

Convenience centers taken off master plan

Plans to locate convenience commercial shopping centers at the Eight Mile/Griswold Road and Thirteen Mile/Novi Road intersections have been stricken from Novi's proposed revision of the Master Plan for Land Use Development.

Action removing the two centers came last week as the Novi Planning Board completed its review of the Master Plan. Changes dictated by the planners now will be incorporated into the final plan which is scheduled to be returned to the planning board for adoption at its December 17 session.

The proposed location of convenience commercial shopping centers easily has been the most controversial element of the proposed revision of the city's Master Plan.

Convenience commercial centers are designed to accommodate the day-to-day shopping needs of surrounding residential areas and typically include such uses as grocery, hardware and drug stores as well as barber/beauty shops and dry cleaning establishments.

Convenience centers have a market area of a two-mile radius and should be located on five to 10 acre sites, according to the Urban Land Institute, in order to provide adequate landscaping, parking and setbacks.

Removal of the Eight Mile/Griswold and Thirteen Mile/Novi Road centers leaves the city with a total of six convenience centers. In addition to the existing convenience center at Ten Mile/Meadowbrook Road, other convenience centers are proposed at Ten Mile/Beck Road, Novi Road/I-96 (in the West Oaks Shopping Center), West Road/Pontiac Trail, Novi Road/Grand River Avenue and Twelve Mile/Novi Road.

The decision to remove the Eight Mile/Griswold and Thirteen Mile/Novi Road centers came last week as the planners reviewed input provided by citizens at an October 17 public hearing.

The Eight Mile/Griswold center has been strongly opposed by residents of the Country Place Condominium Association as well as officials from Northville, Northville Township and the League of Women Voters.

Controversy regarding the Eight Mile/Griswold location was heightened by a rezoning request from the Weatherford-Walker Company to permit development of a center that was proposed to include a Krogers Store, A.C.E. Hardware and Perry's Drugs store.

Weatherford-Walker withdrew their rezoning request following the October 17 public hearing, stating "It is obvious the project would not enjoy the community acceptance which has been a hallmark of past Weatherford-Walker developments."

Additionally, the owner of the property, Mrs. Ruby Koester, informed planners that she wished the property to retain its single-family designation on the master plan.

Planners voted to remove the Eight Mile/Griswold center with little debate at last week's session, but a proposal to remove the Thirteen Mile/Novi Road center on the old flea market property prompted considerably more discussion.

Planning Consultant Charles Cairns noted the proposed convenience center would replace the existing Walled Lake Flea Market. "The land has been zoned commercial for a number of years and the impact of a commercial center on the site would be negligible," said Cairns, adding that the "use should have no adverse environmental or aesthetic impact on the lake itself."

The planning consultant added that if M-275 is every built, there is likely to be a commercial district at the proposed M-275/Thirteen Mile interchange.

"If there's a commercial district at the Thirteen Mile interchange, we don't want another at Thirteen Mile and Meadowbrook. That's why we are proposing it at Thirteen Mile and Novi Road," he added.

Planner John Roethel said he disagreed with Cairns' assertion that a Thirteen Mile/Novi Road center would have a negligible impact on the area. Planner Edward Dobek suggested that a Thirteen Mile/Novi Road center is unnecessary because Northern Novi residents will be able to shop at Lakeside and A&P in Walled Lake or the Kroger's store presently under construction in Novi's West Oaks shopping center.

Fighting Reyes Syndrome

That's real money — some $420 — that Security Bank of Novi President Donald Greengood, Mayor Romaine Roethel and Novi Jaycee President Ed Leininger (right) are preparing to turn over to the fight against Reyes Syndrome on behalf of the bank, city and Jaycees. The money was raised through the recent "Run for Reyes" project coordinated by the Jaycees and the city's Parks and Recreation Department, and sponsored by the Security Bank of Novi. Also involved in the fund-raising effort were (rear center, left to right) Parks and Rec Director Tom O'Branovic, Security Bank Manager Paul Wilson and Norman Schollett of the Reyes Syndrome Association. Leininger reported that the groups plan to host another Run for Reyes next year. (Staff photo by John Galloway)

Manager rejects road finance plan

Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall has taken the position that voter approval of two charter amendments removing the city's authority to establish special assessment districts does not tie the city's hands to one particular method of financing road construction and maintenance.

Kriewall specifically objects to statements made by the author of the amendments to the effect that Act 51 monies must be saved to resurface subdivision streets and one mill levied for road improvements can be used only for construction projects.

(Act 51 monies are gas and weight tax funds returned from the state based on a municipality's population and the number of miles of major and local roads. The city's second source of road revenues is generated by one mill levied as authorized by the city charter).

In a report to the city council Monday, Kriewall detailed his disagreement with the stand taken by former Council Member Don Young. Young was responsible for having the charter amendments placed on the ballot and campaigned for their adoption.

"The election results simply state that we shall not special assess for improvements on mile roads nor shall we assess for subdivision repaving," Kriewall says in his report.

Kriewall's position is that the voters did not say the city was to save Act 51 monies for resurfacing projects in the future. They said: "The City of Novi shall not special assess for mile road improvements or subdivision street resurfacing."

As Kriewall sees it, following Young's proposal for financing would require either the elimination of the Department of Public Works or elimination of resurfacing of subdivision streets.

Kriewall points out that the size of Novi's DPW is smaller than neighboring communities when compared by population, square miles or miles of roadway maintained.

"We believe our DPW is minimal in size and needs to be maintained," Kriewall said. "Our attitude has always been to do more with less."

He notes that the DPW is responsible for snow plowing, traffic signing, grass mowing on medians and roadways, sanding, salting, ditching, asphalt and concrete patching, shoulder repair, and gravel road maintenance.

Young's position that the one mill road fund, established by the city charter, should be used only for road construction is erroneous, Kriewall says. The city manager documents his position with a 1973 opinion from City Attorney David Fried which states the city can use those tax revenues for improvements as well as construction.

Kriewall said he thought his comments are "appropriate in light of what is being read into the ballot questions."

He also told the council that he believes it is important that "our side should be heard."

He asked council members to note that there was no balance carried over in the local road fund. Young has proposed a portion of the local road fund be set aside for resurfacing.

"We stand by the facts. We stand by the size of our DPW which has been staffed minimally since the early 1970s. And there is no way to resurface streets from the local road fund, there is none," Kriewall said.

City water rates get 42 percent increase

Water rates for Novi residents will increase a whopping 42 percent effective December 1, courtesy of the City of Detroit.

Increases, which are to be approved by Novi City Council Monday, reflect the increased cost of water being charged by the Detroit Water Board.

Residents who formerly paid 74 cents per thousand gallons for city water will now be charged $1.05 per thousand gallons.

For the average residential water user who consumes 40,000 gallons per month the increased rates can be expected to raise the current quarterly billing from $30 to $42.

City officials noted that they have done what they could to minimize the effect of the rate increase by not passing on the total increase passed down from Detroit.

Finance Director Les Gibson noted that the city is being charged 77 percent more for Detroit water. The city was able to reduce the increase to residents from 77 to 42 percent because the cost of operating the local water department and maintaining the water system has not increased at the same rate as the cost of purchasing water.

Gibson explained the charge to residents essentially will cover the purchase price of the water.

"The end result is that we must cover $664,482," Gibson said. "Under the existing rates, water fees will generate $467,375. To cover the shortfall an increase of 42 percent is necessary."

To keep residential increases at a minimum Gibson has recommended the city review water rates on an annual basis rather than every four years.

Mayor Romaine Roethel pointed out that there is "no way around" the rate increase since it is passed down from Detroit.

But as a party in a class action lawsuit against the Detroit Water Board, the city is fighting the increased cost of water, she said. The lawsuit was brought in an attempt to give the metropolitan suburbs a greater voice on the water board, which many believe is presently mismanaged, Roethel said.

City Manager Edward Kriewall said that as bad as the water rate increase is — it could have been worse.

Apparently, Novi did not receive an increase as high as neighboring suburbs because of legislation which limits the water rates in certain communities.

"There is a very old law regarding the setting of water rates which says Detroit must adjust rates within certain parameters," Kriewall said.

In addition to the increases in metered water, miscellaneous charges will be increased as follows:

- water turn-off or turn-on from $7.50 to $15;
- meter tests from $15 to $25;
- unmetered water for residential construction from $25 to $50; and
- unmetered water for commercial or multiple construction from $100 to $200.

Thirteen Mile accidents raise alarm

Residents on Thirteen Mile are concerned about traffic which they perceive is creating a dangerous situation for children in the area.

June Keown, 228 Endwell, has made her concern known through a letter to Novi Mayor Romaine Roethel.

Citing a number of accidents along Thirteen Mile in the past two years, she asks for stricter enforcement of the speed limits and a traffic light at Thirteen Mile and Novi Road. She also cites problems with through traffic on Endwell.

Residents are "angry and afraid to let our children go near this busy road," Keown states in her letter.

"We want our children, our property, protected from these speeding cars, whom seem to have no concern for others," Keown says.

Corporal John Johnson, Novi Police department traffic officer, reports that after studying the area Thirteen Mile does not have a serious traffic problem.

Speeding also is not a factor in most accidents in that area, he reports.

Since January 1979 there have been five accidents on Thirteen Mile in which persons were injured, according to police records. One accident resulted in a fatality. In one of those incidents speed may have been a factor.

Three of the accidents reported by Johnson have involved children and occurred this year.

On March 16 two youngsters on a bicycle were injured when the bike they were riding eastbound on the south shoulder of Thirteen Mile was struck by an automobile.

Reportedly, the bicyclists steered into the path of the vehicle. The driver swerved, but was unable to avoid the cyclists. The injured youngsters were taken to Botsford Hospital.

Speed was not a factor in that incident, Johnson said.

In the second incident, a 14-year-old boy was killed when the bike, he was riding eastbound on the north shoulder of the road was struck from behind. The accident was reported October 24.

The vehicle which struck the bike, allegedly was passing in a no-passing zone. Police also report the vehicle had defective head lights. The boy was riding his bicycle after dark.

The incident has been referred to the Oakland County prosecutor. Police are seeking a charge of negligent homicide against the driver of the vehicle.

The latest incident occurred November 9. An eight year old girl was struck as she was walking on Novi Road just south of Thirteen Mile. The girl was walking on the shoulder of the road when she apparently walked into the path of an oncoming vehicle, according to police.

She was hospitalized in critical condition.

Novi man pleads guilty to second degree murder

Allan W. Smith of 48700 West Ten Mile has pled guilty to charges of second degree murder in connection with the death of a German youth who had been visiting relatives in Novi when he disappeared last year.

Second degree murder is defined as the willful and malicious killing of another person and carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

However, Washtenaw County Prosecutor Brian Mackle said it was agreed in pleas bargaining that Smith, who is 20 years old, would spend between 20-30 years in prison.

Smith will face sentencing in Washtenaw County Circuit Court on December 19.

Testimony in a preliminary examination revealed that the German youth, Ralf Oswald, was taken to a field in Washtenaw County and killed by a blow to the head with a tire iron for $105 dollars he was carrying.

Oswald, 18, had been visiting relatives in Novi with his parents. Visa restrictions and business commitments forced his parents to return to Germany without knowledge of the whereabouts of their son after he disappeared. He was last seen alive in the Farmington Fun Factory Pinball Arcade.

The German youth was driven to the field on the premise of looking for a motor bike, according to police. Smith and the prosecution witness were both in the car.

The witness told the court that Smith was seen striking Oswald over the head with a wooden club while they were in the field. After hitting Oswald, Smith reportedly went back to the car to get a tire iron. He left and was gone for approximately 15 minutes.

When Smith returned he was carrying the purse which belonged to Oswald, according to testimony. It contained $105.

Oswald's badly decomposed body was later found by hunters. With little more to go on than a German watch, Novi police and Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies pieced together the identity of the youth.

Pathologist examinations of the body showed Oswald was killed by a blow to the head with a blunt instrument, causing two skull fractures. The blows left a 1.5 to 1 inch hole in the skull.

The witness, Tommy LaPlante was being held by police in protective custody while the outcome of the case was uncertain.

LaPlante has been released and will not face prosecution in connection with the incident, Mackle said.

Input on spending funds sought from Novi residents

Novi is in the happy position of anticipating $95,600 in Housing and Community Development Block Grant funds for 1981, but just how those monies will be spent is still up in the air. Residents are invited to tell city officials how they believe community development block grant funds for next year should be spent. Comments and recommendations will be accepted by the Housing and Community Development (HCD) committee from now until a public hearing scheduled for December 22.

This is the first year since the city entered the HCD program that a specific project has not been identified at the outset as a priority to receive the funds.

In years past the monies have gone toward the development of Lakeshore Park, construction of the community building at Lakeshore, a water study, renovations to the Community Center on Novi Road and construction of Decker Road.

In 1980 the city used the entire HCD grant of $95,600 for construction of Decker Road. The city had been setting aside portions of the HCD funds for Decker Road since 1975. Construction of the road began this year.

Housing and Community Development funds are available from the federal government based on a formula calculating total population and percentage of low and moderate income population.

Funds must go either directly or indirectly to improve the living conditions of low to moderate income residents. In Novi the funds have primarily gone into what is identified as the target area — the residential area surrounding Walled Lake and Shawood Lake.

Assistant City Manager Alex Allie suggested a number of projects might be considered for HCD funding this year.

Allie said the HCD committee is "open for input" and will meet before the next public hearing to consider suggestions. The committee will formulate a recommendation to be forwarded to the city council.

Parks and Recreation Director Tom O'Bravovic was on hand Monday to make a pitch for using the funds to further develop Lakeshore Park.

He noted that since the master plan for the park has been completed a number of projects which will improve the park have been identified. HCD funds could be used to pave the parking lot and road through the park, improve the beach, acquire additional land and a number of other projects.

Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan also said that his department would prepare a list of apparatus it needs since HCD funds now may be used for such purchases.

The assistant city manager also cautioned the council that the bill authorizing expenditure of HCD funds will expire in 1982.

Historic preservation projects also qualify for HCD funds.

Commerce budget shows big jump in property tax

Commerce Township's 1981 budget will climb 28.4 percent from approximately $1.316 million in 1980 to $1.791 million in the upcoming year.

The 1981 financial outline was unanimously approved last Monday by the township board of trustees, pending review of federal revenue sharing funds.

The most significant increase in the 1981 document is a major leap in current property tax revenues are approximately $697,565 as compared to revenues of $309,340 last year.

The 122 percent jump ($378,225) in property tax revenues accounts for most of the $400,965 increase in the total budget.

Township Supervisor Robert Long, who prepared the budget, said, two millage increases approved during the August primary election will account for much of the property tax increase. Voters passed millage additions to their property taxes for library service and a parkland purchase. Long claimed nearly $325,000 will be tacked on to residents' tax bills during 1981 as a result of the millage increases.

According to Township Treasurer Patrick Doherty, the $687,000 property tax total breaks down into four categories.

Township operating expenses will absorb the majority of that income using 1.41 mills or some $383,275.

The township's parkland purchase from the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority will consume $247,336, an estimated .96 mills. The .3-mill levy for library services will cost township residents $77,292.

The remaining .073 mills will be absorbed through the Montclair Drain Debt Retirement totaling $6,610.

In addition, Doherty and Assessor Wynne Berry confirmed that Commerce properties' state equalized value (SEV) was up 12 percent.

Another significant increase is reflected in the excess of roll taxes. Some $50,000 is expected to be taken in during 1981, almost double the $26,000 budgeted in 1980.

According to Berry, in order to avoid fractional computation in developing tax totals, local governments are permitted to round them off. Commerce will have its totals rounded to the nearest 10 cents. Berry added that because of the state Headlee amendment, there are "a lot of oddball rates."

"Because we had so many odd rates, we had more to round up...like topsy, it just grew," Berry said.

Reductions of revenues are anticipated in the CETA general grant and CETA II for law enforcement. The law enforcement allocation will return to revenue to the township, where it brought $19,500 during the 1980 budget.

CETA's general aid will also show a solid drop from $149,390 in 1980 to $127,000 next year.

Raises in expenditures by Commerce were most significant in township supervisor, clerk and treasurer line items. All showed increases with the supervisor's probably the most major, jumping from $34,697 to $39,200 in '81.

Doherty confirmed that all township employees received a 9.5 percent across the board raise, accounting for much of those increases.

"There was an increase in board and commission fees, as well," Doherty pointed out. The township treasurer added that payment for members attending township meetings jumped from $35 to $45 per year; planning commission totals leaped likewise going from $25 to $35.

College entrance test results raise questions from board members

Members of the Novi Board of Education are not quite sure how to take the recently released results of the American College Test (ACT) and the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

The board learned that 48-52 percent of the students in each Novi High School graduating class goes on to either a four year institution or a community college. Most four-year schools require either the ACT or the SAT as an entrance examination. In recent years more colleges have been requiring the ACT.

Board members were told that most colleges consider a score of 22 on the ACT test "very acceptable." However, some board members expressed concern that 73 students who scored below 22 points on the test would have difficulty entering a college or university.

According to the report, there were 35 Novi students who earned a score of 22 or better, while 73 scored below that point. Scores on the ACT can range from 36 points to 1 point.

In the areas of math and science the scores of Novi High School students were slightly better than the national average, according to the report. In English the test scores of local students were about equal to the national average, while in the area of social studies scores were slightly lower than the national average.

Only nine Novi students took the SAT test since it is no longer required by most schools. Six of the nine students who took the exam scored 500 or better on the verbal portion of the exam, while seven scored 500 or better on the math test. Most colleges consider 500 to be an acceptable score.

Results showed that Novi High School students scored slightly below the national average on the verbal test. On the math exam their scores were slightly above the national average.

The test results concerned some board members. However, those members also commented that they could not interpret the scores and were not sure whether there was a need to be alarmed.

"I've always considered the scores of Novi students higher than average, but not just average," commented Trustee Robert Schram. He asked to receive additional information on how the test scores would reflect a student's entrance into college.

Superintendent Robert Pivko noted that every school has different admission requirements. The schools look at a variety of criteria, one of which is test scores.

A school which requires a 22 score for entrance would be considered "competitive or very competitive in terms of academic standing," Pivko said.

He went on to say that he was not sure how the test results compared to previous years, but he assumed they were similar.

Helen Ditzhay, Administrative Assistant for Instruction, said that students have recorded better scores in the area of social studies in previous years, but for the most part the scores were comparable to results of past years.

She also told the board that many students are encouraged to take the ACT even if they are not sure they want to go to college.

"There are a lot of non-college bound students who take the test, because the scores are used to determine scholarship winners for the Michigan Competitive Scholarships," Ditzhay said.

Schram asked whether the scores could be interpreted to mean half the students who took the ACT will not be able to attend college.

Pivko said that students with lower scores may not be able to go to the college or university of their choice, but they would not be eliminated from attending an institution of higher learning.

Board members asked to see manuals for a number of universities which detail entrance requirements in order to better interpret the significance of the ACT and SAT scores.

Dornan begins as city's chief administrator

J. Michael Dornan began serving as Walled Lake's city manager Monday.

The 29-year-old former Farmington Hills assistant city manager was sworn into office by city Clerk Ruby Lewandowski early Monday morning.

Dornan, who was unanimously selected to the city's top administrative post November 3, was expected to spend the next few weeks acquainting himself to the city's operations, ongoing problems and needs.

Since his selection two weeks ago, Dornan has split time between Farmington Hills and Walled Lake in an attempt to make "a sound transition between the two jobs."

Dornan said shortly after his selection: "I want to get some idea of the pending problems and pending projects — so when I get in place, I hope I can pick up and put 100 percent into providing service to Walled Lake."

The city's new chief administrator will receive $25,500 plus benefits, an increase over the $24,000 earned by former City Manager Peter Parker, who served in the position for nearly three years.

Council selected Dornan from over 150 applicants ending a three-month vacancy in the position created by the termination of Parker in August.

During the interim, Mayor Gaspare LaMarche had served as acting city manager in compliance with the city charter.

Dornan had also been a finalist for the Milford Township manager position, and contended during his interview that he wanted to stay in Oakland County, but move up to the top position in a municipality.

He had served as Farmington Hills' assistant city manager for five years.

Library addition plans on the drawing board

Preliminary plans for an addition to the Walled Lake Library are being prepared by a city resident. Head Librarian Donna Rickabaugh has reported that Lanny Gallion of Walled Lake is developing the preliminary drawings following discussions with library officials.

Gallion has also been previously mentioned by Mayor Gaspare LaMarche as the individual who might prepare plans for an expansion of city hall.

The proposed library expansion would involve construction of a wing to city hall similar to the one in which the library is presently located. Expansion of the 1,848-square-foot facility is expected through the east wall. When completed, the library will contain approximately 4,312 square feet, more than double its present floor space.

Gallion's preliminary plans will be designed to meet the specific needs of the library.

Rickabaugh also suggested that Gallion may be the architect who will develop final plans for the facility.

City council allocated $400 from $10,000 in the city hall expansion fund budget for the library drawings during September. But the library board is not restricted to that $400 price tag. Council members later made it clear that the allocation was not binding on the board, but merely set a limit on allocations from the general fund.

Several times during the past two months, city council has raised the issue of city hall expansion. With the 2nd District Court scheduled to vacate its current facilities in city hall within the next year, floor space in Walled Lake's municipal facility will be freed up for city use, and officials there are predicting expansion of the entire building.

"Hopefully, we will have the same architect (as the city) or they'll work together," Rickabaugh said in October. "However, the library expansion is a separate project."

If the library decides to stick with Gallion, her hopes of having the same architect develop plans for both the library and the remainder of city hall appear likely to be realized. Mayor Gaspare LaMarche on several occasions has expressed interest in commissioning Gallion to complete the city's portion of the municipal building development.

Financing of the library addition is expected to come from library funds. Money would be given to the city exclusively for building the new wing with the library receiving lease time in return.

Gym classes scrutinized by school board member

Prohibitions against the sexual segregation of physical education classes has led a Novi school board member to ask whether the quality of physical education courses is declining as a result of the federal restrictions.

Specifically, Trustee Robert Schram has asked if the quality of physical education programs has declined as a result of federal guidelines which require equal programs for girls and boys.

As part of a discussion of high school curricular offerings, Schram asked High School Athletic Director John Osborne recently whether his program has been negatively affected by the federal requirements, known as Title IX. Schram has raised similar questions in the past.

Under Title IX requirements, school districts must provide the same physical education opportunities including facilities and programs for boys and girls. Exclusion of either sex from specific physical education classes is not allowed. Separate but equal classes do not meet Title IX requirements since activities must include the participation of both boys and girls.

Girls legally can be excluded from some contact sports offered as extracurricular activities. However, students must be given a choice of whether or not to enroll in regular physical education classes.

Schools which do not comply with Title IX regulations can lose federal funding of some programs.

"I don't like what I've heard from the middle school," Schram said. "The boys don't like it; the girls don't like it; no one likes it and it doesn't seem like anyone is getting anything out of it."

Osborne said his programs have been affected by the federal guidelines. Schram asked whether the course offerings could be described in a manner that students would channel themselves into female or male physical education classes in order to avoid what he sees as a dilution of the quality of both classes.

Osborne said that students in some classes have a choice of activities. By offering a choice of activities, students who want to avoid physical contact can do so, Osborne said. However, he noted that it's not possible to offer a choice of activities in all classes.

Osborne said after the meeting that courses are grouped in such a manner that students who want to be involved in contact sports can enroll in those classes, while those seeking non-contact sports can enroll in those. For example, flag football, competitive basketball and field hockey might form one physical education offering, while dance, volleyball and softball would comprise another physical education group.

No action was taken on Schram's comments and there was no indication that the questions would be pursued further.

Beautification head proves she practices what she preaches

Everyone knows that fall means football games, pumpkins, frost and hot apple cider. But the season also has its less enjoyable aspects — like raking leaves, for example. Staff Photographer Steve Fecht found one of Walled Lake's most distinguished citizens, Ardy Mercer, making sure that the lawn of her landmark home on East Walled Lake Drive was properly tended last week by tackling the leaves with some able assistance from Steve Rundell. Not at all ironically, Mrs. Mercer is also chairperson of the Walled Lake Beautification Commission — and Fecht's photograph provides ample testimony that she does, indeed, practice what she preaches.

Cuts a question mark

By STEPHEN CVENGROS

The status of police protection in Commerce Township remains a major question mark following denial by county officials of a report that manpower levels in the township sub-station will be reduced.

Two Oakland County Sheriff Department's representatives denied knowledge of the impending cuts that Detective Mark Goodrich reported to The News one week ago.

Captain James Curtis and Sergeant Frank Mouser, both with the county sheriff's department, claimed they had no information that a reduction in personnel was either forthcoming or planned.

The comments by county officials of protective services for all Oakland County Sheriff Department's Commerce sub-station, that six officers and an investigator would soon be removed from the township.

However, Goodrich's report that the Commerce force would be cut in half was not totally denied.

Mouser confirmed the possibility that Lieutenant Richard Hubbele, to whom both he and Goodrich report, may have delivered such an edict without Mouser's knowing.

Both Goodrich and Hubbele were vacationing and unavailable for comment on the situation.

Mouser, administrative sergeant of protective services for all Oakland County patrol officers, said Monday: "As far as pulling anybody out, per se, we have no plans."

"I know of no plan to move anyone anywhere at this point," he added.

"Maybe there was something I missed last week (while I was on vacation). I don't want to deny it, because we both work for Lieutenant Hubbele."

"It is possible, but highly unlikely. It is certainly something that could happen, but I don't know of any plans to do so," Mouser observed.

Curtis, when confronted with the possible dilemma last week, also knew nothing of such developments.

"It's news to me," Curtis replied.

Goodrich said last Monday that the county sheriff's office had notified him of the cut and called the move "a matter of economics."

Ironically, Goodrich's announcement came on the heels of a defeated township proposal for added law enforcement personnel in Commerce.

Goodrich noted that the proposed reduction of officers was not a form of pressure toward the future passage of the proposal, which he anticipated would come before voters again in a special March election.

The advisory question to establish a special assessment district to fund additional police protection was defeated by Commerce voters by a 3,699-3,037 margin in the November 4 general election. Electors rejected the proposal for a 1.75-mill tax increase to finance 14 officers in the sub-station.

"Commerce only pays for six officers and we tried to subsidize the rest until Commerce could pay for them," Goodrich said. But following the election, Goodrich was told by township officials, "the word was Commerce was pleased with the coverage it was paying for."

"The sheriff's department just can't continue to offer subsistence," he added.

Mouser explained his understanding of the county's view on the sub-station's payroll.

"We have nine people stationed there and six belong entirely to the township leading to the arrest and/or conviction of anyone on area charges. People can call the Arson Control hotline by placing a collect call to 517-322-0469. Callers can remain anonymous if they so desire, the chief said.

nothing of such developments.

Goodrich predicted the reported reduction in manpower would cause more "paper pushing" in the sub-station.

He reported that one investigator would assume responsibility for the 2,000 follow-ups currently handled by two investigators. And the six deputies would be removed from the road patrol.

"We're just going to be swamped," he observed last week. The sub-station supervisor predicted then that officers would try to deal with more serious felony."

Officials in the sub-station could neither confirm nor deny any knowledge of the reported reduction in Goodrich's absence.

Township officials were also unaware of any cutbacks. Commerce Treasurer Patrick Doherty, representing the township's three full-time officials, said, he had not received word that such a cut was forthcoming.

Wixom fire being investigated

Wixom Police are still awaiting the return of lab reports before making a determination that arson was involved in a blaze which gutted the Kelly Homes sales office on Pontiac Trail November 17.

But Police Chief Philip Leonard confirmed that the preliminary determination is that arson was involved.

"It's still in the 'suspect arson' stage," reported Leonard. "We won't be able to make an official determination until the lab reports are in and have been analyzed."

Leonard also reported that arson investigators from the Michigan State Police have confirmed that "flammable liquids were involved in the fire."

Wixom Police under the direction of Sergeant Lawrence Beamish are working in conjunction with the Michigan State Police in the investigation.

The blaze which gutted the interior of the building October 8 was the second at the Pontiac Trail site within two days. Wixom fire fighters were called to the scene October 7 at 8:03 a.m. to extinguish an electrical fire in the walls of the two-story, pre-fabricated structure that was used as a sales office by Kelly Homes.

The fire which ultimately destroyed the building was reported by an anonymous caller at 5:15 a.m. November 8. Fire Chief George Spencer reported that a gas can was found at the scene and the case was turned over to law enforcement officials to investigate the possibility of arson.

The Wixom Police Department is looking for anyone with information related to the fire.

Leonard reported that police are presently interviewing fire fighters, downtown businessmen and anyone else who might have been in the area when the blaze broke out. He requested that anyone with information about the fire contact the Wixom Police Department at 624-6114.

Additionally, Leonard noted that a $1,000 reward is available for information leading to the arrest and/or conviction of anyone on area charges. People can call the Arson Control hotline by placing a collect call to 517-322-0469. Callers can remain anonymous if they so desire, the chief said.

Wixom residents rap council on Kelly Homes project

Wixom's City Council came under heavy fire last week from a group of Birch Park subdivision residents who are upset with the manner in which 17 lots have been developed in their subdivision.

Leading the opposition was John Lee who said his primary interest at this point is to prevent similar occurrences from happening in the future.

"We're pretty much stuck with this development the way it is, but we want to make sure that the city tightens up its procedures so this type of thing doesn't happen again," Lee told the council.

"We should make sure that our inspection procedures are adequate so that Wixom doesn't lose its reputation as a progressive small city growing into a progressive large city."

Birch Park residents are disturbed over work done by Kelly Homes in preparing 17 lots in the subdivision for sale. Specifically, Kelly Homes has constructed dirt roads to service the 17 lots and also installed ditching.

New subdivisions in Wixom are required by city ordinance to have paved streets with curbs and gutters, but the roads installed by Kelly Homes are exempt from the ordinance because the 17 lots were platted in 1929 and the ordinance was not adopted until 1968.

Wixom also has an ordinance which requires new homes to be tied into the sanitary sewer system, but the same ordinance also exempts homes more than 200 feet from an existing sewer line from the requirement. Only two of the 17 lots owned by Kelly Homes are within 200 feet of the existing sewer line, and there are no plans at the present time to construct homes on either of those lots, according to city officials.

The city council ordered that a stop order be placed on the road and ditching at its October 28 meeting, but City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli reported last week that the stop order could not be enforced because there had been no violations.

"They (Kelly Homes) are the owners of platted lots in the city and they have a legal right to sell platted lots," said Bulgarelli.

The city attorney also noted that he has been informed by city engineers that the road put in by Kelly Homes meets all city specifications.

In response to Bulgarelli's report on the Kelly Homes development, the council voted unanimously to direct the city administration to have the engineers prepare a report on the cost of extending the sewer line to service the 17 lots.

Council Member Dennis Andrews said the city "should get the sewer line over there before anyone starts building with septic tanks."

The council also set up a meeting between the city engineers, building inspector and DPW head with Birch Park representatives. The meeting was held Monday afternoon.

Birch Park residents made it known at last week's council session that they were still unhappy with the developments.

Bill Hulme told the council that he did not want the sewer line extended at taxpayer's expense. "He (Kelly Homes) put in the lots — let him pay for the sewer lines," said Hulme.

The strongest criticism, however, was lodged by Lee who charged that the council has "let us down."

"I suggest that the way the building department works should be reviewed," said Lee.

City officials, meanwhile, maintain that all the work done by Kelly Homes has been done to city specifications and with the proper permits.

Bulgarelli in his report to the council stated that many of the residents' concerns over drainage and septic tanks can be resolved at the time someone applies for a building permit to begin construction of a home.

"This is not a new subdivision," stated the city attorney. "It's been a platted subdivision since 1929 and all Kelly Homes is doing is putting in a road prior to selling the lots. There's no law which prevents them from selling platted lots."

Brookover cites charter violations

By STEPHEN CVENGROS

Continual breakdowns in communication between Walled Lake's City Council and Plan Commission may be leading the two groups toward a major confrontation.

Indications that the council is not pleased with its plan commission surfaced during last Tuesday's council meeting.

Council Member Thomas Brookover questioned particulars surrounding a recently developed aerial map cabinet, such as payment, builder and placement of the article by the commission.

Brookover expressed opposition to the plan commission's recent acquisition of the aerial map cabinet on the basis that it was a violation of the city charter. Brookover charged that construction and placement of the cabinet ignored at least two areas of city regulations.

The cabinet was ordered by Plan Commission Chairman Ken Tucker. Commissioner Jim Donnelly was given $495 to construct the storage bin and additional $115 was allocated to have the cabinet placed on the wall in city council chambers.

Brookover contended that Donnelly should not have been allowed to construct the cabinet, calling it a conflict of interest because of an area in the city charter prohibiting officials from accepting more than $100 for services rendered.

The plan commission was also charged with violation of a different portion of the city charter, which defines that projects over $500 must be sent out for public bids.

However, Tucker allegedly was aware of the $500 limitation and attempted to avoid violating it by setting the project cost at $495. What the plan commission chairman neglected to include was the cost of placing the cabinet in council chambers.

Brookover added that the commission did not have such an item detailed in its budget, nor had it requested permission to hang the item in council chambers.

"It's nice," Brookover said of the cabinet, "But I have a problem with it. Mr. Donnelly is a plan commission member. I'm concerned not because it's there, I'm concerned that whoever authorized it did so in disregard of the charter."

"All city employees should be made aware of that fact," Brookover concluded.

Lake apartment complex proposed

Construction of a new apartment complex could start within six months if developers of Walled Lake Lakeside Apartments can resolve some minor problems with the Walled Lake Plan Commission by the committee's December 9 meeting.

Plans for the proposed apartment complex were submitted to the commission in October and call for construction of three multiple-dwelling units with a total of 75 apartments. Three units for handicapped persons and a manager's office will be among the features of the proposed complex.

Lakeside Apartments would be built on a parcel of land zoned residential multiple (RM-2) and located on Walled Lake at the junction of Pontiac Trail and Lard and West roads. On the other side of the Novi city limits, which borders one side of the parcel, is another section of land owned by the same individuals who plan to develop the Lakeside Apartments, according to Tod Kilroy, planning consultant for the City of Walled Lake. The owners of the two parcels plan to develop the Novi plot as a continuation of the Walled Lake apartments complex, Kilroy said.

Robert Seroda of Design Associates, the firm representing the owners of the property, submitted the original site plan for commission approval in October. In accepting the plan for study, commission members noted Seroda would be required to make several adjustments in order to receive a recommendation to approve the plan from the commission.

Suggested improvements included specifying the type and location of exterior lighting at the complex and what type of surface would be used to finish off the parking lot, stipulating on the site plan blueprint that a masonry screen wall would be installed on the perimeter of the complex and identifying location of sidewalks.

The advisory question to establish a special assessment district to fund additional police protection was defeated by Commerce voters by a 3,699-3,037 margin in the November 4 general election. Electors rejected the proposal for a 1.75-mill tax increase to finance 14 officers in the sub-station.

Wixom park spending criticized by Resner

Construction of the third and final phase of the North Wixom Park may be underway as soon as this year as a result of action by the Wixom City Council last week.

Specifically, the council voted 4-2 to authorize city officials to advertise for bids for the third phase of the park development project which includes construction of four tennis courts, reorientation of an existing little league ball diamond and development of a sledding hill.

Affirmative votes were cast by William Wyllie, Gunnar Mettala, Wayne Glessner and Dennis Andrews. Dissenting votes were cast by Sidney Resner and Nancy Dingledey.

Cost of the project has been pegged at $28,500.

Additionally, the council voted to add improvements to the existing men's softball diamond in the North Wixom Park to the project at the request of Parks and Recreation Commission Chairman John Momborg.

Momborg asked that the "playability and safety" of the softball diamond be improved by extending the present 375-foot field to 300 feet and moving back the fence.

City officials have been concerned about the safety of the existing ball field since several players have toppled over the 275-foot fence during games. Extending the length of the field to 300 feet is expected to reduce the number of accidents on the playing field.

Total cost of improving the men's softball field has been pegged at $3,100, bringing the total project cost to an estimated $65,000.

Wixom industrial firm seeks move to Livonia

The relocation of a Wixom industry to Livonia has been approved by the Wixom City Council.

Specifically, the council voted unanimously last week to permit Redford Air Tool, Inc., to transfer employment from its existing location on Wixom Road to a new building in Livonia.

Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek reported that council approval of the transfer of employment is necessary because Redford Air Tool has applied for financing through the Livonia Economic Development Corporation (EDC).

The EDC Act requires that the governmental unit from which employment is to be transferred must consent to the transfer by adoption of a resolution.

Bonczek told the council that Redford Air Tool wants to expand its operations by providing for on-site retail sales.

"We've worked with company officials for many months to help them find a similar location in Wixom, but we haven't been able to come up with anything that will give them the amount of traffic they need to operate the retail sales portion of their operation as effectively as they can in Livonia," said the mayor assistant.

Redford Air Tool officials estimate that moving their facilities from Wixom to Livonia will result in a 100 percent increase in business volume.

Bonczek noted that it was not unusual for cities to be asked to approve resolutions for transfer of employment under the EDC legislation.

He noted that several communities have approved the transfers for firms which plan to move into Wixom.

"It's pretty much a spirit of cooperation," stated Bonczek. "Approval of the transfer will improve the employment picture for the region as a whole."

"There's nothing to be gained by denying the resolution and not approving it would work a hardship on Redford Air Tool," he added.

Walled Lake details city manager's written agreement

Having already approved a job description and evaluation process for the position of city manager, Walled Lake's City Council last week unanimously adopted a written agreement for J. Michael Dorman, the city's new chief administrator.

The evaluation form, job description and written agreement have been adopted by the council since former City Manager Peter Parker was dismissed from his responsibilities August 5.

While Dorman will be receiving more money than Parker ($25,500 versus $24,000), the youthful city manager will serve without a clause for termination pay, a measure that Parker had retained.

Discussion concerning deletion of the termination pay clause has been debated heavily by council members; and one member of the council, Heather Hill, went so far as to suggest several weeks ago that council may once again be preparing for the worst.

Another abrupt termination — if the clause is not added to the written agreement with Dorman.

While the clause for termination pay would not create job security, since council retains the right to terminate Dorman at anytime, some council members believe it may cause the council as a whole to think twice about firing a man whose name will continue to show up on the weekly payroll.

Much of the written agreement between Dorman and the city could probably be considered standard.

The new city manager will receive 10 vacation days after the first year and 15 days after four years. He also will receive 12 sick days, four personal days and 14 holidays per year.

The city will contribute $2,000 yearly to the International City Management Association Retirement Corporation on Dorman's behalf, and provide health, life, and sick and accident insurance policies equivalent to those currently granted other full-time city employees.

The agreement also calls for the city to provide some $425 per year for education/conferences and an additional $425 per year for memberships and dues.

Dorman's car allowance will be identical to Parker's — $150 per month for using his own vehicle regardless of how many miles he drives. Added expenses for the city manager will be paid up to $497.36.

Longevity pay will also be furnished equal to that awarded other city employees.

Dorman will be required to become a resident of the city within seven months, 30 days after his six month evaluation.

The council established the seven-month deadline after heated discussion regarding residency requirements for Dorman. The new city manager initially requested that he be given one year to move into the city, but Council Member

Novi raps road commission for inattention to needs

Would you believe that both Ten Mile and Novi Road will be five-lane highways sometime in the years ahead?

Or that Twelve Mile will be widened to six lanes, divided by a grassy median?

Or that Thirteen Mile will be a five-lane road?

All of those projects could come to pass if Novi officials get their way.

In fact, the Novi City Council recently adopted a resolution calling for the Oakland County Road Commission to widen Ten Mile from Haggerty to Napier and Novi Road from Grand River to Eight Mile.

The resolution was presented to the commission by City Manager Edward Kriewall at a public hearing last Wednesday on their 1981 budget and road construction program.

City officials are convinced that existing traffic volumes merit the widening of both Ten Mile and Novi Road.

As the western sections of Novi begin to fill up with houses, the need for Ten Mile to be widened will increase. Ten Mile already carries a heavy volume of traffic, not only to Novi residences but also to Lyon Township, South Lyon and Livingston County.

The need to widen Novi Road to five lanes also exists at the present time. Perhaps even more than Ten Mile, Novi Road is already burdened with heavy traffic volume. City officials point out that Novi Road is the major artery from cities to the south such as Northville and Plymouth to the I-96 interchange and Twelve Oaks Mall.

The need to widen Novi Road and Thirteen Mile may not be quite as acute at the present time, but city officials are concerned that the projects be "put on line" before the need becomes too much greater.

The need for widening Twelve Mile is created by the Twelve Oaks Mall as well as anticipated development in Farmington Hills and Novi's regional center area.

Both Novi and Farmington Hills recently passed resolutions calling for the formation of a task force to impress the need of widening Twelve Mile on county officials.

The key to widening Thirteen Mile rests with development of M-275. As presently proposed, the M-275 plans call for an interchange at Thirteen Mile. And, if M-275 and the interchange are constructed, Thirteen Mile will have to be widened to bear the traffic volume.

The resolution adopted by the Novi City Council charges that the proposed Oakland County road program budget for 1981 is "lacking in badly needed improvements that should be scheduled in the City of Novi."

Additionally, the resolution puts the council on record as having "grave concern over the continued disregard of county programming for past priorities (in Novi)."

The problem is one of finances. The commission's 1981 construction budget of $8.7 million represents a decline from 1980 levels of $10.4 million. The major reason for the decline is loss of state gas and weight tax revenues. The county expects to receive some $2 million in gas and weight tax revenues in 1981 as compared to $4.7 million in 1980 and $6.2 million in 1979.

Five projects — none of them in Novi — will eat up 83 percent of the $8.7 million budget.

Charter violations cited tinued citing city charter specifications.

The council member was also opposed to the placement of the cabinet in council chambers without prior notification.

"That's city hall. If they made a change in council chambers, is that right or wrong? I really have no objections to the cabinet being there. It's nice and will be eminently useful."

Tucker could not be reached for comment regarding the communication matters.

City Manager J. Michael Dorman was instructed to write a letter to the various municipal employees and board and commission members informing them of those areas of the charter.

Dorman's correspondence was also to "point out to Mr. Tucker that this expenditure was of great concern."

Brookover acknowledged that he was disturbed about the storage bin because of previous actions by the plan commission.

Most prominent among the alleged misuse of funds and lack of communication occurred near the end of last year, when city council suddenly found itself with a $300 bill for overtime typing Tucker had ordered.

"He just came to us and said, 'Pay this. I don't have any money in the budget,'" said Brookover. "What do you do? You end up paying for those services which have already been rendered and the city ought to pay."

"It does not endear me to Ken Tucker — but that's his style," Brookover noted last Thursday. The councilman cautioned he did not want to have the commission coming to council for more money at the year's end.

During the meeting, Brookover was most adamant about his opposition.

"I mentioned, at that time (when the typing bill was paid), that I was not pleased. Now, here we have it again, and now it's a violation of the charter," the councilman remarked.

Brookover also questioned where the money would come from for the cabinet.

"If it's in the budget fine, if not I don't know," he said.

City Clerk Ruby Lewandowski suggested that Tucker may have removed payment for the cabinet from the wrong line in his budget.

Council Member Walter Lewandowski indicated that the plan commission's chairman may have decided to remove the item from printing and advertising, which contained $2,000.

Council approved a motion to take the cabinet's cost out of the plan commission's budget and waive the bidding requirement. The action passed by a 4-2 margin with Brookover and William Roberts opposed. Heather Hill was absent.

Planners delete centers

In removing the Thirteen Mile/Novi Road center from the master plan, the planners decided to designate the area for single family residential development in spite of Cairns' warning that the single family designation may be difficult to defend against a court challenge.

Although the planners voted to remove the Eight Mile/Grissold and Thirteen Mile/Novi Road centers from the master plan, they decided to retain the designated convenience center location at Ten Mile/Beck Road.

Roethel said he felt the location should be retained on the master plan, but recommended that the site be no larger than three acres as presently zoned.

Planner Peter Romanow responded that he felt the three-acre designation was insufficient, however. "We should get it on the master plan so that the people know exactly what is proposed," said Romanow.

Romanow added that if the site is restricted to three acres "all you'll get is junk. You'll get fast food places and pinball parlors," he stated.

Cairns agreed that three acres was insufficient for a convenience center. "What will happen is you'll be faced with pressures for additional commercial zoning in that area which could result in strip commercial development on Ten Mile," said the planning consultant.

The planners ultimately voted to retain a convenience center at the Ten Mile/Beck Road intersection, noting that the master plan text prescribes the size of convenience centers as five to 10 acres. Additionally, the planners stated that the parcel "need not be rezoned at

Walled Lake Schools cite communication as top need

"Improved communications" is the single most important need in the Walled Lake School District, according to a recent survey of students, parents, teachers and registered voters.

Actually, the finding was the result of two surveys conducted by school administrators in an attempt to determine public and professional staff attitudes about the needs of the school district.

The determination that "improved communications" is the district's top need was made by comparing the results of the two studies.

The first study involved a survey of the professional staff, while the second survey was a "needs assessment instrument designed to provide data to be used in the identification of important district goals, programs, activities and services; and how adequately these were currently being met by the district as perceived by the professional staff, students, registered voters and the parents of students."

All teachers were asked to respond to the professional staff survey, while a random sample of staff, students, registered voters and parents were surveyed in the needs assessment instrument.

School officials report there was a 90 percent confidence level with the results of the needs assessment survey which was sent to 377 registered voters, 269 professional staff members and 395 students (high school seniors). As a result of the findings, school officials are directing their attention to the need for "improved communications."

Specifically, the combined studies showed a need for improved communications in three areas: 1) communication between the school board and public; 2) communication between the administration and the public; and 3) community knowledge of school finances.

The means for meeting the need for "improved communications" has not yet been determined, although there has been some preliminary discussion regarding the need for a public information director. The district previously employed a public relations director on a part-time basis, but the position was deleted in response to budget problems and has not been reinstated.

Other findings of the need assessment survey are as follows:

Most Important Items: All four groups (teachers, students, parents and voters) agreed that the items of greatest importance are:

1. Teacher-student communications

2. Develop skills needed to find a job or pursue further education

3. Remedial programs for students with learning problems

Least Important Items: All four groups agreed that the items of least importance was providing leisure time activities. Three of the four groups felt that "least important" tags could be placed on 1) develop appreciation of cultural things and 2) field trips.

Most Adequately Met: Three of the four groups felt that "least adequately met" labels could be placed on:

1. Community knowledge of school finances (voters disagreed)

2. Administration's communications with public (voters disagreed)

3. District-wide public relations program (students disagreed) disagreed) 3. Physical education (voters disagreed) 4. Adult high school completion (voters disagreed) 5. College preparation (students disagreed)

Least Adequately Met: Three of the four groups felt that "least adequately met" labels could be placed on:

Lakes Agency Council plan stronger ties between groups

The controversial decision to relocate Sand District Court facilities in the McComb Building, which has forced the Walled Lake Department of Social Services (DSS) office to seek new quarters, may have some positive repercussions for the Lakes Agency Council (LAC).

An organization of human service agencies in the Walled Lake Consolidated School District, LAC has often been considered more of a reactionary than an action group, according to LAC Chairman Ed Hunter, who also serves as youth minister for St. Williams Catholic Church. Hunter and other LAC members are hoping not to alter the organization, but develop improved coordination between the 30-plus agencies involved and catch the eye of other Walled Lake area human services groups not already members.

LAC's past record has been somewhat inconsistent, according to Hunter.

"Lakes Agency has tended to communicate only when there was a need," Hunter explained. Both attaining and retaining the DSS office in the Walled Lake area are projects in which the LAC has been actively involved.

"Since 1971, we've been involved on some things and passive on some things—not that we have to act on everything that happens," he continued.

"We're not proposing any major changes. We just want to promote inter-agency sharing," Hunter explained.

"We want to get more organized, rewrite the by-laws and get a commitment from agencies. We've been much more reactionary in the past, although we've always been information sharing." The LAC has planned two major projects in their efforts to operate more efficiently.

Hunter reported that the organization will be contacting all human service agencies in the school district and inviting them to become active in LAC.

Several years ago, a directory of area services was distributed and the council hopes to include such a list in a proposed newsletter. Addition of new agencies would not only bring new blood, but offer LAC more exposure to the community and other area agencies. Another project on the LAC horizon could be a decision to hire a coordinator.

According to Hunter, a group called Citizens Planning Council for Human Services, formulated by LAC, developed a handbook entitled "Recommendations for Delivery of Human Services in the Walled Lake School District Area" earlier this year. One of the chief needs identified in the guide was development of a coordinator for LAC.

That coordinator would be doing much of the same work Hunter currently follows up on—but never quite has enough time to pursue as extensively as he'd like because of his full-time position at St. Williams.

Still, communication appears to be the key to LAC's future success. "We want to provide a forum so that people in the area get the chance to know each other and support each other," Hunter added.

Treasure hunts require concentration, driving skills

By KATHY JENNINGS

For some, crisp autumn air and the changing of the leaves means it's time to gather the hunting gear and head for the northland.

But some of the fiercest hunters don't tote a gun and what they're hunting can take them north, south, east or west—depending upon whether or not they have correctly decoded their clues.

These are the treasure hunters, fighting a battle of wits against their fellow hunters and the devious minds which developed the clues that started the hunt in the first place.

Their quarry is a cash prize which awaits the first group to solve all the clues and arrive at the final stop on the hunt in second place. That's right, second place.

The first place team gets to plan next year's hunt.

Any of the hunters Nov's Meadowbrook Lake Subdivision will tell you that you don't know what fun is until you've been on a treasure hunt.

They've had one annually for the past 10 years and the hunt is the best attended event the subdivision sponsors. This year 86 people participated in the Meadowbrook Lake treasure hunt.

Specific rules vary from hunt to hunt. For example, the Meadowbrook Lake group has had enough experience that their hunts are just about down to a science. Hunters don't even have to get out of their cars to solve the clues.

It takes the proper solution of nine clues to find the Meadowbrook Lake treasure, and for those who become hopelessly confused a panic envelope can be opened.

Clues are picked up at the subdivision tennis courts and the hunt begins with the husbands madly dashing from the tennis courts to cars where their wives are waiting to peel out as soon as the men jump aboard. Two couples travel in each car and work out the clues together.

They are armed with the boundaries of the hunt, informational tools like a telephone book or a Boy Scout handbook. Some times they are told to bring along a useless object, such as a teddy bear, thrown in for confusion.

Through a process of guessing, brainstorming and knowing the area each group comes up with a solution to the first clue, which directs them to a specific location. There they learn which clue to open next and how to open the clue, until all nine clues are solved.

The hunters have a deadline to reach their destination. If clues remained unsolved by the time the deadline is reached the final panic envelope is opened. Inside are directions to the restaurant where prizes are awarded to the winners.

Over dinner the teams swap stories of the incredible way they solved the clues.

Beverly Birou said that one quirk of the Meadowbrook Lake hunt is that after reaching the destination required by that clue the hunter must follow the instructions which can be completed only if the hunter has gone to the location. For example, the instructions will ask "what is the color of the front door of the building next door?" If the answer is red, the hunter will open the red end of the next envelope.

If the wrong end of the envelope is opened the hunters are penalized. At the end of the hunt, the group which came in first with the least number of penalties is declared the winner.

One of the trickiest clues the Birous have come across was the invisible ink hint. The trick was to heat the paper, bearing the clue, without burning it completely.

Then there was the candy bar stuck full of pin holes. If you held it up to the light just right it spelled the location of the next destination.

They also remember the pencils which each had the lead removed. As the hunters stared at the pencils trying to uncover the secret, the hint was neatly curled up inside the pencil, where the lead had been.

Some clues are not what they appear to be. A tennis ball sent novice hunters scurrying to the nearest court, only to find the tennis ball had been almost invisibly split with a razor blade, and the clue nestled inside.

Another Meadowbrook Lake treasure hunter, Beverly Hansen, was impressed with the microfilm-frozen-in-the-ice clue. It took a magnifying glass to read that one.

Another clue sent all the hunters to the Nov's High School parking lot where they were told to put a sign in the front window of their car, Hansen recalled.

The hunters had to find the answers to questions by running around to each of the cars.

And for another clue a piece of plastic had to be rolled up just right in order to read the clue along the edge.

A similar clue was encountered by the Wixom treasure hunters. Liz Peck reports they found a clue hidden inside a donut, sealed inside a package of Awrey donuts.

The Wixom group has been at it for five years. It started as a subdivision activity and grew into an citywide event.

Peck was stumped by a puzzle consisting of a page full of blocks with words at the top saying "color me." When the blocks which comprise the words "color me" are colored in the remaining letters spell the location of the next clue.

We got to the hill and I ran up to see it. Then my husband started running up after me. These people were driving by and they thought he was chasing me if I needed any help," Peck said with a laugh.

It's the possibility of such incidents that local police are usually notified when a treasure hunt is being planned for the area.

But that warning is not enough to keep the overzealous hunter from getting a speeding ticket, if caught by police, as Hansen ruefully attests.

But veteran treasure hunter and pastor of Faith Community United Presbyterian Church Dick Henderson says one of the secrets to his success in cracking the cleverest hunts is "driving fast."

While Henderson refrained from "giving his secrets to the entire community," he said brain-storming is the key.

"You toss out any possible idea and eventually someone will get something close to it or just say it (the solution)."

Veterans warn rookie hunters not to overlook the obvious, but not to carry it to extremes either. Henderson notes the case of the 36-inch long piece of wood bearing the words "wood road." But the wise ones measured the wood, pondered the clue and headed for the correct destination—Timberline Lumber Yard.

For Henderson the fun of the hunt is in solving the clues, not planning them.

"You never know how people are going to react to a clue. One that you might think is difficult they could get right away."

Clue drafters report it can take as long as three months to plan the event properly. Those who have won a hunt say it's not uncommon to begin thinking up clues for the next hunt as soon as the last hunt is over.

Marilyn Rice will be drawing up the clues for next year's Meadowbrook Lake hunt, along with her husband Bill and Norm and Evelyn Young.

They'll be working out stumps they hope will compete with the macaroni clue.

"That was the time Bill Rice thought if he took all the pieces of macaroni in a plastic bag he would spell out the location of the next stop on the hunt. The hunters ended up in South Lyon, never suspecting the clue was on the inside of the tie holding the bag closed.

Or maybe they can come up with one better than the Dog Bone connected to the Lions Adventure Series ticket—Bonaventure Roller Skating Rink is the solution to that one.

Treasure hunts are gaining popularity and with true enthusiasts going on more than one hunt annually it would seem at some point the clues would just run out.

"We'll never run out of clues—clues are everywhere," Birou declared.

Maple Pointe Beach refuse district gets trustees' okay

Commerce Township's Board of Trustees voted unanimously last week to establish a special assessment district for refuse collection in the Maple Pointe Beach subdivision.

As a result of the board's action, Maple Pointe Beach residents will pay $55.94 annually for weekly refuse collection.

The special assessment will affect approximately 195 improved lots in the subdivision. The remainder of Maple Pointe Beach's 235 parcels will not be charged for the weekly collection.

Several residents protested the establishment of the special assessment district for a variety of reasons at the board's November 10 session.

One woman contended that residents with summer cottages in the subdivision would benefit from the assessment.

However, Township Supervisor Robert Long contested that view, saying he didn't believe there's any way that summer cottages can be excluded from the assessment roll.

Maple Pointe Beach Subdivision Association President Ray Mikula noted that if a summer cottage were sold, the refuse collection privileges would remain with the property should the new owners decide to use it as a permanent residence. Mikula added that he had surveyed the subdivision prior to seeking development of the assessment district and found only three sites used as summer cottages.

"Those three summer cottage residences will be the only ones that don't benefit from the assessment. A few people are going to suffer, but we're only talking about two or three,"

Mikula remarked. Another resident objected that she would have to pay $7 more per year than she is presently paying through a private contractor.

Mikula noted that the firm which presently collects the woman's refuse is not licensed to service Commerce Township and soon would be raising its rates to an equivalent level.

He further stated that residents would probably save money through establishment of the special assessment district.

Mikula claimed to have received signatures from 50 percent of all subdivision senior citizens contacted. Long said petitions are being circulated in several subdivisions to start similar districts since the time that a refuse collection district was established in Double Privilege.

Tavern's 'live entertainment' scares council

If the roof on city hall jumped just a last week it was probably just a collective sigh from Walled Lake officials.

During last Tuesday's city council meeting, Council Member Walter Lewandowski questioned live entertainment privileges of a local tavern, the Town Pump.

Lewandowski noted that a spanking new sign was hanging on the front of the building boasting that entertainment was being provided.

In any other city but Walled Lake,

Lewandowski's quizzical response may have gone unnoticed. However, Walled Lake has some recent history that still leaves a bad taste in city officials' mouths.

And when Nicholas Karagas hung up his "live entertainment" sign at the Town Pump, the city thought it was seeing blue for a second time. Minor panic stirred in city hall and officials wanted to know: Was this going to become Camelot Inn II?

During the past decade, Ben Bundo's Camelot Inn, located just west of city hall, was the site of several law enforcement raids to halt bottomless go-go dancing. Courts are still deliberating on those actions, both police and dancers'.

"Oh yeah, I was approached by the city," Karagas said. "But I'm just going to have a three or four piece combo in here. No girls — nothing like Bundo. Just a country and western band."

Police Chief Wilford Hook questioned Karagas regarding his licensing and the Town Pump's owner claims everything's in order.

"We have an entertainment permit.

Had I realized the apprehension I would have contacted them," Karagas added. "The sign saying, 'live entertainment' only — that was their concern."

City Clerk Ruby Lewandowski confirmed Hook's communication with Karagas and said the police chief would continue "checking on it" when he returned from vacation.

"The concern was it could evolve into something (like the Camelot Inn)," the city clerk said. "Someone had to check it out."

Teachers oppose consolidation

Novi board reviews high school curriculum offerings

Courses at Novi High School which do not have sufficient enrollment to justify continuation should not be eliminated from the curriculum, teachers said at a special session with the school board last week to discuss course consolidation.

Department heads met with the school board to discuss the possibility of dropping certain courses from the curriculum. Staff members explained curriculum offerings currently available to students, addressing specifically those classes identified by the administration as having low enrollment levels.

Instead of dropping low enrollment courses from the curriculum, the teachers recommended that the courses be offered each semester but taught only during semesters when a sufficient number of students are enrolled. Teachers referred to this as "keeping the courses on the books."

As a result of a curriculum review, the administration has recommended 14 classes for elimination. Nine other courses were recommended to be monitored for possible elimination in the future.

Board members requested last week's special session in order to gain more input before deciding upon course consolidations. The board has pursued course consolidation in an effort to reduce the number of low enrollment classes and ease scheduling problems.

As a result of last week's session, board members are to develop their individual positions on course consolidation. Those positions will be forwarded to Board President Sharon Pelch and reviewed at an upcoming meeting where a "board consensus" on course consolidation will be developed.

Staff members appearing before the board last week agreed that some courses could be dropped as long as the material is incorporated into other courses, but they also urged the board to retain a number of classes for various reasons.

The staff explained the reasoning behind originally including some courses in the curriculum. They said that although a specific course does not have a large enrollment, the curriculum would be lacking if it were eliminated.

Two examples were Science Seminar and International Relations. Both classes have been recommended for elimination, should the board decide to cut classes based upon enrollment to be monitored for possible elimination in the future.

class select an area of independent research. The instructor can devote his or her attention entirely to the class. Students taking independent studies outside a classroom setting such as Science Seminars are supervised during school or during free periods.

Eliminating Science Seminar would reduce the science opportunities for the gifted student, Falls said.

International Relations was included in the curriculum to expand the student's exposure to global education, said Florence Pangborn, Social Studies department head. Students can learn the basics of democracies, communism, socialism, monarchies and other forms of government in such a course.

There are four courses in the Social Studies department which have been recommended for deletion.

Music courses also came under close scrutiny by the school board.

Craig Strain, Music Department head, said the school board's philosophy is that "we need to say to every student 'there is a chance for you to learn an instrument if you are interested.' In the past we've said 'if you don't take it in the fifth or sixth grade — forget it.' It's not fair to that."

The administration has proposed that beginning band should be monitored for possible deletion from the class offerings in the future. The class had five students enrolled at the beginning of this semester and nine students currently are taking the course. Strain said the class is composed of students who have developed a late interest in music and those who want to play a second instrument.

Trustee Ruth Waldenmayer told Strain she believed a class of that size needs "looking at."

"We have four or five physics students who went to a junior college to take a class because we couldn't justify classes of that size," she said. "It's not feasible to pay a teacher for teaching four students — that's private lessons."

It was pointed out that although the beginning band has a very low enrollment music classes in general have higher enrollments than other courses.

"Economically speaking, our department is above average on a teacher per-hour per-student basis," Strain said.

Although no immediate cuts from the business department are presently proposed, three courses are being monitored for possible deletion in the future.

Barbara Hill told the board she has been actively attempting to boost student enrollment in business classes, especially Integrated Office Practice. Hill said Integrated Office Practice is the "cap stone course" in the business area.

indepth courses," Hill said. "It would be a disservice to those students to take away the cap stone course."

Board members also talked with instructors regarding the elimination of Student Government, Economics, Debate, Forensics and Basic Construction.

Discussion of course consolidation will again be taken up by the school board at its December 4 session.

Board investigates curriculum additions

Novi school board members considering the possibility of eliminating several courses from the high school curriculum used a recent session with teachers to learn whether the staff believes current curriculum offerings are meeting the student's needs.

In a session designed to discuss course deletions, there were a number of questions dealing with possible additions to the high school curriculum.

Board members also asked teachers about the possibility of retaining classes which individuals on the board believe are critical for students, but do not have sufficient enrollment to justify their continuation.

They asked the staff for suggestions on ways to boost enrollment in those important classes which are currently drawing low enrollments.

Economics is one of four courses which has been recommended for elimination from the social studies offerings.

Trustee Ron Milam suggested the course be offered as a continuation of U. S. Government and Economics is one of four courses which has been recommended for elimination from the social studies offerings.

Social Studies Department head Florence Pangborn agreed such an approach might salvage the economics class since she has found the word "Economics" carries a "high fear factor" among students.

Board members learned that if there is a need for additional classes in the area of science, those classes should be aimed at the upper and lower ranges of the student population.

Science Department head Tim Falls told the board the department could expand its chemistry program to offer advanced chemistry. "If we're lacking anything it would be for the gifted and the low achievers," Falls said.

Trustee Joel Colliau asked whether a one-year science requirement is meeting the needs of the non-college bound students at Novi High School.

Falls said he believed requiring more than one year of science would "punish" the student who has no interest in science.

"A student who is interested will take more than one year of science, but requiring more than one year would punish the low achiever. A one-year requirement is 'normal,'" Falls said.

Trustee Joan Daley spoke out against a proposal to eliminate Debate and Forensics classes. "Debate is one class where students learn research, organization of materials and putting all that together," Daley said.

Her position was supported by Communication Skills Department head Calvin Schmucker, who characterized the classes as being designed for academic achievers.

Trustee Ruth Waldenmayer asked about the possibility of an instrumental music course which did not have the competition or performance schedule of music courses currently being offered.

Music Department head Craig Strain said he did not consider the instrumental classes being offered as "competitive." He said certain demands of students are made including being on time and taking care of the uniform and equipment. He added that he did not think students would be interested in a music course which did not include performance.

He compared such a class to a football team which scrimmaged but never had a game.

Milam encouraged the music department to retain the Music Theory class despite little student interest at this time.

"For the serious music students I think there are benefits to keeping theory in the course catalogue," Milam said. "I think it lends credibility to the department as an intellectual offering."

Otherwise the department would offer just performance oriented classes.

In the arts department Keith Cleland told the board that one possible addition would be "in the commercial art in the design course. But for further instruction those advanced students usually go to graphics arts, Cleland said.

The needs of advanced art students are largely met with independent studies, he explained.

School board members also questioned business and industrial education teachers about enrollments in their courses.

Milam pointed out there is a high demand in the business world for those with secretarial skills. Instructor Barbara Hill agreed there are inquiries from local shop owners seeking students with experience in the metal shop course offered at the high school.

High School Principal Robert Youngberg told the board that a recent resurgence of interest in foreign languages kept the administration from recommending elimination of those courses, even though dropping German was considered at one point.

Novi man tried for murder one

The murder trial of William W. Curtner, who is charged in connection with the January shooting death of a Novi man, is underway.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Robert Webster heard testimony from two witnesses Monday and the case was scheduled to proceed throughout the week.

Curtner, 28, is charged with first degree murder of his roommate. He waived examination at a district court level and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court.

Andrew Lolomia, 24, of 21150 Old Novi Road was killed when he was shot through the neck with a 20 gauge "slug round" shotgun.

At the time of the incident police said the shooting apparently resulted from a disagreement regarding financial arrangements in the home shared by three men.

The third resident in the house on Old Novi Road reportedly was a witness to the shooting, according to police.

As We See It

Walled Lake needs to set firm policy

Michael Dornan, Walled Lake's new city manager, has arrived on the scene in time to quell a dispute that is brewing between the city council and plan commission.

Fortunately, it should not take a great deal of administrative know-how to resolve the problems provided that everyone concerned reacts responsibly.

The problem was outlined by Council member Thomas Brookover who charged that the planners do not keep the council aware of their expenditures. He cited specifically a typing bill which was submitted without council knowledge last year as well as an aerial map cabinet which has been constructed and placed in the council chambers.

Brookover also leveled even more serious charges — that the cabinet was ordered and installed in violation of the city charter which requires that projects which cost more than $500 be put out for competitive bidding. Technically, there may or may not have been a violation of the charter in the respect that the cost of the cabinet was set at $495, while the cost of erecting it in city hall was $115.

Even though dividing the project into two parts may have avoided a violation of the charter, Brookover has grounds to assert that the project was divided in half for the specific purpose of avoiding the charter requirements.

Regardless of whether the manner in which the aerial map cabinet was constructed and erected was a violation of the city charter, Brookover has valid concerns when a board or commission orders an expenditure without prior approval of the council.

Criticism unjustified

Members of the Wixom City Council received some criticism last week which was undeserved.

Specifically, council members and a number of city officials were soundly roasted by several Birch Park subdivision residents for not dealing adequately with alleged problems created by Kelly Homes in putting in a road and drainage on 17 lots in the subdivision.

Residents in the subdivision have charged that the work done by Kelly Homes has been done improperly and suggested that the city needs to tighten up its controls over developers.

Furthermore, at least one resident laid the blame for the alleged deficiencies at the feet of the council, stating that council members were elected to serve the residents all the time, not just two meetings per month.

Residents have every right to be concerned about the developments taking place in their subdivision; and they have every right to express those concerns to the council.

However, specific criticism of the council and other officials was not justified.

In the first place, council members are city council members. They are not engineers, building inspectors or attorneys. Further-

The council approves a budget at the start of each fiscal year. Included in the budget are specific budgets for the council, plan commission and all the other boards and commissions in the city.

When someone deviates from the budget without first obtaining approval from the council, it creates a situation which ultimately could produce financial chaos. If everyone or anyone ignores the budget and authorizes unapproved expenditures, the city soon will be strapped with more bills than it has money to pay them with.

Although Brookover has raised serious concerns, we see no reason whatsoever that the problems cannot be easily resolved by establishing policies for communications and expenditure approvals that are properly enforced.

We see no malice in the actions of the plan commission. In fact, it is possible that plan commission members will be surprised and offended at the intimations of impropriety.

If that attitude prevails — and we are hopeful it will, Dornan can sit down with various board and commission chairmen to establish the policies that must be followed if the city is to avoid appearances of charter violations or improprieties in approving expenditures.

There are those who bemoan governmental red tape and the necessity for going through proper channels. Although they can be carried to extremes, the "red tape" and "proper channels" serve a valid purpose that can prevent occurrences similar to what has occurred in Walled Lake from happening in the future.

more, the responsibilities of council members are restricted to legislative concerns.

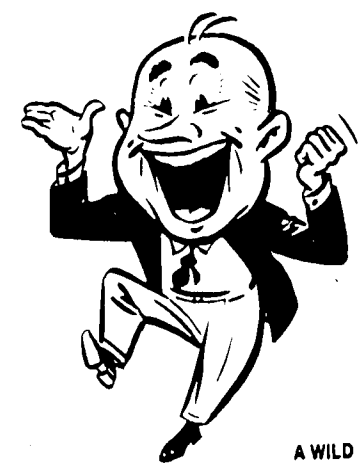

Council members should meet twice per month and address themselves to legislative questions brought up by the administration and citizens. Council members should not be "on duty" 30 days per month. And they must definitely should not attempt to be engineers, building inspectors or attorneys.

Those technical functions are the responsibility of the city's paid consultants and employees. When council members start making judgements on engineering or legal matters, the city is in for difficult times.

Birch Park residents are obviously frustrated by the developments in their subdivision. Still, the council has responded appropriately and conscientiously to their concerns by directing the responsible parties to investigate the situation further.

The council should insist on complete reports from the responsible parties so that the questions raised by Birch Park residents hopefully can be resolved in a satisfactory manner. In the meantime, it is unfair to criticize the council for making certain that the investigations are performed by those most qualified to perform the tasks.

A WILD YES

Before the Buckeyes could win, rivers would have to stand still, birds would have to fly north for the winter and Woody Hayes would have to say something intelligent. All are impossibilities.

Before Saturday's massacre is over, Anthony Carter, Stanley Edwards and Lawrence Ricks will have spent so much time in Ohio's endzone that they are liable to be arrested for loitering.

When that maize sun bursts through the blue skies over Columbus, it will shine on a band of noble Wolverines who will show no mercy as they plunder their neighbors to the south.

Take no prisoners will be the rule of the day.

A RESERVED YES

While the probable outcome of this epic confrontation is well known, it might be well to put this titanic struggle into perspective.

While the competition on the field is invigorating, let us not forget the joy of a crisp, autumn day, the camaraderie of friends, old and new; the chance to inhale the intellectual aroma of a fine university campus.

Is it not for these treasures that we and others venture to Ann Arbor Saturday after Saturday?

The game—or, in this week's case, THE GAME—is merely an interesting sidelight, a seductive distraction.

After all, despite all of the hoopla and the folderol, it is just a game, isn't it?

Speaking for Myself

Will U-M beat Ohio?

The Michigan defense will so overpower the meager Buckeye attempts that even Bob Ufer will be temporarily speechless.

And this year, the yard markers will be made of cast iron so that, even if Woody Hayes shows up, he can't break them. His spirit will be shattered instead.

Across the field, Bo Schembechler will be basking in the glory of another Michigan victory.

It all boils down to a simple fact. The good, the pure and the just will triumph over the forces of evil.

Michigan will win.

A typical, avid Wolverine fan

Well, maybe it's a bit more than a game. More like a crusade, perhaps.

A heroic undertaking, in fact, where the refined gentlemen from the north don their maize and blue battle garb to defend all they hold virtuous against the wild onslaught of the barbaric blackguards who raid and ravish out of Columbus.

Who, then, could not cheer for the noble Wolverines?

It all boils down to a simple fact. The good, the pure and the just will triumph over the forces of evil.

Michigan will win.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

By JIM GALBRAITH

Big wheels

Writing last week about the phenomenal psychic abilities of Harry Blackstone, Jr., I ran into scorn at home.

"It sure would be nice," said my wife, "if you had a hint of ordinary abilities."

"Kindly look at the stove," she said. "Do you notice the red burner? Now look where you have the kettle. Notice anything wrong? Normal people with ordinary psychic abilities know that to heat water you must place the kettle on the hot burner, not a cold one."

"Yes," I said, "and smart manufacturers would label the burner switches."

"How long have we had the stove? Twelve years? How many more years will it take to learn which knob controls which burner?"

"Not much longer," I said. "I'm going to pitch this monster. It's the pits."

The truth is that electrical gadgets in the home bug me. Take the two switches above our kitchen counter. One controls the light, the other the stove ventilation system. Neither is labeled. Once, about a year ago, I actually guessed right.

Wall plugs. Oh, boy. We've got one in the family room that's a beast! One socket works, the other doesn't. Guess how many times I've guessed right.

"You better be careful with that screwdriver," a son warned while back while the attempted for the umpteenth time to fix it. "Don't worry," I replied. "This is the dead socket." It wasn't; it was a lively sucker.

Then there's the switch in our bookcase. The bookcase covers an entire wall. Books hide the switch. To turn on the light one need only guess the correct shelf and remove the correct books.

And just about the time that The People's Right to Know becomes my clue, someone decides to replace it with Death in The Afternoon.

SEMCOC report prescribes new attitudes in growth

What's been going on in the seven counties of southeast Michigan since 1970?

The population, while shifting significantly, has not grown. Some 40 suburban communities have joined Detroit in losing population.

Thousands of classrooms are vacant in Detroit, western Wayne and Oakland counties due to declining family size.

Manufacturing jobs — the bread and butter of the region's auto industry — have steadily dwindled.

People are living in either apartments, condominiums or mobile homes due primarily to the rising costs of owning a single family residence.

A gallon of gas that cost 45 cents in 1974 now sells for $1.15.

These findings are not new. All have been reported as trends to watch during the 1970s.

But these and other findings — summarized in a 24-page profile of the region compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOC) — point to impending changes affecting people's mobility, the types of housing they can afford and the quality of the air and water they use.

In introducing the report, SEMCOG Executive Director Michael Glusac said that "expensive energy will mean a world of limits and an absolutely new experience."

"The taxpayers of this region are not going to continue to support a policy of building and abandonment which is so wasteful of our resources."

The rapid growth that marked various areas of the region in the 1920s, after World War II, and to a lesser degree in the 1960s and 1970s is pretty much over, according to Glusac.

"Rapid population growth always carried mixed blessings to all, save the real estate industry," said Glusac.

The single family house clustered in subdivisions throughout southeast Michigan is as much of a Detroit area landmark as the personal car.

At one time, 65 percent of Detroit residents were homeowners, the highest in the country.

But declining family size, plus the escalating expense of owning a house, has increased the demand for multiple-family housing and less expensive mobile homes.

Single-family homes will still dot area landscapes, but so will more apartments and condominiums, according to Edward Hustoles, SEM-

COG's director of housing.

The SEMCOG report estimates that between 1970 and 1978, average household size in the region declined from 3.3 to 2.9 persons per household.

The most obvious effect of the smaller families has been empty school buildings in cities like Livonia and Southfield which were growth spots a decade ago.

Greater demand for multiple unit housing is another sign, said Hustoles. More than 50 percent of the households across the country are childless, he said. In the Detroit area, which probably has the highest percentage of elderly residents in the region, the childless household rate is 60 percent.

While more than half of all building permits issued in the region during the 1970s were for single-family houses, more than 40 percent of these new houses were built in such once-rural areas as Livingston County. SEMCOG links this event with major enrollment declines in the older urban and suburban school districts.

Most of the multi-family housing construction was in the three-county metropolitan Detroit area during the 1970s, but Hustoles says that may change.

"We're going to see more and more of it," he predicted. "I think they (multiple family units) are going to be built almost everywhere."

Since 1970 the number of mobile home sites in the region has more than doubled from 18,400 to 40,800.

The rapid increase was simply due to the detached single family house becoming too expensive, said Hustoles.

"Certainly, the traditional single-family home is fast getting out of the reach of a large percentage of our population," he continued.

Despite the 1970 trend of growth in Livingston County, western Oakland County and some Macomb County townships, Hustoles predicts an "infilling of the closer-in areas" during the 1980s.

"People have now become aware that it's very costly to continue to move out and out," he said.

School construction is one area in which sprawl has been expensive, Hustoles maintains. He cited one Macomb County school district which has closed six schools, while another district six miles north is constructing new schools.

"That," said Hustoles, "is where the inefficiency comes in."

Council cites sidewalk need

Walled Lake city officials are concerned that the newly developed sidewalk along Pontiac Trail could be hazardous for pedestrians.

Council Member Linda Ackley noted that automobiles turning at East Walled Lake Drive and Pontiac Trail (at the corner occupied by the Town Pump tavern) are driving up on the sidewalk because of the lack of a curb.

"People are driving right around the corner, now that there are not curbs," Ackley told her fellow council members last week.

Department of Public Works (DPW) Chief John Nail concluded that a curb may have to be developed along areas where the sidewalk has been constructed.

Council members had hoped that such curbing could be in place before winter. But Nail quashed those prospects, saying work has been completed on the project until spring.

The $50,000 sidewalk development and repair program is expected to tie Walled Lake Villa to the city's downtown area. Funding for the program was issued through a federal block grant.

Approximately $32,000 is being used for walkway development along the major thoroughfare. The remaining $18,000 will be used to upgrade existing sidewalks and related improvements.

Nail stated that wheelchair access will be added when work continues next spring.

Honoring Hilda

The Friends of the Wixom Library hosted a special afternoon tea last week to honor longtime Wixom resident Hilda Furman for her years of service to the library and the community at large. Among the friends who gathered for the festivities were (left to right) Mayor Lillian Spencer, Gerry Hallett of the Friends group, Mrs. Furman and Eleanor Cheiko, also of the Wixom Library Friends.

Milliken's cutbacks in budget keep local agencies in limbo

Michigan Governor William Milliken announced an additional $288 million cutback in state operations last Wednesday night, the second major financial reduction announcement in about a one month period.

Including Milliken's call for a $116 million reduction in state spending October 8, a total of $404 million has been dropped from Michigan's budget in a 35-day period.

The effects of the governor's budget cuts will have succinct repercussions on Lakes Area services.

County Director of Social Services Howard Rosso acknowledged that along with a statewide five percent cut issued following Milliken's first announcement, social service operations across Michigan should expect another 10 percent reduction in general assistance grants.

The original five percent cut was enforced November 1.

"This would mean the average general assistance grant, which was $18.82 per month in Oakland County in July, would now receive a 15 percent reduction," Rosso said.

This means grant recipients will be receiving an average of $24.27 less — dropping the mean general assistance grant to $137.55.

According to Rosso, general assistance grants are given to individuals with either no income or income limited to below social services standards.

Grant recipients are not required to reimburse their allocations unless they begin earning income (and that balance is deducted from the grant), or money is received from another area such as an insurance settlement.

However, what's bad news for some might be considered somewhat somberly optimistic news for the Department of Social Services as a whole.

"This is the only area that I'm aware of a client grant reduction," Rosso added.

Marty Kinsella, public information director for the Oakland-Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA), said, OLHSA's budget was currently being drawn up.

Kinsella related Monday morning, that after speaking with the office preparing OLHSA's 1981 financial outline, that "no specifics" had been confirmed as cuts.

Previously, Kinsella had guessed that programs most likely to be affected by the state-funding reduction included energy, employment and state homebound meals projects.

"We don't have any idea why the place is there or who owns it, other than the state," said Lawrence. "The Novi

Lawrence said he didn't believe the parcel was a lake access lot for some other property owner because there was no apparent access trail to the land.

Area Police Blotter

Resident unpacks gun to scare off midnight intruder

In Wixom

A would-be prowler was scared off the balcony of a Beechwood Apartments unit last week when the apartment resident confronted the intruder with a handgun.

The resident told police he was awakened November 11 at 3 a.m. by a knock on his door. The man said he got up and looked through the peephole of the door but didn't see anyone and went back to bed.

Five minutes later he heard someone at the balcony of his second floor apartment, he told police. The man said he got his revolver, walked over to the glass windows and opened the drapes. His action evidently startled the prowler, who tried to get off the balcony quickly and fell backwards over the railing. The man appeared to be unhurt, however, because he got up and ran away, the resident told police.

He described the prowler as having curly, shoulder-length reddish-brown hair with a mustache and beard. The man was about 25 years old, 5-11, with a medium build and a pock-marked face, the resident said.

At about 2:35 a.m. November 11, a man walked into the second-floor apartment of a Village resident, according to police reports. The resident told officers the man entered her apartment through the glass doors overlooking her balcony and turned on the kitchen and bedroom lights, awaking the resident. The man then told her he believed he was in the wrong apartment, apologized and said he had thought it was his ex-wife's apartment. He asked her not to call the police and then left, she said.

The resident described the man as being about 26-30 years old, 5-8, medium build and having red hair and a red beard. She told police she believed he was driving a blue or green older model Grand Prix or Monte Carlo.

The Oakland County DPW was called out to Wixom at 11 p.m. November 16 when residents of Golden Gate, Indian Lodge and the Village Apartments reported there was no water at any of the complexes.

A little investigation revealed the maintenance workers for the units had forgotten to keep tabs on the water pump at the pump house: the machine ran out of gas.

A resident of the Village Apartments told police he believes someone may have stolen some checks he had placed in his mailbox to be picked up by postal employees.

The resident said he had put the checks in the mailbox the morning of November 2 and noticed later in the day that they were gone. He said he had assumed the mailman had picked them up until he began getting late notices from the companies he had written the checks to.

A collection of Mitutoyo micrometers, gauges, calipers and miscellaneous tools were apparently stolen from the Round Tool Company between November 10-11, say police. The lock on a door at the north side of the building had apparently been jimmied, say officers.

Among the missing items are a set of Mitutoyo micrometers worth $206, a set of Mitutoyo telescoping gauges worth $59, a set of Mitutoyo micrometers worth $76, a Mitutoyo anti-micrometer worth $66 and a Mitutoyo indicator worth almost $50.

Twenty-five eight-foot railroad ties were apparently stolen from the C&O Railroad at the Beck Road crossing between November 12-14.

The ties, which are valued at $450, were removed from the tracks on the east side of Beck Road, according to reports. All of the ties are marked with C&O or B.O. No. 80 on the ends, a spokesman for the railroad company told officers.

The C&O Railroad company has approximately 32,000 ties on its tracks between Milford and Plymouth.

Four incidents of cars being broken into were reported last week to Wixom police and three of the victimized cars belonged to the same Wixom resident.

The driver's window of a 1974 Plymouth Duster was shattered sometime during the night of November 15-16 as it was parked at the Village Apartments complex. Nearly $300 worth of radio equipment, including a Motorola equalizer, was removed from the vehicle.

Stereo speakers and eight-track tapes were apparently stolen from a 1973 Dodge sedan parked on the 1400 block of Nightingale on November 16. The car had been left unlocked and its glovebox ransacked, the owner told officers.

At about the same time, two other cars parked in the resident's driveway also were vandalized. The vinyl seats of a 1975 Ford were slashed, glovebox emptied and miscellaneous papers taken, the man said. Some papers also were taken from a 1977 Ford parked in his driveway, he said.

Tool boxes and stereo equipment were stolen from a 1976 Chevy pickup parked in the Village Apartments parking lot November 15, the owner of the truck told Wixom police.

Entry to the locked truck was gained by breaking the vent window on the passenger's side of the cab. Two speakers and two power amplifiers were taken from the cab, the owner reported.

Then the individuals broke into the rear of the truck, which was covered with a camper top, and removed a Craftsman carpenter's tool box and a Craftsman mechanic's tool box filled with miscellaneous tools, according to reports.

A Huffy bicycle was apparently stolen from the garage of a home at 1200 Maganser, according to police reports. The complainant told police he had removed the rear tire and rim from the $60 bicycle before it was taken. The incident occurred between November 1-12, he told police.

A tool box containing $1,000 worth of tools was evidently stolen from a locked garage on Evergreen between 9 p.m. November 12 and 10:30 a.m. November 13, according to Wixom police. The lock on the south double door was apparently prying off, according to reports.

In Novi

Novi police are investigating a report of forged gift certificates from the Thom McAn shoe store in Twelve Oaks Mall.

Store employees told police that a $5 gift certificate had been altered and redeemed for $35. The gift certificate was purchased at another Thom McAn store and redeemed at Twelve Oaks. Thom McAn officials said they suspect an employee who was fired for altering a gift certificate. They described the employee as 6-1, medium build, with brown hair. He is between 18-20 years old.

Police have obtained the store's copy of the gift certificate which shows it was purchased for $5. Warrants for the suspect's arrest are being sought.

A company car left outside with the key in the ignition was used to ram a door at A-1 Auto on DeGross and permit thieves to gain access to the building.

Police found the door of the northwest garage bay smashed while on a patrol of the area. It appeared as if the responsible party had tried to gain access by using an axe to cut off the lock of another door to the building. When that proved unsuccessful the car was used to break into the building.

A suspect was later apprehended by Walled Lake police in conjunction with a breaking and entering in that community. The suspect was allegedly driving the car identified by A-1 Auto owner, according to police reports.

A $22 exhaust pipe was recovered inside the automobile. The owner was asked to compile a complete list of stolen items.

School officials have reported the theft of a $440 Intercom from Novi High School.

The intercom was taken from a control room in the high school auditorium. The intercom was last seen November 5.

School officials spoke with six employees who have keys to the control room before reporting the incident to police November 10.

Police said there was no evidence of forced entry into the room which had been locked when the dual channel intercom was last seen.

Contractors on the Decker Road construction project reported a dump truck, earth moving machine and large grader were damaged in a malicious destruction of property incident reported November 9.

J. D. Armstrong Landscaping reported that the responsible parties destroyed an estimated $8,000 worth of damage to the machinery.

Windows were broken on the equipment and the windshield of the dump truck was shattered, the contractor reported.

A pine chest full of equestrian supplies was reported stolen from the barn at Havenhill Farms on Fourteen Mile.

The chest was valued at $150 and contained a $100 bride, horse care items worth $80, a $60 bit, hay worth $50 and a $40 horse cooler.

The complainant told police the chest was last seen outside a horse stall. When the owner returned six days later the chest was missing. Employees said they had not suspected the chest was missing since they believed the owner had taken it.

In Commerce

Derrek Washnock of Drayton Plains faced pre-trial examination on charges of larceny from a building Monday. The charges stem from the alleged theft of purses from Walled Lake Central High School in September.

Washnock, who was being held in Waterford Township on two additional unidentified felony counts, reportedly escaped from the custody of Waterford Township Police yesterday (Tuesday). Larceny in a building is a felony with a four-year maximum penalty.

A 28-year-old Cheboygan man was bound over to circuit court Monday on one count of third degree criminal sexual conduct. William Patrick Phillips is out on personal bond awaiting arraignment in the circuit court.

The alleged September incident reportedly involves Phillips' step-daughter.

The charge is a felony with a 10-year maximum.

A Union Lake man was also bound over to circuit court on charges of larceny over $100 Monday.

Vincent Morrell will face charges relating to an alleged theft of furniture from the Union Lake Motel last summer.

The charge is a felony with a five-year maximum.

It's showtime

It's not often that area residents have an opportunity to attend three plays on the same weekend. Those who love a good show, however, will find themselves with a full playbill.

This weekend, Novi students will perform "Harvey," Walled Lake Central players will stage "Play It Again, Sam" and Walled Lake Western thespians will present "Up the Down Staircase."

Ladies and gentlemen, you're in luck if you like your comedy whimsical, wry or bittersweet. High schools students have just the ticket to liven up a dull November weekend with some real theatrics. Select one play or—if you're really a fan of the stage—go for the broke and see three, count 'em three, live acts in area auditoriums.

An old favorite, "Harvey" will hit Furst Auditorium this weekend under the direction of Joan Arrivi. "Harvey" has been performed on Broadway, was made into a movie starring Jimmy Stewart and is taken from the Pulitzer Prize-winning story written by Margaret Chase.

"It's real good family entertainment and it's funny," says Arrivi of the three-act play.

In "Harvey," Elwood P. Dowd is a middle-aged bachelor whose mother has died and left him the family fortune. Enter Elwood's sister, Veta Louise Simmons, and her daughter, Myrtle Mae, who also want a piece of the pie.

Complications arise due to the existence, or nonexistence, of little character Harvey, a six-foot white rabbit who is a buddy of Elwood's. Problem is, nobody else can see or hear Harvey. Elwood's strange habit of talking to an invisible rabbit doesn't do much for the family's reputation and it's ruining Myrtle Mae's chances of snaring a nice husband so Veta Louise decides to have her brother committed.

Senior Tim Pope will perform as Elwood P. Dowd and senior Julie Henrich will play his sister, Veta Louise Simmons. Acting as young Myrtle Mae will be senior Kathy Dale.

Other cast members include seniors Jeff Wehenkel as Dr. Chumley; Greg McComas as his assistant, Dr. Sanders; Betsy Archambeau as Nurse Kelly and Shannon Gronowski as Betty Chumley.

Wilson will be performed by Senior Marc Brinker and sophomore Spencer Brinker will be the cabdriver. Senior Denise LaVole will be Mrs. Chauvenet and senior Mary Seiler will be the maid. Harvey himself will be played by Peter Oliver, an alumni of Novi High School.

Tickets are available at the high school for $2 each. Senior citizens and children under 12 will be admitted for $1 each.

Curtain time Thursday is 7:30 p.m. Performances are slated for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The bittersweet story of "Up the Down Staircase" will make its Walled Lake Western debut tomorrow (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Based on the reactions of first-year teacher Sylvia Barrett to her experiences of teaching at an inner-city high school, "Up the Down Staircase" has been popularized by Bel Kaufman's best-selling book and a movie starring Sandy Dennis.

The play, written from Barrett's point of view, focuses on the events that happen to her and her personal reactions. Under the direction of Jacquelyn Plas, Western's production will showcase the talents of two actresses in the lead role of Sylvia Barrett; senior Julie Stanley will portray the teacher while senior Sue Center will play the part of Barrett's internal thoughts.

Role sharing is typical of Plas's directing style. Other cast members include Greg Avery, Shelly Binetti, Chris Chartier, Beth Christensen, Ruth Fineman, Cliff Kirkwood, Sean Lang, Jamie Leeny, Linda McMillan, Peggen Prichard, Suzanne Prichard, Paul Russinoff and Cindy Starnes.

In addition to 8 p.m. performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Western students will present "Up the Down Staircase" during a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday.

Reserved seating tickets are on sale now for $3 and may be purchased at the school, from cast members or by calling 624-0900.

Woody Allen may do a lot of writing about himself, but it looks like he may be something of a symbol. His inability to relate to women and frustrations with the rest of the world are apparent by feelings many people can relate to, and that theme is the premise of "Play It Again, Sam," an upcoming presentation of Walled Lake Central students.

According to director Cindy Galbraith, the play's main character, Allan Felix, is a fellow whose wife has just left him. Insecurities over how to deal with women lead him to fantasize about ways the all-time great womanizer Humphrey Bogart would handle similar situations.

Playing Woody — er, Allan Felix — will be senior Jay Durrwachter, an actor with previous experience in Central's productions. Diane Johnston and Sue Flagg, both sophomores, will share the role of Nancy. Sophomore John Drouillard will play Bogey.

Other cast members include junior Rich Williams as Dick Christie and sophomores Becky Rothley and Kim Ross as Linda Christie. Senior Dana Diachenko and sophomore Linda Skemp will perform as Sharon, while junior Georgina Strang will be the go-go girl. The part of Barbara will be played by sophomore Piper Petrocelli.

Georgina Strang also has taken on the duties of student director and senior. Steve Allen has been named stage manager. Tickets for "Play It Again, Sam," cost $1.50 and are available at the high school. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Kim Ross and Rich Williams try to explain something but Jay Durrwachter (left, portraying Allan Felix) evidently can't believe his ears in "Play It Again, Sam"

Betsy Archambeau seems to put more faith in Greg McComas (right) than Elwood P. Dowd, played by Tim Pope, in "Harvey"

A Matter of Taste

By Maria Sarivalas Kokas, R.D.

Do you feel less energetic than you would like? Are you able to fall asleep just about anywhere, anytime? Is your fuse a little bit too short?

If all that sounds familiar your diet may need extra sources of iron. Developing a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, a short temper and feeling tired regularly can happen before you know it if your iron stores fall below normal levels. Taking care to take in the right amounts of iron and B-vitamins — as well as getting enough sleep — can help you guard against the whole unsightly scene.

Fortunately most foods that naturally contain iron also are good sources of B-vitamins. Some of those sources include oysters, bran cereals, hot cereals, liver and liver sausage, garbanzo beans and baked beans. And the magic of sleep can take over only with good planning of your time.

Some iron can be stored in the body, but B-vitamins have to be taken on a regular basis. Although many of the foods that contain iron also contain Riboflavin, Niacin, Thiamine, Vitamin B-6 and B-12, those foods are also of the sort we tend to leave out of daily diets.

The average American diet probably won't give you what you need, unless you eat fortified foods on a regular basis. Women require 18 milligrams of iron each day and men need 10. Breastfeeding babies and monthly menstrual cycles can push feminine needs well into the hard-to-hit range.

If you are curious about your iron intake, quiz yourself. Make a list of all the foods you have eaten in the past two days. Then compare what you ate with the foods on the chart, below. If your diet contained as much iron as you need, you are probably eating enough foods rich in B-vitamins.

Comparing diet to needs could show that your body is trying to work with less iron than it really needs. Improve your diet by adding foods that are missing. If eating more carefully chosen foods doesn't fill the gap, you might want to consider a vitamin or mineral supplement.

Vegetables: 1 cup cooked white beans or baked beans, 2.7 mg; 1 cup collards and kale, 1 mg; 1/2 cup cooked lentils or peas, 1.5 mg; 1/2 cup mixed vegetables, 1.4 mg; 1/2 cup chickpeas or garbanzo, 3.4 mg; 1 large potato or sweet potato, 1.1 mg; 1/2 cup spinach, 2 mg; 1 large raw tomato, 1.2 mg.

Dried fruits: 1/4 cup dried apricots or raisins, 1.8 mg; 3 medium prunes, 1 mg.

Meats, fish, eggs: 2 medium slices beef liver, 8.8 mg; 3 small chicken livers, 8.5 mg; 2 medium slices liver sausage, 5.4 mg; 2 medium slices red meat, 3.5 mg; 5 oysters, 6.4 mg; 1 egg, 1.2 mg; 3 ounces poultry, 1.5 mg; 3 ounces fish, 1 mg.

Dry cereals: 2/3 cup Oatflakes, 20 mg; 1 cup Product 19, 10 mg; 1/2 cup 40% Bran Flakes, 10 mg; 1/2 cup Raisin Bran, 10 mg; 1/4 cup Total, 10 mg; 1/4 cup Bran and Prune Flakes, 10 mg; 1 cup Special K.

Cooked cereals: 1 cup enriched quick Cream of Wheat, 15.6 mg; 3/4 cup Malt-O-Meal, 20 mg; 1 cup oatmeal, 1.7 mg.

Pastas: 1 ounce macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, etc., 1 mg.

Here's what's cooking

Here's what's cooking for lunch this week in the Novi schools:

Thursday, November 20: Taco with lettuce and cheese and choice of chilled tomato juice, green beans or orange half, and peanut butter cookie. At middle schools: Toasted cheese sandwich.

Friday, November 21: Baked fish square with tartar sauce, tater tots, cabbage-carrot slaw, vanilla pudding with fruit garnish and hillbilly roll and butter. At middle schools: Pizzaburger.

Monday, November 24: Hamburger on bun and choice of potato rounds, green beans or apple half. At middle schools: Toasted cheese sandwich.

Tuesday, November 25: Roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes with gravy, applesauce, hot roll with butter and sunshine bar. At middle schools: Hot dog on bun and corn.

Wednesday, November 26: Chicken choice. At middle schools: Chicken turnover and gravy.

Thursday, November 27, and Friday, November 28: Thanksgiving vacation.

Children whose parents are unemployed, receive ADC payments or welfare benefits, or have experienced a temporary loss of income may be eligible to receive free or reduced-price hot lunches. Individuals who believe they qualify for the program are encouraged to contact the principal at their child's school.

All-American drummer

When Kurt Mathiak beats his drum, people listen. That's because Mathiak is one good drummer. That's what the folks at McDonald's Restaurants thought when they snared him for the 1980 McDonald's All-American High School Band. Nominated by Al Johnston, band director of Walled Lake Western High School, Mathiak will join 103 other high school students from across the country to march in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City as well as perform at a concert at Carnegie Hall.

Western student gives her all

By KAREN RICE

Jeanine Donigan isn't a politician yet. But she probably will be someday — as soon as she's old enough to run for office.

Right now, she's warming up by serving as president of a large youth group: a council that represents youth groups from 73 United Methodist churches in the Ann Arbor district, including the Commerce United Methodist Church where she is a member.

In her third year as district council president, Donigan used her political savvy to wangle a berth to a church conference last summer in Dayton, Ohio, as a delegate to the youth committee. And she observed sessions of the church's national conference recently in Indianapolis, Indiana, where policies for the church were set for the next four years.

All of that experience is giving Donigan a great deal of insight into what the role of youth in the church should be.

"The big push right now is to get youth involved in church policy," she declares. "They can be very involved. They can have a lot of...influence, if they want it."

Donigan believes that teenagers and young adults should increase their awareness of how decisions are made in the body of the church so they will be able to contribute their views on some pretty hefty issues that come up at church conferences.

At the jurisdictional, or regional, conference last summer in Muncie, for example, youth delegates discussed the church's position on the draft, homosexuality and women in the ministry. Discussion of the role of women was particularly timely; conference delegates elected Marjorie Mathews the first female bishop in the church's history.

In addition to observing the decision-making processes of adult delegates, Donigan participated in sessions sponsored by National Youth Ministry Organization (NYMO), which encouraged young delegates to look at the issues of world peace and determine the church's role on controversial topics.

Later in the summer, while attending the national conference, Donigan believes she really had an eye-opening look into how the governing body of the Methodist church operates.

"The church is really political — more political than I thought," admits Donigan. "It was really something to see them all arguing and shouting about things, but whenever they had to make a really tough decision, they'd pray and then make the decision."

Despite the excitement of regional and national conferences, Donigan believes youth councils and individual teens can be most effective on a district level, such as the organization of Ann Arbor district youth groups. The council handles the task of communicating with the 73 individual churches whose youth groups make up the district by dividing the area into small clusters of area churches.

And it's on the district level, says Donigan, that youths can come together for retreat weekends like one organized recently by the council. Held at the Walled Lake Outdoor Center, the teens examined the role of the church in universal social problems, like those discussed at the conferences Donigan attended.

A senior at Walled Lake Western High School, Donigan admits it's a little ironic that after acquiring so much experience at the district, regional and national levels of Methodist youth groups, she has never held a position in the Commerce church's youth council.

But, she just can't do everything. And between school work and developing friendships throughout the state as a bonus from her district responsibilities, Donigan does keep busy.

Still, she's always thinking. And, like a born politician, Donigan is already planning ahead.

"We're going to be the church in five or 10 years," she says of youth. "We had better learn now about what is going on, rather than wait until we get there and try to catch up."

Chorallaires plan joint concert with Edison glee club

By JEANNE CLARKE
624-0173

The Novi Chorallaires will appear in concert with the Detroit Edison Glee Club at 7:30 p.m. December 6 in Fuest Auditorium.

Proceeds from the concert have been earmarked for the National Institute of Burn Medicine by the Novi Jaycees and the Novi Department of Parks and Recreation, two organizations that are sponsoring the concert.

Tickets are available at the parks and rec office for $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

The Chorallaires are a Novi-based chorus composed of male and female members who have been doing a great deal of singing in the area lately. Recent performances include a concert at the Community Art Fair sponsored by the parks and rec office and a program for Northville-area senior citizens.

Members are reminded to start plants now for the plant booth. Relishes, jams, jellies and preserves will be featured in the plant booth. Anyone who would like to help prepare items for the bazaar is invited to call Margaret Bunker, 474-6291, who will demonstrate how to make chocolate candy. Marge Hudson, 348-0224, who will demonstrate hard candy techniques; or Kathy Rhea, 477-2799, who will explain wreath-making methods.

Art work is on display now at the library. Artists from Novi Woods and Village Oaks elementary schools submitted their versions of wise old owls. A set of historical prints are offered for sale at the library that would make fine Christmas gifts. Black and white prints, selling at $5 each or $15 for a set of four, include the old Novi Inn, First Methodist Church of Novi, Whitehall Convalescent Center and a farm on Ten Mile.

BAND BOOSTERS: Order forms for members who have been doing a great deal of singing in the area lately. Recent performances include a concert at the Community Art Fair sponsored by the parks and rec office and a program for Northville-area senior citizens.

Band boosters also are working on a Christmas Bazaar that will be held December 6 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

WELCOME WAGON: Welcome Wagon board meeting will be held at 12:30 p.m. next Tuesday (November 25) at the home of Lisa Willard. Individuals planning to attend are requested to call her, 478-7067.

Plans will be made at the meeting for an upcoming workday (November 24) to ready projects for the Christmas bazaar. The bazaar will be open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, December 6, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, December 7 at Village Oaks Club House.

There will be many new items, including a food table featuring corn dogs, coffee and punch. Shoppers will have a chance to win a Christmas wreath by buying raffle tickets.

Proceeds from the bazaar will be used for the Welcome Wagon Club's community service projects. People who are newcomers to the area are encouraged to attend the bazaar, meet the members and find out about the group's programs.

PIN POINTERS: Pat Hohl won the mystery game. High bowler was Barb Pletron with a 185.

Standings are as follows:
Townsquare Cards & Gifts 34 6
Chatham Chicks 24 16
H1 Lows 23 17

VILLAGE OAKS SCOUTS: Special guest Jim Young will attend the pack meeting tonight (Wednesday). Cub Scouts have been working with Jim to help Novi-Northville FISJ put together Thanksgiving food baskets. Other special events of the night will include a bid for the Welcome Wagon Club's community service projects. People who are newcomers to the area are encouraged to attend the bazaar, meet the members and find out about the group's programs.

BOY SCOUTS: Scouts are working hard to prepare new members for a December campout. A Court of Honor also has been scheduled for December.

Quartermaster Jim Young is working toward his Eagle Scout ranking by coordinating food collections for Thanksgiving baskets to be delivered by the Novi-Northville FISJ group. Jim is looking for donations of canned goods, small games, magazines and small clothing articles like mittens or socks.

JAYCEETTES: The Jayceettes are working on children's I.D. tags that will include name, address, phone number and medical information that youngsters don't always remember when they are leaving.

A meeting for prospective members is slated for tomorrow (Thursday) night for women interested in lending a hand in community service projects. For more information, call Mary Jane Lejter, 348-NOVI.

State Jaycee president Pat Van Wame will be the auctioneer at the Jayceettes' upcoming Christmas craft-auction at Novi Woods on November 25 at 7:30 p.m.

BPW: Bosses or supervisors are invited to join members of the Novi BPW for a special dinner at the Red Timbers tonight (Wednesday) for "Meet the Novi BPW Night." The evening will begin at 7 p.m. at the restaurant, and a business meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. Guest speakers will be Margaret Kremer, Daisy Proctor and Charlotte Adams.

HEALTH CLINICS: As part of a geriatric outreach program, Henry Ford Hospital is sponsoring medical examinations at the Novi Multi-Purpose Center, 26350 Novi Road, each Tuesday.

League of voters focus on city, nature

Just because the November election is over doesn't mean things are settling down for the League of Women Voters. In fact, local members of the league are simply shifting the emphasis of their public education programs from politics to environmental and community concerns.

Novi unit of the Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi league has invited Charles Cairns of Villac-Leman to address community residents tomorrow (Thursday) at 12:15 p.m. in the Church of the Holy Cross on Ten Mile. Cairns, planning consultant for the City of Novi, will discuss development of the city's revised master plan.

Council members Martha Hoyer and Pat Karevich will also attend the forum and speak on how the plan could effect the development of Novi.

Also slated for tomorrow is a forum on natural resources sponsored by the entire chapter at West Middle School, Ann Arbor Trail at Sheldon in Plymouth.

The forum will begin at 8 p.m. and include seminars on energy, water pollution, landfills, and shorelands and farmlands preservation.

Speakers in each area will give two 40-minute presentations and participants are invited to attend two of the five workshops, according to Novi unit chairman Lois Hoffmeister.

Representing the Detroit Water Department will be chemist John Beckman, who will speak on water and chemicals. Peter Walters, state energy administrator, will discuss "Energy—An Overview of Michigan and Its Present and Future Options."

Speaking on landfills will be Frank Bellbradich, a geologist from the Department of Natural Resources. James Kosteva, Canton Township planner, will talk on farmland preservation.

A representative of the DNR also will be present to lecture on shorelands, ongoing and future programs designed to protect Michigan coastal areas and preserving history.

Reservations for the session are not necessary. As a service to energy-conscious folks, the league has put together a calendar called "The Miser's Touch" in cooperation with the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women.

The calendar is full of energy-saving tips, including reminders to change air filters, notes on how to decorate windows to improve energy efficiency, how to maintain a car for optimal energy saving, how to read gas, electric and water meters, and also includes energy-related word games for children.

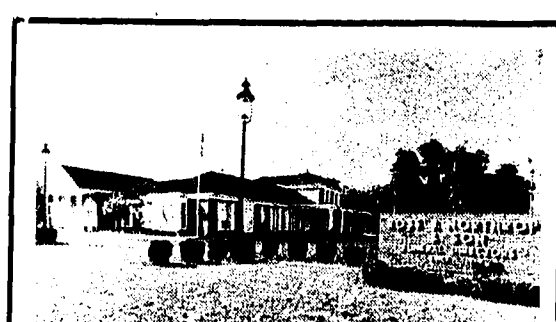

Illustrations were done by area grade school children.

Calendars cost $2.50 and are available at Northville Camera, Gifts by Marlon in Northville and through league members. For more information, call Lois Hoffmeister, Novi unit co-chairman, 348-1016.

Diabetes tests now available

Free blood tests to detect diabetes will be offered at the Providence Hospital-Novi Ambulatory Care Center tomorrow (November 20) from 8-11 a.m. and 6-9 p.m.

The center is at the corner of Ten Mile and Haggerty Road in Novi. The tests will be administered during Diabetes Detection Week in cooperation with the Michigan affiliate of American Diabetes Association. Diabetes is a serious disease that is a major cause of heart attack, kidney failure, blindness and death. The symptoms of diabetes, when present, may include frequent urination, normal thirst or hunger, rapid weight loss, itching, fatigue or blurred vision. The diabetes association requests persons arriving for the tests bring the name and address of their physicians.

For more information about Diabetes Detection Week, call 342-9333.

Swindles can sour Christmas cheer

By JEFFREY LAPINSKI

Deck the halls with boughs of holly
Fa, la, la, la, la, la, la, la
'Tis the season to be jolly
Fa, la, la, la, la, la, la, la

It truly is the season to be jolly.

Christmas brings with it something magical—a strange intoxication that overcomes us all. We fall under its spell, replacing feelings of hostility and suspicion with ones of good cheer and generosity.

Christmas makes everyone feel good and everyone likes to feel good.

But as the holiday season brings an increase in the amount of good tidings going around, it also heralds an increase in the darker side of life. Taking advantage of the general good nature of people during the holidays, con artists become more active as they use the Christmas spirit to strip their victims of their cautious nature.

According to Bill Kaimar, vice-president of auditing for Detroit Bank and Trust, the holidays are holidays for everyone, including the swindlers and con artists.

"We think there is a definite increase in swindles (over the holiday season)," said Kaimar, who lectures to organizations and police departments throughout the state on the dangers of "good deals" and slick swindles.

Working on the anti-swindle program for five years, Kaimar has appeared on television programs and radio talk shows warning people to keep their guard up. He has also sent letters to some 50 police departments and other organizations gathering information on swindles.

"We know that it's not just a problem in Detroit but it's a problem nationwide," said Kaimar. "We feel that there's a network of con men in this country. They move across the country like a swarm of locusts."

Kaimar said there are two major reasons why swindles occur more frequently with the arrival of the holidays. First, said Kaimar, people have more money in their pockets as they throw themselves into the holiday shopping spree.

Secondly, people as a whole are less discriminating and more trusting during the holidays. According to Kaimar, the Christmas season relaxes a person's defenses. As he said, people during the holidays "have joy in their hearts and jingle in their pockets." The con artists try to use that "joy" in order to get the "jingle."

One of the ways con artists operate is the play on the victim's greed—that is, making the victim feel like he is getting the con man. "Everyone's looking for a good deal," Kaimar said.

According to Kaimar, many of the victims in the swindles are motivated by their own greed. The con man will use that greed, and stupid and let the victim think he is getting the better deal. "They (the victims) see a chance to rip somebody off," said Kaimar, explaining why victims get caught in a con artist's swindle. "The victim was intent on victimizing the conman. And I don't have a lot of sympathy for victims with greed."

Most people have run into con artists at one time or another. They are the people who sell their wares in the parking lot or on the street corner, said Kaimar.

Some con artists use the "distress sale" play. According to Kaimar, the distress sale happens when the con artist has too much of something and needs to sell it at discount prices or the con man may just need to get rid of something fast.

Kaimar warns any potential buyer who runs into the parking lot salesperson or the street corner vendor to use a little horse sense. He said that good deals, where the product is being sold at an incredibly low price, are often no so good. "Things like that just don't happen," said Kaimar. "There aren't any free lunches."

Giving a little advice, Kaimar said the best way to make a decision on such good deals is to use the two "Cs"—carefulness and common sense. "People have to convince you why they should separate you from your money," he said. "Don't be an impulse buyer. The best way to make a decision is to sleep on it."

Kaimar also advised people to research their transactions and ask themselves a few questions before taking advantage of that "good deal" in the parking lot. For example, who is going to service the product? Who is going to provide the refund should the product fail?

If a person is hit by a swindle, Kaimar recommends advising the police immediately. He said many swindles go unreported because the victim is too embarrassed to admit that he was hoodwinked. Con artists count on their swindles going unreported in order to continue in their "profession."

Kaimar said he knew of one case where the victim was hit two or three times because he did not report the first swindle to the police. "If you don't report it (the swindle), you may be victimized again," he added.

Elderly people are one of the more common victims. Kaimar said there are a couple of reasons why elderly victims are chosen—they tend to act alone without consulting anyone and they are gullible.

To help people identify and avoid swindles, the Detroit Bank Corporation has put together a brochure called "Operations: EVES. Don't be swindled..." The brochure describes 10 common swindles and gives the reader tips on how to avoid the swindle.

Among the swindles described in the brochure are:

•The Charge Card Overcharge. Unscrupulous employees can overcharge customers who use charge cards or can prepare two slips from the same card—one legitimate and one fraudulent. To avoid the swindle, compare the handwritten and imprinted amounts on the charge slip and keep all charge slips and reconcile charge accounts each month.

•The Good Samaritan Scheme. This con artist depends on his victim being unquestioning and generous. The hysterical con artist may run to someone's door with a sad story about his son being in the hospital and he is without money. The victim hands over $5 or $10 and may suggest neighbors who will also contribute. To avoid the swindle, be wary of strangers preying on sympathy. If the person is collecting for a legitimate agency, such as the Red Cross or United Fund, asked for identification.

•The $12.95 Brick. This con depends on the victim's willingness to help a neighbor. A delivery person arrives with a package addressed to a neighbor. He explains that the neighbor is not home and asks the victim to accept the package and save his neighbor a trip to the post office. The victim pays the COD charge only to find that the neighbor had no package on order and the victim shelled out money for a three-pound brick. The brochure advises to only accept packages that have been prepaid or if specifically asked by a neighbor.

Mammals
top agenda

"Michigan Mammals" is the topic of a special program to be held at the Nature Center of Kensington, Metropark near Milford on Sunday, November 30 at 10 a.m.

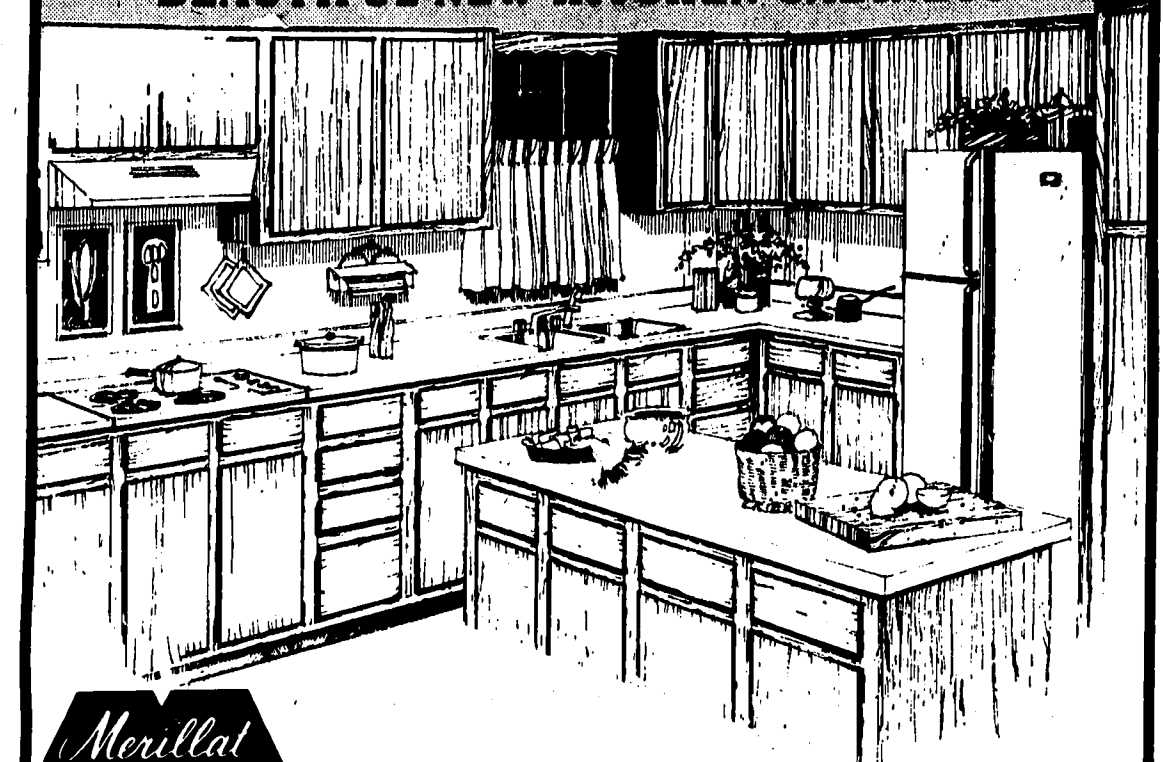

The program will be presented by Naturalist Gordon Lonie who noted that often area residents seldom see their closest animal neighbors because people and animals operate usually on two different schedules.

"While people are snug at home, most mammals are out foraging for food," he said.

Business Briefs

PARAGON Railcar Operations, a division of Portec Inc., located in Novi, has announced a management change with the promotion of Tibor Matyas to the position of engineering manager.

In his new position, Matyas will assume total responsibility for the engineering function of the Paragon Railcar operations. Matyas joined Paragon in November of 1978 as project engineer and has served in the capacity until present.

Paragon manufactures auto carriers for the railroad industry.

TIBOR MATYAS

BERNARD R. BACH of Bach Engineering and Associates at 332 East Main, Northville, participated in the Michigan Energy Expo '80 at Cobo Hall in November. He was a guest on J.P. McCarthy's Focus Program November 13, being interviewed on the Energizer that was on exhibit at his booth at the show. McCarthy questioned the 50 percent energy savings of the Energizer and Bach explained it reclaimed 50 percent of the waste heat exhausted in any flue up to temperatures of 1400 degrees.

To the homeowner, Bach stated, this means a 20-25 percent energy savings on gas heat and a 30-35 percent savings on oil heat. Bach also exhibited his Model B55-6 air circulating fan used in business and industry to reclaim waste heat, he explained, at the ceiling level.

DR. BURTON C. DAVIS of Novi attended the eighth International conference of the Academy of Ambulatory Foot Surgery in Florida recently.

Dr. Davis was awarded a diplomate status by the American Board of Ambulatory Foot Surgery. This board certification attainment represents the highest level of achievement in this specialty and is held by less than 100 podiatrists in the United States.

The Academy of Ambulatory Foot Surgery is composed of podiatrists with the skills and equipment to perform foot surgery in their offices or on an outpatient basis. Members come from all 50 states as well as Canada, Mexico, England and Spain.

Dr. Davis participated in scientific sessions covering such subjects as "Hypnosis as an Adjunct to In-office Surgery," "The Diabetic Patient & Minimal Incision Surgery," "Podiatry in the 80's," and the latest developments in ambulatory foot surgery.

Also seen at the conference were the newest surgical instruments and equipment used by ambulatory foot surgeons which were demonstrated and on display in the scientific exhibit area.

MUCH OF THE INTEREST in solar energy today exists because of generous tax credits being offered by both state and federal governments, according to Reynold Hendrickson, president of StarPak Solar Systems in Novi.

Hendrickson, who authored Michigan's tax credit, said a frequent misunderstanding about tax benefits stems from the fact that they are interpreted as tax deductions instead of tax credits.

People who invest in solar energy equipment are eligible to subtract the tax credits, not from taxable income, but from actual taxes owed.

According to Hendrickson, the federal tax credit for solar is 40 percent on the first $10,000. Michigan tax credits add another 25 percent on the first $2,000 and 15 percent on the next $8,000.

Michigan residents, then, are entitled to subtract from their tax bills a total credit amounting to 65 percent on the first $2,000 they spend on solar and 55 percent on the next $8,000.

TWELVE OAKS MALL will welcome the arrival of Santa Claus this Friday at 7 p.m.

Welcoming the Jolly Old Gent will be Mona, delightful WXYZ-TV personality from the "Hot Fudge Show." Additionally, the Michigan Ballet Theater, an ensemble of experienced young dancers, will perform the classic "Nutcracker" ballet.

Fantasies and dreams will dance in the minds and hearts of all those who attend as toys come to life. A real child will visit the Kingdom of Sweets accompanied by the toy soldier/nutcracker and meet the Sugar Plum Fairy and her army.

This enchanted evening will be a magical, musical, mythical occasion as children meet Mona in person and the exciting mysteries of the holiday season are explored.

"The Nutcracker Suite" is the theme of the holiday display and decorations throughout the Twelve Oaks Mall. Santa's home for this holiday season will be the magical Kingdom of Sweets in the heart of the Nutcracker Suite in the Center Court of Twelve Oaks.

The Michigan Ballet Company will present The Nutcracker Ballet on Monday nights (December 8, 15 and 22) at 7 p.m. Choral groups will perform holiday music in the mall throughout the holiday season.

Children are invited to share their holiday secrets with Santa Claus and photos are available as well as free gifts for all the children. One free photo with Santa will be presented to the first 25 children (limit one per family) to visit Santa every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday morning throughout the holiday season.

Twelve Oaks Mall is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. Holiday hours will be Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. beginning November 24.

CREATIVELY YOURS is the name of a brand new business that is to be a consignment shop for handcrafts at 332 East Main in Northville.

Owner Pat Adams now is accepting items for the new venture. She hopes it can be an outlet for a variety of craft workers and plans to offer stained glass items, quilts and Christmas gifts and decorations. She expects to have the shop open December 1.

A 22-year-old resident of Northville on Allen Drive, Mrs. Adams says she previously has worked in bookkeeping but has always wanted such a shop. She will be assisted by her daughter-in-law, a Fowlerville resident. She may be contacted at 349-2519.

FORSYTHE Junior High School in Ann Arbor could well be Michigan's first school with a solar heated swimming pool.

Completed in early September by Michigan-based StarPak Solar Systems of Novi, the installation will provide heat for the pool during non-freezing periods of the year. The panels used are a new type made of high grade tough stabilized polyolefin, and manufactured by Faeco, Inc.

StarPak is Michigan distributor of Faeco products.

The 25-panel system is the first of its type in the Midwest, according to Bill Park, vice president for sales at StarPak. "More solar panels of this type were sold in Michigan than anywhere else in the nation, outside of California, in 1980," Park said.

LINDA HOFFMAN, a Northville resident, has opened a personnel agency in Southfield. Accountants Two, the firm's name, specializes in professional financial placement, servicing all the Tri-County area and has a national network of affiliates.

Beware swindles

"Home Improvement Schemes. This is a lucrative swindle, costing Americans over $500 million a year. Con artists offer to fix the victim's home at a very low price and end up costing more than a legitimate contractor would charge. Scare tactics also work well when repairing items that are hazardous, such as a water heater or furnace in danger of exploding. To avoid this scheme, obtain the contractor's license number and never sign a completion certificate until the work is completely done."

"Double Trouble. The victim's wallet is stolen while he is dining. The restaurant owner blames the victim and never signs a completion certificate until the work is completely done."

Other fraudulent schemes are outlined in the Detroit-based brochure. To obtain a copy of the brochure, send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to Public Relations, Detroit Bureau, 211 West Fort Street, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

District 23 could be anybody's ballgame

By JEFF FRANK

Picking a winner in the district cage tournament hosted by Milford High beginning Nov. 20, is a little like flipping a five-sided coin.

With records of 12-7, 11-8, 11-6, 9-7 and 9-8, there isn't too much to go on. To further complicate the picture, several of the teams involved split a series with each other, or lost close games that could easily be reversed in a second meeting.

The five coaches involved wouldn't go out on a limb, but three teams, Brighton, Milford and Walled Lake Central, seem to be the favorites of the coaches.

Some of the uncertainty will be resolved early. Central's Vikings and Milford's Redskins open the tournament at 7 p.m. Nov. 20.

The next night at 7 p.m., Brighton and Howell will play the rubber game of their series, while Lakeland waits until Nov. 22 at 7 p.m., at which time the Eagles will face the Central-Milford winner.

The tourney finals will be held Tuesday, Nov. 25, also at 7 p.m.

The performance of Brighton's Peggy Harte could be the key to the entire tournament.

Last year's All-State forward missed much of this season after fracturing her left ankle prior to the Bulldogs' second game.

Even without Harte, the Bulldogs were able to roll up an 8-1 record in the Kensington Valley Conference (losing only to Howell), capturing the title en route to a 12-7 overall mark.

Harte has averaged 17 points per game in the five games since her return, well below last season's 31 point average, and is currently playing at about 60-70 of her ability, according to Brighton coach Carroll Cook.

"The trainer says her ankle is 100 percent," Cook said. "Her conditioning isn't where it was. She was out for a whole month and her body's not back to normal. You can't just come back from a thing like that."

Point guard Lisa Gomez (12 points and seven steals per game) and 5-9 junior center Kris Johnson (11 rebounds per game) picked up the slack in Harte's absence, and make Brighton more than a one person team.

"I feel our girls are ready for the tournament. In a sense (losing Harte) can help. The other girls had to pick up the slack. With Peggy back, that should really help us," Cook said.

"It's good that Milford and Central play each other because someone's got to lose. I hate to predict, but I look for us against Walled Lake Central in the finals," she added.

Central owns a 63-52 win over Milford in its 9-8 overall slate and lost a 61-60 overtime thriller to Brighton, but both games took place before the Vikings lost forward Erin Blenden to a knee injury.

Since her loss, the Vikings have had trouble getting their offensive attack together, against a schedule of strong opponents.

Rebounding and height are Central's strengths, with 6-0 junior center Amy Rembisz the leader with 13 points and between 13 and 14 rebounds per game. Caryn Lamb at 5-11 matches Rembisz' rebounding totals, while chipping in eight points per game. Point guard Wendy Keely has averaged 10 points per game.

"We have to get maximum play from those three players," remarked Central coach Ken Butler. "We're bigger than most teams—we have to get the ball inside, especially against a team like Milford."

Without question, the Redskins will be the smallest team in the field. Tracey Strachan at 5-7 is the tallest starter, and she and Krys Haggerty, a 5-5 forward, handle most of the board work.

Strachan averages nearly eight rebounds per contest in addition to six points per game, while Haggerty is an outside threat, hitting 11 points per game, along with her seven rebound average.

But the Redskins' catalyst is 5-3 senior guard Val Jones, who is averaging 18.2 points per game and can hit from almost anywhere inside of halfcourt.

No matter who survives the Central-Milford showdown, it will be a rubber game against Lakeland. The Eagles split their season series with both the Vikings and Redskins, winning on the opponent's home court each time.

Girls' basketball Districts

Mercy has the most in District 10's line-up

Mercy, Mercy, Mercy.

That's pretty much what this week's District 10 Class A girls' basketball tournament should amount to. At least that's what Northville Coach Gene Wagner and Western's Tom Szocinski will tell you.

Indeed, Farmington Our Lady of Mercy (19-0) will have to rate an overwhelming favorite when local district play begins Thursday at Northville High School. And Wagner's Mustangs (6-13) face the unenviable task of attempting to cook the state-ranked Marlin in first-round action starting at 7 p.m.

The Northville coach harbors no illusions about the miracle it would take to beat Mercy. In fact, it would probably take a minor miracle for the Mustangs to even split a series with the Marlin.

And Wagner all but admits it. "Mercy is the class of Class A," the Northville mentor claims. "They're considered one of the top five teams in the state. It'll be good experience for our girls to play a team like them."

Naturally, Wagner admits that the luck of the draw wasn't particularly kind to his team in this case. But, he says, as long as the Mustangs didn't draw favorably, "we might as well play the best."

Szocinski says that's exactly what Northville will be doing Thursday — playing against the best. "They do everything extremely well," said the coach who's leaving the cage coaching ranks after the playoffs. "They run a great press, they run, and they shoot well also."

"I'll go as far to predict that they'll win the state title."

Like Wagner, Szocinski has reason to be concerned about Mercy. Western, which drew a first-round bye, will have to play the Marlin in the second round (provided, of course, that Mercy beats Northville first). The probable Warrior-Mercy match-up is slated for Saturday at 7 p.m.

Of the other three teams in the District 10 playoffs, Livonia Stevenson would appear to have an outside chance at reaching the state final.

Another outright Inter-Lakes Conference title recently and would doubtless relish the opportunity to unseat the Marlin.

However, the Spartans would need some standout effort by most or all of their regulars for that to happen. Szocinski notes that Mercy "has quality players coming out of their ears" in giving the Farmington club the nod.

Two other Farmington teams will be in the hunt, but chances are good that they won't come away with any game(s) in the districts. Farmington High is coming off a sub-500 season overall, while North Farmington had won just twice all year at last count.

The latter two schools will square off Thursday at 8:30 p.m., with the winner earning the right to play on the same court with Stevenson. Then, in all probability, the Spartans and Marlin will duke it out for the District 10 title next Monday at 7 p.m.

Janet Wilson and Western keep improving

Second place clinched by Szocinski's Warriors

Walled Lake Western's Warriors won more than just a basketball game when they rolled to a 51-32 triumph over Farmington Harrison last week.

They also claimed sole possession of second place in the final Western Six Conference standings.

"That's what we were shooting for," remarked Tom Szocinski, coach of the Warriors cagers. "We would have lost to Harrison, we would have had to share second place with Waterford."

"But the girls didn't want that and so they went out and made sure that they didn't have to share second place with anybody."

The 7-3 record is Western's best in W-6 Conference play since 1976. Even more importantly, it represents a dramatic turnaround from the 1979 season when the Warriors ended up dead last in the W-6 by going through all 10 league games without a victory.

The decisive victory over Harrison was not exactly unexpected, however. The Hawks are struggling through a difficult year of their own and have just one victory against nine defeats to show for their W-6 efforts this year.

Still, the Warriors had beaten Harrison by a mere two points in their first encounter of the season, but they made sure there was no question about the outcome the second time around.

Paced by the scoring of Kris Mellema and the rebounding of Joyce Van Velzor, the Warriors opened up a 14-5 first quarter lead which they extended to 13 points (24-14) at the half.

The Warriors continued to extend their lead in the second half by outscoring the Hawks 15-12 in the third quarter to make the score 39-26 before coasting home to the 51-32 decision.

Mellema, the senior guard, led the Warriors in scoring with a 15 point performance, while Van Velzor continued her outstanding board work by grabbing 15 of 16 rebounds.

Van Velzor, a 5-9 junior forward, finished the year with 144 rebounds in 10 conference games for an average of 14.4 per game. Overall, she has pulled down 247 rebounds in 19 games so far this season for an average of 13 rebounds per game.

Szocinski was particularly pleased with his team's defensive efforts against the Hawks last week. The Warriors held Harrison's Sue Ferguson, an All W-6 choice, to just 10 points last week after she had scored 17 in the first meeting of the season. Additionally, the Warriors cut Harrison's Laurie Winkel down to seven points after she had tallied 15 earlier in the season.

"Our improved defensive play was definitely a factor," opined Szocinski, "but the big thing was that the girls really wanted to clinch sole possession of second place."

"After going winless in 1979, it was really an accomplishment to come back and grab the second spot this year."

The Warriors rounded out regular season play Tuesday with a non-league clash against Milford Lakeland. This Saturday they'll begin MISAA Class A District play by taking on the winner of the Northville-Mercy game in Northville at 7 p.m.

Grubb, Mellema cop W-6 honors

Three other Warriors named

Walled Lake Western's Tracy Grubb and Kris Mellema have been selected as 1980 All-Western Six Conference choices, league coaches announced last week.

Grubb received first-team kudos while Mellema was a second-team selection. In addition, teammates Joyce Van Veltor, Janet Wilson and Cindy Hart were honorable mention awarders.

Grubb, a 5-6 senior forward, has spearheaded a revived Warrior offensive that has been a main factor in the team's 7-3 conference standing this season. Despite being slowed by a bad back recently, she averaged 9.1 points per game this season. Plymouth Canton (10-0) led the all-conference balloting with two first-team picks. Representing the Chiefs were two juniors, Jean Timlin and Pearl Cunningham.

Rounding out the six-person first team were Northville's (4-6) Jacque Nixon and Lavonia Churchill's (3-8) Carrie Scott — both juniors — along with senior Judy Coxen of Waterford Mott (6-4).

Meanwhile, Mellema, the 5-3 Western backcourt leader, highlighted the second team honorees. The senior guard, averaging 10.2 points per game this year, was joined by one representative from each of the conference's other five schools.

Also on the number two unit were juniors Melinda House of Northville, Reggie Ruggeno of Canton and Bridget Brennan of Waterford Mott. Senior Julie Stadman of Churchill and sophomore Sue Ferguson of Farmington Harrison (1-9) rounded out the second squad.

Among the honorable mention picks, only Canton was able to equal the number of choices that Western had (three). Warrior HMers were juniors Colleen Crissy and Sue Pierce, and senior Joanne Somerville.

Teams with two choices each included Northville, Harrison and Mott. The Mustangs tapped were juniors Melissa McDaniel and Marge Mueller; Hawk picks were juniors Lori Winkel and Susie Solomon, and the Cavaliers' seniors Mary Beth Cooperider and Shannon McDow.

Jennie Ceroni, a sophomore, was the lone honorable mention choice for Churchill.

Novi girl swimmers bounce back from close loss

"Too Close for Comfort" may be the name of a new television series, but the title would also serve as a theme for the Novi girls' swimming team this season. The Wildcats, after suffering an 86-85 nudging at the hands of Farmington Harrison, went right back to their frog-strangling ways last Tuesday. But there were two changes this time around.

For one, the score against the Chelsea Bulldogs was 85-84. But more importantly, Novi was the winner. "It was about as close as you'll want to get," Wildcat Coach Manse Tian commented after the frantic Chelsea finish. "But we'll take it. We deserved one like this."

Again it was the 400-yard freestyle relay — the final event — that determined the winner last Tuesday. Novi had a three-point lead entering the final event, meaning that it needed just a first-place finish or a combination second and third place to win the meet.

When it came down to brass tacks, though, Lisa Bonkowski was up to the challenge. The junior edged her foe for fourth place, meaning that Novi was home-free to its fifth win of the season against a like number of defeats. Earlier, the quartet of Wendy Sayre, Deb Agarwal, Lynn Wohlfeil and Colleen Weiland had gotten the home-town crowd off to a good start by winning the 200-yard medley relay in a school-record 2:06.3 time. That effort qualified them for the state's Class B competition December 5-6.

Individually, Sayre led the way by recording a 1:09.9 clocking in the 100-yard backstroke, tying the school record and missing a state-qualifying performance by .05 seconds. Other Novi victors were Wohlfeil in the 50-yard freestyle and Agarwal in the 100-yard backstroke. Rounding out the Wildcat winners were Sue Johnson in the 200-yard freestyle and Marie Gannon in the 100-yard freestyle. "It was a good, close meet," Tian summarized. "I think the experience we gained from losing by a point against Harrison paid off this time around."

After hosting Avondale yesterday (Tuesday), the Wildcats wind up their regular-season schedule with a dual meet at Willow Run on Thursday.

Langkil leads Bobcats

Noreen Langkil set a fast pace by placing in two events to lead the Novi Bobcats in competition with 32 other AAU swim teams at Clarenceville High School last weekend.

Competing in the 13-18 year old division, Langkil stroked her way to a fourth place finish in the 200 butterfly with a 2:53.6 clocking and then came back to finish sixth in the 100 breaststroke with a clocking of 1:25.3.

Another top Bobcat performance was turned in by Nancy May in the 9-10 year old division. May churned her way to a fine 1:36.64 effort in the 100 breaststroke, achieving an "A" timing with her performance.

The only other Bobcat to place in the meet was Andy Wayne in the eight-and-under division. Wayne finished fifth in the 55 freestyle as he stroked his way to a time of 1:16.44 in the event.

The Novi Parks and Recreation Department is still looking for teams to play in its Men's Open Basketball League. The league will play every Wednesday night at Novi Middle School North.

Recreation Director Bill Scott reported that four more teams are needed before the league can be started. Deadline for registering for the league has been extended to this Friday to permit additional teams to sign up. There is a registration fee of $225 per team.

Teams interested in joining the open basketball league should call the Parks and Rec Department at 349-1976 as soon as possible.

The Parks and Recreation Department reminds all sixth, seventh and eighth graders in Novi that an open gym will be held every Wednesday evening at the Middle School South gymnasium from 8-9:30 p.m. Cost is 50 cents per night at the door.

Anyone looking for a good deal on Detroit Pistons' basketball games can look no further than the Parks and Rec department. The department is offering discounts on five selected home games this season, offering $4.50 tickets instead of the normal $7 fare.

The special rates apply to the following games: November 20 versus San Diego; December 12, Cleveland; January 20, Philadelphia; February 21, Boston; and March 20, Milwaukee. Tickets may be purchased 20 days before each contest.

Despite all of this talk about basketball, the Detroit Lions' football season is still very much in full swing. The Parks and Rec department reminds all Lions' fans that it offers a shuttle bus service on each Detroit home date. The bus leaves from Novi City Hall.

For further information about any Parks and Rec program, call 349-1976.

Walled Lake's Hansen wins in News football contest

Five contestants came up with just two mistakes in last week's football contest but only three of them were winners.

Based on their guessed scores of the Detroit-Baltimore game, Pat Hansen was declared the first-place winner, D. Jeannette McIsaac was second, and Ann Marie Petroski was third.

Hansen, of Walled Lake, was 13 points off the real score; McIsaac, of Northville, was 15 points off; and Petroski, of Northville, was 22 points off.

The other contestants with two errors, Donn Bousquet of Novi and Mickey O'Leary of Westland, finished out of the money — 25 and 33 points off the mark, respectively.

Sixteen contestants came up with three mistakes; 22 had four errors; 13 had five mistakes; and all the others had six or more mistakes.

Most difficult game for contestants was the Michigan state victory over Minnesota.

Notre Dame's win over Alabama, Ball State's triumph over Ohio University, and Central Michigan's win over Western Michigan also created problems for many contestants.

Interestingly, Detroit's continued tangle in the professional ranks was correctly predicted by most contestants — although many figured the margin of the losing score would be greater than one point.

Welcome To Our Clinic

Hey Doc. . .

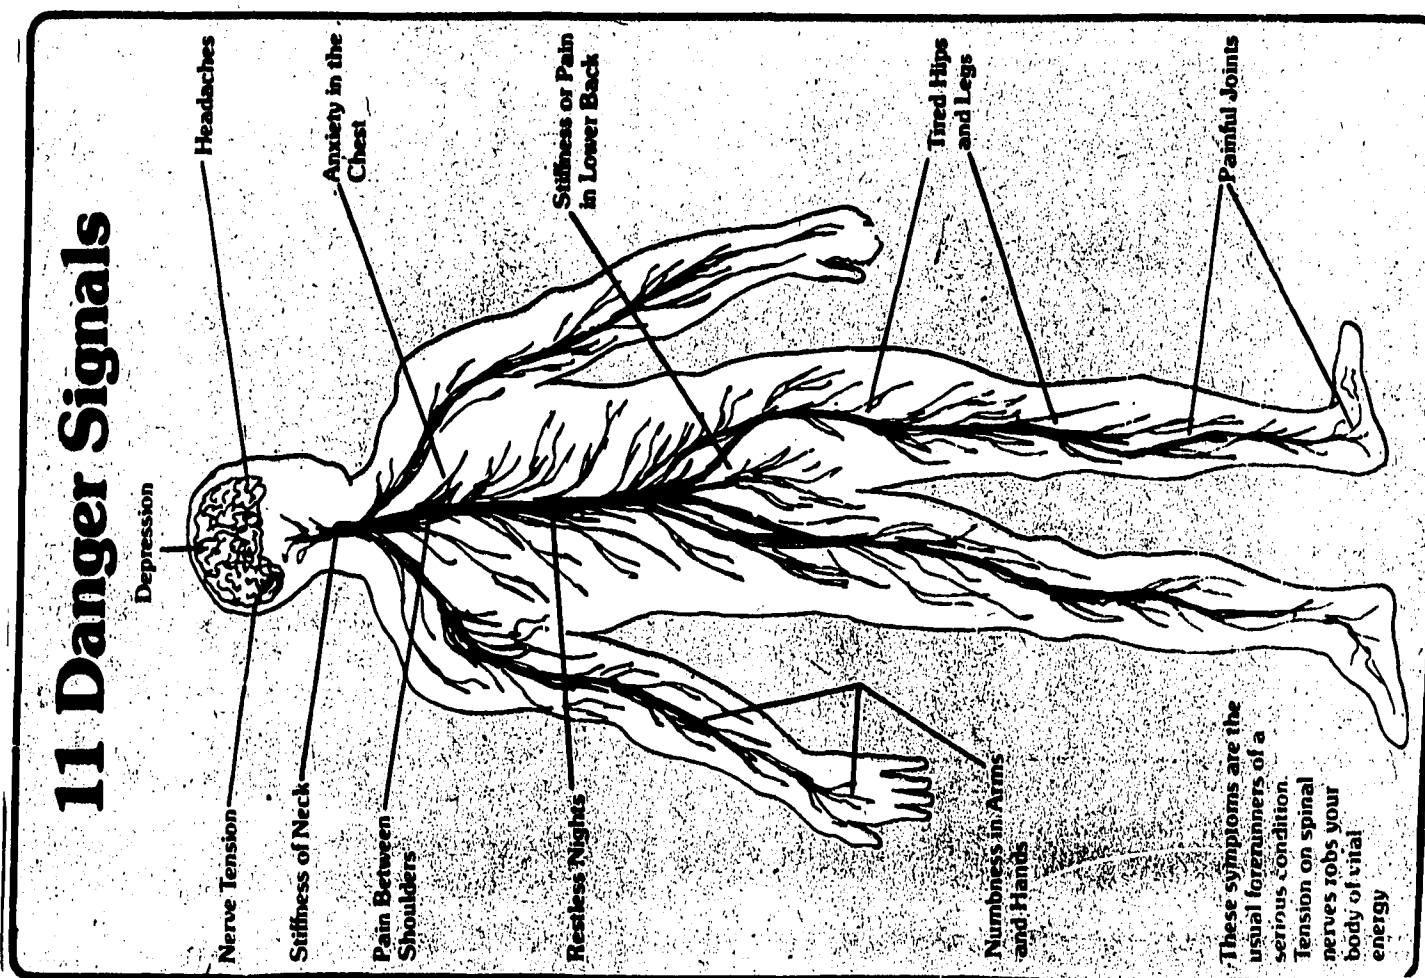

What about my family?

That's a question that we have heard for years and we have now devised a plan to enable your whole family to enjoy the many benefits of good health. Many times in the past we've suggested that patients bring in their families for treatments. We've heard patients say, "I'll wait until I get better." What they were really saying was "I just can't afford to have the entire family treated at the regular office fee."

So, to serve the needs of patients who do not have full family health care insurance, we are now offering the Family Health Care Plan which will make good health a family affair. We have designed this plan to extend good health to everyone. There is a genuine concern that families should stay healthy together. Good health is, indeed, a family affair and it is an affair to be remembered.

Take advantage of our new plan today. Call now — 477-7313 and ask about our Family Plan.

"The doctor of the future will give us no medicine, but will interest his patients in the care of the human frame, in diet and in the Cause and Prevention of disease."

—Thomas A. Edison

The most valuable asset of a family is that everyone is enjoying good health

Our Chiropractic Clinic is dedicated to the restoring, maintaining and building of good health through natural, safe, scientific chiropractic methods. Our goal is to teach you how to achieve a high level of health so that you, in turn, may teach others. Our Clinic offers health counseling and suggestions for the entire family, including exercise, plus special consultations for any health related problems. We offer you our sincere interest and keen desire to get you well and keep you well. As you have discovered by now, chiropractors see health problems differently than other healing professionals who just decide pain with drugs, or surgically remove damaged parts of the body. Chiropractors realize that when your body suffers from symptoms, these symptoms are actually warning signals of your problem and not necessarily the real problem. Chiropractors are "Cause Doctors" and seek only to locate and correct the cause of our health problems. Thereby eliminating your symptoms. We understand your care, to feel free to discuss any phase of your health and to give you the information which we feel is of vital importance to you as the chiropractic patient. Please read it carefully and retain this paper for further reference. WELCOME TO OUR OFFICE!!!

Dad's low back trouble may be caused by a wrenching of the lower spinal vertebrae and pelvic bones. Conditions of this type often respond readily to chiropractic care. Pain, stiffness, and swollen joints indicate the presence of inflamed joints. Because chiropractors are especially trained to adjust spines and restore a normal flow of blood to the joints, the kidneys and adrenal glands, they have been highly successful in caring for arthritis and other disorders that affect the joints. Junior may suffer with bed wetting, frequent colds, irritability, constipation, loss of appetite and many other conditions. Tension on the nerves in the neck may also affect his parents report an increase in the scholastic ability following chiropractic attention. High blood pressure over a long period of time causes a great strain on the circulatory system. It is the cause of heart attacks and strokes. High blood pressure many times is caused by spinal pressure on nerves leading to the major blood vessels.

The condition of your child's spine and nerve system during the early formative years may determine his or her whole future health. Children do suffer misalignments of the spine, and vertebrae through falls, sports or childhood, and later adulthood illnesses can in many cases, be traced to seemingly unimportant spinal injury. For this reason it is especially important that a doctor of chiropractic be periodically examined by a doctor of chiropractic. Prevention beats correction every time.

Your Child's Spine

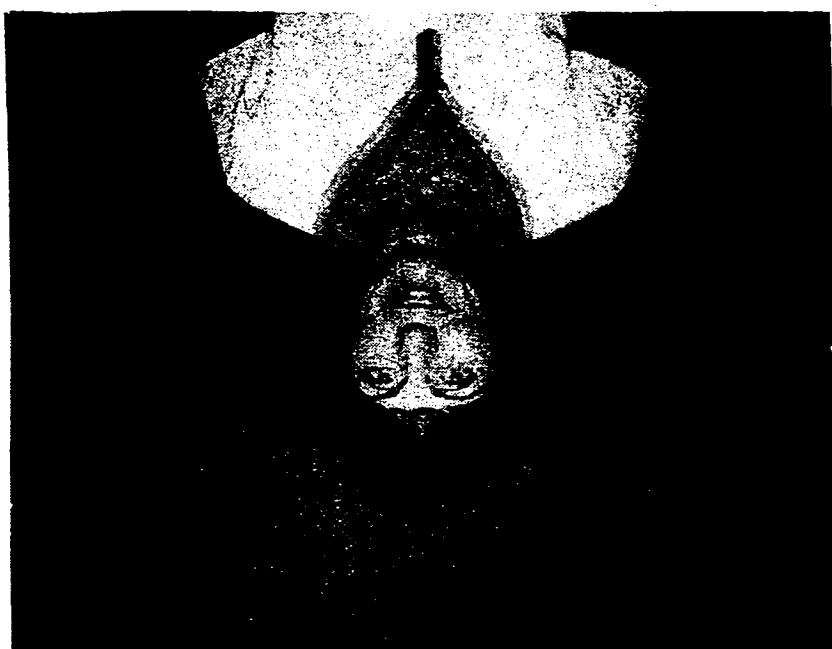

My name is David Lee and I was born May 23, 1980. I had my first chiropractic adjustment when I was five days old. My mom also had chiropractic care when she was my age. My parents want to be sure I have the best possible health care to help me grow. That's why, along with seeing my family doctor, they bring me for regular chiropractic check-ups.

Chiropractic Helping Me Grow

Jack Allen

After spending many thousands of dollars on medical treatments over the past 18 months, three neurosurgeons, three orthopedic surgeons, two physical medicine specialists, two internists, one rheumatologist and an inpatient hospital on three separate occasions, my condition progressively worsened to the point that I became bed ridden. It was at this time that I sought Chiropractic help. In just a few short visits it had done wonders. I am pain free and well on my way back to a useful life again.

Medical Doctors Couldn't Help

I am an artist and spend many long hours painting steadily in a fixed position which causes severe neck tension, shoulder pain, upper back pain and headaches. Chiropractic is the only way I can get relief. I find that if I stay on a general maintenance program, or once or twice a month, I don't build up the tension as quickly or severe.

Neck & Shoulder Pain Gone

X-Rays shown are taken to determine the existence and degree of spinal misalignment and subluxation. This is extremely important for the precise adjustment (replacement of misaligned vertebra).

Then, with scientific and corrective spinal adjustments, we can realign the vertebrae involved. Even a minor spinal injury can result in an unlimited variety of distressing and painful effects. Many disabling conditions occur years after an automobile accident, but can be traced back to the sudden impact injury. Our Chiropractic Clinic specializes in treating sudden impact injuries. See us immediately after any type of accidental injury.

The alignment of the spine or creates pressure on the nerves can interrupt the flow of vital nerve energy. The result... fatigue. The chiropractor locates the areas of nerve pressure. He makes skillful adjustments which realigns the spine, relieves tensions and pressures, and allows nature to restore the body to health. With the nervous system properly tuned, the tired, run-down feeling disappears and pep, energy and ambition return. Enjoy good and abundant health... get a Chiropractic check-up today!

THAT "TIRED, RUN-DOWN" FEELING

The pace of today's world, with its constant stresses and demands is producing a generation of "tired people". Whether individuals are able to maintain the pace depends on the health of your nervous system. Vital nerve energy, flowing from the brain through the spinal column, maintains the proper health of the human machine. That tired, run-down feeling can develop when anything happens to interfere with the flow of nerve energy to the organs, glands and muscles... anything which interferes with Almost everyone of us suffers from a headache sooner or later. Many suffer regularly from this painful symptom. The neck and upper portion of the spine can be considered one of the prime suspects in many cases of recurrent headaches. The Doctor of Chiropractic's experience has taught him that headaches that persist over long periods of time, occurring and disappearing only to occur again when least expected, are related to the cervical spine. One such cause is abnormal positioning or an abnormal mobility of one or several vertebrae (spinal segments) in the upper neck. Sometimes unknown to the patient an accident, fall or improper posture, even an incorrect position while sleeping will force the vertebrae of the upper neck into an abnormal position beyond its normal range of movement. Usually no symptoms appear immediately, but undue stress on muscles, ligaments and nerves will result in pain in and tenderness at the base of the skull. This initial pain sometimes spreads to the temples and behind the eyes, causing the common, but most unpleasant symptoms of the recurrent headache. Headache pain is sometimes accompanied by muscle spasms through the neck and shoulders, especially in the back of the neck. Sometimes the pain is so persistent and intense it causes nausea, and is improperly diagnosed as a tension headache or migraine headache. Because many people believe all headaches are caused from nervous tension and stress, and other psychological conflict, years of suffering is endured when a visit to the Doctor of Chiropractic would help correct the cause of the symptom. Experience of the Doctor of Chiropractic has shown that many if not most headaches are caused by abnormal alignment and mobility of one or more of the vertebrae of the neck and upper back. Treatment has often proven effective in giving the patient relief from the pain and discomfort of the recurrent headache. Talk to your Chiropractor. The Doctor of Chiropractic is trained to offer specialized care in the effective treatment of recurrent headaches.

Help For Headache Sufferers

The spine is the life line of the body and good general health depends upon good spinal health. If you or one of your loved ones are hurt on the job, consult our Chiropractic Clinic immediately. Modern scientific chiropractic procedures reduce suffering, time loss and the possibility of permanent serious injury.

This type of strain is serious. If not corrected a sacral strain can lead to chronic weakness and nerve pain. This injury results from improper lifting, straining while pushing heavy objects and poor working posture. It can be an injury to one or more vertebrae. If the strain occurs in the upper back, shoulders and arms may become involved. There is muscular tension and soreness. Any type of motion causes increased pain and all positions, whether sitting, standing or lying, may be uncomfortable. Spinal and sacral strains are only two of the disabling conditions a worker may suffer as a result of an on the job injury. But since back injuries account for one-tenth of the total time loss in industry, it is this area in which Chiropractic attention, and it is this area in which Chiropractic care can quickly reveal the involvement of vertebrae and correct adjustments can bring about relief of the symptoms and a rapid correction of the disorder.

About On The Job Injuries What You Ought To Know

The health of the American workman is of great importance to all people. As a result, extensive research has been done to study all aspects of occupational injuries. On the job injuries, which cost American businesses 100 million man hours annually, represent a tremendous loss in production and revenues. But our concern is with the pain and anxiety suffered by the American workman—our family, friends and neighbors—when such injuries occur. The most common occupational injury is sacral strain. It occurs when the sacrum or tailbone slips from its normal position in relationship to the bones of the hip. There may be extensive muscle and ligament strain. The pain is sharp and movement of the legs is restricted. Often the sciatic nerve becomes involved which produces even greater disability. A person suffering from sacral strain may not be able to stand straight. Any attempt to stand tall results in a sharp and stinging pain.

WHAT ARE SUBLUXATIONS ?

Vertebral subluxation is not exactly a household word. The average person is familiar with words like cancer, arthritis, stroke, etc., but the silent killer is virtually unknown to most people. Let's take a look at the term vertebral subluxation. If we break the term down we get vertebra, which is a spinal bone. Subluxation broken down gives us Sub - meaning less than, and luxation - meaning dislocation. In other words, one of the spinal bones has slipped out of place. This is sometimes improperly referred to as a slipped disc.

The significance of the vertebral subluxation or fixation is that it produces neuronal disturbance (interference with the life force flowing over the nerves). This nerve interference disrupts the control of body processes and produces incoordination in tissues, organs and glandular function. Nerves are directly and indirectly in control of all body processes; interference with the life messages over nerves may cause illness in any part of the body.

Quite often you are totally unaware of a subluxation taking place. Babies are often subluxated at birth without the mother or Doctor being aware of it. The neck is twisted, forceps are used, labor is difficult. These and other factors cause a newborn's vertebrae to misalign.

A slap on the back, tripping on the edge of a carpet, etc., often cause discomfort for a short time and are dismissed as 'nothing to worry about.' A subluxation has taken place, ignored - perhaps to show up months or even years later as disease.

Less obvious subluxations causes are trauma, fear and drugs. Drugs causing depressions of nerves; fear and trauma causing tension - thus inviting vertebrae to misalign.

Car accidents cause a large portion of subluxations - including the so called "fender benders." The body is jarred and/or startled to an extent where vertebrae subluxate.

Never dismiss any kind of accident - Get it checked immediately by your Chiropractor to prevent any chance of later problems.

THIS IS A SUBLUXATION

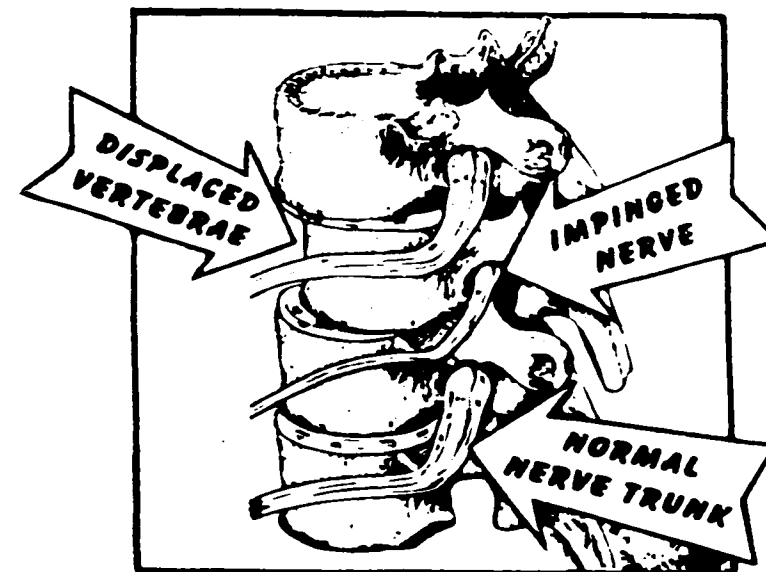

The central nervous system consists of the brain, the spinal cord and 31 pairs of spinal nerves extending to all parts of the body.

The brain generates life-giving energy and sends it down the spinal cord, out the spinal nerves to all cells of the body. Nerves either convey sensory function such as cold, pain, smell and taste, or impulses that give motion to the body.

Any interruption to the transmission of brain energy will slacken and flow and some organ or tissue will be checked in its normal function.

The spine is strong enough to support many hundreds of pounds. At the same time, it is elastic and flexible to enable movement in any direction. There are 24 movable segments or vertebrae in the spine. Between each segment is a soft cushion called a disc, which serves as a ball bearing and shock absorber.

Inside the spine is a tube which contains the spinal cord, the life-line of the nervous system. Between each vertebra are a pair of nerve trunks which carry millions of individual nerve fibers to various parts of the body. If one or more of these spinal fibers becomes impinged, vital organs can become affected, resulting in disease and nervous tension.

HEALTH

Health, as would all like to express it, exists only when 100% of the brain messages are generated, 100% relayed back to the directing center within the brain. This must be accomplished in both quantity and quality if maximum health is to exist. Gentle chiropractic adjustments are the most effective method of insuring 100% body function.

Enjoy Good Health
....Naturally!

DIS - EASE

The nerves which influence all action within the body are called motor nerves and extend from the brain to all parts of the body. All internal function is brought about by brain messages passing over the motor nerves to other body parts. Speech, circulation, breathing and digestion result from the transference of brain energy.

Extending from all organs back to the control centers in the brain are sensory nerves. These are nerves of feeling with which we differentiate hot from cold, wet from dry, etc. They also inform the brain of trouble anywhere in the body. We are very much aware of these nerves when we feel pain.

Interruption of this process results in the paralysis of normal body function. Resulting in dis-ease.

Adjustments

Chiropractic adjustments are painless, but relieve pressure on spinal nerves.

X-Rays

The Doctor of Chiropractic's responsibility is to be certain there are no complications that might prevent or delay recovery. The x-ray provides the doctor with a means to "look inside" and observe the conditions of the parts of the body so that it can be determined if there are any dislocations, fractures, bone disease, malformations, etc.

Examining

The doctors examine back curvature through a Posture Analyzer which will indicate any misalignment
