Over the finish line as state champs

BY WENDI REARDON PRICE

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Clarkston runners outpaced early predictions for a top five finish at states, instead finishing on top at the MHSAA Division 1 Cross Country State Championship at Michigan International Speedway.

The Girls Cross Country team earned first place with 134 points on Saturday. The last time the girls team won it was in 2005.

"It meant the world to this team," said Kevin Breen, head coach for the Clarkston Girls Cross Country team. "We have had so many ups and downs over the course of the year with injuries and issues. Part of the success this season was we got to the end and we were all healthy. Everyone was feeling good and feeling happy - that's when you can perform your best."

He added going into the meet projections had Clarkston ranked at finishing in second or third place.

"Then, the gun goes off and things change," Breen said. "For us it changed for the better."

Rotary helps keep Lighthouse rolling

BY PHIL CUSTODIO

Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston Rotarians and Bowman Chevrolet are keeping Lighthouse on the road, helping the local charity serve those most in need.

"After hearing Michelle Robinson and Susan Ebeling of Clarkston Lighthouse speak to our club, I decided to try to help them get a new van as their's is really in bad shape," said Rotary President Mary Sloan.

Sloan committed her $5,000 Presidential Project to Lighthouse of Oakland County, which serves Oakland County residents with emergency food, housing programs, and other services.

She then applied to the Rotary District Foundation committee for a $2,500 grant to add to the donation, which was granted, raising it to a total of $7,500.

"Jeff (Lichty, her husband) talked with Bowman Chevrolet to see if they would like to be involved as they are known to help with community projects," Sloan said.

Katie Bowman Coleman responded generously, working with them to provide two used vans to replace Lighthouse's worn-out vehicles.

"This is very exciting. It's a wonderful

Case closed on 148 N. Main environmental issue

Michigan Department of Environmental Quality closed the case on 148 North Main in Clarkston.

The closure report on the former muffler shop, written by MDEQ Project Manager Terri Golla and submitted on May 29, found corrective efforts to be satisfactory, with "no demonstrable long-term threats to human health, safety, or sensitive environmental receptors."

State environmental law required an audit be complete within 90 days or the report would be considered approved. No audit was requested, and the report was considered final as of Oct. 1.

According to MDEQ, 148 N. Main has been an automotive related business since around 1920. In 1991, MDEQ found four underground tanks leaking gasoline. Two were installed in 1951, and the others in 1972.

The DEQ found a plume of pollution around the property in 2015, when it was being considered for use as a coffee shop.

The report was based on findings showing the residual contamination was shrinking due to natural biodegradation, aided by property owners' remedial actions and the coarse-grained sandy soils in the area.

The property is currently occupied by Morgan's Auto Repair.

The report means no further monitoring is required, but property owner Curt Catallo has no immediate plan to abandon the existing monitoring wells, said Neil Wallace, Catallo's attorney.

"For now they will be available for future monitoring to confirm the plume continues to shrink," Wallace said. "The deed holder and his consulting firm have worked hard to get us to this point. My client acquired control of this property fully aware of this problem and convinced from the experts that the development it wanted to do could be done without disturbing this ever-shrinking plume."

Learning by doing

BY KIRSTEN ISBELL
Clarkston News Intern Writer

At Clarkston Junior High School, students learn by doing in their Project Based Learning class (PBL).

"It is a great opportunity for the kids. It is pretty authentic in what they are doing," said Joe Simony, history teacher. "The engagement level we see is really incredible. I am always blown away when we do a project in the class for where expectations are and where the students take it - its open ended."

The first unit this year in the PBL class was the importance of teamwork. Students worked together to build a paper airplane and compete against other groups.

Students then played Jenga, but with questions written on the blocks. Students had to answer the questions as they pulled each block out, so people in the group could get to know each other better.

A history project was Colonial Putt Putt and the students built their own putt putt golf hole based on one of the 13 colonies.

They had to incorporate what they learned about their colonies into the holes and figure out what they wanted the hole to show, Simony said.

"Groups designed their holes in a way to show features of land their colony represented," he said. "By looking that the hole, it should be obvious which colony it is."

The program started three years ago at the junior high as a pilot class with ten students. Last year, it included 60 eighth- and ninth-grade students.

The students are grouped together into two-hour blocks, learning English Language Arts (ELA) and history.

"PBL is just a different technique to learn the same curriculum," said Susan Joseph, resource room teacher. "What I have found with it though is students start out at the beginning really nervous. They have to do a lot of presentations. Half way through the year, they are able to stand up and present to everyone there. We try to connect what is going on in the class with real world activities. We usually follow a criteria."

The students' next project is poetry slam for ELA. Students are writing poems about different topics to prepare.

The next step is writing about the American Revolutionary War. They will choose a historical figure and tell their story through slam poetry.

Renewed Calvary church ready to serve

BY PHIL CUSTODIO
Clarkston News Editor

After more than a year of work, Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church has about doubled in size, adding 10,000 square feet onto 10,000 square feet of renovated space.

"It's been a long haul," said Senior Pastor Jonathan Heierman. "Now, we can have fellowship, community meetings, luncheons, awards, multiple things at the same time. It expands what we can do. It's amazing to me, to go from being so cramped to being able to breathe."

The renovation project will help make them a beacon of hope for the community, Heierman said.

"The goal is to create a caring community, to meet the needs of the community," said Kate Zywicki, associate pastor.

The biggest addition is an open, multipurpose room with a 35-foot-high ceiling, which can be set up for youth ministry classes, theatrical presentations, large and small community group meetings, sports, and other activities.

"It's a place for our youth ministry, for whatever may be needed," Heierman said.

Plans also include provisions for emergency housing with showers, in case of power outages, or severe cold or heat, he said.

Renovation work includes more open spaces and new offices, designed with an emphasis on gathering, collaboration, and creativity. The building has been renovated and added to several times, but this is the first completely integrated project, he said.

"The offices used to be a maze. Now it is much more efficient," Heierman said. "We looked at how it works together to make sense, make it more logical. We threw out all preconceptions and came up with a great plan with a great architect. It was worth waiting for, an incredible gift to the community."

The former nursery room was renovated into an open coffee center. An expanded music room and offices will hopefully include a place to train aspiring musicians to play in a band, said Keith VanGood, music director.

"A place where you can learn to play guitar, sing in a controlled area, how to play on Sunday morning in front of a crowd," VanGood said. "We're excited about that."

The former church fellowship hall was completely renovated into a dedicated space for fellowship, life ministries, moms' groups with their children, men's groups, and other activities, expanding from 75- to 250-person capacity.

Ideas for the new and renovated spaces include job training, resume writing, senior fitness, co-op preschool, scout troops, and workshops and trainings with local schools. Outside, they can host group leadership training at the church's low-ropes course.

"We've been waiting for this build to happen for a while," said Terri Miller, church ministry director. "Now is the time, there's so much energy. It's exciting."

They're looking to identify and invite more groups helping people deal with anxiety, dependency, and other issues, to make the church a place of healing and health, Heierman said.

"Listen to what is going on the community and provide a safe place to meet," he said. "We hope to become a place of gathering, a fun, welcoming area for everybody. We asked a lot of 'why' questions. Why do this? Why expand. It's because you matter, all God's people."

The community is invited to a ribbon cutting ceremony on Wednesday, Nov. 14, 4:30 p.m., at the church, 6805 Bluegrass Drive, for tours, and cider and donuts.

"A time for us to show the community the space and how it can be shared, what we do and what we can do," Heierman said. "We invite people to take a look and dream how to utilize it for the community, grow, and serve the community."

Wendi's Word

A column by Wendi Price

Words for November

I couldn't take the political ads anymore as I sat in the parking lot while our toddler slept in the back seat last Friday at Al Deeby. I pushed play on the CD and didn't think anything about it again.

My husband drove off in my vehicle and I drove off in the fixed lease. He called not even ten minutes later and left a message. The CD was playing in the background.

WNIC has started Christmas music, he said, and I instantly called him. Eep! I had left the CD playing.

"Did you get my message?"

"I did," I said, then explained the radio station usually set in my Saturn Vue had not started their holiday play list yet. It was my Michael Buble Christmas CD. I had started playing it on Nov. 1 and actually it was in the vehicle all the time.

I pushed forward the beginning of the holiday music and I admitted to him I couldn't listen to the political ads anymore.

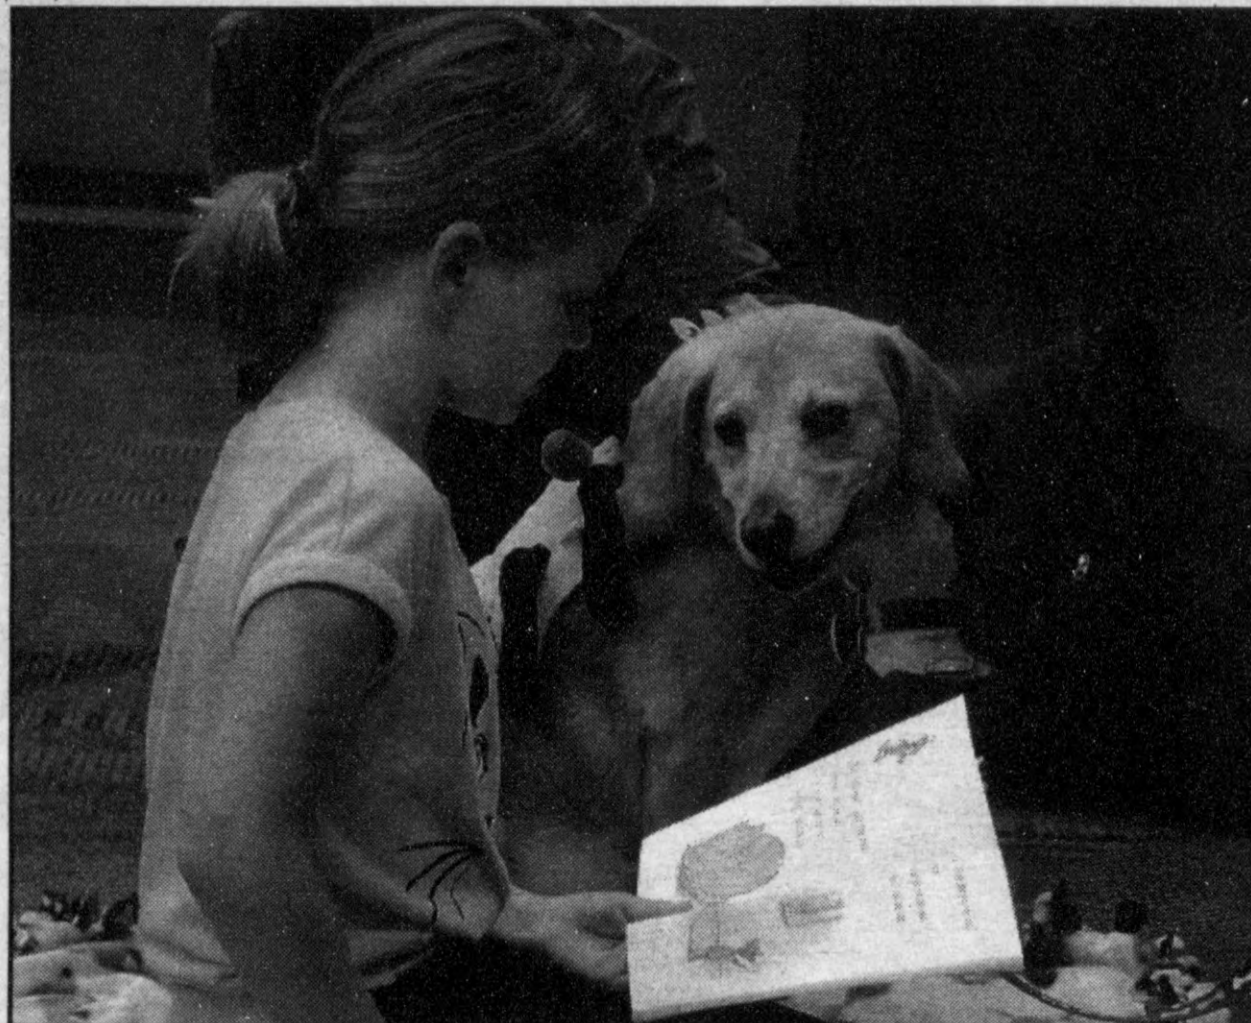

It is November, no denying it with the ads increasing every moment as election day neared, the arrival of everything Christmas and for some National Novel Writing Month. Ah, sweet November, with the big goal of writing 50,000 words in 30 days for many writers.

I thought about starting a new project this year - adventures of a toddler? They are fun, aren't they? The curious mind, the interesting things they do and say like holding their little hand up and a vocalizing firm "no, mama" (fine but I am still going to sing in the vehicle.)

I circled back to my NaNoWriMo novel from 2010, my first completed project, for this year. Though I did write 50,000 words it was not completed.

Every new year I begin with a goal to finish it, edit it and then see what comes next. Plus, my NaNoWriMo project near the end of 2010 is a mess editing wise. I wrote close to 30,000 words in the last five days. It's not too late to join, go to www.NaNoWriMo.org. I know 50,000 words seems like a lot but any words written is a huge accomplishment. Think of it as very detailed outline - it's what I tell newbies when their eyes get wide with the look of fear they won't make it.

If you have Friday nights free, the Flint region has write-ins at Starbucks off Sashabaw Road, beginning at 6 p.m. Look for the laptops with NaNoWriMo stickers!

Telling tales with tailed support

Dogs are good listeners, as kids well know at the monthly Read to Paws activity at Clarkston Independence District Library.

About 18-24 kids attend the program to read out loud to a friendly, non-judgmental furry friend in a relaxing atmosphere, said Jamie Klos, youth services librarian.

"It improves their reading and helps the dogs, too," Klos said. "It's amazing how many things this program can help."

Offered on the third Saturday of the month at 10:30 a.m., the next will be on Nov. 17. Registration is required at the library, 6495 Clarkston Road. Call 248-625-2212.

You say circadian I say cicadian, let's call it off

Gosh, I don't know about you, but I feel pretty darned good .. as of Monday morning when I am typing this. I think that whole, "turn back your clocks" thing is a wonderful idea and I wholeheartedly would concur with any proposal to turn back our clocks, not once, but twice a year.

Last week at this time I was tired. I feel groovy, now!

Now, when we discuss the annual "spring forward" fiasco, I'm not so charitable. End that madness!

I heard something this morning on National Public Radio (NPR) about the affects of springing forward. Not that I do not trust NPR, but when I got to work, I hopped on the old information highway and looked up info on this subject. Last Friday, Caitlin Coyle of Rutgers, published this:

"Circadian rhythm regulates many important biological processes, such as hormone production and sleep patterns, and is largely controlled by external cues in the environment – mainly light.

"Changing sleep-wake cycles by an hour has an effect on our circadian clock. Since light is normally a key regulator of our biological clock, the change will shift the phase of our rhythm away from that of the central pacemaker. As with any phase change, this will cause disturbances in sleep, metabolism, mood, bodily functions and productivity.

"They may include feeling sleepy, listless, stressed and tired for a while. Daylight saving time-associated changes result in higher rates of automobile and workplace accidents. A few studies have even suggested a slight increase in heart attacks and stroke, probably in those already at a higher risk."

Two things.

1. The above reasons are good ones not to screw with Father Time.

2. Hmm? I always thought it was "Cicadian" rhythm — like those big, super loud tree bugs called cicadas. In my head I related to the bugs because of what we were told as kids, "they come out only every seven years" to a time cycle -- cicadian. Boy, was I wrong. Learn something new every day, so I guess it's a good day!

* * *

Interesting, because even though by biological sleep rhythms all seem to be in tune and even though I learned something new, rested and smiling, I still feel a little bit like Scrooge McRush for what I'm about to write.

Please Don't Hate Me

I know it's your birthday and you're trying to do something nice for the world and I still love you, but it's your charity, I don't want to know about it.

What am I blathering on about?

For those not enjoying the social media mega-giant Facebook, they now have this thing where members for their birthday can put out a notice that reads something like this:

"It's my birthday! For my birthday I am asking all my friends to donate to this charity (fill in the blank with your charity of choice) and I have a goal of X dollars. Thank you."

I get one or two of these requests a day.

So, back to my thoughts. I know friends and family peeps who have created a Facebook Fundraiser for your birthday, you're doing a wonderful thing. I applaud you on one hand. On the other, keep it to yourself.

The thing about charity, it is a personal choice that's done not for recognition, rather for the joy of giving. I believe you are all wonderful, charitable fine and upstanding Americans, you do not have to convince me you're awesome because you support a charity.

If you want to support a charity, do so and then deduct it from your income taxes if you are so inclined. Just don't ask me to help bankroll your favorite charity — we're still friends, right?

It's just everybody has their hands out these days. The federal government. The state, county, township, village, city, schools, nieces and nephews, kids groups, service groups, churches want my money — and now everybody is asking on a social media website, too.

I give what I can to whomever I can, because I can and I do not want to in anyway let folks know who and what I give to. I don't need a pat on the back for giving. And, now I am feeling guilty because I am not giving more.

Thank you, Facebook for this $300 million fundraising opportunity you have given us.

Is it any wonder then, why all the cool kids (aka, the younger generation) have all left Facebook?

Is the election over yet ('cuz I am already over it).

For Clarkston and Independence Township

Lost but found

An 82-year-old Springfield Township man was found confused, cold, and tired after walking away from his residence in the 9100 block of Kelly Lake Drive, Oct. 27. The subject, who had been diagnosed with dementia, walked away from his residence at about 12:30 p.m. Deputies were called and established a perimeter. They were able to determine a last known direction of travel from viewing a neighbor's home security camera system. Two sheriff's K-9 and aviation units assisted in the search. The Sheriff's Operation Center received a 9-1-1 call reporting a suspicious person near the 8700 block of Oak Hill Road in Groveland Township. The helicopter unit located the subject and advised deputies, who confirmed it was him. The subject was returned to his residence and reunited with family members. Springfield Township paramedics arrived on scene to assess the subject's medical condition, and he was transported to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac for further medical evaluation.

Invalid plate

A records' check on a truck with tinted windows on the front door showed the license plate on its trailer was invalid, and it was stopped on Dixie Highway at Deerhill Drive, 2:12 p.m., Oct. 26. The driver, a 44-year-old Waterford man, said he had the wrong plate on the trailer, which was missing its VIN sticker. He was cited for misdemeanor license plate violation and expired annual inspection on the truck. He was given warnings for tinted windows and not having his company's US DOT number on the truck. The trailer was impounded.

Truck violations

A deputy on patrol stopped a truck with a brake light dangling by a wire, 10:19 a.m., Oct. 29, on Sashabaw Road at Clarkston Road. The company was cited for allowing a person to drive without a medical certificate, no US DOT number on the truck, no fire extinguisher, no triangles, no annual inspections for truck or trailer, and no truck license plate light. Warnings were given for the dangling brake light, which was fixed by the driver, for having the dump truck registered as a pickup, and not having the trailer's breakaway brake cord hooked directly to the truck. The trailer was impounded.

Suspicious vehicles

School administration reported two suspicious vehicles near Springfield Plains Elementary and in a nearby neighborhood, Bridge Lake Bluffs, after school on Nov. 5. Students reported the driver of a black Chevy Trailblazer motioned to them to come over to the vehicle. The driver was a white male, 30-40 years old, in a blue shirt and a black baseball hat. Parked behind was a white van. The black Chevy was also seen driving around the neighborhood and other students noted they'd been approached by the same individual in the same vehicle. A white van was seen parked near SPE on Nov. 6, and authorities were notified again. The van left before the vehicle or driver could be identified. Investigation continues.

MAIN WORK: Downtown has been busy with construction, including repair of stormwater grates on Main Street. Projects also include new parking space and crosswalk markings, filling asphalt cracks, new safety path along north Main Street from Miller to Brioni's, and replacement of broken or heaved sidewalk slabs throughout the city. Administration is working with contractors to complete the projects before winter, said City Manager Jonathan Smith. Photo by Phil Custodio

Coats for the Cold

Oakland County Sheriff Office is collecting Coats for the Cold through Nov. 30 at OCSO Independence Substation, 6560 Citation Drive; OCSO Springfield Substation, 9075 Big Lake Road; Genisys Credit Union, 7357 Deer Lake Road; Real Estate One and Max Broock Realtors, 31 S. Main; and Real Estate One Gateway, 7070 Gateway Park Drive.

Donations should be new or clean, gently-used.

"With the needs of the community being so great, we are asking folks to give generously this year," said Sheriff Michael Bouchard. "We want to fill up every box with coats and get them to those who need them. Also, we are excited to help find a family for the many dogs and cats that are looking for loving homes through a partnership with the Oakland County Pet Adoption Center."

The coats will be given to several charitable organizations for distribution to those in need at no cost.

Eagles shut down from title

BY WENDI REARDON PRICE
Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Wolves excitedly surrounded Team Manager James Barnett as he held up the district trophy to the Clarkston Varsity Football team after they defeated White Lake Lakeland last Friday, 26-6.

"We did a lot of nice things," said Kurt Richardson, long-time head coach for Clarkston, adding the players still had too many penalties and made too mistakes.

The Wolves opened the scoring with three minutes remaining in the first quarter. Lakeland punted the ball after they had run out of downs and Josh Luther picked it up on the 20-yard line. The pass went incomplete on the first play.

During the next play Luther grabbed the hand off from quarterback Jake Jensen and ran 80 yards into the endzone. A PAT from Tristan Mattson put the Wolves in the lead, 7-0.

Clarkston scored twice during the second quarter both on 1-yard touchdown runs made by Jacob Honstetter. His first touchdown was came less than three minutes into the quarter. Lakeland blocked the extra point, putting the score 13-0.

"We knew their passing game struggled a little bit," said Richardson. "We knew once we got up on them we could blitz them a little bit harder - that was the plan."

Honstetter scored his second touchdown with 47.8 seconds remaining in the first half. The Wolves attempted for a 2-point conversion and they were blocked, ending the half, 19-0.

The Eagles opened the second half with control of the ball. They lost it five minutes into the third quarter when they fumbled the ball. Honstetter recovered it on the 49-yard line in Lakeland's turf.

Jensen passed the ball to Keagan King who closed in on the endzone. On the next play, King ran the ball in for a 15-yard touchdown run. A PAT put the Wolves at 26-0.

Jensen was 8-for-17 in passing for 188 yards. King caught three passes for 95 yards and Matt Miller caught three passes for 47 yards.

Luther carried the ball once for 80 yards. Kidus Johnson carried the ball six times for 33 yards and Honstetter carried the ball five times for 15 yards.

Luther led defense with nine tackles and four assists. Brendan Barker had six tackles and four assists, Hayden Temple had five tackles, two assists and recovered a fumble, Zach Reid had four tackles and two assists, and Honstetter had three tackles, three assists and recovered a fumble.

The Wolves (9-2) head to Lapeer (11-0) for the regional title on Friday.

"We have a big win now," said Richardson. "Lapeer kind of spanked Oxford so it's going to be a dogfight up there."

Kick off is at 933 S Saginaw Street in Lapeer, 7 p.m.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK Blocking shots

BY WENDI REARDON PRICE
Clarkston News Sports Writer

Senior goalkeeper Noah Bridgeman finished his final season with three shutouts as the Clarkston Boys Varsity Soccer team won the district crown, Oct. 20.

The 2-0 win over Rochester Adams for the district championship was one of his favorite games during the season.

"We have had such a history with Adams," he said, adding the last few years they have knocked Adams out of the playoffs. "We talked about it we had to do it third year in a row and it was motivation. There was so much motivation before the game. It showed on the field. It was great."

He added the season got off to a shaky start.

"We were kind of figuring things out," he said, adding some players were out with injuries. "We got all of our players back and got a rhythm going during playoffs. It really helped."

The boys were also getting used to a style not usually seen in high school soccer as new head coach Ian Jones played possession style.

"Personally the way Ian wanted to play is exactly how I wanted to play," Bridgeman shared. "He wanted to just play instead of just kick it over the top all the time. It tends to be the high school model - have all your centers get the ball and kick it forward. I play for a pretty good club, Nationals Union, and we have been preached build and keep the ball. Let's play soccer the way it's supposed to be played. I loved soccer this year because of that - we got to play soccer."

Bridgeman began playing soccer when he was around 5-years-old. It wasn't until he was older and playing club soccer he found out both his mom and dad played. His dad had an offer to play on the collegiate level at Western Michigan University and his mom played at Siena Heights University.

"I never had any pressure to playing anything," he said. "I just got to choose."

When he was around 11- and 12-years-old, his team needed someone in the goalkeeper position.

"I wasn't bad back there," he said. "I played football and was a wide receiver on the football team for Our Lady of the Lakes. I thought why not try it out, I have always had good hand-eye coordination. Then, I got into the net. Everyone said my instincts were really natural. Then, all the sudden I was in there all the time. I wasn't playing the field anymore."

He enjoys being in the net because

Soccer career to continue at Davenport University

he can see the whole field and help his teammates by telling them what's going on.

"If anyone comes to a game they hear me in the stands the whole time," he added. "It's because I scream and yell to keep my players safe and tell them they have a man behind their back before they get destroyed or something. You try to organize things. I am trying to execute our game plan by directing them."

Bridgeman kept busy playing both soccer and football during the fall until it was brought to his attention by his OLL football coach he would have to choose. He chose soccer.

"I chose soccer because I had such great coaches at the time and I like being in stressful situations which is what you get when you are a goalkeeper," he added. "Stressful situations you might get a few times a game, those are your time to shine."

Bridgeman will be on the golf course in the spring playing with the Clarkston Boys Varsity Golf team for his fourth year.

"I think we have a great shot at doing something pretty special," he added. "I am really looking forward to our golf season. I love golf and I love playing it. I play it a ton. You have to practice a lot in golf if you want to be good at it. It's a fun sport and it gets your mind off of everything else."

Bridgeman heads to Davenport University after graduation to continue his soccer career.

"I have talked to the coach and told him I am committed there," he added. "I am really looking forward to it and looking forward to my college career and going there to play soccer. I am looking forward to all the things I haven't played or experienced before."

He plans to study business. He is also currently taking all the business classes he can at Clarkston High School because he enjoys the subject.

When he is not playing soccer, he is training and enjoys traveling.

"I have gone to Europe twice over the course of my life so far," he said. "This past summer I traveled to California, South Carolina and North Carolina by myself. It was pretty cool. It's nice I have parents who allow me the opportunity to do it. I get to experience different things."

His advice to aspiring athletes is to put in your best effort.

"Every game is not going to be your best, just put all your effort out there and know you tried your best," he said. "It's all you can do. Go out there and try to have your best game."

Team work leads way to state championship for Wolves

Junior Mia Patria led the team as she finished in 15th place at 18:13.3. Senior Grace Nolan closely followed, finishing at 18:15.8 for 16th place out of 236 runners.

Next came senior Elizabeth Dalrymple in 40th place at 18:58.1; senior Mallory Ferguson, 59th place, 19:11.9; senior Emily Ferguson, 72nd place, 19:21; sophomore Mattie Drennan, 60th place, 19:12.3; and freshman Elise Wilhelm, 208th place, 21:03.3.

"Every single one of the members on the team ran well," Breen said. "It just doesn't happen often. You will have one runner here and one runner there who has an off day. The gun went off and everyone went through the mile mark in the perfect position at the times we talked about. I saw them at the mile and a half mark and didn't know they were projected for first at the mile mark. We saw the Northville jerseys, who was ranked ahead of us, and they were running behind us."

The last 1,200 meters were tougher for not only Clarkston but all runners in the thick, wet mud.

"It was like running on two inches of peanut butter," Breen said. "The girls held on really strong. You could see on all their faces to finish No. 1 was like a huge weight lifted of their shoulders because of the expectations they had set when they were younger - when they were freshman and sophomores. They had these little successes here and there. Then, everytime we got into final championship mode we had a hiccup."

He added the big difference going into the state finals was the girls came together as a team especially after the Waterford Mott Fall Classic at the end of September.

"I saw them truly working together," Breen said. "Every race after that race got a little bit better. They started being happy for each other when someone had a good race. You saw more team bonding."

It wasn't just during the weekdays at practice but also they organized weekend runs and scheduled scrapbook gatherings to get together.

He added the OAA Red and regional meets helped but they had been looking at the Oakland County Championships in early October to see how they measured.

"Usually the state champion comes out of there," Breen said. "We lined up at Oakland County, the gun goes off. Half way through the mile we have lightning and thunder and they pull us all off. We never had a chance to finish it. It was one real thing we were grasping onto that was going to be our preparation for the state meet and it never happened."

Breen added they couldn't have done it without Larry Adams, the boys cross country coach.

"He stepped up a lot not only with the boys team but when I needed help or to answer questions or to help out," he said.

Also, finishing in the top five out of 27 teams for the girls race were Ann Arbor in second place with 152 points; Pinckney, third place, 206; Traverse City Central, fourth place, 208; and Bay City Western, fifth place, 234.

The boys finished in fourth place with 164 points.

Junior Brendan Favazza led the Wolves

as he finished in fifth place out of 244 runners with a time of 15:39.2

Also, competing for Clarkston, senior Shawn Slater finished in 26th place at 16:09.5; senior Mark Sprague, 38th place, 16:22.5; junior Nathan Sesti, 62nd place, 16:33.7; sophomore Owen Kolean, 104th place, 16:55.2; junior Christian Collis, 147th place, 17:06.9; and senior Jeremy Cavallo, 178th place, 17:26.9.

Plymouth won the state championship with 122 points. Also, finishing in the top five out of 27 teams were Walled Lake Central in second place with 127 points; Dexter, third, 154; and Ann Arbor Skyline, fifth, 197.

Jason and Melanie Haley

Ace Hardware of Clarkston was recently honored as the 2018 Beacon Award winner for Best New Store, Under 20,000 square feet. Owners Jason and Melanie Haley were honored for transforming an abandoned store site into a thriving 13,500-square-foot hardware store in their hometown.

Opening in October 2016, Ace Hardware of Clarkston finished the first year at 167 percent of its Ace sales forecast and sales were up 29 percent for the first half of year two.

"We have an amazing gift and home décor area, we have a killer grill and outdoor niche, we have the largest fastener selection in the area and we are experts in chalk and decorative painting," Jason said. "We think, like a recipe, that it is a combination of these special offerings that create a destination and image that is much greater than just adding up the individual parts."

"What makes us unique is as owners we're available and we're here all the time," Melanie said. "We both have a spirit for helping as does our entire staff who is just terrific." She adds, "Our team deserves all the credit for this award, as Jason and I just made the financial investment, and shared our vision of neighbors serving neighbors – our team did the rest."

Capital investments in the facility included new entrance, new checkouts, extended fixtures, barnwood accents on the walls, partially polished concrete floor, completely new restrooms and new LED lights.

Marketplace Home Mortgage, L.L.C., recently opened its newest office at 21 South Main Street, Suite #3, in downtown Clarkston.

The Clarkston office is the third Marketplace Home Mortgage branch in Michigan, joining offices in Ann Arbor and Novi.

"Clarkston is a small community with great access to Detroit and citizens who support local businesses," said Josh Mick, Director of Business Development for Marketplace's Eastern Division. "Over the last several years there has been a resurgence in the real estate market and we are eager to bring our expertise to this thriving area."

Clarkston Branch Manager Lauren Zetye said Clarkston is a good fit for Marketplace's overall vision for becoming a leader in Michigan's mortgage industry.

Leigh Elceser of Clarkston was recently appointed to the Michigan Board of Chiropractic.

Housed within the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs, the nine-member board sets entry-level competency standards for health practitioners and verifies continuing education during licensure, protecting and promoting the public's health, safety and welfare.

The four-year term will expire Dec. 31, 2022.

Oakland County 4-H alumna Maggie Sans of Clarkston is among eight 4-H alumni inducted into the Michigan 4-H Emerald Clover Society in 2018.

Sans is currently the vice president for community relations at Walmart, leading the company's effort to strengthen the investment that stores and associates make in communities, neighborhoods and with customers across the United States. Previously, she was the senior vice president and chief corporate affairs officer for Walmart in China, as well as vice president of international corporate affairs and vice president of public affairs and government relations.

Sans received her bachelor's degree in political science and government from Michigan State University and her master's degree in international relations from Boston University. Philanthropy and leadership are important to Sans, who has served on national boards for many organizations, including the US-China Strong Foundation, 100K Strong Foundation, Americas Society, American Council of Young Political Leaders, American Legislative Exchange Council, Tenth Amendment Center, Council of the Americas Inc., Private Enterprise LLC and the National Conference of State Legislatures.

"4-H had an enormous impact on my life," she said. "It gave me skills I have used throughout my professional and personal life. It taught me the value of a strong work ethic – to embrace responsibility and to be willing to dedicate yourself to your goals. 4-H gave me a passion for leadership and an understanding of the impact one person can have on the outcome of a group. I credit 4-H for instilling in me a sense of community, the satisfaction of belonging to something bigger than oneself, and a desire to be a person that helps improve the world around me."

She was the president of the Oakland County 4-H Livestock Club and a mentor to many younger 4-H'ers. She currently serves on the National 4-H Council Board.

A taste for wines of the world

Clarkston Rotary Club filled Bordine Nursery with wine and food enthusiasts during A Taste of the Holidays gala, Oct. 25.

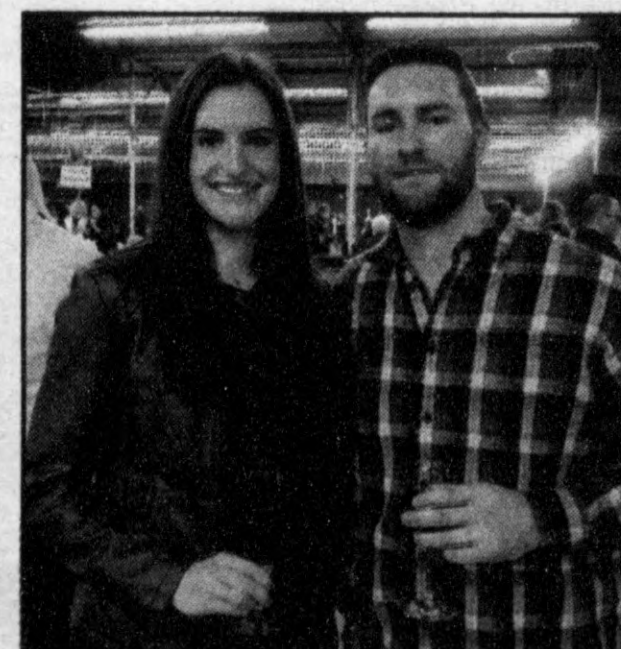

Folks enjoyed wines of the world, micro brewery beers, mixed spirits, and appetizers and desserts served by local restaurants, all while raising funds for Rotary's local community service, international projects, student scholarships, and youth exchange programs for both inbound and outbound high school students.

Rotary van

project," said Susan Huttenlocher Ebeling of Lighthouse. "Thanks to you and the Clarkston Rotary Club, two well-worn and rusty vans will be off the road, and replaced by vehicles which will more safely serve the needs of our Lighthouse clients."

Rotary's theme this year is to "be the inspiration," and this is one way to do that, Sloan said.

"My goal is more involvement in the community, partnering with other community groups," she said.

The old van, which is used by staff and volunteers daily to pick up food donations from Costco, Sam's Club, Meijer, and other businesses around the area, is 20 years old with almost 200,000 miles on it.

Bowman, Rotary, and the community are looking to replace it, as well as a passenger van for the food pantry's office in Pontiac.

Rotary's $7,500 donation was also used to kickstart a fundraising appeal for the Clarkston van, and additional funds were allocated by the Lighthouse Board toward the purchase of the Pontiac vehicle.

"We are still receiving contributions from the very generous Clarkston community," Ebeling said. "It's a big project and they have responded. I'm a Huttenlocher from Clarkston - we understand the value of what Lighthouse does."

Lighthouse Clarkston is helping more people compared to last year at its new office, 5850 Dixie Highway, serving 35 more households, 19 of which are new, including 41 children under the age of 18, 45 adults, and 14 seniors.

Last fiscal year, Lighthouse provided 52,164 meals to the Clarkston community. Over 60 percent of those served were children. The Clarkston location has been serving northern Oakland County since 1990.

Overall, Lighthouse provided 256,932 meals to people in need last year.

Upcoming holiday programs include Adopt-A-Family, where donations can help a family of your choosing. Volunteers are also needed.

For more information, call 248-972-1497.
