

Savor Good Food, Humor At Woman's Club Finale

Members of the Northville Woman's club wrapped up the club year Friday afternoon with their annual luncheon in the Presbyterian church here.

As always, the luncheon is a fun meeting followed by a skit, which this year as in past years was a humorous take-off on some exciting event.

Friday's production, a spoof of the currently popular lecture series idea, inspired chuckles in the receptive audience and captivated on the dramatic talents of six club members.

"Detroit Adventure", an original script penned by a play-wright who professes to be anonymous, had Director Mrs. John J. O'Brien cast as the moderator with "noted author" Mrs. Paul Carson as the White Hunter, Mrs. Leiland Mills as Professor Middlehaus, Mrs. H. Lane Dyer as Madame You-hard and Mrs. Robert Yoder and Mrs. William Slattery as "Twisters".

Their presentation was prefaced by an introduction by Mrs. George Jerome, program chairman.

Adding a bit of nostalgia to the business meeting that preceded the skit was Mrs. George Kohls' brief thank you to outgoing club president Mrs. C. E. Woodruff.

Mrs. Kohls will assume the president's gavel held by Mrs. Woodruff for the next two years.

Also named was a new board consisting of Mrs. James Cowie, Mrs. D. E. Hamannberger, Mrs. Alfred Parmenter, Mrs. J. Wright and Mrs. C. E. Woodruff.

Already looking ahead to plan next year's program chairman Mrs. L. D. Rameau and Mrs. Albert Spaeth, Mrs. George Weiss, Mrs. A. Russell Clark, Mrs. Chas. Chase and Mrs. Blake Couse.

The Woman's Club opens its seventeenth season next fall.

MEET THE PROFESSOR — Members of the Northville Woman's club didn't leave their luncheon until listening to the wisdom of Professor Middlehaus. Seated at the table are Mrs. Leiland Mills, Mrs. H. Lane Dyer, Mrs. Robert Yoder and Mrs. William Slattery.

Not for Weight-Watchers

In between turns of her desk writing notes for the Northville Woman's Club, Mrs. Robert Dyer, the club's corresponding secretary, has time to be handy in the kitchen.

A cookie she makes that rivals any at Woman's Club is a tomato confect, rich in cream cheese, butter and finished with apricot or strawberry jam.

Travel Leisurely, Nurse Advises; Go Round the World by Freighter

Editor's Note: What is it like to go around the world by freighter? Basically, it's the question Emma C. Amel asked herself about five years ago when she came across some literature on freighter travel.

My cargo freighter trip around the world far exceeded my expectations in terms of pleasure, economy and relaxation.

Our ship was the Flying Cloud (Havransten Line) and no name could be more appropriate unless it had been the Flying Carpet for she took us around the world in four months of exciting adventure.

Plans were announced this week for a "meet-the-candidates" night to introduce every Northville city and township officer to the public. City Attorney Phil Ogilvie will serve as master of ceremonies at the March 30 meeting.

Completed plans for an audience participation meeting next Thursday to keep the community informed of the candidates for the Michigan State Normal College. The Reverend and Mrs. Leslie Williams of the Methodist church, are planning an open house in the new parsonage at the corner of Dunlap and Rogers streets. Since its policy adopted last fall, the policy, which goes into effect next fall, requires all entering kindergartners to be five years old, or, if the child's birthday falls between September and December, the child may be admitted if it can pass certain tests and screening procedures.

Cagers Rally, Romp To Cop Regional Crown

STRONG SHOULDER of the Northville Mustangs head coach Dave Langridge, regional tournament MVP in hand, leads the way following last Saturday's 76-47 rout of Clarkson for the regional championship. The Mustangs defeated Marysville earlier to advance to the regional final.

Northville's Mustangs battled to a 56-49 win over a strong Marysville team last week and then flew past Clarkson 76-47 to thunder over the hardwood to their first Class B regional championship.

Clarkson's Wolves lived up to their name during the first quarter of the regional championship, trying and even leading at times, with the Mustangs gaining only a two-point edge over their opponents when the first period buzzer sounded.

Against Marysville a week ago the Mustangs met the strongest competition they've run into during this year's district far perfect 19-0 season.

Only 28 outstanding students were named to the high scholarship list at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, during the fall semester, reports Registrar Clayton J. Mares.

Among those listed is Michael Adas, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Adas, 23171 State road, Northville, and Frederick Steeper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Steeper, 19320 Marlynn.
Mike is a freshman in the secondary education curriculum, majoring in speech and English. He was a 1961 graduate of Northville High school.

Fire destroyed the second floor of a two-family residence at 334 Yerkes street Sunday afternoon causing heavy water damage to the main floor apartment and driving both families from the house.

Fire broke out in the second story porch or roof at approximately 1:00 p.m. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Galbraith and their nine-year-old daughter resided in the upstairs apartment, while Mr. and Mrs. Norbert C. Parent and two sons lived downstairs.

Owner of the house is Ted Malik of Plymouth. He said the house was insured but that adjusters had not determined the extent of the damage. It is not certain that the house can be restored.

The Galbraiths, who moved to Novi from Canada 18 months ago and to Northville just six months ago, were having a cup of coffee in the living room when they noticed the smoke. Their little girl was playing out doors.

All their furniture, which had been purchased recently, was destroyed. It was not insured. Most of their clothing was also lost.

The Parents' belongings were moved outside but were damaged by water.

Firemen fought the blaze for more than two hours. They were called back later when flames again broke out in the roof.

Meanwhile, neighbors and the Kings Daughters organization helped out the routed families. The Parents found another apartment immediately. The Galbraiths were accommodated by neighbors and located in another house later in the week. Tuesday a Red Cross representative visited the family to offer assistance.

Besides the two calls to Yerkes street Sunday, firemen also were called to the Main street apartment house adjacent to the A & P parking lot to bring a small fire caused by an overheated oil stove under control.

There are more than 1,500 daily and 10,000 weekly newspapers produced in the United States.

Fearlessness is the mother of confidence.

COOPERATION is a keynote in the newly formed Cerebral Vascular Accident. Enterprise, Joe Sands, setting the power saw gauge in the picture below, will handle much of the power work in the manufacture of the group's first product, flower boxes. He'll get plenty of help in finish work from Bob Carter, Frank Sasse and Gill Glisson, other charter members pictured above left with Joe.

CHEVROLET CARS FOR EVERY FAMILY, EVERY BUDGET, EVERY TASTE

Chevrolet Want to pull out all stops—except price? The Jet-smooth Chevrolet serves up spacious, gracious interiors. Body by Fisher craftsmanship. Jet-smooth ride, new V8 vinegar or 6-savings—and more. On the ferry: an Impala Sport Sedan. Chevy II Hungering for a car that's lovely, lively, easy to park and pay for? Chevy II is all that, all right—and also winner of Car Life magazine's award for Engineering Excellence! Parallel to the shore: a Nova 400 4-Door Station Wagon. Corvair If you start to sporty things this one ought to fire you up but good. With the engine weight astern, the steering's as responsive as a bicycle's and the traction's ferocious. As for the seat—wow! At the ramp: the Monza Club Coupe.

Stroke Victims Join Ranks To Work and 'Live Again'

"We've been put on a shelf and we want to get off that shelf." Gill Glisson, one of the familiar blue uniform he once wore as a patrolman for the Northville Police department, hooked his cane on the edge of the desk and now standing without its aid shifted his weight to the right leg, the one that doesn't need a brace. "We think this will help us get off the shelf," he said, holding a piece of paper. Embalmed across the top were the words "Cerebral Vascular Accident—Enterprise," the name of a new organization, a unique idea that its founders hope will catch on in Northville and perhaps someday spread throughout the country.

Five charter members belong to the organization. All were "shelved" by cerebral vascular accidents. They suffered strokes and are recovering through the initial impact, they found themselves paralyzed on one side, unable to work. Not one of them was ready to retire.

A stroke felled Gill suddenly and unexpectedly last year. He was 55. Joe Sands' world literally collapsed in 1959. All his life he had made a living with his hands. He was four-years-old and did just that at a machine in the window of his father's shop. Later he took carpentering.

Frank Sasse was a carpenter. He was stricken last year. Bob Carter, only member of the group from Novi, was a farmer. He's been disabled since 1945. Carl Wellwood had been a printer before his stroke in 1955.

"We were all good men before we had our strokes," said Joe. "When this thing happens and it's like you're dead, you're outside the world. You try to work, but you can't."

"We may be physically afflicted," stressed Joe, "but we're alright mentally." For him and the others Cerebral Vascular Accident

(CVA) Enterprise means "living again". The enterprise, its members explain, will give them a meaningful life to themselves—and eventually others—economically, psychologically and socially. "Joe's got it right," chimed in Bob, "we'll 'live again.' Now there's something to look forward to."

What each are looking forward to the most, perhaps, is getting back to work. "We're not afraid to work," assured Frank. "The first project they'll tackle is making flower boxes. They already have a workshop—across from Northville Downs—thanks to Al Smith, Sr., CVA Enterprise adviser along with Dr. Russell Atchison and Attorney Cliff Hill.

"We'll make them any size and personalize them with initials if that's what the customer wants," explained Gill. "If it accidents, they suffered strokes and are recovering through the initial impact, they found themselves paralyzed on one side, unable to work. Not one of them was ready to retire.

"This cooperation, the men feel, is an especially integral aspect of the enterprise. Each of them are at different stages in their recovery. The more capable will help the less capable, and by doing this they all hope to help themselves.

The CVA victim, they point out, faces the biggest struggle after leaving the hospital. "You can't dress yourself at first," recalled Joe. "You have to learn all over again."

"I had an awful job learning to put a sock on," said Frank. Regaining his balance posed a problem for Bob as well as for the others. "You can't throw horsehoes without a net," added Bob. "Therapy is what helps bring you back to yourself."

"But 90 per cent of the battle is up to you. "Activity is the best therapy," said Joe. "You don't have to go to the doctor for this. You can get it at home and here."

And there will be plenty of activity for members of the new enterprise if enthusiasm is a necessary ingredient for success. Not only are the charter members buoyed by the prospect of their new venture, their advisers share the same zeal.

Their primary contribution to the infant project is encouragement, says Dr. Atchison. "We're encouraging them to go out and do something they have wanted to do—contribute to the community, be able to face their friends and the business world again."

"Up to now CVA victims here and elsewhere have been candidates for convalescent homes or have had to rely on their families," said the doctor. "They feel discouraged, inadequate, reluctant to go out and face the community because they feel they cannot contribute. Many of them sit at home, doing nothing."

"SHORT TERM" programs have been initiated by colleges and universities, but nothing like this. "We hope that this will spread, that other communities will follow the lead set here."

An obvious need exists, explained Dr. Atchison. "Just multiply the number of CVA victims in our town alone—75 to 12 approximately—by the size of the United States. The total takes in a substantially larger percentage of the population. A key philosophy of the program stressed by both the members and their advisers is that they are not looking for charity. Quite to the contrary, they want and are willing to assume economic responsibility. As they get some indication of how well their products sell, expansion will follow, new items will be introduced. In addition to the work program, social and recreational product line will come expansion activities will eventually be introduced. Whatever they tackle, members will be guided by their motto, "Don't Say 'I can't,' keeps happening right along," says "I'll Try."

The healing power of scientific prayer that reforms outside and cleanses the heart at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lenten-Sermon entitled "Matthew 17:1" will include an account of the healing by Christ Jesus of the lunatic boy together with his reply to the disciples who asked him why they could not heal him (Matthew 17:19).
"And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (p. 11):
"The prayer that reforms outside and cleanses the heart is an absolute faith that all things are possible to god, — a spiritual understanding of Him, an unselfed love."

First Baptist Church of Novi

"Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings Thou hast perfected praise." Our sophisticated adult world does not give to children the degree of consideration as did our Lord. Who among mankind would concede that perhaps our world's problems could best be analyzed by the simple forthright, and honest opinion of a child? "Inconceivable," you say. But we need the mature, wise diplomat, men of political mind, trained to deal with national and foreign affairs.
The supposed senses of our generation are discovering more and more the complexities of government without God. Super politicians and puppet diplomats have lost the proper perspective, and while the world perches on the precipitancy as it were of the edge of its social, moral, and political precipice, many people are mistaking the excessive political activities as a sign of progress. This is a delusion.
"Thou hast perfected praise." What then is the proper perspective? The following story taken from a publication for children well illustrates the point.
"Mr. LeVins wanted to read the papers, but was being bothered by his little daughter, Suzie. Finally, he took a sheet out of his magazine, on which was printed the map of the world. Tearing it into small pieces, he gave it to Suzie, and said,
"Go into the other room and see if you can put this together." After a few minutes, she returned and handed him the map correctly fitted together. Mr. LeVins was surprised and asked her how she did it so quickly.
"Oh," she said, "on the precipitancy as it were of the edge of its social, moral, and political precipice, many people are mistaking the excessive political activities as a sign of progress. This is a

County Health Warning

The urgency of hepatitis in the metropolitan area has caused Dr. Joseph G. Moizer, Wayne County Health Commissioner, to warn residents against the use of water from wells which may have become contaminated due to recent flooded conditions.

A simple and easy alter-dry bleaches, such as Chlorox, are safe for drinking to disinfect (diluted 5 1/2%), to each gallonary measures until the water with chlorine. Add 3 drops of clear water, mix and let water be proven safe by laboratory of the common liquid in-stand for 30 minutes before use.

Flooding of yards and surrounding land areas brought on by the rapid melting of snow has motivated many Wayne County residents to call the Health Department for information about possible health precautions. In some communities where flooding has occurred, water could become contaminated with sewage from septic tanks in the area.

Dr. Moizer says that water from any well which has been flooded or submerged should be considered contaminated until proven safe by bacteriological tests. He urges residents not to use for any drinking or domestic purpose water from wells that may be flooded until following proper disinfection procedures.

Residents are urged to contact their county health department for instructions on how to make it safe. To remove the "fear" taste from bottled water, cool the water and then pour it back and forth between two clean, receptacles several times.

Dr. Moizer also urges that a public sewer system and wells public water supply as a possible hazard to the health of their communities connected to them.

SPEAKING for the Record

by Bill Singer
Where does a family, struck by sudden tragedy, turn for immediate help?
Counselwoman Beatrice Carlson posed this question for the city council Monday night after five divorcing families from their home at 334 Yerkes Sunday.

Mrs. Carlson is chairman of the local Red Cross chapter. As such she was called for assistance.

"I had always thought that Red Cross emergency help required a disaster involving four families or more," she explained. Therefore, she turned the appeal over to the Kings Daughters.

"Apparently there was more to be done than they could handle properly. At any rate I checked further and found out that Red Cross does provide it. It's called 'one family burn out' assistance," Counselwoman Carlson continued.

"In the meantime, I'm afraid the Red Cross was unfairly criticized because I didn't know about this emergency plan," she explained.

Mrs. Carlson has been an active leader of local Red Cross affairs for eight years and is quick to defend the service of the organization.

She reports that a Red Cross home service representative was scheduled to visit the families this week. Money, clothes, rent and replacement of furniture are available under such circumstances, she said. Meanwhile, neighbors have provided shelter and food, while the Kings Daughters have helped check the families.

But Counselwoman Carlson's original question remains unanswered. What local agency does one call for emergency help—particularly if it happens to be Sunday?

A letter from the world-famous Sydney Frisker's Northville representative on the Oakland county board of supervisors arrived from Hamby, Mich. According to Sid, they haven't seen anyone "like like better than Northville."

In England they almost from without central heating (an electric blanket saved the day); in Port Said machine-gun-bearing police swarmed all about while people live on the sidewalks in poverty and filth; then a 106-mile-long trip through the Suez Canal next Karachi with cows, goats, water buffaloes, as well as people in the streets—"they pull teeth and fit false teeth right on the sidewalk."

Next stop, Hong Kong.
Harold Hartley, Jr. is a fine photographer and turns in an excellent job on our darkroom technique. But his talents as a mechanic are unquestionable.

He's probably driving the only Triumph on the road that starts by pulling down the turn signal lever—the result of a "few minor adjustments" made by Hartley to the electrical system.

Weight Scales For Customers?

Consumer protection is a primary responsibility of the weights and measures division of the State Department of Agriculture.

The trouble occurs at night. Motorists should have their tires checked for proper inflation in addition to raising the car hood. A turn light should also be left on so passing drivers won't be misled by the vehicle location for the through traffic lane.

In all, the department reported only 646 convictions for law violations. Some 218, or 33 percent of the 388,000 packages were checked during the year and 30,740 were found to contain less than the quantity listed.

Many of these short-weighted packages were corrected by the 355 stations of the items, the department said.

Additional, a total of 1,238 seizures or "stop sales" orders were placed on more than 10 million pounds of commodities which did not conform to the law.

Gov. John B. Swainson called for legislation this year to boost up the laws relating to weights and standards but he can't master, and teachers who will be wiser than he is even when he is a senator.

The association advises parents to remember that regarding the most of the pressures at a given institution, "something in the nation there is still space in an accredited college for every qualified high school graduate."

The results showed little difference between the sexes. About 40 per cent of the women and 30 per cent of the women exhibited some abnormality.

Most prevalent abnormality was disproportionate height-weight measurements. Abnormal blood pressure of high levels of sugar in the blood or iron in the blood were also found in many subjects of the persons who considered themselves in perfect health.

How healthy are you? The answer may surprise you, according to the State Health Department.

A recent sampling of Michigan's population told the department that nearly two of every five persons in the state between the ages of 21 and 70 need to see their doctor.

In a testing of some 639 persons, the department measures height, weight and blood pressure. Some 419 of the persons showed some abnormality and 124 were referred to their physicians.

Roger Babson Ideas That Paid Dividends

Young Park, Mass., so many young people seem to feel that it is necessary to have some capital or a college degree or an important relative in order to start a business of their own.

This week I wish to write about some acquaintances who started with only an idea, but who, with persistence, made a great success.

My first job was with George Lawrence Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post. He told me that Mr. Cyrus Curtis paid $100,000 for the Post, but could raise only $100 as down payment.

I saw its circulation grow to over 6,000,000 copies, and—according to Curtis' Home Journal—The Curtis Publishing Company stock sold for over $100,000,000.

Among the important people Mr. Lorimer sent me to interview was Thomas A. Edison. Mr. Edison told me that he had only five years of schooling and only $100 of capital when he started in business. With the help of Sydney Z. Mitchell and my cousin he built America's great electrical industry, based on the incandescent light bulb, the phonograph, the storage battery, etc., which Mr. Edison invented.

All these came from ideas, as did Mr. Edison nor any Chicago cousins had any money.

Telephone Lines

By HUGH C. BRONAUIGH, Manager
MASS PRODUCTION IS FINE for some things—but never for our service. What do we mean? Simply this: we try to run our business to provide the best possible service we can—for each individual customer.

It's a policy that makes for telephone service you can rightfully depend on, whether you're calling the decorator, the doctor, or the District Attorney. So, while it's true we handle hundreds of thousands of calls every day of the year, you are sure the one you're going to make next will—as always—get the same careful attention that's become a Michigan Bell tradition.

These two telephones may look alike, but they aren't. One is a private line and the other is a party line telephone, and there's quite a difference. A private line telephone is always ready for you to use. And friends can reach you when they want you. And though it may seem hard to believe, in town a private line costs only pennies a day more than a party line. It's a down-to-earth benefit every day of the year, you are sure the one you're going to make next will—as always—get the same careful attention that's become a Michigan Bell tradition.
