

Newsmen Picnic Inside 'Prison Without Walls'

What is that young car thief that Judge X sent to Maxey School for Boys four years ago doing now?

He may be working on your car at your favorite garage. Perhaps he's a teller in your local bank. Maybe he has gone back to school, completed enough work to earn a diploma and is even planning to go to college. Or he may be just returning from a patrol in the Dak To area of South Vietnam.

Impossible, you say? Not so, as members of the news media learned recently at a picnic at Maxey.

Invited there to help determine how to improve community-school relations, editors and reporters from several area newspapers and representatives from two local radio stations had an opportunity to observe firsthand just what goes on in the "prison without fences" (except for the increased-security Green Oak portion) and talk personally to some of the boys.

The get-together on school grounds at the reception center near Nine Mile Road (M-36) just west of US-23, was informal but highly informative.

Informal picnic groups were set up at five tables, with an official of the school, a representative of one of the school's area centers, two boys from that center, a lady volunteer and at least one member of the media at each table.

Following the meal, the five groups converged first into two and then one mass discussion session. Tours of the facilities were offered to newcomers and others who were interested.

At the table with the newsmen representing The South Lyon Herald and The Brighton Argus were the director of the reception center (where all new boys committed to the school undergo an extensive three-week testing and evaluation program), the director of F Wing, two boys from the wing and a volunteer who makes regular weekly visits to the section to bring a touch of the outside to the boys inside.

James Stennis, head of the reception center, explained the long list of tests and evaluations made on each boy before he is assigned to the section of the facility which is best suited to his individual needs. F Wing director (a part of the reception center), Richard White told his newest program at Maxey uses extensive care for youngsters who need to overcome severe problems in the areas of immaturity, retardation or emotional disturbances. This wing was created when the Michigan Legislature decided in 1966 that the school must take all boys ordered there by probate courts (previously, F Wing type boys were committed to child development centers).

The volunteer explained that she comes over for an hour every Monday night and pops corn and plays games with the boys. She also takes part in some group projects, like the picnic.

The newsmen found the most rewarding part of the discussion to be talking to the two boys, themselves. He learned that Robert, from Detroit's inner-city, has been rapidly learning how to get along with people and has gradually "left his shell" and feels, as does Director White, that he is well on the way to returning to society and contributing to it. Kurt, the other boy, will be returning to the Lansing area after having successfully completed his emotional and anti-social problems.

Kurt is employed - as are a few other boys - out in the community on a part-time basis. Unfortunately, not many boys have this opportunity, as very few businessmen offer jobs to them.

Following lunch, the five groups became two and discussion became more general and centered on subjects such as community relations and "the fence". A dual responsibility between the school and the media for improved public relations was stressed - primarily the receipt by the media of more information and an accenting of the positive in public releases.

The fence is a sorepoint in both the training school and in the surrounding communities. School officials contend that fencing in the entire facility would cause more problems than it would solve and that the $222,000 it would cost could be put to better use by hiring additional staff.

Proponents of the fence feel that they would be "safer" if a fence were erected. It might lead to the arrests of more youths in their communities who commit car and other thefts knowing that boys at the school will be blamed.

What the school needs most now is additional volunteer help, better public understanding of what and how much they do for the majority of the boys sent to them and more jobs for the boys to aid in their adjustment and rehabilitation to society.

Even though the media enjoyed a picnic at the school, the operation of the various programs and public acceptance thereof appear to be "no picnic" and improved communications between the school and residents of this area appear necessary to help the school carry out its vital functions.

DeHoCo Shatters Primitive Image of 'The Prison'

EDITOR'S NOTE - Following is the first in a series of three articles, written by Reporter Sally Burke, about the women's division of the Detroit House of Correction.

What thoughts come to mind? Animal-like cages stacked three-high around an open court; armed guards; ankle chains and prison walls?

Contrast this with eight English cottages centered on 16 acres of country land, freedom of movement, private rooms that can be decorated as the occupant wishes and no iron bars, just a 10-foot high cyclone fence, much the same as encloses any athletic field.

This is the Detroit House of Correction, Women's Division.

DeHoCo, as it is commonly known, is situated the north side of Five Mile Road between Beck and Napier roads in Northville Township.

Across the road in Plymouth Township is the men's division.

DeHoCo is the only women's prison in Michigan. It is owned and operated by the City of Detroit and houses offenders from 16 up. It compares with Jackson and Marquette for men.

Women sent to DeHoCo are short-time misdemeanors from Wayne

County and felons from throughout Michigan. The state contributes towards the care of those they send. It costs $12.06 to house one inmate at DeHoCo for one day.

The inmates are serving sentences from five days to life, for crimes ranging from traffic violations to narcotics, prostitution and murder. Most inmates are serving sentences for larceny, shoplifting, embezzling or writing bad checks.

Presently, their ages range from 16 to 53, but women up to 80 have been in DeHoCo. The majority of the inmates are between 20 and 30 years.

Mrs. Elenore Kent is director of the women's division. She has worked at DeHoCo for 25 years, holding every job the institution offers except occupational therapist. For 15 years she served as assistant director and has been in her current post for six years.

A middle-aged woman with a few silvery-gray strands interrupting her black hair, Mrs. Kent describes her job as "coordinating all the departments and keeping peace and tranquility in the women's division."

It is her responsibility to see that the institution runs smoothly, without any stops. She is in charge of the 63 custodial workers, vocational instructors, employees involved in treatment and volunteer teachers who conduct the educational program operating at DeHoCo.

In the early days of the Civil War, in August, 1861, the original Detroit House of Correction was opened as a maximum security workhouse. It was built in the central part of Detroit with 712 cells.

In 1928 the present facilities were built. The women's division encompasses a 25-acre area, including farm land. The institution contains an administration building, commissary and a 50-bed hospital, matching the cottages in design; a laundry, cannery and sewing room where inmates work; occupational therapy room and an auditorium.

The cottages where the inmates live have approximately 300 single rooms, cutting down on the amount of homosexuality present in DeHoCo.

Each cottage has 34 single rooms with its own kitchen, dining room, living room and bathing facilities.

The individual rooms are about six feet by eight feet. Each woman has her own bed, sink, toilet, dresser, table and locked trunk. Linens are issued, but the

For Road Project Council to Ponder Assessment Method

Action on the proposed resurfacing of a one-mile stretch of Meadowbrook Road at a cost estimated to exceed $200,000 was delayed Monday by the City of Novi Council awaiting further study of a general public-individual property owner assessment formula for financing the project.

City Manager Harold Ackley submitted a contract for the improvements as engineered by consultants Johnson & Anderson for the section of the road between Nine Mile Road and Ten Mile. The council earlier this year, acting through Ackley, had instructed the engineering firm to complete the engineering preliminaries and present a cost estimate.

Charles Fenske, of Johnson & Anderson, explained to councilmen on Monday that present estimates would total the project at $205,250. Ackley explained that the total project could be financed through special assessment but the city manager emphasized that he felt the road was commonly used by the general public and that its cost of improvement should be shared by the entire community.

Fenske observed that the cost compared favorably with that for a similar project in the area. He explained that the road, because of its traffic load, requires larger lanes - 12 foot - and larger shoulders.

The council also emphasized that after final engineering preliminaries were completed, modifications could be made at the pleasure of the council in order to reduce project cost.

"We know we're going to have some problems there but we feel the project can be completed at that estimate," Fenske said.

Councilman David Harrison, after observing that the improvements are being estimated at a cost of $20 per lineal foot, observed: "I doubt that the property values would be improved by that amount."

Councilman Donald Young, Jr. proposed that a formula be established in which residents of subdivisions indirectly serviced by the section of improved road be assessed on a determined unit of benefit. City Attorney Howard Bond informed Young that he didn't feel it would be possible to assess on a property owner without frontage on the improved roadway.

Ackley urged the council to accept the plans in order to provide a guide for adjoining developers so that they can meet grade levels in extending driveways and roads.

"If you're going to establish any priorities, Taft Road is one that should be considered because it's one road that benefits everyone in the community," Councilman Edwin Presnell interjected concerning order of street improvements in the city.

Novi Senior-Junior High School is located on Taft Road and it is also commencing work in traveling from Grand River north and south. Presnell later referred the issue to a study session in order to resolve the formula for assessment.

New Man Named For Wixom Post

Wixom City Council unanimously approved the appointment of a new police chief at Tuesday's regular session. Thomas McGuire of Laurel, Maryland, will assume the post August 25. He has five years' experience, three years with the New York State Park Police and two years with the National Security Agency based in Washington, D.C.

McGuire, 30, and his wife Mary Ann have a two-year-old daughter.

The new chief replaces D'Arcy Young, who resigned several months ago.

The council also received bids on road work for Bell Coney, Megawater, Rosewood, Orlando and Lakeside Companies submitting bids included Cadillac Asphalt Company, $189,103.96; Ben P. Fyke and Sons, $200,789.30; Detroit Concrete Products Corporation, $212,909.25; and Eastern Paving Company, $239,510.72.

Mayor Wesley McAtee said that before the council would formally select a paving company, he will examine the budget and road construction fund to see where the total cost project can be fitted.

The council reviewed the Palmer Lake Estates water problem and unanimously voted to withhold further building permits until the developer succeeds in getting water to the existing homes.

Several homeowners in the subdivision verbally petitioned the council Tuesday to help them move into their homes.

One homeowner said that since purchasing a home almost a year ago, he has not been able to live in it because of the lack of water.

Presently the residents are living in motels.

McAtee said the council "will do everything we can to help and have been following the problem closely."

Neil Taylor, director of civil defense, asked the council to approve the appointment of four deputy directors. Unanimous approval was given to Charles McCall, finance; Lawrence Beamish, law enforcement; Robert Potter, fire control and Robert Trombley, engineering.

Two positions on the Civil Defense Commission have yet to be filled.

Councilwoman Lottie Chambers told the council she has received numerous complaints from residents who say they are unable to get sewer and burning permits.

Mayor McAtee said the situation will be cleared up and he indicated authorized personnel will be on duty to issue the permits.

McAtee also appealed to Wixom residents to report any safety hazards to the city.

"If you see any known safety hazards, do not fail to call the city hall," he said, "so we can get it cleared up. We would appreciate the citizens' help."

Board Slates Election Councilmen in Crossfire Over Additional Cabbie

A request for the licensing of a second taxi cab company to operate in the community, after appearing to be headed for denial, received a late reprieve Monday when City of Novi Council granted the applicant additional time to prepare a case showing need for another agency.

Empire Deluxe Cab Company of Farmington asked the council to grant it licenses for three units which would allow its service area to be expanded from nearby Farmington Township to include Novi.

Mrs. Mary Newberry, manager of the Farmington firm, explained that she has received several requests - "about 35" calls in the last two weeks - for service in the city. She reported that the callers had indicated dissatisfaction with Star Cab Company which presently is the lone agency servicing the city.

Attorney Emery Jacques, Jr., representing Star Cab owner Thomas Macaluso, challenged the request claiming that no need for additional service has been proven. He also submitted a certified record of Mrs. Newberry's driving license indicating that she had been cited for careless driving.

Counsel for Mrs. Newberry claimed that unless compared with a norm for taxi drivers, the introduction of his client's driving record was no relevance.

"I understand that the chief (Chief of Police Lee BeGole) had recommended that they be granted this license," Councilman Dennis Berry observed.

BeGole, who entered the meeting as it approached midnight, later clarified that he had tested the vehicles and reviewed the proposed operators' licenses and found them in accord with his department's standards.

Jacques informed that action on a similar request in the City of Farmington by Empire has been delayed because of Mrs. Newberry's record and the failure of the applicant to prove a need for an additional agent.

BeGole related that he had received "no serious complaints" on the existing cab service.

Councilman William O'Brien, indicating a fear that a competitive arrangement in a city with a limited market might eventually eliminate all service, moved that the request be denied until need is proven.

Novi Officers Praised After Rescue Effort

Two City of Novi policemen were credited with saving the life of a Detroit woman who twice stopped breathing of a heart attack here Sunday.

Hospital physicians credited Corporals Dale Gross and Robert Starnes with saving the life of Mrs. Virginia Smith, 46, who suffered an attack at 1355 East Lake Drive. They applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation when the woman stopped breathing.

Berry, however, inserted his preference that action be tabled instead allowing Empire officials time to prepare an argument for additional service.

"I think there must be a need or free enterprise wouldn't be in here tonight," Councilman William Dusey observed. "I've heard a couple comments opposing the present service and I'm for free enterprise."

City of Novi Mayor Joseph Crupi on Monday expressed his anxiety that the city take the initiative in repairing or replacing those faulty drains in Orchard Hills Subdivision which have evolved out of neglect in municipal operations.

"To be frank with you, I'm getting tired of this and I'd like to see something resolved," the mayor observed near the end of the council's four-hour meeting which included additional discussion on the subdivision's drainage problem.

Residents from the neighborhood have approached the council regularly asking that action be taken to relieve plugging drains which force water to flood roadways while keeping front yards unsettled.

Superintendent Thomas Dale on Tuesday informed the board that he had been to Lansing earlier the same day to obtain forms necessary in establishing the election date. The board previously had indicated a preference for holding the election in early September.

In accordance with the resolution passed by the board, the election will be by machine and held at the Novi Community Building. All registered voters - including non-property owners - will be eligible to vote with the registration deadline being August 15.

Positions Filled By City

The City of Novi Council made the formal appointment of Mrs. Frances Gow as controller on Monday and also designated Mrs. Evelyn Natzel to serve as deputy treasurer to recently-promoted Mrs. Geraldine Stipp.

The council had appointed Mrs. Stipp treasurer on July 7 and had created the position of controller with Mrs. Gow indicated as a preference to assume the new post. Both Mrs. Gow and Mrs. Natzel have been deputy clerks serving under Mrs. Mabel Ash who has acted both as city clerk and treasurer until the reorganization was enacted earlier this month.

Mayor Joseph Crupi explained at the July 7th session that the administrative duties are being reorganized and personnel sought in order to meet the growing demands of the city. Previously, City Manager Harold Ackley also served as assessor and combined with Mrs. Ash in assuming all of the administrative roles.

The council indicated at its session earlier this month that eventually it will establish a building department with Inspector Earl Bailey likely to be appointed director.

Earlier this summer the council instructed Mrs. Ash to advertise for candidates to fill the existing vacancies with Ackley expected either to be appointed assessor or city manager as both become fulltime positions.

Councilman Edwin Presnell emphasized that he doesn't presently feel the community needs additional service.

O'Brien's motion was defeated with him and Presnell the only two voting in support while a motion by Berry to table the issue passed with only Presnell in opposition.

Empire was asked to present its case at the September 15 session of the council.

City Manager Harold Ackley had reported prior to Mayor Crupi's remarks that preliminary engineering studies indicate that ditches up to three feet deep in places will be necessary to correct the problem.

Consultant Charles Fenske, of Johnson & Anderson, an engineering firm retain to counsel the city, observed that the city could either incorporate the deep ditches or rebuild portions of the road to eliminate the problem. He emphasized that the reconstructed road would be a considerably more expensive alternative.

"I can see a lot of dollar signs before my eyes here," Councilman Edwin Presnell observed in reference to the total project for the subdivision. He suggested that the council consider approaching the residents about sharing the cost of repairs.

Councilman Denis Berry supported Presnell's suggestion proposing that the council host a public meeting on the problem.

"I think the majority of the problems have been caused on oversights of ours," the mayor responded, "and I think we're obligated to correct those situations."

MRS. ROBERT BROOKE MARTIN

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS GORDON THOMSON

MR. AND MRS. REED VIERY

Evening Ceremonies Unite Three Northville Couples

Newlyweds Head West

With Yellowstone National Park as the destination of their wedding trip, Sandra Ann Horowitz and Robert Brooke Martin were united in marriage July 19 at the Unitarian Church of Ann Arbor. The wedding took place at 6:30 p.m. with Dr. Erwin Gaede officiating.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Barney Horowitz of Brooklyn, New York. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Martin of 45332 Byrne.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza dress with an overlay of striped Viennese lace. The sleeveless gown featured a princess neckline and a detachable train. She wore a bouffant shoulder-length veil bordered in matching lace.

Mrs. Andrew Daugveitis was matron of honor and Linda Grunbaum of Brooklyn served as bridesmaid. The best man was Glenn Martin and usher was Ira Horowitz.

Following a reception in the Stalter Hilton in Ann Arbor for 140 guests, the couple left for a honeymoon in Yellowstone National Park and the Black Hills of South Dakota. The bride chose a yellow linen dress and jacket as a going-away outfit.

The bride has received an MS degree in speech pathology from the University of Michigan, where her husband is now pursuing a doctorate in inorganic chemistry. The couple will make their future home at 1853 Lida Drive in Ann Arbor.

Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a queen's crown of lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade floral arrangement of small white carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Shelby A. (Marlene) Harrington of Buffalo, New York, served her sister as matron of honor. Amy Harrington, niece of the bride, served as the junior bridesmaid and Diane Harrington, another niece, was the flower girl.

The three attendants were dressed in similar floor-length dresses of lavender dotted Swiss. The gowns featured flared organza sleeves and empire waists encrusted with darker lavender daisies. Each wore a headress of large lavender organza bows with

Barbara Weiss Wed

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday afternoon, July 12, Miss Barbara Ann Weiss became the bride of Francis Gordon Thomson. They exchanged their marriage vows before an altar of Stasia daisies, white gladioli and single brass chancel candlesticks with white candles at the First Presbyterian Church in Northville. The Reverend George Jerome performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Weiss of 925 Grace Street. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Gordon Thomson and the late Mr. Thomson of Richland, Center, Wisconsin.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor-length silk textured dotted Swiss which she created herself. The princess style dress had panels outlined with embroidered lace. A flared pleat at the back which extended into a modified train was held at the empire waist by a wide satin bow with floor-length streamers.

For a short wedding trip into Northern Michigan and Wisconsin, the bride chose a tangerine embroidered linen dress with white accessories.

She is a graduate of Northville High School and Eastern Michigan University. Her husband received his education at Richland Center, where the couple plan to make their new home. They met while the bride was teaching school in the River Valley School District of Spring Green, Wisconsin.

A full, chapel length train bordered with lace fastened at the waist with a lace bow. She wore a fingertip veil of imported silk illusion with a hand rolled hem. The veil, made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Theodore R. Taylor was secured at the back of the coronet of lace and seed pearls which was made by the brides mother.

The bride carried a small nosegay of white roses, daisies and baby's breath, atop the small Bible which was carried by her mother at her wedding. The long, white satin ribbons fastened to the Bible were tied with single daisies.

The bride attended her matron of honor, Mrs. Robert A. Miller, (formerly Susan Reinackel of Northville) in her wedding two weeks earlier. The Bridesmaid was Jane Viery of Ann Arbor, sister of the bridegroom, and streamers of daisies falling down the back.

For flowers the bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of lavender daisies and baby's breath. The flower girl held a basket of lavender daisies.

Serving as best man was James Morris, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. The junior usher groomsmen were Eric Harrington, nephew of the bride, and ushers were friend Robert Wolf and Charles T. Weiss, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Weiss chose a midnight blue sheer dress, etched with white flowers. She wore a sheer straw picture hat of midnight blue and a cascade of stephanotis and baby's breath at the waist to accent her side-draped skirt.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a green lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the wedding a woodland garden reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. About 150 guests attended from Wisconsin, Michigan, Florida, California, Canada, Indiana, Illinois, and New York.

For a short wedding trip into Northern Michigan and Wisconsin, the bride chose a tangerine embroidered linen dress with white accessories.

She is a graduate of Northville High School and Eastern Michigan University. Her husband received his education at Richland Center, where the couple plan to make their new home. They met while the bride was teaching school in the River Valley School District of Spring Green, Wisconsin.

Auxiliary Holds

Dessert Meeting

The Novi Jaycees Auxiliary held a coffee and dessert meeting Wednesday afternoon at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ronald Cowden. During the meeting a presentation in soapage and decoupage - the making of art objects from paper cut-outs, was given.

Mills-Viery Vows Taken

The first United Methodist Church of Plymouth was the setting for the Saturday evening, June 28 wedding of Sissy Lee Mills and John Reed Viery.

For the candlelight service the recessed chancel was decorated with two small arrangements of mixed white flowers on the altar table, and white candles. Two large brass candelabras stood at the chancel entrance and a small stand at the right held the candles for the candlelighting ceremony. Large white bows decorated the pews.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Paul M. Cargo, a close family friend since the bride's childhood. The vows for the ring ceremony were written and memorized by the bride and groom.

Barry Beard of Ann Arbor served the bridegroom as best man. PFC Theodore Mills flew home from his post in Germany as a surprise on the day prior to the wedding, and joined the bride's other brothers, Jeffrey and Gregory, and the bridegroom's brother Jay Viery, in serving at the ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a street length A-line dress made of pastel pink silk worsted. The collar and cap sleeves were trimmed with pearl and crushed silver braid.

The mother of the bride groom wore a street length dress of pale pink embroidered silk organza and a sheer silk organza coat with an embroidered organza collar and three quarter length sleeves. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations and roses.

William A. Cargo, son of the Reverend Cargo and friend of the bride, sang "The Song of Ruth" by Guonod and selected verses from the hymn "O Perfect Love" at appropriate times during the ceremony. David Bowman of Ann Arbor served as organist. The bride chose selections from Handel's "Water Music Suite" and Bach's "Trio in A" to be played before the wedding. Marcello's "Palm 19" was chosen for the professional and "Final" from the "Water Music Suite" for the recessional.

Mrs. Theodore G. Taylor had charge of the bride's book. Serving at the reception were Mrs. Erwin Moore and Mrs. Roy Witherspoon, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Cheryl Beard and Miss Dianne Kelly both friends of the bride from Ann Arbor. The reception was held immediately following the ceremony for 100 guests.

The bride made her going away dress of white eyelet trimmed with yellow satin at the waist and satin covered buttons.

A 1965 graduate of Northville High School, the new Mrs. Viery attended Adrian College. Her husband is a 1965 graduate of the Ann Arbor High School and is presently employed at Xerox University Microfilms, Inc. in Ann Arbor.

The couple is making their home at 9861 Huron River Drive in Dexter after spending a week touring Northern Michigan along the lakes.

Hartman-Rice Vows Said in South Lyon

In an afternoon ceremony at the First United Presbyterian Church in South Lyon, Susan Jane Hartman and Darrel L. Rice exchanged nuptial vows Saturday, June 21.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Hartman of 408 Whipple Street, South Lyon. Mr. Hartman is principal of the Novi High School and a member of the South Lyon Planning Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Rice of Reading, Michigan are the parents of the groom.

The Rev. Norman Riedesel, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, performed the double ring ceremony at the altar which was decorated with bouquets of yellow and white mums.

Miss Sally Schuster was the organist and accompanied the duets, "O, Lord Most Holy" and "In Heavenly Love Abiding" by Miss Lorraine Clark and Alan Weamer.

The bride chose an A-line organza over taffeta gown with empire style bodice of sheer lace with long sleeves and wore a fingertip length veil. She carried a white Bible, a gift of the groom. It was adorned with white roses and white carnations.

Miss Shelley Pankow of Scottville was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were: Miss Patricia Hartman, sister of the bride; Mrs. Mary Ann Spahr and Mrs. Judy Hartman, sisters of the groom.

The attendants wore floor length mint green dresses with matching lace trim, short veiled headpieces and matching green shoes. They carried yellow and white cascade bouquets.

Richard Rice was his brother's best man. Ushers were: Ralph Gratz, Richard Spahr and Frank Hartman, the latter two brothers-in-law of the groom, and David Hartman, brother of the bride.

A dress of champagne lace with sage green accessories was Mrs. Hartman's choice for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Rice wore a light blue dress with matching accessories. Both wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

Following the reception, held in the church parlour, the couple honeymooned in Northern Michigan. Mrs. Rice wore a white dress with pink accents, pink sleeveless coat and pink accessories for her going away ensemble.

The bride and groom are 1969 graduates of Central Michigan University, and are residing in Fowlerville. The groom will teach in the Brighton School system.

The bridegroom's brother Jay Viery, in serving at the ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a street length A-line dress made of pastel pink silk worsted. The collar and cap sleeves were trimmed with pearl and crushed silver braid.

The mother of the bride groom wore a street length dress of pale pink embroidered silk organza and a sheer silk organza coat with an embroidered organza collar and three quarter length sleeves. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations and roses.

William A. Cargo, son of the Reverend Cargo and friend of the bride, sang "The Song of Ruth" by Guonod and selected verses from the hymn "O Perfect Love" at appropriate times during the ceremony. ### Torch Drive Names Regional Chairman

A Livonia homemaker, Mrs. Leroy H. Holland, will direct the 1969 Torch Drive's residential campaign in Northville, Livonia and Redford.

As region chairman, Mrs. Holland will be responsible for enrolling, training and organizing volunteers to conduct the "Thanks a Million" canvass throughout these areas.

The door-to-door canvass, which annually brings in more than $1 million of the Torch Drive total, provides every household with information about the United Foundation and its nearly 200 services.

It also gives homemakers, the retired and the self-employed - all individuals not provided an opportunity to contribute through their place of work - an opportunity to contribute.

Mrs. Holland's appointment was announced by Mrs. P. David Vincent of Northville, residential section chairman for the Torch Drive.

"I am pleased Mrs. Holland has accepted this important campaign assignment," Mrs. Vincent said. "She is a dedicated, experienced volunteer who has worked in every Torch Drive since 1964 and is genuinely committed to community betterment."

Her personal gratitude to a Torch Drive service, the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan, first prompted Mrs. Holland to volunteer.

The 21st annual UF campaign will be held October 14 through November 6. The goal will be announced early in September after the UF board of directors reviews the recommendations of the goal and allocations committee.

The first get-together of the new Junior Class of NHS was held last Wednesday, when more than 50 class members and officers attended a pizza party at the home of Martha Gazlay on South Rogers Street. After playing badminton, tennis and records, they consumed the "usual" gallons of punch.

From Kanazawa, Japan comes word of Douglas Walden who has been touring with Musical Youth International this past month. Doug writes that he has been having a wonderful time and has seen much of the Japanese countryside.

The musical group has been traveling by bus and train through Tokyo, Himeji, Kyoto and other Japanese cities. They returned to the United States this week and will perform their final concert in Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor on August 3.

Mrs. Carl H. Johnson of 800 West Main Street has left on a three week buying trip that will take her to San Francisco, California, Portland, Oregon, and Seattle, Washington. Mrs. Johnson is merchandise manager for Greyhound Corporation.

Visiting Northville from Hamm, Westfalen, West Germany are Mrs. Margot Genler and her teenage daughter, Elke. The two are staying with Mrs. Genler's sister's family. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Byrge on this, their first trip to America. They plan to remain for about five weeks.

This is the first meeting of the two sisters since 1963, when Mr. and Mrs. Byrge visited her sister in Germany. Originally, Mrs. Byrge came to America in 1948, after having married in Germany while her husband was serving with the United States Constabulary. The Byrge's son, Robin visited his mother's relatives in 1967.

Teenagers Bounce Back After Temporary Setback

Evicted from a clubroom that took them months to remodel and decorate, Northville teenagers took the blow in stride, rolled up their sleeves and went to work rebuilding what they had lost.

Today, after countless hours of work, the new clubroom of The Cavern teenage organization is nearing completion and the emerging new facilities appear to be as suitable and comfortable as the first.

But the fact that the teenagers have scored another big success is hardly surprising to the Reverend Timothy Johnson, assistant pastor of The First Presbyterian Church and club advisor. That's because for him the teenagers have simply demonstrated again what he has always believed: they're responsible, energetic, young adults.

"It's a pleasure working with them," he said this past week while showing a guest through the facilities which are expected to be opened for the first dance July 25. "They're just great," he added.

The new facilities are located in five basement rooms of the old junior high school building on Main Street that next fall will house the sixth grade classes. Previously, the club occupied the "cafeteria" side of the former community building that has since been converted to school administration and board of education offices.

The Cavern was asked to vacate the premises last spring when the board of education decided to move its offices into the community building because the sixth grade is to occupy the top floors of the old junior high where the board offices had been located.

Through the efforts of adult sponsors of The Cavern and through the generosity of the school system, the club was offered use of the basement quarters — on a lease basis. However, basement cobwebs, steel beams, cracked and chipped plaster, and concrete walls, hardly made the offer appealing for the youngsters who had become accustomed to the large, comfortable quarters in the community building.

Nevertheless, moving of equipment and furniture to the basement rooms and remodeling began last May. All-out work, however, "didn't get started until about the middle of June after school was out," explained Reverend Johnson.

The teenagers — about 50 worked from time to time, with about 15 of them putting in most of the working hours — were assisted by several adults.

Largest of the five rooms has been converted to the main clubroom. It features a Tudor motif, with framing on the walls a handsome wood ceiling beam and supports that hide unattractive steel girders, and the yet unfinished "stain glass" windows with board framing.

Adjacent is the "wallpaper room", featuring an "out of this world wallpaper". Like the main clubroom, this room also will contain chairs and tables. When completed it will contain flashing or blinking lights that will make the wallpaper come alive.

Next door is the "Black Room" where special lights will illuminate posters and artwork near the front entrance to the basement.

The "Alley" a room connecting the clubrooms with the gymnasium where the weekly (during the summer) and semi-weekly (during school months) dances will be held, is decorated with brick-like wallpaper.

Another room — just a cubicle — will house the club's refreshment stand. Lavatories have been cleaned and painted and, later, will be elaborately decorated as were those in the original clubroom.

Much of the decoration has been selected to complement the club's name.

The gymnasium is considerably smaller than the gym in the community building and "may cause us some space problem for dances that attract large crowds" but the remaining facility, said Reverend Johnson, occupies about the same space as the previous clubroom.

Teenagers, he said, probably will find the new facilities more attractive because it offers a little more privacy for boys and girls who may be dating. "The other place was one big room and you couldn't really be by yourself," he said.

Cavern Campaign Tops $6,000 Goal

With contributions still coming in, the campaign goal to raise $6,000 in behalf of the Cavern teen club has been topped.

Figures released this past week in the final report of the Cavern Fund Raising Campaign Committee showed that contributions — including those covering campaign and remodeling expenses — total $6,135.44.

Of this amount, $265.81 was donated specifically for campaign expenses, $253 for remodeling expenses.

In addition the total figure includes $21.63 interest generated by investment of contributions.

The campaign was launched last spring to raise funds to help pay the salary of the advisor, Reverend Timothy Johnson, and to remodel the quarters in the basement of the old junior high.

Bell Opens Giant New Facility

A new concept in telephone traffic control for large metropolitan areas — "satellite" long distance call-switching centers — was put in operation Sunday in Plymouth, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company announced today.

John S. North, general switching systems manager for the company, said the $25 million project, Michigan Bell's largest single investment in history, will vastly improve calling for the entire Detroit metropolitan area. Besides the switching system itself, the project will add 8,100 inter-office long distance circuits to the communications network.

Local officials will attend a building dedication ceremony Tuesday in the new Plymouth facility. A luncheon will follow in the Mayflower Hotel.

The new center, which includes the latest electronic call directing equipment, will provide relief for the state's largest long distance switching center in downtown Detroit. By shifting long distance switching for 370,000 telephone customers to the Plymouth center, the remaining calls in the 313 (southeastern Michigan) area will have more circuits and switching equipment available to handle their local, interzone and long distance calls.

"The Plymouth facility represents a new direction in the handling of telephone traffic," North said. "By decentralizing the switching of long distance calls, telephone circuits in urban centers can be devoted exclusively to carrying calls that originate or terminate there. In the years ahead, the Bell System will erect similar satellite switching centers around all major metropolitan areas," North said.

Prior to this year, much of the long distance switching for the 313 area was handled by the downtown Detroit switching center. In April, Michigan Bell placed a similar switching center in service in Grand Rapids. It was the first in the nation to use an Electronic Translator System (ETS), an automatic, solid-state call directing system. The Grand Rapids center now serves the western portion (616 area) of the Lower Peninsula and the entire Upper Peninsula (906 area).

Also under construction is another long distance center in Pontiac. All three projects are part of Michigan Bell's record $230 million construction program for 1969.

The Plymouth facility, the largest in the nation to be equipped with an electronic translator system, will be put in operation in four stages, North said. First, the giant switching machine, housed in a three-story structure, will begin handling long distance calling on July 20 for the Plymouth area. Initially, calls will fan in and out of the Plymouth area over 2,600 long distance circuits.

Two weeks later, the center will take over the job of long distance switching for Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and other nearby communities.

Then, on August 17, the new center will switch calls over 1,200 additional direct circuits to 75 cities across the country. Finally, on September 21, the center will begin handling both incoming and outgoing long distance calls for telephone exchanges on Detroit's west side and the downriver communities.

By this time, the Plymouth center will handle long distance calling for an area extending from Adrian and Trenton on the south, to Farmington and Brighton on the north, and from Detroit's D'Uinkirk and K'Enwood exchanges to the towns of Chelsea and Manchester located west of Ann Arbor.

The Plymouth facility, called 4-4-A toll office in telephone terminology, will take a considerable burden off the downtown Detroit long distance center by serving telephone users in the following exchanges:

Ann Arbor, Belleville, Brighton, Chelsea, Dexter, D'Uinkirk, Farmington, Farmington, Gregory, Harad, Howell, K'Enwood, Livonia, Manchester, Milan, Northville, Pinckney, Plymouth, Romulus, Saline,

MICHIGAN BELL Telephone Company began using a new "satellite" switching center housed in this three-story "bomb resistant" concrete building Sunday at Plymouth. The giant switching machine will handle long distance calling for more than 370,000 phone customers in Plymouth, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and areas west and southwest of Detroit. By fall, when fully placed in service, the $25 million facility will add 8,100 long distance circuits to the nationwide communications network.

South Lyon, Trenton, V'ermont, Walled Lake, Whitmore Lake, Wayne, Willis, Wyandotte and Ypsilanti.

The most intricate part of the new Plymouth center is the electronic translator system (ETS). This call-directing development from the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the Western Electric Company manufacturing plants functions much like a computer in selecting the actual routing for long distance calls.

ETS automatically picks as many as five different pathways for long distance calls. If the first path is busy, it can locate four alternate routes. If necessary, it may direct a long distance call from one coast to another to seek an idle circuit to the point desired. ETS operates in microseconds (millionths of a second), compared with milliseconds (thousandths of a second) for the conventional translators used in Detroit and other major cities.

The ETS utilizes a stored program control — a "memory" storage unit — in the processing of calls. The earlier systems such as the one installed in 1954 at Detroit, use a metal card and a photoelectric translator to process calls.

Equipped with plug-in replacement units, ETS offers improved maintenance methods. It also has a larger capacity for growth and expansion than existing systems.

SWITCHMAN Robert M. Hutchens (left) and chief switchman Joseph S. Congiolo test the huge new long distance switching machine housed in a three-story building in Plymouth. Teletype unit at left helps pinpoint a component failure and is used to give new orders to a vast array of switching equipment.

Prison Chapel Needs Assist

Inflation has even hit the church and prison.

In 1966, Detroit House of Correction Superintendent W.H. Bannan, prison chaplains and commissioners saw the need for an inter-faith chapel at the prison.

The City of Detroit, under whose control the institution operates, appropriated $150,000 in the 1966-67 House of Correction budget for chapel construction.

Bids were not taken on the project until late 1968. The bids received reflected the construction increases that had occurred over the past two years. The total budget now required is $206,400.

Subtracting expenses for architects fees, surveying and advertising, $140,550 of the original appropriation remains ear-marked for chapel construction. The additional money required is $66,050.

Appeals have gone out to business and industry with almost no success.

Bannan, who has worked in corrections for nearly 40 years, feels the only way rehabilitation can work is if "the inmates' attitude and his sense of values are changed. This can best be done by providing a chapel for religious service."

Mrs. Elenore Kent, director of the women's division, said "a chapel lends the proper dignity to a religious service."

Currently the commission is trying to raise the additional funds so a co-educational inter-faith chapel may be constructed.

Contributions from private citizens and business will help the project become a reality, officials point out.

Racing Revenue Hike Misses Northville

A pending new state law will provide fatter revenue for two race track communities in Michigan — but not for Northville.

That's the word from State Representative Marvin R. Stempin, former Northville City Attorney who co-sponsored the bill that in early discussion stage would have boosted Northville's share of racing receipts as well.

According to the Livonia Democrat, the measure raises the maximum dollar limit that race track communities can receive — from $500,000 to $600,000 — but does not change the 20-percent formula upon which Northville's share is based.

Previously, race track communities received up to a maximum of $500,000 or 20-percent of the gross receipts at the tracks — whichever was less.

Volumes at Detroit Race Course (Livonia) and Hazel Park have allowed those communities to receive the maximum — $500,000 — in recent years and they are expected to benefit immediately from the new law (as soon as the governor inks the measure that was given immediate effect by both houses). However, Northville and Jackson will continue receiving 20-percent because they had not reached the $500,000 level and are now even further from the new maximum.

Originally, legislators considering increasing the percentage from 20-percent to 25-percent in addition to hiking the maximum dollar limit. But, recalled Stempin, when the bill was eventually drafted, the percentage rate remained unchanged.

"Personally, I'm for a straight percentage arrangement but right now it just wouldn't stand a chance politically," Stempin said. "We've got people in Lansing who think that the cities shouldn't receive any of that money and so we just can't accomplish a straight percentage arrangement now."

Had the 25-percent formula won out, Northville would have received approximately $50,000 more in racing revenue this year, said City Manager Frank Ollendorff.

Last year Northville, at the 20-percent rate, received about $195,000 with its outside chance of eventually reaching the $500,000 maximum dependent upon future growth of Northville Downs.

With the 20-percent rate unchanged, Ollendorff expects the city's share to increase to perhaps $275,000 this year — but only because the Jackson racing dates will be held in Northville this year, thus giving the Downs two racing seasons.

City officials in Livonia and Hazel Park, despite the additional $100,000 per year in revenues that the new law will allow them, oppose it, claiming the limitations are unfair.

Livonia Mayor Harvey W. Moelle has emphatically stated his opposition to the new measure observing that the state has extended racing seasons and increased its revenues, while the city's share has remained constant.

ACTION READY - SP/4 James C. Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Boyer, 450 Gardner Street is a "Huey" helicopter crewchief in The Royal Coachmen unit in Vietnam. Boyer, shown in the door gunner position, is a 1963 Northville High School graduate and attended Lawrence Institute of Technology.

About Our Servicemen Fisher Body Emblem Gets Vietnam Duty

There's something familiar about the golden coach insignia painted on a fleet of helicopters chopping across the skies of Vietnam and sewed on the jackets of the crewmen who fly them.

Employs of Fisher Body plant and most automobile buyers will recognize it as the Napoleonic coach that has been the world-famous trademark of the Fisher Body Division of General Motors for the past 47 years.

The U.S. Army's 62nd Aviation Company in Vietnam decided that the Fisher Body coach was a natural for its insignia since they call themselves "The Royal Coachmen". Last fall they wrote a letter to Fisher Body Division Offices in Warren, seeking permission to use the coach portion of the trademark.

Much correspondence has flowed between The Royal Coachmen and Fisher Body as a result of the informal relationship.

The world-famous Body by Fisher emblem was derived from the designs of two coaches used by Napoleon Bonaparte. The original scale model was crafted by a Fisher Body employee and a descendant of the craftsman who built the coaches for Napoleon. It was adopted as the Fisher Body trademark in 1922.

The original 16-inch scale model is on display in a glass case at the Fisher Body General Offices.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

It may later develop that the question is academic, but for the present the fate of the Maybury Sanatorium property is paramount in the minds of many community officials.

Owned by the city of Detroit, the 900-acre tract is located between Seven and Eight Mile roads just west of the city in Northville township.

As a badly needed source of revenue, the Detroit common council placed the little-used TB Sanatorium on the sale block at a figure of $3 million. Though it is known that Detroit's mayor is not fully in accord with the sale idea, in order to balance the budget this year and in compliance with the council's wishes, Detroit's controller has been ordered to make all arrangements for disposal of the property.

Developers are reportedly waiting in line.

In deference to an appeal made by Northville officials the Detroit controller has promised to hold-off calling for bids until a local proposal might be submitted for at least a portion of the property.

Hope had been held out that this proposal might be a united city-township-school district plan. This now seems unlikely in the face of disagreement on the manner of acquisition.

As mentioned at the outset, the whole question may be academic. The Detroit council could change its mind about selling; it could disagree with the controller, who states that a proposed public use by the local community should be given preferential treatment both in the matter of price and in exemption from competitive bidding; or it could decide that the entire site goes to the highest bidder, regardless of intended use.

Meanwhile, however, it behooves Northville officials and residents to give sober thought to what is at stake.

In the short span of 10 or 20 years there will be no open space sites in the Northville area. Development will have linked the Northville-Novi-South Lyon-Wixom area into one solid mass.

It will be a rare community indeed that can provide conveniently-located recreation sites where its citizens can enjoy their ever-increasing leisure time economically.

That opportunity now presents itself to Northville.

But our officials cannot agree on a single approach. Or they fear that our citizens might not recognize the wisdom of such future planning.

Most frightening is the suggestion that the responsibility of providing recreation areas should be left to private developers of the site, providing, of course, certain concessions are granted in rezoning of the area.

I would hope that Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg would consult with his board and test the public before entering into deals with developers who would — as the supervisor suggests — "give 300 acres to the community", if they can mine the area for several years, create lakes and build townhouses and a shopping center on the site.

The cost of such a deal might be a decade of sand and gravel trucks traversing Seven and Eight Mile roads for which the public must stand the nuisance and then pay for restoration of the roads. "Giving 300 acres" would be a small price to pay for such exploitation.

Difficult as the assignment of obtaining perhaps 200 acres and reserving it for public use might seem — compared to a quick deal with private interests — our officials should face up to the job and get it done, while it can be done.

Not only should the community of Northville work cooperatively to reserve this future recreation area, but it should also propose a plan for the development of the remaining portion and re-enforce it with appropriate zoning.

If the future welfare of the community is our concern, it must be contended that the cost in dollars and cents — spread over several decades and offset by revenues that could be derived from a facility such as golf course — is insignificant.

Out of the Past

Threshing Project Nets 350 Bushels

ONE YEAR AGO...

For the second time in less than two months, voters of the Northville school district were to be asked to approve or disapprove a 2-mill levy for operational purposes. The proposition — same as the voters defeated in June — provides for a 2-mill increase to raise an additional $100,000 that school board members all agreed was "an absolute necessity" to maintain the current standard of operation for the school system.

Postmaster John Steimel announced that mail service would be curtailed due to cutbacks by the Congress. Curtailment included elimination of all Saturday and Sunday window service and the scrapping of new plans for city and rural delivery.

FIVE YEARS AGO...

Describing the area directly behind his Main Street shoe store as a "skid row" Del Black urged city councilmen to lead the way in cleaning up the area so that businessmen might be encouraged to improve their store facilities. He won full council support with a promise that action would be taken.

The city council considered a request from Northville Township Monday night for water service to four township residents on Baseline just east of the city limits. Until then the council had held to a policy of not selling water outside the city limits, but members agreed to consider the proposal with certain provisions.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO...

Thirty members of the Novi Odd Fellows Lodge No. 487 and many of their wives, gathered on the Glenn Salow farm, Taft and 10 mile road, to thresh 350 bushels of wheat as part of a lodge fund raising project. The project included preparation of the soil, drilling and harvesting. The 30 lodge "farmers" included lawyers, carpenters, and merchants. Mr. Salow donated the ground.

A badgered village commission listened patiently as an irate citizen complained heatedly about the

Editorials... a page for expressions ...yours and ours

That my sons play on different but equally superb summer recreation baseball teams is sort of a badge of honor in my book — a sure sign that both boys are chips off the same block.

Their father, after all, holds the distinction of playing three straight seasons with a winless baseball team — an accomplishment that few others can match.

We called ourselves the "Warhawks" — a misnomer, to be sure, because we were the most unwarlike sandlot squad ever to grace a diamond at Flint. As a matter of fact I believe it was our team that gave rise to the term, "Peaceniks."

Word of our unusual abilities was widespread. Even C. S. Mott, Flint's benefactor of community recreation in those years, stopped by one summer day to watch us perform. He was amazed. Afterwards, as he shook my hand (I was the team's ace hurler), he smiled down at me and said, "A fine game, young man."

Naturally, I was honored. It had been a tougher than usual game but we'd managed to lose, 22 to 0.

With such a formidable record in my closet, you can imagine my chargin upon learning last week that my youngest son's team had won its first game. It cut deeply. The victory had removed him from his father's class and it stamped him as a family renegade.

Hiding my emotions as best I could, I asked him, "What was the score?"

He obviously was aware of how badly I felt because he was reluctant to talk about the game. Finally, though, he said, "Twelve to nothing, I guess."

Oh, the pain of it! "Goodness, you must have gotten a lot of hits?"

"Nope."

"How about your teammates — they must have hit the ball all over the place?"

"Nope."

"Well, then, if you didn't get any hits, how could you win?"

"Walks," he said.

That was good; enough for me. He probably will never equal his father's sandlot benchmark but he's obviously in there trying his hardest.

Record Building Plan Slapped

City Urged to Protect Northville Heritage

A letter to Northville city councilmen suggested a ban on all downtown exterior remodeling of business places unless it is in keeping with Victorian architecture was referred to the planning commission Monday night.

Read at Monday's council meeting, the letter was written by Mrs. William Crump, an officer of the Northville Historical Society.

The writer said she "recalled in horror" upon seeing an architect's suggested plan for renovation of The Record building located at the northwest corner of Main and Center streets. A sketch was published recently in The Record.

She called the proposal a "monstrous mortuary-like structure." She suggested that "something of a Greek Revival period design would be more in keeping with our new civic center buildings that the proposed structure."

"The only course of action that can possibly safeguard our hopes for keeping the 'Our Town' look we so cherish," she wrote, "is for the council to immediately designate that central area of the business district an historic area. Under such a plan in other cities the arts commission then is able to control the character of the architecture and prevent such gross errors in judgement by local citizens who mistakenly equate the spending of large sums of money with creating beauty."

Concluding, she wrote, "I implore you, gentlemen, make haste and preserve for our coming generations the historic heritage that should rightfully be theirs."

In response to the letter, councilmen noted that control of architecture does now exist in that the architectural plans must be reviewed prior to construction.

Furthermore, it was noted that the planning commission six years ago adopted a resolution, endorsed by the city council, recommending that all new public buildings, new business buildings and/or remodeled business fronts conform to an Early American style of architecture.

The resolution was adopted July 16, 1963.

The recommendation was premised on the commission's belief that it (planning commission) is "charged with the responsibilities of planning community facilities to preserve the charm and aesthetic values of the structures and uses thereof..."

Police & Courts

A gambling game operating in the Northville Downs parking lot was raided in the early morning hours July 13.

David Biery, 217 West Dunlap, branch of Manufacturers National Bank, spotted the game shortly after midnight and alerted police. Biery works as a parking lot manager at the Downs.

Using Biery as a shield so their uniforms would not be seen, police moved in and apprehended two suspects holding cards and money. Police overheard one say "I'll bet $20 on it."

William Henry Smith, 67, of Detroit, was arrested and charged with illegal occupation, operating a gambling game. The other suspect escaped into the crowd.

While Biery and police tried to restrain Smith, an unknown person grabbed the cards and took off. The same person had tried to take the money, but police got it first.

Money confiscated totaled $70 in ten and twenty dollar denominations. Smith will appear in court on the charges July 22. He was released on $100 bond.

Two men reportedly were victims of pick pockets at the Northville Downs last week.

John Mihertadjan, Westland, told police his brown leather wallet was taken July 18 after two men bumped into him and hurried away. He discovered his wallet, containing only identification, missing after the incident.

Mihertadjan described one of the suspects as male, in his early 30's, light complexion and "good looking." The other he saw only from the back.

Frank Wanler, Clawson, had $230 in cash and a bank book taken when he was jostled by a man Saturday night.

Wanler said the man was in his early 30's, light complexion, 5'8" tall, weighing 150 pounds and "good looking."

Don's Snack Bar at the Downs reported unknown persons broke into a candy machine and tried to break into a cigarette machine early Monday morning. No estimate of damage was given.

A Walled Lake man, Thomas E. Robinson, was ticketed for failure to stop when the car he was driving collided with a car driven by Jean C. Bergerson at the intersection of Eight Mile and Novi Road intersection July 20.

The six occupants in the Bergerson car complained of head bumps and neck injuries but refused treatment.

Despite Deedler's Hot Bat Merchants Fall Twice in Musial

Northville Merchants' Paul Deedler continued to carry a big bat in Stan Musial Baseball League play last week although the team, after an exciting 8-7 victory last week Monday, suffered a pair of setbacks running its season mark to 6-13.

Deedler, who collected five hits in the three games, now was wounding an impressive .405 average entering play this week. The Merchants, after a contest Monday with Redford Township and yesterday (Wednesday) against Village Rambler, is slated to meet first-round champ Hubert Realty in Village Rambler back-to-back in a doubleheader Sunday and then will duel Rambler again on Monday. All three games will be at Henry Ford Field.

Anxious to close its season with a string of victories and hopeful that someone else will defeat league-leading Stevenson Spartans, the Reef Manufacturing Makers won their third consecutive game last week sweeping a pair of encounters as their season enters its final week.

Manager Art Adams' squad, now 9-3 with three games scheduled in concluding its season this week, remains on the heels of the one-beaten Spartans with whom the Makers will conclude their season on Saturday. But even if the local team wins its remaining games - including the encounter with Stevenson - it still will require some help from someone else in order to overcome the leaders.

Reef hosted the Spartans their lone defeat, 4-1, on July 6. "We're not playing bad baseball right now but we sure could use some help," Adams comments. "We just can't do it ourselves from here."

Hill Street Assessment Given Unofficial City Council Approval

Taking the same step as it did a week ago on the North Center assessment roll for street improvement, the Northville City Council gave tentative approval for the Hill Street assessment following a public hearing Monday night.

In this case, however, council action to delay formal approval until a later date followed vociferous objections by one of the affected property owners, Mrs. E.D. Suckow, who lives at the northwest corner of Hill and Novi streets.

Arguing that most property owners along Hill Street have already indicated that they do not favor street paving, she charged that had the city not dug up the street "every spring for some reason and never restored it," the street wouldn't require any improvement. She suggested street maintenance purposely had been ignored because the city anticipated a major improvement later. "You've torn up the grade," she asserted, "now you want to use taxpayers' money to fill it in."

Furthermore, noting that bids for an improvement project at Allen Drive and Novi Road came in considerably higher than city estimates, she said the likelihood that estimates of the Hill Street project would fall far short of reality appears very real.

(Cost of the project has been estimated at $17.10 per foot, with property owners sharing about $7 per foot of this figure.)

Mrs. Suckow asked if the street is paved, "what assurance do we have that you won't dig it up again?" Then she criticized the city for the "patch up" job on Novi Street, near her home, that followed installation of a sewer in the roadway earlier this year.

Finally, she argued that paving of Hill Street would create an even more dangerous traffic hazard than now exists.

City Manager Frank Ollendorf responded by saying that the safety situation on Hill was one of the reasons for recommending street improvement. "Right now," he said, "it's one lane for all intent and purpose."

Whether the street is improved or not, said the manager, better control of traffic using Hill Street is planned.

The city manager said that maintenance of the street had not been neglected. He said it had been sealed, patched and graded over the years. He conceded, however, that this past spring he had suggested that no new sealing be applied because of a possible pending project.

Ollendorf defended the repair work of Novi Street, pointing out that it represented a better surface than the original.

Concerning the question of another citizen who wondered why it might not be adequate to install curbs and gutters but apply only a sealcoat, Ollendorf pointed out that the sealcoat would not last as long and yet would cost about 85 to 90 percent of a more permanent surface since curbs and gutters represented the major expenditure.

As he did a week earlier on the Center Street project, Mayor A.M. Allen polled the council to determine its position on the Hill Street assessment. All favored it but Councilman Paul Folino, who has stated that he cannot support the city's special assessment formula because he views it as unfair and inequitable.

Quoted a week ago as indicating that he "might" at a later date accept the 75-25 percent formula "if someone can show me that it's the best way," Folino said Monday that his statement had been misinterpreted in that he meant to say that he might later support special assessment - not the 75-25 percent assessment formula.

Besides giving tacit agreement to the Hill Street assessment and adjourning the hearing until next month when formal approval may be given, the council also approved a notice of intent to issue bonds for both the Center Street and Hill Street projects. The required formality since the city must request and receive permission from Municipal Finance Commission before the projects can be authorized locally.

Total amount of the bonds was put at $80,000 - about $20,000 more than needed but enough to cover the Hill Street project. The total can be lowered later, explained the manager, but it cannot be increased.

Due date for assessment payments will occur 60 days after formal approval of the assessment rolls. Formal approval was purposely delayed to allow the city time to determine whether or not bonds can be sold and also to allow property owners a longer period before assessment payment comes due.

Kenneth Rathert noted that "this zoning doesn't eliminate any zoning - it just provides a tool" for those businesses that are applicable. Ollendorf added that special consideration can be considered by those who appeal the zoning, and he pointed out that such businesses can still request C-2 zoning if they find PO zoning economically prohibitive.

Councilman Wallace Nichols and the city manager pointed out that the proposed zoning district has been under study for years by city planners and the planning consultant and that the proposal represents many modifications of the original suggested district. Nichols said the council several years ago acted a similar proposal of the planning consultant.

Finally, it was agreed that the proposed zoning would be on hand at the public hearing to answer specific questions about the proposed zoning district.

In another council discussion, it was decided to authorize City Attorney Philip Ogilvie and the city manager to draw up a proposed resolution establishing a formula as to how much of the annual race track revenue received by the city should be earmarked for public improvements related to Northville Downs.

Ollendorf suggested that the formula might earmark all funds in excess of $130,000 for these Downs-related projects. Extension of Griswold Street and widening of Wing Streets, and Cady streets, which are expected to relieve traffic problems at the Downs, were examples of the kinds of improvements under question.

It was explained that the resolution would not be binding, but rather formally indicated to the Downs, the state racing commission and to the state legislature that the city plans to improve the racing "cintare" here.

The improvements are seen as necessary prerequisites for future expansion of the Downs and resulting additional city income.

In other council action Monday, bids were waived and purchase of two automatic voting machines through the Doubleday Brothers of Kalamazoo for $1,916 each. The machines differ from other machines now owned by the city in that they have built-in safety precautions.

City Answers School On Base Line Paving

School officials who have expressed dissatisfaction with the city for not blacktopping Base Line Road, between the high school and Eastlawn Convalescent Home, will receive a letter of explanation from the city manager this week.

The controversial matter was discussed by the city council Monday night.

Specifically, City Manager Frank Ollendorf's letter answers questions asked by school officials and concludes with this summary:

"We are reluctant to provide our services to non-tax paying property as you are to provide your services to similarly situated parcels."

Questions and answers include:

Who is responsible for improvement of the road? The city council because it is a public right-of-way.

What part of the cost of improvement will the city assume? One-hundred percent, but the city will recoup an equitable share of this cost through property assessments.

What part of the cost will Oakland County share? None.

What part of the cost will Eastlawn pay; Eastlawn will be assessed to the extent that it benefits from the improvement.

Concerning the latter, it was noted Monday that Eastlawn has already indicated a willingness to pay its share of the cost.

The only roadblock to the improvement, it was explained, is the school district's reluctance to accept an assessment. Unlike all other public and private bodies, school districts cannot be assessed for improvements unless they volunteer to accept assessments.

Sealcoating of the road was ruled out as a waste since, without drainage, this kind of improvement - though less costly, would last only about six months.

City officials expressed a willingness to "move ahead" with the improvement when and if the school district agrees to pay "its fair share."

Meanwhile, the council asked that the road be kept "reasonably" graded until the school district makes a move.

Restrictive Proposal Hearing Set on PO Zoning

A public hearing to air a proposed new zoning district governing professional businesses was set for August 4 following discussion by the Northville City Council Monday night.

Recommended for approval by the planning commission, the proposed new zoning district reportedly will provide a "transitional zone between business and residential or residential and public or semi-public uses."

Professional business in the proposed zoning is defined as "services related to dental and medical care and office type services for residents or nearby areas, and characterized by a low volume of direct daily customer contact."

Among businesses not included in this category are banks and savings and loan establishments.

According to City Manager Frank Ollendorf, who fielded objections by city councilmen as they reviewed restrictions of the new district, the professional office zoning has purposely been made restrictive because of the proximity of the district to residential areas. He said it encourages "high class" development.

Among the "restrictive" stipulations mentioned were 20-foot front yards, 10-foot side yards, three-to-one parking, and a maximum 30-foot height.

Mayor A. M. Allen said the proposed new zoning appears to be too restrictive to permit contractors to build economically, then the zoning is of little value, he reasoned.

On the other hand, Councilman Charles Lapham suggested that the council should attempt to determine if builders can economically meet restrictions. If it's too restrictive to permit contractors to build economically, then the zoning is of little value, he reasoned.

Each woman may have a radio and a small television in her room provided she follows the rules for quiet hours and does not disturb the others.

The cottages are equipped with a television, sofa and chairs area. Food is prepared and served in each cottage under the supervision of a dietary matron who periodically checks with the cooks and waitresses in each cottage.

Except for breakfast and lunch, the cottages are closed to the women until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. The matrons are assigned to transportation, cleaning detail, special visits and yard work.

Each inmate is assigned to a job according to her ability, interests and length of sentence. She earns from 15 to 50 cents per day which she may keep or spend at the inmate store. Wages are issued in credit rather than currency to cut down on stealing.

The jobs are designed to help the inmates prepare for work after release. Training includes dental and laboratory technicians, dental and doctors' assistants, nurses' aides, laundry press operators, sewing machine operators, dressmaking and alteration, re-weaving, housekeeping, cooking, key-punch, beauty shop, clerical, waitress, or working in the canning factory.

Fourth Open-Air Concert Set At Schoolcraft College

Schoolcraft College will present the Kenneth Jewell Chorale in the fourth performance of its outdoor summer festival Wednesday, July 30.

The concert, under the direction of Wayne Dunlap, will be presented in the open-air court of the Forum building at 8:30 p.m.

Featured along with Schoolcraft's Court Orchestra will be the Kenneth Jewell Chorale singers from Detroit. Their appearance will be the third in as many years at Schoolcraft.

The singers will perform in a program of musical works devoted exclusively to Mozart and Stravinsky. Among the numbers to be presented are Mozart's Mass in C minor and "Serenata Notturna", and Stravinsky's Cantata (1952).

The cantata is especially well-known among music lovers as the first step, taken by Stravinsky in his slow movement toward the twelve-tone system of composing, expounded first by Arnold Schoenberg in the early Twenties. The Cantata shows his growing involvement with twelve-tone procedures and the intricate contrived devices of the Renaissance which he had categorically opposed for so long.

The festival orchestra is composed of faculty members of the Schoolcraft College Summer Music School, and other members of the Detroit Symphony. In the event of inclement weather concerts are given in the Waterman Campus Center. Refreshments are available during intermission at the main entrance to the Forum.

The Student Orchestra of the Schoolcraft College Summer Music School will present a concert on Friday, August 1. A special student Chamber Music Concert featuring many young soloists will be presented on Friday, July 25.

Maybury Property

They urged the Northville Economic Development Committee to take steps to obtain the property so that its development could be managed locally or to change the zoning to prohibit low-cost housing.

Although township officials have been assured by their professional planning consultant, George Vilcan, that the present residential zoning that calls for acre home sites is defensible in court, the consultant was asked to come up with a development plan that would include a combination of residential, commercial and industrial development.

Last Wednesday the committee learned that Vilcan considered deviation from the present residential plan in-advisable. He could not, in support of good planning, propose an alternate plan calling for industry on any part of the property. However, it was noted that Vilcan would support development of a portion of the property for recreational purposes and that he might support use of some of it for commercial purposes.

Strapped at economically impractical by the committee was a proposal that the Northville Development Corporation - the investment arm of the development committee - finance purchase of the entire 90-acre parcel. Furthermore, it was noted that Detroit probably would put the property up for competitive bids before considering the sale to the corporation even though it is a non-profit organization.

However, suggestions that a portion of the property be purchased either jointly or individually by the city, township and school system for recreation and a school site met with general approval of most members present at last week's committee meeting. Those favoring this step included some township representatives, who admitted that gaining the approval of the township board probably would be more difficult than picking up the support of township citizenry.

A LOOSE LEAF

By ROLLY PETERSON

"I'll believe it when I see it," said the man reclining in a patio chair. His face, arms and legs were bronzed from exposure to the sun, which was now fading behind distant trees and cast a shadow over the swimming pool where he often lounged after working hours.

A woman with delicate frame, like a petite cameo, sat on the other side of small, circular table. She stared at the swimming pool, lost in thought as she watched her daughter languor on her back in the cool blue water.

became more reality, he had hardened. With each passing day, she mused, he became harder, more businesslike, more practical.

His friends were businessmen, like Peter Jameson, their next door neighbor, who sat next to her, paunchy in his golf shirt and bermudas. It wasn't the first time the two men had agreed whole-heartedly with the conviction that comes with success. Or was it blindness? Her thoughts were broken by her husband's hand on her shoulder.

"Want another drink, dear?"

"Yes. Make it a tall one," she said, handing her husband her glass. She watched him walk jauntily into the house through the glass doors entering on the patio. He was whistling as he walked, the image of confidence, still handsome, she thought, but a little less tolerant.

"You don't really believe they'll fly to the moon?" Peter asked, with a smile on his lips. He had always liked Mary. She was quiet now, yet had a zest for life. She was strong, healthy, attractive, despite the telling wrinkles that clasped her jaw and encircled her eyes, despite her smallness.

"Why not?" Mary said firmly. "It's not impossible. If men set their minds to it, it can be accomplished. The same thing was probably said to Columbus before he decided to sail."

Jack returned and handed the drink to his wife. She sipped on it, feeling the cool breeze caress her skin. Laughter broke the conversation of the two men as Mary, lost in thought, glanced at the dim sky.

She remembered his dream. It had come true. But with each successful promotion, as his dream

Just Look About You Proud Lake, a Hub of Activity

Tucked neatly in the hilly countryside along the winding Huron River, the sprawling Proud Lake State Recreation Area - located just minutes from most points in southeastern Michigan - offers a variety of facilities to spice the life of both veteran and novice outdoorsmen.

"The range of activity here makes this an unusual park," Manager Myrol (Mike) Monroe observes. "We've got a lot for the people to do and it keeps us pretty busy but it's fun for the people and that's the key."

A typical summer day at the scenic Proud Lake, located just south of I-96 at Wixom in western Oakland County on what is a chain of three lakes in the Huron River, finds campers, picnickers, canoeists, swimmers, pistol marksmen and fishermen taking a pause from the pressures of everyday living to enjoy nature either by themselves or with their families.

"We've got just about everything here," Ranger Bob Palowoda, assistant manager at the park, explains. "The parks in the north are nice but we have everything to do and we're going 52 weeks of the year."

The addition last summer of heated service areas allowed the park to extend its season to year-around while satisfying a growing interest in winter camping.

Thirty-five hundred acres of property divided into numerous specialty areas is the park which last year was attended by 365,000 persons. Classified on the basis of quality and variety of facilities plus attendance, Proud Lake State Recreation Area is rated superior by state officials but, ironically, remains unknown to many residents within the immediate Oakland-Wayne-Livingston counties region.

Travel Facts

HOW TO GET THERE: Access by highway to Proud Lake State Recreation Area near Wixom from most points in the state is easiest by using I-96 to the Wixom exit and then Wixom Road north through city to signs directing visitors to sections of the park.

Persons traveling from northern portions of the region can take US-23 south to I-96 and then proceed southeast on the expressway to the Wixom exit. Likewise, people coming from the south can travel to US-23 and take it north to the expressway before taking the expressway southeast to Wixom.

Residents from the immediate area need only to drive to Wixom and take Wixom Road north to Proud Lake. It's less than a half-hour from Brighton and just minutes from South Lyon, Northville and Novi.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST?: Admission to Proud Lake State Recreation Area is free to motorists having the Michigan State Park window sticker which cost $3 per year and permits free admission to all state parks.

Campers are charged $2 per day for sites which include utilities. A one-day permit is also available at $1 although most families find the seasonal pass to be one of their wisest travel investments.

weekends and during the weeks just before hunting season, along with two boat launching sites which are located to service camping areas.

A week, a weekend or just an afternoon at the area offers all the freedom and beauty of all outdoors and for residents of southeastern Michigan, it's just down the road.

Partial Ban on Cigarette Ads Proposed

LANSING — Cigarette advertising and the regulation of it has been the concern of Congress and the Federal government — up to now.

But a member of the Michigan Senate says he is going to attempt to impose a partial ban on the advertising of cigarettes in Michigan when the legislature convenes again next January.

William Faust, a non-smoking Democrat from Westland, notified his fellow senators of his intentions during a recent Senate debate of a bill to outlaw advertising indicating discrimination in the sale or exchange of real estate.

Faust proposed an amendment to the bill to require cigarette advertising to describe the "harmful effects of smoking" as well as urging customers to purchase the particular brand being advertised.

THE PROPOSAL received instant support from another non-smoking senator, Anthony Stamaz, a Republican from Kalamazoo, who said it was a "progressive step."

But the manager of the bill being considered, Coleman Young, a Democrat from Detroit who does smoke, told Faust to leave his bill alone. Young said Faust didn't want to lose the bill because of the amendment and told him to wait until next January.

Immediately, Faust withdrew his proposal, saying "I didn't want it to come to a vote yet, so I withdrew it." But the Westland lawmaker said "I am serious, though, and this serves notice on everyone that next January I will sponsor a bill."

The proposal to have such advertising tell the "harmful effects" of smoking would be an effort to comply with federal regulations, he said. In that way, the media wouldn't be deprived of freedom of speech, but no positive advertising would take place, he said.

If Faust is successful in his attempt, Michigan would be the first state to impose restrictions on the advertising of cigarettes, a subject which has received much attention from Congress and several regulatory agencies up to now.

AT PRESENT, the only restriction on the sale or advertising of cigarettes is a requirement that each pack sold in the United States include the statement: "Caution, Cigarette Smoking May Be Hazardous to Your Health."

The Federal Communications Commission has ruled that broadcast stations which air cigarette advertising must also give time to anti-smoking commercials sponsored by the American Cancer Society and other national health groups.

Other proposals include such extreme measures as a complete ban on cigarette advertising, a law which has been taken in several European countries.

The National Association of Broadcasters Television Code Review Board recently made a voluntary recommendation that all cigarette ads be eliminated from television by Sept. 1, 1973. The board also recommended prohibiting cigarette commercials in or adjacent to any program primarily directed to young audiences.

A gradual phaseout of the advertising to begin next January was included in the recommendation.

Economy Does Not Require War

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass. Although hopes for near-term peace in the Far East still appear to be in the rather distant future, it might be well to take a look at just what changes are likely in the economy and the stock market when peace does come.

For, despite numerous disappointments in the past, one of these days a peace discussion rumor is likely to firm up into a hard fact, and investors should be prepared for the impact this will have on their investments.

First, let us emphasize that the staff of Babson's Reports places absolutely no validity in the theory that war is necessary as a stimulant to the economy. On the contrary, the ending of the war, in our opinion, is the most bullish thing that could happen to the stock market and to the overall economy.

Naturally, an end to the war will necessitate readjustments in our economic structure, and some war-oriented businesses will be hard put to offset a drop in military spending for their particular products. Nevertheless, we feel very strongly that the overall economic benefits that would be derived from an end to the war would be so great as to spark an entirely new wave of stock market bullishness.

THERE IS no changing the fact that our military operations in Southeast Asia have had a tremendous impact on our economy. If it were not for this seemingly endless war, our imbalance of payments, the size of our federal deficit, the inflationary spiral, and the increasing tax burden would be far less serious problems.

To get down to specifics, when the war ends the initial impact may be a fairly sharp but temporary downturn in the stock market.

Naturally, defense-oriented issues such as the aerospace group and many electronic companies will probably experience the greatest declines. The coppers and certain other metal issues, some airline, machine tool, and rubber stocks would probably all be active on the downside.

But, following such an initial market "break," we would expect to see a fairly active bull market develop.

Consumer-oriented stocks — such as retailing, foods, and appliances — should do very well. With the ending of the war should come a decline in interest rates, thereby benefiting utility stocks. Also, lower interest rates should give birth to a substantial increase in housing starts which would cause a good lift for building materials stocks and cement issues.

THE END of the war would mean that tremendous amounts of money would flow into the economic stream. The government would probably shift its spending emphasis to education, pollution control, aid to states and cities, research and development, large public works programs, space activities, and oceanography.

Unfortunately at this moment, peace does not appear to be right around the corner; the flow of funds into the war business can be expected to continue at a heavy volume for some time yet.

However, for those who would like to prepare for peace, presented below is a representative list of stocks which look good now to the Babson's Reports Research Staff and should look even better in a peacetime economy.

Rev. Robert A. Mitchinson, New Hudson United Methodist Church

"While they were on their way Jesus came to a village where a woman named Martha made him welcome in her home. She had a sister, Mary, who seated herself at the Lord's feet and stayed there listening to his words. Now Martha was distracted by her many tasks, so she came to him and said, 'Lord, do you not care that my sister has left me to get on with the work by myself? Tell her to come and lend a hand.' But the Lord answered, 'Martha, Martha, you are fretting and fussing about so many things; but one thing is necessary. The part that Mary has chosen is best...'" Luke 10:38-42 N.E.B.

communicating with their children. It just might be that this kind of condition would not exist if our ears were more in tune with what our children are saying. Robert Raines has written a book CREATIVE BROODING in which he quotes a letter written by a young lad expressing his own inner feelings to his parents:

"Dear Folks, "Thank you for everything, but I am going to Chicago and try and start some kind of new life. "You asked me why I did those things and why I gave you so much trouble, and the answer is easy for me to give you, but I am wondering if you will understand. "Remember when I was about six or seven and I used to want you to listen to me? I remember all the nice things you gave me for Christmas and my birthday, and I was really happy with the things — about a year — at the time I got the things, but at the rest of the time during the year I really didn't want presents, I just wanted all the time for you to listen to me like I was somebody who felt things too, because I remember even when I was young I felt things. But you said you were busy.

from doing all those things that made you busy; but, you know something, Mom? I would have liked crackers and peanut butter just as well if you had only sat down with me awhile during the day and said to me: 'Tell me all about it so I maybe can help you understand!'"

These are sobering thoughts, considering they might have been written by your son or mine. Just as Jesus reminded Martha of that which is best, we, too, need to be reminded. All our relationships might be made more vital and meaningful if we could only bring ourselves to listen to what our loved ones and acquaintances are saying. We might become the instruments through which God might work to make persons whole.

The prayer of Robert Raines might easily become our prayer: "Lord forgive me! Forgive me for being too busy to realize that my wife has feelings too; too busy to let my child interrupt me while I read the paper or watch TV; too busy to try to understand the complaints of my associates at work. Help me today, while there is still time, to listen.

This passage of scripture makes abundantly clear the condition of a great many people. Like Martha, we have been so terribly busy that the important issues of life escape us. Have you ever been so wrapped up with your work and your own thoughts that you are brought to reality by the words, "Daddy, you're not listening." I'm sure that this has happened to you just as it has happened to me.

Today we hear a great deal about the "generation gap." Young people look at their parents as being "square"; whatever that means. And parents complain about the impossibility of but why?

Why is a child busy in the middle of the night? Why do we look for the time that we have spent in the past? Why do we look for the time that we have spent in the past? Why do we look for the time that we have spent in the past?

Why do we look for the time that we have spent in the past? Why do we look for the time that we have spent in the past? Why do we look for the time that we have spent in the past?

Attention! Beauty Title Up for Grabs

Michigan's beauty queens have until Friday, August 15 to enter this year's competition for the title of Miss Michigan State Fair of 1969. E.J. (Jeff) Kains, State Fair general manager, explains that the annual event is a "Queen of Queens" contest. The contestant must have won a sponsored, live queen contest held in Michigan since September, 1968. Applicants must be between 16 and 22 years of age and single. A queen who entered last year's contest but who has won a new title since September may re-enter under her new title. Street length or cocktail dresses will be required. No bathing suits or full length formal wear acceptable. The queens must report for preliminary judging Tuesday, August 26, at 8 p.m. in the State Fair Community Arts Building. Ten finalists will be chosen and will be judged for the title on Wednesday, August 27, at 7 p.m. Application forms are available from Cleighton Melin, supervisor of entertainment and special events, Michigan State Fair, Detroit, 48203. The contestants will receive corsages and various gifts. All will be guests of the Fair for luncheon, supper, a fashion show and other fair activities on August 26 and the ten finalists will attend a "Queens Banquet" on August 27. The winning queen "Miss Michigan State Fair" will receive a crown, trophy, a $100 bond and other gifts and awards. She will officiate at State Fair activities for the balance of the week and will represent the State Fair at other events throughout the year. The 120th Michigan State Fair opens Friday, August 22, and continues through Labor Day, Monday, September 1.

Auction Set August 21

The fifteenth annual State Police auction of confiscated and unclaimed merchandise will be conducted Thursday, August 21, at department headquarters, 714 South Harrison Road, East Lansing. The sale is expected to be about as large as last year when the gross was $52,229, second biggest in the auction's history. Last year's net proceeds were $3,639. Auction income is turned into the state treasury. Items for sale include watches, jewelry, radios, cameras, bicycles, car parts and accessories, hand and power tools, clothing and hunting and fishing equipment and other articles. State Police quartermaster personnel will inventory the stock and prepare the items for sale on a lot basis. Last year more than 2,000 items grouped in about 500 lots, were sold. The auction is authorized by law to dispose of confiscated and unclaimed articles whose owners could not be identified, items and equipment lost or abandoned at state parks and the personal effects of persons who died in state institutions without leaving heirs.

Bike Races Coming Up

Excitement is mounting as Detroit prepares to host 300 of the nation's best bicycle racers from some 30 states who will converge on the city next week to compete in the National Bicycling Championships. Not since 1940 has Detroit been host. The track events will take place on a brand new 1/5th mile concrete track with 10 ft. bankings on each turn and located at Doran Field, Mount Road and Outer Drive. Races start July 31 at 5:30 p.m. and continue the following two evenings.

FARMERS' BILL AND CHARLIE TIFFIN

How Sweet It Is Brothers' Corn Crop Proves Old Hands Have Green Thumbs

Nearing their centennial years, two Wixom bachelors are bustling with pride these days but it isn't their crops that's exciting them. It's their sweetcorn crop. "Best corn crop we've had since movin' here in 1900," boasted Charlie Tiffin, 90, Friday morning while his 99-year-old brother, Bill, hoed cucumbers. "Seems to me that 'stead of wearin' out, this old ground's gettin' better all the time." That these two grand old men still make their livelihood working a half-acre garden patch next door to their tidy little home and another one "down the road a piece" is hardly worth mentioning, insisted Charlie. "If you ask me," he philosophized, "if other people worked for what they got it'd be a whole lot better world." Neither thinks age is a "fit subject," they'd rather talk about the garden, although Bill's conversation wandered a bit as he chipped at the earth. "Baltimore's gonna win, I think. Tigers ain't got a chance." "Tell you what it is," explained Charlie. "Too many people think fertilizer's everything. Not me. I put in a little lime, maybe plow under some rye in the fall. That's all. Some things just can't take fertilizer, don'tcha see." He must be right, don'tcha see. Who else has grown their best crop of sweetcorn at ages 90 and 99?

Starting Over As a Prisoner

Editor's Note: Following is the second of three articles, written by Reporter Sally Burke, about the women's division of the Detroit House of Correction. It is the only Michigan prison for women. A crime is committed in Michigan. The perpetrator is a woman. After the jury hands down a decision, what next? If the woman is judged "not guilty," she goes free. If the verdict is "guilty," she is sentenced and serves her term in the Detroit House of Correction, the only women's prison in Michigan. DeHoCo, as it is commonly called, is located on Five Mile Road in Northville Township. New inmates arrive daily at the prison. Some stay for only five days, while others will live there for 'fore. They may be serving sentences for anything from prostitution to murder. The first stop is the hospital on the grounds. Here the women are given a complete physical, shots and put in "temporary medical isolation for six or seven days. Inmates who are serving sentences of 90 days or more are given a psychiatric evaluation. If the test shows they need psychiatric help, they are transferred to Lonia, an institution for the criminally insane. After leaving the hospital the women are taken to the orientation cottage, one of the eight cottages on the grounds. An inmate will spend a week or two in the cottage, depending on her sentence. In the orientation program the inmates are taught the rules and regulations they must follow and are Continued on Page 7-A

Police Connect Man With Burglary Spree

Burglaries involving household items valued at more than $3,500 are being charged against a recently-arrested Detroit man following investigation by detectives from the City of Novi Police Department. Sergeant Richard Faulkner of Novi Police this week reported that Juan Lopez, 24, of Detroit has been connected with six daylight burglaries which have occurred in the community during the summer. Lopez and Constancio Rodriguez, 27, also of Detroit were arrested earlier this month specifically as a suspect in a burglary at the Thomas Brooks' residence, 39955 Fourteen Mile Road. According to Faulkner, further investigation apparently connects Lopez with burglaries at the Novi residences of Thomas Dziedzic, Marvin Stayman, William Gorman, Agnes Gronlund, George Lein and Sam Lund. All the burglaries, committed during daylight hours while residences were away from home, occurred during June and July. The detective emphasized that the series of break-and-enters "all are in the same general area" and that method of operation is similar. Lopez is scheduled to be examined Friday on charges of breaking-and-entering at the Dziedzic residence. The Oakland County Sheriff's Department is handling the Brooks' case since the residence is in Novi Township. Lopez and Rodriguez were arrested July 15 by State Police and White Lake Police following a combined effort including Novi Police and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Council Gives Self Voice Regulating Power Lines

The threat of having unwelcome transmission towers erected in the community within the immediate future prompted the City of Novi Council to enact an ordinance Monday providing itself authority to regulate the placement of utility equipment. The council, acting late in its two-hour joint session with the Planning Commission, reversed a motion made earlier in the meeting and voted unanimously to adopt the ordinance despite appeals from utility representatives to delay action until a State Supreme Court decision is rendered on similar legislation. The commission was also unanimous in its recommendation to enact the ordinance which will take effect on August 7. Councilman Denis Berry originally proposed that the council grant the utilities' request and delay action until August 18 in order to possibly benefit from the judicial ruling. But then Commissioner Robert Wilkins revealed that he had been informed by a local developer that Detroit Edison Company is in the process of acquiring land with immediate plans of extending new lines through the community. Apparently fearing that a utility might erect new equipment during the interval if action on the ordinance was delayed, Berry asked to withdraw his motion and then submitted a proposal to adopt the legislation. Legal counsel for Detroit Edison and Michigan Bell Telephone both addressed the council and commission claiming a desire to underground lines but emphasizing the expense and impracticality of such measures. They explained that regulation by cities for companies servicing large areas could create inconsistencies which would be costly to accommodate. "For the good of our city and the good of your city, I think we should wait for a decision from the highest court of the state," George Hogg, attorney representing Edison, stated. Presently, a case involving the City of Wixom and a utility has a decision pending in the State Supreme Court. Spokesmen for both utilities Monday asked that action by the council await that decision. But City Attorney Howard Bond observed that with the court presently in recess, the judgment isn't expected until September. Conrad Ankiel, representing Bell, explained that the ordinance would force the utility to sacrifice some of its flexibility and would delay expansion efforts to accommodate growing portions of the region. "In other communities we act closely and resolve these matters informally with no problem," Ankiel stated. He related that Michigan Bell presently is undergrounding lines "when its proven economically feasible." The ordinance doesn't require lines to be installed a specific way but does require that any expansion be approved through a public hearing of the Board of Appeals. Councilmen and commissioners emphasized that it was designed to give the city some control over the placement of such equipment. Prior to enactment of the ordinance, utilities could expand lines in a matter solely of their own choosing. "The utilities right now pretty much have more say than we do," Commissioner Robert Bretz observed. "If we can adopt this, it gives us a fighting chance." "I think all we're asking for is a little say in where these lines go," he added. "In our particular thinking, it's not our desire to make it difficult or to hinder your service," Wilkins stated. Wilkins, after Edison representatives could not reply to a question concerning its immediate plans in the community, interjected that he had been informed the utility was in the process of acquiring land developer with property in the area proposed for the new elementary school - has offered the district a 12-acre site off Willowbrook Road, according to Superintendent Thomas Dale. However, the parcel being offered is divided by a creek which the board is anxious to exclude from the site. Dale reports that officials from the district are negotiating with Kaufman & Broad with hopes of obtaining a parcel without the creek or of making the creek the northern boundary of the site. Board members have observed that the creek could create a hazard on the elementary school grounds and would have to be fenced. However, if it was on a borderline, it could be "fenced out" without additional expense since officials plan to enclose the site with fencing.

Site Remains Indefinite For Proposed Elementary

Officials of Novi Community Schools this week were continuing to negotiate for a location of their proposed new elementary school while tentative plans for new elementary and middle schools have been released by architects Lane, Riebe, Weiland of Ann Arbor. The Board of Education last week set September 15 as a date to present a request to borrow $4,475,000 for use in constructing the elementary and middle schools and for acquisition and preparation of future sites. In accordance with its master site plan, the district proposes to locate the middle school at the existing high school - junior high complex on Taft Road. Officials have designated the general area bounded by Nine Mile Road and Ten Mile Road, Meadowbrook Road and Haggerty Road for the new elementary school. May Hire Librarian Board Relaxes Plan

The need - and availability - of special service personnel might cause Novi Community Schools' Superintendent Thomas Dale to re-align his recruiting campaign for new elementary school faculty assignments. Just minutes after informing the Board of Education last week Tuesday that his search for elementary vocal music teaching candidates has been futile, Dale observed that administrators at Orchard Hills Elementary and Novi Elementary have expressed a desire to have an additional librarian to service the two schools. Presently, the two elementaries share one librarian who spends two-and-a-half days per week at each school. "I feel that the library, especially now with education turning so much to research, is becoming a more important factor," Novi Elementary Principal Esther McDonough explained. "And also, I think the librarian should have more time to assist teachers." "It's no longer a situation in libraries where children walk into a library and just pick out a book," Dale said. "Now they come in with something specific in mind and they need some direction." Responding to a question from Trustee Robert Wilkins, Mrs. McDonough stated that if she had to make a choice between adding a librarian or music teacher, she would prefer to have a librarian. Wilkins then coincided in agreeing the trend towards research-oriented study and proposed that Dale proceed by seeking to recruit a librarian. The superintendent observed the value of elementary music, however, in a complete music instruction program. "I think the point is one of priority and I think you're going to have to answer that," Wilkins responded. The board authorized Dale to act in filling either position. In other business at the semi-monthly session, it was reported that drainage improvements valued at $4,579 have been completed at Orchard Hills Elementary relieving a water problem, a proposal was submitted by the faculty at Orchard Hills requesting that a portion of the school's playground be surfaced for play and the board endorsed a suggestion to continue its annual fall dinner for faculty members. Trustee Vern DeWard also instituted action requiring the superintendent to propose construction

Community Schools Reveal Schedule for Registration

Registration for secondary-level students will be held from August 21-27, according to an announcement by Assistant Superintendent T. Richard Hendrickson. Classes tentatively are scheduled to begin September 2. such as physical education, art, chorus, band, homemaking, shop and study hall - at the time of their registration in order to allow administrators to assign classes. High school students will register August 25-27 with freshman slated to sign-up on August 25. Sophomores will register on August 26 and juniors and seniors on August 27. Students are to register in the Novi Junior-Senior High School on their assigned day with hours from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. $500 will be addressed to the entire board. A change order is a situation where a request is made to vary from the architect's specification in construction. The plan submitted to the board from Orchard Hills proposes surfacing a large area of its playground to provide an improved all-season play area. Any change order proposals over *****
