National Merit scholars

BY ANDREAM BEAUDOIN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

While some kids hit the screens after school, honor students Jillian Ritchey, Diana Marsala, Ethan Ames, and Erin McNeil are busy with advanced classes, clubs, and extracurricular activities.

The Clarkston High School seniors are among 16,000 semi-finalists out of 1.5 million applicants across the U.S. in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

They all said they love learning, and enjoy math and science.

Richey, a Girl Scout since kindergarten, has taken extra and advanced classes much of her school career, including a special problem solving class she has taken since fifth grade.

"Your whole heart must be into taking an advanced class," she said. "It is good to be with like minded people. It creates a good atmosphere."

Richey has witnessed changes over the years.

"Our classes have become more about discovering things for yourself. We seem to have more activities that make us think about how what we do impacts the world," she said.

This year she is also involved

After years of treatment and surgery, Jon Angelosanto of Independence Township can now take part in the community that has given him so much.

But there's a problem.

"The irony is we're finally able to take him out and participate in society and now he's stuck," said Katie Angelosanto, his mother. "He can actually feel peace out there, but we can't get him out there."

Jon is confined to a wheelchair, and his parents Katie and Joe Angelosanto don't have funds for a wheelchair-accessible van. They set up a Go Fund Me account for their son, at Gofundme.com/jonangelosanto.

"It was hard to find at first — we're really green," Katie said. "He's a young man who has great desire to be kind and generous. Unfortunately with his disability and now medication, he struggles. His intent is to be kind and loving."

"I need a van so I can go places on vacation and go for a break, go to parks, go fishing and see animals, go treasure hunting," Jon said.

Diagnosed with intractable epilepsy at age 2, the almost 22-year-old has had four brain surgeries since he was 4 years old.

Two arrested in break-in Curtis Wright, 20, of Davisburg and White Lake resident Eric Hanlon, 21, face home invasion charges in connection with two burglaries in Springfield Township, Oct. 3.

A homeowner in the 10000 block of Bigelow was leaving for work at about 2:30 a.m. that morning when he noticed a black SUV parked at the end of their driveway.

About 20 minutes later, his wife heard a noise in the living room and discovered a man inside her home. He fled the residence.

in the Business Professionals of America and the varsity bowling team.

Marsala's love for math and science began at a young age, and will continue.

"When I graduate I am leaning towards criminal science and biology," she said. "I have always been encouraged to think outside the box. I did well too, so I was always allowed to do extra work."

Richey said teachers with passion make a huge difference.

"Teachers that care are passionate. They tell stories and embellish. Teachers like that feed their students desire to learn. Students can also tell when their teachers don't like the subject they teach."

Marsala said she has always enjoyed thinking outside the box.

"I never give up," she smiled. "I set my sights on a goal, and I keep going until I reach it."

Her high energy level helps too.

"I like to stay busy, and keep moving. I want to feel like I am accomplishing things. I like to set goals and reach them," she said.

Marsala has been involved with Team Rush 27 since freshman year. This year she is captain of a great team she said gives back to the community.

"Our goal is to not only build the best robot, our goal is to have the biggest impact on the community," she said. "I love the people involved, and I love what we do."

Marsala's advise to students, "Know what you want your future to look like, so you can get an idea where to begin. Get involved in extra-curricular activities and in activities that interest you."

Ames remembers falling in love with math and science back in third grade when a teacher allowed students a lot of time to play.

"We had a lot of free time to play with a bunch of things like magnets that related to our learning, said Ames, who plans to study engineering in college.

"I believe engineering is very useful. It is a career that has a great impact and it opens many doors. I want to make a difference and change the world," he said.

He runs a paper gaming group and participates in a youth government group.

McNeil describes herself as a problems solver. She loves science and biology with an equal passion for being creative and artistic.

"I am always willing to work hard on a team. I have always been good at taking tests and I like to think logically," she said.

McNeil said she hails from a smart family. "School has always been a big focus for us. My brother goes to college at Georgia Tech. He calls me and gives me advice."

Sixth grade was a big year for her.

"I went into advanced classes and started developing good work habits," she said.

At first she felt a lot of pressure, but that taught her something.

"I learned you may not get something right away, but just hang in there and you will get it," she said.

National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) announced the names of the approximately 16,000 Semi-finalists in the 61st annual National Merit Scholarship Program in the beginning of September.

According to NMSC These academically talented high school seniors have an opportunity to continue in the competition for some 7,400 National Merit Scholarships worth more than $32 million offered next spring.

Pink events team up

Downtown businesses are joining forces with McLaren and Independence Senior Community Center to turn the town pink — for a good cause.

The combined Paint the Town Pink and Pampered event to raise funds and awareness of Breast Cancer will be from 5-8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 15.

"Have a good time, support the cause and support the community," said Carrie Wheeler, manager, specialty services, for McLaren Healthcare Village of Clarkston. "We're excited to see the town turn pink."

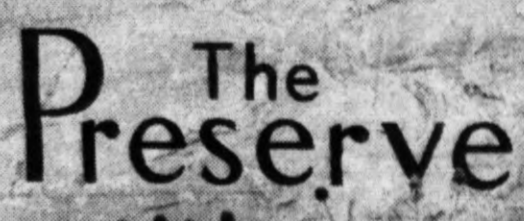

Twenty businesses are participating in the event, offering pink-themed shopping, sales, contests, drinks, and treats. Vendors offering massage, nails, relaxation, and pampering services, each for a $10 donation, will be in the Clarkston Mills Mall at 20 W. Washington Street. More than 300 purses will be in the recycled purse sale.

Shuttle service, donated by Bowman Chevrolet, will be available from Clarkston Flower Shoppe and other businesses on North Main Street to Kinetic Systems and Union General on South Main.

This is the fourth year of Paint the Town Pink and seventh for Pink and Pampered. Organizers have discussed combining the events for years, and this is the first year for the combined event.

Funds will be used to directly help patients at the McLaren Cancer Institute - Clarkston and McLaren Breast Center.

Fixes for 5 S. Main

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

Repairs are in the works for 5 S. Main Street downtown.

The Clarkston Historic District Commission met with building owner Jim Sherman Jr. and Timothy Mack, general contractor, on Oct. 1, to discuss renovation of the 138-year-old building, home of The Clarkston News.

"The plan is to repair and replace what's going on over there," Sherman said.

Work will include removal and replacement of deteriorated bricks and stucco on the north, west, and south sides of the building, as well as repairs to the roof and gutters.

The project will take about 30 working days, Mack said.

The commission called for bricks and mortar to be replaced with historically accurate masonry. Vintage bricks reclaimed from old buildings in Detroit are available, said Commissioner Bob Sowles.

"There are tons of it," said Sowles, who checked the building with a tap test as far as he could reach. "It's not as bad as I thought. It's a lot solidier than I thought it would be."

Commissioner David Bihl said HDC is charged with protecting Clarkston's historic buildings and needs to know workers have the proper expertise with historic buildings.

"Someone has to do the work who understands how to work on a building that old," Bihl said. "To vote yes, I need to know if the person doing the cement work is aware of the historic issues."

Mack said he has worked on old buildings in Detroit, and will make sure materials match.

Commission Chair Cara Catallo said an engineer should check the building.

"The building is in such disrepair, it's beyond ordinary maintenance," Catallo said. "My concern is the repair will not be done properly – I wouldn't want the building owner to go through expense of repairing it if there's a greater problem."

The commission requested a complete list of materials, bricks, and mortar, to make sure it matches historic aesthetics, she said.

"We want to make sure it lasts another 100 years," she said.

"It's a beautiful building. It really is," Sowles said.

Commissioners Bihl, Catallo, Sowles, and Rhiannon Cherwak voted unanimously to table the proposal pending additional information. Commission member Kevin Harrison was absent.

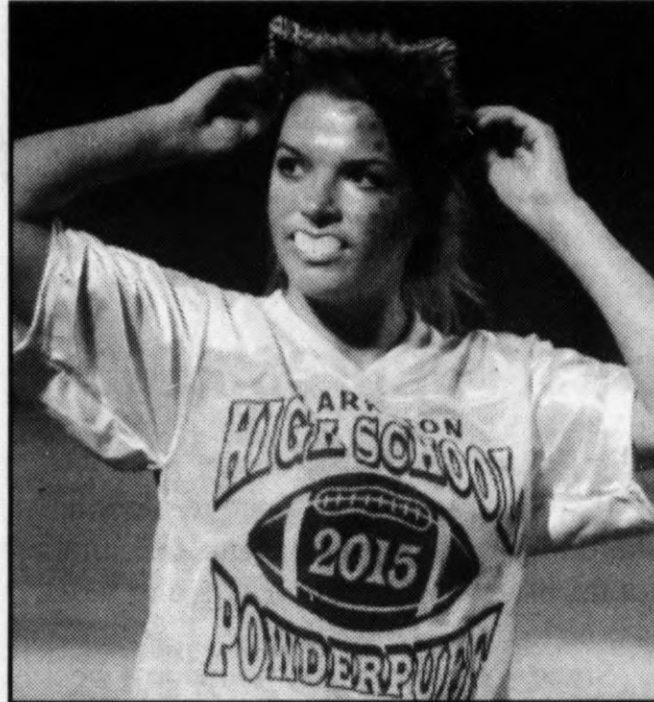

Senior Mariah Hood practices her passes.

Juniors victorious in Powderfuff

Homecoming kicked off with the annual Powderpuff game with the seniors battling the juniors.

The seniors aimed to take a back-to-back win for the game but were stopped by the junior class who scored twice in the first half.

Fans were treated to a game, a dance from Apomination and commentary from announcers John Drallos and Nick Hagewood.

Senior Lea Ferer adjusts her ears before the next play.

Junior Kristen Page escapes the grasp of the senior defense as she makes a run.

The senior team takes to the field for their final Powderpuff game.

Andrea's Anecdotes

A column by Andrea Beaudoin

Canceling America

I watched fellow shoppers dash for eggs and milk, so unaware and blind to everyone around them. It made me angry. Why?

I thought about all those nights I can't sleep because of what I see.

Food prices are enormous. Changes are made to farming laws, but few people pay any attention. Little by little American laws are changed in favor of big agriculture.

Birds, bees and butterflies are dying, Earth has lost 50 percent of wildlife since 1970.

The Environmental Protection Agency has big money that is terribly mismanaged.

Michigan Department of Transportation can't fix roads, but they can fund four cameras per intersection, everywhere. These cameras cost up to $90,000 each to add to the system. Huge towers are being added along I-75 and everywhere else you look too. But, hey, at least they can warn us if I-75 in North Oakland County is backed up or at least watch us in the traffic jam.

All this at a huge, huge expense to a system that does not even work right or make any sense at all. Then there are the moments I'm trying to mind my own business, but it's impossible.

I get a random Facebook message telling me someone I love dearly committed suicide the night before. It was not true, but followed a day after an incident in which this young person took 25 benadryl just because it was there. This IS happening everywhere. Suicide rates are up.

A few hours after this incident I see a 24 year old girl so medicated its disgusting. In fact, the number of young people doctors let get hooked on pills is a crime.

Kids, and adults and society is sad and feeling hopeless. People and systems are broken.

I saw something so creepy, I would not want to burden others talking about it. I tried to help another person as much as I could. I have been so shaken up since, a leaf blowing on the ground made me jump. Getting stronger there.

Someone asks why I care so much. Fact is I have no choice. I wonder how people can be so clueless. In fact that is perhaps why I have to care so much.

America needs to change. It starts here, right here in me. I know one person can change the world. This was my week. How bout' those Lions?

Catholics, WW I and Yellow Crosses

When I was in Morrice High School, our house was across the street one way and across another street from the Catholic Church.

Ma Daddy wasn't keen toward the Catholic faith, and we kept to our side of the street. And now, 80 years later, I'm being overwhelmed with the Catholic leader, Pope Francis, getting all the print media, radio and television coverage. I know what Ma Daddy would of thought of that. He wouldn't have listened or watched.

On the other hand, his third son (me) can't get enough of it. Pope Francis has wowed our country with his manner, his words, his sincerity, his leadership and thoughts of human beings.

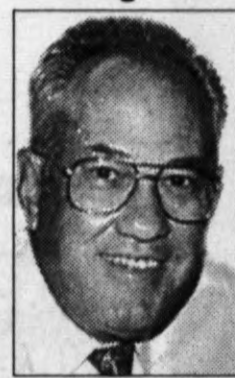

I've listened to much of what he's said and watched plenty.

Somewhere along the line I heard an ABC or CBS, NBC or Fox News commentator concentrated several remarks about the Pope's leadership.

Now, I'll give you that his leadership is to a defined religious order, but dog-gone it, isn't there some one out there in the United States who can provide the leadership we need, that can be accepted under our political rules Or, are we going to have to admit that person of integrity, honesty, openness, sincerity doesn't exist among us?

Jim's Jottings

a column by
Jim Sherman

It's obvious with news coverage from our daily newspapers and other media, help is needed in a lot of places.

Some of our water is being contaminated. Lawmakers can't agree. Courts can't agree. Cyber spying appears to be growing. Too many cars are failing tests. Illegal drugs are growing in number. There are more questions than answers to improving student education. Our borders aren't closed.

You really don't want me to go on. Nor do I.

Started re-reading my father's diary from World War I. It's an easy read. Dad's penmanship, I'm sure, helped him get through the University of Chicago and helped him get ahead at Swift and Co. before he had to go win World War I in 1918. (He also tutored me through winning WWII.)

Anyway, he was dating Clara Black, who became my mother, and they wrote a lot of letters back and forth, and he wrote about all of them in his daily diary which I have. He always mentioned the cold and rain, his poker losings, maneuvers, and his taking treatment for lice; twice.

The only thing Dad apparently found good in France were the Yellow Cross "shows" and Mrs. Castle in her show series, "Patricia." I'll find out about the Yellow Cross shows and get back to you when I find a googler.

"Googler" Don Rush reminded me the Yellow Cross shows in WW I, were probably the German's use of the chemical weapon commonly referred to as "Mustard Gas." It was yellow in color. And, to end this column sort of where we started, with Catholics.

"In the Middle Ages, the Cathar yellow cross was a distinguishing mark (essentially a badge of shame) worn by repentant Cathars, who were ordered to wear it by the Roman Catholic Church."

Fall is when my fashion senses shine!

It must be genetic.

There has to be something in my Deoxyribonucleic acid that makes me such an expert. My blue-collar dad was always fussy about how his clothes fit. The buttons on his shirt had to line up with his belt buckle and zipper on his trousers. I think he called it his "gig line."

His father, John Joseph Jeremiah Rush, over 6 feet tall, with a 28-inch waste and barrel chest, was a clothes model in Detroit in the 1920s.

Is it any wonder why I am considered by almost everybody in the universe as a fashion GOD?

I know, it is a hard burden to carry, but I have broad shoulders. I can handle the responsibility and I am about to share with you, my minions, that my fashion-maven spidy senses really start to tingle when the temperatures fall.

(Time out! I just Googled maven to see how it was spelled -- with an I or an E... maven is from the Yiddish word "meyvn." Who woulda thunk it? Learn something new all the time! Now back to this "gem" of a column.)

Guess what? Forty-degree mornings and 50-something-degree days have opened the clothes closet to my soul.

My dazzlingly skilled, and well-honed fashion senses are tingling so powerfully that were I a spider, my entire 1,800-square-foot money-pit-of-a-home would be covered with a fine, silk-like web.

But alas, I ain't a spider, just a man with a plan.

Don't Rush Me

A column by
Don Rush

And that plan (in a word, though it's really two) is SWEATER VEST.

Bam! There it is, in writing: The Secret To My Fashion success.

With the fall weather comes my spectacularly wonderful, and ever-growing sweater vest collection.

What?

You don't dig the sweater vest look? How about khaki slacks? Your thoughts on white, puffy tennis shoes? How about tan colored, lace-up shoes?

Okay, how about this look... blue jeans (with a crease in the legs), Hawaiian shirt, blue sports jacket? How about the creased blue jeans, Hawaiian shirt, blue sports jacket, accompanied with the white, puffy tennis shoes?

Are you doubting my legendary status in the Metro Detroit fashion scene?

It's the time of year when those of us with dangly bits and with true fashion sense really shine. I think this is the time of the year when those of you without dangly bits (women) secretly long for, too. This is the time of year your hearts beat a little faster, your palms sweat a little more, your legs wobble and your heads swoon. How can you not have feelings of deep longing when you see those of us with fashion moxy walking down the aisle at the local grocery wearing (from top to bottom): unbuttoned flannel shirt, contrasting colored tee, tucked into khaki shorts atop white crew socks that stick out of dark work boots?

I ask you, what's not to love about that fall fashion look?

Yup.

My fall fashion senses are, as the trendy social media types like to so, "on Fleek." Spot on. Truly on point.

Ladies, if you need your man to follow my lead into the fine, fall fashion world, drop me a line. I will gladly offer my services for a small consulting fee.

What can I say? I have a talent, a gift when it comes to men's fashion. And, when you're so gifted, why be stingy with it?

Am I right?

I believe in sharing my love of fashion with the world. Maybe we should start a new fashion movement, Fashion by Don, and start it here in the Metro Detroit area. I am sure that will help the local economy.

Ahem.

One thing that is kinda a bummer about this time of year -- the transition from warm weather to cooler weather -- is the politics of office temperatures.

With a sweater vest comes the long sleeve shirts. The combo of both of these garments is a feeling of warmth. See, fashion can be functional!

Then why is it the womenfolk want to wear what they did two months ago and bump up the thermostat to 75? I am looking at the thermometer in my office as I type (yes, I can and often do type without looking where my fingers are on the keyboard) and it reads 78 degrees! It is 56 degrees and misty outside and nearly 80 in the office. I have a fan on in my office.

Maybe I will have to take off the sweater vest, then long-sleeved shirt, and show off my "home grown" sweater. That'll show 'em!

Public Safety

For Clarkston and Independence Township

Drinking and donuts

Responding to a report of possible underage drinking and a vehicle doing donuts in a parking lot at Pine Knob and Clarkston roads, 6:35 p.m., Sept. 26, a deputy found three teenagers standing near a pickup truck. The teens, an 18-year-old Orion Township man, 18-year-old Independence Township man, and 16-year-old Independence Township boy, said they were just hanging out. They had a half-empty bottle of rum on the tailgate. The Orion Township man said the bottle was his, along with a grinder, pipe, and several baggies containing marijuana residue. He was cited with possession of drug paraphernalia and alcohol. All three were turned over to their parents.

Attempted break-in

Residents in the 7000 block of Oak Ridge Court were out when they received an alert from their alarm company, 8:44 p.m., Sept. 26. They got home within 10 minutes and found someone had cut the screen on a sliding door and damaged the door lock, but was unable to get inside.

Expired registration

A deputy on patrol stopped a car with an expired registration tab, 4 p.m., Sept. 28, on White Lake at Deer Lake Road. The driver, a 44-year-old Independence Township woman, was cited for driving with a suspended and expired license, and no proof of insurance.

Speeding truck

A deputy stopped a truck for going 47 mph in a 40 mph zone on Dixie Highway, 10:20 a.m., Sept. 28. The driver, a 64-year-old Independence Township man, was cited for driving a commercial vehicle without proper endorsement on his license, and given warnings for failure to carry a medical certificate and speeding.

Theft from vehicle

Someone took a wallet from an unlocked car parked in the 6000 block of Placid Court, Sept. 29. A Social Security card and debit card were taken and rest left in a recycling bin.

Suspicious seller

An Independence Township resident called police to report a suspicious solicitor, 4:50 p.m., Sept. 29. A deputy located the salesman, a 20-year-old resident of Milwaukee, Wisc., at Snow Apple and Cramlane drives. He was the subject of another soliciting complaint a week prior on Sashabaw Road south of Oak Hill Road. He was cited for soliciting without a license.

Property recovered

dence and she called 911.

Six Oakland County deputies responded. While at the residence, a deputy noticed a black Ford Explorer drive by. A deputy conducted a traffic stop on the vehicle, and the passenger, Wright, fled on foot. The officers caught him and took him into custody. Inside of the vehicle were two backpack leaf blowers, a weed whip and an edger.

A detective found Wright matched the description of the suspect who was inside the residence. The driver of the vehicle, Hanlon, was identified by the husband as the suspect he had observed at the end of the driveway when he left for work.

Deputies also responded to a second residence in the 10000 block of Bigelow on a report of a home invasion, earlier that morning. The homeowner said his lawn equipment was stolen from his attached garage. The items found in the suspects' vehicle were identified as the homeowners' stolen property.

Both suspects were arraigned in 52-2 District Court on two counts of home invasion and larceny of less than $200.

Wright, who was also charged with resisting police, is held on a $50,000 cash bond. Hanlon is held on a $50,000 personal bond.

Probable cause hearing is set for Oct. 16, and pretrial exam, Oct. 23.

Missing man found

Passing motorists called police to report a pickup truck with its hood up on I-75 at Ortonville Road, 11:35 a.m., Sept. 30. A deputy spoke to the driver, a 71-year-old Mayville man, and found he had been reported missing out of Tuscola County. He said he left his house the day before and wanted to take a drive. Independence Township paramedics took him to St. Joseph's hospital for evaluation, and Tuscola County was notified.

Unlicensed speeder

A deputy on radar duty on a school zone on Waldon Road stopped a car going 46 mph, 2:45 p.m., Sept. 30. The driver, a 25-year-old Independence Township woman, was cited for driving with an expired license and speeding.

Closing on league lead with shutout

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Gridiron heroes marked their Homecoming Game with a shut out, slipping into the second place spot in the OAA Red last Friday with their 28-0 win over Troy Athens.

"The shut out was nice," said Kurt Richardson, head coach. "We left too many points on the field but it was a nice win. They are a nice ball club. They have a nice defense. Josh (Heppner, head coach) has done a great job with them."

Richardson added the Wolves, now 4-2 overall, are peaking at the right time. The boys have three games remaining in the regular season and they need two wins to secure their spot for playoffs.

"We are starting to get there," he said. "We are starting to get a little healthy. We are starting to clink a little bit. We have some tough games ahead of us."

"We are getting better and better," added sophomore running back Michael Fluegel. "We have had a lot of injuries and a lot of different things we had to overcome this year. We have come together as a team and we are finally clicking. I think by playoffs we are going to be the best we can be."

The Wolves started scoring against Troy Athens on their second possession in the game. Senior Alex Kessman handed the ball to Fluegel, who broke through defense and down the middle of the field for a 75-yard run before landing in the endzone.

A PAT kick from Kessman put the Wolves 7-0 with 5:37 left in the first quarter.

Clarkston struck again in the second quarter - not just once but twice. The first was off a 60-yard pass play touchdown from Kessman to senior receiver Jonah Koponen with 8:38 remaining in the half.

Senior receiver Hayden Schoenherr struck with two minutes remaining in the half off a 30-yard pass play from Kessman, ending the half 21-0.

Schoenherr scored again for the final touchdown of the game with 2:40 remaining in the third quarter off a 53-yard pass play from Kessman.

"It was a good game for us," Fluegel reflected. "It was a great defensive game. Offense put a lot of points on the board."

The Wolves defense put a stop to the Red Hawks from gaining too much ground.

"The kids were flying to the ball," said Richardson. "Secondary did a good job there. We challenged them a little bit after last week."

Zach Scott led the defense with six tackles, two assists and one tackle for 1-yard loss. Jack Muhleck had five tackles and two assists and Carter Linton and three tackles, two assists and an interception.

Kessman threw 8-for-12 for 211 yards and three touchdowns and was 4-for-4 on PATs.

"He threw some nice balls," Richardson said. "He gives us that nice threat. He has done some nice things for us."

Schoenherr caught three passes for 96 yards and had two touchdowns.

"That was a big game for him," Richardson noted. "We have been waiting for that from him."

Koponen caught three passes for 77 yards.

Fluegel rushed seven times for 82 yards and one touchdown.

Senior running back Nolan Eriksen was back on the field after an injury had kept him on the sideline since the Football for a Cure pre-season scrimmage. He rushed 18 times for 82 yards and four first downs.

"It was nice to see Nolan back," Richardson added. "He was a little rusty and he was missing some stuff. He will get there."

The Wolves head to Troy, 4777 Northfield Parkway. The Colts are 0-6 overall and 0-5 in the OAA Red.

"We just going to play our game and hopefully come out with a win," said Fluegel.

"Just keep getting healthy and making strides," Richardson added going into this week's practices and game.

Lessons learned in league play

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Spikers reflected on their goals on Monday after losing two battles in the OAA Red last week.

"We will reevaluate our goals," said Kelly Pinner, Clarkston Varsity Volleyball Head Coach after the girls lost to crosstown rivals Lake Orion last Thursday, 3-0. "We understand the goal of winning the league is out of our reach now. We will work on some other things. We will readjust some goals and readjust some of our thinking and understand we have a lot of season left."

One of the concentration is on tournaments coming up this month including Beast of the East - which the Lady Wolves won last year.

"It is an outstanding tournament to get ready for the season," said Pinner.

The Lady Wolves already have a few tournaments under their belts - where they had already seen Lake Orion before playing them in a league match last week.

"We knew going in they are an outstanding team," Pinner said. "They have lost twice all season long. We knew we had to be our best. Everything had to be clicking. We stuck to the game plan we wanted. We played hard. There are some things we have to clean up, some unforced errors but if you are going to play an outstanding team like that you have to bring you 'A' game. It's a tough team to beat."

For each game the Lady Dragons jumped to a lead to win 25-21 and 25-17.

The Lady Wolves had them fighting in the third fames when they narrowed down the points and tied 22-22 with a hit from Sarah Austin.

They tied it again at 24 points off a block from Sydney Jensen and Maggie Collins before the Dragons won the game 26-24.

"They are always swinging," Pinner said about Lake Orion. "Where we are getting down a system and we give them an easy free ball, they are figuring out a way to use their hitters and get more swings at us. Kudos to them they are always attacking. They are always on the attack. They are a little bit faster than us offensively. They are just a great team."

Clarkston opened the week with a 3-2 (25-15, 23-25, 27-25, 22-25, 13-15) loss to Stoney Creek on Sept. 28.

They beat Troy, 3-0, on Sept. 24 to put their overall record 22-8-1 and 2-2 in the OAA Red.

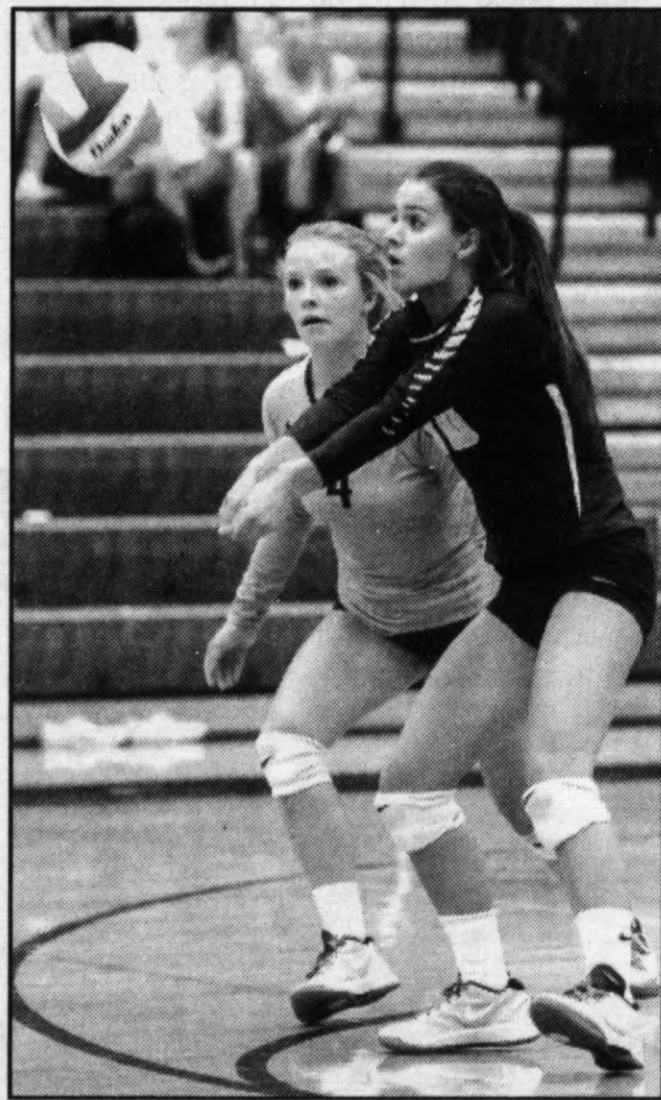

Against the Colts, Malinowski had 10 kills, 14 assists and five aces. Emma Curd had eight kills and six blocks and Schwartz had 20 digs.

The Lady Wolves will battle Lake Orion again in the MHSAA Volleyball District playoffs.

"We drew them first round so we have to figure out how to beat them," said Pinner.

Clarkston opened the week against Birmingham Seaholm on Tuesday and head to Bloomfield Hills on Thursday before going to Oxford next Tuesday.

JV begins at 5:30 p.m., varsity follows.

Everest win against Marine City

The Mountaineers posted a win against Marine City Cardinal Mooney on Friday, 39-22.

The Clarkston Everest Collegiate Football team took control of the scoreboard with two touchdowns in the first quarter. The first one was a 59-yard touchdown run by Alex Legg and the second touchdown came from a 6-yard run from JC James. Two PATs from Simon Fenske put the score at 14-0.

Legg scored again in the second quarter on a 12-yard run to end the first half, 20-7.

The Mountaineers scored three times in the second half with a 67-yard run from Legg and a 24-yard run from Isaiah Hellner in the third quarter.

Paul Durocher scored in the final quarter off a 1-yard run.

Legg carried the ball ten times for 239 yards. Josh Legg carried the ball five times for 107 yards and Hellner carried the ball eight times for 59 yards.

The Mountaineers improve to a 3-3 overall record and 2-3 in CHSL International.

Varsity boys take first place at Hanson Invitational

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Wolves spent the weekend topping the course at the Hanson Invitational as the cross country teams took the top spots.

The Clarkston Boys Varsity Cross Country finished the Hanson Invitational in first place with 72 points out of 19 teams at the meet. Romeo took second with 101 points.

"We ran really well there," said Michael Taylor, head coach. "I think a part of it was the course. We put some runners under 17 minutes for the first time. We were concerned because Romeo was in that meet and we beat them by 10 points at the Spartan Invitational but they are also in our regional. We beat them by 30 – it was a good victory for us."

Mika Juuhl led the pack finishing in eighth place at 16:32. Finishing in the top 40 were Gavin Eisert in 13th place at 16:45, Grant Henley, 15th, 16:54; Eric Smith, 16th place at 16:57; Michael Baker, 23rd, 17:17; Shawn Slater, 26th, 17:19; and Nickolas Favazza, 35th, 17:31.

The JV team finished in second place with 52 points out of 17 teams. Canton finished in first place with 37 points. Derrick Egli won the race with his first place finish at 17:46.

Finishing in the top 20 runners were Luke Oldford in eighth place at 18:13; Matthew Achison, 12th, 18:18; Grant Schreiber, 15th, 18:26; Derek Opel, 16th, 18:26.5; James Rothwell, 18th, 18:30; Andrew Lake 18:31; Jacob Ryan, 20th, 18:33.

"There were a lot of solid performances for us. We had lots of PRs up and down the varsity and JV teams," Taylor added. "We continue to improve every week and we are closing the gap every week between us and some of the other teams in front of us in the OAA Red. For us getting out of the regional is looking a bit more possible. We are still an underdog, but we have been there before."

The JV boys team finished in second place with 56 points while Lake Orion finished in first place with 28 points. The Clarkston Boys Varsity Cross Country finished the Hanson Invitational in first place with 72 points out of 19 teams at the meet. Romeo took second with 101 points.

"We ran really well there," said Michael Taylor, head coach. "I think a part of it was the course. We put some runners under 17 minutes for the first time. We were concerned because Romeo was in that meet and we beat them by 10 points at the Spartan Invitational but they are also in our regional. We beat them by 30 – it was a good victory for us."

Mika Juuhl led the pack finishing in eighth place at 16:32. Finishing in the top 40 were Gavin Eisert in 13th place at 16:45, Grant Henley, 15th, 16:54; Eric Smith, 16th place at 16:57; Michael Baker, 23rd, 17:17; Shawn Slater, 26th, 17:19; and Nickolas Favazza, 35th, 17:31.

The JV team finished in second place with 52 points out of 17 teams. Canton finished in first place with 37 points. Derrick Egli won the race with his first place finish at 17:46.

Finishing in the top 20 runners were Luke Oldford in eighth place at 18:13; Matthew

Traveler kicks off speaker series

Oakland Town Hall kicks off a new series of speakers with Rudy Maxa, The Savvy Traveler, on Oct. 14.

The award-winning radio and television host of shows including "Smart Travels: Europe with Rudy Maxa" as well as "The Savvy Traveler" will talk about travel secrets to save listeners thousands of dollars.

He's the first of four in the 2015-2016 season, the 56th year of the nonprofit group bringing cultural and entertainment speakers to Oakland County.

"They're so interesting - we want to bring as many of these as we can to the community," said Mary DuBois of Rochester Hills, president.

"It's a great opportunity to go outside of your world and learn something new," said board member Karen Bliesath of Waterford.

Town hall participants come from all walks of life, all with a love of learning.

"You're never too old to be learning," DuBois said.

"The club has an eagerness to learn more," said board member Diane Midgley of Clarkston. "As lifelong learner, we're always seeking good speakers."

Patricia Ward Kelly, biographer, film historian, and widow of Gene Kelly, will be featured at the Nov. 11 seminar.

The series continues on April 13 with Chuck Underwood, host of "American Generations with Chuch Underwood" on PBS. The scholar will discuss different consumer tastes, career decisions, lifestyle preferences, and personal behavior of five generations over more than 25 years.

The series concludes on May 11 with legal scholar Jonathan Turley, who will discuss his experiences as a network legal analyst, covering stories including the Clinton Impeachment and several presidential elections.

The luncheons start at 10:30 a.m. at St. George Cultural Center, 43816 Woodward Avenue, Bloomfield Hills. Admission is $26 for lecture tickets, $42 for lecture and lunch, and $150 for the entire series. Check www.oaklandtownhall.org.

Wild Night for conservancy

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy hosts a Wild Night Out, 6:30-9 p.m., Friday, Oct. 9, at White Lakes Oaks Country Club.

The event will include dinner, barbershop chorus, vintage wine pull, and silent and live auctions.

"We have some fantastic auction items with a professional caller," said Executive Director Jan Kulodge.

In addition to collecting donations, the annual fund raiser raises awareness of the conservancy's thousands of acres its volunteers work to preserve, including Nels Kimball Sanctuary in Independence Township, off M-15 south of I-75.

The 41-acre property, which is named after the first director of NOHLC, was donated by developers in 1985.

"We're thankful to the developer for donating this," the executive director said. "It's in a prime site on the headwaters. Our mission is to keep it as pristine as can be."

It's also a place to walk and enjoy wildlife, she said.

The volunteer group Kimball Keepers regularly inspect and work with neighbors to remove invasive species such as buckthorn.

They host a Restoration Day on Wednesday, Oct. 7, with volunteers working on walking paths, bridges, and a parking area.

Boy Scout Adam Zuelke, Troop 143, is also working on his Eagle Project to build and install signs along the walking path.

Kulodge joined NOHLC as executive director about two months ago, bringing 30 years of experience running non-profits in Europe and Africa. She lives in Lake Angelus but is familiar with Clarkston, having walked her dog around Depot Park for years.

She's already worked with many business owners and representatives, donating items for the auction at Wild Night Out.

"I love Clarkston," she said. "People in this community give their hearts and souls. That's what you need."

Upcoming NOHLC projects include a 10,000-acre challenge and capital campaign. The conservancy has about 6,000 acres now, with discussions underway for more properties along the Clinton and Shiawassee rivers.

Celebration, ribbon cutting at O.A.T.S

Clarkston's Offering Alternative Therapy with Smiles, or O.A.T.S., hosted its Mane Event on Sunday Oct. 4.

O.A.T.S., a non-profit organization, offers horse-assisted therapy to children and adults with physical or emotional disabilities.

"We offer activities year-round, even in the winter thanks to a heated indoor riding arena," Lisa Anderson said. "Our outdoor barn also has a new lift which makes it much easier and safer to mount a horse."

Staff welcomed visitors beginning at 8 a.m. to coffee, cider and donuts to kick-off a busy fun-filled day. Events included a ceremonial ribbon cutting celebration of the new lift, which helps tremendously get riders on and off horses.

At the outdoor barn, participants showed off riding skills to visitors during the Mane Event horse show and fair, before participating students received awards.

Anderson said the therapy offered at O.A.T.S. helps in many ways, both physically and mentally.

It improves balance, flexibility, muscle strength and tone while helping with communication skills and building confidence, she said.

The 50-acre property includes a variety of areas, including indoor and outdoor riding stables. Anderson said staff works with each participant with a goal of each riding independently.

"We also have sensory trails outside created to stimulate the senses," she added.

For more information about O.A.T.S., including upcoming events, visit www.oatshrh.org or call 248-620-1775.

Natural burials at Preserve

BY ANDREAM. BEAUDOIN

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Preserve at All Saints Cemetery accepted a 2015 Landscape Architectural Sustainability award on Oct. 1 in Ann Arbor for its innovative, green burials.

A green burial is one last thing a person can do to lessen their carbon imprint on Earth, said Russ Burns, director.

"We have people coming here to Michigan from around the United States. We believe we will continue to see more people opting out of traditional methods," Burns said.

Green burial embodies the biblical proverb in Genesis, "From dust thou came, and to dust thou shall return," he said.

"It is actually a process popular in Europe 25 years ago," Burns said. "We are seeing the concept come full circle."

Green burials involves simpler choices that save money and even nourish the environment.

"It offers more options to individuals and their loved ones," Burns said. Since there is no embalming or grave liners, there is less cost.

"With green burial you are buried in environmentally friendly materials like woven bamboo or paper mache materials," he said.

Burns and Landscape Architect Jack Goodnoe accepted the award during a ASLA Awards dinner in Ann Arbor, presented for 30 years to work with exceptional landscape, architectural design, landscape planning analysis and architectural sustainability.

Located in Waterford bordering Independence Township on Lake Maceday and Lotus Lake, The Preserve offers a variety of burial options that reduce impact to the environment.

Among the 50 acres of rolling and untouched natural landscape, a final resting place can now be among wildlife sanctuaries, natural habitats and food sources for Earth's creatures.

Part of The Preserve's mission is to remain as untouched by gravestones and markers as possible while honoring the burial process, so 15 acres of land is non-visitation.

In the non-visitation area, the departed are honored on an English sheepfold wall, a wall in which stones fall into place naturally.

The Preserve will open in six phases.

"Right now we have room for 1,800 people," he said.

All Saints, part of the Mt. Elliot Cemetery Association, was opened in 1979. The Preserve opened in 2012.

Thanks to the Preserve's concept, design and guidance to other cemeteries, green burials are now being offered in Royal Oak and Utica, with more to follow.

The Preserve is also environmentally conscious in regards to treating invasive species and care for the environment. Naturalists, local land conservancy groups and professional concepts are consulted often, he said.

The cemetery hired local consultant Jim Brueck to treat phragmites, an invasive species on the property. Other work includes adding native plants like milkweed, an important food source for butterflies.

Brueck and Mark Lowrie of Lowrie's Landscape also received awards for their work in The Preserve. Lowrie laid the natural roadway into the preserve by using road millings from another project in the cemetery. The Preserve and All Saints is part of the Mt. Elliot Cemetery Association, which has six cemeteries in southeast Michigan. All Saints also offers traditional burials. Call 248-623-9633 or visit www.mtelliott.com/thepreserve.

Super students

Andersonville Elementary students celebrated everyday heroes and superheroes during their annual Fun Run, Sept. 24.

Students and even staff members got into the theme by dressing up as everyday heroes firemen and police officers and superheroes Batman, Superman, Spiderman, and Wonder Woman.

While running laps and raising money for their school, they also came across three obstacles they had to use their superhero skills on - the noodle pass; pyramid of pain, a straw pyramid climb; and tunnel of terror, a netting crawl. Fortunately, Super Eagle, Andersonville's mascot was also on hand to help the students.

Van would connect neighbor in need with community

Jon suffered 5-10 grand mal seizures a night until a third brain surgery reduced that number to one a night.

But then they started to increase again, up to 15 a night.

"We needed to do something," Katie said.

The latest surgery was in July at the Cleveland Clinic. Doctors performed a hemispherectomy, removing the right side of his brain.

"It was a huge success," Katie said. "The nocturnal seizures are gone. It was the first time we slept through the night in 22 years."

Surgeons left in the motor strip in hopes he would recover the ability to walk again.

"That would let us keep him at home and take care of him," Katie said.

But for now, he is suffering from a continuous motor seizure in his arm and legs, hindering his ability to walk.

They have received help from the government, family, and community, including Our Lady of the Lakes, and the Knights of Columbus of St. Dan's and Our Lady of the Lakes.

"The Knights built a ramp for us in May," Katie said. "It's amazing. They did a beautiful job."

Joe's insurance through his work at General Motors has provided good coverage. Expenses it doesn't cover, however, has previously driven the family to bankruptcy.

Medicaid pays for rides to doctor appointments, but rides to visit family, church, school, and other social events are very difficult to find.

Those are more important than ever, Katie said.

Jon goes to school at Kingsbury Montgomery in Waterford, and previously attended classes at Dutton Farm, a vocational and learning skills center in Rochester.

"If he misses the bus, I can't drive him," Katie said. "He's doing well at Kingsbury. He likes to visit his friends at Dutton Farm. They're amazing. They have a deep love and flexibility, they're so compassionate."

He loves the farm and the animals there,

as well as nature and all the outdoors.

"Sometimes I like to go fishing on boats," Jon said.

"It's what he misses most," Joe said.

Cognitively, he's much more aware and alert than he was before, Katie said.

"He can now work on educational games," she said. "He never listened to music, but now he can listen for hours. It's a joy."

He loves to give presents to people, such as cards and gifts, said his sister Ali Angelosanto, 18.

"He's my best friend," Ali said. "He's smart and really funny. He jokes around all the time. He's kind of like an inspiration. He's probably made me a better Christian. He helps me understand more."

"Individuals with special needs definitely makes you a stronger person," Katie said. "It's taught me to be patient."

The family, also including Marianna, 16, and Evan, 14, turns to their faith for help, especially Jon.

"He's a greatly spiritual person with deep faith," Katie said. "He has great faith in Jesus, a great desire to do good."

"His prayers are so powerful," Ali said.

Symmetrical or Asymmetrical that is the question!

A conversation happened behind the chair with a client that was all about making their style symmetrical. While making your hair style and haircut is important to make it "balance" and yes not "uneven." When styling your hair go with that crazy flip on the left, or make your bang heavier on one side. Have fun with your uniqueness!

Shelly Kovach

A face shape can be enhanced with a simple asymmetricalness.

Every human has a cowlick; hair grows in a circular direction or can be thicker on one side, in some cases different texture can be found on one side. It is important that you know a few different style techniques that can be used in those cases.

This also rings true with arching your eyebrows. Most eyebrows are born to be different. Again, not to be "noticeably" different from one another, your eyebrows are sisters (that look a lot alike) but NOT identical twins.
