Novi Justice Court

Justice Emery Jacques heard several minor matters at Novi court August 1 in addition to the charge against David Glenn Randall of Fenton on a charge of driving with defective equipment. His fine was $10; costs $5.

Two persons charged with being drunk and disorderly early Sunday morning were taken by the Novi constable to jail, their bond revoked.

Patrolman Jerry Burnham said he arrested Lewis McDonald, 57, of Milford and his sister-in-law, Ruth Johnson, 39, of South Lyon, on charges of being drunk and disorderly when McDonald's car ran off the road in front of the Fairlane Motel. They will be arraigned before Judge Emery Jacques August 8.

Judge Emery Jacques sentenced a Willard Lake man to five days in jail and warned him that he would "get 90 days" if he appears before him again on the charge, according to Police Chief Lee BeGole.

David L. Cummings, 1289 East Lake Drive, was arrested July 31 and arraigned August 1 on a charge of driving without a license. His plea was guilty. Police said his license had been revoked because of the accumulation of points.

Two minors in possession were fined July 25 by Judge Emery Jacques: Mark J. Wilson, 20, of Plymouth was fined $10 with costs of $5. The offense occurred at Ten Mile and Willowbrook; Bruce A. Harriman, 18, of Livonia was fined $25. He was arrested at Eleven Mile and West Haggerty.

Jeffery Rando Homquist, 19, of Detroit on Grand River and Wixom Road drove in center lane, disregarding the yellow lines, and was fined $15.

Terry James Harold, 109 Iva, Novi, failed to stop at a stop sign at Iva and Novi roads, and was fined $15.

ANTIQUA RIFLE MIGHT STILL SHOOT - If anyone had the proper wads, the ramrod to ram them in the gun with and the bullet to fit the octagon-shaped barrel of this antique rifle owned by George Simmons, it's altogether possible it would still shoot, he says. Simmons' great grandfather, Joshua Simmons, shot a deer with the weighty weapon the day Richmond Simmons was born in 1830. Richmond's son, Fred P., was George's father; his old home stands next to the present home of the George Simmons on Ten Mile Road, known as Simmons Orchards. Simmons has a receipt to show the orchards' aren't young; it's dated February 11, 1879 and is for 300 barrels of apples at $1.37 1/2 per barrel (a barrel is three bushels!). The Joshua Simmons home still stands, too, and is known as the Sherwin Hill Place. Mr. and Mrs. George Simmons have two daughters, two sons, 17 grandchildren and three great grandchildren - and a great deal of family history in this vicinity to hand down to them.

TOGETHER IN PHILIPPINES - Young Chris Weidner, 3, on the left and Julie, 5, on the right, left July 7 with their mother, Leona ("Toni" Steinbach) to join their father, Sgt. Tom Weidner, in the Philippines. Sgt. Weidner is an Air Force electronics and computer technician and has been in the Philippines for a year. The family expects to remain there together another year. Julie will start school at Clark Air Force Base this fall. Toni has a hard time getting used to "geckos", the harmless lizards that keep household insects to a minimum - but she finds it quite easy to accustom herself to such luxuries as a cook, laundress and babysitter, to 85-cent-shampoo-and-sets and a houseboy who "lives in" and once a week clears the house of furniture and scrubs the floors with half a coconut (reserving the other half to wax with). Tom graduated from Northville high school in 1959, the son of the William Weidners of Fairbrook, and has been in service for six years. He had also spent three months in Thailand.

TROGLODYTES Just Gotta Hear... 'The Time Has Come'

By DARYL HOLLOMAN

The weekend of August 9-10 (Friday and Saturday) is quite coincidental to a certain degree regarding a song titled "The Time Has Come."

Those of you who listen to WABX (99.5 FM) may have already determined in part as to what I'm referring to.

For those of you who haven't, two shows are featured at Ford Auditorium this Saturday as WABX presents an "Underground Sound" performance headlining The Chambers Brothers - Along With Sly and The Family Stone and The Iron Butterfly.

The Chambers Brothers is a group made up of four negro brothers (ironically by name of Chambers) and a caucasion to round out the five man group.

"The Time Has Come" is the song for which The Chambers Brothers are famous. It runs approximately 10 minutes in duration, yet is probably the most well constructed piece of progressive or underground music of that length to date.

However, by now you're probably questioning my elaborating upon the "Underground Sound" show at Ford Auditorium, when I should be giving you an insight as to the entertainment and events transpiring at The Cavern this Friday night.

Well, as of now, "The Time Has Come" for me to tell you why I have done so.

To begin with, this Friday night The Cavern features (in alphabetical order) The Jagged Edge and The Tynndall Blue.

The Jagged Edge is a Detroit group made up of four musicians which have been playing together for the past year.

The Jagged Edge is a group which sounds to me as though it's a sharp psychedelic combo, although I know for certain that they have played at The Grande and at Cobo Hall in the recent Dubs Concert.

You're still probably wondering what all this has to do with The Chambers Brothers' "The Time Has Come."

Flying High

An excited citizen ran up to Northville Officer Philip Young July 30 to report a man hanging from a tree on Main Street.

Immediate investigation showed that Eugene Olewnik had had an accident while riding his motorcycle on his own property, 46301 West Main Street. He was only slightly injured. He was driven to a clinic for treatment by police.

FINDS WHAT HE'S LOOKING FOR. Andrew Vermiglio of St. Clair Shores, owner of the burning trailer, was camping at Novi Township Park Tuesday. He had just changed his tank of bottled gas, he told Novi police, and he was inspecting the tank for a leak. In order the better to see, he lit a match. The tank ignited and the trailer burned to a total loss. Two Novi fire trucks arrived to put out the fire. Firemen Bob Skellinger was injured and treated by a Northville doctor.

PARKING IMPROVED at Novi Village Hall last week when the asphalt finally covered the bumps and dust at both the front and rear of the building to make a large area of good parking for the public, the police department, fire department and other village employees.

But Plans Still Incomplete

Wixom Hearings Set on CBD

A newly enacted state law forced the city council Tuesday night to call for two related public hearings concerning the community's central business district plans which are still in their infancy.

Specifically, the council set September 10 as the hearing date to consider two items:

Establishment of the central business district boundaries, which conceivably could later involve a general area slated for urban renewal and the method of selecting a council of citizens representing those living in the area and those with substantial interest in the area.

Although the new state law requiring this procedure is aimed primarily at the large cities of the state, Wixom's plan consulting firm and its attorney recommended that Wixom comply with the requirements of the law, too.

Action by the council, one spokesman told The News, does not mean that much talk-about urban renewal in the city is finally becoming a reality. Urban renewal and development of the CBD is still in the planning stage. However, planners are actively discussing and preparing future plans for this development, he added.

Furthermore, compliance with this new law is seen as a necessity for those communities who have visions of gaining federal aid for its CBD development plans.

Part of the overall development of the CBD is the city plan for a "ring road" around the core and an improved railroad and highway intersection.

The proposed CBD district remains the same, as can be seen in the detailed boundaries outlined in the public hearing notices published in this issue of The News on Page 6-A.

Purpose of the council of citizens, it was explained, is to assure residents of the area a sufficient voice in the ultimate development plans of the CBD - which includes plans for any urban renewal.

At the September hearing citizens will have an opportunity to suggest methods of selecting members of this CBD council, which can be composed of not less than 10 nor more than 25 members. Members of the council are to serve for two years.

Whatever method of selection is decided it must provide maximum representation of residents and interested parties in the area as is possible.

The first hearing September 10, beginning at 8 p.m., will concern establishment of the CBD boundaries; and the second, at 9 p.m., the method of selecting the citizen council.

Balloon Fun to Signal Gala Days

Gaily colored balloons will wend their way skyward this Saturday when the Novi Chamber of Commerce and the Novi Jaycees release 500 helium filled messengers inviting the community to join their organizations for two fun-packed days.

The balloon ascensions will publicize the community's annual Gala Days, slated for Saturday and Sunday, August 24 and 25.

The balloons will be released at the Novi Elementary School on Novi Road at noon. Among them will be five specials offering a mystery prize to any youngsters returning the balloons during the festivities.

In addition, 1,200 lollipops will be distributed to further herald the coming event.

Promising a bigger and better Gala Days this year are Co-chairman Ed Presnell, representing the Chamber and Dick Mitchell, representing the Jaycees.

Highlighting the activities will be a raffle of various prizes. Tickets for the raffle are being offered now by members of the sponsoring organization.

Door prizes will be offered to youngsters, 14 years of age and under, on each of the Gala Days. Children also will be invited to participate in games and special events.

One of the many participating merchants, Standard Oil Company, will be giving a professional baseball, autographed by Al Kaline, to children hourly during the event.

On the midway, booths featuring games of skill and chance will provide amusement for all, the co-chairmen promise. Refreshments also will be available.

Novi OKays Rezoning For Multiple Dwellings

Meadowbrook residents, at a public hearing in Novi Monday night, failed in their attempt to convince the village council to keep Novi rural.

Upon recommendation of the planning board at the joint meeting, councilmen voted unanimously to grant the rezoning of the parcel in question to R-2A, Restricted Multiple Dwellings from R1F Small Farms. The change was recommended by the village planning consultant. Request was made by David B. Hermelin and Daniel Kenney.

Hermelin explained that he expects to spend at least two years preparing the 60 acres of farm land that is bordered on one side by the expressway with Twelve Mile Road on the other. Hermelin calls it "an engineering nightmare" but said he would have to start now to save the trees and develop the landscape in order to put up apartments in two years or more. He plans as many as 600 if the land proves to be suitable for this many. His idea is that they will be in the vicinity of the proposed shopping center, and he said they would act as a transitional development from the high density commercial acreage to the rural Meadowbrook Road development.

Several eloquent speeches of residents proved futile in the face of progress. The planning consultant pointed out that a single family dwelling does not "hold its own" in a community due to the many services a government has to provide in exchange for taxes on it.

Several councilmen tried to appease distraught residents who "moved to Novi just to get away from the kind of thing" that the village will continue to grow and become developed, and that there are several more objectionable alternatives that could go in this area instead of nice apartment houses.

Don Fuller, former Councilman and Planning Board member, said he had "instigated" much of the fine development in Novi and his feeling about Hermelin's plans were, "I'm all for it."

The council, in other business, heard the complaint of residents of a development whose dedicated roads, paid for by them, are being violated by heavy equipment "that weighs from 70 to 100,000 pounds" running over them, although it is prohibited. They asked councilmen "to act" on this problem.

The planning board, in further business, set September 9 as the date for a public hearing on the pre-preliminary plat approval of Woodale No. 1 Subdivision (formerly referred to as Willowbrook No. 4). This is the area between Meadowbrook and Haggerty Roads off Ten Mile and East of Willowbrook No. 3. The developer will build on lots conforming to R1A, with frontage from 80 to 85 feet, he said, with a minimum size of 80x125.

The planning board discouraged the same developer from planning a subdivision that would include lake and park property, single family and multiple family dwellings between the railroad and Meadowbrook Road, at Ten Mile. They did ask their planning consultant to submit on August 26 a land use plan for this area as a guideline for the developer should he decide to use this area.

With the opening of school just around the corner, the teacher contract still unsettled, and faced with deep cuts in the curriculum, Northville voters will go to the polls for the third time next month to consider a controversial 2-mill increase proposal.

Twice defeated in recent months, the proposal is to be put to the voters again - this time because of the petitioning action of more than 500 of the district's eligible voters.

The Northville Board of Education Monday set September 14 as the date for the election when the citizens petitioned for the vote. Last week the board declined to initiate the third election in the wake of the first two defeats, and millage boosters subsequently took matters into their own hands.

Also, the board voted Monday, in view of the millage failures, to scrap all of its extra-curricular program except for three or four items. Band, sports, and clubs, etc. came under the ax as did six new teachers and teaching supplies.

Meanwhile, the school superintendent predicted another cliff hanger this year, with teacher-board bargaining teams still widely apart in their struggle to come up with a teaching contract. Negotiators are to meet today and if no progress is made a state mediator is to return for the second time within a month.

Both sides admit they do not see "eye to eye." However, neither has given up hope for settlement before the opening of school. Last year negotiations went to the wire before the contract was inked.

Kidnapping Examination Postponed

Examination of the three youths charged with kidnapping Novi Policeman Robert Starnes was postponed Thursday by Judge Emery Jacques.

Giles Carl Atkins, 19, Floyd Kirkendall and William J. Jobs, both 17, are now scheduled to appear before the Novi justice on August 22. If Probate Judge Moore sees fit to waive jurisdiction over the 16-year-old involved in the crime, as requested by Novi police and the Oakland County Prosecutor's office, he too may appear for examination at that time.

Hearing on the juvenile started yesterday (Wednesday) before the probate judge. Novi police Tuesday appeared in Judge Moore's court for the juvenile hearing on a 15-year-old arrested with the other four.

Hit by Auto, Boy Injured. A six-year-old, struck by a car in a Novi subdivision Sunday, was taken by ambulance to Bostford General Hospital.

Paul Blackwell was riding his bicycle in front of 24010 Meadowbrook when he allegedly drove out of a driveway into the path of the car driven by Christian C. Bowman, 17, of 23058 Gilbar, Novi. Bowman was heading north on Meadowbrook when the boy's bike appeared in front of him; he applied the brakes, skidded 83 feet, and struck the bicycle, police said.

Paul was thrown over and left front of the Bowman car and suffered multiple abrasions, according to police reports.

CATERERS COME TO NOVI - John F. Merlino of 28600 Meadowbrook, owner of a catering service in Detroit, began construction recently on this building at 24901 Novi Road where he will move his wholesale business. Merlino sells coffee and sandwiches to owners of trucks that service factories. The 7300 square foot building is being constructed by Merlino, right, and his brother, Mike, left, of Wixom, at a cost of $65,000. A completion date of January 1 is anticipated for the 50x146 building.

It's Bridge Time Again

Bridge players attention: the sixth annual "bridge marathon", sponsored by the Northville Mothers Club, will soon get underway.

It's scheduled to begin in September and continue through May. For working women and those with small children a women's evening group is being planned. Other groups presently anticipated are daytime women's, evening couples, and couples duplicate groups.

Schedules, rules and scoring tables for the upcoming "marathon" will be distributed by the second week of September. To be sure of receiving the schedules and rules anyone interested in participating should call the following women no later than August 31:

Mrs. Cecil Mueller, 349-0104, all daytime women's group, call in the evenings; Mrs. Jan Murany, 349-4073, evening couples group; Mrs. Wilma Campbell, 349-3478, women evening groups; and Mrs. Rae Deibert, 349-0255.

The convention, along with the conventional displays of coins and stamps, featured such displays as old postcards with a handkerchief tucked in them, and fans made of rice-paper slits laced together which "a lady" always carried in the early 1900's.

Other items on display were iron penny banks, the tin-type postcards used in the early 1900's, and hard sugar candy made from recipes brought to America by the first English settlers.

There were several exhibits in the Hobby show shown by members of the Kupsky family; Floyd Jr. had an exhibit of all types of magnets, Jenny had an exhibit of horse post cards, and Mrs. Kupsky had two card exhibits. One was of old English Regimental cards and the other was of trains - both steam and diesel powered.

A week was spent visiting the Kupsky's older daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Messer and young Glen II in Huntington. Upon their return home, they were accompanied by the Messers who are spending two weeks visiting them here.

New Hope Seen For Dying Elms

An American city without elms is like a baseball game without hotdogs. With their familiar shape and graceful branches for years elms have been a favorite in thousands of towns. Their heavy branches encircle our community shading homes and tunneling the streets. Now these trees have fallen under attack. The Dutch Elm disease is taking its toll witting trunks and yellowing leaves.

For several years it has appeared that the war was lost - but, reports Andrew Bertoni, grounds superintendent at Meadowbrook Country Club, a new cure has been discovered that may swing the tide.

Over the last 10 years the number of elms at Meadowbrook has been reduced from 802 to 376, and another 95 will be taken down this year. This, the worst loss reported in this area, means that much of the handsome Meadowbrook landscape has been destroyed. One area of particular disaster was a circle of 11 elms just off the seventh hole. Legend has it that an Indian chief once buried his little daughter in the center of the ring; now all 11 elms have been destroyed.

The challenge of the course, especially around the tough 4th hole, has also been greatly reduced. The plague started in 1930 when a Dutch shipment of veneer logs entered the country with the bark still on them. The bark contained a mycelium-type fungus which quickly spread the disease. This fungus, carried on the feet of the elm bark beetle, is attached to eggs laid under the bark. As the fungus grows it migrates to the tree sap, killing the limb. At Meadowbrook, as elsewhere, the disease was passed through the roots of stricken trees surrounding the perimeter of the course.

Since this sickness is carried by an insect, scientists look to him for the cure. Recently a useful French wasp was discovered, which Bertoni hopes to import by next fall. The female wasp lays eggs near beetle larva, which eventually grow to attack the mature beetle. The grounds superintendent reports that Meadowbrook is pinning its last hopes on this wasp, in an effort to salvage remaining elms.

Other means of quicker and less exotic control are urged by Bertoni as an effort to curtail the current destruction. Homeowners can help by pruning sick branches and closing wounds which serve as potential beetle-breeding places. It is recommended that all diseased branches be burned in designated community areas, lest the insects escape from the flaming branches. Another method often tried suggests binding the trunks a few feet from the ground with a sticky cloth. Trees may be sprayed with malathion on a windless night this fall after leaves have fallen.

Still flourishing in some areas of the country, the American elm remains the most popular of shade trees. Perhaps sometime in the future the disease can be partially licked, but the custom of planting an entire town with elm trees will never return.

ELM DISEASE has taken a heavy toll at Meadowbrook Country Club on Eight Mile Road.

Sue Entz Returns From Japan Studies

Recently returned from a year at a university in Tokyo is Sue Entz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Entz of 20300 Beck Road. Sue traveled under the Great Lakes College association to Japan, where she spent nearly a year living with a Japanese family and studying Japanese culture in Tokyo.

Most of the time she spent attending classes in English with fellow Japanese students. "English is a very important language to Japanese business students," she explained. "By the time they leave school most of them have studied it for about 10 years, and they like to practice by auditing classes taught in English." Although Sue did not speak Japanese when she first arrived, she quickly picked it up.

"Highlights of the trip were not so much places I went as meeting different people," she stated. "The Japanese are by nature a very shy people, they were isolated on an island for centuries. They are difficult to meet, but once I knew them I found them even warmer than Americans."

"There is very little anti-American sentiment among the people. Although most of them are extremely anti-war, they seem to be more opposed to our government than the American people in general."

One of the two incidents that made the most vivid impression upon Sue was the time she spent on a work camp trying to erect a supply station. The foreman was really a dress-designer with no knowledge of engineering and the Americans could not speak

Japanese well enough to explain why the building kept falling down, she recalls.

Her other memory is of Japanese skiing which occurs mostly in 45 degree weather. The snow melts in the day and forms a thin film of ice on top of it. Sue, who had never skied before, was doing pretty well until the slippage turned a few somersaults. "That was the most exciting part," she explains. "The Japanese thought I was spectacular. They all stopped to watch."

Next fall Sue will enter the University of Michigan to enroll in special education classes and continue her study of Japanese. After that the plans are uncertain, but she hopes to return soon to Tokyo.

In a final review of her trip, Sue says she enjoyed it "tremendously" and would "return in a minute" if she could.

Library Book

Hot 'n Heavy

"Our circulation is very heavy this summer," said Mrs. Kenneth McClatchey, librarian, in regard to the number of books currently checked out at the Northville Public Library.

She said that due to the heavy circulation many books, in demand, are unavailable at present.

At the end of the summer children in grades three thru five will receive certificates specifying the number of books they have read this summer.

In recent months various reference books have been donated to the library. Some of these books are:

"Home Orchard Garden" donated by the Northville Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association; "Random House Dictionary of the English Language" donated in memory of Ruth M. Chase by the Northville Historical Society and Northville Township Election Board Precinct 1; and "American Heritage Pictorial Atlas of United States History" donated by the Northville Historical Society in memory of Ruth M. Chase.

"The Nine Mile Walk" by Harry Kermelan, "The President's Plane" by Robert J. Serling and Phyllis Ayame Whitney's "Hunter's Green" are a few of the new novels recently received by the library.

Two Northville Men At GOP Convention

Two Northville residents were active participants in last week's Republican national convention in Miami Beach, Florida — and both were spotted by local viewers on television as network cameras swept the convention floor.

William F. McLaughlin attended in his capacity as executive vice chairman of the State Central Committee for the Republican party. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin, who live at 592 Reed, landed in Florida several days prior to the Monday beginning to take part in preparations and pre-convention meetings.

They returned Saturday aboard a chartered plane with Governor and Mrs. George Romney and other members of the Michigan delegation.

E. O. Weber, 20360 Woodhill, gained full delegate status when an Ann Arbor delegate, also from the Wayne II district, was unable to attend due to illness in the family. Mr. and Mrs. Weber were accompanied by their children, Carol and Karlfon.

The Webers are not expected to return until later this week. While in Miami, they are visiting former Northville residents, the Hugh McKay family.

Weber, a former Northville board of education member, is district chairman for the Republican Wayne II district.

Dr. Stiles Attends Seminar

Dr. R. J. Stiles of Novi recently attended a four day educational seminar on Power Communication conducted by Dr. Graham Rockley of Prospect Heights, Illinois, founder of the Graham Rockley Research Academy.

The seminar was concerned with the development of better doctor and patient understanding. It is designed to heighten levels of concentration, awareness and general personal efficiency.

Dr. Rockley was recently cited in the Congressional Record. He is a member of the advisory board for the New York Council for Civic Affairs.

Really Tops in Cattle Division

Local 4 H'sers Score High at Fair

BEAMING NEIL BALKO AND HIS PRIZE WINNER, LYNDA

The Lyon 4-H club really walked away rich from the Oakland County fair held near Pontiac last week. In competition with over 150 4-H'ers from throughout Oakland county, the youngsters brought back 32 ribbons and three grand championships.

The club, which has been together nearly two years, has about 22 members of which over half are residents of Northville. In that short time a good deal of progress has been made, as revealed by the club's recent success.

The grand championship for holsteins in the senior division went to Neil Balko, 17, and his prize cow "Lynda." They also won fifth place in senior showmanship. Neil's sister, Cindy, took junior grand championship with "Sheri," along with the title of reserve grand champion. Then Donna Balko won first place in the division of senior calves with "Bonnie," and copped the reserve junior grand championship. There were blue ribbons won in the cattle showing by other members of the club. They were Rex Balko, Cheryl Viseyak, and Deanna Balko.

In other areas, three members scored with their prize showing of ducks. Randy Mitchell, Edmund Erdos, and Deanna Balko all won blue ribbons for their white pacaon entries, and Ed and Deanna were given a chance to show their birds in the state showing later this month.

Two members took four awards with their entries in the rabbit division. Kim Balko received a blue ribbon for her angora rabbit and a red ribbon (highest) for her mixed one. Neil Nichols took two red ones for his angora and mixed rabbits. In the area of leather work, the members also made quite a good showing. This is partly because they tooled all the exhibits by hand instead of entering leather produced from a kit. In this area Courtney Lusk and Edmund Erdos took red ribbons and Paul Taylor and Randy Mitchell won white ones. Linda Strenger received a blue ribbon for her three leather entries.

Many of the youngsters who entered the other contests had baked goods to exhibit in the food division. For their efforts, Cindy, Deanna, and Kim Balko, Neil Nichols, Karen Palnaks and Ardeth and Patti Arquette won blue ribbons. Bill Lusk took a red one, and Cheryl Viseyak received a trophy for her entry in the food for fun division.

Several girls won prizes in the area of flower arrangement. Cheryl Viseyak took a blue ribbon for her arrangement along with a state showing permit for a home grown azalea. Kim Balko was awarded a blue ribbon for her showing, and Deanna Balko a red one for her azalea.

Cheryl entered exhibits in two other areas which wrapped up a few more honors for the club.

Unification Feasible and six mills more than the one mill levied in the township.

The finance committee envisions a total budget of $874,200 to provide the new city with a 25-member police department, rubbish collection, department of public works, library and recreation, public improvements and legislative, administrative and judicial needs.

It sets forth revenues from a combined tax base of $46 million yielding $322,000 at the seven-mill levy; gas and weight tax of $122,000, which $71,000 would come from the township area as a result of its city status (township's do not qualify for these state rebates); $170,000 from harness racing revenues; $97,000 in sales tax returns and revenues totaling about $42,000 from intangible and income taxes and liquor licenses, plus another $120,000 in fees, services and licenses and permits.

The finance committee, which was chaired by Wilson Tyler working with Robert Shafer and Dr. Orlo J. Robinson, noted that a DPW budget of $238,000 would provide township services under local control to include "street maintenance, snow removal, grading, dust abatement, etc."

A budget of $249,000 would provide "full police department services for the township and a much more complete and efficient program for city residents," notes the report.

In its report the public safety committee, composed of H. O. Evans, E. M. Guido, C. W. McDonald, Mr. Donald Schwendemann, concluded that "unification of city and township police should be done as soon as possible to give both maximum protection...we feel it is not only feasible, but a necessity."

Their study showed that it would cost the township alone a millage levy of 7.85 mills to establish a police department comparable to the service that could be offered by the existing city department under the unification plan.

Excerpts from other sub-committee reports included: Water and sanitary sewer service — "It would appear that unification of the subject systems and service would be completely feasible at any time in the foreseeable future, although at this moment there appears to be no major advantage or disadvantage to the unification of the two systems;

Public improvements (streets) — "The subcommittee believes the consideration of the matter of public improvements of streets to be of little importance at this time. However, the advantages were not considered to be sufficient, without other compelling reasons, to justify unification of the city and township";

Public works (Maintenance) — "Unification of public works maintenance is feasible within two years or less time if necessary. There should be no adverse effect upon present township or city costs or service and conceivably could result in some improvement in both areas";

Planning and administration — "It was the conclusion of the committee that there would be advantages to the unification of the planning commission and administrative offices. However, the advantages were not considered to be sufficient, without other compelling reasons, to justify unification of the city and township";

Citizen members of the later committees were Howard Axtell, Dr. Gordon Forrester, Joseph Petrick, Clifford Jones, William Wiley, Harold Lane, Richard Marrone, Frank Whitmyer, Paul Hunt, Richard Ambler and Glenn Cummings.

Since September of 1962 Damm has been assistant park superintendent and previously was a member of the nationalist staff where he was assigned to the Nature Center at Kensington Park.

He replaces David O. Laidlaw, who will be director of the Authority upon Hallenbeck's retirement about December 31, 1968.

Damm was graduated from Michigan State University in 1948 and holds a G.S. degree. He majored in forestry and wildlife management. Born and raised in Detroit, he was graduated from Catholic Central High School (Detroit) in 1946. He served with the U.S. Navy during World War II and was also on active duty in 1951-52 during the Korean conflict.

A Man and His Money
One of the strangest parables in Holy Scripture is the one about the dishonest steward in St. Luke 16.

As the "steward" of an estate this man was its business manager. He did not own the estate himself, but it all belonged to a certain rich man. Now it happens that this steward was dishonest and appropriated some of the funds to his own use, not considering the best interests of the owner. But the day of reckoning came! Word about his dishonesty leaked to the owner, who called for an audit. "Turn in the account of your stewardship!" V.2.

We are like the steward, because we actually own none of the earthly possessions God has given us, either. They belong to "Another," namely, God our Creator. He has given them into our hands, to manage wisely and honestly for His best interests. Since we are only his business managers, we shall one day hear him say, "Turn in the account of your stewardship!"

What will be his judgment concerning our management and use of all those possessions and money he entrusted to us? "If you have not been faithful in that which is another's, who will give you that which is your own?" V.12.

Have we been "Lovers of money" as the people were to whom Our Lord told this parable? They scoffed at him, not fearing God's judgment (V.14). To love money and to make material possessions the center of our life — that is idolatry of the most common type. Such idolatry brings us under God's judgment and into eternal loss of God.

But now we are called to repent, to completely reorient ourselves in this matter of money and God, because God has surrounded us with his forgiving love. He sent his Son into the world to bring us the true riches, which are his self-sacrificing charity to us, his pardon of our error, his Holy Spirit to dwell within us, a new life as the fruit of his Spirit, and the promise of resurrection from death.

Do not trust those dollars anymore. How quickly their power fades! Trust instead in the gracious Father in heaven who has redeemed our lives from the worship of elusive wealth! "He that believes and is baptized shall be saved." And those who through faith are the sons of God, they know how to use their money to glorify their God and Redeemer. They use it to promote his interests. They use it wisely to serve him and the people for whom they have been made responsible, including the "poor at the door." God make us wise stewards.

$100 Million Expansion For Metro

Plans for a $100-million expansion of facilities at Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport to keep pace with the growth of air travel have been approved by the County Board of Supervisors.

The expansion will be financed by revenue bonds, with the airlines which use the airport bearing the entire cost. No tax funds will be used.

A spokesman for the Wayne County Road Commission, which operates the airport, said financial negotiations with the airlines are nearly completed, and that construction could start late this year or early next year.

Issuance of $100-million in bonds was approved in principle by the Board of Supervisors Thursday, July 25.

Plans call for construction of two additional all-weather instrument approach runways, 2,000 additional deck parking spaces, additional baggage claim areas in the L. C. Smith Terminal, a new airport maintenance building, a new air cargo area, expansion of the airport road system, and another terminal development program. The latter would start in 1972.

During Morning Pit Stop Historic Northville Hosts Ford's Historic Model A's

"Gentlemen, start your engines!" With that historic, thrilling command, drivers hustled to their cars but instead of roaring forward it was the purr of 4-cylinders, and instead of Indy it was John Mach's Ford dealership in Northville.

Municipal Court

Twelve men were arraigned and fined in Northville's municipal court last week.

Andrew Torok of 605 Carpenter was charged with being drunk and disorderly at Lake street. He entered a plea of guilty and was fined a cost of $30.

William Bennett of Union Lake was charged with being a minor in possession and driving under the influence of alcohol. On arraignment he pleaded not guilty, but changed his plea to the added count of driving while ability impaired.

Charges of drunk and disorderly conduct at the Downs were made against Anthony P. Morgan of Grand Blanc and Edward E. Smith of Pontiac. They pleaded guilty and were sentenced to $40 and $4 or eight days.

Clifford Cadotte of 33 Hillcrest was arraigned for allowing an unlicensed driver to drive on South Center. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to $25 or 5 days. At the same time Duane Cadotte was charged with driving with an expired learner's permit. He was sentenced to $10 or two days for his plea of guilty.

A mute charge of not guilty was entered for Robert Harmon of 4761 Ten Mile on charges for two separate counts. At trial he was found guilty of both under the influence of alcohol and driving without an operator's licence. On the first offense he was sentenced to $100 or 20 days. On the latter count he was fined $50 and four days plus six months probation.

Nearly a hundred Ford Model A's had pulled into Mach's for a "pit stop" Monday morning, and now, their drivers — smacking their lips over a breakfast and each richer by two quarts of oil — climbed aboard their tiny jewels and puttered off for Mackinac City.

Mach and the Northville Jaycees hosted the drivers and their families Monday following a three-day convention of the Model A Restorers Club in Dearborn. The convention incidentally marked the 40th anniversary of the Model A, successor to 15,000,000 Ford Model T's.

Cars from throughout the United States and Canada participated in the meet, which opened Friday morning and closed Sunday.

Northville — starting point of a Model A "Grand Tour" of Michigan by many of the cars — was picked because, according to Ray Jackson of Northville, himself a member of the club, of its history with the Ford Motor Company. It was more than 40 years ago that Henry Ford built the valve plant — one of many along streams to take advantage of water power and to provide employment for some of the rural farmers.

Mach, besides treating the drivers and their families to a breakfast in his showroom, presented each with two quarts of oil and awarded radios to drivers of three outstanding cars. Winners were: Furthest away, Rief Rust of Norway; Secretary's Delight, John Gamble of Ohio, driving a 1927 Model A Roadster; and Sale Manager's Favorite, Rein C. Brueggemann of Port Huron, driving a 1931 closed cab pickup.

The drivers left the dealership in groups of 10 cars, paraded through Northville, and then headed north under state police escort to Pinconning. They were scheduled for an overnight stop at Oscoda, a parade through Rogers City Tuesday afternoon, and another overnight stop at Mackinac City.

Yesterday the MARC members and their antique Fords were to begin their return trip home, breaking up finally at Frankenmuth following lunch.

During the Dearborn convention, thousands of Model A parts ranging from valve springs to hub caps were bought, sold and traded in a circus tent " flea market" which opened at dawn and closed when the last dedicated restorer had found the Ford script wrench, scroll ruffled lid handle or handbrake button he'd been searching for to complete his "new car."

Motorists passing Mach's dealership Monday did double takes upon glimpsing the rows of sparkling antiques parked in the company's used-car lot. A 1968 Ford clearance sale sign backed up several of the cars and sparked plenty of attention.

When engine trouble plagued one of the cars at the start of the tour, nearly all of Mach's garage crew volunteered aid — all eager to dig beneath the hood. Most were younger than the engine causing the problem. It was soon purring again.

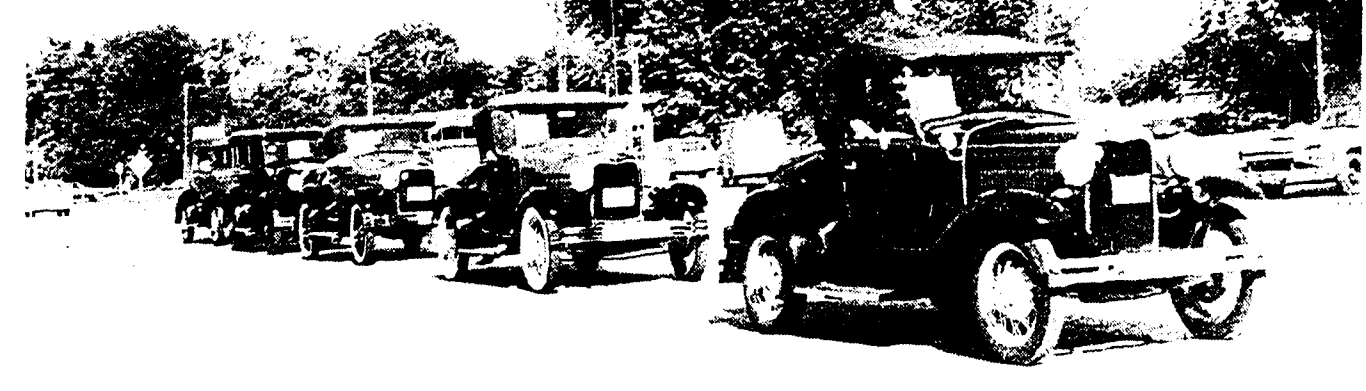

One beauty still possessed its original paint job, another — a pickup-carrying antique-looking sign that caught some spectators' off guard, "radio and TV repair," and many sported running board luggage racks and those nostalgic rumble seats.

"The last time I saw one of those (rumble seats) my girl was inside," someone said, prompting a reply from a nearby wag, "Better take a close look, she's probably still inside."

Northville Boy Gets Midwest TAR Post

While attending the Midwest Teen-Age Republican camp at North Central College in Illinois, Douglas Waldren of Northville was elected vice chairman of the Midwest TAR. He was also elected chairman of the Michigan delegation and had the opportunity of introducing Congressman Jack McDonald one evening as guest speaker.

DOUGLAS WALDREN

The political camp was held in Naperville from July 27-August 1. In the course of the week Douglas learned much which he plans to relate to the Northville TAR.

The purpose of the regional TAR Camps is two fold. The first is to make the young people even more aware of the techniques of political action so that they can go back to their own area and pass this training on to other TARs who could not attend the camp.

Secondly, the camp offers an opportunity to discuss in depth the important issues and problems facing Americans today. In addition, students meet top TAR leadership from all parts of the country to exchange ideas and learn about programs that have been successful in other areas.

At the camp there were workshops covering campaign issues, campaign techniques, press relations and news management, 1968 prospects, and club organization. Seminars on riots and law enforcement, Vietnam, and community action were also held.

From August 29-September 1, Douglas will be attending the Michigan TAR Camp in Fenton, Michigan. He plans to run for the office of the Michigan TAR Governor who will be elected there.

With Attack Squadron Twenty-three, aboard USS Ticonderoga (CVA-14), at sea—Airman James C. Ritchie of Northville, Michigan, returned to the United States on 17 August 1968, from an eight month combat cruise with Attack Squadron Twenty-three, aboard the veteran Attack Carrier USS Ticonderoga (CVA-14).

A graduate of Northville High School, the airman studied at Schoolcraft Community College.

Writing from Berlin, Germany, where he is stationed with the United States Army, Acting Sergeant Charles T. Weiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Weiss of 925 Grace Street, states that his duties there are continually expanding to cover a wide range of interesting responsibilities.

Basically, his position is that of Training NCO involving the preparation for combat of some 160 enlisted men. This includes the conceiving and executing of problems in the field to challenge the troops, as well as setting up new Command Posts when changing locations. In addition, Sergeant Weiss, as the official company photographer, is in the process of making a pictorial record of all the company's activities from baseball games to brigade operations.

He requests that his address be sent along in the "hopes that some so-fortuned people will want to write." Here it is:

The visit marked the first time that an American man-of-war had visited Rijeka in more than 14 years. While in Rijeka, he portrayed the role of "Goodwill Ambassador." He helped to host more than 3,500 Yugoslavian visitors aboard the ship, held a party on board for a group of 50 school children and took advantage of the swimming and water skiing that Rijeka and the neighboring Opatija are well known for.

PRIZES OF $100 from the Northville Downs went to winners of their 'paint-the-fence' art contest. The entries, all students from Northville high school, were awarded their prizes after the 8th race Monday night. Judging the results was high school art teacher, Roy Pederson, who worked with the Downs in organizing the contest. First prize of $40 was awarded Charles Olewnik for his entry entitled "The Cavern". The second prize of $30 went to artists Leslie Weston and Nance Adams for their painting of "Northville the Sunshine City." Third prize went to Dan Stoddard for "Support Gun Control", and the "Flowered Wall", took fourth. It was painted by Peggy Lepper, Connie Moore, Debbie Luckett and Julie Brown. In return for their efforts, the Downs wound up with some "hip" decorations to entertain out-of-town patrons.

DARYL HOLLOWMAN
I have but one overall comment regarding The Tyndall Blue and its performance at last Friday night's Cavern bash. Fabulous. Simply fabulous. The Tyndall Blue performed as scheduled, issuing forth a performance permeated with the progressive sound of Underground Music. This type of performance really grabbed the audience, which hasn't been done since both The Stuart Avery Assemblage and The Pack appeared at The Cavern on different dates during the early part of the summer. Incidentally, The Pack will be appearing at The Cavern this Friday night along with The Third Power. However, getting back to last week's performance, The Tyndall Blue became a hit early in the evening — from "Somebody to Love" to "Toad." A marked change has come about at The Cavern which I've noticed during the course of the summer.

The current trend seems to be that Cavern patrons are applauding rock groups which perform to the tastes of Cavern patrons. Such was the case when The Tyndall Blue played its first number titled "Somebody to Love," a selection taken from an LP by The Jefferson Airplane titled "Surrealistic Pillow." I don't know the name of the gentleman stationed at the double doors in the rear of the gymnasium, but I do know he was a chaperone and that he, too, was applauding with the best of them. The Tyndall Blue did a fantastic rendition of "You Keep Me Hanging On," a selection from an LP titled "Vanilla Fudge" by an underground group of the same name. In case you missed my column last week, The Tyndall Blue is the very group Troglodytes featured as playing group of Capitol Recording Artists by name of The Pack — formerly of Terry Knight and The Pack. The Pack, a five man group from Detroit, has had several hit recordings and plenty of experience as to how to perform for an audience on stage. This was quite evident when they delivered a smash performance before Cavern Patrons this past June — a smash performance resulting in a comeback by popular demand for this Friday's Cavern bash. As for The Third Power from Royal Oak, it's a three-piece combo which has been around for over a year. However, The Third Power has really been making it big this summer at all the clubs — and no wonder, they perform original compositions, "Top 40" selections, and Underground Sounds. Keeping in mind that The Third Power is a three-piece group, it's my guess that their performance will include selections by The Cream and The Jimi Hendrix Experience.

The addition of stroboscopic lighting greatly enhanced the performance — meaning that the bright flashing white light created an effect whereby one's bodily motions appear jerky in nature. The lighting seemingly froze the drummer's motions in a series of slow motion still shots while the drum solo was constantly reverberating with little correspondence to the "slowed action" of the drummer. Patrons were really zonked out by The Tyndall Blue's performance — whether they were listening or shaking it up, the majority if not the unanimity were applauding. Chances are that another bash of the same calibre will be held at The Cavern this Friday night at a charge of $1.00 members, $1.50 non-members. The featured entertainment consists of The Third Power and a

for The Record

by BILL SLIGER

Reaction to the board of education decision that nearly all extra-curricular activities must be cut from this year's public school program in Northville in order to reduce expenditures by $100,000 and maintain a balanced budget has been widely varied.

From youngsters in high school we've heard these remarks:
--"it's sinful, they can't do it!"
--"there goes my scholarship!"
--"if my folks had known, they would have voted!"
--"I'm gonna quit... or transfer to another school!"
--"what's the use of going to school?"
From adults:
--"the board's just trying to use scare tactics!"
--"it's too bad, but if we can't afford it we'll just have to live within our income, just like families do!"
--"the board can't do it... it's their duty to provide a well-rounded education and they can't cut out all extra-curricular activities!"
--"why didn't they do a better selling job... it's the board's fault!"
--"if they'd cut down on some of the waste, they'd have enough money!"
--"they don't need the money... there's plenty without another two mills."

"taxes are already too high, we can't afford any more."
Then there are these off-heard reasons for "no" votes:
--"it's the only chance to vote against higher taxes!"
--"property taxes are becoming unbearable... a more equitable method of taxation and financing schools must be found!"
--"there ought to be an effort to bring more industry to Northville... the school tax load is too much for the residential property owner!"
--"we've wasted too much money on our school buildings!"
--"the city raised taxes this year, assessments went up, there's a new state income tax, and the federal government has added a surtax on income!"

A good many of these statements hold water; others don't. It is a sin, for example, that the 1968-69 Northville public school student will be deprived of an important segment of his educational program... that some, maybe, lose scholarship opportunities gained through extra abilities in sports, debate, music, etc.

It is a sad fact, too, that many qualified electors didn't vote -- over 70 per cent, in fact. It isn't true that the board is using scare tactics. Instead, it is following the dictates of its electorate not to raise taxes. Consequently, it is cutting its budget by $100,000 just where it said cuts would be made if the public decided that a tighter budget should be adopted.

It may be true that the board of education failed to extend itself as a body and individually, to "sell" the millage program. It is also true that some glaring mistakes have been made in school construction.

If we can believe our administrators and our seven-member elected board of education, it is not true that the school district can offer a full program without the additional $100,000. (And, in my opinion, we can believe them.)

It is true that, for many, rising taxes are creating financial problems. It is highly unlikely, however, that the majority of "no" votes came from these taxpayers. Ironically, many families who find themselves facing genuine financial problems place a high priority on school support. They choose to make their personal budget cuts elsewhere and they campaign for "yes" votes.

It is true that Northville could use more industrial and commercial tax base. But it is not true that no one is doing anything about it.

The Northville Area Economic Development Corporation was formed several years ago because a number of community leaders recognized this void.

It has enjoyed moderate success. It is currently on the brink of new developments that must at this time go unpublicized. But the non-profit organization, made up of civic-minded citizens with special talents and a willingness to devote their time and talent, would welcome more volunteer help. Just call City Manager Frank Ollendorf, 349-1300, and he'll see that you're notified of the next meeting. You'll get acquainted with a dozen or more fine gentlemen who will hand you an out and invite you to start pulling with them.

The group, incidentally, is not "city" oriented. It is composed of both city and township residents and devotes itself to

He'd Cut School Buses, Cafeteria, Etc.

To the Editor:

The Board of Education is faced with the problem of cutting back expenditures in the light of the results of the recent millage vote. As usual in cases of this nature the first to feel the pinch is expected to be the extra-curricular or enrichment part of the program, music, debate, sports, etc. If this whole program, which to my way of thinking is a most valuable and important part of the instructional program, is dropped, the saving will amount to somewhere in the neighborhood of 15,000-20,000 dollars. This is a drop in the bucket in the overall budget and really saves the taxpayer very little in the long run. This part of the program is probably less expensive than anything else. The pay for these services figured on an hourly basis probably averages somewhere around $1.50.

If we are going to cut down lets do it in non instructional areas of the overall program such as bus service, cafeteria, an un-needed construction. Its nice to have these things if the money is available and it will certainly inconvenience some people, but it is possible to get to school without buses and to carry lunches.

Another area where by savings could be realized is in the swimming program or any other additions to the present program. How can the addition of new activities be justified particularly in an area that costs as much to operate as a swimming program? In my opinion no new programs should be added until the existing program has been covered.

In the event that it is still necessary to cut the enrichment program then the whole program should go not just certain activities that bring in money through gate receipts. I know the Board is paying off the bonds on the new athletic field by using the gate receipts from the football games but they then turn around and subsidize the athletic program by purchasing the equipment which was formerly acquired with these same gate receipts. It doesn't seem right to me that you must tell a student in the music program or the debate program that he has been left out because his activity doesn't bring in any money. I certainly don't want to see any of these cuts made if it's possible to avoid it but if cuts are necessary they should take place in the non-instructional and new program area first. The existing program should be protected as much as possible. This seems like the only logical and consistent way to handle the matter. A. E. Jones

By ROLLY PETERSON

Life magazine, in a pre-convention story, called the national conventions "vulgar, quarrelsome, unspokeably chaotic," but went on to describe how the convention process is an integral, if not necessary, part of the American political system.

Really? Then let me off at the next stop, because I think I'm going to be sick. What Life is really saying, and the writer Paul O'Neil in particular, is that we're bound hopelessly to the convention process, that America, with all its boundless energy, resourcefulness and know-how, is stuck. I don't believe it.

Let's face it. The conventions are money. They're merely show-pieces for exhibitionists. And although they may get the job done -- that of selecting a presidential and vice-presidential candidate -- they are by no means inextricably tied to the Democratic process.

They're tied to a facsimile thereof. Dick Nixon was chosen because he had the necessary Republican delegates sewed up before the convention ever began. People might like to think it was an "open" convention, but the truth of the matter is, minds were closed.

Even that's not so bad. But the reasons behind those predilections are liable to make one want to spill his evening meal right over the television set.

And the reasons would go something like this: Dick has been a faithful party workhorse, he has the experience and the wisdom to fulfill with some talent the demands of the highest post in the land, he is a good American, a dedicated father and a resourceful politician. All of which might be true.

But as it came over the tube, Dick Nixon was chosen because he has the widespread appeal which will make him a winner in November. Do Republicans really believe that?

After all, there is reason for doubt. They picked backward Barry didn't they? And what happened to him? He was beaten by the widest popular and electoral margin in American history.

Dick Nixon was chosen because he had the proper number of delegates in his hip pocket -- before the convention, which kind of makes you think the whole convention hullabaloo was an exhibition after the fact.

Delegates are supposed to reflect the opinion of the people they represent, for they were elected to their positions in the party on the local level, and then climbed to the top through their labors on behalf of partisan politics.

What came over the tube -- and to television we are forever grateful exposing the sham -- and what prevails in fact, is that the delegates, except for a thought now and then, don't give a damn for what their constituents think. They have their own pre-conceived notions and aren't about to be swayed by the people they supposedly represent.

Besides the nauseating maneuvers on the convention floor which should serve as one awful lesson on adult behavior for youngsters (you obviously observed how those delegates listened so intently), there undoubtedly was some back-room maneuvering which would prove equally objectionable to any man of conscience.

What I'm getting at is the whole thing could have taken place in orbit, or on the moon for that matter. I no more felt that the delegates were representing me than they were representing Blue Moon Odor of the Oakland Athletics. They were representing themselves and their own selfish, personal interests.

Self aggrandizement isn't necessarily a dirty word. Not if there are mitigating circumstances. But there was nothing face saving about the grotesque Republican convention, and, perish the thought, the Democratic convention will probably be no better.

'No' Vote: The Straw That Broke A Back

To the Editor:

In answer to the letter "Totally Ashamed of Community" after the writer graduates and pays some taxes his viewpoint may change. Surely he has heard about the straw that broke the camel's back.

I don't think it was just the 2 mills for schools that prompted the "no" votes. The City of Northville just raised theirs 3.8 mills. The state added the 2.6 percent income tax and the federal government a 10 percent surcharge on income taxes. There are many who live on fixed incomes but many who pay the cost of inflation and higher taxes. Maybe they don't spend on cigarettes or martinis but would like something other than school taxes. The state income tax exempts a man and wife with 4 children in school and an income of $7200.00. A couple with 6 children in school pay the same property tax as their neighbor with no children. During the depression years when the 3 percent sales tax and others were voted, a 15 mill limitation was placed on property taxes to protect the home owner from future losses caused by inability to pay high real estate taxes with the skyrocketing costs of education some other source of income should be found.

HUNTSVILLE, Ontario-- "What's that?" they chorused as the heavenly aroma wafted from the big black pot and romanced the pines and birches.

"That, my boys, is a 'hobo's delight'. It's the kind of stuff woodsmen would wrestle bears for. Wipe the grease off your tins and get ready for the best meal of your lives."

They immediately went into a huddle, whispering something obviously not intended for my ears.

Finally, one of them volunteered, "Daddy, we're not really hungry yet. Couldn't we just have a peanut butter sandwich?"

I'm an understanding, compassionate father, so I handled this situation with diplomacy. "Shut up, and hand me your tins. You had peanut butter for breakfast, peanut butter for lunch, but now you're going to eat a real meal!"

This second day in the woods had started early -- and suddenly when our daily visitor, the bear, nuzzled the side of our tent and sent the dog into a frenzy of action as she tried to burrow into my sleeping bag.

"Get outside and guard us," I shouted, trying to unzip the zipper in the damp darkness. "Stupid dog, zipper, bear," I mumbled. "If the bear eats me he'll have to chew through this confounded bag. Get off my face, you crazy dog. Can't you see I'm trying to get it unzipped?"

Winded, I relaxed and counted to ten. At nine, the bundle next to me stirred and the kid inside whispered, "Daddy, you're snoring. You keep waking me up."

That did it! With renewed vigor I tackled the zipper, ripping it from its track. As I crawled out, the dog crawled in (if she didn't have four legs, she'd pass for a chicken). Ah, there's nothing like rising early on a camp-out. Ever try pulling on a damp, cold pair of pants? If so, you know what I'm talking about.

Unsheathing my knife, I struck the blade out the door of the tent before stepping outside. Don't ask me why. Just precautionary. Maybe I figured that the first thing to come out of the tent was on some critter's breakfast menu. Or maybe I figured it would signal anything outside that the guy inside was mean, real mean. Anyway, when nothing chomped on the gleaming metal I staggered out, knife in one hand, an ax in the other.

I must have been terrifying because the "bear" -- a weak-kneed ground squirrel -- stuck his foot in the coffee pot spout and toppled the contents into the camp stove in his desperate flight to escape.

Waving my weapons and sucking in new confidence, I surveyed the campsite. Sure now that the bear was not about, I walked down to the lake's edge where the day before the boys had built an icebox of rocks. In it we had stored our eggs and other refrigerated footstuffs.

The icebox lacked one thing: a cover. A waste had discovered the shortsightedness. He was standing on the rocks when I arrived. Egg dripping from his teathy mouth, he eyed me as an unwanted guest for dinner. Like a warhawking Comanche, I heaved the ax at him scalping what remained of the eggs and splintering the ax handle.

Now, reduced to a knife, egg shells and an empty coffee pot, I started breakfast just as the showers came. I've always wondered how woodsmen built fires in the rain. Now I know: they don't. So when the boys wiped the sleep out of their eyes and asked, "What's for breakfast?", I shoved peanut butter sandwiches at them.

Same thing for lunch. But now the rain had stopped and I'd whipped up a hot meal -- the second since arriving at our wilderness home. And they had the nerve to suggest peanut butter.

"I wish mama was here," said one. "I do, too," said the other.

"Okay, okay. Starve if you like. Eat your peanut butter. But the dog and I are gonna eat this good stuff!" The dog wagged her tail. The boys made their sandwiches and left for the lake. "You get half," I told the dog, shoveling out a big portion of 'hobo's delight'. "But no more. I get the rest." She sniffed at it, her tail stopped wagging, and then she, too, left for the lake.

"Daddy, you must have really been hungry," one of the boys said as I arrived. "You ate the hobo stuff and now you're eating a sandwich."

"You betcha," I said, "but I left a little bit for the bear."

Later, after an evening of fishing we returned to the tent. Stupid bear hadn't touched his 'hobo's delight' either -- but he'd finished off the peanut butter.

Left-Handed Do-Not-Pass Signs Urged

LANSING--Dragging its feet would be an improvement over present movements of the Michigan State Highway Department in erecting "no passing zone" signs on the left side of highways. This is the opinion of Midland Municipal Judge Henry Hart who has begun a one-man campaign to improve the warning system for motorists.

Judge Hart points out that the present donotpass signs do not provide sufficient visibility for the motorist. Vision may be obstructed by vehicles ahead. Motorists, when passing, must look to the left. Snow plows throw snow to the right. He maintains that the only "logical" place for the signs is on the left side of the highway.

Studies conducted by the highway department, as well as those in other states, agree with his logic: the trouble is, no one except Judge Hart does anything about it!

TWO TEST locations in Michigan proved that driver attention to the no passing zones was improved with special pennant-shaped signs mounted on the left.

The improved signs have been used in Iowa for some time, and other states are ready to adopt the system. Judge Hart wonders out loud why Michigan drivers do not receive the same service.

Highway department officials agree the signs are effective, but they question whether accidents on hills and curves are reduced by their use. Harold Cooper, director of the traffic division, doesn't think so.

Officials also feared loss of federal highway funds since left side erection was "non-conforming." Iowa, which did not wait for federal approval and just installed the signs, did not lose funds.

STATE POLICE favor the new signs and cite traffic violations as well as accident reductions as influencing factors. Sgt. Donald Calcester, traffic analyst, said that state police records for 1967 show 617 accidents occurred on curves and 1,769 occurred on hills. Improper passing violations were recorded as causing 9,275 accidents in 1967. Reports of other law enforcement agencies are not included in the totals.

Sgt. Calcester recalls earlier service at the Gaylord post, which wrote more tickets for passing violations than any other post in the state. In 1960-61, the new system was installed on old U.S. 27. "Our citations fell to practically nothing," Sgt. Calcester stated.

Cost of implementing the system state-wide has been estimated at $175,000 to $250,000. Cooper states that if the system were adopted, installation would occur only at "selected locations," not throughout the entire state.

What is needed, the judge maintains, is enough people demanding the change to force the highway department to get off its present location and begin installation.

FARM JOBS paying as much as $500 per month plus such fringe benefits as free housing have gone begging in Michigan during the past year, reports the MESC. The condition is a comparatively new development which began about 1963.

That year the average pay for agricultural workers was $210 per month for married men, $108 per month for single men, excluding fringe benefits. By 1966, pay for married men had increased to $311 per month and $139 for single men. The figures represented a 47 per cent and 28 per cent increase respectively.

To compete with factory jobs and city employers, farmers have upgraded salaries, housing facilities and fringe benefits. Current figures of $500 per month for married men and $260 for single employers reflect this pressure, the MESC says. The move should improve the situation in the long run and relieve the manpower shortage within the foreseeable future.

WELLESLEY HILLS, Massachusetts--With living costs at record levels and headed higher, all of us should take time out to determine where we stand and how we can best safeguard our assets.

If you haven't made a recent check on the total dollar value of your personal assets, you'll probably be surprised how much they've appreciated. Even if you're in modest circumstances in our affluent society, you'll discover, in most cases, that your home is worth more than when you bought it -- perhaps a good deal more. Also, the high interest and dividend payments have increased the total dollar amount of your savings and investments. And, if you own land, you'll likely find it too has gained in value.

safe-deposit box in a bank, or vice versa? Fact is, for maximum safety and convenience, you need both. All your insurance papers, your bankbooks, and bank statements should be close at hand. So too should be your will, or a copy of it. Keep all these in a fireproof strong box at home or in your office safe. Your securities, property deeds, contracts, savings bonds, jewelry, and other valuables which could easily be converted into cash if stolen should be held in a safe-deposit box at your bank.

You'd be surprised at the number of people -- many quite well-to-do -- who die without having made a will. Most just never get around to it, but a good many decided not to bother because their personal and real property was held jointly with wife or other relative or friend. They assumed that the surviving joint owner would automatically inherit, but this is contrary to law in some jurisdictions.

The smart thing is to draw your will...NOW...if you have not already done so. But first consult your banker, your investment adviser and, perhaps, a tax consultant. When you know what you have and what your death taxes are likely to be, see your lawyer. And once you've drawn the will, keep it up to date!

Indeed, all your insurance -- life, health, accident, auto liability, theft, fire -- should be reviewed at least every three years... often if changing personal and family situations indicate new approaches. If you have children still to be educated, you may well be under-insured. If your children have left home and are on their own, could be you're overinsured.

WHERE SHOULD you keep your insurance papers, securities, the deed to your home, jewelry, or other items? Is a strong box at home preferable to a
