THE NORTHVILLE RECORD-NOVI NEWS

Northville Public Schools Annual Report – 1967-68 School Year

Superintendent's Annual Report

October 1, 1968

This report is submitted in compliance with Michigan General School Laws for the purpose of informing the taxpayers of the Northville Public Schools, Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw Counties, Michigan, regarding the educational program and receipts and expenditures of the District for the 1967-68 school year.

The District experienced a very good educational year during 1967-68 and is pleased to report a balanced budget to close out the year.

The 1967-68 school year established Mr. Eugene Cook as President of the Board of Education. Mr. Stanley Johnston was elected Board Vice President with Mr. Glenn Deibert, new member, as Secretary, and Mr. Richard Martin, newly elected, as Treasurer. The three trustee Board positions were filled by Mr. James Kipfer, who retired at the end of the 1967-68 school year, and Mr. Robert Froelich and Mr. Andrew Orphan, new member.

Board meetings were held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month during the school year. Due to the many problems confronting the District for the ensuing school year, many special meetings and work sessions were also held during the year.

The Board was extremely pleased that some of its many hours of extra work resulted in the securing of a new school site at no cost to the District. This represented a savings of approximately $50,000 to the taxpayers of Northville. Other major projects of the Board during 1967-68 included:

1. Seeking of tax relief on the many acres of land in the District which is tax exempt.

2. Completion of the Building Program authorized in 1965. 3. District participation in the Fish Hatchery development.

4. A 6-year population projection and its resulting ramifications on facility and staff needs. 5. Establishment of a committee to study the feasibility of the Year-Round School Concept. 6. By vote of the electorate the School District was reclassified from a Fourth Class to a Third Class District. 7. Development of guidelines for the District's involvement in the development of all future housing within the District boundaries, including the acquisition of needed school sites. 8. The negotiating of a new agreement with the Northville Teachers Association and the Operating Engineers Union. 9. A program indicating the necessity for a 2-mill increase in operating

10. Initiation of new budgetary controls and procedures.

11. Also during this school year, the Board relocated its official offices from 107 South Wing Street to 405 West Main Street.

The administration of the District's program and activities was carried out under the direction of Raymond E. Spear, who was named Acting Superintendent in June of 1967 and appointed as Superintendent in October of the same year for a period of three years.

The Superintendent was assisted by Business Manager Earl T. Busard, who completed his first full year in this capacity in April.

In February, Miss Florence Panattoni was named to the position of Curriculum Coordinator to fill the position previously established as the Assistant Superintendent. The duties of the Curriculum Coordinator were designed to provide for a major focus on curriculum study and improvement rather than that of an administrative function. Administrative duties formerly held by the Assistant Superintendent are now being assumed by the Superintendent of Schools.

The individual school buildings were administered as follows:

Mr. Frederick Holdsworth served as High School Principal and Mr. David Longridge as Assistant Principal. Mr. Longridge replaced Mr. Horwath, who was assigned to the Amerman School Principalship in February due to the resignation of Mr. Robert Stafford, who accepted a position with the Wayne County Intermediate School District

Mr. Donald Van Ingen served as Junior High School Principal with Mr. Richard Norton assisting him on a half-time basis as Assistant Principal. The three elementary schools were headed by Mr. Harry Smith, Main assisted the previous year's staff in carrying out a more well-rounded program designed to do a more effective job in meeting the needs of each individual student through program offerings and a reduced teacher/pupil ratio. New positions established for the 1967-68 school year included:

5 Elementary Classroom Teachers

- 6 Junior and Senior High School Classroom Teachers
- 1 Remedial Reading Teacher 1 Instrumental Music Teacher (expanded from ½ time to full time)
- 1 Elementary Physical Education Teacher
- 1 Elementary Art Teacher
- 1 Elementary Music Teacher 1 Elementary Librarian

1 Half-time Junior High School Teacher and Half-time Assistant Junior

High Principal With the addition of these positions, the District employed a professional staff of 139 teachers.

The second Master Agreement between the District and the Northville Education Association was ratified during this school year. This Agreement, which resulted from many long hours of negotiations, provided salary increases for teachers which averaged $1074 per teacher, with a minimum raise of $735 and a maximum raise of $2413. The salary schedule established in this Agreement provided a beginning salary of $6150 per year for teachers with a B.A. Degree and $6650 for teachers with an M.A. Degree. Maximum salaries were established at $9545 for a B.A. Degree and $11,500 for an M.A. with 17 years of service. The average teacher's salary in 1967-68 was $7900.

The 1967-68 school year saw the school enrollment increase from 2666 pupils on D-Day in 1966 to 2690 pupils in 1967. However, our enrollment did reach 2752 pupils by the close of the school year.

Building facilities to accommodate our student population included the 7-room Amerman School; 19-room Main Street School, and the 17-room Moraine School.

Also available to our students in October of 1967 was the new Ida B. Cooke Junior High School with its 26 rooms, and the High School with its new facilities which provided for a total of 35 teaching stations. New High School facilities included five new classrooms, a new Materials Resource Center, a Language Laboratory, and a two-teacher teaching station Industrial Arts Laboratory. The major portion of the new $500,000 swimming pool was also completed during this school year.

The new facilities and increased teaching staff enabled the District to offer and maintain a teacher/pupil ratio of 26.4, which we feel assisted in carrying out a good educational year.

Our Extra-Curricular Program brought many honors to Northville during the 1967-68 school year. Some of these honors included: 1. All League Sports Trophy for overall sportsmanship and competitive record. 2. Many college scholarships which resulted from both curricular and extra-curricular records.

3. Regional Forensic Champions 4. Outstanding production of a Play and a Musical.

5. Attendance of outstanding students at the National Model United

Many other individual honors were also achieved as a direct result of this program.

All in all, the 1967-68 school year should go down in the record books as an excellent year.

Although the District faces a new school year which will experience curtailments from our 1967-68 program, the employees of the District will strive to make the program as full and complete as humanly possible.

The support and cooperation of the citizens of the District are encouraged, and are of the utmost importance if we are to continue to move forward in the task of providing a well-rounded education for the pupils of Northville.

Slapping Richard Nixon for failure speak out on one of "the most vitally important issues in this campaign – Vietnam," Gary Frink, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 19th District, calls for United States withdrawal from Vietnam.

Frink links his opponent with the "Nixon ruse" to avoid campaign injury. Specifically, he charges that his opponent "hasn't gotten involved in (major issues). He's played it a la Bill Broomfield – keep your head down and stay out of as much controversy as possible... mail a great deal. Jack has sent tons of junk mail into the district, none of it which relates to the 19th District. It's all canned mailings that are done by the Republican House campaign committee."

Referring to Nixon's "refusal" to discuss Vietnam because his comments might damage the Paris peace talks, Frink angrily denounces Nixon for manufacturing an escape.

His argument, says Frink, is "total nonsense. It's just a ruse - a clever, slick Nixon scheme to keep from talking about the issues. If we're not going to discuss Vietnam in this campaign what the hell are we going to discuss; There are two or three bedrock issues in this campaign and for a presidential candidate to hide behind it and sav 'I won't discuss the issues', oh, that's disgraceful....."

approved the proposed document and approval there will be no opportunity for citizens to voice opinions that could alter the charter. Of course, voters will have the final say - in voting to approve or disapprove the entire document probably late in January.

Commissioners have repeatedly urged citizens to attend their weekly meetings to voice their opinions but much of their work has been done without the presence of citizens. Representatives of the Novi Jaycees and the Novi Chamber of Commerce are about the only citizens who have attended regularly.

"We strongly urge the public to proposed," said Commission Chairman

Officials don't promise to make the changes suggested by citizens – but they don't rule out the possibility that suggestions could move them to alter parts of it. "But once it's approved and sent to Lansing, it will be too late to make any changes at all," they

Once the proposed charter has received final approval of the commission it will be published in full in The Novi News and submitted to all homes in the community

There is a strong possibility that the Novi Jaycees, who worked to win passage of the cityhood question earlier this year, will sponsor a public forum to answer questions of citizens pertaining to the published document. Meanwhile, commissioners are

Registrations Up Sharply in Area

Any idea you may have been harboring about the 1968 Presidential election holding little voter interest forget it.

Municipal officials thoughout the area report giant increases in registrations since the primary – and much of the jump coming within

In Plymouth Township, for example, an estimated 1,000 persons registered during the final three days before the October 4 deadline. Similarly, offices in Northville, Novi and Wixom were "swamped" with new registrations since the primary. Although local officials see no particular reason for the increases other than the fact that citizens normally take greater interest in government just prior to a Presidential election, some political pundits here and elsewhere see substantial number of the new electors as supporters of Governor George Wallace – the third party candidate.

Others, however, credit the increases to efforts of the Democrats and Republicans at the county and state levels to "get out the vote."

In Novi, where both township and village officials were "so swamped" with recent registrations, the final tally has not yet been determined. On the final day, citizens were lined up "practically all the time" to register with the township. So many registered, in fact, that the township had to obtain additional registration forms from the

An estimated 750 persons were registered in Novi between the primary election and the Uctober 4 deadlin according to Village Clerk Mrs. Mabe Ash, who pegged the total registration at a record high of more than 3,000.

In Wixom registrations, climbed only 99 since the primary - but that represents "a tremendous amount". said Deputy Clerk Donna Thorsberg. That increase is slightly more than 10-percent of the total, she said, noting that registration since July climbed from 732 to 831.

Registrations are up 17-percent in the City of Northville, according to Clerk Mrs. Martha Milne, from a total of 2,555 on July 5 to 2,998 on October 4

On the final day, reported Mrs. Milne, a total of 117 persons registered to reach the record 2,998. The increases by precincts were: From 824 to 959 in Precinct 1: from 716 to 830 in Precinct 2; and 1,015 to 1,209 in Precinct 3.

Novi Girl Marries Peace Corps Official

In a garden ceremony Sunday Street, Novi, became the bride of Michael Bloom of Panama.

The bridegroom, who has been serving as Panama Peace Corps director, is the son of the Morton Blooms of Toms River, New Jersev.

Escorted by her father, the bride walked across spacious, sloping lawns to a glen at the Rochester home of her sister and brother-in-law, the Gordon Frieses, to pledge her vows in a double-ring ceremony at which the Reverend Stanley Stefancic of the Birmingham Unitarian Church officiated. In his marriage text he used appropriate quotes from Shakespeare, Kahlil Gibran and Bertrand Russell.

The bride's sleeveless, street-length dress was a fitted sheath, its hemline edged with a heavy, wide lace band. It was topped by an overdress of organization lies in the change from the former Woman's Society for Christian Service to the use of the plural, women, signifying a broader scope.

It was a day that recalled another charter signing in 1940 when the Northville WSCS came into being as a result of the consolidation of the Ladies Aid Society and the home and foreign missionary societies.

More than 20 of the women who signed last Tuesday's charter wore blue-and-gold ribbons signifying that they also had signed the 1940 charter.

Officers at the September 19, 1940. charter signing who also signed last week included Mrs. O. F. Reng, who was first vice-president; Mrs. W. A. Liebetrau, first recording secretary; Mrs. E. M. Swimming pool fees, changes in athletic admission fees, and cancellation of a laundry service contract were approved by the Northville Board of Education Monday Following up a previous decision to permit use of the new high school pool by community groups, the board set the following hourly rates which reportedly will cover all costs to the chool system:

Weekdays - groups of one to 25 swimmers, $12.50 per hour; for 26 to 50 swimmers, $18 per hour; and for 50 swimmers, $18 per hour plus additional charges for needed lifeguard personnel. Weekends and holidays - groups of one to 25, $18 per hour; 26 to 50,

The board also agreed to cancel its laundry contract with the Ritchie Brothers Launderers-Cleaners, Inc. The move was made because the district cannot guarantee the company the amount of work it previously estimated would result from swimming pool use.

Ritchie Brothers reportedly had submitted a low bid for laundering towels and athletic equipment because of the volume the school expected in towels. Failure to open the swimming pool at mid-year resulted in a significant drop in this volume, officials

Board members expressed regrets in view of the fact that the Northville company had expanded its facilities here in anticipation of the work.

To reduce its costs the school is now using paper towels in its shower rooms. Discussing this subject Monday, Superintendent Raymond Spear entries guessed wrong on at least one of these games.

BIG DONORS - Ida B. Cooke Junior High School may not have as much to gain from the current NPSD campaign as does the high school, but it's certainly one of the biggest donors. With the backing of the entire student body, the junior high committee for NPSD last week pledged $1,500 of JH funds. Proud JH representatives, shown here with their principal, Ronald Horwath, are (1 to r): Bey Wistert, Hugh Sonk, Suzie Evans, John Forrer, chairman, Guy Cole and Kelly Moorhead.

Taking first place and the $10 prize was Charles A. Bond of 1227 East Lake Drive, Novi. He missed just three games, picking Northville over Clarkston, California over Army and Washington over Oregon.

Second place money went to Brad Cole of 356 Fairbrook, who really had his crystal ball working – he correctly guessed Detroit winning over Chicago by a score of 28-10. He missed four laughed the guy who netted the pop-up McAuliffe and Joe Sparma. They had a Sparma was really friendly." that turned Michigan into a frothy sea of happiness Thursday.

Bill Freehan couldn't find any takers as he watched the televised replay of the last-out catch that gave picture "because they had tried to get 'Are you anybody important?'," said the Detroit Tigers the first world someplace where they wouldn't be championship since 1935 when Florence Orr and Mazzie Markham, two Northville clerks, were swept up in a crowd of crazy worshipers of Goose

Charles Lapham and Chuck Parton, the two Northville clothiers who witnessed the postgame hilarity of Freehan and his jubilant Bengal stablemates, sat in stunned silence. For Florence and Mazzie, the 1968 championship took them back to their adventure in Detroit 33 years ago just after Goslin drove in the winning run in the ninth inning of the deciding 1935 World Series game.

And for the two Chucks, well, to be closeted in a restaurant with the Tigers while the whole world searched wildly for them "was unbelievable, simply unbelievable."

The two men had been in Detroit on a buying trip for Lapham's Men's Wear and on their way home decided to stop for a bite to eat. They missed their turnoff and ended up "by chance" at the Holiday Inn near Telegraph and I-696 about 10 p.m. Thursday.

Inside the restaurant were two other couples. Unable to get anyone to wait on them they walked to the lobby passing a big tall fellow wearing a grin and asking a waitress for a table for 20. Suddenly, they found themselves locked out of the dining room.

They banged on the door, demanding service whereupon the manager showed up. Explaining that they had been inside, were unable to get anyone to wait on them, and were now locked out, Lapham and Parton were allowed to re-enter. By now, the dining room was empty of everyone but the two Northvillites.

Then the tall, grinning fellow reappeared - it was Al Kaline and his pretty wife. He was followed by a dozen other Tigers and their wives, including the World Series hero, Mickey Lolich.

"We couldn't believe it," said Lapham. "It had to be a mirage ecause we'd just heard minutes before on our car radio that the players' buses were being mobbed enroute to town from the airport. But there they were, sitting around the table next to ours." The players were delirously happy, recalled Lapham, "but not very boisterous. They looked a little tired "But ever so often some of them would get up and run to the television set in the bar and watch replays of the afternoon's championship game. When they showed the last out pop-up, Freehan bet the others he'd catch it. "Actually, they didn't eat a dinner," said Parton. "They just sat there talking and quietly enjoying themselves. They drank champagne and ate shrimp and pretzels." Lapham continued: "Mickey Lolich came in and told fellow players that he'd taken a plane from Willow Run to Detroit City Airport, followed or took a state police escort to a nearby used-car lot where he was given a car. Then he drove to the restaurant. "We didn't know it but the Tigers

- at least some of them - had been staying at the Holiday Inn during the Series games in Detroit." Other Tigers recognized by the

Sets Paper Drive

St. Paul's Lutheran School Parent-Teacher League is sponsoring a paper drive October 25, 26 and 27 with proceeds to be used to purchase extra materials for the school.

Anyone having papers to be picked up on the drive days is asked to call Mrs. Roy Herald, 349-2099, or Mrs. Norm Balko, 349-0391.

Kucher said he received dozens of telephone calls from "sympathetic" friends "who gave me some good natured rubbing."

Friday morning, the blackboard in Kucher's geography room was plastered with notes about the big Tiger victory. When he pulled down the wall map, "all kinds of stuff floated out pictures of Tigers, dead Cardinals, etc." "In a way maybe it was better that the Tigers won. I can live with the ribbing but can you imagine how I'd be treated if the Cardinals had won it?" Not everyone in the Kucher home is a Cardinal fan. His five-year-old son was rooting for the Tigers.

Said Kucher: "He's too young to know who puts the bread and butter and the Budweiser on the table.'

"Maybe we weren't much before we went in but we WERE important on the way out."

Both Mazzie and Florence, who together had been in Detroit on the day the Tigers last won the Series, saw parts of Thursday's championship game and "flipped" with the millions of other Tiger fans. Neither was in Detroit last Thursday but what they saw and heard on television made that day in 1935 look like a quiet picnic.

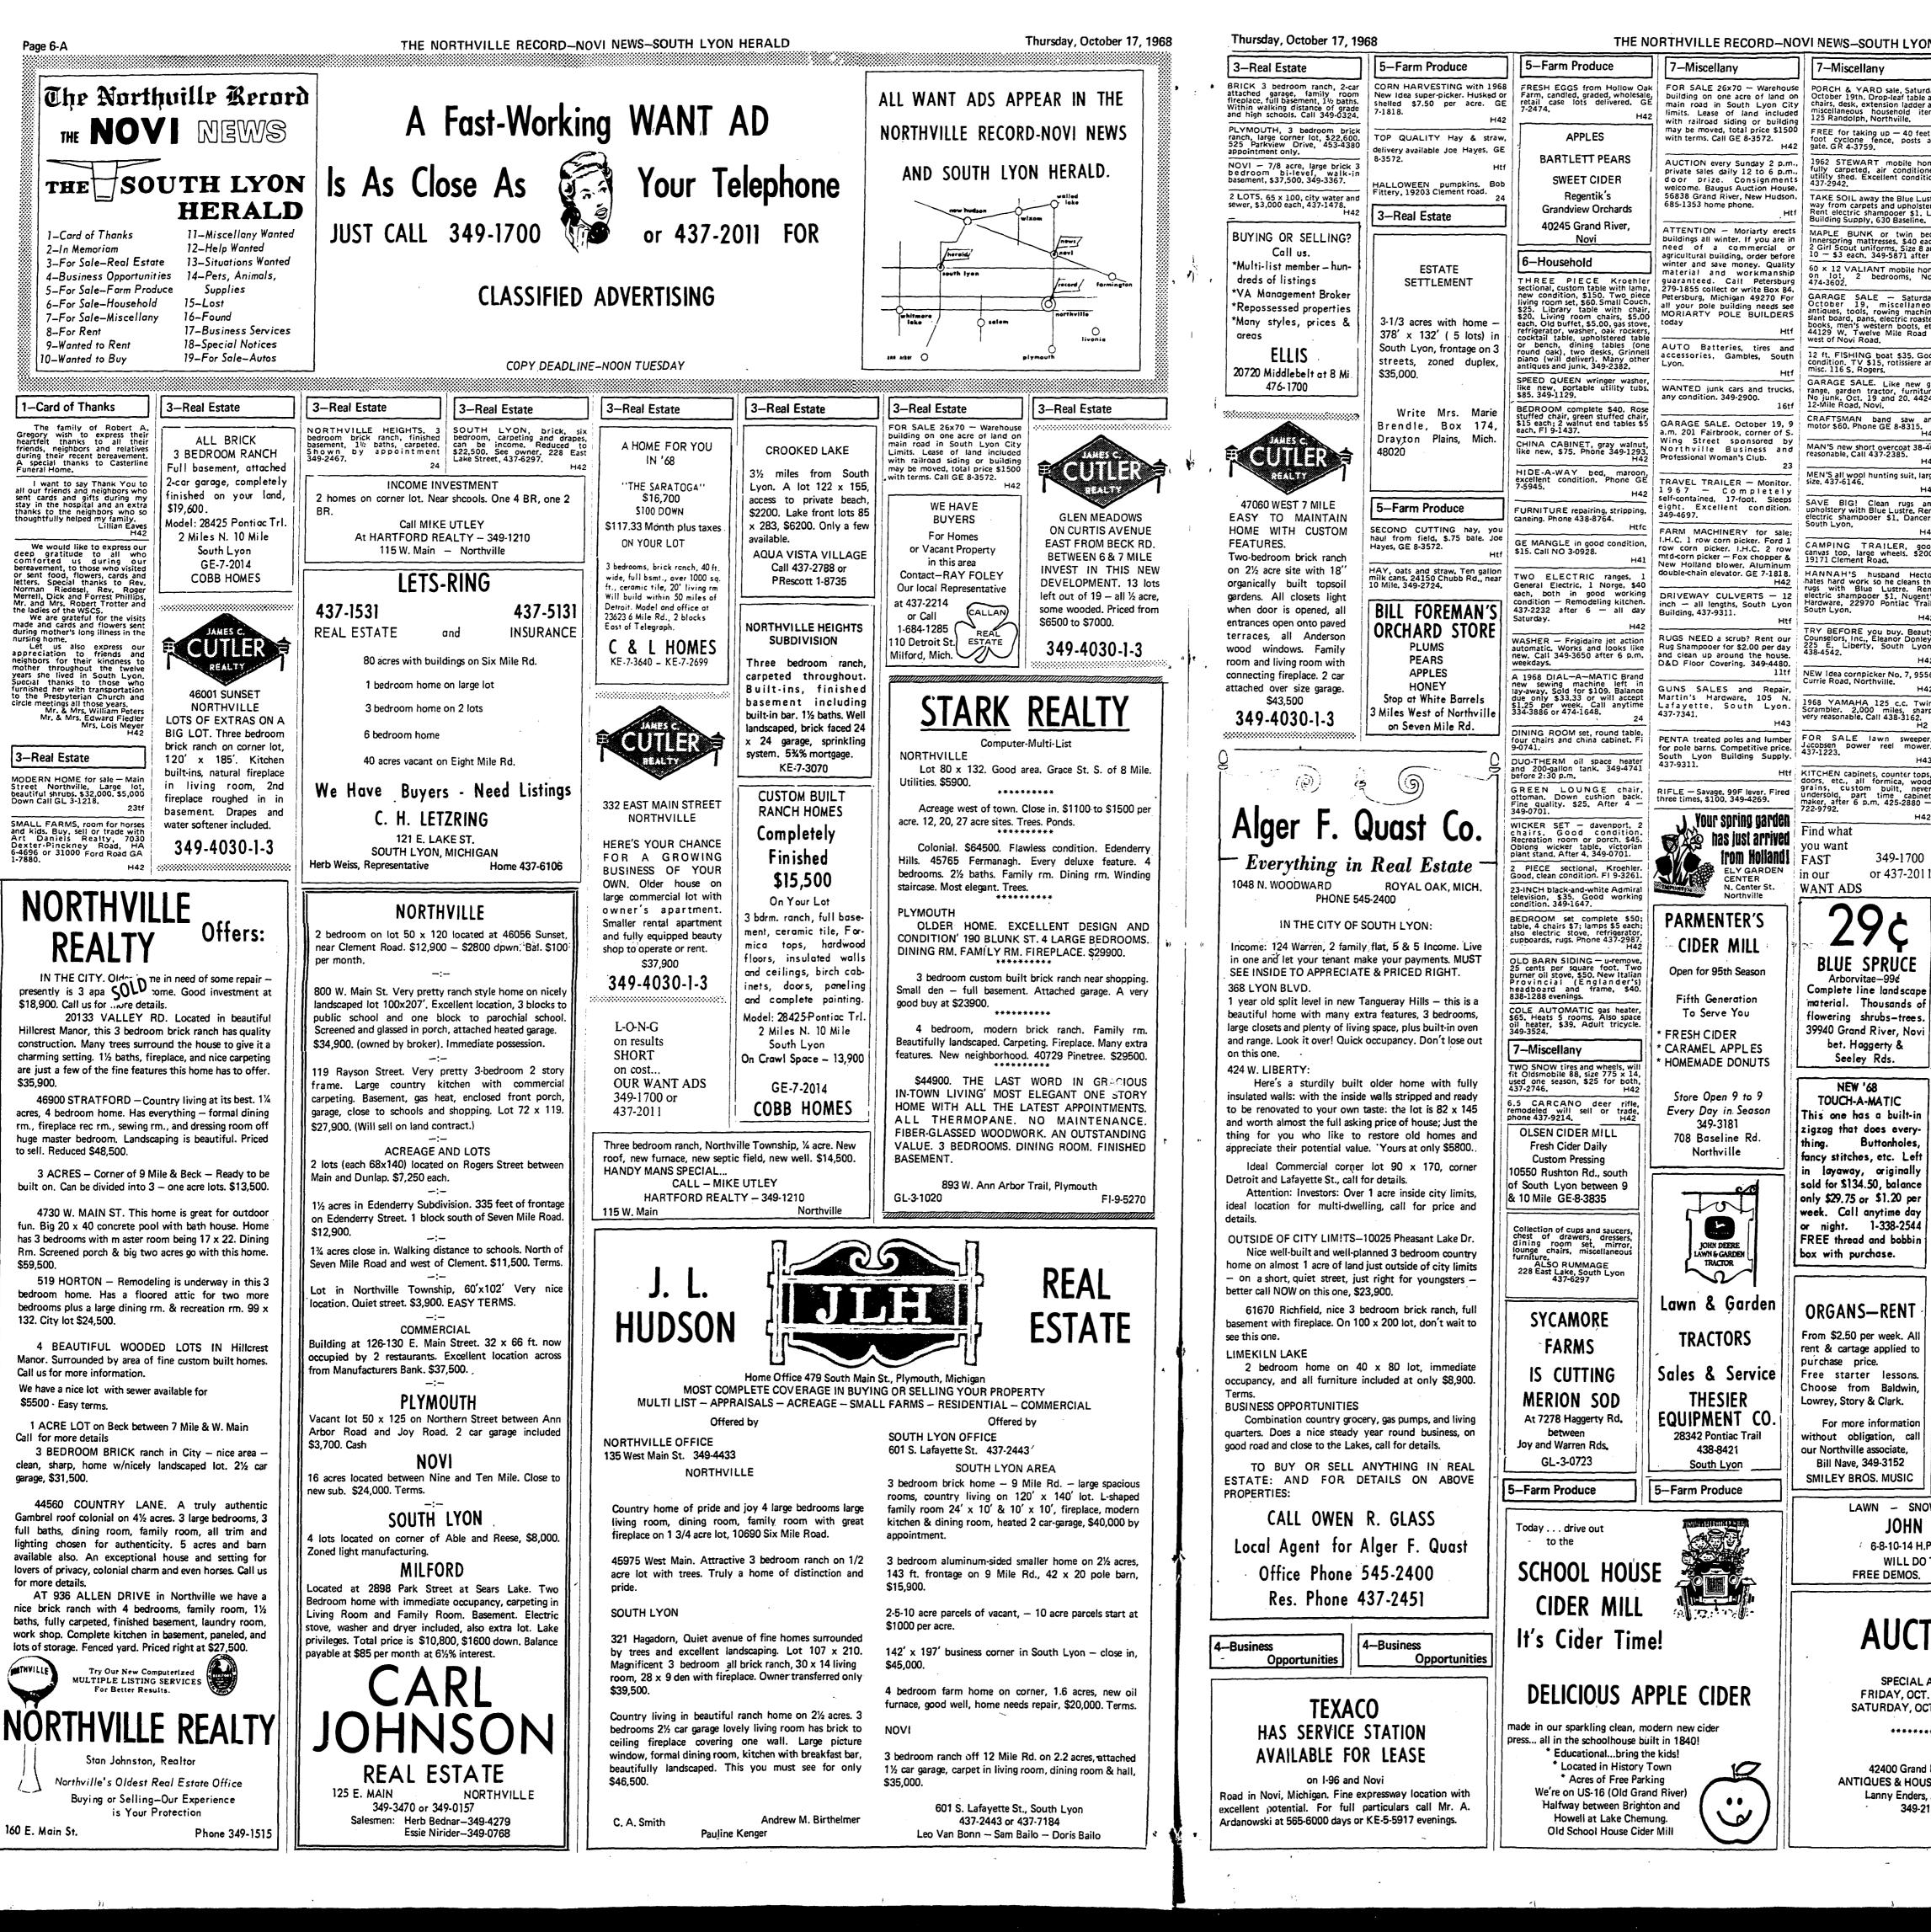

"They put out the banners, horns were honking, and the confetti rained down from the buildings but, oh, nothing like this year."

Florence, who clerks at Stone's Gambles store, dug out old Detroit Times clippings she'd saved showing and discussing the jubilant crowds and players following the '35 championship game. In them, the late John C. Manning writes of the thrilling ninth-inning hit off the bat of Goslin that brought in Mickey Cochrane with the winning run.

Mazzie, who clerks at Brader's Department Store, was at the hair dresser during last week's game. "I was under the dryer when the screaming started," she said. "When I asked what happened one of the women said, 'they got Brock at second.'

"That was almost as exciting as winning – but not quite."

Are Names, Ballots Right? Election Poses Big Problems

Ever stop to think what goes into getting the right ballots to the right precincts, the right names on the proper voting machines?

Take Wayne County, Michigan's most populous with more than 2¹/₂-million citizens. Elections officials there had nearly 4,000 names to juggle in the 1966 election, most of them precinct delegates whose names generally aren't well-known even in

But Wayne County elections director Joseph Martina didn't have a single complaint about a misspelled name and all the candidates were on the proper ballot in the proper precinct... and there are nearly 1,800

Henrik E. Strafseth, state highway director, said the increase is due in part cities and townships which elect to a hike from six to seven cents a gallon in the state gas tax, effective last January 1, part of the "Good Roads" tax package enacted by the Legislature last year.

The other revenue producing part of the tax package, restoring motor senators and congressman but they vehicle weight taxes to the pre-depression level, won't take effect until October 1 and November 15 when new commercial and passenger plates are placed on sale.

It's more like a jigsaw puzzle, though, to the elections officials. While they begin planning far ahead for an election, the final push can't start until the filing deadline for candidates which was June 18 for the August primary. As soon as the names were in they were rushed to the printer.

A proof copy of the ballot is sent to each candidate so that he can check the spelling. Once, in Muskegon, a state senator called state elections headquarters in Lansing and wondered why he hadn't received a proof.

It seems his name was omitted from the ballot. The error was corrected quickly.

The percentage of increase fo municipalities was greater in proportion to that for the state and counties, again a result of the tax package which hiked the municipal share from 18 to 20 percent on January 1 and reduced the state and county portions from 47 and 35 percent, respectively, to 46 and 34 percent.

After Giving Up First TD Wildcats Crush Knights, 26-7

BLOOMFIELD HILLS - The Knights marched through the Wildcats at will as they chalked up a quick touchdown here Friday afternoon.

But Novi's Wildcats found this just the tonic they needed to get them started. Three quarters after they had scored, the Bloomfield Hills Lahser squad wished it had never scheduled Novi, as they fell before the Wildcats' power, 26-7.

The ease with which Lahser moved the ball to their touchdown did not daunt the Wildcats. Unable to penetrate the rugged Knights' defensive ine, Gary Boyer took to the air and hit paydirt by reaching his brother Tom on a four varder. Jon Van Wagner was wide left on the PAT attempt and Novi trailed 7-6 at the half.

Someone failed to feed the 'Cats at halftime so they were plenty hungry when they returned to the field.

The play moved back and forth over the gridiron, but it inched toward the Lahser end as the Novi gridders appeared the more aggressive. On fourth down and eight, star runner and punter Jeff Kezlarian dropped back to punt and Doug Schott blocked his kick. Novi had the ball on the Bloomfield's 33 vard line.

Van Wagner cracked the right side for three yards. Then Gary Boyer flaked to Van Wagner into the line and rolled out around left end. Thirty yards the second play following the kickoff. who scored the only Knight TD, later, Boyer was in the end zone and

Van Wagner's kick made it 13-7. If Lahser thought this new-found driving power of the Wildcats was a fluke, they quickly learned differently. Sophomore Back Mike Atkins dived over his right guard and was hit hard on Nine plays and 55 yards later, the started firing passes from the shotgun

Looking forward to the Ypsilanti Roosevelt encounter, tomorrow, Osborne hopes for a large crowd as this will serve as Novi's approximation of a homecoming with queens and all. He points out that Roosevelt passes well, has a couple of good runners and that the Wildcats will have to punish them defensively if they are to beat them.

including a late clicking attack - was point. good enough to tame the fired-up Wolves who grabbed an early lead and hung on to claim its first Wayne-Oakland triumph of the season.

The Mustang loss - second in a row – leaves the Northville eleven (1-2) in a two-way tie for fourth place with the new W-O contestant, Waterford Kettering. Clarkston is in fifth place, ust a game in front of the cellar dwelling Bulldogs of Brighton.

West Bloomfield kept its streak of victories intact and remained on top of the W-O conference with a 39-20 triumph over Kettering. The Lakers now boast a 4-0 record, a full game over Milford and Bloomfield Andover tied for second with 3-1 records. Alone in third place with a 2-2 record is Clarenceville, the league's darkhorse. Down by seven points as the seconds chipped away at the clock with less than a minute to play, the Mustangs moved to the Clarenceville 27 and appeared well on its way to scoring its second TD. But with first down and 27 yards to go, Northville passed right into the hands of the opponents and the interception smothered the last gasp effort.

Wolves Nip Mustangs in Upset

The Wolves scored their first TD pass play, Clarkston picked up a first down on the Northville four, inched to the one, and then Jeff Keyser punched his way over for the tally. Clarkston kept to the ground in adding the extra Clarkston again launched a successful drive that was temporarily halted by a Mustang recovery of one of its fumbles. Starting on the Northville 45, the Wolves picked up a first down at the 34 and another at the 19 where Northville's Brian Myers jumped on a Clarkston fumble. But two plays later Clarkston regained possession on a Northville fumble and resumed its march to the goal line. At the five,

Bob Kesten, the Barons' coach echoed many of the same sentiments as on the clock, that Northville purposely Klukach when asked his appraisal of kicked short and fell on the ball near the upcoming Bloomfield the 50-yard line. But the subsequent Hills-Northville clash.

Kesten feels that his squad has improved this season chiefly because of the balanced ground and air attack his boys have been able to muster. Fullback Chuck Palaian has been the leading ground gainer with the brother passing act of Jeff Poley, the end, catching the tosses of Scott, the quarterback helping to round out the attack.

Placekicker Mark Okla has booted field goals this year and is also a big plus for Andover.

Early in the second quarter, Keyser rifled a pass to Bob Palladino for the TD. The extra point run attempt was stopped cold.

Northville took to the air in the third quarter, with End Fred Holdsworth snatching three passes. But at the Clarkston 15, the Wolves defense speared a Northville pass into the endzone to stop the threat.

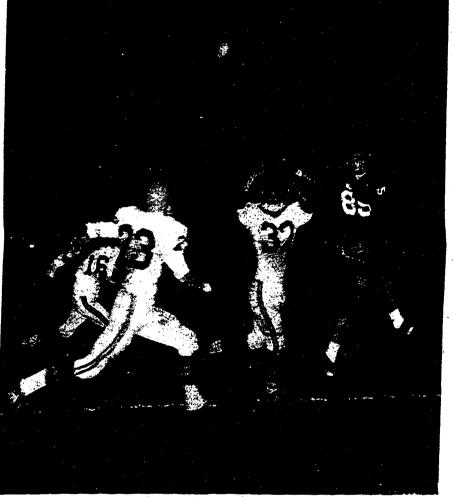

With the start of the fourth quarter, Holdsworth made a superlative catch for a 33-yard gain but a penalty nullified the catch and Northville was forced to punt. Minutes later Northville's Halfback Dave Coe came up with a beautiful catch for a big gainer but once again the drive was stopped.

Then with less than three minutes to play, Holdsworth hauled down another pass at the 12 yard line. Three plays later, Richard Adams plunged over from the one for Northville's lone score. The extra point kick hit the upright and fell short.

It was at this point, with 1:45 left desperate drive was halted by the interception.

building. Afterwards, like Christians the world over, they will go home refreshed and inspired by God's Word, ready to meet whatever the week may bring. Turning from self-service to God's service is never easy, but it is immeasurably worthwhile. When our hearts are completely God-centered, all other concerns fall into their proper places . . . and our lives become richer and more significant than our minds can imagine. "Everything else can wait . . . but your search for God cannot wait." There is still time. Come to church this Sunday and share in the bounty of His strengthening love. It is yours for the asking.

county and City of Detroit institutions have been billed for tuition of students in the Northville school system who reside on property of these governing hodies

Total tuition of these students was billed at $13,890.36. Copies of the extraordinary billings, together with an explaining letter, was sent to Governor George Romney.

Specifically, the billings include City of Detroit – A total of $4,241.94 for eight students attending Northville schools from the Maybury Sanatorium property.

City of Detroit - A total of $1,598.16 for three students living on Detroit House of Correction property. Wayne County Board of Supervisors – A total of $1,075.35 for two students living on the Wayne County Child Development Center property

State Department of Health -Atotal of $6,974.91 for 13 students living on the property of the Northville State Hospital property.

Billing of these governmental agencies was authorized several weeks ago by the Northville Board of Education, which has repeatedly voiced concern that Northville provides the education of these children without benefit of either tax dollars or tuition. The letter to the governor read in

McDonald, Frink Lock Horns over Vietnam

best interest to the people in this country

"When I say I am a 'human liberal', I mean I think everyone has the right to compete for jobs, everyone has the right to compete for housing. everyone has a right to live as they please. And in matters pertaining to civil rights, to matters pertaining to human rights, I am a liberal." On specific issues, McDonald says

-sees no particular benefit resulting from the halting of all bombing in Vietnam, and that if peace efforts fail in Paris he would favor stronger military effort to force North Vietnam to negotiate positively. -favors lowering of the voting age qualification of all citizens. -favors immediate overhauling of the electoral college process.

-believes those who are quick to attach racial overtones to crime laws generally are those who live in the suburbs and who fail to realize that most of the crimes in the ghettos are commited against the Negro who needs protection.

-sees no threat to his own candidacy by Governor Wallace, with whom he disagrees.

-supports Richard Nixon although he originally pushed for the nomination of Governor Romney and later Governor Rockefeller.

On Vietnam he says:

"I think this country has to decide very soon whether or not they feel the present negotiations in Paris are going to reach any successful conclusion, and if not, I think then they have to make the decision as to whether or not they feel that accelerating the military action would help bring better response at the conference table or whether they have completed their activities there and should remove the troops."

Pointing out that he has called for Congressional re-evaluation of the matter, he says he personally believes at this point, based upon present information, that the United States should "apply stronger military pressure in order to bring them to the conference table."

This position, says McDonald, is similar to that of Nixon, who he contends has been far more explicit on the subject than has Vice-President Humphrey.

"Mr. Nixon feels as I do that the best way is a political solution, but I think as he does that the ground work has to be laid for that political solution. It appears as though the bombing halt - partial bombing halt has enabled the North Vietnamese to greatly strengthen their forces and the forces of the VietCong in the South and that it hasn't done any good as far as we know to bring any successful change in the attitude of the North Vietnamese at the conference table in Paris."

His position, he explains, is that of the military, of the South Vietnamse government, and of almost everyone "except perhaps with the politician or those who feel we shouldn't be involved there at all", namely that secession of all bombing would be of little value.

Concerning the argument that Nixon is hiding behind the peace talks to avoid speaking out on Vietnam, McDonald strongly refutes it, pointing out that Nixon has been far more positive on the subject than the wavering vice president. However, he suggests that it would be unwise for Nixon to tip his hand to the enemy (North Vietnam) to dispel criticism by Democrats.

Although McDonald says he first supported Governor Romney and then Governor Rockefeller for the presidency, he is "very satisfied with our nominee, Richard Nixon." In retrospect, says McDonald, he may have been wrong in supporting Rockefeller because "I don't think he could have welded the party together as well as Richard Nixon has. I think Nixon has done a tremendous job in welding the Republican party together, and I think for the good of the two-party system it is terribly important to have strong parties. The Democratic party, under Hubert Humphrey, has been unable to be welded together."

Concerning Governor Wallace, the congressman contends Wallace poses a far greater threat to the Democratic Party than it does to the Republican Party. "I think probably the majority of votes that will be cast for Governor Wallace will be cast by people who ordinarily would vote on the Democratic column, and in many cases, perhaps, they haven't been voting in the right column because they haven't believed in the policies of the Democratic party. The Wallace candidacy, then, gives them a chance to strike out, or gives them a chance to rebel, a chance to demonstrate that they are not happy with the programs and policies of the Democratic Party...

Asked to comment on Wallace,

McDonald says "I support Mr. Nixon. don't think that Mr. Wallace qualified to be the president. I don't think he has had the experience. And I haven't as yet heard him talk about any solutions to the problems. I've heard him point up all the problems - and we have our share in this country and I think he's done a marvelous job with that - but I haven't heard him espouse to any extent the solutions of the problems." The single most important issue in this campaign, says the congressman, is "crime in the streets." He points to the "permissiveness" in the nation's society as generally being the root cause in the increase of crime. And this permissiveness starts at the family level. Furthermore, the "attitude generally of elected officials particularly of judges from the local evel to the state judges and the ederal judges — in their feeling compassion for the criminal ... "Is a cause, he contends. Specifically, he points to the "granting of pardons to far too many people who, in the largest majority of the times, are returned to prison for committing more crime.

"A lot of people blame our crime on the Supreme Court or a great deal of it. I think that some blame does rest there. However, I think probably more of the blame comes right down to the family or the individual and to our local court."

Recent legislation aimed at providing money for police training helps tackle the problem, McDonald contends. But he suggests further that "new laws could be passed that are concerned with the heart of the crime problem – organized crime – and then from the top filtering down to the crime on the streets. By that I mean stronger laws giving the federal officers authority to enter places and secure evidence without a warrant when they think that this evidence may be destroyed because of a time lapse. In narcotics cases it would mean they could have better control over narcotics and it's proven that much of the crime on the streets is caused by people who are trying to get money to buy narcotics – especially in our big cities. So giving the federal government this power would help, and I've introduced a bill, by the way, that would do that.

"I also introduced a bill that would allow federal agents to stop automobiles on the highway, if they were suspect of being stolen and suspect of being carried across state line. for the purpose of checking the serial number and the motor number of the vehicles... In the past eight or ten years the traffic across state lines of stolen cars is greatly on the increase... I think around 250-percent increase. "Organized crime has been successful to some extent because they have been able to take the profit from illegal operations... and putting this money then into legitimate business operations... So we've introduced a bill that would make it a federal offense to use money to develop legitimate business... with ill-gotten gains."

"...Federal legislation that gives the police department more power is

"And one final thing I think that would help is legislation... that would spell out in detail the powers of the federal, state and local officer concerned with the admission of vidence in the courtroom.

Combatting crime, asserts McDonald, is absolutely not a slap at the Negro. "The majority of the crime in the cities of America is committed against Negroes. They live in the highest crime areas. They are the ones McDonald stands on this issue because who are taking the brunt of the crime we haven't heard. Jack hasn't said on the street. In most cases, it's the black person who is unable to walk the streets at night because he happens to live in an area that is very dangerous. Many crimes are committed by black people, but a majority of those are committed against black people. And people living in these dangerous areas are more interested in protection.

"I think it's about time that some people who criticize from the suburbs spend a little time in the cities and find out what the situation really is. I think we get more criticism for using the term 'law and order' from the do-gooder in the white suburbs than we get from the people who need the help in the black ghettos."

McDonald favors more federal aid to education, but he qualifies the method of support. "I think federal funds should not come back in the way of categoric grants as they are now, but should be distributed as block grants to the states and to the local districts -Making certain that the money that is collected from all of the people is used for all of the people.

"In the state of Michigan I think it would be far better to have federal money come to the state and local communities for whatever purpose they think necessary ... "

Similarly, McDonald contends the overnment wrongly allocates federal monies for specific projects. He cites an example a grant given Redford Township when he was supervisor.

"There was a slackening of the conomy and money was given to an accelerated public works program. Money was made available on a 50-50 natching basis for local communities build such things as a fire hall. I nade application to Washington and built a fire hall, paid 50-percent of the cost and the federal government paid 50-percent because the money was here. So what did I do? I looked all over my community to find a situation that would fit a program in Washington. I spent 50-percent of the cost of that fire hall at a time when I should have been spending the money or more firemen. But I couldn't let this good deal' go by to get the federal

"I think in education and in all ther areas we find the same situation categorical grants. That's the way the ederal government dispurses money to the states. So every state, every city, and every township and every county attempts to find the situation in their area that fits into a federal pigeon hole somewhere so that they can get money from the federal government.

"The solution to that is, I think, ederal revenue sharing where the federal government does one of two things: they either share part of the federal taxes collected with the state and the states in turn with the local communities, or they give a direct tax credit to the individual for the amount of money that they pay in specific state taxes..

"Then you're giving the local communities and the states an opportunity to raise money. So you do away with these categorical programs and you allow the local communities and the states to spend the money the way they think it should best be spent within some guidelines. One mportant guideline is that the money spent for all of the people and inexperience," McDonald emphasizes his own role, pointing out that his past 10 years have been dedicated government. "Being supervisor of Redford anything.'

What about his own stand on Vietnam?

"I believe our posture in Southeast Asia and in Vietnam is untenable. My four years in Washington has convinced me that we're not there to save South Vietnam for the freedom loving South Vietnamese people. We're there because we are trying to contain Red China, a nation of 700 million people, on her own mainland, 10,000 miles from home with an expeditionary force of 540,000 men. I don't believe that is a tenable position for us to be in. I don't think we can win it short of nuclear weapons - which I don't advocate – or short of blowing North Vietnam off the face of the map, which I am convinced would get us into war with China.

"We're also dealing with probably one of the most corrupt - if not the most corrupt – governments now in existence. The war has become Americanized – we're fighting it.

"I think we should go with the peace talks, stay with them, but if it comes to that point where everybody in America knows the peace talks are over and it's either escalate and literally destrov North Vietnam - and I'm convinced that's the only way we're going to win it and I'm convinced if the talks fail it's going to be a win or get out philosophy - or those people are going to hold sway... When it comes to that point the thing has got to be de-Americanized and we've got to support them if they want to keep fighting but we've got to get out of there.

"Slowly de-Americanize the war slowly turn the war over to them."

Frink says he supports Vice-President Humphrey's proposal to end all bombing in Vietnam but that he sees little hope that this step would lead to peace since most of the bombing has already stopped.

He refutes the argument that the United States must remain there to "save face". "I think a great nation can admit to itself that it made a mistake. Look at DeGaulle. Look at what DeGaulle did in Algeria. Talk about vital interests. Algeria was a state of France. Their people had been there for 200 years, and there were how 400.000 Frenchmen in the many, Algeria? And he just one day said, 'it's untenable'. That's it. It's over. Their own state - it's just like us taking Michigan or Alaska after 200 years and just cutting it loose. And yet France has survived and DeGaulle has survived. And the world hasn't changed; there's been no great loss of face." Concerning Humphrey, Frink says that prior to the election he "preferred to run with McCarthy but I would like to see Hubert Humphrey president."

"I don't really go with some of my friends who say Hubert Humphrey is a totally changed man in those four years, and that the Hubert Humphrey administration would simply be a continuation of L. B. Johnson. I don't believe that at all. Humphrey was out of touch with a lot of what was going on, was trapped by war, and had alienated support that would have naturally been his because of his support for the president."

Humphrey, he insists, is the same man who while in the Senate and earlier fought for those things that both parties today espouse.

On the political spectrum, Frink places himself "a little left of center and (McDonald) is very far right. He has an 81 ACA record. I'll put it into context for you. Strom Thurmond has a 100, Jack McDonald has 81, Martha Griffiths has 15, and Jim O'Hare has malified to be the president." t Asia and in Vietnam ind that the voters who ve inocratic votes." an university graduate to die 1

The Democratic candidate admits that Governor Wallace has a substantial number of votes in the 19th District. "There's no question in my mind that the voters who vote for Wallace this time are traditional Democratic votes. OK? So on that basis the Democrats lose. But I'm also convinced that in the 1968 presidential year they would be closer to their view on the race thing and that's their big thing. "There have been no anti-Negro presidential candidates around for a long time, so these people have been waiting for this guy (Wallace). And I think that they would have - though they were traditional Democrats - if there hadn't been a Wallace they would have gone to Nixon, who is playing the sophisticated way. "Governor Wallace is a bright, who is pandering on son real fears of the American people. I am convinced that his campaign is anti-Negro, purely and simply.

Concerning the crime issue, Frink points to the number of crimes committed by youth. "Fifty percent of all people arrested in the United States for major crimes are between the ages of 11 and 17. Now think of that one for a minute. I think that would be indicative of a break down in the family in the city and that could be traced back, maybe, partially to our welfare programs which I believe have to be revised and changed.

treatment of these young people once we have them under custody. Our reformatories really don't come near what should be done to provide psychological help, rehabilitative training, so that when you have them you're just not making harder criminals... but that you really try, as much as humanly possible with our knowledge of behavior science, to change these kids so that when they go back out on the streets they don't continue in this criminal behavior. "That's something the Federal overnment can do, certainly, in ddition to helping train police and

"Also 50-percent of the juvenile judges in this country don't have law degrees which doesn't speak very highly for our thrust and focus on this particular part of the crime problem.' How would he change the welfare "I think there has to be much going to administrative costs because the income is linked to the social work and the social worker. I think it is better to give money directly to those which society deems should receive income maintenance....

"The social worker now is less effective because so much of their time is spent dealing with these forms that are involved with the income maintenance system. So I don't know if you want to call it negative income tax or whatever, but get the money to them directly and let them spend it on the economy.

"Since we've had the ADC system I think it has been largely a failure. This business of giving money to a woman for her children and then forcing a man out of the home " is wrong

While advocating changes, Frink disagrees with Republicans who advocate scrapping whole programs to save money.

"Where are we going to make all these vast savings? I'm for making government more efficient... sure as large as the federal government is, it's going to be inefficient in certain spots and money can be saved by making it more efficient. But I just don't truck with this business that we can save vast sums of money by chopping away at the social program. Where's it going to be? Education?"

Frink sees the urban problems as the biggest facing the nation. "The deterioration of the city as a viable healthful place for people to live... is a prime issue."

He says also that the nation's tax tructure must be reformed. "The 7-percent depletion is one, the way whereby wealthy citizens can transfer ppreciations in property, etc. We've got make our tax system much more equitable than it now is, as it is largely alling on the wage earner now."

In this area he criticizes his opponent for saying and going two different things. "Mr. McDonald wrote a newsletter to 150,000 people and stated that he was against the surtax and then he voted for it. I don't think that's playing the game fairly. On the facts as I had them I probably would have voted for the surtax but I wouldn't have written a letter to the people telling them I wouldn't vote for it. Again, that's another misuse of this junk mail."

On the subject of federal aid to education, Frink says he is uncertain as to what greater role the federal government might play in this area. However, he "would consider a system whereby we could get hunks of federal money into states for education. When you talk about playing a big role then sounds like this business of controlling education through the federal government. I don't mean that. 'm talking about the 'block grant' idea the federal government giving money chunks rather than in categorical granting. The elementary and secondary education bill now is a categorical grant program ... they'll give you money for experimentation, new teaching ideas, for certain equipment, but they won't give you money for buildings, for salaries, etc.

"I would consider (block grants) instead. I'm not advocating it. I would prefer that income for schools - for local public education schools - be derived from state and local level."

He says he is unconvinced that state and local level financing methods have as yet been sufficiently explored to give the federal government the green light to "jump in".

"There is no question that as you talk to people and as you analyze this thing that the property tax on the local level has gone about as far as it can in supporting education. Some advocate and I tend to agree that we've got to look into financing of education on a state-wide basis out of general revenue. In the state now that would mean largely, through our state income tax. It also would rectify some of the nequities in education offered in various school districts."

The nation's draft law, says Frink must be reformed but he admits that his thoughts in this area are not yet formalized. "I've been saying that there ought to be a lottery at age 19. But I'm thinking now that maybe we ought to register the kids at 17 and have the lottery then, making them - those whose lots are drawn - subject to the draft for a year at age 19. That would mean that all the kids who are not subject would know at age 17 that they were not going to be subject to the draft without a major war. They would be able to plan at age 17 their university career, training, job or whatever.

"I'm for the lottery concept."

The present draft law is unfair, he contends. "If you are fortunate enough to be accepted by the university, or Schoolcraft College to further your education, in years past you've been able to avoid the draft. I know. I was in law school with many guys who were there purely and simply because it

In Livonia Battle Rages Over GOP Office

A battle over space for the Republican headquarters in Livonia is raging this week following a Circuit Court retaining order issued October 4 Marvin R. Stempien has focused attention on the party headquarters of Louis Schmidt, Stempien's opponent in the heated race for State Representative in the Livonia-Northville district.

The Five Mile Road headquarters building in which Schmidt is located is allegedly being illegally occupied in violation of the restraining order of Circuit Court Judge Edward S. Piggins. The hangup is that the owner of the building. John Hubert, offered Stempien office space in the building but the present leasee, H. & R. Block, had sub-let the offices to Schmidt as a campaign headquarters.

Hubert reportedly had stipulated in the lease that Block obtain his written permission before any sub-letting of the offices. He was never consulted and did not authorize the sub-letting, said Hubert.

Stempien charged that Schmidt has ignored the court order and is .continuing use of the office.

Sees Danger in Adult Drug Use Talk

To the Editor:

As one who has had legal and profesional contact with drug abusers as well as meeting with former drug addicts on a weekly basis, I would like to relate my sincere interest in your editorial of last week. October 10, on drug abuse.

I assume that such an editorial was written as an honest and valid indictment, stating the need of this community to face drug abuse and related problems. It is on this assumption that I regret the lack of reference to the public meeting presented by the Northville Probation Department on drug problems, presented by two residents of Synanon House in Detroit.

For those who are not aware, Synanon for drug addicts or potential drug users, is roughly equivalent to alcoholic lay groups for alcoholics. At the meeting here in Northville, where the Synanon members spoke, they presented a comprehensive summary of the problems leading to, through and out of drug use. The bulk of the meeting consisted of audience participation in a $\star \star \star$

Tiger fever was great. It worked wonders in and for an anguished city. Mustang fever can do the same for an up-tight Northville. The Tigers repeatedly came from behind to win. They met each deadline on top: the pennant followed by the Series. The Mustang-oriented NPSD has won its pennant. The fever's mounting. Now let's hope it can behave like the cool, controlled, well-coordinated, single-minded Tigers... and win the big one. October 23 is the big day. Get feverish.

question and answer session with the two member panel from Synanon responding directly to the audience.

While the public and press had been invited to this probation officer's meeting, only the probation officers, three other adults and 10 teenagers outside the probation department, attended the meeting. It seems ironic that vouth in this community are apparently anxious to receive educational programs on drugs, while adults in this community only make already recently been initiated. Unfortunately, it would appear that many parents who appear disinterested own child has experimented with different, sort in the parent, who is, perhaps, overaware of the problem and tends to either distort or misrepresent the facts of drug abuse - namely, threating the youth as a common criminal should be experiment, tends to drive the youth further into the mire out of resisting rebellion.

The use of drugs is a vicious and demeaning way of escape. However, myths or misrepresentations used by adults, in confronting youth with the problem, only limit us in convincing them of the dangers, due to our own naivete'. A whole book could be written on the myths of prevention and rehabilitation of drug users, but a few examples can suffice.

1. It is a bad argument to tell youth a one sided argument, without discussing the other side of the coin. Such arguing only convinces a youth that you don't know what you're talking about or that, to sav the least. you are extremely prejudice. For example, the Record Editorial offered the 'fact' that 79 percent of addicts began with marijuana. It is to be noted that this is not the same as saying 74 percent of all marijuana users became hard addicts, and yet most parents will argue this way. The concerned youth knows better. He had been commissioned to drill 6,000 holes through solid concrete, granite and steel in the Cannon House Office Building where congressmen were having their offices remodeled. Probably more than any other city of its size, Northville has taken the initiative in property acquisition in the business district. The long-range objective of the council is the redevelopment of the property into tax-rendering commercial enterprises.

Right now the city owns good-sized parcels of land in each of the four main blocks within the central business district. The latest acquisition was the Peterson property near the center of Main street between Center and Hutton and extending nearly to Dunlap.

Most of the acquisitions have been made by the city council, although the non-profit Northville Area Economic Development Committee has played a major role in several instances.

With the ink hardly dry on the last purchase the council is now faced with another opportunity... the Methodist church property

Under its recently-adopted CBD plan the council projects the use of the church property for parking and commercial development.

Ideally, the council would hope that the Methodists could sell their 29,000 square feet within the central business district to a 'commercial developer.

But, unfortunately, the "timing" may not yet be right.

How long will it be, many councilmen ask, before there will be 'brick and mortar' evidence of the city's wisdom in acquiring 5 central business district property?

Some councilmembers are becoming uneasy about acquisitions that are not followed by development.

Naturally, their biggest fear is taxpaver criticism of the use of their tax monies.

Only time will tell whether our council has acted with keen foresight and wisdom, or has been the victim of poor timing.

Those with greatest confidence in the future development of our business district would advocate the purchase of more property. And they encourage a greater emphasis on a campaign to sell the package they are acquiring.

They see the program as a "do-it-yourself" urban renewal project without federal funds or strings, without massive destruction of existing buildings and with the potential rewards of new business. taxbase and personal satisfaction of accomplishment.

Most of all, perhaps, the council needs reaction - from private citizens and businessmen. Be it criticism or encouragement, response removes the feeling of sitting in a vacuum or being trapped in a lull before a storm.

Clearly, the council's path has been built upon good intentions - but there's a saying about that, too,

Why don't you take the time to let your opinion be known on the city's continuing effort to convert deteriorating or residential property within the CBD into new commercial sites?

Marian Szczepanski isn't the easiest guy in the world to understand, nor is he the most convincing. But he's certainly one of the most brilliant and determined.

He's been bugging me, on and off, for a year or more "to write something" about the illogical way the space agency - NASA - goes about spending my tax dollars. Ironically, his latest effort occurred last week just before the Big Shot at Cape Kennedy.

That this column has as much influence as a pigeon trying to stop Big Ben from doing its thing doesn't seem to deter him. He views the local press as some all-powerful agency that will make Congress do flipflops.

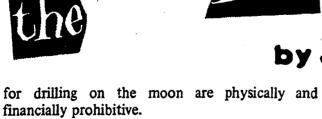

Nevertheless, he has a gripe, and I think a legitimate one.

His developments in this field are widely copied. Recently, he developed a giant diamond bit for drilling holes in the concrete runways at O'Hare Airport in Chicago for lighting installations. The drill is the largest of its kind in the world, and it represents another application of a "home-grown" technique that NASA refuses to recognize.

It's not exactly a new book (1967), but Carl Benhase's "Ohio High School Football" has got to be an eye opener for everyone, with the possible exception of those who are thoroughly familiar with Ohio high school football. The book is designed to serve as a guidepost for coaches who LANSING - "Hold the line" is the budget message from Gov. George Romney to state government agency heads as they begin fashioning their spending requests for the 1969 egislature.

Thursday, October 17, 1968

Romney says times could get tough, what with the constant threat of inflation, and he's not about to ask for higher taxes next year.

"We must have prudent planning and a tight budget," the governor said. "There will be little or no room for new programs and major expansions of existing programs."

THE ADMINISTRATORS get the message, but some don't like it and are trying to convince Romney's budgetwriters they need more money. First to receive public criticism was the governor's proposed "target" figure of $812.4 million for state school aid in fiscal 1969-70. This is a $34 million boost over this year's estimated total.

Dr. Ira Polley, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, says the figure is $27.7 million short of maintaining the state's present share of 45 per cent of school costs. This means, he adds. that local districts will be required to increase their financial support for schools by $61.8 million, necessitating an average 2.5 millage boost, or cut back educational programs.

"Such an increase (in millage) is unrealistic in light of recent voter area township showed a net total of 92 reaction to requests for millage approval," Polley contends.

Meanwhile, State Budget Director Lake. Glenn Allen is stressing that the

Only the patience and the skill of airline pilots and air-traffic controllers at these congested airports have averted diaster during

OF COURSE, the airlines themselves have been responsible for some of the conditions that have caused planes to be stalled in the skies for many minutes at a time. Scheduled flights between the larger cities have been expanded considerably during the past couple of years. Also, crowding in the air has been intensified by the practice of some airlines to run second. third, and sometimes fourth sections of scheduled flights in what are popularly known as shuttle services.

public flying in today's commercial airliners discover that their craft with dozens of people aboard may often be stacked up over a busy airport for long periods because two or three, or even more, light private planes were ahead of it in their approach to the field. Such situations create unnecessary hazards, as does also the operation of military aircraft from civilian airports.

It would appear that the Civil Aeronautics Board, or some other federal agency, could take the lead in working out a logical, sensible system of priorities for aircraft at the more congested fields. Longer range, perhaps non-airline, private flights could be diverted to alternate terminals where they would not so greatly add to congestion and to risk.

SHORT TERM and long term, air travel costs promise to point upward ... sharply upward. Both government and business have been singularly slow to attack this problem forcefully. In the case of airport expansion, it has almost invariably been a case of "too little, too late." This has been especially true during the past three or four years as rail passenger service has been slashed.

Now we are in urgent need of new safety and other equipment for airfields, more air-traffic controllers and other skilled help, and additional airports. Whether we live in or near the big cities or 'down on the farm', we can't afford to be isolated from rapid contact with the rest of the nation. As taxpayers and as passengers, then, we must be prepared to pay a good deal more for air transportation.

Roy Marr resigned as sewer and water commissioner at the Novi Council meeting Monday night. Marr, who expressed in a letter to the council the feeling that he had been hired to perform a much different set of duties than he has been allowed to perform, felt that the duties of his position should be more explicitly spelled out.

Expressing a belief that the community would continue to grow. he said he regretted no longer being a part of its administration but that resent restrictions on his job made it an untenable position for him to hold. Council moved to give a vote of confidence to the charter commission in other action Monday night. The question of commission expenses was brought up by Village Manager Harold Ackley, who was acting in his position as guardian of the budget as he questioned expenditures the commission has incurred to date.

Councilmen Raymond Evans and William Duey, who also are members of the charter commission, expressed their views that the commission, though it expects to cost taxpayers up to $4,000. has been doing a good job.

Evans said, "We are making the best possible charter which will be worth every penny we're putting into it." He also said that it will be ready in time for review before the public will be asked to vote on it in January.

Duey added, it is a "commission of nine individuals who are doing an excellent job of producing a group effort" and that "changes are essential to make a good charter."

Council President Ray Harrison felt that a vote of either confidence or no-confidence was essential at this for their views and then asked Police said Simon shot at the bus commission members if they had Harrison then stepped down and relinquished the chair to Evans in order to move a vote of confidence

Councilman Leo Harrawood seconded and the vote was unanimous. Button added that something must be done to get either the Chamber of Commerce or the Junior Chamber to move on supporting the commission's activities in order to present a unified front to the voting public to ensure adoption of the city charter at the first election in January. Among other actions taken by council was one authorizing Acklev to name Jack Anglin to install sewer

Charter Debate Starts Tonight

In urging the commission to ncorporate a strong mayor form of government within the charter, O'Brien, who several years ago made a detailed study of Novi to earn his master's degree, said that today

The once popular idea that the producing bad government is now passe'. Political scientists, he said, are concept as the type of government

O'Brien refuted the argument that election of a strong mayor cancels out professionalism in favor of politics. It is erroneous, he indicated, to assume that few if any professional and highly qualified people would or could be elected to the post. To take this stand in favor of the manager concept, he suggested, shows little trust in theelectorate and the democratic process of elections.

Upon reminding the commission of his stand on this matter. Button accepted the suggestion that he prepare for tonight's meeting a proposal of possible districts in the community.
