Hearing set on Ten Mile/Beck development plans

Plans for the development of an 89-acre parcel on the northeast corner of Ten Mile and Beck Road will be reviewed by the Novi Planning Board at a public hearing next Wednesday (March 4).

The hearing will be held in the Novi Public Library at 7:30 p.m.

Specifically, the planners will consider a request from F&M Associates to utilize the RUD (Residential Unit Development) option on the property.

The RUD option is designed to provide flexibility in residential development by permitting a mixture of various types of residential dwelling units (single-family, attached one-family clusters, two-family and multiple-family). The ordinance prescribes that the density under the RUD cannot exceed the level that would be permitted under conventional single family development. Additionally, the number of multiple family units under the option cannot exceed the number of single-family units.

The Ten Mile/Beck Road parcel is zoned R-4 which permits a maximum density level of 4.3 units per acre. Under the present designation, the property can be developed with a total of approximately 384 dwelling units.

James Macksey of F&M Associates unveiled plans for the 89-acre development to the planners at their February 4 session, stating that changes in the marketplace have created demands for new trends in housing.

"New development in the Eighties must address the issues of double-digit inflation and interest rates as well as changes in family size and living styles," said Macksey at the February 4 meeting.

Macksey's comments were echoed by Leonard Seigal, architect for the proposed Ten Mile/Beck Road development, who said changes in the housing industry will parallel those in the automotive industry.

"We have to deal with space in a different manner than we have previously," said Seigal. "Houses will get smaller so people can afford to buy them and afford to live in them."

The preliminary plan unveiled at the February 4 meeting proposes 17 acres (51 lots) of single family residences on the east property line, 27.5 acres (130 units) of cluster homes in the center of the property and 16.5 acres (180 units) of multiples south of the cluster units.

The preliminary plan did not include a 10-acre parcel directly on the northeast corner of the Ten Mile/Beck Road intersection. Three of the 10 acres are presently zoned commercial.

Efforts to extend the commercial designation to all 10 acres met strong opposition from area residents and were turned down by the city council last year. The master plan adopted by the planning board in December calls for a convenience commercial center to be located on the Ten Mile/Beck Road intersection, and the 10-acre corner parcel apparently has been left vacant at this time in anticipation that a commercial center will be developed on the site at some time in the future.

Seigal said the rationale for developing the residential portion of the property under the RUD option is that it permits the developers to save the trees on the north property line and provide a mix of housing styles to serve a variety of lifestyles.

He said the developers would be able to leave 28 percent of the site (23.5 acres) in open space by utilizing the RUD option.

"I think it is a realistic plan that could be a pacesetter in terms of establishing housing trends for the Eighties," said Seigal.

The architect also noted that the majority of the development has been concentrated on the interior of the site. "By retaining the significant wooded areas on the north property line and along Beck Road, the impact on other areas will be very limited," he said.

"People driving down Beck Road or Ten Mile will see primarily trees and green areas as opposed to houses."

Dance marathon brings in $10,000

Some people wouldn't eat a live goldfish — let alone 25 of them — for love or money.

But Fred Almond, a Novi High School senior, did just that for a little bit of both last weekend. His feat brought in about $75 from a somewhat queasy crowd that watched him swallow all the fish whole. The money will be added to the total amount of donation pledges raised by Novi and Northville high school students who engineered the 5th annual Muscular Dystrophy (MD) dance marathon.

This year, nearly 300 Novi students and about 50 Northville students turned out to dance the night away in Novi High's gym. But, as Almond's stunt implies, they don't run dance marathons like they used to. Making people dance until they dropped. Giving five minute breaks now and then. Bringing in the big band sound.

Perhaps it's just as well. Because the way dance marathons are set up now, they offer a whole lot more than they used to. Goldfish eating contests, for example. Chorus lines. Live disc jockeys from area radio stations spinning the records. Lots of good food. A few well-timed breaks with entertainment provided.

And, the thing that sets the MD event apart from plain old fund-raisers, victims of the crippling disease also participate in the event with the students.

This year's event, under the direction of Chairman Robin Brown and Co-chairman Shannon Gronowski, wasn't quite as successful as the students had hoped it would be. All totaled, they brought in $10,723 for research into the causes and cure for MD. But the organizers were aiming for $20,000 and also fell short of last year's high of more than $13,000.

Brown chalks that up to the lag in the economy, noting that the students at first had problems lining up donations for food and paper goods from area businesses. Eventually, she adds, the merchants donated nearly everything the students needed to feed more than 300 teenagers over a 24-hour period.

Brown notes community support of the marathon has been excellent. Novi Mayor Romaine Roethel and Northville Mayor Paul Vernon both attended opening ceremonies of the marathon Friday.

Monday night, Novi City Council passed a resolution commending the students for their work on the marathon.

"Whereas it is the intent of this council that these priceless human efforts not go unrecognized," the resolution reads, "... students of Novi and Northville High School ... are recognized and congratulated for this most valuable service and contribution to the less fortunate of our society."

County has plan to ease flooding

The Oakland County Road Commission has submitted a plan that could provide a solution to the constant flooding of the area just east of Meadowbrook Road on Ten Mile dubbed 'Lake Novi' by residents after last week's wet weather.

The next problem is to determine who will pay for the proposed improvements.

A letter from County Highway Engineer Paul Van Roekel addressed to the city states that "for several years" flooding has occurred at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook. Water sheets flow across the travelled portion of the road depositing debris and causing icing, he notes.

He says an enclosed storm sewer, rather than an open ditch drain, is the "only reasonable solution" to the overflowing roadside ditches at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook. Estimates for the total project are approximately $210,000.

Van Roekel goes on to say that the responsibility for financing the construction of storm sewers designed to solve area wide drainage problems are shared by Oakland County, the city and all property owners with land that will be draining into the sewer. Without collecting funds from surrounding property owners the county could not afford to construct the storm sewer, he said.

"In view of the decreasing financial limitations which the road commission is facing the next several years, the above mentioned type of financing is the only possible method by which the Road Commission could participate," Van Roekel said.

City Manager Edward Kriewall told the city council Monday that the county recommends establishing a special assessment district which would include such property as the Novi-Ten Plaza, Holy Family Catholic Church, Meadowbrook Glens subdivision three and the commercial areas on all three corners.

"That would mean the road commission's share would be only a small percentage," Kriewall told the council. "They're not being generous by any means. This is a good proposal for them. They feel this should be financed on an acreage basis and would be glad to fund their share for the roadway."

Kriewall told the council the alternatives are to live with the situation, consider a special assessment district as proposed, view the project as an extension of the stalled Palmetto drain project or "go back to the county and tell them it's their ditch and they can do what they want to with it."

He recommended telling the county the city cannot accept the assessment plan because the drainage problem was there before the surrounding properties developed.

"The problem existed pre-shopping center, pre-everything. The developments that have gone in have constructed their own retention ponds so they shouldn't be contributing to the flooding," Kriewall said.

City Engineer Harry Mosher told the council, "It's an inadequate road side ditch, period."

Mosher said after the meeting that the city has determined the drainage problem in that area is longstanding and has not been seriously complicated by development in that area, so the city believes local taxpayers should not be forced to pay for the drainage improvements.

Since the flooding creates a hazard to motorists, the city attorney said he would discuss the matter with the county.

City council members directed the city manager and city attorney to consult with Oakland County regarding the drainage improvement proposal.

Parks department plans Snofest carnival in '82

The best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agly, as Robert Burns would say.

And the famed remarks of the famed Scottish poet are certainly appropriate as far as the Novi Parks and Recreation Department is concerned.

For the better part of the winter, Parks and Rec officials have been making plans to initiate a gala winter carnival called "Snofest" this year.

Originally slated to take place last weekend, Snofest was rescheduled for this weekend due to the unseasonably warm weather.

And now Bill Scott of the Parks and Rec Department reports that a decision has been made to abandon plans for a winter carnival this year.

"The weatherman just hasn't cooperated," said Scott in reporting that Snofest '81 has been cancelled.

"It looked like things were going to work out well, and then we got hit by all this warm weather which took away our snow. It's awfully tough to hold a cross-country ski race when there's no snow on the ground."

"We had hoped to be able to go ahead with it this weekend, but the weather has remained warm and it's probably too late in the season to expect that we'll get another significant snow fall."

In addition to the cross-country ski race — appropriately dubbed the Novi Nordic Classic, Snofest '81 also was to have included ice skating races, an ice fishing derby, a co-ed flag football game and a field day as well as a snow sculpture contest.

Scott reports that all is not lost, however, and the Parks and Rec Department will simply put its plan on the shelf until next year when Snofest '82 will be scheduled.

Presumably, the winter carnival will be scheduled sometime in January. Although you never can tell about the Michigan weather.

Aesthetics ordinance to be revised

A proposed "aesthetics ordinance" which would give the city council special powers over developments in the Planned Development (PD) District has been sent back for further revision by the Novi Planning Board.

Specifically, the planners voted 5-2 to send the proposed ordinance back to council on the basis that it is not "objective enough to provide a framework in which the planning board can make judgements and recommendations."

The motion also called for the city attorney to study the proposed ordinance and offer "more objective language for our review."

Planner Joseph Brett, who submitted the motion, explained that he felt the intent of the proposed ordinance was valid, but that he couldn't accept it in its present form.

"Sending it back to the council will dispose of it until such time as they draft language which is more to our liking," he said.

The proposed aesthetics ordinance — drafted by a council committee composed of Ronald Watson, Martha Hoyer and John Chambers — met strong criticism when it was first reviewed by the planning board February 4.

Planners charged that the ordinance was too subjective and would give the council the right to legislate aesthetics.

The regulations, as presently drafted, would give the council powers to apply the following criteria to projects within the PD areas (around the regional center area): general aesthetics, extensiveness of greenbelts and open space, attractive retention and detention pond treatment, quality building materials, finishing sides or tops of buildings and signage (size, coloring, lighting, location).

Additionally, the council would have the right to review site plans for such items as layout, theme, motif, wall covering, floor covering, entertainment plans and facilities, and days and hours of operation.

Planning Consultant Charles Cairns told the planners last week that the problem with the proposed ordinance is that it is almost entirely subjective in nature, leaving the agency in control to the intent of "providing a harmonious relationship between surrounding land use types" was valid.

Although criticizing the proposal in its present form, Cairns also said he felt the intent of "providing a harmonious relationship between surrounding land use types" was valid.

Additionally, Cairns cautioned that the amendment as proposed could have a potentially severe impact on new development and the city council itself.

"The extent to which developers could be forced to comply with design criteria imposed by the city, which could be contrary to the functional design needs of the developer or his prospective tenants, could effectively discourage development in Novi," he said.

"Differences of opinion with respect to design, materials and general aesthetics among council members could result in prolonged review discussions and tenuous decisions."

Cairns also said attempts to establish similar regulations in other communities had been unsuccessful and were soon abandoned.

"In one instance, the implementation of such controls was disastrous and cost the community thousands of dollars in lawsuits," he said.

Although criticizing the proposal in its present form, Cairns also said he felt the intent of "providing a harmonious relationship between surrounding land use types" was valid.

Competency emphasized

Novi school board approves goals

A series of goals with a strong emphasis on adult role competencies have been adopted by the Novi Board of Education.

The goals were initially identified at a special board meeting in October and then were broadly defined by members of a Goals and Objectives Committee prior to board adoption last week.

The goals now will be turned over to the administration which will be charged with the responsibility of establishing a plan and a timetable for accomplishing the goals.

Specifically, the district-wide goals adopted by the school board are:

- To develop a document which encompasses the K-12 curriculum. Superintendent Robert Piwo said the process will involve the coordination of all subject areas throughout the K-12 program, determining at which levels new concepts will be introduced and how they will be taught. An interdisciplinary approach to learning also will be stressed in the development of the curriculum guide.

- To develop a family life education curriculum. Family life education is defined as "the exploration of the basic family unit from which the individual develops."
- Piwo noted that the study can be undertaken as an integral part of the K-12 curriculum. Students will then have an understanding of those human realities and competencies, both personal and societal, which influence roles and relationships within the family.

This understanding should enhance the student's ability to make more informed decisions in the future relative to the familial situation. Sex education is considered only one aspect of Family Life Education.

• To review and identify aspects of the curriculum which relate to career preparation and development.

Career preparation is the acquisition of knowledge and skills necessary for a person to implement career decisions and plans, and includes most of the existing content of academic and vocational education programs.

Career development is the acquisition of the knowledge, skills and experiences an individual needs to explore, plan and establish life roles.

- To review and identify those aspects of the curriculum which relate to the skills, thoughts and actions which typify and are essential to successful adult living.

By adopting this goal, the board has said education will not be limited to providing students with the skills necessary for obtaining financial independence. Students also should be taught skills in personal and family management, civic and social responsibilities, and aesthetic and humanistic appreciations.

- To review the role of the counselor. Development of this goal will involve an investigation of alternative roles and methods for counselors. Additionally, the specific duties and responsibilities of the counseling department in the areas of career education, academic counseling and personal guidance will be refined.

The lone dissenting ballot in the 6-1 vote to adopt the goals was cast by Trustee Robert Schram who questioned the second goal — to develop a family life education curriculum.

"In some communities, I'm certain that a program of this nature is necessary, but I don't see that kind of need in Novi," he said.

"Any impetus for implementing a program of this nature should be initiated by the community, and I don't see that initiative from this community."

Piwo responded that adoption of the goals only sets in motion the process for accomplishing the goals.

"All we've done is stated the goal, not the process for realizing the goal," said the superintendent. "What we've done is initiated the process for working with the staff and the community to meet the goals that have been identified."

Zip Code catalog now being offered

The 1981 National Zip Code & Post Office Directory is available through the Novi Post Office. The directory is priced at $8 per copy.

Officer in Charge Richard Miller advised that customers can save money by turning in old directory covers or by buying eight copies of the publication. By trading in the front cover of any previous directory, a $1 discount will be given toward the purchase of a new issue.

The price for eight copies is $56, a savings of $8 compared with the cost of buying the directories individually.

Miller said the Postal Service began publishing the information directory in 1965. Prior to that time, individual ZIP Code booklets were published for each state.

The ZIP (Zoning Improvement Plan) Code program was established in 1963.

Just plain folks

When Novi folksinger Kathy Fitzpatrick gets out her guitar, songs like "Gypsy Rover" and "Froggie Went A-Courtin'" just happen to come out naturally. Saturday, she'll be leading a folksong workshop for all area children in the Novi Public Library at 1 p.m. Fitzpatrick encourages youngsters to turn out for the sing-along, noting most of the songs have simple refrains that can be learned in "the snap of a finger." The program is being offered through the Novi Library Saturday Specials series, says Children's Librarian Jane Brown. (Staff photo by Steve Fecht)

School millage election formalized by trustees

Officials in the Novi Schools have begun a campaign to garner support for a special millage renewal election on March 31.

The school board last week approved the resolution which will ask voters to renew a total of 10.5 mills for operations for a period of three years on the March 31 ballot.

In approving the resolution, board members emphasized that they are not asking voters for "new" millage, only to approve millage that has been previously used for the operation of schools.

"This is not an increase," said Trustee Joel Colliau during discussion of the upcoming millage campaign.

"We're only asking voters to approve millage which has previously been approved and is necessary to operate the schools."

Novi Schools currently levy a total of 34.94 mills — 27.94 for operations and 7 mills for debt retirement (to pay off the bonds that were used to finance construction of Novi High School and the Novi Woods Elementary School).

The March 31 election has been slated to seek voter approval of two previously-approved operational levies.

Voters approved a 9.5 mill proposal in 1976 and a one mill proposal in 1978. Both of those millages were levied for the last time in December and cannot be levied again unless they are renewed by the voters.

"We went into one session hoping to be able to recommend that we ask for seven mills, but by the time we got down examining all the data we felt that 11 mills were needed."

"We finally settled on the 10.5 mill, three year proposal with the understanding that it was the absolute minimum we need to continue funding our schools."

"The answer was 10.5 mills," Gretchen Pugsley, a member of the League of Women Voters who also served on the committee, reported that every attempt was made to develop a recommendation for something less than 10.5 mills.

Wixom park project draws criticism from council

The contract for the third phase of development in the Gilbert Willis Memorial Park was awarded by the Wixom City Council last week amid a flurry of controversy.

Specifically, the council awarded the contract for the third phase of the park to Rauch Brothers of Wixom in the amount of $65,728.94.

The third phase involves construction of four tennis courts, reorientation of an existing ball diamond and development of a sledding hills as well as architectural/engineering costs.

But the process of awarding the contract was not without its share of controversy as one of the bidders protested the manner in which the contract was awarded and two council members charged that faulty planning for the park has led to a waste of funds.

Virtually overlooked amid the controversy was the fact that the contract for the third phase of the park came at almost $27,000 less than initially anticipated.

The initial cost estimate for the third phase was $92,500 — an estimate that was lowered to $65,500 after city officials decided that some of the work could be done by the city's DPW department.

The Rauch Brothers' bid of approximately $65,450 was some $27,000 lower than the initial estimate and $17,000 lower than the revised estimate.

The city had initially budgeted some $92,500 in Oakland County Community Development, Block Grant, DNR Land and Water Conservation and Federal Revenue Sharing funds for the third phase.

Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek said funds not utilized to implement phase three will be available for any unexpected costs that might occur and also to supplement the fourth phase which proposes development of a physical fitness circuit and nature trails.

The recommendation to award the total contract to Rauch Brothers was questioned by another bidder, Basilico Brothers, who had submitted a lower bid on one specific phase of the project — construction of the tennis courts.

The total phase three bid consisted of three sections — earthwork, tennis courts and fencing.

Bonczek informed the council that the building. He asked if someone from the council or City Manager J. Michael Dorman would be able to leave the city council meeting being held in district court chambers to answer some questions.

Dorman agreed to talk to commissioners after the council meeting, said Plan Consultant Tod Kilroy, so the commission tabled discussion on the Kilroy for several hours.

But by the time other items on the agenda had been discussed and acted upon, Dorman still had not been able to leave the meeting, and in fact council members had withdrawn into executive session. When Kilroy said Dorman had indicated he probably would not be willing to commit the city to anything that night, commissioners decided to move ahead with the library plans.

Kilroy told the panel that the plan was before the commission for two reasons: because site plans routinely came before the board for review and to improve coordination between city branches. But, he noted, it would probably not be in the best interests of the city, library or plan commission to deny site plan approval for the addition because the city had failed to meet minor code requirements. Furthermore, Kilroy said he doubted whether the library could actually make the improvements commissioners wanted.

"I think the library board would be hard pressed to make any improvements other than those the city council would be willing to approve," he said. "I suppose if push came to shove they could go ahead and build whatever they wanted to because they do have the money. And I suppose council would get pretty excited about it."

"But the whole idea is to have a coordinated effort on this. Here's an ideal situation where everybody can get their two cents in before it's actually built."

Finally, commission members decided to approve the library plans as submitted and send a letter to the city council, Dorman and building authorities stating that five areas of the municipal code did not conform to the plan. Specifically, they cited failure of the city, library or plan commission to deny site plan approval for the addition because the city had failed to meet minor code requirements. Furthermore, Kilroy said he doubted whether the library could actually make the improvements commissioners wanted.

"I'm not trying to penalize the library for something that is the landlord's concern, but they should be treated just like everybody else. The city should have to conform to its rules just as much as any builder or any general contractor."

Other commissioners agreed with Donnelly that the city should meet the zoning provisions but opposed his suggestion that site plan approval be tied to the city spending the required time and money to bring the E. West Maple Road building up to code.

Said Commissioner Mickey New: "Don't jeopardize the library. They've met every other requirement and the rest is not their responsibility. That's secondary. Let the library take care of its own: we'll go after the city."

But Donnelly stated, "We've got builders in here and they're listening to everything we say. We've got to be consistent. I just can't let them get away with (most requirements) and making these other people do it."

the building. He asked if someone from the council or City Manager J. Michael Dorman would be able to leave the city council meeting being held in district court chambers to answer some questions.

Walled Lake library plans receive reluctant approval

Contending that municipal facilities should meet the same zoning codes as other businesses, members of the Walled Lake Plan Commission held up approval of the city library addition site plan for several hours last week before making a decision on the drawings.

Before voting 5-2 to approve the plans, commissioners maintained they were not attempting to stall construction of the 3,500-square-foot addition but were upset that the site plan did not meet requirements of the zoning code. Among the problems cited by the planners were an unlighted parking lot, lack of screening around trash receptacles and lack of public sidewalks.

The library currently leases space in city hall from the city. The proposed addition, however, would be paid for by a $40,000 building fund already in the library board's budget.

Commissioner Jim Donnelly, who along with Commissioner Russ Henning voted against accepting the plan as submitted, told planners, "This site plan is not conforming to regulations that all other parties have to follow."

"I'm not trying to penalize the library for something that is the landlord's concern, but they should be treated just like everybody else. The city should have to conform to its rules just as much as any builder or any general contractor."

Alsop opens

Residents move into foster home

An adult foster care home in Commerce Township swung open its doors to residents Monday, according to Development Specialist for the Macomb-Oakland Regional Center (MORC) Jean West.

West verified yesterday that one resident moved in Monday and another Tuesday to the site located at 2008 Alsop in the Huron Woods subdivision. The male and female residents already transferred from the Oakdale facility in Lapeer were pre-selected. West added that a "hold-up" prevented another man and woman from moving into the home. And two other residents will be selected "as quickly as possible."

"The non-profit organization (ALPHA) received confirmation on their license late Friday afternoon," West said. "We waited until after the weekend to move anyone into the home."

"The Alsop home will be ALPHA's (Alternative Living Programs and Health Assistance) first attempt at operating a foster care facility. And West confirmed that MORC is confident ALPHA will do a satisfactory job in maintaining the home."

"We're real optimistic the program's going to follow through. And we're optimistic in the people operating the program," she added.

"ALPHA officials have refused to comment on the facility or their program. West predicted that the already troubled Alsop site will receive initial opposition that will eventually melt away."

"Typically, we get a lot of resistance when they first open," she said of past experiences with foster care homes. "But when people see the way the home is running it (the resistance) calms down."

If initial resistance is a typical pattern, then indeed, Alsop is a typical foster care facility.

Wixom mayor defends officials' Houston trip

By PHILIP JEROME

Three of Wixom's top officials—Mayor Lillian Spencer, City Clerk June Buck and DPW Chief Robert Trombley have billed the city $1,643 for a trip to Houston, Texas, where they attended a heavy construction equipment exhibit.

The three visited Conexpo '81, one of the world's largest trade shows which features exhibits of heavy construction equipment. Described as the World's Fair of the construction industry, the trip occurred in late January.

Trombley's wife also attended the convention, but her expenses were not billed to the city, according to Spencer.

Despite the fact that only Trombley directly deals with heavy equipment, Spencer defended the trip on the basis that she and Trombley went to examine some new equipment for the DPW department. The mayor added she was uncertain why Buck attended.

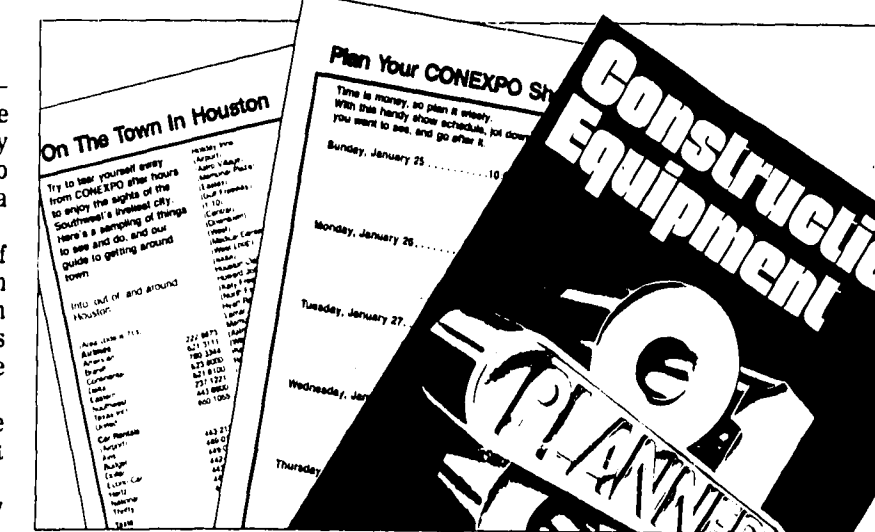

Walled Lake's school board has decided to cancel a special millage election originally scheduled for April 9.

Instead, the board has decided to hold a series of study sessions to evaluate the district's financial status and prepare a plan for dealing with a projected budget deficit that could be as much as $4.5 million in the 1981-82 school year.

The first study session will be next Monday in the Walled Lake Central auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

The decision to cancel the April 9 millage election was reached at a special meeting last week in which the board heard two reports from a Special Citizens Committee regarding the district's financial status.

One of those reports—the Chairperson's Report—urged that the board ask voters to approve a three mill/20 year proposal. The other report—the "Bob Trombley wanted to go because he wanted to look at some new equipment for the DPW department," said Spencer Monday.

"He's looking for a tractor with a heavy-duty mower because he's going to have to assume the responsibility for mowing the city park this year."

"The mower he's got now is absolutely gone and he needs a new mower for the park."

He also wanted to look at a roller for patching the roads," she added.

Buck said Tuesday that she attended the exposition to check out office equipment. The News was unable to reach Trombley for comment Tuesday afternoon.

All of the expenditures were approved by the mayor in accordance with the city charter. However, there is an apparent violation of the charter since all of the disbursements were signed either by Spencer or Buck instead of the city treasurer.

Section 4.14 of the charter states that the treasurer "shall disburse all city funds in accordance with the provisions of the law and this charter, and shall sign or countersign all checks accordingly."

City Treasurer Richard Holman told The News Tuesday that he did not sign or counter-sign the disbursements because they had not crossed his desk.

None of the expenditures have been submitted to the city council for approval.

According to information gathered from city records under the Freedom of Information Act, Spencer, Buck, Trombley and his wife flew out of Detroit Metro Airport on Republic Airlines on Thursday, January 22, even though the convention did not start until Sunday, January 25.

They returned on Thursday, January 29, Conexpo '81 closed January 30. While at the exposition, they stayed at the LaQuinta Motor Inn in Clute, Texas.

Spencer defended the decision to leave three days prior to the exposition opening on the grounds that Thursday was the last day they were able to obtain "Super Saver" airfare rates.

Special assessment or city-wide tax?

Wixom debates method for funding of water system

Faced with a directive from the State Department of Public Health to improve its water distribution system, the Wixom City Council has received plans for a $1 million capital improvement program.

Progress toward implementing the proposed improvements was stalled, however, as council members last week expressed sharp disagreement on the best means of financing the improvements.

After learning from Mayoral Assistant Stephen Bonczek that state and/or federal funds are unavailable, the council debated whether the improvements should be financed by the city-at-large or through special assessment districts which would levy taxes against benefiting property owners.

The decision to improve the city's water system was reached after the State Department of Health notified Wixom officials of their concerns with the present system.

Further impetus for improving the water system was provided by Fire Chief George Spencer who told the council in December that the city may be facing serious fire hazards due to the absence of an organized water system.

City Engineer Lawrence Pate has submitted a three-phase plan to implement improvements that will resolve the concerns expressed by state officials and the fire chief.

The first phase of the plan connects the two community well systems of the Palmer Lake Estates and Hidden Creek subdivisions. In addition, the first phase also identifies connecting transmission lines on Beck Road.

Completion of the first phase in the well program would benefit the Maple North, Golden Gate, Indian Lodge and Village Apartments complexes as well as the Indian Springs, Indian Wells, Palmer Lake Estates and Hidden Creek subdivisions.

The second phase, pegged at a total cost of $570,000, would impact certain subdivisions which would not receive immediate benefits because they do not have a community well system.

However, City Treasurer Richard Holman told the council that long term benefits from the second phase would accrue to the Hickory Hills, Courts of Highgate, Highgate on the Lake, Highgate on the Green and Birch Park subdivisions.

The third phase of the program involves improvements to the well system at the Heifer Coop Apartments. Total cost of phase three has been estimated at $180,000.

At issue, however, is not the scope of the improvements, but how the project will be funded.

Mayoral Assistant Stephen Bonczek reported that the city's bond council had recommended that the city issue bonds for the improvements and pay off the bonds by establishing special assessment districts against benefiting property owners.

"The council must address the policy implications involved in implementing all three phases of the project," said the mayor's assistant.

"Is it feasible or realistic to tax all the residents for a system which is only going to benefit certain property owners? Certain residents will benefit directly from the improvements, while others will receive virtually no benefit at all."

Council members disagreed strongly on the best way to finance the improvements and ultimately decided to table the matter until a future meeting.

Leading the opposition to a city-wide tax were Mayor Lillian Spencer and Council Member Nancy Dingley. Spencer said the concerns expressed by state officials related to the North End and not the total city. "It's not fair to make people pay for something they don't receive any benefit from," she said.

Dingley added that it was unfair to penalize people by asking them to pay for something when they will receive no benefit.

Other council members supported a city-wide tax to finance the improvements.

Council Member Dennis Andrews accused Dingley of "talking nonsense," while Council Member Sidney Resner said she was attempting to polarize the city.

Resner said the improvements would ultimately benefit the entire city. "If we go the special assessment route, a few people will get soaked instead of everyone having to pay for it," he said.

Council Member Wayne Glesner suggested that the council should attempt to resolve the immediate problem as a first step toward a long-range, city-wide system.

"People are already being hampered pretty good by taxes and they won't voluntarily accept an additional burden," he said. "We have to rectify the immediate problem, but I don't see the need to jump into a total $1 million project right now."

Village council members report reelection plans

Three of the four Wolverine Lake Village council members up for reelection in April have announced their intentions to run for second terms.

Council members Pat Howarth, Tim Kozub and Robert Woodrow all have decided to become candidates for village seats. Council Member Charles Allen reportedly has not yet made up his mind whether to seek re-election.

Howarth, Kozub and Allen were elected to the council in 1977 and Woodrow won a two-year berth during the 1979 election. Three four-year terms and one two-year slot will be up for grabs in the April election.

Village Clerk Donna Thorsberg is accepting petitions through March 7 at the village offices on Glangary Road. Candidates for council seats must obtain the signatures of 20 villagers qualified to vote in Michigan elections, she said. If fewer than eight candidates file by March 7, the village council will appoint individuals to run in order to meet the village charter, which requires two candidates for every opening on the council.

Council members Geri Matkowski and John Coxeter and Village President John McEllan were elected to four-year terms in 1979.

The candidate receiving the highest percentage of votes over a four-year period is named president of the council, according to the charter. McEllan will retain the council presidency unless one villager receives more than 75 percent of the votes cast April 6; he won the office in 1979 for the second time by garnering 76 percent of the votes.

Walled Lake's City Council delayed a decision on the proposed master plan being developed by City Planning Consultant Tod Kilroy during its meeting last Tuesday. Besides taking action on the plan, the council heard protests from former council member Ruth Tuttle to the city's undertaking the project.

Council members suggested the breakdown by Kilroy of the proposed seven-element plan be high for the seven-element plan. Agreeing with previous observations made by city officials that approximately 40 percent of the city was still undeveloped, Tuttle contended that 90 percent of Walled Lake's undeveloped sites are swampland.

"I'm against a master plan to develop swampland," she told the council.

Tuttle claimed she and other concerned Walled Lake residents see the $19,200 price tag as too high for the seven-element plan. Agreeing with previous observations made by city officials that approximately

Jim Sasser won't let wheelchair limit his athletic pursuits

Athlete wheeling toward wins

By STEPHEN CVENGROS

Jim Sasser never basked in the athletic glories that old high school quarterbacks learn across the bar and boast about now.

He was satisfied to be a "plain Joe" while attending Walled Lake Western in 1977. While other juniors and seniors were pounding the floorboards or practicing for Friday night's contest, Jim Sasser was busy making money.

But times have changed. Jim Sasser is now almost a fanatical athlete. He plays basketball, competes in road races and plans to tryout for regional and national track and swimming titles.

Come March 26 in the Western gymnasium a few things will be different. Jim Sasser will be leading his basketball team through a contest with high school faculty members. Like everyone else in the cage match-up, Jim Sasser will be in a wheelchair.

But when the game's over, Sasser will be on the team that doesn't get up and walk away. Jim Sasser is a wheelchair athlete.

Captain of the Pontiac Spinners, a "minor league" team as he describes them, Sasser has competed in "the big" playing with the nationally-ranked Fort Lauderdale Gold Coasters. The Gold Coasters like the Detroit Sparks are contenders for the national wheelchair basketball title to be held in Westland during March.

But Sasser's athletic involvements do not end with the Spinners. Between, he coaches the Oakland Handicapped team composed of athletes aged 17-45, competes in outdoor road races (even during the winter), is training for regional competition slated for Macomb College in May (often putting in miles of workouts in the Pontiac Silverdome) and attends Oakland Community College, Westland.

"I intend to make the nationals," Sasser specifies his aspirations for the upcoming track and swimming competitions. "In two or three more years, I can be international, if I put in the training."

But Sasser's greatest athletic love is taking to the roads with able-bodied runners.

Personnel shortage cuts police arrests for 1980

Walled Lake Police Chief Willford Hook claims personnel shortages during 1980 contributed to both a drop in total arrests made by his department and only a minor increase in violations written between last January 1 and December 31.

Arrest totals dropped from the previous year, decreasing 34 percent from 358 to 235. Cumulative violation figures rose only three percent with 990 in 1979.

"There's no way you can keep up traffic enforcement with manpower problems," Hook said.

The police chief added that he had predicted 1,000 violations would be written prior to 1980. But said two vacancies cut his department's manpower by nearly 28 percent during the year's latter months.

In spite of the difficulties in manpower, we really did well," Hook continued, noting the number of miles patrolled and officer hours logged during '80.

Police recorded a 13 percent jump in complaints in 1980 compared to 1979. Hook said that a drop in total arrests made by his department and only a minor increase in violations written between last January 1 and December 31.

Area Police Blotters

Suspicious person approaches another Wixom child

In Wixom

Wixom police have received another report of a suspicious person approaching children in the Maple North area.

A seven-year-old girl told her mother that two men in a beige Pontiac Firebird drove near her at 3:30 p.m. February 17, slowed down and rolled down the window. When she became frightened and ran away, she told her mother she heard the passenger say, "Let's not bother her... she's too scared."

The girl described the passenger as being about 20 with his long, black hair tied in a ponytail. She could not describe the driver of the car, other than to say he was about 30, police said. The incident was reportedly the second time the girl had been approached, although it was the first time her mother reported it to police.

The February 17 incident is the latest in a string of what police have labeled attempted abductions. So far, none of the children who have been approached by men in cars has been injured. Recently five high school students told Wixom police they had offered one girl a ride as a joke and had not meant to frighten her, but officers stress that the students were not involved in all the incidents.

"They are not sure how many individuals have approached children in the area and are continuing their investigation of the complaints while conducting a campaign to educate children about how to react in such situations."

Police Chief Phil Leonard noted that officers have increased their patrols in the Maple North area but have so far been unsuccessful at catching anyone in the act of frightening children. He encourages parents to instruct their children to stay away from strangers, but look carefully at them so they can describe them for police. He urges parents to report the incidents to the police promptly.

Two men who said they were representing management of the Village Apartments approached a complex resident and asked her for back rent, according to police.

The woman told officers the two men came to her door with a list of apartment numbers and addresses, including hers, and said they had been sent by management to collect back rent. The woman said she had already worked something out with the management and the men left, driving away in a blue pickup truck, police said.

According to the woman, one of the men was in his 50s, had gray hair and glasses and wore an old blue coat, while the other had long blonde hair, wore a blue jacket and jeans, and was in his 20s. Both were thin, she said.

A spokesman for the complex management said no one had been sent out to collect money from the woman.

Police encourage residents of the Village to report any similar incidents.

Arson is the suspected cause of a fire that totaled a 1978 Dodge pickup truck February 20, according to Wixom police.

Officers say a witness reported the truck was burning on the Wixom 1-96 exit ramp. The truck, which was totaled as a result of the blaze, was towed to Wixom Collision and Impoundment.

Police say they believe the truck was owned by an Allen Park man and had been stolen in Dearborn the same day of the fire.

Police Chief Phil Leonard noted stolen cars and trucks have turned up torched in Wixom in the past. Officers are continuing their investigation, he said.

The front door to a home on the 29000 block of Beck Road was kicked in during an apparent breaking and entering attempt February 18, police say.

Residents of the house told police two Mossberg 12-gauge shotguns, a Darton compound bow, a Kodak Bear reverse bow and a Winchester .308 caliber action rifle were among the items stolen from the house. Value of the items was pegged at $725.

A 29-year-old woman reported receiving suspicious phone calls from a man who identified himself as an employee of Michigan Bell Telephone, according to police.

The man allegedly told the woman that a car accident on Pontiac Trail had caused some of the phone lines in the area to be damaged and that the woman should stay on her telephone until the problem was corrected. He told her he would get a rebate on her phone bill for cooperating, police said.

The woman told officers she didn't believe the man and hung up the telephone but couldn't get a dial tone because the man would not hang up his own phone, according to reports.

A resident of Indian Lodge Apartments reported the theft of his $600 stereo set, which police believe was stolen sometime between February 1 and February 18.

The man told officers he had asked to have his apartment door fixed because it was cracked and returned to find the door fixed and locked, although his stereo was missing.

Taken were a Sanyo AM-FM receiver, amplifier, turntable and two Marantz speakers.

In Novi

An Astro Fighter video game worth $2,300 was reported stolen from the Novi Bowl on Novi Road on February 14.

The owner, Sherman Stewart, told police that someone carried the video game out of the bowling alley between 2:30 a.m. and 3 a.m.

He also reported that the machine contained approximately $300 in coins at the time it was stolen.

Thieves made off with nearly $900 worth of furnishings from an unoccupied mobile home on Rousseau in Chateau Estates.

The complainant told police the incident occurred sometime between February 2 and February 9 and that he did not know why the incident was not reported until February 18.

Items taken were a $80 love seat, $138 worth of furniture parts, $110 worth of end tables, a $110 ottoman, a set of six cushions worth $90, a $47 bed, a $40 smoke detector, a $20 light fixture and a $17 mattress. The home is owned by the Global Mobile Homes Company.

The front door of the home also was damaged when it was pried open. Replacing the door cost approximately $130.

Police reported a $16,000 tractor was stolen from outside the Tree Supply Company at 23421 Novi Road on February 18. Police said ice outside the building prohibited determining whether the tractor was driven away or taken in another vehicle.

A 29-year-old Detroit woman has been charged with five felony warrants including possession of a stolen credit card after being apprehended by Sears security personnel for suspected reding of an item which should not have been returned.

Glenda Harris was detained by security officers who reportedly found in her possession a driver's license, check book, credit card, voters registration card and a social security card made out to Dianne Rutledge.

The right-hand door of the license and check book was contacted, and she reportedly told police that her belongings had been missing since January 29. Police also said that Harris had opened a checking account with the identification information.

Harris was lodged in Oakland County Jail pending issuance of warrants.

A breaking and entering of a home in the 20000 block of LeBost netted thieves nearly $850 worth of jewelry.

The owner told police a wedding ring worth $450, an antique brooch worth $250, a piece of rhinestone jewelry worth $100 and a $50 wedding band were stolen.

Police said it appeared as if the thief gained entry by lifting a sliding glass door off its track.

They also reported finding shoe prints outside the door.

A Chevy blazer valued at $6,000 was stolen from outside the owner's residence in the 1000 block of East Lake Drive where it had been parked overnight on February 16, police reported.

The owner told police the vehicle was last seen at 10:30 p.m., but was gone when the owner arose the next morning at 7:30 a.m.

Police reported the vehicle was later recovered by the Clio Police Department.

The glass door of the Futomat Store in the Novi-Ten Plaza was broken in an attempted break-in, but thieves apparently were scared away before breaking the inner door of the store.

Two A&P employees told police that while retrieving shopping carts they heard breaking glass and went to investigate.

Two suspects ran off as they approached the building, they told police.

While officers investigated the incident another officer checked the service drive behind the shopping center in an attempt to locate the suspects. He saw two men run from behind a dumpster and east to Meadowbrook Road. Pursuing one of the men on foot, the officer gave chase until the man was lost behind Beverly Manor.

The officer went back to the scene and then followed the footprints to LeBost where the officer checked the neighborhood for suspects.

He described the suspects as both being white males, 5 foot 10 inches tall with medium builds. One had dark hair, while the second man had brown, curly hair.

Police were scheduled to examine a crowbar found near the scene for fingerprints. It is believed the crowbar was used to break open a garage in the 20000 block of Cascade.

Four hucaps worth a total of $150 and a $30 Honda motorcycle gas tank were stolen from a garage in the 20000 block of Cascade.

The owner told police the garage was locked, but police could find no sign of forced entry.

Novi police arrest two

Two South Lyon men and a Livingston County man have been arrested for their connection in an apparent counterfeit ring in the New Hudson-Nowi area, area police agencies have revealed.

Novi Police said Tuesday morning that 44 bogus bills had been passed in the area for a total of $880.

Duane Allen Roberts, 21, and Roy Sparks, 30, both of South Lyon, were arraigned in federal court on charges of abiding, abetting and passing counterfeit currency. A third man from Livingston County, whose name is being withheld by police, was also arrested and arraigned.

The suspects were turned over to Secret Service agents, the sergeant said.

Novi to proceed with Section 15

With preliminary special assessment figures in hand, property owners in the regional center area opposite Twelve Oaks Mall known as Section 15 resumed their criticism of the estimated cost of constructing roads, water mains and storm sewers.

Representatives of several property owners told the Novi City Council Monday that they believe constructing the project as proposed would result in "inequitable" assessments being levied.

When plans were last presented to the group it was believed the necessary utilities could be installed for $5 million, but with more exact design of the project under way unexpected costs have surfaced, pushing the estimated cost of the project to $6.2 million.

There were few complaints when the earlier, cheaper plans were reviewed, but faced with higher assessments, property owners again voiced objections to the plan, saying they would not be benefited by the construction of roads, water mains and a storm sewer system.

The city has proposed the sale of $7 million in bonds which the property owners in Section 15 would pay off through special assessments over a 15-year period. The bond payments would carry a 13 percent interest rate.

Despite the concerns of the property owners at Monday's meeting, council members said they believed development of Section 15 hinged on the property planned construction of utilities.

Council members supported proceeding as planned with the project. They rejected a suggestion that a portion of the road be constructed with a cut-de-dee to avoid properties which are not yet developed.

Among those with serious questions regarding the project was Robert Sandier, representing the Dixon Road group which owns property in the northeast corner portion of Section 15.

Sandier told the council that they would like to be left out of the special assessment district.

"The roads will benefit the developments that are going up right now, but development of our parcels is a long way off so we're requesting that the improvements not be extended to our parcel and we be excluded from the special assessment district," Sandier said.

"If you break this down in concrete terms to find what is being asked of individual property owners you find we're to be assessed approximately $1.1 million—the same cost being charged to K mart, a development in the ground and ready to go," Sandier added. "It's inequitable to continue with this kind of plan with that kind of disparity. We're being asked to build K mart's improvements."

Council members reaffirmed the city's determination to proceed with the plans and to finance them through a special assessment against the property owners.

Council member Martha Hoyer told the room full of property owners and their representatives that she believed the project benefited them rather than the residents of Novi.

"You're not developing this area for the 22,000 people who live in Novi, you're going to be drawing from other cities. Why should the residents of this community be asked to pick up the tab when the benefit is for your property?" Hoyer asked.

of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

SQUEEK CAUGHT IN MOUTHTRAP

Q. It sounds stupid, but my mouth squeaks ever since I had a number of new fillings. Have you ever heard of such a thing?

A. Yes, and you are definitely not alone with your problem. It is not uncommon for patients to complain of a "squeek" sound after having silver fillings. This occurs when the contact between the teeth is not very tight, and allows the fillings to rub against each other causing a squeaking noise. It usually goes away, but sometimes you may need a new filling wedged closer to its neighbor to solve your problem.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

Walled Lake chief cites problems

Unemployment, economics key in family offenses rise

By STEPHEN CVENGROS

The rising unemployment rate and a temperamental economic climate are to blame for the increased reports of family offenses in 1980, according to Walled Lake Police Chief Wilford Hook.

Between January 1 and December 31 of last year, the city's law enforcement officers received 196 domestic complaints versus 113 in 1979. Those figures pose a startling 42 percent in just 12 months.

"We think it's a result of drinking, which we feel is a result of unemployment and economics in general," Hook explained the department's view on the increase.

The police chief also said children problems and assault and battery complaints almost always rise relative to unemployment and economic conditions.

Few spouses follow-up complaints of domestic quarrels with legal action, Hook observed. "Very, very few ever follow them (the complaints) up. They just don't want to do anything about it," the chief added. "I think a lot of it is fear."

Hook, according to Hook, is the emotional imbalance that seems prevalent in most cases. He further defined such situations, explaining that a non-working wife with two children in the home might find herself in a financial dilemma if her husband is locked up for assaulting her.

Stiffer laws are aiding both the police and victims. Hook said that under recently enacted laws, police no longer have to actually see a domestic assault occur. If a husband or wife has obvious physical signs of a severe scuffle, that alone, is sufficient evidence for an arrest.

"Normally, a husband and wife get into an argument — and normally, he'll be the one that goes," Hook said, adding that his officers will warn the assailant that if they return again and a fight has occurred an arrest may be made.

The police chief confirmed that warning is usually enough to deter a continued scuffle, at least that night.

Amazingly enough, with police reporting a rise in family offenses, a social service agency that deals with such crises shows no increase.

John Mosteller with the Family and Children Services of Oakland County said he was "not aware of any increases."

"We haven't seen it in our case load,"

Mosteller added of the past year's incidents.

The complainants Mosteller's agency to be two different groups of people taking differing approaches.

"Most of the clients we get are people who have not been involved with the police," he observed. "They are people coming in on their own."

Whatever the approach, domestic quarrels are on the rise and help is readily available.

Wixom mayor defends officials' Houston trip

"If I had gone down on the weekend, we would really have got hit (with higher rates)," she said.

The mayor also noted that the Wixom group had to stay at a hotel 60 miles outside of Houston because of the unavailability of rooms within the city.

"I paid for the car," she said. "I didn't charge the city for that even though we had to commute 60 miles every day to get into Houston."

The greatest portion of the $1,643 cost of the trip can be attributed to airfares and lodging.

Cost of three roundtrip tickets to Houston was $603.

Cost of lodging at the LaQuinta Motor Inn was $49.40.

Together, airfare and lodging account for $1,052.40.

In addition, Trombley submitted total convention expenses of $384.75, while Spencer and Buck submitted convention expenses of $205.35.

On his official expense account report, Trombley listed expenses of approximately $280 for dinner, $27 for lunch and $42.50 for gasoline. Other items on Trombley's expense account included $13.70 for gasoline, $6 for airport tips and $10 for registration fees.

Spencer and Buck listed expenditures of approximately $115 for dinner, $7.50 for lunch and $40.75 for breakfast as well as convention registration fees of $30.

Funds for Spencer's expenses were charged to the mayor's expense account and mayor's conference account.

Funds for Buck's expenses were charged to the mayor's expense account, clerk's expense account and DPW education and training account.

Funds for Trombley's expenses were charged to the DPW's education & training account and the DPW's road maintenance fund.

Asked why it was necessary for three people to fly to Houston for a week to attend the exposition, Spencer replied that she went because Trombley asked her to accompany him and check out the equipment.

"I went because he asked me to go," she said.

"I don't see anything wrong with it," the mayor added. "I've never used hardly any of my expense account and I think we learned a lot by going down there."

"Bob Trombley has got to have some machinery if he's going to do the job. He's got twice as much work with the same crew he had two or three years ago."

Spencer noted that funds are budgeted for conferences and workshops each year by the city council, and can be used by the various department heads as deemed appropriate.

"I decided to use my expense account this year to go to the exposition in Houston," she said. "There's nothing wrong with that."

Spencer reiterated her assertion that there was nothing improper with the trip.

"I just don't see that we did anything wrong," she said. "If this is something which is going to cause trouble for the City of Wixom, I would rather pay for the whole thing out of my own pocket."

Walled Lake schools cancel millage election

millage and then come back with our renewal request later in the year," said Lahser. "I think we need to take a closer look at all the factors involved in this and decide how we can best meet our needs in a package that will win acceptance from the voters."

Support for cancelling the April 9 election was expressed by Trustee Betty Campion and William Wyllie, a Wixom resident who has served on several citizens committees in previous years.

Wyllie said he agreed with the minority report's recommendation to seek alternate methods of dealing with the financial situation.

"We're going to have to fight to get a four mill renewal passed, and there's no chance of getting a three mill increase."

"I think we have to do something along the lines that the minority report has recommended and look for every possible way of cutting expenditures," Campion said she agreed with Wyllie.

"My major concern is getting the renewal," she said. "The people in this country are under enough pressure right now to make ends meet. I cannot in good conscience ask people for additional millage at this time," she said.

The decision to cancel the April 9 election was criticized by Ronald Prizzell who chaired the Citizens Study Committee. "None of us want more taxes, and we would not have recommended a millage increase if we had not felt it was absolutely necessary for the school district," he said.

Additional concerns were expressed by Superintendent Don Sheldon, who said failure to seek additional millage would be a disaster.

Project Business

Novi students to receive education in economics

Parents of eighth graders in the Novi School District should not be surprised if they're subjected to a discourse on the free enterprise system over breakfast sometime soon.

Although no one's predicting that the business page will replace sports as the most popular section of the local newspaper, eighth graders in the Novi Schools will be a lot more knowledgeable about economics as a result of a program that will be introduced this spring.

The program was approved on a trial basis by the Novi Board of Education last week. Middle School South Principal Charles Nanas said the program will be evaluated at the end of the current school year to see if it should be incorporated into the curriculum next year.

Specifically, the school board authorized Nanas to proceed with plans to implement "Project Business," a program designed to bring economic and career education information to middle school students.

Project Business is a division of Junior Achievement, an organization which makes a continuing effort to bring mastery of the American business system to young people.

The program presently is being offered in more than 27 school districts in Michigan, including Birmingham, Dearborn, Farmington, Livonia and Southfield.

Students in Project Business classes will discuss such topics as the Nature of Economics, the American Economy and its Problems, Money and Banking and the U.S. Market System as well as Financial Statements, Choosing a Career and Consumerism.

Project Business involves a joint effort between the business and educational communities.

Nanas said three representatives of the local business community will meet with eighth grade social studies teachers to plan the 11-week curriculum for the remainder of the present school year.

The representatives of the business community will then spend one hour per week in the classroom with the teacher, introducing students to the basic workings of the business community in which they live.

The program, which was introduced to the Novi Schools by Security Bank of Novi President Donald Greengood, received a positive response at last week's board meeting.

Superintendent Robert Piwko said he was quite excited about Project Business and the opportunity to bring economic and career education to eighth grade students.

"People in other districts are quite impressed with the program," said Piwko. "It develops good attitudes toward our economic system."

Additional support was expressed by Trustee Ruth Waldenmayer.

Novi planners develop study area priorities

Now that the revision of the master plan has been completed, the Novi Planning Board will direct its attention to other considerations.

Just exactly what those considerations will be has not yet been determined, however, and City Manager Edward Kriewald suggested Monday that the planning board make city council schedule a series of joint meetings on Saturdays in March to develop a list of planning priorities.

In addition to establishing priorities on planning matters, the process also will be important in budgetary considerations as the council decides which studies can be funded in the 1981-82 budget.

Planning Consultant Charles Cairns told the planners last week that one of the work programs in the 1981-82 fiscal year should be a major rewrite of the standards in the city's zoning ordinance.

In addition, Cairns also proposed the following programs for consideration by the planners:

- A study of the Walled Lake area, focusing attention on the Novi Road/Thirteen Mile intersection;
- A study of the ring-road concept in the Novi Road/Grand River Avenue commercial area; and
- A study to develop a comprehensive parks and recreation plan.

Planner Joseph Brett suggested that the planners also should pursue "a drainage study for Novi, particularly as it relates to the open ditch system on Ten Mile and its effect on the Palmetto Drain and Meadowbrook Lake dam."

Brett also proposed that the planners should investigate the city's screening requirements to make certain that residential areas are properly screened from commercial and industrial development.

Cairns said a major rewrite of the zoning ordinance is important because the standards in the present ordinance have been in force at least five years and need to be updated.

Additionally, he said that amendments to the ordinance since its adoption in 1975 should be incorporated into the text and that recently-enacted state planning laws require major revisions to sections of the ordinance which relate to uses permitted under special conditions.

In terms of a planning study in the Walled Lake area, Cairns noted that the city has a Neighborhood Strategy Area (NSA) project with the City of Walled Lake which may make planning studies eligible for federal funding.

"We need to pay special attention to a number of factors in that area, including the surrounding land uses around the Novi Road/Thirteen Mile intersection," said the planning consultant.

"If the city's application for federal funds for the NSA is approved, we may be able to tie all the elements into one plan."

Cairns also said there is a great deal of interest in pursuing the ring-road concept at the Novi Road/Grand River intersection. The project previously has been identified as a priority by the city council.

The first step would be to bring in a traffic consultant to study the feasibility of the ring-road, he said. If the city decides to proceed with the project, it's important to move quickly before "land use fixes" which would make the plan unfeasible are established.

The ring-road study would entail basic engineering and planning to determine the project's feasibility. The study also would examine the impact of such a road on existing land use and future land use development potential in the area.

The parks and recreation study proposed by Cairns would involve the development of a comprehensive Parks and Recreation Plan with an emphasis on community or city-wide parks and their location. Cairns said the plan would be prepared in conjunction with guidelines established by the DNR.

Planning Board Chairman Donald Gleason advised the planners to develop their own list of projects for consideration at future meetings.

"After we list the things we would like to accomplish, we can begin the process of selecting our priorities," he said.

Novi to review decision on Ten-Taft rezoning

In light of the city attorney's opinion that Novi would have a very weak case if it went to court, council members decided to grant another hearing to the property owner requesting the rezoning of the northeast corner of Ten Mile and Taft roads.

Council members have received formal notice from the attorney representing Dr. Roger Ajluni that his client intended to take the matter to court if he was not granted another hearing on the rezoning of the property.

Ajluni has requested the 7 acre parcel be rezoned from its existing classification of single family residential (R-4) to an office service district OS-1 so he can build an office building.

In January the council decided to keep a residential land use on the northeast corner of the Ten Mile/Taft Road intersection and decided not to reconsider the matter.

But City Attorney David Fried told the council that several factors have changed since the council decided not to reconsider the zoning request.

"Formerly the property was master planned for residential use, you had an opinion from the planning board and planner that it should remain residential, and the property west of Taft was zoned residential," Fried said. "We would be hard pressed to suggest that the city might prevail in an action brought with regard to the rezoning of this property. It would be difficult to show this is good planning when it is master planned for office use. I'm not sure the city would have to stretch it to prevail."

Council Member Robert Schmid noted that he previously might not have opposed an office on the northeast corner of Ten Mile and Taft, but there was no explanation given of the type of office planned when the council was asked to act on the matter.

He also objected that he did not understand why zoning on one corner must affect the zoning on another corner in the same intersection.

As We See It

Wixom trip shows need for controls

The decision of three prominent Wixom officials — Mayor Lillian Spencer, Clerk June Buck and DPW Chief Robert Trombley — to spend seven days at an exposition in Houston, Texas, was at best unwise.

We arrive at that conclusion only after much deliberation. Lillian Spencer, June Buck and Bob Trombley have been around Wixom for a good many years and have put in many, long hours on behalf of the city. They are highly respected in the community.

Further, they maintain that there was nothing improper about the trip to Houston for which taxpayers were billed some $1,600. They suggest we are making a mountain out of a molehill for being upset about the expenditures.

Because of their stature in the community, we have afforded their position great scrutiny. Still, we believe that the trip was improper, and we base that conclusion on the following considerations.

At the very heart of the matter is the question of whether it was necessary for three city officials to spend seven days at a construction-equipment convention in Texas. If the city is considering purchase of DPW equipment in 1981-82, why was it necessary for the mayor and city clerk also to attend the convention?

Why was it necessary to fly down to Texas three days before the start of the convention? Certainly, three days of extra room and board would more than offset whatever savings may have been realized by taking a weekday flight.

Why was it necessary to spend seven days in Houston when the equipment could have been checked out in only one or two days? Was it really necessary to go all the way to Texas to check out equipment that will in all probability be bid out and purchased from a Michigan-based distributor?

Why wasn't the council informed of the plans of three prominent city officials to attend an exposition in Houston? Why weren't the disbursements signed or counter-signed by the city treasurer as required by city charter? And why were funds from the DPW's road maintenance account used to offset a portion of the expenses incurred on the trip?

If there are decent answers to those questions, we would like to hear them. After weighing each of those questions carefully, we can only conclude at this time that poor judgement was used in undertaking the trip in the first place.

It should be noted, that with two possible exceptions, there was nothing technically illegal about the trip. The two exceptions are the apparent charter violation and the use of road maintenance account funds to offset a portion of the expenses.

As for the trip itself, the council each year budgets funds for the mayor, clerk and DPW chief as well as other department heads to attend seminars, conventions and training sessions. After the money has been budgeted, it is up to the individuals to use those funds as they see fit. The only set of checks and balances is that the charter requires all expenditures to be approved by the mayor.

Years of service to the city is not an issue here. The issue is specific — was this an improper use of taxpayers' money? It goes without saying that these are troubled economic times in which units of government should exercise good economic sense.

Beyond that we see the need for some additional safeguards. The treasurer, for example, should sign or countersign all checks and there should be some system by which the city council can have knowledge of and approve attendance at conventions or seminars.

(Commerce Township officials, for example, must receive permission from the township board to attend the Michigan Townships Association meeting, even when it is held in Dearborn).

These are important issues and should be addressed by the city council. We are convinced of the mayor's regard for the welfare of the city, and yet we question her judgement on this issue. If a better set of checks and balances were in place, the office of mayor could be spared the weight of these decisions.

Kudos for dancers

There are several hundred teenagers in Novi who deserve a big round of applause. Let's hear it for all those high school students who participated in the annual dance marathon for Muscular Dystrophy held at Novi High School last weekend.

These students, nearly 300 from Novi and about 50 from Northville, put a lot of time and effort into the event, which raised more than $10,000 for research against MD. Besides spending 24 hours dancing at the marathon, the students went out in the community asking for pledges, donations of food and drinks and any other type of assistance they could muster.

And they didn't get a thing out of it, other than a good feeling inside.

The teenagers' concern for victims of MD is apparently a long-lasting one: this marks the fifth year Novi and Northville high schools have sponsored the event. It's also successful; last year the schools were named top contributors in Michigan through dance marathon fund-raisers.

Like Novi City Council, which passed a resolution recognizing the student's efforts, we commend these high school students for their work on the marathon. We are proud that Novi's teenagers have shown such remarkable support for those stricken with MD.

We also think student chairmen of the event, Novi's Robin Brown and Shannon Gronowski this year, did a fine job of organizing and running the dance.

But most of all, we commend the students for their unselfishness and concern for others. We can learn a lot from them.

After the fact

By PHIL JEROME

I'm a collector.

I've already said enough about my collection of baseball cards, but that's really only the beginning.

You name it, I collect it. Once it's in my possession, I absolutely hate to throw it away — much to the chagrin of my wife who seems to believe that anything more than a week old should be discarded.

I don't know how many years worth of old copies of Sports Illustrated I have hanging around the house. And I used to have a really first-rate collection of Time magazines — before my wife decided to clean out the garage one day while I was at work and unavailable to apprehend her in her act of subterfuge.

Can you believe that someone would actually throw away the copy of Time magazine which heralded man's landing on the moon?

At any rate, all of this is a prelude to reporting that I also collect quotes from the numerous meetings I attend as a community journalist.

And one of my favorite sources of "save-worthy" quotes is Peter Romanow, a longtime area industrialist who also serves on the Novi Planning Board.

Romanow is one of those "self-made" types of individuals who has managed to get ahead in this world by the brains in his head and the sweat on his brow.

In other words, he's not a graduate of the Harvard Business School, but has carved out a successful business by working hard and applying that good old-fashioned aptitude called "common sense."

Typically, his quotable quotes — which I collect in the back of a notebook under the heading of "Romanowisms" — are characterized by his practical, tell-it-like-it-is approach to doing business.

Some typical "Romanowisms":

• Regarding equality: "All men are not created equal. Some are dumber than others; some are smarter than others. Most of us are somewhere in between."

• Regarding cost-saving schemes: "They're alright as long as you remember the cheapest way is the right way."

• Regarding land-use planning: "You're looking for something which is so perfect that everyone will see it the same way. There's no such thing. You've just got to make up your mind and hope you made the right decision."

• Regarding planning (again): "There are doctors who will cure you and doctors who will kill you. The problem is you never know who's right until it's too late."

Romanow was at it again last week, dispensing his own brand of common sense to a discussion regarding composition of the planning board.

"It's important to have somebody on the planning board who has had to pay for things," he said. "People who work for somebody else don't know what it's like to meet a payroll every week. There's got to be somebody who knows what things cost and what it takes to raise money to pay for them."

But one thing is sure when Jim Sasser takes the basketball floor March 26, he will be the health-minded individual somewhat distant from his old self.

And where did the old Jim Sasser go?

I came to the conclusion — it's past. Make the most of it.

"Still being alive. Still being independent. That's the most important thing."

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Aware of her husband's shortcomings, my wife noted similarities in another man's problems and plunked them on my desk. "It's you," she said simply, without giving the author's name. Edited for a family newspaper, the hunter's diary follows:

1 a.m.: Alarm clock rings.
2:00: Hunting partner arrives, drags you out of bed.
2:30: Throw everything except kitchen sink into pickup.
3:00: Leave for the deep woods.
3:15: Drive back home, pick up gun.
3:30: Drive like mad to woods before daylight.
4:00: Set up camp - forgot the tent.
4:30: Head into woods.
7:05: See eight deer.
7:06: Take aim, squeeze trigger.
7:07: "Click."
7:08: Load gun while watching deer go over hill.
9:00: Head back to camp.
10:00: Still looking for camp.
11:00: Realize you don't know where camp is.
Noon: Fire gun for help; eat wild berries.
12:15 p.m.: Run out of bullets; eight deer come back.
12:20: Strange feeling in stomach.
12:30: Realize you ate poisonous berries.
12:45: Rescued!
12:55: Rushed to hospital to have stomach pumped.

5:00: Arrive at camp; see deer grazing in camp.
5:01: Load gun.
5:02: Fire gun.
5:03: One dead pickup truck.
6:05: Hunting partner returns to camp dragging deer.
6:06: Repress strong desire to shoot partner.
6:07: Fall into fire.
6:10: Change clothes; throw burned ones into fire.
7:15: Take pickup; leave partner and his deer in woods.
7:23: Pickup bolts over; hole shot in block.
7:26: Start walking.
7:30: Stumble and fall; drop gun in the mud.
8:35: Meet bear.
8:36: Take aim.
8:37: Fire gun; blow up barrel plugged with mud.
8:39: Dirty pants.
8:40: Climb tree.
10:00: Bear departs; wrap 1 1/2" gun around tree.
Midnight: Home at last.

Next Day: Watch football game on TV, slowly tearing license into little pieces. Place into envelope and mail it to game warden with very clear instructions where to place it.

Athlete wheeling toward wins

A rare breed, he has continued to compete even in winter races choosing to continue rather than forfeit long months of training in Florida.

"I prefer the parallel events because of the awareness factor," he explains. In road races, wheelchair athletes and able-bodied competitors "share the road," in probably the only meshing of the differing runners. This, according to Sasser, is important to practical mainstreaming.

"It's the closest thing to mainstreaming." The road leading to the roads was not extremely difficult, according to Sasser. An automobile accident in 1978 resulted in high lesions, leaving him paralyzed from about the sternum down. But the gutsy Walled Lake athlete said he viewed being alive "like a second chance."

"The ultimate test was doing my own laundry, being independent," Sasser relates. And that need to prove his independence took him to Florida Atlantic University, where he first took up road racing.

"I'm kind of lucky. If this had happened to me 20 years prior — society's position is better than it would have been 20 years ago," Sasser observes.

His own wallpaper combined with solid counseling and a good recreational department at the hospital where he recovered, all contributed to Jim Sasser's optimistic outlook.

"No man is an island, but a lot of it was me," he adds of his recovery and acceptance.

Jim Sasser can even recognize the changes in Jim Sasser.

"I'm a new person. New in the aspect of health." Sasser claims his weight has dropped from his former 210 pounds to a safer body structure, and his heart condition and circulation are much better than previously.

Jim Sasser's concerns range from immediate needs to future goals. Right now, the college junior who hopes to become an attorney must get himself another pair of bathing gloves. It will be his third pair this winter and his callouses show the sacrifice of operating with worn gloves.

He wants to counsel youngsters with handicaps, play with the Spinners, maybe trout for the Sparks in two or three years, qualify for nationals — there are a slew of goals Sasser wants to meet.

But one thing is sure when Jim Sasser takes the basketball floor March 26, he will be the health-minded individual somewhat distant from his old self.

And where did the old Jim Sasser go?

I came to the conclusion — it's past. Make the most of it.

"Still being alive. Still being independent. That's the most important thing."

Wixom to join state program

Wixom has decided to join a cooperative purchasing program with the State of Michigan which should enable the city to save money on everything from anti-freeze to Xerox supplies.

In essence, the program involves the concept of joint purchasing.

In recommending that the city join the cooperative purchasing program, Treasurer Richard Holman noted that the advantage of the program is that it usually results in reduced costs because of improved bid specifications and increased price competition.

Holman also noted that the advantages of the program are not limited to the actual dollar savings on goods.

"Indirect savings are realized in such ways as eliminating administrative duplication by saving time and manpower in processing requisitions for bids; taking, reading and evaluating bids and making awards; eliminating cost of testing many items; writing and updating specifications; and benefits from technical research," said Holman in his report to the council.

Holman submitted his proposal to enter the program in January, but council delayed action pending clarification of several items in the agreement.

Jeffrey White of the State Department of Budget and Management told the council last week that participation in the program is totally voluntary. "The state awards contracts on a variety of items on the basis of competitive bids," explained White. "The bids are then sent to participating members who are free to obtain any item they wish through the state's program."

"If the city decides to utilize the state program for a specific item, it requests a contract from the state for each item of interest."

"After receiving the state contract which specifies the name and address of the vendor, the per unit cost of the item and any minimum purchase requirements, the city contacts the vendor, issues a purchase order and conducts business as usual."

White said the only limitation is that the agreement is voided if the city decides to seek competitive bids on an item which is available through the program.

"You can seek competitive bids on any item on the list, but if you follow that route you cannot go back and order the item through the state even though our cost might be lower than the bids you receive," he said.

"The program cannot be used to beat down local bids."

The only cost to the city is a two percent fee on any item purchased through the state program.

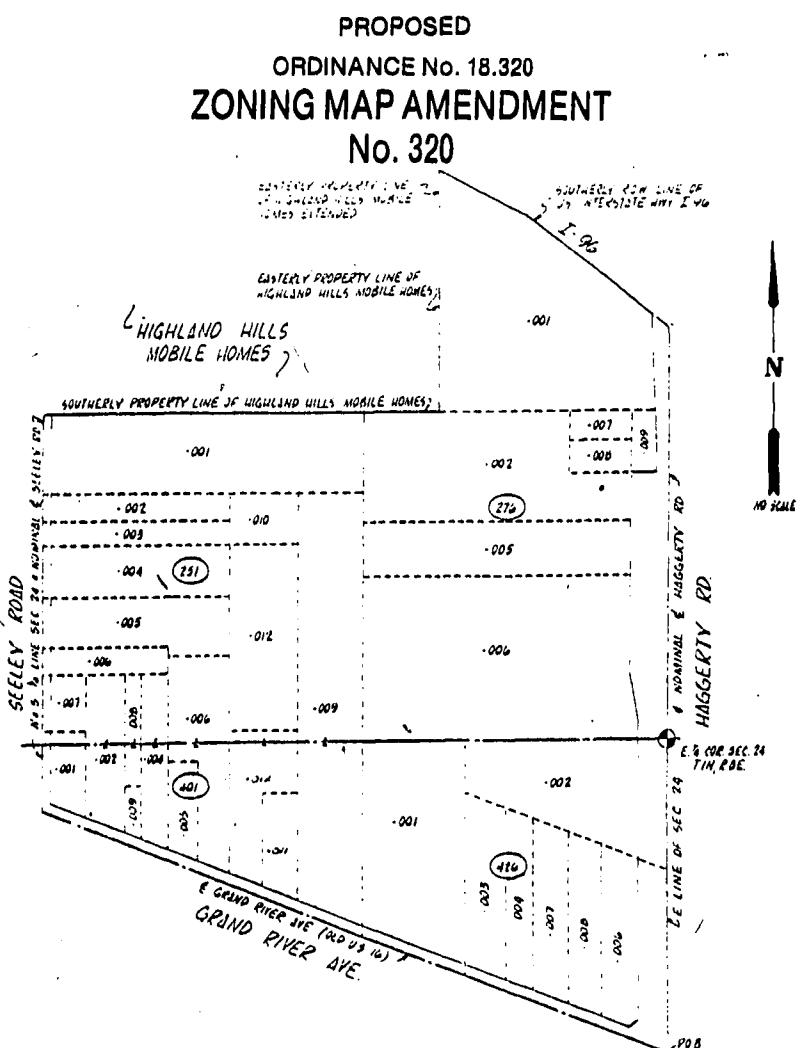

City Attorney Thomas Connolly advised the council that the agreement with the state is "total-ly flexible" and seems to make "financial sense."

The council subsequently voted unanimously to enter the program.

Villa residents protest column

To the Editor:

In response to the article in the February 18 Walled Lake-Nowi News by Stephen Cvergros. I was amazed and a little angry at Mr. Cvergros' perception of the people who reside in the Villa. I cannot help but wonder how many residents he interviewed — he certainly generalized in speaking about or for us.

I recently moved into the Villa, but prior to living here, I visited often, many friends of long standing — people who like living here and are very happy. Only a very small number may fall into the "broken dream syndrome."

The Villa is not an "old folks home" or the proverbial "poor house." It is, rather, an apartment complex where people pay rent and are in full control of their lives and affairs. A few are restricted in activity due to physical illness. Most drive their own cars, do volunteer work away from the Villa — some work, play golf, square dance, belong to senior citizens groups, go on trips, movies and shopping trips.

There is an atmosphere of cheerfulness, neighborliness and concern for one another. There are church services, crafts, music appreciation — all well attended.

The management, Mr. and Mrs. Carey, and the employees who keep the place shipshape are very pleasant and helpful at all times.

And, Mr. Cvergros, you appear to be young, and, as so many of the young, believe the older generation belong to the "over-the-hill gang." You are so wrong. We are so much wiser than you — so — we'll forgive you for talking out loud about us — being poor, pathetic, addled and wallowing in self-pity. We look to tomorrow and are excited about the interesting happenings in our lives. Come up and see me sometime.

Thelma Wurst

To the Editor:

Re: article on the Walled Lake Villa.
Being a resident here for two years has given me a good chance to have seen a lot of persons come here to live and make this their home.

Making moves, re-locating, new friends, and, most of all, being totally independent. Your family and friends come to visit you, see how happy, content this move is makes them feel good, too.

The majority say, "Never had it so good." You can only get out of life what you, yourself, put into it and the viewpoint from one person, who doesn't associate with others, shows that this article was not researched before publishing.

The morbid picture your newspaper carried certainly does not represent the people living here. We are "alive," able, active, concerned persons. We are an asset to Walled Lake.

Ann and Phil Carey, managers of this Villa complex, are constantly looking after our interests, making this a delightful place to live.

The plusses for living here are so numerous and only by living in here could you realize it.

Novi asks new arcade controls

Revisions to Novi's requirements for obtaining a pinball arcade license have been requested by the Novi City Council.

Council members voted 7-0 Monday to issue a license to Novi Ice Arena, 42250 Eleven Mile for its two pinball machines.

But the council noted the city's requirements for operating an arcade are not appropriate for establishments where the operation of arcade machinery is not the primary use of the facility.

For example, the ordinance requires that to operate a pinball arcade no one under the age of 16 is permitted on the premises unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Council Member Patricia Karevich questioned whether the ice area owner was aware of that provision since youngsters of all ages currently visit the ice arena.

"The problem is this ordinance was designed to control establishments where a pinball arcade is the primary use," said City Manager Edward Krievich.

Karevich also said she did not believe two machines constituted an arcade. "People don't walk to the Novi Ice Arena to play pinball."

They also agreed the ordinance review committee should look into revisions to the arcade license ordinance.

The domestic front is war zone for battered women

By KAREN RICE

Three days later when the woman came in to file a complaint with Howell police, Chief Mike Oyer was amazed at the extent of her injuries.

"I've seldom seen a worse case of a beating than that," he said. "I'm glad she did decide to press charges."

She pressed charges against her boyfriend, a man who had been living with her for about three months, and a man. Wixom police say he has a long record of assaults and other incidents.

According to police records, in addition to its severity, the beating this woman suffered was an unusually long one. Her boyfriend beat her from Howell to Wixom, choked her, punched her, and at one point tried to force her out of the car while driving on I-96. The beating began about 9:30 p.m. and lasted until 4:30 a.m., say police.

Howell police have charged him with aggravated assault, although he reportedly left Michigan shortly after the incident occurred. Wixom police would also like to find the man.

The following account is taken from Wixom police records.

He then threatened to tie her to the bed so she couldn't go to the police but fell asleep first.

At 5 a.m., when Stan was sound asleep, Carol got up and left the apartment. She got in her car and tried to drive to Novi but her eyes were so badly swollen she couldn't see to drive.

Carol was picked up by the Novi police and taken to Botsford Hospital, where she was treated for possible fractures on both sides of her eyes and received some stitches. Her throat was bruised and her face was still swollen and discolored three days later when she went to the Howell police station.

By that time, Stan had moved out.

Stan got out of a car in the parking lot and approached Carol, asking her where she'd been and who she'd been with. "A friend," she said. He told her to get in their car and then hit her face.

Stan asked Carol if she'd had sexual intercourse with anyone while she'd been gone and she said no, she hadn't. He punched her in the face several times; he asked her again and hit her again. Then he told her to remove her clothes so he could check. She did.

Afterwards, Stan and Carol began the drive from Howell to Wixom. On the way, he hit her several times. When he stopped for gas, Carol later told police, he forced her onto the floor of the car. After leaving the station, he stopped a short ways down the road and began choking her; Carol thinks she may have passed out at that point.

Stan began driving again, hitting Carol occasionally and began to talk about killing her and then committing suicide.

Somewhere around Kensington Metro Park, Carol recalls, Stan reached across her, opened the passenger door and tried to force her out although he was driving at a high rate of speed.

He told Carol he would bite off her nose and did bite her on the right side of her forehead and the left side of her nose.

Finally arriving at their apartment, Stan parked the car, dragged Carol out and hit her again. He hauled her up to their unit and once inside, threw her on the bathroom floor and kicked her a few times. Stan picked her up by the hair and told her to look at herself in the mirror.

Carol's case is both typical and atypical when compared with the thousands of beating incidents that take place daily between couples, whether married or unmarried.

The chronology of the evening is, of course, different from other reports. And unfortunately, so was Carol's decision to prosecute. Debbie Benjamin, director of First Step spouse abuse clinic on Farmington Road estimates between five and 10 times more beating occur than are actually reported.

But the tragic situation, the psychology behind Stan's violence and Carol's inability to strike back are textbook examples of spouse abuse cases.

Wife beating is an ugly subject. But it is a substantial problem; one that is not contained by economic, religious, racial or ethnic boundaries. Its evidence is found in virtually every community — and the picture-pretty suburbs of west Oakland County are no exception.

"The magnitude of the problem is just unbelievable," says Benjamin. "I am continually amazed by the amount of abuse that occurs in families."

Most people who have never been exposed to the problem find it difficult to understand why wife abuse goes unreported, and especially why it occurs. But according to Benjamin, it is Experts agree, however, they are seeing more cases of beatings than they used to. According to Margaret Bell, director of the spouse abuse project at United Community Services (UCS) of Metropolitan Detroit, abuse phone calls to the UCS hotline rose from 177 calls reported during April, May and June of 1979 to 421 calls recorded during the same period in 1980.

Bell believes the increase could be related to the tough economic climate in Michigan. Says she: "I've been involved in many studies on this and it's my finding that spouse abuse is often caused by immediate losses or the threat of immediate losses. Job problems, the threat of divorce, death, moves, health — all of these things pile up in a person. The incidence of spouse abuse is often the result of a helplessness and despair."

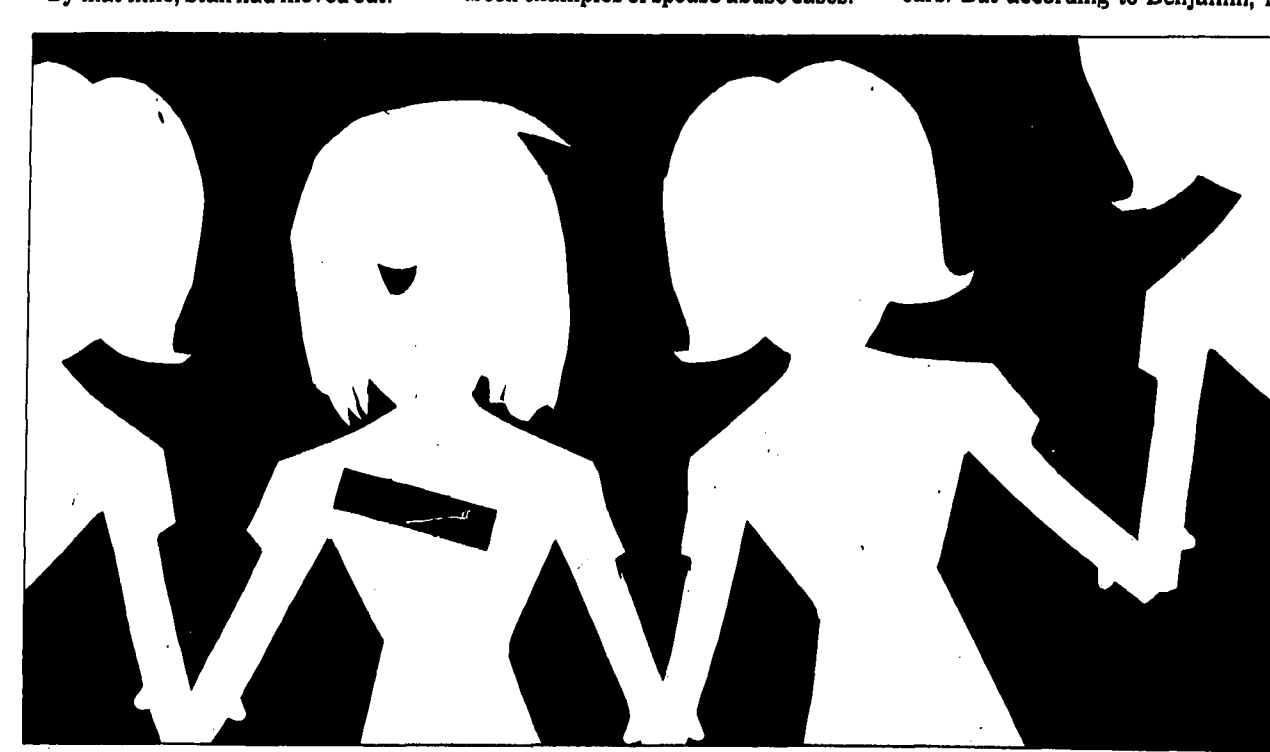

Those factors could explain the rise in numbers of reported beatings. But they don't quite get to the nuts and bolts of spouse abuse: what makes a man take out all his frustration with the world on his wife or girlfriend, supposedly a person he loves?

Benjamin maintains that husbands beat their wives for a variety of reasons, not all of which are apparent to observers. Rarely does it happen because of something the woman did to deserve it, she says.

"The majority, say 60 percent, of abusive men were abused as children or saw abuse between their parents," she explains. Benjamin believes that early exposure to family violence is probably the single most influential factor in the emotional development of men who beat their wives. By witnessing beatings between their parents — or by being victims as children — those men come to accept violent behavior as a legitimate method of coping with stress or personal and family problems, she says.

"These men are not all bad," Benjamin adds. "They have good qualities, often they are highly respected in their communities. But they don't want to admit they have a problem."

What keeps victims tied to their abusers

Physical results of beatings aren't the only scars battered women bear. Occasional or regular abuse affects a woman's emotional and mental health, her self-image, her self-worth. She's a victim, often unable to develop a course of action she could take to prevent the beatings.

According to Debbie Benjamin of First Step spouse abuse clinic, located on Farmington Road, some women who have been assaulted, however, their mates will leave and refuse to return. But more often, the women stay — and almost always become the targets of more abuse.

Benjamin suggests a range of factors — economic and emotional dependence, guilt, fear, religious beliefs — contribute to keeping a woman prisoner in her own home.

Notes a woman who was beaten by her husband throughout most of the 13 years they were married: "I felt so hopeless, so powerless. I totally lacked control of my life. I felt that I couldn't control or handle anything by myself. "I wanted someone to love me so much. I couldn't accept myself, I didn't like myself. I thought I deserved to be treated that way. How could someone who says he loves you beat you? How could you live with someone who says he loves you, but beats you? I still find myself questioning how I could have accepted that."

Another abused woman agrees. "I discovered while attending an abuse clinic that the majority of us lived that way through fears, guilt and mostly poor self-images," she says. "Most people are led to believe that we enjoy, desire and accept the behavior because we are sick neurotics, simple minded, ignorant or too lazy to go out on our own. It's simply not true."

"I've had to fight each step of the way to overcome the guilt and negative attitudes within myself and from others. I feel I am fortunate to have found the inner strength and renewed self-respect to believe I deserve to be alive and not just exist."

Benjamin explains that a number of women stay where they are because if they decide to leave they have nowhere to go, no way to get anywhere and no means of supporting themselves and their children. In fact, she adds, often they are so convinced they couldn't survive without their husbands that they continue to stick it out even at the price of beatings.

"Many of the women are economically dependent, yes," she says, "but at least as many are emotionally dependent."

"These women are scared. They are embarrassed, and they think the beatings are their own fault."

"I would say that every woman who comes in that door for help says that for the first few months or years the abuse had been going on she looked within herself to find out why it occurred. She feels that it is her fault, that somehow she is to blame because her husband is violent."

However the problems develop, clearly a sense of helplessness, a feeling of lack of control over her life, insecurity and entrapment collectively strip a woman of her self-respect and emotional strength. At that point, a woman may simply feel so beaten down mentally, as well as physically, so powerless to change her life that she just gives up.

But, she adds, a woman who accepts or tolerates beatings will probably remain in the situation until she becomes determined to change her life. Not only does an abuser need to learn other ways to channel his emotions, she says, the victim must change her self-image as well.

The responsibility of altering the pattern of beatings falls on the shoulders of the battered woman, for if she does nothing, nothing will be done.

Agencies provide help

"I could write a book about the unbelievable problems, obstacles and situations I had to face when I tried to get help. It was hard enough to rebuild my life and self-respect; the rejections, criticisms, lack of understanding and other obstacles I had to overcome were added nightmares."

So an abused woman describes the difficulties she faced while trying to break away from a violence-filled past. It isn't easy to make a move toward breaking the pattern of beatings. But women who want to do so can get help at a number of area counseling centers, crisis hotlines and legal services.

They can press charges against their spouses. Wife-beating is assault, a crime punishable by fines, probation and sometimes jail sentences.

Wife-beating is something to be concerned about, says Debbie Benjamin, director of First Step spouse abuse clinic. "Society as a whole has no concept of the depth and breadth of this problem," she says, although she notes that attention is beginning to be focused on domestic violence by more agencies, and even by legislators.

Following is a list of agencies that provide legal, counseling and shelter assistance to battered wives.

—Catholic Social Services of Oakland County: 29825 Inkster Road, Farmington Hills, 851-7180; or 1336 Millard Road, Highland, 897-3786, or 50 Franklin Boulevard, Pontiac, 334-3585.

Provides family and individual counseling, fees are based on ability to pay, offers professionally trained counselors.

—Counseling Resource Center: 1615 Glenngary Road, Walled Lake, 624-6040. Provides individual, group and family counseling for children and adults, accepts Blue Cross.

—Family and Child Services of Oakland County: 1250 E. West Maple, Walled Lake, 624-3811. Provides family and individual counseling, professional counselors, child abuse counseling and fees are based on ability to pay.

—First Step: 881 Farmington Road, Westland, 425-8000. Provides 24-hour hotline crisis counseling, professional counseling, free legal consultation and support groups to help women share feelings.

—Henry Ford Hospital: 6777 West Maple, West Bloomfield, 661-4100. Provides counseling services, psychotherapy and crisis intervention, maintains 24-hour emergency room, has no sliding scale fees.

—Oakland County Department of Social Services: Adult protective services in Walled Lake, 624-8800.

—Ralphie: 477-6600. Provides telephone counseling between 9 a.m. and midnight weekdays and 9:30 p.m. to midnight on weekends.

A Matter of Taste

By Maria Sarivalas Kokas, R. D.

Sodium-restricted diets can be prescribed for a number of reasons. The end result, though, is a radical change in cooking habits.

Regardless of why your diet has to change, how you change it is important. Snitching a little extra salt here and there will do nothing more than make a bad health situation worse. Sticking with the new diet and trying new flavoring combinations will not only help you, but may be the best thing that ever happened to the rest of your family.

By restricting the sodium level of the whole family along with you, you could be keeping your loved ones from falling prey to various ailments, the most common of which is high blood pressure, or hypertension.

Don't feel cheated that you have to cut down on salt. Most Americans eat an estimated 10 times more sodium than their bodies need. Why not give everybody a hand while you get back on track?

Start with seasoning tips for eggs, fish, cheese and poultry. In the future, this column will complete the picture with flavoring ideas for vegetables and salads.

Note: If your calories are also restricted, cut out any combination that contains sugar, honey, excess butter, cream and oils.

These general suggestions will help you become accustomed to eating without much salt. Use them until experience teaches you which combinations you like best. Remember to use herbs and spices sparingly until you become familiar with them.

EGGS: Put a teaspoon of vinegar or onion in the water when poaching your eggs.

Use orange juice, pineapple juice or tomato sauce (tomato juice prepared for drinking is too salty) instead of milk when scrambling eggs.

Eggs also can be scrambled salt-free by using unsalted fat and a pinch of mixed herbs or fresh tomato cut up with green pepper or chives.

Ginger ale may be used in omelets. Add curry, rosemary or basil to scrambled eggs and try a few drops of lemon juice or vinegar on cooked eggs.

Other additions include pepper, mushrooms, dry mustard, paprika and applesauce.

FISH: Rub fish inside and out with fresh lemon before cooking.

Use plain lemon or a lemon butter. Broiled fish blends well with lemon juice, black pepper, onion and celery.

For baking, try wrapping fish in foil with a slice of lemon, bay leaf, pepper and a little onion. Bake until tender. Other seasonings include dry mustard, paprika, tarragon, curry, mushrooms and oregano.

MEATS: For lean beef, squeeze lemon juice on the meat and sprinkle with dry mustard and pepper. Dust sage over top of a roast before baking.

Cook with a variety of vegetables. Other suggestions are additions of marjoram, nutmeg, onion, thyme and bay leaf.

For hamburger patties, season by adding onion or chopped onion to the raw meat. Season by squeezing lemon juice onto meat or dust with pepper. When cooking on charcoal, toss a few bay leaves onto the coals under the burgers.

For pot roast, a teaspoon of mixed pickling spice gives the meat a delicious flavor or add a garlic bud.

For meatloaf, lemon juice, poultry seasoning or chili powder, tomato and onion can be added.

In stews or casseroles, include such flavorings as dried chili powder, parsley and small amounts of nutmeg, ginger, sage, basil, thyme or curry.

LIVER: Broil, but before turning brush the meat with a mixture of lemon juice, unsalted butter and grated onion.

LAMB: Use curry or oregano in lamb stew.

Mint, garlic, rosemary, vinegar sauce with a little oil or sugar or broiled pineapple rings can also be added to the lamb.

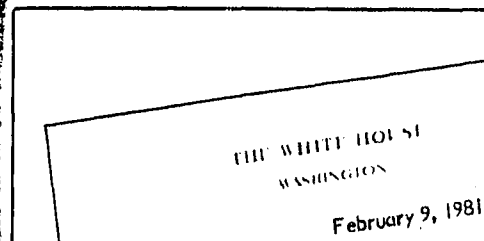

PORK: Sprinkle with lemon juice and dust with paprika, onion, garlic or sage. Serve with applesauce, spiced apples or cranberries.

POULTRY: Stew chicken with a bay leaf, some celery leaves, onion and black pepper.

Broiled chicken may be sprinkled with powdered rosemary, thyme, sage and some lemon juice.

Baste broiled chicken with a sauce of lemon juice, olive oil and a dash of crushed garlic. Paprika can add color.

May be served with mushrooms or cranberry sauce.

Dear Girls and Boys:

I want you to know how much your messages meant to me. There is much to do and I count on your help in my efforts to make this new beginning we all desire.

The support of our nation's young people is encouraging to me in a democracy even the smallest voices are important to the leaders of government. Keep up the good work!

With best wishes always,

Sincerely,

Presidential pals

Michael Carter's second grade class is all smiles — and for good reason. They received a personal thank you note from the White House, signed by none other than President Ronald Reagan. The Orchard Hills students were sent the response after the president got their message: an envelope full of individual cards congratulating him on his 70th birthday February 9. Judging from the students' happy faces, there is no generation gap between this set of pen pals. (Photo by Steve Fecht)

BPW names careerist

Mary Mangel of Novi has been named a young career woman by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Novi.

Mangel, a job developer for Community Employment Service in Novi, was selected from a field of other young area professional women to represent the Novi BPW during district competition next month.

The contest is part of the "Young Career Woman Program" sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and provides local chapters an opportunity to spotlight talented young women by sending them as representatives to competitions on local, district, state, regional and national levels.

Mangel and two other Novi women recently spoke to the Novi BPW about their educational background, career achievements and goals. Judging was based on those elements and the candidates' ability to project an image reflecting the role of young women in today's society, according to a BPW spokesman.

Mangel is the daughter of Mrs. Jane Mangel of Milford and graduated from Milford High School. She attended Oakland Community College, Highland Lakes Campus, and has been active in counseling students there.

Also competing for the BPW title were Rose Crain, vice-president of Country Estates Mobile Home Village in Novi and Barbara Cotter, a service-waiting time as representatives to competitions on local, district, state, regional and national levels.

of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.
SQUEEK CAUGHT IN MOUTHTRAP

Q. It sounds stupid, but my mouth squeaks ever since I had a number of new fillings. Have you ever heard of such a thing?

A. Yes, and you are definitely not alone with your problem. It is not uncommon for patients to complain of a "squeaky" sound after having silver fillings. This occurs when the contact between the teeth is not very tight, and allows the fillings to rub against each other causing a squeaking noise. It usually goes away, but sometimes you may need a new filling wedged closer to its neighbor to solve your problem.

Life on the home front

Consequently, because violent men don't usually consider their behavior to be unacceptable or a problem, a rather dramatic incident has to precipitate a decision by the men to seek help. Many home situations become very violent before a man decides — or is forced through legal action — to confront his behavior in programs designed to help abusive men. (Such help is available through Catholic Social Services.) Alcohol is also a problem in domestic abuse cases.

"Probably around 50 percent of the cases we see involve the use of alcohol," says Benjamin. "Still, it's important to realize that alcohol isn't the cause of abuse, it's a symptom. I think alcoholism is sometimes used as an excuse to be abusive."

For whatever reasons a man beats his wife, crisis counselors and police officers agree that once he has begun, he will almost always batter her again. While it is true that the majority of wife beatings are not planned attacks, neither are they occasional occurrences. For many women, weekly and daily beatings are a simple — and terrifying — fact of life.

Bushnell slates Novi services

Bushnell Congregational Church of Detroit will begin the process of relocating in Novi by holding worship services in the Village Oaks Elementary School.

Dr. Howard Conn, pastor of the church, announced that the first worship service in Novi will be held this Sunday at 9 a.m. A fellowship period and Sunday School sessions will follow the service.

Dr. Conn will speak on "Mutually Encouraged Living" at the congregation's first service in Novi. Professor Ray Ferguson of Wayne State University will conduct the music.

Bushnell Congregational Church is presently located in a beautiful colonial building on Southfield Road at the juncture of Grand River and Fenkel. The decision to build a new church in Novi was prompted by the fact that many of its members have moved to the northwestern suburbs, Dr. Conn said.

The church has purchased a 12-acre parcel on Meadowbrook Road near Broquet as the site of its new church. The land was dedicated last summer. Now the church wants to begin gathering interested area residents so they can participate in the planning of the new facility.

Dr. Conn said everyone is invited to attend services for inspiration and fellowship. Services will be held in the Village Oaks School every Sunday at 9 a.m. Bushnell Congregational is the third church to have its beginnings in the Village Oaks School.

Dr. Conn was minister of the Plymouth Congregational Church in Minneapolis for many years. He is a world traveler, the author of five books and has been national moderator of the denomination.

Also being offered through PACE is a two-session workshop on newborn care to help couples adjust to having a new baby. The course provides practical information on the care of newborn infants, as well as psychological aspects of parenting.

The workshops are being held at Novi

Community Notes

High School and the Shiawassee Center in Farmington.

Couples planning to have their child through Caesarean Section may be interested in Caesarean preparation classes offered by PACE.

The four-night class covers hospital policies, surgical procedures, exercises and a variety of other topics to promote the concept of family-oriented delivery for Caesarean couples.

Just because it's March doesn't mean it's too late to get organized with one of the Commerce calendars.

Election of officers will also be held. Anyone interested in the POW-MIA issue is encouraged to attend.

SQUARE DANCING: Senior citizens who would like to learn how to square dance are invited to attend square dancing lessons offered by the Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency (OLHSA), according to Ellen McMillan of the Lakes Area center.

GIRL SCOUT JAMBOREE: Twenty-one Novi Girl Scout troops will gather March 9 at Novi High School to celebrate Girl Scout Week with a jamboree, according to Judy Killick, organizer for the event.

A parade of flags, a sing-along and display of historical uniforms will be among the highlights of the jamboree, the first ever to be held in Novi.

Killick explains that the jamboree is being used to show younger Scouts, especially Brownies and Juniors, that girls don't have to drop out of Scouting simply because they become teenagers.

"We want them to understand that they can carry on in Girl Scouts, and that in fact, many do," says Killick.

The troop leaders encourage all Novi Girl Scouts to participate in the jamboree.

STANDARD FEDERAL SAVINGS ANNOUNCES A NEW OFFICE IN NOVI

New! Checking Accounts with Interest

Until now, you've never had interest paid on your checking account. But on January 1, 1981, you'll have the chance to take advantage of a brand new service from Standard Federal Savings — checking accounts with interest. In addition to providing savings accounts which pay the highest rate available on insured savings, Standard Federal also offers the opportunity to earn the highest interest allowed on your checking account.

These accounts will earn 5 1/4% annual interest — continuously compounded — adding interest every month to your account for an effective annual yield of 5.467%. This is the highest interest allowed on checking accounts.

You may open an account in any amount. However, with a minimum balance of $500.00 OR an average daily balance of $1,000.00, you may write all the checks you wish, with no monthly service charge. (A $5.00 monthly fee is assessed if you go below the minimum or average requirements).

Each month you'll receive a detailed statement of your account which lists your checks in numerical order, your deposits, any service charges assessed and the interest earned during the statement period.

Personalized checks are printed free of charge if you choose not to have your checks returned with your monthly statement. There will be a charge for printing personalized checks if you wish to have your checks returned to you. With either option, you may select a style that provides a carbon copy of each check for your records.

A permanent record of each check will be kept by Standard Federal Savings. If you need a copy for any reason, microfilm copies of as many as 25 checks per year (or all checks relating to an IRS audit) will be provided at no charge.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS 62 YEARS OF AGE AND OLDER: Customers 62 years of age and older who have direct deposit of social security or other retirement checks into any Standard Federal Savings account will pay no monthly service charge on their checking accounts.

RIGHT NOW — receive a gift FREE or at big savings just for opening a new checking account with $1,000.00 or more. Gifts are also available for opening a new account with $1,000.00 or more at the Novi office.

26-Week Money Market Certificate***
Minimum Balance $10,000.00

2 1/2-Year Money Market Certificate***
Minimum Balance $100.00
The interest rate is determined bi-weekly and compounded continuously giving the highest return available on these accounts. Call (313) 643-9583 for the current rates.

Non-negotiable Savings Certificate***
Minimum Balance $100,000.00
Terms range from 14 days to 5 years with interest rates quoted by Standard Federal Savings on a daily basis. Call (313) 643-9582 for current rates.

Billiard champ admission

'Great ones make mistakes, too'

A billiard exhibition by Nick Varner, 1980 World Pocket Billiard Champion and the BCA National 8-Ball Champion, will be hosted by Schoolcraft College Student Activities on Friday, March 6 at 8 p.m. in the college gymnasium.

Varner began playing pool at the age of five when his father bought a pool hall. Nick wasn't tall enough to see over the edge of the table, so he stood on a soft drink case to take his first shot.

The Owensboro, Kentucky native has been a steadily ascending star on the professional scene since he won the last of his two ACU-I Intercollegiate championships in 1979.

As a junior at Purdue University, Varner beat Joe Balsis, the world champion at the time when Balsis visited the campus for an exhibition.

"I figured guys like him never missed, but I found out they miss just like everyone else, just not as often," Varner said.

After that, Varner started playing pool professionally. As a professional, Varner's credentials include winning the 1972 Minnesota Fats Challenge Match, the 1974 and 1976 Midwest Open, the 1975 Texas and Kentucky Opens, the 1980 Illinois and Kentucky Derby Opens.

To date Varner's lifetime high run is 307. Pocket billiards is expected to be one of the fastest growing activities of the '80s. According to the Nielsen ratings, pocket billiard ranks as the number two participation sport in the nation with more than 40 million players.

Tickets for the Nick Varner Trick and Fancy Shot Exhibition are $2.50 and are available at the Schoolcraft College Student Activities Office and at the door.

For further information regarding the exhibition, phone 591-6400, ext. 200.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road between Six Mile and Seven Mile roads.

Homogenized Harmony

How yellow the roses
Printed on my bedsheet.
I shut the sun
Away with drapes
But it shines through
And finally impelled
I draw back
The drapes to Harmonize with
The yellow roses—
Then Aurora makes
A halo for each rose.

TOM ADAMS (left), Realtor associate at Rymal Symes Realtors, concluded 1980 on "a very positive note," says Conrad Jakubowski, president of Rymal Symes.

Adams produced a record setting 1980 sales volume and won out as top salesperson at the firm's Novi office.

Jakubowski said he is "especially proud of Tom Adams' 1980 record volume because in a year remembered mostly for sky high interest rates and severe economic recession, Adams simply refused to be beaten."

The firm's president attributed Adams' success to his "genuine desire to render a real service to his clients and a positive tenacious attitude that sees adversity as a challenge rather than a roadblock."

THE NEW AMBICO CREATIVE Filter System has been added at 1/Stop of Novi.

"The system is a step forward for the serious amateur or professional who wants to utilize filters but questions the cost of purchasing glass filters for all or his or her lenses," said 1/Stop Owner Wayne Loder.

"An assortment of filters to fit lenses with several different filter sizes could amount to a small fortune," Loder continued. "The Ambico System allows the purchase of a single filter to fit all lenses for the 35mm or larger format camera."

Most of the filters are square, fitting into a filter holder which affixes to lenses through use of filter mounts.

"While there are two other similar filter systems on the market, ours has definite advantages," Loder said. "The Ambico filters are lower cost, can be used with all lenses using filters from 49mm to 77mm, and are of a size which allows their use in darkroom enlargers."

A low cost matte box for special effects is available as well as some 60 basic filters for use in black-and-white or color photography. Multi-image, star highlight, soft focus, close up, graduated color and diffusion effect filters are included in the Ambico System.

Besides the Ambico system, 1/Stop carries a complete selection of optical quality glass filters of almost all types at discounted prices.

"Filters have become a way of life for most 35mm photographers who want their pictures to be different than everyone else's," said Loder. "The use of the correct filter can make or break an otherwise lackluster picture."

F/Stop carries accessories for all brands of 35mm cameras and, with the services of three high quality processors, offers more photofinishing services than any photographic store in the Detroit area.

F/Stop is located at 43220 Grand River Avenue in Novi.

Donations and your taxes . . .

By ELMER E. HEUPEL
Tax Department Director
Alexander Grant & Company, CPA's

It may be time to consider your charitable donations and tax planning techniques.

You are permitted to deduct charitable contributions paid within the year, subject to certain limitations based on your adjusted gross income. The limitations are rather generous and seldom apply. However, if large gifts are contemplated, you should consult a tax specialist to avoid partial loss of deduction. This is particularly true for gifts other than cash where special limitations apply.

Usually you have considerable flexibility in controlling your charitable contributions. Sometimes it is feasible to make a large contribution in a high income year which will satisfy your charitable commitments extending over a number of years.

Contributions of appreciated capital gain property, such as securities held over 12 months, will provide a tax deduction equal to the full market value. Therefore, a gift of appreciated securities has the advantage of market value deduction without payment of the capital gain tax, which would result if you sold the securities and contributed the cash resulting from sale.

Conversely, securities that have depreciated in value below cost should not be the subject of charitable donations since you would forfeit the tax loss. In that case, it is better to sell the securities, take the tax loss, and contribute the cash proceeds.

Gifts of securities to provide foundations such as a family charitable trust should not be made without consulting a tax adviser. Special rules could reduce the anticipated deduction.

Charitable remainder trusts are vehicles permitting you to make a gift to charity and retain a lifetime income interest. The gift creates an actuarially computed charitable deduction, lowering tax in the year of the gift. This fact coupled with the special rules for taxing the lifetime payments can actually increase your lifetime after-tax income.

Although charitable remainder trusts may be appropriate for only a minority of individuals, they warrant additional consideration by those interested in benefiting a favorite charity in a meaningful way.

Wilson entered the company's management training program in 1978 at Adrian and was advanced to assistant manager at Lansing after 22 months. He was transferred to the Wall Lake office last May.

He attended Croswell-Lexington High School and Oakland Community College. He also served two years with the U.S. Army.

Credit Unit has served Wall Lake residents since 1967 and now operates 34 offices in Michigan. They provide personal and homeowner loans as well as handling retail financing of durable consumer goods.

The company was organized in 1920 in Evansville, Indiana, where it still maintains its national headquarters. Credit Unit stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

NORTHVILLE Real Estate Companies dominated the Northville market through 1980, a departure from previous years when several companies located in other cities penetrated the local market regularly, according to Anthony V. Rizzo, president of Rizzo Realty, Inc., Gallery of Homes of Northville.

Rizzo said nine companies located in Northville — city and township — were most effective in selling homes in the $80,000 and higher price range where they were responsible for nearly three fourths of the $11 million volume.

"Three companies accounted for half of that volume," Rizzo said, naming his own firm, Real Estate One, and Century 21. The six other companies, he said, accounted for another 24 percent and at least 50 outside companies divided the remaining 21 percent of sales in the $80,000 and higher market.

PERRY DRUG STORES, Incorporated, the Pontiac-based drug store chain with stores in the Northville and Brighton areas, told an AMEX Club of New York audience the company will report record sales and earnings for its fiscal 1981 first quarter ended January 31.

Perry currently operates 70 drug stores and one discount auto parts store in Michigan, 13 drug stores in Metropolitan Canada and 13 leased drug departments in four states — Illinois, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas. The total of 97 units is up from 60 a year ago and includes 28 units acquired by Perry last July 31 from Chicago-based DeKoven Drug Company. Perry has said it plans to open 10-12 additional stores in fiscal 1981. One, a combination drug and auto-home center store, already opened in Albion.

Preliminary tabulations on sales and earnings rose more than 47 percent to upwards of $50 million from $33.9 million in the same year ago quarter, said Jack Robinson, chairman and chief executive officer. He said he expects final figures to show "good improvement" over the $1.1 million, or 72 cents a share, Perry earned in the same year ago period.

CHATHAM Complete Food Centers have begun to offer fresh beef cuts in completely transparent vacuum sealed packages. "We're now able to bring to retail beef cuts additional freshness and convenience never known before and at no additional cost to consumers," explained Chatham chief executive officer Bernard Weisberg.

"By using a vacuum sealing process developed by the American Can Company, we're removing the oxygen that causes meat in conventional tray and film packaging to lose its freshness," He said meat is packaged immediately after cutting for this process. Rewrapping for freezing is eliminated with the new, tougher packaging. The new wrap is being offered initially at selected stores, including the Northville store.

Upset of the season: Novi 62, Howell 61

By REID CREAGER

"You gotta believe" — New York Mets' Tug McGraw, 1973.
"Hustle makes it happen" — Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose, 1976.
"Always keep the faith" — Novi Wildcats' Ron Flutur, 1981.

Sure, clichés are corny, no matter who the author is. But just as in Novi's incredible comeback win over Hartland a few weeks ago, you have to allow Flutur the extravagance following Friday night's game at Howell.

The Wildcat basketball coach has every reason to believe in miracles after watching ace forward Steve Wright pop in a six-foot jumper with seven seconds remaining to lift his club to a 62-61 shocker over the Highlanders. The winners overcame a 26-point second-quarter deficit to saddle their unsuspecting hosts with their first Kensington Valley Conference defeat of the year after eight wins.

If Novi's comeback, double-OT victory over Hartland January 23 — in which the locals rallied back from a 15-point fourth quarter deficit — raised some eyebrows, then this one at least raised some doubts as to whether the KVC has Novi to kick around anymore. After an 0-2 start in the conference, Flutur's club now stands a second-place 5-4 and has beaten every team in the circuit.

"This game just shows you how much attitude is a factor," the young coach said afterward. "You've always got to give it your all, no matter how bleak it looks."

Indeed, things were pretty bleak for the Wildcats as early as the first period. Even though Howell — which clinched the KVC title outright the previous week — began the game with only half of its starters, it still boasted a 21-7 lead after the first quarter ended. The Highlanders later boosted the margin to 20 points, then went to the bench some more

ed. They had stopped doing the things that they do well, like going inside and intimidating on defense."

The fourth quarter was more of the same. Much to Howell Coach Jerry Johnson's horror, he found

"When it was all over, I laughed to myself and just walked off the floor."
— Novi Coach Ron Flutur

before settling for a 37-26 lead at intermission.

Novi continued to pull the feathers out of Howell's cushion in the third period, pulling to within 50-46 as the quarter ended. "They were getting a little lackadaisical," Flutur observed that he couldn't insert some of his old starters into the action and hope for immediate results. Meanwhile, an inspired Novi team stayed within a point at 61-60 in the waning seconds, setting up Wright's game-winning shot.

"I had naturally called a time-out before our last shot," Flutur recalled, "and our plan was to spring (Todd) Parsons (who finished with 29 points). He was bombing them in from everywhere, and we figured that even if he was covered that that would leave somebody else open."

That's precisely what happened, too. Parsons drove the basket, but found too much opposition and dislodged off to Wright for the deciding six-foot pop. Howell had one more chance to pull it out, but its last-second lay-up in traffic missed the mark.

"That second half was some of the best defense I've ever seen our people play," Flutur said, particularly praising Wright, Mike Renner and Pete DeBrule. "They were totally unimintimidated, despite being at such a disadvantage height-wise."

The offense didn't fare too badly, either. Besides Parsons' 13-for-23 field goal performance, Wright totaled 16 points, while guard Brian Jordan handed off 11 assists.

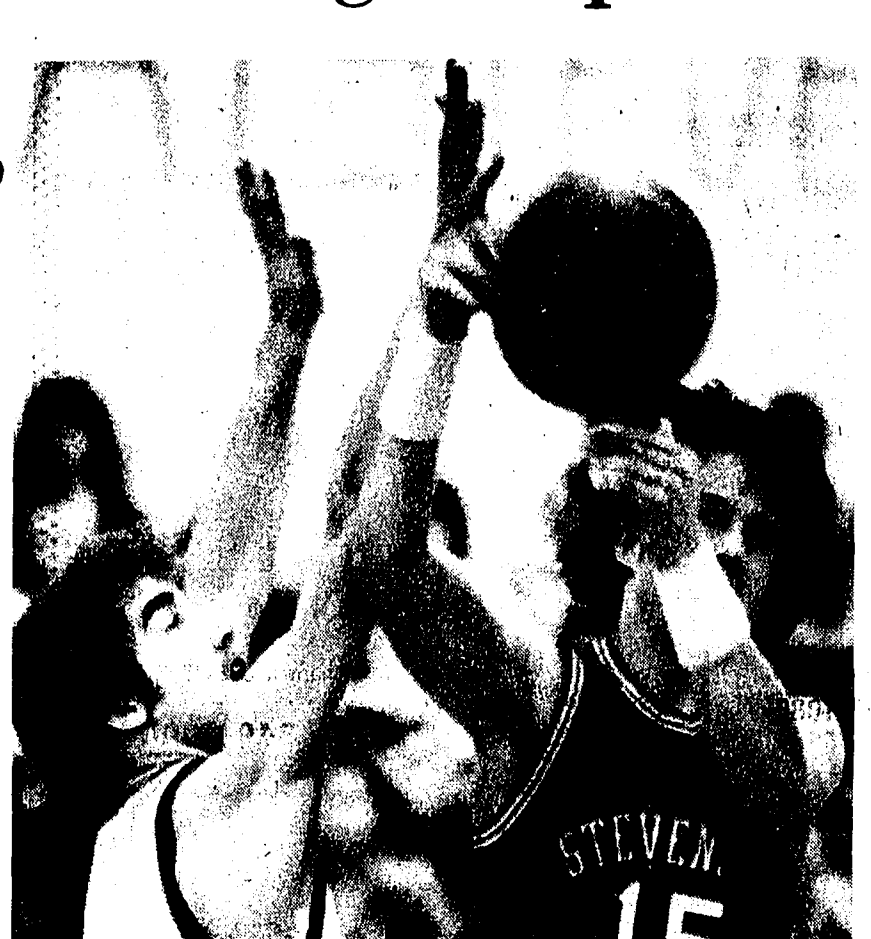

"When it was all over," the coach added, "I laughed to myself and just walked off the floor. I mean, this just wasn't supposed to happen."

Then again, neither was Novi's 75-65 humiliation at the hands of Walled Lake Central three days earlier. The Wildcats were thwarted inside and out as they dropped their seventh non-league game in as many tries.

The Viking defense effectively contained Parsons and Jordan in the backcourt, and Central's front line of 6-7 Jeff Sewell (six blocked shots), 6-4 Tom Nicklin and 6-3 Erin Hill was too much for the Wildcats to handle.

For Novi's district basketball and volleyball match-ups, see page 6-D.

Vikings stop Stevenson jinx, 48-46

Erin Hill's defense hassled Stevenson

Bring on Northville, Milford Lakeland and the rest in next week's districts — the Walled Lake Central basketball team is finally learning how to win. Just ask Livonia Stevenson.

The Vikings scored their first win in some eight years over the Spartans Friday night when Central's Tom Nicklin put in a rebound with two seconds left to lift the home team to an exhilarating 48-46 Inter-Lakes Conference upset. The victory was the Vikings' sixth in their last eight games, boosting them to the 10-win plateau for the first time since 1974.

Nicklin, ironically, also turned in Central's biggest defensive play of the game when he blocked a Stevenson attempt in the final minute. Erin Hill recovered the ball prior to a Central time-out with 37 seconds left, then let fly with a errant jumper at the seven-second mark. But the ball caromed to a waiting Nicklin, who laid it back in for the team's second I-L success of the season.

Central's win was more a matter of poise than anything else. The winners found themselves in an 8-0 hole before they could work up a sweat, but battled back to within 18-14 after the quarter.

From then on, it was anybody's ballgame, although Stevenson held the upper hand at halftime (29-26) and after the third quarter (39-38). The Spartans elected to go into a delay offense early in the fourth period, but the homeowners remained patient and gradually worked themselves into the 46-all tie that Nicklin broke for keeps.

Once again, the Vikes were led on the scoreboard by center Jeff Sewell, whose steady play of late appears to be the difference between a competitive Central team and a winning one. The 6-7 junior scored 18 points and snatched 13 rebounds; Nicklin and Hill, meanwhile, finished with respective point and rebound totals of 12 and nine and eight and 11.

Sewell had further enhanced his reputation three nights earlier at Novi, blocking six shots in Central's 75-49 triumph over the Wildcats. He, Nicklin (17 points) and Hill (15) combined for 42 points — just one shy of Novi's team total — as the Vikes upped their non-league mark to 9-1.

Central now winds up its regular schedule with a pair of home games before district action commences Monday at Northville High School (see page 2-D).

Western spikers head W-6 after bumping Churchill

"The queen is dead; long live the queen."

Walled Lake Western's volleyball team finally bumped its way to the top of the Western Six Conference standings last week, unseating Livonia Churchill in the battle for first place on the Chargers' court last Wednesday. And, although the Warriors deliriously mixed their spiking and dinking talents to prevail, the margin was anything but dinky.

Western, led by the no-doubt spiking of Sue Hoelt and the timely dinks of Tracy Grubb, posted a 15-5, 9-15, 15-4 verdict over the Chargers to up its record to 7-2 in the conference. Churchill fell to 6-2.

"We totally threw off their timing," an elated Coach Ron Fuson said afterward. "Our girls read the holes and mixed their spikes and dinks very well. They never knew what we were going to do."

After our tough match with Central the previous week, and with Churchill coming up, I knew that this would be the only chance for some of the reserves to get in," Fuson explained. "They deserved that chance."

Perfect serving by Julie Tillman (10 for 10) and Grubb (nine for nine) led the victory, as did the spiking of Hoelt (11 for 12 and three aces).

The Warriors concluded the week Saturday by splitting eight games at the Livonia Schoolcraft Invitational. Western beat Northville twice, and Fenton and Garden City East once.

With the final week of the regular season here, all the Warriors need to do is beat the champions in those two brackets will meet in the finals.

Western's only rough spot occurred in game two, when, according to Fuson, the team was victimized by a letdown. "After finally beating them (the Warriors had lost their four previous games against Churchill this year), I guess we came down a little," the first-year coach said. "But we took care of it in the third game."

Ironically, Western had followed the same pattern in its victory over Waterford Township two days earlier, but for different reasons. The Warriors spiked their hosts to the tune of 15-7 in game one, then let the reserves perform in a 15-6 second-game loss. Western reversed that count in game three to take the match.

"After our tough match with Central the previous week, and with Churchill coming up, I knew that this would be the only chance for some of the reserves to get in," Fuson explained. "They deserved that chance."

Foul play ruins Warriors as losing streak reaches six

They say charity begins at home, but the Walled Lake Western basketball team was indiscriminate in two more basketball losses last week.

The Warriors dropped a 70-57 decision at Milford Lakeland last Tuesday, then returned home to swallow a 69-50 defeat at the hands of Livonia Churchill Friday. All this happened despite the fact that Western netted just as many field goals as the Eagles and two more than the Chargers.

"It's a continuing pattern," Warrior Coach Ted Felegy lamented after his team had lost its sixth straight game. "We're fouling too much. It's probably due to the fact that we're being beaten consistently inside."

The coach's analysis is obviously correct. Western has had trouble containing rival big men all season, and with the recent exception of Paul Burke — who rang up respective totals of 17 and 23 points last week — has lacked steady offensive punch from the forward and center slots.

The Warriors' inside troubles continued at Lakeland, as the winners went to the line 33 times to Western's 17 and committed just 16 fouls to the losers' 28. The resulting 24-11 free throw differential of 13 points proved to be the deciding margin.

At any rate, Lakeland took advantage of the situation to pull into a five-point lead (36-31) at intermission and stayed in control the rest of the way. The Warriors were still in the game throughout the third quarter — trailing by just 47-41 at the end of it — but committed some crucial defensive lapses in the fourth quarter to fade out of contention.

Mike Xenos and Generous joined Burke in double figures with 16 and 10 points, respectively.

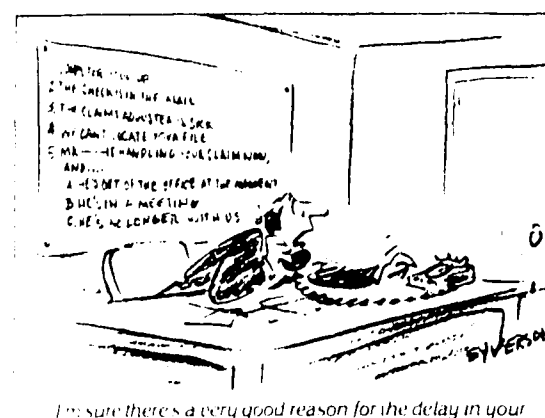

Against Churchill, the story was basically the same except for the fact that the locals played their worst defense in the first half. Still, despite the fact that Western was bothered by a clinging Churchill zone defense, it trailed by just 28-21 at halftime.

The Warriors then fell another point behind at 44-36 after the third quarter before mounting their comeback.

Thanks to an effective press of its own, Western cut the gap to two points with 2½ minutes remaining.

It was at this point that Lady Luck turned away from the home team again, as another Warrior blocking foul resulted in a technical.

Burke's 23 points led Western, while Xenos and Sacco also hit double figures with 17 and 10 points each.

Vikes get the break in District 21 draw

By KEN KOVACS

"I would rather be Walled Lake Central."

That's the way Milford Lakeland basketball coach Lynn Reed responded to the results of the District 21 draw Monday night.

Reed and his towering game crew, which lost to Northville in overtime the first time the two squads met this year, will face the host Mustangs in the opening game of the tournament Tuesday, March 3 at 7 p.m.

Lakeland is 9-5 on the season, but the record is very deceiving. Each of its four losses to Inter-Lakes Conference competitors Pontiac Northern and Waterford Township has been by less than five points.

"We could easily be 14-2 right now," Reed said. "But we have had everyone healthy for only three games all year. If it's not the flu or ankle injuries, it's the measles."

So-foot-6 forward John Hazen, who Reed calls his "nucleus," missed two games and a week of practice due to the measles but should return to the court this week. He leads a front line which averages more than 6-5.

Senior center Dean Daneek (6-7) scored 19 points in the loss to Northville, while forward John Long (6-4) gives the young Lakeland squad even more scoring and rebounding power up front.

Northville coach Tim Lutes knows just well that the Lakeland height could be a real problem for his squad.

"We are giving away about three inches at each forward spot," Lutes said. "We will have to overcome that if we are going to win."

"And they also have the revenge factor on their side," he continued. "They played a real tough ball game against us last time; everything just fell into place for us."

On Northville's side is senior center Dave Ward, the 6-7 leaper who poured in 22 points in the last matchup. Lakeland could not contain the Mustangs' quick big man, and Reed admits that his squad will have to do a better job to beat Northville in this game.

Watching the first matchup intently Tuesday night will be the three other squads scheduled to face their first opponents Thursday night — Milford, Walled Lake Central and Western.

Crosstown rivals Central (10-8) and Western (5-11) will take the court at 6 p.m. for their third matchup of the season, while Milford is slated to face the winner of the Northville-Lakeland contest at 8 p.m. The two squads that emerged victorious Thursday will play at 8 p.m. Saturday for the district championship.

Central has beaten the Warriors by more than 10 points both previous meetings, but the respective coaches — who also happen to be good friends — agree the emotional factor must not be overlooked.

"I look forward to playing Steve (Emert)," Western coach Ted Felegy said following the draw. "It's always a highly emotional game."

"And yet we're not crazy about playing each other again," Emert jested.

Central may be in the best position to win the district tourney, having only to get by Western. And some knowledgeable basketball followers insist that Emert's team is the favorite.

The Vikings, who have won six of their last eight games, are led by junior center Jeff Sewell. The 6-7 pivotman averaging 11.6 points per game, has had some shaky games but is now beginning to play his best ball.

In the last Central victory, forwards Tom Nicklin and Erin Hill combined with Sewell to account for virtually all of the Vikes' 40 points in an upset over Livonia Stevenson.

Though Western and Milford have to be considered longshots, one victory will get them into the finals. Milford (5-11) may have the services of senior center Rob Sharpe, who recently sat out nearly six weeks with mononucleosis. A checkup Friday will determine if the 6-7 pivotman, who was averaging almost 19 points per game previously, will be able to dress.

But even if his big man is able to play, Milford coach Don Palmer doesn't expect he will be much help.

"He lost 15 pounds and hasn't really played since January 23," he stated. "I don't think he'll be ready."

Though Western (3-15) has had its problems this season, senior guard Mike Xenos recently poured in 25 points to lead all scorers in a loss to Northville.

Xenos' deadly shooting ability, combined with occasional inside scoring by senior center Paul Burke (6-1), have produced a dangerous offensive threat several times this season.

Area mat trio qualifies for 'A', 'B' state meet

As things worked out at Michigan's Class A and B regional wrestling competition last weekend, the three local high schools will each be represented at the state meet in Ann Arbor's Crisler Arena this weekend.

Novi's Marc Brinker, Walled Lake Western's Angelo Buttazzoni and Walled Lake Central's John Andrews all will be heading south as a result of their regional performances. Brinker finished a disputed second in his weight class, while Buttazzoni captured his second consecutive regional title after finishing third as a sophomore. Andrews — only a 10th-grader — also went all the way.

By all rights, Brinker should have joined the others in attaining a regional crown. The 167-pounder was down 5-4 to South Lyon's Steve Zachar in the final round, but reversed his foe late in the match and put him on his back, according to Novi Coach Russ Gardner.

"The kid was fighting to get up for the last 30 seconds of the match," an incredulous Gardner explained afterward. "But the official just didn't see it. As you can imagine, I was going crazy out there."

"The referee just totally screwed it up," he continued. "Zachar came over to Marc after it was over and said, 'I know that you won the match.'"

Undaunted, Brinker came back in the consolation round to advance to the number two spot. He had earlier dispatched Algonac's Larry Buhagiar and Ken Peltier of Yale in the first two rounds.

Brinker, who will be advancing to the state meet for the first time this weekend, has enjoyed an outstanding season regardless of the results in Ann Arbor. The senior led the Wildcats in the following categories this season: wins (41); team points (211); near-falls (46); reversals (35); and takedowns (55).

Novi finished ninth as a club last weekend in the 36-team regional field. Kensington Valley Conference rivals Hartland and South Lyon finished one-two.

Meanwhile, Buttazzoni — who finished fifth in the state's "A" meet a year ago — pinned North Farmington's Steve Magary in 2:35 and beat Jim Steiner of Farmington 4-1 to advance. The 167-pound senior currently stands 36-1 this winter.

"The second round will be a determining factor for Angelo," Western Coach Carl McBride predicted of the state action. "Whoever wins there should win the tournament."

McBride almost had another of his wrestlers advance to Ann Arbor, but 198-pound Rich Richardson lost a heart-breaking 2-1 decision to Belleville's Steve Cook in the last 12 seconds. "Rich looked like he had him, but let go of the kid's ankle right at the end and he got on top in time to win," McBride explained. "It was a really, really tough way to go."

As a team, Western finished seventh last weekend, while Belleville took top honors.

Last but not least, Central's Andrews (30-6) moved to the state meet for the first time with a final-round 5-0 win over Plymouth Salem's Jeff Vojtek. The 4-18 98-pounder had earlier pinned Livonia Stevenson's James Cousins in 4:48 before dispatching Pontiac Central's Charles Leonard, 9-0.

"John wrestled really well," Central Coach Randy Hyde opined. "He should have a good chance to finish high this weekend."

'Dog spikers bite 'Cats

One match doth not a week make.

The Novi volleyball team discovered that hard fact of life after beating Ypsilanti Willow Run, 15-4, 13-15, 15-9 last Tuesday. The Wildcats hosted Kensington Valley Conference rival Brighton two nights later, and it was all Bulldogs in back-to-back 15-5 games.

"Brighton beat us pretty badly," first-year spiking Coach Rick Trudeau admitted. "We were never really in the match. I guess it just goes to show you that you can't put too much stock in one win."

Nonetheless, the Wildcats weren't to be denied against Willow Run. The highlight of the triumph was the play of the reserves, who gave the enemy a battle before falling short, 15-13, in game two.

"I was pleased," said the coach, who particularly praised the efforts of Wendy Kaercher, Ruth McCormick and Kathy Pertunnen.

The substitutes played very well. It's not easy to get up after you haven't played much and get right into the swing of things, but they did a pretty good job of it."

The regulars, who were 15-4 victors in game one, then took over in the third game and administered a 15-9 beating on the losers. Novi's junior varsity also enjoyed success against Willow Run, capturing a 16-14, 15-7 decision.

The parent team ended the week with a disappointing finish at Livonia's Schoolcraft Invitational, winning just once in eight games. The Wildcats

Buttazzoni shuns Big 10, opts for Hillsdale College

Michigan State and Michigan's loss is Hillsdale College's gain.

After earlier listing two Big Ten universities as schools that he was considering, Walled Lake Western's Angelo Buttazzoni signed a letter of intent to attend Hillsdale College last week. The Warrior athletic standout, who received a full-ride scholarship (books, tuition and fees), will join former Warrior teammates Rob King and Scott Parrish at Hillsdale.

"The fact that Rob and Scott are there was a factor in my decision," the school's record-breaking football player, wrestler and track standout said Sunday. "Plus, my sister goes to Michigan State, and she said it's too big of a school; the same's true of U of M. Besides, if I change my mind later, I can always transfer."

Buttazzoni explained that he felt he needs "the individual attention" that a smaller university can provide. "I heard that some classes (at the bigger schools) have over 100 students in them," he said.

One drawback of Buttazzoni's intent to attend Hillsdale is that the school has no wrestling program, the senior said. He added that he'll probably run track, where he'll specialize in sprints and the shot-put.

Buttazzoni's major athletic achievements have occurred in football and wrestling at Western. He holds the following grid records for the Warriors: total points in a career (134); total yards rushing, season (1,101); total yards rushing, career (2,460); total yards rushing, game (286); and total yards offense, career (2,468). Buttazzoni also tied a couple of school marks.

Vikes' Weber is state-bound

It was Kerry Weber who led Walled Lake Central's girls' ski team during practically all of the Viking dual meets this winter.

It was also Kerry Weber who finished first in the giant slalom at the divisionals February 5. In addition, Central's ace was the only skier from her school who finishes in the top 10 in both the slalom and giant slalom events at the Mount Holly Invitational last Wednesday.

So guess which Viking is going to the state meet? Right. Weber qualified to ski with Michigan's downhill elite by placing third in the giant slalom at the recent regional competition, which included no less than 82 girl participants. She also finished a solid fifth in the slalom, leading Central's females to a fourth-place team finish (first-place Brighton and runner-up East Lansing qualified as teams for state action; Birmingham Groves were slim for state action).

Otherwise, however, the pickings were slim for Central at the regionals. No other Viking girl came close to duplicating Weber's effort, while Bob Hittenger's 16th-place effort led a boys' team that finished eighth.

"It was disappointing that we didn't do better," Viking Coach Marty Neighbors said afterward. "But from the beginning of the season (when he had to suspend some of his skiers for disciplinary reasons) I kind of knew that it would work out this way. It's too bad, too, because I had high hopes for us."

Both the boys' and girls' teams finished a mediocre 3-3 in dual meets as Weber was the only Viking skier to perform with any consistency. The senior demonstrated that by finishing seventh in the giant slalom and eighth in the slalom competition last Wednesday at Mount Holly after qualifying on the basis of her divisional effort. Andrea Meenahan, Margot Robb and Laurie Gustafson also qualified for Mount Holly, but didn't enjoy any noticeable success there.

The Central stalwart wound up her prep skiing career at Mancelona's Schuss Mountain Monday, but state results weren't available as of press time. They'll appear next week.

Hirsch unhappy despite win

"It was a disappointing win."

That contradiction in terms came from Walled Lake Central Volleyball Coach Cathy Hirsch, who wasn't overly enamored with her team's play during its 15-4, 7-15, 15-7 victory over lowly Pontiac Northern last Wednesday. The veteran mentor said that her team played "very poor volleyball" despite raising its Inter-Lakes Conference record to 5-3.

"Our serving and receiving percentages were awful (74 percent)," Hirsch said after her team had fought off the conference's last-place club. "I don't want to see us play like that ever again."

The only area in which Hirsch seemed satisfied with her team's play came in the spiking department, where Amy Romalis led the way with seven Teammates Wendy Keilty and Patti Fitzgerald added five apiece.

With that sub-par team performance coming on the heels of a lackluster effort at Walled Lake Western, Hirsch was concerned when the Vikings headed to the Livonia Schoolcraft Invitational Saturday. And that concern grew when Central was blown out by Flint Atherton in the tourney's first round, 15-12 and 15-5.

Then, as is usually the case, things got better after the locals hit rock bottom. Plymouth Salem devoured Central to the tune of 15-4 (which in actuality was an 11-0 whitewash, since each team starts with four points under tourney rules) before having to fight for a 15-14 verdict in game two.

"The girls really played well in that second game," Hirsch said. "It was good to see that after the way we'd been playing. We served 100 percent."

Central next dropped a 15-11, 15-13 decision to North Farmington in a match that could have gone either way, then dropped a 15-10, 15-7 affair to Livonia Clarenceville to close out the day.

Despite the fact that her team went 0-6 Saturday, Hirsch didn't seem too unhappy. "We came on pretty well near the end there," she opined. "Here's hoping we've finally got our act together."

The Vikings, currently 7-5 overall, hosted Milford Lakeland Monday (after the News deadline) in an effort to find out Central closes its regular-season schedule at West Bloomfield Friday before heading into post-season play.

Top of the Key

It's been a long climb back to the top of the key, but Northville's Dave Ward has finally made it.

The Mustang center became the number one scorer in the Silver Home Newspapers circulation area last week following his 22-point, 17-rebound performance in Northville's 48-40 conquest of Waterford Mott. Ward, who had first assumed occupancy of the penthouse suite January 14, regained the position after Milford's Rob Sharpe—currently recovering from mononucleosis—failed to meet the current minimum of 13 games played.

Not that the Northville standout has backed into the number one spot, though. Ward has led the Mustangs to their current 7-2 standing atop the Western Six Conference (they're tied with Farmington Harrison) with both his scoring and rebounding prowess. The senior has amassed 225 caroms in 1980-81 for an average of 13.2 per game.

Here's the entire top 10 as we head in to the final week. Remember, a eager must play in at least 15 games (including post-season action) to qualify for the SHN scoring title at the end of the campaign.
