

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Whatever happened to the Foundry Flank expansion?
Just ask members of the Northville Economic Development Corporation and they'll tell you that projects of this kind take time.
But it's full speed ahead again. Plans call for the $185,000 addition to the Cady street plant to begin this fall.

You'll remember that the Foundry Flank and Equipment Company expansion was announced nearly six months ago as the first project of the local, non-profit development corporation.

Working through the federal Small Business Administration, the development group obtained approval for a loan of $185,000. Foundry Flank plans to construct a 120 by 150-foot building to accommodate its expanding business.

New equipment purchases made it impossible for the manufacturing firm to finance its own building. This is often true of small, but growing businesses. That's where SBA and the local development group come into the picture. For its part the development group must raise $27,500.

Several months ago the members of the development group started selling 15-year, six percent debentures in denominations of $50. They sold some $18,000 worth.

The campaign bogged down when final details were being negotiated. Now it's all GO and the sale of the remaining $10,000 worth of debentures is underway.

Nelson C. Schrader is in charge of the debenture sale. Others who can take care of investors include A. R. Clarke, Philip Ogilvie, Bruce Potthoff and C. A. Smith.

It's the aim of the development group to obtain as many investors as possible — rather than a few large investments.

The project, when completed means more tax dollars, more employment for the community. It also means a fair return for your investment dollar.

There are indications that the Northville Economic Development Corporation will have more projects in the near future — new industries for the limited sites available.

But this is the first. It's important that it has community support and understanding.
So, if you're looking for an investment, look no further than Northville.

Michigan Mirror Tax Tussle

The special legislative session this fall bears close watching.
Michigan empowers its Governor to call a special "emergency" session of the Legislature at his discretion.

Very few sessions, even legislative ones, end as early as optimistic predictions. In this case, there are just a few legislators willing to forecast what is most likely that the session will run well into the final month of 1963, and probably very close to Christmas.

Michigan employers have a big stake in a series of conferences being held by the Employers' Unemployment Compensation Bureau.

Colin L. Smith, executive director of the Bureau, is conducting a series of briefings on the new unemployment compensation law enacted by the 1963 Legislature.

The act made considerable changes in financing provisions and qualification requirements. Competing for the second part of the session is an absolute necessity.

In the history of special sessions there have been very short ones and some considerably long emergency meetings.

Best guesses indicate the Governor expects legislative action on fiscal reform by the end of the session.

Best guesses indicate the Governor expects legislative action on fiscal reform by the end of the session.

A $2.2 million surplus, larger than even the optimistic predictions, cuts well into the state's debt which was built up over the four previous years.

Fiscal experts, both inside and out of the Legislature, might not be anything to worry about.

Even at the high collection rate recently started an estimated last year, it would not be sufficient to meet the mounting costs of state government for long.

The point which will extend the special session comes from the varying views of legislators on how income should be raised under new plans.

Some firmly feel that the addition of more "nuisance taxes" is necessary to help forestall or lower the debt level, should be sufficient to accomplish a balance.

A growing number, led by the Governor, are of the belief that a general overhaul of Michigan's tax structure is necessary to provide a continuing balance.

Department officials say extended use of the different colors, foliage green, ivory, beige and light green in addition to the two red shades, will depend largely on public reaction.

"If favorable, then we'll extend the course of the show to include a variety of colors," said Commissioner John C. Mackie.

We were more than a month in rehearsals before the opera was ready for a trial run at a nearby high school. It proved to be a big success and the four portraits along with the rest of the cast were justifiably proud of themselves and eager for the big show.

So it was with no little equanimity that I invited a special female friend (not my wife) to view my performance at the feature show. The audience filled to capacity, including among others my wife-to-be, my special female friend, companions of the basketball team, cohorts of the college newspaper, and — encompassed in the front row of seats — the college president, professors and their wives.

Reading ourselves backstage, I discovered belatedly that the safety pin that kept my kilt in place was missing. Everyone searched frantically, but no safety pin could be found. At the last minute, the director hastily improvised with three or four pieces of cloth.

The curtain went up and the show rapidly progressed to the grand entrance of the Babson Park, Mass., September 5. My advice to young men and women entering the job market is to look for a job that is not only a career but also a challenge.

For example, the young man or woman who is a careful career planner wants to know first where the road he hopes to take is leading. Better than that to accept what looks like a good job now and be regretful later on.

Can You Top This? Editor Wilts under Kilts In College Operetta

EDITOR'S NOTE: With this article, Managing Editor Jack Hoffman begins a weekly column that will concern a wide variety of subjects — all of which are intended to tickle a few funny bones or generally entertain our readers.

"Did you read about the editor who was 'kilted'?" one of my friends asked, followed by a round of guttural yells from members of the editorial staff.

Whereupon a discussion of embarrassing stories ensued, with each participant claiming special honors for his experience. A silly discussion to be sure, but the kind that men are wont to engage in on a warm afternoon.

None of the stories could match my contribution nor my understanding sympathy for the director who clutched wildly at his pants while seeing his free symphonic hand.

That director, though I probably never will forget his experience. Even if he makes a stab at it, the angelic faces of his choir members still always remind me of that Sunday morning.

Years will pass but the story shall never escape him. I speak from experience. For back on the now new campus of Flint Junior College a somewhat similar story undoubtedly still lingers in the memories of those who were cast as portraits of Scottish ancestors, who during the course of the show came in and step from the picture frames to sing and dance.

about WOMEN

Another busy season is in the offing, as local area women's organizations prepare to launch their 1963-64 activities with new officers, projects, luncheons and meetings.

Planning the gravel for two local organizations again this year will be Mrs. George Koha, president of both the Northville Women's Club and the local branch of the National Farm and Garden association.

Some 175 active members will come to order when Mrs. Koha officially opens the fall Women's Club activities with a luncheon at the Thunderbolt Inn on Friday, October 4.

Activities planned by the Newcomer Club are well along as the first meeting of the group will be held September 19.

Working with Mrs. Koha as officers in the Woman's Club are Mrs. O. F. Reng, vice-president; Mrs. William B. Crump, recording secretary; Mrs. N. Brown, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Carl Johnson, treasurer.

Plans are already underway for the Garden Club's major activity of this year — its Green's Market scheduled for December 7. Some 12 other groups will join with the local club in making this project "a better" than ever.

Officers Eye Busy Season For Local Women's Clubs

Another busy season is in the offing, as local area women's organizations prepare to launch their 1963-64 activities with new officers, projects, luncheons and meetings.

Planning the gravel for two local organizations again this year will be Mrs. George Koha, president of both the Northville Women's Club and the local branch of the National Farm and Garden association.

Some 175 active members will come to order when Mrs. Koha officially opens the fall Women's Club activities with a luncheon at the Thunderbolt Inn on Friday, October 4.

Activities planned by the Newcomer Club are well along as the first meeting of the group will be held September 19.

Auxiliary Seeks Volunteers

A concerted effort to enlist the services of 125 new volunteers by October is being made by the Auxiliary at Plymouth State Home and Training School. The first volunteer organization in the country to serve in a state institution for the mentally retarded, the Auxiliary is holding an informal coffee meeting Tuesday morning, September 17, in the auditorium of the Administration Building on Sheldon Road at Five Mile in Northville township. Beginning promptly at 9:30 a.m., the two-hour orientation will include a general introduction to the field of mental retardation; the State Home's philosophy, goals, and programs; the Auxiliary's variety of services; and a tour of the facilities. Elaborating on the importance of doubling the present membership, William Boyd, Community Relations Director in charge of the volunteer program, stated, "a recently constructed resident building will soon increase the patient population by another 220 which will mean a total bed capacity exceeding 900. With the present ratio of staff to patients being 1:12, many of the children compete with each other for programs and services which would otherwise be impossible. The volunteers are one vital segment of the team which attempts to bring each child to his fullest possible development."

Any interested persons or groups in the metropolitan and suburban areas of Detroit are invited to attend. Contact the Community Relations Department (GL 3-1500) for further information.

Completely service oriented, the Aux. Lady, according to the Medical Superintendent, Robert J. Jastrow, "is regarded as part of the staff and provides many of the 'luxury' programs and services which would otherwise be impossible. The volunteers are one vital segment of the team which attempts to bring each child to his fullest possible development."

Any interested persons or groups in the metropolitan and suburban areas of Detroit are invited to attend. Contact the Community Relations Department (GL 3-1500) for further information.

JV Grid Optimism Runs Short

Optimism is a quantity in short supply as far as the Northville varsity coaches are concerned. Also in short supply is the number of linemen now practicing — just 15. Lining up to walk the backfield positions, however, are some 18 griders.

This is the dilemma that faces Mentors Brian Dunn and Dick Gray as they send their charges through practice drills. "An injury to one of the linemen could really hurt us," said Dunn. "There's just not enough replacements."

Perhaps the primary reason for the thinning of the JV ranks is the large number of players being retained on the varsity. In past years, Dunn explained, quite a few boys have been sent down to grid experience.

"We're young, small and inexperienced," noted Dunn, "but the boys seem to want to play."

Even though the ranks are quite thin, several candidates show promise, and most are freshmen.

Standout linemen thus far are tackle Mike Utley, a 170 pounder, and Mike Matoney and Gorczycki, both of whom weigh around 180 pounds; Neil Brasure, "a pretty good player," and Mike Matoney, another guard.

As a prep at Northville high school, the most outstanding player in the annual Green and White clash which climaxes spring drills.

All-Stater To Help Vanderbilt

Bill Judy, former all-state lineman from Northville high school, was one of the griders who turned out for Labor Day for the first fall practice for the Vanderbilt football squad.

A veteran, 210-pound guard, Judy's line experience is expected to help Coach Jack Green in carving out a formidable 1963 squad.

Judy, whose brother Steve is a top quarterback contender at Michigan State University, is a 21-year-old junior at Vanderbilt (Nashville, Tennessee) where he is studying mechanical engineering.

He is one of two Michigan players included in the initial varsity football roster at Vanderbilt. The other is Dan Gerow of Suring, a 210-pound junior candidate for an end position.

Green proclaims that most days was an excellent time to start football practice. "This day is appropriately named," he said, "for that's exactly what we planned — labor. We had a fine spring practice. Our men know what is expected of them, and I believe they are in condition to work hard during fall practice."

Vanderbilt opens at home, with Furman, on September 21 in a night game, then tackles Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Ole Miss before engaging BC, then finishing with Kentucky, Tulane, George Washington and traditional rival, Tennessee.

Dandy for Dad

It isn't often you see the name of Dick Judy, former Northville city councilman, on the sports pages. Usually it's his son — Steve — and Jim — who have displayed their athletic talents at Northville high school, Vanderbilt and Michigan State.

But Sunday, their Dad proved he was a pretty keen sportsman. Handling in the upper peninsula, with Walter Hammond of Northville, Judy bagged a 175-pound bear.

Judy was participating in a hunt staged by the Michigan Bear Hunters Association. Others had hunted all week but through Sunday a total of just nine bears were shot. Judy and Hammond joined the hunt for the week end.

Swainson read scriptures from the Old and New Testaments, respectively.

Remarks by Judge Hoyt Leedom and Governor George Romney came just before the prayer by Couse.

The Rev. Lloyd Brasare, Don Duguid and William Slinger, all of Northville, were among some 500 attending.

Trustee Explains 'No' to Additional Taps at Lesser Unit

In the September 5 edition of The Record an explanation was given for my negative vote on the revised engineering fees for the inspection of sanitary sewer installations. I believe most considerations and determinations must become of more concern in our deliberations. Fundamentally, we must build into fees a recovery of capital, operating, maintenance, and administrative expenses as applicable. Where related to the benefit or utility of a few, the costs generally should be borne by the few. The determination of a fee on the basis of certain estimates is not evil, but the failure to consider and define the composition of the estimates is poor management.

Whether a service fee is for the general interest or for the benefit of a few, we must also take precautions against the programming of unwarranted surpluses. If permitted, surpluses invite misuses of funds. Surpluses are temporary happy accidents and not permanent planning — of public funds administration.

New Elementary School Opens Doors in Salem

BUBBLING SANITATION — Because the Washenaw county restrictions on septic systems are extremely stringent it was necessary to build a sewage disposal plant at the Salem school — similar to the one planned in Novi — to provide for adequate protection. These pictures show the primary unit where waste liquid is exposed to clean air. By the time sewage is passed through the entire mechanical system, the effluent is cleaner than water in most streams. The new, five-classroom building is located on the east side of Salem road, just south of the old Salem school. Its architects, O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach Associates, also designed the proposed Novi junior high school.

Errors Dip With 'Dial 1'

Since telephone users in Northville have been dialing the access code "1" before placing a long distance call, there has been a sharp drop in wrong number calls.

Wilson cited a case as an example. A user here intended to dial a Super 8 (788) number in Detroit. By mistake, he dialed SU 9 (720). Before use of the "1", that call would have proceeded on to the Stinson 9 in Flint, Michigan. Wilson said that some customers are still not dialing the "1" before use of a long distance call.

"When a user now tries a long distance call and forgets to dial the "1", that call is blocked and the user learns that a recording which reminds him of the omission." Wilson said, "and this reduction comes with two important benefits to our users. The first is a long distance call and what that calls are getting through is not, and he suggested they factor — no loss of time while waiting for a long distance call through a dialing error, but a long distance call which is not subject to the inconvenience of having to contact their telephone business office to correct charges for unintended long distance calls."

Traveling's Fun in Michigan

Extra Adventure Awaits Upper Peninsula Motorist

Editor's Note: How to make the most of a series of travel articles prepared by this newspaper and the Automobile Club of Michigan. They are dedicated to making the 1963 travel season more enjoyable for motorists and more profitable for Michigan's tourist industry. Following is the sixth of seven articles.

This little extra touch of adventure most vacationists like can be anyone's simply by exploring some of Michigan's Upper Peninsula byways, the roads ignored by most tourists. Without getting very far off the beaten track, a motorist could see such widely known spectacles as the international famous Soo Locks, the Tabquamenon falls (largest in the Midwest), Porcupine Mountain State park (also largest in the Midwest), the artificial ski jump at Iron Mountain (largest anywhere) and any number of other attractions with superlative labels. But if the gypsy spirit moves him, there's a lot of color, romance and excitement waiting along the Upper Peninsula's byways.

Instead of driving directly to Sault Ste. Marie from St. Ignace, a motorist might want to head for Drummond Island, easternmost part of the Upper Peninsula. He can get there by taking M-134 to DeTour (a village, not a highway deviation).

From DeTour, the only way to get to the island is by ferry. The island is a quaint place, full of marvelous scenery and history. The British held it for 18 years after the War of 1812 and the ruins of Fort Drummond lie in mute testimony to Hecate's rule.

At Marquette, there's an interesting little village with a big name. It was in Big Bay that Henry Ford built a large sawmill in the days when wood was needed for car bodies and floorboards.

In 1932 the Lumberjack Tavern in Big Bay was the scene of a murder remarkably similar to the one that formed the basis for the best-selling novel, "Anatomy of a Murder." When the movie was filmed in 1959, several scenes were made in the tavern.

Big Bay is the home of an unique and relatively little known institution — Bay Cliff Health camp, a nonprofit, non-denominational summer camp for crippled children and youngsters with all sorts of physical handicaps from throughout the Upper Peninsula.

Most travelers en route from Marquette to Houghton drive right past one of Michigan's most scenic spots simply because it has received very little publicity. It's the Sturgeon River Falls and Gorge. This is probably the only true gorge in Michigan, and the falls are among the most beautiful in the state. A foot trail leads the visitor to the falls and gorge, which are located on woodlands owned by the Michigan College of Mining and Technology.

When visitors get to L'Anse, they may want to take a side trip to Penuquaming, a ghost town about eight miles distant. Henry Ford once owned a summer home here, which he acquired along with other property. In fact, Ford's holdings once included the entire Penuquaming peninsula.

From Houghton, one can drive to another of the Upper Peninsula's "end of the line" towns — Copper Harbor, Michigan's northernmost community.

It was here that the U.S. government built Fort Wilkins in 1844 to protect copper miners from lawless attacks of Indians that never materialized. The fort has been restored and is now maintained as a state park.

Copper Harbor is one of the Upper Peninsula's older settlements while White Pine is its newest. Located in Ontonagon County southwest of Houghton, White Pine merits a visit because it is a model town that mushroomed out of the woods along M-64 a few years ago when the Copper Range Company opened a vast copper mine there.

From White Pine one can drive south to US-2, the main traveled east-west route in the Upper Peninsula, all the way back to the Mackinac Bridge. But the motorist who selects to turn off US-2 and drive down the Garden Peninsula, will have missed seeing Fayette.

Among other things, Fayette is a ghost town and state park. It's a piece of land overlooking Snail Shell harbor, the most beautiful harbor in the Upper Peninsula. Fayette was built as a charcoal iron furnace town around 1869.

But when the hardwood forests around Fayette were cut over, costs of operating the furnaces rose until, around 1892, Fayette was turned into a deserted village. Today it is complete with a genuine legend of a buried treasure.

Ann Arbor — The first step, when you are conducting a group discussion, is to feel the group's pulse. Specifically, the leader must always be sensitive to guarded expressions of feelings. "The beginning and the close of every conference frequently offer opportunities to capitalize on 'uncalled for' expressions of feelings."

The leader should also give the group a chance to think and plan what to say; dominating the talking encourages the group to take a passive role. Accepting expression of feeling — not rejecting, disagreeing or arguing — is important. "A conference leader shows skill in acceptance when he demonstrates respect for the dignity of his group members as well as for the importance of their feelings and thoughts."

There are two other skill points that may help the leader: "Understanding a participant's thoughts and feelings — not evaluating or acting as a judge;" and "involving all participants in the discussion — not getting into a prolonged two-way exchange with one participant."

The second way to cope with feelings is to help the conferees express their emotions in harmless ways. "A conference leader is in a good position not only to permit, but actually to encourage verbal release of hostility, and if he realizes that bitter feelings are modified thereby, this own feelings on the matter are less inclined to be aroused," Maier explains.

Since problem solving cannot proceed effectively until the emotional aspects have been dealt with, it is wise to play safe and explore and respect the attitudes that may be present in the group," says Maier, widely noted for his research in group problem solving and decision making.

One way to deal with feelings in a group is for the leader to give whatever reassurance he can. This should not be confused with pitying or agreeing, however.

The second way to cope with feelings is to help the conferees express their emotions in harmless ways. "A conference leader is in a good position not only to permit, but actually to encourage verbal release of hostility, and if he realizes that bitter feelings are modified thereby, this own feelings on the matter are less inclined to be aroused," Maier explains.

UP IN THE AIR — Northville firemen, who have fought just about every kind of fire you can think of, encountered still another kind last week Friday when a fire of undetermined origin destroyed a treehouse located near Bradner and Five Mile road in Northville township. The treehouse was destroyed, but quick action prevented damage to the tree itself.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Have you ever tried to define success? The dictionary says it's "the accomplishment of a purpose."
This leaves some degree of latitude, depending upon the level of one's purpose.

The thought came to mind as I talked with Roy Stone this week. Most area residents know Roy, his wife Esther, and the six little Stones, each of whom has grown up helping out at their Dad's Gamble store.

Roy and Esther and their youngest, Corky (8), recently moved down to Largo, Florida to try semi-retirement. Roy's back this week and you can bet a $2.95 hickory-handle hammer marked down from $3.50 that he'll stick around town at least until Saturday's sidewalk sale is over.

While he may admit that business is as good or better than ever with son Buzz at the helm, Roy's not quite ready to fish and lay in the sun all the time.

He came to the Northville area in 1935 and for 17 years the Stones raised chickens and sold eggs from their Seven Mile road farm. They worked hard and prospered.

In June, 1949 Roy started in business locally at the Gamble store. Some 14 years later his store is doing nine times the volume.

Success? I think Roy and Esther Stone know its meaning. It's everything in life all wrapped up in the accomplishment of a family unit. It's the chicken and egg business that paid for the store; it's the store that helped send the youngsters to college; it's the youngsters, themselves — a girl who set new records for scholastic honors at the University of Michigan and will one day become an actuary with one of the nation's top insurance firms, one boy in Diesel engine research after graduation from college, another managing the family business, two more in college and a youngest still at home.

The Stones have worked hard for their success and it would appear that it has been complete. But like many businessmen who have known the effect of Roy's energy upon all business activity in Northville, I hope his visits to the store remain frequent.

While Buzz is perfectly capable of carrying on at Gamble's, Northville isn't quite ready to meet its business challenges without the help and advice of merchants like Roy Stone.

Bah, Humbug

The good fairy has invaded our home despite my obvious dislike for her — she just plain refuses to take leave. I'm not sure how she managed to wrangle her way in, but I have a strong suspicion that my sympathetic wife greeted her with open arms when my back was turned.

"Didn't you ever have a good fairy when you were young?" my wife asked me upon hearing my purposely rude reception.

"Now if there ever was an unfair question that was it. What right had she in digging ghosts out of my closet, I ask. Sure she had a right, but certainly that's no reason for red carpet treatment to permit her to frolic with my youngsters' already vivid imaginations.

My first real clash with the good fairy took place a few months back when my eldest daughter barely in her seventh year — pried loose a tooth. She'd been working on that bicuspid for hours and, without any help from her parents, she dislodged it without a whimper.

I was proud of her. Proud that, until she produced confidently that the good fairy was going to reward her with a quarter.

"A nickel, maybe even a dime, but a quarter! Good gracious, woman, has influenza hit the fairy land too? Besides, what right has the good fairy in telling our child how much she's going to reward her with?"

"A nickel, maybe even a dime, but a quarter! Good gracious, woman, has influenza hit the fairy land too? Besides, what right has the good fairy in telling our child how much she's going to reward her with?"

That was in the evening. The next morning she had her quarter.

Since then our seven-year-old has been removing teeth as easily as picking dandelions. And the good fairy continues to parlay enamel in hand cases and slits still naming her help on the too. Worse still, that imag-

Roger Babson Heredity's Role

Babson Park, Mass., — No heredity sensibility thinks that we are not affected by heredity. It is fundamental, and has existed for all the thousands of generations that have preceded us.

But, we have come from so many generations that it is absolutely impossible to pick out any one person and say that this is "the one" from whom we have descended.

There are, however, many who recognize that the life of each of us is affected by one or more of our ancestors, and it is absolutely true that in one spiritual laboratory if we attempt to single out any individual as responsible for our inherited characteristics.

There is, of course, no question but that our mother's blood came to us through the umbilical cord, and that it was very much influenced by what our mother was thinking about during the nine months preceding our birth.

She, in turn, was largely influenced by the way her husband treated her and by the various events that happened to take place during those nine months.

So you see that heredity can be, and often is, affected by very strange and tiny circumstances which complicate the picture of our specific inheritance. Therefore, although we must all believe in heredity, both in a general way and even with regard to our specific immediate ancestry, it is a very delicate — and sometimes even irresponsible — link for any of us.

I like to date my own ancestry from a brave woman who came from England or Holland with her son James, and landed in Salem in 1637. This was a year when the so-called "witches" were being so brutally treated, and Isabel took her son James and got on the first fishing boat which happened to be bound for Cape Ann. She landed on the beach and built a rough log cabin which is now number 69 Main Street in Gloucester.

Later, she helped her son James build a stone house which may still be seen on Route 127 halfway between Gloucester and Rockport. There James cut staves in the woods and made barrels which he sold to the fishermen to pack with dried codfish for Bermuda and the West Indies.

There then is another story, telling how James' son John lost all his sons at sea. But one was married and had left a pregnant wife on shore, from whom our family all descended.

States Miss Few Sources for Taxes

Taxes imposed by the various states differ considerably, but there appears to be a definite trend to stick with a few main sources of income.

In addition to state income taxes, three of the most common sources of income for state operations are gasoline, sales and cigarette taxes.

A traveler in the United States will find some 10 states where he does not have to pay a state sales tax. A sales tax also is in effect in Washington, D.C.

All of the 50 states impose a tax on gasoline sales, including Alaska and Hawaii, and all states, except Oregon, Colorado, and North Carolina have imposed taxes on cigarettes.

The range of sales taxes is from two to four per cent, with most states levying a three per cent tax. Five to eight cents is imposed per gallon of gas purchased. Among those levying a tax on cigarettes, several Southwestern states have enacted an 8-cent per package tax. Most of the others range from two to seven cents and a state tax cigarette on a ten-cent per-pack basis.

Michigan uses all three of these popular sources. The state imposes 6 cents tax on each gallon of gas, 7 cents per pack on sales, and 7 cents per package on cigarettes. Democratic leaders could easily be in a long line in 1964 to challenge Gov. George Romney if he runs for a second term.

The current special session and its outcome will largely determine whether there is to be a feast or a famine of Democratic office seekers next year.

Former Gov. John B. Swainson, Congressman-at-Large No. 11 District, Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie, Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, Secretary of State James M. Harlan, State Central Committee Chairman Zoltan Ferency and a number of others have been most frequently mentioned as the likely candidates for governor in the Democratic ticket.

Today, however, George Stewart, the Board's educational director, says the public is becoming more interested in alcoholism as a problem, and more alcoholics are admitting that they have a problem.

"Most people felt about 10 years ago that if they forgot about alcoholism, it might just go away," said Stewart.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley emphasizes there is a very distinct right of the person who has received any un-ordered merchandise.

First, you need never accept items you did not order. You may return them to the merchant who sold them to you, or you should open a dispute with the merchant.

As long as you have no legal obligation to pay for it, Kelley's advice is to dispute the merchant's bill for it. The merchant should be kept for a reasonable period of time. ONLY THE CONCRETE REMAINS — Until last week two large barns stood where now only rocks and concrete foundation and flooring remain. A fire of undetermined origin destroyed both buildings and damaged two others. A nearby vacant house, scene of several arrests in recent weeks, was undamaged.

Flames Hit Barns, House; Spark Police Investigation

Police stepped up their search for clues this week following two "mysterious" blazes that destroyed two barns near the Nine Mile - Beck road intersection and gutted a house near Walled Lake.

Latest of the blazes occurred near Walled Lake when a fire of undetermined origin destroyed a house at 208 Bernstad, near South Lake drive. Firemen were called to the scene at 6:38 a.m. Survivors were returning from assisting the Lyon township department with a fire at 2624 Grand River Friday afternoon in which two trailers and an amusement ride were damaged and several wood pallets destroyed along with a tarp. The trailers were owned by Michigan Midget Movies, located in the rear of the business place and were used for transporting amusement equipment.

A car fire September 10 at 20785 Wixom road, caused about $10 damage to the vehicle owned by R. McCardie. A barn fire west of New Hudson at 5:30 a.m. Sunday destroyed a house and a barn. The Lyon township department under the mutual aid pact; Firemen responded to several other fire alarms this past week. These include a fire at 6246 Grand River Friday afternoon in which two trailers and an amusement ride were damaged and several wood pallets destroyed along with a tarp. The trailers were owned by Michigan Midget Movies, located in the rear of the business place and were used for transporting amusement equipment.

The fire was too far along for firemen to save the building or its contents valued at $10,000. Although the family which had owned and lived in the house were known to have moved to Georgia a few weeks ago, firemen sifted through the rubble and ashes after learning from a neighbor that someone may have been living in the building.

Fire fighters were at the scene until 5 a.m. but no bodies were found. According to police, the house apparently was owned by Henry Davis, who reportedly moved with his family to Georgia. However, Davis himself has been seen about 20 miles from the scene south of New Hudson.

Part of the old vacant Bernhard homestead, the two barns were already wadded with the time Novy firemen arrived on the scene shortly before midnight last week. With flames licking dangerously close to two nearby buildings, some 20 volunteer firemen from the local department poured hundreds of gallons of water into the blaze and onto the nearby buildings, thus preventing their destruction.

Although firemen encountered some difficulty fighting the fire because of the rough terrain in the backyard, no one was reported injured. The two barns which were destroyed adjoined each other on the south side of the four-barn complex. One of them reportedly was filled with hay. A wall and the roof of the other two buildings were damaged.

The large, vacant house and still another barn located some 300 feet away were undamaged. Fire officials estimated the total fire damage at approximately $10,000. The buildings, owned by Fred Bernhard of 4644 West Nine Mile road, were uninsured.

Police believe the blaze was touched off by either youths looking for excitement or by someone who may have accidentally dropped a cigarette during a drinking party.

The house and barns have been the scene of several police arrests in recent weeks. Deputies from Detroit area schools having been driving to the house late at night for beer parties and for the thrill of walking about what they termed a "haunted house," police said. Several weeks ago, a number of arrests were made when a base inside the house itself was discovered. Beer bottles and cans still litter the blackened ground where firemen fought. Last week's fire unit almost 4 a.m. Firemen responded to several other fire alarms this past week. These include a fire at 6246 Grand River Friday afternoon in which two trailers and an amusement ride were damaged and several wood pallets destroyed along with a tarp. The trailers were owned by Michigan Midget Movies, located in the rear of the business place and were used for transporting amusement equipment.

Station Leased To Dryer

Harrawood's Standard Service Station, located at the northeast corner of Grand River and Novi road, is now under new management.

Leasing of the service station business to Herb Dryer of Novi was consummated and announced by Leo Harrawood, owner, here Monday.

The station, which retains its Standard Oil franchise and Triple A Service, is now called Herb's Standard Service. It is a buy-sell agreement with the Standard Oil company, which in turn has leased the station building from Harrawood to Dryer.

Harrawood will continue to manage his restaurant, which adjoins the service station, and an auto repair and trailer dealership, and a repair garage — all of which are located at the heart of the business section.

The new service station manager has been a resident of Novi for approximately 25 years. For the past 20 years he has been a salesman for Novi Auto Parts, a job he has now left for the station business. Married and father of three children, Richard, Terry, and Patricia, Dryer is past president of the Novi Board of Commerce, currently a trustee, and a buy-sell agreement with the Standard Oil company, which in turn has leased the station building from Harrawood to Dryer.

Harrawood has owned and operated the service station for 16 years, purchasing the property from Carolyn Gaffney. In that period, he has expanded the business, begun new businesses and remodeled the buildings.

He is married, lives at 2700 Novi road, and has two daughters, Diana Lee and Debra Lou. In announcing the change in management, Harrawood expressed appreciation to his customers "for their loyal patronage over the past 16 years." He said he owed his success to the service station business.

"Mr. Dryer," he said, "will be providing the same high quality services and I'm sure that he would appreciate customers giving him the same consideration they granted me."

Brill Electric company of Pontiac was awarded the electrical contract at a base bid of $49,380 and agreed upon a total low bid of $77,287. The kitchen equipment contract goes to Great Lakes Hotel Supply company which submitted a base bid of $23,724. The contract, however, calls for a net amount of $29,830 because a few items were deducted.

Consideration of the bids was begun on Wednesday evening, but the hour grew late and the board recessed until the next evening.

One of the matters to come before board members on Wednesday was the subject of sewer lines. Explaining that he and Russell Taylor, along with Superintendent of Schools Tom Culbert, had inspected a sewerage disposal plant similar to the one proposed for the junior high school, President Arthur Heslip noted that a study is underway by the engineering department of public works concerning a possible sewer line to the school site.

It is possible, he suggested, that the sewer line would be available to the school, thus making the proposed disposal plant unnecessary at a later date. However, Heslip admitted that there is no assurance at this time that the sewer line will be installed or that it will be available to the school system for toilet purposes. He said the matter of time and cost has not yet been considered.

School Board Lets Bids, Eyes Construction Soon

With the letting of bids last week, officials optimistically predicted that ground-breaking for Novi's new junior high school will take place yet this month.

Actual construction of the project is expected to start "about a year" to complete, thus putting the time of completion near the opening of the 1964 school year.

In a meeting Thursday, which represented a continuation of Wednesday's regular board meeting, members of the Novi board of education unanimously let bids totaling $894,770.

Winner of the principal bid for construction — was Berch Construction company of Pontiac. Berch submitted the total low bid of $222,498 — just $2,774 less than the next total low bid of $225,272 submitted by the Leslie Construction company.

The general construction bid included a base of $185,000 and five additive alternatives. The latter include a sewer disposal system, sound system, play area development, green house and a new playground.

Contracts for two other alternative additions — an entrance canopy and asphalt paving in the parking lot — will be awarded by the board of education. The board also will award the bid for the Leslie Construction company.

While bids have been let, the board voted to award contracts also has been delayed pending receipt of formal approval from the state department of health. The department of health is reviewing the bid for the Leslie Construction company.

He said the matter of time and cost has not yet been considered.

Both the president and Taylor reported that the disposal plant they had inspected was apparently fully satisfactory to its users and that there was no evidence of malfunction or unnecessary maintenance problems.

The matter of a sewer system for the new school will have been a subject of argument for some time, although it appears the board is now in agreement that the mechanical system will be satisfactory.

Some time ago after learning that the school site could not use a standard septic tank system, the board submitted a proposal to the Water Resources Commission for a mechanical disposal plant. Subsequently the board received approval for the proposed installation from the commission, which had consulted with the department of public health. Approval also was received from the department of public instruction.

However, because Heslip voiced concern that direct approval had not been received from the department of health, the architects immediately sought the request for approval, however, the health department has asked for working drawings of the proposed disposal plant. Heslip reported that the disposal plant they had inspected was apparently fully satisfactory to its users and that there was no evidence of malfunction or unnecessary maintenance problems.

Approval also was received from the department of public instruction.

However, because Heslip voiced concern that direct approval had not been received from the department of health, the architects immediately sought the request for approval, however, the health department has asked for working drawings of the proposed disposal plant. Heslip reported that the disposal plant they had inspected was apparently fully satisfactory to its users and that there was no evidence of malfunction or unnecessary maintenance problems.

The matter of a sewer system for the new school will have been a subject of argument for some time, although it appears the board is now in agreement that the mechanical system will be satisfactory.

Some time ago after learning that the school site could not use a standard septic tank system, the board submitted a proposal to the Water Resources Commission for a mechanical disposal plant. Two Patrolmen Resign Novi Hikes Police Salaries

Starting salaries on the Novi police department council voted to award

BeGoled said that both men were leaving because of more financially lucrative positions with other law enforcement agencies. Describing both as top-notch officers, BeGoled said that the council discussed the possibility of adopting an insurance plan for the department either in lieu of higher salaries or in addition to them.

It was pointed out that Workman's Compensation does not cover the policeman while on duty. The resignations reduce the police force to five men, including the chief. Last year the department maintained eight men.

BeGoled contended — and was supported in his contention by council members — that because police salaries in Novi generally are lower than those in neighboring communities it is difficult "to keep good officers."
