Lawsuit charges city with Catallo favoritism

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

City Council has until about Thanksgiving to respond to a lawsuit filed by CBC Joint Venture regarding restaurant plans for the Sutherland House on S. Main Street.

Barnett

Citing undue influence by and favoritism towards the Catallo family in Clarkston, the suit seeks to order the city to rezone the Sutherland building at 59 S. Main Street from multiple residential to commercial for development into a restaurant, and at least $25,000 for damages, costs, and fees.

Larry Barnett, one of the building developers, declined comment pending response from the city.

"The suit speaks for itself," Barnett said, Monday.

City Council voted 6-1 on Aug. 10 to deny conditional rezoning of the property.

At the time, Councilman Mike Sabol said he voted against rezoning to maintain a "buffer" between businesses and resi-

City seeks to 'gag' Bisio

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

Oakland County Circuit Court was scheduled a hearing on a request Wednesday for sanctions against Richard Bisio of Clarkston.

Bisio, former Clarkston City Council member who is suing City Council for violating the Open Meetings Act and Freedom of Information Act, is accused of improperly publicizing a proposed consent agenda that was supposed to be kept confidential.

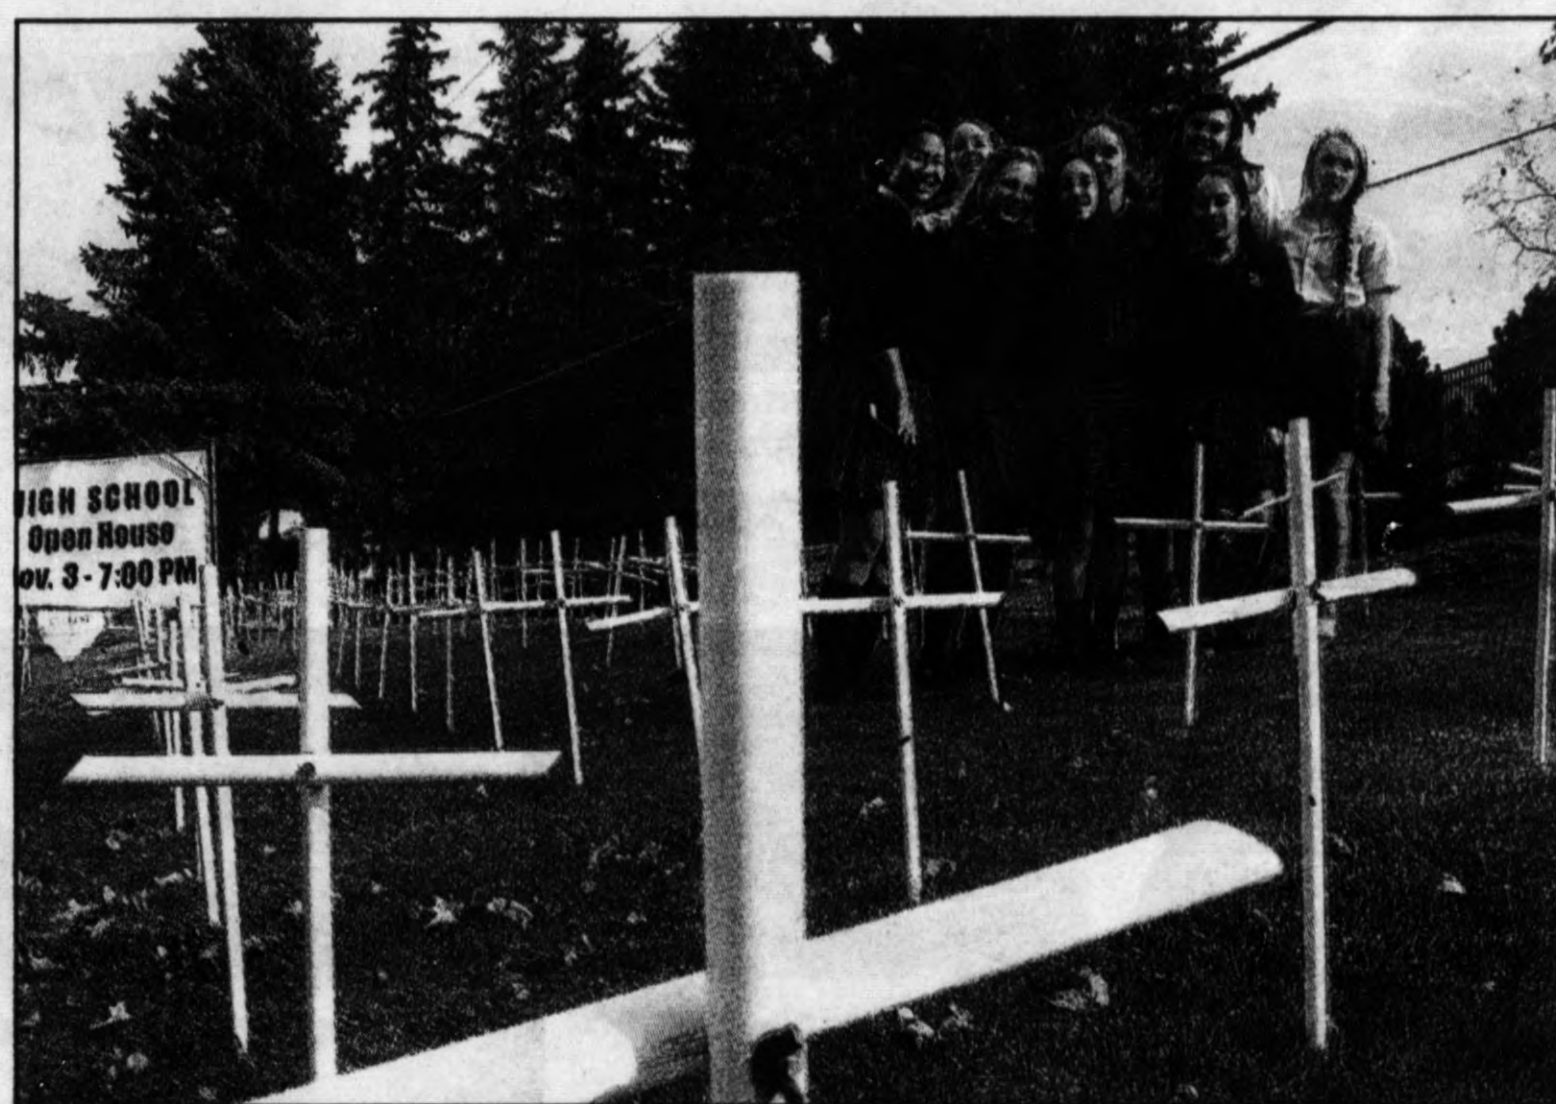

"The city requests the court prohibit plaintiff from making extrajudicial statements regarding this matter on social media, or to representatives of traditional media," said attorneys James Tamm and Paul O'Neill, representing the city, in their statement to circuit court. "And, further, require plaintiff to pay $1,000 in costs and attorney fees" for violating Michigan Rules of Professional Conduct.

Bisio issued a public statement about it on Facebook, Oct. 30.

"There's been discussion about the city council's uncivil treatment of people who had critical comments for the city at the last coun-

McLaren plans upset urgent care

BY ANDREAM BEAUDOIN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After years of court battles and being denied a Certificate of Need, McLaren may be moving to Plan B by purchasing two portions of Clarkston Medical Building.

McLaren previously said Plan B included a 30-bed "short-stay" hospital with an emergency room, a $30 million-$50 million project.

Current negotiations include purchasing the CMG urgent care and imaging center off Sashabaw Road.

When that closes, local residents fear will mean bigger costs and longer waits.

"This is really upsetting because people will be forced to go to the emergency room for urgent - not emergent care," said Erica Halsey.

"Patients will be paying more and clinicians will be overloaded with cases that don't require emergency care. This just means long wait times and frustrated people all around. Hope someone is drawing up plans now for Clarkston's newest 24/7 Urgent care."

Cherie Montpetit-Burns said she is not happy the urgent care center will close and she fears McLaren will just cut staff.

"They are taking over every Please see McLaren on page 9

Wines of the world

Clarkston Rotary Club's 75th anniversary celebration continued with its 2015 Fall Wine Tasting, Oct. 29, at Bordine Nursery.

Aficionados sampled wines from California, Italy, France, Spain, New Zealand, and South America, while enjoying entrees and desserts prepared by local restaurants.

They also learned about Rotary's projects fighting polio around the world, and at home supporting the Clarkston community.

Scientists from the Organization for Bat Conservation teach Independence Elementary students about bats.

Bat time at school

Second graders at Independence Elementary learned bats were not as scary as they might have thought, thanks to a science assembly, Oct. 26.

"Even though bats might look scary around Halloween, the scientists from the Organization for Bat Conservation from Cranbrook Institute of Science helped the children learn how helpful bats are to humans," said John Lamb, second grade teacher, along with Jennifer Rohn.

The children spent the week learning about bats and ended the unit with live bats visiting the school, Lamb said.

Developers seek rezoning order for restaurant dences at the southwest end of downtown.

City Council approved a restaurant plan for 3 E. Church Street and 28 S. Main Street submitted by Curt Catallo, owner of the Clarkston Union and Woodshop restaurants, in July.

"I'm not here to throw stones at Mr. Catallo, but there's a double standard here," Barnett said at the August meeting. "I think it should be the same for everybody."

Council member Sharron Catallo, Curt's mother, responded, saying she was on the council in 1986 when Sutherland Building owners requested a zoning change from commercial to multiple residential.

"To some of us, it didn't seem like the best idea at that time," Sharron said. "The reason we decided it could possibly be a great move, is we realized homes to the south would be protected, and the Sutherland house would be protected."

Cara Catallo, Curt's sister and chair of the Clarkston Historic District Commission, also spoke at the meeting.

She said comparing the Sutherland restaurant proposal to Curt's Union Joints restaurant plan was "apples to oranges."

"This is a unique zoning — the zoning exists to protect the neighborhood," Cara said. "It's not to make the most money for the people who own the property."

Sharron also spoke at the Aug. 3 Clarkston Planning Commission meeting as it was considering the Sutherland proposal, as a member of the public.

"At this moment, it's back where it should have been (residential)," she said,

Barnett said he didn't think they were treated fairly at that meeting as well.

"We filed before both of those (the Union Joint proposal for 3 E. Church and 28 S. Main)," Barnett said at the meeting. "We followed the requests of the city planner as per contract zoning — we think it's appropriate for rezoning."

The building owners filed for rezoning from multiple residential to commercial last February. It was recommended for approval by the Planning Commission in March, but City Council sent it back for conditional rezoning, to ensure it could only be used as a restaurant. An amended plan was submitted in June.

City Council voted, Oct. 12, to approve a farm-to-table restaurant at 15 S. Main Street, formerly Clarkston State Bank.

Mayor Joe Luginski did not respond to a request for comment.

cil meeting," Bisio said. "That pales in comparison to what the city wants to do to me for having the audacity to publicly reveal the city's settlement offer for my open meetings act/freedom of information lawsuit."

The city has no basis for requesting a gag order, he said.

"Apparently, the city's lawyer is unaware of the First Amendment," Bisio said.

The motion for sanctions stems from Bisio's Oct. 20 posting on Facebook regarding a settlement offer from Tamm, dated Sept. 18.

"The city now admits that the March 9 closed session of the city council was illegal and that the documents that purportedly were the basis of the closed session were public records," said Bisio, who is an attorney. "This is the city's proposed consent judgment. This is not a binding admission, since it was made in the course of settlement discussions and I did not accept this in settlement of my lawsuit because it does not address other claims in the case. Nonetheless, this is some progress and refutes the city attorney's repeated insistence that the closed session was proper."

These statements are false, Tamm said in the motion.

Bisio

The Michigan Rules of Professional Conduct state an attorney "must not make a false statement of material fact," he said. "A lawyer participating in the investigation or litigation of a matter shall not make an extrajudicial statement the lawyer knows or reasonably should know will be disseminated by means of public communication and will have a substantial likelihood of materially prejudicing an adjudicative proceedings in the matter."

Tamm's Sept. 18 letter states, "the City Council's decision to convene a closed meeting on March 9, 2015, was in violation of MCL 15.268(h) because the stated purpose for convening a closed meeting, to discuss an attorney-client communication, was not accompanied by a written memorandum required by Booth Newspapers v. Wyoming."

Also, City Attorney Thomas Ryan's March 9 memorandum to City Manager Carol Eberhardt and Mayor Joseph Luginski regarding 148 N. Main Street, and another March 9 letter from Hubble, Roth and Clark to Eberhardt regarding the proposed muffler shop at 148 N. Main, "presented to the City Council that formed the basis of the closed meeting shall be determined to be public."

In a written response to the city's motion, Bisio said he was not acting in his "professional capacity as a lawyer in this case and the Rules of Professional Conduct should not apply," and "in any event, there is no 'false statement' within the scope of the rule."

Also, his Facebook postings don't reach enough people to prejudice a jury, he said.

Mayor Luginski did not respond to a request for comment.

Seasons end

It's not easy to watch a season end - every Clarkston athlete puts a lot of work, time and heart into what they do in their sport.

Every season there are the successes and the victories. Every season each team also battles their own setbacks in the form of injuries or losses.

It's what you do with those setbacks and how you come back from losses which helps determine who you are and who you are going to be.

I know I am getting very philosophical over here. Call me Yoda W.

But talk to a coach and they will tell you athletes learn more from losses than wins. Even athletes will say they learn more from the losses.

It teaches you how to bounce back and how you can look at what happened and what you can do next time.

If the season ended, returning athletes can set new goals and what they need to do to achieve those goals.

I know it sounds like it leads a lot of questions - what can I do better? Where can I start? What can help lead me to point A, B, and C? I ask questions all day. It isn't too hard to keep them going.

Especially now it's the first week of November - National Novel Writing Month (NaNoWriMo) - the mass firing of questions has really begun. Ah, yes. The sweet sound of fingers typing feverishly on the keyboard. Tap. Tap. Tap. Tap, tap, tap.

I start out with a basic outline. It's as much preparing I can do during October. I can ask all the questions I want but until the clock strikes 12:01 a.m. on Nov. 1, I won't get answers.

As interesting as it may sound, the characters lead me or drive me away from things they don't want to do. Once they start doing something I can begin asking questions like why are they doing this or where we go from here.

Right now I am at the word count I need to be at...well, until the clock hits midnight and the website is on the next day.

I am excited for next week, a few of us are going to talk to middle school writers at Clarkston Independence District Library to talk about NaNoWriMo.

It's never too late in November to get started. One chapter is better than nothing. Even 10 words is still better than none.

Residents call for tree protection

BY ANDREAM BEAUDOIN

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The destruction of trees and woodlands concerns many residents as developers clear trees for new neighborhoods.

Officials say residents may get angry, but landowners have property rights.

Independence Township Treasurer Paul Brown requested trustees discuss a tree and woodlands ordinance at their Nov. 10 meeting.

"If we pass a trees and woodlands policy now, it will protect us for other developments," Brown said.

Developer Michael Furnari plans on clearing 26 acres he owns at Dixie and Deer Hill for 92 condos.

Once those old trees are destroyed they are gone forever, township resident Bob White said.

His neighbors agree.

"Who will speak for this oak tree that are more than 100 years," said White's neighbor Chelsea O'Brien. "They cannot be replaced."

Independence Township's Planning Commission approved Furnari's development plan in August.

Residents remain outspoken about several aspects of the development, including safety issues of building a neighborhood on top of a high-profile petroleum pipeline, and of environmental concerns including destruction of numerous trees scattered throughout the property.

Furnari, Brown, township supervisor Pat Kittle, neighborhood residents and a representative from Clinton River Watershed walked the 26-acre parcel of property Deer Hill and Dixie to discuss the woodlands, Sept. 28. White expressed disappointment that Furnari rejected requests to save any trees residents pointed out.

"Site paving and grading plans for the current 92 rental unit site plans indicate buildings, roads, walks and underground utilities are located on the site, requiring a complete clear cut of all trees," White said.

White believes Furnari's site layout was designed to maximize the number of units.

"It has little to no regard, sensitivity or attempt to preserve the environment," he said.

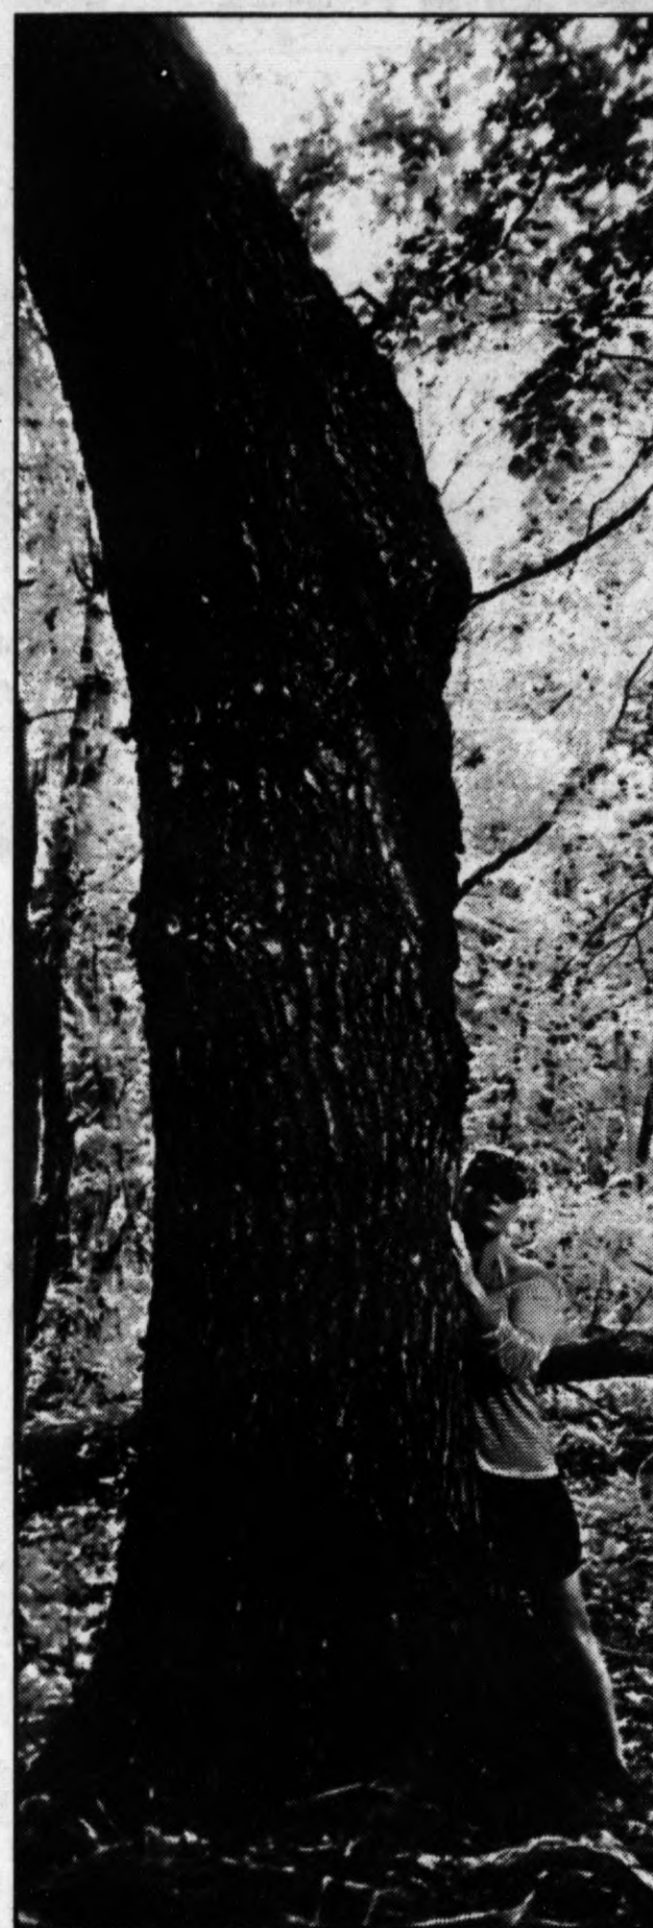

"Rolling topography and the dense natural woodland features provide natural buffering to the existing Deer Hill Farms subdivision and Deer Hill Drive and natural beauty of the township," White said.

"All of these features essential to maintaining the pastoral character of adjoining neighborhood, the township and the community at-large will be removed."

Mature trees range in size upwards to 28 feet around and 50 to 60 in height will be gone.

In their place, Furnari will plant standard evergreen trees between eight to 10 feet high.

A site survey, completed over a decade ago, identified groupings of trees and trees over four feet wide.

Residents enjoy the trees on the 26-acre site on Dixie Highway. Photo provided

"There were over 660 individual trees over four-foot caliper on the 26 acre site. Of the over 660 trees identified on the site plan documents, over 280 were considered in good condition. Over 220 were considered fair condition with the remaining 167 or more listed as in poor condition."

Some of the mature healthy trees on the lot are up to 28 feet wide.

"Minimal discussion has taken place at Planning Commission or Board level regarding the impact of removing over 500 valuable trees," White said.

"The pictures illustrate the magnitude of the loss of the existing natural features...mature stands of trees, secondary growth, and ground cover."

The Nov. 10 meeting will be at Independence Township Hall, 7 p.m.

Two years after I got my discharge from the Navy, I had to take a physical to try out for Western Michigan University's basketball team.

That required an x-ray. That showed I had tuberculosis. Under Navy rules, if tuberculosis is found within six months of discharge, I was to receive $67 disability payments a month for the rest of my life.

Soon, as I got my first check I opened a savings account at the bank in Vernon.

Jim's Jottings

a column by Jim Sherman

How can our governor and legislators establish confidence in we voters when it seems budgets are just a never kept promise?

They know our needs, but they also know there are backers who expect legislative recognition.

They don't even seem to pretend to follow one of my "live by," self-imposed promises: PLAN AHEAD BE AHEAD.

So far that promise got me four community newspapers and a printing company.

Under that one rule of mine, maybe our roads, our water lines, streets and sidewalks would be fixed and maybe our cities, counties, etc. would be okay.

Let's get away from our governmental practices of "borrow ahead, be behind."

It was bound to happen:

The anti-Americans have come together to eliminate bacon and other smoked meats from normal peoples' favorite meats. The Veggies -- no, I am gonna' call them Greenies -- are winning. Prepare for another push by the rutabagas to attack our hog's meat gifts from our founders.

Look for the starting series of greenie ads denouncing weiners while praising turnips for school lunches.

Look for some promotions urging Americans to watch for their favorite kale in the new vending machines.

Slaughter houses will be picketed by greenie promoters, who insist brussel sprouts are better for your babies than mother's milk. That's how nuts some of the greenie-sickos are.

That's the way I feel about those who disagree with me.

Feel the Bern? Sanders over Hillary?

You know, I don't even know why I started writing -- no, thinking about writing -- this week's column. It is just way, too danged early to write about national politics (since this is a community publication). But, here I go. If you wanna' turn the page, you have my blessings. Turn freely without guilt, young reader, turn freely.

I have made a conscious decision not to watch either the Republican or the Democrat presidential candidate debates. I have not wanted to hear the blow-hard of any party tell me what they think I want to hear, yell or blame the "other party" for all this country's woes.

Which is not to say, I ain't trying to keep up on what is happening. I do take time to peek at news stories and opine pieces. During one of these excursions into the darkness that is national politics, I ran across a piece by H.A. Goodman of the Huffington Post. This headline did what headlines are designed to do, it stopped me and I read what was under it.

"Yes, Polling Trajectory Shows Bernie Sanders Defeating Hillary Clinton and Winning the Democratic Nomination"

Really?

Goodman's hypothesis can be boiled down to only these few paragraphs for the Oct. 28 column.

"Clinton held 58 fund-raising events to raise her total; Sanders held seven. As of the end of September, Sanders had brought in $1.3 million total donations from 650,000 individuals since he began running. Clinton's campaign did not release how many total donors she has. And Sanders ended September with $25 million in the bank; Clinton did not release how much money her campaign had on hand...

"... With all of Clinton's fundraising advantages, Sanders is directly competing with her, simply with small donations from ordinary Americans throughout the country..."

"... In terms of why polling trajectory, energy and momentum are the only reasons to look at polls in 2016, Bernie Sanders proves this by the amount of money he's raised, without a super-PAC and with hardly any major media attention..."

"... Since 57 percent of Americans according to Yahoo do not trust Hillary Clinton and Quinnipiac University reports that swing states find Clinton not honest and trustworthy, it's doubtful that trustworthiness is a reason Biden voters would automatically vote for Clinton."

I think this political year, 2015, is interesting if only that a real change is starting to show itself. I ain't saying that that change is good or bad, just a change.

Why are the polls showing folks like Republican Hair Piece Donald Trump and Democrat Socialist Bernie Sanders resonating with the populist? Answer: Folks are tired of the establishment candidates.

Hillary Clinton may be a better politician, but does that make her a better person or a leader to be trusted?

In Goodman's column, he pointed out that in 2014, point zero eight percent (yes, less than one percent) of Democrats would vote for him for president. In September 2015, 31 percent give him the thumbs up, and even after the debate Hillary "won" his numbers still kept increasing.

I think the Democrat establishment is starting to Feel the Bern (which is one of the Sanders marketing slogans).

The change -- and lets face it folks, the only thing you can really count on in America these days is death, taxes and change -- also happening is a voter change. The old white guys from WW2 are fast going away. Their children, the Baby Boomers, are graying up and slowing down. Those born between 1977 and 2000, the famed Millennials are standing up, spreading their arms wide to the heavens and proclaiming, "We are here! Hear us!"

I think these voters are less "scared" of socialism than those of the old Cold War generations. Because of this, they are open to a more European governing style. They are skeptical of the status quo and are not afraid to embrace change. Defining this social change as right or wrong is losing proposition, and since I loathe losing I won't go there.

I think folks want, really want, to trust their leaders. They are skeptical of establishment, and regardless of what Sanders represents politically, emotionally he connects as an honest person. Which, if you think about it, really is refreshing.

Public Safety

For Clarkston and Independence Township

Advised and released

A 58-year-old Grand Blanc man was stopped for running a red light on Dixie Highway at Ortonville Road, 5:31 p.m., Oct. 23. He had a traffic misdemeanor warrant out of Mundy Township. He was advised and released on the warrant, and cited for failure to display a valid driver's license.

Warrant for blood test

Drivers reported a white truck all over the road, traveling southbound on Ortonville Road, 1:47 a.m., Oct. 25. A deputy located the vehicle at Clarkston Road, turned around, and watched as the truck stopped at the yellow blinking light at Waldon Road for about a minute, then drove about 5 mph in the 40 mph zone. The deputy stopped the truck near Princess Lane. The driver, a 52-year-old Clio woman, smelled of alcohol and failed sobriety tests. She wouldn't give consent to a preliminary breath test or blood test, so a search warrant was obtained for a blood test.

No license to speed

A deputy on radar duty stopped a vehicle going 51 mph in a 35 mph zone on Holcomb Road, 5:44 a.m., Oct. 27. The driver, a 45-year-old Ortonville man, was cited for expired driver's license, expired plate, and speeding.

Driver with warrants

A deputy on patrol ran the license plate of vehicle in front and found it was expired, 3:29 p.m., Oct. 27, on White Lake Road and Dixie Highway. The driver, a 36-year-old Belleville man, had a prosecutor order warrant out of Birmingham, an extradition warrant out of Westland, and a Friend of the Court warrant out of Monroe County. He was cited for expired plate and suspended license, and turned over to Birmingham police.

Dixie Highway rescue

Michigan State Police Sergeant John Duffy stopped to check on a vehicle stopped on Dixie Highway at Maybee Road, 11:31 a.m., Oct. 28, and saw the driver was having some type of medical issue.

He was unable to open the locked door, and used his ASP baton to break the driver's side rear passenger door window to gain entry. He pulled the driver, a 57-year-old Romulus woman, out of the vehicle and onto the pavement.

As he did so, Dena Menard, a registered nurse from Harper-DMC Hospital, and a Dr. Tawfik of McLaren Oakland Hospital approached and assisted in starting CPR, according to police reports. Then Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Thomas Mance arrived and grabbed his AED and, with their assistance, applied the pads, energized the unit, and applied a shock. CPR continued and Independence Township paramedics arrived, at which time the victim regained breathing on her own. She was taken to McLaren Oakland for further treatment.

thing. They fire most people in the current positions and then rename them with lower pay," she said.

Earlier this year Greg Lane, senior vice president and chief administrative officer, said McLaren revised plan includes a smaller, phased approach.

McLaren had fought to build a $300 million hospital campus, but those plans were denied by state officials.

McLaren officials said $100 million had already been invested, and the planned emergency room would be fully staffed.

Safety checks for car seats

McLaren Healthcare Village Clarkston hosted a free car seat safety inspection during its Safe Kids program, Oct. 30, at its 5701 Bow Pointe Drive campus.

Oakland County Sheriff Michael Bouchard and state Rep. Jim Tedder stopped by to support the inspection project, carried out by certified child passenger safety technicians.

The team inspected car seats all day, and removed and replaced seven of them. Photo provided

Season comes to a close

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Clarkston's gridiron heroes gave their coaches hugs before they slowly walked off the grass field at Barnabo Stadium Friday night, following their 28-14 loss to Romeo in the MHSAA Division 1 Pre-District game.

"These kids have been great to work with and they are great kids," said Kurt Richardson, long-time head coach for the Clarkston Varsity Football team. "They could have bailed when we were 1-2, but they didn't. They kept scratching."

The Wolves finished the regular season on a six-game winning streak before they finished the season 7-3.

The Bulldogs opened the scoring with three minutes remaining in the first half off a 3-yard run from Lucas Schimon. They struck again with 8:41 remaining in the third quarter to up Romeo's lead to 14-0.

A mere seconds later sophomore Wolf Michael Fluegel caught the kickoff and broke away from the Bulldogs' defense as Clarkston fans screamed in excitement.

Fluegel kept going and stopped in the endzone after his 95-yard run, putting the score 14-7, after senior Alex Kessman's PAT kick.

A minute later as the scoreboard hit 7:28, Romeo scored their third touchdown for the night, distancing Clarkston by 14 points again.

Senior Nolan Eriksen would close the gap with his 3-yard run three minutes into the final quarter.

Romeo hit one more time with four minutes remaining to end the game, 28-14.

"We made some mistakes," said Richardson. "That's a good football team. Those three little guys Romeo has down (Jacob Hernden, Joey Meyers and Hunberto Flores) play football the way it is meant to be played - fast and furious. They did a heck of a job stopping our running game. Hats off to them."

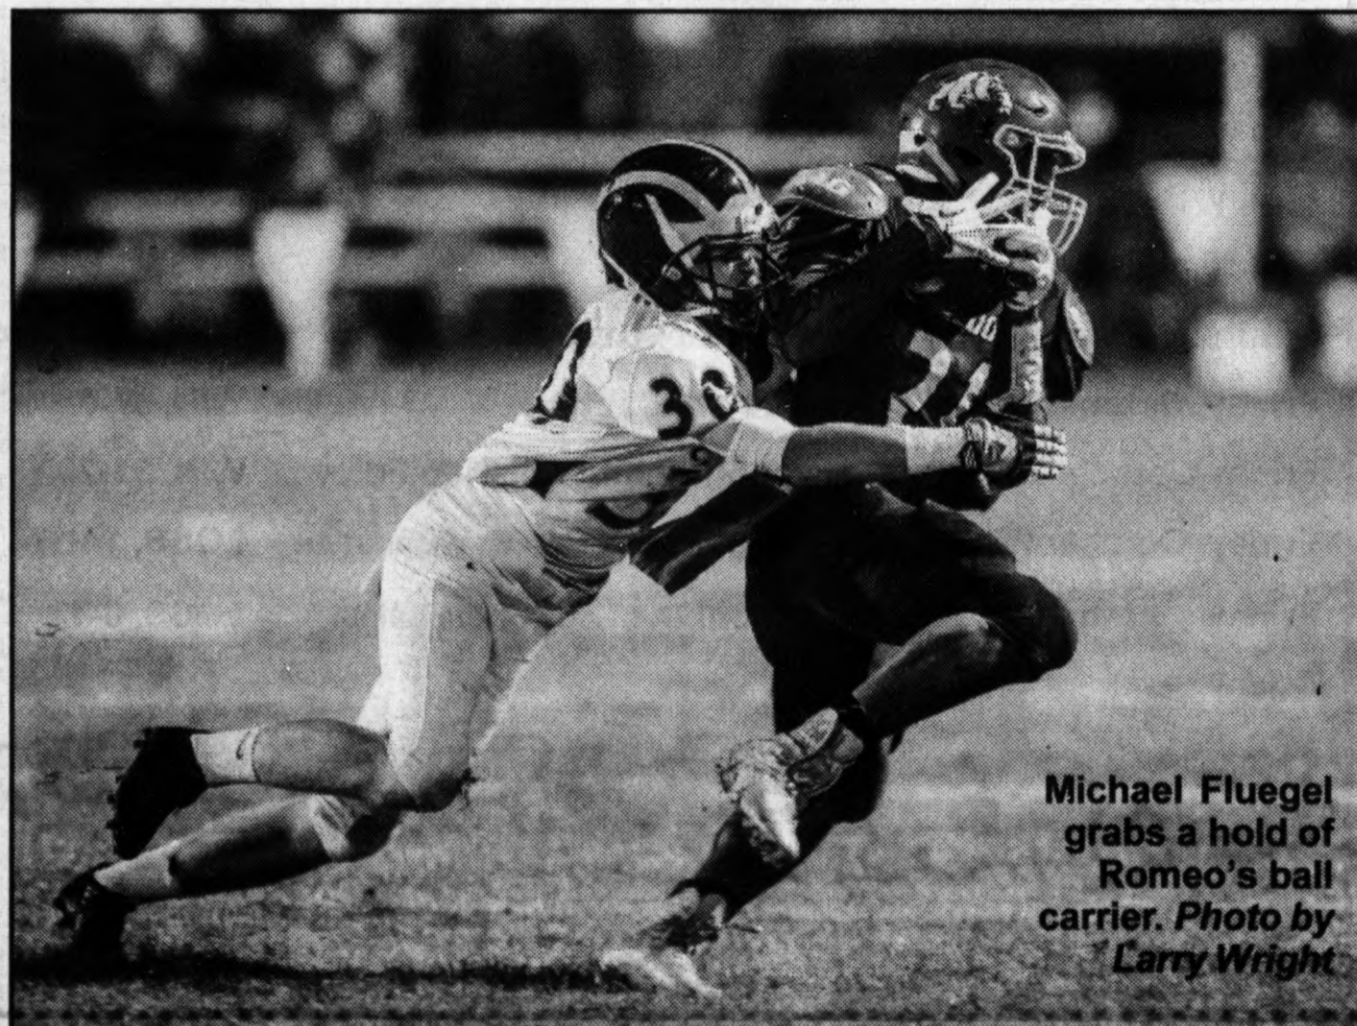

Kessman was 18-for-34 for 184 yards and 2-for-2 on PAT attempts. Eriksen had five receptions for 57 yards, senior Jonah Koponen had four receptions for 34 yards, and senior Mitch Heaton had four receptions for 35 yards.

Eriksen had 12 carries for 24 yards and one touchdown.

"Romeo has some great players and kept us off balance the whole night defensively," Richardson added. "They are a class program."

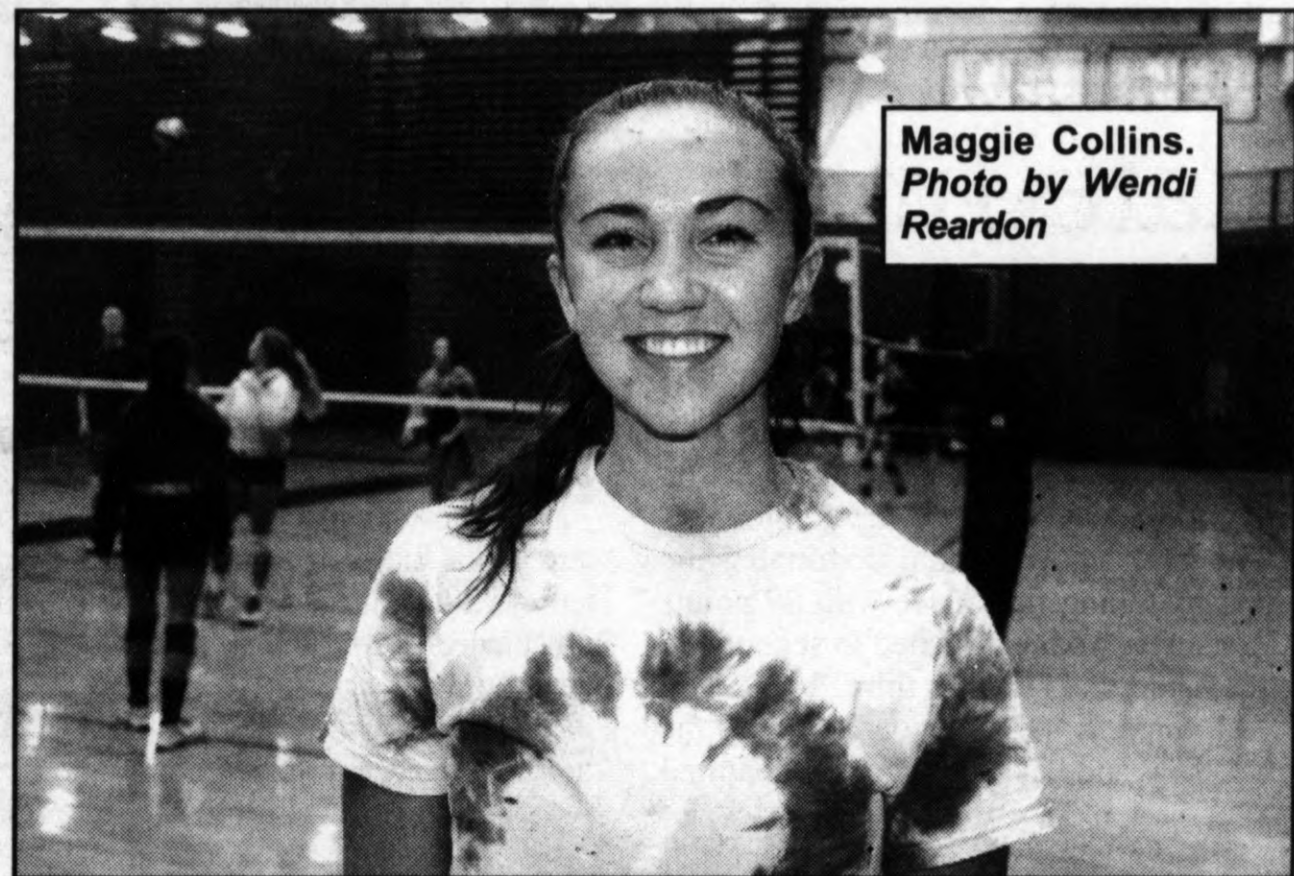

Junior Ryan Prisby led defense with six tackles, one assist and one sack with a loss of seven yards. Fluegel had four tackles and one assist and returned a kickoff for 95 yards for a touchdown.

Junior Jake Buchmann and senior Carter Linton had four tackles and three assists each.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Final tournament for senior

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Senior Maggie Collins and her teammates spent last week in the Clarkston High School gym preparing for their last tournament and playoffs, which began on Monday with a game against Lake Orion.

"She has been solid for us and a great leader," said Kelly Pinner, head coach for Clarkston Varsity Volleyball, about Collins as a co-captain and a player.

Collins joined the varsity team three years ago when she was a sophomore and the experience has helped her lead the lower classmen.

"I definitely know what it was like when I was a younger girl on the team," she reflected. "It try to be a good example and be encouraging to them because for the whole team to be successful everyone has to be a part of it."

The Lady Wolves have hit their highs and lows this season but Collins said the season has been going well.

"As a team we have been working really hard to fight through adversity and really come together," she reflected. "It's exciting to see everything develop."

She added it has helped to show the players to work hard to be successful as a team.

"We are teaching the younger girls to carry that on to the next years when us seniors leave," Collins said. "It's a lot of hard work, but it is really worth it."

She used play soccer until she was introduced to volleyball and chose to put more focus into the fall sport.

Collins began playing volleyball in seventh grade. She was introduced to the sport by her older brother and his friends because they played the sport.

"It was awesome," she said. "I started playing and fell in love with it from there."

Collins added it's exciting how the whole team has to come together for good things to happen.

"There are so many exciting things in volleyball," she smiled. "It's never dull. I think that's cool. It's a huge mental game, too. It's fun. It's a challenge."

Collins will be attending Michigan State University next fall and will study social studies. She will not be playing volleyball.

"It was a big decision," she shared.

During the summer her interests include going boating other than that she says she is just a normal teenage girl who enjoys shopping, baking and hanging out with friends.

Her advice to aspiring athletes is to put your all into everything you do.

"Nothing bad can come from that," she added.

State finals at speedway

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Runners are off to the state finals this Saturday at Michigan International Speedway after qualifying for the meeting during MHSAA Cross Country Regionals.

The Lady Wolves team dominated the region by taking first place with 89 points as Rochester Adams finished in second, 96 points, and Lake Orion in third, 103.

"All through the race you could see the gold jerseys and Lake Orion's jersey battling it out," said Kevin Breen, head coach for Clarkston Girls Cross Country team. "I thought it was going to be a tight race between us and them. Surprisingly, Rochester stepped in there to challenge us. It was a close race. It took an effort from everyone to beat them and they did a really nice job."

Freshman Elizabeth Dalrymple led the Lady Wolves, finishing in third place at 18:25, making it into Clarkston history as one of the top ten fastest runners.

"She stepped up to run as fast as she did," Breen said. "It was really big."

Senior Nicole Hanson finished in 12th place at 19:06.

"We were gambling a little bit," Breen said, adding Hanson hasn't raced in three races due to an injury. "She was able to keep her foot support to finish. She came through for the team and it showed a lot of heart and selflessness to get out there and do it."

Also, finishing in the top five for Clarkston were Malory Ferguson, 13th place, 19:12; Emily Gustafson, 24th place, 19:43; and Kailan Mehta, 37th place, 19:58.

"We couldn't ask for better weather. All the girls mentally were ready for the race," Breen added. "They showed up at the beginning of the race up front and in the positions they needed to be in. We were ahead of other teams."

The boys qualified for the state finals with their third place finish at regionals with 102 points. Lake Orion finished in first place 59 points and Rochester Adams took second with 66 points.

"We had a very good race and put five in the top 25," said Mike Taylor, head coach for the Clarkston Boys Cross Country team.

"Our strengths from all year proved to be enough which was grouping guys tightly together."

Gavin Eisert led the team finishing in 14th place at 16:14.

Also, finishing in the top five for Clarkston were Mika Juuhl, 19th place, 16:27; Grant Henley, 20th place, 16:27.01; Eric Smith, 24th place, 16:34; and Shawn Slater, 25th place, 16:35.

"It was a great effort by the kids," said Taylor. "We accomplished our goals."

As both teams head into the state finals, both coaches added all 27 teams from the nine regions are good.

"You pretty much run to your potential and don't get to rattle because it's the state final. Yet, they will be anyways," said Taylor.

"We have a pretty good work attitude when we go to a cross country meet," he continued. "You do things right, you train right, try to get the best nutrition and things you need. The kids all have great support from their parents and teammates. You try to find a few simple things to focus on in the state final. There are a zillion little things you think of but once you are out there you forget them anyways."

He added competing in the OAA Red has been good training for the boys.

"It's normal for us to go into a meet as an underdog and it's starting to become normal for us to realize it what you do that day that counts," Taylor said.

Breen added the finals look good.

"Nicole called me last night (Sunday) and said 'I am ready to run,'" he added. "That's always positive when your top runner shows confidence like that regardless of injury and pain she has gone through."

He added they also have a good group of runners with the upperclassmen as well as the younger racers.

"Having a young group you know there is potential when it comes to the state meet," Breen said. "The young runners will step up and knock off a little bit more time, and the confidence in the upperclassmen are really solid."

Both teams race on Saturday in the Division 1 State Finals. The Lady Wolves run at 2 p.m. and the boys race at 3 p.m. Tickets are $8 per person and no passes are accepted.

End of season for soccer at district finals

BY WENDI REARDON

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Kickers ended their season with a 3-2 loss to Grand Blanc in the MHSAA District finals, Oct. 24.

"We did well," said Curtis Payment, head coach for the Clarkston Boys Varsity Soccer team.

He added the boys had a few things go against them including the change of location from Flushing to Grand Blanc for the game and fighting against a strong wind during each half of the game.

"There were a lot of little things working against us," he said. "They stepped up."

Senior Jared Suddon led the team with scoring both goals.

They began the district playoffs with a win over Waterford Kettering, 5-2, with two goals from senior Alex Komatz and one goal each from seniors Suddon, Jake Hallberg and Jack Kuczmanski.

"It turned into a nail biter," said Payment. "By the end of the game we finally pulled ahead and were able to win the game very handily."

The boys went on to play Davison in the district semifinals and scored three goals in the first ten minutes, aiding to their 6-0 win.

"It gave us a chance to give some guys rest and get other guys onto the field," Payment said. "We were definitely picked as favorites for those two games, but we had seen some upsets around the state. I was nervous the boys would have a bad game or something crazy would happen. Every kid out their is playing to continue their season."

Suddon led the team with two goals. Senior Ethan Price, junior Brock Schultz, sophomore Cole Mitchell and Hallberg scored one goal a piece.

Suddon led the team during the year as he scored 15 goals and had six assists. Hallberg finished the year with 12 goals and three assists and Komatz finished with five goals ten assists.

Senior Connor Sajan finished with 12 shutouts and an 89 percentage for saves.

The Wolves finished with a 16-4-5 overall record with a first place finish in the OAA Red and won two tournaments - Traverse City and DeLaSalle, which they had never done before.

"The season as a whole was great," Payment said, adding the team also moved up to ranked fifth in the state.

"It was the best season we have had since I have been coach," Payment said. "It was also our shortest run at the playoffs.

We need to focus on all the good things we did and not the last game."

The team graduates 13 seniors in June - Hallberg, Komatz, Kuczmanski, Price, Sajan, Suddon, Eric Deimer, Chris Heilman, Justin Nicholas, Cameron Pawlik, John Raymo, Adam Snider and Jacob Wolford.

"They were our most fit group and our most talented group of players," said Payment. "Not only are we Academic All-State again but had a 3.65 grade point average - our highest we have had for a graduating class.

"Kids coming back will really have to pick up their skill level because we are losing some of the best players we ever had," he added.

Kid walkers help parent

Waterford Montessori Academy students walked 4,687 laps, 670 miles, around their playground during recess for a week in October to help a parent in need.

The school Parent Volunteer Group's walk-a-thon helped the family of Danielle McLean of Clarkston, who is battling complications from Lyme disease and an autoimmune disorder.

The conditions have limited her ability to eat and move around.

Nearly every child walked, and most walked all five days for their entire recess period, raising more than $1,000 for Danielle, her husband Jacob McLean, and their children Noah and Jonas McLean.

Waterford Montessori Academy, a public school academy in its third year of operation at 4860 Midland Avenue, Waterford, has 225 PreK - 5th grade students.

There is a Go Fund Me page at <https://www.gofundme.com/p64wqpzw>.

WMA's Parent Volunteer Group is also holding a Paint and Take Workshop for adults on Friday, Nov. 6, from 7-9 p.m. at the academy. The fee is $35 per person. Participants will make a holiday-themed sign.

Crosses illustrate abortion impact

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

To celebrate the "Respect Life" month of October, the new girls' golf team at Everest Collegiate High School had an idea.

"They approached us with an initiative which we thought could be of great benefit for our school community," said Maura Plante, director of admissions for Everest Collegiate High School and Academy.

The team put up a display of 2,000 crosses in front of the school down to the sidewalk on Clarkston Road, from Oct. 28-Nov. 4.

"These crosses represent half the number of babies aborted each day in America," Plante said.

The project illustrated what is normally a statistic, said Clare Nalepa, 11th grader.

"You hear about abortions, but how many doesn't really sink in until you see it," Nalepa said. "This is a chance to show people how much impact it actually has."

"I didn't realize how many per day there were," said Serena Carter, 10th grader.

"It's a visual aid," said Mia Korn, ninth grader.

While the golfers were setting up the display, response from passing motorists were positive.

"People would honk, and say 'thank you,'" Nalepa said.

"And wave," Korn said.

"We got a few weird looks, but maybe that was because we were in the pouring rain," Nalepa said.

The project's span of time is very fitting, Plante said.

"It covers All Saints Day, Nov. 1, and All Souls Day, Nov. 2," she said.

"These are two feast days in which we remember those who have gone before us, we pray for their eternal rest, and we fix our eyes on the heavenly homeland that awaits us."

The project reflects the students' belief in the value of human life from conception to natural death, said Regina De Nidris, 10th grader.

They worked hard to put up and maintain the display, said Coach Roberta Smith.

"It's amazing — they put others first," Smith said.

This is the team's first year, and hopefully the project will become a tradition, she said.

Disc dog champs

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

Leo the border collie is an easy going pup, but take out some frisbee discs and he's ready to work.

"His whole demeanor changes, he becomes a totally different dog," said his owner Connie Passejna of Clarkston. "He's confident and bold, and ready to do anything you want him to."

This past summer, Connie's daughter Allison Passejna won the Skyhoundz World Championship in Freestyle with Leo, and took second with her other dog Midge.

"We got into it together, and now she's surpassed me," Connie said. "She has quite the arm."

"That was really cool — I was surprised," said Allison, 12, student at the Academy of the Sacred Heart. "He did really well. Sometimes I messed up on stuff and he wasn't doing what I wanted him to do, but we just kept going."

They compete with Disc Dogs of Michigan as a family activity for Allison and sister Evelyn, Connie, and husband Paul.

"Spending time outside with family and the dogs," Connie said. "It's an opportunity for Allison and I to do something together. It's a great community of people who are really supportive."

Qualifying for Skyhoundz World in Chattanooga, Tenn., is a huge accomplishment, said Disc Dog supporter Misty Yohannan.

"She saved her own money to go and take her dogs Leo, Midge, and new puppy Ranger," Yohannan said. "There were competitors from all over the world, Italy, Belgium, Canada, Mexico, China, Japan, and the USA. What a huge accomplishment for this young lady who just turned 12 in September."

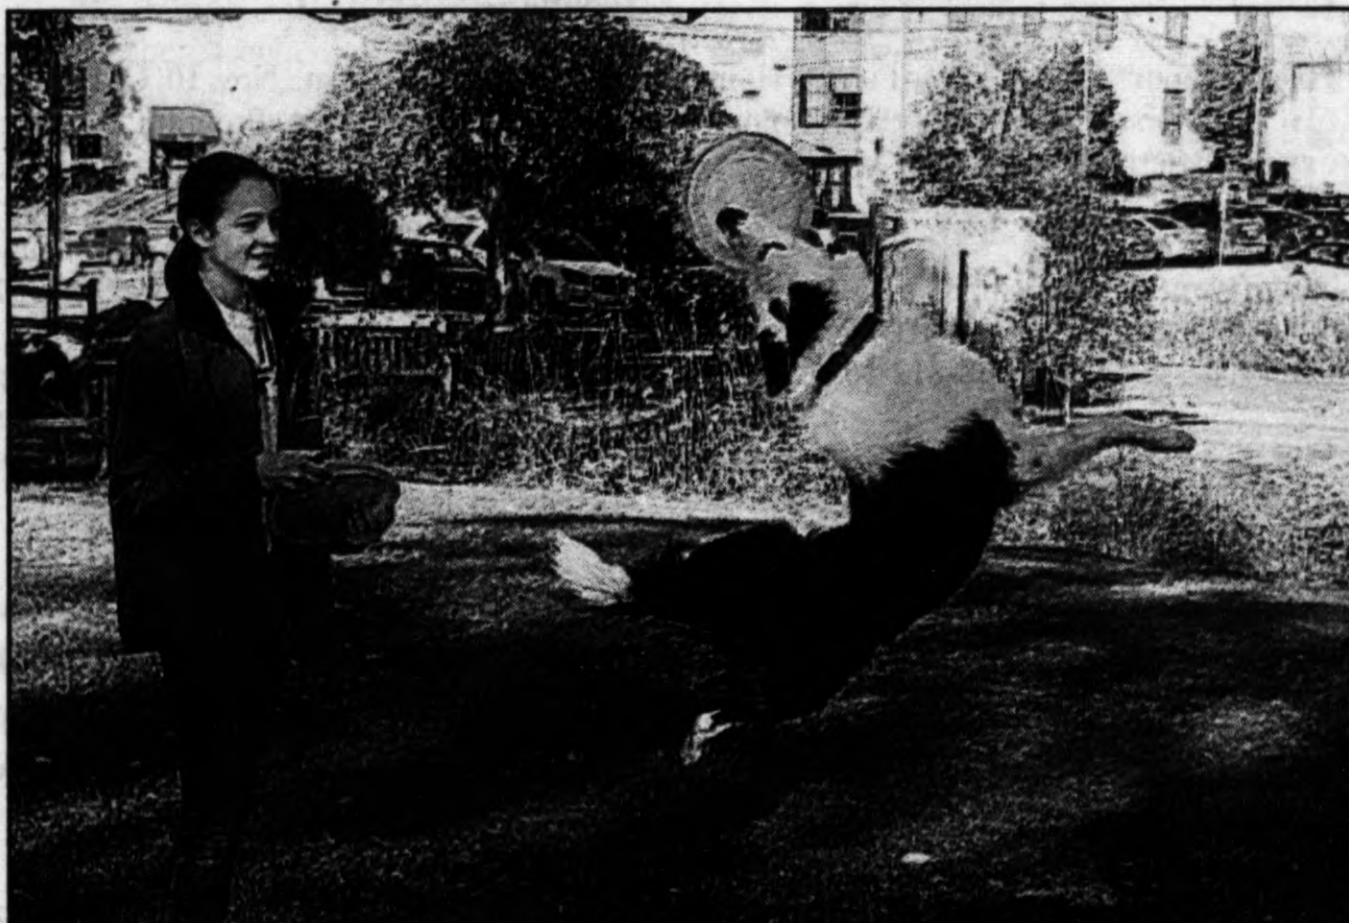

Leo is a rescue dog who picked up the sport quickly, Allison said.

"When he was first rescued, he was terrified of everything," she said. "He's come a long way. He's really a fantastic dog."

This is the off season for disc dogs. Indoor training starts after the holidays. For more info, check <http://www.discdogsofmi.com>.

Pine Knob recognized by Congress

U.S. Rep. Mike Bishop recognized Pine Knob Elementary School during an address to the speaker on the floor of the United States House of Representatives on Oct. 23.

Bishop spoke about PKE's Blue Ribbon Award, coveted award presented to outstanding schools since 1982.

Jodi Yeloushan, principal of PKE for the past six years, was notified the school received the award in late September. She will travel to Washington D.C. in November to accept the award of behalf of the school.

PKE is among 7,600 schools in total to ever receive the award and one of about 350 to receive the award this year.

"I rise today to share the achievements of a school in my district PKE in Clarkston. For generations American's have held on to the long standing belief that their children's future should be better than their own," Rogers said.

"The key to a brighter future starts with the best education possible. PKE school embraces that vision by setting their students on a path to success early on in the educational experience.

Teachers and faculty are focused on emphasizing personal growth in addition to aceing in numerous subject areas. they encourage students to think outside the box and be kind to one another all along through the process.

Bishop said PKE's leadership reaches way beyond school grounds.

"Their mentorship goes beyond the classroom where teachers assist with a variety of clubs and activities their students participate in after school in addition to student council or the broadcast news, kids can join a computer coding club where they can learn to write programs a popular choice among students today and obviously a highly sought after skill in todays workforce."

PKE is a school that loves learning, Bishop said.

"Above all these students love learning," he said. "The results are in the 96 percent attendance rate their school has held for years."

Bishop said he was proud to share the news that PKE, a school in his district, received a Blue Ribbon Award, a high symbol of excellence.

Bishop represents Michigan's 8th congressional district, which includes several counties and communities, including Clarkston.

North Sashabaw students experience what it's like to use adaptive equipment. Photos provided

Stations simulate some physical impairments.

A day for awareness

Fourth grade students at North Sashabaw Elementary participated in a Disability Awareness Day at school on Oct. 28.

Students were encouraged to try their hand with large adaptive equipment, gross motor equipment, and stations that were set up for them to experience various impairments such as hearing or visual disability.

Several adult volunteers ran the various stations while the kids rotated to each one, experiencing them all.
