the history of the firm. As a matter of fact, she's presenttrying to reply to letters from Laurel, Maryland, Provo, Utah, Lewis, Colorado, Carbondale, Illinois and Hamburg and Muskegon, Michigan.

And recently The Record-News learned of a Northville bell that was shipped from the United States to Vietnam where a U.S. serviceman planned to use it in a schoolhouse there.

See related material concerning the bell foundry in Top of The Deck column on the editorial page.

"Our problem," she explained, "is that we are unable to provide adequate detailed information about the bell foundry. Our information is sketchy at best and does not include specific dates and names, nor does it explain the meaning of the numbers that apparently were

were spelled out to Wixom city officials last week by a representative of the Oakland county department of pu-top or concrete. As more and more of the earth's surface is sealed off with buildings, parking lots, and roads, storm water must find new avenues of runoff and, unless it's been properly anticipated, the water will travel the course of least resistance-no matter how damag-

Subdivisions, he said, produce three times as much runoff as does an open field, while surfaced shopping center

In advising flood control plans, Albrecht explained that planning means looking ahead to ultimate development and determining now the sizes and directional flow of storm sewers that eventually must be built in a community. By doing so, he explained, a community can determine the size of sewer systems for individual developments that are necessary to cope with storm waters that occur with ul-

A study, he suggested, does not mean installation now of all lines that eventually will be needed in a community. As to cost, Albrecht referred the council to Troy where estimates from seven different consultants ranged from $3,000 to $21,000. A study in Wixom, he said, probably would take about two months to complete. His conclusion? A study in Wixom is essential and its cost would be a prudent investment.

Commenting on the progress of sanitary sewer construction in Wixom, Albrecht indicated work was progressing satisfactorily on the lines themdisposal plant is ahead of schedule.

The DPW representatives explained that, contrary to some public specu-lation, work was not being abandoned in some areas. Because digging to different depths requires different machinery, workmen are moving in and out of some areas with the movement of these machines. This accounts, he explained, for some temporary delay in total completion. Mayor Wesley McAtee, concurring with Albrecht, praised citizens of the city for their cooperation. "We've received few complaints," he said. "I really commend the citizens; they've been very cooperative and patient."

Burglars Hit Straus Home

An estimated $1,500 in clothing. checks and guns were stolen from the James E. Straus home at 23893 Beck road late Monday afternoon, according to the Novi police department. The home was ransacked throughout with drawers, clothing and furniture scattered about the rooms.

Among the items missing are: $800 in traveler's checks, a shotgun, rifle and pistol, several credit cards and an assortment of men's clothing. Mr. and Mrs. Straus discovered the burglary upon returning home from dinner shortly about 8:30 p.m. They had left the home locked at about 5:30

Entry, according to police, was made through a bedroom window, where a screen was removed and the window itself pried open. Police lifted fingerprints throughout the home for analysis at the State Police crime laboratory

Local police called in the sheriff's department, which pressed a police dog into the search for the burglars. The dog tracked them to a point about onequarter mile from the home where they apparently escaped by car, police said.

Fresh out of high school, Swiss played with the Erie Tigers - a team com- port. But he remembers one - a four jority of the players with the other five clubs in the league had more experience, the Tiger management moved a few more experienced players to the club "to equalize the team and stabilize usinexpart of the game."

"I started slow," admits Swiss, "but as the season progressed, particularly towards the end, I was more relaxed. Everything was new at the start and I was sort of tight. I was probably trying too hard." The five other clubs in the league, all in New York, include Jamestown

Batavia (a "mongrel" club with players from several big league systems). All home games were played during the day, while away games were played at night. With games played daily, Swisstook a turn behind the plate aboutonce every fourth day. And while maturing a little here, he also "grew up" at bat. "With their handmade bows - the favorite weapon they had for bringing down the fleet-footed creatures-Michigan Indians did a more effective job than their emulators of today," says Wayne State University archivist and historian, Dr. Philip P. Mason.

"They had to. They were looking and they hunted the year around, learning more about deer and their habits in a few months than modern archers

The Indian bows were made of hickory or ash, for the most part, and their strings were twisted hides or the guts of various animals. The shafts for the arrows were made principally from hard wood and fitted with finely chipped flint, bound with gut and resin.

"These arrowheads, prized by find-

Peninsula, and the Ottawas who lived in Northern Michigan used short, powerful bows while the Wyandots or Hurons used the long bow, which was influenced by their contact with Indians from New York and the East.

Michigan's modern bow hunters, using bows made of fiberglass or of laminated woods, hunt the full gamut of Michigan game, from bears to fish and fowl. Deer are the big target every fall,

Bears may be taken with bow and arrow, but the season and areas are carefully prescribed. In recent years, the bow-hunting for them has been legal in all parts of the Upper Peninsula except the Keweenaw Peninsula, from September 1 through September 15 and

October 1 through November 5. In 1965 and 1966 they received complete protection in the lower Peninsula. Indians hunted the bear fearlessly, but few modern day Michigan archers molest him. Game men estimate that kills range from only "two or three bears" per year to "less than 25."

He had been in charge of the township's building department since April 10 this year when he succeeded R. B. Willis, who retired.

Mr. Lynch moved to Northville one year ago from Dearborn. He had spent most of his life in the lumber business or lumbering. As a youth of 16 he worked in a lumbering camp.

He is survived by a son, Ronald of Northville, and a brother, William. Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at the Howe-Peterson Funeral Home, 22546 Michigan avenue. Dearborn. Interment will be at Grand Lawn cemetery in Detroit.

Township offices will be closed Thursday morning, opening in the afternoon from 12:30 until 5:00.

ARTHUR HAY

A former Northville resident, Arthur Hay, died Sunday in Royal Oak while attending a convention of the Canadian Legion. He was 72 years old and presently resided in Stranton, California. Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) at Kinsey Funeral Home in Royal Oak. Mr. Hay is survived by a son, Jack, and a brother, James, both of Stanton, and a nephew, David Hay of Northville.

> Rev. Ivan E. Speight, Pastor Salem Federated Church

The age old question of men seeking reconciliation with God has been. "How then can man be justified with God?" This question was asked by Job the ancient Patriarch (Job 25:4) How can a sinful man be made right with God? This is the question of the greatest importance. Justification has been defined to mean, "Just as if I had not sinned." Haunting the past of every human is some sin he wishes he had not done. "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Having sinned, man wants to know how he can stand before God just as if he had not sinned. The Bible tells us that we are justified by faith. "Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness." (Romans 4:5). "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace have sinned, I must pay for my sins." You are right! Your sins must be paid for in order for you to be justified. This is what God's Son, Jesus Christ did for you almost 2,000 years ago. "Christ died for our sins." The payment was made. But the credit to individual accounts was not made. The credit to your own personal account with God comes by faith in Christ. The very moment you put your faith into Christ, the payment for sin is credited to you. At that moment you become justified with God. Turn to God through Jesus Christ, and have Him credit the Crucifixion to your account. Then the age old question of, "How then can man be justified with God?" will be answered in your life.

News Around Schoolcraft

Thursday, September 7, 1967

Appointment of 28 new faculty and staff members for the academic year has been announced by Schoolcraft College Vice-President for Instruction John H.

At the same time. Dean of Student Affairs Edward V. McNally announced the appointment of five additions to the college counseling staff. Of the new faculty members, 13 were hired as replacements for instructors who have resigned, gone on leave of absence, or who have been promoted to administrative posts. The others, Brinn said, were hired as instructors for new programs and to staff up in existing programs because of increased enrollment. McNally said two of the five counselors will replace two staff members who resigned. The three others. he said, were needed to meet increased counseling demands on his staff. New instructors in the academic area are John Beckwith and Leo Macarow, mathematics: Robert Briggs and William Burke, history; Beverly Clarke, speech; Joseph Dager, Elizabeth Lichty, Arthur Lindenberg, Mrs. Donna Price and Joanne Stein, English; Dr. Mehdi Kiamar, political science; John Krato, psychology; Donald Morelock, music; William Pintal, biology; Thomas Roncoli and Jack Washka, physical education; and Mrs. Katherine Peters, assis-

SPEAKING for The Record

If you took a man-on-the-street sentiment poll on the deadlock in negotiations between the Northville school district and its teachers you'd find nine out of 10 citizens turning thumbs down on the teachers.

Typical of the comments heard during the past week are:

'It's too bad we can't fire them and hire 135 new teachers'';

"They like to think of themselves as professionals, then they strike like common union members";

"What do they mean underpaid? $10,000 for nine months work isn't bad!";

An appearance could be made before the board of education on a grievance matter, or even a request for higher pay. But it should not be presented too strongly, and the representative was certain to become suspect as a rabble-

The board attitude was made evident by design. There were few strong administrator voices fighting for teacher rights. Every block was exactly in its place. If you didn't like teaching in Northville at the going rate, you could

In recent years (nationally and locally) more pressure has been brought to bear by sincerely concerned citizens for improved teaching techniques and facilities. The method of selecting teachers and their credentials suddenly became a matter of greater import. Merely having one body for every classroom was not sufficient.

At nearly the same time classrooms began to swell, more teachers were needed and competition for qualified teachers became keen. Hiring new teachers became an important administrative assignment and districts found themselves competing on the teacher college campuses. Naturally, dollars spoke loudest, so starting salaries rose

Locally, at least, this is how the stage was set when teachers were given bargaining rights.

To say that bitterness existed in the teacher ranks would be an understatement. And to imagine that this bitterness did not carry over to the bargaining table would be foolhardy.

An indication of how unprepared Northville was for teacher negotiations when they were introduced two years ago can be gleaned from a statement by a then board member. It was his observation that the teacher club representatives (negotiators) were trouble-makers who did not truly represent the average teacher. The teachers will support the

Whether by pressure or by change, Northville's school leadership - both at the board and administrative level has clearly demonstrated a new awareness of the teacher, a recognition of his requests and recommendations, and a willingness to meet halfway.

Money-wise, a board of education can go only as far as the community it represents permits. And administrators are responsible to the board to see that these limits are observed.

But from this view, it is not money negotiators to a deadlock. It is history. A wise administration will recognize it. And teachers will exercise patience.

UP Unemployed Picked for Pilot Program

LANSING - Michigan's "hard core" unemployed in the Upper Peninsula were picked for a unique retraining-educational pilot program. Although job retraining has been conducted at many locations for quite some time, the UP project combined basic education and prevocational training with the teaching of only job skills.

A Federal program passed in 1964 provides funds for attacking hard core poverty. The Michigan Department of Social Services and Northern Michigan University, at Marquette, pooled their talents to provide a more flexible program, based on individual needs, than is normally found in retraining.

The 201 enrollees were first given thorough medical-dental examinations and underwent extensive counseling. Factors which become apparent - and which could affect the trainees' successfully completing courses—included organic problems, drinking habits, marital difficulties, low reading and mathe-

Trainees, housed in special quarters at Northern, received specific help on these individual problems. During this period social services staff visited homes, explained the program and asked for cooperation and support Programs planned for 10 week intervals actually averaged 11 1/2 weeks.

Once a vacancy developed in the job training classes, a trainee was "promoted" from basic education to job skills. No class schedule was set; trainees graduated from classes as employment was found or when they entered a more highly-skilled course.

Some economists feel that this downturn has removed one of the last obstacles to a strong business upturn that could get under way during the final months of this year.

The June dip in total inventories to $137.0 billion from a May level of $137.4 billion - seasonally adjusted brought an end to a 72-month climb. However, since the beginning of 1967, the rate of rise had been losing steam.

At the end of January, total business inventories amounted to $136.6 billion. When they made their peak four months later, they had edged up only 0.6%. So, in effect, the inventory adjustment has been in process during five of the six months of the first half of this year.

It should be noted that June's drop in inventories coincided with a boost in sales, thus bringing the inventory-sales ratio down to 1.55. - the lowest level this year. But one swallow does not make a summer, nor do single dips in total inventories and/or inventory-sales ratios indicate that a turnabout in the economy is assured. Dr. James W. Rae, chairman of physical medicine and rehabilitation at the University medical center, said of the new program:

"We expect that some patients will be referred here, to the new Parview Medical Center for driving training alone. However, more general, such training will become one part of their overall rehabilitation process."

The new Parview center is owned and operated by the University hospital. However, the costs of operating this facility will be borne by the Michigan Division of Vocational Rehabilitation.

This 103 bed facility will offer other vocational rehabilitation services as well'as driver education.

6-Month Building Declines in 1967

The number of residential units authorized for construction in the metropolitan area during the first six months of 1967 declined from the same period of the previous year, according to a report of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning commission.

This is the first decline for the period in six years, the commission noted. "A total of 15,370 units were permitted during the first six-months of 1967 compared to 16,697 for the same period of 1966, a decline of 1,327 or 7.9

Construction of multiple-family units, which recorded an increase of 22 percent in 1966, declined 11.4 percent during the first six months of 1967. The number of multiple family units decreased from 7,012 units in 1966 to 6,212 units in 1967, a decline of 800

Oakland, Washtenaw and out-Wayne counties recorded overall residential unit declines while Macomb county and the city of Detroit recorded increases. Here's the local area residential building figures for the first six months made public by Dr. Eric J. Bradner, president of the college. The contract provides for a $1,000 across-the-board raise for all Forum members plus salary increments earned last year ranging from $200 to $500. In addition, the college board agreed to pay one-half the cost of dependents' hospital and medical insurance for dependents. The college will continue to underwrite the entire cost of theinsurance for all employes.

The agreement establishes a 10-step basic salary index for a 36-week con-

Oakland university will cast off its near-ghost town look this week when students return to campus to begin the 1967-68 academic year.

A total enrollment of about 3,800 is anticipated for the fall semester, which would be an increase of more than 600 over last fall. The total will include about 2,400 returning students and 1,400 new students, both freshmen and transfers. Classes will begin on Monday, September 11.

Activities for new students officially opened yesterday with convocation cerenonies in the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion on campus. Chancellor D. B. Varner presided and Melvin Cherno, associate professor of history and master of Oakland's New College, delivered the main address. The invocation and benediction was given by the Rev. William Brewster, director of the University Christian Federation.

Today and tomorrow, September 7-8 students will go through advising and egistration during the last of a number of orientation sessions scheduled this summer. They also will take a battery of placement tests which are used by the student and the University in deciding what curriculum he should follow.

Two open houses are planned to acquaint new students with sports and recreation opportunities available on campus. They will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Sunday for men students and 4:15 to 5:45 p.m. on Monday for women students, both held in the OU Sports and

According to Detective Sergeant Richard Faulkner, five youths have been apprehended and released to the custody of their parents pending appearance in Oakland county juvenile

The damaged trucks, all new and awaiting van type bodies at the U-Haul assembly plant at 25701 Seeley road, were driven from the parking lot into an adjacent field, through a swamp, smashed against trees and then returned to the lot banging into others in the process. Damage ranged from broken windows, lights, and mirrors to smashed or dented grills, doors, and bumpers. Damage was estimated at $5,000. It appears, said Sergeant Faulkner, that the boys deliberately drove the trucks into trees. He said the juveniles were from the Highland Hills Trailer Park, which is located across Seeley road from the U-Haul firm.

Damage to the trucks was reported to police by Henry Kelly last Thursday. He guessed the trucks had been damaged between 6 p.m. on Wednesday and 10:30 a.m. on Thursday.

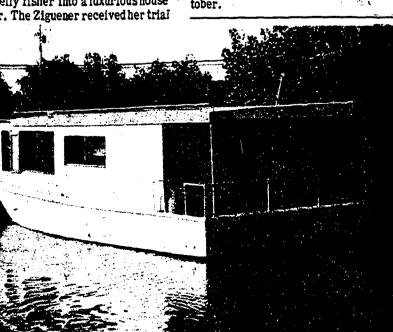

Initial police investigation zeroed in on a former disgruntled U-Haul employee but this lead proved false, Faulkner said, and the juvenile investigation followed. Shoe and finger prints found at the scene led police to the boys, he
