Michigan traffic deaths in May numbered 227 which was 12 or five per cent less than the all-time high of 239 recorded for that month last year, State Police provisional figures show.

It was only the third time since record keeping began in 1933 that May deaths have topped the 200 mark, the other time being in 1966 when 207 were counted.

The May toll was 37 more than the average of 190 for that month in the five years 1964-68.

'Oldest Home' Tour Holds Special Thrill for Webbers

Visiting famous old landmarks of the East is a thrill in anyone's book. But for the Robert Webber family of Northville, revisiting the "oldest wooden frame house in America" recently was especially exciting. That's because the famous Fairbanks House was built by one of Webber's ancestors 333 years ago. Located at 10 DeWitt in Northville, the Fairbanks House was built by Jonathan Fayerbanke in 1636. Webber's grandmother, Belle, (on his father's side) was a Fairbanks. "It's a long way back to the original builder," says Webber, "and I've never really tried to figure out the relationship." The name "Fayerbanke" was changed to "Fairbanks" over the years. The Webbers had visited the Fairbanks House years ago—but this was the first visit for their daughter, Peggy.

Preserved now as a historic homestead for public viewing, the house is considered to be the finest example of 17th century architecture and "the choicest bit of antiquity" in America. Jonathan Fayerbanke, with his wife and six children, came on "The Griffin" in 1633 to New England, and three years later was the 26th person admitted to this little community first called Contentment. His grant of land of 12 acres and four of swamp contained in part the Indian trail which passed through his property and finally joined the Pequot path at Connecticut. This trail, as most of them did, later became a part of the first national highway and extended from Portsmouth, New Hampshire to Williamsburg, Virginia.

With pride and great satisfaction the home was built in 1636. The fine handwork of its panelling and oak beams is today testimony to the fact. The picturesque lean-to, recognized widely as the finest of its type, was a buttress against the storms. Under its hung roof was the "half chamber" and the "milk and work room." A low little door was tucked under its frame. Because it was the custom for the oldest boy to inherit the property, the gambrel East Wing was added for son John and his bride in 1648. "The New House" they called it and in his pleasant atmosphere is the 340th piano made in this country, a rare old desk, a blanket crane, china and "homey" pieces. The primitive old kitchen is of sturdy framework, and the fireplace represents three centuries of progress. Upstairs over the kitchen is the old hand loom with a nearby rug which was woven on the loom. Across the tiny hallway is an old bedroom which many years ago heard the gay laughter of two pretty girls, Mary and Susan Fayerbanke. One cannot reach these rooms without climbing the half spiral stairway that finds its way beside the old chimney wall—pretty rose-ool English brink brought as ballast in the early ships.

At the top of the stairway is the loft where record says "the boys sometimes climbed to sleep." It is of all ship construction. Fairbanks House has given statement, craftsmen, industrialists, and inventors to society. One of the home's occupants over the years received his country's second highest honor. He was Charles Warren, Fairbanks' vice-president under Theodore Roosevelt, for whom Fairbanks, Alaska, was named.

The Webbers live at 44880 Thornapple Lane. He is the owner of the Northville Camera Shop. There is no limit on the number of times a resident may cast penny votes for their favorite Little Miss contestant. The winning Miss and her court will ride on the Jaycee-Jaycette float in the Fourth of July parade. Sharing the float with the Little Misses will be last year's Little Miss, Debra Chisholm, and Northville's Junior Miss, Leann Steeper. Besides riding on the float, the Little Miss will receive a $10 gift certificate from the Little People's Shoppe, a $5 gift certificate from Brader's Department Store and a crown of flowers. All the misses will receive recognition gifts.

Name Contestants For 'Little Miss'

Names of the entries in the Little Miss contest, to be held as part of the annual Fourth of July festivities, were announced this week by the Northville Jaycee Auxiliary.

According to contest co-chairmen Mrs. Robert Hilton and Mrs. Ross Totten, the contestants are: Suzi Norton, 5, of 164 East Cady; Kristie Lynn Walker, 4, of 40000 East Eight Mile; Carol Ann DeBoutte, 4, of 117 South Rogers; Sara Elaine Nowka, 5, of 15707 Brader Road; Colleen Brigid Corcoran, 3, of 791 Horton; and Diane Darrow, 4, of 1139 Jeffrey.

However, there are openings for four more Little Misses, age 3 to 5. To enter, the child's name, age, address, phone number and parent's names, plus a recent photograph must be sent to Mrs. Robert Hilton, 43785 Doris Court, by Saturday, June 21. The Little Miss will be crowned prior to the parade. Her selection will be determined by penny votes cast in canisters to be located in several local businesses. Canisters, each showing a picture of the contestant, will be in these stores on these dates:

Krogers, Friday and Saturday, June 20 and 21; Convenient Food Mart, Sunday, June 22; The Spinning Wheel Fabric Shop, Monday and Tuesday, June 23 and 24; Dely's Shoes, Wednesday and Thursday, June 25 and 26; D & C Store, Friday and Saturday, June 27 and 28; Guernes's Dairy, Sunday, June 29; The Little People's Shoppe, Monday and Tuesday, June 30 and July 1; Brader's Department Store, Wednesday, July 2.

Rotary Donation Boosts Cavern Fund

A recent donation from the Northville Rotary club has raised the total amount of Cavern Team Club contributions to approximately $4,900. The donation boosts the total number of contributors to 188 this far.

Although the Cavern fund raising committee has not quite met its goal financially, the campaign has been successful in many forms of private and public generosity, officials note. The Northville Jaycees, for example, recently announced plans to designate the proceeds from a forthcoming project to the Cavern.

campaign tabs—printing, advertising and postage. Others have helped with the Cavern remodeling. Although the cost of renovation is not complete, it is now known that the cost will be less than the original estimate of $1,500. Money left over from the club's remodeling expenses will be used to help pay for the advisor's salary. Although the Cavern did not raise the entire $6,000, Mrs. Harold Wright, a member of Mother's Club, feels the drive was successful for two reasons. First, the drive indicated a large number of donors who pledged their support and second, the club received a great deal of assistance with remodeling costs and campaign expenses.

Virginia Graham To Open Town Hall

Northville Town Hall, which will open its ninth season October 9 with the appearance of Virginia Graham, is one of the community's younger organizations, being founded in the decade of the 1960's. The idea of a town hall lecture series was initiated in April, 1961, under sponsorship of a group of women from Our Lady of Victory Church. Mrs. Robert Rahaley served as first chairman, assisted by Mrs. Frank Angle, vice-chairman; Mrs. Lewis Alexander, treasurer; Mrs. Roy Mattison, secretary. Others on the original committee were Mrs. Harold Bloom, Mrs. Donald Boor, Mrs. Frank Bosak, Mrs. J. W. Cheatham, Mrs. Claude Cruse, Mrs. Harry Deyo, Mrs. George Hanley, Mrs. Gerald Harrison, Miss Ruth Knapp, Mrs. George Kols, Mrs. George Merwin, Mrs. Carroll Mulligan, Mrs. Beatrice Flamondon, Mrs. John Swain, Jr., Mrs. Harry Wagenschutz, Mrs. R. C. Wetterstrom, Mrs. R. D. Willoughby. With such speakers as John Mason Brown and Bennett Cerf, the first series was a great success. Several of the following series were sold to the capacity of the P & A Theatre. Because it had become an area-wide success, the TH committee adopted a plan to share its profits with worthwhile community organizations, as well as the church. Chairman for the 1969-70 series is Mrs. Nelson Hyatt. Mrs. Cruse, one of the original committee members, still is on the board, serving as corresponding secretary.

Two Novi Students Attend Music Camp

Over 250 select high school instrumentalists and vocalists have begun an intensive two-week program at Central Michigan University's high school music camp. Among them are two Novi students: Gary Gillett, 25535 Clark, and Debbi Kuick, 41881 Quince.

The annual camp opened with registrations and auditions last Sunday and will run through Saturday, June 28. Students attending are ninth through twelfth graders who have been recommended by their school music teachers and by the University's camp staff. Each has shown outstanding ability in the instrumental or vocal area.

While at Central the campers will take individual lessons, hold group rehearsals, attend specially scheduled music performances and present four concerts.

Performance highlights of the camp, conducted by members of CMU's music department, will be the Sunday, June 22 concert by the Maroon and Gold Bands at 3 p.m., and the choral and orchestra concert at 7 p.m. Final concerts are scheduled for Saturday, June 28, at 1:30 and 4:00 p.m. All four performances will be held in Warner Auditorium and are open to the public without charge.

Camp students are featured in solo and ensemble recitals June 19, 26 and 27.

Directing the camp orchestra is Paul Willwerth of the CMU music faculty.

Rex Hewlett, chairman of the CMU department of music, is camp coordinator. Other members of the CMU music faculty and guest musicians are serving as staff members and specializing in all areas of instruction.

Featured among the musical performances the camp members will attend will be a piano recital June 17 by Forrest T. Robinson of the CMU faculty and a mixed faculty concert on June 20. On Wednesday, June 25, the campers will be guests at a concert given by a professional baritone, Willis Patterson.

David King, who a decade ago was seriously burned when a jet plane crashed near his backyard on South Rogers Street, has chosen a career for himself — the United States Air Force.

Son of the former Northville police chief and his wife, Mr. and David King Today.

Jet Crash Victim Picks Air Force Northville Disaster Recalled

Mrs. Eugene King, now of Almont, David was graduated with honors recently from Roosevelt Military Academy in Alton, Illinois.

He left Monday to begin an enlistment in the Air Force. He will train at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas, for an opening in the air police intelligence corps.

Cadet King was awarded the coveted Jack Meyers Memorial Award, given at Roosevelt in memory of Alumnus Jack Meyers of the Class of 1941. It is presented to the senior cadet who best represents the ideals of honor, efficiency and faithful service for cadets at the academy.

The former Northville youth also was presented awards for excellence in military, athletics, concert band and crack squad competition. He was promoted to the rank of cadet master sergeant by Colonel Glenn G. Millikan, superintendent of the academy.

Northville residents will recall that it was David and his younger sister, Elizabeth, who were burned and hospitalized when a jet, roaring out of the city, crashed in a small garden behind the homes at the northeast corner of Rogers and Cady streets. At the time nine-year-old David was hailed as a hero because he ran from the scene, he helped his sister whose foot was caught in a hole near the King residence. He might have escaped serious burns if he had fled immediately.

The pilot of the plane parachuted to safety. He was a frequent visitor of the two King youngsters, giving David a treasured model of a jet plane. So despite the backyard disaster and the painful burns that required years of medication, David grew up to love the Air Force.

David's father is now the village manager of Almont. He and his family live at 4730 Howland Road.

...About Our Servicemen...

In a brief ceremony conducted at his home on Thursday evening, Frank Darlington, 2320 Potter Road, Wixom, was awarded the Navy Meritorious Unit Commendation for "meritorious service in the conduct of the International Weddell Sea Oceanographic Expedition 1968 for United States Antarctic Research Program."

Darlington earned the citation

while serving on active duty with the U.S. Coast Guard aboard the Coast Guard Cutter GLACIER. The Cutter GLACIER was the first vessel in history to purposely sail into and explore the western half of the Weddell Sea.

Darlington served aboard the Long Beach, California based cutter as a freeman.

The citation reads in part: For meritorious service from 27 January to 15 March 1968 in the conduct of the International Weddell Sea Oceanographic Expedition 1968 for the United States Antarctic Research Program. As the first vessel in history to purposely sail into and explore the western half of the Weddell Sea, USCGC GLACIER achieved an outstanding record in surmounting the hazards of the Antarctic during her voyage through little-known waters.

USCGC GLACIER occupied twice the number of oceanographic stations that had been scheduled for accomplishment, making ninety percent of her observations in an area of the Weddell Sea where no other ship with an oceanographic capability had previously sailed. The value of the data collected was significantly enhanced by the fact that the oceanographic stations were precisely fixed by navigational satellites.

The professional competence, perseverance and devotion to duty displayed by all personnel embarked on USCGC GLACIER reflect great credit upon themselves and the United States Naval Service.

Rugged Companion of Salem Hills New Golf Course Opens in Lyon

Lyon Township finally has a golf course — and what a course! Godwin Glen, located on Johns Road near the Eleven Mile Road intersection, officially opened for play this past week. Nearly 7,000 yards of challenging 18-hole play are offered for duffers and accomplished golfers alike. Horace Godwin, owner, says the 257-acre project will take another three years to complete to his satisfaction — including replacing present holes number 14, 15, and 18 with new ones surrounding a large lake which will border all three fairways and even encroach upon 15. Many lakes and ponds, plenty of trees, competitive dog-legs and sandtraps are offered. Four par-five holes are listed — each over 500 yards in length — on this par 36-36-72 course. Number 12 is the longest, measuring 560 yards, but six (535 yards), two (520 and 15 (505) aren't much shorter. Godwin was also the developer of Salem's challenging course on Six Mile Road. Robert Szilagi will serve as manager of both Salem and the new Lyon Township course. While Salem Hills is considered one of the finest public courses in the state, both Godwin and Szilagi believe Godwin Glen will be even better and more competitive. It has more trees, streams, lakes and ponds and is considered a more difficult course. One building is presently located on the course. It serves temporarily as the pro shop and cart rental center (no clubs are available for rent as yet) until nearby clubhouse and maintenance buildings are completed. Like Salem Hills, Godwin Glen features wide, open fairways that offer a challenge for the long-ball hitter. Hole number two is significantly different, however. The fairway runs along a woods on the south end of the course for 520 yards with practically no rough between the fairway and the out-of-bounds. Number three, second shortest on the course at 175 yards, also is bounded on the south by woods and has sand traps near the green. Four drives off a high tee, over a stream and up onto a high green. It is 305 yards long. The fifth fairway throws a challenge all its own at the unwary golfer. Its 380 yard distance is complicated at about the distance of a good drive as it makes a narrow dog-leg left around a pond hazard. Number six is a challenging dog-leg left with a blind, downhill green which is placed just past the stream that crosses four and eight. Seven is one of the course's short par three holes (three-175 yards, 17-170 yards and 14-200 yards are the others), a 215-yard uphill blast. Eight appears to be long and beautiful — and it is — but that stream cannot be seen from the tee and the fairway makes a slight left dog-leg and passes a lake along its north (left) margin. Nine crosses a drainage ditch which is hidden by the hill from which the golfer tees off and has the lake along eight's north side, forming its western boundary for a distance. The second shot must travel steeply uphill and a hillside lie makes the green a blind shot.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLICER

For more than a dozen years I've been covering meetings in the Northville-Novi-Wixom area: the Northville city council on a regular basis; usually the township board; sometimes the school board; and infrequently, Novi and Wixom sessions.

Now Jack Hoffman, the guy who really keeps the news humming through the typesetting machines, tells me that my services as a reporter won't be needed on a regular basis anymore.

"Stick around," he cautioned. "We might need you to fill-in during vacations or when somebody's sick."

So far as the news department is concerned, I'm beginning to feel as wanted as a mother-in-law on a honeymoon.

But when I take a look at my desk, slowly disappearing under a mountain of paperwork details that eat away the time of every small businessman, I realize that for the present at least I won't miss the meeting assignments.

As I give up my role as a "starter" to become a substitute, however, I cannot help but recall many things — personalities, achievements, failures, dreams, etc., that make up the character of public bodies.

There was the night — one of my first in Northville — when Sid Frid, a professional and negotiating councils, finally aggravated the late Mayor Pete Ely into calling for Police Chief Joe Denton to eject Sid from the council chambers.

But the beloved-Joe had leg trouble and couldn't get down the stairs of the old city hall fast enough. By the time he arrived Pete and Sid had made up.

And there were the early township board meetings when Mrs. Mollie Lawrence was supervisor. She was sweet and brief. A reporter had to really dig to get a story out of a township meeting. Usually, an hour was considered a long session and nobody ever heard of seeking rezoning for multiples. Most of the township land was zoned for agriculture. A motion to adjourn was always in order.

There was the introduction of city manager form of government in Northville. John Robertson was the first manager and Northville was his first city to manage.

Frequently, there was some question as to who was managing what. I still remember Robertson's frustration at learning that it was common practice for city employees and city equipment to be used to grade a drive-way or perform other chores for certain preferred citizens on their private property.

Eventually, Robertson decided to throw away the textbook on managing and gain community respect for the office of city manager. He did and I still believe his actions with the aid of certain councilmembers are responsible for this form of government achieving success in Northville.

Meanwhile, you could always count on Novi for a good story. Charley Trickey and his gang had weekly scraps with Supervisor Frazer Staman. Charley's still active in GOP politics around Tecumseh, but having more fun hitting golf balls at Tecumseh CC. And Staman is serving on the Oakland County Board of Commission and selling insurance.

One of the Trickey cohorts was Hadley Bachert, who finally became Novi Supervisor, until the village recently incorporated into a city. And I still can't forget the fierceness of those feelings personified by Bachert's vote last year against Staman as a road commissioner — the only negative vote recorded in Oakland county and coming from the romaine's home community.

And during all this in-fighting in Novi a few fellows in Wixom were silently casting envious eyes on the Ford plant being constructed on their borders in Novi.

There were the Abrams brothers, Joe Stadnik and Ray Lahti, among others. They tied a ribbon around the industrial complex and pulled the tax plumb right out of Novi into the new city of Wixom.

It would be impossible for any observer (even a non-egotist) covering 1,200 meetings not to imagine that he had gained some insight into community problems — that he knew some solutions.

In my mind the key to the future success of our community rests in the hands of those individuals who have become involved in local affairs.

Once they become informed they cannot allow their interests to be so narrowly focused that they do not recognize what is best for the total community in the future.

The taxpayer cannot afford the continued construction of individual bailiwicks of influence, duplication of services, disregard for cooperation and communication.

Plainly stated, we must work together and not think alone in terms of what is it going to cost me if we do this? More important is the question, "what is it going to cost my community if we DON'T do this?"

And a reporter can bleed inside sitting at countless meetings hearing a township official give his version of a city request to his board — or vice versa — when the reporter knows full well that just an inflection in the voice, or a slight twist in the explanation, can change the intention entirely. And, incidentally, add fuel to a fire that won't be permitted to die.

I've heard denials to this charge. But if I've never reported but one fact accurately, it is that the future welfare of this community is being undermined by self-seekers wearing blinders who refuse to honestly and objectively weigh all alternatives.

An exceptional opportunity presents itself today for total community cooperation in the acquisition of the Maybury property. An outstanding fete could be achieved, answering problems that await us in the future before they occur.

I'm extremely pessimistic at the prospects. It's time I became a substitute reporter. Put in someone with a fresh outlook, Jack.

Readers Speak Says Blacks Act in Desperation

To the Editor:

In light of recent events among Presbyterian churches and facilities in Detroit, that is, the confrontation with the National Black Economic Development Conference, as a United Presbyterian minister serving in the Brighton area, I seek this method of communication for another view of the incident.

I am not "infuriated" concerning what happened; I am depressed, saddened, embarrassed, convicted — that men would be so frustrated and desperate, that we who have this world's goods, by our own selfishness, insecurity, and indifference have driven people to such depths (to the point of seizure of property and demand for reparations). These things, not confined to Detroit, or one church group are indicative of the fact: black people in this country, many of them poor and rejected, are crying out desperately for an honest chance at life.

As Christians, as Americans, we must dare to bridge the gap between rich and poor, black and white, city-suburb, to act as truly "reconciling agents." In the Bible we read, "All this is from God, who through Christ reconciled us to Himself and gave us the ministry of reconciliation." II Corinthians 5:18.

Deep down inside, everyone of us is guilty, implicated in this social problem, racism, black and white both. Our only approach to it is admission of sin, genuine repentance, spiritual renewal, and firm resolve to do something constructive. Personally, I am not in favor of submitting to demands; but neither am I in favor of returning to business as usual. Our denominational leaders acted wisely in resisting the pressure while keeping the door open to continuing serious planning with NBEDC leaders. Something worthwhile will come forth, I am certain, when we work together for human improvement.

Regarding preparations for past injustices; they are senseless if there is not first some sign of penitence among the white Christian community. If the money is paid without genuine repentance, then it becomes a phony justification leading to a worse relationship between the races. Angry black militants are difficult to deal with, but one thing is worse, an unrepentant, justified person of the other race.

The issues of race and poverty cannot be ignored. They demand the best we have of every segment of society, working together. The situation calls for daring proposals and radical new policies, including expenditure of church funds in a "stewardship of risk." We Christians must go in faith, where bankers fear to tread. The church has been traditionally too conservative when it comes to investing money in human lives.

"But if any one has this world's goods and sees his brother in need, yet closes his heart against him, how does God's love abide in him?" I John 4:17.

By ROLLY PETERSON

"Goodbye, Columbus" invites the comparison with "The Graduate." In both there are brilliantly funny lines, moments of rapture, sassy photography and a strong dose of the ludicrous.

Both are stories of young people growing up, learning, perhaps the hard way, defying parents and especially affluent society, reaching across socio-economic lines, exposing the sham of high society that values material things more than human beings.

But there the similarities end. And quite surprisingly, at least to this writer, "Goodbye, Columbus" emerges as the more honest of the two movies, more penetrating in its presentation of people and more sensitive in its portrayal of young love.

Another major difference which makes all the difference is the fact that "The Graduate" is a roseate romance, discomfitingly untrue to its promise of tragedy, while "Columbus" soars engagingly to its sad but true ending.

"Columbus" is a love story, the story of Neil and Brenda who meet at the Country Club pool. From the beginning, something is wrong, as strong as the attraction might be. Neil is from the other side of the street.

He works in the public library. Not because clerking at a library desk strikes him as the ultimate occupation. Neil is at the library because it's better than the Army or anything else which he can think of doing at the present time.

Brenda attends Radcliffe, but is home for the summer. Despite her family's new-found affluence, she retains a certain disarming candor. Though spoiled, she is not manipulated by money.

The differences between them, however, become dramatically apparent when Brenda brings Neil home to the Patinkin residence, a colonial mansion on sumptuous grounds.

The interrogation begins, more along the lines of what Neil is rather than who he is. The die has been cast.

And yet, out of this situation, humor and light hearted romance rarely seen on the screen arise. Like a modern-day Romeo and Juliet, Neil and Brenda laugh and love and play through the sunshine of summer.

Richard Benjamin as Neil, and Jack Klugman as Mr. Patinkin, the unspoiled but eminently successful owner of a thriving plumbing business, are sure fits for their roles, which they settle into as nicely as hand in glove.

But it is Ali MacGraw who upstages some mighty fine acting with her presence on camera. A newcomer to the screen, she is Brenda, a woodland sprite whose free spirit is harassed by the cold touch of reality.

upon it, the cop maintains his exterior callousness. And we call him hard-boiled. Inconsiderate. It's too bad most of us can't peel off his shell to see what the cop's really like.

Ride with him as he jockeys his patrol car through a knot of curious spectators. Watch as the angry cop, after watching through twisted metal and broken beer bottles, cradles a disheveled youth, still slobbering with too much alcohol who cries, "I can't see. I can't see." For a moment you see the anger drain from his face — just a fleeting glance at the man behind the badge before he forces himself to play the unemotional role we insist upon. Walk with the cop into the station to book the young tough — belligerent and spewing slime. He's a teenage big shot, afraid of nothing until he rolls his fingers over the ink pad. Then he's silent, a kid whose quivering lips and wet eyes tell his lie. Listen carefully as the cop orders him to look into the camera, and catch him using a displaced "please" and a "relax."

Stand beside the cop at the gravel pit as they drag for the jerk who couldn't swim but who went in anyway. Hear him fume, "Stupid kids ... he might just as well have tied a cement block around his neck." Then watch him help the dead youth's companion up the bank. "Careful, don't slip."

The line between anger and love is awfully thin. But unlike the rest of us he must guard his emotions, pretending to be unaffected. We require it of him. Maybe that's why we call him a "cop" and not why we call him a "policeman." Maybe that's why so many of us hate cops. Maybe we've never really seen the man behind the badge.

It's an awfully thin line.

Manager's Job Safe

To the Editor:

It would appear that there is a need to clarify the employment situation of Mr. Harold Ackley with the City of Novi. Contrary to the report printed in the Novi News on June 12, 1969, Mr. Ackley is not in danger of losing his job with the city of Novi. It is the intent and hope of the council that Mr. Ackley will remain with the city.

At the present time, however, the city finds itself in the position of having a one-man administration. Mr. Ackley is carrying out the duties of city manager as well as acting as manager of the highway, water, sewer and assessing departments, and in addition doing electrical and heating inspections. Under the present conditions, these duties would occupy the full time of at least three men.

In order to correct this situation, Council has decided to advertise for three positions: City manager, assessor and highway department superintendent. Mr. Ackley is free to ask to be considered for any of these positions. It is the intent of council to bring in new personnel and to have the benefit of Mr. Ackley's help during the coming years in acquainting these new people with the conditions and methods of operation and the required planning for the future needs of the city.

Oppose House Variance

To the Editor:

A meeting was held Monday, June 16, at the Township Hall to review a request by Donald Thomson to move a 739-square foot house now located at Choo Choo Car Wash to a residential lot on Frederick Street. This area is currently zoned R-1 which requires a 1650 square-foot minimum on all new homes. Home construction, on Frederick Street, in the past three years has met and exceeded these requirements which reflect a considerable investment as well as a deterrent to blighted residential area.

Although the question of sub-standard building on the lot has previously been before the board and currently all residents of the area in question object to this variance, it would appear that the township would still consider a variance a valid request. The property owners on Frederick Street request your support in defeating a proposal which can only lower the appeal of Northville Township as a place to live and build.

Signed,
The concerned residents

Big League Nightmare

Rock Hill club, apparently had been impressed by Trudeau and he offered him a lucrative contract to join up with his Global Baseball League — an organization to be launched by Dibeck and including teams from around the world traveling together and playing in the various countries.

Rick signed a contract which promised $250 a week and was assigned to the New York entry, one of two from the U.S. He reported to training at Daytona Beach in February leaving his wife, Mary, and son, Ty, home with her parents in Walled Lake.

Accommodations in Florida were first class with Johnny Mize in camp as manager along with coaches Enos Slaughter and Ed Rakow and player-coach Stu Miller — a group of prominent ex-Major Leaguers in whose company any aspiring athlete would like to be comfortable.

But just before the league departed for the Dominican Republic, the likeable Miller announced he was leaving and he advised the other to do likewise because of reports that Dibeck was getting in financial trouble.

Living in the plush accommodations of a Holiday Inn and excited by the thought of world travel, few of the players — the majority of which were between 19 and 24-years-old — followed Miller's advice, feeling that they were on the threshold of their big opportunity.

"Everyone liked Stu real well but things looked pretty good right then so we stuck it out," Trudeau recalled.

The events which followed during the next month, however, proved to be nightmares with teams stranded in one country after another, not playing baseball regularly and, almost worse yet, not eating regularly with overdue salaries always promised for the next day.

The league's activity was hampered in the Dominican Republic because of the anniversary of the revolt four years ago which included participation by U.S. Marines.

"We played three games on three days in a row but the crowds in Santo Domingo were real bad," Trudeau explains. "I guess the people were staying away because of the role our forces had played in the revolution."

And so a baseball league, unable to play baseball, was forced to spend its days and nights mostly doing nothing and — with pay being held up — nothing to do with.

After 22 days and with the inkkeeper breathing down their necks, Dibeck finally came through with a check to cover the hotel bill allowing the league to leave for Venezuela where they learned that the check in Santo Domingo had bounced.

Accommodations in Caracas, Venezuela were unbelievably bad — although things were generally getting so bad that nothing was unbelievable. Players went for days without eating and then were faced with stale rolls and cheese or improperly-cooked rice and chicken served from the kindness of a native's heart. Down to his last razor blade, Rick shaved just a portion of his face while he and his roommate would exchange haircuts using finger-nail clippers.

"It was really unbelievable and yet when we'd go to an American Embassy, they wouldn't help us."

Program at Novi Lacks For Cash

An attempt by City Council to instantly create an official recreation swim club meet slated Tuesday

Department for Novi in order to qualify immediately for federal funds failed in the early-morning hours of a four-hour session Monday when it was determined such action would have to be taken in the form of an ordinance rather than by resolution.

A resolution could take effect immediately and is often proposed spontaneously while an ordinance, unless needed under emergency conditions, usually is assigned to the city attorney at one meeting and presented at the next two weeks later.

The issue evolved as the dock neared midnight Monday when Mrs. Dorothy Farah of the Novi Youth Development Association asked the council for authorization to act on the city's behalf and gain federal funds through the Office of Economic Opportunity for the local recreation program.

She said that with school out, the association is anxious to retain personnel and launch its program but it doesn't have the necessary assurances in financing. She asked if the city could authorize her to seek funds from the OEO in order to begin the program.

It was proposed that Mrs. Farah be appointed recreation director at no salary in order to qualify her to seek the federal assistance. But Councilman Edwin Presnell observed that such action would be contrary to the charter without the prior establishment of a recreation department.

The council then proposed a resolution to create the department followed by action appointing Mrs. Farah director.

City Manager Harold Ackley interjected that he felt such action would require an ordinance. Presnell later agreed with him and the council, with the session moving towards 12:30 a.m. Tuesday, anxiously sought another alternative.

Redford got off to a fast start on Wednesday last week scoring five times in the second frame and then holding the Merchants to two runs. University of Michigan pitcher Tom Flazer went the route on the mound for the winners giving up four hits. Phil Putalski pitched for the Merchants and allowed six safeties.

Redford combined a three-base error and five hits for its rally in the fifth. Primeau's two-run single accounted for all of the Merchants scores.

The local team edged Rambler, 8-5, on Tuesday last week with a streak of wildness Sunday by a delegation of Plymouth hurlers which, after loading the bases, proceeded to walk in four runs. John Jameson then singled a run across to boost the local team's margin to 7-2 - more than K of C could overcome in the remaining two innings.

Plymouth had tallied twice in the opening inning to take an early lead with the Merchants tying the score in the second on the strength of Ed Kliss' two-run single.

Tim Nuffner, just home from a stint in the Army, was the winning pitcher. The victory Sunday followed two losses earlier in the week as league-leading Hubert handed the Merchants their sixth loss Thursday, 5-1, after Redford had beaten them 5-2 on Wednesday. The home team on Tuesday last week had claimed its second victory, 8-5, beating Rambler.

Hubert's Mark Coryell hurled a one-hitter at the Merchants on Thursday and scored three unearned runs after two were out in the third when an outfielder dropped a fly ball with the bases loaded. Ex-Plymouth athlete Mike Kidseth went the distance on the mound for the local team giving up eight hits and two earned runs.

Dennis Primeau's fifth-inning single was the only safety off Coryell.

Prize money and a trophy were also given to the winners. The second game was scoreless as the fourth inning when Reef tallied the lone run as Taylor scored on Rich Adams' single. Holworth, who had relieved Gillespie in the third, blanked Nankin the remainder of the contest allowing the sweep.

Nankin, on the strength of single runs scored in the fourth and fifth frames, led the home team 2-0 entering the sixth when Reef combined three singles and a walk for three runs.

Jeff Taylor, who went the route on the mound for manufacturers, then blanked the visitors in the top of the seventh for the victory. Taylor allowed five hits for the contest while striking out nine and walking none.

Reef Sweeps Pair To Open '69 Season

Reef Manufacturing, the local entry in the Free Press League, got its 1969 summer baseball season off to an impressive start when Reef defeated the doubleheader Sunday from Wayne Nankin Interns with two one-run victories at the high school field.

Coach Dick Willing's squad scored all its runs in the sixth inning to win the opener, 3-2, and then claimed the nightcap, 1-0, on the strength of a combined three-hit pitching performance by Jeff Gillespie and Fred Holworth.

The contest was the first action of the summer season for both teams. Willing planned to use Gillespie yesterday against defending champion Redford.

Nankin, on the strength of single runs scored in the fourth and fifth frames, led the home team 2-0 entering the sixth when Reef combined three singles and a walk for three runs.

Jeff Taylor, who went the route on the mound for manufacturers, then blanked the visitors in the top of the seventh for the victory. Taylor allowed five hits for the contest while striking out nine and walking none.

SPECULATION

He loves her... he loves her not...
He loves her... or does he? If only daisy petals could give the answer!

Then there's that more interesting question: Does the really love him... or does she not?

And that ultimate question—still a long way off—but getting closer every day: Can their be a happy, lasting marriage?

Is romance a colossal gamble—or are these basic elements which are predictable?

Millions of Christian parents are staring their children's future on the latter view. They believe that religious education in the Church and religious atmosphere in the home can foster moral and spiritual maturity. They believe that character as well as love is essential to marriage... a home... a family.

And they want their sons and daughters to meet others who are being brought up the same way!

from the Pastor's Study

Glenn Mellott, Minister
Church of Christ, South Lyon

This is the time of the year when thousands of young Americans will be graduating from college and high school. Having their schooling in back of them and a life to be made full in front of them. In all the beauty and strength of their youth where will they go from here? The young have been advised by the writer of Ecclesiastes to, "Remember now thy creator in the days of thy youth," Eccl. 12:1.

Our government along with all the leaders of the world stands as it were in the valley of decision, with each action taking affecting the lives of billions now living and millions yet unborn. They should take a lesson from ancient Israel, when they walked in God's way they had peace and plenty, but when they forgot God, war, death, famine and captivity was heaped upon them. David tells all nations that, "Blessed is the ruler whose God is the Lord." Ps. 33:12 and that, "righteousness exalthe a nation," Ur. 14:34. In these hours of unrest and great anxiety, where will our rulers go from here? May it be God's way.

Man kind as a whole stands on the threshold of disaster, in back of him, from the dawn of time till this present moment, is nothing but death, destruction and bloodshed, before him stretches forth the dark and unknown future. Will we make the same mistakes in the future as we have in the past? Would a wise man walk down an unknown mountain path in utter darkness without a light? No! Must the world grope frantically about in the darkness of confusion and ignorance? No!

David said in the long ago, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Ps. 119:105 also "The entrance of thy words giveth light; it giveth understanding unto the simple." Ps. 119:130

Yes the word of God that gave light unto David was made flesh, and the word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the father), full of grace and truth." John 1:14 also tells us that, "In him was life, and the life was the light of men." John 1:9

Christ is the light of the world, the light that will guide us through the dark unknown future down life's uneven pathway.

Where do we go from here? Back to Christ. Sometimes a step backward is a step forward. Man must turn and take his steps back to his first love, back to Christ. There he will receive the peace and forgiveness of sins that he promised all that would come to him. Matt. 11:28-29

The plea of the Church of Christ, is today, and has always been back to the Bible for us all. We give things Bible names and we speak where the Bible speaks and we are silent where the Bible is silent; Christ will give you the light of understanding when you try reasoning with God through his word. Eph. 5:14-17.

Michigan Mirror Seek Non-partisan Role for Justices

LANSING — Chief Justice Thomas E. Brennan has called on the Michigan Legislature to enact a pending bill to provide for the nonpartisan nomination of state Supreme Court justices.

Brennan, in a special message to the lawmakers, said the present system of party convention nominations is a "relic of a bygone day."

In the new state Judicial Tenure Commission, the agency for disciplining judges, Brennan said Michigan jurists "have the best, most modern appliances to clean our own house."

State College and university presidents have closed ranks against "intentionally disruptive and negative" campus disorders, noting they will "not tolerate intentional acts of physical coercion or violence."

At the same time, they reaffirmed their dedication to peaceful dissent and said they plan to avoid outside intervention in campus disorders unless absolutely necessary.

"Incumbent justices will be unburdened of the prospect of a re-election contest which stems not from a judgment about his qualifications, but from the necessity of filing the ticket.

"And the people will be unburdened of the tired labeling of their Supreme Court justices as Republicans and Democrats by the public press — as though the circumstances of their original nomination had some indelible influence upon their decisional processes."

BRENNAN also called on the Legislature to enact bills swiftly to consolidate the Detroit Recorder's and Wayne County Circuit Courts, and create a Detroit District Court with criminal and civil divisions.

Establishment of a district court system would bring the court process closer to Detroit's black population and solve some of the legal problems in the ghetto, the chief justice added.

"For too long the black people of our cities have been smeared by the wide brush of public reaction of the crimes of some black men, without having in hand the tools with which to discipline their errant brothers," Brennan said.

"It is time we gave them the tools — it is time we give the people of Detroit, neighborhood by neighborhood, and precinct by precinct, the judges and the courthouses to do the job which must be done if our children and our children's children are to enjoy the fruits of urban civilization."

Brennan took an indirect swipe at legislation to strip the State Bar of Michigan of its self-polishing power over lawyers and vest the authority to license attorneys with a state agency.

"NO OTHER profession is regulated as completely or judged as sternly as the practice of law," Brennan declared. "The number of lawyers annually disciplined, suspended, and disbared far exceeds the number in other professions."

Herald's Herald

By MARILYN HERALD

"Hey! Look at me I'm the mother of a graduate!"

For better than 18 years I've looked forward to the day when the authorities would plant that mortarboard on that pointed head. (I didn't cry when he started kindergarten either.)

On this momentous occasion, I was determined to have a picture of him being handed that lovely roll of blank paper tied beautifully with blue ribbon. Being a less than talented photographer, I, of course, goofed the picture. I probably have the only picture in full living color of Board President Wilford Heidt, alone, and after handing out the last of those 139 diplomas. I also have a charming picture of my son's back as he beat a hasty retreat to his seat.

Sunday and Open House proved to be almost as disastrous. I woke in the wee small hours to the tune of the drip, drip, drip of rain on the roof, and the melody of undone chores playing through my aching head.

I never even got to wear my "graduation dress." I was tearing up the kitchen with party preparations, dressing in my three-year old church dress and smock, when the first of our guests arrived — a half hour ahead of schedule.

Now all you hostesses know that last half hour is the most important of the entire schedule. Nonchalantly, I slapped on my lipstick, a little to the left of center, ran my fingers through my hair, and greeted my guests as though I had been sitting in a corner all day just waiting for their arrival.

The day progressed with the usual problems; what happened to the bowl of strawberry salad; who hid the blue tablecloth and whose little kid (mine probably) spilled punch all over the back porch (luckily it wasn't the rug).

To top it all off, all the gifts were for my son — not one for dear old mom or dad. Don't you feel the gift distribution is a little unfair? When babies are born, the presents are all in small sizes. What about mom and all the big and little problems she is about to face? Is her present supposed to be that red-faced, screaming bit of humanity?

As they grow, the kids are always the ones who get birthday gifts, even the brothers and sisters get "un-birthday gifts." Where is mom? Out in the kitchen fixing the food of course.

Then comes graduation — where are the parents? In the audience, beaming, or maybe if they are unlucky, in the bleachers — squirming.

Seems like it's about time someone put out a diploma for mother — and dad. A suitable inscription might be, "For excellence in raising this child to the super-smart age of 18 without loss of sanity and achieving through diligence and whippacracking the award of a signed diploma for him or her, all accomplished without the complete loss of a sense of humor."

It's one down and two to go at our house. The place has never been so clean and well maintained as it is right now and I wish I could seal it in plastic and keep it that way until next year when number two child will surely wear that cap and gown. We'll never be ready in time.

Before we can continue with any of our normal activities, we will have to find all the junk we hid just before the company arrived Sunday.

Let's see, I'd file the bills in the cookie jar and where did I put the cat dish? Worst of all; where did I hide the cat?

Roger Babson Another Baby Boom Seen in 1970's

WELLESLEY HILLS, MASS. During the decade of the seventies we anticipate a growing quasi-pace-time economy with moderate but acceptable inflation. The Nixon Administration is already committed to slowing the inflation even if it requires a "mini recession." The American public is now demanding peace. The Administration must create at least a quasi peace, but it is doubtful whether we will be completely out of the Far East even by 1980. With these basic premises, the Babson's Reports Research Staff envisions a growing economy during the seventies.

ANOTHER POPULATION explosion is in store for the coming decade. The World War II baby boom peaked during the 1950's, and these postwar children are beginning to reach the family-forming stage. While better family planning — including various birth control measures — has resulted in a lesser number of children per family, current figures show a turn upward in the average number of offspring. Personal income will continue to rise, but not as fast as it has during the latter part of the sixties. We anticipate that average income will reach $10,000 by 1980. We also foresee a four-day work week and longer vacations.

With the increase in family formation already starting, the building industry will have to keep pace. During the next decade the demand for housing of all types will necessarily result in a building boom. New types of construction (primarily modular) and materials (plastic) will be important growth factors. Home accessories will also share in this building boom.

Since the average age of our population is getting lower, and youth is becoming a more dominant part of our economy, those industries which serve this segment of our population should do well during the upcoming decade. Life insurance, apparel, and education are three important groups that serve those up to drop the feature picture

BIRDS, ANIMALS, humans or just about anything makes a suitable subject for this newspaper's weekly feature page picture. Take for instance this easy-to-get backyard picture of martins and their spring home turned in by an anonymous photographer who urged us not to drop the feature picture idea because of initial poor response. "There are all kinds of good easy pictures to get," he said. We agree — and we're still offering $5 for any picture black and white accepted for publication in this newspaper. Send yours to the newspaper today.

Here's Quiz ONLY AT KROGER On Driving For July 4

Suppose during your 4th of July trip an oncoming car veers into your lane and hurls toward you. Which two of the following four actions do you take?

1. Blow the horn. 2. Apply the brakes. 3. Steer as far right as you can. 4. Switch to the lane the other car should be in.

In all but the rarest circumstances, moves 1 and 3 are best. The horn may wake the other driver up and a right steer is more likely to provide escape than braking or turning into the oncoming traffic lane.

TRUE. If your choice in an emergency is between hitting a moving vehicle or a minor obstruction in the road such as a rock or animal, choose the latter. If the object is small enough, straddle it rather than swerving to avoid it.

A light rain is often more dangerous to drivers than a heavy rain. TRUE. A light shower makes highways slicker than a heavy rain because road oil and grease "float" on the surface of the moisture. A downpour washes them away.

On turnpikes, rear-end collisions are the most frequent type of accident. FALSE. Most turnpike accidents involve only one car. The statement is true for two-car accidents, however.

When an oncoming car falls to dim its lights, you should slow down and watch the right side of the road. TRUE. If you look directly into the high beams of an oncoming car at night, your eyes won't recover completely from the glare for one full minute.

Most traffic accidents occur at night. FALSE. About three out of four accidents happen in daylight, on dry roads, in clear weather. Most fatalities occur at night, however.

Happiness Is... A Day at Camp

ONE LITTLE INDIAN comes to his feet for a standing ovation during a session of last week's day camp held by the Southwest Association of Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council at Prou Lake Recreational Area near Wixom.

Scouts from Area Enjoy 'Wilderness'

Playing together, working together and learning together is what it's all about at a day camp with 340 youngsters — many from Novi and Wixom — obviously enjoying the experience as the Southwest Association of Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council last week hosted a five-day program at Prou Lake Recreational Area near Wixom.

Court Drops Bar Charge

Gambling on premises charges against the Wixom Continental Bar & Grill, located at the corner of Grand River and 12 Mile Roads, were ordered dismissed last week by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

Pioneer in Stinson Missing 42 Years

For years she maintained a desperate hope that her husband would be found alive in the jungles of South America "but it never was to be," said Mrs. Gertrude Redfern Monday in recalling the mysterious disappearance of her husband 42 years ago.

Opening Delayed by Officials Park Remains Locked—Campers Lose

The re-organization of Novi Township and its pending division of assets with the City of Novi is keeping the gates locked at the popular Novi Township Park on Walled Lake during the early summer season.

City Attorney Howard Bond, however, informed Novi councilmen June 16 that assets were to have been divided within 30 days of May 14 — the date the re-organization took effect.

Wixom Households Target Of Daytime Thefts

A pair of bids on the proposed construction of a sewer connection for city hall were tabled by the Wixom City Council on Tuesday with Mayor Wesley McAtee requesting that additional estimates be sought.

They reportedly have been backing a panel truck up to the garage door of a home and then forcing entry," Faulkner reported. "If they find someone home when they knock, they say for a fictitious person and then indicate that they have stopped at the wrong house."

Funds Undecided Doubts Linger Over Program

An organized summer recreation program serving the City of Novi and Novi Township apparently will remain dormant without funds until early July and then could only be operated after checks, according to present indications.

"I've heard nothing since then," Mrs. Farah explained Tuesday. "I went over there to see just how much money we had and I still don't know."

Improvements on Seeley Scheduled This Summer

For motorists who often travel City of Novi's Seeley Road and for City Manager Harold Ackley who must attempt to direct its maintenance, relief appears on its way.

"We're too late now for the amount we sought from OEO," she stated. "Their programs are already approved. We could possibly get a project allowance of a small amount."
