

SPEAKING for The Record

by Bill Siger

In the first edition of 1962 we asked area officials in Northville to answer the same question: "What would you like to see undertaken or accomplished in our area during 1962?"

Now with the year more than half past we thought it might be interesting to review these statements and tally the results to date.

Let's look at the proposals and their progress:

MAYOR ALLEN called for a definite street improvement program with a specific schedule for paving.

RESULTS — Practically none, although the council has pushed through a special assessment plan under which a series of streets have been paved.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS AMERMAN pointed out two matters, one the creation of an economic development committee and the second, a study to consider formation of an area hospital authority.

RESULTS — The first has been done and is progressing nicely; but the second is dormant.

COUNCILMAN CANTERBURY — He also cited the need for an economic development committee and presently serves as the group's first president.

REVEREND PAUL CARO suggested an improved library facility perhaps in conjunction with the proposed new city hall.

RESULTS — This project, like the city hall, seems presently lost in the shuffle.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR CLARK aimed for formation of sewer and water ordinances, plus revision of building codes and sign ordinances.

RESULTS — The former was passed last week and the latter now under consideration.

A. R. CLARKE, vice president of Manufacturers National Bank, appealed for an expanded recreation program, including swimming pool and new headquarters facilities.

RESULTS — Nothing on the swimming pool, but a new building with additional facilities is now on the drawing boards.

NELSON C. SCHRADER, owner of Schrader's Home Furnishings, called for initiative by local merchants to help develop a more complete shopping center.

RESULTS — No definite program in this regard has been undertaken.

SIDNEY FRID, city engineer, alive on the Oakland county board of supervisors, called for reorganization of the public works department.

RESULTS — Nothing along the line that Frid suggested, but acquisition of sewer ridding equipment has all but eliminated the department's biggest headache, the city manager reports.

CITY MANAGER BRUCE POTHOFF was more general in his aims, but in calling for establishment of goals between the city has shown progress in its street paving program and previously mentioned sewer problems.

ROBERT SHAFER, former school board president, looked forward to satisfactory accomplishment of the teacher's salary plan in this, its first year; he also hoped for completion of lighting and seating at the new high school athletic field, a project awaiting approval of revenue bond sale.

Of course, progress in other unmentioned areas has been made, but it's easy to see that the last 5 1/2 months of 1962 will be mighty busy, indeed, if all these ambitions are to be realized.

Roger Babson

Diversify or Die

Babson Park, Mass., I am taking a month's vacation in the fair city in which I was born, namely, Gloucester, Massachusetts. As I sit on my piazza and watch the beautiful but vacant harbor, which, when I was a boy was full of fishing boats, I reminisce concerning the industrial changes of the past fifty years.

This continues to be a prominent industry; but it has gone through great changes. Once most of the fish was dried out of doors in the sun and either cut up and sold in little wooden boxes, or else exported in bulk. Fish was also sold throughout the country (chiefly by the Frank E. Davis Company) pickled in tubs, and by other means cooked in cans.

Everything from fishballs to confectionery was tried out by fish companies.

Finally, Clarence Birdseye invented the quick-freeze industry which resulted in the employment of a large number of people in the filleting and packing of fish and storage in large freezers.

My guess is that someday much of this fish will be eliminated and the entire fish will be ground. The Interior Department tells that whereas the "fillet" now sold contains only 90% of the food value of the fish, the rest going to the chickens, the ground fish would contain 100% of the goodness.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that doctors are prescribing fish diets for people with heart trouble. I believe that the future of the fish industry, but feel that great revolutionary changes are ahead. Already, I believe, the fish industry has had a monopoly of the business and it is very profitable. It is a business which has been in existence since the time of the Chinese.

There were steamships were used to carry the fish to larger American cities such as New York, Philadelphia, and Boston. Babson family continued in the merchandising business. My father, Nathaniel Babson, was the leading stockholder in Gloucester, and at his suggestion the family acquired control of over two hundred variety stores in Gloucester.

The moratorium on this story is the story of diversification. It is the story of how the family has largely gone broke; the family has lost its money and the granitic business were forced into bankruptcy; the family who refused to change from the selling of fish for steamships have about held their own.

So I urge today, diversification. Do not put all your eggs into one basket! Have them in a few different baskets, but carefully watch each basket and be willing to quickly realize coming events.

Each Year State Budget Goes Up, Up, Up

Every year a new record is set in the state government budget, which in 1962 jumped to $511.5 million.

In recent years it has grown in leaps, from $345.5 million in the 1950-51 fiscal year to $462.6 million last year, and now $511.5 million.

But many of the large budget-consuming departments and divisions will work more frugally than the same budget they had last year.

Educational institutions, from the grade schools through the colleges and universities, gained the highest boost. The education budget last year was $140 million, and this year it is set aside for $150 million.

This year a boost in the school budget formula and the anticipated increase in primary enrollment pushed the budget for education from $66 million in the 1950-51 fiscal year to $140 million last year, and now $150 million.

At 36, Let Him Marry

Dear Dr. Mudd: I am a widow and all I have in this world is my boy. He is a good boy, a really fine boy who doesn't care about his own money or drink very much.

He gambles a little bit now and then, but he is able to calculate his bets, just like all the rest of us. He works very hard and I am proud of him. He has supported me all these years. His father was a doctor and I'm sure you would not want your privacy invaded in the same way.

But it's not as an ordinary convention-gar that Mrs. Latchford will travel to Long Beach for the gathering of china painters from Europe and Asia.

Mrs. Latchford has been invited to demonstrate and lecture on her art — the art of decorating plain china stock and firing it in her large-sized kiln to produce a lasting glass.

Mrs. Latchford, whose husband died and she is now a widow, is a resident of Northville, Michigan. She is a member of the Michigan China Painters' Guild.

She began with a Waverline Lake residence whose uncle had been one of the "old masters" of china painting, and had helped to introduce the art to this country.

She also studied under several other local china painters, and is now a student of William Brase, from California, who is presently living in East Lansing.

China painters start with a family think of Mrs. Latchford's hobby? Well, her son Harry Mason, who is a student of William Brase, explains that they are powdered pigments, which are added to special china painting clay.

After sketching a basic design on the piece with a wax pencil, the painters apply a light coat of the clay. Mrs. Latchford's first kiln was a brick kiln at 1,000 degrees.

A second one of paint and more depth to the design and the second firing brings the color out in greater detail. William Brase says that it is necessary to fire the piece once or twice more to obtain the final effect desired, she says.

When using gold or white gold (Mrs. Latchford doesn't use silver because it tarnishes), the basic design is first completed, and then the gold design is added.

Mrs. Latchford's kiln, which she says is the largest she has seen in a non-commercial use, is in a back room of her home. It has an octagonal shape, and is 18 inches deep by 18 inches across.

The Federal government set down the ground rules and will provide the funds. State officials are coordinating the programs, which are suggested and designed by local committees working with public school officials and the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Charles C. Killingsworth, Michigan State University labor-industry expert, predicts great success for the program in the state.

The courses offered are set up on recommendation by local officials after a study of the needs of the labor market. Killingsworth estimates that 4,000 of trainees under the program will have jobs waiting for them when they conclude the courses.

County College Vote Petitions Now Circulating

Petitions are being circulated calling for the placement of an Oakland county community college proposition on the November ballot.

Oakland county officials told The News this week that circulation of the petitions is the end result of the official adoption of the Oakland County Community College Study Report.

As required by law, steps also are underway to formally apply for a community college. According to the report, the establishment of public instruction.

The application must contain signatures of at least two percent of the electors of the county.

The council's report, which was adopted last month and controls the subdivision water system — for $150,000 — so it will be in a position to negotiate with the city of Detroit for purchase of water.

LoBost proposed to the council last week that the village water table as a source instead of going to Detroit.

He also said that when his firm had brought in Mosley Associates, consulting engineers for Northville township, to prepare a potential water supply for Northville township, it was a waste of money.

He said that the city of Detroit is ready to sell water to the village, but will not negotiate the feasibility of using the local water table as a source instead of going to Detroit.

He also said he has indicated from Detroit that it will deal directly with him if the village does not acquire his water system. He said that he would like to see the village take over the water system and what kind of rates the water customers would have to pay before the village breaks even.

But the only result was that the council decided it must have definite figures on what it would cost the village to take over LoBost's water system and what kind of rates the water customers would have to pay before the village breaks even.

John McManis, LoBost's engineer, said the Detroit water board told him it would review his policy of not dealing with private individuals if it takes the water business at this time or Oakland county did not take over the water business at this time.

On March 1, both treasurers will turn unpaid bills over to the Oakland county treasurer for placement on the delinquent tax roll. Late payment after then will have to be made to the county treasurer.

Another developer, whose proposal was rejected last week, is planning to build a water treatment plant in the village. The plant would cost $200,000 and would produce 10 million gallons of water daily.

The original building was built in 1896 as a wood-working plant operated by the Dabur Manufacturing Company, the plant was converted to a water treatment plant in 1950.

Roaring Good Time At Twenties' Party

The clock was turned back 40 years at the William C. Wiley residence, 4185 Eight Mile road, last Saturday evening and 15 Northville couples dressed to fit the era.

In true "Roaring Twenties" style heads, blazers, headbands, straw hats and plus fours were commonplace. Popular music of the day added to the atmosphere and echoed throughout the Wileys' spacious lawn as guests tried their hands at darts, dancing (Charleston, of course), croquet and swimming.

And a few of the swimmers (the braver souls) even appeared in Twenties-style bathing suits.

And just like the Twenties, the accompanying pictures reveal that it was a fun affair.

John Begle may have dressed this way in the Twenties, but Mrs. Begle thinks it's all too funny.

Evermore's happy moment: John Northup and Mrs. R. E. Martin (left) with the photographer a bit spite. That's John Northup with crooked cane and Dick Martin in plus fours.

John Begle may have dressed this way in the Twenties, but Mrs. Begle thinks it's all too funny.

Construction is about half completed on Handling Equipment Company's new $30,000 addition, says Ted Carlson, secretary-treasurer of the Wisconsin corporation. The firm's expansion will provide an additional 6,200 square feet of building - about a 25 per cent increase of the present floor space, Carlson said. Wolverine construction company of South Lyon has been working on the concrete and steel addition for about a month and expects to complete the job within another month. The added space will be used to expand the press room and provide for new shipping, receiving and warehousing facilities, Carlson said.

It's Family Day at Ford Valve Plant

The family learned first hand "what Dad does all day" at Northville's Ford Valve plant Sunday. More than 2,800 guests - mostly employes and their families - toured the plant in open house ceremonies held from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. City and township officials were also invited guests. The plant, last of Ford's "village industries" (see story, page one), has approximately 500 employees and produces some 18,000,000 valves annually for Ford's automobiles and trucks. It has an average annual payroll of $2,000,000. Visitors were permitted to "browse around" and inspect all areas of Northville's largest industrial plant. Ford cars and tractors produced elsewhere were on display on the plant grounds. The open house, first ever conducted at the 42-year-old plant was termed a "success" by all. Members of the open house committee were Kenneth W. Dyringer, Joseph A. Bajak, Gerald J. Fleming, Harry J. Naeff, Floyd G. Lawrence, Lillian M. Kolber, Arthur C. Goodger, Gordon A. Jones and Joseph I. Caruso.

Class of '57 Meet Sunday
 Northville high school's Class of '57 has planned an all-day picnic reunion to be held Sunday at 10 a.m. in Cass Benton park (near the toboggan slides). Members of the class, Lois (Rhody) Early, Janice (Kimbell) Sauber and Victor Miller, sent invitations to their 111 classmates and class sponsors Mrs. Leslie Lee and Edward Hollen.

The class' senior officers were Harry Watson, president; Betty Wilson, vice president; Wanda White, secretary; and Gary Holman, treasurer.

FAMILY AND FRIENDS just "chowed around" and in most cases Dad for "son" or "brother," etc.) took them right to his machine for a firsthand explanation of what part he plays in the manufacture of the Ford valve. The Ford plant is located on the corner of Main and Griswold streets and was erected in 1939, although production of valves began locally in the previous building at the same site in 1920.

ON THE JOB - Two days before the open house this picture of Press Operator Walter Wetland was taken "on the job". He's beginning the valve-making process by cutting 12-foot lengths of steel rod stock into just the right size.

Progress depends on spiritually meaningful activity. This is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Truth" at Christian Science church services Sunday. Scriptural passages will include these verses from Proverbs (4): "Let thine eyes look straight before thee. Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be established." A citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 323): "In order to apprehend more, we must put into practice what we already know. We must recollect that Truth is demonstrable when understood, and that good is not understood until demonstrated." The Golden Text is from 11 Timothy (2): "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

By The Reverend Paul M. Cargo, First Methodist Church of Northville

Come By Here
Among the few groups in American culture learning folk songs and passing them on are campers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, boys and girls in Church camps. The folk song might be a Dutch spinning song like "Sarapontin" or a French round like "Frere Jacques" or a song from the Appalachian Mountains. A folk song from Africa is "Kum by ya." "Come by here." It is a folk song, prayerful and haunting and set thoughts to the spirit of the world. There are three factors which make the plea of the African folk song, "Come by here." true to the character of Jesus.

(1) Jesus has a positive outlook on life. He showed us how to live. He showed us how to live in the light of the world. The character of the Father. God cares for people. We need to know the light of Christ. Jesus brought the 20th century and about the people who live in the 20th century. We need to know that God cares about the world and the decisions, large and small, that people make. Narrow prejudice and national hatreds are enemies of God's way.

(2) Jesus believes in the savableness of sinners. Jesus was not blind. Many, he said, take the broad road leading to destruction, and the narrow road leading up to life. But he came at persons as individuals and as numbers in a mass, and he came with such candor and hope, such extraordinary warmth and appeal, and with such confident faith that he became a new sun in the heavens for some of them. Seven devils had to be cast out of Mary Magdalene. Zaccheus could become a friend of Abraham. Saul of Tarsus could be turned from an informer on the Christian faith to an officer for the Christian faith. The world is desperately in need of the Christ who can lead from Not the Way to the Way.

Our prayerful to the Lord is, "Come By Here."

SPEAKING for The Record

By Bill Sizer
On page one this week there's a story concerning consideration of a Northville township site for a $4,000,000 community college.

Chances are slim that the site will be chosen — but there's a chance. Actually, it's the most desirable of three sites now being studied, both from a standpoint of cost and central location.

Sewer availability is one of the problems, but there is more than one way to solve this.

The biggest objection is the fact that Northville is not in the community college district. It's composed of the combined school districts of Plymouth, Livonia, Garden City and Clawson.

Northville's school board declined to join a study of the proposed site, but it would indicate that it did not feel that sufficient funds were available.

It has always been the opinion of this writer that the community college plan is extremely important to the assurance of an opportunity for education for present and future generations.

And I cannot agree that it is not our obligation to help provide this opportunity.

The hour may be late, but Northville can still vote itself into the community college district.

This might not be the Northville township site for the community college, but it would indicate that the people of Northville are interested enough to pledge one mill annually to the project.

To set such machinery in motion a petition bearing 50 signatures of registered school district voters must be presented to the community college board of trustees.

If this initial request is approved, the local school board is then required to issue petitions for an election. These petitions require signatures of two per cent of the total registered voters in an election.

I believe as Eric Bradner, president of the proposed community college, "the community college would be a boon to Northville."

But even if it is not within our boundaries, it would be most beneficial in the future to become affiliated with the project.

What's happened to Northville's city hall plans?

Shortly after voters in June, 1960 approved sale of the community building to the school district for $185,000 the city council plunged into a project to erect a new city hall with the sale funds.

A citizens' advisory committee suggested building a new facility on the present site. Subsequent council sessions narrowed a field of prospective architects down to three or four.

Then everything stopped. Presumably temporarily to investigate the prospects of a complete urban renewal program with federal assistance.

But recently City Manager Bruce Potthoff reported the council that the old city hall could use some repairs, and that conditions are a little crowded. (During justice court sessions, for example, it isn't unusual for the manager to relinquish his office to attorney and client.)

Even though the 145 grand is growing with interest, it's hardly economical to spend money on city hall improvements and then tear the building down.

Roger Babson Growth Stocks

Babson Park, Mass., This islette Company has some plan along these lines, using part of the large profits made from specific stocks in this weekly column. I do not recommend the above stock profit from the usual buying and selling of stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange that I believe have a bright future.

Office Equipment Companies
Owing to social security, retirement pensions, etc. many men and women who are now doing office work will retire within the next few years — with fewer replacements. This means there will be an increasing demand for machines to do office work now being done by these people — especially speeding up said work.

New Building Companies
Although Corning Glass Works, Owens-Illinois, and other glassware, its great growth should come from new modern buildings. More glass is now being used in the construction of office buildings, while factories will appear as being built of all glass.

As new buildings of all kinds will need automatic heating, cooling, and ventilation systems, the products of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator will be in great demand. I could also include Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing in this group as well as the other companies which produce office equipment, such as the "Three M's."

Drug Companies
The drug companies probably spend more money on research than any other group. Furthermore, they are on the verge of making some wonderful discoveries in connection with DNA and RNA; two chemicals which may produce living cells.

My first choice is American Cyanamid Company (which owns Lederle Laboratories). I also think that Bristol-Myers Company has good growth possibilities; and also Plough, Inc. (which produces antibiotics) is the best of all is the great duPont Company of Wilmington, Delaware.

American Home Products Co. has a very large sales force handling some products ordinarily sold by Procter & Gamble which could also be listed here. These are two companies that should profit by inflation — toward which we are surely headed. Let me add the stocks, copper, oil and natural gas companies; yes, most companies with great natural resources.

Rely on Averages
This makes fifteen corporations in all which I believe have solid growth possibilities. I suppose my readers would like me to boll the list down to ten companies. I will not do this as so much depends upon the human factor of management which cannot be forecast. I feel, however, that some of the fifteen will turn out to be great disappointments, but no living soul can now tell which are the five that should be avoided.

This leads me to emphasize once more the great importance of diversification. Those who had their money distributed over a large number of established companies during the recent stock market decline have nothing to fear. The dividends need not be cut and prices should hop back.

Michigan Mirror It Costs $1000 Daily to Keep State Beautiful

Litterbugs are a costly segment of Michigan's society, according to a study by the Department of Natural Resources. The study shows that it costs nearly $1,000 a day to keep state highways relatively litter-free last year.

The litter problem and a proposed law to curb it were discussed at a public hearing on the subject held by the Department of Natural Resources last week.

A "public persuasion campaign" is now being waged by the department, which named the litter problem as one of its major concerns.

Your Fears Stem From Childhood

Dear Dr. Mudd:
I have been married for 15 months and have a beautiful baby five months old. My husband and I agree on just about everything and we are very much in love. I think we have a very good relationship and I love my baby, so it can't be that that's troubling me.

There might be some confusion among the voters in thinking that their present Congressmen have opposition. But efforts are being made to carry out a campaign to be sure that the public will be aware of the situation.

By voting for two Congressmen, the voters will have the chance of voting for one representing their Congressional district, and the other to represent them a part of the entire state.

It is expected that the newspaper will take a major role, as they have in previous elections, in bringing this new procedure to the attention of the public.
