

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

A New York Times columnist recently likened a situation to a defense offered by a youth who had killed his mother and father.

He appealed to the court for mercy on the basis that he was an orphan. Sounds a little ridiculous until you think about it for awhile. Then it becomes downright sickening as you consider the loopholes through which known offenders have squeaked to escape punishment.

Usually this is accomplished with the assistance of a smart lawyer, sometimes because of an astute and fear-ridden public that "doesn't want to become involved".

A frightened crowd, which has probably proscribed most of the avenues to loopholes, is the emphasis by the courts on protecting the rights of the individual.

What about the rights of the "aggrieved" individual? Law enforcement officials are deeply concerned. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover wrote in the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin of November:

"Recent court decisions seem to place more emphasis on the conduct of the police officer than on the conduct of the criminal. The question of guilt is obscured and lost in a maze of procrustean technicalities and legal joustings. Many times, truth, which often exposes guilt, is only a secondary objective; the main search is for error or a technical loophole for the murderer or hoodlum".

It is easy to argue on behalf of the protection of a citizen's individual rights - to fair trial, to being considered innocent until proven guilty, to equality for all citizens of the United States.

These are inherent objectives of our great democracy. But is an "equal" balance being maintained? It would not be difficult to argue with good evidence that what many seeking "justice" and "equality" really want is an advantage... a slight edge.

The President's appeal in his State of the Union address last week, which end to all bugging devices on the basis that a citizen's privacy should not be invaded may sound noble and in the proper American spirit. If it is as bad as one would be led to believe by the strong appeal for its curtailment, then it should never have been condoned in the beginning. It is a long-time practice, knowingly permitted, that has suddenly become alarming in the light of publicity.

Personally, I believe "bugging" should be permitted - on a qualified basis. Where reasonable evidence of wrong-doing can be proven by a law enforcement agency, I believe there should be judicial authority to grant a "permit to bug", and this evidence should then be admissible in a court of law.

Indiscriminate invasion of a citizen's privacy is certainly intolerable. But we return to the definition of "citizenship" and the responsibility for peaceful conduct that it carries. If one violates this aspect of citizenship, he should be made to recognize that he also sacrifices his right to privacy.

I do not believe that we can wage a battle against crime by giving all the weapons to the criminals.

I thoroughly agree with the conclusions of Mr. Hoover who said:

"That we must reawaken in every citizen a fierce devotion to supremacy of law and equal justice;

"That we must forever renounce the idiosyncrasy that associates glamour and heroism with lawbreakers;

"That all criminals must be brought to the bar of justice for realistic handling, not merely maudlin sympathy;

"That means must be provided to defeat the enemies within our borders who are puppets of enemies from without;

"That we must insure by every lawful means that differences are resolved in the courtroom, not in the street;

"That we must adamantly insist that each individual is held responsible for the natural and probable consequences of his acts.

"Let the hoodlum, the racist, the demagogue, and the exponent of anarchy know that the great, quiet power of this Nation lies in her law-abiding citizens, and they will sturm no more. The choice is ours. The time is now."

One irrefutable fact emerged from ABC's hour-long production of "Sex in the Sixties" last week - an obviously more candid attitude toward sex prevails today than just 10 years ago.

What formerly was entertained in private has now become a public matter. Witness symptomatic things, the topless girls, the mini-skirts, increasing nudity in magazines and generally, a more frank approach on the part of young people. The production, which focused on attitudes on the University of Michigan campus, is testimony itself to this growing liberality.

Yet, for all its laudable approach, the interviews, the psychiatric music, indeed, the technical skill of the producers in handling a very explosive subject, the essence of the sexual explosion, as it is called, remained a mystery. We are still flapping at the why's of today's sexual attitudes.

The reason is apparent to anyone who has attempted to examine "the why's" of his sexual behavior. It's a particular problem, one deeply imbedded in personality that does not admit any easy explanation. Understanding it is tantamount to understanding ourselves.

Although ABC did not illuminate any astounding facts, it presented provocative opinions worth our consideration.

There has definitely been "an explosion of sexual expression." The question is, however, how much will it continue to grow. What are its limits? One interviewee stated that we are approaching "Scandinavian permissiveness," which, we would assume, means a more blasé approach to sex. What, however, are we getting further ahead from what "Playboys" Hugh Hefner calls, "The Puritan ethic."

One of the most enlightening vignettes was a U. of M. room where four college girls discussed sex. They suddenly obtained freedom; parents were no longer there to supervise activities. There was a decided, serious acceptance of freer sexual expression. Virgidity, they agreed, was no longer a forerunner of marriage.

Among those expressing opinions on sex were the authors of the sensational book, "Human Sexual Response," Dr. Robert Masters and Dr. Virginia Johnson. Through their clinical studies in the laboratory, the sexual act is no longer a mystique. It has been viewed objectively for the first time by scientists, the men who triggered the present revolution.

It is these same men, the scientists, who offer a means of gaining a more healthy perspective on sex. The answer: sex education as it was shown practiced in Flint, Michigan. By teaching youngsters about sex in the classroom with parents in attendance, foresighted Flint educators have taken the first step toward the realization that "sex is a healthy, dignified, realistic component of everyday living."

A Late Christmas Card?

What's a rebel really like? He's a big man, rather on the paunchy side, who looks like he could easily handle himself in an old-fashioned donnybrook; and he's a gentle man who concerns himself over a daughter's lost kitten.

He's a blunt, aggressive guy who wades unhesitatingly into the sheriff's department ready to fight incompetence; and he's a fellow like you or I who cover a bit when a police stern forces us to the curb.

He's a rebel; and he's Arch Vallier, husband, father, Plymouth commissioner and Wayne county's most controversial supervisor - a man of paradoxes.

Archibald - even his name is a paradox - hasn't always been a rebel, and he even questions whether the word best describes him. He first became interested in government when, as an Army ordnance officer during World War II, he spent his spare hours sitting in the galleries of the Legislature up at Lansing. It was exciting and he promised himself that one day he would take an active part in it.

Six years ago he was elected Plymouth's representative on the board of supervisors. Two years later his role in government increased with his election as a city commissioner. His four-year term on the commission expires this year; his second, four-year term on the board of supervisors has another two years running.

Vallier considers himself a crusader for government efficiency, a man who likes a good fight. "I've got no ax to grind," he gushes, "I'm just for good government, fighting complacency and lack of consideration for people."

What kind of image does he think he projects in his political forays? "I couldn't care less." Major targets of his wars have included the sheriff's department, the August, three-member road commission, and even the kingdom of Dearborn's mayor, Orville Hubbard. Needless to say he hasn't picked up many friends along the way. But they don't bar their doors to him. It wouldn't pay.

Vallier admits that his initial experiences in storming political castles were pretty trying. "It was awfully lonely at first, and it took a while before my children (two daughters, now 18 and 20) got used to their father being involved in controversy." Even fellow board members shunned him, now at least they tolerate him. He credits a willingness to work and the news media for his

9th, 10th Graders Admit Drug Use At Northville

Widespread use of a habit-forming, dangerous drug in lower Northville high school grades - perhaps involving up to 30 youngsters - was uncovered early last week by Northville police.

Thus far, only one 15-year-old boy, who admitted preparing an illegal drug in his home, has been named in a petition to the juvenile division of the Oakland county probate court for prosecution.

The youth has been suspended from school. Possible charges against two close companions are under study, pending completion of investigation as to the extent of their involvement.

As of Monday about 30 youngsters, all ninth and 10th graders, had been implicated, directly or indirectly, with some 15 of them having admitted to consumption of the barbiturate drug, called barbitol, in capsule form. All are boys; one girl is a suspect.

At least one youth was hospitalized after taking the drug; several others reportedly have been treated by private physicians. One parent reported her son had "slept for three days", police said.

The bazaar, community shocking disclosure was made by Northville Police Chief Samuel Elkins, a former Inkster detective who specialized in narcotics, and his identification-investigative officer, Earl Van Cise, at a special meeting of top city and school officials Thursday morning.

Northville police had periodically investigated rumors of drugs used by high school students following apprehension last summer of several youths for glue sniffing. But it wasn't until Sunday, January 15, that factual evidence was uncovered.

A parent called police to say that his son was sick and acting peculiarly - as if drunk.

Suspecting use of drugs or dope after visiting the home, Van Cise immediately called in Chief Elkins. Using a flashlight to check the youngster's eyes, which proved to be extremely sensitive to light - a sign of drug intoxication, he concluded that a drug probably had been taken.

There was no smell of alcohol on the boy's breath, he said.

Initially, the boy claimed to be drunk, but after further questioning he admitted having taken capsules, naming three boys who had reportedly prepared them.

Later that same night the police department received a call from St. Mary hospital where a Northville boy had been admitted. He was unconscious and appeared to be under the influence of drugs.

At this point Elkins and Van Cise, together with an agent from the Bureau of Drug Abuse Control - Federal Food and Drug Administration, who was called immediately upon discovery of the drugs, confronted another youth with their evidence, impressing upon him the urgency of knowing the content of the drug so that the hospitalized youth could be properly treated.

"But he used the influence of the drug to be evasive," Elkins said. "He was definitely under the influence."

Finally, the youth pulled two capsules from his pocket, Elkins said. "He called them 'rainbows' and told us that the boy in the hospital had taken five or six capsules, which he said each contained about 200 milligrams of pure barbitol normally used in sleeping tablets.

(Federal laboratory analysis has since revealed that the capsules examined each contained about 225 milligrams of pure barbitol. The least amount known to be lethal, police learned, is about 900 milligrams. One youth reportedly took five capsules or more than 1100 milligrams.)

Hospital personnel, who had pumped out the boy's stomach, were advised of the content and the youngster was treated and later released.

Described as knowing both the scientific and the street language related to narcotics and drugs, one youth has a laboratory in the basement of his home where the capsules reportedly were prepared.

Working around the clock, Elkins and Van Cise questioned one boy after another as each mentioned names of others who had swallowed or had possession of one or more capsules.

At least three boys "came in voluntarily"; others denied their involvement. "As far as we can determine,"

On Incorporation Question Court Actions Mount

The legal fighting over incorporation of Novi as a home rule city is far from over. That was apparent last week when an attorney, Emery Jacques and Jacques, himself, on behalf of co-defendant members of the Novi township board and its agents, filed a series of petitions in Oakland county circuit court to gain relief.

Action came as a direct result of a petition filed by C. A. Smith, chairman of the incorporation movement, in the circuit courtroom of Judge Farrell E. Roberts.

Roberts honored the motion and issued a restraining order against all township officials and their agents, including Jacques, pending a hearing on whether or not a preliminary injunction should be issued preventing them from interfering with the incorporation election slated for April 4.

A showdown is in sight however. All motions will be heard on January 30 by Judge Roberts.

Here's a run down on last week's legal developments: First, Jacques retained Robert W. Carr as his legal counsel. Carr, in turn, filed a motion dismissing Jacques

Justice Anderson Puzzled by Action

Robert K. Anderson, Novi township justice of the peace, would like a question answered. Why was he named as a party defendant in the lawsuit brought against the township board members and Township Attorney Emery Jacques?

Anderson was non-plused. "I don't know why action was brought against me," he said. "Ask them. I suspect it was a mistake."

"They said I was a member of the board of supervisors and they apparently meant board of trustees. I'm on neither."

At any rate, the C. A. Smith suit has prompted Attorney Anderson to hire an attorney. It's his partner, Jim Lawson.

Lawson said he will file a show cause motion for a summary judgment. In other words, he'll ask why his client, Attorney Anderson, was named as a party defendant and that the suit be dismissed.

Richard Erwin, 12, Killed in Car Crash

A 12-year-old Novi youth died Saturday night from injuries suffered in a rear-end collision on a straight stretch of 10 Mile road Saturday evening in Farmington township.

Richard Erwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erwin of 4040 10 Mile road, was pronounced dead at 10:15 p.m. in Boisfort General hospital, Farmington.

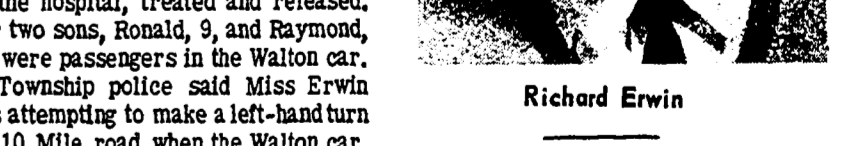

Driver of the car in which Richard was riding was his sister, Kathleen, 17, a senior at Northville high school. She was taken to Boisfort General hospital, treated and released.

According to Farmington township police, Richard was apparently riding in the right front seat when the Erwin car was struck from the rear at about 7:35 p.m.

Mrs. Raymond C. Walton, 32, of 23948 Glen Ridge, Novi, was the driver of the other car. She, likewise, was taken to the hospital, treated and released. Her two sons, Ronald, 9, and Raymond, 11, were passengers in the Walton car.

Township police said Miss Erwin was attempting to make a left-hand turn off 10 Mile road when the Walton car, also headed east, smashed into the Erwin car from the rear.

Richard, a seventh grader at Novi junior high school, was a starter on the basketball team, a band member and a solid 'B' student. This is the second traffic fatality within the past several months involving Novi school youngsters. On October 23, eight-year-old Jeffrey Pepples, a third grader at Orchard Hills Elementary school, was struck and killed by a car as he was running across Eight Mile road, west of Bagley road. ## Mothers Fight Birth Defects

Although the annual Mothers' March against crippling birth defects is officially set for Tuesday, mothers throughout this area will be canvassing homes early.

Actually, house-to-house collections have already begun in Novi and Wixom. Collections in Northville are scheduled to begin tomorrow (Friday). Solicitation in all of these areas will continue through Tuesday.

According to the general chairman of the solicitations in these three communities, the normally one-day drive was expanded this year because of the difficulty of canvassing rural areas where homes are widely spaced.

In past years, bad weather made one-day solicitation extremely difficult, they noted.

Furthermore, most community drives are no longer conducted during the late evening hours to insure the safety of the marching mothers.

General chairman of the three communities are Mrs. Hiram Pacific, 4659 Grassmere, Northville; Mrs. James Wilentius of 23886 Clark street, Novi; and Robert Pacific, 2024 Royalton, Wixom.

Pacific is assisting Mrs. R. W. King of Walled Lake, who is campaign chairman for all of Walled Lake and Commerce township, which includes Wixom.

In Northville, John Steinel is heading up all other March of Dimes activities for that community as representative of the Lloyd H. Green American Legion Post 147. Deputy Ted Robinson of Walled Lake heads up the canister distribution in Novi and Wixom.

Nearly 200 women are expected to participate in marching house-to-house in these three communities in an all-out drive to solicit funds for combating one of the nation's leading killers - birth defects.

Following final solicitations in Northville Tuesday, the American Legion post will furnish coffee and doughnuts for participating mothers as a count of collections is made. The collection count is to be reported to March of Dimes headquarters by 10 p.m.

Wixom Mayor Wesley E. McKee outlined the importance of this campaign in a recently issued proclamation that noted March of Dimes funds help support:

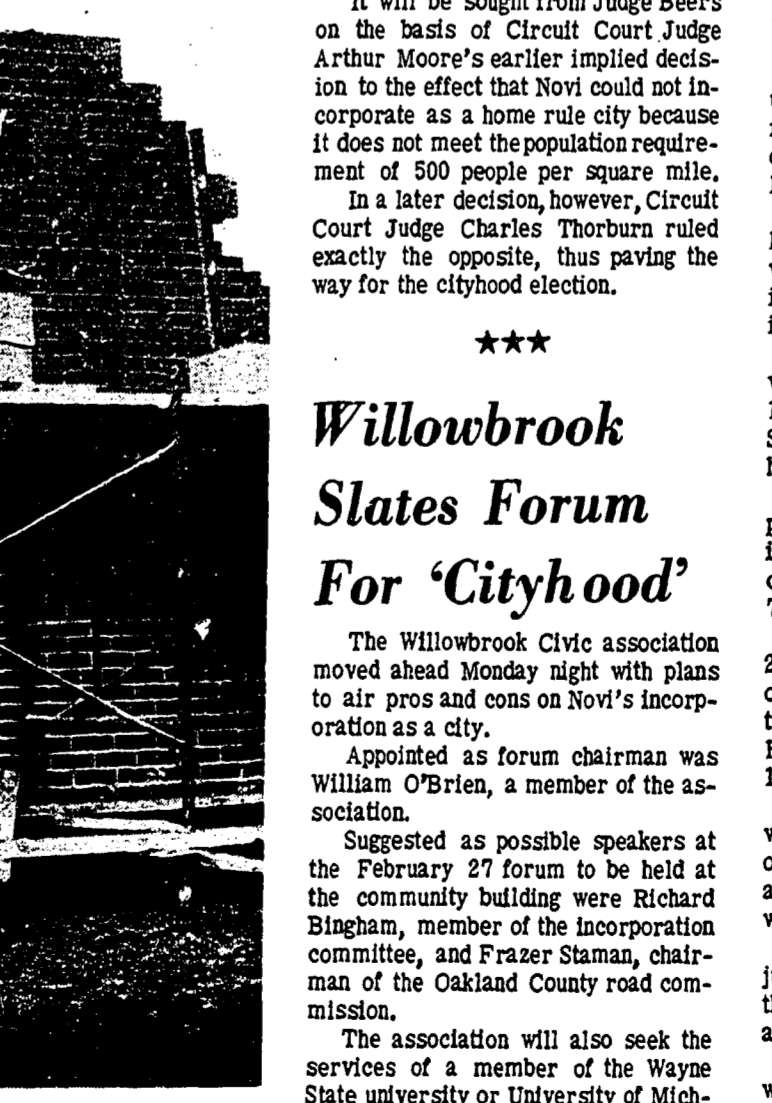

-A national education program aimed at protecting the health of mothers-to-be and their babies through prenatal care.

-A network of centers providing improved treatment for birth defect patients.

-Research grants enabling scientists to learn more about birth defects.

Through the annual Mothers' March and related fund raising projects, including such events as the bowling tournament sponsored by Northville Lanes and the teenage dance held recently at the Northville community building, March of Dimes hope to raise enough money to eliminate or significantly reduce the occurrence of birth defects as was done in the fight against polio.

HIGH SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION-Workers are shown here working on the south addition to Novi high school, which will include a work shop and laboratories. According to Superintendent Tom Dole, the roof is scheduled to be completed in March. Foundation of the new west wing that will have classrooms and the library has been laid.

Hembrey-Hiemstra Wed

Gold and white made up the color scheme of the evening wedding of Anne Hembrey and John Edwin Hiemstra, on December 17 at the First Baptist church in Ann Arbor.

The Reverend James Middleton officiated before an altar adorned with pine boughs and white mums. The church organist, Mrs. Charles Beck, accompanied tenor Louis Davis in two solos by the contemporary Dutch composer Pieter Posters: "Wedding Song," based on a text from Ruth, and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hembrey of 9300 Napier, and the bridegroom's are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hiemstra of Sturgis.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white silk brocade gown with a Beateau neckline, an A-line skirt gathered in back into a chapel train, and elbow length sleeves ending in bell cuffs embroidered with seed pearls. The lace cap of her elbow length illusion veil was also embroidered with pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses and Stephanotis.

Karen Hembrey, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor. She wore an empire waisted dress with a full length skirt of maize crepe. The bodice was of burnt gold lace over gold tulle. The full-length back panel matched the bodice. Her headpiece was a gold satin bow. She carried a bouquet of champagne carnations and mums in shades of bronze and gold. Bridesmaid Judith Cagion of Detroit, and the bride's cousin, Mrs. James Masters of Lapeer, wore gowns similar to the maid of honor's.

Each usher had a champagne carnation boutonniere, matching the lightest color in the bouquets. Laurie Berman of Toronto, Thomas Watson of Gladstone, and the bride's cousin Douglas Smith of Ann Arbor were ushers. The bridegroom's brother, Walter Hiemstra, was best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs.

Hembrey chose a pale blue and green tulle dress with matching coat with green accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a dusty-rose knit suit with beige accessories. Both wore orchid corsages. Approximately 100 guests attended.

By JEAN DAVY

A HEARTS-AND-FLOWERS benefit card party is scheduled for February 13 to help 14 Senior Girl Scouts in Northville troop 222 achieve their "heart's desire" of attending Expo '67 in Montreal on Memorial Day weekend.

The girls are hoping parents and friends will "Be Valentines" and participate in the party to be given at the scout-recreation building. They have obtained special permission to hold the fund-raising event to which fathers also are welcome.

"Most of the girls have been in scouting from seven to ten years," explains their leader, Mrs. Leonard Klein, "and they have been saving their money for a long while in the anticipation of a trip." Since they will be graduating and involved with jobs come summer, the excursion during the four-day Memorial Day holiday was chosen.

Each girl is saving her money personally for the trip and will be credited with every ticket she sells at $1 for the benefit. The girls are making table prizes and the desserts for the party again, before doing the fair. Anyone wishing tickets may call Mrs. Klein, 349-4333.

TIP-UP TOWN QUEEN for 1967 - to her complete surprise - is Mrs. Roland (Dody) Adams of Llewellyn drive in Northville. Mrs. Adams went with her husband on an ice fishing junket Saturday to Houghton Lake. From a list of 60 queen candidates selected while they were fishing on the ice, Mrs. Adams was chosen one of the top three candidates.

That evening, during the 17th annual celebration, she was chosen queen to reign over Sunday's activities. Crowning her was Mott Neff, Detroit television personality and outdoors expert, who was master of ceremonies.

Besides a trophy, Mrs. Adams was presented with a bouquet, a bracelet and a check. As this year's queen, she will represent Houghton Lake and its sponsoring chamber of commerce in the town's yearly festivities.

The two-day ice fishing celebration included a cocktail party for 500-600, a banquet for sports writers, television and radio sports commentators and the queens, a dance, Sunday church services on the ice, helicopter rides, a snowmobile race and fishing contests with prizes for the winners.

Mrs. Adams' title of Tip-Up Town queen derives its name from the fishing flag which tips up to signal that a fish has been caught through the ice.

THE POWDERY SKI slopes at Vail, Colorado, were the destination of another winter sports-minded Northville couple, Dr. and Mrs. Warner Grunheid returned last week and to their home on Debra Lane after spending a week skiing at this new western resort.

The trip was over Dr. and Mrs. Grunheid's annual time to get away alone, but when they travel north to Michigan to the Sheridan Valley ski club it's a family affair with all three children going along - even three-and-a-half year old Lisa. Mrs. Grunheid is almost as enthusiastic about the Sheridan Valley resort at Lewiston as she is about Vail, explaining it is in Michigan's snowbelt and almost always has a good supply.

THE STATUS OF WOMEN was analyzed with respect to leisure, work and working conditions, mobility and old age by Fran Harris, special events coordinator and former WWJ and WJL-TV personality, when she spoke to Northville Woman's club last Friday.

Mrs. Harris shared some of the concerns and statistics gathered by Governor Romney's status of women committee of which she is a member. "How," she asked, "are you training your daughters for mobility, to make friends as young families are transferred by corporations?"

"What," she wondered, "are you doing to welcome newcomers here - do you do more than say hello?" Women, she concluded, must feel the importance of their individual worth, their family's roots must be in their hearts, and their happiness must come from full human development.

Illegal Drugs

Elkins said, "there probably was only one girl involved."

Apparently, the capsules were first passed out to a few boys in a Northville home on Friday night, January 13. Other capsules were passed out later at other locations in the community.

Elkins said there is no evidence that any adult had been involved in dispensing the capsules or had any prior knowledge of their use by the youngsters.

"He's a real smart kid," Elkins said. "He knew what chemical ingredient in glue gave the kick, so instead of using regular glue he came up with the ingredient itself."

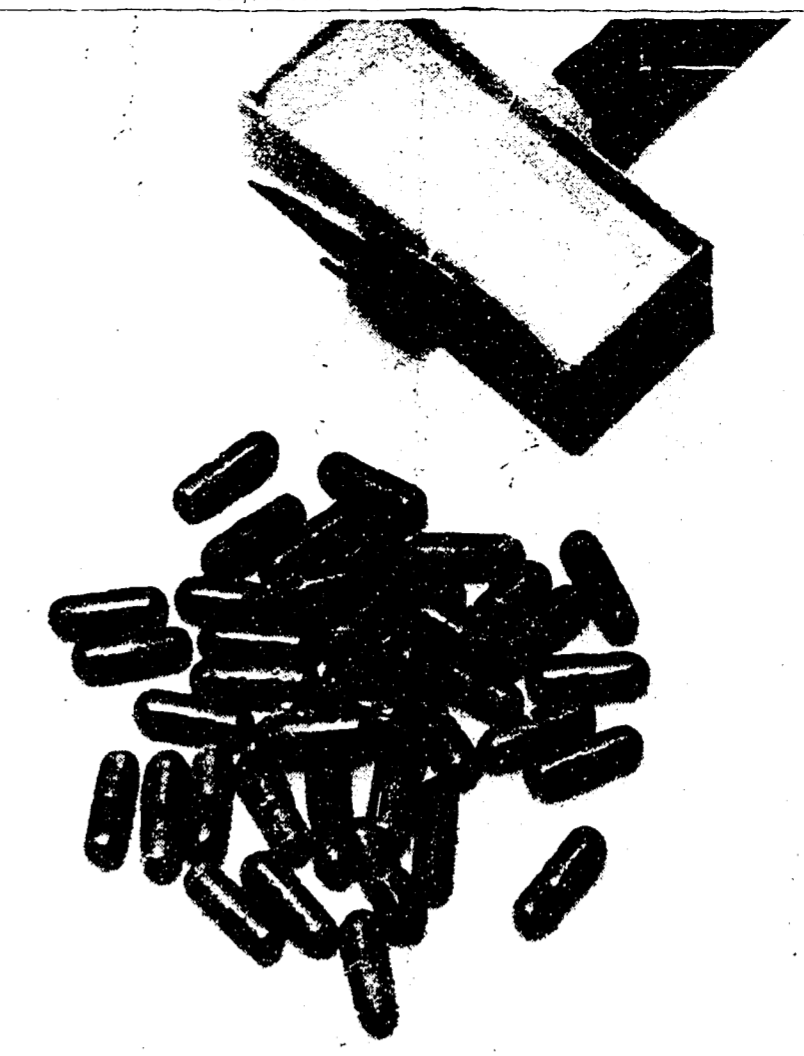

Apparently, the youth was unaware or simply didn't care about the dangers of sniffing glue, he said. "It's as bad as a drug - maybe worse. It attacks the liver, the brain and damages the membranes of the nose," he said.

At the time, the youths were reprimanded and placed in the custody of their parents.

Shortly thereafter police started hearing rumors of drugs being used in Northville, but they were unable to come up with any concrete evidence. "Usually, it was one kid telling us that he heard about another kid who knew someone taking drugs or smoking marijuana."

"We're still hearing rumors. Every community does. We just can't substantiate them. I'd guess that one or two have tried marijuana but it's certainly nothing as widespread as this barbituric thing."

However, the chief revealed that a priest had reported to Plymouth police that marijuana "was being passed between Plymouth and Northville."

BARBITAL CAPSULES - Shown here are some of the barbituric capsules taken from high school students by Northville police.

Chief Elkins Shows Knowhow in Crisis

In every situation there's always something for which to be thankful. And in the case of the Northville community being shocked by finding that youngsters in the high school had been consuming drugs, it might be the presence of Samuel Elkins.

Elkins took over as Northville's police chief in June, 1966. Previously, he had served as detective in charge of the vice squad for Inkster. Most of his work concerned narcotics.

The chief, an unassuming police officer, looked at the situation in Northville through far different eyes than the average citizen. He remembers drug consumption as a "continuous thing... out of hand, dipping down to the junior high level." And he finds no comparison between the Northville problem and a community where youngsters "make buys from known peddlers."

"Where you have heavy consumption of dope your rape, assault and B & E cases go sky high," points out Chief Elkins.

An outside source would find it very difficult to peddle dope here, the chief states, but he's quick to point out that the evidence and findings of preliminary investigation, the police department, are being considered against other youths, police stated.

According to Probate Judge Norman R. Barnard, in procedures of this kind a preliminary hearing is held to determine if an offense has indeed taken place is held in the division's "intake department" within a week after filing of the petition.

At that point, depending upon the evidence and findings of preliminary investigation, the petition may be accepted or referred to the Youth Protective association.

If there is reason to believe an offense has been committed, a preliminary hearing is conducted in the juvenile division within two weeks, Judge Barnard said. The youth may be either

High School Holds Special Assembly

Grim-faced school administrators and police officials stood talking quietly in the rear of the high school auditorium last Friday afternoon as 15 young boys who had admitted taking the drug, barbital, sat silent and expectant.

Purpose of the gathering: to make these young people aware of the harmful effects of drugs and the implications of their actions.

On hand, also, was minister associated with Teen Challenge, a non-denominational religious organization devoted to rehabilitating dope addicts, and Steve, a 20-year-old youth who had been a drug addict for four years but had kicked the habit through the services offered by Teen Challenge.

The reverend then stepped forward. Fixing the boys firmly with serious eyes, he told them of how they were cheating themselves and their families, that drugs, taken for adventure, for kicks, as these boys had done, results in the most deplorable conditions - loss of self respect, robbery, and perhaps, loss of life. He urged the boys to make "an adult decision" now and walk away from drugs before it was too late.

Next on tap, a movie entitled, "Youth on a Fix," a realistic, forty-minute reel made by Teen Challenge that pulled no punches. Rather than citing detailed facts about drugs, the movie graphically portrayed the plight of addicts by actually focusing on them in New York. It was a grisly picture of drug addicts and alcoholics, male and female prostitutes, those suspended in the limbo of unreality, their conditions in the setting of New York however were removed from the boys in the auditorium.

It remained for Steve, the addict, to point out that the boys in New York, Steve told how he had a loving family, how he was academically successful, he had played sports, and how, as a high school sophomore, he was offered a scholarship when he was graduated. In other words, his life was not unlike the life of those boys seated in front of him.

But at the age of 14, Steve said, he got out of just for life and the thrills it promised, joined a group of boys in opening up a place where teens in search of excitement could gather. Even though Steve said he prospered - bought a car, had a full wardrobe of clothes - still his quest for excitement, fulfillment, went unanswered.

A friend then introduced him to marijuana, marijuana then led to dope (heroin) and "mainlining" (shooting heroine into the blood stream with a hypodermic needle). He was hooked, he said, and during "the hell" of the next four years, he stole, robbed, mugged and cheated to feed his $70-a-day habit.

Doors closed behind him as psychiatrists, sociologists and police gave up on him as an incorrigible addict. There is no medicinal cure. Only when he found Teen Challenge and Christ, he said, did doors finally re-open to respectability.

The minister closed the hour-long session with a final warning and fervent appeal that the boys would make their right decision. The youths filed slowly out of the auditorium and headed, with other students and teachers, to the gymnasium for an assembly.

Alex Nelson, superintendent of schools, officially broached the subject of drugs in the high school to the students and asked for cooperation in this matter. He introduced Chief Elkins and Officer Earl Van Cise. Elkins then told briefly of the students' involvement with barbital and cited its lethal effects. He, too, appealed for cooperation from the students.

Impromptu, Steve, the boy who had become addicted at age 14, stepped forward to address the assembly. In an abbreviated but spirited talk, he told of his experience with drugs and walked away to a thunderous clapping as the assembly was dismissed.

Juvenile Authorities To Weigh Charges

A petition charging a 15-year-old Northville youth with preparing and dispensing an illegal drug was filed in the juvenile division of Oakland County Probate Court Friday.

Administrative sessions are being considered against other youths, police stated.

Purpose of these local organizations is to prevent youngsters from becoming involved in criminal activities as well as rehabilitating those who have already run aground of the law, he said.

To establish such a group, Judge Barnard explained, the city and the school district must adopt resolutions authorizing their existence, once established, the juvenile division assigns a case worker to assist school and community leaders in dealing with youngsters through the organization.

Dope Knowledge Amazes Police, School Officials

"He knows too much about illegal drugs and narcotics to get it out of a book."

That's the concoction of police and school officials in weighing the involvement of one of the young Northville high school students in the distribution of illegal barbituric capsules.

In talking with a school official, prior to last week's disclosure that a wide number of students had taken one or more of the capsules, the boy reportedly used language that completely baffled his superior.

"He talked for about five minutes," a spokesman said, "but I couldn't tell you what he said."

Police Chief Samuel Elkins said the young man knows both the scientific and the street language of drugs and narcotics.

According to the chief, the youth admitted making a trip to Detroit recently to purchase a narcotic. "He said he tried to make a cop but could score," Elkins said.

He reportedly made a "contact" with a pusher on Detroit's Plum street where he was shown a "matchbox". In other words, the boy tried to purchase marijuana, but, he told police, he didn't have enough money to buy it.

The youth denied having used marijuana, but his friends told police that he had used it.

"He knew," Elkins said, "that the going Detroit rate for a marijuana cigarette is $2. He knows prices of other narcotics as well. That's something you don't get out of a book."

Here is some of the "street language" the boy is reported to have used in talking with police.

Refer, a marijuana cigarette; stach, half a marijuana cigarette; a rock, another name for a marijuana cigarette; duce pack, bulk marijuana, enough for two cigarettes; "B" pack, bulk marijuana, means of measuring marijuana; pot, raw marijuana; and benmes, benzidine.

When asked how he knew so much about narcotics, he told police he had read about it.

Along with two or more friends the youth prepared the barbituric in a home chemistry lab.

The boy told police he had tried to make "acid" or LSD with his chemicals. He said he had tasted it, but that he hadn't succeeded in producing it. Nevertheless, he felt he knew his "mistake" and that if he had university facilities at his disposal he could produce it.

Last summer the youth was implicated in the glue sniffing case here.

According to police, the boy was so well versed in chemical compounds that he knew the ingredient in glue that "gave the kick", so instead of sniffing regular glue he came up with the ingredient itself.

Recognizing individual differences in pupils is just as important in differentiated learning experiences in the classroom. What is effective punishment for one person may be entirely ineffective for another. It is necessary to learn as much as possible about each individual and attempt to correct the cause rather than automatically assess a fixed penalty. The point is that when punishment is used, it must be appropriate to the individual and not applied indiscriminately. Individuals are not punished as examples to the group. Because each personality is of value, in his own right, he is not used as a "lesson."

A school practice denies the uniqueness of individuals. I prefer the term "re-education" in place of "punishment."

The re-education of each child must be based upon analysis of the causes of his behavior and consideration of plans suited to his own needs.

When punishment is used, it must be appropriate to the nature of the offense and to the individual. In addition, it must be administered and used in such a manner that it does not violate the over-all aim of helping students gradually achieve a high degree of self-discipline.

Educators generally have the reputation for leaning backwards in favor of pupils when it comes to recommending expulsion or suspension from school.

Our Michigan law provides that the board may authorize or order the sus-

Superintendent Nelson Outlines School Role

EDITOR'S NOTE - The following is a statement released by Superintendent of Schools Alex Nelson concerning reaction and action of school officials to the revelation that high school youngsters were involved in either taking, making or possessing illegal drugs.

In the first place I regret that the community was not more successful in dealing with the glue sniffing situation that developed last year. We thought we did the right thing, if we had known what to do and how to do it, we might have been able to prevent the situation which developed this year.

We're trying to handle the situation at this time with greater understanding. We want to stop it and prevent it from happening again. The large majority of our students were unaware of the situation. They were surprised and shocked by it. The members of our staff were surprised and saddened by it.

The city police, the press and the schools are cooperating closely with the parents. Our aim will be to help discipline rather than punish. Our concept of discipline can be characterized by a process of education designed to improve and perfect behavior with obedience to rules and regulations based on self-control.

All we recognize that educating youth to behave in a socially responsible manner is an immensely complex task. It must be shared by the home, church, government, school, and other institutions and agencies.

School is a right - the right to an education. Because of this "right" we expect to become more concerned with teaching the harmful effects of narcotics. We want to impress upon our boys and girls the seriousness of approaching these areas too lightly. This task is complicated by availability of new magazines which can be purchased in our metropolitan area, also a recurrent issue of one of our nation's leading magazines carried a full explanation of the drug "LSD". Cigarettes, although prohibited by state law, can be purchased in our metropolitan area, also a recurrent issue of one of our nation's leading magazines carried a full explanation of the drug "LSD".

Discipline in harmony with point of view has the following characteristics: (a) Student behavior is largely self-controlled, (b) authority is vested primarily in humanitarian principles rather than in a person, (c) obedience to rules and regulations is based on an understanding of the reasons for such requirements rather than on accepting someone's word for them, (d) school activities and classroom experiences are designed to provide opportunities to develop socially acceptable behavior, and (e) emphasis is on treating behavior problems according to the background of individual students.

We believe in a positive approach to discipline through individual counseling by the entire staff. This insiduous behavior gains rather than mere control of the or the doing out of punishment for violations of rules.

Recognizing individual differences in pupils is just as important in differentiated learning experiences in the classroom. What is effective punishment for one person may be entirely ineffective for another. ## Community Assembly Called for Tonight

School officials announced this week that a 15-year-old boy, involved in consuming drugs had been suspended.

Superintendent Alex Nelson said that expulsion would be considered, but that no further action would be taken until the Probate court in Oakland county sets forth its course of action.

The school superintendent noted that formation of "youth protective association" now active in Oakland county and involving parents and youths, had been recommended. He said that action against all the youngsters involved

Expert Relates Barbituric Danger

"It's a very dangerous business to be fooling around with them (barbituric pills)."

This is the opinion of Dr. Maurice Severs, professor and chairman of the department of pharmacology at the University of Michigan.

"It (barbituric) is habit forming," he said. "It not only produces psychological but physical dependence. Withdrawal symptoms are quite a bit more dangerous than opium."

"Continued use of it in large doses could produce convulsions, delirium, high temperature and even death," the professor said.

The least amount of this barbituric known to have brought about death, according to one official source, is 15 grains or roughly, 900 milligrams.

Dr. Severs said that generally three times as much or 3,000 milligrams would constitute a fatal dose. He added that many factors must be considered.

Barbituric, a barbituric or sleep inducing drug, may be compared "quite well" to alcohol, the doctor said. It attacks the brain and central nervous system, he said, and is very close to alcohol in effect.

Perhaps the greatest danger, he stated, was the fact that barbituric pills, after a few had been taken, could lead to depression and the user may continue to take more, resulting in apparent delinquency.

"We hope to go to the conference table later in February," Miss Babel said. "We're hard at work developing our package, and working with other schools in region two."

AT Town Hall Actor Price To Speak on Art

Vincent Price, who first achieved fame as a stage and motion picture actor, comes to Northville Town Hall February 9 in the role of major art collector, art consultant and patron. He is to speak on "The Enjoyment of Great Art" at 11 a.m. in the P and A theater on the third of the current 1966-67 town hall series.

Known for his great enthusiasm for initiating others into the enjoyment and appreciation of the arts, Price draws upon his early training as an art major at Yale university.

He also will be guest at a celebrity luncheon following Town Hall at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. Following the luncheon, Price will be on the board this season, only paid luncheon reservations are accepted. These, at $3.75, must be made by February 3. Checks should be sent to Northville Town Hall, Box 93.

Vincent Price's initial aim in life of becoming a professor and collector of art was sidetracked when, while working for his master's degree in fine arts at London university, he accepted a dare from an English actor friend to try for a role in the play, "Chicago".

After getting the role, he studied acting with the same concentration he once devoted to academic subjects. He soon was playing the late Prince Consort Albert in "Victoria Regina". In this role he made his American debut in 1935. He became a star overnight and also began making pictures in Hollywood. He co-starred with Constance Bennett in "Service Deluxe", returning to Broadway in "Outward Bound" and then "Angeli Street".

He played both romantic and sinister roles. Some of his films include "Song of Bernadette", "Keys of the Kingdom", "Champagne for Caesar", "The House of Wax", "The Ten Commandments" and "The Tinger".

Vincent Price is described as a lithe, six-foot-four with hazel eyes and brown hair. He keeps fit gardening at his West Los Angeles home and by swimming.

On Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gaedt attended a birthday party in Farmington honoring Mr. Gaedt's mother, Mrs. Annabel Gaedt, who became 87 years old. The extras sold me. Jack F. Carr, Marion, Ohio. When you drive 30,000 miles a year, you appreciate a car that holds the road even in a prairie crosswind. Gina M. Beck, Chelsea, Mich. I've taken two trips to California in my '66. It's a pleasure to drive - holds the road even in a prairie crosswind. Larry Moore, Deland, Fla. It was a buy. My '66 saves on gas and the ride is good. Even on rough road roads. Robert C. Arrick, Jr., Ypsilanti, Mich. It's a lot of car for the money. I've got 51,000 miles on my '64. It always starts and it's easy on gas. George Jagodzinski, Toledo, Ohio. I liked the appearance of the car, the way it was equipped and the price. It's a '66 Custom 500. Very reliable.

BABSON PARK, Mass. - A recent study by the National Industrial Conference Board takes a realistic look at the role of the working wife in America today. What it all comes down to, at least on the question of traffic safety problems, is that even the experts don't know what the answer is, but each has a possible answer or perhaps part of the answer. The problem multiplies itself because of the different views.

So, many solutions must be tried in hopes that some improvement will be noted through combinations of the several answers offered by the experts. A good strong draft may not be the most comfortable thing to bear in a house, car or fishing shanty, but under certain circumstances it can be a life-saver.

Bench Sparks Mustang Comeback

JUMPING JACKS-Dennis Walters goes high to score over the outstretched hand of Northville's high flying Joe Andrews. Ready to grab the rebound are Jim Zeyti

HIGH SCORER-Holly's Mike Beely, a 5'8" guard, shows drive against Northville's Ken Boerger, was hotter than a pistol

The bench paid off for Northville Friday night. It enabled the Mustangs to wipe out a deficit and provided the spark for a 61-54 victory over Holly, Northville's third conference victory in a row after the holiday intermission.

They'll Play 2 Doubleheaders

Three down and seven to go. And those remaining seven contests in the Wayne-Oakland Conference keep getting bigger and bigger as Northville rounds the corner for the pounding finish for the basketball title.

Starting tomorrow, Friday, it'll be two by two as Northville plays Milford at home, then against the Trojans, Northville border to play Clarenceville the next night, Saturday.

In Men's Game

Jeanie's Holding Her Own

Move over men. Here come the women again, and this time they're invading hockey, one of the last sports to succumb to the rising female tide.

Northville tied the score at 22-22 moments later when Guard Joe Andrews swished a jump shot and Captain Jim Zeyti scored on a baseline drive. Mike Beely, a guard whose red-hot hand scored 24 points, then came a jump shot to give Holly its last lead before Northville shot out front for keeps.

Boerger and Hyatt didn't stop their game-saving show until game's end. Besides the jump shot, Boerger also intercepted a pass and scored on a break away and intercepted two other passes. His play was steady.

Zeyti finished with 21 points, high for Northville, while Peterson bagged 16. Andrews contributed eight points. It was Beely who kept Holly in the game, especially after Northville switched to a zone and stopped Forward Ron Boerger's scoring.

News About Schoolcraft

Schoolcraft College winter film series opens Friday with two performances of "Clio From 5 to 7", a French film with English subtitles.

The story is that of a glamorous young girl, primarily interested in luxury and pleasure, and 90 minutes of her life—the time between her visit to a fortune teller and her appointment with her doctor to hear the results of some extensive medical tests.

In this brief period, faced with the possibility of an incurable cancer, the girl awakens to the realities of life. The film was written and directed by Agnes Varda.

Performances are scheduled at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. in the amphitheater in the Forum. The public is admitted without charge.

A total of 50 Schoolcraft college students, including four from Northville, made the Dean's List during the fall semester by compiling grade point averages of 3.5—equivalent to B plus— or higher in their studies. Vice President for Instruction John H. Brinn has announced.

Nine of the students—including one from Novi—on the list made straight-A (4.0) records. Diane Palunas of Novi was one of these.

Those from Northville on the Dean's List are Theodore A. Jacques, Karen M. Lang, Larry Forth and Ralph Hay.

Dr. Eric J. Bradner, president of Schoolcraft college, will host next month to a group of Michigan college and university officials who are developing a long-range plan for higher education in the state.

The committee, of which Dr. Bradner is a member, will have a one-day meeting on the Schoolcraft campus on Friday, February 10.

The project on which the committee is at work is being directed by Dr. Harold T. Smith of the W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research. The Institute was engaged by the State Department of Education to develop a plan for higher education.

The timetable for the project calls for completion of a provisional plan by June 1, public hearings during June and July, and presentation of the final version of the plan to the department by October 1.

Committee members include Dr. Bradner, Dr. Bay Loeschner, assistant to the president, Eastern Michigan university; Milton E. Maelzer, vice-president, Michigan State university; Dr. Jack Rombouts, assistant to the president, Northern Michigan university; Dean Stephen H. Spurr, University of Michigan; Edward L. Cushman, vice-president, Wayne State university; Russell Selbert, vice-president, Western Michigan university; Robert Huxol, vice-president, Ferris State college; George Pottler, vice-president, Grand Valley State College; Gordon Steinhilber, president, Olivet college; Fr. Malcolm Carron, president, University of Detroit; and Dean John E. McChrystal, Northeastern Michigan college.
