Without revealing details, it can be said that the report is extremely conclusive and delves into basic goals, community characteristics, population projections, new concepts for business area, residential and industrial potentials, a thoroughfare and street plan, plus areas for schools, parks

The planners have taken a long, studied look at the future and have recommended guide lines for the future progress of our community. The work has been done in relative obscurity with the assistance of a professional planner who also assists Northville township and is therefore aware of mutual problems and can offer advice where singleness of purpose is needed.

In the not too distant future this plan will be ready for public presentation. We mention it now for two reasons

First we believe that George Zerbel's planning commission deserves public recognition for its outstanding job. The work is tedious and time-consuming, its only rewards are the knowledge a genuine contribution is being made toward the future welfare of the community. Secondly, I believe it is particularly important now that local businessmen (and citizens interested in what lies ahead for Northville) know that their government is de voting serious study to this problem. The closer one becomes to the matter of preserving and planning for a healthy, prosperous community, the greater becomes the realization that action is needed. And when one recognizes that in less than two years a $20 million shopping center featuring some of the nation's leading merchandisers and providing parking spaces for 4,000 cars will be scarcely 10 minutes away, talk that "Northville has plenty of parking and adequate shopping facilities" sounds hollow, indeed.

(The Sears, Crowley center will open at Seven Mile and Middlebelt early in 1964). With this in mind we hope that the planners' re port, when announced, will be digested slowly and that would-be critics remember it is a recommendation for long range guide posts.

And acknowledge, too, that outside developments may dictate prompter action on some aspects of the plan than may have seemed necessary when the planners began.
