Land Dispute with Ohio Nears End

LANSING—One of the oldest legal hassles ever seen in this country is about to be ended by the U.S. Supreme Court and Michigan may be the sorry loser.

The dispute is 135 years old. Involved is 200 square miles of water and bottomlands of Lake Erie between Michigan and Ohio. Normally, the area wouldn't attract that much attention, but geologists say it is rich in oil and gas deposits.

THE WHOLE THING started back in 1836 with what has become known as the "Toledo War"-a difference of opinion between Michigan and Ohio over where the boundary between the two states

A "final line" was drawn only after the two states threatened war over the disputed piece of land and President Andrew Jackson sent a peace mission to head off the battle. In return for giving up the piece of land being disputed, Michigan received what is now known as the Upper Peninsula.

The boundary was laid out by a captain named Talcott in the U.S. Corps of Engineers in 1836. THE CURRENT dispute involves establishing exactly where the north cape of Maumee Bay in Lake Erie was situated when the final boundary was drawn. The cape has since eroded and the question is whether it should be the determination for the boundary between the states on the Lake Erie shore and if so, where it was exactly when the line was

Ohio claims the boundary between the states reaches out into Lake Erie at a 45 degree angle northeasterly to the Ontaria border. Michigan claims it goes straight east from the Michigan-Ohio border.

The Supreme Court appointed a retired federal judge, Albert B. Maris of Philadelphia, as a special master in the dispute. MARIS JUST FINISHED more than four years of taking testimony and hearing arguments in the He recommended to the court that it agree with the Ohio position that Michigan pay all the court costs involved. He said the border should follow a line extending from near Toledo across Turtle Island in Maumee Bay, far north of where Michigan says it should go.

The high court is expected to decide the matter later in its current STATE PUBLIC HEALTH Director Maurice Reizen thinks the state ought to put together a coordinated child health policy.

"In Michigan—as elsewhere around the nation—there are literally hundreds of public and private agencies which involve themselves with the health, education and welfare of our children," he says. "Yet because there is no single expressed policy underlying all of them we give only fragmented, uncoordinated and inconsistent attention to the wide range of severe, and often tragic. problems from which our children

A concerted effort, he thinks, "can successfully combat the complex social, environmental and physical factors which continue to hamper progress in child health."

REIZEN POINTS out that in 1969, the last year for which complete date is available, 3,356 babies under one year of age died in Michigan alone-more than the total number of persons killed in traffic accidents

The state may be no worse than the national average in this area. "When we recognize them not as numbers, but as our children, this fact is surely intolerable," Reizen is explicitly aimed at, we would do

"In all of our planning, programming, and decisionmaking, regardless of who or what it well to always keep in mind the one ultimate question—'Is it good for children?" he says. "If it is not, whatever it is-from eating fish to breathing impure air—chances are that it is not really good for society. nor for us as individuals either.

"A clear child health policy would help oblige us to keep this key question always foremost in our

SHOULD 19-year-olds be permitted to drive taxicabs inside the City of Northville? That question will be discussed at a public hearing Monday night as the city council considers lowering the minimum age from 21 to 19. Other proposed ordinance changes to be considered will be those affecting downspouts and below grade drainage. Also, the council will consider adoption of the Detroit Plumbing Code to upgrade the local regulations.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE trustees will study the question of advisory seats to the board at a special session December 8. The meeting was prompted by a faculty request at its November 17 meeting that such a seat be established Postponing action on the faculty's request, the board has set the study session to investigate advisory seats in general. The study session will begin at 8 p.m. and is open to the public.

OPEN SWIMMING at Northville High has been cancelled until Tuesday, February 2, 1972. "Lack of community participation and a tight budget forced the closing of the pool," explained Earl Busard, business director. "With only 12 to 15 swimmers participating in the program, we couldn't afford to continue it." he said.

Maybury 'State Park' May See Winter Use

Conceivably this winter people will begin using part of Michigan's newest state park - Maybury, located in Northville Township.

That's the word from DNR Deputy Director Samuel Milstein, who told the Record Monday that formalization of purchase of the 865acre site from Detroit is imminent.

Once that purchase is consummated - perhaps next week, said Milstein, it is quite possible the DNR will open part of the facility for winter activities such as skiing, sledding, etc.

Major park development is not expected to begin for two years or more, he added. "You can be sure we won't let the property stand idle Department of Interior has agreed very long. We won't wait for to allocate $1.5 million to cover onedevelopment to begin before using half of the sale price of the former state. Milstein said.

Initial state action, he explained, will be to move personnel into the appropriated $1.5 as Michigan's area so that security can be half tightened. "We understand there's Earlier this year Michigan and the been quite a bit of vandalism but City of Detroit had agreed on a price until the state actually owns the property there is little we can do DNR has an option to purchase it at Where's The

He explained that DNR had applied for the $1.5 million under the ederal government's special contingency fund — which is over and above the monies paid annually $40,024,226 last year. Part of the increase is to states for recreational purposes.

'The way our announcement reads, half of the $1.5 million is coming from the contingency fund and the other half under the regular annual allocation. If that is so it may mean we'll be receiving about $750,000 less in our annual federal funds." he said.

Michigan previously had never

A Funny Lumberjack

Even though he's delicately cradling a two-month old baby in one arm, when he unwinds his big frame and extends a handshake that makes you want to holler uncle there's no doubt that you're meeting Don Cooper-the lumber jack turned film lecturer. The Coopers-wife Ruth, baby son Matthew, and the funny man-tooled their little van into Northville last weekend and were the overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webber, 44880 Thornapple Lane. He put the bite on Don, who likes spongers even less than Dennis' biscuits. "He wanted $70...why seventy I'll never know. In desperation he offered his new camera as collateral until the loan was

Forest of Laughter

It's a hilarious vehicle for tying together the storyline that begins in Montana, skips to Sante Fe and then makes the long, adventurous trip north to Mt. McKinley. Unlike many professionals, Don and Dennis do not shoot their films to a script. Instead, they start with an idea, research the historical significance of the places they will visit, and then set off with their cameras. The script comes later, after the film is put together. This procedure permits them to change and improve their narrations even Mountain West Trails, for example, is still undergoing changes, says Don, noting that Dennis is giving the film his own personal touch, making changes, too, and probably panning his brother just as Don is doing. The Cooper humor is natural, alive on and off the stage. Around the breakfast table at the Webber home, Don's still wiping the sleep out of his eyes and already making people laugh without really trying.

It's this naturalness-the conversational humor that reaches out from the television screen or stage and tickles funny bones in the living room or auditorium—that makes the Coopers unique in the profession. Only their close friend, Stan Midgley-"the guy with the bike"-comes close to their style.

Admittedly professionally not polished photographers ("but we're getting better"), he Cooper brothers shoot six times more film than is finally used in one of their productions. Weather conditions, technical inexperience, and maybe even a misplaced roll of film frequently mars what otherwise might have been a great sequence, says Don. Few of the millions who view the colorful, breathtaking films would agree.

But whatever technical excellence their films might lack is more than compensated by humor, which Don says audiences everywhere are demanding.

Because he believes audiences are "tired f being educated," he carefully minimizes the "lecture". A conservationist who deplores he waste of the nation's forests ("the kind that all but wiped out the logging industry in Michigan"), he gets his story across in subtle film sequences and words without boring his

for The Record By BILL SLIGER

Although it may be a subject most people would prefer to forget, winter tax notices always reveal a few interesting statistics.

And this year's batch is no ex-

Appropriately arriving as the first sting of winter, the notices include levies against property for support of schools and township and county governments.

The property taxed includes residences as well as professional farm, commercial or industrial buildings. In addition, there's a personal property tax against inventories and equipment of any business.

Basically, the formula for levying taxes is that the millage shall be applied against an assessment constituting 50 per cent of the market value of the property.

For example: the millage rate oaid by property owners in the Schoolcraft college district for support of that community college is 1.78 mills, or $1.78 per thousand dollars of state equalized valuation

So, if your home is located in Northville township, and it is assessed at $10,000 (which means the tax assessor thinks your home is worth $20,000 on the market), you would pay a Schoolcraft college tax of 10 times $1.78, right?

Wrong. The state says Nornville townsnip assessments are low and do not represent 50 percent of the market value. So the state applies an "equalization factor" to bring all local assessments to a true 50 per cent market value.

In Northville township the factor .18 this year (last year it was 1.12):

So the property owner must first multiply his assessment ($10,000) by the factor (1.18) to determine the SEV of his property.

This equals $11,800. Now you multiply $11,800 times 1.78 mills, and if my multiplication is correct, the property owner with a home worth $23,600 on the market in Northville township would pay $20 annual tax to support Schoolcraft college.

The resident of the city of Northville pays the same Schoolcraft college millage. For Northville public schools, the millage rate is 36.29 (or $36.29 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation, which means the property owner in the example above pays $428.22 for local school

Tax bills are not uniform throughout the community of Northville. For example, city residents pay their tax for local government in the summer (10.3 mills), but the township government tax (1.01 mills) is included in the winter tax notice. Also township property owners in the Plymouth school district pay a school tax of 32.84 mills, rather than 36.29. And in the Wayne county portion of the city and in Northville township the county tax rate is 7.17 mills, but it's only 5.6 mills in the Oakland county portion of the city.

More differences occur when you consider the "equalization factor". As noted above, it's 1.18 in the township. But in the Wayne county portion of the city the state says assessments must be multiplied by 1.41 to bring valuations up to the 50 per cent level.

Oakland county residents of the city must apply a factor of 1.48.

Admittedly, these so-called 'interesting'' statistics rapidly become confusing.

But consider these figures tabulated by City Manager Frank

Of the total $29,965,068 in state equalized valuation (real and personal property) in the city of Northville.

--$3,214,477 is in the central business district, or 10.7 per cent of the total:

-$4,282,235 constitutes industrial property, of which more than $3 million is the Ford Valve Plant. a percentage of 14.3;

--$2,190,689 of the city's SEV is in outlying businesses, or 7.3 per cent

--$801,450 is utilities, or 2.7 per

-- and finally, Northville Downs and the owners of the track buildings, the Northville Driving Club, have property with a state equalized valuation of $2,391,610, or 8 per cent of the city's total SEV.

That adds up to the fact that 43 per cent of the city's SEV is in commercial or industrial properties.

Which means that homeowners constitute 57 per cent of the city's

Five years ago the residential area represented less than 50 per cent of the total.

This not only reveals where growth is taking place in the city of Northville, but it should give Governor Milliken's property tax reform package.

The inequities arise when vou consider that in many school districts industrial taxbase equals as much as 75 per cent of the total.

A mill levied in the city of Northville means the homeowner picks up 57 per cent of the tab; a mill levied in a district top-heavy with industry or commercial complexes reverses the

Yet the children from many of these industries may attend schools in any one of a number of districts outside the industrial area.

So why shouldn't the major property tax revenues be distributed according to number of children, not numbers of buildings?

Snoopin' for A Playboy

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

As one good American to another. I must express my profound shock upon learning of the dastardly practice of one George Garver, former superintendent of the Walled Lake school system.

In case you missed the wire story out of Houston, Texas, let it be known that Dr. Garver has been exposed as a reader of Playboy Magazine!

This shocking disclosure was made by the wife of a Houston mailman who protested having to deliver the filth to Garver — the ex-Houston superintendent who previously had been fired because of a breakdown in discipline and too much progressive education in Houston schools.

Said the postman's wife in a letter to the Houston Chronicle. "A man who reads Playboy should not have a position in the schools."

Fellow Americans, give that called Snoopers Anonymous woman three cheers and a centerspread from June, 1971.

Proud of his wife's letter, the mailman commented, "If Dr. Garver wanted to keep his dirty little secret he should have this magazine come in a brown paper envelope.'

Obviously.

But, alas, good people, they went and suspended this decent postman — "pending further investigation" — and there's even talk now of restoring Dr. Garver to his superintendency. When will injustice ever end?

wife, prey tell who will he share it Perhaps the Houston postman will yet see his name enshrined, however. I have it on pretty good authority that his efforts have given rise to a brand new organization —

While the new group's initial target will be educators, especially superintendents, long range plans call for exposing those in other fields

Barbers and hair dressers, dentists and doctors need to be watched, too. And what about the clergy?

Snoopers' members won't limit themselves to the mails or garbage cans. Close tabs will be kept on those who frequent public libraries, especially those who, like my wife, sneak into the restricted files.

All of which, quite possibly, will cause a massive cancellation of Playboy.

Which brings me to the point of all this. Just in case the good superintendents in our area are moved to avoid controversy, they may transfer their pre-paid subscriptions to my home.

Oh, yes, any back issues of April 1969, would be much appreciated. Just be sure they are wrapped in a brown paper envelope.

Unfortunately, the spirit of the Suffragettes of the 1900's got bogged down with the two o'clock feedings of the Fifties, leaving little time to debate whether or not housekeeping is a wife's duty.

The woman of the Seventies, however, has "come a long way, baby," to paraphrase a popular commercial, and she is as well educated and informed as her husband With the advances of educational and occupational opportunities and the biological freedom granted by "The Pill." there is absolutely no justification for today's wife to spend her most productive years sitting by her electrical hearthside, while her husband pursues an exciting career.

It seems almost passee to direct myself to the question. There can be no doubt that the wife is moving from the kitchen into the job market. And whether that move is motivated by financial necessity or choice, when the wife returns home with the husband at 5 p.m., certain essentials need tending. If any semblance of an equal distribution of work is to exist, housekeeping duties will have to be shared.

If the husband truly respects his wife as an individual he will honor her right to pursue a career. And, if he is truly secure in his own manhood, he will not let someone. else's definition of masculinity keep him from the dishpan.

'Have A Nice Day, Honey' Reader Speaks

Retarded Need Activities, Too Pleads Mother

To the Editor:

I would like to introduce to you my son, Kevin. Kevin is brain damaged — retarded. I don't hide him in the attic or in closets. I'm not ashamed of him. As a matter of fact I'm quite proud of him, and I take him anywhere I go. He is an All-American boy. He loves people, he loves to play, he loves sports and he loves to belong.

The reason I am writing this letter is to seek assistance for all the Kevins — the special children of our community — in setting up a recreational and social program of their own right here in Northville.

I hear about all the activities that are available and sponsored for our normal children such as: little league football and baseball, cub scouts and boy scouts, brownies and girl scouts, crafts, swimming, and many more. I am very happy to say that Kevin did play baseball last summer with the other boys on a team. He loved it and was so proud. What does Northville have to offer for these children?

He attends school in Livonia. his Boy Scout troop is in Livonia. He attends religious classes in Farmington Township, Christmas parties are given by the Garden City Jaycees and Moose Lodge and they're taken to a Tiger baseball game by the policemen of Wayne County and to a football game by the Livonia Jaycees.

These are wonderful things and are greatly appreciated but it involves a lot of driving and time — time which is spent away from home and away from the other children.

I would like to see some of these programs for our special children right here at home — in Northville.

These children need recreation and socializing. They should learn to swim. They should have special classes at our high school pool. They should be helped to become useful, productive citizens.

Many teenagers are looking for part-time and summer jobs. Teenagers are needed for these camp counsellors.

The business is licensed by the State Racing Commission and competes with two others that travel from track to track.

Neither partner knew much more about a horse except that it has a front and back side when they started 18 months ago. Now they're experts. Well, maybe not exactly experts "but we know that when boot ain't a boot and a Gombaults ain't chewing gum," says Leroy.

How can two guys-one who owned a Northville liquor store and another who was clerking in that store-go out and make a big success of something they knew nothing

"It's simple," says Chuck, "you use an old tip my father gave me years ago: never tell a customer you haven't got what he that both partners are having fun is perhaps

'I never really liked the liquor business (I don't even drink) and Brooks, well, he'd been with me a long time and I knew he wasn't really happy either.: And when I sold out I figured I owed him something for his

I'd be interested in financing a new business-selling stuff to horsemen-I said, "Hey, that doesn't sound half bad. You manage it and I'll work for you."

Meanwhile, Chuck and his family moved away from the hometown of Northville and not themselves a little horse farm in Hartland. Now Chuck's kids are winning show ribbons and trophies and their father is kneedeep in horsemanship-member even of the ivingston County Sheriff's Posse and a 4-H orse club leader to boot.

"I've never enjoyed myself more—even though Brooks is the meanest, most cantankerous boss you'd ever want to work for,"

"He runs things and has me in the back room sewing and repairing leather harnesses and what have you. Imagine that! Me, Chuck Altman, sewing harness or fixing a sulky tire. Nobody's gonna believe you." Upon buying out Stevens Harness-a traveling tack shop that had been in business

"Or the driver comes in and he wants a new saddle. You soon find out he's not talking about something you ride in but part of the harness that rides on the back of the horse.'

Sweeping his hand along the shelves lining the sides of the long trailer, he boasts, "We've got everything. And like I said, if we haven't got it we'll get it. See that oatmeal up there? Betcha didn't know we sold oatmeal, corn meal and baking soda.

Now "an apple a day" keeps the dentist at bay, according to a Michigan State University consumer marketing information agent.

"For two years," reports Mrs. Sheila Morley. "British dentists fed apples to children after meals. When comparisons were made, the apple-eaters had 'significantly better' gum condition and only half as many cavities." (The study also noted that there were no complaints from the children as they took their "medicine."; About 10 years ago Michigan State University researchers confirmed that there is some truth to the apple-doctor saying. After a three-year study involving 1,300 students, they reported that the students who ate apples regularly: 1) had one-third fewer calls at the health center for colds and other respiratory infections, and 2) showed fewer skin disorders, gastrointestinal ailments and viral infections. Even more significant was the apple-eaters' ability to withstand the pressures of college life, Mrs. Morley says. The comparison of tension-pressure ailments - headaches. nervousness, inability to concentrate -- showed apple-eaters six to one winners over the rest of the college population.

Heritage of Faith Traced to Colonies

Lloyd G. Brasure First Presbyterian Church of Northville

All is not gloom in the world. It is difficult at times, to have an attitude of hope, in the midst of crime, and wars in many places. Today we are witnessing greater interest in the Bible. New versions and translations of the Eternal Word are making appearances by many groups of scholars. We have in our Church library a publication by Zondervan of Grand Rapids, first printing in 1967, titled "The New Testament from 26 Translations". It proves to be fascinating reading and gives new ways of telling the "old old story."

I wonder how many of us realize the heritage of faith that comes through the beliefs and lives of some of our national "Founding Fathers". There is a fairly large group of men from Colonialtimes whose religious beliefs did much to determine the course of U.S. history. The documents, letters and principles involved, came from a fairly youthful group (many in their thirties) of gifted men of that era. Benjamin Franklin, along with Thomas Jefferson, was much interested in the idea of making the Scripture more accessible, and of new and varied translations. Franklin actually composed a new version of the prayer by Christ in Matthew 6:9-15. It compares favorably with current newways of presenting this prayer. I believe it is worth our time to say it now as he wrote it in November 1779

"Heavenly Father, May all revere Thee, and become Thy dutiful children and faithful subjects. May thy laws be obeyed on earth, as perfectly as they are in heaven. Provide for us this day, as Thou hast hitherto daily done. Forgive us our trespasses, and enable us to forgive those who offend us. Keep us out of temptation, and deliver us from evil."

New Groups both in and out of the established Church organization are searching for new meanings and new expressions for faith; in study groups, in worship forms, in music sounds, verbalizing the Gospel, and personal witness. May we who come to God in the name of the Lord of Life, have for each other, regardless of manner of expression, a great respect and trust, that a better way come to His world. I find inspiration, as do many of you, in reading of other days and other people. A book which I have had for several years tells much about the men who literally put together a nation, and based it upon certain basic principles. Some believe those principles are being eroded away. This could bring us to difficult reckonings. The book is "In God We Trust", by Norman Cousins, pub. by Harper, 1958.

Everybody and his cousin too...notice the lone man in the foreground of the picture. He must be wondering if he will ever get his shopping done. Even with his back to us he looks confused and bewildered.

Most of us have felt the pangs of loneliness in the midst of a crowd. Surrounded by people, we couldn't escape that feeling of utter desolation. It may engulf us in a busy department store, a crowded supermarket, a jam-packed subway, but suddenly it strikes . . . this feeling that no one cares about us or about our burdens.

When our hearts cry out for assurance that somebody cares, we can always turn to the truth and love revealed by the Holy Word of God: "Lo, I am with you alway."

At the heart of the universe there are great resources of strength. Discover them for yourself by worshipping each week in the church of your choice.

Here's Tips On Drugs

dictive narcotic and its mere possession is illegal.

Heroin has a generally sedative and analgesic effect. The first reaction to introducing it into the body is unpleasant to most people, but a calming effect follows and, depending on how much is taken at a time, may very well progress to coma and death from respiratory

A Heroin user may have "needle tracks," small needle marks on his body, most often over the veins in the arms. An injection might also be given in other parts of the body. Abscesses (boils) ofter become apparent at the site of injections. Dirty needle liseases, such as hepatitis, are common among users.

seem to have a dream-like disposition, but when in need of a "fix." (another dose) they can become capable of aggressive or even violent behavior. Among the signs of Heroin use are pinpoint pupils and a pale complexion. The body builds up a tolerance for the drug and the user needs an ncreased dose regularly in order to achieve the same desired effect. Withdrawal pains occur when the drug is available. osychological dependence on he drug makes the user think he needs the drug to function and he is extremely uncomfortable without it, once he is "hooked." Ex-addicts often return to the habit of Heroin, and the history of complete recoveries is disheartening to say the least.

Infections in the user's blood stream, lungs and heart can result from Heroin inections. Blood clots may develop in the lungs and when this type of infection occurs, it is usually caused by bacteria that can be very resistant to treatment. The death rate. herefore, is very high. The source of Heroin is the illegal "street market" and the cost is usually about $1 to $1.50 per capsule. Physical dependence can cost from $20 to $200 per day.

What could possibly be appealing about the use of such a frightening drug? To the user, the great appeal is: that these drugs induce a sense of good feeling, depress or overcome emotional pain temporarily and minimize feelings of fear, anxiety and tension. But when it is so unmistakenly evident that narcotics can become a way of life, consuming complete attention, energy and income, it is the duty of everyone with any contact or influence with young people, to educate them whenever possible about the facts surrounding drug

Goodfellow Sales Brighten Christmas

"No child without a Christmas" is the motto and goal of the Novi and Wixom Goodfellows, who will take to the streets and subdivisions this weekend selling the Goodfellow edition of The Novi News to raise funds for meeting that goal.

The Goodfellows are active throughout the year, but their busiest season without a doubt is the holiday season when they prepare "baskets" of food, clothing, candy, and toys to families who need the assistance for one reason or another to make Christmas a happy day. Last year the Novi Goodfellows sent out 70 baskets, while he Wixom group delivered 18. This year, spokesmen from both clubs expect the requests for baskets to be much higher. John Miner, president of the Wixom Goodfellows, stated that the general economic conditions have caused a marked increase in the number of unemployed people. His comments were echoed by Leon Dochot, Novi Goodfellow president Both Novi and Wixom are counting heavily on the paper
