EDITOR'S NOTE: Since publicizing last week a letter received by the Northville Historical Society from a Colorado writer requesting information relative to Thomas J. Dean, a Civil War veteran of Northville, The Record has received several telephone calls from interested citizens with bits of information. Ironically, the most comprehensive story found of the man was written by Lieutenant H. M. White and published in a two-part series in The Record during the winter of 1889. Parts of that sketch follow:

Thomas J. Dean was born in Canadaigua, Wayne county, New York, May 22, 1826. His parents moved to Livonia in 1832. Asafarmer, hisfather, Luther, was well known being for some years deputy sheriff and instrumental in arresting and breaking up a gang of horse thieves and counterfeits who infested eastern Michigan and Ohio.

At the age of 19, Thomas went to St. Louis where he remained some months. Afterward he lived in New Orleans about a year, from there he went to Louisville, Kentucky where he remained three years. In August, 1848 he married MissEmily McKinney. In the latter part of 1849 he returned to Michigan and settled on a farm in Nankin. He taught school two or three winters following. In August, 1862 he enlisted a number of men and mustered with them as a second lieutenant of Company D, Fifth Michigan Cavalry. The last of March following he was made first lieutenant of his company. Dean was with his company during the campaign of 1863. He received a slight wound on the wrist at Gettysburg by a spent ball. His arm was pretty sore and lame but he remained with the command. He was in command of a part of the picket line at Robertson River, October 9, 1863, and with 10 of his company was taken prisoner. He was exchanged March 1st 1865. During that time he boarded with the rebels at the old Libby at Richmond and at Macon, Georgia.

Dean returned to the regiment and Captain Dean preferred to go on so he was transferred to the First Michigan and started across the plains.

He was mustered out July 11, 1865

> With the close of the war and the discovery of gold, many wild and reckless men went to the western territories of which Colorado had a share. As the mining interest of Grand county became opened up this element also developed.

In the winter of 1884 three commissioners were appointed who were about the same as our county auditors. They met in February; the county clerk refused to act with them and Captain Dean was chosen clerk pro tem. They met again the 3rd of July at the court house; the county clerk still refusing to act with them, Dean was again chosen clerk. They did not complete their business and adjourned to the next morning. Dean and two of the commissioners stopped at the hotel together and in the morning they started for the court house which was some little distance.

They had to go through a little cluster of scrub pines. As they came to it three masked men sprang out and fired upon them. One of the commissioners, who was an old army sergeant, returned the fire killing one of the masked men and at the same instant he fell dead the other was wounded and died the same day.

Captain Dean received one shot in the head and one in the hip.

A crowd soon gathered; the mask was taken off the dead man and revealed the other commissioner. The other two escaped; it was supposed they pulled off their masks and mingled with the crowd. A reward was offered but they were never apprehended. Dean was taken to the hotel and his son and daughter sent for. The doctor gave them no hope from the first, yet he was hopeful and conscious to the last. He lived to the 17th of July

Henry J. Dean of Livonia a cousin of Captain Dean and under whom he enlisted, was fatally wounded near Yellow Tavern, about 10 miles from Richmond....a minnie ball shot through the abdomen and coming out his back.

The writer, Lieutenant White, was a student of Captain Dean before the latter apparently moved to Northville. Of that experience he wrote: I went to school with him in the winter of 1849. He was a good teacher but very strict, and the large boys soon found he was a bad man to fool with. Of Dean's military disposition, he

He was pretty stern and the men liked him in camp, and he was a splendid officer to be out on a raid or scout; if there was anything to be had for men or horse he could find it. I remember one day on the march the orders had been very very strict against the men falling out of the ranks to forage. We passed a flock of chickens, Dean saw them and he knew some of his men left the ranks but he didn't see them of course. After we got into camp at night and the boys were cooking supper Dean came along down the line and said, "Boys, I do like chickens." It is needless to say a generous plateful went to his tent when they were cooked.

the city council adopted ordinances on administration and use and approved closing of a contract for operating the system with the Oakland county department of public works. All council members were present for the regular session, as Mayor Weslev McAtee and council members worked through a lengthy and varied agenda. In addition to the sewer ordinances and the operating contract, the council approved a request for zoning change, accepted a petition for annexation of a land parcel, heard a request to fill a constable vacancy from Justice of the Peace Elwood Grubb, who addressed the council during the mayor's call to public, accepted a petition from spokesman for Wixom businessmen to extend hours for police dispatching service, and gave conditional approval to a special request from a builder. One sewer ordinance serves to meet requirements of state laws governing public utilities and sets forth details of a financial structure for handling money received in fees and charges and specifies funds for maintenance. improvements, etc.

A second ordinance, which has direct application to homeowners and others who will be using the sewers, incorporates detailed and specific regulations covering hook-ups, inspections, annual service charges, provides authority and penalties for payment of fees and charges, and brings control of all sewer construction under authority of the city. Wixom City Clerk, Donna Thorsberg, told the Novi News that copies of the sewer ordinances will be printed and be available soon at the City Hall.

The approval on the zoning request change followed a recommendation by the planning commission to rezone two lots fronting on Pontiac Trail across from the city hall to O-1 (offices) from RA-2 (single-family residential).

The request from Justice Grubb called attention to an applicant for a constable position that Grubb explained offered a possible solution to also resolving the justice court clerical work load that council acted on at an earlier meeting. Mayor McAtee replied that receipt of the application was welcome and would be considered thoroughly by the city administration. The request for annexation concerned approximately 314 acres of land, described as vacant, between Old Plank road and the Wixom city limits. The request was referred to the planning commission Richard Mitchell, manager of Aunt Jemima's Restaurant, presented a peti-

Northville's police department is getting out of the driver's license business. The city council approved a recom-nendation by City Manager Frank Ollendorff that the service be dropped, probably around February 15.

Manager Ollendorff explained that if the city were to continue the service it would require moving from police offices and adding another clerk. He said the business has become so large that it is interferring with more important police matters. He noted that no other communities in the area provide the service and the state is now encouraging all locally-operated stations to turn the service over to state stations. (Many South Lyon, Novi, Wixom and Plymouth drivers obtain licenses in Northville.) The Northville city manager said that customers from outside the Northville community purchasing licenses locally outnumber local residents about 13-1. "In effect, city taxpayers are supporting a service for outsiders",

Manager Ollendorff said that the state had indicated that their station in Livonia on Five Mile near Middlebelt could handle the Northville area

A DAR BIRTHDAY luncheon at noon next Monday at Hillside Innin Plymouth will have as guest speaker a man who believes the Michigan lumberjack is "every bit as picturesque as the cowboy" - and hopes to persuade his audience to agree.

Now a special sales representative for Michigan Consolidated Gas company, Smits for 15 years was a WXYZ news commentator and wrote a column, "Sidewalks of Detroit," for the Detroit Times where he served as outdoor editor. He began his newspaper work on his grandfather's weekly and has worked on dailies from coast to coast.

His topic will be "History of Pioneer Detroit." * * * * * *

The score was 65-59 at that point. But Grass Lake, possibly sensing an upset, scrambled quickly to score 10 the score might indicate. Behind most of the contest, the Mustangs entered the final quarter trailing by three points, 39-36. With five minutes to play, Forward Randy Pohlman stepped to the free Pohlman netted two more free shots to push Northville into the lead, 45-43. Another field goal increased the Mustangs' lead to four points and the Barons, in desperation, called a time out. Bloomfield's Forward Steve Jones sliced the gap to two-points following the break and then added a one-point conversion to put the Barons within a single point of the leaders, 47-46, with less than two minutes to play.

It was another nerve-wrenching night for Coach Jack Townsley, as his lightweight men piled up a big lead that melted away to a North Farmington lead.

Northville won the first five matches. Mark Griffin (95), Bill Kriss (103), Bob Baber (112), John Tam (120), and Marty Richardson (127), all won decision victories to provide a big 15-0 mar-

Then the Raiders came on with a vengeance. Curt Olewnik, who continues to draw the tough men, dropped a decision in the 133 match to North Farmington's Dan Haller. Olewnik wrestled his usual aggressive match that shows no respect for his opponent's reputation and is a source of pride and satisfaction for Townsley.

Don Sass nearly got the Mustangs leading all the way until a determined North Farmington man took the 138 match with a win by pin that came just before the final buzzer.

That left it to Dan Conklin to adjust the scoreboard that favored North Farmington 19-18.

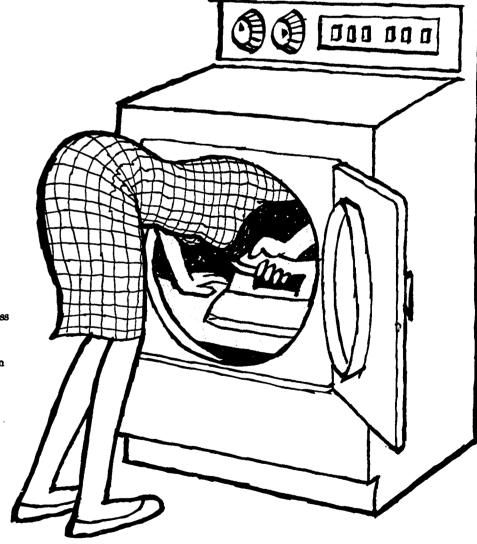

The assignment was in good hands. Conklin faced a bigger man, but found his way into a cradle that meant pin for him and five points and the meet for Northville.

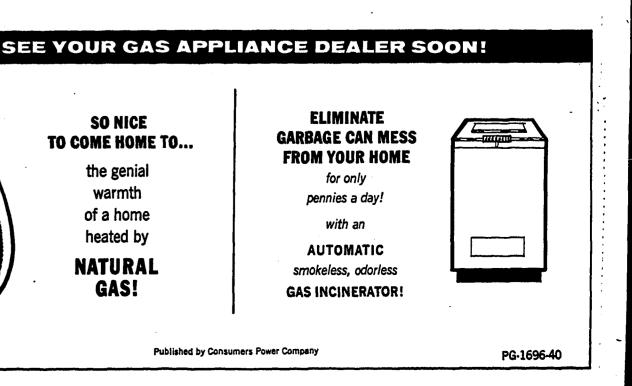

The win provided a little extra measure of satisfaction for Townsley and his wrestlers, who lost to North Farmington last year by a one-point margin. Getting the dual meet win winning again, getting a takedown and over the Class A Raiders marked another successful step along a very tough schedule

"Search the Scriptures ... " Jesus said, "and they are they which testify of me" (John 5:39) All one has to do to see the close relation between Jesus and His teachings is to read the Gospel of John. Whoever would receive Him must receive His Words. So He took care to promise His disciples that when He went away He would, by His Spirit, cause them to remember all the things He had said to them (John 14:26). When we read the New Testament it is not hard for us to believe that there was God's aid in its production. There is no question but that the early Christians relied greatly upon the written Word. Paul wrote to young Timothy and reminded him that he was made "wise unto salvation" by the Scriptures. Then he says: "All Scripture is inspired by God, and useful for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for training in doing what is right, so that the man of God may be perfectly fit, thoroughly equipped for every good enterprise." '2 Timonty 3:16, 17) Williams translation. Jesus called Himself "the living bread which came down from heaven;" if a person ate of that bread which came down from heaven he would never behungry again or ever die. By the Scriptures, we come to know God in salvation, and by them, we learn through the use of the Word.

We must not overlook the fact that Paul considered the Scriptures adequate without the traditions of men. The man of God was to be made "perfectly fit" by them. Jesus had already met the problem of the relative value of theaccumulated religious traditions which had been put alongside the inspired Word. He had said, "You have transgressed the commandments of God and made it of none effect by your traditions." There was no compromise with Him. The traditions were only the opinions of men (sometimes very clever ones). The Word of God was the inspiration of the Holy Spirit. "So we have seen and proved that what the prophets say come true. You will do well to pay close attention to everything they have said, for, like lights shining into dark corners their words help us to understand many things that otherwise would be dark and difficult. But, when you consider the wonderful truth of the prophets words, then the light will dawn in your souls and Christ the Morning Star will shine in your hearts. For no prophecy of Scripture was ever thought up by the prophet himself. For the Holy Spirit was within these men of God, giving them true messages from God." (2 Peter 2: 19-21) Paraphrased.

Brooklyn, New York. The previous gatherings of Jehovah's Witnesses in Tecumsehall proved to be very enjoyable, and all in attendance agreed that Tecumseh was a very hospitable community. "We are pleased to be host once again," stated Richard Krebs, presiding minister of the Tecumseh congregation, "and are all looking forward to three pleasant days of instruction and fellowship." There will be more details related to the assembly announced at a later

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD-NOVI NEWS

Westward Ho!

1968 JAWU ARY

I'd like this week to talk about law enforcement, justice and community objectives.

They're not always the same, but those who enforce and those who obey the laws wish that they could be so.

An important ingredient is cooperation, aimed not so much at crime deection as crime prevention.

This is not an exclusive assignment of the police department. It is a community obligation that can be best fostered in an atmosphere of mutual respect and regard for one another: the citizen and businessman for the officer, and vice versa.

The average citizen cannot be expected to understand all the technicalities that control, and sometimes restrict, the activities of a law enforcement agency; and neither can an officer be fully aware of the peculiarities and problems of each business within the community.

Through teamwork, a program of information, a campaign to inform one another and a mutual concession that each is striving for the same goal, certainly a community can lift itself to a level above bitterness and disrespect.

Too frequently complaints are leveled at law enforcement agencies or individual officers either to the effect that they are lax or that they are overzealous.

More alarming is the charge that the department or an officer is "out to get" a particular citizen or business.

There is very little middle ground in the business of law enforcement. And it becomes particularly difficult to view with any objectivity by one who is lawabiding, but through circumstance finds himself the offender.

Unfortunately, the most objective witness could not deny that on occasion there has been reason for one to suspect that a certain amount of satisfaction has been gleaned from the misfortunes of such victims.

But if this attitude does exist, it is and it extends only as far as the nature of the human being.

It may seem at times that law enforcement and justice are not synonymous.

They are, of course. And the inredient that can bring them closer ogether in mind as well as fact is mutual regard for the problems that face each within the community - the average citizen, businessman and our law enforcement officials.

It is hoped that our community leaders will take steps to strengthen and improve this important area.

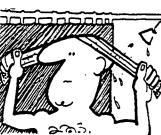

Northville Fire Chief Bud Hartner would probably say "that's the way my gang always performs" - but the fact remains that the local firefighters have come in for an extraordinary amount of praise of late.

One resident lauded the department for preventing the spread of a kitchen fire, removing dense smoke, taking care not to do damage and then cleaning up before leaving.

A business building owner related to the council Monday night how two department members and a police officer detected the source of trouble in a smoke-filled apartment, cleared it out and then waited for a furnace repairman before leaving.

Finally, Northville firemen fought flames for 13 hours Sunday in sub-zero temperatures in the Plymouth business district. Their assignment was to prevent the spread of fire into an adjoining paint store. Somebody said "it hardly got warm", thanks to the continuous efforts of the Northville firemen.

Guest Editorial A 'Perfect Newspaper'? Government will reach a new high in Dave Rood and Jim Tagg, who are co-publishers of the weekly Manistique, crank out columns that are prize-winners. Here, as a guest editorial, is part of their award-winning piece on "The Perfect Newspaper."

The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide. We don't have enough special weeks in the year as it is now, so let's add another one and promote an appropriate observance. We have Anti-Noise Week and Anti-Litter Week, so now let's all get together and have Anti-Newspaper Week. From all indications it should be a tremendous success.

A committee can be organized to work out all the details, but certainly special attention should be given to news reporting. Hundreds of people are convinced weekly that the news reporting idea is all wrong, and they would be glad to serve to help correct it. Perhaps they can emphasize that the newspaper should only print good news, and glad tidings and nice things about nice people. They can campaign to do away with bad news, and prohibit newspapers from reporting that people doget drunk, get involved in auto accidents, receive traffic tickets, make fools of themselves, go into bankruptcy, shoot their wives, assault their neighbors, set fire to the church, embezzle money and spend tax dollars foolishly.

This perfect newspaper could never print the church notices, for there are those who don't believe in churches, and who oppose organized religion, and the newspaper should not offend these

This perfect newspaper would carry no advertising, because advertising is competitive, and it isn't fair for one

Did you know that tomorrow, January 12, marks the 25th anniversary of Rose Bushe's discovery of the plant bearing her name?

Don't panic if you had forgotten that historic date because few would remember it unless they had one of Hallmark's newest calendars of memorial dates. Fortunately, my boss has a firm grip on such matters and permits, on occasion, a glance at his calendar.

Obviously, Hodges, Fitzgerald, Young & Marak Lab - creators of this masterpiece - were influenced by some physic phenomena. How else could they have described my wedding anniversary two days past with: Rome sacked by Genseric the Vandal, 455 A.D.?

For those not privileged to see my boss' calendar - and, like, me too cheap to buy their own - let me give you a sneak preview of a few of the historic dates coming up in 1968:

store to buy an ad in the paper because it might help the store sell some merchandise at the expense of some other competitor who didn't buy anad. That's not fair, and besides, everyone knows that newspapers have all the money they need anyway. Why give them advertising?

Our perfect newspaper will carry no pictures, because there is a very good chance that someone might be offended. The camera doesn't lie, they say, but maybe the newspaper does. The picture may be taken too close to the truth for many people to stomach, and it's easier to blame the newspaper for printing the picture than it is to blame whoever or whatever is represented in the picture.

It goes without saying that the perfect paper will never carry news reports of city council sessions or school board meetings or court trials or public hearings. We can't have the newspaper offending politicians and elected officials and bureaucrats who, as everyone knows, are the only ones who know how to run the government. There will be no embarrassing quotes, no reports of what they did or how they acted.

forget to mention that Junior Glutz scored three points, and Mr. and Mrs. Glutz would never forgive the editor for such an omission. Most important, there will be no editorials or columns; no attempt to explain or to comment or to lead the community. This is the best way pos-efficiency.

There will be no sports stories, for in every game there is a winner and a loser, and we can't mention losers in the perfect paper. There is also the chance that the paper would sible to offend people, so let's cut it out right now. So there we have it - the perfect newspaper. No news, no pictures, no editorials, no ads. Take an imperfect newspaper and color it black and blue from the lumps it takes while doing its job. Take the perfect newspaper and color it nothing - leave it blank and , drab and colorless, for that's exactly what it is. Not only is it a perfect newspaper

While bronze stars are being handed out for bravery above and beyond the call, there's one young man who qualifies on every score. And he doesn't carry a rifle either, or a handgrenade or a flame thrower, or any other implenent that comes under weaponry.

My man sits behind a typewriter, pounding out story after story and good ones, too. His name: George Cantor. What makes him an extraordinary newsman is his undying penchant for the truth - no matter how much it hurts.

Cantor, if you recall, took over for Joe Falls when he moved up to columnar status on The Détroit Free Press. Now George covers the Detroit Tigers 163 games a year.

George gets the bronze star because he does all this and more. He seems to put his finger on what we think and feel and see, and we find our selves saving, "Yup, ain't it the truth." And furthermore, he doesn't pull any punches, when he could just as easily live quietly

LANSING - Latest figures released by the U.S. Census Bureau show Michigan as the fastest growing of the five states in the East North Central Region, composed of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, Michigan was surpassed nationally in "growth in numbers" by only six other states during the period April 1, 1960 through July 1, 1967.

In those seven years, the state added 760,000 people to her population, a 9.7% increase. Closest competitor in the region was Illinois which experienced an 8% increase.

The census bureau forecasts Michigan's population, currently totaling igan should add about 5% per year, 8.58 million, will reach 8.6 million by 1970; 8.95 million by 1975; 9.4 million by 1980; and 9.9 million by 1985. The state will hold its lead until 1975 and should keep its rank as seventh in the U.S. through 1985.

MAJOR MICHIGAN cities were included in the census figures. They showed Detroit, with a population of 4.06 million, ranked fifth in the nation. Grand Rapids was ranked 60th with a population of 505,000 and Flint was 66th with a population of 469,000.

In other population forecasts, Mich- also bring many problems to state and slightly less than national average. By 1975 the state is expected to begin increasing ts population growth at a rate of 8% per year.

The nation is now adding about 2 1/2 million people per year, and the present U.S. population of 200 million should hit 242 million by 1980. At that time the country will begin adding about 4 million people per year to its popula-

Roger Babson Airport Crisis May Clip Air Transportation Wings

BABSON PARK, Mass. - Air transportation - one of the nation's fastestgrowing industries - is flying into a crisis which threatens to clip its wings, temporarily at least. Airport facilities just aren't keeping pace with the demand ... air corridor congestion is serious especially on the East and West Coasts ... and rapidly rising costs pose new problems of financing.

OUR EMERGENCE into the jet age has broadened the horizons of air transport - both passenger and cargo - but it has also brought us face to face with the need for bigger and costlier terminal facilities. Air traffic has doubled since 1962. You can expect it to double again in the next five years. Most of the nation's airports are overcrowded ... some dangerously so. A few are valiantly trying to handle far more planes than they have capacity for. In some airports, jet runways just aren't long enough for today's huge airliners; in others, radar installations aren't sufficient to do the job that true safety requires.

Instrument landing systems seem not to be foolproof, at best. If not well maintained, they can contribute to accidents. Without question, pilots need the most accurate information possible to permit them to determine whether planes are coming inat the proper angle and altitude .. but the development, installation, and operation of such delicate and sophisticated instruments will entail emendous increases in the operational costs of airports.

AIRPORT congestion is getting

Pan American, which has $1.5 billion in new jets on order, has obtained long-term credit of $180 million to finance new planes. nation, notably in the areas of social services provided by government. Present solutions to social problems will prove less than adequate. More money from the taxpayers will be needed to deal with poverty, air and water pollution; inadequate parks and recreation facilities; general urban ugliness. GAS TAX refunds submitted by farmers will no longer need to be notarized under a new ruling by the Motor Fuel Tax Division, Michigan Department of Revenue. Farmers who purchase gasoline in bulk for agricultural purposes are required to pay the tax at time of purchase. Revenue derived from the tax is used for public highway purposes and, since the fuel is consumed only on farms, a refund application to the state returns the tax money to the farmer. The application had to be notarized before being submitted, and this cost many farmers time, trouble and notary fees. Under the new system the application need only be signed by the appliand toys. Copies sold by Goodfellows are usually supplied by the newspaper at cost or less.

Charity campaigns by others to raise funds for Christmas receive much publicity by the local press. In many instances the newspaper itself sponsors Yuletide campaigns. In Jackson, for example, the Citizen Patriot raised more than $1,000 toward supplying toys. mittens, caps and candy for local needy youngsters. The Ruth Alden Dress Drive is promoted annually by the Detroit Free Press. Nearly every city has some such activity which is aided by its newspaper.

SOME NEWSPAPERS work 'behind the scenes," stimulating civic action and supplying names of needy families charitable organizations. Others single out families who have suffered extremely bad luck and make their plights known to readers.

These campaigns, like others, depend on reaction from people in the community. In Inkster, a suburb of Detroit, the Goodfellows sale was flop. The chairman blames a lack of volunteers for the failure and said if probably means the end of the organization in that city. Only $650 was collected by 30 volunteers, whereas the Goodfellows had set a goal of $6,000 and expected about 100 workers to participate. Instead of brightening Christmas for the 400 families on the Goodfellow list, the net proceeds allowed only about five families to be served. Fortunately, there was a reserve fund, now wiped out to help make up the loss. However, the chairman noted, "There just doesn't seem to be any interest in the community, and there's no sense beating our heads against the wall.'

Such failures are the exception rather than the rule, and newspapers working hand-in-hand with their communities did much to make Christmas a little brighter for those less fortunate.

First '68 Memo from Manager Frank Ollendorff:

The last week of 1967 served to prove for eight hours on Christmas Day, and that our Police Department is among the finest, our D.P.W. about the best you'll find, and the City Council extremely wise!

While the Northville Record and other papers told us of many auto accidents. television and radio reporters covered various crashes and injuries, and the National Safety Council and Michigan Auto Club reported dangerous conditions and slippery roads, we in Northville were doing something about

Several months ago, the city council decided that in the interest of safety and protection of property, no cars should be left on the streets overnight. The D.P.W. has, since late summer, been preparing for winter. The grader engine was replaced. Two trucks were reconditioned. A new plow and spreader were obtained. Tons of salt were stock piled. The men were on 24 hour standy for emergency duty.

The police department, as usual, went on a special Holiday schedule with each man and several dispatchers giving up part of his holiday with his family to patrol the streets and get the drunk driver, the careless driver, and other dangers off the roads. Special written tips and warnings have been given out weekly for several months to the communications media. (Our thanks to the Northville Record publishing these).

The first indications of winter problems came with rain and light snow on December 23 and 24, which froze on Christmas Eve. I personally did not see Santa Claus in a red sleigh full of presents (although my son is sure the old gentleman was in Northville), but I did see Bob Moe in a yellow truck full of rock salt at 3:00 Christmas morning. I saw him again with his helper Royal Keller (no dwarf) at 3:00 Christmas afternoon, and again at 8:00 Christmas nite, each time salting all hills and intersections in the city. Bud Hartner and his men salted streets at 5:00 each morning for the next three days. Saturday, December 30, saw more salting late in the afternoon, and New Years Eve morning Julius Saner was clearing the streets of ice. The last salting of the long week was done early January 2 at several schools in the city. In addition, the menplowed streets in Northville Estates during pre-dawn hours on December 26, the high winds having caused drifting in that part of Christmas Day and New Years Day found the police department on duty as usual, and the daily reports show a good deal of activity in safeguarding our lives and property. The men worked a special schedule and filled the jail cells with otential road hazards. While all officers and dispatchers worked over the olidays, many put in extra overtime hours during the week, including Sergeants LaFond and Westfall, several patrolmen, and Dispatcher Alice Ritchie. ## Tax Receipts Thieves Raid Climbing 3 Autos Here

Three cases of larceny or attempted larceny from automobiles were reported to Northville police during the past week.

Mrs. Jane Young, 855 Scott, reported that she left her purse lying on the floor on the passenger side of her car while it was parked in the municipal parking lot at the rear of the Cloverdale store at 8:55 p.m. Monday. She was returning from making a purchase, she said, when she observed a slim, dark man running away. She chased the suspect but did not locate him; however. she found her purse nearby with items strewn on the ground. Keys and pens were missing.

A night supervisor at the Ford Valve plant reported to police at 8 p.m. Saturday that the rear vent window of a car owned by Andy Torok, 328 North Center, had been pushed open and the car glove compartment opened. The car was parked in the company parking lot off Griswold.

Erwin Reich, 562 Langfield, reported to police that a horn ring had been removed with the horn disconnected under the hood of his car. Reich stated his son. Bruce, heard a noise outside and from an upstairs window observed a thin, dark, long-haired youth at the car and gave chase but was not able to catch him. The incident occurred about 12 a.m. January 3.

An estimated $350 of hifi equipment was taken from a Northville homefrom which residents were absent, it was reported to police Sunday. Entry apparently was gained through a window. A Scott amplifier, Gerard recorder and two speakers were missing.

Last Friday Northville police recovered a stolen vehicle when they stopped two youths at 2:40 a.m. They were escapees from the Oakland County Juvenile home and were turned over to Novi police who returned them to the home. The car was released to the owner, William Vires of Walled Lake. Police were dispatched to assist in a truck accident January 2. The fire was out on their arrival. They investigated a smoking oil stove heater at the Littlest Gallery, 138 North Center, January 2. Only smoke damage was

A week of relative safety in our city, far exceeding that available in other parts of the metropolitan area, as judged by newspaper, television, and radio reports. No injuries were reported, and only five accidents in the 240 hour period from December 23 to January 2. The five accidents included three apparently caused by unclear windshields, and two involved turning cars at intersections. Not one was even remotely connected with road conditions. In two of the five, cars parked on the streets at night before the 2:30 a.m. restriction were hit. Not one case of damage to a parked car during restricted hours was reported.

Featured at the Cavern Saturday, January 13, is the Bob Seger Sound System, which has promised to give everyone some of its famous "Heavy Music". Along with the System (formerly known as Bob Seger and the Last Heard), are the December's Children filling the gaps in a performance that "should have everyone dancing."

For Cavern Dance

"We are proud to have Bob Seger and his boys back," states Cavern President Leo Cherne, "he's popular; Heavy Music was one of the top hits in the Detroit area - he has a sound that really noves. To give us some added power he's bringing a new hit potential that should be coming around soon."

Cherne adds: "Last time we had Seger we had a record crowd, and we are expecting another."

As an end of the year report, Cherne made a few comments regarding the Cavern:

"The Cavern, during the past year has grown into one of the top scenes in the area, as shown by the growing crowds. There seems to be several reasons for this. One is the increasingly extensive entertainment. Another seems to be that the Cave is doing some face-lifting. We are constantly toying with new, better and more popular ideas. During the past few dances, we have been working on better lighting and decorations."

Members of the board of education authorized the preparation of the plaque at their Monday meeting. It is to be unveiled at a public dedication when the pool is completed in late March or 📓 early April.

Besides recognizing Mr. Angove's service on the board, the memorial will pay tribute to his support of high school athletic programs.

Upon the suggestion of Trustee Robert Froelich, the board directed the administration to draw up some proposed guidelines relative to future dedication of school facilities and their naming.

Concerning the pool's progress, Business Manager Earl Busard told

Hearing Set For Rezoning

A public hearing to consider a zoning change for 6,000 square feet of land on the south side of Randolph street near the intersection of Taft road will be held January 22 at 8 p.m. City-owned and optioned to Bernard Remer, who owns the property west of it, the land together with a house was originally purchased by the city to enable a relocation of the curve of classification is sought, a change from R-2 (residential two-family). Remer, who will purchase the property for $1,000, cannot build on it but will use it as a drive to his proposed apartment complex on the adjoining property. The planning commission last week voted to recommend the zoning subject to the property's sale. While Remer's plan for apartments on the adjoining property will not be part of the January 22 hearing, planners questioned the "safety argument" for using the small city parcel for a drive if plans are carried out for a second drive further west.

Randolph at the time of the street's resurfacing. An R-2A (restricted multiples)

They noted that since Remer claims the city parcel will provide the safest drive possible, a second drive plan defeats this argument.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff has pointed out that zoning laws prevent construction of any buildings on the parcel to be sold to Remer, but that a covenant can be secured from the new owner to further insure against any building.

Installation of all lockers is to be completed this week. Combination locks, to cost students $1.50 each, are to be purchased. These locks may be kept by students for use by them when they enter high school.

High school addition - One wing is in use now. The library should be ready by the start of the second semester, and installation of all shop equipment should be completed within two weeks, thus completing it for occupancy. Cold weather has temporarily delayed completion of the new bus compound adjacent to the high school parking lot.

In reference to buses, Busard reninded parents that the drive through the athletic field to the new junior high school is to be used by buses only. Recent use of the drive off Eight Mile road by parents driving students to school has hampered bus transportation, he said.

Call to Police Stops Ticketing

Northville police are asking anyone whose car breaks down or will not start and, therefore, must be left on city streets during the 2 to 7 a.m. parking street. Attorney Severance pointed out mediately to avoid being ticketed.

If it is impossible to get garage service for a disabled car or there is other good reason for the automobile being on the street, the police will not ticket, the department said. People with street parking permits are required to display them in the right rear window of the vehicle.

The Northville city council approved rezoning of River street property owned by Northville Downs to permit construction of a barn next to, and duplicating, an existing structure.

The council upheld the recommendation of the planning commission after setting forth assurances that the track meets greenbelt obligations and that both the track and the city take steps to correct complaints of neighboring citizens concerning dust, traffic, eyesores,

Despite these conditions, Attorney Donald Severance, representing certain residents residing across from track property on River street, were opposed to the rezoning. "They don't want a barn in their front yards", he stated.

John Carlo, executive manager of the Downs, agreed to a $2,500 escrow to install a greenbelt along River street from the existing greenbelt to Beal that this was merely living up to anagreement that had been made when the first barn was constructed on the track property.

Carlo said the building would improve the appearances by hiding some eyesores. He told the council that he would "not be a party to a move to force sale of property by coercion". Carlo referred to suggestions from at least one property owner that the rezoning should be held up until a sale agreement could be reached.

Cash, in his early thirties and the father of two young sons, is in the intensive care facility at Wayne County General hospital. According to reports, he was in the grease pit under his car at the time of the explosion and was able to climb out of the pit, although all of his clothing was charred by the flames.

A brother, Wayne, who lives with his parents, the Floyd Cashs, was called to the scene and assisted in transporting his brother to Botsford hospital, Farmington. He was transferred to Wayne County General hospital.

The entire station was gutted by the fire which resulted from the explosion. Ed Fitzsimmons, proprietor of the station for the past nine years, estimated the loss of stock at about $5,000. Although he carried liability insurance, he said the stock was uninsured.

According to reports, Mrs. Myrtie Pettengill, owner of the building, did carry some insurance on the property. No estimate of property loss was readily available.

By late afternoon Sunday firemen were able to enter the rear of the building and work their way to the second floor. But Chief Schoenneman ordered the men from the building when the floor appeared to be on the verge of collapsing and the flames again raced out of control, eating through to the roof.

Cause of the fire had not been definitely established by noon Tuesday. Chief Schoenneman said, although his department was investigating an unconfirmed report that it may have been touched off by sparks from an acetylene torch being used in the basement of the building.

More than $10,000 recently was paid to the Northville school district for state aid reimbursements on 1966-67 school bus transportation. Business Manager Earl Busard has reported. This money, which is more than was estimated, means the school district finished the 1966-67 school year by $22,174 in the black, he noted. Prior to the receipt of the money, the 1966-67 fiscal budget showed a surplus of $11,174. Although the district receives money from the state a year after it is credited, explained Busard, under the accrual method of financing it is accounted to the fiscal year for which it was intended. Based on a recent review of the cinds of bus expenditures for which the district may receive state income, Northville can anticipate aid of $60,000 for bus transportation next year - or some $20,000 more than currently paid, Busard said.

Such items as bus parts, a large share of the business manager's salary, etc., which in the past have not been recouped through state aid, are eligible for partial reimbursement and the district will request monies for them hereafter, he said.

Concerning school financing, the board of education will conduct a special budget review next Monday beginning at 8 p.m.

The meeting is open to the public.

Only Treasurer Richard Martin, who like some of his fellow members was not a member of the board when it first indicated its willingness to participate in 1966, did not vote for membership. He abstained.

The city and township of Northville voted to join the newly organized intergovernmental, quasi-official body several weeks ago as did the city of Wixom. Dozens of school boards and municipalities throughout the metropolitan area have joined, in hopes that Its studies and reports will lead to more uniform planning and development between communities while providing useful information on financing, utility services, air and water pollution control, community planning, and other matters of importance to municipalities - collectively and individually.

Just recently the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning commission was merged with SMCOG as a step toward smoother intergovernmental planning.

In other action Monday, the board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Robbie Durbin, elementary teacher, reinstated high school librarian Mrs. Marian Sullivan subject to her doctor's report. and employed three new replacement teachers.

The new teachers include Miss Barbara LaBeau, library; Mrs. Frances Caughey, elementary; and Mrs. Betty Knapp, vocal music.

The board decided to accept bids for the sale, removal, or demolition of its old Waterford school building recently vacated by the Northville township board, which moved into the old library building near the corner of Wing and Main streets inside the city.

In a separate vote, the board went on record as favoring the retention of the Waterford school site together with the adjoining 17.6 acres owned by the district for possible future use or

In Hung Jury

The jury declared itself "hopelessly deadlocked" in a trial held Friday in Northville municipal court involving a charge of selling alcoholic beverages to a minor.

Defendant in the case was Henry Ackerman, an employee of Good Time Party Store, 567 Seven Mile road. The charge was brought after Northville police on October 20 observed a youth, with whom they were familiar, leave the store with a brown bag. Later police stopped the car in which the youth, 19, was riding with two juveniles, both 16. They returned to the store and the youth identified Ackerman as the sales-

In trial testimony Ackerman stated that the boy had provided sufficient evidence that he was over 21 on a previous visit to the store, one or two weeks' earlier. Ackerman saidhe remembered the incident and for that reason did not request identification.

The youth denied that he had ever purchased alcoholic beverages in the store previously or that he had ever been asked for identification.

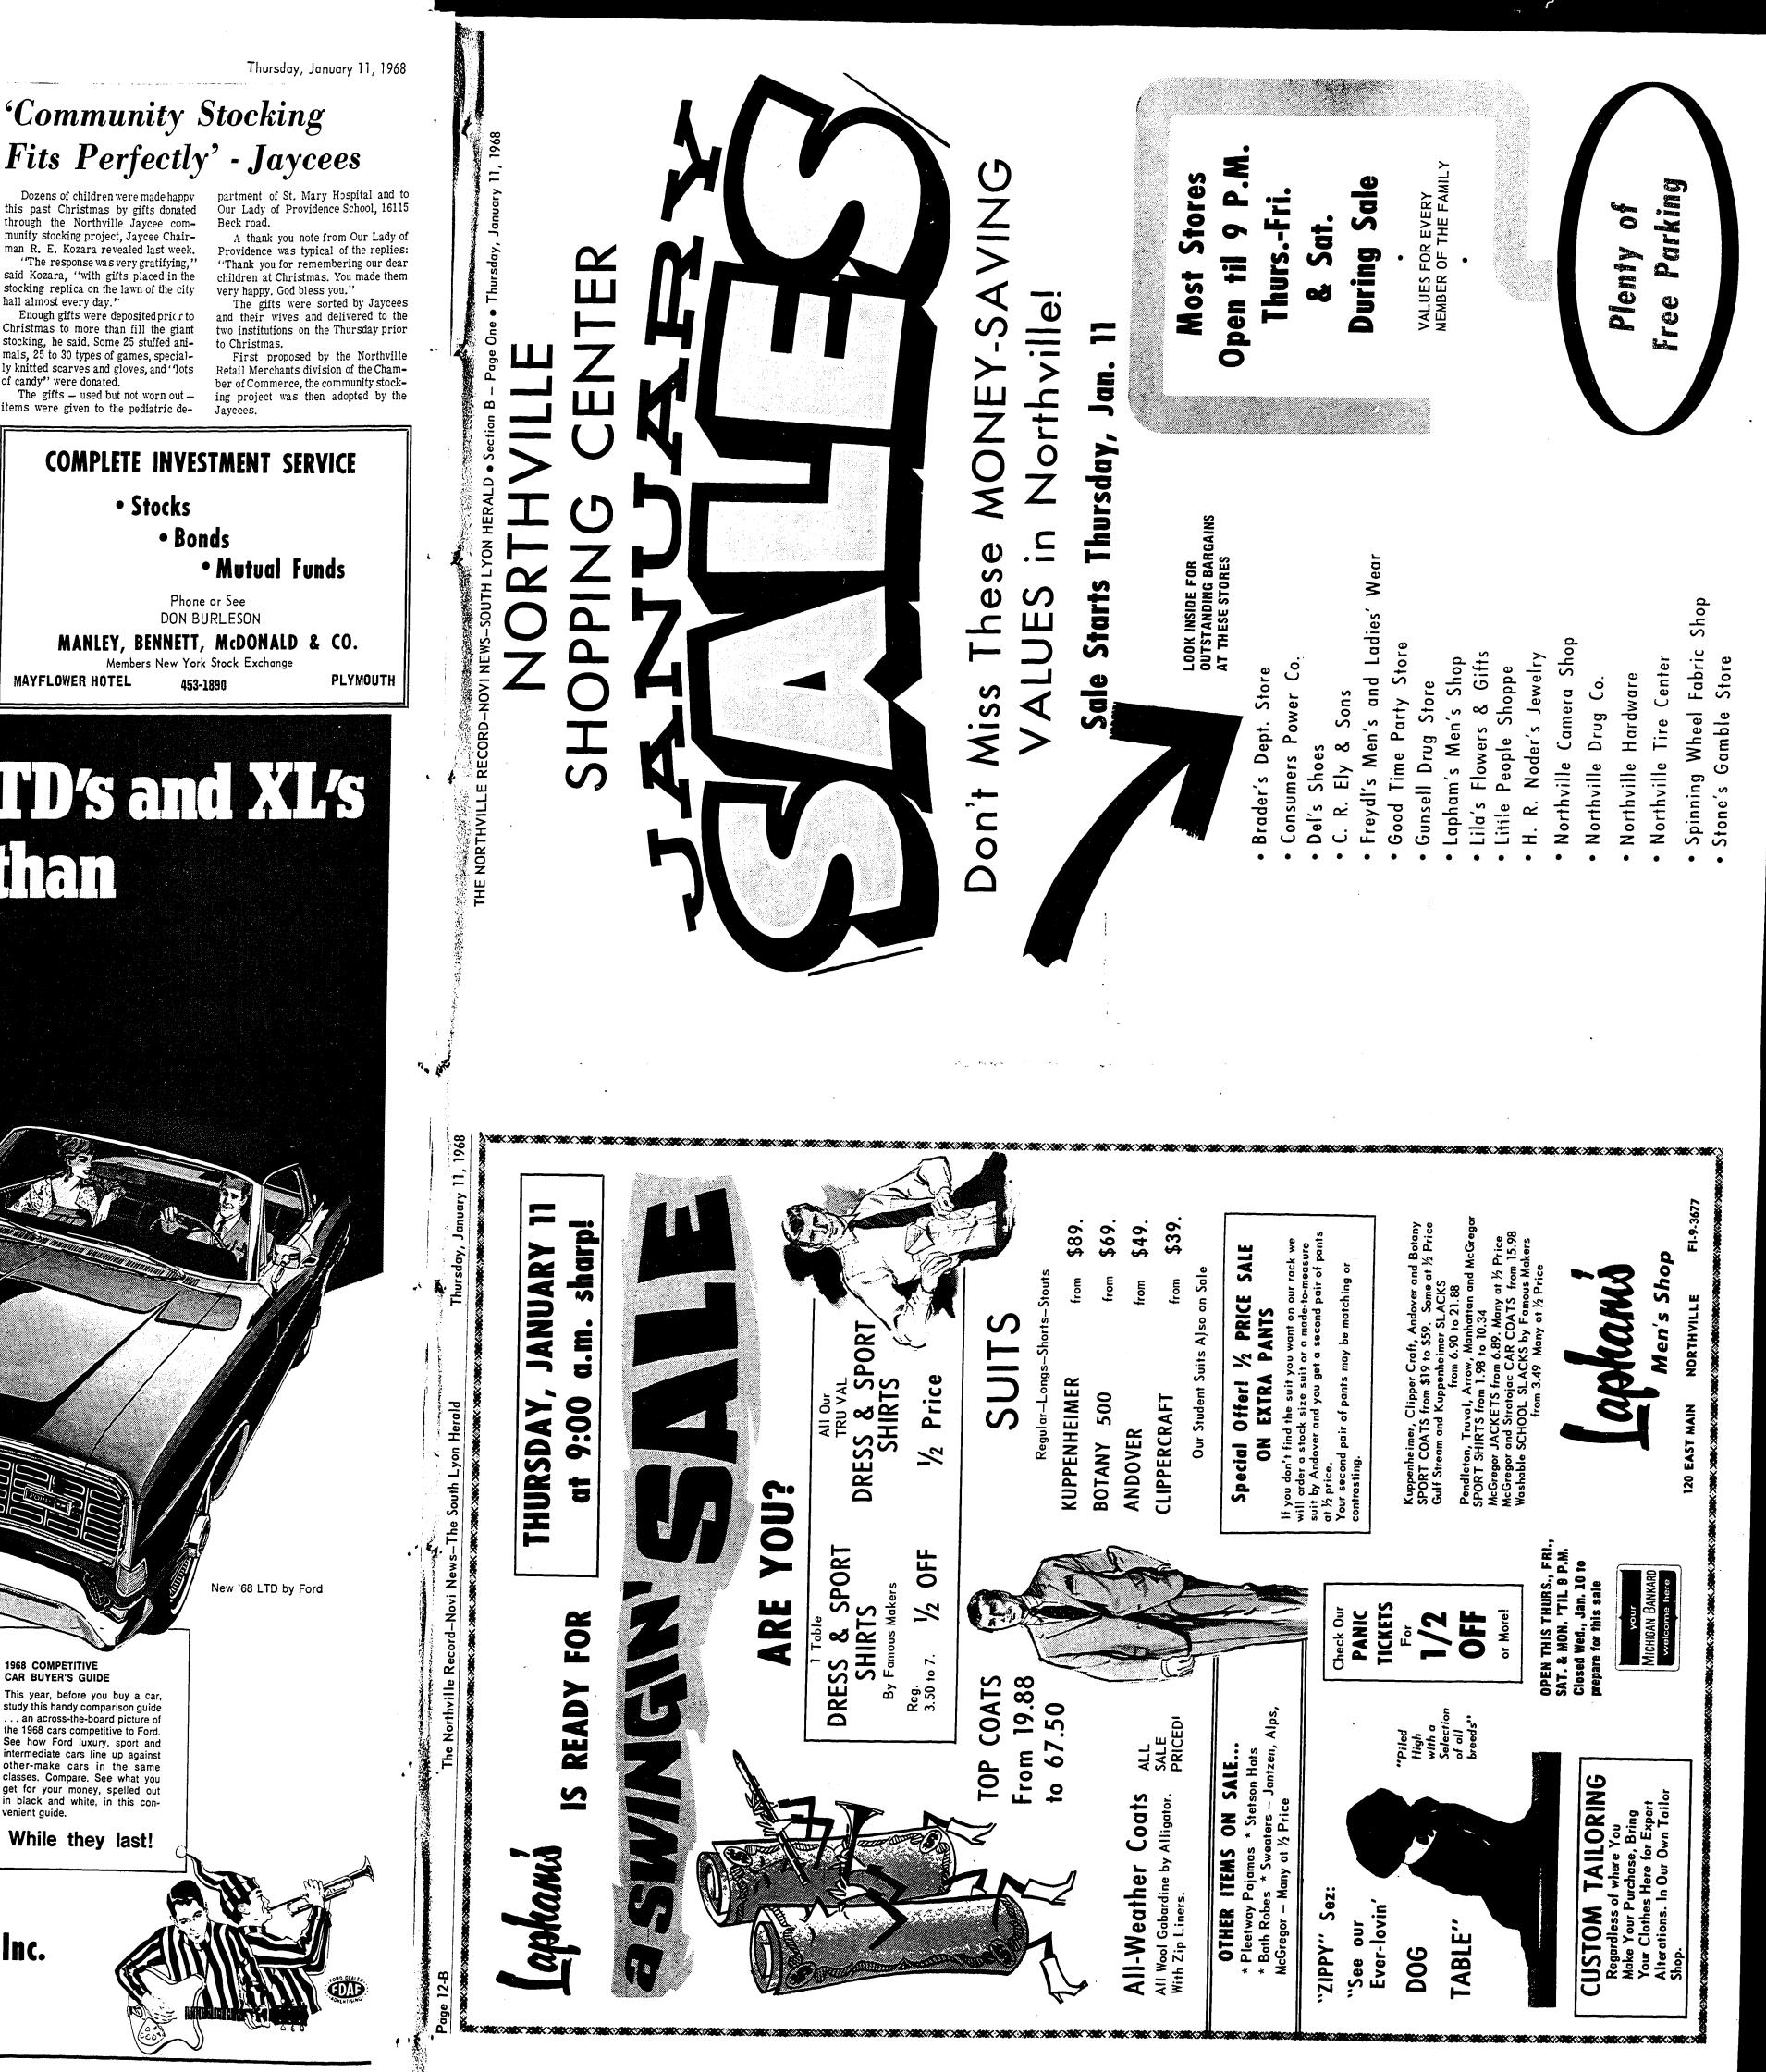

After hearing testimony the sixmember jury went into the jury room at 12:45 p.m. On two occasions they asked for clarification information from Judge Philip Ogilvie. Finally at 4 p.m. the jury announced it could not reach a unanimous conclusion.

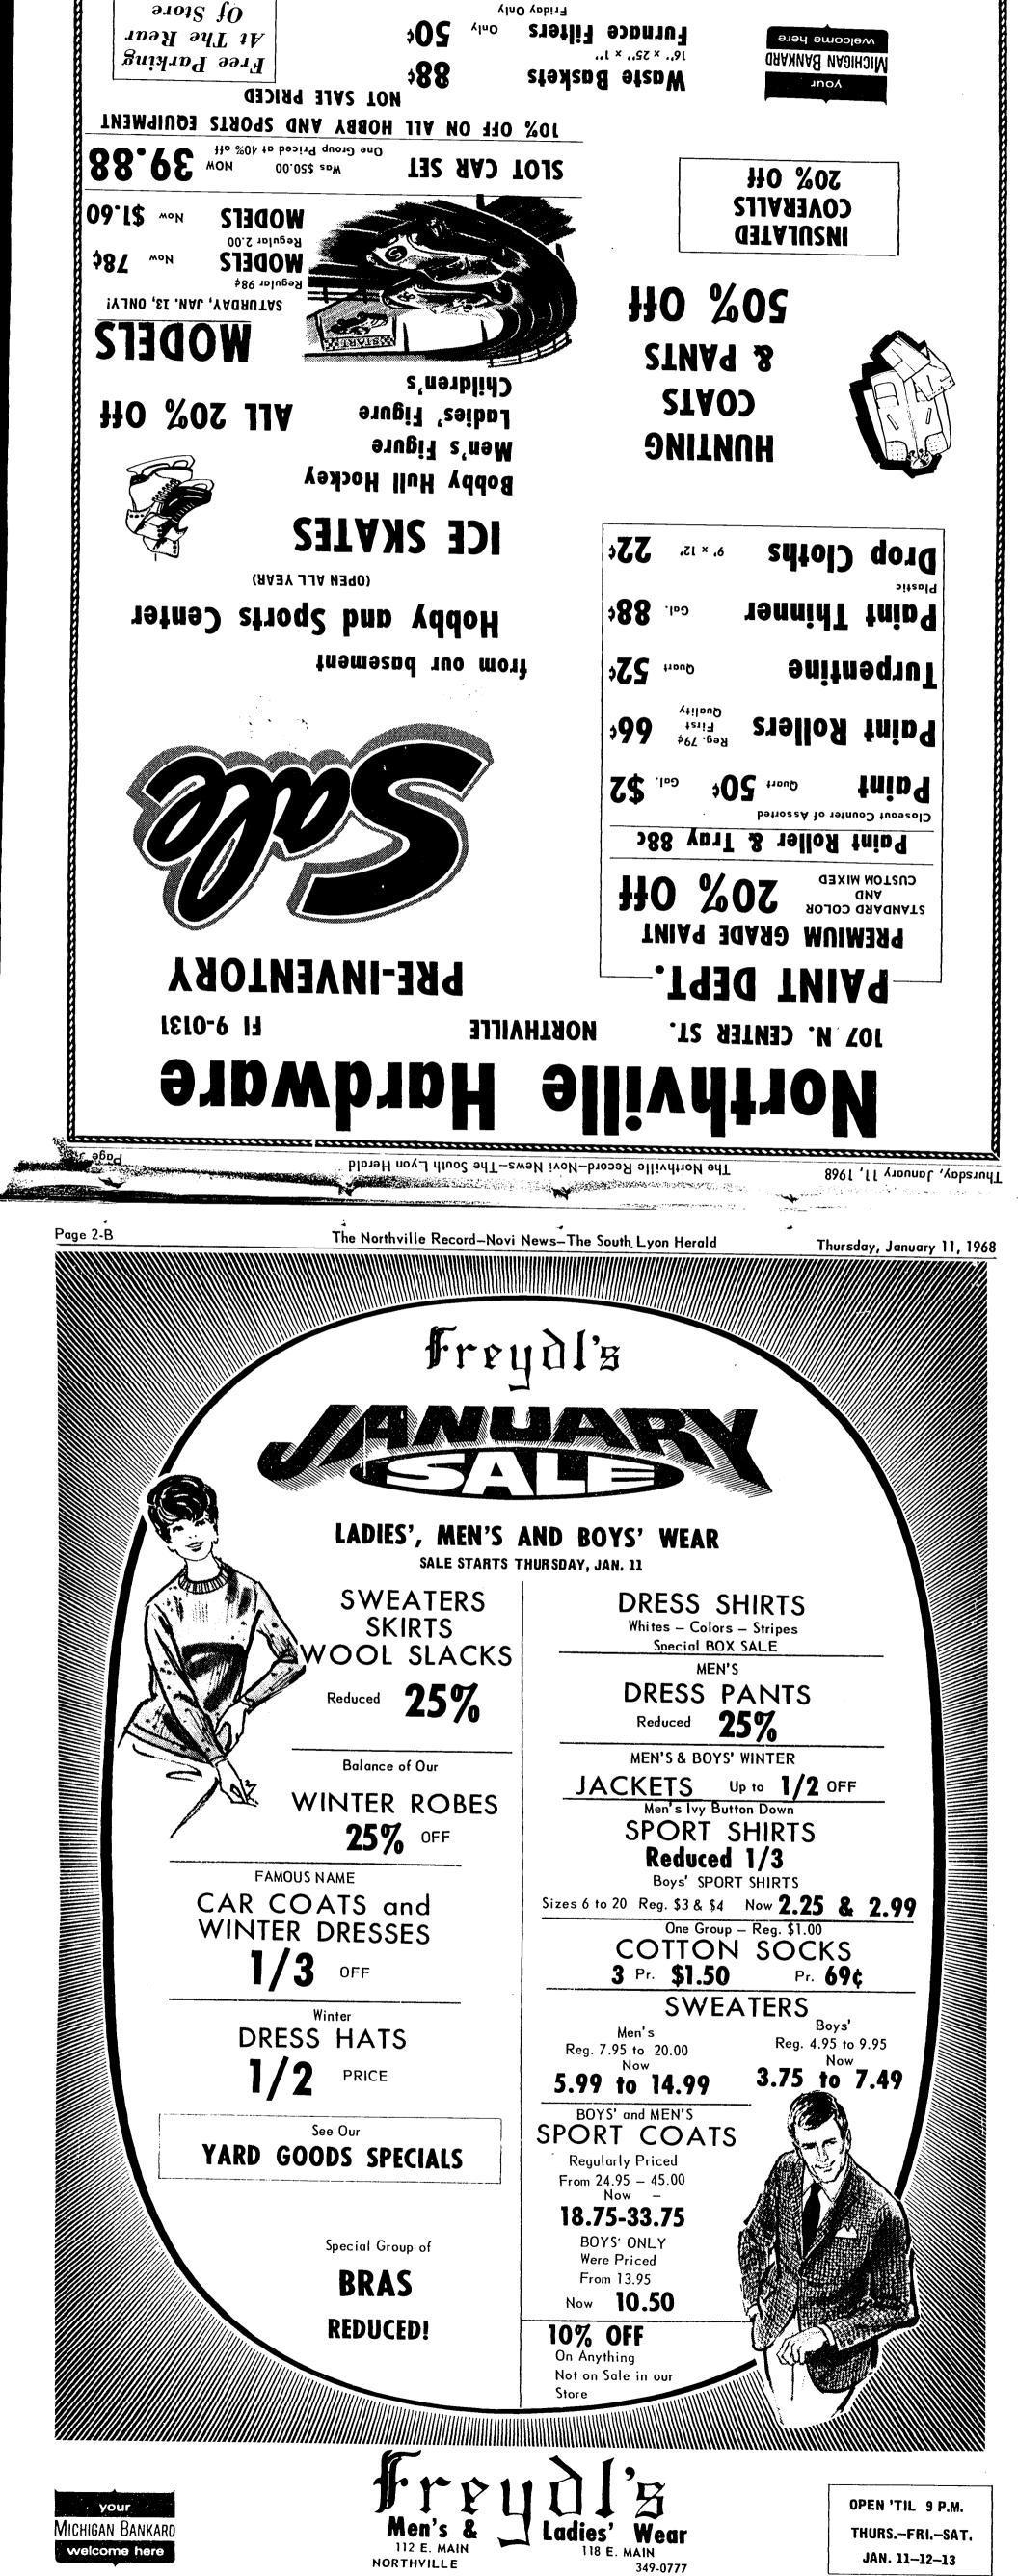

The case was tried by the Wayne county prosecutor's office under state law. Local authorities state that it is the responsibility of the prosecutor to determine whether the case should be dropped or retried.

Charges Dropped

It was erroneously reported last week that Chris Dulas was involved in the incident. Actually, Dulas reported the disturbance to the police. Those accused of wielding a knife during the fracas were unidentified and left the scene before police arrived.
