Thieves target daycare lots

Police warn drivers not to leave purses, bags, and other items in plain sight in their vehicles, even for a few minutes.

The "Felony Lane Gang" has been in town, targeting parents' vehicles as they drop off their children at local day care centers.

"They're easy targets – parents are only there for a few seconds and leave their purses in their cars," said Lt. Dirk Feneley, commander of Oakland County Sheriff's Independence Township Substation. "They sit in the parking lot and wait for moms to walk in without their purses."

A parent's car was broken into in a daycare parking lot in the 6000 block of Waldon Center Drive next to Independence Township Hall, in a well-lit area next to the main entry, 7:30 a.m., Nov. 10.

4 city hall plans considered

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

Renovation plans for inside Clarkston city hall are on hold for now, but DPW expansion plans costing up to $308,000 remain under consideration.

"Office renovation seems like icing on the cake," said Council member Al Avery, at the Nov. 9 City Council meeting. "When money is available, then we can make the renovations."

Facilities Committee member James Brueck presented four options to the council.

North Side Option 1 is to build a new, 1,925-square-foot garage into the Depot Park parking lot. With one 828-square-foot bay from the current garage, total DPW space would be 2,753 square feet.

The new utility building would cost $274,793; interior renovations of existing facilities, $94,119; and parking lot work, $30,000, for a total of $398,912.

North Side Option 2 is to add an attached 2,049-square-foot facility to the existing garage, extending west along the parking lot in Depot Park. With one bay from the current garage, 828 square feet, it would provide a total of 2,877 square feet for the DPW. Cost of the new addition would be $295,916; interior renovation, $94,119; and DPW parking revisions, $12,000, for a total of $402,035.

North Side Option 3 is to add a 972-square-foot addition to the north side of the existing garage with no impact on the parking lot or extending west of the existing garage.

With current garage space of 1,656 square feet and 765-square-foot leased bay at Clarkston schools, it would total 3,393 square feet for the DPW.

New construction would cost $169,536; DPW parking revisions, $12,000; parking posts, $7,200; and structural retaining wall, $11,265, for a total of $200,001. Lease of the school garage bay is $250 a month. Option 3 includes no renovations to existing facilities.

Option 4 is a new, 3,000-square-foot, $400,000 utility building for equipment, close to the city on a site yet to be determined, with unknown property and site development costs. This would leave existing DPW building available for future renovations,

"Option 4 really just scratches the surface," Brueck said. "The cost is quite variable."

The Facilities Committee is at an impasse and needed council input, he said.

"We don't want to spend lot of time without guidance from council," he said. "We're kind of spinning our wheels."

The next level is to commission construction drawings and finalize costs, Brueck said.

Mayor Pro-Tem Eric Haven and Council member Michael Sabol said they favored Options One and Two. Avery said future digitization of files could reduce the need for renovation to create office storage space.

"We have an obligation to the citizens to not go into the hole," he said. "That's why I want to see the numbers before signing off on it."

Renovations have always been presented as an alternative for the council to consider, Brueck said.

"They don't have to be done on day one," he said.

The council, Avery, Haven, Sabol, and Council members Sharron Catallo, Jason Kneisc, and David Marsh, asked the Facilities Committee and treasurer to provide financing schedules for $200,000 and $308,000 projects. The $308,000 figure is from the first two options' approximately $400,000 cost minus the $94,000 interior renovations.

Briefly

Block grant funding

Clarkston City Council voted unanimously, Nov. 9, to award $6,000 in Community Development Block Grants to Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

The money, provided by the federal government, will be used to provide scholarships to low-income, at-risk youth to skill-building, football, band, and other camps, said Craig Hamilton, CAYA president.

The city's block grant funds were previously split between youth assistance and Independence Township Senior Center. The senior center received the city's funds last year.

School labor complaint

Clarkston Community Schools faces a labor complaint filed by a teacher.

The complaint, filed by computer science teacher Ron Conwell with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission on Nov. 9, says Clarkston Education Association committed an unfair labor practice through the "Agency Shop Clause" in the teachers' contract.

The clause requires employees pay a fee to the union even if they choose not to be a part of it.

Clarkston Education Association's agency shop agreement has been in place for some time, said Stephen Cook, Michigan Education Association president, in a public statement.

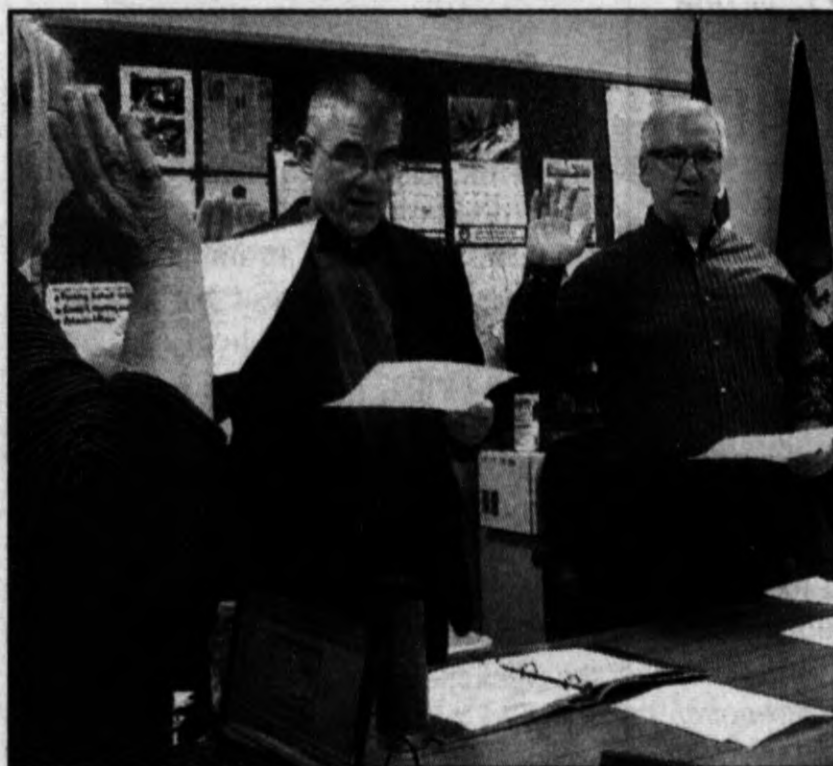

"As we have done since inception of Right to Work, we will continue to seek membership dues from members pursuant to their membership agreements and their negotiated agreement," Cook said. "Our seeking dues in this situation is also consistent with the recent MERC decision."

"We in Clarkston have a long history of collaborative, positive relations with our employees," said Superintendent Dr. Rod Rock in a public statement. "We look forward to resolving this matter in a similar manner."

Wendi's Word

A column by Wendi Reardon

Penguin walk

A question I have been asked a lot, especially during the last week is "how are you feeling?"

I like to describe it as picking an animal. I feel like a penguin. I waddle. I was never a fast walker but the speed I used to walk is no longer an option. I walk slow and find myself waddling place to place. But at least I don't feel like an elephant.

I haven't really spoken about it and most people haven't really pointed out the size of my stomach but yes it is growing and hopefully in the time span of four weeks it will start getting smaller.

I have made it to the 36-week mark of my first pregnancy which leads to why I have been asked, especially a lot, "how are you feeling?"

Well, I get tired. Really nothing new there. I usually have some coffee to perk me up but since I try to limit myself the caffeine intake has been quite smaller.

I haven't had morning sickness which I feel really lucky about or strange cravings. My cravings consist of food I always craved - pasta, bread, cereal - those fun carbohydrates. I also don't wake up at two in the morning with any weird cravings for tacos. Actually I haven't even woken up hungry.

I have had heartburn. Oh, the burning feeling. The pain. I had never had it before and began having it during the summertime. I thought it was a reaction to what I had eaten but it turns out sometimes the oddest thing would cause it.

If I felt the symptoms early and combated it in time I was good. If I didn't it could be a rough 30-60 minutes. Though a few times I did have to leave work and just go home. It was really bad.

So really, it has been pretty tame. I don't know if it's because I have been going to Nuview Nutrition for close to five years or I have just been lucky for the first eight months.

Sorry if I haven't shared any crazy pregnancy adventures but I haven't really had any. He has been pretty tame.

Plus, everyone offers advice. Though I will admit watching the debate between others about wipe warmers is pretty interesting and listening to their reasons for and against the product. Not to mention which diaper brand is better and why.

We now have five different kinds of diapers. I can tell you how it goes.

A hope for city to stand firm on zoning

Dear Editor,

So, the owners of the Sutherland building on Main Street are suing the city over failure to grant rezoning from residential to restaurant use ("Lawsuit charges city with Catallo favoritism," Nov. 4).

I, for one, hope the city stands firm and refuses to allow scarce residential housing in a historic home to be destroyed. Another area newspaper indicates the building owners, CBC Joint Venture, experienced a $1,200 operating loss on the building in 2014.

It would be nice if the affected owners and partners had all been identified in the paper so we'd all know exactly who is involved.

Maybe the judge can require them in the course of their litigation to divulge their complete tax returns for 2014 and the preceding five years or so to allow all see how such a loss was sustained and how the parties may have suffered financially over the years thru this particular investment.

All of us could be educated on exactly how the tax system works. Alternatively, but I suspect less likely, the tax returns might reveal a lack of business/financial acumen such that those involved could not be expected to successfully manage a restaurant. In any event, more transparency is warranted here.

If the plaintiffs are struggling financially, perhaps the court will not hold them liable for the costs of the city in responding and defending against the lawsuit.

Reader raises concerns about buy out

Dear Editor,

In regards to "McLaren plans upset urgent care," Nov. 4, I scratched my head at the article announcing negotiations for McLaren to buyout the Urgent Care and imaging facilities of Clarkston Medical Group. After some thought, perhaps the auxiliary services at Clarkston Medical Group today would be duplicative in a future full ER/short-stay hospital.

However, Ms. Erica Halsey and Cherie Montpetit-Burstath are quite right that there is a difference in wait time and cost between urgent and emergency care.

I had hoped McLaren would come forward with their proposed full emergency room and short-stay hospital plan first that would address an affiliation or coordination of services with Clarkston Medical Group.

There has been no plan shared yet, just the announcement of negotiations for a buyout of pieces of CMG. The message, in the absence of further comment, is indeed one of "takeover."

I have some questions I hope can be addressed. Why is there a billboard on southbound I-75 advertising an ER at the Sashabaw Road location when there isn't one?

In the midst of all the discussions and announcements, what about the McLaren Emergency Room on Dixie Highway at White Lake Road today?

I also want to comment on the economics of the proposed short-stay hospital. To the $100 million already invested, how much is tied to the purchase and development of the site, the cancer treatment center, and pursuit of the Certificate of Need?

Are hospital revenue bonds planned to fund the short-stay hospital? Revenue bonds are issued on projected revenues, and while it wouldn't place a burden on Independence Township or Oakland County as an obligor, the issuance of debt is based on the health of the local economy, that would be impacted by a default.

I feel that plans for the proposed project; coordination and delivery of services that meet the needs of the community; and funding should be commented on comprehensively.

Sincerely,

Sue Nederlander
Independence Township

Job well done by Hunter during service

Dear Editor,

The Friends of the City of the Village of Clarkston would like to recognize Tom Hunter for his eight years of service to the Village of Clarkston as a city councilman.

Tom and his late wife, Jerry, built a home on Middle Lake Road and raised their family here, both giving years of service to the village.

He served for many years as an attorney for the City of Pontiac. His deep knowledge of municipal policies and procedures, his keen love of Clarkston, and his dedicated involvement in committee work was a huge asset to the city.

Tom served on too many committees to mention, his last being the Ordinance Codification Committee. Tedious at best, Tom played a key role in ensuring city ordinances complies with state law and then moving them to acceptance by City Council at his last official meeting in October.

Tom also served a mayor pro-tem, strongly leading the City Council members in the mayor's absence. A job well done, Tom. We applaud you.

Memories of a newlywed chivaree

After Hazel and my New Orleans honeymoon, we settled into a little home in Lennon, her home town.

I don't recall the date, but it would have been a Saturday night in November 1949. We had just gotten to sleep when Hazel's friends decided to drop in.

Actually they didn't just drop in.

They sort of surrounded our house, and gently wakened us from all directions with shotguns, fire-crackers banging on all doors and windows, and whoops and hollers.

I'll say this for them, they didn't enter our house until we opened the door. And, we were properly attired at the time.

It was 1 a.m., and we had been sleeping. That calls for pajamas.

As some encouraged us to put on some warm clothes, others (we found out later) put corn flakes in our bed, Oxydol in the clothes closet and otherwise, "fixed" things.

Once clothed, Hazel and I were ushered outside where a bob sled was waiting. A tractor out front whirled us up and down the few streets in Lennon and pulled to a stop in front of the Genesee County Pub, just before closing time.

I should explain. Lennon is on a county line and at that time had two bars. One in Shiawassee County the other in Genesee. Beer tastes the same in both and the prices were as equal, too.

The doors were locked and our private party got underway. Of course, we had to be initiated into a club Hazel's friends had invented for the night.

Separately, Hazel and I were led blindfolded out a door, along side the bistro, to a window heading to the kitchen. Outside was a horse that we had to pet for atmosphere.

We were to put our hand through the open window in the kitchen, where upon some warm gooey mess met our chilled paw. Too, there was a tasty liquid they insisted we drink to instill the moment in our minds.

Like all initiations, the gooey mess wasn't what they described it to be. It was a hotdog bun soaked in warm water pickle juice and vinegar, not what they had implied.

Oh, what a grand group. All of whom will be rejected at the Pearly Gates.

Jim's Jottings

a column by Jim Sherman

It's time to come together, not divide

I ended last week's chapter of the sacred texts known as Don't Rush Me (the column) thusly:

So, I have been hearing about an effort afoot to open up and change the Michigan Constitution to put in verbiage stating something like, "It is unconstitutional to discriminate against anyone based on their sexuality, gender identity . . ." Something like that.

Since I am running out of space here this week, I will bring it up later with a more thought-out column. What I will say here is, I don't like the idea of specifying who cannot be discriminated against, if only because that means everybody else not listed is fair game for discrimination.

Quite simply, if the state's constitution will be opened and changed, it should say something like, "No person shall be discriminated against for any reason based on being born, living and breathing and not hurting anybody else."

Hmm? But, what about red heads?

Ever true to my word, it's now "next week" -- which makes it this week -- and I shall endeavor to walk the walk because I talked the talk. Blah, blah, blah, Rush, spin your web of black magic mumbo-jumbo, already!

Late in October, The Detroit Free Press' Lansing chick reporter Kathleen Gray wrote an article headlined, "Ballot committee forms for LGBT constitutional amendment."

In her article she wrote, "Dana Nessel, the Michigan attorney who took the same-sex marriage case all the way to the Supreme Court, is leader of Fair Michigan, which hopes to begin gathering petition signatures for the ballot proposal early next year."

The amendment would add civil rights protections based on "gender, gender identity, sex and sexual orientation, which will cover both women and the LGBT community."

She also wrote, Republican governor Rick Snyder has ". . . called on the Legislature to add the LGBT community to the Elliott Larsen Civil Rights Act, which prohibits discrimination in hiring and housing."

The Elliot Larson Civil Rights Act of 1976 is "AN ACT to define civil rights; to prohibit discriminatory practices, policies, and customs in the exercise of those rights based upon religion, race, color, national origin, age, sex, height, weight, familial status, or marital status . . ."

Now that we have all the pertinent information on the table, let's talk about it. Converse. Have civil discourse. Here's what I think right now; and just so you know, with more information, I could change my mind. (I reserve that right as a thinking individual.) I do not think we need to add another group of people to be protected by the Michigan Constitution.

At first blush, you may say I am a vile, mean-spirited hater for wishing this amendment drive would go away. You, of course, would be dead wrong. Wrong, wrong, wrong. I believe just the opposite. I believe we all should have all the same rights and protections enumerated by our Constitution. I think all honest, hard-working, playing by the rules people should be treated equally. Same-same.

What I don't like, especially in this new, ever-changing society, is segregating people into narrowly defined groups -- even if those same folks want to be narrowly defined. Let's face it, some time down the line, there will be another group of people, who believe because their group is not defined they are being discriminated against and have no protections.

So, if the LGBT community is successful, and we open up the state's constitution and change it, what happens next? Will it be okay to discriminate against the Wee Peoples' Guild? What about the Painted Nation of Tattooed Faces? The Non-English Speaking American's Association? Are we gonna have to open up the Constitution every time a new group gets large enough to have a loud voice?

Just because "your" group is not defined does not mean you are not protected. That is a fallacy. False thinking. I think the Constitution -- whether the United States, or Michigan State -- is quite clear, when common sense is applied.

I've come to the belief by letting ourselves be defined as "something" by the government only keeps us separate from each other. I have a longing for, a hunger for the time when we are all "one" -- one group of human beings who celebrate each others' uniqueness.

So, I go back to this: let's open up the constitution and change it, take out all the narrowly defined language and make it all inclusive instead. "No person shall be discriminated against for any reason based on being born, living and breathing and not hurting anybody else."

What say you? Let's have a civil discourse of ideas. E-mail Don@ShermanPublications.org.

More Letters to the Editor . . .

Thoughts on the new grading system

Dear Editor,

My feedback for the new elementary system of "Successful," "Developing," or "Beginning" follows.

The previous, standard letter grading scale (A,B,C,D,F) that was in place beginning in third grade was an adequate way for both students and parents to become accountable and aware of students strengths in weaknesses as they approach a higher level of learning.

Higher-level education grading exists for a reason and our students have lessons to learn about accountability, and this new system leans towards mysterious grading and accountability for the students.

I believe students at third grade and beyond take pride in "earning grades" or identifying weakness areas they need to focus extra study time on.

Elementary education and concepts are important for higher learning and to put generic scoring does not provide fair representation for students who are achieving excellence or addressing students who need to spend more time on studies outside of school.

This system is not one I support or find benefit.

The only reason of benefit I can see, is it may be hiding the true learning happening at the elementary level, and why, are we trying to hide something? This is not fair or beneficial for anyone!

Finally, my daughter, Ava, achieved all A's last year because she challenged herself and she took pride in herself and the grades that she strived for all year.

Now you have taken that from her and all the other students who are putting forth the efforts to earn grades. Where is her motivation now, all she has to do is get an "S"? You have taken away the "Excellence" in Clarkston elementary schools and replaced it with "Successful." Our graduating elementary children can no longer be eligible for the President's Education Awards Program, www2.ed.gov/programs/presaward/eligibility.html.

I ask you share my letter and concerns with the school board as this is a big deal for the future of our children.

Disappointment by township

Dear Editor,

Regarding the Independence Township Board meeting on Nov. 10, I was disturbed by a particular agenda item, and even more alarmed by the vote.

There was a "Request to Establish [a] Woodland/Tree Ordinance Ad-Hoc Committee." This committee will investigate other communities' ordinances concerning replanting-regulations when there is "clear-cutting of entire woodland areas."

For example, if a development project knocks down dozens or hundreds of trees, it seems to make sense they would have to replant a similar number of trees elsewhere in the city or township in order to maintain the community's natural legacy.

However, it appears that something sneaky was going on in this proposal. In addition to "woodland areas," the ordinance would also include individual trees on the property of Independence Township residents that are deemed to be "heritage trees."

This means that John Smith, who is not a developer, but just a homeowner, would NOT be allowed to freely chop down a tree, that carries a certain arbitrary designation, in his own backyard, without being required to replant a similar tree elsewhere in the township.

I am a conservative, and I'm happy to live in a township where all the trustees are Republican, but I was shocked at the intrusive-government-liberalism of this second, somewhat hidden, element of the proposed tree-ordinance.

And I was quite disappointed that the vote was 5-1 in favor, with the only, proper, dissenting vote given by Trustee Jose Aliaga.

Government turned back on voters

Dear Editor,

Congratulations to the liars and skunks voters of Michigan elected, who promised a more fiscally responsible, lower tax government.

After having their special interest tax increase brutally rejected by ballot, they have gone the circuitous route around the electorate.

Auto registration fees and gas tax will skyrocket. Everyone from Sashabaw Meadows to Bridge Valley will pay for their underhanded duplicity.

The legislator and the governor have not just turned their backs on taxpayers, they have exposed themselves for what they are, liars and skunks!

Sincerely,

Robert Namowicz

Public Safety

For Clarkston and Independence Township

Noise violation

A deputy on patrol stopped a garbage truck emptying dumpsters in the 5000 block of Dixie Highway, 5:08 a.m., Nov. 2. Township ordinances prohibit trash removal between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. unless it can be done without hearing it from 50 feet away. The driver, a 56-year-old Independence Township man, said his employer never told him about the ordinance. The company was cited for violation of the noise ordinance.

Wreck not found

A caller reported a vehicle down in a ravine on the northbound side of I-75 between exits 91 and 93, 8:31 p.m., Nov. 2. Deputies and Michigan State Police officers checked both northbound and southbound but didn't find anything.

Drug overdose

Medical personnel used Narcan to revive a 25-year-old Waterford Township man, 1:17 p.m., Oct. 29, at McLaren in the 5000 block of Bow Pointe Drive. He said he sniffed about $10 worth of powder heroin, started to overdose, and asked a friend to take him to the hospital. He was taken to McLaren Oakland for further treatment.

Hit and run

A deputy was dispatched to Sashabaw and Maybee roads on a hit-and-run report, 8:14 p.m., Nov. 7. He found a speed limit sign knocked down and fluids all over the road. He followed a trail of fluids to Clintonville Road, into Fox Creek apartments, to where a car with a smashed windshield, front end damage and flat front right tire was parked. A 24-year-old Chesterfield Township man was in the driver's seat. He denied what happened, but when told the trail of fluids led right to him, he admitted it. He was cited for hit and run.

Misdemeanor warrant

A car with expired registration tabs was stopped on Dixie Highway at Parview Drive, 5:04 p.m., Nov. 5. The driver, a 30-year-old Flint man, said he bought the car a month ago and had not had time to get a plate for it. He was advised and released on a misdemeanor warrant out of 90th District Court for failure to appear, cited for failure to answer a summons for the warrant and improper plate, and given a warning for no proof of insurance.

Nerf assault

A 37-year-old Independence Township was cited for assault after throwing a Nerf sponge football at a neighbor and hitting her in the head, 5:19 p.m., Nov. 9, in the 5000 block of W. Harvard Avenue. She was upset because neighbors were taking a boat out of the lake and were on her property without permission.

Window shot

A resident was home in the 6000 block of Pine Knob Road when he heard a loud pop, 8:27 p.m., Nov. 9. He discovered someone shot the front window of his home, possibly with a BB gun.

Resisting arrest

A 37-year-old Independence Township woman was cited for disorderly conduct and resisting arrest after yelling at a deputy, approaching him with clenched fists, and resisting efforts to place her in handcuffs, 1:07 p.m., Nov. 10. She had called police to her home to talk about an assault citation from earlier that day.

Theft from car

Someone took $40 in cash from a car parked unlocked in the 4000 block of Fox Creek, Nov. 11, between 8:30 p.m. and 9:10 p.m.

Video surveillance shows a man reach into a minivan to steal a purse, after smashing out the window. Photo provided

Stolen purses found in Kensington

A thief broke out the passenger side window of another car and took a purse at 7:14 a.m., Nov. 13, at a daycare in the 7000 block of Sashabaw Road.

In that case, security surveillance video shows a silver 2015 or 2016 Hyundai Elantra back into the parking space next to the victim's car, then a passenger, a black man in his mid to late 20's to early 30's, lean out, shatter the door window with a glass-punch device, and take the purse, in one motion.

"It's springloaded so you just push it against the window and it shatters," Feneley said. "It only takes a second."

Deputies searched the area but didn't find the suspects.

At about 1:52 p.m., Nov. 13, Kensington Metro Park Police found the victim's purse in the park. It had been discarded along with several other purses stolen in other larcenies in the metro area.

Suggestions for parents and drivers include not leaving purses, computers, or any valuable items in plain sight in vehicles, even for a few seconds.

Investigation continues into the gang, reportedly named after the outside lane of a bank drivethrough from which thieves try to cash stolen checks. The group is known nationwide, Feneley said.

Similar thefts from vehicles have been reported in Lake Orion and Waterford, he said.

To report vehicles loitering, driving slowly through a parking lot, or otherwise acting suspiciously, call Oakland County Sheriff's Office non-emergency dispatch, 248-858-4911. Anyone with information is asked to call the OCSO tip line at 1-888-TURN-1-IN.

Rogers takes reign for Lady Wolves varsity basketball

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Lady Cagers took turns practicing screens Monday afternoon until they were paused by Christine Rogers with a few pointers before sending the basketball back into play.

Rogers steps into the role of head coach for the Clarkston Girls Varsity Basketball team as Tim Wasilk, the former head coach joins the boys program.

"I am excited," she smiled about the upcoming season which officially started Nov. 9. "The girls are excited. They have been ready to get to Monday where we will have a basketball in our hands and practices."

Rogers is a familiar face in Clarkston. She coaches the eighth grade girls basketball team and junior varsity softball team. She teaches ninth grade Honors US History and does the Academic Service Learning for Clarkston Junior High School.

She was involved in basketball through her high school years and played in college at Lewis & Clark College in Portland, Oregon where she started three out of four years.

Rogers

"I have been coaching in the program for 12 years and when this opportunity came up it was too good to pass up," she said. "The girls on the team are fun. They are exciting. Their possibilities are very high."

She added her knowledge and experience helps because she has been where they have been.

"I have been in the situations they have been in," Rogers said. "I know what they see. I think it will translate well because I have been there. I don't know if I ever played on a team which had this level of talent. It's going to be exciting to have a team that has the skills and the drive these girls do."

Her goal for the program is to continue the success Clarkston has had.

"We are going to play a more aggressive offense style, but we are going to continue to be known for our lock down defense," Rogers said. "I expect to be very competitive. Clarkston has a reputation. We are good. We are solid. We are fundamentally sound and we play hard. I want to continue that tradition."

She added the girls have been working hard during the summer in a Detroit league against athletic and physical teams.

"We had good success against them," Rogers said. "We are going to be fun and exciting to watch. We move the ball. We score. We go to the rim."

Chelsea Khouri will help in the program as assistant coach for the varsity team.

"I am so lucky to have her expertise and her experience," she said. "My coaching program is solid."

The program also has solid players returning to the roster including senior guard Kayla Russell and sophomore forward Kayla Luchenbach.

"Kayla Russell has amazed me with what she has done the last three months," said Rogers. "She has matured as a person and a player. Luchenbach, this should be her year to own the inside. She had Erika (Davenport) before. This summer she really worked to be a solid presence in the middle of the key. We have enough talent and skill outside of the key teams won't be able to focus on Kayla because someone else could score on them quite easily. We have a lot of weapons we could take it to teams because they can't cover everyone."

"There is a dedication to the program I love to see," Rogers added. "We have a lot of young players coming up so it's going to be exciting for a while."

The girls open the season at Avondale on Dec. 1 with JV at 5:30 p.m. and varsity following.

They host their home opener with a triple header against Davison on Dec. 4 with freshman playing at 5 p.m. and the junior high school. JV plays at the high school at 5:30 p.m. and varsity follows.

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK Football champs

The Clarkston Chiefs Freshman White team held their ground during the Northern Youth Football League Superbowl Championship at Waterford Mott High School, Nov. 7.

The first half ended with the Chiefs and Lake Orion Green tied at zero. The Chiefs scored one touchdown in the second half - enough to win the game 6-0 and become champions.

The boys finished the season with an overall record 8-3. Two of the wins were during the play-offs as they defeated Lake Orion White, 33-6, and Rochester, 39-33, to make it to the championship round.

During the season they also defeated Waterford, 31-14, Oxford Blue, 26-6, Lapeer, 32-12, Brandon, 37-20, and Lake Orion White, 30-0.

University achievements

Nick Vandermeer, 2013 graduate of Clarkston High School, finished fourth place at the Eastern Michigan Open among Division 1 wrestlers, Nov. 7. Vandermeer opened his season with the Lake Erie Wrestling team with a 8-6 decision over Jerald Spohn of Kent State University in the 174-pound weight class. He received a medical forfeit in the quarterfinals to reach the semis. Vandermeer fell in the semifinals and forfeited the third-place match to finish fourth.

Kickers rule the league

The Michigan Impact U11 Boys White team had a great season this year, playing a 9-versus-9 format for the first time.

They won every game they played this season including winning their Michigan Youth Soccer League division and the tournament they attended this fall, Kalamazoo Crusader Cup.

For the MYSL division, the boys went 10-0 and had five shutouts against TSC Comets 05, 4-0; Waza North 06 Royal, 6-0; PSG MI Nova 06 Navy 5-0 and 6-0; and Carpathia Kickers 05 Territo, 3-0.

During the Kalamazoo Crusader Cup, Impact went 4-0 for the tournament with wins over Rapids FC White, 6-1, and Southwest Michigan SWM Kick, 11-0, on Sept. 26.

They opened the second day of the tournament with a win over Red Arrow SC RASC 05, 4-0, before defeating Vardar West 05 Boys Select in the finals, 5-1, Sept. 27.

Prior to this season they were very competitive and finished near the top of their divisions and in their tournaments they missed going to the finals by one game.

This did not sit well with the boys and this season they set a goal to win every game and take control of their own destiny.

They shared their feelings with their coach, Rean Turner, who supported them in the decision.

Turner was very proud of the boys coming together as a team to set this goal as well as the way they carried themselves on the field.

"They are learning and understanding the game and playing it the way it was meant to be played," Turner added.

The team includes Luke Clason, Ethan Collins, Evan Dula, Adam Herron, Drew Herron, Connor Laming, Jack Marshal, Jack Mayhew, Kurtis Niemi, Jaylen Sarkesian, Nicolis Senko, Nate Thomas, Sean Trador and Theo Walker.

Playing club soccer with Michigan Impact helps the boys to grow into young men, teaching them life skills and having fun at the same time.

Stepping into history

BY WENDI REARDON
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three Independence Township residents were among the 2,096 women and girls who dressed as the World War II Rosie the Riveter icon to set a new world record, Oct. 24.

"It was a great experience," said Violet Bergman, a fourth grader at Pine Knob Elementary. "Now I have this great story to tell my children and my great grandchildren. It was great to be part of it because I made history. I get to be in the Guinness Book of World Records."

"I really wanted to break the record like Violet," added Maya Bergman, a seventh grader at Sashabaw Middle School. "I will be able to tell my nieces, nephews, children and grandchildren. Now I get to share it with everyone."

The event was held at Willow Run Bomber Plant and included women from 16 states and Canada. Michigan set the first record with 776 Rosies. Then, California broke it with 1,084 Rosies.

"We ended up breaking the record by 1,012," Maya smiled.

Maya, Violet and their mom Krystal joined other Rosies who dressed very specifically for the event, from the red bandana with white polka dots to the dark denim jeans rolled up to show red socks, and black or brown work boots.

"It was really cool because when we walked in, everyone was wearing the same outfit," Maya said.

It took the three two weeks to get all the items and they brought extra just in case they didn't wear the right item.

Krystal found out about the event when a friend posted about it on Facebook. Both Maya and Violet were excited.

"My reaction was like 'gasp, oh my gosh,'" said Violet, adding she also wanted to know when it was just in case the family had something else on the calendar for the day.

"Maya has always been drawn to the figure," Krystal said. "I thought this would be perfect."

"She is inspiring," Maya smiled about the icon of World War II. "Some people don't think girls can play sports or do anything. Rosie the Riveter proved them wrong in the factories and building all these planes. They were doing all the work so the men could go to war and fight for the country. They also helped save our country."

While at Willow Run Bomber Plant, Maya and Violet were able to learn about the history of the plant, explore some of the planes as well as go inside a B-17 bomber and check out some of the exhibits.

"They had photo booths, which was cool, and frames or bookmarks," Maya added. "They had a lot of cool stuff. They had an American Girl doll outfit of Rosie. All the money went to save the bomber plant."

The money raised will help turn the plant into a museum, which Maya added was important.

"It's part of our country's history," she said. "It helped us win the war when the ladies stepped up and helped when the men were at war."

There were even 43 original Rosies at the event.

"It was amazing," Violet said about seeing the original Rosies.

"There were two ladies there who met at Willow Run," Maya added. "They saw each other for the first time at the event. It was really cool to see the original Rosies because they were the ones helping."

When it was time to get their picture taken, they joined the other 2,093 women and girls in one area. After the picture was taken and the new record was set, all of them sang four songs.

Vietnam veteran honored at junior high

Toby Dill didn't get a ceremony when he returned from the Vietnam War, but he got one during this year's Veterans Day.

Honors U.S. History students at Clarkston Junior High organized and invited Dill to a "Freedom is Never Free" ceremony in the Jenna Beno Memorial Courtyard.

"It's awesome, really cool - I'm really honored," said Dill, who was drafted into the U.S. Army in 1966, and served as a combat engineer in Vietnam.

"Vietnam veterans are unsung heroes," said Kristi Beno, Jenna's mother, during the presentation.

A friend of the Beno family for 30 years, Dill was a motorcycle riding buddy and fellow soldier to Jenna, who passed away in 2012.

A Harley-Davidson enthusiast, he participated in many rides to benefit children and veterans. Jenna was his passenger in the summer of 2009, before she deployed to Iraq.

Dill, who is now battling pancreatic cancer, served from 1966-1968. As a combat engineer in Vietnam, he operated a backhoe to construct bunkers, command posts, and landing zones, often under fire.

"Many times he depended on his battle buddies to watch his back," Kristi said.

He met his wife, Susan, through a care package to Vietnam. They developed a pen pal relationship, and married when he returned home.

Junior high students dedicated the first service stone to Jenna in 2013, and have added a new stone every year since.

"It's always very humbling for my husband (Bill) and I," Kristi said. "We're honored to teach children about things they can't imagine."

Diabetes Awareness : What you should know!

Nearly 24 million American adults are living with diabetes, according to figures released last month by the International Diabetes Federation. What may be even more alarming is that there are also about 79 million Americans with a condition known as pre-diabetes and many aren't aware of it.

Pre-diabetes means that while your blood sugar levels are higher than normal, that level isn't high enough to warrant a diabetes diagnosis. However, a pre-diabetes diagnosis means it is time for action to prevent diabetes. "In simple terms, there is a gap between what we call diabetes, which is a fasting blood sugar of 126 and above, and normal, which is less than 100 fasting," explains Vivian Fonseca, MD, a Professor of Medicine and Pharmacology and Chief of Endocrinology at Tulane University Health Sciences Center in New Orleans. "In between, you have impaired fasting glucose.

If you do a glucose tolerance test, and you are in the gap, you have prediabetes. You are at risk for getting diabetes in the future and you are also at risk for heart disease." Research has also found that pre-diabetes may be more common in men than in women. If you are told your blood sugar is abnormally high, you've just had a red flag waved in front of you. You're being warned that unless you make some changes in your life today, your future will probably include a diabetes diagnosis.

"Walking 30 minutes a day and reducing weight by 5 percent can decrease the risk (of getting type 2 diabetes) by 60 percent over three years," says Dr. Fonseca. While there are medications that have the same effect, lifestyle change is less expensive and has fewer side effects, Fonseca says.

Cutting your weight is crucial. "One of the links with obesity is that fat induces a mild lowgrade inflammation throughout the body that contributes to heart disease and diabetes," Fonseca explains. Without making any changes, you could develop type 2 diabetes within 10 years of first developing pre-diabetes. Pre-diabetes is a "silent" condition, says Fonseca. While some people may experience symptoms of diabetes such as fatigue or increased urination, most people's blood sugar rises without any outward signs at all. This means you might not know you need to be tested for pre-diabetes and even if you are screened, your doctor might not give you all the information you need to prevent it. For these reasons, diabetes experts developed criteria for those who should be tested. The American Diabetic Association recommends that any adult age 45 or older should be tested for diabetes and pre-diabetes.

The ADA also recommends that any adult under age 45 who is overweight and has at least one of the following risk factors should be tested:

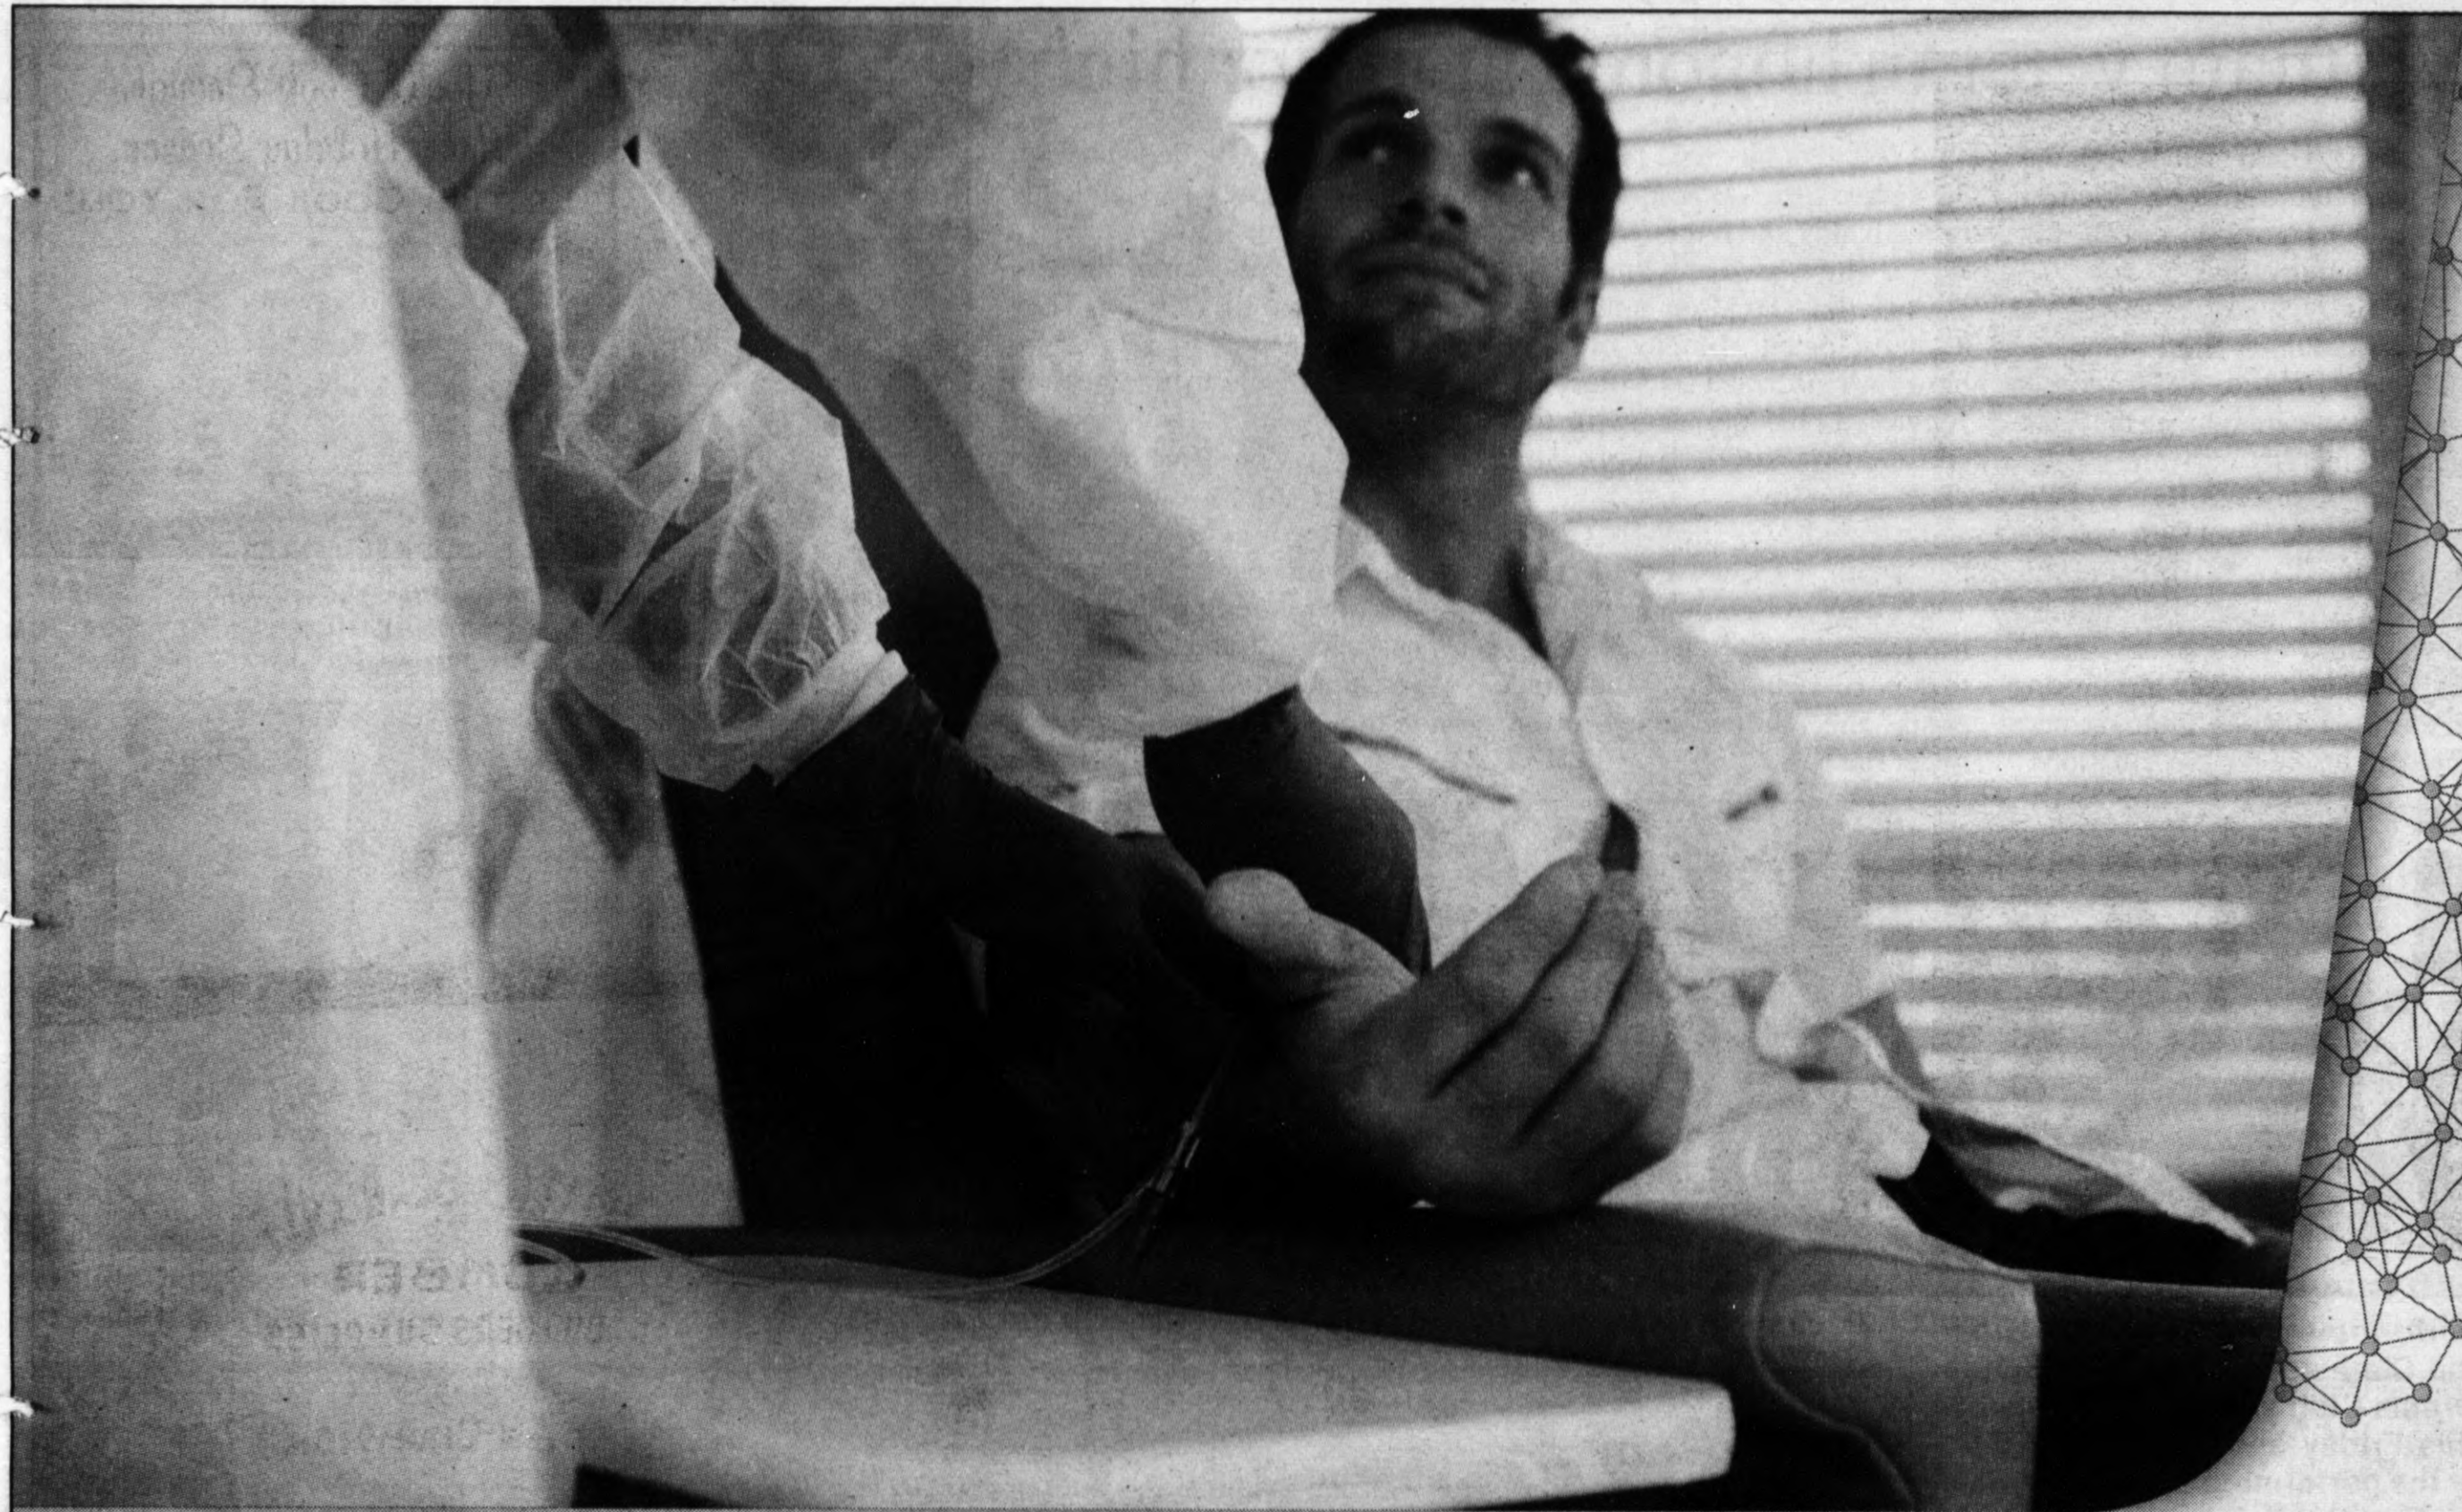

- Family history (especially parent or sibling with diabetes)
- Physically inactive lifestyle
- Native American, African-American, or Hispanic heritage
- Prior gestational diabetes diagnosis
- Birth of a baby over nine pounds in weight
- High blood pressure or treatment for high blood pressure
- Polycystic ovarian syndrome (PCOS) diagnosis
- Dark, velvety rash around the armpits or neck
- History of heart disease

If you fit the screening criteria listed above, make an appointment at Clarkston Medical Group to get tested as soon as possible. It could be the first step toward preventing the development of type 2 diabetes.

Village Players raise curtain for museum

Before local theatergoers of the 1930s could enjoy an opera or other performance in downtown Clarkston, they could check out local advertisements hand painted on the canvas curtain.

So can theater fans today, thanks to a donation by Clarkston Village Players to the Clarkston Community Historical Society and Heritage Museum.

"Now, the Clarkston opera curtain has a new home, where she can be given the attention and care she deserves," said Sara Sanger, president of Clarkston Village Players.

The curtain, with advertisements promoting local businesses circa the 1930s, opened and closed the 40-foot-high stage on the opera house in the Maccabee Temple's second story.

Residents Guy Walter and Ralph Jossman managed the opera house, bringing in plays and readings, hosting roller skating parties and recruiting bands from throughout Michigan to perform at community dances.

In the winter, the Redpath Lyceum Bureau of Chicago offered a series of shows – vaudeville medicine shows, plays, and musicals – with tickets $3 per person. Though many performances sold out, if they didn't cover expenses, Walter and Jossman were known to make up the difference, helping to keep the opera house afloat.

When the opera house closed, and eventually dismantled in 1969 to make way for apartments, the curtain found a new home with the Clarkston Village Players, where for years it graced their own stage at the former Clarkston train station.

CVP, which was founded in 1961, acquired the curtain shortly after they moved into the former Clarkston train depot in 1962.

Curtain set for display in 2016

opera curtain for many years, mainly for their melodramas like Dirty Work at the Crossroads, Deadwood Dick and Love Rides the Rails, or Will the Mail-Train Run Tonight.

In the early days, the curtain was heralded as "the reigning queen of the entire building." However, as years went by and fewer melodramas were performed, the opera curtain was relegated to storage.

CVP's Board of Directors recently agreed to donate the curtain to the Clarkston Community Historical Society's Heritage Museum.

The curtain was officially presented to CCHS on Nov. 9. The Heritage Museum has plans to display the curtain in early 2016.
