One can read, go to the movies, theater or opera, attend a symphony, watch television, listen to the radio, see a ball game or risk a few dollars on the horses. But none of these, in my opinion, can match the effectiveness and excitement of the inspirational speaker - the real pro who has you laughing one minute, fighting tears the next, and finally, resolving to start improving your way of life the very next day.

He's a humorist with a deft touch; he's dramatic and dynamic; and he's a living example of what he preaches. What is most remarkable about this man's effectiveness is that, in this particular instance, it was created by "remote

Last Thursday evening I heard an address given by the Reverend Winters at an installation of officers of the

The speaker was not there. But a recording of a speech he had given to the Royal Oak chamber of commerce in 1959 was brought to the meeting by R. B. Powers, secretary of the Royal Oak chamber. It is difficult enough for the average speaker to hold the attention of his audience when he can look them in the eve. And somehow, it seems rather awkward for a group of people to huddle around a box and listen to a voice. But despite these disadvantages, the Reverend Winters reld the undivided attention of his audience for nearly an hour. I think everyone wanted to burst out in applause on several occasions, but the "live" audience in Royal Oak

It would be impossible to relate with any degree of completeness the inspiring message that the Reverend Winters had for his chamber of commerce audience. But several of his thoughts and anecdotes should serve to bring out the His address was entitled "The Glory Road" and it was designed to inspire people to help one another toward a better life for all. He said it this way:

and hell was taken to a large, luxurious room with tables heavily laden with delicious foods. All of the people in the room were walking around with their arms in splints extending horizontally. They were pale and under-nourished because they could not feed themselves and this was hell. another room the same condition was duplicated exactly, but the people were happy and healthy. They were feeding each other, and this was heaven.

- The world is composed of only two kinds of people - lifters and leaners, builders and wreckers or givers and

- Everyone is familiar with Babe Ruth's great home run records and that in his career he hit more than 800 homers. But did you know that he struck out more than 1.000 times? When asked how he attained success in the face of all these strike-outs, Ruth replied that he just "kept

- If you don't like your lot in life, build a service

- And on the lighter side, the Reverend Winters compared the different kinds of "responsibility". He told about the little boy who answered an advertisement placed by a store-keeper for a "responsible boy". "I'm your boy, mister," a small, freckled-face lad announced. "How do you know this," asked the store-keeper. "Everywhere I've ever worked - Still another example of responsibility was the young man married to identical twins. 'How can you tell them apart," he was asked. "I can't, but that's their responsibillty," he replied.

The Reverend Winters' address had special meaning to me. As a small boy, less than 10, I attended Sunday school at the First Baptist church in Jackson where a young minister was winning legions of friends among the young and old alike. His voice came clearly back to mind last week —

The Reverend Winters had just started his "glory road" at this early stage of his career. And you never forget
