Housing regulations slated for revisions

By KATHY JENNINGS

NOVI — Revisions to Novi's housing compatibility ordinances will be considered for adoption at a joint meeting of the city council and planning board Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Novi Public Library.

Changes to the ordinances have been proposed by the city engineering consultants who have reviewed residential site plans under those provisions since the standards were adopted by the city in April.

The ordinances were enacted by the city in response to citizens' requests for legislation to protect the character of partially-developed subdivisions by prohibiting construction of "dissimilar" homes. The ordinances also are designed to discourage tract housing by prohibiting construction of houses which are too "similar."

As drafted by the city attorney's office, the proposed amendments refine language which has led to conflicting interpretations of the two ordinances.

City Attorney David Fried recently told the council he "would like to see an ordinance adopted Thursday."

One amendment would reduce the number of review parameters used to determine if a proposed house is substantially similar to an existing house. Originally six parameters dealing primarily with building dimensions were used.

But in reviewing site plans it was found those standards allowed a builder to make minor modifications to plans for proposed construction without altering the appearance of the homes. Technically, the look-alike homes met the provisions of the ordinance although they violated the spirit of it.

At the same time, it was found subdivisions of colonial homes could not be constructed because they were all substantially similar under provisions of the ordinance, even though their elevations differed and they looked different from each other.

To avoid those problems four criteria have been proposed.

Houses will be deemed too similar if two of three criteria are found to be the same. Those criteria are the length between outside walls of the building; relative locations of windows, door, porches and garage; and the elevation treatment of the home.

Another amendment deals with the problem of houses in one subdivision being compared to houses in a neighboring subdivision.

The current ordinance allows the size of a home to be determined by comparing it to houses in a neighboring subdivision, even though those homes may be smaller than those in the immediate subdivision.

The new standard requires that, if a house is within a platted subdivision, the measurement of homes in the "surrounding area" shall be within the subdivision. It also provides that if a house is within a Residential Unit Development — where lot sizes have been decreased in return for the provision of

Group home proposed in Meadowbrook Manor

NOVI — An adult foster care home for six mentally retarded men has been proposed at 41386 Llewellyn in the Meadowbrook Manor subdivision.

City officials received formal notice Monday that an application for licensing has been filed with the Michigan Department of Social Services by CB Residential, Incorporated, of Southfield.

All residents within 1,500 feet of the proposed home will be notified of application on file with city.

City Clerk Geraldine Stipp said the city was notified because it is responsible for reviewing the number of existing or proposed facilities within 1,500 of the proposed home.

The home is the same one which once was proposed for licensing as a "family home" for six emotionally disturbed and developmentally disabled adults. Those plans were suspended when the co-directors of the home dropped out of project.

Laurel Berger of Macomb-Oakland Regional Center said the new home is for mentally retarded individuals. "They are not mentally ill. Macomb-Oakland Regional Center is solely responsible for planning mentally retarded — people who learn more slowly," Berger said. "They certainly have no history of criminal behavior or drug use. They have difficulty learning as quickly as others and they need supervision, probably for the rest of their lives. We want to provide a good, positive learning environment for them."

Berger noted the six residents have lived successfully in a foster care home previously, but another home for them must be found due to a breakdown in lease negotiations on the home where the residents currently are placed.

The proposed home will be directed by Colleen Brayton, who has operated the home for the six residents since 1977. Staff members who have worked with the residents in the past also will continue in that capacity, Berger said.

She said the home is expected to be operational by early or mid-September.

An informational meeting regarding the proposed home has been scheduled for August 9 at the Church of the Holy Family, 24505 Meadowbrook, from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

In a related matter, Mayor Robert Schmid has requested an attorney's opinion regarding legal action the city could take against such a facility.

"I'm not happy to see this home going in," Schmid said Monday. "A neighbor is paying $5,000 plus in property taxes and the state is putting in a commercial business in this subdivision."

City Attorney David Fried was directed to prepare an opinion on the matter.

Planners proceed with zoning for Town Center

NOVI — The concept of a zoning district to serve as a "stop-gap" measure and control the types of businesses going into the commercial area around Novi Road and Grand River has been approved by the planning board.

Although ultimate plans for the area have not been completed, planning board members asked Planning Consultant Charles Cairns to proceed with standards for a Town Center district.

The new standards would lead to the rezoning of property in the area from general commercial land uses to a special Town Center designation.

The district has been proposed in order to prohibit a proliferation of businesses which are out of character with the type of development Novi planners anticipate will someday occur in the Town Center.

Planners asked Cairns to draft a proposal for a zoning district which would apply to all the existing road frontages on Novi Road from I-96 to the C&O railroad tracks and on Grand River between the railroad viaduct and the fire station.

Cairns said tentative plans call for the district to coincide with property lines on parcels with frontages on major thoroughfares. But he also is looking at the possibility that land within the confines of what will be the ring road may be designated Town Center.

Cairns told the planners he could support the "stop-gap" district suggested by the board's Town Center subcommittee if a few revisions were made to its proposal.

"I think the district could work for you," Cairns said.

The subcommittee has described the Town Center as a district "intended to permit ... specialty retail, office, high density residential and entertainment-oriented (land) uses. They also identified specific land uses which would be allowed in the Town Center.

Cairns suggested permitting residential units on the upper floors, allowing a mix of land uses with residential on the upper floors.

Additionally, planners agreed that the district should maintain the current building height restrictions of two stories or 35 feet.

Some planners supported increasing the height restrictions to allow taller buildings. However, others maintained that the action would be inappropriate. "We want as much control as we can for a stop-gap measure," said Planner

Hilton plans moving ahead

NOVI — Two more steps toward construction of the Novi Hilton were taken last week when the city council indicated its intent to issue a liquor license to the Orchard Hill Place partnership and approved a footing permit for the building.

"We're ready to proceed with the facility post haste," commented Joseph Gerak of Orchard Hill Place Associates following the council's action.

Gerak showed the council revised plans of a facility they originally learned about approximately 12 months ago.

"Our plans are the same. The hotel will be located on 10.5 acres. It is a 263-room facility with ancillary business and convention facilities."

The 9,000 square-foot meeting center includes 22 meeting rooms and a 100-seat amphitheater with complete audiovisual facilities. Gerak said the business center is geared for corporate regional meetings — "anyone needing total communications."

Ultimate plans for the hotel also include an additional 154 rooms.

Gerak reported that two buildings are planned — a hotel and conference center to be built simultaneously.

As plans for the hotel proceed, he added, other work at Orchard Hill Place at Eight Mile and Haggerty Road have moved ahead.

"The Norris and Hewlett Packard buildings have been added. Orchard Hill Place Drive has been constructed. The retention pond is complete and will be integrated into the plans for the entire facility," he reported.

Gerak also stated that even officials at Hilton headquarters are excited about the proposed hotel.

"They've looked at our plans and said

Bruce Sharp fund raiser set

NOVI — Novi is gearing up for one of the biggest fund-raisers ever held in the community.

Sponsored by Soft Shine Auto Wash, Novi merchants and WMJC radio, the benefit for the Bruce Sharp Liver Fund will be held August 12-14 at Soft Shine on Novi Road at Grand River.

"This has gotten bigger than we ever expected," said Soft Shine Manager and benefit organizer Rod Fergerson. "We have the entire Novi community behind us. This is the biggest thing Novi has done in a long time. It just keeps snowballing."

What started as a benefit has grown into a major fund raiser.

"I saw a sign that said 'Car Wash for Bruce Sharp.' I stopped and saw they were doing 10 cars an hour and we were doing 80 to 90. It just didn't seem justified," Fergerson said. So he proceeded to set up the fund raiser.

"It's just gone bananas," Fergerson said.

The fund-raiser will feature car washes, prizes, refreshments, pony rides, a raffle on Sunday and athletes from the Detroit Tigers, Pistons and possibly the Red Wings. A softball tournament originally planned has been cancelled due to community playoffs scheduled for that weekend.

All donations will be turned over to the Bruce Sharp Liver Fund. Bruce Sharp is a two-year-old West Bloomfield boy who needs a liver transplant. The Sharp family will be on hand during the weekend event.

The auto wash hours will be Friday from noon to 10 p.m., Saturday from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The raffle will take place at 3 p.m. Sunday. The grand prize is a 1983 Chevrolet Cavalier donated by Dick Morris Chevrolet in Walked Lake. Raffle tickets will be $5 each.

"We're hoping to sell about 20,000 raffle tickets. All that money will be turned over to the fund," said Fergerson. Among the Tigers who have committed to attend are Jack Morris, Dan Petry and Bill Fahey, according to Fergerson. A tent will be set up for autograph seekers as well as for refreshments and food. Tigers tentatively are expected to be on hand from 10 a.m. to noon.

Among the other prizes being offered will be two trips to Toronto and a weekend at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi.

A donation charge for the car wash hasn't been set yet, said Fergerson, but individuals wishing to purchase a wash ticket in advance can do so through Soft Shine or local merchants. All Soft Shine wash services will be available and individuals can purchase anything from a plain wash to a complete wash and wax. Raffle tickets are available in advance as are the wash tickets.

"If people buy a wash ticket in advance they can use it on any day they want, it doesn't have to be used that weekend," said Fergerson. "People don't have to have their car washed that weekend just as long as they get a ticket ahead of time." All proceeds from the wash tickets will be donated to the Sharp fund.

Fergerson said the fund-raising goal is $200,000. "We're already getting

Longwish overcomes handicap to participate in national games

By KEN VOYLES

NOVI — Determination can be read in his bright, clear eyes — determination not to allow the crippling effects of an unnamed disease stop him from achieving his lifelong dreams of winning in athletic competition and playing drums in a band.

His name is Kristopher Longwish and he's in Fort Worth, Texas, this week, representing Michigan in the National Cerebral Palsy Games at Texas Christian University.

Kris is both athlete and musician. The 17-year-old attends the Farmington Center, a life career center for physically disabled individuals that teaches adaptive skills. He lives with his mother, Karl Kitchens, and family in Novi.

Last Friday, Kris achieved his first dream when he played in a summer concert as a part of the Summer Band School run by Craig Strain at Novi High School. Later that day he left for Texas and his other dream.

"I was so shocked when I received the invitation letter. I said, 'All right, I'm going to Texas,'" said Kris. "I like to compete because I want to keep myself busy and I really like track a lot."

Kris doesn't have cerebral palsy, but he has been confined to a wheelchair for his entire life. He's had 13 major operations in his 17 years.

"It's definitely his own disease — one of a kind," said Kitchens. Her son competes with The Mighty Oaks team from Oakland County because cerebral palsy is the nearest disease to his own, a disease that affects his motor skills.

In May, Kris qualified for the games when he competed in the state regional tournament at Eastern Michigan University held by the Michigan Cerebral Palsy Association. He competed in club throw, rifle, archery, bowling and the 800-meter race.

Although disqualified in the club throw, he went on to win the rifle, archery and bowling events in his classification. He also finished third in the 800-meter race.

Kris's efforts were then calculated in comparison to scores from other regions. The best finishers in each event were invited to this week's competition in Texas.

"I thought I would make it for bowling or archery, but it's the 800-meter race — that's a tough event," said Kris. "At Eastern I thought I just had to go around once, but it was twice."

After coming to a stop Kris regained his speed in that race and just missed finishing second when he stopped at what he thought was the finish line. "It was so hot and Kris didn't have a racing chair like a lot of the racers and yet he did so well," said Karl Kitchens. "We didn't know he'd make it to the national games until we saw the letter addressed to him."

"They're just proud of me that I made it. I earned it," said Kris.

Kris first started racing a little more than a year ago. He competed twice in Grand Rapids races and finished second on both occasions. He will be among over 1,000 cerebral palsy athletes from across the country converging on Fort Worth.

"I hope I can use a racing chair in Texas. It sure would help a lot," Kris said. His wheelchair is markedly different from racing wheelchairs, which cost over $2,000.

Racing chairs are lighter than normal wheelchairs, with foot rests and special arm rests. The big wheels on the chair are slanted to make for easier racing.

When Kris races he wears heavy-duty work gloves and a headband. He also tapes both wrists and his leg brace. To move he uses his arms and feet for propulsion.

"Even with gloves I still get my hands all cut up," he said.

Kris's family and friends made the trip to Texas possible by raising the $300 needed. One woman, Mary Ann Geoffrey of Dearborn Heights, who works for Shaklee, a vitamin distributor, "really made this trip possible," according to Kris's mother.

"When she found out he was going, she spread the word and we started receiving these beautiful letters with donations and words of encouragement and caring."

Kris works out in his subdivision, racing up and down the sidewalks. He also plays basketball and hockey at the Farmington Center.

"I used to work out a lot more, but now I hardly get a chance so many things are happening at once," Kris said. "I like to push myself at different speeds around the subdivision."

Although his disease has never been identified, it was originally diagnosed as cerebral palsy. Cerebral palsy occurs when too little oxygen reaches the brain.

As for the drums, Kris plays the snare. "He's just learning," said Kitchens. "It's good therapy for his hands."

Craig Strain really deserves credit for taking Kris into the summer program — it's a first I think," she added. There is also a chance Kris will be playing band for Novi High this fall. If so, it would be a dream come true for the youth.

Besides wheelchair-racing and playing his drums, Kris loves listening to rock-and-roll, playing cards and working on an computer. His constant companion is his cat Struggle.

"Kris needs to meet people. He can get only so far with his family. He needs people who can offer him a challenge. He's such a high achiever, it's sad to see him held back," said his mother. "Kris wants more from life."

Like the disease that has confined him to a wheelchair, Kris is a one-of-a-kind athlete.

NOVI — Removing buildings in a blighted area could be an expensive undertaking, City Attorney David Fried recently cautioned the city council.

In response to an inquiry from Mayor Robert Schmid, Fried researched laws regarding condemnation of property in a blighted area.

Condemnation has been proposed as a method of improving the property around the Grand River/Novi Road intersection, which is proposed on the city master plan as the Town Center Area.

Some believe the dilapidated condition of existing buildings, especially the boarded-up shacks visible from the east-bound exit ramp off I-96 are holding back the redevelopment of the property. It has been suggested that the area be declared blighted and the property acquired by the city.

Fried told the council that the law giving a community authority to take such action requires that the city acquire the property.

"It's a policy question of whether the city wants to proceed along those lines, but I really don't think you want to get involved in it," Fried said.

To condemn property in a blighted area the city must first establish a committee of 12 to 24 residents or businessmen from the affected area who would be responsible for defining a rehabilitation program, Fried said.

"This is an involved, expensive procedure and I can't picture it being done to remove three or four blighted buildings," he added.

Fried also said the boarded-up houses cannot be torn down under provisions of state law or the city's regulations, because they are properly boarded up.

Mayor Robert Schmid suggested that demolishing the building may be the key to development of the Town Center Area.

"If we clear it up, we may attract potential purchasers," Schmid suggested. "I'm going to take up this case. If we suggest we're going to buy the property it may cause some concern."

Fried said the city can't act on the matter "without substantial financial contribution."

"There should be some way to remove buildings that will never be used," Schmid said.

"You can't do it unless you want to pay for the property," Fried said.

Fried suggested he could discuss the possibility that the buildings be torn down with their owner, Russell Sutton.

Scouts plan car wash to assist Bruce Sharp

NOVI — Novi Boy Scout Troop 407 will hold a car wash this Saturday to benefit the Bruce Sharp Liver Fund.

The cost of a car wash has been set at $2. Members of the troop have been canvassing neighborhoods to sell car wash tickets.

Scoutmaster Gary Skodack said the car wash has been scheduled to raise funds for Bruce Sharp, a 2½-year-old West Bloomfield youth who is in need of a liver transplant. Both of Bruce's parents work in Novi.

Wixom residents oppose home

By LEANNE ROGERS

WIXOM — A public meeting to discuss adult foster care homes will be held tonight (Wednesday) at Wixom City Hall. State officials are expected to attend.

The meeting was arranged by Mayor Lillian Spencer in response to a request from Potter Road residents, who attended last week's council meeting. About eight residents were present to protest placement for an adult foster care home on Potter Road.

Much of the discussion by residents centered on complaints about the unresponsiveness of city and state officials, along with rumors about problems with foster care homes in other communities.

The Potter Road site had been among three sites designated by the city's six-member community placement committee. The home will be constructed barrier-free for the handicapped and house up to six developmentally disabled persons placed by the Macomb Oakland Regional Center.

Residents charged they had not been fairly represented by the committee or allowed input in the site selection. Residents charged they had not been informed about the committee and their area, Birch Park Subdivision was not represented.

"We had about 150 people present at a public meeting on foster care and the mayor asked for volunteers," said Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek. "We didn't get six volunteers for the committee so the mayor called one person. One of the members is from the Birch Park subdivision."

The committee was specifically established with a volunteer membership. Bonczek said, so the recommended sites would not be the result of a directed action by the mayor or council.

The committee worked closely with MORC while reviewing sites within the city, he added.

Joe Culyer, who lives next to the proposed foster care site, said the committee had not cataloged possible sites in the city. "They just picked a site as they were driving by," he added.

Another resident, Art Woodke, said "No one wants to help us. The council can do something. Why didn't the committee ask us about the site? This just isn't right."

Responding to the comments, Spencer said her office had provided residents with all the information about the foster care home which was available. "The sites recommended were presented to the planning commission and the city council," she added.

Council Member Wayne Glessner said if residents were looking for fairness they would not find it in the city's foster care program. "There is a master-slave relationship in community placement and we have no say about it," he commented. "The legislature is responsible. We can't change the law."

Despite Bonczek's comments that the committee had worked closely with MORC to designate foster care sites, Glessner charged MORC had refused to cooperate with the city.

"The residents asked if the city could take legal action to halt the foster care home. Previously the city had unsuccessfully attempted to halt a foster care home on Shelby Road. The site was later sold to another buyer and the home was not built."

"There are no sidewalks out there and the site is too close to the lake. There are going to be four people in wheelchairs," said Woodke. "These people won't even know where they are."

Police still search for missing citizen

WALLED LAKE — Police and family members have yet to find any trace of 72-year-old Richard Green, who wandered from his Walled Lake home July 3 and has been missing ever since. Green was last seen around 5 p.m. July 3 on South Commerce Road, where he spoke briefly with Officer John Woychowski and then proceeded down Pontiac Trail toward Mercer Beach.

"We're still continuing our search," said Sergeant Roger Cole, noting that the department makes daily calls to surrounding hospitals. A notice describing Green has been entered in the police Lein, a machine that transmits messages to police departments throughout several states.

"If he turned up in Kentucky, Indiana or Ohio, (police in those areas) would probably get our (Lein) entry on his being missing," explained Cole.

Green is 5'7" tall, weighs 140 pounds and suffers from Alzheimer disease (hardening of the arteries). When last seen he was wearing brown trousers, a white T-shirt and brown shoes.

Anyone with information that may help police locate Green should contact the Walled Lake station at 624-3111.

Concerts continue

WALLED LAKE — The second in this year's "Music in Motion" series is slated for next Monday and will feature Shotgun Willie's Country Band.

The popular summer concert series sponsored by the Walled Lake Parks and Recreation Department is now in its third consecutive year. The 1983 series was kicked off last Monday by Joe Chila's Fascinat'n Rhythm.

Concerts are held Monday nights behind the Walled Lake Municipal Offices and are offered free of charge to the public, thanks to the Pontiac Music Federation. The concert begins at 7 p.m. and runs to 11 p.m.

Dick Murphy's Big Band Sound will recall the era of Glenn Miller and the Dorsey Brothers when the 1983 "Music in Motion" series concludes on Monday, August 15.

Everyone's invited to attend the free concerts. People are encouraged to bring their own chairs and blankets.

Hospital may threaten local water sources

By LEANNE ROGERS

COMMERCIAL — Uncertainty about potential groundwater contamination may lead to denial of the Huron River Hospital's sewage discharge permit. State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) officials have withdrawn a public hearing notice to obtain public comments on the permit application.

"We were going to have the public notice, but now we may take a notice of intent to deny to the commission," said Wayne Denniston, permit section chief for the groundwater quality division. "We are waiting for a review from the environmental enforcement division now."

The concern being examined by the DNR is over the safe level of some substances included in the discharge. Formaldehyde and a couple of items have safe levels below our ability to detect them," said Denniston. "Our concern is that we may not be able to assure that downgradient wells would be protected."

No final decision has been reached, however, Denniston added, since the environmental enforcement division is still reviewing the matter.

"Viruses are another concern. Obviously you don't have a well population at the hospital. If the hospital is directly on the Huron River, surface water, it might not be a problem," said Denniston. "But with aquifers and wells, we might not be able to guarantee the wells are protected."

"If the hospital is directly on the Huron River, surface water, it might not be a problem. But with aquifers and wells, we might not be able to guarantee the wells are protected."

— Wayne Denniston, DNR permit chief

The aquifer contamination concerns not only existing residential development but also potential development. Denniston said 10 acres owned by the hospital, located on the north side of Sleeth Road, already have been platted for residential development.

"There is nothing on the property now, but when it is developed the homes would be within 500-700 feet of the hospital," commented Denniston. "Those homes could be built and probably need wells. We aren't sure yet whether we could protect those wells. A final decision hasn't been made."

The sewage treatment plant proposed for the hospital is considered an advanced secondary treatment system. Under the proposal, the sewage would undergo chemical treatment in several stages.

Wastewater from the plant would be transmitted to leaching beds, built with a sand base and a concrete ring. The wastewater would filter through the leaching beds into the ground, to a nearby marsh and eventually to bodies of water.

A number of agencies were required height variance for the project and a special use permit from Commerce Township, contingent on meeting state and other local requirements.

The 153-bed hospital, located on 40 acres on the north side of Commerce Road near Sleeth Road, has an underground chemical treatment in several stages.

Walled Lake developer Roy Mercer explains his plans for the Foster Farm property

Condo proposal attracts visitors to Foster Farm

By PATRICIA N. BOWLING

WALLED LAKE — "No one can accuse us of not trying to explain what we're up to," said Roy Mercer in a tired, slightly hoarse voice Monday. The developer plodded back and forth across the Foster Farm pastures Sunday, July 31, pointing out where his first condominiums might be built, displaying preliminary site plans and floor plans, and fielding questions and comments, some of them hostile.

With evangelical zeal Mercer has met with all who would listen in a month-long campaign to persuade the community to support his proposed Foster Farm condominium project.

"I know in my heart what I'm doing would be the best possible thing for Walled Lake," he says with Bible-belt fervor. But before his project plans can be considered, the Walled Lake Planning Commission and City Council must look favorably on a proposed new zoning district that would permit construction of Mercer's 42-foot-high condominiums.

Sunday's open house, attended by roughly 200 residents, was intended to "convert" as many people as possible before the planning commission's public hearing Tuesday, August 9, at which the commissioners will consider recommending adoption of the new zoning, called Residential Multiple-3 (RM-3).

"We thought there should have been a lot more people there," said Mercer after Sunday's open house. "But there were quite a few good things that happened."

Mercer claims to have "turned a few hearts" throughout the afternoon. There were yellow ribbons tied 42 feet up in the branches of an oak tree to demonstrate the height of the proposed condominiums. If that wasn't enough to convince a skeptical neighbor that the buildings planned are not "high rises," Mercer offered a quick trip straight up about 42 feet in an hot air balloon.

But Janet Burks, an adjacent homeowner said, "We really don't care about the buildings. What we're concerned about is our water and sewer rates and the traffic. The traffic control

"I think I was able to turn some very critical people around."

(problem) is the biggest concern." While Mercer claims profits from his first buildings will go toward the widening of Pontiac Trail, Burks said it already takes 15 to 20 minutes for their neighbors on Spring Park to get out of the subdivision. Any additional traffic in the area will make matters worse, she said.

"If they're nice-looking buildings, I won't mind looking out and seeing people. But the traffic control is what we're concerned about."

Another adjacent property owner, Jim Maher of Bolton Street, said he had not yet made a decision about Mercer's project proposal.

"We're here to see. I'd like to see the cows and horses stay out here. But those days and places are gone. You've got to make places for people to live."

Two city council members, William Roberts and Linda Ackley, attended the open house.

"I know I'll be having to make a decision

Public opinion sought on new zoning

WALLED LAKE — Residents will be invited to voice their opinions on a proposed new zoning district at next week's Tuesday, August 9, plan commission meeting.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held at Walled Lake City Hall, 1499 East West Maple.

The proposed new district, called residential multiple-3 (RM-3), would permit construction of apartments or condominiums up to 40 feet high.

Walled Lake developer Roy Mercer initiated consideration of the RM-3 district. The new zoning, if applied to Mercer's Foster Farm property, would allow him to develop five story, 55-foot-high condominiums. "I have a little trouble with the 55 feet," said Plan Commission President Kenneth Tucker. "I think that's a little more than the community will stand for."

Although Tucker expressed reservations about the proposed height and potential traffic problems on Pontiac Trail, he said he does not oppose the concept of Mercer's project.

"I don't think it will hurt the community one bit."

In addition to hearing input from community members, plan commissioners anticipate additional information from Planning Consultant Ted Kilroy at the August 9 meeting. Kilroy is expected to report on the possible impact of an RM-3 development on the city's water and sewer systems.

Commissioner Gail Andersen said those reports will determine her opinion on the RM-3 zoning.

"Right now I'm 50/50. I'm not totally opposed. I'm not totally in favor," she said. Andersen said she toured the Foster Farm property with Mercer and was impressed with some of his ideas for the development, particularly ways to employ local residents in building and grounds maintenance.

"It's a nice looking project. But we still have to consider how it will affect the local residents and how it will affect the community in the future," she said. "I probably won't make up my mind until the meeting, when I hear more public comments."

Commissioner Kaaren Peters said she will look at how the RM-3 zone will affect the city's master plan. A project the size of Mercer's, when complete, could bring as many as 2,000 additional people to Walled Lake, she speculated.

"Walled Lake has a little more than 4,000 people now. With 2,000 additional, there would be about a third more people in Walled Lake as there are now."

Negotiations confuse board, district's support personnel

By PATRICIA N. BOWLING

WALLED LAKE — Negotiation attempts with six of the school district's bargaining groups have "gotten a little silly," School Board Spokesperson Rita Thomas said this week.

The six groups, including custodians, foremen, maintenance, mechanics, heat cooks and the Walled Lake Cafeteria Association are attempting to gain recognition as one unified bargaining group. The six groups include more than 150 employees.

In October each group individually voted to affiliate with the Michigan Educational Support Personnel Association (MESPA), said MESPA Representative Karen Filar. Subsequently, the groups voted in March to merge as one bargaining group under MESPA.

But according to Thomas, the merger constitutes a new union affiliation, which is not allowed under the employees' contracts until the contract is expired.

"They are trying to come in the back door. There's a lot of game playing going on by MESPA," said Thomas, noting that only two or three items, including wages, are being negotiated with the employees this summer. The six contracts do not expire until next year.

But Filar maintains the action is not a new union affiliation. "They are able to (merge unions) anytime during the contract year," she said, adding that if the groups had wanted to change from their MESPA affiliation, only then would they have to wait until the contracts expire next year.

Both Filar and Thomas admit to confusion in correspondence between the six employee groups and the administration.

Filar identifies herself as the MESPA agent representing the six Walled Lake school employee groups. She said the administration also has recognized her in that capacity on an informal level.

Thomas, however, said the school board in negotiations with these groups will recognize Filar as their spokesperson but not as an agent of MESPA. "That's really splitting hairs. I think they're trying to play a legal game with us," said Filar.

The six employee groups have filed a petition with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) to be recognized as one bargaining group. At a hearing Thursday, August 11, legal representatives for both the school board and the six employee groups will meet with MERC officials to determine if the six groups must bargain their contracts separately this year, or bargain as a unified group.

"They will be recognized (as one bargaining group)," said Filar. "It might not be until September or October, but they will be recognized."

Describing MESPA as "the ugly step-sister of the MEA (Michigan Education Association)," Thomas said the action of the six employee groups in association with MESPA is a "bargaining tactic" designed to influence the ongoing teacher negotiations.

Novi council holds line on senior taxi cab fares

NOVI — The saying is that you can't get something for nothing. But cab fares for senior citizens will continue to be nearly that inexpensive as a result of recent action by the city council.

Council members decided not to increase the $1 taxi cab fare offered to Novi seniors, even though the cost to the city for the program is increasing.

After reviewing a request from Community Cab Company to increase its senior citizen rate to $5, council members decided to grant the rate increase without passing the cost on to seniors who use the service.

Instead of raising rates for seniors, the city will increase its subsidy of cab fares from $2 to $4.

Novi receives funds for the senior cab service program through the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) municipal credits program. Novi is eligible for $19,530 this year.

Council members decided Monday to request that $15,600 be allocated for cab service subsidies, while $3,930 will be earmarked for chartered buses used by the Novi Parks and Recreation Department.

A proposed alternative was to raise the cab rate for seniors and handicapped individuals from $1 to $2 and spend more money on the chartered buses for Parks and Recreation programs.

Concerned that the $2 fare for seniors would bring the cost of a round trip to $4, council members decided against that alternative.

Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver told the council that he believes the rate increase for the cab company is justified based on a review of rates in surrounding communities.

"Their (the cab company's) arguments for the rate increase are valid. And the practical consideration is it would be difficult for us to spend these funds otherwise. We couldn't spend it on charter bus service unless we artificially created a demand through Parks and Recreation."

"There is credence in the argument that this service has added costs beyond the normal cab service," Klaver continued. "They assist loading and unloading handicapped passengers and there is extra cost and time involved."

Klaver said the cab company originally became involved in the service as a public relations program, but the number of people using it has exceeded expectations.

The number of runs has increased from 2,680 one year ago to an anticipated 3,600 runs this year.

"At that level it's their position that this must be a self-supporting program," Klaver said. "We've proposed a $1 increase in user cost and subsidy in order to split the difference with the people using the service. With the amount of money available we feel this is the best utilization of the money. We can maintain the service at an increased cost, but the company is not willing or able to participate for less than a $5 flat rate."

Council members objected to raising the rate currently charged to seniors. "I have a strong feeling we should hold the line on these rates," Mayor Robert Schmidt said.

City Manager Edward Kriewall indicated the $1 fare is so low that some people may be taking advantage of it. Klaver agreed, saying there has been a "major increase in the outlying areas — from there to the senior citizens center and to Twelve Oaks." Reflecting on a meeting last year in which a large number of seniors asked the council to maintain the cab subsidy program, Schmidt said he thinks "this $1 is very important to many of those people. I think this is a very important service."

Council members subsequently agreed to reduce the amount of SEMTA funding to Parks and Recreation's chartered buses and reallocate it to the cab service.

Council members voted 6-0 to approve the request for funding from SEMTA, including the $4 cab fare subsidy and the $3,930 for chartered buses.

Holman resigns post

Rick Holman

WIXOM — The city will be losing its treasurer with the resignation of Richard Holman, who has been appointed Independence Township clerk. Mayor Lillian Spencer has accepted Holman's resignation and under the city charter will appoint his successor.

The Independence Township Board appointed Holman treasurer on Thursday, July 26, after interviewing 24 candidates. Previous clerk Christopher Rose resigned July 1 to accept a town manager post in New Hampshire, according to Supervisor James Smith.

A city employee since February, 1980, Holman said he applied for the township position after reading about Rose's resignation in a local newspaper.

"I just decided to apply. I spoke with Chris (Rose) before he left and then had one interview with the city council," Holman said, adding he has resided in the township for five years.

Holman's experience in city government and educational background were deciding factors in his appointment, according to Smith. "His experience and

Novi Schools to consider proficiency standards

NOVI — Proficiency standards in reading and arithmetic for all grades should be established by 1985, a study committee told the school board last week.

The seven-member committee, chaired by Trustee Don Daley, was appointed in October, 1981, to review and update the board's policy manual. Two new sections, one on proficiency standards and a second on what parents should do if they object to materials being used in the classroom were proposed.

In addition, the committee recommended revising several sections of the policy manual and deleting one.

The administration currently is working on proficiency standards in reading and math. Superintendent Robert Piwko said the proficiency tests, which would be given three times (early elementary, middle school and high school) have not yet been selected.

The committee also suggested that remedial classes should be developed for students whose scores fall below 70 percent on the proficiency tests. Students eventually would have to pass the "secondary level" test before graduating, Piwko noted.

In reading, high school students should be able to define commonly used words, identify main ideas in a paragraph, and identify a statement as fact or opinion, the committee suggested.

In math, the committee said a high school student should be able to demonstrate the ability to recognize numbers, compute with fractions and decimals, and carry out estimates.

In addition to proficiency standards, the committee recommended another new section for the board's policy manual.

Recognizing that a member of the school community may, on occasion, object to the use of certain materials in classroom instruction, the committee recommended a "grievance" procedure for such complaints.

First the objection should be communicated to the building principal, who has the first responsibility for attempting to resolve the issue, Piwko explained.

If the complaint cannot be resolved by the principal, the superintendent is to be notified. If the superintendent cannot resolve the issue, a committee is to be appointed within two weeks to review the matter.

The committee would be composed of two parents, two teachers, two students (if secondary), a representative of the superintendent's office, an administrator and a librarian.

The challenged materials should not be withdrawn from the classroom until the committee's recommendation has been made. A majority vote of the committee will determine its recommendation to the superintendent, who in turn will make the final decision.

The individual may appeal the superintendent's decision to the school board, but the board's decision would be final, the policy review committee decided.

Most policy revisions suggested by the review committee involved streamlining language. "The committee felt the policy statement should not include rules and regulations on how the policy should be implemented," Piwko explained.

But in one case, the school board considered adding some rules to the policy statement.

"We have some teachers who abuse this," said Trustee Robert Schram of the school policy on homework.

Trustee Gilbert Henderson concurred and suggested the board add to its policy a guideline specifying a maximum number of homework hours per week for each grade level.

"Students need some basis of appeal," said Henderson. "Teachers join unions to protect against the number of hours worked. Some students put in 12 hours at school before looking at homework. The adult world won't put up with that."

Trustee Sharon Pelchat suggested the policy manual also should state that homework must be returned to students with some indication it has been checked. "A lot of times (students) don't get the papers back," she claimed.

"I think it would be an insult to teachers to have a requirement for passing back papers in the board's policy book," Daly responded. She also noted that for as many parents that complain their student is getting too much homework, there are others complaining about not enough homework.

The two new sections and other revised sections will be considered for approval at the board's Thursday, August 4, meeting. Additional revisions, including the policy on school field trips, are yet to be presented.

Program attempts to improve reading

What's the most important thing a child learns in school?

Most educators believe that reading is the most important skill a child will ever master.

To help motivate children learn how to read a special program about PATH (Parents and Teachers Helping) will be presented Thursday, August 11, at the Novi Public Library. The library is located on Ten Mile at the corner of Taft Road.

Co-sponsored by the Novi PTO, Interscholastic Council and the Novi Public Library, the program will be presented at 1 p.m. and again at 7 p.m.

Ed Currie, a PATH consultant, will show a 30-minute film and explain how the program works at home and with the schools. Materials will be available. Currie noted that teachers are often asked about ways in which parents can help their children learn to read.

"PATH is one of those ways," he said.

"PATH has been used successfully by students, parents and schools throughout the United States for more than a year," reported Currie.

"Outstanding results continue to be reported by those families involved."

Currie said families using the program have seen the difference which PATH has had on their children's attitudes toward reading.

Special Projects Director Rita Traynor of the Novi Public Schools urged all parents interested in their children's ability to read to attend either the 1 p.m. or 7 p.m. programs at the library. The programs are free of charge.

Swallow chosen for school post

By PATRICIA N. BOWLING

NOVI — John Swallow, assistant principal at Novi Middle School South, was named director of special services by the school board Thursday, July 28.

The position includes administration of the district's special education and vocational education departments.

"He has a more extensive background (with special education programs and agencies in the area) than some of the candidates we looked at as finalists for a special education director," Superintendent Robert Piwko told the school board.

The board approved Piwko's recommendation of Swallow in a unanimous decision. Trustee Norman Miller was absent.

Swallow, 45, replaces Helen Ditzhazy, who resigned in June after accepting a position as assistant superintendent with the Jackson School District.

Swallow's appointment marks the reorganization of responsibilities in the district's administrative office. Ditzhazy's former position, administrative assistant for curriculum, has been eliminated. In its place, the position of special services director has been created to include special education and vocational education.

In addition to being assistant principal at Middle School South, Swallow formerly was Novi's director of vocational education. He will continue to administer this department in his new assignment, thereby eliminating the vocational education director's position.

Curriculum studies, which were directed by Ditzhazy, now will be handled jointly by Swallow and Director of Special Programs Rita Traynor, Piwko explained.

The end result of changes in administrative roles is the elimination of one central office position, Assistant Superintendent William Barr said.

Swallow, who is certified to teach emotionally impaired students, brings to the special education department 10 years experience from Hawthorn Center, an institution for emotionally disturbed children in Northville. He was responsible for the industrial education and pre-vocational programs at Hawthorn.

Because of his dual interest in special education and vocational programs, Swallow said he was not interested in applying for the special education director's position when it opened last winter.

When Ditzhazy's position opened in June, Swallow said he became excited about the possibility of combining the areas of special and vocational education.

"Helen Ditzhazy had a tremendous number of responsibilities," noted Swallow. "Hopefully the responsibilities have (now) been limited to the point where I have (an ample) amount of time to meet the needs of special education."

His first priority in assuming administration of the special education department is to re-establish good communication with parents of special education students, Swallow said.

When the administration postponed hiring a special education director, many parents claimed the program would suffer. But, says Swallow, the program was already firmly in place and services were not interrupted during Ditzhazy's administration of the department.

"Hopefully the long-term concerns (of parents) will be alleviated with somebody plugged back into that director's position," he said.

Debbie Fox, a parent of a special education student, said she was pleased to hear of Swallow's background in special education. Fox was one of several parents who filed a complaint with the Oakland Intermediate School District and the Michigan Department of Education following the board's decision to delay hiring a special education director.

Swallow, who taught for 10 years in Redford Union Schools prior to working at Hawthorn Center, said he is excited about his new position, but will leave Middle School South with mixed feelings.

"The vibrant and exciting middle school environment tends to keep one young," he mused. "Hopefully I'll not lose the student contact I so enjoy."

Board members Sharon Pelchat, Gilbert Henderson and Robert Schram were appointed to a committee to interview candidates to replace Swallow at Middle School South.

Swallow's second priority in special education is to develop a plan for implementing the recommendations forwarded by the committee on special education student needs. The committee reported to the board in June, advising better communication between general education and special education teachers, improved scheduling of special education students in general education classes, and an effort toward better understanding of special education students by general education students.

Prints or Slides?

The least expensive photography, shot for shot, is with slide film. Processing costs less and the film is usually less expensive.

When you want a few prints or enlargements from slides, go to a quality processor for better reproduction, not cold-toned or contrasty. The best slides for getting prints are the color prints in the same slide. The process of going from slide to print builds up a lot of contrast, which makes for less attractive prints.

Suppose you really like color prints better—hate getting out the projector, putting slides in trays and all that fuss. In that case, prints from color negatives are better for you. You can count on getting pretty good snaps from even a low-cost processor. The big surprise is that you can have a slide made from a negative, and that slide can look even better than the original slide, thanks to the control built into the negative-to-positive process.

State selects Cox for teaching award

WALLED LAKE — A Walled Lake Central teacher has been selected as one of Michigan's nominees for the first annual Presidential Award for Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching.

Dr. Philip L. Cox, who teaches mathematics at Walled Lake Central, is one of four teachers nominated for the awards by the State Board of Education.

Cox and Patricia Frazee of Ann Arbor Huron High School are Michigan's nominees for the national mathematics awards. The Michigan nominees for the science awards are Ferne Ellis of Addison High School in Lenawee County and Walter Scheider of Ann Arbor Huron High School.

Cox, who has taught in the Walled Lake Schools for the past 12 years, said Monday that he was "extremely pleased" to receive the nomination.

"Michigan has a lot of very strong classroom teachers, but I felt I had a chance to be nominated because I've been involved in a lot of activities," he said.

"Michigan has more than its fair share of extremely good mathematics teachers so it's a real honor to have received the nomination."

Cox has been an educator for the past 21 years. Before coming to Walled Lake Central 12 years ago, he worked as a junior high school teacher in Ann Arbor, and also worked for Oakland Schools on a federally-funded curriculum writing project. He also worked at the Fort Custer Job Corps Center in Battle Creek.

Cox is the author of a textbook, "Geometry in Easy Steps — An Informal Approach," which is used in the applied geometry courses at Central.

Although he has taught virtually all the mathematics courses offered at Central over the past 12 years, Cox primarily has taught accelerated courses in recent years, including ninth grade algebra and senior analysis.

Intern carries on family tradition

By LEANNE ROGERS

WIXOM — Having a father who has spent many years working in municipal government apparently had a lasting impact on Stephen Penn, Wixom's city manager intern.

"My father Harold Penn was the city engineer in Northville for years and is the assessor now," commented Penn. "I was around city hall all the time. That's how I got interested in government."

A 1973 graduate of Northville High School, Penn received a bachelor's degree in public administration from Eastern Michigan University and currently is working on a master's degree in the same field.

Under the political science department program, students receive three credits for professional internships. "The university has cities where they place interns. I approached some other cities," said Penn. "Some of them fell through or they didn't want someone working for free. I couldn't believe it."

Penn's plans to begin an internship in April fell through when he was unable to find a position. He started working in Wixom on July 5. "I contacted (Mayor) Assistant Steve Bonczek and got the position here," Penn added. "Everyone here seems to know what they're doing. That's the way I would like to be."

Since he began working in Wixom, Penn said he has spent most of his time preparing exhibits for upcoming arbitration meetings to obtain a contract with city police officers.

"I am also supposed to be working on the downtown revitalization project in the future," commented Penn, who will work through August 31.

During his college studies, Penn said he has not really specialized on particular aspects of city management. "My studies have been pretty general," he added. "I think I'd be pretty strong in planning based on what I have done. I really haven't planned anything yet."

Penn expects to finish work on his masters degree in December, but said on-the-job experience is important. "I don't really think the classroom can prepare you. Experience is what counts," he said. "The class gives you a basis for working."

A proposal to establish a city manager position in Wixom would be good for operating the city, Penn said. "That way the city manager would have the authority as well as the responsibility."

So far Penn has spent much of his time working closely with Bonczek. He added that he would like to work closely with other department heads as well.

A Northville resident, Penn is single and one of five children. During his spare time he said he enjoys reading.

"I like to read histories, some science fiction. I read the classics off and on," he added. "By the time I am 70 years old I may get around to reading the other stuff."

By working at city hall, Penn said he hopes to broaden his knowledge about the operation of city government outside planning and engineering.

"In the future I would like to stay in the area, but I would take any job that I am offered just to get the experience," he added. "Probably an entry level job would be as an assistant manager or department head."

Alert clerk thwarts woman's bad check scheme

In Novi

A 24-year-old Detroit woman was arraigned last week on one count of forgery and one count of uttering and publishing after she was caught attempting to cash a check for merchandise at the West Oaks K mart in Novi, according to Novi police.

The woman, Marie Williams, attempted to buy a television set on the evening of July 25, but was apprehended when the salesperson noticed the woman's drivers license photograph was pasted over another, according to police reports.

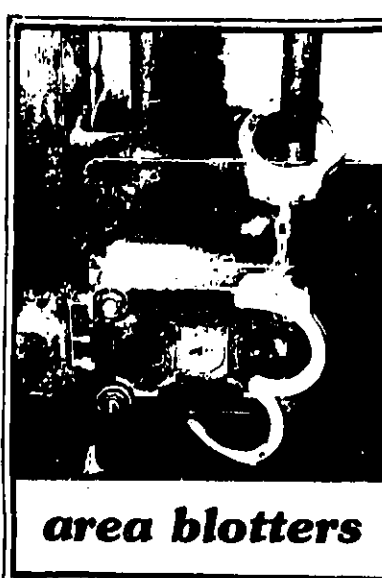

She was picked up by Novi police at 8 p.m. after they were notified by the store. She was arraigned at 4:30 p.m. on the next day. According to court services officials, the arraignment was held up while police attempted to discover her true identity.

She was arraigned before 52nd District Court Judge Michael Batchik, who set bond at $2,000 for each count and allowed 10 percent to be posted on the bond.

Her examination was held Monday. Each charge carries a maximum 14-year sentence.

According to police, the woman was on probation from a Dearborn court for the same crime.

Forgery is defined as reproducing someone else's signature, while uttering and publishing is basically the same thing except that the perpetrator attempts to purchase an item with the forged signature.

The Michigan Trenching Company at 26284 Seelye Road was robbed of over $11,700 in tool boxes and tools last week, according to police.

Perpetrators found the merchandise in the company's warehouse and loaded it on a pickup truck belonging to the company, said police. They then drove away on Eleven Mile before abandoning the vehicle nearby.

Novi officers believe the perpetrators jumped the large chain link fence into the company yard, then pryed off the back door of the warehouse. Once inside, the tool boxes filled with company tools were carted to the pickup truck.

The truck was recovered by police for an evidence check. Police also questioned residents near where the truck was found but no one heard or saw anything that night, according to police.

Among the stolen property were a three-tier tool box and tools worth $1,000, a double-box and tools worth $700 and assorted tools and equipment worth about $10,000.

Tire tracks are the only clue for Novi police investigating a robbery that took place last week in the 3000 block of Sunflower.

Plywood and aluminum windows valued at $1,600 were stolen from a home construction site in Lake In The Woods subdivision, according to reports.

Tire tracks, apparently of a four-wheel vehicle, were found on the grounds. Residents in the area were questioned but did not report seeing or hearing anything that night.

Over $2,600 worth of property was stolen from a home on Eubank last week, according to police.

Stolen property included several stereos, cassettes and video tapes, a pair of rifles, jewelry and a ceiling fan. Police speculate entrance was gained by prying open a rear window. Police also noted that the thieves were "very neat and did not do any damage" inside the residence.

A mobile home on display in the Daring Mobil Homes lot on Novi Road was broken into last week, according to police.

Stolen were a $200 stereo and $80 speakers, said police. Access was gained by hammering a punch through the aluminum door molding.

A Lakewood Condominium was broken into last week and over $500 worth of property was taken, according to police reports. The incident occurred on Tallford near Woolsey.

Police said the complainant went to bed but left the front door open with the screen door locked. When the complainant awoke, the door was found open and a set of speakers and a purse were missing.

The purse was later recovered by Northville Police and returned to the resident.

A neighbor told police he heard a noise that night and looked out his front window where he saw a red van parked with a white sign on the door. He then noticed two male subjects exit the vehicle and walk east along Woolsey. One later returned, he told police, and drove the vehicle up Woolsey.

In Wixom

About 40 gallons of gasoline was siphoned from four trucks parked in the Foster Flor Company lot on Wixom Road last week, according to Wixom police reports.

According to the reports, the gasoline was siphoned off during the night of July 28. Employees of the company found the gas caps for the four trucks missing as well as the gasoline.

A Wixom man was arrested for disorderly conduct last week, according to police reports.

The man was arrested after police were called to the Hickory Apartments where a resident said someone was attempting to break into her apartment through a west side window. The suspect was seen fleeing the area.

When police arrived and spoke with the complainant they noticed a white male walking between the apartment buildings who fit the description of the individual attempting to break into the complainant's apartment.

The subject was questioned by police who said he was under the influence of alcohol or drugs, according to police. Police said they were unable to understand what the subject was saying. They also said he was very unsteady on his feet.

In Wolverine

Over $550 in property was stolen from a home in the 2000 block of South Commerce Road last week, according to Wolverine Lake Village police reports.

Wolverine police have notified the Oakland County Board of Health about an unsanitary dwelling in the 1800 block of Wilshire in Walled Lake following complaints.

According to police reports, officers checked out the residence last week and found the interior "unsanitary and unfit for human habitation."

Officers reported dog droppings in the kitchen, front door and hallway of the home. There was evidence of decayed food in the kitchen as well as dirty laundry and garbage throughout every room. Police also said that garbage and dog droppings were found on the grounds around the residence.

Novi approves permits for Hilton it's one of the better Hilton facilities they've seen," Gerak said.

He told the council the Orchard Hill Place partnership needed the intent to issue a liquor license to seal the agreement with Hilton officials.

"We have a 20-year agreement with Hilton, subject to the availability of a liquor license. Our building is within all the requirements imposed by the city," Gerak said.

The commitment of a license to the Orchard Hill Place partnership initiates a Liquor Control Commission investigation, which is required before a license can be issued.

In a related action, the council approved a footing permit for the building even though it does not have final site plan approval.

"These projects are so large that once the determination has been made to proceed and plans have been submitted to the state for approval, it is customary to grant this approval, as we did with the Sheraton, so they can take advantage of the construction season,"

'They (Hilton Corporation) have looked at our plans and said it's one of the better Hilton facilities they've seen.'

— Joseph Gerak,
Orchard Hill Place

City Manager Edward Kriewall observed.

Kriewall said the planning board has reviewed the hotel plans and granted conditional approval.

Council Member John Chambers asked why a complete set of construction drawing was not presented to the planning board considering a great deal of work already has been done at the site.

"The building will have a metal facade. 'It is silver in character,'" Gerak said. "The work you have seen has been part of the special assessment district.

All the utilities have been installed. That has been part of the problem in our not being able to commence before now. Those things had to go in place before the hotel. We've been 13 months getting the financing in place. Michigan was locked out of the financing industry for seven months. When that lifted we were one of the first designers for the money."

The building will have a metal facade. "It is silver in character," Gerak said. "The work you have seen has been part of the special assessment district.

reflective glass. The building will be a pre-formed metal facility.

Gerak also reported that the Oakland County Road Commission is looking into the possibility of adding another lane on Haggerty Road. An overall plan with acceleration and deceleration lanes is in the works, said Gerak.

"They realize it would be easier, safer and faster to put (the lane) in now than to wait until there is a worse problem at the intersection," Gerak said.

Gerak said the road commission is looking at the possibility of diverting maintenance funds into the construction of an additional lane so there will be four full lanes at the intersection by the end of 1984. He said the entrance to the hotel will add 700 feet of pavement to Haggerty Road, 200 feet will be added for the office park development and pavement also is being added on the east side of Haggerty Road by the proposed Elias Brothers' Restaurant.

Planners recommended conditional approval of the hotel plans last Wednesday. Orchard Hill Place officials then proceeded to the council for a permit to construct footings.

donations from businesses and other groups. People can also mail in donations if they wish," he said. Mail donations should be sent to the Novi Post Office Box 215, 48050.

"We are getting cooperation from everybody from the merchants to the city government and police departments," Fergusson said. He added that local police will be directing traffic during the three-day event.

Fergusson was granted permission by the Novi City Council Monday to proceed with the fund-raiser.

"Initially we planned a modest car wash with all the proceeds donated to the fund, but so many people wanted to participate and the number of events and sponsors has just mushroomed," Fergusson said.

He said parking will be available on lots donated by all the property owners in the Grand River/Novi Road business area.

Police from Novi and Wixom will assist with traffic and Novi REACT also will be on hand.

background closely fit our guidelines. We had a number of excellent candidates," Smith added. "It was a tough decision. We had a scoring system and it was clear just on paper that Rick was undoubtedly the best qualified."

The new position will mean a raise for Holman from just under $25,000 treasurer's salary in Wixom to the just over $31,000 clerk's salary. Wixom has a population of 6,700, while Ingham has 25,000 residents.

Prior to becoming Wixom treasurer, Holman served as assistant to Huntington Woods' city manager. "The township has some responsibilities for the clerk that are similar to what I had been doing: payroll, budgeting and accounting," said Holman. "There are some areas that I haven't been exposed to. I'm looking forward to voting on some issues."

Unlike the Wixom position which is appointed, the township clerk is elected. Holman will fill the remainder of Rose's term and then have to run for the seat in 1984.

"This will be the first time I will have run for office. That will be an experience. I'm looking forward to that," he added. "I plan to run as a Republican. You are kind of in the minority in Oakland County if you are a Democrat."

Describing his work in Wixom as "the best job of my life," Holman said he enjoyed the support he received within city hall and from the council.

"I have been able to accomplish a lot because of the support I received," Holman added. "I have a few friends at city hall that I am going to miss but I will keep in touch with them."

Holman is slated to finish working for the Foster Flor Company lot on Wixom Road last week, according to Wixom police reports.

As We See It

Stop-gap district will provide time

Novi's Planning Board has taken the first steps to protect the so-called Town Center Area, the property around the Grand River/Novi Road intersection.

Specifically, the board last week directed its planning consultant to develop a new zoning classification, tentatively to be known as the Town Center (TC) district.

Once the zoning district has been adopted, the board presumably will either rezone property in the Town Center Area to the designation or amend its master plan to reflect the new district.

Although development of a TC district is long overdue, we applaud the planners for taking action at this time to protect the Town Center Area.

Admittedly, the proposed TC zoning district is designed only as a "stop-gap" measure. The planners already have seen their goals for the Town Center Area blunted somewhat by construction of a car wash on some potentially prime commercial property.

The new zoning district will help prevent proliferation of the types of uses that are more appropriate for an area other than the Town Center Area by defining what types of uses are permitted. Uses which do not fall under those guidelines will be prohibited.

In essence, creation of the new TC district will give the city more time to develop the concepts and zoning tools to encourage the type of development they would like to see established.

The planners also wisely did not attempt to deal with many of the more controversial issues that eventually may be discussed in conjunction with Town Center Area planning considerations.

Specifically, the planners chose not to deal with the high-rise/mid-rise debate. Currently, building heights in Novi are limited to 2½ stories except in the Office Service (OS) and Planned Development (PD) zoning districts. Buildings in those two districts may be five stories or 65-feet in height.

There is some sentiment for also permitting five-story buildings in the Town Center Area, and some have proposed that buildings be permitted to be as high as 10 stories.

The debate on that issue is likely to be heated, however. Initiating those considerations at this time would only draw out the time it takes to put the stop-gap TC district on the books.

The important thing at this time is for the planning board and city council to move expeditiously in adopting a TC district that will enable the city to maintain its goals for the area around the Grand River/Novi Road intersection.

The planners are headed in the right direction; the city council should follow their lead and take the appropriate action as soon as the TC district is ready.

A source of pride

The Walled Lake Schools finally are getting some much-deserved recognition with the nomination of Philip Cox as one of Michigan's nominees for the Presidential Awards for Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching.

Cox, who teaches mathematics at Walled Lake Central High School, is one of four teachers from across the state who have been selected as Michigan's nominees for the national awards program instituted by President Ronald Reagan to emphasize the importance of education.

A teacher at Central for the past 12 years, Cox is the author of a textbook — "Geometry in East Steps — An Informal Approach," which is used in the school's applied geometry classes.

Additionally, he is one of the key figures in Central's outstanding mathematics program, which involves entering "teams" of students in state and national mathematics competitions.

Central's mathematics teams have fared extremely well in these competitions, usually finishing in the upper percentages both state-wide and nationally. The school also has produced more than its fair share of outstanding mathematics students in recent years.

The Walled Lake Schools have received a great deal of unfavorable publicity in recent years. The quality of education has been questioned and criticized.

Somewhat defensively, the school board has initiated a policy of reading a "good news" report at its meetings. Filled with news about the accomplishments of students and teachers, the purpose of the good news reports has been to say that many positive and worthwhile things are being accomplished in the school district.

We have long felt the "rap" against the school district is unjustified and have attempted to point that out by reporting the unqualified successes of the forensics, band and choral music programs in state-level competition.

Earlier this year, we ran a front-page feature story about Walled Lake Central's mathematics team. Copies of that story, incidentally, were part of the submission that led to the selection of Cox as one of four nominees from Michigan for the Presidential Awards for Excellence.

As Superintendent Don Sheldon likes to point out, many good things are taking place in the Walled Lake Schools. He's right, and the selection of Cox as the state's nominee for the national award only serves to point that out.

The nomination is, of course, a tribute to Cox and the work he has done to develop the outstanding mathematics program at Walled Lake Central.

More than that, however, it also is a tribute to the Walled Lake Schools. Hopefully, it will help dispel any lingering doubts about the quality of education in the school district.

Thinking out loud

By KATHY JENNINGS

A lot of the people I talk to lately tell me that thinking is a dying art. It seems thinking is no longer valued the way it once was.

As singer Billy Joel croons ironically: "Should I try to be a straight A student/If you are then you think too much." These days people only sheepishly admit they ever think about anything.

Those I've discussed the situation with say most people would rather talk about the latest exploits on their favorite nighttime soap opera than the problems of the Western World.

When I profess skepticism to those declaring thinkers an endangered species, I'm told my perspective is muddled by the fact reporters are surrounded by thinking people.

Some of the few remaining people who regularly exercise their brains are concerned about the disfavor thinking has fallen into.

Some of them say the answer to restoring thinking's reputation lies in our educational institutions. For them teaching the basics is important, but it's not enough.

They deplore the attitude that has university presidents talking about training students for the real-world job market and shutting down the humanities department.

They cringe when they hear young people answer the question: "Why are you going to school?" with the response: "To get a job."

They are convinced there is more to education than getting a job. For them education entails preparing a person to live a full life — developing mind, body and spirit.

These folks are concerned that we are not properly preparing people for a future where automation, robotics and computerization will create more leisure time than ever before.

And they agree that the answer is to make education more accessible for everyone, creating a system where students can move in and out of the educational process freely.

Educators maintain adult education is very successful because the students want to be there. High school students don't have that choice. While they technically are not forced to remain in high school, society tells them they cannot get a job without a high school diploma. There really is no where else for them.

Some say there should be no stigma attached to dropping out of school for youngsters who find it is not meeting their needs.

At the same time, as those youngsters grow up and find they want additional education the opportunity should be there.

Higher education needs a similar type of accessibility. While college is a socially acceptable place for 18-year-olds to grow up after high school, it is questionable whether they know what they are doing there.

It's been my observation that most people don't realize what they even want to know about until age 25.

As an avid reader of flyers put out by institutes of higher education I know graduate courses cost an amount that simply is not what could be described as accessible.

In a more perfect world people could enter and leave the educational system at will.

It could even become imperative as our world becomes increasingly complex as people will need more and more education. An example: When everyone has 131 channels on their cable television and can do their banking, grocery shopping, voting, school work — virtually everything — at home will anyone ever go outdoors again? Without education to properly deal with the booming electronics age isolation from our neighbors could become a problem.

The thinkers I talk to also fret about a federal economic policy that talks about improving education while diverting the money. They acknowledge that military expenditures create jobs, but official U.S. studies show that money doesn't yield as many jobs as the same amount of money spent by the government for civilian purposes.

It would take a major rearrangement of our priorities and a new commitment to education to achieve the type of changes they want — a commitment backed by dollars rather than rhetoric. The thinkers who suggest such things conclude they are dreams at this point.

And they don't tell very many people they think about it. Thinking is not fashionable.

Hay day

Roy Mercer's open house at the Foster Farm property off Pontiac Trail was an information day for adults concerned about Mercer's condominium proposal, but for kids it was an afternoon for frolicking in hay stacks, barns and open pastures. There was an unlimited amount of hotdogs, soft drinks, balloons and open space — all of which were taken advantage of by the rambunctious youngsters. (News photo by Patricia Bowling)

'Bad press' about cults harms search for home

Wanted: Meeting place for about 20 adults, some children. Wixom area. Will pay rental fees. Happy to clean up facility before and after meetings.

Most civic groups would have no problem getting a response to such a want ad. A few years ago, the Lakes Fellowship Baptist Chapel probably wouldn't have had difficulties either.

But in a time when reports about strange religious cult activities fill the newspapers, a small Baptist church group can have its difficulties.

"When people find out we're not big enough for a church (building), they get ideas of cults or something," said Lakes Fellowship Member Renee Hoag. For this reason, attracting new members to the fellowship has been difficult, she explained.

But finding an out-of-home meeting place also has proved difficult. Many public and private buildings and halls now have policies, written or otherwise, against religious organizations using their facilities, the group has discovered.

They've tried the Wixom city annex building, the Wixom Village Apartments clubhouse, Walled Lake schools, the Wixom VFW Hall and various rental houses. Everywhere, they've been turned down.

The congregation is simply a branch of an established Farmington Baptist church trying to nurture a new fellowship in the Wixom area, Hoag explained. "All we want is a chance."

Sunday services, as well as Wednesday evening "Share Group" meetings, presently are held in members' homes, she said.

But the group continues to look for a meeting place large enough to accommodate their modest Sunday turnouts.

Anyone with ideas should contact Hoag at 669-3935 (after 6:30 p.m.) or Rodney Coleman at 624-0784.

OBITUARIES

DIAN CAROTHERS

Services for Dian Carothers, 26, of Wixom will be held tomorrow (Thursday) at 11 a.m. at Lynch & Sons Funeral Home (Richardson-Bird Chapel) in Walled Lake. Pastor Robert Warren of the Wixom Baptist Church will officiate.

Visitation at the funeral home is today (Wednesday) from 1-9 p.m.

Mrs. Carothers died August 1 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac. The daughter of Paul and Rosalyn Watz of Lewistown, she was born April 6, 1957, in Lapeer. She was 26 at the time of her death.

A Wixom resident for the past seven years, Mrs. Carothers is survived by her husband, Kenneth, and two children, Chris and Carrie. Also surviving are her parents; a brother, Ed Watz; and four sisters — Pam Watz, Paulette Deimadge, Nancy Watz and Karen O'Brien.

Interment will be at the Wixom Cemetery.

IRMA E. JANSEN

Services for Irma E. Jansen, 47, of South Lyon were held Saturday, July 30, at the O'Brien Chapel of the Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Home in Novi. Reverend Thomas Scherger officiated.

The co-owner of Johnson Buttermilk for 35 years, Mrs. Jansen resided in Novi until her retirement in Southfield.

1960. She died at the Hickory Haven Nursing Home in Milford on Thursday, July 28, after an extended illness.

Mrs. Jansen is survived by her husband, Frank, of South Lyon and a son, William. She was a member of the South Lyon Senior Citizens Club.

Burial was at the Glen Eden Cemetery in Livonia.

RUTH JOHNSTON

Funeral services for Ruth H. Johnston of Dearborn Heights were held July 28 at Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home. The Reverend Dr. Gene Stone officiated.

Mrs. Johnston died July 25 at Mt. Carmel Hospital following a long illness.

The daughter of Leonard and Hannah (Rohde) Wetrick, she was born March 14, 1900, in Ohio. She was 83 at the time of her death.

Mrs. Johnston was preceded in death by her husband, Samuel, who passed away in 1973. Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Donald (Elsenor) Mitchell of Novi and Barbara Johnston of Dearborn Heights. Two grandchildren also survive.

A homemaker, Mrs. Johnston was a member of Redford Union Presbyterian Church.

Interment was at Acacia Park Cemetery in Southfield.

Cities study alternatives to super sewer litigation

By PATRICIA N. BOWLING

The question of whether the Wayne County Department of Public Works will sue the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) on grounds that it is blocking construction of Super Sewer remained unanswered this week.

Novi officials have voted instead to split the plan into a north and south service area, as recommended by the DNR, while in Wixom the city council decided last week to abandon the Huron plan and work on expanding their own wastewater treatment plant. Representatives of all 14 participating communities, including Novi, Wixom and Commerce, met Tuesday, July 26, to decide the matter. But Wayne County Executive William Lucas told the group he would not go to court without resolutions supporting the action from individual communities.

Duane Egeland of the Wayne County Department of Public Works said Lucas was unclear about how many resolutions he wanted before deciding to proceed with the lawsuit.

At its July 26 meeting, the Wixom City Council set aside the question of suing the state and decided to develop bid specifications for expanding and improving its own treatment plant.

Commerce officials have yet to consider a resolution supporting the lawsuit.

The alternative to a lawsuit, said Egeland, would be to split the original Huron Valley plan in two parts. The DNR has recommended that north area flows be routed through the Rouge Valley Wastewater System to the Detroit treatment plant, he noted. The southern portion of the plan would remain intact, with communities south of Canton Township sending flows to a treatment plant to be constructed in Brownstown Township.

"It is clear now that Detroit is willing to cooperate in providing service to the western (Oakland) communities. This was not clear in the past," said Egeland.

The threat of a lawsuit has given the county "an edge" in working out the alternative plan, he added. Consequently, the DNR has made some "concessions" to make it more cost effective for north area effluent to be routed to Detroit.

These concessions include funding for improvements to Rouge Valley interceptors for accommodating flow from north Huron Valley communities.

"If we would have come up with this same plan three years ago, the DNR would have rejected it," Egeland claimed.

The DNR's plan, however, involves the financial participation of the Rouge Valley communities in Wayne County. If these communities refuse to participate, sewer lines parallel to the Rouge Valley system would have to be constructed for moving sewage from West Oakland communities to Detroit.

"In the event that no agreement can be negotiated to utilize the existing Rouge Valley interceptor capacity,"

Richard Hinson, acting chief of the community assistance division, said "the most implementable solution would be eligible (for federal funding). As a worst case, this could be a parallel interceptor from the north area to the Detroit system."

However, this second alternative would not be more cost effective than the original Huron Valley plan, Egeland noted.

"If the communities agree to split the system, they want to know the cooperation of the state, Detroit and the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) have offered will be there," Egeland said. If Rouge Valley communities fail to lend financial support as provided in the DNR's program, then Egeland said the north area communities want some assurance the DNR and EPA will fund the second, less cost-effective plan.

"We don't know yet what form those assurances would take," he added.

If the communities vote to split the plan, Wayne County will have an October 1, 1984, facilities planning deadline to meet for the north area. After that date, federal funding drops from 75 to 55 percent.

Another meeting of the Rate Review Committee, which includes representatives of the 14 communities, and Wayne and Oakland counties, is scheduled for Thursday, August 4. Egeland said the meeting was called to determine how many communities have taken a position on splitting the Huron Valley plan or proceeding with a lawsuit against the DNR.

Zwick wins merit scholarship

A Walled Lake Western student has been named winner of a Corporate-sponsored four-year merit scholarship by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Kenneth Zwick of Wixom received the merit scholarship sponsored by Telex Computer Products. Headquartered in Tulsa, Oklahoma, Telex is a worldwide supplier of computer-related terminals, printers, communications equipment, intelligent workstations and other computer paraphernalia.

A 1983 Walled Lake Western graduate, Zwick served as president of the junior class and was a member of the executive board for three years. Active in extracurricular activities, he performed in the school productions of Godspell and Shogun and finished fifth in the state informative forensics competition. He will attend University of Michigan in September and is interested in a career in medicine. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zwick of Chownings Glen in Wixom.

More than one million students from across the country entered the current Merit Scholarship Program, but only those who qualified as semi-finalists and then advanced to the rank of finalist were considered for Merit Scholarships.

The 15,000 semi-finalists represented the top one-half of one percent of graduating seniors in their respective states. Some 13,500 became finalists in 1983 and competed for 5,300 merit scholarships worth over $18 million.

Lake level efforts face more delays

NOVI — Attempts to move ahead with establishment of a legal level for Walled Lake were delayed once more when the Oakland County Board of Commissioners' planning and building committee decided to postpone action on the matter.

A resolution asking the county to proceed with establishment of a legal lake level was introduced by County Commissioner John Calandro at the July 21 committee meeting.

But, at Walled Lake City Manager Michael Dorman's request, County Commissioner William Caddell moved to postpone action on the matter for 30 days.

"It was premature for the resolution to be going up to the county at this time," Dorman explained. "We are still negotiating the agreement."

Novi was represented by City Manager Edward Kriewall, engineering consultants Cui Selber and Joseph Kapelczak and Calandro.

"We explained the necessity for establishing a lake level to get the storm water management program underway," Calandro said. "We also told the committee the matter was before them because the normal processes had not yielded any results or agreements."

But the committee members chose to delay action on the issue. "Since no one from Walled Lake was there to speak to their reluctance to enter into an agreement — they wanted to know if Walled Lake won't sign, why not?" Calandro explained.

"This is not really the normal steps for this procedure and for a number of reasons they really want to hear what Walled Lake has to say," Calandro said.

"The 30-day delay was granted so Walled Lake could be properly informed this was moving ahead," Calandro continued. "The committee will request that they appear to present their thoughts on establishment of the lake level. We didn't want to try to force them into a decision without all the facts in front of them."

The matter was rescheduled for August 25.

Calandro said that while the 30-day delay is an "inconvenience," it is "not a critical setback. But we need a resolution soon or we'll lose valuable time."

Calandro said the committee also questioned why Novi had not petitioned residents with lake frontage, another alternative for setting a legal lake level, rather than coming before the county board for action.

"We told them the people of Novi, which represents most of the residents around the lake, have already spoken affirmatively with the passage of the millage," Calandro said. "We didn't see the necessity and didn't want to spend that amount of time on the board."

Calandro went on to say he introduced the resolution on Novi's behalf because both communities have been meeting on the issue "for several months without resolution. While everyone hopes the cities get together, it didn't seem worthwhile to wait any longer. There is a point in time that without a lake level established the project is delayed into spring, the early flooding season, without any progress."

The board of commissioners has the authority to initiate establishment of a lake level. Since the board works through the committee structure the matter must go through the committee for study and recommendation to the board.

Without affirmative action of the committee, a matter typically does not go to the full board for consideration.

Calandro said the matter probably would come before the full county commission board at the next regular meeting after the committee has acted.

County notes drop in fatal accidents

OAKLAND — Oakland County traffic fatalities for the first half of 1983 were the lowest recorded in more than 16 years, according to the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County (TIA).

TIA reported a 20 percent reduction in traffic fatalities for the first six months of 1983 as compared to the same period last year. Fatalities dropped from 61 in 1982 to 49 for the same period in 1983.

TIA Managing Director Bruce Madson attributed the drop to the county-wide drunk driving program, noting that alcohol-related fatalities are down 38 percent.

year's traffic fatalities were alcohol-related as compared to 34 (56 percent) last year.

Oakland County's 20 percent reduction in traffic deaths compares favorably to a statewide reduction of four percent for the first half of 1983.

Madson said Oakland County's reduction is all the more remarkable in light of the fact that traffic fatalities over the last three years have been much lower than at any time in the last two decades.

For example, Madson noted that Oakland County recorded 109 traffic fatalities during the first six months of 1999.

Walled Lake Baptists schedule special film

WALLED LAKE — The First Baptist Church of Walled Lake will show the movie "Jon" this Sunday at 7 p.m. The 90-minute film, produced by the Billy Graham Film Foundation, tells the story of Joni Eareckson, a young woman who was paralyzed in a diving accident when she was a teenager. Now, 16 years later, Eareckson is known for her paintings and drawings which she completes by holding a brush or pencil between her teeth. She also has recorded albums, written books and established an organization to minister to the handicapped.

The church is located at 309 Market Street. A free will offering will be taken to offset the cost of presenting the film.

Novi appoints Doggett

NOVI — The school board last week approved the hiring of Bruce Doggett as administrative assistant for business.

Doggett, 24, replaces Sandy Weir who resigned for personal reasons in June. He earned a bachelor's degree in marketing and advertising from Michigan State University and completed a master's of business administration in finance and accounting at Wayne State University.

Assistant Superintendent for Business William Barr, who was in charge of the hiring, said the position would be Doggett's first job since graduation. While he has limited work experience, Barr said Doggett had the skills and background necessary for the position.

Bonczek a finalist for Howell position

WIXOM — Mayoral Assistant Stephen Bonczek is now one of three final candidates under consideration for the city manager position in Howell.

The Howell City Council may make its decision as early as Monday, August 8. If a candidate is not selected at that time, Howell Mayor Jim Young is expected to call a special meeting in mid-August for choosing the new manager.

Young has said he would like the new city manager to begin as soon as possible.

Bonczek, who has worked in Wixom five years, was among 100 applicants for the Howell position. The applicants were first narrowed to nine, then a final three.

Howell, the county seat of Livingston County, has a population of just under 7,000 people. The previous city manager received a salary of $23,000. Wixom is slightly smaller than Howell. Bonczek's present salary is $31,122.

Negotiations slow

"I think that's preposterous," said Flar. "We've been talking about the merger with support personnel since last year. There's absolutely no way the two things are related."

The bargaining teams for the school board and the six employee groups have yet to schedule any negotiation sessions.

Meanwhile, some progress is being made in contract talks with the district's four other bargaining groups, Thomas said.

Teachers were to end a one-month vacation from negotiations with a 10 a.m. session with the school board negotiating team Tuesday, August 2. A mediator, Leon Cornfield from MERC, was called in for this session, Flar noted.

Although negotiating teams for the board and the teachers met five times in June, their positions are still "pretty diametrically opposed," she said.

Secretaries and administrators have been bargaining throughout the summer and much progress has been made in contract talks with the district's bus drivers, Thomas noted.

The bus drivers group, which numbers about 70, is the only non-certified support personnel group not involved in the MESPA affiliation squabble.

"That group has bent over backwards to meet with the school board," said Thomas. "Negotiations have gone very well. They are hoping to get a settlement before school starts."

tion on this down the road. I thought I should be here. I don't know that much about it yet," said Achey.

"His intentions are definitely good," said Planning Commissioner Howard Gray, who also spent the afternoon at the open house. "This would certainly be a big step in Walled Lake."

Gray said Sunday he would abstain from voting on Mercer's project if the site plans come before the commission for recommendation. Community members have noted that the commissioner and his wife live in Mercer's Roycroft Apartments, which his wife also manages.

However, Gray added that he will vote on the proposed RM-3 zoning district.

Mercer mingled among the residents and scattering of city officials for nearly six hours. The price tag on the event, which included 1,000 hotdogs, drinks, balloons, banners and rental of the hot air balloon, topped $2,000. But, said Mercer, it was worth it.

"I'm very upbeat. I think I was able to turn some very critical people around. There were a whole lot of others that should have been there."

Roy and Cathy Artley are headed from Walled Lake Western to Schoolcraft College

Father-daughter tandem joins Schoolcraft cagers

By B.J. MARTIN

Honest, folks, they didn't plan it that way.

Roy Artley just happened to like basketball and turned out to be a pretty good coach. Cathy just happened to be a pretty good player. And now the father-daughter duo from Wixom, after teaming up for years at Walled Lake Western High School, is graduating to Schoolcraft College this year.

"I know it looks funny, but we're both as surprised as anyone else," said Roy, who this spring was named assistant basketball coach at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. "Cathy had decided last April she'd go to Schoolcraft after talking with (Schoolcraft basketball head coach) Ed Kavanaugh, who I knew a little."

"Three weeks later, in May, I was talking to Ed, asking if he'd heard about coaching spots at any colleges, and he said he had an assistant coach opening because his assistant coach, Cathy Stacey, left after last season."

There was no disputing Roy Artley's qualifications for the job. In his second year as varsity coach at Western, he led the 16-8 Warrior girls team to the Class A regional finals last season, the furthest the team had gone in post-season play in six years. In fact, the Warrior varsity girls team was named Sliger-Livingson Publications' "Team of the Year" for 1982.

Roy has been with the Western athletic staff for five years, starting out as freshman boys basketball coach. He coached girls junior varsity basketball for three years, then coached Cathy on the varsity for her junior and senior years. Cathy also played varsity basketball as a sophomore.

A 5'8" point guard, Cathy was certainly one of the biggest reasons for the Warriors' success last fall.

"I know it looks funny, but we're as surprised as anyone else."

— Roy Artley, College coach

The most consistent player on a team loaded with talent, Cathy was responsible for running the Western offense, setting up 6'2" Val Hall and 6'0" Fran Cullen for inside shots, while keeping defenses honest with her outside shooting and quick moves to the hoop.

Cathy is a versatile athlete who combines her agility and savvy on the court with similarly impressive skills on the softball diamond. She was named to the honorable mention all-area basketball squad and also received first-team all-area honors in softball this spring. "Unfortunately," she sighed, "Schoolcraft doesn't have a softball team."

Cathy will major in computer accounting at Schoolcraft and was awarded a $300 athletic scholarship for basketball. Also recruited to play for Schoolcraft is Walled Lake Central's Caryn Lamb, a 5'11" power forward named second-team all-area last fall. "I was really glad we were able to get Caryn," Roy added. "She'd come to check out the volleyball program and Ed talked with her about playing."

Roy believes Cathy and Caryn will be important cogs in Schoolcraft's team this season, which other coaches in the area have said looks like a winner with some talented recruits.

How do Roy and Cathy feel about continuing on together? As betters their respect for each other, which is instantly visible in the company of both, they couldn't be happier.

"I can't say we've never disagreed about something," Cathy said. "There've been times. But we both learn from each other. I'll ask him what he'd do in a certain situation, for example."

Roy agrees. "We keep what happens in the gym in the gym. We don't discuss the games at home. And I appreciate it when any of my players ask for my comments, not just Cathy."

Cathy will concentrate on her studies this fall, while Roy will team with Ed Kavanaugh, who is currently coaching with the Artleys, in coaching Livonia Ladywood's varsity girls' basketball team. Kavanaugh is head coach, Roy the assistant.

Basketball season at Schoolcraft opens the day before Thanksgiving this fall with two road trips. The opening home game will be in early December.

Kukuzke 3rd at fitness meet

The City of Novi was represented by 31 athletes at the 28th Detroit Metro Youth Fitness Meet at Metro Beach in Mount Clemens last week.

And one of them — 10-year old Lisa Kukuzke — registered the city's first-ever third place finish at the meet.

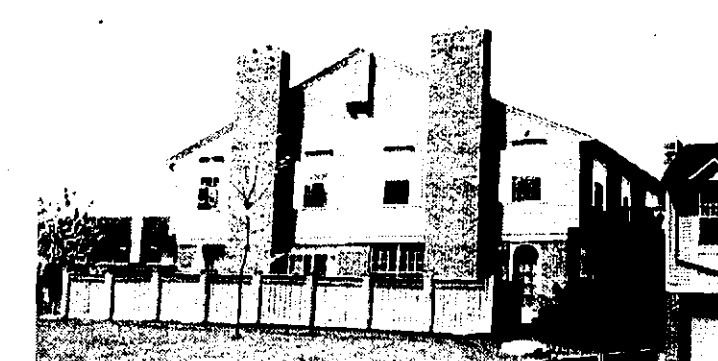

North, took third place in the Class C (age 9-10) 440 yard dash with a time of 1:27.10.

The remainder of the Novi contingent included: Traci Albers, Aaron Ball, Lisa Belliston, Sherri Brett, Angela D'Angelis, Jeannine Delazzer, Matt Gdowski, Brent Groom, Stephanie Groom, Eddie Haran, Matt Haran, Jon Henderson, Erica Hoornear, Renee Hoornear, Brian Kukuzke, Shannon Malynick, Glen Matthews, Jamie Miller, Jeff Miller, T.J. Novi's Denise Wardwell picks out a pitch

Batter's cage is hit with hitters

By KEN VOYLES

The community baseball and softball seasons are winding down, but hitters can always get in a few practice swings at the Copper Mug Batting Cage in Walled Lake.

The cage, which is set up similar to a golf driving range, is open seven days a week and will be so until late September or early October.

The hitting complex includes seven batting cages, three for softball and four for hardball. The hardball cages are divided into slow, medium, fast and super-fast. In the slow cage pitches are released at 35-mph, while in the super-fast cage pitches whizz out at 75-mph.

"It's definitely a very realistic set-up," said Mike Karner, manager of the operation for his father Al Karner, owner of Copper Mug. "We didn't spare any expense in building it. We wanted to have the best batting cage around and we think we do."

Would-be hitters can swing at 12 balls for 50 cents or 50 balls or $2. Groups rates are available and hitters also can rent a cage by a time clock. A one-hour group rate runs $20 for 750 balls.

"Business has been good," said Karner. "One minute it's dead around here and the next minute it's jammed with hitters," he reported. "They seem to come in waves."

Yellow polyurethane balls are used at the batting cage. They are released from 50 feet away inside the cage netting. Each cage is divided by a wire screen and hitters must wear a batting helmet while in the hardball cages.

"We get individuals and teams who come in here to practice together," Karner said. "It's great. A little league coach can come here, line up his kids and let each one hit and tell them what they are doing wrong and what they are doing right."

Most of those who use the batting cage give it high marks for both accuracy and "challenge."

"I come here at least twice a week," said Kurt Ross, 13, of Plymouth one rainy summer night. "It's much more accurate than some of the other cages around."

Ross plays for the F-League Mustangs in Plymouth. "It's a lot of fun, though it can get tiring—the balls never stop, it's one right after the other," he said.

Not only do the balls come one after another, but each machine-released pitch is slightly different.

"We have an eight-inch variance to either side of the plate; the machine throws strikes just about every time," Karner said. "We also have a one-foot variance up and down. It makes a good hitting challenge."

The business, which opened last June, attracts all types of hitters, ranging in age from five to 75 and from the little kid who can't hit even one pitch at 35-mph to the would-be pro slugger who connects at 75-mph.

Women also use the cage for practice. "We draw all ages and types," said Karner. "A lot of people first see us driving by. They'll stop and check it out. Then there are the dedicated hitters who come out here every other day. It gets very addictive."

Two analogies come to mind—a driving range for golfers and a video arcade for young computer enthusiasts. "You might say we're like a driving range. We like to think of it as a batting range," Karner added.

The business is also open for night-time hitting thanks to nine overhead lights.

"A lot of the people who are coming in here are winding up their playing season," said Karner, himself a softball player. "They'll probably keep coming here even after it's over. Personally I like to hit until about September when I get tired of it. We stay open as long as we can, until the weather breaks and business slacks way off."

Second, why are boys always given the preferred season? "Assuming that (better facilities use) was the motivating factor," the report stated, "and that separate seasons were necessary for an efficient use of facilities, this (practice still) does not justify the practice of scheduling only the girls' sports in seasons other than the traditional seasons."

The analysis states that failing to schedule girls' seasons in the preferred time of year limited their opportunities to compete against teams from other states; limited opportunities for post-season play in golf, tennis and swimming for girls; limited girls' chances of being recruited by colleges, which schedule simultaneous seasons for men and women; limited the amount of time girls could be scouted according to NCAA bylaws compared to other states; and limited opportunities for girls to play games before a "prime time audience," in particular, Friday night games.

Shorter seasons. Women's sports seasons are on the average four days shorter than those for boys.

Unequal distribution of most popular female sports. Of the seven most popular girls' sports, four are offered in the fall (basketball, tennis, cross-country and volleyball).

Walled Lake teams claim playoff titles

The Walled Lake Community Education Softball League playoffs were held last week. And despite continuous rain showers the men's American and Central division playoffs were completed.

Lakeside Lounge won the men's American title with a 3-2 victory over Haggerty Harry No. 2.

Lakeside reached the finals from the winner's bracket in the double elimination tournament. The squad defeated two other teams before landing in the finals. Lakeside defeated Haggerty Harry No. 2, 5-3, in one of those games to send that squad into the loser's bracket. Harry reached the championship game after defeating Copper Mug, 5-3, in the finals of the loser's bracket.

Commerce Gulf won the men's Central division title with a 3-1 victory over Side Street. Side Street won the first game of the final two needed to complete the playoffs in that division with a 9-5 triumph.

Commerce Gulf defeated Side Street 4-1 earlier in the tournament, sending Side Street into the loser's bracket. Side Street stayed alive with a 9-3 triumph over the Walled Lake Jaycees.

Commerce Gulf knocked off two teams before playing Side Street in the finals. The Church division playoffs will be completed this week with the finals scheduled for 6:10 p.m. tomorrow at Walled Lake Junior High. The final teams are St. Matthews and St. Williams No. 1. At 7:30 p.m. that night the Church division all-star game will be played at the junior high. There is a $1 donation to watch the all-star contest.

The men's National division playoffs and the women's National and Central playoffs were completed Tuesday, but due to press deadlines the results will appear in next week's paper. The final standings for all divisions in the softball league will also be run in next week's edition.

The women's division all-star game is slated for August 9 at Walled Lake Junior High. The doubleheader will begin at 7 p.m. On August 11 the men's division all-star games will be held also beginning at 7 p.m. The men will also play a doubleheader.

According to Sue Stulgross of the Walled Lake Community Education office, the playoff games were hampered by rainy weather over the weekend. "We played most of our games in between the storms," she said. "We were luck to get in the playoffs that we did. We're hoping for no more rain this week."

Walled Lake Major wins districts

With a dramatic 5-4 victory over Birmingham West, the Walled Lake Major League (age 11-12) baseball team took first place in the league's district tournament at Holy last week.

The district championship qualified Walled Lake to participate in the Midland Major Regional Tournament this week.

Walled Lake got superb pitching and timely hitting throughout the seven-game tournament, losing only one game in the two-game knockout playoffs.

In the 5-4 victory in the finals, winning pitcher Dave Nelson scattered five hits for his second tournament win, blanking Birmingham West until the sixth inning, when West collected three runs. But clutch defensive plays by catcher Tom Lamb and a short-to-second-to-first double play killed off the West rally.

First baseman Brian Burger and outfielders Derek Wallace and Tommy Altherr paced the Walled Lake offense with two hits apiece, running up a 5-0 score that lasted until the sixth inning. Walled Lake outscored its opponents 59-17 throughout the tourney, with pitchers Adam Cassel, Nelson, Burger and Wallace permitting only 13 earned runs in seven games. Nelson and Burger each hurled one-hitters along the way.

Meanwhile, Walled Lake batters hit 300 as a team while losing just one game, a 6-5 loss in the quarterfinals that featured a five-run Walled Lake rally that fell just short.

"That showed a lot of character," commented Manager Robert Zelinski. "The guys came to play and were gentlemen. We really came through after falling into the losers' bracket."

I'm really proud of them."

Kurtis 5th at relays

Novi's Doug Kurtis helped Ford Motor Company to a fifth-place finish in the 50-team Corporate Cup Relays at Stanford University recently.

Kurtis finished second in the 10-kilometer run with a time of 30:08. His brother Dennis was seventh in 30:38. The duo combined for a first-place finish according to team points.

AT&T won the team title with 133 points. General Electric was second with 131, followed by IBM (93 points), Texas Instruments (88) and Ford Motor Company (61).

Bobcats go undefeated

Registering first place finishes in all relays and all but four of the individual races, the Novi Bobcat Swim Club blew the Clawson Swim Club out of the pool by a 351-88 score last Tuesday.

The win completed the 3-0 Bobcats' dual meet season. The Northwest Park and Recreation League (NRP) meet will be held in Oak Park Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The Bobcats will be seeking to take home their third straight league championship, and the club is scheduled to participate in the state meet this Saturday.

Here are the individual Bobcat winners in last week's meet against Clawson:

Person to Person... Learn to Love?

Dr. James Luther

Just before he died, Oslan Hammerstein penned a verse for Mary Martin to sing:

A bell is not a bell, until you ring it.
A song is not a song, until you sing it.
Love in your heart is not there to stay.
Love is not love until you give it away.

Like a talent, loving is an ability to be cultivated. We learn to speak by speaking, to ski by skiing; so we develop caring from constant practice. Some people develop ulcers because they practice hating or worrying. Loving starts as an act of will, then determination becomes a skill, and a style of life.

As with any skill you must start simply. Don't take on the needs of the world. Forget about starting the Jericho Road Mission Society or pouring oil and wine on all your suffering neighbors (Luke 10:30-34).

You can't do everything, but you can do something. What you can do, you should do! And what you should do, determine by the grace of God that you will do.

Of course, caring is easier to learn and accomplish in the company of others. That's part of the advantage of living your life in a local church. A church can do through its members what no single Christian can do alone.

In a world that "couldn't care less," real Christians are those "who couldn't care more."

MHSAA files Title IX lawsuit

country and swimming), two in the spring (softball and track) and only one (volleyball) in the winter, while boys' seven most popular sports are broken down into two in the fall, two in winter and three in spring.

The remedy proposed by education civil rights authorities is frankly radical: "In order to eliminate the adverse effects caused by current seasonal scheduling of sports, it is proposed that the female sports be scheduled in the same season as the same male sport.

As might be expected, school officials throughout the state claimed such a "remedy" would tax facilities use beyond capacity.

The present legal status of the MHSAA lawsuit seeking to overturn the federal edict is up in the air. A U.S. District Court hearing was to have taken place in Ann Arbor July 20, but Michigan Southern Division Eastern District Court Judge Charles W. Joiner ruled that the proper jurisdiction was the southern division's western district, and the case has been transferred there with no court date set.

Judge Joiner apparently was persuaded by federal authorities' claims that the MHSAA was "forum shopping" by seeking a Western District review of the case.

"There is only one plaintiff in this matter," the legal argument continued, "the MHSAA. Its corporate address and the address of the resident agent as registered with the State of Michigan are in Lansing, which is in Ingham County."

The response, filed by Harry M. Singleton, Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights, U.S. Department of Education, also claimed the MHSAA has no standing to sue on its own behalf or on behalf of its members—in fact, some Michigan school districts have responded to letters from federal authorities, apparently satisfactorily.

"It appears that the Association is not correctly representing the views of those districts with respect to the jurisdiction of this office," the response claimed.

Run benefits Growth Works

Henry Ford Hospital and Growth Works, a Plymouth social agency, will host the first "Plymouth Distance Classic" benefit running event on Sunday, August 14.

The new running event will feature a one-mile "fun run" and a four-mile race, with registration at 7:30 a.m. The morning of the race at the Plymouth Gathering, an open pavilion next to Kellogg Park, at Main Street and Penitman in downtown Plymouth.

Proceeds of race entry fees will go to Growth Works, which provides counseling, alternative education, job training and work-experience programs for economically disadvantaged youth. The agency's building at 271 South Main Street, Plymouth, is adjacent to the new Henry Ford Hospital, outpatient Plymouth Center now under construction and scheduled to open in October.

The four-mile race through historical Plymouth will begin at 8:15 a.m., immediately after the 8 a.m. fun run. There are six age categories for female runners (14-and-under to 50-and-over) and seven for male runners (14-and-under to 60-and-over).

Awards include: ribbons to all fun run finishers, Converse running shoes to the first-place finisher in each age group; medals to first-through-fifth place finishers in each group; and additional merchandise prizes.

Entry forms are available at several area sporting good stores, the Growth Works, and the Henry Ford Hospital's Fairlane Center in Dearborn and the Henry Ford Hospital West Bloomfield Center, 6777 West Maple Road.

Entry fees are $4 for the fun run and $6 for the four-mile run. For further information on the Plymouth Distance Classic, phone Growth Works at 455-4064.

Computer games are Aardvark forte

By PHILIP JEROME

MARS by Rodger Olsen — Your ship crashed on the Red Planet and you have to get home. You will have to explore a Martian city, repair your ship and deal with possibly hostile aliens to get home again.

— Advertisement Aardvark Adventure Series

Six years ago Rodger Olsen was working as a psychologist at Maxey's Boys Training Center in Whitmore Lake. Today at the age of 40, he's a millionaire several times over and president of Aardvark Systems, Ltd., a multi-national firm doing business from a run-down old home in Walled Lake.

Olsen, a huge, laid-back man, is one of those individuals who has made a fortune in the computer industry. Specifically, Aardvark is a software programming and distribution house, making games and adventures for nearly a dozen different types of home computers.

"Basically," explains Olsen, "I'm a toymaker. I make toys and games for home computers."

A Walled Lake resident for 10 years, Olsen became a high-tech millionaire almost by accident. "I've always been fascinated by numbers," he reported. "Even as a psychologist, I believed that if you can't explain it with numbers it's not real."

It was roughly six years ago that Olsen went out and spent $500 to purchase his own home computer. But the machine that would lead to formation of a multi-national company was at first a disappointment.

"I felt guilty for taking $500 out of the family budget to indulge my interest in numbers," he explained. "All it did was sit there and blink at me."

Determined to make use of his $500 expenditure, Olsen began to create his own computer games and quickly discovered he was good at it.

"I liked them, my kids liked them and the neighbor's kids liked them, too," he said, "so I took out a classified ad in one of the 15 magazines geared specifically to home computers."

The response was slow at first — a phenomenon which is not unusual because people who buy games through computer magazines have to learn to trust the company, according to Olsen.

But soon the orders started coming in. "We filled up the corner of my living room, then the whole living room, then the den and an addition to the house," Olsen reported. "We moved the business into this house at the corner of South Commerce and Decker Road, but now it's too small and we're looking to move again."

"Everybody is crawling all over everybody and we have to find a new location in order to keep up with the demand. There's simply not enough room to do all the things we have to do."

Aardvark Systems, Ltd., has grown considerably from a company that began with a man designing computer games in his living room.

And Olsen's role has changed considerably with the growth.

White he started as president of computer games, Olsen says he's now more of an "editor."

Aardvark actively recruits young authors, urging them to send in their game proposals by offering "the highest commissions in the industry" and pledging to give programs "the widest possible advertising coverage."

Olsen personally edits each game that's submitted. More importantly, he responds personally to each author, making suggestions on how their games can be improved to make them marketable.

It's that personal attention which has made Aardvark as successful as it is.

"Authors like to send us their games because they know Rodger takes a personal interest in every one of them," explained an Aardvark employee. "When you send us a game, you get back more than just a form letter — you get a personal letter back from the president of the company explaining what you did right, what you did wrong and what you can do to improve it."

Olsen believes the same level of attention to the company's vast mail-order division is responsible for Aardvark's success.

"Computer games is a very financially-lucrative business and lots of people have tried their hand at it," said Olsen. "Aardvark is the second oldest company of its type in the country and I've probably seen more than 1,000 competitors die off over the past six years."

"Now the big-money firms like Atari, Warner Brothers and Fox Studios are investing big money in the field, but we're not worried because they don't have our expertise and they don't have the customer-relations philosophy that we do."

Olsen said the true key to Aardvark's success is its guarantee, a guarantee that is unique in the industry. In essence, the guarantee says that if you don't like the game, send it back within 15 days for a full and unconditional refund.

"The reason we've survived so long," said Olsen, "is we offer better service to the user than any company has ever done. We have a phone number that people can call if their game isn't working right or they have a problem."

"We've survived in this business on the quality of our games and on customer service. It's the key to our success and it's something that will be maintained no matter how large we get."

"The guarantee and the service are what makes us unique. Some of the newer firms in the business have more money, but none of them will ever offer the service we do."

Aardvark currently is in the process of a major change in its distribution system. Previously, the company has sold its games almost exclusively by mail.

Olsen said Aardvark is the number one customer at the Walled Lake Post Office. "We receive four to five mail bags of orders per day and we send back at least that many filled with games," he said.

Now, however, Olsen is moving to market his Aardvark games through retail outlets.

"If 60 million people will buy computer games, only 20 million will buy them via mail orders," he explained. "What we want to do now is make our games available to the other 40 million people who buy their games at retail stores."

In addition, Olsen is in the midst of negotiating franchise agreements with companies overseas. Aardvark has recently completed negotiations with Logic III, Ltd., to market its games in Great Britain.

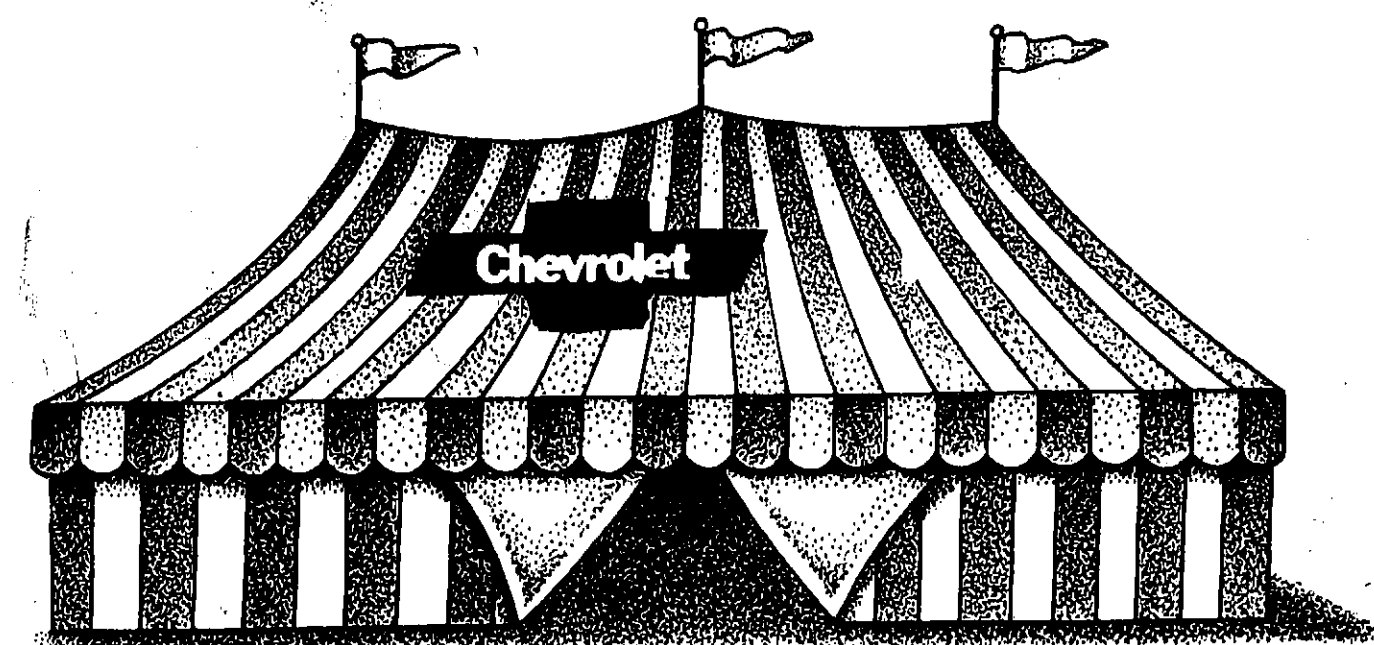

Franchise agreements with other firms have been reached to market the games in New Zealand, Hong Kong, Australia, Sweden, South Africa and Europe.

Aardvark President Rodger Olsen calls customer service his company's key to success

CO. AND VIZGIRDA, at 431 North Main Street, Milford, offers hand-painted greeting cards and invitations, personalized cards, pens and more.

Irene Vizgirda and Barbara Brish are the owners. The card shop, which opened in January 1983, specializes in personalized cards and art work, such as signs, menus, business announcements, book illustrations and one-of-a-kind cards for every, and any, occasion.

Vizgirda does the one-of-a-kind cards. In the past two years, working as the Card Lady Irene, she has made over 2,000 personalized cards.

"In this age of decreasing personalization," said Vizgirda, "it's the intent of Vizgirda and Co. to bring a touch of specialness and personalization to the traditional holiday-occasions and the nontraditional."

JUAN CARLOS has received the ADAM Award from the American Dairy Association of Michigan.

Co-owner John C. Hansen recently received the award created to honor restaurants and other dining places serving real dairy products including milk, butter, cheese, cream, sour cream and yogurt.

The ADAM plaque cites the Mexican restaurant's use of real dairy products and displays the American Dairy Association "REAL" seal symbolizing genuine dairy foods as opposed to imitation dairy products.

The ADAM commended the restaurant's "consistently high standards in food preparation and service." Juan Carlos's opened in December, 1982 at 148 Mary Alexander Court in Northville.

Business Briefs

RUSSELL GARDNER

RUSSELL GARDNER of 12575 Green Tree Trail in Green Oak Township has joined Farm Bureau Insurance Group (FBIG) as a new agent serving this area.

Gardner recently completed FBIG's month-long career development school for new agents. The training prepared him for the state insurance licensing examination and provided instruction in all areas of property, casualty and life insurance.

Gardner's training included Michigan State University's Institutes on Life and Property/Casualty Insurance and two weeks of instruction at the company's home office in Lansing.

Gardner joins a force of more than 420 FBIG agents serving 300,000 Michigan policy holders.

UNITED HOME HEALTH SERVICES has opened at 8619 Grand River, Brighton. Five women make up the governing group, including Dr. Shobhana Joshi, a psychiatrist who is on the staff of psychiatry at Ypsilanti State Hospital in addition to maintaining private practices in South Lyon and Ann Arbor.

Dorothy Roer of Farmington, a social worker who is owner of the Center for Physical Therapy in Brighton and the D & D Health Associates in Centerline, is one of promoters of the new service.

The service is set up to assist those who are temporarily or permanently disabled, those recovering from surgery, those in rehabilitation programs, those who are terminally ill and those coping with serious accident or illness.

The group offers registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, aides, companions, homemakers, chore providers, physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech pathologists, social workers and psychologists. In addition, the service has available spiritual counseling, home dentistry and podiatry care as well as psychiatric consultations and medical supplies and equipment.

The telephone number for the service is available by calling Brighton Information.

Three nurses, Marjorie Harmala of South Lyon, Stephanie Sparling of Plymouth and Jean Ekonen of Northville, make up the remainder of the governing staff of the new service. Harmala, a nurse for 24 years, is nurse consultant for the Alternative Intermediate Service (AIS) for the Mentally Retarded in Washtenaw County. Sparling is the former director of nursing at Ardmore Acres, a psychiatric hospital in Livonia. Ekonen is supervisor of nursing at Metropolitan Hospital West.

Harmala said the service's "excellent" receptionist/typist is a special education graduate of South Lyon High School.

J. MICHAEL CARVER, general manager of the Union Lake K-Mart discount department store, has received the Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce's first annual "Outstanding Citizen of the Year" award. The announcement was made by Chamber President Ronald M. Kidd.

Carver was cited for his support of civic and chamber functions. Among other activities, he chaired the Sponsors Committee for Muscular Dystrophy United Days for Union Lake and Commerce Villages.

Carver also has accepted a beautification award from the Lakes Area Chamber for improvements to the grounds of the K mart store at 2905 Union Lake Road.

Novi industrial park certified

Novex industrial park received Michigan Certified Industrial Park status in recent ceremonies in Novi.

To receive certification the park passed inspection processes established by the Michigan Industrial Developers Association in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Minimum standards were set up by the organizations in an effort to foster uniformity in use of the term "industrial park." At one time industrial parks ranged "from the highly sophisticated, organized industrial district to the isolated cornfield completely lacking in basic services and amenities," according to a history of the certification program.

Michigan was the first state to initiate a certification program. Ray Schwenn, Michigan Industrial developer's coordinator for certification of industrial parks, explains the process puts local industrial parks into Department of Commerce marketing promotions.

Parks are recertified every three years to insure minimum requirements are being maintained. Minimum requirements include 40 acres of industrially-zoned land; water, sewer and utilities in place; an all-weather road with highway access; and a set of protective covenants to insure uses with neighbors within the park.

On hand for the ceremonies in Novi were members of the Michigan Industrial Developers' Association Don Foytek, site location consultant and area development marketing and customer relations and Charlotte Mahoney, senior area development analyst market development. City officials at the festivities were Mayor Robert Schmid, Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver and Community Development Director John Hazelroth.

Commission examines wage discrimination

The Michigan Civil Service Commission agreed recently to seek help from a blue-ribbon task force in determining how to achieve "comparable worth" — elimination of wage discrimination based on sex due to labor market and social factors — in the Michigan classified services.

A staff report to the commission indicates jobs traditionally held by women are valued at less than are classifications at similar skill levels dominated by men.

"The issue of concern is not whether we should or should not take steps to eliminate wage discrimination based on sex, where it exists," said Commissioner John F. Dodge, Jr. of Grosse Pointe Park. "The question is one of strategy."

The task force will be formed and assigned to explore specific questions and make recommendations on cost and collective bargaining factors late this summer.

It will be told to provide answers "as quickly and as surely as possible," Dodge said.

Since solving the issue is likely to involve high costs and significant public policy issues, the task force is to include legislators, a representative for the governor and several persons from the private sector, the commission indicated.

Commission chairperson Michael A. Dively of Albion said comparable worth "is a major issue of the '80s and the commission is in a national leadership role in addressing it."

In other actions, the commission: Approved changes in the unclassified positions in six departments where department heads requested realignments to accommodate reorganization.

Approved a collective bargaining agreement in the Human Services support unit of state employees, except for a provision dealing with contractual services which violates commission rules.

Provided temporary waiver of rules to allow the Department of Civil Rights to lay off all of its employees for up to four days without losing fringe benefits during the remainder of the current fiscal year. The action is to meet severe budget problems.

Approved immediate implementation of a higher cap on annual leave accrual by state employees with long service, and acted to allow payment of clothing allowances to certain Department of Natural Resources investigators.

Heard a number of presentations by state employees and their representatives on several issues.

Tire recall law altered

A new voluntary vehicle tire registration program took effect June 20, prompting a tire safety group to urge buyers to make sure that a form is filled out so that they can be contacted in event of a recall.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) proposed a recent change in federal law that relieves independent tire dealers and distributors from the requirement to register tires for the buyer.

"They are now only required to give the buyer a registration form containing the tire identification number from the sidewall of the tire."

"The manufacturer can't get in touch with you directly unless he has your name and address on file," said Donald G. Brozman, chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council.

"While a recall is not likely, it is important to make sure your tires are properly registered just in case."

PHILLIPS TRAVEL SERVICE located at 110 North Lafayette, South Lyon is introducing travelers to Delta Air Lines' DATAS II, an automated, unbiased computer reservations and ticketing system, according to Dallas Phillips, owner of the travel service.

"The complexity of today's travel industry has made automation an important factor in our plans for growth and success," Phillips said. "Delta's DATAS II meets the travel counselor's needs for accurate and unbiased information concerning fares, schedules and related support functions necessary to provide superior customer service."

Phillips explained that DATAS II will give his customers flight information on any United States airline in the same unbiased sequence as it appears in an airline guide. "For this reason," Phillips noted, "our agency signed a contract for this unbiased reservations system soon after Delta announced it."

Vincent Durocher, Delta's district marketing manager, said, "We are delighted that Phillips Travel is introducing DATAS II in the South Lyon area. The travel industry's response to it has been positive and we're told time and again by our friends in the travel agent community that our unbiased, advanced-technology system is what they want." Durocher added that Phillips is one of the nation's first travel agencies to contract for Delta's computer system.

Realtors can tell value of addition

Improvement in existing home sales after a three-year slump is bringing realtors back into the market, according to members of Metro M.L.S., the multi-listing arm of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors.

Members reported a 19.3 percent increase in listings in the first six months of 1983 compared to a year earlier.

Some sellers are finding that improvements made to the home in expectation of the restored market are offering added value now and encouraging more buyer interest.

Others who made less judicious improvement decisions are finding the opposite is true.

Thomas A. Duke Jr., Metro M.L.S. president, said many homeowners apparently don't recognize that Realtors are ready to offer counsel in such matters before projects are undertaken. Duke said Realtors remain the best source of information on neighborhood growth patterns, current housing trends and what is required to make a home saleable.

"Realtors know what competing homes on the market in the same general price range have to offer and can advise future sellers on how far they should go to keep pace."

"The two main concerns when considering remodeling or repairs are the return you will get on investment at time of sale and if the changes will work to move the home off the market faster," Duke said.

"Also to be considered, of course, is the length of time you will remain in the house to enjoy the improvements."

As a general guide, Duke said modernizing a kitchen or updating a bathroom usually pays off in resale value. The cost of adding a full bath may not, unless the house has several bedrooms and only a single bath.

Basement recreation rooms, a one-time plus, many now detract buyers, while a family room off the kitchen has grown in popularity and has wide appeal. The demand for central air conditioning has grown, but window and wall units seldom add to resale value.

Outdoors, a patio may help sell the home, but returns less than half its cost. A standard driveway is well worth maintaining. An elaborate U-shaped drive, which adds to maintenance trouble and cost, may turn buyers off unless it's a large home with extensive grounds.

Like interior decorating, landscaping is a matter of personal taste, and it is not economically sound to invest in many new plantings as a sales aid. Bedraggled landscaping does harm overall appearance, however, and may hinder a sale unless it is removed or trimmed into shape.

Unless it's required to bring the home up to code and pass inspection, wide-scale plumbing changes or increasing a home's electrical capacity usually go unnoticed. Aluminum siding, storm windows and cedar shingles, although more visible, also bring little cash return.

"The wise seller," said Duke, "tries to place himself in the buyer's position. Then it's easier to decide what low cost improvements can be made to make the home more appealing and which ones will drive up the price and bring buyer resistance."

"If average homes in the neighborhood are selling at $65,000 and your home is valued at $60,000, you might get most of a $5,000 investment back if it's made for the right improvement. But if contemplated changes would cost $15,000, you would do much better to attempt to sell the home pretty much as is at a lower than average price."

Chase The Blues All Summer

Blue is beautiful in the summertime. Beautiful in the summer sky, the peaceful lake, the shining sea, the cornflower and the bluebird. Mostly, blue is beautiful in blueberries, where there's a double dividend—you not only can see the color, but you can taste the flavor.

Summer is also a time for marriages, when something blue is a traditional part of the festivities. One of the most satisfactory marriages is that between blueberries and unflavored gelatin. Use them to create recipes that are natural, flavorful and wholesome. Unflavored gelatin contains no artificial ingredients or sugar, and blueberries are a completely natural treat. They belong with one another because the unflavored gelatin gives recipes the support they need while letting the fresh blueberry flavor shine through. The results are appealing and refreshing dishes guaranteed to live happily ever after.

Any time of day can be blueberry time. Mornings start out great when Berry Blueberry Jam is on the breakfast table to spread a little homemade flavor on toast, muffins or croissants. Cool and creamy Summer Blueberry Soup is a delicious make-ahead surprise. There aren't too many soups like this that can be enjoyed for breakfast, as a dinner appetizer, as a mid-afternoon or mid-night snack or as a delightful dessert.

When afternoons call for entertaining or just lounging, Shimmering Blueberry Salad can quench a parched palate with its light and clearly refreshing combination of blueberries, oranges and rose' wine. Everyone knows that blueberries are a regal berry, and Fresh Blueberry Cheesecake is fit for a king with its lusciously light cheese filling crowned with rings of blueberries and whipped cream. Part of the blues-chasing attraction of all these dishes including creamy Blueberry Ice Cream is their ease of fixing and the delight in the faces of those who sample them.

The blueberry season is short, but these recipes can all be prepared with readily available unflavored gelatin and dry-pack frozen blueberries when the fresh have passed. Enjoy these wonderful dishes whenever you want to chase the blues, summertime or anytime.

Berry Blueberry Jam

2 cups (1 pint) fresh blueberries
One third cup sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup water

In medium saucepan, combine blueberries with sugar, cook 5- minutes, crushing berries slightly. Bring to a boil, then boil rapidly, stirring constantly, 3- minutes. Stir in orange peel.

In small bowl, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over water, let stand 1- minute. Add to blueberries; stir over low heat until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 5- minutes. Ladle into jars; cover and cool slightly before refrigerating. Makes about 2 cups jam.

Shimmering Blueberry Salad

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
One third cup sugar
One and one-half cups boiling water
2 cups rose' wine
2 cups (1 pint) fresh blueberries
1 can (12 ounces) mandarin oranges, drained

In medium bowl, mix unflavored gelatin with sugar. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Stir in wine. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in blueberries and oranges. Turn into five and one-half cup mold or bowl; chill until firm. Makes about 10 servings.

Summer Blueberry Soup

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
One-quarter cup sugar
2 and one-half cups water
2 Tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups (1 pint) fresh blueberries
One-half teaspoon ground cinnamon or aromatic bitters
1 cup (one-half pint) light cream or half and half

In medium saucepan, mix unflavored gelatin with sugar; blend in 1 cup water. Let stand 1- minute. Stir over low heat until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 5- minutes. Stir in remaining water, lemon juice, blueberries and cinnamon. Simmer, stirring frequently and crushing berries slightly, 15- minutes or until blueberries are tender. Cool completely; stir in cream. Chill 4- hours or overnight. Garnish, if desired, with lemon slices and additional blueberries. Makes about 1- quart soup. Note: Soup will thicken upon chilling.

Fresh Blueberry Cheesecake

Pastry for single-crust pie
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup (one-half pint) cold light cream or half and half
1 cup (one-half pint) light cream or half and half, heated to boiling
2 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
One-half cup sugar
2 Tablespoons orange liqueur
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup ice cubes (about six or eight)
2 to 2 and one-half cups fresh blueberries
Whipped cream

Preheat oven to 450 degrees.

Press pastry into 10-inch by 2-inch fluted quiche/flan pan or 9-inch deep-dish pie pan; prick bottom and sides with fork. Bake 10 minutes or until golden; cool.

In 5-cup blender, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over cold cream; let stand 3 to 4- minutes. Add hot cream and process at low speed until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 2- minutes. Add cream cheese, sugar, liqueur and vanilla; process at high speed until blended. Add ice cubes, one at a time; process at high speed until ice is melted. Let stand until mixture is slightly thickened, about 5- minutes.

Arrange 1 cup blueberries in prepared pan; add gelatin mixture. Chill until firm. Garnish with remaining blueberries and whipped cream. Makes about 8 servings.

Blueberry Ice Cream

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
One-half cup cold milk
One-half cup milk, heated to boiling
2 cups (1 pint) fresh blueberries
Three-fourths cup sugar
2 cups (1 pint) whipping or heavy cream, whipped

In 5-cup blender, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over cold milk; let stand 3 to 4- minutes. Add hot milk and process at low speed until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 2- minutes. Let cool completely. Add blueberries and sugar; process at high speed until blended. Pour into large bowl and chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon.

Fold whipped cream into gelatin mixture. Pour into 2 1/4-inch by 10-inch freezer trays or 8-inch baking pan; freeze until firm. Makes about 1-1 and one-half quarts ice cream.

Walled Lake library offers "stories in the park"

The Walled Lake City Library will hold a "Stories in the Park" program at Bicentennial Park behind the Commerce Township Hall next Tuesday from noon to 12:45 p.m. Children from 3-12 years old are invited to bring a brown bag lunch and enjoy the stories. Call the library at 624-3772 for more information.

Two free films will be shown at the Walled Lake library on Friday, August 12, at 5 p.m. The films will be "Mandy's Grandmother" and "Lafacado, The Lion who Shot Back."

Admission is free, but children under six must be accompanied by an adult. Call 624-3772 for more information.

Community Notes

WIXOM LIBRARY: The Summer Reading Program will offer a program entitled "Show Your Skill" this Friday at 2 p.m. The afternoon of indoor games includes a maze, riddles, crossword puzzles, connect the dots and checkers. It is designed for 8-12 year olds. Call 625-3515 for details.

RICHARDSON CENTER: Hot lunches are served at the center Monday through Friday at noon. The center is located at 1485 Oakley Park Road. Call 624-1266 for more information.

CLASS OF '73: Walled Lake West-rn's Class of 1973 is planning its 10-year class reunion. Persons interested in assisting are asked to call Carol at 624-2780 or Dawn at 887-3337.

CLASS OF '68: Walled Lake High School's Class of 1968 will hold its 15th reunion at the Mama Mia Restaurant in Union Lake on August 20 at 8 p.m. Class members who have not been notified should call Linda at 669-1266 or Sharon at 360-1552.

CLASS OF '58: The Walled Lake High School Class of 1958 is planning its 25th reunion and looking for classmates. Class members are asked to call Bonnie at 363-6876 or Mike at 624-4571.

FLUORIDE PROGRAM: The Walled Lake School District, in conjunction with the Oakland County Health Department, is offering a Summer Tropical Fluoride Program for children of all ages. The program will be held in Room 103 at Walled Lake Junior High through August 5.

The cost is $4 per child. Children's teeth will be checked, cleaned and fluoride applied in one visit. For further details call 624-0202.

MUSIC LOVERS: The Novi Parks and Recreation Department has announced a schedule of summer concerts, one of which includes Craig Strain's Brookside Jazz Band. All concerts are free and begin at 6:30 p.m. The Brookside Jazz Band will perform next Tuesday, August 9, at the West Oaks shopping center and the Renaissance Brass Quintet will perform August 30 at Village Oaks Elementary School.

STAGECRAFT COURSE: As part of the K-12 Enrichment Short Course Series, the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College will offer a new class in Theater Stagecraft on Mondays and Wednesdays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. beginning August 8. Jamie Mason will teach the course. For more information call 471-7595 or 471-7567.

Historical society planning oldtime country fair

The Novi Historical Society under the direction of President Ruthellen Crawford will sponsor a "Country Fair" at Novi Middle School North on September 24-25.

Purpose of the fair is to raise funds to move the Old Novi Township Hall from its present location on Novi Road to the municipal complex at Ten Mile and Taft Road.

The fair will include a flea market and an auction. Anyone with items to donate is asked to call Crawford at 348-0498. Also planned are hot-air balloon rides, pony rides and hayrides.

In addition, the oldtime country fair flavor will be re-created through cake-baking and floral-arranging contests as well as a chili-making competition. More information on the country fair will be available at the society's next meeting on August 18 in the Novi Public Library.

PARKS & REC: A rollerskating party for students in grades 1-12 will be held at the Bonaventure Roller skating Center tonight (Wednesday) from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The rollerskating is free but there's a $1 fee for skate rental. Call 349-1976 for more information.

Today (Wednesday) also is the last day to register for the Adult Tennis Tourney which will be held this weekend at the Novi High School courts. Cost is $5 for residents and $10 for non-residents.

The Brookside Jazz Ensemble, featuring Novi High School Band Director Craig Strain on trumpet, will offer a free concert at Twelve Oaks Mall next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. The concert is part of the Parks and Rec Department's summer concert series.

The final session of tennis lessons begins August 6 and runs for three weeks. There are classes for all levels of play from beginner to advanced. Call 349-1976 for more information.

Novi Highlights By Jeanne Clarke 624-0173

The Summer Youth Theater program will come to a close this Saturday with the presentation of excerpts from "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." Students in the program have learned all aspects of theater arts from lighting and set design to make-up and acting. The play will be presented in the Novi Community Building at 8 p.m. Tickets are priced at $2.

The Parks and Rec Department still has discount tickets good through Labor Day to the Michigan State Fair as well as numerous major amusement parks.

WELCOME WAGON: The Novi Welcome Wagon will hold its popular "saled luncheon" at the Novi United Methodist Church on August 24 at 11:30 a.m. Reservations are being accepted by Sue Lyle at 348-8222 or Sue Barton at 474-6060. Deadline for reservations is August 17.

Plans for the fall will be discussed at the next board meeting at Pat Kortland's home on August 16. Plans include a craft auction and the first "new member" coffee of the fall.

In addition, committees will be formed to head the various activity groups which include exercise sessions, bowling, cards, Out to Lunch, Out to the Movies and Mom and Tot's Sewing Time.

The Improv Activities group is continuing through August under the direction of Pam Wozniak. Trips are being planned to Kensington, Maybury State Park, the Detroit Zoo and Belle Isle.

Trips are announced with as little as a day's notice. Call Wozniak at 348-0295 to get on the calling list.

The Welcome Wagon Club is designed to help newcomers to Novi make new friends and learn about the community. The club offers a variety of activities that range from social and recreational to community service projects.

METHODIST CHURCH: The Novi Methodist Church will offer a non-denominational day care center called "Children's Ark" this fall. Beginning September 6, the day care center will be open Monday through Friday from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. under the direction of Nancy Ottner. More information is available by calling the church office at 348-2632 or Ottner at 348-0392.

Richard Cartwright has been elected president of the Methodist Men's Club. Other new officers are Leon Doolin, vice president; Russ Button Jr., secretary; and Larry Maki, treasurer.

The church is sponsoring a camp program for families at Judson Collins Camp in the Irish Hills over the Labor Day weekend, September 2-5. Campground facilities are available for tents or recreational units. Activities will include hiking, swimming, boating and golf as well as the numerous commercial attractions in the Irish Hills. Call the church office for additional information.

PERSONALS: Mrs. Mabel Ash of Garfield Road has returned from Wichita, Kansas, where she attended the funeral of her brother, Jack Rogers. Mark Orvine was one of 14 students who attended a three-week tour of Europe sponsored by Indiana University. Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Orvine. The tour was designed to expose retail/merchandising students to an international concept. Students visited the Wool Institute in England and the Gucci factory in Italy. They also met Emilio Pucci, who took them on a tour of his five-story palace in Milan. Other countries on the tour were France and Switzerland.

Dolite Aiegnani has returned from a three-week trip to Idaho where she visited her granddaughter, Debra Haury, in Payette and traveled by Amtrak to visit another granddaughter, Pamela Aiegnani, in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Russ Button drove an estimated 7,000 miles on a recent trip to visit relatives in Oregon and California. The trip also included a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Warren, former Novi residents now living in Texas. The Buttons also visited Yellowstone Park, Old Faithful and the famous red wood forest in Sequoia National Park in addition to watching the "Passion Play" in Black Hills, South Dakota.

NOVI KIWANS: Roger Emert has been named chairman of the Kiwanis Club's annual peanut sale which has been scheduled for September 15-16. Proceeds from the sale will be used by the Kiwanians for community service projects for youngsters and senior citizens.

Other fund-raising projects include the sale of green and white Novi bumper stickers for 50 cents apiece and heavy-duty garbage bags. The bumper stickers and trash bags are available at Random House Interiors in the A&P shopping center at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road.

The club meets every Wednesday at the Red Timbers on Grand River at 7 p.m. Anyone interested in information about membership should call President Vic Carroll at 348-6061 or Paul Wilson at 478-4000.

OLIHSA CENTER: Thirty-six seniors from the OLHSA Center attended the Interregional Picnic at Lakeshore Park recently. They enjoyed games and a picnic with youngsters at the Novi Parks and Recreation Department's summer playground program.

The seniors already are planning their annual Crafts Bazaar. Work sessions will be held every Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

The OLHSA Center in the Novi Community Building will be closed today (Wednesday) so seniors can attend the Daniel Murphy picnic and summerfest at the Richardson Center in Commerce Township. Seniors will be served both breakfast and lunch, and can participate in a wide variety of activities. Entertainment will be provided by the Mel-o-deers, a group of seniors from the OLHSA Center in Pinckney.

Dorothy Overway, Alma Wagner and Mary Connell won the recent pinocle tournament at the Novi Center. Area seniors interested in making new friends and participating in a variety of activities are encouraged to call Director Anna Gargalino at the OLHSA Center in Novi at 349-5700. The center is open Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

AMERICAN LEGION: Installation ceremonies for new officers will be held this Saturday. Officers to be installed are Norm Schollett, commander; Ray Tobias, senior vice commander; Willard Olson, junior vice commander; Bob Polham, finance officer; Ed Williams, historian; and Paul Root, chaplain. Other new officers are Roger Olson, sergeant-at-arms; Lee Blackburn, adjutant; and Ken Bell, service officer.

Norm Schollett and Lee Blackburn will present a report on the state convention at the next meeting August 9 in the VFW Post Home on Grand River.

The Legion is now forming an auxiliary. Charter night for the new organization will be August 16 at the Grand River VFW Hall. Women who are relatives of Legion members are eligible for membership. Also eligible are women who served in the Armed Forces or are relatives of individuals who gave their lives in defense of their country. Anyone interested in membership is asked to call Lee Blackburn at 453-2347 or Audrey Blackburn at 474-5504 for more information.

BEVERLY MANOR: Residents interested in working with residents at the Beverly Manor Convalescent Center are invited to attend the next meeting of the Community Council on August 18. Activities Director John Christensen can be reached at 477-2000 for more details.

The Community Council recently sponsored an ice cream social attended by more than 20 patients and their families. Mike Meyer of the Holy Family Church provided entertainment on his guitar and led a sing-along.

New programs in the works include an Adult Education Program through the South Lyon School District and another program entitled "By Invitation Only" which enables residents to dine in local restaurants.

Families are still needed to participate in the "Adopt a Grandparent" program. Parents who would like their children to have a relationship with an older person are encouraged to call Christensen at 477-2000 to find out details.

Activities for the remainder of August include weekly cookouts, movies and a garden club.

Honeymoon in Bahamas follows wedding service

A wedding trip to the Bahamas followed the marriage of April Lee Derrick, daughter of Jack and Linda Derrick of Novi, and Walter Ray Koch of 4722 Hickory in Wixom.

He is the son of the senior Walter Ray Kochs of Riverview.

The Reverend Leslie Harding officiated at the 4:30 p.m. service at Holy Cross Episcopal Church in Novi.

The bride wore a white gown styled with a sheer, embroidered yoke edged with deep ruffle of lace. Lace detailing also adorned the long, puffed sleeves. A hat held her illusion veil. She carried a silk flower bouquet of white and tiny lavender roses.

Honor attendant was Margaret Pierce. Bridesmaids were Christina Derrick, Teresa Larkins and Terry Smith. Tracy Thiede was flower girl. They wore lavender gowns styled with a deep, ruffle encircling the shoulders and sashed with matching satin ribbon. They carried parasols.

Alan Ritchie was best man. Ushers were Scott Derrick, Eric Menkin and Mike Welsh. Lucas Derrick was ring bearer.

A reception for approximately 285 guests followed at Wayne Amvets Hall in Garden City.

The couple spent a week at the Ambassador Beach Bahamas.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Novi High School and currently is attending Oakland Community College while working as a Service Merchandise assistant department manager.

The bridegroom is a 1975 graduate of Riverview High School and a graduate of Rets School of Electronics. He currently is employed at Service Merchandise in Southfield as assistant unit manager.

Couples report engagements

MAUREEN MAHAN

The engagement of Maureen Therese Mahan of Novi to Patrick Lawrence Beagle of Walled Lake is announced by her mother, Mrs. Cynthia Mahan of Taft Road. The bride-elect also is the daughter of the late Daniel J. Mahan.

A 1979 Novi High School graduate, the bride-to-be graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelor of science degree in biology in 1983. She currently is employed by the Detroit Optometric Center.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Walled Lake Western High School in 1976 and obtained an associates degree in business administration from Oakland Community College in 1979. The son of Mr. and Richard T. Beagle of Walled Lake, he currently works for Oakland County.

A November wedding is planned.

DAWN ELLEN SPERO

The engagement of Dawn Ellen Spero to Randal Joseph DeShone is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomas Spero of Farmington Hills. The bride-to-be is a 1979 Novi High School graduate and a 1982 graduate of Eastern Michigan University. She currently is employed at the Holiday Inn of Southfield.

Her prospective husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. DeShone of Saginaw. He graduated from Saginaw MacArthur High School in 1969 and attended both Delta College and Eastern Michigan.

He is employed by Francis Construction Company of Saginaw.

An October wedding is planned.

St. Williams announces Rainbow Days

There may be a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow after all. At the very least, there's games, prizes, carnival rides, cotton candy and entertainment galore.

That's the word from Peggy Thatcher, who is helping organize Rainbow Days, a three-day outdoor extravaganza slated for late August in Walled Lake.

"It's going to be like another Paul Bryan Days," Thatcher said, comparing the upcoming event to the Union Lake Jaycees' annual fair or the Novi Jaycees' Gala Days.

Sponsored by St. Williams' Church and with the assistance of local service clubs, Rainbow Days will be held August 19-21 on the church grounds.

"We have high hopes - we're really looking forward to it."

There's a lot to look forward to. The list of events is packed as tight as sardines in a can, with a polka dance, Italian dinner, pancake breakfast, chicken barbecue, square dance, helicopter rides and three days of bingo.

The full slate leads to Thatcher's next challenge: recruiting enough volunteers to staff the plethora of activities.

"We're going to need a lot of workers," she said. "We'll need to staff the events for three days all day long, so we'll need lots of help."

She urges any parishioners of St. Williams' Church who would like to get involved in the festival to contact her, 624-2960, or fair organizer Gary Govan, 624-0274, to sign up.

Additionally, artisans who are interested in renting a booth to sell their handcrafted items should call Adele Piotinski, 624-0725, to reserve table space. Booths are available for $40 for the weekend, while booths with tables go for $45 for the weekend, Thatcher said.

Festival organizers recently kicked off Rainbow Days planning by displaying four cars - one of which will be awarded to a lucky raffle ticket holder during the three-day event.

A preliminary schedule of events includes a gambling tent, beer tent, video games, three days of bingo, arts and crafts sales, carnival rides, dunk tank, helicopter rides, fire department water battle, game booths and a bake sale.

Additionally, the Knights of Columbus will host a Polish feast Friday and an Italian dinner Saturday; the St. Williams' Theatre group will host a pancake breakfast Sunday and the parish Mission Club will sponsor a barbecued chicken dinner Sunday afternoon.

The St. Williams' Rosary Altar Society will run a French booth featuring crepes and other French cuisine, while the parish Teen Club will run the dunk tank.

The Walled Lake Jaycees and Jayettes also are planning to run game booths, while other local service clubs are considering participating as well.

CITY OF WIXOM NOTICE

RESIDENTS:

The City of Wixom will have a ballot question on the City General Election, Tuesday, November 8th, 1983 which will ask for approval of a revision in the Charter for the City of Wixom, abolishing the position of Assistant to the Mayor and establish a City Manager form of government. The City Manager would be appointed by, and responsible to, the City Council. The City of Wixom requires nine members to form the Charter Commission. The Charter Commission would revise the City of Wixom Charter to eliminate any sections therein which might prove to be in conflict with the establishment of a City Manager form of government. The said Commissioners according to the statute, must be electors of the City of Wixom.

Nomination petitions for the City General Election to be held on Tuesday, November 8th, 1983 are available now at the City Clerk's Office, 48045 Pontiac Trail, Wixom, Michigan, 48090.

Nominating petitions must be filed with the City Clerk no later than 4:00 P.M. on Tuesday, September 20th, 1983.

Novi Optimists formed

Novi has a new service club. Optimists Club International has announced the formation of the Optimist Club of Novi.

The Optimists, a civic and professional club, invites area businessmen and organizational executives to meet with others to promote local civic projects, help guide youth in developing into responsible citizens, help each other with solutions to mutual problems and promote local commerce.

The Novi Optimist Club meets every Wednesday at the Magic Pan Restaurant in Twelve Oaks Mall from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. The meetings include breakfast and a presentation on a different informative topic each week.

The Novi Optimist Club also serves the communities of Walled Lake, Wixom, Northville, Milford, South Lyon and Canton.

For more information call Scott Adams at 584-0350 during the day or at 349-4126 during the evening.

Providence sets tours

A 30-minute tour of the emergency treatment area, laboratory and x-ray departments at Providence Hospital's Novi Ambulatory Care Center is available to local children's groups weekdays by appointment.

Sandy Lopatowski, R.N. and director of the emergency care center, said the hospital is anxious to acquaint youngsters with the look of the rooms and equipment and allow them to know the staff.

"We find that a short time with us on a relaxed occasion can ease the emotional trauma some children experience with an emergency visit," she said. "We'd like children to be familiar with the place and ask questions."

"We want them to know we are caring people who are here to help them."

Scout groups, 4-H clubs, Campfire girls and other small groups of youngsters are welcome at the Novi Center located on Ten Mile at Haggerty Road. For advance arrangements call Nellie Grimwade at 471-0413.

NOVI-WALLED LAKE NEWS

There'll be pickin' and strummin' in Northville

Music lovers can treat themselves to some of the best in American-bred sounds when Northville hosts its Seventh Annual Folk and Bluegrass Festival this Saturday and Sunday.

Sponsored by Tom Rice of The Gifford music store in downtown Northville, the festival is expected to attract throngs of folk and bluegrass fans to Northville's Ford Field.

The annual event serves as a benefit for Huntington's Disease and is billed this year as special tribute to the late Woody and Marjorie Guthrie.

"Name" performers such as Peter "Mad Cat" Ruth, Dean Rutledge, and—barring a scheduling conflict—Josh White, Jr. join some of the best regional talents in the weekend songfest.

Since the performances are donated and many of the overhead costs are covered similarly, the festival is one of the best entertainment bargains going—eight hours or more of respected musical talent giving its best for an audience that pays a minimum donation of $4 each day. Children under 12 and senior citizens pass through the gates at $2 each, infants in arms free.

"If I had to pay these people their normal rates, admission would be $15 or more a head," Rice said. "Sometimes I think people pass us by because they think they aren't going to get much for only $4, but these are the same performers they pay $15 or $20 to see somewhere else."

The setting in a city park promotes a family atmosphere. Rice strives to maintain. Last year he brought in a beer tent, but will not do so again "because I didn't like what happened—I ended up with a bar back there, a bunch of people hanging around the tent."

Those attending are still encouraged to bring their coolers containing their beverage of choice, a picnic lunch and lawn chairs or a blanket to spread on the grass before the stage.

"It's really a nice place to picnic—it's mellow, no rowdies and there's plenty of room in the park, you can bring the kids and let them run around without bothering anyone."

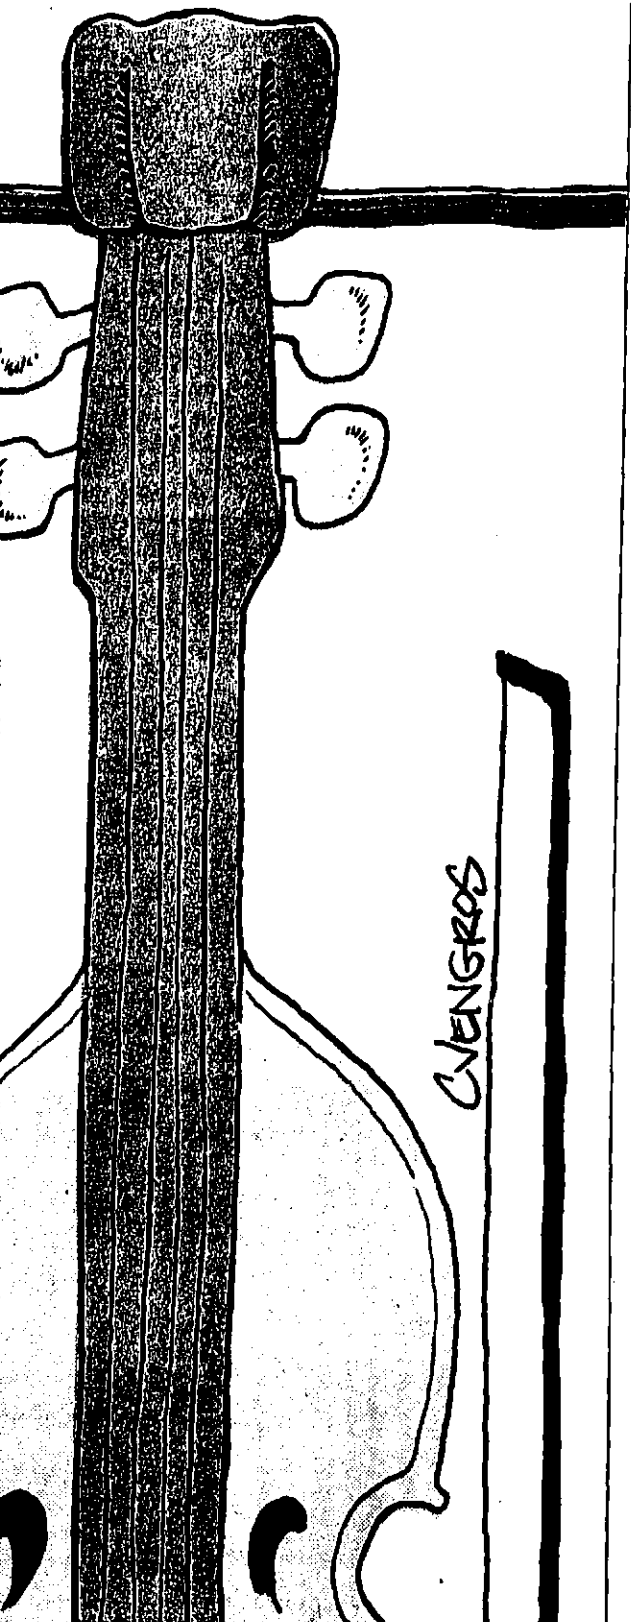

Hot dogs donated by Hy-Grade and Coke will be sold on the field, a concessionaire with a line of sandwiches will be there and Gurnsey Dairy sells ice cream.

The festival will proceed regardless of weather. Rain or shine, those with a fancy for banjo or fiddle music should plan on arriving for festivities sometime prior to the 1 p.m. opening.

Noting it has rained five of the past six years, Rice suggests those attending bring rain gear.

"It's never rained all day—it always goes away. If you don't want to sit it out on the field, many of the stores and especially restaurants in downtown Northville will be open," Rice said.

Free parking will be provided throughout the downtown area, with parking on Griswold Street and lots on Hutton nearest to the event. Most city lots are within easy walking distance of the field. Gates to Ford Field, one each off Hutton and Griswold, open at 12:30 p.m. both days.

Here's what Diane Bish, Novi's head librarian, claims are her five favorite ways to spend her free time:

1. DAY TRIPS, especially to Frankenmuth. We've been trying to go there at least once a year in late summer or early fall to choose one exotic place to spend Christmas dinner at. Bronnens and then have a chicken dinner at Zehnders.
2. EXPLORING MUSEUMS, libraries and bookstores. The Gerald Ford Museum in Grand Rapids is a favorite.
3. NATURE HIKES. The natural wonders at Kensington Metropark are awe-inspiring. Also, rock collecting on the secluded shores of the Great Lakes.
4. EATING OUT WITH FRIENDS. The Mexican food at El Nibbio Nook on Eight Mile near Grand River is a treat every time.
5. EXPLORING NEW HOMES. The new models offer all sorts of ideas for changes in our own home.

Saratoga Trunk: A storage bin of Victorian Era

restaurant review
DIANE KOVACS

Walking into the Saratoga Trunk is like walking into another era.

Faded but elegant settings and fine old antiques in the foyer recall the plush elegance of the Victorian Age of the late 1800s. Victoriana is a theme carried throughout the venerable restaurant located on Grand River in Novi, less than a mile east of Novi Road.

Although the restaurant itself has not been around since the Victorian Age, it does have a long tradition of fine dining.

Originally known as the Saratoga Farm, the restaurant enjoyed a fine reputation during the Fifties for its outstanding fried chicken, homemade dumplings and deep-dish apple pie.

The Saratoga Farm was acquired approximately 12 years ago by Peter Phillips, who did extensive remodeling and changed the name to the Saratoga Trunk.

The entire restaurant has been designed to recall the plush elegance of Victoriana. The original Saratoga Trunk was a short railroad line which had its terminus in Saratoga, New York, and the theme of extravagantly plush dining cars is carried throughout the Novi restaurant.

The seats in the small, comfortable lounge resemble old Pullman coach seats with high backs that afford plenty of privacy. The main dining room is small enough to offer a feeling of intimacy that's enhanced by lace-curtained windows overlooking green lawns. A large mirror at the back of the room adds a feeling of depth to what is generally a small dining area.

Dark, wooden beams on the ceiling and plush red velvet drapes help complete the Victoriana motif.

Although the original Saratoga Farm built its reputation on the quality of its chicken, the current Saratoga Trunk has a more varied menu that Phillips describes as predominantly American with touches of French and Italian cuisine.

Entrees are reasonably priced ($7.50 to $12.50) and include several varieties of steaks and seafood as well as lamb chops, baked ham, sautéed baby beef liver and roast pork tenderloin.

The Italian influence is provided by two veal dishes—prosciutto veal oscar and veal prosciutto au calvados, slices of veal with mushrooms and apples. Victorian chateaubriand and a silver platter of seafood are available if ordered 40 hours in advance.

Meals include a green tossed salad and vegetable du jour or choice of potato. A bean salad served shortly after you sit down is a pleasant surprise, and also is included in the price of the meal.

While dining at the Saratoga Trunk recently, my companion and I were pleased to find several unusual varieties of lettuce in the dinner salad. My friend ordered the baked pike which was served simply but elegantly. I was quite pleased with the Shiraz Saratoga, a comfortable but not overpowering serving of shrimp sautéed in garlic butter, sherry wine and cognac.

Desserts run the gamut from fruit-covered cheese cakes to tortes, but for the adventurous there are two flame desserts—Strawberries Romanoff and Bananas Tropicale—which are prepared with a flourish at your table.

We passed up the Bananas Tropicale, a favorite dessert during previous visits to the Saratoga Trunk, in deference to a homemade chocolate mousse, which was delicious with its deep, rich chocolate taste.

All in all, dining at the Saratoga Trunk is an enjoyable experience: good food at reasonable prices in a pleasant, relaxed atmosphere which is elegant without being overbearing.

Saratoga Trunk, 4260 Grand River, Novi, 48277, 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 5-9 p.m. Sunday. Liquor license. Visa, MasterCard, Diner's Club, Carte Blanche.

TRIPLE THE DIFFERENCE GUARANTEE

To convince you of PAK-n-SAVE's commitment to low prices, we're making this offer: If you can find lower prices overall this week at any supermarket in the community PAK-n-SAVE will pay you triple the difference. Just shop at PAK-n-SAVE. Buy 25 different items, excluding meat and store brands totalling $20 or more. Compare prices on the identical brand and size items at any supermarket in the community. If their total is lower, bring your itemized PAK-n-SAVE receipt and the other supermarket's prices to PAK-n-SAVE and we'll pay triple the difference IN CASH.

FOOD WAREHOUSE EVERYDAY LOW PRICES ON EVERYTHING!

With most shoppers, meat purchases account for about one-third of their total food bill, so it's vital that you be able to get the "best meat buys" in town....week after week. The Pak-n-Save warehouse concept....low overhead & no frills keeps our meat costs down and your prices lower....everyday. So don't be misled by so-called "weekly specials". Your meat bill and total food bill will be less at Pak-n-Save everytime. We guarantee it.
