ann Visnyak, sister of the bride, and Deanna Balko of South Lyon were bridesmaids. Junior bridesmaids were the bride's cousins, Michelle and Renee Trombley of Washington.

Their turquoise blue sheer gowns were fashioned with portrait necklines, and bouffant skirts. Dried flower hair arrangements matched the dresses. They carried colonial bouquets of multicolor summer flowers tied with ribbon streamers.

Brian Gawlas was best man.

Groomsmen were Gary Kleinfelt of Westland, Robb Gray of Livonia and Mark Comins of Drayton Plains. The bride's brothers, Jon and Joel were junior groomsmen.

Maris Long of the Detroit Symphony sang "Sunrise and Sunset" and "Sabbath Prayer."

The bride's mother wore a coral dress with chiffon capelet while the bridesgroom's mother chose a jacket dress featuring eyelet embroidery.

Two hundred-fifty guests sat down to a wedding dinner reception at the Raleigh House in Southfield. Guests included the bride's cousin of Eferding, Austria, who flew here as a wedding surprise.

The newlyweds are Schoolcraft College students. The new Mrs. Kleinfelt is studying to be a nurse while her husband is in business administration. They are making their home in South Lyon.

Engaged

News of the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Kim Suzanne Roberts, to John Kevin Luttmann is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Roberts of Aspen Drive, Novi.

Both young people, now residents of Marlette, Michigan, graduated in 1977. Kim attended Novi High School while John graduated from Walled Lake Western.

They are planning a November 18 wedding.

By the Way...

by Nancy Dingeldey

Containers of brightly hued mums clustered throughout the lawn area and candlelight tables greeted guests at the home of Judge and Mrs. Gene Schnelz as they welcomed 110 members and wives to the annual past-president's dinner of the Michigan State Bar Association Friday night.

Hosted by outgoing president William Reamon of Grand Rapids, the less-formal dinner was a break from the traditional black tie events of past meetings.

Choosing instead to have a low party, Mr. Reamon contacted Gene asking if the dinner could be held at the Schnelz' Pontiac Trail home.

The ever-gracious judge and his charming wife agreed, giving Gene another perfect opportunity to pursue his culinary feats.

With the exception of the entree, the entire dinner was catered, with guests seated at tables beneath an enormous yellow-striped tent especially erected for the occasion.

Tables were covered in dark brown with gold napkins and candles used to complete the decor.

To the side of the main tent was a smaller unit suitably dubbed "the cooking tent." Throughout the day, fires were tended beneath slowly turning spits holding a pig and lamb, tenderly basted with an unknown sauce, prepared and executed by Chef Gene...the main course.

Among the guests attending was Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hardig of Birmingham. Mr. Hardig succeeds Mr. Reamon as president of the State Bar. Also on hand for the festivities was Chief Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court Thomas Giles Kavanagh and Mrs. Kavanagh.

Other past-presidents and commissioners of the State Bar Association and their wives completed the guest list at the sparkling affair.

Earlier in the week, Ann and Jim Reimer of Helmsford hosted a buffet potluck dinner for all the foreign exchange students in the Walled Lake-Milford area and their host families.

Although threatening skies and somewhat cooler temperatures greeted the nearly 60 guests, the teenagers had the opportunity to take a dip in the Reimer's heated swimming pool during the evening.

It was the first opportunity for the exchange students representing Finland, Germany, the Philippines, Holland, Japan and Argentina to become acquainted. Host families also had time to meet with each other to discuss the program.

This year three exchange students are attending Walled Lake Western High School through the Youth for Understanding program. The Reimers, a host family have with them Leena Hietanen from Finland.

Leena, in her senior year at Western, has joined the State One Productions theatre group and has a part in an upcoming production. She also plays tennis, swims and is a downhill skier.

Iris Winters from West Germany will be staying with the Richard Haton family during her year at Western while Martin Raschke, also of West Germany is with the John Blaschak family.

Lena has already visited Mackinac Island and Taquemonen Falls as well as the U.P. area so reminiscent to Finns of their homeland.

The Lakes Area Women's Republican Club will be holding an open house this Sunday, September 25 with a cordial welcome extended to all area women and their husbands.

Hosted by Mrs. Jeny Beatty at her home at 3920 East Commerce Road, the 2 to 5 p.m. open house will afford the opportunity to meet with various county and township officials.

The group's main interest in the open house is not necessarily to foster partisan politics but rather to foster an interest in the electorate of the problems relating to the local area.

West Bloomfield resident and Walled Lake businessman Raymond Pung was honored at a three-day September convention for outstanding State Farm Insurance agents in Atlanta, Georgia.

During the convention, agents heard from State Farm President Edward Rust as well as exchanging ideas and discussing industry trends with both regional and home office executives.

Convention highlights included a President's Club Luncheon, a buffet for leading agents, and a breakfast honoring those with CLU and CPCU designations.

At the September Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce Board meeting, the idea of honoring businesses in the Lakes area for their community efforts was discussed and instituted.

Nominations can be made for a business' promotional efforts of the area, beautification projects or anniversary of their operation. Those will be submitted at the October board meeting for consideration.

That meeting is scheduled at the Walled Lake Big Boy Restaurant at 8 a.m., October 4.

A general membership luncheon meeting is planned for October 19 at which time the first award will be presented.

For the youngsters this week, the Walled Lake Mini-Jaycees Pet Rally. Scheduled this Saturday, September 24, at Hiram Sims Park from 10 a.m. to noon, kids of all ages are invited to show off their pets.

From creepy-crawlers to the standard dog and cat, any pet may be exhibited. There will be categories for the curliest, the tallest, the smallest, the best dressed...no critter will be without a slot.

Humane Society buttons will be given to all the youngsters showing up with an animal.

Northville Fair, home tour major events for area women

Two of the most savored events in the Northville calendar will coincide this year, offering residents of all surrounding communities both the opportunity to join the annual Home Tour and enjoy the Tivoli Fair on the same day.

Earlier than usual this year, the Tivoli Fair has been known in the past as a marvelous market place for Christmas gift ideas. The fair, held this year at Northville Downs will also offer a variety of Scandinavian foods as taste treats.

Both events are sponsored by the Northville Historical Society with the Home Tour co-sponsored by the Women's Association of the Northville Presbyterian Church.

While the Home Tour is scheduled for Thursday, September 22 only, the fair will begin the same day and continue through Saturday. The tour will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., while fair hours are scheduled from noon to 9 p.m. Friday, September 23, the hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, September 24.

Admission to the fair is $1.00 for adults, with senior citizens and children unattended charged 50 cents.

Ample parking as well as babysitting will be available.

And to make the end of September an even bigger treat, the Northville Handweavers Guild will hold an exhibit and sale in their new home in the Mill Race Village.

The Guild is planning their event of juried wall hangings, pillows, linens and shawls set in conjunction with Tivoli and the Home Tour. Their addition to the three-day activities also begins Thursday, September 22 and will continue through Saturday.

The Guild sale will be held in the restored rust and tan Gothic cottage in Mill Race opening at 10 a.m. Thursday. Hours will continue until 6 p.m. Friday hours are identical while Saturday hours are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Lending authentic atmosphere to the fair at the Downs, a collection of flags, posters, Viking ships and soldiers collected from Scandinavian consulates will be used as decorations. Representatives of the Scandinavian countries will be wearing their colorful costumes as they sell their imports.

Autumn weather signals return of Commerce Township festival

Apples and pumpkins ripen on the tree and vine. Nights are cooler, early mornings crisp. Leaves painted brilliant hues mark their appearance on scattered trees.

Autumn — a beautiful season in the Lakes area — its arrival marked again this year by the Community Fall Festival sponsored by the Commerce Township Area Historical Society.

The fourth annual festival is scheduled for the streets and by-ways in the Old Commerce Village on Saturday, October 1, and Sunday, October 2. Fun and frolic, booths with handmade items and food will mark the two-day event.

Activities for young and old alike will be offered during the festival. For the culinary artists, the festival affords the opportunity to try to produce the most outstanding pumpkin or apple pie in the whole area.

It could be a treasured old family recipe that takes top honors or perhaps a new, modern concoction that tickles the taste buds of the judges.

Competition for the bakers is offered in two divisions — the best apple, the best pumpkin. The pies will be displayed and judged in booths set up at the Quik-Pick Store in Commerce.

Heading that special event is Jean Nickerson who has set judging time for 1 p.m. Sunday. Recipes are asked to accompany the entries.

Again using pumpkins, youngsters can put their imaginations and talents to work to produce the scary, funny or strange creations so closely connected with Halloween.

A contest, sponsored by The Walled Lake News, asks kids seven and under to "paint" a pumpkin into a jack-o-lantern. Any "paint," be it tempera or magic markers, may be used to create the pumpkin's face.

For kids eight to 12, contest rules include not only paints but carving as well. It is a real opportunity to be creative — and outdo the kid down the block.

A third category for youngsters 13 to 15 has the same rules. Again, either paints or carvings or a combination of the two may be used to produce an outstanding pumpkin.

The division, headed by Joan Cornell will be situated at the Old Commerce School with judging at 4 p.m. Saturday. Pumpkins will be accepted from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Trophies will be awarded by The News to the top three winners in each classification.

Republican women to meet

52nd District Court Judge, Gene Schnelz, will be the featured speaker at a gala open house sponsored by the Lakes Area Republican Women.

Some 300 persons have been invited to attend the event which will be held from 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday, September 25 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Beatty, 3920 East Commerce Road, Milford. Mrs. Beatty has called the party an "Afternoon with Republican Women."

Judge Schnelz has said that his talk will be somewhat informal.

The Lakes Area Republican Women's group is a relatively new organization. Mrs. Beatty was elected temporary president of the group at the organizational meeting. Her fellow officers include Connie Holmes, vice president; Terry Dohany, corresponding secretary; Judy Gorsline, recording secretary; Mary Voorheis, treasurer; Jean Maier, council delegate; Joan McGee, publicity; Elaine Skarritt and Barbara Gavitt, membership; and Jane Edson, hospitality.

Now you can acquire a taste for classical music at your A&P

Classical music has always been a treat to listen to. But it hasn't always been a treat to buy. After all, there are literally thousands of pieces and many have been recorded hundreds of times.

So if you'd like to sample some, the question naturally arises: "Where do you start?"

Well, starting now, the answer is in any one of our super-markets. Because we're introducing Funk & Wagnalls Family Library of Great Music.

For your listening pleasure: Each stereo recording is manufactured by RCA Custom Records.

It's a library of 22 albums complete with 60 of the classic selections of classical music by the world's most popular composers, including Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Wagner and many more.

And to insure the classic quality of the selections, the music was selected by a board of renowned experts in the world of classical music. Including world famous English conductor Sir John Barbirolli, legendary concert violinist Yehudi Menuhin and Sir William Walton, the eminent composer.

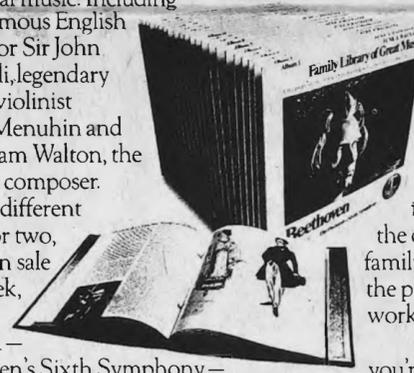

A different album, or two, will be on sale each week, with Album 1—Beethoven's Sixth Symphony—being sold at the record low price of just 69¢. *Albums 2 through 22 will be available for just $2.69 each.

For your reading pleasure: "The Great Composers" collection plus a free binder for it in Album 2.

Indian guide goal is family involvement

The basic goal of the Indian parent-child programs of the West Oakland YMCA is to strengthen family ties.

Fred Lindholm, executive director of the YMCA which serves people in Western Oakland County, notes that the mottoes of these programs include "Pals Forever," "Helpmates Together," and "Trails Together."

Some of the UMCA programs are designed for and appeal to youngsters in grades K-3.

Y-Indian Guides is for fathers and sons and focuses on the theme of the North American Indian.

Y-Indian Princesses uses this same idea to appeal to fathers and daughters in grades K-3.

And Y-Indian Maidens was started last year to give mothers and daughters an opportunity to enjoy time together.

All of these programs weave the native American Indian theme into their activities in a neighborhood group or "tribe" with a "Chief" and other officers.

Many tribes make Indian-type regalia such as vests, moccasins, leather belts, tribal drums, wampum pouches, and totem poles. These are activities which are done by both parent and child at home. The activities become meaningful for both the parent and the child.

Why does the YMCA organize these family-oriented activities?

Lindholm explains that the YMCA sees negative forces which are acting upon the family in our society: the high divorce rate, the work demand on fathers, the many families where both parents work, and the seeming inability to communicate.

The YMCA suggest, Lindholm says, that the Indian parent-child programs are a positive force which strengthen families.

In order to help with that goal, the parents or families must do wholesome activities together on a bi-weekly basis. During the year a parent and a child in a YMCA program would meet bi-weekly for one and one-half hours, would attend a weekend campout in the fall, winter, and spring; and could attend other events which include hay rides, square dances, an Indian 500 gravity car race, and a family swim or picnic.

The YMCA is encouraging families to join these programs during September. Families can call the YMCA at 685-3020 for more information.

Presbyterians form new church

An idea hatched in Northville a decade ago will become a reality next month when the Presbyterian mission church in Novi is formally organized.

A petition requesting official organization of Faith Community United Presbyterian Church is presently before the metropolitan Detroit Presbytery, which will convey full-fledged church status to the Novi congregation on Sunday, October 2.

"It's really an exciting and historic moment for both of our congregations," said the two key clergymen instrumental in the establishment.

For the Reverend Lloyd Brasure, pastor of the Northville Church who conceived the idea of a church in Novi, it is a "beautiful dream come true," and for the Reverend Richard Henderson, former assistant of Mr. Brasure and now the organizing pastor of Faith Community, it is the culmination of a year of preparation.

"It's my personal philosophy that two smaller churches rather than a large, impersonal one is the best approach," explained Mr. Brasure, who noted that as an assistant pastor of a large church in Flint he found "mass production" ministering less than desirable.

For baptisms, he remembered, it was like an assembly line where meaningful attention to this important religious moment was missing.

Having this feeling, Mr. Brasure sent a letter to the Presbytery some years ago expressing an opinion that establishment of a Presbyterian Church in Novi should be considered. The letter sparked little interest, however, and apparently was shelved and later discarded.

Meanwhile, Henderson became Brasure's assistant. Mr. Henderson liked his work in Northville, but candidly admitted that he would have preferred to be involved with church development.

So when about a year ago the Detroit Presbytery asked Northville if it thought Novi should have its own church, the two local clergymen had difficulty containing their enthusiasm.

With a new Presbytery staff on board in Detroit, nobody remembered that Mr. Brasure had years earlier proposed such a church.

"Naturally, there was some concern locally that establishment of a Novi church might hurt our membership in Northville since a number of our members lived there," said Mr. Brasure.

Then last September a house-to-house survey in Novi's two newest and largest subdivisions was launched to determine the religious affiliation or interest of the households.

"We found that about 55-percent were Catholics or interested in that church, four to five percent were Jewish, six percent were Presbyterian, and the remainder were associated with other Protestant denominations," said Mr. Henderson.

It was a "very positive" signal.

Thus, on November 21 the first worship service for the new church was held with the blessing of the Northville congregation.

Mr. Henderson became the organizing pastor, who retained his duties in Northville until August when his assistant pastorage officially dissolved and he took up full time Novi duties. He retains an office in the Northville church, however.

Beginning with between 30 and 40 persons, the membership has risen steadily. Today attendance is averaging about 100 at Sunday services.

Since that first service, members have been meeting for worship in the multi-purpose room of Village Oaks Elementary School. "The accommodations are excellent," said Mr. Henderson, who said that besides the multi-purpose room five classrooms also are being rented for Sunday School classes.

The mission church has a $36,000 operational budget, with about $12,000 coming from Novi members and the remainder from Northville, the Detroit Presbytery, the synod, and the national church organization.

At the point of becoming self-supporting and now about to become a full-fledged church, Faith Community has already begun planning for a church building.

Backed by a $75,000 loan from the synod, an attractive 20-acre site recently was purchased on 10-Mile Road, near Glenda — opposite of where the proposed Novi municipal complex would be located and very near the new Novi library.

The land includes 330 feet of frontage on 10 Mile Road.

"We think it is an ideal location," said Mr. Henderson. "We wanted a place west of Novi Road because it is there that future growth of the community will occur and because we didn't want to compete with existing churches east of Novi Road."

Mr. Henderson predicted the new church building will become a reality within two or three years.

Meanwhile, Mr. Brasure reports, that establishment of the Novi church has not hurt Northville membership.

"We lost about 20 adults to Novi. About 18 of our families were Novi residents, and of these about 11 were active. We've found now that those who were previously inactive here have revived their active participation in Novi. So our 'loss' is really a gain in the work of the Lord."

Northville's membership is at its highest level, approximating 1,000. Church facilities in Northville are designed to serve between 1,000 and 1,500 persons.

"A surprisingly large number of the Northville members come from the center of the community," said Mr. Brasure, reflecting in part the older sections of the town.

Novi membership is comprised primarily of young adults, perhaps averaging 30 to 35 years in age.

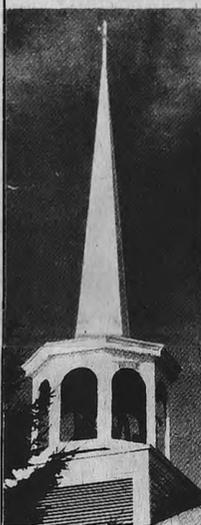

Northville is one of the oldest Presbyterian churches in the Midwest. It was founded in 1829.

Ironically, Northville finds itself sponsoring a Presbyterian church in Novi where its own beginning took root. Northville was sponsored by a small Farmington church, then located near the Novi home of Erastus Ingersoll — first settler in Novi and the man instrumental in organizing the church.

Thus, what pioneering Novi residents did for Northville 150 years ago, Northville does for Novi today.

He completes basic training

Marine Private David R. Mannila has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot on Parris Island, South Carolina.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Mannila of Willow Lane in Novi.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship, and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

"Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted in me? . . ." (Psalm 42:5)

The Psalmist was going through a time of deep depression. A problem common of our time. Multitudes seek the counsel of psychologists for this problem. Many suicidal deaths are prompted because of extreme depression. To be sure the one in any state of depression needs help. Where did the Psalmist find help? In God! He hoped in Him, he remembered Him, and he praised Him! Depressed one, your help is in God! The Bible-believing Christian can guide you to the solution for your depression. Don't walk the road of sorrow when you can walk the road of joy.

Kensington horse show to benefit Youth Assistance

By JEANNE CLARKE
624-0173

Mrs. Jody Adams and her committee working on the horse show visited Kensington's Children's Farm in Milford on Thursday to make final plans for the program on September 25 starting at 9 a.m. All proceeds from this show goes towards the many projects being planned by the committee for the coming year.

The community is encouraged to come out and spend Sunday at the Farm. There is a restaurant on the grounds. There are activities available to visitors at the farm along with the horse show activity.

For those wishing to enter the competition, there will be a trophy and six ribbons in each class with 30 classes available. A High Trophy will be awarded for the day. For more information contact Mrs. Adams at 349-2948.

Novi Rotary Club

Scheduled speaker for the Thursday afternoon meeting at the Holiday Inn was Mr. Heilmann, a representative of U.S. Senator Don Riegle, who discussed the coordination of the Senator's office in Washington with Southeastern Michigan.

Plans upcoming include the annual fruit cake sale in November and December for Christmas serving and giving. On October 6, the District Governor, A. P. Marshall, will be visiting the local club at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Callan of Meadowbrook Road have returned from visiting their new granddaughter, Jill Kelly Callan, born August 30. Jill is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Callan of Kokomo, Indiana. The Callans have another daughter, Jody.

Mrs. Lloyd Huotari of Durson Street is a patient at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Harold Ortwine of Stassen Street has returned home from Pontiac General Hospital. His daughter, Mrs. David Carroll, of Canada, has been visiting while he was in the hospital.

Mrs. Russell Race, Sr., of Twelve Mile, had her sister-in-law Mrs. Clare Race of Sarasota, Florida for a 10-day visit recently.

Mrs. Hildred Hunt, of Eleven Mile Road, entertained eight friends on Friday for dessert luncheon and pinochle in the afternoon.

Mr. Edwin Steinberger of Meadowbrook Road, accompanied by his son Frank of Lansing, brother Joe of San Francisco and two other friends has returned from fishing in Canada. They were flown to the fishing spot with the pilot returning two weeks later to pick them up.

Guests at the Eugene McHale home on Clark Street this weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Bill McHale and son Billy of Otsego, Michigan.

Mrs. Lawrence Smith of Taft Road and her assistant teacher, Mrs. Marie Travis, hosted their Ladies Sunday School Class at a potluck dinner last Saturday afternoon.

Melinda Needham flew to Greenville, South Carolina to be bridesmaid at the wedding of former resident Sandy Knoll. Sandy and Randy Freeman were married on August 27.

Mrs. Lucy Needham attended the annual Installation Luncheon for the Wac Convention at Maccus Sly Fox Restaurant in Birmingham last Saturday.

Local resident Bill Mac Dermaid won the recent golf outing day which finished up the season for the Novi Golf Duffers. He came in 12 under his average and had choice on all the prizes presented that day at El Dorado. It was attended by 22 members and followed in the evening by a cookout at the club.

Village Oaks Cub Scouts

A special Cub Scout roundup was held at Village Oaks on September 19. All boys who have completed the second grade or are 8 years of age are eligible to join the Cubs at this time. Also organizing are the Webelos who are boys at least 10 years old or who have completed the 4th grade.

Jim Collins and Gordon Wilcox from Clinton Valley were present to explain the programs. Anyone not able to make the meeting may call Tina Talbot at 474-2996 for additional information.

Novi Pin Pointers

This group of ladies started their 10th season last week with about 56 women from the Novi and surrounding areas in attendance. However, there is a very dire need for about six more bowlers, so if you are interested in bowling for fun and making new friends call Barb Pietron at 474-0531. Standings are as follows:

Team No. 8	4	0
Weber Contractors	3	1
Team No. 13	3	1
Team No. 2	3	1
Team No. 3	3	1
Team No. 10	2 1/2	1 1/2
Team No. 11	2	2
Team No. 12	2	2
Team No. 9	1 1/2	2 1/2
Novi Drug	1	3
Team No. 14	1	3

Number One	1	3
Team No. 4	1	3

The mystery game was won by Del Fisher. High bowlers were Colleen Smith 247, Shirley Selep with 201, Barbara Brinker with 192, Jo Jackson with 191, Judy Curcio with 181, Shirley Vincent with 181 and Brabara Pietron with 180.

Novi Band Boosters

An organizational meeting was held last week with a good turnout. Officers were elected with the following results: President, Elaine Smith; Vice President, Darrell Marshall; Secretary, Gerry Stipp, and Treasurer, Sarah Everett. Committee heads appointed were: Fund Raising, Alan Kepner; Social, Huguette Rairigh; Special Activities, Ruth Ann Mac Pherson, Co-Chairman, Shirley Ward; Trips, Mary and Robert Wilkins. The group had Band Booster jackets for sale and information can be obtained by calling Diane Parks at 349-8202. They plan to meet the third Thursday of the month with discussion of constitution and fund raising slated for the next meeting.

Orchard Hills Booster Club

The Birthday Book Plan will be sponsored again this year in the library. It will be under the direction of Barbara Goglia and will be every Friday from 12:30-2:30 p.m. The child who has a birthday can purchase a book, from $2-$7 from the display. This book will be in his classroom for a week and then will be donated to the library with appropriate notation in it from the child.

Another project for the fall will be the final editing of the cookbook. Sheila Ross is in charge of this project. Anyone wishing to help can call her at 348-1313.

Everyone is reminder of the craft night being presented by Frank's Nursery on October 20. More details will be available at a later date. This will precede special craft workshops prior to the annual bazaar on November 19.

Friends of the Library

Last Thursday was the beginning of the film "Roots" which will be shown in two hour segments and will continue for several weeks. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Novi Library. This is free of charge for the community.

The next meeting of this group will be October 4 at the library with more details later. There will be discussion of the Book Sale scheduled for November 10-12, with books available for Christmas gift giving. A report will be given regarding the projector table purchased in cooperation with funds received from the Northville Townhall Series.

New members are needed to carry on the projects this group would like to work on for the community. Call 348-2858 or 349-3821.

Blue Star Mothers

On September 13, the ladies had a picnic planned for patients at Veterans Hospital in Ann Arbor. It was rained out; however, they took the picnic indoors to the recreation area. The following Blue Star Mothers attended this event: Helen Burnstrum, Lottie Race, Hazel Mandilk, Dolly Alegnani, Winnie Dobek, Lucy Needham, Ruth Morris and guest Irene Runnell.

Deputy Representative Lucy Needham, joined by Winnie Dobek, recently-appointed deputy representative of the Blue Star Mothers at the Veterans Hospital, attended a meeting on Monday evening of the Volunteers Veterans Administrative Services. At that time they made plans for the coming year for projects to benefit the patients.

The next meeting of the group will be October 6 at noon at the home of Helen Burnstrum.

Lioness Club

October 17 is the date set for a tea for new members at the home of Mary Ann Weber in Pioneer Meadows. Other plans include the upcoming craft show scheduled for October 22 at the Novi High School Commons Room. Tables are still available for any individual wishing to display. In addition, any charitable organization wishing to participate can call 477-9114 to obtain information regarding a free of charge table. This should be done as soon as possible so final plans can be made.

American Legion

Plans were made at their last meeting for several officers to attend the fall conference to be held at Benton Harbor this weekend. The long awaited organizational meeting of the Auxiliary was held September 20 at the Northville American Legion Post.

Any woman who is the wife, daughter or granddaughter of a member is eligible. If you are interested in more details, contact Ray Tobias, commander, at 349-5455 after 7:30 p.m. or Bob Pohlman.

Novi Senior Citizens

The covered dish luncheon held at the Novi United Methodist Church last week was well attended and thanks go to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Tank for the beautiful flowers that decorated the tables. Again, this group is growing rapidly with two new members in attendance — Mrs. Pursey and Mrs. DeWitt. The next general membership meeting will be September 27 at the Novi Community Building with hostesses Bernetta Braymen to be assisted by Helen Trahan.

The special trip scheduled for this month was Wednesday, with the seniors going to Frankenmuth for dinner followed by some early Christmas shopping at Bonners.

Now is the time to join this active group and sign up for the next special trip on October 24 to the Dow Chemical Plant in Midland. The Sunshine Committee sent cards to Ted Newhauser who is ill at home and unable to attend the functions at this time.

Novi Boy Scouts

The Novi Boy Scouts have started another season in the Novi area with the first meeting held last Monday evening at the Novi Community Building. This will continue throughout the school year. Boys who are interested in joining should contact Mr. Kamish at 349-6891.

The committee meeting held on September 6 included special plans to present the Order of Arrow award to local boys Greg McComas, Ted and Chuck Ashbrook at the "topsip" ceremony during the special scout weekend, September 16-18.

Other special weekends coming up include a canoe trip on September 30 - October 2, and a Camporee on October 14, 15 and 16. The next committee meeting is scheduled for October 4.

Novi Jaycee Auxiliary

A reminder of the art auction scheduled for this Friday evening, September 23, preceded by a champagne preview 7:30-8:30 p.m. with the auction commencing at 8:30 p.m. at the Novi Library 45245 Ten Mile Road. Contact Chairman Marilyn Kissiel at 349-2488 for ticket information.

The Helping Hands project is getting underway again. Anyone wishing to participate in this worthwhile project can contact Linda Beck 349-1428.

The fall district meetings will be held September 29 at Laneson's at 1655 Glangary Rd. in Walled Lake. If you plan to go contact Judy Dostal at 477-6823 today, September 21.

Thanks from the Auxiliary to the community and to the merchants for the cooperation on the canisters that were distributed and filled enabling the Auxiliary to turn in a considerable amount to this most deserving organization.

The next meeting will be September 27 at the Novi Woods Community Room at 8:00 p.m. — note the change in meeting place and time.

Novi Welcome Wagon

Just a few weeks remain to gather papers for the paper drive scheduled for Saturday, October 1, from 8 a.m.-7 p.m. in the parking lot of the conezone at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road.

There are some tickets left for the Las Vegas Night on Saturday, October 8, at the Village Oaks Club House, from 8 p.m.-1 a.m. The evening will include great games, great prizes, and great midnight buffet for $20 per couple. All proceeds will go to the Novi Library. Reservations may be made by calling Kathy 474-6936, or Linda at 348-1244 or Pat at 348-1907.

Mrs. Roethel attends conference

Mrs. John J. Roethel (Romaine) of 22461 Brook Forest Road in Novi will attend the Annual American Legion Auxiliary Presidents and Secretaries Conference in Indianapolis, Indiana, September 20-23.

Mrs. Roethel was appointed Chairman of the Constitution and Bylaws Committee by the National President of the American Legion Auxiliary following the Auxiliary's Convention in Denver this August. She will be one of more than 200 delegates to the annual event.

Indianapolis is the home of the National Headquarters of the American Legion Auxiliary and has been the site for this annual conference for more than 50 years.

Conference attendees will participate in meetings and workshops which will provide specific information on the various aspects of the organization's program for the coming year.

Chairing the conference will be Mrs. Alvin Moltzen, the Auxiliary's newly elected National President from New Salem, North Dakota. Mrs. Moltzen was elected president at the 57th Annual National Convention held in Denver, Colorado, August 22-25.

As members of the largest women's patriotic organization in the world, the delegates will represent nearly a million women involved in a variety of programs of interest to the nation. The Poppy Program, volunteer work in Veterans' Hospitals, the Girls' State Program and the Foreign Relations Program Study Program are among the topics which are readily identified with the Auxiliary.

Other Auxiliary efforts, which are not so much in the public eye include work with children and youth, in curbing status offenders, promoting immunization, and education of youth about the dangers of alcohol and drugs. Issues involving National Security, Americanism and Legislatures will also be explored during the three-day conference.

Delegates will be given the opportunity to learn for the first time, details of the National President's project involving support of the Muscular Dystrophy (MDA). As a Regional Director for MDA, the new president, Mrs. Moltzen, has seen firsthand the efforts of this organization in combating crippling neuromuscular diseases.

Community Notes

It's time for Wixom's annual fall treasure hunt

Gather up pencils, flashlights, a dictionary, new Pontiac area phone book, world almanac and a AAA map of the surrounding countryside because it's time for the Wixom Fall Treasure Hunt.

Held twice yearly, the hunts have become a popular, almost addictive pastime. Open to anyone who enjoys tearing around the countryside looking for cleverly hidden coded discs and solving mind-boggling clues, the hunt is scheduled for Saturday, October 8.

Cost for the hunt is $15 per couple which includes prize money and dinner at the end of the trail. It is a B.Y.O.B. event.

Hunters will join in the parking lot of Loon Lake Elementary School in Wixom at 7:15 p.m. The hunt starts promptly at 7:30 p.m.

To the winners of the hunt goes not only prize money but the dubious privilege of putting on the spring hunt.

Deadline for reservations is September 30. Information and reservations may be made by calling the Richard Peck's at 624-5738 or the Daniel Regan's at 887-2667.

Fruits and Vegetables

The Lakes Area Food Co-Op will hold a general membership meeting tomorrow, Thursday, September 22 at St. William's Zepf Hall. The meeting is called for 10 a.m.

Open for any area resident, there is an initial, one-time-only $1 membership fee. Those attending, or their representatives, may place orders for fruits and vegetables for pick-up the following week.

Consisting of one full bag of fruits and one of vegetables, a complete order cost $5 which includes truck rental and gasoline. Partial orders may also be placed.

Shopping for the fresh produce is done at the Eastern Market each Thursday morning. Those items are then loaded on the truck, conveyed to Walled Lake, sorted and bagged. The largest variety of fresh fruits and vegetables available each week are chosen by the shopper for inclusion in the bags.

Also available at the Food Co-op on advance order only are a variety of meats and cheeses. Eggs and bread are also offered.

Celebrating its fifth anniversary, those attending the general meeting will share in a special birthday cake baked for the occasion. A general election of officers will also be conducted.

Members are asked to bring at least two large brown shopping bags to the meeting.

More information on the Food Co-Op and its working is available by contacting 624-5520 or Dorothy Dingman, Head Coordinator or the project at 624-3696.

Decathlon

The annual Wixom Park's and Recreation Decathlon Day is scheduled for Saturday, September 24 in the Wixom City Park.

Open to all Wixom children in grades one through six, the Decathlon begins at 9 a.m. in the park located behind the V.F.W. on Loon Lake Road.

Ribbons are awarded to the first five winners in each event with medals presented to the first three winners of each event. Award ceremonies will be held at the completion of the Decathlon.

Included in the events are the running long jump, baseball throw, dashes, jump and touch, football kick and a bike race. For that event, a bicycle is furnished by the commission to afford the same opportunity to everyone.

Enrollment forms for the event are available at the Wixom schools.

Do Re Me

All women, 16 years and older are cordially invited to join the Inter-Lake Chapter of the Sweet Adelines to blend their voices in close harmony.

The group meets every Wednesday night beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Union Lake Elementary School on Commerce and Union Lake Roads.

A special guest night is planned for September 28 with special renditions offered by guest quartets. Refreshments will be served while guests have the opportunity to become acquainted with the group and their activities.

The Inter-Lakes Chapter is directed by Louise McColl of Bloomfield Township. Ms. McColl was the founder and former director of the Quaker Chapter of the Sweet Adelines in Orchard Park, New York and the Southern Oakland County chapter in Berkeley, Michigan. She is a graduate of the Detroit Conservatory of Music.

Market Basket

A general membership meeting of the Multi-Lakes Food Co-Op is scheduled for Thursday, September 29 beginning at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the cafeteria of Walled Lake Central High School.

Any area resident is invited to join the Food Co-Op and are urged to attend the meeting. Rules governing the group will be discussed and orders for fruit and vegetables for following week pick-up may be placed.

An initial $1 membership fee is charged. Food orders are $4.35 weekly.

The Co-Op is held weekly on Thursday through May at the Multi-Lakes Conservation Club located on Newton Road near Oakley Park. Hours are 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m.

More "Roots"

The second segment of "Roots" is scheduled for Thursday, September 22 at the Novi Public Library beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The six part series will be shown in segmented form each Thursday night in the meeting room of the library located at Ten Mile and Taft Roads. The program is open to the public free of charge.

Further information on the program is available from the library either through a visit or by calling 349-1720.

Special People

The first general membership meeting of the Greater Farmington Association for Retarded Citizens will be held Tuesday, September 27 at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting is slated for the Mary Wagner Community Living Center at 21335 Tuck Road, Farmington.

The Association is an organization serving the parents and families or retarded children or adults through a series of meetings featuring professional speakers and discussions.

Information regarding the group is available in Novi by contacting Mrs. Patricia LaBue at 349-2609.

Energy

The Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi League of Women Voters and the Northville AAUW will jointly present a program dealing with major energy issues on October 11. Professor John A. Clark of the University of Michigan is the featured speaker.

Following Professor Clark's presentation, a three-member panel, consisting of two women from the League and one from the AAUW will direct discussion toward particular issues of concern.

If interested in attending the meeting, contact should be made through either group.

Change of Place

An organizational meeting for the Men's and Women's Table Tennis League has been changed from Walled Lake Central High School to Loon Lake Elementary School.

The meeting will be held in the gymnasium on Monday, September 26 at 7 p.m.

All interested persons are invited to bring their paddles for a practice session after the meeting.

Floor Hockey

A floor hockey league, sponsored by the Walled Lake Community Education Department is being formed for all fourth, fifth and sixth grade girls and boys.

The league will start on Wednesday, October 19 at Commerce Elementary School. All students in the Walled Lake School system will get an application through their school by October 10.

A $5 fee is charged each participant. Anyone interested in coaching a team is invited to contact John Slattengren at 624-0202.

Senior Pictures

Senior citizens aged 60 years and older may have identification card pictures taken on Monday, September 26 at the Lakes Area Multi-Purpose Center.

The identification cards enables seniors to receive discounts on merchandise from over 850 participating merchants through the Oakland County Senior Discount Program.

The Lakes Area Center is located in the old Novi Elementary School on Novi Road. Hours for the picture program are 1 to 5 p.m.
