THE NORTHVILLE RECORD-NOVI NEWS

Northville's annual spring clean-up campaign, which will continue through the month of May, got off to a rousing start this past week with local organizations joining with the city in general beautification projects.

On Saturday, as part of an annual club activity, members of Northville's family camping and hiking club, the Tumble Weeds, cleaned the roadside and boulevard along South Main Street right). Before they had finished several truckloads of trash had been hauled off to the dump.

Also on Saturday members of the Lyon 4-H Club (left), with members from Northville as well as South Lyon, cleaned the roadside along Nine Mile between Currie and Napier roads.

Tons of trash were picked up here on Monday as the city, through its department of public works, conducted its annual trash pickupthroughout the communit v.

Meanwhile, Northville's Beautification Commission has encouraged other organizations of the community to sponsor similar clean-up projects in an effort to get Northville eady for the Michigan Week kickoff -Community Pride Day - on Saturday, Mav 19

Bids Sought For I-96 Work

A long winter of discontent for Michigan's highway program ends May when the Department of State Highways takes bids on 42 construction and maintenance projects costing an estimated $34.1 million.

The estimated dollar volume qualifies the letting as the second largest ever conducted by the department. The largest was $42 million on December 7, 1960, when bids were taken for construction on a half-dozen freeways.

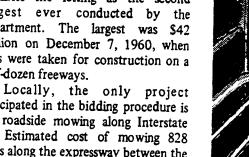

nticipated in the bidding procedure is for roadside mowing along Interstate 96. Estimated cost of mowing 828 acres along the expressway between the Livingston-Oakland County line and Farmington Township is put at $5,000, with completion set for September 15. New Program to Aid Students

There's a new concept in education at the Novi High School cooperative education.

The cooperative education program, under the direction of John A. Ishler, is the first of its kind in the Novi school system and it will be aunched this summer.

The program is designed to place students in an on-the-job training situation coordinated with an in-school program.

Four areas that will be included in the program are office practice. trades and industry, distributive education (selling techniques) and health fields such as child care, practical nursing and nursery school.

Junior and senior students are eligible for the cooperative education program but they must be 16 or older. Juniors must take classes related to the jobs they are placed in, such as typing, metal shop or home economics.

Seniors enrolled in the program are required to take a general related class set up by the State Department of Education. The class, taught by Ishler, covers such topics as budgeting, taxes and money management.

Ishler will interview students and employers to seek compatability and to fill the needs of the employer. More than one student may be placed with an employer at the employer's request.

The students then compete for a specific job with other students in the program. Businesses covered by the program are in the Novi area with students furnishing their own transportation.

The employer serves as an off-campus teacher. The student works at his job on a part-time basis, either after school or in the afternoon if the job requires him to. Those participating n the program will receive credit as well as earning money.

Students must work an average of 15 hours each week for a period of 38 weeks during the entire school year.

The work must not exceed 48 hours in one week including time spent in school and on the job. This summer the program will offer full-time positions for students with attendance of the related class required, according to Ishler. Ishler said the school became interested in the cooperative education program after numerous businesses and industries in the Novi area expressed a desire to employ students on a part-time basis during the school year. Many of the jobs may turn into full-time positions for the students after they graduate.

He feels the program is valuable for the students in that it helps them "get experience in the world of work and teaches the student responsibilities of our society.

Ishler will remain in close contact with students and their employers during the program. He will visit the work stations at least once a week. The the time.

Debra Lynn Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Simpson, Jr., 21200 Chubb Road, chose a traditional gown of chantilly lace for her marriage to Joseph Byron Andrews March 22 in Plymouth First United Presbyterian Church

The bridegroom is the son of the Reverend and Mrs. James Andrews, 51630 Eight Mile Road. His father officiated at the candlelight ceremony with the Reverend Henry T. Walch, church pastor.

Inspired by the Gone-With-The-Wind era, her gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice with wrist-length sleeves and a hoop skirt of wide, gathered tiers of lace, extending into a full chapel train. A matching headpiece held her floor-length chapel veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white forget-me-nots, rosebuds and white, purple-throated orchids.

She was given in marriage by her father at the altar decorated with candelabra and arrangements of carnations, mums and gladioli.

300 Attend Novi Festival

A student-sponsored, student-prepared International Festival thrilled some 300 guests last Friday evening at the Novi Community Building.

The festival, involving some 85 students in three Novi Elementary sixth grade classes of Mrs. Sarah Sasss, Mrs. Katherine Penhale and Richard Wendt, was the culmination of an in-depth study of foreign countries, history and cultures.

Many of the students' ideas for the festival originated with a tour of the International Institute in Detroit last February where they were shown slides and films and learned some folk dances.

According to Mrs. Sasss, study of international cultures will continue in sixth grade classes throughout the remainder of the vear.

was an extension of the students' study, with each being graded upon his or her participation and performance. The festival, which got underway at 7 p.m. and continued through 10:30 p.m., featured display tables of artifacts collected by the children representing oriental countries, the Near East, Germany and Scandinavian countries. Great Britain, and Mexican and Latin Countries. Students themselves were dressed n foreign costumes for the occasion. Additional projects included ar exciting bazaar. Students operated a baked goods concession stand. They also sold ballons, kites, artificial paper flowers -- all made by students, as well as selling real flowers purchased from area greenhouses. Adding a special flavor was a table of imported goods, sponsored by the International Institute and operated by local students. Travel slides and film strips were shown.

A favorite of many parents was the international buffet, featuring five tables heaped with tasty international dishes prepared at home.

"I think the really grand thing about this particular project," said Mrs. Sasss. "was the fact that the students did everything themselves – from the planning stage to the cleaning up afterwards.

Coach John Osborn, who couldn't be happier, says his squad is steadily improving and has not yet hit its peak. "They're playing together," he said of his players, "and they're playing well. Best of all, we've begun to cut down the number of strikeouts. As long as we can keep hitting the ball the other team's got to keep alert in the field."

In that extra inning contest, Novi scored its ying run with two outs in the bottom of the eventh. Gary Boyer walked, stole second and Paul Faulkner singled him home to send the game into extra innings.

Then in the eighth - again with two outs -Paul Chamberlain walked. Bob Vivian doubled o left, and Rick Dale slapped a hot grounder at shortstop who bobbled the ball nomentarily to allow speedster Dale to gain irst safely and to score the winning run.

Winning pitcher was Lee Snow, who gave p 10 hits, struck out six and walked one.

Coach Rainh Redmond saw Stevenson's big victory as evidence of "a really tough team." But Andover – that was a different matter. "We got off to a good start but the guys lost their mental attitude in a maze of over-confidence and we lost our edge.

Among the bright spots in an otherwise relatively dismal showing against Stevenson, Rick Bell phomore finished third in the two-mile and set a new school record 10:20.9. (Ironically, Novi's Mark Earl set an identical mark last week to share the lead with Bell in this category among area schools).

"Bell," said the coach, "is one of those fellows who is always in there doing his best. The same can't be said about some of the others we saw this past week."

Greg Marshall also was outstanding, according to Redmond, taking first in the 440 yard dash and setting a new best time for himself. 53 seconds flat.

that a decision would be reached at the parking ratio must be maintained June 3 meeting.

An advisory body, the nine-member planning commission makes its recommendations on rezoning to the city council which must then call another public hearing before rendering official action.

While the hearings remained orderly, they were not without bitter argument and caustic exchanges.

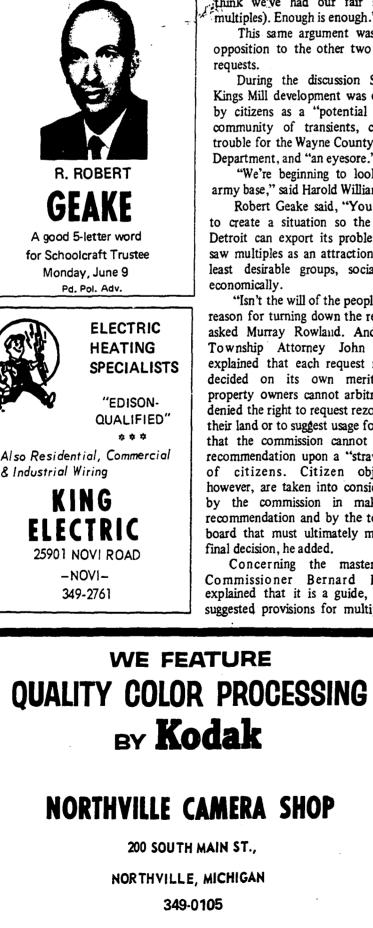

At one point when a suggestion to "forget the whole darn plan and leave it like it is" drew a round of applause Chairman Zerbel reminded the audience that the council had already indicated its approval of the master plan as it applies to the central business district. He also gave vent to planning commission frustration by noting that the CBD plan had been under study for six years "and we've been accused of moving too fast and dragging our feet".

(While the city council has officially given its blessing to the CBD plan in principle, it's known that there are varying degrees of acceptance of the plan as a whole. The CBP zoning, the circular drive and the "mal concept" on Main and Center streets do not have full support of the total

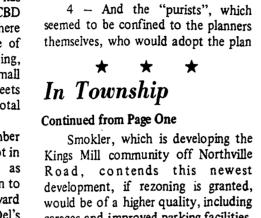

Planning Commission Member George Clark revealed that he is not in accord with the CBP zoning as proposed. He noted that his motion to extend the CBD zoning area eastward along Main street to include Del's Shoes and Northville Realty, as well as the Spinning Wheel building had been

Clark defended the necessity for a CBD plan, but he proposed modification of the plan by extending the CBD area eastward. He expressed doubt that commercial development would take place on south Center street because of the elevations and proposed double-deck parking in that area. He also noted that CBP zoning would create financing problems for

While Clark's minority motion had been to extend the CBD zoning to some seven additional properties, he indicated Tuesday night that he might favor dropping CBP zoning entirely within the CBD area. He pointed out that by permitting developers to build wherever they wished within the CBD

The company argues that the development would produce about the same number of residents as the property if multiples are not would single family homes, that it probably would generate fewer school-age children, and that the tax base per child would be greater than be utilized." would result if the area was developed in single family homes.

Furthermore, the company proposes to present a "gift" of money to the school system in lieu of taxes that are not collected sometimes until months after children are enrolled in school

Major objection of citizens, voiced first by James Nowke, was that the township has already exceeded the number of multiples suggested in the township's master plan. Further proliferation of multiples, he suggested, would defeat the plan's uniform ratio of single family homes to multiples. "I think we've had our fair share (of multiples). Enough is enough." This same argument was used in opposition to the other two rezoning requests.

During the discussion Smokler's Kings Mill development was described by citizens as a "potential slum," a community of transients, center of trouble for the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, and "an eyesore."

"We're beginning to look like an army base," said Harold Williams. Robert Geake said, "You want us to create a situation so the City of Detroit can export its problems." He saw multiples as an attraction for the least desirable groups, socially and economically.

"Isn't the will of the people a good reason for turning down the request?" asked Murray Rowland. And twice, Township Attorney John Ashton explained that each request must be decided on its own merits, that property owners cannot arbitrarily be denied the right to request rezoning for their land or to suggest usage for it, and that the commission cannot base its recommendation upon a "straw vote" of citizens. Citizen objections, however, are taken into consideration by the commission in making its recommendation and by the township board that must ultimately make the final decision, he added. Concerning the master plan Commissioner Bernard Baldwin when the nation's worst tornado disaster in 40 years occurred in 1965

Funnel Season Approaching Of all the winds that sweep this planet's surface, tornadoes are the most violent

Their time on earth is short, and their destructive paths are rather small but there are few communities within the circulation area of this newspaper that haven't felt the fury of these hideous creatures of nature.

No community in this area is safe and, warns cfficials of the United States Weather Bureau, the tornado "season" for the area is rapidly approaching.

Tornado frequency usually starts picking up in the Great Lakes region late in May, drifting in from the southern plains states as warm, moist air pentrates the area while cool, dry air is still surging in from the north and northwest.

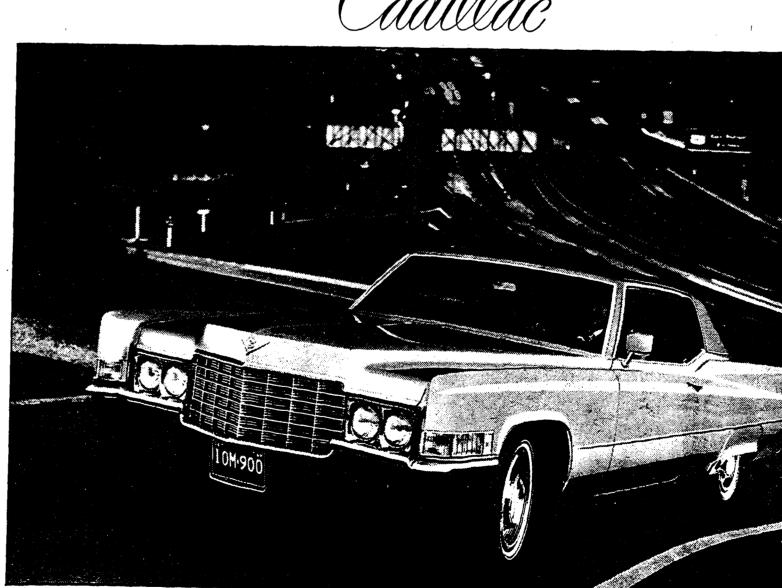

Although the bureau emphasizes the potential danger during this period, it notes that the mathematical chance that a specific location will be struck by a tornado in any one year is quite small. For example, the probability of a tornado striking a given point in the area most frequently subject to tornadoes is about once in 250 years. But statistics can lie, too, Ask

Flint area residents. Tornadoes are local storms, explain the experts, formed of winds rotating at very high speeds, usually in a counter-clockwise direction. These storms are visible as a vortex, a whirlpool structure of winds rotating about a hallow cavity in which centrifugal forces produce a partial vacuum.

Here's Tornado Tips

When a tornado WARNING alert is given, the weather bureau advises people to seek inside shelter, preferably in a tornado cellar, underground excavation. or a steel-framed or reinforced concrete building of substantial construction.

By all means stay away from windows. Here are some general safety rules to follow:

IN OFFICE BUILDINGS - Stand in an interior hallway on a lower floor, preferably in the basement.

IN FACTORIES – On receiving a tornado WARNING, post a lookout. Workers should move quickly to the section of the plant offering the greatest protection in accordance with advance plans. IN HOMES - The basement usually offers the greatest safety. Seek shelter under a sturdy workbench or heavy table if possible. In a home with no basement, take cover under heavy furniture in the center part of the house. Keep some windows open, but stay away from them! MOBILE HOMES - These are particularly vulnerable to overturning during strong winds. Trailer parks should have a community shelter. Appoint a community leader responsible for constant radio monitoring during threatening weather or during WATCH periods.

IN SCHOOLS – Whenever possible, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor.

Avoid auditoriums and gymnasiums or other structures with wide, free-span roofs. If a building is not of reinforced construction, go quickly to a nearby reinforced building, or to a ravine or open ditch and lie flat. IN OPEN COUNTRY – Move away from the tornado's path at a right angle. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine.

Panel Hears Park Bond Arguments A legislative panel, chaired by Representative Tom Anderson, Detroit, was convened Monday, April 28 to hear testimony from the general public as to how they believe the $100 million Recreation Bond should be apportioned. The following bills, which recommend various formulas for the division of the Bond monies, have been introduced in the legislature:

Thursday, May 8, 1969

SB 759 - Senators Rockwell-Bowsma proposed that 70 percent be apportioned to the Department of Natural Resources, 30 percent to local governments.

SB 922 and companion House Bill HB 3246 proposed by Senator Basil Brown of Highland Park and Representatives Suski and Bradley, Detroit, recommends that 80 percent be allocated for cities, 20 percent for the Department of Natural Resources (D.N.R.)

House Bill 3011, sponsored by Representative Bradley proposes 20 percent for State projects (D.N.R.) - 80 percent for local projects and to be administered by State administration board,

HB 3716, SB 876, proposed by Representative Hampton and Senator Coleman Young respectively, recommends the so called Governor's Bill, which proposes a 30 percent - 30 percent - division for local units of government - the second 30 percent for only those local units with populations exceeding 100,000; and 40 percent for State projects (D.N.R.)

Over 300 persons were present. Over 90 requested and received time to speak in behalf of the division of bond monies which tye favored.

Among those speaking in favor of the formula advocating 80 percent for cities and 20 percent for State were: John May, director of Detroit Parks and Recreation; Mayor Crowley of Taylor; Olga Madar, recreation director for the United Auto Workers; and Robert Tripp, member of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors.

A large number of other citizens from Detroit's inner city spoke impressively and strongly of the recreation needs of the inner city, and for the 80 percent - 20 percent split which favors the inner city. Richard Schehr, representing District 18 of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (M.U.C.C.) spoke for the 70 percent (State) - 30 percent (city) split. Schehr maintained that the bond issue had been sold to the electorate on that bais, therefore i should be divided as advertised before and during the election campaign

Senator Basil Brown challenged Schehr's contention that the Michigan State legislature was in any way, morally or legally, committed to any campaign propaganda used in advertising and promoting the sale of the Recreation Bond.

These two women are cleaning their ovens.

Thursday, Friday and most of Saturday I spent in Chicago pouring over hundreds of entries in the 1969 National Better Newspaper contest sponsored by the National Newspaper Association.

Pure vanity motivated my acceptance of an invitation from Ted Serrill, executive vice president of NNA, to serve as a judge in the annual contest. There are some 6,800 newspapers throughout the 50 states holding membership in the NNA and every publisher is an expert when it comes to judging another newspaper.

Then, too, I thought it would be a little break from the old routine... a vacation. I talked my wife and daughter into going along. I'd show them the big city and a good time.

I should have known Wednesday evening when we boarded that airline with a patriotic name that the "old routine" isn't so bad.

For starters we left my suits in the car.

Sorry, said a beautiful but unimaginative stewardess, there's no way to get the suits out of the car. It's take-off time.

But the baggage chief in Chicago (a fellow named Emmons with whom I later became well acquainted via telephone) had more imagination. He called back to Detroit, told his counterpart where our car was parked and how to break-in to a convertible without ripping the top.

"Your suits will be at your hotel by midnight", he assured me. And my confidence in the efficency of the airlines was restored.

"Emmons is top-drawer". I told my wife. He didn't panic like those stewardesses.

But next morning my suits were in Los Angeles. At least they should have been in LA because they weren't unloaded in Chicago.

According to Emmons, they couldn't find my suits in LA, but he knew they had been placed aboard the plane in Detroit.

"Somebody out there (LA) probably noticed they were supposed to have been unloaded in Chicago and just put them back on a returning flight", he assured me.

Emmons had slipped a drawer or two in my estimation.

By Thursday night my lone pair of slacks and sport coat were showing the signs of two-days' wear. Probably I could get over-night pressing service. But first I'd try Emmons again. (In between I talked a couple of times with a guy named Paduska who was also familiar with the flight of my suits. He assured me that another plane would not leave O'Hare airport with my suits aboard).

"Good news, Mr. Sliger", said Emmons. "We've found your suits. They'll be at your hotel before midnight'

"Top drawer, just like I said", I told my wife. And when we returned from dinner that night my well-travelled suits were at the hotel.

Meanwhile, the judging assignment had not turned into the "honorary" position that I had envisioned. Six of us were kept busy reading or examining a dozen categories with a couple hundred or more entries each. And my fellow judges, some of whom had worked on the project previously. let me know that it was dead serious business. Winners weren't picked casually. They had to be "top drawer", so to speak.

And after selecting three winners and three honorable mentions each judge had to write 150 words or more on why and how he reached his decision.

I managed dinner with my family every night. Not lunch or breakfast. And as for seeing Chicago, they did that alone during the dav.

The experience of judging other newspapers was most gratifying, however.

I have never been modest about the quality of our newspapers - The Record, News, Herald and Argus. But I must admit that there are some other newspapers throughout this nation, large dailies and small weeklies, doing one heck of a job.

My estimation of the newspaper media of our country was boosted immensely by what I saw in Chicago. (I'm sure my friends who frequently attack certain newspaper policies, and declare when I defend these policies that I'm prejudice, will find little joy in the fact that I've become even more so).

But, my friends, the press in this nation is doing a tremendous job.

Like the smalltown, deep-south editor who asked his city council to reconsider a decision not to pave streets in the colored section of the city on the basis that they could not afford the special assessments and that it would be inequitable to apply a policy in one part of the city and not another.

"They're suffered injustices and seen a few inequities themselves", he respectfully reminded the council. He suggested that the streets be paved without assessment, even though this might be an injustice to the white community.

And countless editors were fighting a battle not unfamiliar to us... that of closed meetings held by elective bodies.

And there were numerous in-depth feature stories revealing individual or broad problems of society.

And excellent news photographs, hard news stories of day-to-day happenings, humorous columns to ease the tensions, brilliant use of color, etc.

The National Newspaper Association "Better Newspaper Contest" challenged me, as I hope it will our staff.

We're not as good as I thought. We can do a better job.

But, first let us get a better picture of what we are judging before we judge which is right or wrong.

Here is a question that should be answered: Is it lady like to wear slacks? I think it is more ladylike to wear slacks than to let your nylon tops show

If girls are allowed to wear slacks they can either wear them everyday or when they want to. In other words I. think the decision should be left up to the individual!

On the other hand, if slacks are worn in school there should be a restriction on what kind can be worn at schools!

WELLESLEY HILLS Massachusetts - Those who have followed the market closely over the past year or so are no doubt aware of the increasing popularity of the less-than-Blue-Chip stocks. The higher quality stocks have - to a large degree - taken a back seat, much to the chagrin of many investors who are holding a preponderance of good-grade securities in their accounts.

Does this mean that the majority of high-grade issues have run their course and henceforth will be on the descendancy? Is this the time to shift out of them in favor of lower quality stocks? Our answer to both of these questions is "No." In our judgment, this is definitely not the time to forsake quality.

Naturally, we do not propose that an investor hold only the best quality stocks to the exclusion of all others. We believe a well-balanced protfolio should also contain some attractive stocks of average grade, as well as a few well-chosen speculations. Over the past year or so, we have suggested many secondary issues that must be classed well below the Blue-Chip category. Currently, among others, we favor the following:

Medusa Portland Cement, Addressograph-Multigraph, Bell & Howell, Continental Oil, Southern Natural Gas, Columbia Broadcasting System

We have also recommended many speculative-grade stocks, and still favor such issues as:

Eagle Clothes, Castle & Cooke, Coronet Industries, General Tire & Rubber, Avco Corp., Beech Aircraft.

Although all of the above stocks are attractive for purchase, in our opinion, we certainly do not suggest that investors "load up" on them, or sell high-quality stocks to buy them. Such premier issues as American Tel. & Tel., Eastman Kodak, du Pont, General Electric, etc., should represent the largest portion of most portfolios.

The following are examples of other good-quality stocks that we currently favor for purchase:

You could refuse but you would immediately be labeled as uncooperative. Besides next time you could be on the receiving end of the action if you out wait them that is.

I have solved the problem of being asked to start the bath water for our teenage late sleeper. Since I had to go right by the bathroom after calling him it always seemed kind of small to flatly refuse to do this little favor besides he would have to get up to turn the water off.

STURGIS MAYOR LOWER County Cuts

Assessments In Rare Move

Novi city and township are the only two municipalities in Oakland County to receive a rare negative factor by the county equalization department.

Still subject to change by the state Oakland County has established a .91 factor for the city, a .93 factor for the ownship. These factors mean the county has found local assessments too high and that they must be reduced nine-percent in the city and seven percent in the township.

According to City Manager Harold Ackley computation of these assessment reductions are now inderway.

Based upon these factors, the state equalized valuation of the city has been put at $48,433,880 or $4,790,165 less than was assessed locally. In the township, the local assessment was reduced by $126,203 to $1,676,697.

In Wixom where county officials found local assessments too low a factor of 1.18 was set, producing an SEV of $44.090.818. In other words, the local assessment was increased by $6,725,718 from $37.365.100.

County officials explained that the somewhat similar negative factor in both the city and township of Novi is a natural result of having the same official (township supervisor) assess local property. Ackley explained that the city, upon incorporation, had used the assessment figures set by the township.
