

West Oaks II: Debut tonight

By B.J. MARTIN staff writer

Site plans for West Oaks II, a shopping center containing 335,780 square feet of retail floor space (an area slightly bigger than eight football fields) will make their official debut tonight (Wednesday). The proposed shopping center is to be located at the Twelve Mile/Novi Road intersection.

The plans are scheduled to be presented tonight to the Novi Planning Board, which will decide whether to grant developers the green light for the project's prelminary plans.

If the plans advance through the final stages with no snags in the approval process, Ramco-Gershenson Inc., the firm that put together West Oaks, will begin construction work on West Oaks II this winter.

Almost three-quarters of the total square footage in West Oaks II will be spread among five main stores, designated in the site plan as Builders Square, Main Street, Marshall's, Kids-R-Us and Toys-R-Us. The remaining space will be distributed among perhaps as many as 35 other stores, according to Ramco-Gershenson co-owner Michael Ward.

Ward already has said he hopes to break ground on the project by February 15. If the planning board and city council promptly follow the favorable recommendations of the city planning consultant and engineering consultant, Ward's schedule should be right on target.

City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers' report to the board noted that developers had met all the required design standards with the one exception: a provision for off-street loading in an exterior side yard which violates a city ordinance.

Rogers recommended the preliminary plans be approved contingent on a Zoning Board of Appeals variance on the conflict.

"I feel the proposed building facades, depressed/screened loading/unloading areas and the perimeter landscaped berm will create a suitable development," Rogers maintained. He further

That's little John Kotsis in the Superman cap singing his heart out and sister Rebecca by his side.

For a weatherbeaten, 74-year-old building that hasn't been used for years, the old Novi Town Hall has shown a lot of spirit.

Parts of it are still in pretty good shape. Although its location on Novi Road just south of Grand River is close to the heart of the city's commercial district and planned Town Center, it hasn't been mowed down to make room for a parking lot.

And now it looks like its perseverance is about to pay off.

In a project shelved years ago and newly revived, members of the Novi Historical Society now are confident the Novi Town Hall will be relocated to the Novi Library site as soon as next spring and restored for use as a historical museum for the communi-

Maki identified two potential problems that need to be overcome for the planned move to take place. First, the library site at Ten Mile and Taft Road contains a limited amount of space for library and museum parking. City engineering consultants JCK and Associates are studying the site for a possible solution.

According to Maki, the spot which most likely will be used for the historical museum would be close to the southwest corner of the site, not far from the barns located west of Novi High School.

The second potential problem is liability for accidents resulting from traffic to and from the museum.

"The insurance is something we're trying to negotiate," explained Paul Black, president of the library board. "If we can work it out," he added, "it

Subdivision may start in spring

By B.J. MARTIN staff writer

Novi's first new subdivision since 1980 may get under way this spring if Vincenti Land Development's Yorkshire Place project gets approvals as expected this winter.

"It's good news to have someone coming in and platting a subdivision," said Mayor Patricia Karevich Monday, just before city council gave tentative approval of Vincenti's preliminary plat (planned arrangement of subdivision streets and lot divisions) for a 175-unit subdivision located on the northwest corner of Ten Mile and Taft Road, south of Novi Woods Elementary School.

City officials - and residents as well - lately have been concerned of a growing proportion of apartment developments in the city. When Vincenti this year revived a modified version of a 172-unit subdivision plat originally approved in 1982 but never started, officials were happy to see the rebirth of single-family development.

There were no complaints about the new homes' price tags, either. According to developers, the new homes would be priced in the $100,000 to 130,000 range.

But city council members emphasized they would not give additional approvals to Vincenti's plat without significant changes from the preliminary plat presented Monday night.

While developers obtained council's tentative approval of their preliminary plat on Monday, they still must receive final approval of their preliminary plat and subsequent approval of their final plat before obtaining a building permit.

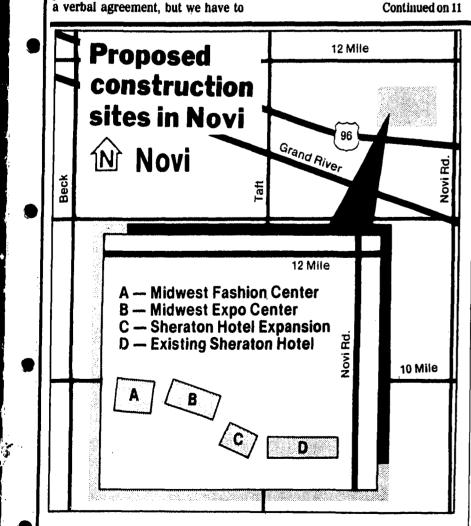

Council's tentative approval Monday night constituted only a general approval of the basic developmental approach. Council members firmly served notice they would demand more detail and fewer shortcomings when they conduct their final review to Vincent's preliminary plat.

At the recommendation of City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers, the council identified two deficiencies Vincenti must rectify for final approval of the firm's preliminary plat: 1) Adjustment of two too-small lots; and 2) Lack of a tree survey at the north end of the subdivision where trees up to 12 inches in diameter now grow.

Council members also informed Vincenti representatives they would insist the firm's proposed blke path be built at the same time as the four-phase development instead of being added later.

The above map gives some idea of the proposed locations for the Midwest Fashion Center, Midwest Expo Center and PICO's proposed location for an eight-story addition to the existing Sheraton Hotel.

Late-night oil spill baffles authorities Novi firefighters and DPW workers scrambled until earlymorning hours last Wednesday trying to clean up a mysterious fuel oil spill on South Lake Drive before it could contaminate water along the shore of Walled Lake.

According to a Department of Natural Resources authorities, a small amount of the oil reached the lake, but groundwater and lake water impact appears to be "minimal.

A report of an "unusual odor" at 9:48 p.m. Tuesday, November 26 brought firefighters to the scene at 727 South Lake, where they discovered a 300-foot trail of fuel oil and no visible source.

An estimated 75-100 gallons, most of it atop the surface of the road, was spreading toward the lake, according to Novi Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan.

"A lot of the oil was laying on the surface of the road in three different areas. Weather conditions were wet anyway," noted Lenaghan. "It was a definite hazard to drivers."

On November 18, just eight days before the spill, a car accident on South Lake Drive had claimed the life of a 16-year-old Farmington Hills youth.

Department of Public Works personnel rushed four loads of sand to the site to absorb the oil while fire officials built dikes to keep the runoff from spreading toward the lake. It took firefighters until 1:38 a.m. to complete their work controlling the spill.

Department of Natural Resources officials authorized spending emergency funds to control the oil spill, which is still unexplained. "We don't know how it got there," Lenaghan said. "We turned the mat-ter over to the DNR and the Michigan State Police fire marshall to investigate."

According to Timothy Jaski, a DNR water quality specialist, the spill appeared to be some type of kerosene or home heating oil apparently dumped. If the individual or individuals responsible for the dumping can be found, Jaski said, the DNR not only would seek damages but would prosecute.

The Goodfellows are back

There have been a lot of changes in the Novi Goodfellows during the past year.

The entire organization, which was started more than 30 years ago, has been re-structured with a new set of bylaws and a new group of officers.

But the one thing that hasn't been changed is the Goodfellows' basic purpose - to make certain that every family in Novi has a happy Christmas.

The Goodfellows will be taking to the streets this Friday and Saturday, "selling" special complimentary editions of The Novi News to raise funds for their annual effort.

"We'll be at all the major intersections," reported Arthur Lenaghan, chief of the Novi Fire Department and president of the Novi Goodfellows.

"You'll be able to spot the volunteers from the fire department because they'll be all decked out in their regular gear; plus all Goodfellow salesmen will be wearing Goodfellow paper bags over their shoulders."

The Novi Goodfellows have been around approximately 30 years. The organization was founded during the 1950s and was spearheaded for many years by Leon Dochot and Eugenie Choquet.

But Dochot and Choquet are no longer around, and the responsibility for heading up the Goodfellows drive fell on a small group of people.

"They asked us (the volunteer fire department) to help about five years ago," noted Lenaghan. "And last year they said it was just too much for a small group of people to run and asked us to play a larger role."

Lenaghan said the Goodfellows was re-organized earlier this year with a new set of by-laws and a new set of officers. In addition to Lenaghan, officers are Louis Bugbee, vice president; Janice Davenport, secretary; and Steven Poyhonen, treasurer. Viola Cherry and Patricia Caswell serve on the board of directors.

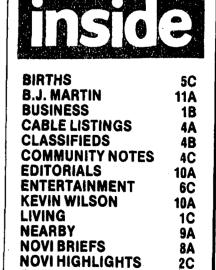

Lenaghan emphasized the importance of the paper sale this Friday and Saturday, noting that it is the Goodfellows' only source of income other than donations. "All the proceeds from the paper drive go directly back to needy people in Novi," he said.

Every family receives enough food from the Goodfellows for a Christmas dinner with all the trimmings. In addition, the Goodfellows fit the Christmas baskets to the individual needs of the family.

"If they need clothing or boots, we get the appropriate sizes and try to find them clothing and boots. We also provide toys for families with children that might not otherwise have anything to open up under the Christmas tree on Christmas day," he added.

Lenaghan said that anyone who needs help or anyone who knows a family that needs help may contact the Goodfellows at 349-2162 or 624-8894. 'We're also looking for donations," he said. "If any individual, organization or business would like to lend some financial assistance, we would be very happy to accept

New I-696 ramps a long way off

By B.J. MARTIN staff writer

The outlook continues to lool bleak that a new exit ramp off the I-696 expressway will be constructed somewhere in Novi or Farmington Hills during the next five years.

While preliminary results of a recent Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) study of the 1-696 corridor between Beck Road and Telegraph Road outlined the proposed "wheres" of future highway ramp construction, the "when" timetable is not likely to please local commuters.

"We're looking at as many as five years down the line before adding any new access ramps," said Robert Kirkbride of the MDOT. Kirkbride said the department would report specific findings and recommendations of the study to the West I-696 Access Study Policy Committee later this month. The committee is composed of representatives of local communities affected by I-696 But even approval by that committee won't speed construction. After obtaining comments from the committee, transportation department officials will submit the study to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments Policy Committee for study. If SEMCOG approves the plan, officials then must obtain federal approval, perhaps the most difficult task of all. Federal transportation officials will insist on engineering, environmental impact and "people" impact studies before approving financing for the project.

"It's a very long, time-consuming process," said Kirkbride. "But these are very necessary steps in obtaining approval." Cautioning that study results should be considered "preliminary" until their submittal to the policy committee, Kirkbride did provide the follow-

Bullard studies tax laws

LANSING - State Representative Willis "Bill" Bullard, Jr. (R-Highland) has returned from a two-day meeting of the Midwestern Legislative Conference Taxation Task Force in Washington

Bullard, whose 60th State House District includes Novi, was appointed chairman of the Council of State Governments task force in July. The meeting in Washington on November 14-15 was the first at which he has presided.

"The Midwestern Legislative Conference Taxation Task Force is taking an in-depth look at simplifying our complex tax system, and much of the meeting in Washington was devoted to the impact that federal tax reform would have on individual states," he reported.

Many prominent tax reformers were on the program, including Congressman Richard Gephardt, co-author of the Bradley-Gephardt tax proposal. Bullard said the 12-state Midwestern Legislative Conference would be affected most by major tax reform on the federal level because nearly all Midwest states have state income taxes, and many of the tax reform plans being discussed by Congress deal with eliminating federal tax deductions for state income taxes.

"As state legislators, it is our responsibility to study the impact that federal tax changes will have on our states, and this initial meeting of the Taxation Task Force was dedicated to just that," said Bullard.

Advent services

Good Shepherd Evangelical Lutheran Church in Novi will hold special Wednesday evening Advent services on December 4, 11 and 18 at 7 p.m. in its new building at the corner of Nine Mile and Meadowbrook Road. Good Shepherd Pastor Gene Jahnke said the public is invited to attend. "People spend a lot of time preparing for the material aspects of Christmas, said the Good Shepherd pastor. "We want to spend some time preparing for the heart of Christmas - the Christ Child, our Savior."

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP - In a move with potential repercussions on development along the Haggerty Road corridor in Novi, the Northville Township planning commission last week rejected on a 5-3 vote proposed amendments to the master plan for the Haggerty Road corridor. Commissioners' statements prior to the November 26 vote suggested a 6-2 tally in favor of the revisions, which would have allowed more intensive development of property fronting on Haggerty. the township's eastern boundary. Last-minute reservations led several commissioners to back away from the proposal they had argued in favor of adopting only minutes before. The proposed amendments have been under study for more than eight months. The commission itself initiated the study in response to an increase in rezoning requests from potential developers and to re-examine local planning in light of changes taking place in adjacent communities. It seemed to have fine-tuned a final proposal in October.

During post-vote discussions, commissioners said they still believe changes are required in the master plan for Haggerty, but several said they have reservations about the intensity of development that might occur under the proposal on the table. 'Nobody here voted for 'no change,' " chairman

Richard Duwel summarized after a round-table discussion late in the meeting The commission scheduled a study session last Tuesday) to re-evaluate the proposals. The meeting was to take place after this week's edition of The News went to press. While commissioners Ted Martin and Jerry Chisnell made clear early in the November 26 meeting that they intended to vote against the proposed amendments, the other six commissioners attending the session spoke in favor of the plan's predominant feature - a large-office district occupying virtually all the land on the west side of Haggerty between Six Mile and the Meijer store at Eight Mile. A series of straw votes before discussion was opened to audience members resulted in tallies of 8-0, 6-2 and 6-2 in favor of the amendments proposed for the sections between Five and Six Mile, Six and Seven Mile, and Seven and Eight Mile respectively. When it came time for a real vote, however, commissioners Kitty Rhoades, Richard Allen (the ownship board of trustees liaison member) and Charles DeLand joined Martin and Chisnell in voting against adoption, despite earlier statements of support. Commission chairman Duwel, vice chairman Pat Wright and commissioner Larry Sheehan voted in lavor of the amendments. Commissioner Marvin Gans was unable to attend. Prior to the meeting, Gans reported to Duwel that he favors the amend-

The vote was seen as a victory for members of the Meadowbrook Estates Association, a homeowners group from the subdivision north of Seven Mile and directly west of the proposed office district. Officers and members of the association attended the meeting, and their arguments opposing the proposal were presented by an attorney hired to represent the group's interests. According to association president Bob Johnson.

a majority of the subdivision homeowners are opposed to any change in the master plan for the stretch of Haggerty between Seven and Eight Mile Roads. Attorney Glen Valentine argued that the proposed amendments would contradict the preamble to the township master plan which calls for office and commercial districts sufficient only to serve the needs of township residents.

"We've heard the community and the community is vehemently opposed," to the proposed amendments, commissioner Ted Martin said, referrring to earlier discussions of the issue. "The only support we've heard for this (proposal) is from those idents who are large-property owners."

Citing fellow commissioners' arguments that the township could lose control of Haggerty zoning if developers were to sue for more intensive uses, Martin noted that residents were also prepared to sue if the present master plan is altered. "You talk about potential litigation, what we have heard is the promise of litigation from the residents," Martin said. Addressing the proposed large-office district, Martin noted that no such zoning category exists today in the township and urged that the ordinance be fined before the master plan is changed.

He said the new zoning district should be put up for a referendum vote. "Let the community decide if they'd like to see this new zoning district," Martin He made a motion early in the meeting to i ment in place for such a building. The proposed zoning restrictions, explained b planning consultant Claude Coates, would be based on a formula that makes setbacks larger for taller buildings. Examples shown included a 50-foot tall structure (the maximum to be allowed) that would have to be more than 500 feet from the residential

During audience discussion, which was limited to 30 minutes, the only area resident to speak in favor of the proposal was Thomas Handyside, who agreed with DeLand that the large office district proposed would better insulate the subdivision against outside intrusions than is likely under the current zon

"There is no written or substantiated evidence that shows (property) value will be degraded,' Handyside said of the proposal. He described hi neighbors' insistence that adjoining properties re main residential as "putting your head in the sand." Bernard Baldwin, a resident of the subdivision and a former planning commissioner, argued that the proposal has wide-ranging implications beyond

"You are on the verge of making the largest change in the history of Northville Township,' Baldwin said, citing the potential for large office zoning in similar circumstances along Five Mile and the departure from the planning philosophy stated in the preamble to the 1979 master plan. Baldwin helped draft that plan and was the first to raise the issue in discussion of the proposed revisions several months ago.

When Duwel asked commissioners to explain their opposition votes, Martin said the plan calls for "way too much office" between Six and Eight Mile and Chisnell echoed that argument. DeLand noted that the roll-call vote was 4-2 when it got to him "and I didn't think it would be right to adopt such a drastic change on a split vote.'

Rhoades, who voted first and noted she "did not have the same luxury" DeLand had, said she remained uncertain in the face of the arguments against the proposal. "There are as many legitimate arguments on both sides," she said. "I still have too many ques-Allen, who had stated earlier that his support was the Haggerty corridor should begin with an examination of the master plan preamble and its implications. "We've got to address that philosophy," he said.

Will rezoning affect land values?

By B.J. MARTIN staff writer

The push to rezone many areas of the city to conform to existing uses or to the city's Master Plan has generated as much criticism from people who argue rezonings will raise property values as from people who claim rezonings will cause property values to decline.

Several residents living on residentialagricultural zoned property earmarked for rezoning to industrial use have complained their tax bills would likely increase now that their property would be worth more to industrial-commercial developers

"The rezoning shouldn't change the value of their roperty," said Ernest Aruffo, chairman of the Novi Planning Board. "The assessments change as improvements to the property are made. Actually, some residents are sitting on a bonanza." But according to City Assessor John Merrifield, a property's zoning can affect its assessment rate. "Business-zoned property is always more expensive than residential," Merrifield pointed out. "We assess according to where the property is located and what it is used for. If a property can be sold for more money (with a new zoning), then it can be assessed for more, too."

But, Merrifield noted, any rezonings of property now used for residential purposes - whether zoned for it or not -- would have little or no effect on small residential parcels which pre-dated existing business or commercial zones.

'If there isn't enough room to build a business on the property, then we can't assess it at a business ' Merrifield explained. "So even though their rate.' tax rates may be low, they still have the right to sell their property in conjunction with a neighbor at a high market rate for business use." The flip side of rezoning which causes property value to increase is rezoning which causes property values to decline - a fact of considerable interest to property owners wishing to sell their land. According to Philip Ogilvie, an attorney representing owners whose property is proposed for I-1 (light industrial) zoning instead of the existing B-3 (general business), there is considerable evidence at least some rezonings will cause a sharp drop in the market value of the property. "I talked to several real estate firms, Thompson Brown, Century 21," said Ogilvie, "and in every instance they agreed that in Novi, B-3 property is much more valuable than I-1 — especially for a guy

'Peter Pan' will fly in musical for kids

By B.J. MARTIN staff writer

The American musical comedy version of Sir John Barrie's timeless "Peter Pan," promises to be a delightful holiday treat for youngsters in its production at the Northville Marquis opening this weekend. For one thing, Peter – and Wendy, Michael and John - will indeed fly, thanks to the work of happy thoughts, Pixie dust and the amazing "flying" stagecraft effects invented by Peter Foy. Foy's special effects have sent such notables as Mary Martin, Sandy Duncan and Kathy Rigby into the air as Peter Pan.

"Peter Pan" you may recall, recounts the whimsical adventures of the three Darling children as Peter Pan entices them into flying away with him to his home in Never Land, where children's dreams come true.

There they encounter Indians, Peter's elfin sidekick Tinker Bell, and Peter's gang of Lost Boys, along with villainous pirates led by Captain Hook. Donna Nezwasky of Dearborn plays the title role of the impish boy who never grows up. Mark Byars, last seen at the Marquis in "Oklahoma." will portray the villainous Captain Hook. Sue Krekler stars as Wendy, and Northville residents Jason Merecki and Michael Mittman will play Wendy's brothers John and Michael, respective-

Through the magic of 'hightech' stagecraft, young playgoers will indeed get a chance to see Peter, Wendy, John and Michael take to the air.

"Peter Pan" will be shown at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 2:30 p.m. Sundays through December 29, with a weekend off December 20-22, at the Arthur P. Rizzo will direct the pro-Marquis Theatre, 133 East Main Street duction along with choreographer in downtown Northville. Tickets are $5

What's the price of bad laws? Well now, we've been saved. The crash program to enforce the 55 mph speed limit on Michigan interstates pushed the number of people violating the law just below 50 percent, saving the state some $10 million in threatened federal highway funds. Don't you feel safer on the highways now? Don't you feel rich? Don't you expect the deteriorating highways will soon start looking spiffy thanks to the $10 million that was "saved?"

threatened funding represents just 10 percent of what the state expects to get from the Feds for highways. Also little noted is that it is impossible to make any connection between speed limit enforcement and the reduction of highway accidents, injuries or fatalities.

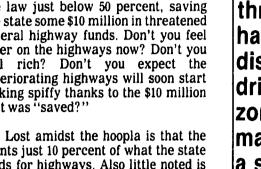

Supporters base their arguments on figures that don't add up and the obvious assertion that you are more likely to be hurt or killed if you hit something at 70 mph than if you were going slower. I've addressed most of this before, but it bears repeating that the logical extension of their arguments is an even lower speed limit that would soon have us back to the days when cars could only travel behind a man on foot carrying a red flag. What I want to speak to today is my own growing perception that the 55 mph speed limit, like all bad laws, does nothing more than foster disrespect for law in general. More particularly, I think drivers accustomed to disregarding the highway speed limit are beginning to take other traffic laws with a grain of salt as well.

I'm not trying to occupy the moral high ground on this one: my wholly unscientific and unverifiable evidence (of the same quality as most supporting arguments) includes my own drivng habits. For instance, there is near my home an intersection posted "No Right Turn on Red/7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Friday." I have occasion to turn right at this corner during the posted times and can't for the life of me figure out why the restriction is there. Sight lines and distances are good, traffic volume is low between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., and the posting generally doesn't make sense. So I blow it off, scan the area for cops and make my turn when the sparse traffic clears.

Friends and family have always known me to be scrupulous about signalling lane changes, but noted recently that I'm more selective, choosing to signal before I move over only if, in my own judgement, there's a car close enough that the driver "needs to know." I'm also "pushing" yellow traffic lights much more than I used to, frequently catching a glimpse of red as I go under the signal.

Think a minute. How many red lights have you seen cars drive through? How many stop signs have you seen people disregard? How often do drivers zip through school zones at twice the limit? How many people race to get around a school bus that just turned on its flashers? I've only been driving 14 years and I'm certain these dangerous habits have become more common in that time. My elders tell me they're astonished at the things they see on the road. So, why is this? Are we just in more of a hurry? Are we tryg to make up the time lost on the slower freeways? I don't think so. I think many drivers, accustomed to choosing their own travel speed and disregarding the limit, have decided they're also qualified to decide whether or not to obey other traffic laws. I also suspect we've raised an entire generation of drivers who, since 55 became the limit in 1974, watched adults regularly violating a traffic law and snickering behind their hands about it. Given that example, do we expect them to take other laws seriously?

There are a lot question marks in this piece, but they all belong to only one major public policy issue: Is keeping a bad law worth the price of devaluating the good ones?

Revise liquor laws

The intensity of organized op-position to the senate amendment to House Bill 5050, an innocuous quota system is necessary in order measure that would license 200 restaurants statewide to serve beer and wine with meals, demonstrates to our satisfaction the need for a complete revamping of Michigan's liquor control laws.

The current system is a patchwork quilt of measures built around a quota system that protects the privileged licensees from serious competition and gives government control over possible over-concentrations of drinking establishments in a small area. The goals may be worthwhile, but any system that needs so many remedial measures to address inequities fairly demands a review and restructuring.

We see no reason that the restaurants defined in the bill (no bar allowed, 65 percent of sales must be food prepared on-site, at least 25 seats, operating eight hours on at least five days a week) should be subject to any state quota for beer and wine service. A license to serve beer and wine, only when accompanied by a meal, should be readily available to these operations with issuance handled by the local governing body.

The opposition from current licensees and other interests to such a liberalized system would be High on the list of needed revi- considerable. State restaurant consumption of wine or beer.

BBB offers information on long-distance service

For many consumers, the more they hear about long-distance phone services, the more confused they get. To reduce confusion and assist consumers in mak ing an intelligent choice, the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan has released a new pamphlet, "Tips on Long-Distance Phone Services.'

The pamphlet explains "equal access" in language understandable to every consumer. The equal access program means that customers of any long-distance company must be given equal access to the highest quality connections available. It was designed to assist in the development of fair competition among long-distance telephone companies. Equal access not only means consistently high quality connections, but also makes using an alternative service much easier. Customers can use either a push-button or rotary-dial phone, and do not have to dial additional digits to use an alternative long distance service. "Tips on Long-Distance Phone Services" also walks consumers through the entire selection pro-cess. To determine which long-distance phone company is best for you involves three basic steps. First, determine how frequently you make long-

Mos long-distance services charge customers in one minute increments. And third, where you call is important, too. Phone rates and accompanying charges vary widely. Long-distance calls made within a state may be priced differently from longdistance calls made outside that state. Once you have determined when, how often and where you use long-distance service and know your phone service needs, you're ready to compare what the different companies have to offer. The pamphlet also explains how to find out which phone companies offer long-distance service in your area and provides a list of questions to ask in order to compare the different companies.

The pamphlet has been added to the Better Business Bureau Consumer Information Series which offers helpful tips on over 80 topics of consumer interest. A little care and caution when purchasing the tree and decorating it and the house can help eliminate those tragedies.

A freshly-cut tree is much safer than a tree that is cut early in the fall. Freshly-Cut evergreens contain more moisture and will stay greener longer and pose a esser fire hazard. Use the following tests to determine whether a tree has a high moisture content: fingers. If the branch breaks easily,

If your after-the-holiday blues are compounded as you drag the Christmas tree. one of the main symbols of the season's delights, to the curb for garbage pick-up, you might want to consider a living tree. It's not a decision to be taken lightly, however, since it may involve some changes in your family's tree traditions.

Area Christmas tree experts were happy to share their knowledge to help make your decision more informed. Carl Joerin at Highland Tree Farm grows all the living Christmas trees he sells. He takes special precautions to increase their chance of survival when they are planted in the yard after their stint of alory in the house. Though his trees are all sold in the summer to purchasers who pick them out in the field and collect them just before the holidays, it would be good to check that any tree you buy has received the same preparation He enjoys about a 95 percent success rate and sells about 300 a year. All his trees are root pruned earlier in the year. This means that, while the trees are still growing, the roots are trimmed within a certain distance of the trunk to force the tree to put out hundreds of small feeder roots close to the trunk. These will be included in the root ball when the tree is dug out so there will be a strong healthy root system close to the

His smaller trees up to four feet high are put into fiber pots and the larger ones are balled and burlaped.

If you did not pick out a living tree in the summer and would like to try one this year, your best chance is to find a nursery that remains open through the winter, and buy a regular ornamental tree in one of the usual Christmas tree

Tony Raney of Raney's Nursery in South Lyon said that living trees account for about two percent of his Christmas tree sales. He usually has some potted up ready and some balled in burlap.

Though the above experts have received positive feedback from customers regarding the survival of the trees, forester Rich Cassidy of Mountain Top/-Green Ridge Tree Service Co. is skeptical about the chances of a tree's survival once it has been brought into the warmth of the home.

Mall plans mens night

There's good news for the man who don't like Christmas shopping. Twelve Oaks Mall has dedicated one special evening to help him solve his shopping dilemma — Men's Night. The Twelve Oaks' Men's Night will be held tomorrow (Thursday, December 5) from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. The emphasis throughout the mall will be to make his shopping easy and fun.

Colleen Thurston, manager of Alvin's, noted that Christmas shopping can be a real hassle for men. "We found Men's Night really helped our customer's husbands," she said.

How can shopping be made easy? First, the Twelve Oaks Fashion Guild will be available to give advice on gift ideas. They know what "she" would like and where to find it.

Secondly, the stores have scheduled models and extra salespeople to provide personal service. The Eddie Bauer store is even presenting a fashion and gift show in center court at 7 and again at 8 p.m.

Finally, once the purchase is made, Twelve Oaks will gift-wrap packages. Free gift-wrapping will be available at the Santa Service Center in Sears Court from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. Men's Night also will include entertainment Vic Tanny's "Christmas elves" will give aerobic demonstrations in center court at 6:30, 7:30 and 8 p.m. There also will be an opportunity to win a year's membership at Vic Tanny. In addition, restaurants in the mail will provide snacks in center court, and many stores will be serving refreshments.

Jaycees host Santa Claus

Christmas is right around the corner and the Novi Jaycees have managed to do it again — arrange for Santa Claus to fly in from the North Pole to have breakfast with area youngsters.

The Jaycees' annual "Breakfast with Santa" program will be held Saturday, December 14, in the Novi Community Building from 9-11 a.m. The community building is located on the east side of Novi Road between Grand River and I-

People can stop in anytime between 9 and 11 a.m. to receive a breakfast of pancakes, sausage, juice, tea and cofee. Santa will be present for the entire time to talk to youngsters about what they'd like for Christmas and be certain they have been good little boys and

Tickets are priced at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children and senior citizens. Reservations are no necessary, and families are encouraged to bring their cameras.

$R_x$ for Flu or Chicken Pox: Kindness

Be good to yourself when you've got the flu or chicken pox. Take it easy. Get plenty of rest. Viral illnesses such as these are usually self-limiting. Time will cure them.

Check with your doctor about using medications to treat flu or chicken pox. For children including teenagers medications such as aspirin and aspirin-containing products may not be a good idea. A rare but dangerous condition called Reve syndrome may develop in young people just when they appear to be recovering. Studies suggest a link between the development of Reve and the use of aspirin to treat the flu or chicken pox. So, treat yourself right when you've got the flu!

Program helps heart patients

Ray Gomez, 53, had two brothers die of heart attacks when they were 49. When he suffered a heart attack at the age of 48, he was eager to make some changes in his lifestyle.

It was more than a matter of getting into shape; it was a matter of life and death. Gomez, a retired Ford Motor Company employee, joined a Cardiac Rehabilitation Exercise Program sponsored by Henry Ford Hospital in 1981. Since that time, he's accomplished a lot more than he ever thought possible.

"When I began the program, my goal was to jog a half mile," said Gomez. "Since then, I've completed two Detroit marathons.' Gomez is not alone. Scores of area

The American Institute for Preventive Medicine, Southfield-based health promotion organization that trains hospitals and corporations nationwide in Smokeless Stop Smoking program, has eveloped a unique audio cassette tape called

The tape's primary advantage is that smokers can avoid that uncomfortable, pervasive, "climbing the walls" sensation that is all too familiar when cigarettes are not allowed or readily accessible. Smokers learn to enjoy smoking more by successfully handling the increasing number of situations where smoking is not permitted. Some of the skills presented on the tape include:

The Plymouth Landing: More than just good food when they visit the Plymouth Landing at 340 North Main Street in The restaurant is located on a portion of the ground floor of an imposing brick building that was constructed in the early 1900s to house a manufacturing company. Specifically, the restaurant is located in a building that once was the home of the Markham Air Rifle Company which manufactured bb guns prior to the time that the well-known Daisy Air Rifle Company was started in Plymouth in the late

Except for the size of the building, you'd never guess that the Plymouth Landing was once the site of a manufacturing operation. Owner Sam Panzica has done an fine job of renovating the old factory and transforming it into a rather prestigious office building in addition to the restaurant.

Don't be surprised, for example, if you find yourself seated next to an account executive from the investment firm located on the same floor as the restaurant. The Landing itself is nicely appointed natural brick walls, apparently left over from the air rifle company; heavy, dark-wood beams and plenty of stained glass — stained glass windows and large stained glass murals along the walls. In short, the whole decor creates a warm, secure, comfortable feeling which is particularly relaxing on cold winter nights when the wind is howling outside. As for the food, the Landing features a menu which can fairly be described as "extensive" with a total of 34 entrees ranging in price from the breast of chicken in champagne sauce at $6.95 to Alaskan king crab legs and lobster tails, both at $20.95.

If the Plymouth Landing has a specialty, it's difficult to tell exactly what it is.

On the one hand, the Landing features a nice selection of eight different veal dishes. There's Veal a la Tosca, Veal Piccante, Veal Scallopini and Veal Parmesana - all at $9.95, as well as Veal a la Oscar, Veal Cordon Bleu, Veal Angela, and Veal Florentina - all at $10.95. Particularly interesting selections are the Veal a la Oscar (veal sauted in butter and topped with asparagus spears and king crab glaze with bernaise sauce) and the Veal Angela (thin slices of veal served with zucchini and water chestnuts, topped with a light French Napoleon Brandy sauce). Despite its selection of veal dishes, the Lanling's specialty might also be its selection of fresh fish - filet of sole, broiled Boston scrod, pickerel, lake perch, white fish and rainbow trout at prices ranging from $7.95 to $10.95. Also available are 10 seafood dishes, prime rib, filet mignon, pork chops, sirloin, chicken and calves' liver Dinners are served with a choice of two soups

(we recommend the mushroom barley), salad, rolls and broiled red-skin potatoes. There's also a nice selection of appetizers, including Oysters Rockefeller, Shrimp a la Rafael and Escargot. On our most recent visit, we selected mushroom caps stuffed with crab meat ala dante and found it a most pleasant prelude to the rest of the meal.

The rolls, incidentally, are made fresh daily at the Baker's Rack in Plymouth, which also is owned by Panzica. The bakery also provides pastries for dessert which include cheesecake, large Napoleons and, a personal favorite, apple strudel topped with a warm brandy sauce.

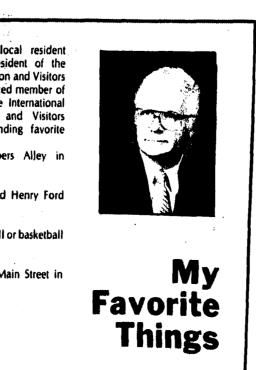

Although a semi-regular diner at the Plymouth Landing for several years, my most recent visit was the evening after the Michigan/Ohio State game. Not surprisingly, the restaurant was filled with people who had attended the game and decided to cap a chilly afternoon with a nice dinner in the warmth of the Plymouth Landing. The Michigan victory and the Landing's food must have made for a most enjoyable day.

Sroka, Maloney also recognized by conference coaches

When the Novi girls basketball team took the floor against North Farmington in a district match-up recently, t was to be the Wildcat's final contest of the 1985 season. On the floor to start the game for coach Bill Ayotte was just one senior. The other four starters included three uniors and a sophomore, and it stands to reason that all our will be back next season.

When coaches choose all-star teams, they tend to lean toward the seniors because it is their last season for the honors. Then there is a player like Novi's super-sophomore Lisa McCarthy, who is probably as good as anybody, but is unlikely to make first team honors because she has two more years for that sort of thing.

Thus was the case when the Kensington Valley Conference caoches voted on their All-conference team. Mc-Carthy grabbed second-team honors, as expected, despite a very productive season, but Ayotte knows how the game

"Lisa definitely deserved some mention for the great season she had," Ayotte said. "But I think the coaches did a pretty good job of choosing the team. Before I voted, I made a list of who I thought should be on the team's and it turned out that I had nine of 10 right." Joining McCarthy with post-season honors were junior guard Sue Sroka and junior forward Sandy Maloney. At just 5-foot-2, McCarthy is one of the KVC's smallest players, but one of the most effective as well. Her 39-point performance against Lakeland set a new school record, and her 13.4 points per game scoring average was by far tops on the team. But scoring was only a small part of what she meant to the Wildcats. "We never had any problems breaking a press or bringing the ball up court with Lisa in there," Ayotte said. "She plays solid defense and is smart. She's kinda the heart and soul of our team."

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN staff writer

John Cicchelli, coach of the Novi men's basketball team, admits that the 1985-86 campaign could be very rough. He doesn't mean that the team will have trouble winning or being competitive, but 10 of the 13 members on the roster were also on the Novi football squad in the fall. This situation makes for a very "rough" team - in the physical sense of the word. "The football team is my basketball team," Cicchelli laughs. "Sometimes they play like they're still playing football; we can get pret-

The biggest task facing Cichelli is replacing two starters from last year's team who were lost to graduation. Center Tully Gillick and point guard Steve Cody combined to average about 29 points a game. Gillick chipped in with 10 rebounds and Cody added 5 assists and 2.1 steals an outing.

"We lost nearly 30 points in scoring with Tully and Steve gone, so we'll have a hard time making it up," Cichelli said. "But I do think we have the capability to fill it (the basket)

The job of filling the void left by Tully's departure goes to his younger brother Brett Gillick, who started at forward last season. At 6-3 and 190 pounds, Brett has the body and the athletic ability to push a few people around close to the basket - just as he did as an All-League football

"Brett is a very aggressive basketball player, and we look tp him to be Cicchelli: 'We have a lot of allaround athletes, it's just a matter of them knowing their roles, having the right chemistry and coming through for us on 'he court. We're bigger than usual — I'd say this is the tallest team we've had here in six or seven seasons.

our leader in rebounding," Cichelli

The shooting guard position will go to top returning scorer Joe Miskovich, who is coming off an impressive sophomore campaign a year ago. Miskovich averaged 10.5 points a game and grabbed honorable mention honors in the Kensington Valley Conference. At 6-2, Miskovich has good size and range as well a being the Wildcat's most explosive offenive threat

"We are gonna look to Joe to do a lot of the outside scoring for us," Cichelli admitted.

Miskovich's starting backcourt mate will be one of four candidates. Junior Jeff Tanderys (6-3, 175) has the inside track but is still battling it out with three others - Larry McKillop (5-11, 175 senior), Gregg Giorgio (5-11, 175 senior) and Craig Cowden (5-11, 144 sophomore).

"It's a dogfight everyday," Cichelli remarked. "But that's been the tone this year — everybody seems to be pushing everybody else and nobody really has a lock on anything. It's a good competitive situation

The two forward spots are also up in the air, but Cichelli says that four capable players are in the running for the two starting berths. Seniors Ray Samolin (6-6, 200) and Steve Shankel (6-5, 165), junior Matt Kamish (6-2, 165) and sophomore Brian Schram (6-4, 165) will all see plenty of playing time, but only two can start.

"All four are pretty close and I'm sure they will all be starting at one time or another during the season,

Cichelli admitted Kirk Shaw (6-0, 200) and Bill Yankowski (6-2, 195) will switch their talents from the gridiron to the hardcourt and will provide plenty of depth up front, while junior Mike Ladd (5-8. 125) adds depth in the backcourt. For Novi to improve on last year's 10-9 overall mark (7-5 in KVC), Cichelli believes that consistency, somebody can't surprise everyone."

Needless to say, Cichelli is hoping the Wildcats are the team doing most of the surprising

In the Heritage Tip-Off Pre-Thanksgiving Tournament in Pontiac, the Eagles came from behind to outscore Indianwood 25-4 in the second half to turn a five point deficit into a 16 point win. Senior guard Tony Leech scored a game-high 11 points to help the Eagles advance to the finals of the tourney.

Against Heritage in the final, the Eagles again went on a second half scoring binge, this time outscoring the opponents 41 to 12. to take home the first place trophy. Leech again led the way with 18 points and grabbed the tournament's Most Valuable Player award.

Christian's first home game on November 25 wasn't even close. Every player on the Eagles roster saw playing time and 10 scored in the 57-point victory over Christian Fellowship. Guards Eric Jacobs and Jim Driller shared scoring honors with 14 points apiece.

Don't look for the Novi Wildcats to claim the Kensington Valley Conference wrestling championship. There are just too many sophomores to make a serious run for the title in the talent-rich KVC. But that doesn't mean that the 1985-86 edition of Coach Tom Fritz' Wildcat mat squad won't be respectable. Two of the key performers on this year's team will be sophomore Scott Brown (above) and senior Darrin Beyea (left). Brown is slated to see action in the 112-pound weight division, while Beyea will represent the Wildcats nicely in the 126-pound classification.

'Numbers game' crucial in high school athletics

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN taff writer

High schools across the United States are assigned letters or numbers to designate size. The purpose is to avoid the "David versus Goliath" syndrome in athletic competition.

With the system, schools with huge enrollments generally compete against other teams with a similar number of students. After all, it wouldn't be fair to expect a tiny school of 200 to be able to field a competitive team against others with enrollments of 1,200, would it? In Michigan, high school rankings use a simple letter system. The largest schools being Class A, the smallest Class D. In this neck of the woods, Novi High School with an enrollment of 1.175 is an example of a Class A school, while Novi Christian School with just 58 students is a Class D school. While this type of system is used and accepted nationwide, there is an inherent problem with it.

According to the Michigan High School Athletic Association, once a school reaches an enrollment of 1,150 on the fourth Friday of the fall semester, it is designated as Class A for the following calender year. The problem: since A is the highest class, any school over the 1,150 mark - no matter how much over — will be designated as Class A. It means that Novi High School never competes with Novi Christian High School in MHSAA-sanctioned competition (i.e. state tournament play) because of the large enrollment differences. Nevertheless, the Wildcats are still expected to keep pace with the larger schools like Kensington Valley Conference foes Howell and Brighton. With 1,842 students, Howell has over 700 more potential athletes to choose from than Novi. Although it's not always the case, you'll generally find that as the total number of students increases, so does the number of quality
