City budget approved

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

City Manager Jonathan Smith prepared a proposal for the June 11 City Council meeting, specifying how $18,000 for administration included in this year's budget would be spent.

It would include merit-based raises for employees; six more hours for the city manager, raising him from 30 to 36 hours per week; and making the department's unpaid intern into a paid, part-time employee. After discussion, city attorney Thomas Ryan recommended the city approve the budget plan as presented and determine specific appropriations later.

City Council accepted this recommendation, and voted unanimously, June 11, to approve the General Appropriations Act for its 2018-2019 budget. Earmarked projects in the $984,531 budget include the $18,000 for added administrative personnel; $10,000 to complete the city Master Plan; $20,000 for repair of the Village Hall building; $75,000 for road paving;

$15,000 for sidewalk repair and replacement; $7,000 for health insurance for the city's full-time DPW worker; and $18,000 for engineering and planning work, crosswalk tape, and tree removal.

General property tax was set at 11.8792 mills for city operations, which equals the city's maximum allowable millage, 12.5702, minus a 0.691 library millage reduction.

The $984,531 budget is up from the 2017-2018 budget of $955,917.

The fund balance is set to decrease from $278,990 as of June 30, 2018, to $190,097 by June 30, 2019.

The fund balance was increased from 2017 to 2018 because of postponed capital-improvement projects, said Budget Committee member Chet Pardee at the June 11 City Council meeting.

"We had things in the budget we didn't get done — projects we budgeted for," Pardee said. "We couldn't get all the work done with the hours available (in city administration) to spend what was budgeted. We need more hours."

$87M for school budget

Clarkston School Board voted unanimously, Monday night, to approve the 2018-2019 district budget, which totals $87,304,144. This is up $117,738 compared to last year's budget of $84,819,041.

Revenue from property taxes, tuition, fees, rentals, grants, donations, and other local sources is budgeted at $9,019,700, which is down $11,000 compared to last year.

Total state revenue is budgeted at $68,831,279, which is down $267,085 compared to last year. Last year's revenue included an MSPERS one-time funding of $1,054,300.

Clarkston Community Schools is projecting a loss of 150 students in the upcoming year, equaling a loss of about $1,180,000 in state funding. However, state funding is expected to increase by $240 per pupil, from $7,631 to $7,871 per student, for a total of $1,800,000.

Revenue last year also included $2,551,300 in one-time proceeds from the sale of buses, and one-time long-term bus debt issued, $4,238,400, for a total of $6,789,700.

Spending for basic programs at Clarkston schools and summer program is budgeted at $43,966,216, which is down $102,082 from last year. Spending for student services, which includes administration, human resources, technology, athletics, and other services, is budgeted at $30,299,925, which is down $3,614,872 from last year.

The estimated ending fund balance for the 2018-2019 school year is $9,233,416, which is 10.5 percent of the budget. According to the school board, the district's rainy-day fund must be at least a 10 percent of its total budget.

The fund balance for the 2017-2018 school year was $9,597,858.

Supporters call for coach reinstatement

BY BRENDA DOMINICK
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Boys JV-B Soccer Coach Herb Dula is working to get reinstated after being fired last season, with support from family and friends.

"I have seen many people come up to him. Kids so excited he had coached and excited to tell him what they are doing next, saying, 'Mr. Dula, I really hope they reinstate you back,'" said Christina Dula, Herb's wife, to the Clarkston Board of Education, May 21. "Parents talk to me about when he used to do the Parks and Rec at the township, they still remember him and he's still their favorite coach."

"I feel Mr. Dula has been very unfairly treated in this situation because the situation did not deal with JV-B Soccer at all," said DeAnn Quilliams, mother of a Clarkston soccer player. "I'm just giving my support to Mr. Dula. I really feel his job as JV-B coach should be reinstated."

School officials declined to comment, saying it is a private personnel matter.

Quilliams said her understanding was Coach Dula's termination resulted from a disagreement with the coach on the sidelines of a varsity game last fall.

She said Dula is an upstanding person who should be given a second chance. She said other parents she has spoken with saw him as a good role model and a good coach.

"When I heard he was fired, I was shocked," Quilliams said. "It sounded like it had not been really looked into a whole lot. I think you need to look into it before it's just a drastic, 'No, you're fired.'"

"(I'm) also in support of Mr. Dula," said David Gray, another parent at the meeting. "I feel Mr. Dula has been the one honest coach within the soccer program. He has been unfairly treated and I'm here to support him."

Dula's case is under consideration by the school board.

Deer Lake Beach needs facelift, officials say

BY BRENDA DOMINICK
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After decades of erosion, families are finding less Deer Lake Beach to enjoy.

"For many years we have managed the Deer Lake Beach facility, and over the course of time, because of the way the wind blows and our increasingly hard winters, the beach has slowly deteriorated," said Parks and Rec Director Derek Smith at the June 12 Independence Township Board meeting. "Most of the sand material from the beach has traveled under the road to Middle Lake on what would be the south side of the road."

Smith worked with Hubbell, Roth & Clark Vice President Jamie Burton to figure out what measures are needed to restore the beach, stop the erosion, and determine costs.

"Per the DEQ, we are not allowed to add material to any inland water to grow the beach back to its original shape," Smith said. "But, what we can do is put in a series of restoration options that over time will help the lake, rebuild the beach naturally on its own."

Burton presented slides on the layout, critical areas to be restored, and proposed repairs to the beach off White Lake Road north of Dixie Highway, on the south end of the lake.

"Prevailing winds and prevailing currents, drive a lot of sand material up against this beach," he said. "It's in one of those spots on the lake that is just going to naturally get sand on the launch, and then it moves and kind of takes the beach away with it as well as the outlet."

Burton said he got an MDEQ permit for the area, which is valid for five years. Dredging of the launch began this year, but the problem builds up over time and partial work can be done as needed.

"Some of these might even be able to be done in house," said Burton. "There's some volunteer possible options as well."

The restoration project includes maintenance dredging to remove accumulated sediment of existing launch; construct infiltration trench with outlet to existing channel; construct a pilot groin, an erosion control device made of rocks or concrete, at existing channel; and shoreline stabilization and restoration.

"The estimated costs broken down per section is about $120,000," he said. "We try to lay this all out if you did it all at once kind of perspective. There are pieces to this that you could do over time."

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality's Water Resources Division protects and monitors Michigan's waters by establishing water quality standards, assessing the health of aquatic communities, issuing permits to regulate wastewater dischargers, and overseeing aquatic invasive species concerns and significant water withdrawals. It also processes permit applications and provides technical assistance to local soil erosion and sedimentation control programs as well as activities like dredging or filling water bodies; constructing or dismantling dams; constructing marinas, seawalls, or docks; building in a designated critical sand dune, wetland, or floodplain; and protecting underwater shipwreck resources.

Briefly

Stop on Holcomb

City Council is looking into installing a three-way stop and pedestrian crossing at Holcomb Road and Surrey Lane, to the west of downtown.

City council previously discussed a four- or three-way stop at Holcomb and W. Washington Street to help slow traffic heading north and south on Holcomb. However, the Road Commission for Oakland County controls the south half of the intersection and has opposed installing a stop sign there.

The Holcomb and Surrey intersection, just to the north of W. Washington Street, is within the city's traffic-control jurisdiction.

City attorney Thomas Ryan will consult with the Oakland County Sheriff's Office and prepare a traffic control order for the council to consider at a future meeting.

Clarkston Birders

Mike Dougherty, North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy board member and photographer, and Shannon Steel, associate executive director, will discuss NOHLC's efforts to preserve natural places at the June 27 meeting of the Clarkston-area Backyard Birders Club.

"Our Birders Club shares many common interests with NOHLC," said Bob McGowan, founder and president.

The club will meet at 7 p.m. at The Gateway in Clarkston.

Historic-district hearing goes against city

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

An administrative law judge ruled in favor of a downtown developer against the city.

Administrative Law Judge Peter L. Plummer issued a Proposal for Decision recommendation, June 8, to overturn the city Historic District Commission's decisions against proposed development of 42 W. Washington Street.

"I find that the Clarkston HDC's decision denying petitioner's application for a Certificate of Appropriateness was contrary to the statutes, ordinances and required processes -- and, therefore, arbitrary, capricious and an abuse of discretion," Plummer wrote in his opinion.

City Council can file an exception to the Proposal for Decision with the Michigan Administrative Hearing System within 21 days.

The HDC met on June 12 and vote 4-1 to recommend challenging the judge's opinion, said HDC member Cory Johnston.

"I voted against the action as I agree with the opinion," Johnston said. "That opinion agrees with my vote and statements made originally in August of 2017 when the demolition was denied."

The case stems from an HDC vote on Aug. 29, 2017, to deny the Certificate of Appropriateness requested by Lehman Investment Company, which owns the Clarkston Mills on W. Washington Street and includes downtown developers Ed Adler and Robert Roth.

Lehman applied for the certificate in order to demolish the house at 42 W. Washington, just to the west of the Mills building.

HDC said the demolition and resulting open space would "negatively affect the character of the historic district and in particular adjacent historic resources." Also, the owners did not submit a plan for redevelopment, so the commission "had no way to determine whether future proposed new construction on this lot would meet the standards."

The house is more than 50 years old and could be worth reconsidering as a historic resource "as recording an important place and time within the community," according to the HDC at the time.

The owners appealed the decision to the State Historic Preservation Office on Oct. 26, 2017, saying the HDC was inconsistent in its decisions -- in 2004, the commission approved demolition of a home built in 1957 on Waldon Road. Also, the W. Washington house was built in 1953 and includes a residential structure and garage, both cinder-block construction, with "no redeeming historical structure or architectural features," they said.

Judge Plummer agreed with the property owners, and said HDC does not have the authority under statute to deny the certificate based on what may become a historic resource in the future, nor for the other reasons it stated.

"The evidence we presented demonstrate Mr. Adler has always taken care of his properties," said John D. Mulvihill, Adler's attorney. "He develops property for the good of the city."

The Proposal for Decision recommends HDC set aside its decision and issue the certificate of appropriateness, "granting permission to demolish the vacant residence and outbuildings owned by Lehman Investment Co."

The case represents one of several issues Lehman has with the city. The city also rejected a rezoning request for 42 W. Washington, and issued a work-stop-order on a tree-clearing project at M-15 and Waldon Road, Mulvihill said.

Adler and Lehman Investment Company applied for the rezoning from residential to commercial. City Council voted on May 22, 2017, to deny the rezoning request. Reasons included zoning ordinance standards were not satisfied, the Planning Commission recommended against it, Master Plan is against non-residential intrusions into residential areas, preserve property values, the plan was incompatible with adjacent residential areas, a petition against rezoning was signed by every adjacent property owner, the Mill Pond serves as a natural dividing line, and there was already sufficient commercially zoned property in the city.

EPA Begins Review of Springfield Township Dump Superfund Site Davisburg, Michigan

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is conducting a five-year review of the Springfield Township Dump site located at 12955 Shindler Road, three miles south of Davisburg, Mich. The Superfund law requires regular checkups of sites that have been cleaned up -- with waste managed on-site -- to make sure the cleanup continues to protect people and the environment. This is the fourth five-year review of this site.

The cleanup began at the in 1990 and included the excavation and incineration of contaminated surface soil, vapor extraction of the volatile compounds contaminating subsurface soil, excavation and solidification of soil contaminated with metals and incinerator ash, and extraction and treatment of contaminated groundwater. A soil cover was placed over the treated area and grass was replanted.

More information is available at cumulis.epa.gov/supercpad/cursites/csitinfo.cfm?502769. The review should be completed in February 2019.

Birthday bash

I'll be celebrating my birthday on Friday in town this year. I've been going south for a summer break the past few years to visit family in Alabama.

It was getting to be routine, heading down to Huntsville and spending Father's Day with my dad and brother, my June 22 birthday with family, then Hamacon, a local anime convention they hold around this time every year at their local convention center.

I visited earlier this year, in late May for a few days. My nieces and nephews were confused, thinking the convention was arriving early this year, or something.

Hamacon usually does have quite a bit to do with my timing. They're not a big convention but they've been able to bring in celebrity guests in the voice-over industry I've been looking to see.

June 22 has a decent historical background, beyond my birth. June 22, 1941, was when Nazi Germany invaded the Soviet Union in Operation Barbarossa. Judy Garland passed away the day I was born, June 22, 1969.

I knew since I was about 10 years old I shared my summer birthday with Lindsay Wagner, TV's Bionic Woman from the '70s. A quick Google check showed many more celebs than I realized did as well - Meryl Streep; Sen. Elizabeth Warren; Graham Greene, from "Dances with Wolves"; singer Cyndi Lauper; Freddie Prinze; Tim Russ, the Vulcan Tuvok on "Star Trek Voyager"; Bruce Campbell of "The Evil Dead"; Erin Brockovich, attorney and environmentalist; actress Amy Brenneman; author Dan Brown; film director Uwe Boll; Carson Daly. We all had to make do without birthday treats on a school day, or else a mass birthday celebration with the other summer kids in the class.

Staying home this year should help when the Fourth of July comes in a couple weeks. Homecooking, holiday celebrations, and conventions tended to add quite a bit to the scale. No one-week crash diet this year to fit into my old Army uniform for the parade.

Also no big milestone plans this year. It's my 49th, so maybe something big next year for my half century. I'll be making my own cake for the office, though. Come in for a slice if you want.

CJHS spotlights local businesses

BY BRENDA DOMINICK
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Junior High School students hosted a Spotlight on Service as part of their Academic Service Learning (ASL) Project, May 24.

"Our goal as always as educators to build empathy. We want our students to connect with others. We want them to be able to recognize when someone is in need," said Radhika Issac, Academic Service Learning district coordinator. "This idea of connecting and being in someone else's shoes is very integral and important to what we do as educators."

Clarkston Community Schools partnered with 63 community partners, including The Clarkston News, to connect authentic learning and meaningful service to inspire, empower, and engage students as change agents, Issac said.

Students prepared presentations about their service learning projects and businesses rented tablespace to showcase their organizations and support within the district. One of the projects science students created was a mini ecosystem called "Bottle Biospheres." Kids created a self-sustaining system featuring two different ecosystems. Another project, "Salmon in the Classroom," educated kids on the negative effects of water pollution.

"We designed these service opportunities that address real world issues, and it makes the learning meaningful for the students," Issac said.

One of the interactive activities was the Whacking Xylophone, in which kids and other guests tapped on them with drumsticks to create some harmonic tunes. CJHS students created these musical instruments using cemented, multicolored PVC pipes to attach to wooden slats. Guests also had a chance to make sounds with some tribal drums.

Neiman's Family Market, Michigan Humane Society, Clarkston SCAMP, Children's Hospital of Michigan-DMC and many others participated to CJHS's annual Spotlight on Service celebration to also showcase their work to the public.

This year over 5,500 students in CCS engaged in the ASL project. This partnership supported 320 educators in the district to collaborate, plan and execute 50 service learning projects. CJHS gave special recognition to the businesses for their partnership with helping make Academic Service Learning possible for Clarkston Community Schools students.

Guests were asked to participate in the ASL project by writing something they learned onto a shiny star and pin it to the bulletin board for students to see afterwards.

Scholarships for graduates

Clarkston Area Optimist Club scholarships awarded four $1,000 scholarships to Clarkston students, May 30.

Andrew Dimmer, a Clarkston Junior Optimist since fourth grade, serving as a state officer, will attend Oakland University in the fall.

Shaelyn Koleber, who co-chaired a blood drive, and leukemia and lymphoma program at Clarkston High School, is going to Michigan Tech.

Justin Osborn, captain of the ski team and Eagle Scout who earned a perfect score on his ACT test, will attend the University of Michigan.

Sage Paris, who received the Henry E. Richardson scholarship in honor of the club's second president, ran track and was president of the Junior Optimist Club at Clarkston High School for two years. He was the president of the CHS National Honor Society and will attend the University of Michigan.

A 10-member Scholarship Committee reviewed 28 student applications, the second largest number of applicants received by the club, said Optimist Curt Carson.

"It was extremely difficult to make a decision," Carson said. "They were all deserving. Unfortunately, we could only give four scholarships."

Looking back on Father's Day

As one of that despots of the "older" generation who has ruined Facebook for Millennials and younger folks, this past weekend I posted a couple of pictures of my very own father, Pops Rush. And, why not, it was after all a Father's Day weekend. I got to thinking, next month — July — will mark the 22nd anniversary of my father becoming nothing more than a memory to those who knew him.

Smoking 97 packs of cigarettes a day since he was a kid, caught up to him. By the time he was 55, he was diagnosed with throat cancer. He lasted five years eating nothing but Ensure protein drinks and other adult beverages, and cutting down on the cigs to about 50 packs a day. He was "on" hospice from November until his body finally gave up nine months later. He was home, with Mom and his morphine for the pain. One of his last lucid comments to me, the oldest of he and Mom's four kids, and his only son, namesake (though, not a junior) was this, "One of the worst things about this is I forgot my memory."

He lived just a couple months after his 60th birthday.

On Sunday morning, Father's Day, after making a post on Facebook, I quickly turned off the social media site. I didn't want to dwell on seeing my father's smiling face and thinking about still missing him, all these years later, nor did I want my eyes to leak. And, of course, on and off throughout the day thoughts of Dad filled my head. At some point in the evening, trying to keep cool in front of a fan while the temps hovered 95 degrees I thought of my dad's words, "One of the worst things about this is I forgot my memory."

Further, I thought, "Donald, you better write down some of your memories of Dad before you forget them, and then nobody, especially your sons will have a chance to know him."

That, I concluded, would be a shame.

Like many father-son relationships, I reckon my father's and mine was quite ordinary, pedestrian even. While scribbling out thoughts for this column on my yellow, college-ruled legal pad, I drew a circle. The circle, or cycle of this father-son relationship, from the son's perspective, starts and ends with love and admiration. In between the dynamics change from hero worship to not understanding the old man, to scorning him, to that defining moment of talking man-to-man (versus know-it-all young man to older, dominant man), to understanding, friendship, respect and then, ultimately missing him, while loving and admiring him.

Most folks who knew my dad, liked him. Not many however, really knew him. Hell, I didn't really know him until a few years before he punched out of this earthly life. When I learned the secret he shared with me, my heart both cried and filled with appreciation for the man, my father, who sat before me.

While spending a year in Korea in the mid-1950s affected Dad through the rest of his life, what really molded him, I think, was something from his childhood. Dad, was the consummate American male: athletic he played sports, football, baseball, basketball, hockey, handball, softball (both fast-pitch and slow); he believed in respect and working hard. He loved history, reading and John Wayne movies. He smiled and sang Irish songs. He loved his wife, kids and country (in that order). And, he smoked and he drank.

The man he wanted everyone to see, was the one I just described. But, what folks didn't know was the pain and shame he kept inside him. Once he shared with me, that shared-knowledge explained a lot.

I had done a story about child sexual abuse. It was a long, two-part series. One evening, Dad and I were at his favorite watering-hole, the Clarkston Eagles club. He wasn't sitting at "his" stool at the bar, which was unusual. He sat a table, in the dark. When I saw him, he waved me over. I sat down across from him. "About what you wrote," he always critiqued everything I wrote for the paper, so this conversation started like many, many others before. "It was a good article. It might help some people."

He paused a long pause and then looked at me. "And, it happened to me. I haven't told anybody this."

That was it. That's all he said. I didn't pry. I didn't cry. I just said, "Thank you."

Knowing the cycle of abuse (sometimes the abused become the abusers when they grow up), things started lining up in my mind. This explained why dad was uber competitive, macho, athletic — he needed to prove to himself who he was. This was why he super protective of his kids. This explained drinking and drinking and drinking. I think at that moment, though I didn't think it was possible, I loved him more than before. He fought his battles, and maybe he didn't win the war, neither did he lose.

Despite his faults, his wife loved him and his children loved him, even to this day with plenty of time to have ruminated on the subject. I think that is all he really wanted. Unfortunately, I am not sure he loved himself, though I sure hope he did — at least at the end.

While there are many conversations and movies in my head revolving around Dad (and I should write those down somewhere before I forget them, too) a couple of the best things he said to me, his only son were:

1. It's okay to cry.

2. The best things to have happened in my life was meeting and marrying your mother and the opportunity to be your guys' father.

3. I love you.

STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTY OF OAKLAND CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE NORTH SASHABAW ROAD SANITARY SEWER SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Date: Tuesday, July 10, 2018
Time: 6:00 p.m.
Place: Township Hall
6483 Waldon
Independence Township, MI

The Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence ("Township") has received a petition requesting a special assessment district for the construction and installation of a 10-inch sanitary sewer on the west side of Sashabaw Road beginning approximately at 7373 Sashabaw Road and extending approximately 1,826 feet south toward Flemings Lake Road, where it will connect to an existing 10-inch sanitary sewer (the "Sanitary Sewer Improvement Project"). Having received such petition from the record owners of land constituting more than 50% of the total area, and based upon the request in that petition, the Township Board has tentatively declared its intent to proceed with the sanitary sewer line extension and has tentatively decided to establish a special assessment district to defray a portion of the costs of such improvements by special assessment against the benefited properties. The improvements are intended to provide special benefits to the properties identified on the attachment to this Notice, which properties together tentatively constitute the "Special Assessment District." The petitions, cost estimate and design plans are on file and available for public inspection at the Township Clerk's Office, which is located at 6483 Waldon Center Drive, Independence Township, Michigan.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that at the above time, date and location, the Township Board of Trustees shall meet for the purpose of hearing statements and objections by any interested person with respect to the proposed Road Maintenance Project and the proposed Special Assessment District.

Appearance and protest at the hearing is required in order to appeal the matters to be considered at the hearing to the State Tax Tribunal. An owner or party in interest, or his or her agent, may appear in person at the hearing to protest, or shall be permitted to file his or her appearance or protest by letter at or before the hearing and his or her personal appearance in such case shall not be required.

Season ends in top 8

BY WENDI REARDON PRICE
Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Wolves trip to the state finals was halted in the seventh inning against Hartland in the MHSAA Division 1 Softball Quarterfinals on June 12.

The Clarkston Varsity Softball team led going into the bottom of the final inning before the Eagles scored three runs to win, 3-2.

"The girls played really good for six innings," said Don Peters, head coach. "The level of play was really good. Then, we just had a bad inning. I am proud of them. They battled every minute for the 42 games we played this year. They have great attitudes and they stayed in that game. Hartland made some plays and got the better of us."

Clarkston opened the game with a run in the top of the first inning and then had another run in the sixth inning.

Paige Blevins and Hannah Chadwell each had one RBI. Olivia Warrington pitched for 6.1 innings and had nine strikeouts.

Being in the Elite Eight for the second consecutive year will help the returners for next year.

"It's big," said Peters. "The more you experience, the more focused the play and more able to close it out. When they are that close it's going to be in the back of their minds, maybe dig down a little bit deeper, and close it out. The more experience you have with that the more mentally you can prepare, the more physically you can prepare, and all those kind of things."

He added that's the upside of losing, players work a little bit harder, smarter and are more prepared for the same kind of situations.

"These girls will do that - you can't outwork them," Peters said.

The Wolves finished the season with an overall record of 39-3 and being ranked No. 1 in the state for Division 1.

"It's amazing," said Peters. "We played tough competition and tough games. More than not, came out on top. We grew as a team. Our individuals grew. They became better players. All 16 girls gelled - I am prouder of that than the record. They played together as a team."

The girls not only played together as a team but they also had fun. Either on the field dancing before an inning or cheering in the dugout during hitting as they supported each other.

"When they work out, practice or when they play, they have a lot of fun," Peters smiled. "It's been a great experience for me as a coach because they just enjoy each other. They enjoy the game. It might seem corny but they like representing Clarkston sports especially Clarkston female sports."

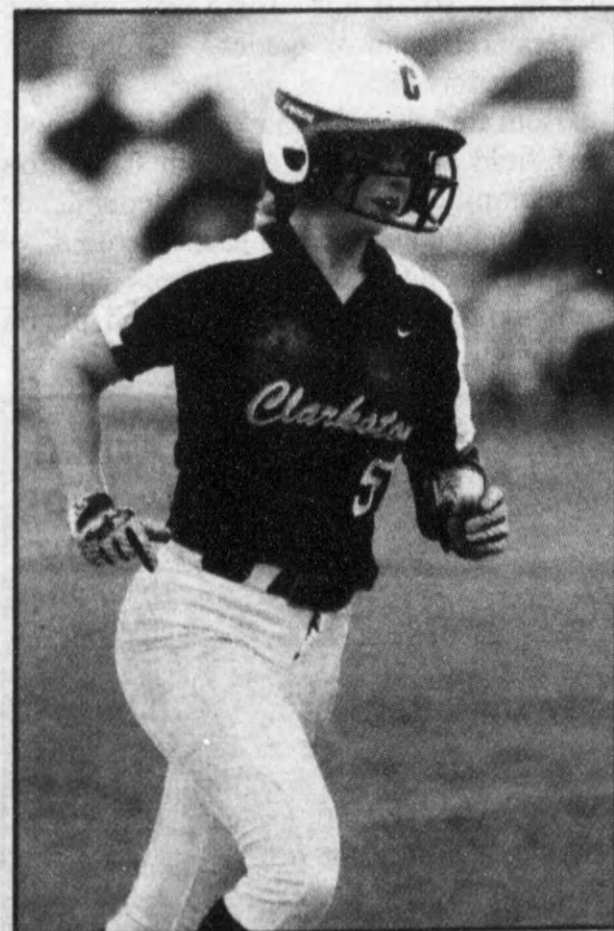

He added he tips his hat off to captains Hannah Cady, Chadwell and Blevins.

"They just became better and better leaders as the season progressed. They actually were outstanding leaders and kept the chemistry together which is something special. One of the things I reflect back on as a coach is really how much they grew as individuals in their roles as leaders and how well they worked," Peters said.

The team graduated three seniors - Blevins, Chadwell and Olivia Gilmore.

Peters added the three grew during their four years and it helped for the others to see it.

"The girls got to see as they grow as a player and as a leader, how you grow the softball intelligence and saw their work ethic. They are just a great example," he said. "Olivia wasn't a captain but she led anyways. She has such a neat and pleasant personality. She motivated in her own way. You don't have to have a 'C' next to your name to be a leader."

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK Senior athletes

Kayla Luchenbach and Foster Loyer were named Senior Athletes before graduating from Clarkston High School.

Both have left their mark on the basketball programs.

Luchenbach joined the Clarkston Girls Varsity Basketball team in her freshman year.

Throughout the four years she hit many achievements, one was hitting her 1,000-point milestone during the Chad Tough charity game against Stoney Creek.

"It felt really good knowing I have had such a successful four years," she said.

During her final year, Luchenbach and her teammates made it to the Elite Eight as they won the third regional title in the program's history.

A few accolades she received at the end of her senior year included being named to Basketball Coaches of Michigan Best All-State team, 2017-2018 All-Metro Girls Basketball team, and 2018 Associated Press Class A All-State Second Team.

Luchenbach also played for the Clarkston Varsity Volleyball team.

Clarkston fans can continue to watch her play basketball as she heads to Oakland University.

Her parents are Steve and Nancy.

Loyer was also a freshman when he joined the Clarkston Boys Basketball team.

He and his teammates led the Wolves to not only one but two MHSAA Class A Boys Basketball State Championship titles.

"What he has done for this program, what he has done going about business, they don't come around like him very often," said Dan Fife, long-time head coach.

Loyer received 3,691 votes from members of the BCAM to win the 38th Hal Schram Mr. Basketball.

"It's an honor just to be recognized with the group of guys who have previously won it," Loyer said. "It's an honor to see all my hard work paying off."

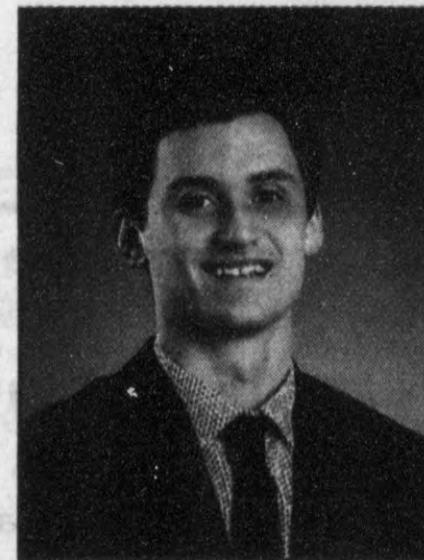

Loyer finished his high school career with 2,323 points for most points scored in the boys' program. He also scored the most field goals for a total of 272 for first place in Clarkston's scorebooks while also putting himself in the state books as well.

A few accolades Loyer received during his senior year were BCAM Best of the Best and Detroit Free Press Male Athlete of the Year. Wolves fans can watch Loyer in action as he makes his mark with Michigan State University. His parents are John and Katie.

Fundamentals on the field

BY WENDI REARDON PRICE
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Players in the Beginner Coed Lacrosse Camp practiced their trick shots last Wednesday during the last day.

On the other side of the field at Clarkston High School, players in the experienced camp worked on their skills getting possession of the ball at faceoff.

"We are working on fundamentals," said Brian Kaminkas, head coach for Clarkston Boys Varsity Lacrosse. "We found there is so much eagerness to play all summer. When we were growing up doing sports, there was teaching. You would go to wherever and have a three day camp, and you would learn the game. We have turned that around and we are working on being a better lacrosse player as opposed to just playing."

They honed their skills in dodging, shooting, passing, scooping and learned tidbits from current and past Clarkston lacrosse players and collegiate players.

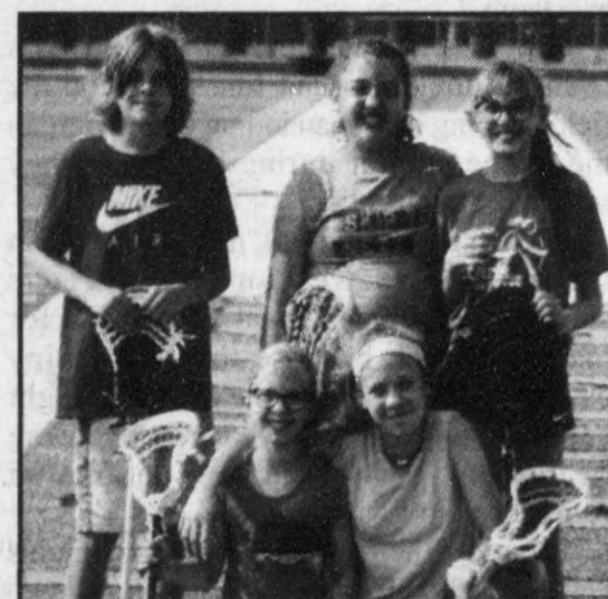

Kaminkas added the camps help players already participating in Little Laxers and in middle school teams.

"It gives us a chance to get in there and refine some of their habits and maybe change some of their habits," he said. "If they have the fundamentals down, then add twist to it so they can take a step forward."

Beginner Coed and Experience Coed Lacrosse Camps are offered again July 9-11, with the beginner camp, for grades 2-8, from 9 a.m. - 10:30 a.m. for $130; and the experienced camp, for grades 3-8, from 9 a.m. - 12 p.m. for $185.

Both are held at the Clarkston High School turf field and offered through Clarkston Community Education and Independence Township Parks, Recreation and Seniors.

For more information or to check out more camps and summer activities offered, please visit www.itpr.org.

Learning skills on the court

Young cagers started summer vacation on the courts during Dare to Dream Basketball Camp last week.

Girls in grades third through ninth had stations for passing drills, rebounding drills, ballhandling drills, shooting, defense, pivoting, one-on-one skills and scoring.

The campers would play two short games after each station so they could use the skills they just worked on.

"It is great," said Ryan Kaul, camp director, adding they had just over 70 girls participating this year with the highest number in sixth and seventh grades.

"It was really positive to see girls at that age to be the majority in the camp," he added.

The campers also learned from current Wolves playing on the high school level and some who just graduated and are off to college in the fall.

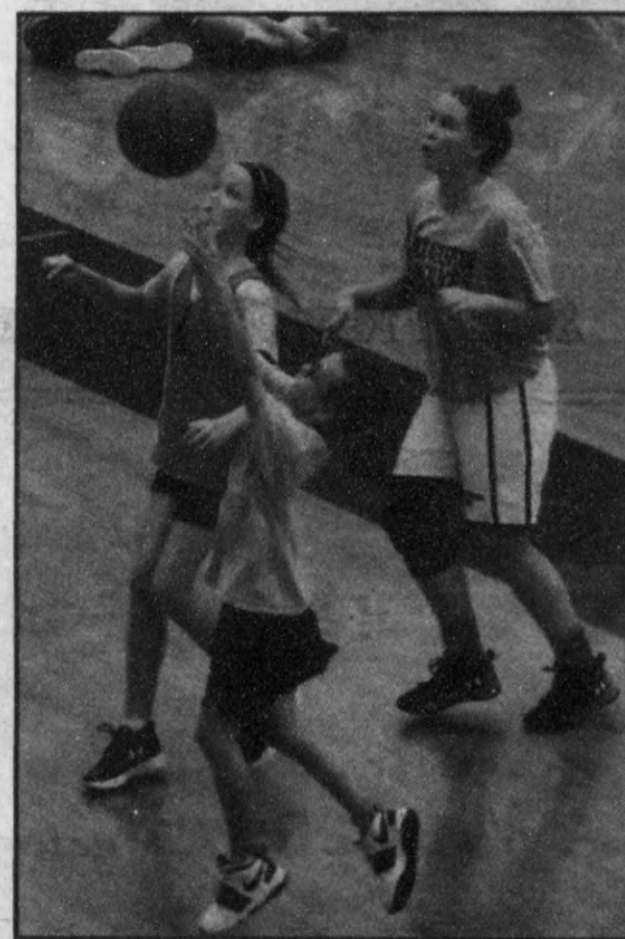

"Kayla Luchenbach came back who has been at the camp for years," Kaul said. "The girls look up to her. Then, you see the varsity girls who work and those are the girls they idolize. They want to work to be those players. They say, 'after a few years I want to be on varsity. I want to come back and work the camp.' They are building a relationship with the girls right now that they will coach some maybe play with when they are older."

Campers also had the chance to meet the new varsity head coach John Weyer, who just started a few weeks ago.

Kick-off concert

The 39th Annual Concerts in the Park began June 15, with the first of six free concerts in Depot Park.

Free activities included face painting, balloon animals and rock painting. Concessions were provided by Independence Township Parks, Recreation and Seniors and Cook's Dairy Farm. The band featured for the first week was The Locals, who played classic country tunes for the crowd to enjoy.

Some residents in attendance included Don and Hannah Herbert who attend the concerts every year; and Marc and Rochelle Spindler, celebrating their 23rd anniversary as they attended the event for the first time.

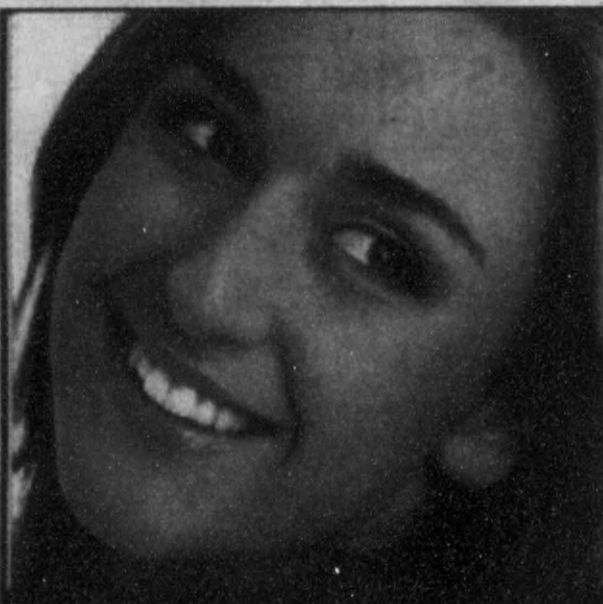

The evening was filled with laughter, good music and the sense that summer is finally here.

Summer soakers

Water games were the favorites of Bailey Lake Elementary students during their field day, June 6.

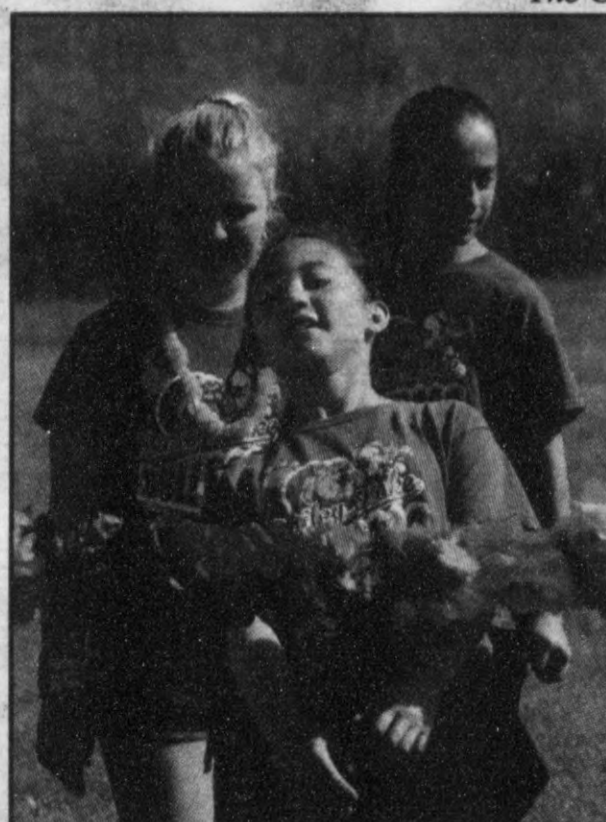

One of the favorites was a version of Duck, Duck, Goose with a student tipping a little bit of water on their classmates while walking around the circle. Then, they pour the rest of the water on their target before the chase is on. The Bulldogs finished school on June 8. Have a great summer!

Ginger Robinson, Hannah Berndt and Cara Parker go low in limbo.

Zac Atteberry and Andrew Swanson.

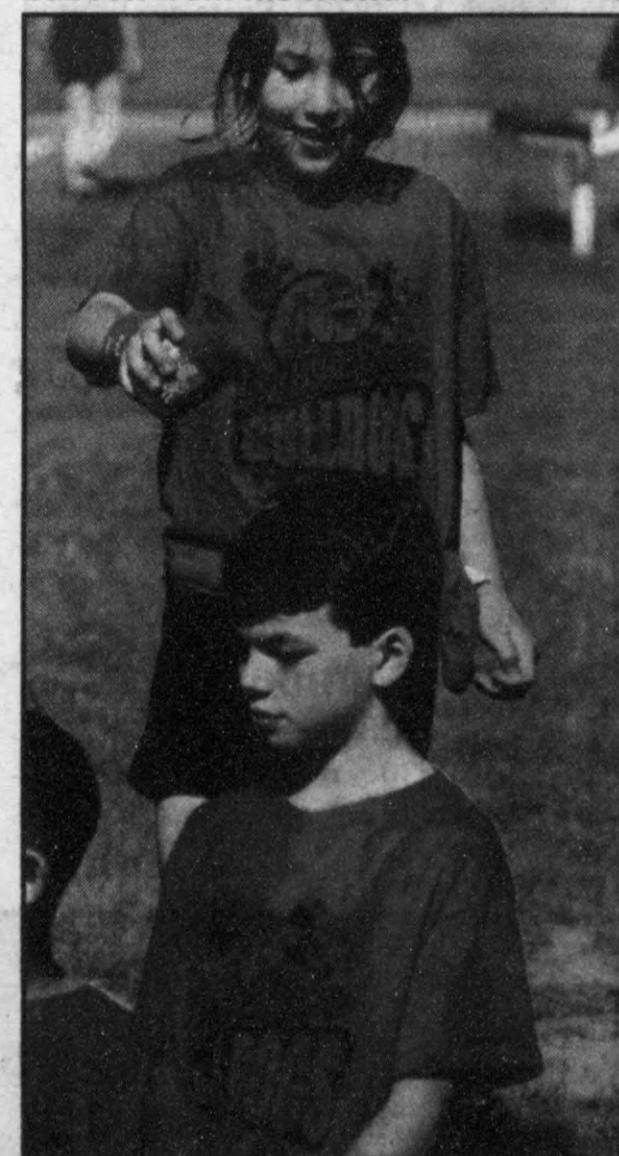

Emily Walker runs with a full cup of water as she helps her teammates fill an empty container in a game.

Tyler Niemi reaches to catch a water balloon from his friend.

Belle Maynor, Alivia Dekellata, Nikoletta Simmons, Simra Kahn and Scarlett Sloan reach for the pool noodles before they fall to the ground. Photos by Wendi Reardon Price

Belle Maynor lets a little bit of water run on Luke Walker's head before selecting her target in Duck, Duck, Goose.

Public Safety

For Clarkston and Independence Township

Assault

A 27-year-old Pontiac man was cited with assault and battery after getting into an altercation with a 24-year-old Waterford man at a residence in the 5000 block of Parview Drive, 12:09 p.m., June 4. The 24-year-old said the Pontiac man picked him up by the arms, and had faint scratches on his sides. The 27-year-old said he never put his hands on the Waterford man.

Window smashed

A Novi resident found the passenger side window of her van smashed out while it was parked in the 6000 block of White Lake Road, 6:20 p.m., June 9. Inside the van were several tennis racquets and a purse. Nothing was reported taken.

Driver killed

Michigan State Police are investigating a fatal crash, June 13. An Auburn Hills police officer tried to pull over a suspected drunk driver near Baldwin Road at around 3:30 a.m. The driver fled, driving northbound on I-75 and crashing near Sashabaw. The driver died from injuries sustained in the crash.

Reckless driver

A 36-year-old Independence Township woman was cited with reckless driving and no driver's license, never applied, after damaging five vehicles with her car in a parking lot in the 5000 block of Sashabaw Road, 9:09 p.m., June 9. All the damaged vehicles were parked. She said she didn't know what happened, had a problem with her vehicle and it would not work right.

Suspended license

A 26-year-old Waterford woman was stopped for driving a minivan with no license plate light, 12:11 a.m., June 13, on Dixie Highway at Waterford Road. She was cited with driving with a suspended license and equipment violation for the broken light.

Distracted driving

A 58-year-old Burton woman driving a pickup truck with a broken license plate light across the yellow line twice on Clarkston Road at Clintonville Road was stopped, 3:51 a.m., June 15. She was eating a sandwich and drinking a Pepsi. She was cited for driving with an expired license and defective equipment.
