Demos Plan Constitution Talk Here

Aldo Vagnozzi of Farmington, a member of the state Democratic committee, studying the proposed state constitution, will speak at a public meeting of the Northville Democratic Club Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the community building.
Mr. Orlivie was given permission to file for reconsideration of appeal in the mandamus case of the Ford Credit Union versus the City of Northville.
Mr. Pothoff explained the offer of Mr. Eggers to capture pigeons which are so plentiful in the Northville area. Council granted Mr. Eggers's request to capture pigeons alive, but the city is to have a release program for any liability.
The city manager reminded council that appointments for the Board of Review and the Planning Commission should be held or renewed at the next council meeting.
The city manager asked council's permission to close the city hall at 1:00 p.m. on Monday, December 24. Permission granted.
Mr. Amher mentioned the need to establish standards for the property at 122 N. Wing placques, etc. which are to be located in the Detroit Recreation Scout and Recreation building.
Mr. Allen discussed skating on the mill-pond and it was agreed to post it "Skating Prohibited." This notice to be put in the Northville Record, also.
There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at 11:35 p.m.
Martha M. Milne City Clerk

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

By Rev. John I. Wittstock
 Our Lady of Victory Church, Northville

My previous article dealt with the First Commandment to honor God. In this article I wish to treat of the Second Commandment.

Various forms of profanity are with some people, merely a bad habit. They curse and swear thoughtlessly, without any real interest to dishonor the name of God or to blaspheme against Him. They would, in many cases, conscientiously abstain from a false oath or perjured testimony which they know would be a violation of God's commandment. But if such people really understood the meaning of this commandment, they would realize that day after day and time after time, they are using the lips God gave them to show irreverence to Him.

A man's name is his individual and personal possession. His name represents him in the minds of others. Wherever his name is, there he is; whether it be in print or in the mind of another man when they see his name. Honor to a man's name is honor to him and if we wish to honor God we will honor His name.

Much of the irreverence shown to God by the misuse of His name is due to a lack of knowing God as He is, all-wise, all-perfect, allmighty; a lack of penetrating God's loving concern for His creatures, the depths of His mercy, the strictness of His justice, and the supreme dominion He exercises over all. When the true character of God is known and appreciated there will be reverence, compounded of filial fear, love and respect.

Our English language has a way of making a serious sin, or a solemn declaration that the truth will be told. In such cases they are just plain liars who bear false witness.

Let us love God with all our minds and hearts. May we use His name reverently in all our speech. God, in His generosity, blessed us with our tongues that we may use it for His honor and glory.

Full-blown blasphemy is speaking against God in a contemptuous, scornful or abusive manner. When such blasphemy proceeds from a hatred of God, it is a very serious sin against the second commandment. A man is guilty of cursing when he damns people, his wife or children.

It is serious business to call upon God to witness to the truth of what we say and so it should be done with judicial caution and only when necessary. It has been said that a great percentage of the witnesses in our law courts today are guilty of perjury. Perhaps the majority do not consider the oath they take as having any religious force, but only as a solemn declaration that the truth will be told. In such cases they are just plain liars who bear false witness.

Let us love God with all our minds and hearts. May we use His name reverently in all our speech. God, in His generosity, blessed us with our tongues that we may use it for His honor and glory.

First Semester Exams Top Student Schedule

From The Top

An issue under great discussion at Northville High School is the question of standardized class rings. The Student Council talked with the salesman who handles the rings and viewed samples of standardized rings of other schools. Each school actually designed its own ring, showing the school emblem and setting. The Council decided that it would be best if the entire student body could wear the same ring. The rings will be displayed for student viewing.

Earlier this year, the Student Council members defeated the Student Lounge project which was proposed.

If you were in town on January 12, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. you know that the "People's Police" drive. Many thanks to all the students and taxpayers who participated and contributed. The amount collected was $100.

The Student Council suggestion box, found in Mr. Quyn's office mailbox, has housed very few suggestions this year. The suggestions collected and discussed by the Council, but judging from the number received, either the students are satisfied with the school system; or they aren't sufficiently opposed to any policies to suggest any improvements. The Council greatly appreciates all suggestions which have to do with the school. If you have a suggestion which you feel is worthy of consideration, please bring it to the attention of the Student Council. The meeting was adjourned at 10:30 p.m.

Well, it's finally all over! Everyone is exhausted — teachers are busily correcting exams, figuring out grades, six-week averages, and final semester grades, and students are worrying about the results and re-taking.

Northville High School will finish its first semester tomorrow, January 25. Prior to this date were the long-awaited, but hardly-wanted exams. Monday the students had their first exams. The other exams were held Tuesday and Wednesday.

Now, one may wonder what the students are doing today and tomorrow. The students are busy with their homework, and many are preparing for the final semester grade. The three six-week and final exam grades are averaging out. The students are busy with their homework, and many are preparing for the final semester grade. The three six-week and final exam grades are averaging out.

Freedom, until spring exams for the "zero hour." This!

All League Staff Progresses With Yearbook

Leslie G. Lee, choir director, announced the names of those students from Northville High School who will participate in the All-League Choir.

Representing NHS will be: Christine Barrett, Louise Larson; Kathleen Larson; Diane Melnick; also: Marcia Clum, Nancy Bokos, Gretchen Schneider and Kristine Larson; Robertson — Jim Drew, Bill Cargio, Bartlett — Bill Elwell, Michael Harland, and Larry Fort.

The Northville accompanist will be Carol Valne. Several other members of the group will be photographed.

The girls are kept busy after school on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays collecting information from every organization throughout the school, and in their three-hour study hall work.

After much debating, the staff decided to go for a design which is simple, but effective. The design is simple, but effective. The design is simple, but effective.

Much thought, time, and labor are spent on the book week, and it is the hope of George Webb and Sandra Leigh that the book week will be among the best ever produced at Northville High School.

Club Currents

Northville High School clubs have been busy during this month of January. Even though final exam pressures were prevalent.

January 24, Art Club members are going with the students to a playing clinic at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, January 5.

The Future Nurses Association is busy preparing for a February dance. They are also continuing to work at Northville State Convalescent Home as soon as the Home's volunteer's service is set up.

The Library Club is beginning a vertical file in the high school library. They are organizing the magazine storage area to make room for new magazines, and have been kept busy collecting delinquent fines and overdue books for the library.

The Girls Athletic League has begun a bowling team which will take their final exams.

Debaters Win Again

The Northville Debate team has won again — won, this time, by defeating Bloomfield Hills and Holy High schools at the last League Tournament. Debate was held at Northville, January 15. This brings the NHS score up to 12 wins and no losses. This makes the team all-time League Champions.

How does it feel? Good? "We bet!" said one debater. "We bet!" said another. "We bet!" said a third. "We bet!" said a fourth. "We bet!" said a fifth.

The club will hold a meeting of its four-team basketball league this past week. Sparking their teams to victory was Gary Gryszewicz and Dikran Ornelian who scored 22 and 20 points respectively. The two winning and the two losing teams will clash next Monday.

Indeed it did. Now, there is an amazing amount of work to be done. It is the hope of George Webb and Sandra Leigh that the book week will be among the best ever produced at Northville High School.

Teacher of the Month

Miss Leavitt Interviewed

Have you ever bathed in Northville High's new pool, and you are shocked by the commercial teacher Miss Betty Leavitt? You don't know all the facts. Miss Leavitt liked high school and always had a lot of fun. She was a member of the swim team, but Miss Leavitt was reformed on a 300-acre farm near Lansing, where she got her "swimming" education. She was very active in 4-H projects, besides doing her homework and regular chores. As a last thing, she was a member of the Future Teachers Association.

To change the subject, Miss Leavitt attended Central Michigan University, where she majored in education and was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. She gave us useful facts about attending college. "Just being there," she says, "is a wonderful experience. You have to learn to live, to live with people, to learn to live with people, to learn to live with people." She also mentioned that she was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

Timing another young teacher is Miss Betty Leavitt, high school commercial teacher. Her experience: You have to learn to live, to live with people, to learn to live with people.

Editorially Speaking Exam Complaints . . .

Twice a year, NHS students find it necessary to study for exams. It is only during the semester that the high school students are forced to make a concentrated effort toward learning the basic principles of the courses in which they are being sitting or participating for a whole semester. It is also during exam time that more complaints are voiced and heard than in the entire remainder of the school year.

Some students feel that an exam requires too much factual knowledge of a subject, or at least a better understanding of the course than they have time to muster up. The obvious solution to these needless pain, or would-be catastrophe, is forethought. Students should handle their courses with the future exam in mind, so that the need for "cramming" at the last minute is eliminated. This, of course, does not mean that students should not be worried about learning something, but, in the process.

Another student complaint against exams is the probability of students having a "bad day" or a period of "forgetfulness" which often results from built-up tensions. But, if one's mind is oriented toward this day, then the chance of a blank-out are less likely. These "off-days" do come about, however, as can easily be voiced by the editor. The most natural solution to this problem is to schedule exams as a series of tests, and to use the average of these as the exam grade.

Those in favor of exams maintain that they are necessary to test the student's power to apply what he has learned without the use of the text. It also shows whether student is analytical and which student really understands what he has been exposed to. It is on the final examination that generalizations and application of facts are tested.

After considering both sides of the question, I would like to offer a new and unheard of solution, which will neither make or break the situation. Although I feel that exams are important, I do not believe that we should be judged on what we can recall in an hour and a half exam, but rather, on our entire achievement in the course; i.e. the student would receive one semester grade which would be an average of the entire semester's work. This would do away with the complaints of "no time," "off days," "retaining knowledge," and the numerous other excuses ingenious students are able to conjure up. E.S.

Meet This Month's Student Personalities

Duna Penn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Penn of 4221 Grand River in Novi.

This young lady has attended schools in Arizona, California and Nevada.

By last class commencement she has already been elected to this position at all important events, the Senior Prom.

Duna is the first girl to hold the office of Senior Class President for a good many years. When asked how she felt being elected to this position, she replied, "I didn't know I was elected until I had won."

Soon all of her high school days will be in the past and she will remain at the University of Michigan. Of the four programs taught there, she has her eye on Scientific Engineering. We of the Book Week staff wish her much success.

Gary Davis is a member of the NHS Debate team. He is a member of the NHS Debate team. He is a member of the NHS Debate team.

Gossip . . .

Gossip, originally a god-parent, soon came to mean a friend or acquaintance, either of the parent or the child, baptized, or of the other god-parents, and hence women friends of the mother present at the birth.

This definition no longer means anything to our society to whom gossip has malicious connotations. A gossip is one who spreads idle talk or rumors or hearsay. Just as the modern definition is a distortion of the original one, so is the end result of a rumor or its extreme distortion of reality — the process is gossip. Whether it be "man-talk" or "woman-talk" any kind of gossip can be harmful.

There are two types of gossip — the intentional and accidental. The intentional gossip is spread by a person who exaggerates the truth to create excitement, lure, interest — perhaps, he exaggerates to boost his ego. He tries to do with no consideration about whom he steps on. It is he who "promises never to do it." He tells of experiences, known from the first time that his words will be interpreted the wrong way by his listeners.

This situation has occurred many times — especially in the high school. Tell someone an incident; he misinterprets it and tells it to someone else, who in turn misinterprets and relay it. Apply "fogging" to "gossip" and you have a distorted rumor.

Next time you hear a rumor, check to see that it is true, and that you don't become a gossip! B.C.

Say "Cheese" . . .

Almost anyone, who has ever listened to the radio or has seen a picture of a smiling person, will tell you that smiling is a good thing. It is a good thing, because it makes people like you. It is a good thing, because it makes people like you. It is a good thing, because it makes people like you.

Now, at this point many of you, the readers, probably consider this a ridiculous topic to be editorializing upon. But, read on! Would YOU enjoy being in the company of, or enjoying someone who never smiles, and if he or she does, it disappears as soon as something tragic occurs, no matter how big or insignificant it is? Even though it is unknown to many people, the expression, and whether or not, a smile occurs or not, is not controlled by physical action or injuries. If you don't believe this, look at a baby. It smiles at the oddest times and under conditions that an adult would probably have a tragic expression.

Sometimes look at yourself in the mirror — and take a good look at your natural expression, maybe, just maybe, you are one of the people I'm writing about. H.H.
